

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

MORNING SESSION: 10.00 a.m. – 12.50 p.m.

Gibraltar, Wednesday, 20th January 2016

Contents

Prayer .....	3
Confirmation of Minutes .....	3
Papers to be laid .....	3
Questions for Oral Answer .....	4
SPORTS, CULTURE, HERITAGE AND YOUTH.....	4
Q1/2016 Gibraltar Music Festival 2015 – Net cost.....	4
Q2/2016 Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority – Employees by grade .....	5
Q3/2016 Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority – Staff vacancies .....	6
Q4/2016 Special sports and leisure events – Grants re hosting of events.....	7
TOURISM, HOUSING, EQUALITY AND SOCIAL SERVICES .....	9
Q32/2016 Care Agency nurses – Salary, pay and conditions .....	9
Q33/2016 Care Agency – Details of vacant posts.....	10
Q34/2016 Family Centre – Details of plans for development .....	11
Q35/2016 UN Convention on the Rights of the Disabled – Date for transposition .....	12
Q36/2016 Gibraltar International Airport – Flight information display screens .....	14
Q37/2016 Gibraltar Literary Festival 2015 – Total net cost .....	15
Q38/2016 Refurbishment of Government housing estates – Estimated completion dates..	16
Q39/2016 Refurbishment of Government housing estates – Details of empty flats.....	17
Q40-41/2016 Mons Calpe Mews and Beach View Terraces co-ownership homes – Estimated completion/allocation dates; reallocation of Government rental homes .....	17

Q42/2016 Government rental homes – Vacancies and reallocation.....	18
Q43/2016 Government rental homes – Allocation other than on advice of Housing Allocation Committee .....	19
Q44/2016 Government rental homes – Applicants on housing pre-list.....	20
Q45/2016 Government rental homes – Applicants on housing waiting list.....	21
Q46-47/2016 Government rental homes – Arrears and write-offs on unpaid rents.....	22
Q48/2016 Government rental homes – Legal costs for eviction of squatters.....	23
Q49/2016 Government rental homes – Tenants requiring urgent decanting.....	23
Q50/2016 Government rental homes – Expenditure on refurbishing empty homes .....	24
Q51/2016 Same-sex marriage – Government position .....	25
Q52-55/2016 Bruce’s Farm and the Drugs and Alcohol Service – Composition, refurbishment and expansion .....	31
Q56-57/2016 Drugs Advisory Council – Number of meetings; composition.....	35
Q58/2016 Drugs Advisory Council – Number of meetings; composition .....	36
Q32/2016 Care Agency nurses – Further supplementary questions .....	37
TRANSPORT, TRAFFIC AND TECHNICAL SERVICES .....	38
Q59/2016 Upper Town escalator – Occasions of unserviceability .....	38
Q60-64/2016 Sustainable traffic, transport and parking developments – New road to south; safety of cyclists and pedestrians; roundabout; publication of Plan .....	40
Q65-66/2016 Parked vehicles on Bayside Road and Waterport Road – Pedestrian crossing safety concerns .....	44
Q67/2016 Road users jumping red lights – Safety concerns .....	44
Q68-70/2016 Bus service – Replacement of vehicles.....	45
The House recessed at 12.50 p.m. .....	51

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 10.00 a.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

PRAYER

Mr Speaker

CONFIRMATION OF MINUTES

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Wednesday, 20th January 2016.
Order of Proceedings: (i) Oath of Allegiance; (ii) Confirmation of Minutes – the Minutes of the last meeting of Parliament, which was held on 22nd, 28th and 30th July 2015.

5

Mr Speaker: May I sign the Minutes as correct? (Members: Aye.)

Mr Speaker signed the Minutes.

PAPERS TO BE LAID

10 Clerk: (iii) Communications from the Chair; (iv) Petitions; (v) Announcements. (vi) Papers to be laid – the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to lay on the table the Annual Accounts of the Government of Gibraltar for the year ended 31st March 2014.

15 Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

Clerk: The Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

20 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to lay on the table the Annual Report of the Gibraltar Police Authority for the year ended 31st March 2015.

Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

Questions for Oral Answer

SPORTS, CULTURE, HERITAGE AND YOUTH

Q1/2016

Gibraltar Music Festival 2015 –

Net cost

25 Clerk: (vii) Reports of Committees; (viii) Answers to Oral Questions.
Question 1/2016, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Can the Minister for Public Finance please advise the income generated, expense incurred and thus net total cost of the 2015 Gibraltar Music Festival? Please advise to whom payments have been made and any amounts outstanding.

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

35 Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, full details of payments and income generated from the 2015 Gibraltar Music Festival have not been finalised. Government will be publishing the details once everything has been finalised.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, does the Minister have any idea as to how long that will take?

40 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, it will definitely be before the estimates are prepared, which should be by April. That means 31st March is the end of the year, so I reckon that by then we should have final figures.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, does the Minister know whether it was over or under budget, or have any idea?

50 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, I would not like to say now, because there are many invoices that are still coming in and revenues to be collected, and therefore it would not be wise – it would be tantamount to misleading the House to give any figures at this stage, since it is still ongoing.

Hon. R M Clinton: Finally, Mr Speaker, with your leave, would income include the amounts remaining on the prepaid club cards or prepaid wristbands?

55 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, the bands are part of the data that we collate from all the Music Festival, and therefore all these things have to be finalised and squared up before we can give any figures.

60 Hon. R M Clinton: Would the Minister expect the income from those bands to accrue to the Government? Would the Minister expect the balance on those prepaid wrist bands to accrue to the Government? To be paid to the Government?

65 Hon. S E Linares: Yes, of course. All the income comes to the Government. We have a contract with somebody who does the production and all that, but every single penny that is generated from the Gibraltar Music Festival goes to Treasury in Government.

Hon. R M Clinton: So would I be correct in saying that the decision not to refund those prepaid bands was that of the Government?

70 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I can assist, the Government is awaiting the information as to what the prepaid wristband amount not spent will be and then will take a decision on what will happen in respect of that money. It is very likely and my inclination is that we will make a donation to a charity in respect of that amount.

75 Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker, no further questions.

Q2/2016
Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority –
Employees by grade

Clerk: Question 2, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can Government provide details, with a breakdown of grades, of all current employees within the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority?

80

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, some changes have been made to the staff structure of the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority recently, and I hand over to the hon. Member opposite details of the current staff complement at the GSLA as from 1st January 2016.

85

Mr Speaker: If the hon. Member is content, we can go on to the next question and he can come back and ask any supplementaries after he has considered the schedule.

90

Next question.

PERSONS EMPLOYED BY SPORTS AUTHORITY
AS AT 1 JANUARY 2016

NO.	TITLE	GRADE
1	Chief Executive Officer	1
1	Head of Finance, HR and Administration	2
1	Head of Facilities, Sports Development and Training	2
1	Finance, Marketing, IT and Social Media Manager	3
1	Administration and Resources Manager	3
1	Facilities Manager	3
1	Sports Development and Training Officer	3
1	Asst Sports Development and Training Officer (vacant)	4
1	Asst Facilities Manager	4
1	Asst Administration Manager (vacant)	4
6	Centre Managers (1 post vacant)	5
1	Pool Manager (pth)	5
1	Administrative / Clerk	6
26	Sports and Leisure Officers	8
3	Secretarial / Typist	9
2	Support	11
1	Asst. Pool Manager	11
3	Pool Operatives / Lifeguards	13
1	Cleaner (part-time)	13
1	Sports and Leisure Asst. (40 hr wk)	13
2	Sports and Leisure Asst. (37 hr wk)	13
1	Play and Leisure Officer*	PL1
1	Play and Leisure Attendant*	PL2
1	Play and Leisure Assistant *	PL3

*Supernumerary

Q3/2016

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority –
Staff vacancies

Clerk: Question 3, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can Government provide details of any staff vacancies which may currently exist in the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority?

95

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, at present there are three vacant posts in the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority, these being that of Assistant Sports Development and Training Officer, Assistant Administration and Resources Manager, and Centre Manager. These posts have become vacant due to these officers being promoted. The vacancies will be reviewed as part of the current restructure, which is working from top to bottom.

100

Mr Speaker: Supplementaries arising from Question 2.

105

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, it is arising, Mr Speaker, from Question 2. In previous sessions, in the previous Parliament, the Minister had told me that he was negotiating with the unions in carrying out the review and so on, and I had somehow or another picked up – I hope it was not erroneously – that the post of Deputy Chief Executive Officer had been advertised and so on. In the schedule submitted in reply to Question 2, there is no post here of Deputy, and in answer to Question 3 the Minister has not mentioned an existing vacancy. Has he now come to the decision that he is going to do away completely with the post of Deputy? Because it is not listed either as a filled-in post or as a vacant post.

110

115

Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, if he sees the schedule, what has happened is that we have a Chief Executive Officer and the Deputy Chief Executive Officer previous used to be a grade 2. Now what we have done is we have substituted the grade 2 – in fact, we have added another grade 2. There is no deputy but there are two, which is Head of Finance and another post. Because as he will see there are two grade 2s in the schedule and therefore ... One is Head of Finance, HR and Administration, and the other is Head of Facilities, Sports Development and Training.

120

So what we have done is ... technically, there is no deputy, one deputy, but what there are, are two heads of two different departments within the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority.

125

Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker, that does help to clarify the position.

The Minister, in answer to Question 3, said that there are three vacancies. Can he confirm that he has reached an agreement with the staff representative side that those three vacancies will be advertised, or are those three vacancies can be vacant but are not necessarily going to be advertised because they are still under the process of negotiation in respect of staffing levels?

130

Hon. S E Linares: Yes, Mr Speaker. As I said in the last sentence to my answer, the vacancies will be reviewed as part of the current restructure which is being worked from top to bottom. So there are three vacancies but we are still negotiating how we are going to bring them out, as in probably the name of the post or the type of job description, or whatever. It is part of the restructure.

135

Hon. E J Reyes: And would the Minister be able to say by when he hopes to have concluded such an exercise?

140

Hon S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, I think we have done quite well in starting the restructure and done pretty well from the top and we are working downwards. I cannot say any time as to when we will be finishing all, but we are working hard at trying to do it in a satisfactory manner.

145

Hon. E J Reyes: One other small thing, Mr Speaker, with your leave. The last three posts in the schedule that have an asterisk saying that they are actually supernumerary posts, are these short term as far as the Minister is aware, and are they full time or part time? Because I could get the impression from the nomenclature of the title that they may be seasonal in respect of play-and-stay posts and so on. Perhaps the Minister can enlighten us more so that this House is aware of his need for these supernumerary posts.

150

Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, they are currently supernumerary and we are hoping that when we present the Budget these will no longer be supernumerary but that employees permanent within the GSLA. It is to do with the three posts that we have opened up and these are the people who maintain all the playgrounds. Therefore, they have come from GCP – and they were there before; I am sure the hon. Member knows who they are and where they come from. What we have done is we have given them permanent employment but they are supernumerary – but we have been able to bring them in so that that they are based within the GSLA. They are employees of the GSLA but they have a specific job, which is to maintain all the playgrounds.

155

160

Hon. E J Reyes: May I conclude, then, on a positive note, Mr Speaker, assuring the Minister that it is very good news to hear the intention in respect of those three ... let's call them, for the moment, supernumerary officers, and he will certainly carry support from my side. If I can help him with any possible measure or means, he just needs to call because I think they would be a great asset to the Sports and Leisure Authority.

165

Hon. S E Linares: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Yes, just to say that they are doing a marvellous job and they are very happy in what they are doing. It can be seen around the playgrounds that everything is being maintained by them and they are taking the job to heart.

170

Q4/2016

Special sports and leisure events – Grants re hosting of events

Clerk: Question 4, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Sports and Leisure provide details of all grants made since 1st October 2015 in respect of hosting special sports and leisure events?

175

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, details of grants awarded for hosting the special sports and events since 1st October 2015 are as follows: Gibraltar Masters Bowling Open, £15,000; G.A.B.B.A. Basketball European C Division Under-18

180

Competition, £250; Gibraltar International Backgammon Tournament, £1,249.80; Professional Darts Corporation Gibraltar Darts Open £50,787.12; World Snooker Gibraltar Open, £81,820.85.

185 I now hand over to all the hon. Members a photocopy of this so that they do not need to note them down.

Hon. E J Reyes: May I ask, Mr Speaker ... I know the schedule is coming and I do not want to, at this stage, necessarily go into details. It is my understanding that the Minister, as Chairman of the Sports and Leisure Authority, has a committee, the Sports Advisory Council and so on, who help to advise and formulate policies in respect of grants when local teams play in international competitions and so on. Does the process of granting funding towards special sports and leisure events follow a similar process in consultation with a committee, or is that something that the Minister, not necessarily as Chairman of the Authority but as the Minister himself, handles in some other manner with his own financial advisers?

195
Hon. S E Linares: No, Mr Speaker, what the Minister does is that when applications are made by governing bodies, when it is to do with events hosted in Gibraltar or hosted abroad, that is when the Gibraltar Sports and Advisory Council (GSAC) takes charge of how much funding each governing body – as he well knows – gets. But there is also money which the GSLA ... And we do, as a matter of courtesy inform GSAC about what we are doing. For example, the darts is a special event and therefore the Darts Association does not come and ask us to bring in all the world champions and all that. This is a different event that we organise and therefore the funds come from there. We put in the Budget and therefore the funds come through, because we no longer have heads like he used to have, where it was divided into four, the grants. We have put them all together, because as he well knows as well, it used to be split into four, but then it used to be passed on from one head to the other, and therefore, in order to facilitate GSAC and facilitate the Government and the GSLA, in order to take decisions on which event we are going to bring, we have put it as one global sum, and therefore GSAC decides then how much is going to go for either one or the other.

200
205
210
Hon. E J Reyes: So just to confirm, Mr Speaker – I want to make sure I have got it clear – GSAC is not actually involved in the decision-making of supporting a particular event. These perhaps will come under a more general title, like sports-led tourism type of events, attracting visitors to Gibraltar, and GSAC is therefore involved in the consultation of approving the event and even deciding how much subsidy is going towards it, because in respect of local teams participating internationally, then sometimes GSAC takes the policy whether to fund 30% or 40%, or whatever type of percentage, towards the gross cost of the trip. Does this work on a similar basis, where you decide the percentage, or is it all paid for lock, stock and barrel?

220
Hon. S E Linares: Well, it depends on the contract that we do with the entity that brings in the event. It depends on the contract. Some of the contracts differ. They ask for money, who gets the sponsorship money, who pays for what, and that is negotiated and then a contract is signed. What I can tell him is that the system that he said at the end is the system that still continues. That means that governing bodies will still put in their bid and GSAC will then decide the percentage of that event, not with these events.

225
230
But I can assure the hon. Member that we are in very close contact with whichever sport we bring – for example in the snooker or the darts – and that we do involve the local governing body in order ... for things like whether international people are going to come and bring workshops to teach development of the sports, and also in all events you will see that the locals are always involved. Therefore, for example, in the snooker we had four snooker players from Gibraltar participating within the international tournament. That is usually part of the condition of any sport that comes over. Remember, like the hon. Member rightly said, this is events-led tourism, and therefore what we do is we try and engage the local community, and the only way 235 you are going to engage the local community is by engaging the governing body of the sport that comes over. So, for example, again, the darts, I think, have eight darts players from Gibraltar who do all their qualifying competitions within Gibraltar, and then those first eight ranking will go into the one that is either televised and is on stage and all that, so our local community, or the fraternity of darts in this case, will be participating in this international, or whichever we do.

240

TOURISM, HOUSING, EQUALITY AND SOCIAL SERVICES

Q32/2016

Care Agency nurses –
Salary, pay and conditions

Clerk: We now move to Question 32, and these are questions to the Minister for Tourism, Equality, Social Services and Housing.

We commence with Question 32, the Hon. L F Llamas.

245

Hon. L F Llamas: Good morning, Mr Speaker.

Do the nurses working within the Care Agency receive the same salary, pay and conditions as those of equal grade working in St Bernard's Hospital?

Thank you.

250

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, as was the case under the former GSD administration, the nurses in the Care Agency continue to receive a salary relevant to their grade and subject to annual pay increments.

255

Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Hon. Minister confirm if there is a disparity between the Care Agency nurses and those within the GHA St Bernard's establishment?

260

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, if there is any disparity it was created by the GSD. We have continued on the same pay scales that they had.

Hon. L F Llamas: The point I am trying to make ... I am not sure, as I have not been able to gather from the estimates if there is a disparity or not, but my main basis for this question is ultimately if there is a disparity between these establishments this will encourage a migration, which will ultimately affect the continuity of care of those in the worse-off area. If the worse-off area is those within the Care Agency, then there will be an issue for continuity of care. These nurses will obviously have nurtured a rapport with the service users and this rapport is extremely important for those service users themselves.

270

I am sure the Minister will appreciate this is a principle that needs to be looked at, if it does exist.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I? I think my hon. colleague, Mr Llamas, has been very reasonable in outlining what his concerns are in relation to this particular issue; but, with respect to the hon. Lady, I do not think that the answer is satisfactory. To say, 'Well the position ... if there was a disparity it is a disparity that existed when the GSD was there' is not a sufficient answer. The question was: is there a disparity? Surely the Hon. Minister ought to be able to answer that basic question, if there is a disparity. Nobody wants to get controversial, but we

275

280 would like to understand if there is a disparity, because we cannot see it from the financial information that has been provided.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I think that the hon. Member actually answered his own question. I think that if he looks at the book of approved estimates, the scales are actually 285 there. They are very clearly in the back.

Hon. L F Llamas: Okay, thank you.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I will look at the estimates again. I do not think that it says as 290 the lady has suggested, because one cannot actually place the actual scales within the particular areas that we are talking about here, but if it is as the lady says we will not raise it again. If it is not as the lady says, then we will raise it again next time round, because I think it is important that we understand whether there is a disparity in relation to pay.

We would not be asking this question if the information was publicly available and we had 295 seen that that is the position as the lady says.

Q33/2016
Care Agency –
Details of vacant posts

Clerk: Question 33, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can Government please state if there are any vacant posts within the Care Agency; if so, for how long has each post been vacant and why?
300

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento):
Mr Speaker, all posts within the Agency are covered, and as such there are no vacancies.
305

Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Hon. Minister confirm if these are covered by way of substitution, or are they actually advertised posts and filled posts?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: They are covered in various ways, Mr Speaker, but they are 310 covered and none of them are not covered.

Hon. L F Llamas: I am sorry to say that does not answer my question. If they are covered by way of substitution, then they are still vacant. So, I want to know if there are vacant posts which are not filled adequately and there are people there with the terms and conditions for that post.
315

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I appreciate that the hon. Member is new to this and I will, of course, be as helpful as possible as I can to him.

Mr Speaker, unlike the complement in the Civil Service, there is no such thing as a complement in agencies, and that is the position that was taken by the GSD when they were in 320 Government. So, Mr Speaker, as has been confirmed by another hon. Member, who did so as a Minister at the time when the GSD were in office, what we are doing is that as and when posts become available in the Care Agency we are reviewing them and we are looking to see how to best optimise the money that has been voted to the Agency in order to operate it.

325 Unlike the Civil Service posts, Mr Speaker, a post in an agency is not a fixed post. It may be that a post was relevant at the time, but as an agency, particularly an agency such as this whose services expand, we need to make sure that we optimise the money that has been voted by Parliament to run this service.

330 But in any event, there are not posts that are not covered by anybody, we are just looking at some posts temporarily to see if that is the best post for that service now that it has become vacant, because it is obviously only when posts become vacant that we are able to restructure, if we need to.

Q34/2016
Family Centre –
Details of plans for development

335 Clerk: Question 34, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Government give details of the plans being made, if any, towards making the Family Centre a reality?

340 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, plans for the development of a Family Centre are presently being finalised to ensure that the centre becomes a reality during the lifetime of this Parliament.

345

Hon. L F Llamas: Do you have a set date by when this will become a reality?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman, I think, is the second of the new Members on the other side to speak, and I was remiss earlier not to congratulate Mr Clinton on his first remarks. I do congratulate Mr Llamas now and I look forward to congratulating the others as they make their first remarks during the course of this morning.

350 Mr Speaker, just for the sake of setting out the position clearly in relation to this matter, given that it will be relevant in coming questions too, where the Government has a manifesto commitment to do things, and the Family Centre is one of them, and that commitment does not contain in the manifesto a time by which we will do it, our answer will of course be that we will do it during the lifetime of this Parliament. We are not going to be estimating when we are going to be doing things so that the hon. Members opposite can become timekeepers of the Government in doing things by a particular date that we might estimate, because of course it is difficult in Government not to slip from dates because of other things going on etc.

360 So hon. Members will get the answer in relation to this question that they will get in relation to all the others that they may put now and in the future in relation to non-timed Government commitments in our manifesto: that they will be delivered during the lifetime of this Parliament.

Hon. L F Llamas: I just want to say that the reason why I am asking for details of these plans is with reference to Question 603/2011, where the Hon. Chief Minister now, who at the time was the Leader of the Opposition, asked if the Family Centre was going to take two, three or 15 years. The question posed then is still as relevant today, when we still do not know when the expected date is and it is looking more like it is going to take the actual 15 years if it carries on like this. That is my only remark, thank you.

370

Hon. Chief Minister: The hon. Gentleman – and I say this as gently and affectionately as I can – needs to learn that he has to ask a question when he gets up during Question Time. If he wants to make a statement, he can make it at another time.

375 This is a new Parliament. The people of Gibraltar have wiped the slate very, very clean indeed on 26th November and we have a manifesto commitment to deliver in the coming four years. If we do deliver in the coming four years, then it will be well within the 15 years that I posed at the time.

Q35/2016

UN Convention on the Rights of the Disabled –
Date for transposition

Clerk: Question 35, the Hon. L F Llamas.

380 Hon. L F Llamas: Does Government have a date set to transpose the full UN Convention on the Rights of the Disabled?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

385 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, prior to the last General Election, the Government published a Command Paper on a draft Bill for an Act to make provision for the betterment of persons with disabilities within society using the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities as a model.

390 Government is in the process of considering the responses to the Command Paper and the Government remains committed to seeking the extension of the Convention to Gibraltar.

Hon. L F Llamas: What assurances are given that it will be effected during this Parliamentary tenure?

395 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I remind the hon. Member of the words of the Chief Minister just now: a manifesto commitment means that something will be delivered during the course of this Parliament.

400 Mr Speaker, and I want to pre-empt the next question, because he is going to remind us that it was in the last manifesto, and as I have said previously in this Parliament, that is what led the Command Paper to be published. As I have said before, this is a very complex piece of legislation and a piece of legislation that affects a lot of people and a lot of Departments. So it is better for everybody that we plan it properly, think it through properly, and when we implement the legislation we will have done it properly and in a responsible manner. Otherwise, Mr Speaker, the consequences could be ... the risk could be that it could have a detrimental effect to people, to businesses and to organisations, and that is what we have been trying to avoid.

405 However, Mr Speaker, during the whole process we have before the drafting of the legislation, we had very in-depth meetings and conversations with the stakeholders. The Command Paper was issued and we had a lot of response from other people, not just the core stakeholders that we were speaking to. As a responsible Government we have been taking all those into account and we are considering all the responses to the Command Paper to ensure that when we deliver this legislation it is the best way that we can.

415 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, my question is this, but I will prefix it in this way as well – that of course everybody wants to be as thorough as possible, every government, and indeed we wanted to be as thorough as possible in this particular area and we also conducted our own consultation and left a Bill that was ready in 2011 for transposition. The Government have decided that perhaps they do not want to go with that Bill. So my question is this: will the Government transpose the entirety of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Disabled, or is it part of that Convention that they are planning to transpose to Gibraltar law?

420

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, as former Minister for Justice, the hon. Gentleman should know that conventions are not transposed, and the way it operates is that we need to implement domestic legislation in a manner that, in these circumstances, the UN through the UK would consider extending. (Interjection) Mr Speaker, I hear mumbles from the Hon. Mr Feetham. I think he should know by now that what we transpose are European Directives and not necessarily UN Conventions, but I do not want to get into semantics here at this stage. What we are doing is preparing a foundation to ensure that we can be in a position so that the UN Convention can be accepted to be extended to Gibraltar. So in answer to that question, yes.

425

But he premised his question – (Interjection) Yes. He started his question by saying that they had left it full and ready for transposition, Mr Speaker, and I have to say categorically that I asked for that. One of the first things I asked for was whether there had been any foundation work or any drafts on this, and the answer I was given was no. I think they had the opportunity to have done this since 2006, Mr Speaker, which is when the Convention came into force. I do not actually have it before me, but from memory I think it was 2006. So, Mr Speaker, they had from 2006 to 2011 to introduce legislation, to undertake preparatory work, to do foundation work, to set any policies – and they did absolutely nothing, so I do not accept that they left anything ready for us. And in this case I am glad, because we have done it from scratch. We have a very good team advising us on it, we have consulted at length, so I am happy that what we will introduce is a thorough piece of work that we have all worked very hard on.

435

440

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I have to say that the hon. Lady castigates us for not doing something from 2006 to 2011, and they themselves have not done something from 2011 all the way to 2015. So, by parity of reason, she castigates herself because it is exactly the same delay.

But, Mr Speaker, on many occasions my hon. former Member of Parliament and colleague, Jaime Netto, has made it clear that there was a draft. If I can bring that draft to the hon. Lady's attention, will she undertake to withdraw the statement that she has now made that we left absolutely nothing prepared at the point of the 2011 Election?

445

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, we have published a Command Paper, a very detailed Command Paper on quite a long Bill, so how can the hon. Gentleman say that we have not done anything, first and foremost? We have a Bill and the Bill has been out for consultation. We have been working with the stakeholders, who are very happy with the way that we have undertaken the Bill and the process, so I do not accept for one moment that we have not done what we set out to do. That is number one, and whether Mr Netto has a draft or does not have a draft is neither here nor there, because I should not have to call Mr Netto and ask him if he has got something at the back of a drawer somewhere.

450

455

I called the Department responsible with drafting legislation, the Government officials tasked with this, and they all told me that they had nothing. It is the officials, it is the lawyers in what was previously called the LSU, so it was them at the time who told me that they had nothing. So Mr Netto may have it but it is neither here nor there. I was the Minister at the time, I asked if there was anything available, I was told that there was nothing and that there had been no instructions. If there had been, then I would have welcomed it and I would have considered it. If I had agreed with it, I would have proceeded; if I had not agreed with it, then I would have started from scratch. All I am conveying is what I have been told by the officials, and that is my position.

460

465

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I may, can I just take the point that the hon. Gentleman has made and say that I am very surprised indeed at his suggestion that Mr Netto may have removed from a Government office a document which belongs to the Government and which cannot now be found by the Government. If, in fact, he has, can I urge him please to ensure that he and all other ex-GSD Ministers who may similarly have removed documentation from Government offices please return that as soon as possible so it can be put in the appropriate Government file.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker. Mr Speaker, this is not the first time that in fact ... Well, first of all, can I say that I have not suggested that Mr Netto has removed a Bill from his Department. What I have suggested, and indeed it is not the first time that it has been suggested – Mr Netto has said so in a speech in this House during the course of his own Budget speech – that he left a Bill prepared in his Department, in the Social Services Agency, dealing with the transposition of the UN Convention of the Rights of the Disabled. Indeed, the hon. Member may recall that during the course of our debate, questions and answers in the John Mackintosh Hall, we were asked this particular question by members of the public. That is precisely the point that I made, repeating the point that has been made by Mr Netto in this House on many occasions. So I have to say that it comes as a surprise to me in this session of the House, because it is the first time that anybody on that side has said, ‘Well, actually, what are you talking about? There has never been a Bill.’

I will go back to Mr Netto and ask him, and he may well be able to then identify where precisely he left it. It is very surprising that Mr Netto, who is the Minister concerned, basically stands up in this House and says, ‘I left a Bill that was prepared.’ Indeed, I have to say myself that I remember, actually as Minister for Justice, seeing a Bill, a draft, that he sent me in order so that I could consider it before it went to Sir Peter Caruana, or Peter Caruana as he then was. So there was a Bill, a draft at the very least, because I have actually seen it; but I will go back to Mr Netto and see, because it is in the interests of everybody – the work has been done – that it is there.

But I have to say what baffles me is that it is the first time that I hear this point being made, because Mr Netto has made the point on many occasions in this House about having drafted a Bill.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, there was not actually a question there, but I want to make the point that I do not understand how the hon. Member can be so baffled and how this can come as such a surprise, because on each occasion that Mr Netto has stated in this Parliament that he left a Bill ready I always replied with the same reply that I have replied with now: that there was nothing there when I got in.

But Mr Speaker, maybe we can move on from this point. We have a Bill, we have a Command Paper – we have worked on it very hard, we are progressing on it, we want to progress on it, they had between 2006 to 2011 to do it. We issued the Command Paper before the 2015 General Election. We are ready to go with it, we are keen to go with it, and perhaps, Mr Speaker, we can move on.

Thank you.

Q36/2016
Gibraltar International Airport –
Flight information display screens

Clerk: Question 36, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Government give reasons as to why the information monitors at Gibraltar International Airport are not continuously updated?

515 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the information monitors, correctly known as flight information display screens (FIDS), are continuously updated by the air terminal information personnel on receipt of flight information from the ground handling agent.
520

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I would not normally pick up complaints being made on social media, point blank. I read about this early in December and I actually had the opportunity of experiencing this for myself when flying to the UK on a delayed flight during late December. I was actually being kept informed about the delay on my flight via e-mail from the actual airline, whilst revised departure times were still not updated on the FIDS screens.
525

I believe the Airport is one of the shop windows of Gibraltar and it is important that initial impressions are positive. Fine details such as this cannot be overlooked. I hope the hon. Member will trust my word and the word of those on social media who have experienced this at first hand and I hope you take it on board and look into it as soon as possible.
530

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, I understand the hon. Member is asking us to run the Government on the basis of comments on social media.

Mr Speaker, the Gibraltar Airport is very conscious of how important it is to ensure that these screens are updated. It may be that from time to time there are issues with information that we may get, but this is rare. It may be that on the occasional point that it happened Mr Llamas happened to be at the airport, but I am assured that this is not something that happens regularly and there is absolutely no need, I think, for me to give an assurance, because the Airport have already given me the assurance that they are very, very conscious to ensure that this is updated, of course regularly and every time it needs to be changed. That there may be technical hitches on a one-off, well that is unfortunate and no one wants it to happen, but of course it is not something that is intentional and it is not something that we accept should happen. But if it happens, it happens as a one-off and sometimes technology may give you problems.
535
540

Thank you for pointing it out, because of course the minute I asked the question I asked what could have happened, and I was told that there was something on Facebook just before Christmas, but it was a one-off. These things happen, but certainly our standards are the highest that we always strive to have, Mr Speaker.
545

Thank you.

Q37/2016
Gibraltar Literary Festival 2015 –
Total net cost

Clerk: Question 37, the Hon. E J Reyes.
550

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Government provide full details of the breakdown of all income generated, expenses incurred, and thus net total cost of the 2015 Gibraltar Literary Festival?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.
555

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the breakdown of payments to date is as follows: income generated, revenue received, £267,381; expenses incurred, £362,103; and the net cost, £94,722.

560 Hon. E J Reyes: I hope it does not sound a silly question, Mr Speaker, but is that now the finalised accounts? Because on several occasions, and I have had personal experiences, one believes you are more or less concluded but there may be one or two items pending. Perhaps the Minister wants to update me on that matter.

565 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, as I said, these are the payments to date. There are one or two items pending but they are not that significant in number. I do not think it will vary that much, but I did ask and I think there are a couple of payments that are pending but they are not huge.

570

Q38/2016
Refurbishment of Government housing estates –
Estimated completion dates

Clerk: Question 38, the Hon. E J Reyes.

575 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide updated details in respect of estimated completion dates, for the different stages of all current refurbishment works at Government housing estates?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

580 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the estimated completion dates for Laguna Estate is as follows: Phase 1 – September 2016; Phase 2 – February 2017; Phase 3 – April 2017.

Estimated completion date for Glacis Estate is September 2016 and estimated completion for Moorish Castle Estate is December 2016.

585

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes thank you for that, and may I ask in respect of completions and so on, I know the Minister will probably have her own employees from housing work agencies and other matters, but will there be some sort of opportunity for the tenants themselves there to be able to carry out like a snagging like one does when perhaps you purchase your own flat?

590 This is in respect of a collective estate. Does the Government intend to enter an exercise whereby they will ask residents of that particular estate to help participate in snagging to ensure that we have had the best possible final result?

595 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: We do that already, Mr Speaker. We have representative committees from every estate that meet with the officials, and in fact they meet with myself as well from time to time. So we do get issues raised by us and they are involved in the process.

Q39/2016

Refurbishment of Government housing estates –
Details of empty flats

Clerk: Question 39, the Hon. E J Reyes.

600 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide updated details in respect of the number of empty flats awaiting refurbishment and/or cleaning, showing the rooms composition of said flats?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

605

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): There are ten empty flats awaiting refurbishment and these are 2, 3 and 4 RKB.

610 Hon. E J Reyes: Sorry Mr Speaker, I am trying to update myself on what the Government publishes on the website which is Table H31, which was last updated on 1st December 2015 and obviously just provides information up to 30th November.

The Minister has provided me with an overall figure of ten empty flats and she has alluded to the sizes but if one looks at the table, the Government volunteers information saying so many are of 1 RKB, so many are of 2 RKB. Has the Minister been furnished with that information?

615

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker. There are two 2 RKBs; five 3 RKBs and three 4RKBs.

Q40-41/2016

Mons Calpe Mews and Beach View Terraces co-ownership homes – Estimated completion/allocation dates; reallocation of Government rental homes

Clerk: Question 40, the Hon. E J Reyes.

620 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide revised and updated completion dates and allocation dates in respect of the different phases pertaining to both Mons Calpe Mews and Beach View Terraces co-ownership homes?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

625

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 41.

Clerk: Question 41, the Hon. E J Reyes.

630

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing say how many Government rental homes will be returned and subsequently become available for reallocation upon completion of purchases at both Mons Calpe Mews and Beach View Terraces?

635

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, in answer to Question 40, Beach View Terraces and Mons Calpe Mews were allocated between April and November 2014. Beach View Terraces completion date for phase 1 was on 8th January 2016 and phase 2 on 22nd January 2016. Mons Calpe Mews completion date for phase 3 will be 22nd January 2016, phase 2 will be 1st March 2016 and phase 3, 5th May 2016.

In answer to Question 41, there will be 21.

Hon. E J Reyes: Sorry, Mr Speaker, I did not hear properly. I do have my hearing aid currently undergoing a service in the same way as people send cars to be serviced! (Laughter) I do apologise for that. I know Mr Speaker and I often speak behind the Chair, we express our mutual hearing problems.

What was the figure the Minister said for Question 41? Did I hear correctly, was it 21 or something? (Interjection) Yes. I do hope, Mr Speaker, that I will be able to hear a bit better by next time round.

Thank you.

Q42/2016

Government rental homes – Vacancies and reallocation

Clerk: Question 42, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing say how many Government rental homes are currently vacant, providing details in chronological order showing the dates from which such homes have been unoccupied, stating how many of these are pre-war or post-war, together with reasons for their continued non-occupancy or allocation, as well as indicating estimated dates when these will be ready for reallocation?

660

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there are 143 rental homes which are currently vacant, of which 142 are pre-war and one is post-war.

665

I now hand the hon. Member a list showing the dates since when these flats have been unoccupied.

Mr Speaker: Which suggests that as usual we go on to the next question and the hon. Member can assimilate the information provided in the schedule and come back to it.

670

Answer to Question 42

Beyond Economical Repair
2003	2
2004	21
2005	1
2006	4
2007	1
2008	3
2009	0
2010	2
2011	3
2012	1
2013	7
2014	11
2015	10

Possible sale/tender
2011	1
2012	15
2013	9
2014	32
2015	20

Q43/2016

Government rental homes –
Allocation other than on advice of Housing Allocation Committee

675 Clerk: Question 43, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can Government state how many rental homes have been allocated and/or assigned to applicants other than on the direct advice of the Housing Allocation Committee, from 1st July 2015 to date, stating on whose authority these allocations and/or assignments were made?
680

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento):
685 Mr Speaker, none.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, when I wrote this question I put down as of 1st July 2015 because I had looked on my previous notes referring to my previous questions in Parliament. After having handed in the notice of questions here in Parliament, I was then able to find Table H22 on the Government website that has information that takes us right up to, statistics provided to 30th November 2015 and it says 'number of Government flats allocated to applicants by the Housing Authority other than on the advice of the Housing Allocation Committee' and from July onwards it gives a total of I think 19 or so. That figure does not coincide now with the answer the Minister has provided in reply to the oral question.
690

695

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, he is right and I will check the website but certainly being the Minister, I can say that the answer is none.

700 Hon. E J Reyes: So then Mr Speaker, I understand that the hon. Lady has to go back and check. Will we at some stage during the course of this Parliamentary session be able to give the Lady a brief moment so that we can – ?

705 Mr Speaker: You have raised a matter in that supplementary about which she is not fully informed. She will check the facts ... and then we can continue with supplementaries this afternoon or tomorrow. No problem.

710 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I can confirm that my answer is correct. What I am suggesting is that the website is not correct and I will check why the website is not correct. But I can certainly confirm to Parliament that my answer to the Parliament is correct.

Mr Speaker: Do you have any supplementaries from the ...

Hon. E J Reyes: No, Mr Speaker.

Q44/2016
Government rental homes –
Applicants on housing pre-list

715 Clerk: Question 44, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide updated details in respect of the number of applicants on the housing pre-list?

720 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there are 538 applicants on the Housing Department pre-list.

725 Hon. E J Reyes: And, Mr Speaker, would the hon. Lady have any information that coincides with the way they present the statistics which only gives information up to 30th November 2015 as found in Table H2?

730 What Government has done on the website is provided a breakdown of, for example this time, how many of these 538 would be under the column as 1RKB, 2RKB, and so on. Does she have that available?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I do have the information. However, I am now a little bit confused as to ... The information on the website is a couple of weeks old so there may be variances, but it cannot be as important as ...

735 Mr Speaker, in the whole scheme of things we may be off by one or two flats. I do have the breakdown but it cannot be that different to what is on the website. It may be of course as you can understand, we require resources to be updating the website as often as we can, and we do, do that as soon as possible, when the information on the website is a week or two old.

740 Mr Speaker, I can go through the list with the hon. Gentleman if he wishes but it is not that dissimilar to what is on the website.

In fact, Mr Speaker, the majority of the questions that I have been asked now, the statistical questions are in fact on the website. It is just that the information may be a week or two old but it is not that dissimilar. And while of course we will endeavour to have the information updated 745 for Parliament sittings, but I do also beg the indulgence of the hon. Member because it is only a week or two old, Mr Speaker, in the whole scheme of things.

But if he does insist, I can go through the list with him now.

750 Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, Mr Speaker, I am conscious that it does take a few days and so on and one can easily empathise with the Minister's words or explanation that it may be two weeks off. The reason why I have asked this on for this occasion is that looking at the website, the last available information is at 30th November so hence since the election onwards, there has not been any information provided.

755 If the hon. Lady, and I think she was hinting at that, if within the next few days, a week or so, the next set of statistics which is at 30th December is going to be provided then I am quite happy and content, Mr Speaker, it is not a matter of great urgency, it is not a matter of national security, and so on. I can wait for that.

760 Shall we by mutual consent agree that I will wait for that, on the understanding that the hon. Lady will try and get that information through and then if anything happens, Mr Speaker will give me leave and I can pose a question next month and not waste this Chamber's time. Shall we proceed with that, if the Hon. Minister agrees?

Q45/2016

Government rental homes –
Applicants on housing waiting list

Clerk: Question 45, the Hon. E J Reyes.

765 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide the updated details in respect of the number of applicants on the housing waiting list, inclusive of a separate breakdown for the medical and social lists, showing the dates when they joined any of the three said lists?

Clerk: Answer, the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

770 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there are 1,713 applicants on the waiting list of which 146 are also on the medical and/or social lists.

I am now handing the hon. Member a schedule containing the information requested.

Answer to Question 45

Waiting List

1994	1
2000	4
2001	3
2002	10
2003	5
2004	10
2005	12
2006	17
2007	40
2008	30
2009	61
2010	61
2011	159
2012	244
2013	281
2014	744
2015	31

Medical

2004	1
2006	2
2007	1
2008	3
2009	3
2010	2
2011	20
2012	15
2013	25
2014	14

Social

2008	2
2009	4
2010	4
2011	7
2012	13
2013	13
2014	13
2015	4

Q46-47/2016
Government rental homes –
Arrears and write-offs on unpaid rents

775 Clerk: Question 46, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide details of arrears in respect of unpaid rents pertaining to Government rental homes giving a monthly breakdown since November 2015?

780

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 47.

785

Clerk: Question 47, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide full details of how much has been written off in respect of unpaid rents pertaining to Government rental homes in this current financial year?

790

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, arrears of unpaid rents since November 2015 are as follows: November, £5,805,150.58; December £6,019,854.68.

795

The answer to Question 47 is nil.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, sorry again, the answer in reply to Question – the unpaid rents, would the hon. Lady for my medical reason, £6 million, £19 thousand and ... I missed the other figures. (Interjection)

800

Mr Speaker: £6,019,854.68.

Hon. E J Reyes: I am grateful Mr Speaker; we seem to have a three way team here, of everyone helping me on that. I am so grateful to everyone concerned. (Interjections and laughter)

805

Q48/2016
Government rental homes –
Legal costs for eviction of squatters

Clerk: Question 48, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing say how much expenditure has been incurred in respect of legal costs relating to the eviction of squatters from Government rental homes since 1st July 2015, providing a breakdown showing the number of homes involved and to whom payments were made?

810

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

815

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, since 1st July 2015 a total of £3,050 has been paid to Triay and Triay in respect of two eviction proceedings.

Q49/2016
Government rental homes –
Tenants requiring urgent decanting

Clerk: Question 49, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide details of how many tenants required urgent decanting from their homes since 1st July 2015, indicating the reason why, the date when said decanting became necessary and the dates when the tenants were able to return to their home?

820

825

Clerk: Answer, the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

830 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, since July 2015 four tenants have required urgent decanting from their homes. There were two in July, one in November; and one in December. These were due to works, disinfestation and a leak.

Tenants returned in July, August, December and January.

Q50/2016
Government rental homes –
Expenditure on refurbishing empty homes

835 Clerk: Question 50, the Hon. E J Reyes.

840 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide details in respect of all expenditure incurred in this current financial year in respect of contracts awarded for making empty homes suitable for reallocation, stating to whom payments were made, how much has been paid, the number of residential homes pertaining to each payment, as well as indicating the type/nature of repair works or cleaning services undertaken?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

845 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, my answer is a bit long. I wonder if it may assist the hon. Gentleman if I just forward him a copy. It is not a schedule; it is just a spare copy that I have?

850 Mr Speaker: Could I suggest to the Hon. Minister that she uses that procedure in future too as much as she can. She has been doing that, a schedule. Now, in this case it is not really a schedule; it is the answer to the question but it makes for better procedural business if she uses it as a schedule and I would commend that.

It is ultimately a matter for her really to decide what she wants to do, but it is a complex answer and it would be very time consuming to give all this information across the floor.

855 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker.

860 Mr Speaker: I will give the hon. Member an opportunity to come back if he wants to arising from those details and we will proceed with questions from the Hon. Mr Phillips.

ANSWER

865

THE HON THE MINISTER FOR TOURISM, HOUSING, EQUALITY AND SOCIAL SERVICES

Mr Speaker,

CRJN was paid £5,121.00 in relation to works to one property

Kaysam was paid £8,040.00 in relation to works to one property

Joaquim Pacheco Da Cruz was paid £11,784.00 in relation to works to one property

Sarah Jane Construction was paid £9,641.00 in relation to works to two properties

AJEC was paid £43,065.00 in relation to works to four properties

Avanti was paid £63,785.50 in relation to works to four properties

A.L Wood Works was paid £14,794.00 in relation to works to one property

Limatron Ltd was paid £10,130.00 in relation to works to one property

501 Construction was paid £57,969.00 in relation to works to four properties

Aureliabo Marciano was paid £4,795.00 in relation to works to one property

ACE Plumbing was paid £ 18,525.50 in relation to works to one property

N & S Services was paid £26,733.00 in relation to works to two properties

Jl Construction was paid £24,601.00 in relation to works to one property

J.S. Buildings Ltd was paid £17,100.00 in relation to works to one property

Ceprano Ltd was paid £9,980.00 in relation to works to one property

Accoria was paid £5,650.00 in relation to works to one property

Omega was paid £8,350.00 in relation to works to one property

Liberty General Construction Ltd was paid £7,600.00 in relation to works to one property

The works carried out by these companies were all general refurbishment works such as plastering walls and ceilings, taking down walls, painting, replacing floor tiles, doors, plumbing, electrical works etc.

Q51/2016

Same-sex marriage –
Government position

870 Clerk: Question 51, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, what is the Government's position on same-sex marriage?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

875

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the Government had a manifesto commitment to publish a Command Paper for the consultation on amendments to the Marriage Act to legalise civil marriage between same sex couples.

880 In compliance with this commitment the Command Paper was published on 22nd December 2015, the closing date for comments has been extended to 29th January 2016 and the Government looks forward to considering the views of the public.

885 Hon. Mr E J Phillips: I am grateful for the response but clearly, given the Government's position i.e. that they have said in their manifesto quite clearly that they do not consider it is right for the State to discriminate between people on the grounds of their sexual orientation, surely it is right for the Government now to state what its position is on same-sex marriage.

890 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, can I congratulate the hon. Member on his first words uttered in Parliament (Laughter) as I have on others.

Mr Speaker, if you are in the process of carrying out a consultation in order to inform your thinking, what is the point of saying what you think before the consultation is over. Of course it makes sense that we should allow that consultation process to come to a conclusion, consider the responses that are provided in the consultation and then take a decision on how it is that we 895 are going to progress in respect of the issue that has been the subject of consultation.

The Government is the one that has issued the Command Paper and has sought the responses on the consultation. Therefore there is in my view, no alternative but for us to see through that process of consultation, before as a Government coming out with a position on the issue on which we have sought the views of the general public.

900

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just so that I understand further Government's thinking in relation to this, is the Government's position that if sufficient members of the public in Gibraltar were against gay marriage, that irrespective of what the Government's, or individuals' within the Government's, position is as to whether the current state of affairs is discriminatory, that they would go with the majority of those who were effectively consulted at the expense of what is the principle of equality that they have outlined and subscribed to in their manifesto?
905

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the position is very clear and I know exactly what sort of mischief the hon. Gentleman is trying to make in political terms – it is obvious and I am surprised that he appears surprised that I put it that way. We are out for consultation, we want to take the views of people that have taken the time to provide feedback in respect of that consultation, and I think it is right and respectful that we should therefore have the opportunity to consider those views.
910

I have made my personal views clear, others have made their personal views clear, but the question is to the Government. The Government has been elected on the basis of a manifesto commitment and has acted entirely in keeping with that manifesto commitment by setting out in a Command Paper which is a draft Bill that amends an existing Act in order to make equal marriage a reality so that we can take those views.
915

Look, since when are consultations simply exercises in weighing up those who say yay and those who say no. If you want to do that sort of consultation you call a referendum, something which the Government is not intending to do in respect of this matter.
920

So Mr Speaker, the position I think could not be clearer. I know that recently he has stated what his position is, it is not the position that was in their ... well, I hesitate to call it manifesto – in the document which they issued in which they gave an indication of what their policies might be if they were ever to complete a manifesto in time for the General Election.
925

So Mr Speaker, I think our position is clear.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I would like to ask the Chief Minister why it is that you feel like you need the validation of the wider community on a basic issue of human rights, 930 especially when it was your Government that instated a Ministry for Equality. If it is not basic equality why do you need such validation?

Hon. Chief Minister: I think that is the penultimate one that I am going to have to congratulate this morning on uttering her first words in this House in this particular instance 935 with her family history of the man who stood here for so many years. So many congratulations.

Mr Speaker, look it is very simple, we have had almost seven out of ten Gibraltarians support a policy set out in a manifesto which we are now giving effect to and that policy is to publish a Bill which amends an Act in the form of a Command Paper and to take the views of the public.

I do not need that validation for my views. I have now very clear views on this subject, views 940 which have evolved over time and I think that it is fair that personal views should evolve over time. Human beings are not, at least this one admits, born knowing everything.

So what we are seeking are the views of the general public. Not the whole of the general public agrees with us. When we created the Ministry of Equality it was because there was a manifesto commitment to do so and it was my pleasure to be able to appoint Samantha 945 Sacramento to that post as soon as we issued the first particulars of direction under the Constitution, after the glorious election of 2011 under our New Dawn manifesto.

There, we also committed ourselves to do Command Papers and so with Command Papers, we published our Bill then, it was a Bill for civil partnerships and not the whole of Gibraltar was favourable to that Bill. We published it, we took views, we made certain amendments to the Bill 950 in order to give effect to the consultation – views which I think improved the Bill.

For example in Gibraltar, same-sex couples are not the only ones who can enter into civil partnerships. Heterosexual couples, opposite-sex couples, can also enter into civil partnerships and I believe that was not the case in the United Kingdom at the time but have the United Kingdom changed since then? (Interjections) Well, they were considering it but they decided not 955 to, so I think we have a better Civil Partnerships Bill in Gibraltar – in fact it is a better Civil Partnerships Act as a result of the consultation we went through, to the Bill which we had published. We did not need validation for that. We had the support of the general public in the General Election in order to do that and we had a policy in the party to do it.

So this is not about validation, especially when it comes to something which I feel is about 960 more than just human rights; this is about something even more important, metaphysical and intangible than human rights. This is about human love.

And so, Mr Speaker, taking views does not necessarily mean that what we are taking views on is in any way going to be made to disappear if there is a large number of people who might write in to be against, or that it is simply going to be published as it was as a Command Paper, it 965 could actually be entirely improved and I believe that there are views and abilities in this community, outside of this Parliament, which can improve the work of this Parliament and the process of consultation to improve perhaps the Bill that has been published so that when it comes as a Government Bill to this House, if that is the conclusion of the consultation, I think it is a very positive thing.

970 The hon. Lady will see and experience in the next four years that my style in this House is not to seek anybody's validation, other than that of my own conscience.

Thank you.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I associate myself with some of what the hon. Gentleman 975 has said. I agree that on something like this, I think it is not necessarily bad that people's views evolve. You may have been – not himself, but we as in generically – there may have been somebody who may have been against it and then views evolve and they are now in favour and we must never have a closed mind to something as important as this, but at the end of a particular process, look at what the arguments are and then decide on the basis of what the 980 arguments are.

I think the difference you see and the questions that we are getting at is this: when a Government publishes a Command Paper, a Government publishes a Command Paper with a Bill because it says to people 'this is our policy, this is the Bill that we intend to introduce, we are going out to consultation on how that Bill can be improved.' And the hon. Gentleman indeed, 985 much of what he has said has been directed at that, and I accept that. You go out to consultation on a Command Paper and there may be views from the public that help the Government in improving a Bill.

What we are asking is, is there a conceivable way in which depending on the views of the public to that Command Paper, that the Government will say actually, we are not going to be 990 introducing legislation on gay marriage, or is it that the Government's views are firm, we believe we have got to do it and all we are asking for are views on how this can be improved. Because there is a difference between a consultation exercise as to whether the Government does something and a consultation exercise as to how something can be improved, in this case a draft Bill that has been published.

I would just like the hon. Gentleman to perhaps address that point and also I note the comment that he has made earlier about the referendum, can he also confirm that the Government is not going to be undertaking a referendum on this particular issue? 995

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I sometimes find it difficult to pin down where the priorities of Members Opposite are. Because of course given the importance that they appear to give to this matter and his statements in respect of this matter in his broadcast earlier in the week, one would have thought that this would have been a lynch pin of not just the manifesto, perhaps even a pamphlet as a precursor to a manifesto. 1000

But look, Mr Speaker, standing in this Parliament as one of the two political leaders – Dr Garcia as leader of the Liberal Party and myself as leader of the GSLP – who had the issue of equal marriage in their manifesto, answering the leader of the political party that did not have the matter of equal marriage in their manifesto, I can tell him with confidence that our position is as set out in the manifesto, namely that we are acting to produce a draft to amend an Act which the community looks at and we take the feedback of the community in respect of that, in a way that we are then able to consider and to then move on from, with the view, I hope, that the whole community can embrace this change in a positive way. 1005 1010

And this debate to which the hon. Members – if they will allow me to say so – come late for that reason, because it was not in their manifesto, is one which is moving people to think very carefully about their views on this subject in a way that challenges perhaps their earlier prejudices. 1015

And we have to understand, as human beings, our socialisation process imbues us with prejudices and we have to challenge those prejudices if we want to be progressive. I am very happy to see that people are challenging those prejudices in themselves and trying to understand why they may, at times when they have considered these issues before, been against this matter and now when they are carefully addressing it, taking the view that they might be in favour of this. 1020

So my call is for, in the process of this Command Paper the consultation to result in a real soul searching in this community of what the issues are. Look, because I am the Leader of the House and the representative of Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar, the Government is embarked in a process of consultation. The Government is not going to give a conclusion now to what that process of consultation could be. 1025

I am quite happy to tell him Fabian Picardo's view. Fabian Picardo's view is that there should not be a referendum, and Fabian Picardo's view is that we should make this Bill an Act. That is Fabian Picardo's view. The Government of Gibraltar has gone out to consultation and I know that the hon. Gentleman is trying to put me into a corner in order to get me not to say that there will not be a referendum and to leave this place and say the Chief Minister has not ruled this out or has not ruled that out. 1030 1035 Can I ask him please, on this subject on which he has made a declaration in his New Year message recently, not to play politics because we have got a community that has to challenge its prejudices, has to understand them and has to move forward progressively. And on this and on disability, the challenge is there for us in this House to work together and produce the best result for this community going forward so that this nation, whether it is a rainbow nation or not, just does not have any pocket of discrimination affecting people's ability to love each other in the way they wish and without the State seeing them in any way that may be different.

1040

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, believe me, no-one is trying to play politics in relation to this issue.

1045 Let me tell the hon. Gentleman that our position is that the GSD, as a party, does not have a positive policy in relation to gay marriage. We are not telling the community, 'Look, our policy collectively as a party, is that we are in favour of gay marriage', because we recognise that in fact, there are huge divisions and people with different views in relation to this in the GSD itself and there are many people, that for religious reasons – indeed they were probably former members of Parliament in my parliamentary team – that may have had difficulty with this particular issue on religious grounds.

1050

And indeed that is a perfectly, perfectly valid position to hold and no-one, certainly not from this side of the House, is going to get criticised for saying, 'I do not believe in gay marriage because of my religious conviction.' That is not what we are about and indeed I came out in my New Year's message and I made it absolutely clear that my support for the principle of gay marriage is my own personal support, pursuant to a very long held policy going back decades in the GSD of allowing members to vote their conscience on this particular issue.

1055

That we now have a parliamentary team where all of us here happen to agree with the principle of gay marriage, well that is another matter, but nobody is trying to play politics; we are just trying to understand what the Government's thinking is in relation to it. At the end of the day he won the election, he is there to answer questions on Government policy. We are trying to understand that.

1060

And in relation to the question that I asked about the referendum, the hon. Gentleman was the person who mentioned the referendum and it came as a surprise to me. That is why I have asked him to clarify the point about the referendum.

1065

But my question is this: could it be possible that the Government comes to this House for example, even within its own ranks, and says 'Look, this is a matter of conscience and we are allowing a free vote on the Government's side which is the position that he took two years ago when I, I think asked him the question across the floor of this House. On that occasion he said he was against gay marriage and I accept, and I am not criticising him for it, that he is perfectly entitled to change his view in relation to this, but he did say that this was a matter of conscience.

1070

Would that also be a possibility on the Government's side as to its approach in relation to this?

Mr Speaker: Whilst allowing that supplementary, I think I should warn the House given that this is a matter of serious fundamental importance, worthy of a debate here in the House, there is a debate going on outside and I am allowing these exchanges to take place today in pursuance of the question on the Order Paper.

1075

But I think there is a danger, and I want to warn the House that we should not get involved in a debate at this juncture. It is perfectly proper at the next meeting of the House or whenever that there should be a full debate but I hope that it should not happen under the guise of supplementaries arising from the question.

1080

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, there would be a debate on this matter if the Bill were to make its way into the House in the context of the debate on the Bill.

1085 Mr Speaker, I just told them earlier on that we are not going to accept them trying to get a date from us when something will be done so that they can time keep in the four years if there is not a specific commitment in the manifesto. But in this respect, there is a specific commitment in the manifesto. What we have said we will do is that the result of the responses will be published by June this year. It says 'next year' in the manifesto, but now by June this year.

1090 So we are going to actually not just sit and look at this ourselves; we have said we are going to publish the responses to the Command Paper and that is what the public have chosen should be the route to this matter.

I have also said, Mr Speaker, on a number of occasions, the hon. Gentleman is right that this is an issue of conscience. I have said it in the context of the things that I have said this morning. Our manifesto – and I want to quote a particular sentence – also says this:

We are totally committed both to ensuring that religious denominations are not forced to change their practices, beliefs or sacraments in any way and to the principle that the State must not discriminate between individuals based on the grounds of sexual orientation.

1100 Now, Mr Speaker, the issue of beliefs is one that can affect people in this Parliament too. Now, what he cannot do is ask me to clarify whether this will be a matter that goes on the basis of what you might laughingly call a Government Whip or a matter of conscience, before we have had the conclusions of the consultation paper and before the Cabinet has considered how it wants to progress.

But I will tell him this: nobody on this side would ever vote for or against something simply because I told them to. Because what I demand from the ten people sitting here, from the nine people sitting here with me, is that they should always vote their consciences. So whether it is about animals and birds, or whether it is about anything else, then the simple issue is that people come here to vote in the best interest of Gibraltar. They come here and we publish Bills together because we meet every Monday and we decide what the Government should do to act in a particular matter, or we implement a manifesto commitment, and we come here to give effect to that.

1110 So look, if the Bill comes to the Parliament – and I hope it is when, but if the Bill comes to the Parliament – people will be able to vote in respect of that Bill on my side of the Parliament as they consider appropriate, as they do in respect of every single Bill. But the hon. Gentleman needs to understand, he is asking me – and I am not asking that the question be ruled inadmissible on the grounds of it being hypothetical because I think this debate is important – but he is asking me what will the Government do after the consultation has been concluded?

1115 Well look, it is hypothetical. The consultation has not been concluded, we will then take a view and we will either bring a Bill or not. I think it is fair for us to say that we are the first movers on this. We put it in our manifesto, we took the issue to the public in the General Election, we have a mandate to do what we are doing, we are going to pursue that mandate and once we have finished that consultation and published its results in June, the hon. Gentleman will see how we act and we can then, if he likes, he can ask me questions about what it is that we are doing and why we are doing it in that way or not doing it in another.

1125 But I would really, sincerely seek that this be an issue that be dealt with if possible on the basis of all parties moving together. This is an important progressive matter on which our community needs to not see itself as divided, but see itself as united in dealing with an issue, which for some people, in sexuality and sexual orientation, for some people, is very hard indeed. Not for those who might be against those who have a sexual orientation doing a particular thing, like marriage, but for those of a sexual orientation which is not what one might have called the established traditional mainstream in the old days.

1130 These are very hard issues which affect people's lives and in this Parliament we need to be working together to make sure that the State is in a place where it does not discriminate against people and understand how we can best do that and carry the community with us. And I think all the advocates of equal marriage and all those who are advocating their concerns in respect of 1135 equal marriage deserve that respect from this Parliament and they deserve that we do this consultation process in a proper way and bring the best possible law, I hope – that is Fabian Picardo – bring the best possible law to this Parliament to deal with the issue of equal marriage in the best possible way going forward.

1140 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I note your warning, as it were, in relation to starting a debate, but I agree this is an extremely sensitive issue for our community. It is a sensitive issue for all politicians in this Chamber, but this is a Government that has trail-blazed, in its own words in its manifesto, and in my view the debate should be had but it is also for the Chief Minister and his colleagues to set out their position.

1145 People expect leadership, people expect vision on this question but if the community has an internal debate on it, they expect the Government of the day to show their leadership in my view.

Would you not agree?

Hon. Chief Minister: I assumed that was the question that he was putting.

1150 Well look Mr Speaker, I have just told him what my position is. I have told him, so I do not know why it is that he thinks I have not. Sorry? (Interjection by Hon. E J Phillips) Well, but the Government's ... I mean Mr Phillips needs to understand, Mr Speaker, that we have trail-blazed in so many different areas. One in particular, which is that we are probably one of the few Governments in the history of Gibraltar and indeed probably one of the few Governments in the 1155 history of Europe, that has delivered against a manifesto almost bang point by point, and where we have not, explained why we have not been able to – really ensured that the commitments that we have entered into with the people in a General Election are seen by those who have formed Government as a sacred obligation of delivery.

1160 And so he needs to go to page 96 of our 'Strongest Foundations' manifesto, read the part about trail-blazing and then go on to read what it says we would do. Now, what it says we would do is to start that consultation through the process of a Command Paper and publish the results of that consultation in June. Of course in July he will be entitled to say to me, 'Well, you carried out the consultation, what do you think?'

1165 But what I think is not legitimate, and he needs to understand that I am saying it not in political terms but in terms of logic, is when the process of consultation is ongoing, 'Tell me, what are you going to do?'

1170 Well, I have told him what I feel and I have told him why I feel it. Now look, I am the Leader of the House so when I feel something, it is very likely I am going to want to carry opinion with me, especially of those who are sitting with me on this side of the House. But that does not mean that as Chief Minister I can simply turn my back on the fact that there is an ongoing process of consultation and say that as Leader of the Government that is consulting, this is the Government's position because it would be disrespectful to those who are in the process of providing their views in the context of that consultation, and I am not going to do that. I am going to continue to trail blaze by demonstrating that I stick to what I tell people in the General Election.

1175

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q52-55/2016

Bruce's Farm and the Drugs and Alcohol Service – Composition, refurbishment and expansion

1180 Clerk: Question 52, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm the current composition of Bruce's Farm and the Drugs and Alcohol Service?

1185

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 53 to 55.

1190

Clerk: Question 53, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: The Government is committed to a full refurbishment of Bruce's Farm and its expansion of its facilities and services. Can the Government set out in detail its plans, including the estimated costs of the proposed full refurbishment?

1195

Clerk: Question 54, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm the detail of the proposal to increase the capacity of the Scud Hill Aftercare facility?

1200

Clerk: Question 55, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm whether specialist addiction counsellors will be engaged to work along the existing Drugs and Alcohol Service?

1205

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

1210

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, if the hon. Gentleman is asking about the staff composition at Bruce's Farm, as opposed to the physical composition of the building, then it is as it appears in the approved estimates of expenditure.

The counsellors who currently work in the Drugs and Alcohol Service are specialist addiction counsellors and there is no current need for further counsellors as it currently meets the demands upon the service.

1215

Insofar as the refurbishment of Bruce's Farm and the expansion of its facilities and services and the aftercare facility, this is presently being planned with input being sought from professionals, and it will take place during the lifetime of this Parliament.

1220

Hon. E J Phillips: I am certainly grateful for the answer to Question 53 in respect of the full refurbishment of Bruce's Farm. I understand the comments in relation to when this will happen in terms of the lifetime of Parliament, but answer this question and help me with this if you can:

The Minister has stated in her public Budget Speech in 2014, some 18 months ago, and I will read from that and quote:

This past year has seen considerable investment into the fabric of Bruce's Farm Rehabilitation Centre. The facilities have already seen a significant transformation which has enhanced the safe and comfortable therapeutic environment to create for persons suffering from various forms of addiction.

1225

In light of 18 months ago a considerable – using her own words – investment, and significant transformation into Bruce's Farm, can the Minister set out why there is a need and what need there is for the... now another significant investment into Bruce's Farm and how to bring up to date those facilities?

1230 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I do not know from that supplementary whether the hon. Gentleman wants us to continue, wants us not to do it, but let me explain to him so that I can put into context why in my Budget Speech of 2012, I had to make reference and why a refurbishment was required at Bruce's Farm.

1235 When I first went to Bruce's Farm, Mr Speaker, there is a communal area on the ground floor of one of the houses and Mr Speaker, the state of that place was more reminiscent of a crack house than a rehab centre. (Interjection by Hon. E J Phillips) Yes, yes, yes. The hon. Member may think but Mr Speaker, we had sofas which were filthy, had springs coming out of them! Walls which were filthy, that place did not have cleaners and had never had a refurbishment since it opened.

1240 Mr Speaker, that is the impression that I got. When I walked into Bruce's Farm, I was shocked and horrified, Mr Speaker, because that is the impression that it gave me. And I thought how on earth can you welcome someone to a drug rehabilitation facility when it looks like this? And then the answer, when I looked at the statistics, was clear: there was no-one there, Mr Speaker.

1245 In the days of the GSD Mr Speaker, we were paying for a rehabilitation facility which was empty, Mr Speaker. At the time, there may have been one person undergoing treatment, at most two. A lot of them never completed the treatment, Mr Speaker, so one of the first things that I had to do was roll up my sleeves and work with the people from Bruce's Farm to make it into the rehabilitation centre that it deserved to be and that the community of Gibraltar deserved it to be.

1250 But there is still work to be done, Mr Speaker, it is a rehab centre that is up the Rock so we need to continue to refurbish. It is exposed to the elements in ways that other places are not. We have undertaken a refurbishment, but more refurbishment needs to be done. And like everything else, Mr Speaker, where you have people coming in and out, there is wear and tear and refurbishment needs to continue.

So that is the answer, Mr Speaker.

1255 Hon. E J Phillips: Well, thank you for the history lesson but I do not think the question has been answered. I put it to the Minister that there have been serious, considerable investment in the fabric of Bruce's Farm, that there was significant transformation to make it an enhanced, safe and comfortable environment.

We now hear from her commitment in the manifesto at page 94:

A GSLP/Liberal Government is therefore committed to a full refurbishment of Bruce's Farm and the expansion of its facilities and services.

1260 So in 18 months – and I will just finish my question before you rise – in 18 months there has been a serious deterioration in the unit, or not, in order for a full refurbishment to take place?

1265 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I do not think that the hon. Gentleman in his eagerness, I think – I do not know whether it is to make his mark on his first appearance in this Parliament – I do not think he has actually understood what I have said, Mr Speaker.

But let me put it into context. I am grateful that he is grateful for the history lesson so maybe, Mr Speaker, let me indulge in another very short history lesson.

1270 In the days of the GSD, (Interjections) Mr Speaker, in the days of the GSD, priority and investment was given to buildings. In our Government we would rather prioritise investing in buildings and in infrastructure which will have a direct impact and which will result in the betterment of people, and particularly those people who are vulnerable in our community.

People who are service users of Bruce's Farm are people who have addiction issues and addiction problems, and if we get Bruce's Farm right, which we have, Mr Speaker, it means that we are helping those people have another chance at life.

1275 If you have a facility that does not attract people, a facility that looks shabby, that looks old, that stinks – because that is what it was, Mr Speaker, it was not dirty; it was filthy – and as a result it was empty. So we have been refurbishing it but refurbishment is a process.
Refurbishment is planned. When you start a refurbishment, and particularly when you start a 1280 refurbishment of a building that is old, has been neglected and is in disrepair, you prioritise with urgent things that need to be refurbished immediately.

But then, we are planning a continuous refurbishment and a refurbishment which will be planned for the lifetime of this Parliament. It is a refurbishment that is necessary at Bruce's Farm. It will not be a refurbishment, to use that word that the GSD so much loves – state of the 1285 art, Mr Speaker. It does not mean that we will be refurbishing the toilets at Bruce's Farm with marble and gold-plated taps. It will be consistent with what is needed and a refurbishment is just that, Mr Speaker. It is a refurbishment.

And, Mr Speaker, what troubles me is that from the tone of the hon. Gentleman it just appears that they appear to be against it, Mr Speaker! This is an investment in a refurbishment which will have a direct and proportionate effect on the service users for whom it is intended to 1290 benefit, to make sure that it is a safe, clean, comfortable environment in order to maximise the therapy and the treatment which those undertaking it so need.

Hon. E J Phillips: I could not agree more with the Hon. Minister in relation to her assessment of whether we all want a full functioning Bruce's Farm that meets the needs of our community.
1295 Absolutely, that goes without saying.

What I would say, though, is that the people are entitled to know what the estimated costs are of a full refurbishment, in her own words. I think people are entitled to know that.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, seven out of ten Gibraltarians have already voted on that commitment in our manifesto, so seven out of ten people agree that we should refurbish 1300 Bruce's Farm in the lifetime of this Parliament. And insofar as figures and insofar as the Budget, Mr Speaker, that will be available at the appropriate time when we look at the figures set out in the Appropriation Bill.

I am not suggesting that the whole expenditure will be made in the first financial year. Indeed 1305 we have been planning this and every year there will be different priorities for refurbishing different parts. Bruce's Farm is not just a building. It is not like just getting a building where you saying 'Oh, the carpet has got wear and tear, let us replace it.' Bruce's Farm is an area up the Rock. There are external areas that we need to look at. Because it is on the Upper Rock it may be that we need to do some stabilisation works. There are a lot of things that we need to do, but 1310 we will plan it in an effective, efficient and particularly cost-effective manner during the next four years.

Hon. E J Phillips: With respect to specialist addiction counsellors, can the Government confirm how many in particular? You refer to counsellors, but my understanding is that there is 1315 only one specialist addiction counsellor available.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, Mr Speaker that is not the case. All the counsellors are specialist addiction counsellors. All of them, as per the first part of my answer – all of them as you can see set out in the approved expenditure estimates. They are all... Not only are they all 1320 approved accredited but we invest in continuous training of them.

And I should add to that, we now do, Mr Speaker.

Q56-57/2016
Drugs Advisory Council –
Number of meetings; composition

1325

Clerk: Question 56, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm whether or not the Drugs Advisory Council has conducted meetings and if so, how many?

1330

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 57.

1335

Clerk: Question 57, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm the current composition of the Drugs Advisory Council?

1340

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the Drugs Advisory Council has met on many occasions, and formally twice.

1345

The Drugs Advisory Council is composed as follows: the Head of Drugs Services and Probation, the Commissioner of Police, Collector of Customs, Director of Education, Director of Public Health from the Gibraltar Health Authority, the Head Pharmacist from the Gibraltar Health Authority, the Head of Dentistry from the Gibraltar Health Authority, the Principal Youth Officer, the Chief Executive of the Care Agency and the Superintendent of the Prison.

1350

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, so that is twice formally in four years?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, twice formally as the Council, but on countless occasions over four years as sub-committees of that Council.

1355

So technically under statute not as the Council, but there have been almost monthly meetings between Social Services and the Police or the Customs and we have in fact travelled to various drugs conferences together, and there have been lots and lots of meetings.

And I know my hon. Friend may not like my history lessons, but I would like to remind him that prior to us coming into Government, the Drugs Advisory Council had not met since 2005.

1360

(Laughter)

Hon. E J Phillips: The reason, Mr Speaker why I ask about composition is because I have seen the recent move for Drugs and Rehabilitation to the Chief Minister's Office, and I believe that was before with Minister Linares, and now it is back to you. Some clarification as to the composition would be welcome.

1365

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the change of Ministerial Portfolios which will be something that hon. Members will see the effects of in coming months, does not mean that in relation to questions some of which are, if I may say so, despite his clear indignation at having been given a history lesson, are historical because they are asking what happened in the past, cannot be answered by the Minister who has had responsibility for these matters until now and has done an excellent job in the time that I have asked her to discharge these responsibilities.

1370

1375 I will be saying a lot more about what attitude I am going to be taking to the issue of drugs and meeting with a large number of people that is being composed at the moment, but I think it is appropriate for the hon. Lady to continue her work in respect of some aspects of this given the close interaction between the fabulous work she also does in the Social Services Department with the excellent team that she has reporting to her.

1380 Because of course this issues creates victims, not just of the individual who is addicted to a particular substance and who therefore engages the Police, the Courts and the Health Authority and sometimes the rehabilitation facilities, but also of course of the families of those individuals who very often engage with social services who are left, if I may use a sort of shorthand, to pick up the pieces. There is going to be a lot of interaction therefore between what the hon. Lady does and what I am going to be doing in relation to this matter and indeed, what it is that the Hon. Minister for Health does in respect of this matter and what the Hon. Minister for Justice 1385 does in this matter.

What I think he needs to be alert to is that there is likely to be a lot more inter-ministerial cooperation in these matters and I intend to bring and inter-ministerial committee, something which for the purposes of the history books, is something I created after the last election – inter-ministerial committees which are very successful – and that will help us in my view, to deal with 1390 these problems. Both the scourge of importation, the sale, addiction and the difficulties for the wider community, particularly the family members, of dealing with an individual who has such an addiction in the family.

Q58/2016
Drugs Advisory Council –
Number of meetings; composition

1395 Clerk: Question 58, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm what arrangements are currently in place for allocating housing for those who have completed drug rehabilitation programmes?

1400 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): In cases where people undergoing a drug rehabilitation programme are experiencing housing difficulties, they are eligible for Government housing. These are referred to the Housing Department as part of their treatment plans before the completion of their treatment.
1405

Hon. E J Phillips: Thank you for the answer to that question. I think that the Hon. Minister will agree with me that one of the difficulties that people have when they go through rehabilitation programmes and need to get back into the community is housing. That is one of the critical issues that affect people who have had addiction problems, not only to drugs and alcohol but 1410 other forms of addictions.

And I would like to put this question, in that do you believe that there should be special arrangements to be put in place for people that can access housing, can access ... which leads on to another question later on, I will not try to step on employment or any aspect of that, but in relation to housing particularly – that we should think about or the Government should think 1415 about special arrangements for those who have gone through a period of rehabilitation?

Because as the hon. Member will no doubt also agree with me, it is extremely difficult when someone has gone through that process, and it takes some time for them to fully recover from their addiction, that that level of support should be afforded for people and their families?

1420 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, I entirely understand and this is why these mechanisms have already been put into place. They are not mechanisms that existed before, but they are mechanisms that we have introduced. As Minister with responsibility for this in the first three years, particular mechanisms and new initiatives were put into place. And as the hon. Member also knows, I am the Minister for Housing so we ensure that the whole process is one that benefits everybody who is vulnerable as much as possible.

1425 Because we have to be careful that we help people who are vulnerable and people who are in need but it also has to be balanced out with everybody else who has a need so it is about helping but not necessarily a priority over and above everybody else and it is about having the matrix that makes sure that it is fair to everybody and that resources are available to assist everybody going forward, but certainly the connection between the Care Agency and the 1430 Housing Department has been established, that was something that actually never existed in any of the other Government Departments before. This is why it flows more seamlessly now.

That is certainly the intention and is something that has already been done so I am sure that the hon. Member will find comfort in this.

1435 Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, Mr Speaker, in the Minister's reply to that, in helping any user of the Bruce's Farm facilities and trying to help them in respect of their housing needs, would that person by becoming an applicant necessarily have to go to the pre-list which still has not been done away with. I am sure that is an ongoing matter on the Minister's desk or would those 1440 people then benefit and have the provision of having to have that qualifying period of a year, having to wait on the pre-list? Does the Minister know or perhaps she wants to look into it and come back to us on that one?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: The pre-list is not a separate distinction as such. We look at the whole matrix and we make sure that when we consider it that it is done in a manner that is fair.
1445 Usually the pre-list is actually not an issue, the issues are different. It does not usually affect people. The pre-list usually is not a bar; the problems in relation to housing are usually other kinds of problems.

1450

Q32/2016
Care Agency nurses –
Further supplementary questions

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, is it possible to go back to Question 32 about the nurses and the issue that arose in relation to the context of the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure where the hon. Lady said the answer was to be found in the estimates. Can we please go back to 1455 that?

The question was, Mr Speaker, by the Hon. Mr Llamas:

Do the nurses working within the Care Agency receive the same salary, pay and conditions as those of equal grade working in St Bernard's Hospital?

I think part of the answer from the hon. Lady was 'refer to the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure.'

I said, 'Well, we have looked at that and the answer does not quite arise from that.'

1460 I have looked at it again and the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure, at the very end, refer to nurse practitioners within the Care Agency and registered general nurses within the GHA, so there is a difference in the nomenclature. But there is a very substantial difference in pay.

1465 Now can the hon. Lady confirm, and I am prepared to give her notice of this question, that we are talking about effectively the same grades despite the fact that they are described in a different way, which is a question that my hon. Friend asked earlier on in the session?

1470 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I do not have the book in front of me so I am loathe to give an answer which may not be the correct one, so I do not know what precise scales he is referring to, Mr Speaker. So I am not in a position to answer it now.

Hon. D A Feetham: And, Mr Speaker, just a further question and here I do have to apologise to the hon. Lady because in relation to this particular type of nurse, I would have thought that it is precisely the same grade because it is called exactly the same under both the GHA and also in relation to the Care Agency. So we are probably talking about the same grade.

1475 But there is the description of 'enrolled nurse' within the Care Agency and also 'enrolled nurse' within the GHA. Now, the difference in pay is £2,000. Can the hon. Lady explain why there is a difference in pay between both nurses? I would doubt whether they are different grades bearing in mind they are called exactly the same in the Estimates Book.

1480 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, that point does not apply to the nurses in the Learning Disability Service because there are no enrolled nurses.

Now, if there is a disparity in different scales in the enrolled nurses, there should not be a disparity and that might be a mistake in the book because there are no enrolled nurses in that service. So it may be a historic line that maybe has not been changed, Mr Speaker.

1485 Hon. D A Feetham: Thank you very much that was very helpful, Mr Speaker, and I or Mr Llamas will ask next time round the question about the difference in pay between registered general nurses and nurse practitioners.

But thank you very much.

TRANSPORT, TRAFFIC AND TECHNICAL SERVICES

Q59/2016

Upper Town escalator – Occasions of unserviceability

1490 Clerk: Question 59, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, if I may just anticipate the Chief Minister's congratulations and thank him for them!

1495 And Mr Speaker, going on to my question, regarding the Upper Town escalator (Interjection and laughter) would the Minister with responsibility for this escalator provide figures for 2015 showing the amount of time it was unserviceable and the reasons for the unserviceability?

1500 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, during the year 2015 the escalators have been inoperative on 72 different occasions. Please note that of these, 58 were due to 'members of the public', mainly young school children, deliberately stopping the escalator. The other stops resulted in callouts to the Schindler maintenance team as the escalators were not operating and the guards could not reset them.

1505 On one occasion a heavy downpour resulted in escalator malfunction and breakdown.

Clerk: Question 60, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1510 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, yes, I should have, before the hon. Lady ... and she is not in this House so perhaps I will ask it later on. She did provide an answer to a question of schedule, a long schedule about allocations in the context of the housing waiting list and I would like to come back to that at some stage during the session.

1515 Hon. T N Hammond: If I may ask one supplementary on Question 59. Could I ask how the Hon. Minister knows that it was school children who stopped the lift from functioning and is that presumably an automatic safety feature of the lift, that it can be stopped with that facility?

1520 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the CCTV cameras I believe have led us to the fact that it is mainly school children who love to play with the buttons. Now what we did was, because there is a safety function, a stop function should anything happen, anyone getting caught or if there is a problem, you can very quickly switch off the escalator for safety reasons. But clearly that leads to abuse and children have kicked it or pressed the button leading it to stop. Once it has stopped, then we have to call in the technicians to restart the system again.

1525 Hon. T N Hammond: And Mr Speaker, may I just ask, in a circumstance where it is stopped for that reason, how long it would take to re-establish the facility?

1530 Hon. P J Balban: Mainly these problems are fixed within the day, so if it is a question that the button has been stopped ... In fact I need to come back to you on that one, I believe that the system, if I am not mistaken, can be restarted on a number of occasions by our security team and then after it has been stopped on a number of occasions – I think it is after the third time – then I think it will need the operators Schindler to come and restart them, because the escalator will assume that it could be something more serious involved, leading to a stoppage of the escalator.

1535

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, bearing in mind that we are talking about quite a lot of occasions in which the escalator is out of service and mostly he has said, it is because of the actions of children with this escalator, has there been any attempt to identify the children concerned and perhaps have a word with them, if it is a repeat of the same children basically playing with the escalator? Because the Hon. Minister will appreciate that of course it then causes quite a lot of inconvenience, particularly to elderly people living in the area.

1540

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, yes the RGP are informed and we catch children causing malfunction to the escalators because they abuse the stop button. The police do actually then go down to the schools and they engage with these minors, and that is as much as the RGP apparently can do in that respect.

1545

We have a protective device, because obviously Government finds that this is also unacceptable that the escalator keeps on breaking down for this reason, and what used to be a stop button which was clearly available, at the reach of most people, had a protective device placed over it, so now it is actually harder. You cannot just kick the button for it to stop working, you have to physically ... I think there is a protective cover that goes over it, so it is even worse than that.

1550

But yes, the police are informed when we catch the culprits and they engage in their own ways.

1555

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, just on that last point, assuming a design change was effected to the safety feature of the lift, was an assessment conducted to ensure that that design change is appropriate and that the lift is still safe to be operated?

1560 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, Schindler is the operator and the manufacturer and they are the persons who service the escalators, and they would then recommend what is done to the escalator. So I am pretty sure that all requirements were looked at in that respect, but I would need to check whether any particular tests were done on the device itself.

1565 Hon. T N Hammond: Was a safety report produced?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I would need to find out whether an actual safety report was produced.

Q60-64/2016

Sustainable traffic, transport and parking developments –
New road to south; safety of cyclists and pedestrians; roundabout; publication of Plan

1570 Clerk: Question 60 the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, according the Strategic Traffic, Transport and Parking Plan, an additional road to the south would be of significant benefit and yet the idea of creating such through New Harbours has only marginal benefit as it would be one way.

1575 The Government manifesto states that the GSLP Liberals will continue to explore ways of opening new arteries to the south, can the Minister with responsibility for Transport, describe what other options may have been examined or are being explored?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

1580 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 61 to 64/2016.

Clerk: Question 61, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1585 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, in their manifesto, the Government say that they will introduce road safety measures to keep cyclists safe. Will the Minister advise what they had in mind when they made this commitment and what measures they are planning to introduce?

Clerk: Question 62, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1590 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, would the Minister with responsibility for Traffic advise whether a decision has been made to make the temporary roundabout on Glacis Road permanent?

1595 Clerk: Question 63, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1600 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, the Strategic Traffic, Transport and Parking Plan states that the pedestrian experience should be made safer and more pleasurable. This statement is endorsed by the Government's manifesto. What measures have been examined or are under review to achieve this objective.

Clerk: Question 64, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1605 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Traffic say when the final version of the Sustainable Traffic, Transport and Parking Plan will be published?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

1610 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the Technical Services Department is currently exploring whether an alternative route to the south can be accommodated in such a way as to maximise usage and cause less disruption and land take in the area of New Harbours. This work is still at a very early stage and further feasibility studies still need to be developed to determine whether a road to the south will indeed provide a good, cost-effective solution.

1615 Mr Speaker, in reply to Question 61, the Government is keen to promote and encourage more cycling activity and has begun to develop a cycle route network as part of the wider STTPP process. In the long term, the aim is to establish a core cycle route extending from the Frontier to the town centre to the southern end of town by the Saluting Battery where possible.

1620 This will be delivered in phases using the old city walls to reduce the interaction between cyclists and general traffic. Our roads are narrow but consideration will be given to shared space routes which will aim to reduce the level of vehicular traffic and speeds and reallocate road space to create a more attractive and safe environment for cyclists.

1625 Mr Speaker, in reply to Question 62, the Glacis Road/Bayside Road roundabout is one of our many initiatives towards improving traffic flow and local access in this particular case. The highways engineers of the Technical Services Department have been collecting data and analysing the traffic patterns in the area since the implementation of the pilot scheme.

We are pleased to state that the data has shown that the roundabout has been beneficial towards improving traffic flow in the area and increasing the number of options available to drivers.

1630 We are planning to make this new roundabout permanent to coincide with the new proposed development in the area of the old Mediterranean Rowing Club which was recently approved by the DPC.

1635 Mr Speaker, in reply to Question 63, I am happy to answer as follows. During the consultation work on the STTPP, comments were received on the need to improve crossing facilities on key pedestrian routes. In response to this, a number of new pedestrian crossing schemes have recently been introduced, including a new pelican crossing on Ragged Staff to provide a safe crossing point for pedestrians wishing to access Grand Parade and the cable car from the Town Centre.

1640 Similarly, a new pedestrian crossing has also been commissioned by the Trafalgar Roundabouts to improve facilities for pedestrians at this busy junction. We will also be using the city walls to provide good connections throughout Gibraltar for both pedestrians and cyclists. Work is currently being undertaken to implement improvements to the city walls by Wellington Front including the reconstruction of the walls. The establishment of a new pedestrian route will form part of a larger scheme to open up the historical city walls as a pedestrian and cycle route.

1645 In addition to these improvements busy pedestrian routes are currently being reviewed to determine whether it will be possible to implement additional footpaths or widen existing ones to enhance pedestrian safety.

1650 Finally, in conclusion Mr Speaker and in reply to Question 64, the Sustainable Traffic, Transport and Parking Plan Report is now nearing completion. We hope to be in a position to be able to publish the final document shortly.

1655 Mr T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can I just confirm that one of the arteries to the south that is being explored, despite the words in the Sustainable Traffic, Transport and Parking Plan, is a route through New Harbours and that you are examining the possibility of that being a two-way route?

1660 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the road to the south route, because of the way the buildings are structured, because of the industrial park, because of Gibdock and because of the land available in that area, it is impossible to have a two-way route along that road. Otherwise that would have perhaps made the road to the south something which would have been reasonable to consider and we would have taken further.

1665 The fact that this road would only provide one-way traffic and depending on the time of day, very much depends on where the flow traffic is going to, so it would need ... I mean if things were to work as they should, traffic is greatest heading north in the mornings and then the reverse happens in the evenings. So you have to have a system where the direction of the road would have to be changed depending on the time of day. So that is not a possibility.

1670 Now should there be any other change within the area, if ever there was a possibility of gaining more ground, then it is something which could be considered. We have had as part of the Plan, feedback from people, especially the users of the industrial park and people who have their commercial businesses there. On a busy day, that is an area which is very congested, to actually have a road going through there is something which is seen as not indicated and would perhaps cause more obstruction.

So in short, the reply to the question is at the moment we cannot consider a two-way road running along that same route.

1675 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, sorry, I may have misheard the original answer because it was lumped in with a lot of other answers, and I thought may be contradictory to what the Minister has just said.

1680 Could he just confirm then that at the moment no present routes are being explored by Technical Services?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the route itself is constantly ... part of the Traffic Plan means that we are constantly reviewing the situation. There was another proposal made which is something which would be very contentious and again is not indicated, but there is another proposal for another road to the south running along a different route, but that is not considered. It is an option that we are looking at, but again it is unlikely.

1685 We are very limited unfortunately because of the geography and Gibraltar's space to be able to provide that second access road which would be ... The Traffic Plan has stated clearly that it would be beneficial to the traffic flow, but unfortunately we do not seem to be able to provide ... It will not be possible yet but we are still exploring, the Technical Services are still looking at other ways of going about it, but it is still in a very early stage.

Hon. T N Hammond: Just one last one on that particular road then, Mr Speaker: so I can confirm that Government continues to explore but that no route has been identified?

1695 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, we are always looking at different options, we are always looking at different ways that we can perhaps look at the same thing from different angles and although both routes have been explored at present, they do not seem to be beneficial – especially the one that we looked at initially which was via the estate. That is not viable.

1700 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, with reference to Question 62, and the temporary roundabout, can I ask the Minister that while I appreciate that it may be developed as part of what I think will be Ocean Spa Plaza, that the roundabout will be put in place prior to the completion of that development, because the road state in that area is pretty poor right now – or at least, if it is not made a permanent roundabout, until the completion of that project, that the roads are fixed in that area because at the moment they do represent something of a hazard?

1705

1710 Hon. P J Balban: Technical Services have actually filled some of the potholes there because as you rightly say, there is an issue there with the road. We do not want to complete a massive resurfacing plan in the area, plus remodelling the new roundabout, because of the development which is pending. There are going to be a lot of HGV vehicles and a lot of vehicles carrying a lot of equipment and materials for the site so it would not be beneficial to complete the roundabout or fix the area permanently until we are through with the building process.

1715 But we will continue monitoring the roundabout itself and we have different junctions. We have actually covered up certain potholes as they appear. But I do agree that at certain times that roundabout can be unsafe and as I say, Technical Services are constantly looking and covering holes when necessary.

1720 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I am very pleased that the Hon. Minister acknowledges that the roundabout as it is at times is unsafe and I would point out that I would consider it to be unsafe, certainly if you are on a motor bike or a bicycle at the moment, because of the depth and number of potholes in that area.

1725 Hon. P J Balban: So the question is?

Hon. T N Hammond: The question would be: would the Minister please advise Technical Services or ask Technical Services if they could re-examine the temporary maintenance that might be conducted and ensure that the roundabout is in a safe condition for use.

1730 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, Technical Services Highways team of inspectors are actually out on the roads daily, picking up these sorts of things. Apart from that remove, users are free to call into the Department and let us know. As I said, roads are fixed and sometimes when it rains, sometimes when heavy vehicles go over it, it can upset the road surface because it is a temporary surface. We need to completely resurface it, but it is not the right time at the moment. But we will keep our eyes on that.

1740 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, therefore one presumes that if the area is going to be traversed by a larger number of heavy goods vehicles because of the works, that close monitoring will continue and that regular maintenance will be conducted to prevent accidents in that area.

1745 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, Technical Services would not allow hazards on our roads. If there is a report or one of my inspectors picks up the fact that there is a pothole, then everything possible will be done to cover the pothole.

Hon. E J Reyes: May I ask, Mr Speaker, for perhaps a little explanation. In his answer just a short while ago he was saying, I think it was in connection with the cyclist route, that they would be constructing on the city walls. Can he amplify on that?

1750 I know that there are refurbishments taking place because he used the terminology 'constructing', I think it needs a bit of clarification for the benefit of this House.

1755 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, yes. The word 'constructing' perhaps is not the best word to use, I suppose. It does not mean that we will be pulling up the walls or breaking the walls in any way to produce a cycle lane. What is happening as part of the refurbishment of the walls, especially the area in question which was Wellington Front which has been refurbished, there will be a cycle lane running along that wall so that it is part of the project for Wellington Front. That will segregate bicycle users from the public and from roads, providing another safer channel for both pedestrians and cyclists in the future.

Q65-66/2016

Parked vehicles on Bayside Road and Waterport Road – Pedestrian crossing safety concerns

1760

Clerk: Question 65, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, on behalf of a constituent who approached me directly to ask this question, I would like to raise their concern at the manner in which vehicles park on Bayside Road and in particular in the vicinity of the crossing between Bayside School and Victoria Stadium, the manner of the parking obscuring the crossing.

1765

Would Government give an undertaking that they will examine this area to see what measures might be taken to improve the situation and enhance safety?

1770

Clerk: Answer the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 66/2016.

1775

Clerk: Question 66, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, in a similar vein and on behalf of the constituent, I would like to highlight their concern at the propensity of certain inconsiderate road users to jump red lights and the negative impact this can have on road, and in particular pedestrian safety.

1780

Does the Government have any plans to introduce measures... (Interjections)

Mr Speaker, there seems to have been some confusion on the numbering of the questions.

On behalf of a constituent, I would like to highlight their concern at the constant double parking on Waterport Road outside Water Gardens and the potential impact of this on road and pedestrian safety. Would the Government give an undertaking that they will examine this area to see what measures might be taken to improve the situation and to enhance the safety?

1785

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, as part of the Sustainable Traffic, Transport and Parking Plan extensive surveys were conducted. These surveys identified a number of key areas that needed improvements. We are looking at the issues in these areas in question in the wider context of the Plan, which are considered policing matters and are exploring possible ways of addressing these problems.

1790

Q67/2016

Road users jumping red lights –
Safety concerns

1795

Clerk: Question 67, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: On behalf of a constituent, I would like to highlight their concerns of the propensity of certain inconsiderate road users to jump red lights and the negative impact this can have on road safety and in particular, pedestrian safety.

1800

Does the Government have any plans to introduce measures to curb this activity as part of their wider manifesto commitment to improve road safety and make the experience of the pedestrian both safer and more pleasurable?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

1805 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, it is a well-known fact that there are road users that jump red lights, a traffic offence which is punishable in law. However, this is strictly a policing matter.

Government has no immediate intention of introducing any specific measures for this particular offence at the moment, apart from proposing a rigorous policing campaign with 1810 Operation Road Watch and the display of posters at pelican crossings to advise motorists of the correct procedure at crossings, which is what is happening at the moment, led by the RGP.

The cost to set up preventative measures would appear to far outweigh the extent of the problem as it exists today. Most road users are responsible people and it is only a small minority that commit these offences to the detriment of the safety of others.

Q68-70/2016
Bus service –
Replacement of vehicles

1815

Clerk: Question 68, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, could the Minister with responsibility for Transport advise if there is any cost associated with the buyback of the red bus fleet as per their contract and if 1820 so, what this cost will be?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will 1825 answer this question together with Questions 69 and 70.

Clerk: Question 69, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Minister with responsibility for Transport assure 1830 this House that they have learned the lessons of history with respect to the purchase of vehicles for public transport and will consult with users of the bus service to ensure that the replacement buses are fit for purpose and do serve the needs of all users?

Clerk: Question 70, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1835

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, having acknowledged that the red buses purchased during their last term are not fit for purpose nor do they serve the needs of many in this community, can the Minister with responsibility for Transport, advise when they will exercise the buy-back clause and commence fleet replacement?

1840

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I can 1845 assure this Parliament that no lessons of history need to be learned, neither has Government stated that these buses are not fit for purpose.

The buses have been in use for over a year and we are happy with the reliable service that they are providing the public. They have ample seating capacity including tip-up seats and extra space for one wheelchair which makes these purpose built vehicles suitable for our requirements.

1850 Furthermore all the buses are fully compliant with all the legal provisions applicable to all public service vehicles throughout Europe. Evidence of this is that the buses are type approved and have been delivered with European Certificates of Conformity. This certificate can only be granted to vehicles that are fully compliant with the required European specifications of technical and safety standards.

1855 Gibraltar is very limited as regards space and its topography does not allow for any or all types of buses. Therefore when we set out to procure new buses we need to consider the challenges faced by finding an aptly sized bus that will fit our narrow streets, which are powerful enough to tackle our steep hills, whilst being able to provide a comfortable and cool environment within.

1860 Therefore choosing an adequate bus for our specific and stringent needs is a difficult task given the very limited choice of vehicle design available on the market. The bus buy-back or repurchase agreement as it is known is still under negotiation. Once the repurchase agreement is concluded, Government will be better placed to assess the situation and come to a decision. The idea of the buy-back clause is to always keep our buses as modern and accessible as possible 1865 in the future.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can I confirm whether or not the Government anticipated having to enact that buy-back clause within a year of the initial purchase of the buses?

1870 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, as part of any diligent procurement of buses and forward thinking as to what we do with buses, we would much rather have a bus that after x amount of years has some value, retains some value where someone will take it back from us in exchange or part exchange for a newer fleet. Obviously as time goes by we could in the future find that engines will develop, they will perhaps become smaller and any of those details will change etc.

1875 So I think it is not something which you anticipate a year after. I think it was anticipated from the on-set something that any diligent sort of Government would think, I would assume.

Hon. T N Hammond: So, Mr Speaker, is the Minister saying they anticipate having to replace the bus fleet or intend to replace the bus fleet on an annual basis?

1880 Hon. P J Balban: No, Mr Speaker that is not what I am saying. I am saying that just like the previous buses lasted, how many years they lasted ... I mean, these buses have a limited lifetime so when that time comes along then we will be in a position to be able to use this buy-back agreement to be able to purchase the next set of buses, whereby the current set of buses will be 1885 used elsewhere, the company will rebuy them and give us some credit for them for future purchases.

Hon. T N Hammond: But, Mr Speaker, the Government have said they are going to effect the buy-back clause within a year of having purchased the buses, so there is slight confusion on my 1890 part here as to what their plans are. Are they intending to replace the buses this year or is this something... ? The blue buses lasted considerably longer than that period. Is that buy-back not going to be enacted for some years to come?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I do not know where the hon. Gentleman has picked up the one 1895 year. These buses are extremely good, these buses are providing extremely good transport for persons, they are very reliable, and there is absolutely nothing wrong with these buses. There is no reason why we would effect a buy-back after one year. That would be an enormous waste of Taxpayers' money to exchange buses on a yearly basis.

1900 I suppose if we did that we would have the best fleet in the whole world. I would presume.
But I do not think it is reasonable to and we have never said we would effect a buy-back within one year.

1905 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I think there is no doubt that the Government has stated that they are intending to enact the buy-back clause, which is the reason for the question. And my question is when, (Interjections) precisely when? During the Election campaign.

1910 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, you need to tell us where the hon. Gentleman has read that or where he has picked that up from because from this side of the House, no one has said that we would effect this buy-back after a year.

1915 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, I will have to go back and see what the Hon. the Chief Minister said.
My recollection is – and indeed it was interpreted as such by a number of associations here in Gibraltar – my recollection is that during the course of the radio questions and answers when we were at the Leisure Centre, both myself and the Hon. the Chief Minister, he actually said that the Government was going to be exercising the buy-back clause within the contract in order to replace them.

1920 Now the implication of that was that they were going to exercise the buy-back clause now, not in three years' time because there is no point in mentioning a buy-back clause (Laughter) in the context of a question that ... 'would the Government agree that they were not fit for purpose etc.?' That is the question that was asked there, it was asked of me and of him. That is where we get it from.

1925 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): There is a clear position in page 36 of the manifesto which is exactly what I said during the course of that programme. I know he did not hear what I said because he was in another room, unable to hear what I said, as I would have been if he had gone first so that we were not 'infected' by each other's answers or might have had an argument about our particular ranking as lawyers as we tend to do when we are on the same stage.
(Laughter)

1930 What I said was, Mr Speaker, was that when we exercise the buy-back the issues that have been of concern would also be issues which would be taken into consideration. There was no question of exercising the buy-back within one year.

And dare I say it, Mr Speaker, I think the buses are already older than a year; they are already about a year and a half old.

1935 Hon. T N Hammond: So, Mr Speaker, if I may then confirm that it is not the intention of Government to exercise the buy-back clause in the next 12 months and that the Chief Minister has acknowledged that there have been public concerns about the use of the buses and their fitness for purpose.

1940 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, if members of the public say things about the bus that are amounting to a concern expressed by an individual and that individual's view about fitness for purpose, of course the Government has as a matter of fact to accept that that happened and that is what the hon. Gentleman has asked us.

1945 Does the Government acknowledge that that happened? Yes, it happened. People expressed that view. That is to ask us about a fact.

But do we share those views? Well, of the numbers of people who use the bus, perhaps four or five wrote.

1950 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I just read him what the hon. parties opposite said in their manifesto and then ask a question? It says this:

When we acquired the new red EURO6 buses that are in circulation, we had a guaranteed buy back.

And then it says:

We will exercise that guaranteed buy back so that we can once again acquire new buses that will be more accessible and useable by the elderly and disabled.

Does that not indicate that what the Government is really saying is 'Well look, we accept that they were not as accessible as we would have liked them and the community would have liked them to have been, both for elderly and also the disabled and we are going to be exercising that guaranteed buy-back'?

1955

Because quite frankly I have seen many, many comments on social media, I think there was some correspondence as well in the written press about this, where the Government were congratulated for basically coming forward and saying, 'We are going to be exercising this buy-back because we recognise there has been a problem and we are going to now get buses that are more accessible for both the elderly and the disabled.' I mean at the very least it is misleading the way that they have put their manifesto commitment, if that was not the point that they were making. But it is certainly interpreted by the community as such.

1960

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think we are better able to interpret what the community feels because the election results demonstrate that we are more in tune with the community than others.

1965

But, Mr Speaker, let us be very clear. We are going to exercise the buy-back. When we exercise the buy-back, (Interjection) the buses that we purchased – not that these are not accessible and useable by the elderly and the disabled; they certainly are and very much so – the ones we purchase will be more accessible and useable by the elderly and disabled. So how can anybody be misled?

1970

We have set out in the manifesto exactly what we are going to do and that is exactly what we are committed to doing and I am confirming will do. Nobody can have been misled, very clear words used in the English language in a way that we will comply with.

1975

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, when does the Government expect to exercise this particular buy-back because I do not want anybody to be misled or rather I want everybody to be clear, listening to these exchanges that what the Government is not doing is, it is not saying we are going to be exercising that buy-back now or during the course of this year, the Government is going to be exercising that buy-back clause in the future. And I am asking the Government, when does the Government envisage it will be exercising that buy-back clause?

1980

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, when it is appropriate to do so. Now when we do, we will make an announcement, it will be clear that we are doing so in keeping with the manifesto commitment, the terms of the buy-back can then be clearly set out for the community to understand and until then, Mr Speaker, this community will have to make the huge sacrifice of enjoying brand new EURO6 buses which are accessible to the elderly and the disabled for no fee whatsoever.

1985

Now, Mr Speaker, I think in most other European and developed western nations, the Government that achieved that with these buses would be congratulated as I know, with their votes, 68% of the people of Gibraltar wanted to. (Banging on desks)

1990

Hon. T N Hammond: Indeed, Mr Speaker, there is no doubt that the introduction of a free bus service, which I believe was conducted by the previous GSD Government, is a fantastic facility.

1995

But it remains a fact that the new red buses are a challenge for certain users. Indeed it was proposed that most of the buses would be refitted to accommodate those users because the steps were too large. I do not believe that refit was completed throughout the fleet and there is no question that the manifesto commitment is not clear, it is ambiguous and all we are asking is for some clarity on that position.

I think the expectation of the electorate was that the buy-back would be exercised quite soon after an election and that appears not to be the case. (Interjections)

Hon. D A Feetham: The Government is not under – (Interjections)

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, all buses actually, or the steps leading to the rear of the buses, were modified, not because they were illegal or did not conform to EU specifications. As I said earlier, all buses had a certificate of conformity so we are not providing a step which is ‘that high’; it has got to be to a certain standard and as set out in legislation.

But to try to assist even further, what we did on all of the buses we made an extra step so if there were two steps they became three. But they did not sell us a bus which was a bus that did not conform to standards; it conformed totally to EU standards.

Now these buses are brand new vehicles, they are extremely accessible, extremely accessible for wheelchairs and tests were carried out at the time to see exactly how accessible they are. Not only do they lean but the ramps deploy and they are extremely accessible in that respect and also for parents with prams. The only problem is when you have one wheelchair and two prams you cannot expect all prams to be open and wheelchairs open too, otherwise everyone would have to get off the bus.

Because as I say we are limited by Gibraltar. If all Gibraltar’s roads were as they are at the bottom between the Frontier and say Market Place, then we could have the longer type buses which are also buses which are available and in that case you would have a lot more ground floor seating and the engines would not be such bulky engines, which would make such a difference, and then you could perhaps put three wheelchairs in and 20 buggies in as well and then everyone would be happy.

But unfortunately in Gibraltar we are limited to our size and our stringent needs. So the old buses, for example – EURO3 I presume they were, or even less than that – were four cylinder engines, they were smaller engines this is why they did not do so well with time. And what happened was those buses would perform well at the bottom part of Gibraltar but these buses have to climb Europa Road. They have to endure hills, so what happened was when that bus is full of passengers or even half full with air conditioning running, it just has not got the torque and the power to be able to push up those hills.

So when we are purchasing buses, we have to weigh up the weight of the bus for our roads, the size of the bus for our roads, the seating capacity for the population, the population’s needs, whether we want to fit one wheelchair in, three wheelchairs in, but we are limited. In an ideal world everything would be at the bottom but that is not possible.

So it is a happy marriage between what is available. These buses are actually made to measure, you cannot buy these buses off the shelf and for this actual size, this size bus has to be produced for you because in other countries they have bigger roads. So it is the best purchase possible, there is driver comfort, passenger comfort, but yes, there have been complaints and you will get that no matter what bus you buy.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I ought to state that nobody is challenging whether or not the buses comply with EU regulation. Of course we expect that to be the case. I am pleased the Hon. Minister has acknowledged that the refits were necessary in order to make the buses fit for purpose because there is no question – (Interjections)

Mr Speaker: We are now beginning to debate the suitability of these buses, which is not the supplementary question at issue. The supplementary question at issue was in respect of clarification of what it was that the GSLP Government meant by the statement which they have 2050 in the manifesto regarding buy-back. That is what the Opposition were asking for, clarification on that.

I think the Chief Minister has given clarification. He has made clear that it is the intention to buy back at some stage. He has not made clear exactly when, but at some stage that will be exercised.

2055 Now I think we are beginning to debate the adequacy of the buses, whether one step or two prams or three prams – that is a separate issue altogether. Let us come back to the question. If the Opposition are not satisfied with the answer that has been given by the Chief Minister, they can try another supplementary by all means for further clarification, but let us not widen the ambit of that particular supplementary.

2060

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, may I at least reply to the statement that was made that because what the hon. Gentleman has said is that we fitted an extra step to go beyond what is necessary, that is not an admission that the bus is not fit for purpose. (Interjection) That is exactly what the hon. Gentleman has said. The buses conform to EU standards and as I said, steps are a certain size. They are not the steps of the Mediterranean Steps. They are the normal size. Now because we have chosen to add an extra step just to help people even further, but is no admission that the buses are not fit for purpose in any way.

2065

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, if I may just help, just for assistance – (Interjection) it is just to assist. The hon. Gentleman should know that when Mr Figueras was asking me questions on transport, and if he goes to Hansard, there will be reams of pages on questions and supplementaries where we explained the reasons why we bought the buses that were bought. That may assist to elucidate the hon. Gentleman on the wider issues that have arisen and the reasons why the Government was convinced then, as it is today, that the buses on our roads today were certainly the best buses for Gibraltar's roads.

2070

2075

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, yes, we will obviously have to agree to disagree, but respecting your position reference the supplementary question, can I ask whether or not the Government is currently in negotiation with the manufacturer or any other party with respect to the buy-back clause?

2080

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I said in my answer, I said that ... and I will go back to restate what I said. I said the bus buy-back, or repurchase agreement as it is known, is still under negotiation. Once the repurchase agreement is concluded, Government will be better placed to assess the situation and come to a decision.

2085

Hon. D A Feetham: But with respect, and we are not trying ... this is not about raising a controversy. It is really trying to understand the Government's position and the answer is confusing, it is certainly confusing me.

2090

What I want to know, having established that the Government at the Election was not giving a commitment that it was going to be immediately, or within a reasonable period of time, basically buying back those buses, but that the buy-back clause is there, what we want to know is: is the Government currently in negotiations with the providers of these buses to basically replace them?

2095

In other words, are they in negotiation now or is it something that might happen in a year's time? Because he is talking about negotiations, about the clause. We are not talking about the clause: we want to know whether the Government is in negotiation to exercise the buy-back now or not. That is the simple point and nothing else.

2100

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the simple reply to answer the hon. Gentleman is basically no, we are not in negotiation with them.

2105 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, option clauses are something that I am well familiar with in my previous guise as a banker. I would find it highly unusual that the option clause should be negotiated at this stage, I would have thought that would have been dried and dusted at the point of purchase of the buses.

2110 If that is not the case I find that strange, but in any case in order to perhaps assist the general public in their interpretation of the manifesto, where you say that you will exercise the buy-back clause, can the Government perhaps explain or clarify under what period can that buy-back clause be exercised, what notice you would have to give and when would that buy-back clause lapse? Thank you, Mr Speaker.

2115 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I too am very familiar with option clauses from my previous practice as a lawyer, and the hon. Gentleman perhaps as a banker is not aware of the fact that some clauses actually continue to be negotiated after contracts have been entered into and that this is very common indeed. In fact in the context that we are referring to, what we are seeking is an improvement of what is already an excellent clause, but for the purposes of always pursuing the best value for the Taxpayer, we never give up in seeking to improve things further.

2120 He has asked very specific questions for which he should give specific notice and he will then have the answers.

2125 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I ask this question arising out of something that the hon. my colleague Mr Clinton has said, but I think it does arise from the question asked by Mr Hammond. Did the buy-back clause exist at the point at which the contract was signed with the providers of these red buses?

2130 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, yes it did.

2135 Hon. D A Feetham: And so what the Government is now trying to do is renegotiate aspects of that buy-back clause, is that what the Government is trying to do? Because that appears to be the indication for something that the hon. Gentleman, the way that the hon. Gentleman answered the question when it was originally asked.

2140 Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, what we are doing is seeking to ensure that we do something called forward planning. In other words, that in terms of the exercise of the clause, where we think there could be some improvements which would assist in fact the Taxpayer and the provider to plan better for the purposes of the exercise of that clause which was negotiated at the time, talking about how that can be worked into the manner in which we exercise those clauses when they fall due and when we believe that they should be exercised in a way that ensures that Gibraltar always has the best buses available.

2145 Mr Speaker, can I move that the House do now ... not adjourn, but (Mr Speaker: Recess.) recess until 3.15 this afternoon.

Mr Speaker: The House will now recess until 3.15 p.m. this afternoon.

The House recessed at 12.50 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

AFTERNOON SESSION: 3.21 p.m. – 7.37 p.m.

Gibraltar, Wednesday, 20th January 2016

Business transacted

Questions for Oral Answer.....	3
Q35/2016 UN Convention on the Rights of the Disabled – Further supplementary questions .....	3
Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.....	4
Q71/2016 Traffic plan – Value-for-money highways enforcement.....	4
Q72-73/2016 New buses – Service in Upper Town.....	6
Q74/2016 New rental bicycle scheme – Cost.....	8
Q75/2016 Green vehicles – Incentives to owners.....	9
Q76/2016 Disabled parking – Fairness of current scheme.....	9
Q77-78/2016 Infectious disease on board a vessel – Notification procedures.....	10
Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.....	11
Q5/2016 Dog park – Cost, design and contract.....	11
Q6/2016 Pensioners’ Water and Electricity Credit – Confirmation of payment.....	13
Q7/2016 Renewable energy and micro-generation – Measures to encourage energy production .....	13
Q8/2016 Waste treatment plant – Award of tender.....	14
Q9/2016 Real-time air quality monitoring – Timeline for introduction .....	15
Q10/2016 Gibdock – Complaints re emissions and noise .....	16
Q11/2016 Alameda Gardens – Bicentenary of opening.....	19

Q12/2016 Patients in Spanish hospitals – Post-op collection by ambulance .....	20
Q13/2016 Xanit Hospital – GHA professionals’ interest .....	21
Q14/2016 Children sponsored patients – Carer entitlement .....	22
Q15/2016 Low income sponsored patients – Availability of added financial aid.....	23
Q16/2016 Complaints against GHA – Number and breakdown .....	24
Q17/2016 Dental service – Added subsidy plans.....	26
Q18/2016 Orthodontic waiting time – Plans to decrease .....	26
Q19-20/2016 PCC appointment system – Appointment details; choice of GP .....	27
Q21/2016 Alzheimer’s and Dementia Care Unit – Completion date.....	29
Q22-31/2016 Dealing with infectious diseases – Death of Filipino seaman from crew of Capetan Vassilis .....	29
The House recessed at 5.28 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 5.50 p.m. .....	40
Procedural.....	40
Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information .....	40
Q79/2016 Festive fireworks – Plans to curb antisocial behaviour.....	40
Q80-81/2016 Small Boats Marina – Expenditure; Completion date and number of berths .	42
Q82/2016 Prison population – Numbers and details of inmates .....	44
Q83/2016 Prison population – Number of re-offenders .....	45
Q84-85/2016 Community sentences – Categories and numbers .....	46
Q86/2016 Probation Service – Current composition.....	47
Q87/2016 Prisoners – Activities available.....	47
Q88-90/2016 HMP Windmill Hill – CPT recommendations; juvenile offenders .....	48
Q91/2016 HMP Windmill Hill – Admission of prison visitors.....	53
Q92/2016 Arrest referral workers – Allocation of additional resources .....	53
Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change .....	56
Q22-31/2016 Dealing with infectious diseases – Further supplementary questions.....	56
Q93-95, 97-98/2016 University of Gibraltar – Enrolment; employees; volunteers; costs; courses .....	58
Q96/2016 University of Gibraltar – Cost of construction .....	66
Q99/2016 A-level subjects – Available exclusively at Bayside or Westside Schools .....	67
Q100/2016 Educational standards and school performance – Assessment .....	69
The House adjourned at 7.37 p.m. .....	69

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament resumed at 3.15 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

Q35/2016

UN Convention on the Rights of the Disabled – Further supplementary questions

5 Clerk: Questions continued. We continue with Question 71/2016, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Mr Speaker: Before we proceed, the Hon. Leader of the Opposition wishes to raise a matter.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, thank you very much.

10 This morning there was an exchange between myself and the hon. Lady in relation to the UN Convention on the Disabled, where I said that the GSD Government had left a draft already prepared at the time that it lost the 2011 election. The hon. Lady said that she had caused investigations to be made and the public servants had told her that they knew nothing about a draft Bill.

15 I have spoken to my former colleague, Jaime Netto. He identified the individuals that form part of the working group that helped him with the drafting of this particular Bill. I am not going to identify all of them – it would not be fair across the floor of the House to identify the public servants concerned – but I did telephone one of those people, Mathew Turnock, who was kind enough to then send me by email a copy of the draft Bill, which I now have. It is actually in draft 20 Gazette form, dated 2011, and it is a complete Bill of 38 pages, which happens to also accord with my recollection of events, which is that I, in my capacity as Minister for Justice, had seen this particular Bill.

Because I have asked him to send me also the emails circulating this particular Bill ... when I have that, I will forward both the draft Bill and also the emails to the hon. Lady identifying the 25 public servants that formed part of the working group and that, therefore, received this draft Bill.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, if I may, in my response to the Question this morning, I can only comment on my 30 position. I asked and the answer that I was given was that. I have never ever seen a draft of the UN Convention prepared by the GSD when they were in office. So, Mr Speaker, it may well be that it existed but if it is not brought to me then I have no idea that it existed and it is not the first time that I have told this Parliament that I have been informed that there was no draft.

But, in any event, Mr Speaker, we move forward. A draft Bill has been prepared. I had never 35 seen a draft before because I was told that there was not one, but anyway, Mr Speaker, one has been drafted and it has already been published as a Command Paper. The consultation period has finalised and we are looking into the responses.

Had it been there, then of course I would have considered it. It is not really a contentious matter. If it existed I would have of course have considered it, but my position is, Mr Speaker, that I asked for it and I was told it was not there. I have never seen it before.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I accept the hon. Lady has not seen it. This goes to the question of the existence of this particular Bill.

As I say, when I receive the emails showing to whom the Bill was circulated in the public servants, then of course that will also be brought to the attention of the hon. Lady because no doubt she will then wish to investigate the matter further, because if the hon. Lady has been elected and, as any reasonable Minister would do, would make enquiries into something like this, as to whether work that the previous administration has undertaken can be used to take a particular project forward and she has been told there is no work, that is a matter of regret, to say the least, when there are public servants who have been involved and are in the email circulating this particular Bill.

That is why I intend to forward that to the hon. Lady.

TRANSPORT, TRAFFIC AND TECHNICAL SERVICES

Q71/2016

Traffic plan –

Value-for-money highways enforcement

Clerk: Question 71/2016, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, in the manifesto, the Government have said that their traffic plan, without adequate enforcement, will not work and that different options for value-for-money enforcement have been considered. Would the Minister with responsibility for traffic provide some details on what options are being considered to provide value-for-money enforcement?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the highways enforcement set-up, as implemented by the previous administration, was not value for money and has been discontinued. In fact, had we continued to roll out the procedure as set out originally by our predecessors we would have had to double the resources at great cost to the Taxpayer.

Parking enforcement has always been part of the greater ambit of responsibilities of the RGP. The officers have now been transferred or are in the process of being transferred to other departments/agencies and the RGP will continue with parking enforcement duties until all factors can be considered or a final decision is taken with regard to the future of parking enforcement in Gibraltar.

We are currently looking at options to provide an efficient and cost-effective form of enforcement in conjunction with the STTPP and this may not exclude the possibility of outsourcing this function.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, could I confirm then that the HEOs, therefore, are in the process of being transferred and may I ask which Departments they are being transferred to?

80 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, most of the HEOs have been transferred to Borders and Coastguard. That is where most have been ... Some will remain as tow truck drivers – a very limited number – and others will be transferred to become transport inspectors.

85 Hon. T N Hammond: May I ask, bearing in mind that the function of the HEOs is still required and you have suggested that it has been taken up now by the RGP, is that likely to mean that there is a less efficient service in terms of, bearing in mind RGP resources ... that the ability to control parking in Gibraltar will be affected detrimentally?

90 Hon. P J Balban: It very much depends on the importance that RGP gives to parking enforcement in Gibraltar. Parking enforcement is something which has always been done by the RGP. It was not until 2011 – I believe it would be in 2011 – that the HEOs were actually set up and then the responsibility for parking became that of the HEOs, although the Police would still find vehicles occasionally.

95 So, in answer to your question, it very much depends on what the RGP's priorities are. It is a policing matter. It has always been a policing matter. Having said that, we are looking at possibilities because if you look at the way the UK works, for example, the UK predominantly outsources parking enforcement duties to outside companies and that provides us a very cost-effective means of providing parking enforcement by way of wardens.

100 So we are also exploring those avenues which would make parking enforcement a much more cost-effective means of enforcement for the taxpayer. That is where we are at the moment.

Hon. T N Hammond: But would the Minister agree that at present there is, effectively, a lessening of resources, because clearly the RGP are not gaining additional resources to provide this service and the HEOs are not there, therefore there is a shortage in the resource available?

110 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I would not agree that there is any lack of resources than expected; it depends on what the policing priorities are. The Police have more resources than they have had in the past with this administration. So it very much depends on what the focus of the RGP is. The RGP will dictate for themselves, will decide where they wish to deploy their resources to and they do so as they consider fit.

115 But parking enforcement is something which, obviously, personally I think is important and fines are being placed on vehicles. But obviously there is room for improvement. This is why we are, as a Government, looking at other strategies and other ways where we can enrich this parking enforcement without providing financial burden on the taxpayer and on the Government, because what was created was a set up that was extremely expensive with a lot of resources and it is something which was not viable or cost effective.

120 Hon. T N Hammond: Could I just obviously confirm with the Minister, if all the HEOs have simply been moved to other Departments, that would mean the financial burden remains on Government regardless of how they are being deployed?

125 Hon. P J Balban: No, because they are filled in vacancies which were there, so it is not as if they have taken jobs in other Departments where they are needed. So we have not had to employ externally so we have ... The Government uses resources the way it feels fit and it moves people to where they feel they have use for them.

130 Hon. T N Hammond: So that has not lessened the financial burden. What you have done is taken the opportunity to fill vacancies in other Departments, which is fair enough, but the financial burden is still there. The overall cost remains the same?

Hon. P J Balban: No, we have used resources more equitably. We have used resources where we feel they are most needed.

135 Hon. D A Feetham: I am having difficulty understanding. Is he saying this: that, yes, you have got these individuals, highways enforcement officers, you have moved them into vacancies in other Departments; therefore you do not have to fill those vacancies, so therefore the burden overall does come down because effectively you are using the highways enforcement officers to fill in those vacancies rather than advertise externally? That is the position?

140 Hon. P J Balban: That is correct.

Hon. T N Hammond: Just one further question, moving slightly. Understanding that you are exploring the possibility of outsourcing the facility, that would obviously involve a tendering process, I presume, or not? Can the Minister confirm, I recognise that the experience in the UK can be that such agencies develop an overzealous attitude equally towards parking; is that something that the Government will just bear in mind in any future legislation or any requirements placed upon such a private company?

150 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, it is either we have too much parking enforcement or not enough parking enforcement. I think we have to strike a happy medium. Yes, of course we have to strike a happy medium. It very much depends how you carry this out, because there are different ways. You could, for example, force or oblige officers to deliver certain amounts of fines a day. I do not think that is particularly a good way of doing it. Or we can use obtuse discretion.

155 When the HEOs started off in 2011, the level of discretion was pretty low. We had complaints from people living, especially in the Laguna area, where they could not even pop in to drop a plate of food at their mum's ... and they get caught. They were very on the ball. I mean they feared the 'red caps', as they used to call them, and they were very proactive in that respect.

160 Towards the latter part of their existence they showed more discretion. With the RGP they showed a lot more discretion. I think it is having to find a happy balance. Parking enforcement means trying to dissuade people from parking illegally, persuading people to be reasonable ... where they park. If you do that and people respect ... then obviously you expect the amount of traffic offences to drop. So it is trying to find a happy medium. We have to be clear what we want; do we want more enforcement or do we want less enforcement?

165

Q72-73/2016
New buses –
Service in Upper Town

Clerk: Question 72/2016, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: According to the Government's manifesto, they were expecting receipt of new buses for the Upper Town towards the end of last year. Can the Minister with responsibility for Transport provide an update on when residents of the Upper Town can expect this service to commence?

170

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

175 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this Question together with 73/2016.

Clerk: Question 73/2016, the Hon. T N Hammond.

180 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, according to the Government's manifesto, they were expecting receipt of new buses for the Upper Town towards the end of last year. Can the Minister with responsibility for Transport tell this House if these were received as anticipated?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

185 The Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, six buses were ordered in early October last year to service the Upper Town and Mount Alvernia routes. Three of these units arrived in Gibraltar on 13th January. It is expected that the three remaining units will be arriving shortly and are intended to be put to operational use as soon as possible.

190

Hon. T N Hammond: So the answer to the first question, presumably, is as soon as possible, yes? Has any work been done in detail on planning out those routes?

195 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the buses will be carrying out the routes which are there at present, so the buses will be doing route number 1, which is the Upper Town – that is what most of them will be busy doing – and the other route is route number 7, which is the Mount Alvernia route. So they will just fit in into the present routes.

200 Hon. T N Hammond: Could I ask a question associated with the bus routes, to whether there is any consideration to have any kind of bus service serving residents of the Upper Rock?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, not at present.

205 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I have to declare an interest because I live in the Upper Rock, but is that something that the Government has received some representations about? Because there are about 20-something families up there, all told, with Devil's Gap area and also further down in the Bruce's Farm area, and obviously a small bus providing a service in that area would be beneficial to those people, particularly some elderly people who also live up there. Is that something that anybody has raised with the hon. Member or the Government?

210

Hon. P J Balban: I would have to check whether that is something that has been brought to the attention as part of the traffic plan surveys. It has not come to my attention. No one has complained to me personally. I do not think the amount of residents up there really – those are 26 houses, as you have just said ... to have a route running up the Rock, especially during the daytime hours, which would mean it going all the way through the Rock because it cannot come the other way during the daytime, I do not think would provide much of a service.

Remember we have to look at our resources and where best to deploy them, and the routes that we have at the moment are working extremely, actually well – within reason. There are things that we want to change but the main routes are fine.

220 To actually provide a new service to the Upper Rock for 26 families – I have not received the feedback in respect of people wishing to have a service up there.

225 Hon. D A Feetham: Of course, remember that these small buses start the service in the Calpe area ... the small service, whereas, for example, you could have a service very early in the morning and a service perhaps late in the afternoon starting at Bruce's Farm, which is just slightly, as the crow flies, above the area where they now start – in the Calpe area.

As I say, Mr Speaker, obviously he is in a better position to know what the demand is and also the additional cost that something like this would entail. Though I personally think that in terms

230 of additional cost there would not be much additional cost, bearing in mind we are talking about a small bus starting, not at Calpe but at the Bruce's Farm area, and also perhaps in the mornings during school time and then in the afternoon.

Hon. P J Balban: Bruce's Farm – I am struggling to find the actual location. I think that Bruce's 235 Farm cannot be accessed during the day via the Calpe area. The bus would have to come all the way round and you would have to start from there and you would not be able to get it going... you can bring it all the way back as well.

I do not feel the demand is there to merit a bus just for that small population. We have had requests, for example, that people wish the bus to go to Her Majesty's Prison. Again, I do not 240 think there is that much ... there is no demand. People, if they visit prisoners, normally go in their car. There is ample parking available.

Remember if we make the bus routes too long, they become inconvenient for users. What we want people to do is to jump on a bus and get to their destination as quickly as possible. The more winding the routes are, the longer they take to complete, the worse and less efficient a 245 bus service becomes.

To extend route number 1 to Bruce's Farm would mean an extra length of route and that might not be effective. I do not think there is debate at the moment for a bus in Upper Town, but if all 26 residents were to come and say, 'We will use it every single day and we do not because it is not available', then obviously we would have to reconsider it. But I do not think the 26 residents will use it much at all.

Q74/2016
New rental bicycle scheme –
Cost

250 Clerk: Question 74/2016, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: During the election the Government announced the introduction of a new scheme for rental bicycles. How much, if anything, has this cost the Taxpayer so far?

255 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar announced recently the launch of a totally new bicycle hire scheme. A small amount of infrastructural works to allow for the installation of the bike stations 260 at the different locations has already been undertaken at a cost to the taxpayer of £14,224. The bicycles and stations have been fully subsidised by a sponsor.

Hon. T N Hammond: Just so I understand, that includes the bicycles themselves or just the stations?
265

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the bicycles and the stations have been fully subsidised by a sponsor, and the software surrounding the scheme.

Q75/2016
Green vehicles –
Incentives to owners

Clerk: Question 75/2016, the Hon. T N Hammond.

270

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, in their manifesto, the Government say that they will try and incentivise the purchase of green vehicles. Could the Minister with responsibility for Traffic offer some examples of the ideas the Government has in order to achieve this?

275

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the Government has already taken steps to incentivise the purchase of green vehicles. At present, any client purchasing a hybrid or electric vehicle will receive a £1,000 cashback upon registration. In addition, any person purchasing a 100% electric vehicle will not pay import duty and Government have also installed electrical charging points at various multi-storey car parks in anticipation of these vehicles.

280

Hybrids currently attract 0% duty if imported by a licenced trader.

285

As cars are developed, Government will continue to find ways to incentivise the purchase of these cars by providing, if necessary, further vehicle charging points should the need arise. Furthermore, the possibility of providing preferential parking for these vehicles may be explored in the future.

290

The Government has also put in place a Vehicle Fleet Replacement Policy Plan for its own vehicles. All new official staff cars that have been procured within the past four years are hybrid, with the exception of the G1 which is 100% electric.

Q76/2016
Disabled parking –
Fairness of current scheme

Clerk: Question 76/2016, the Hon. T N Hammond.

295

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, in their manifesto, the Government say in respect of disabled parking bays that the Sustainable Traffic, Transport and Parking Plan will make the scheme fairer while addressing the needs of this sector. Could the Minister for Transport tell this House what is unfair about the scheme at present?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

300

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the STTPP has found that the concessions being provided by the blue badge scheme are open to misuse. Misuse affects other users. The present blue badge scheme is constantly under review in an attempt to tackle misuse and improve it for all of its users. It has been seen that some blue badge holders use blue bays for extended periods of time, for days and even weeks on end. Others consider these bays as their own allocated parking space.

305

Clearly, this restricts the value of the scheme to regular users and visitors alike. The circulation of counterfeit blue badges is also an unfortunate reality, as is the use of these badges, and hence privilege, by persons who are not entitled to the benefits of a blue badge – for example, family members and friends.

Q77-78/2016

Infectious disease on board a vessel –
Notification procedures

310 Clerk: Question 77/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, what procedures are in place for a vessel to notify the Gibraltar Port Authority of a crew member/passenger confirmed or suspected of suffering from an infectious disease?

315

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this Question together with Question 78/2016.

320

Clerk: Question 78/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Transport and Traffic confirm that the Filipino seaman on the night of the Capitan Vassilis incident had a notice pinned to him saying 'infectious' or 'diseased'?

325

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, Gibraltar Port Authority and the GHA protocols are underpinned by the Quarantine Act 1935. In practice, this requires that a ship must notify the Gibraltar Port Authority of any person on board suffering with a health problem – not only infections. It is mandatory for the ship's master or its agent to alert the Port Authority and file a statutory declaration of health. In particular, the agent acting on behalf of the vessel must gain prior approval from the Gibraltar Port Authority, under the guidance of a doctor and/or the Gibraltar Health Authority, for the disembarkation of any medical cases.

330

335

We can confirm that there was no notice pinned to the Filipino seaman. The Gibraltar Port Authority is carrying out its own internal investigation on this matter which is still ongoing and therefore we are not in a position to divulge any further information at this stage.

340

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: So, Mr Speaker, the Minister cannot confirm or deny whether he is satisfied or not whether procedures had been or had not been adhered to on the night of the incident – is that right?

345

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, that is correct at the moment. Because the investigation is ongoing, we are unable to comment any further at this stage.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can I just ask the Minister whether the results of that investigation –

350

Mr Speaker: Supplementary – ?

Hon. T N Hammond: A supplementary to Marlene's question, yes.

If I may ask whether the results of that investigation or any recommendations coming from it will be made available to the public or at least to the Opposition benches?

355

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I think this is a point of general public importance and I think the conclusions on what it is that this investigation may determine is something that the Government should inform the whole of the community about.

360 I think Gibraltar is a small place. When these things happen word spreads quickly that something is going on and people need to have the confidence that the procedures stand up to scrutiny when they are applied and that they are actually applied; and if they are not then we need to understand, if that is the case, what has happened and why, or that they have been applied and give people the confidence that that is the case.

365 Hon. T N Hammond: Just one final question from me on that particular issue. Is there any idea at the moment on the timeline for the investigation? Are we likely to see it in a month, three months? Or what would the Minister consider a reasonable period for such an investigation?

370 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the investigation will be carried out as soon as possible because it is obviously in the interest of the Government that people are informed what the state of affairs is. There has been a lot of public interest to do with this case, so it is our intention to publish the findings of this investigation as soon as possible. I am not in a position to be able to state whether it is going to be a week, a month or so forth.

HEALTH, THE ENVIRONMENT, ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Q5/2016

Dog park – Cost, design and contract

375 Clerk: We now return to Question 5/2016, and the questioner is the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government please provide details of the cost, designer and contractor of the 'dog park' at the Alameda Gardens?

380 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, before I start, Members will have noticed that I have a cold and quite a bad cough, so if I find I have a coughing fit in the middle of my responses and I have to leave the Chamber, I would be grateful if you would just consider the fact that it is for no reason other than I do not want to contaminate the Chamber with whatever germs are causing it, and I do apologise.

385 Mr Speaker, to answer this Question, the first phase of the dog park has cost £25,005.71. The Government has used its in-house design team and Koala Construction is the contractor.

390 Hon. L F Llamas: Can I ask the Hon. Minister: does Government have any plans to review the design of the park? I have been there to visit the area myself. The first thing you see as you enter the area is a 'No dogs allowed' sign, which is obviously incompatible with what ... I am sure you appreciate that and you have seen it.

395 Also I believe that the fundamental ingredients of a dog park have been overlooked. The fact that it has no fence or gate should be a priority to enable people to take their dogs off the leash and not cause any problems with traffic passing by or to the animals themselves.

400 Additionally, the idea of a dog park is to provide stimulation within the area. Also, the surface needs to be adequate. The surface at the moment is adequate for big dogs, but smaller dogs will probably struggle. I also believe that things like access to potable water should be made available to the users.

Thank you.

405 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, indeed, Mr Speaker, I have no quarrel with any of what has been said, other than the sign should have been removed a long time ago.

These points have not been overlooked. As I said before, this is a first phase and this is an area which I know, from my many years in the Alameda Gardens, was regularly used by dog owners in any case, even though the law actually forbid it.

410 We carried out this first phase, of which in fact the majority of the cost has gone into shoring up the upper path, which was collapsing in some areas, and the retaining wall behind it, which was also dangerous and that had to be done before we could really declare a dog park. Members will have realised that we have not done a formal opening, or anything like that, because the phase is not complete, or rather the dog park is not complete. There was a decision to be made – should we amend the law and allow people who are using the area for dogs 415 anyway to do so within the law, or should we wait until the whole thing is ready – and the decision was taken that, as people were keen to use the area and have done for many years for dogs, that it should be opened. But we do realise that there are still changes and improvements to be made. These are within the plans and certainly it is our intention to rectify this during the course of the coming year.

420

Hon. L F Llamas: Also, I would like to ask. It is demoralising to see how people take such little pride and feel they can allow their dogs to defecate in an area and not pick it up. Does Government have any plans to introduce CCTV to ensure offenders disrespecting a purposely created area for dogs are dealt with?

425

Hon. D A Feetham: Hear, hear, hear.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, indeed I share the hon. Member's concern for those relatively few members of the public who are antisocial and who do not make our job easy. We 430 have introduced CCTV cameras in other parts of Gibraltar with considerable results, although people are always trying to get out of range of the camera, but the plan is that this should be incorporated in this area as well.

Hon. L F Llamas: And finally, the last point I want to raise in regard to the dog park: have any 435 steps been taken to treat the area against caterpillars? The Alameda Gardens is notoriously known for its caterpillars and it is extremely dangerous for dogs: they can cause severe extensive tissue damage with minimum contact.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, indeed, I have great experience of these caterpillars.
440 There is an ongoing programme of treatment for caterpillars using pheromone traps, which will catch the moths while they are active in the summer before they lay their eggs, which then emerge, round about now. This is a real problem. In fact, it is a problem for the gardeners where they are working. One of the biggest problems that the staff used to have, and I am sure still have, is the itchiness when they are digging in areas where caterpillars have been.

445 So the treatment will continue and will be enhanced in this area. I do repeat, though, that dog owners have been happy to take the dogs there in the past. Now they can do it legally. And remember that it is not just the upper path that is open to dogs; it is also the lower, wider area, where we do not have such concerns about the substance on the ground and so on. But yes, the intention is that we will redouble our efforts to reduce the number of caterpillars.

450 Hon. L F Llamas: This is not a question, I just would like the Hon. Minister to take this on board, perhaps: if in the meantime perhaps we could warn owners of the risk of caterpillars in the area by putting up a sign? It is just –

455 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I thought the hon. Member was going to congratulate us for having the first area designated for dogs in Gibraltar, but there we go. I know we are still short of what we need to do.

Mr Speaker, this happens regularly, and every year at around ... Well, a little bit later on, in a few weeks' time, around February time, signs are put up throughout the gardens warning all users to keep them away from caterpillars. As dogs were not allowed, it did not particularly specify dogs, but we will make sure that in that particular area that that reference is made as well – but this is done every year. (Interjection)

460

Q6/2016

Pensioners' Water and Electricity Credit – Confirmation of payment

Clerk: Question 6, the Hon. L F Llamas.

465 Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Government confirm whether the 2015 Pensioners' Water and Electricity Credit has been made?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

470 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, all applications have been processed and the credits entered into the respective accounts.

475 Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Hon. Minister specify when this has occurred? Thank you.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this was done very recently – I believe earlier this month. The problem had been that, with the change of format in the bill which we introduced last year, the programme had to be changed and there was a timeline between the introduction of the new bill and the programme that generated these queries was sorted out. The programmes were delivered and they had to be tested to verify that they worked and the reports had been modified, and that was achieved during the last working week of December, so the first credits were processed on 5th January, and my information is that they are now up to date. That was the reason for the delay.

480

Q7/2016

Renewable energy and micro-generation – Measures to encourage energy production

485 Clerk: Question 7, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, in their manifesto the Government made a commitment to upgrade the electricity grid to be able to accept renewable energy and micro-generation, thereby encouraging the production of energy. Could the Minister advise what measures he had in mind, when formulating policy, to encourage these forms of energy production?

490

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Gibraltar Electricity Authority has a rolling replacement programme for the distribution network, which commenced three years ago.

495

The technical specifications for the replacement take into account the use of renewables and micro-generation if the substations being replaced are in a location where renewables may be installed in the future.

500

In addition to the replacement programme, the Government, as the Member opposite will know, is encouraging private entities to develop renewable initiatives. One such example is the wave-generating project which Government has facilitated by providing the necessary infrastructure already to allow the power that is generated by the wave generator to be evacuated into the network.

505

The GEA last year appointed a renewables engineer to lead on all of this work.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can I ask the Minister: you mentioned substations possibly being a bar to certain areas – is it ultimately the intention that all areas will be able to produce, or all households may be able to produce, energy in some form which may be fed back into the system?

510

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, this is something that we want to encourage. Clearly, there will be some areas which are more suitable for renewables – maybe they have more flat roof space, maybe they are in areas where some other kind of, for example, small wind generators may be provided – but the intention is that this will be done in all substations except those where it is clear, for one reason or another, that renewables are not a possibility. I do not have a likely scenario for that, but obviously the decision would be taken on a case-by-case basis.

515

The emphasis of the Government will be to encourage this kind of renewable generation. We have a target of producing 20% of energy with renewables, keeping to EU targets, and therefore the more we produce the better.

520

Q8/2016
Waste treatment plant –
Award of tender

Clerk: Question 8, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Further to Question 449 of July 2015, where the Minister stated that the award of a tender for the waste treatment plant was imminent, can the Minister update the House as to whether a tender has been awarded; and if not, when we might expect such an announcement?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

525

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the tender for the waste plant is awaiting the final technical and financial assessments. I am hopeful that an announcement will be made in the first quarter of this year.

530

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, when the Hon. Minister talks about a financial assessment, does he mean ways in which the plant will be funded – either by way of further debt or by way of some form of leaseback by the providers of this, the people who are going to be building this particular plant?

535

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker, that is not the consideration that I am referring to. I am referring to the costs per tonne, or whatever, of the dealing of the waste. That is the kind of assessment that I am referring to in this question.

540

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, in relation to the cost of this particular plant, has the Government made a decision in relation to how it is proposing to fund it: either directly through debt, now that the Government is going to be increasing the debt limits; or is it the Government's thinking of some kind of PFI arrangement; or, for example, some kind of hire agreement with the builders of the plant? Perhaps if the Government can give us some indication of its thinking in relation to this.

545

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, a number of different options are proposed to the Government and the Government has not yet taken the decision how to proceed. We will obviously choose the one that is most attractive to the taxpayer.

550

Hon. T N Hammond: Can I just ask whether any of the tenders at this point may include the capability for the waste treatment plant to produce energy to feed back into the grid?

555

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: The requirements of the tender – and I am using memory now – require either that or the production of something that could then later be used for generation, like bio-diesel. So the intention is that we should get some energy out of it in one way or another.

Q9/2016

Real-time air quality monitoring – Timeline for introduction

Clerk: Question 9, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: I recognise before asking this question that the Chief Minister made reference earlier on to timelines in manifestos, so I am to some extent anticipating the response, but I will ask the question anyway because I think it is of interest to the people of Gibraltar.

560

The Government state in their manifesto that real-time air quality monitoring will be introduced in the northern part of Gibraltar. Will the Minister with responsibility for the environment provide a timeline as to when this will be introduced?

565

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I am going to disappoint the Hon. Member because I am not going to give that answer.

570

The introduction of real-time air quality monitoring in the northern part of Gibraltar is linked to the closure of the power stations in the south district and the commencement of operations of the new power station at the North Mole.

575 We have virtually stopped operation of all the power stations in the south district and currently only use the skid-mounted generators in the area. We are continuing to monitor air quality in the south district in order to verify that this has resulted in the expected impact upon nitrogen-dioxide levels. Once we are satisfied of this, we will consider whether the air monitoring station at Witham's Road will be moved to the north district or a new one provided.

580 Hon. T N Hammond: Would there not be greater value in just providing a new one – from an environmental perspective, obviously, not necessarily from a financial perspective?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Not really, Mr Speaker, because there are two in very close proximity: there is one in Witham's Road and there is one in Rosia Road. The one in Witham's Road – and this was done by the previous GSD administration, although I was, in my environmental work, somewhat involved in that – was put there specifically to monitor the emissions from the two south district power stations, the former MOD and the former OESCO plant, and therefore that was the purpose.

585
590 There are more air monitors in Gibraltar, because of its size, than would be required by the EU, so we already provide quite a lot of information, but that is no reason why we should reduce the number. But because the one at Witham's Road was specifically to monitor two power stations which would likely be completely ... well, which will be completely closed down, it probably will become redundant, and if it becomes redundant ... And this is why we are comparing that one with Rosia Road. If it is just mirroring the results of one just a few hundred metres down the road, it would make economical sense to move that onto another location than to keep two monitoring virtually the same area. That is the decision we have to take, and we have not taken it yet.

595

Q10/2016
Gibdock –
Complaints re emissions and noise

Clerk: Question 10, the Hon. T N Hammond.

600 Hon. T N Hammond: Will the Government provide statistics on the number of complaints that have been received about emissions and noise emanating from Gibdock, by year, since 2011?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

605 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the statistics for the number of complaints regarding emissions and noise from Gibdock for the period 2011-15 are in the schedule which I now hand over.

610 I might add, Mr Speaker, that residents of the area are now encouraged to report any concerns to the Environmental Agency and the Department of Environment and Climate Change, so that we can closely monitor activity.

Answer to Question 10 of 2016.

		2011	2012	2013	2014	2015
Nature of Complaint	Emissions	2	19	18	11	7
	Noise	3	5	19	13	8

615 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, we have received a number of complaints and concerns expressed to us by residents in the area about emissions from Gibdock – in particular, actually metal particles that emanate from Gibdock, and we have heard stories from constituents who are coming to us that they apply, for example, a magnet to windowsills and there are a huge number of particles that actually come up from the windowsills onto those magnets. There is obviously concern for the health of children and for themselves who live in the area.

620 One of the things that has been suggested to me, and I do not know whether the Government has explored this, if at all, with the operators of Gibdock, is that in the same way as the smaller dock in Gibdock has a cover, perhaps the larger dock might also have a cover that would then protect residents against those kinds of emissions that must be detrimental to the health of those living in the area. I just wonder whether the Minister would like to comment on that and provide his perspective.

625 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I could actually spend quite a long time talking about this. Clearly, the problem did not start in December 2011 and it is a longer-lasting one. I have figures going back to 2000. The number of complaints in 2006 were higher than they have been over the last two years. In 2009, they were also quite high and that was before Cumberland Terraces were occupied. So now, with Cumberland Terraces, you would expect a higher number and yet the numbers went slightly high ... It was occupied in 2011, so we started to get higher complaints in 2012-13 and then they started to go down again. Why is this?

630 Mr Speaker, I personally, and my Department and the Environmental Agency, take a great deal of interest in this problem. I have spoken to residents. I have met with residents. We now have encouraged the Agency and residents to meet on a regular basis and to meet with Gibdock and we have explored a number of ways of improving the situation.

640 My information is that the covering of the whole of the dock is well-nigh impossible because of the size of some of the ships, but quite recently – I think it was about six months or so, but I stand to be corrected ... What Gibdock is now doing is they have developed a covering like a tent, which goes over the parts which are being occupied and moved around as the ship is being treated, so that even though you are not covering the whole of the dock, the area which is being treated – either blasted or painted – is in fact covered. I am told by the Environmental Agency that there seems to have been a positive response in the sense that the number of incidents has decreased.

645 So we are monitoring the situation and will continue to do so, because it is a problem that I feel has to be monitored and we have to ensure that the residents of the area are as safe as we can ensure. Sadly, it was an area which has now become more populated as a result of Cumberland Terraces, and therefore we have to ensure that we do what we can, but we are regularly in contact with both Gibdock and the residents.

650 Hon. T N Hammond: Could I just ask, as it appears to be recognised that metal particulates may be an issue in this area, is any kind of survey being conducted? Obviously, the air quality monitoring will not pick up on this. Is there any other way we can understand how severe a problem and what kind of particulates are being spread around the area?

655 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the Environmental Agency does monitor, and in fact they actually go on site whenever any reports are received or when their own officers do so. I do not have details of that, but if the hon. Member would write to me I will ask the Environmental Agency to provide me with details and I would be very happy to share them with him.

660

Clerk: Question 11, the Hon. –

Hon. E J Reyes: Sorry, Mr Speaker. I just wanted to ask, on the off-chance that the Minister did have the information with him: in the schedule, the nature of the complaint referring to noise, does the Minister have any information? Were these complaints made because the noise seemed to be emanating, shall we call it after working hours, when people would expect to have a quieter time? Or does he not have a time factor involved in respect of the noise?

665

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I do not have the information. It was not specifically asked for, therefore I did not ask for the time. There are some occasions on which, even though it appears as emissions of noise ... There was one complainant who was complaining about emission of noise. I suspect that most of the complaints about noise will have been after hours, and we are very strict on Gibdock and ask them to keep anything except for absolute emergency activity to during normal hours, but we are ... I am not able to give him a breakdown. Again, I could find it if he specifically asked. I am sure the Agency has that information.

670

675

Hon. E J Reyes: I can well understand ... Just for the sake ... and I know the Minister, it does not matter what side of the House he sits on, he is always interested in monitoring situations. Perhaps he could ask the data collators for future just to note a rough idea of the question of timing, so that in future, as we monitor over the coming months and so on, we are able to see whether they are acceptable levels at least during working time – I am thinking of not only residents, but perhaps educational establishments in the area, and so on, – or whether it is just a night-time pattern, and that is easier to negotiate with the Gibdock area in respect of urgent works, as the Minister was just alluding to.

680

685

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am sure that information is available. I just do not have it here, and I will ask for it.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I might, I have dealt with this matter now on both sides of the House and the pattern has consistently been of noise pollution in the silent hours, but the yard works on a 24-hour cycle in order to hit a deadline to deliver a ship, and very often you find that these complaints come on a particular day when they are doing a particular job. You have got them by year, but it may be that some complaints all came in on the same night because something was happening overnight. I think, frankly, it is unacceptable. We have heavy industrial activity in an area which is now residential, where people are trying to live their lives with their children, and you have to comply with the standards that we require in this community.

690

695

In relation to metal particulates, for example, the hon. Gentleman opposite may not know, or may have forgotten, that at the time I was in opposition I had cause to take up the fact that a mountain of this metal particulate had been created and was in fact becoming a reclamation outside the South Mole. The then Minister with responsibility – Mr Holliday, I think – kindly, as a result of my question, took up the matter with Gibdock. I think that was removed and it has not been allowed to accrue again.

700

Q11/2016
Alameda Gardens –
Bicentenary of opening

Clerk: Question 11, the Hon. R M Clinton.

705

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Heritage please advise what plans the Government has to mark the bicentenary of the opening of the Alameda Gardens in April 1816?

710

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I am answering this question because the gardens are part of my ministerial responsibility in my Environment portfolio.

715

A number of events will mark the bicentenary of the Alameda Gardens. Central to the bicentenary celebration will be the inauguration of a new glasshouse that has been developed specifically to mark the Alameda's bicentenary. This glasshouse will house plants from arid and tropical environments that cannot be displayed outdoors and will form an important educational asset within the Alameda. A flower bed with a special 200th anniversary display is also being developed. The Botanic Gardens run an increasingly successful children's education programme and the theme of the bicentenary is being integrated in the next series of events, which commences in April. A series of commemorative stamps is being prepared. Special guided walks of the gardens will be organised to highlight their history and flora. The Government has been approached to host the International Garden Photographer of the Year display in the Alameda and is currently in negotiations regarding this. The display is held at Kew Gardens on an annual basis and it is possible that Gibraltar could welcome the exhibition to the Alameda on its bicentenary. The management of the Botanic Gardens are also exploring other ideas for the summer period.

720

725

These events will be accompanied by a series of articles in the press, which will summarise the history of the Alameda, the role of plants and botanic gardens, and explain the varied horticultural, educational and biological work that the Gibraltar Botanic Gardens at the Alameda now perform.

730

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I thank the hon. Member for his response and I look forward to the events in due course.

735

Can I ask him a supplementary on the plans to create a trust fund for the Alameda Gardens to ensure their future enjoyment for generations to come?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, not at the moment. This is an idea that I had when I was director, and in fact I am sure we discussed it at the time and it did not happen for a number of reasons, including the fact that there was another Chief Minister in place. It is not something that I have been approached about by the management and it is something that could be a possibility for the future, but at this point in time there are no such plans.

740

Hon. R M Clinton: I thank the Member opposite. I was hoping to address the Minister for Heritage and just to remind him perhaps ... This is not a question, but just to remind him that next year will be the 200th anniversary of this House's foundation stone being laid in April 1817 ... and we should obviously mark that event as well.

745

750

Mr Speaker: May I say that, as Speaker, I am very much aware of the fact that next year we are celebrating the bicentenary of this building. The Clerk will vouch for the fact that I have spoken to him on a number of occasions, and by the middle of the year I shall be putting one or two ideas to the Government as to how we can celebrate the event.

755 It is, I think, pertinent to point out that we shall be hosting a Commonwealth Parliamentary Association conference next year, so that will be a very useful way of marking the occasion.

Another idea that I should mention: if hon. Members will care to look on the table, that mace leaves a lot to be desired. I am seeing whether we can obtain a new one, whether Parliament will vote the necessary funds for a new mace to mark the occasion. I commend my idea to hon. Members.

760

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I might, we have had occasion to have this discussion on a number of occasions and, as I have told you, it is something that, in my view, is entirely appropriate. I think there is an important anniversary coming up, in respect not just of the House but also of the mace, which would give us a great opportunity to have a new mace in place, and I sincerely hope that at least that part of the estimate of expenditure this year will have a fairer wind through this House than I expect some of the others might. (Interjection)

765

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if for any reason the estimates do not cover the cost of the mace, I do know where the original time capsule is buried in this building – we might be able to dig it up and cover the costs! (Laughter)

770

Q12/2016

Patients in Spanish hospitals – Post-op collection by ambulance

Clerk: Question 12, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can the Hon. the Minister for Health explain what is the criteria for deciding whether an ambulance collects a patient from any Spanish hospital after an operation?

775

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, when any patient is discharged from a Spanish hospital, the discharging consultant in Spain will make the recommendations on the form of transport required, based on the patient's condition.

780

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I would just like to bring up the issue that there seems to be a lack of communication here and I would like to make the hon. Member, the Minister for Health, aware that I have received a few reports of people who have been told one minute to the next they are to take a taxi.

785

Firstly, this causes them a lot of uncertainty and confusion; and secondly, on a practical level, they are actually not ready because many patients do not even take cash with them – so they find themselves without having informed family, that they could have informed to pick them up. They find themselves a bit lost and confused; they find themselves not having the cash to pay and having to cross the border on their own. I would like to make the Minister aware of this lack of communication which seems to be resulting in poor care and causing them some anxiety ... and if he could perhaps enhance this level of communication for the good of the patient.

790

795

I would also like to suggest the possibility, seeing as we seem to have a lot of interaction with the hospitals in Spain, of the possibility perhaps of even like a shuttle or a carpool service that would pile some of the patients in and make things swifter, for the experience.

Thank you.

800

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the comments, I will certainly look into any specific cases.

805

Clearly there could be changes in condition, there could be lack of information perhaps in certain cases perhaps when somebody has gone away urgently and they have not been informed of the possibilities that they may have to pay for taxis, or whatever. I will certainly take that up.

The question of a shuttle, this has been considered. It is very difficult because even though there are regular movements it is not predictable, and no given time will be predictable. So even if we have a shuttle there are going to be people who are going to be outside of that time.

810

We are looking at shuttles possibly for some of the more regular appointments like, for example, Clínica Radon in Algeciras, where we do have some kind of control of where they go. But it is not as simple as just providing a shuttle because we are not going to be able to satisfy everybody.

But I am grateful for the comments and I will certainly look into them.

815

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): If I may say so, Mr Speaker, in respect of this matter, this is an issue which has affected my family on a number of occasions – both, or after I have been elected and before I had been elected as Chief Minister; and in respect of which the hon. Gentleman and I are approached, probably as often as the hon. Lady will, by other families. There is an operational disconnect sometimes on this issue.

820

And can I associate myself and the Government with the remarks that she has made about how this can affect individuals who are already ill, and the last thing they need is to be told either that they are going to be moved, when they are then not going to be moved, or that they can move but that transport cannot be provided.

825

This is something which we have to get right, because people do not need that angst once they are already ill and their families are concerned about them. And she can be assured that this is something which will have our greatest consideration.

Q13/2016
Xanit Hospital –
GHA professionals' interest

Clerk: Question 13/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

830

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, do any of the GHA professionals have a commercial, financial or business interest in the new venture between Xanit Hospital in Spain and the GHA, or in Xanit Hospital?

Thank you.

835

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): No, Mr Speaker.

840

Q14/2016
Children sponsored patients –
Carer entitlement

Clerk: Question 14/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, will the Government not consider the current 845 policy whereby children sponsored patients in London, or abroad in general, are only financially entitled to one carer during their stay in London? Was the original question, but I mean in general terms.

Thank you.

Clerk: Answer the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate 850 Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, this is already the case. The improvements to the sponsored patient policy 855 introduced last year – and indeed we had done this on an ad hoc basis before that – allow for two carers to accompany children during the time away from Gibraltar in London, or elsewhere.

In fact, this can sometimes apply to very dependent elderly people and we have on some occasions allowed two carers to accompany them.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I am afraid to inform the hon. Member, the 860 Minister for Health, that this is not the case – at least not in the cases of a couple of parents I have spoken to with children who are gravely ill in London. I can provide him details in confidential later, but I know of one case in particular with a child who is suffering in London at the moment with cancer – a five-year-old child – where only one parent is entitled to care. And 865 of course, as you can imagine, both parents want to and need to be there with the child, and this is causing them huge financial strain.

And not only the financial strain ... because the father... I mean, obviously the mother is normally the one parent who is with the child, but also the emotional and psychological strain for the one parent who is there who cannot even take a ten-minute coffee break, because the 870 child wants to be with that one parent all the time. So it just shows that both parents really need to be there; and it is not the case that both parents are being subsidised.

And considering the fact that thankfully, the statistics must be pretty low of children who are outside Gibraltar, I would think that the added cost of ensuring that two carers are there would be minimal.

875 Thank you.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I would definitely want to know the details because the policy is clear that children under 18 – and depending on conditions we are sometimes flexible even there – are allowed to have both parents as carers, and sometimes it is a parent and 880 another family member or other close relative.

So it is possible, Mr Speaker, that it is not a question that the GHA has not allowed, so to speak, the second carer, but that the employer of one of the carers may not have given them leave to attend. In the case of employees in the public sector, general orders allow for special leave to accompany ... and because both carers would be official escorts, both employees – if 885 they were Government employees – would be given leave to attend.

Some employers may not be so considerate in that respect, but certainly the policy ... and, as I say, even before we formalised this in the policy last year when we revised the allowances, cases like that that came to me were always approved for the very reason that the hon. Member has explained. We have families with young children who are concerned ... a great deal of 890 turmoil and a great deal of stress – and as many people who have come to see me in my office know, they are always given maximum attention and we always try to help as much as possible.

So this must be the exception and if it is not I really want to know the details, because this is something that we have to put right; and we would contact the family concerned and make sure that we put it right.

895

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, thank you for your response; and just to clarify, the second parent is actually unemployed so there is no doubt that it is not an issue about the employer.

But thank you, I will forward you the details.

900

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I might, just in relation to this matter?

These questions were posed over five days ago. If the hon. Lady has this sort of issue brought to her attention again in the future, she must not allow seven days to pass before this issue is dealt with. She should feel free to get in touch with any of us on this side of the House – I know that the hon. Gentleman will be easily accessible to her, as would any other Member, and we would look into it straight away.

905

The question can then be put whenever it is time to put it, and it can be dealt with in this Parliament – or not. But the resolution can come much sooner for the family in question if this is a case where, despite the fact that the policy has been changed some time ago, someone has applied a different policy on the ground.

910

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you, Chief Minister, but as I took it as a matter of policy, I thought it was something to bring up in Parliament; but I am grateful for the humanity in this.

Thank you.

Q15/2016

Low income sponsored patients – Availability of added financial aid

915

Clerk: Question 15/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Would the Government reveal what added financial aid, if any, is available to low-income earners who are sponsored patients?

920

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the system is means-tested so that low-income earners will receive the maximum allowance.

925

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for that and I know about the means-testing – we introduced it a while back; and we were on the other side of the House being told to abolish it. But it seems to have been working and continues to work very well and no-one wants to abolish it now.

930

But what I would like to say is that even the maximum level of means-testing does not appear to be enough for some patients at the bottom end of the economic scale and if they are finding it difficult to survive abroad. So I was simply asking if there was an added framework to help those in more severe need, out of the box of the usual means-testing spectrum.

935 Thank you.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there are a number of things that I think may be relevant here.

940 One of them is that, again, following our review of the policy last year we are now able to arrange in those hospitals – and increasingly we are using hospitals where they have their own in-house accommodation – we actually take over the cost of the accommodation and pay an allowance for food and so on. So that will be an assistance.

945 Also the Gibraltar Community Association, with whom we meet regularly and with which the Sponsored Patient Department meets regularly, also has a fund to assist low earners when they are in difficulty.

But I will add one more thing ... and, again, I regularly attend to patients and families who have particular concerns and in as far as it is possible, my office will always do whatever it can in genuine cases to support them, and help people who are going through these difficult times.

950 So, once again, if there is any particular case that comes to her, or anybody else's, attention that needs special consideration, I would be only too happy to meet with them, see them and see how we can assist.

Q16/2016
Complaints against GHA – Number and breakdown

Clerk: Question 16/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

955 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister of Health provide details of how many complaints have been lodged against the GHA in 2015, giving a breakdown by department, month and resolution, if any? Thank you.

960 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, following Government policy – this was part of our 2011 manifesto – the handling of complaints in relation to the Gibraltar Health Authority were received and dealt with by the Complaints Handling Scheme, the CHS, under the auspices of the Public Services Ombudsman ...
965 we amended the law last year in order to allow this.

The figures available to the CHS are from its start date – 1st April 2015 – and are contained in the schedule I now hand over.

970 I will just explain, Mr Speaker, that the January to March figures were received by the GHA complaints office, so the schedule will give the breakdown from April onwards; but because of the different way in which the information was compiled, the total number of complaints – which is sub-section (i) – includes the first three months, but the breakdown does not include the first three months.

975 It will be possible to obtain that information, but it is going to take a little bit more time. But I think the information given would probably be sufficient for the purposes of this question.

Mr Speaker: May I explain to the hon. Lady that the procedure that I try to follow when a lengthy schedule is involved, is that in order to give her time to study it closely we move on with other questions, but reserve her right to come back at any stage during the course of this 980 meeting with whatever detailed supplementary she has. (Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you.)

 Okay?
 So we will call the next question.

Schedule to Question 16 of 2016

(i) NUMBER OF COMPLAINTS AND ENQUIRIES FOR 2015

Complaints received	177
Enquiries	99

(ii) LIST OF COMPLAINTS AND ENQUIRIES BY DEPARTMENT:

DEPARTMENT	COMPLAINTS/ENQUIRIES	DEPARTMENT	COMPLAINTS/ENQUIRIES
Primary Care Centre	33	Radiology	6
Orthopaedic	29	Maternity Ward	5
Surgical Unit	23	ICU	4
A & E	22	Rainbow Ward	4
Medical Investigations Unit	21	John Mac Ward	4
Ophthalmology	16	Diabetic Clinic	3
Sponsored Patients	8	CEO	3
Gynaecology	7	Paediatrics	2
Dental	7	Spinal Clinic	2
ENT	7	Facilities	2
Dudley Toomey Ward	7	Pain Clinic	2
Records	7	Others	13
Outpatients	6

(iii) LIST OF COMPLAINTS AND ENQUIRIES BY MONTH:

The Complaints Handling Scheme – Health Office has received 164 complaints and 79 enquiries since it opened its doors to the public (1st July 2015 to 31st December 2015). The busiest months were April 2015 (when the office opened) and November 2015. The average number of complaints received per month for 2015 is 18.

Table 1 – GHA Complaints and Enquiries received by month (1st January 15 to 31st December 15)

MONTH	COMPLAINTS	ENQUIRIES	ITEMS TOTAL
January 2015	2	8	10
February 2015	6	5	11
March 2015	5	7	12
April 2015	25	5	30
May 2015	15	4	19
June 2015	21	7	28
July 2015	11	16	27
August 2015	22	14	36
September 2015	13	4	17
October 2015	19	8	27
November 2015	25	11	36
December 2015	13	10	23

Q17/2016
Dental service –
Added subsidy plans

Clerk: Question 17/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

985

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Health provide any information as to whether there are any plans for Government to look into providing added subsidy in the dental service?

990

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

995

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Government's manifesto includes a commitment to provide subsidised dental checks to the elderly and exempt patients.

1000

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Are there no plans to extend this to the average working civilian who might actually forego appointments because they cannot make the payments? And in the end, thinking about the long term, they could actually prove more costly for the GHA because more complex treatments have to be made in the end, and it is a bit of a domino effect costing more in the long term?

But, of course, the main issue here is to facilitate the average person who finds it difficult to make these payments.

1005

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, dental services have never been included in the Health Service and in order to provide a full dental service there would have to be a very detailed study – and the cost implications would be considerable.

1010

Therefore, what we are intending to do at this stage – and this is our commitment for now – is to look at the more vulnerable and to look at those who could greatly benefit. We are starting with looking at the elderly and exempt patients; there may be one or two other categories where such support could be given, but at this point in time it is not the Government's intention to open a dental service for the whole of the community – and that could not be done without a very detailed survey of what the implications would be and what the cost would be to the taxpayer.

Q18/2016
Orthodontic waiting time –
Plans to decrease

1015

Clerk: Question 18/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1020

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the hon. Gentleman, the Minister for Health, provide any information as to whether Government has any plans to decrease the current, and increasing, orthodontic waiting time of about three to five years?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1025 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, at present there is no waiting list for severe, interceptive or urgent orthodontic cases. An international grading system is used to allocate cases into five groups, with group 5 being allocated for immediate start and group 1 not being severe enough to warrant any treatment.

1030 Grade 5 is the one that is dealt with immediately and there is no waiting time for that; grades 2, 3 and 4 are placed on the waiting list.

Mr Speaker, the waiting list is long-standing. When the latest addition to the orthodontic complement commenced in 2008, there were cases waiting from 2001 – and that was seven years at the time and although inroads have been made, the waiting list has not been cleared.

1035 Patients wait approximately 13 weeks for an appointment to see an orthodontist. The GHA management is working with the dental department to develop a strategy to reduce the waiting list further.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, from my research into the statistics the waiting list was increasing – I was not as aware as he was, on the different grades of priority.

I accept his answer, but just to let him know that from what I can see in the statistics the list is actually increasing in terms of waiting time. But I take his response on board.

Thank you.

1045 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the information I have is that the list in 2008 was longer than it is now, but whether it has gone up and down and so on I could not say, as I have not got any more details. But I am grateful that the hon. Member has accepted the explanation, and I do repeat that this is something we are working on with the dental department.

1050 The crucial thing is that the critical cases, the ones that score 5 are dealt with very, very quickly.

Q19-20/2016

PCC appointment system – Appointment details; choice of GP

Clerk: Question 19/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1055 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, with reference to the new PCC appointment system, can the Minister for Health please provide information as to how many appointments per GP are being released, and how patients get to see the GP of their choice in the new system?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1060 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, I will answer this with the next question. My script has the wrong number, I think the next question is 20, so I will answer this with Question 20. (Interjection)

Not 109, obviously a typing error, and I was for a moment worried that I had skipped about 100 questions!

1065

Clerk: Question 20/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1070 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Health reveal how many patients are being turned away daily, unable to make an appointment; and what guarantee he can give the house that this will not be a regular problem and, if so, what is the contingency?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1075 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the appointments for on-the-day appointments are released in the morning at 8.15 a.m. Last prescription appointments are booked over a three-month cycle.

Review appointments are booked as per GP requests in accordance to the medical need, that is, the doctor needs to see the patient at a predetermined time in the future.

1080 Advance bookings are released every day to cover a 48-hour period, with these being released at 12 midday.

Critical illness slots are booked after triage by the nurses so that there is never a problem with extremely ill patients having access to their GP. This is also a new system and part of the new appointments review.

1085 It will be more difficult to see the more popular doctors than it will be to see the less popular ones. If I may add, that if you happen to have one of the more popular doctors then he is not always going to be available, particularly if they may be sick or on leave.

1090 No patients are being turned away at the counter. Patients who have turned up to the counter and have waited have all been given appointments; and in fact at the counter we have still had appointments left by the time the queue has dissipated. Some patients, however, have walked away and given their tickets back, the reason being that they do not want to wait, that there was no longer any appointments with their chosen doctor, or that the doctor they want to see is not working that day. This is clearly patient choice and not operational deficiency.

1095 To improve matters further we are increasing the number of on-the-day appointments as from 1st February. It is of course possible that patients at the counter may, on a given date, exceed the availability for that day. This has not so far occurred since we changed the system on 4th January.

1100 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I am wondering whether the hon. Gentleman has read some of the comments on social media of people recounting their stories of how they do feel like they have been turned away. Other people who have run out of credit on their mobile phones whilst waiting for almost hours – if not almost 50 minutes to an hour – to speak to somebody.

1105 Does the hon. Gentleman think that this is a good system that he has put in place? That it is a better system than the one that we had before? Is he satisfied that he has improved the communication and the overall care in the Primary Care Centre with this new system?

1110 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the question of the phone is not related to the question that I have answered – so, I was answering in relation to people turning up and being turned away at the queue. So I was not replying to that one.

1115 As to the system, yes, I think it is a better system. The comments on social media were at the height, clearly, in the week after we changed the system ... and this is always going to happen with a new system, when people turn up and may not understand it. I think that things have settled down a little bit – and the staff there are working very hard in order to accommodate the changes.

I think, clearly, it is a new system and we need to give it a little bit of time to settle. With the increase in on-the-day appointments on 1st February I think it will settle further, and at least it did prevent the long queues on the first of the month at 6 a.m.; and this did not happen this month on 4th January, and I was there to see for myself.

1120 So I think we are improving. It is always going to be difficult because there will be days when there are so many people who want to see a doctor – and there may be doctors who are themselves sick; so it is always going to be difficult.

1125 What I would ask the hon. Member opposite is to give this a little bit of time and let's talk again in a month or two and see whether things have settled. If not, we would be very happy to review it again because this is something that we want to improve for the benefit of service users.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you, I appreciate that.

1130 Just to recap, the hon. Member believes that a month or two is more or less the correct time for him to decipher whether this system is a workable system? Is that more or less the amount of time – or six months, or a year?

What are we looking at until we feel that this system is a working system that is viable for our community?

1135 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I do not know, we are developing it all as we go along and we are try different things ... well we... the management there, are working very hard on this and it is all the professionals working together.

1140 It might mean that it needs a little bit more time; but I would be very uncomfortable if, two months after a new system, the system is clearly not working. So I would like to think that I believe that the system is better. I believe it needs more time and might need a bit of tweaking, so I think we should review it in a couple of months' time and see how we are going.

Q21/2016

Alzheimer's and Dementia Care Unit – Completion date

Clerk: Question 21/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1145 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Health state when the Government expects to complete the Alzheimer's and Dementia Care Unit?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1150 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, works are virtually completed. Furniture and equipment are being ordered and the workforce contracts are about to be awarded.

The Unit should open during the first half of this year.

Q22-31/2016

Dealing with infectious diseases – Death of Filipino seaman from crew of Capetan Vassilis

Clerk: Question 22/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1155

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: This question has already been advertised in the press but I will repeat it anyway.

1160 Can the Minister for Health confirm of what causes did the Filipino national who had been part of the crew of the Capetan Vassilis die of on the way to St Bernard's Hospital on Sunday, 10th January?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1165 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 23 to 31.

Clerk: Question 23/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1170 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, what measures has the GHA got in place for the transportation of biological substances to protect from contamination and does the GHA comply with IATA regulations?

Clerk: Question 24/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1175 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, at what point, if any, was Ebola written off as a potential threat on examining the Filipino seaman?

Clerk: Question 25/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan .Nahon.

1180 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister of Health demonstrate or explain the GHA's Infectious Disease Protocol, and whether this was activated partially or in its entirety in connection with the case of the Filipino seaman, explaining to what level they were put in place?

1185 Clerk: Question 26/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1190 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, is it correct to say that the infectious disease room kitted out during the Ebola crisis has been decommissioned to give way for a bigger rehab gymnasium, and that therefore there is currently no dedicated infectious disease reception facility at St Bernard's with self-contained air-conditioning, special brackish water collection facilities, pressurised air-locks for entry and exit, and staff decontamination areas; and not just for Ebola but for any infectious disease requiring quarantine?

Clerk: Question 27/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1195 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, could the Minister for Health confirm whether the hospital staff that received short training on Ebola during the global crisis, felt confident on the night to handle the crisis of the Filipino seaman, or whether instead they hesitated to treat him?

1200 Clerk: Question 28/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, could the Minister for Health confirm whether there has been a programme of continuous training for emergency staff dealing with infectious diseases since the Ebola crisis first hit a couple of years ago?

1205 Clerk: Question 29/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1210 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Health confirm whether there was cross contamination among the ambulance crew through blood which the Filipino seaman had vomited, or other fluids?

Clerk: Question 30/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1215 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Health confirm whether, in the case of the Filipino seaman, it is true or not true that the ambulance crew were walking in and out of A&E without being properly decontaminated first?

Clerk: Question 31/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1220 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Health confirm whether, in the case of the Filipino seaman, it is true that the duty anaesthetist who was on duty and lives in Spain actually checked himself into a hotel away from his family awaiting results of the dead seaman?

1225 Clerk: Answer the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, before I answer, I think I should clarify a point. The hon. Member has alluded to a public statement made which in part answered her first question in this series.

1230 I think I should say two points. The press release was issued on Thursday 14th. I got verbal communication over the phone in the evening of the Wednesday from the Director of Public Health, Doctor Kumar, as soon as he had verbal confirmation as well that the illness was in fact Malaria and not one of the viral hemorrhagic fevers, which some people were suggesting it could have been.

1235 I informed the Chief Minister immediately and we decided almost immediately too that it was in the public interest – because of the concerns that were going round in some sectors of the community, not least in those who may have had contact with this unfortunate young Filipino seaman – that we should allay fears by stating that it was Malaria and therefore nothing major to worry about.

1240 It is also likely – and my exact recollection may fail me now – but I suspect that I had not yet seen the questions, because they would have been handed in on the Wednesday and I may not have seen them until 24 hours later. So, if our statement has caused offence I am sorry that that is the case, but in any case we felt justified in issuing this in the public interest.

1245 So, Mr Speaker, to answer the question: test results indicate that this was from Malaria, possibly Cerebral Malaria. The GHA has longstanding protocols to harvest, transport and store potentially hazardous samples within its premises. The majority of pathology staff have received training in the safe handling and packaging of hazardous substances, and only these staff deal with hazardous samples. The GHA contracts with couriers who have due compliance in transporting hazardous substances. The airline carrying the sample is aware of the nature of the sample and transports it in compliance with IATA regulations.

1250 Ebola was written-off almost immediately, as soon as the ship's itinerary was known. The World Health Organisation has declared all the affected countries of West Africa free from Ebola virus disease. In any case, Ebola has not been reported in any of the points visited by the ship in the preceding two months.

1255 Given that the diagnosis was unknown and could have been a serious infectious disease, the GHA applied a staged infectious disease prevention protocol. First responders were required to apply all precautions as if they were dealing with a serious infectious disease. As and when the diagnosis became clear, an appropriate protocol would be applied in subsequent stages. In the 1260 case of the seaman, as a diagnosis was never established before he sadly passed away, the full protocol remained operational throughout, until his death.

All staff directly involved in the case of the seaman continued to be monitored as if he had had a serious infectious disease in line with PHE – that is Public Health England – protocol until the results became available late on Thursday evening. I believe that should read ‘Wednesday evening’. I may be wrong. I think it was 14th, so that probably was Thursday.

1265 St Bernard’s Hospital has several isolation rooms to manage infectious cases. These are found in John Ward, Victoria Ward and in the Critical Care Unit. In the specific case of Ebola or the Ebola crisis, a decision was taken to set up a separate temporary facility converting one of the rehabilitation gyms into a dedicated isolation unit for the management of potential Ebola cases. This is the first time ever that such a facility has existed in St Bernard’s hospital.

1270 Once the WHO declared the Ebola crisis over, the decision to dismantle the temporary facility was taken and reverted to its former use. However, additionally the Government and GHA has invested in the following: a Patient Isolator Pod which assists with the safe transport and transfer of infectious cases. A Trexlor Isolator Tent: this is a mobile unit which can be used in any of the isolation rooms providing additional protection, negative pressure and appropriate filtration systems. And conversion of one of the ambulances into a so-called ‘Dirty Ambulance’ for the safe use of infectious cases and indeed radiation contamination.

1275 The GHA requires all its staff to receive basic training on personal protection, universal precautions and safe infection prevention procedures. These, if applied correctly, should protect against Ebola and other infectious diseases. Some staff also had additional training specific to Ebola. In addition, two infection control practitioners were physically present to train, guide and supervise staff in the Emergency Department. Given this level of training and support, staff should be confident.

1280 Ebola specific training was delivered to 527 personnel. These included all ambulance staff; all Critical Care Unit staff and over 80% of emergency room staff. In addition ad hoc training was delivered throughout the year at different locations including A&E. This specific training supplements the mandatory training received by GHA staff covering personal protection, universal precautions and safe inspection practice which protects against Ebola and other diseases. Such training will continue.

1290 Mr Speaker, hesitation in dealing with dangerous cases is natural, even for the most seasoned professional and may have been the case in some individuals. More credit to all who fulfilled the professional duties as effectively as ever.

All ambulance personnel wore full protective equipment, as recommended by Public Health England, and therefore contamination of the personnel did not occur. Given that it was Malaria in the end, it could not have occurred either. Ambulance staff did not enter A&E.

1295 Finally, Mr Speaker, I am not aware of where the anaesthetist spent the night.

1300 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I would like to thank the hon. Gentleman, Minister Cortes, for explaining the timeline of the results versus my question and I thank him for the details and I understand. Of course it is a matter of public interest and in the interests of the population, this goes above any parliamentary procedure. I understand that.

A couple of questions: firstly, how could the Minister say that Ebola was written off when the results were not in? It would have been anybody’s game. I believe that, in general terms, it is a fortunate coincidence that it was Malaria and not Ebola. It could have been anything until we knew the results.

1305 The next thing I would like to draw him to a couple of articles from the World Health Organisation that state – one on 13th and one on the 15th January – stating that Ebola is still prevalent and they are still in the fight against Ebola. There is a new case in Sierra Leone and a briefing by the UN General Assembly on Ebola stating very clearly that Ebola has not yet been eradicated. Of course I am sure I do not need to remind him that, Gibraltar being a maritime 1310 motorway junction where we have seamen and all sorts of individuals, organisations coming in from the North Sea, from the South Sea, from the Mediterranean, Bay of Biscay, all over the world. We would have to step up any and all protocols in order to ensure that this junction of ours is kept very much as healthy and decontaminated as possible.

The issue of the anaesthetist: I would just like to draw to him, for his own –

1315

Mr Speaker: I think it is best that we deal with one issue at a time. Let the Minister answer about the first one: Ebola. Then we will go on.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Yes. Thank you.

1320

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, protocols were stepped up when the Ebola crisis was announced and there were numerous meetings held, multidisciplinary, between the Port Department, the Police, the Fire Services, the GHA and the protocol was introduced. The Viral Hemorrhagic Fever Policy of the GHA was widely circulated and part of the training that I have explained to 527 members of related services who did deal with this and with increased awareness and that continues.

1325

Ebola was written off by the Director of Public Health – I might say in his professional capacity, not by me as a politician – because the ship had not called in any country where Ebola was present, regardless of whether the epidemic was considered a dangerous one at the level that the WHO considered at the time. So it was not possible to pick up Ebola in the countries or in the ports where this ship had called and that is when it was written-off.

1330

Nevertheless, the protocols followed – as I have explained in my answer – were those for a serious infectious disease. So the risk was not taken by the Director of Public Health, even though he reassured me – and in conversation, again, with the Chief Minister who was kept informed, I reassured him – that the indication was that Ebola was not possible. Nevertheless, the precautions were taken. In the end the results clearly showed – I would not say that it was a ‘fortunate coincidence’, because a person did lose his life as a result of the Malaria. But in effect there were tests carried out for: Dengue, Rift Valley Fever, Ebola, Lassa Fever, Congo Fever, Leptospirosis, all sorts of other diseases. I am pleased to say all of those proved negative and only Malaria proved positive. So precautions were taken. As I have explained we have a number of isolation rooms within the hospital and also these pods and tents which will create the negative pressure which will isolate the patient.

1335

1340

At this point of time, I think I have covered most of the points that the hon. Lady has raised in this part of her supplementaries.

1345

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you.

Can I just make it very clear that when I say ‘fortunate coincidence’... I know, I just want to put it on record that there is nothing fortunate about a loss of life. I was talking in terms of an epidemic for a population versus one individual; speaking very coldly in terms of statistics.

1350

When you say that part of deciphering whether it was Ebola or not, because of where the boat was coming from and so and so forth, I respectfully want to tell the Minister for Health that I think that is a weak argument, because we cannot be on top of where vessels are coming from and judging them in that way.

The fact is that there is a very serious epidemic which is still prevalent in the world and we do not know where boats are coming from; who came off what boat and who goes on. We have to have a protocol in general terms that applies across the board.

1355

The issue about the anaesthetist going into quarantine, I would just –

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Would the hon. Member give way on that particular point.

1360

Mr Speaker: Yes, but for an answer.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I just want to say, the point was made specifically about this ship and we did know where the ship had been on this particular occasion. That is why it was written off.

1365

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): I fear we are straying in a direction which has nothing to do with this case. But can I just clarify that – one of the Ministers for the Port can come in and say this – one of the things that is essential in the maritime world is that you know exactly where a ship has been.

1370

The hon. Lady can go onto the Lloyd's website, for example – not the Lloyd's Register Energy website; she does not need to concern herself with that issue today. The Lloyd's List website, for example: that will tell her exactly where that vessel has been; at what times it has left the dock, etc. Part of the control that the Maritime Authority applies is to know exactly where a vessel has been and different determinations – aside from the issue that she is raising – about how a ship is dealt with. It can come, not just from a place where there might be an infectious disease, it can come from a place which is subject to sanctions for a particular issue. We often have to deal – for example before the arrangements with Iran were entered into – with vessels that might be coming from Iran and whether the oil that they have is subject to sanctions or not.

1375

Can I just ask her to focus her question in relation to the issue of why Ebola was discovered without concerning herself that one does not know where a ship comes from? One knows exactly where a ship comes from. Whether or not that is a good enough reason to discard Ebola or not, I think is the issue that she is getting at. But the simple fact: whether or not you know and whether you have to check, that is in a moment the person at the VTS at the Port can show her the history of where that vessel has been for years.

1380

1385

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you.

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, may I just also add...?

1390

Mr Speaker: Further information?

Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Yes, on the same point. There is an established protocol which is run by the Port Department, the VTS operators. Ships do not just turn up, they have to report many, many hours before – normally 24 hours – before they come into British Gibraltar territorial waters. They need to report and answer a whole series of questions about where they have come from, what they are having, what they are doing, the purpose of the visit. So it is not a sporadic, they just happen to turn up; it is pre-programmed and everyone here knows exactly who, what and why. So there is not just an open sea out there – if that helps.

1395

1400

Hon. Ms M D Hasan Nahon: Thank you, but we might know the whereabouts of the ship, but we do not know the whereabouts of the individuals. You do not know when that seaman jumped on the boat; where he was. Nobody is microchipped, you know. So (Interjection) it is not about the ship. The ship does not carry the disease. It is the individual, as well as where the trajectory of that vessel. It can be one or the other.

1405

Anyway, the other point I wanted to make, given that I am putting to the hon. Member the situation or the reports that I have about the anaesthetist checking himself into quarantine, and from what I understand some of the GHA staff who did not go to work the next day and were also allegedly recommended to stay home. If you have a clinical expert who voluntarily decides to stay home for fear of contamination, is that enough of a reason for the hon. Gentleman to review protocols, taking the cue of a clinical expert who might be scared himself on the events of the evening and the way that things went? Perhaps he was not satisfied with the way that things were developing and the way that protocols were adhered to.

1410

1415 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I will give way to the Hon. Mr Costa who wants to make a comment, no doubt due to his previous responsibilities for the port.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, is he answering the question?

1420 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, on the point –

Mr Speaker: My understanding is he is providing additional information regarding the movement of ships and the crews.

1425 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the Hon. the Chief Minister and my hon. colleague have already explained to the House that when a ship arrives in port, the port knows exactly at which port that ship has called from; where it has sailed and its trajectory and even its intended trajectory. For those reasons, therefore, the port knows exactly where the ship has been and where it will go.

1430 The hon. Lady then stood up to say that whereas that may well be the case, the information that the port will have does not detail the information on individual crew members, but that is also incorrect. The port will have at its disposal and immediately on request a crew manifest. That crew manifest will detail absolutely everything: where the crew member has been; at which point of port did they embark, etc. It will also contain very detailed medical history, precisely for 1435 the reason that, if there is a reason to come on shore because they need medical attention, the first thing that the port operator will ask for is that crew's medical history.

So she can rest assured that in respect of procedures to validate where a person has been, the port staff will have all of that information available to it immediately.

1440 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: So the hon. Gentleman says that all the medical history is available, yet they say that he did not have a chain saying diseased or infected when he was and eventually died. So where are we at with that?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I think that comment, that question is in relation to an earlier 1445 question when we were informed that it is a subject of an investigation. So I am not going to go against what has already been agreed: that we have to await the investigation.

If I may answer the other points, I think I have to repeat that the Director of Public Health professionally reassured me that because of the itinerary Ebola was not the disease in consideration, but nevertheless did activate the full serious infectious diseases protocol. So even 1450 though he discarded Ebola, there are other diseases it could have been.

Fortunately, clearly I take the point that there was not any disrespectful implication earlier, but fortunately it was Malaria – again I use it in the same context that the hon. Lady used the expression earlier – but the protocols were in place.

Regarding the decision of one particular clinician to not go home, if in fact he did not: I have 1455 not got direct information, but no doubt I will ask him next time I bump into him in the corridor – that is his own personal choice. He may have felt that he was exposed or he had been exposed. He may have been worried for whatever reason. I do not know what other things might have caused him to spend the night in a hotel. But there are clinical (Laughter) experts in all sorts of different disciplines. There we go. (Interjection) Yes. I think it has been a good meeting so far today.

The clinical expertise is different. The person we are talking about is an anaesthetist. We were following advice from the Director of Public Health. I would not for one moment place myself in an operation under Dr Vijay Kumar as an anaesthetist. So I am not sure whether we can compare the clinical knowledge of each other. But, as I say, that was personal choice.

1465 In the end, I think clearly lessons have to be learned in every kind of situation like this. Clearly there has been at least one multi-disciplinary meeting within the GHA to look at the case in detail and to see what lessons can be learned. If we need to change anything we certainly will and I would be very happy to advise the Member opposite as and when we do that.

1470 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I?

Mr Speaker: Yes.

1475 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, bearing in mind the answer that Mr Costa gave a few moments ago, which is that the port is provided with a list of crew members: where they have come from, where they have come on board, etc. and also with any medical condition that those crew members may have – and by ‘medical condition’ I mean whether they are ill or not ill, because of course it is very difficult to diagnose, on transit, medical conditions. Were the 1480 authorities here in Gibraltar told that there was a seaman on board this particular ship that was gravely ill before this particular seaman was effectively placed quayside and left there for the authorities, to be picked up?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, this is not a GHA matter. This is the issue which is the subject of the investigation that we referred to earlier in respect of which I think there was 1485 broad agreement that this is something that has to be determined; all of the facts here have to be determined: what really happened versus what people are saying happened, etc. in order to ensure that the events of that day are properly scrutinised and understood.

As the hon. Gentleman said in respect of the GHA, but also in respect of the Port Authority and all instruments of Government, that any lessons which have to be learned are learned. But I 1490 think the hon. Gentleman will accept that until that investigation is complete, it would be remiss of us to make comment and assert anything as fact without having a very clear final view of what happened.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, I accept that this is obviously a difficult area. The 1495 Government is conducting an investigation. I accept nobody would wish to prejudice the investigation. I also accept that one would wish to get to the bottom of the facts and have all the facts available and then draw appropriate conclusions. But of course we are also, on this side of the House, charged obviously in our own way with investigating these matters to ensure that the Government and the authorities – because this is really not political. The Chief Minister does not 1500 himself make a decision as to whether a seaman is allowed onto the dock or is not allowed onto the dock, but nonetheless it is our job also to test the resilience of any protocols.

Therefore, we are well within our rights to ask questions about what exactly happened in relation to the facts, so that we can then test that as against the protocols that have been outlined by the hon. Member. Because I am certainly quite concerned about – and I know that 1505 he must be very concerned – about how a seaman with a disease which has been undiagnosed basically is left quayside whilst the ship leaves.

I have also been told that the first on the scene were the Gibraltar Fire and Rescue Service ambulance who then took the view, they did not want to get involved because they were not equipped to deal with contagious diseases and they left, and then the GHA ambulance ...

1510 Now, the Hon. the Chief Minister said, when we were talking about this earlier on when the Minister for Transport was dealing with this, he said that the conclusions of the report will be made available. Now, in the light of what I have said: that we have got a job here to test the resilience of those protocols as against the facts, can I invite the Chief Minister – and then I will sit down and we will not ask further questions in relation to this – not to limit the disclosure of 1515 the report to just simply the conclusions but also the entirety of the report, so that we can actually see the facts and what actually happened here. And if there are any questions that need to be asked of the Government in relation to those protocols and the application, that we can come to this House and ask them in the future?

1520 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has asserted things as fact; the things that he has heard. Well, look, Mr Speaker, I have heard all of those things and others. Some of the things I have heard conflict with some of those things and other things I have heard corroborate those things. So that is why it is hugely important in a situation such as this, where there could have been a danger to the population of Gibraltar, we determine exactly what happened and whether there was ever any danger; whether protocols were properly followed.
1525 Now in doing that there is an investigation. The hon. Gentleman has said, 'We have a duty to investigate.' Well, look, your investigation has resulted in an enquiry, which has resulted in an answer, which has told you that there is an investigation. Allow that investigation to come to a conclusion.

1530 There is already a commitment on the part of the Government to put into the public domain the conclusions of that investigation. I am not going to say more at this stage. I think that should be satisfactory for everybody in our community, because if the conclusions of the investigations say that there were no issue in respect of the protocols, then that is it. If it says that there is an issue, then we will have to look into what those issues are. But I am committed to publishing whatever those conclusions may be because I believe that this is an issue of general public 1535 importance.

As the hon. Gentleman has said, this is not an issue that reflects on the Government. I must tell him, I was as concerned as he would have been when I received the telephone call informing me of what had happened. We are all in this community in it together, in particular if something happens which creates the opportunity for an infectious disease to spread in our community.

1540 I will tell him this much. It is not in the nature of the great men who make up the Gibraltar Fire and Rescue Service to simply turn their backs on someone. My understanding of that aspect of this is that they did not simply turn tail and leave the matter for others to deal with simply because they were unable to deal with it. The good men ... I do not add women because there are no women in the Gibraltar Fire and Rescue Service. That is perhaps an issue for another day.
1545 The good men of the Gibraltar Fire and Rescue Service did not simply turn tail and run when they think a situation is too difficult for them.

But we must let this investigation run its course. It is too important for this issue to become a political football. So I would urge the hon. Gentleman simply to leave it there and with our commitment that we will publish the conclusions of that investigation.

1550

Hon D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, no one has suggested that the Fire and Rescue Service 'turned tail and ran', which is a phrase that the Hon. the Chief Minister has used. What I said was that we have been told... The information that we have – and certainly the Hon. the Chief Minister appears to be confirming they were the first on the scene – that they took the view 1555 when they were first on the scene that they were not equipped to deal with a potentially contagious disease. It was then that the GHA ambulance came along. So I just want to clarify that nobody on this side of the House is suggesting that this was inappropriately dealt with by the Gibraltar Fire and Rescue Service or that they turned tail and that they ran.

1560 Mr Speaker, I will sit back, not ask any further questions. I know that my friend, Mr Hammond, has one further question. I will look at the conclusions in relation to this investigation and then we will take a position in relation to whether we seek the disclosure from the Government of the rest of the report. But I emphasise, nobody is trying to make politics in relation to this, but no one can say that in a democratic system of Government and opposition, particularly in a small community like this one, that the opposition is not entitled to scrutinise 1565 how an event of this nature is tested as against the protocols that are in place to ensure that the people of Gibraltar are kept safe and these things are being dealt with appropriately, whatever the Chief Minister may say about the appropriateness of how it is being dealt with on this particular occasion or on any occasions.

1570 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I do sometimes think that the hon. Gentleman and I could even argue about the desirability of winning a lottery, because it appears that he is able to pick a quarrel with me on just any subject.

I am not saying or confirming that the GFRS were the first to attend. I am confirming absolutely nothing because there is an investigation ongoing. I have told him that I have heard the same things that he has heard and others in terms of what is out there and happening. But there is an investigation now ongoing and I want to leave it entirely at that.

1580 Neither has anybody suggested for one moment that an opposition in a democratic system such as ours is not able to stand up and ask questions. They have and there is absolutely no difficulty with that. Neither can anybody for one moment suggest that the Government in a democratic system such as ours, especially one recently re-elected, is not able to get up and say we are carrying out an investigation; please let us reach the conclusions which we will make public. I think what one's role in a democracy is has little to do with the very serious issue that we are trying to ensure we get to the bottom of in respect of what happened on that day in respect of this ill-fated individual and the potential consequences for Gibraltar. That is what we have to be concentrating on and he can ask as many questions as he likes because this is the Parliament and he can get up and the person who will determine what questions he can ask is not me; it is the Speaker.

1590 Mr Speaker: The Hon. Trevor Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Just with respect to the scope of the investigation that is underway – and we very much look forward to seeing the conclusions of that investigation – can I ask the Minister for Health whether the activity within the GHA on the night forms part of that investigation or whether a separate investigation is being conducted to provide the assurance.

1595 I recognise you gave a very complete narrative of the events of the night, but of course there is a lot of lesson-learning to be done, still no doubt, as is always the case with unusual events such as these, and I cannot believe it will be possible for that lesson-learning to have been concluded mere days after the event, particularly appreciating the timelines involved with most investigations. Will that element of this incident be separately investigated and will similar conclusions be made available?

1600 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there may be some overlap but the main investigation that my Hon. Friend, Minister Balban, is referring to relates to the arrival of this unfortunate gentleman to Gibraltar and that immediate effect, and what led to that.

1605 The GHA is carrying out its own internal review of the case. There have been, as I have said – I am not sure how many but – a number of meetings and I am expecting a report and recommendations very very soon, but as I say there could well be overlap and there could be things that that investigation will enquire of the GHA's internal investigations. But at the moment GHA is carrying out its own assessment of how things were done and whether we can learn and make any further improvements to the way we do it.

1610 I must insist that – I said it earlier but I must not forget – the work done by the actual professionals in very difficult circumstances is something worthy of praise, but I have said so. (Banging on desks)

1615 Mr Speaker: I think this is an appropriate moment to have a recess of about 20 minutes. When we return we will be dealing with Questions to the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

1620 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I would like to question the Hon. the Minister for Health further in relation to this and I will just give the Hon. the Minister heads up in relation to this.

1625 You see, when the Hon. the Chief Minister stood up and he has talked about an investigation and, 'We need to allow that investigation to run its course and we will publish conclusions,' the Hon. the Minister is indicating that that investigation is about how the patient is left quayside ... or somebody with a serious disease comes to Gibraltar, is left quayside and then the ship leaves.

1630 I am interested, that is very important, but I am also interested in testing how the protocols are then handled from there, all the way to this individual getting to the Accident & Emergency, which is equally as important in the context of how you protect individuals; because if this person had been suffering from Ebola – God forbid! – or some other contagious disease, that is equally as important or even more important.

1635 I mean how one tested against ... and that is what I am interested in and that is what my questions were directed ... the questions that I was going to ask about the Fire and Rescue Service, the questions about the GHA Ambulance and how that interacts with Accident & Emergency. Because with something like this – where you have not diagnosed that person with, or you have not ruled out that he has got a contagious disease – an individual like this being brought to Accident & Emergency, potentially when he goes into Accident & Emergency, there leads to a contagion of that area of the Hospital and potentially, through the air conditioning unit, others. So that is what really concerns me.

1640 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, obviously let's finish this, with your leave, before we recess.

1645 I think I have given a fairly lengthy account of what happened and of the protocols that are in place. There are protocols; there are policies to deal with these infectious diseases. I have actually mentioned them before in Parliament when I was questioned about Ebola some time ago, by the Hon. Isobel Ellul-Hammond. So there are protocols in place and those protocols can be shared – there is absolutely no problem at all.

As I say, the GHA is looking at how it carried out its procedures. The big questions, I think, are the ones we have already referred to. But the protocols are in place and I think I have given a very full answer.

1650 Hon. D A Feetham: But, Mr Speaker, it is not about...the protocols may be in place and nobody disputes that there are protocols that have been in place; what I am trying to test is, in this particular instance, where we did not know until later – indeed, we did not know until Wednesday or Thursday of last week – that this gentleman was suffering from malaria, which as I understand is non-contagious, rather than a contagious disease – how the protocols were applied in this particular case; because it strikes me that if we have a situation ... That is why I did not want to go ... I was agreeing, not going to go into the facts if there was an investigation.

1655 But how does one effectively take a patient that one does not know is contagious to the Accident & Emergency; he is put into the Accident & Emergency in circumstances where it could lead to contagious – (Interjection) Well, that is what I want to ask the Hon. Minister about and I was prepared not to ask it because there was going to be an investigation.

1665 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman needs to listen to the answers that are given. The Hon. the Minister for Health gave a very full answer about exactly what happened and the hon. Gentleman needs to look at what was said or at least remember what was said by the Hon. Minister.

1670 He said, given that the diagnosis was unknown and could have been a serious infectious disease, the GHA applied a staged infectious disease prevention protocol. First respondents were required to apply all precautions as if they were dealing with a serious infectious disease. As and when the diagnosis became clear, an appropriate protocol will be applied in subsequent stages. Mr Speaker, as there was no diagnosis ever established, a full protocol remained operational throughout until his death. That is what the hon. Gentleman has explained in detail.

So we are concerned that issues may not have been dealt with appropriately in respect of the arrival of this seaman to the dockside in Gibraltar and that is the subject of an investigation. We 1675 are happy that the GHA dealt with that instance, which could manifest in different ways ... I mean an aircraft could bring somebody with an infectious disease or somebody could turn up through the frontier with an infectious disease, right, and what do you do then? You deal with it in the way the GHA properly and rightly dealt with it this time. That is not the subject of the investigation because we are satisfied that that went well.

1680 The issue is that the fellow with the infection arrived in Gibraltar and was brought into Gibraltar and there something may or may not – and that is why it is an investigation – have fallen down, but not at the GHA level!

Hon. D A Feetham: Where was this individual, if he was not taken to Accident & Emergency, which is the information that I have been provided with, and there was a discussion between 1685 Dr Kumar and people at the Accident & Emergency about whether the patient would be treated at the Accident & Emergency or not?

Where was this particular patient treated if he was not in the Accident & Emergency?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, preparations were being made to receive the patient in one 1690 area of St Bernard's Hospital. The patient was receiving treatment in the ambulance and passed away in the ambulance; he did not actually get into Accident & Emergency.

Mr Speaker: We will now recess for 20 minutes.

The House recessed at 5.28 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 5.50 p.m.

Procedural

Clerk: Question 79/2016, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1695

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Excuse me, Mr Speaker, there were a couple of supplementaries that I wanted to add before the break. (Mr Speaker: Go ahead.) I know the Minister for Health is not here –

1700 Mr Speaker: Go ahead. Oh, he is not here?

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: – and neither is the Chief Minister, who may have been able to take them.

1705 Mr Speaker: We will come back to them.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Okay, thank you.

EDUCATION AND JUSTICE & INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION

Q79/2016

Festive fireworks – Plans to curb antisocial behaviour

Clerk: Question 79/2016, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1710

1715 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, numerous constituents have approached me recently raising concerns at the incessant use of fireworks, and in particular those designed solely for the purpose of producing a loud noise, causing distress to many people and indeed their pets. Does the Government intend to put any plans in place to curb this unsociable behaviour and ensure the majority can enjoy a more peaceful festive season next year?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

1720 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the Government supports the celebration of the festive season, particularly during prominent festive events, such as New Year, and believes that this should be done in a safe, legal and responsible way.

1725 H.M. Customs, the Royal Gibraltar Police and the Gibraltar Fire and Rescue Service jointly produced this year a pamphlet shortly before New Year's Eve, making it clear that fireworks are prohibited imports except under licence granted by the Collector of Customs, warning about the possible criminal offences concerning the use and possession of fireworks in certain circumstances, and setting out the Firework Code for the safe handling and use of fireworks. This was part of a campaign which also included interviews with local media and social media releases.

1730 Flyers have been circulated by the GFRS fire prevention officers, with posters warning of the dangers. Her Majesty's Customs have been enforcing the relevant legislation at the land frontier and this has been augmented by RGP officers who have this year specifically trained a search dog to detect fireworks grade powder. This has served as a valuable deterrent in respect of illegal importation of fireworks.

1735 The Government proposes to continue in future years to promote similar campaigns which are designed to prevent illegal importations and to promote, as I have said, the safe, legal and responsible use of fireworks.

1740 Hon. T N Hammond: If I may ask the Minister: was anyone actually caught or prosecuted with respect to the use of these illegal fireworks over the festive season; and also, bearing in mind the use of these fireworks really commenced from the beginning of December, if not late November, does he not think it is a bit late to issue pamphlets just before the New Year?

1745 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I am not sure exactly the date when the pamphlet and the campaign started, but certainly fireworks are generally imported and used in the run up, and in fact on New Year's Eve itself, so it is important to have the campaign at the time.

1750 If the issue is whether the campaign should have started earlier then that is something that certainly we would be prepared to consider and discuss with Customs, Gibraltar Fire & Rescue Service and the Royal Gibraltar Police, if it is felt that not enough time was given in respect of the campaign.

1755 The hon. Member asked whether anybody was arrested or cautioned in respect of possession of fireworks; I am told that three juveniles were arrested for being in possession of a prohibited import – that is a firework – during the Christmas period; and there was also one report of a firework being thrown into a residence and one report of a fire at a bin store which may have been caused by a firework, although this could not be confirmed.

1760 As I have said, the enforcement measures that have been taken, particularly this year, has in our view led to a significant, not just deterrent but reduction in the amount of illegal fireworks. I certainly remember not so many years ago prevalence of what we commonly call 'cohete de caña' those... certainly – I have not seen any this year, and it is certainly felt by the law enforcement agencies that celebrations have been more responsible and quieter than in the previous year. I also remember the sort of celebrations that we used to see on Christmas Eve and on New Year's Eve, and certainly this year has been quieter than in previous years.

1765 So our view is that what is needed is a continuation of the promotion of safe, legal and responsible use of fireworks through campaigns and we are certainly happy to look at the campaign that was mounted this year, and if we can improve and expand on the campaign, that is certainly what we should be doing for next year.

1770 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I, in general, welcome the comments of the Minister. I do have to disagree with him that it was perhaps a quieter year. I think obviously that is a subjective opinion, but it was also the opinion of those who expressed the concerns to me, and the period over which the nuisances were being caused seems to be extended. As Christmas seems to be extended every year earlier and earlier, it seemed to be the case with the fireworks.

1775 So, as I say, I am content with the response and will ask no further questions, but I would just like to make the point that it is certainly subjective as to whether it was a quieter year or not.

1780 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, it is not subjective; it is the view that has been expressed to me by the relevant authorities, particularly in relation to the illegal importation and the substantial drop in that, and the type of fireworks that were imported illegally, which are no longer, and which were fireworks solely designed to cause noise – the example that I gave.

So it is not my subjective evaluation of me sitting at home and wondering whether a bang is going off now in half an hour. This is the assessment that has been made by the authorities.

1785 Hon. T N Hammond: But the assessment is still subjective, unless there is some evidence to support otherwise, surely.

Q80-81/2016
Small Boats Marina –
Expenditure; Completion date and number of berths

Clerk: Question 80/2016, the Hon. E J Reyes.

1790 Hon. E J Reyes: Can Government provide a breakdown with details of all expenditure already incurred in respect of the Small Boats Marina, together with details of any other pending and/or estimated forthcoming expenditure?

Clerk: Answer the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

1795 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I will answer this Question together with Question 81/2016.

Clerk: Question 81/2016, the Hon. E J Reyes.

1800 Hon. E J Reyes: Can Government state the estimated completion date for the Small Boats Marina, together with details of the number of berths which will become available?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

1805

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the estimated completion date for the Small Boats Marina is 14th February 2016.

1810 There will be 700 berths available, as has previously been announced. The cost of the Small Boats Marina to 18th January 2016, is £23,510,003.32 with an estimated balance to complete of £772,733.09. This will result in an estimated total project cost of £24,282,736.41.

1815 Hon. T N Hammond: If I may, Mr Speaker, could I just ask: does the Government know at this point what the rental – I do not know what the correct phrase is for an individual berth... (A Member: Berthing fees.) berthing fees will be set at, at this time?

1820 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, berthing fees are the subject of final discussions within the Government, and the Port Authority in particular. What we intend to do is to publish regulations, in fact by way of amendment to the Small Boats Mooring Regulations, which will set out the rules in relation to the marina which set out the initial fees that will be payable and which will set out also the allocation criteria for the Small Boats Marina so there is absolutely no doubt by anyone; in fact it will be set out in law and therefore it will be clear to everyone exactly what has been done and why.

1825 Hon. E J Reyes: I welcome that, Mr Speaker, and this whole set of measures will be taken, including, what the Minister has just said, the allocation criteria and so on – will that be handled by the Port department or any particular authority set out for the purpose? I do not know if the Minister has any additional information in that respect?

1830 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the rules, in fact – and I have a draft with me – is the Small Vessels (Mooring Controls) Rules 1990, so all this will be done by way of amendment to those rules and the schedules, including the constitution of the new club and the allocation process with. All of this clearly comes under the Port and primarily under the responsibility of the Captain of the Port.

1835 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may ask the Minister: has any thought gone into how Government might recover the £24 million spent on the small boats marina? Is there any thinking, for example, to reclaim land where the existing small boats marina is and receive a premium for that land?

1840 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I am not sure what existing small boats marina the hon. Member is referring to, but if he is suggesting – and particularly if he is saying it is the GSD's view – that another small boats marina somewhere else should be removed and reclaimed so that those boats are removed from their current moorings, that is certainly not the current Government's thinking.

1845 So I am not sure where the hon. Member is coming from, but in terms of the cost this is clearly a very substantial investment that the Government has made into this area; and it is an investment that the Government has made because it was felt there was a dire need for a facility such as this. It was, in fact, included as one of ... I would not say one of the main issues, but certainly a prominent manifesto commitment of our 2011 manifesto – the building of a marina for 700 small boats.

1850 That was because for some time we have felt that there has been a loss of access to the sea and many people who wanted to have the facility of being able to enjoy a small vessel for fishing and recreational facilities have not been able to do that. For many, many years there has been a constraint in people being able to buy a small boat and being able to enjoy pleasurable activities such as this; and we felt that we could make very very significant inroads into that by building a facility of 700 berths.

1860 It is in fact quite a facility – as hon. Members hopefully will be able to enjoy very soon, once it is inaugurated in the next month or so. I would not call it a marvel of engineering work, but it is a very, very substantial marine engineering project, of the like that I am told has not been seen even in the Mediterranean for many many years. So this is a very very significant project.

1865 The project involves two aspects, essentially: one is the wharf side with close to 600 metres of additional wharfing space or wharfage available to the Captain of the Port; and then the interior – the marina side. So the cost is not entirely attributed to the marina itself but the infrastructure that has gone to creating a vertical wharf which is going to be enjoyed. And all that...There is the public highway and the wharf, and all that will be available to the Port department for commercial activity; and we envisage that that is going to be something which is going to generate some income, particularly for the Port, in the category primarily of the super yacht marina and the big yacht category.

1870 As far as the marina itself, it is, as I have explained, an investment in recreational activities for the local population. There will be, clearly, an obligation for the marina to be run on the basis that it does not cost the Government any additional amounts. So there will be, clearly, berthing fees which will be collected, which must be sufficient to cover not just the maintenance costs but also the replacement costs of the marina in something... I forget the time, but something like 1875 20 or 25 years. That is the extent of the guarantee of the pontoons by the manufacturer and the marina area and, therefore, there will have to be a kitty built up over time so that that replacement cost is not something that would be met by the Government but would build up over time through the berthing fees that will be collected on an annual basis by the association, by the club that runs the marina.

1880 Certainly from the Port's point of view – and I would be happy to defer to my colleagues who have responsibilities for the Port – it is considered that this is going to be a very valuable facility for the Port. It is the first time that Gibraltar has created additional commercial wharfage of this nature, particularly around 600 metres of commercial wharfage which is going to be a very significant addition to what the Port has to offer and which will be exploited from a commercial point of view. 1885

Hon. R M Clinton: From the Hon. Minister's answer, I take it then that there is no intention whatsoever to move the boat owners in the existing Coaling Island facility and that facility will continue as is and that land is not going to be reclaimed? 1890

Hon. G H Licudi: Absolutely, Mr Speaker. There has never been any indication or intention... I am very surprised by the suggestion implicit in the question, almost urging the Government to take that back and reclaim the land in order to recover the cost of this marina. There has never ever been any intention of taking that back. That is subject to, I understand, licence and lease arrangements with the club and they will continue to be able to enjoy those facilities for as long as they want to. 1895

Q82/2016
Prison population –
Numbers and details of inmates

Clerk: Question 82/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm the current prison population by number, age, gender, type of offence and length of custodial sentence? 1900

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the information requested by the hon. Member is set out in a schedule that I now hand to him.

1905

Schedule to Q82/2016

The current prison population as at Thursday 14th January 2016 are as follows:

TOTAL POPULATION: 58

BREAKDOWN BY AGE

UNDER 18: 0
18-20: 4
21-25: 9
26-50: 35
51 AND OVER: 10

BREAKDOWN BY GENDER

MALE: 55
FEMALE: 3

BREAKDOWN BY TYPE OF OFFENCE

VIOLENCE RELATED: 9
SEXUAL OFFENCES: 4
THEFT/ROBBERY/BURGLARY: 14
DRUG RELATED: 21
FRAUD: 4
TOBACCO RELATED: 1
IMMIGRATION: 5

BREAKDOWN BY LENGTH OF SENTENCE

LESS THAN 6 MONTHS: 7
6 MONTHS TO 1 YEAR: 5
OVER 1 YEAR TO 4 YEARS: 13
OVER 4 YEARS TO 8 YEARS: 14
OVER 8 YEARS TO 15 YEARS: 1
OVER 15 YEARS TO LIFE: 3
REMANDS: 11
DETENTION AND REMOVAL ORDERS: 4

Q83/2016
Prison population –
Number of re-offenders

Clerk: Question 83/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Justice confirm what percentage of the current prison population are re-offenders?

1910

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I was not sure whether the hon. Member, by 're-offenders' intended to mean simply previous convictions or having previously served a custodial sentence and, not being sure, I am going to give him both figures.

1915

Mr Speaker, on 14th January 2016, 58% of inmates had previous convictions and 46% had previously served a custodial sentence.

1920

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the response.

Does the Minister for Justice agree with me that the key to reducing re-offending is getting people back into work and gainful employment?

1925

Hon. G H Licudi: That certainly is one of the key elements of a rehabilitation system and being able to do that. I understand that there is another question in the Order Paper which will be answered by my colleague, Minister Bossano, which deals specifically with that issue and the efforts that are being made for assistance to people who have been in prison once they leave prison.

Q84-85/2016

Community sentences – Categories and numbers

1930

Clerk: Question 84/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Justice confirm what each category of community sentences are currently available to the Courts and what plans the Government have to widen the scope of community sentences available?

1935

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I will answer this Question together with Question 85/2016.

1940

Clerk: Question 85/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Justice confirm the number of individuals currently engaged in community sentences by reference to each category of community sentence?

1945

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

1950

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the categories of community sentences available to the Courts are set out in sections 521 and 522 of the Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act. Ordinarily I would leave the first part of the Question to that, but because I am feeling in a very helpful mood, I will set out some further information about what the sections contain.

1955

Mr Speaker, section 521 deals with the community orders in respect of adults convicted of an offence punishable with imprisonment for which a sentence is not fixed by law. The court may make an order imposing one or more of the following requirements: (a) an unpaid work requirement, (b) an activity requirement, (c) a programme requirement, (d) a prohibited activity requirement, (e) a curfew requirement, (f) an exclusion requirement, (g) a residence requirement, (h) a mental health treatment requirement, (i) a drug rehabilitation requirement, (j) an alcohol treatment requirement, and (k) a supervision requirement.

1960

1965 Mr Speaker, section 522 deals with youth rehabilitation orders in respect of juveniles convicted of an offence punishable with imprisonment for which a sentence is not fixed by law. The court may make an order imposing one or more of the requirements I have already referred to which apply to section 521, save that in respect of an unpaid work requirement that can only be imposed if the offender is age 16 or 17 at the time of conviction, and an alcohol treatment requirement is replaced, in the case of a youth offender, by an intoxicating substance treatment requirement. There are no current plans to widen the scope of the community sentences available to the courts.

1970 There are currently 31 individuals subject to community sentences. Of these, 26 are subject to unpaid work requirements; three are subject to unpaid work requirement youth rehabilitation orders; and two are subject to supervision orders.

1975 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I take it from that answer that the overwhelming majority of those are unpaid work requirements: 26 plus 3 are 29 out of the 31.

1980 Hon. G H Licudi: Yes. If what the hon. Member wants to say is that 29 out of the 31 subject to community sentences are subject to unpaid work requirements, that would have been what the courts had determined was the most appropriate requirement to impose in respect of those particular individuals in the particular case.

Q86/2016
Probation Service –
Current composition

Clerk: Question 86/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1985 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Justice confirm the current composition of the Probation Service?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the Probation Service currently consists of a Head of Probation and two Probation Officers.

Q87/2016
Prisoners –
Activities available

1990 Clerk: Question 87/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Justice confirm what activities outside academic and vocational training are available to male, female and juvenile prisoners?

1995 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information

2000 (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, activities outside academic and vocational training available to male, female and juvenile prisoners are: (1) counselling with a psychologist, including group sessions; (2) substance abuse – there is something called a 12-step programme; (3) general counselling with a counsellor; (4) aerobic training at the gymnasium; (5) weight training at the gymnasium; (6) football; (7) basketball; (8) Narcotics Anonymous meetings; (9) religious services in the multi-denominational room; (10) religious education, whether Catholic, Jewish or Muslim; 2005 and (11) engaging with external volunteer groups, such as St Vincent de Paul, Legion of Mary, or Co-Workers of Blessed Mother Teresa.

Q88-90/2016

HMP Windmill Hill –

CPT recommendations; juvenile offenders

Clerk: Question 88/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2010 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, as a result of its visit to Gibraltar on 13th to 17th November 2014, the European Committee for the Prevention of Torture and Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (CPT) recommended that as long as juveniles are kept at Windmill Hill Prison additional efforts must be made to provide them with a full range of purposeful activities and socio-educative support. In its response, the Government stated that a full-time teacher should be available as well as greater involvement from social services professionals. Can the 2015 Government confirm what steps it has taken in order to implement the CPT recommendation? That is at paragraph 40 of the Government's response to that report.

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

2020

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information

(Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 89/2016 and 90/2016.

2025

Clerk: Question 89, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the executive summary to the CPT report stated that Windmill Hill Prison 'is not a suitable place to accommodate children'. Can the Government confirm the 2030 Government's position with regard to the establishment of a small secure detention unit for juvenile offenders?

Clerk: Question 90, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2035 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the executive summary to the CPT stated that HMP Windmill Hill (1) had no specific rules for managing juveniles; and (2) staff were not trained specifically to work with juveniles. Can the Government confirm what the Government's position is with regard to the training of all prison staff to manage juvenile offenders?

2040 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the position with regard to the accommodation of juveniles, how juveniles are dealt with and support provided to juveniles at HM Prison was set out in my replies to Questions 322/2014 and 675/2014.

2045

In addition, a number of Government Departments and Agencies have been working together and also within their own spheres on particular aspects of how best to cater for the needs of juveniles, particularly those who have had a brush with delinquency.

2050

The Department of Education is working closely with the prison authorities and arrangements are in place for a teacher to be available for juveniles on a needs basis. The Care Agency provides support to any looked-after children who receive a custodial sentence. Care plans for these children identify issues of health, education, leisure/recreation, contact with family or significant persons, and how to meet the needs of the child whilst in custody. These include arrangements in relation to the child's education, as well as visits from his or her social worker and key workers over and above the weekly visits from family and friends.

2055

With regard to the training of prison staff specifically tailored to working with juveniles, discussions have taken place between the Care Agency and the Prison Service. Arrangements are in hand to deliver multi-agency child protection training to prison staff. The Government expects that this will result in a significant improvement in the provision of training for prison officers working with juveniles, including safeguarding, mental health, substance abuse and behaviour management.

2060

Mr Speaker, can I just add that these are additional measures. Clearly, all prison staff receive training on induction when they are made prison officers, and clearly they also receive on-the-job training, so there is training which goes on, on a constant basis. What I have identified here is specifically in relation to training tailored to meet the needs of juveniles, and the arrangements that are in hand are those specifically to do with that area over and above the normal training that the prison officers receive and the on-the-job training that is constant and happening all the time.

2065

2070

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the Hon. Minister's response, but I would like to know what the Government's position is insofar as the comment made by the CPT report in that Windmill Hill Prison is not a suitable place to accommodate children. I would like to know what the Government's position is in respect of that statement that was made.

2075

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I have indicated that the position of the Government in relation to the accommodation of juveniles, which is obviously what the hon. Member is referring to, was set out already in my replies to previous questions, so I would urge the hon. Member to look at Hansard and see the relevant questions.

2080

Mr Speaker: I suggest, to the hon. Member, for guidance – given that obviously he was not a Member of Parliament at the time and therefore he may not have in his possession the relevant Hansards – that he can ask for the Hansards, read them up, and then pursue the matter at a subsequent meeting.

2085

Hon. E J Phillips: The difficulty with that, Mr Speaker, is the report was published after the meeting of Parliament, and therefore my question is pertinent to the extent that CPT has made a statement to which the Government has replied in its report after that meeting of Parliament, and I just want to know what the Government's position is in relation to that comment.

2090

Hon. G H Licudi: I have just said so, Mr Speaker. The position is as stated previously in those answers.

If the hon. Member wants to know whether we take the view that juveniles should not be there at all, which is the thrust, we do not agree with that statement and neither does the GSD.

2095 Does the hon. Member not know that the Leader of the Opposition was the Minister for Justice when the Prison was built? And does the hon. Member not know that the Prison was built under the supervision of the current Leader of the Opposition? Does the hon. Member not know that the plans included provisions for a juvenile wing, and it was the Leader of the Opposition who specifically decided that this should not happen and that juveniles should be accommodated in a different way?

2100 I would urge the hon. Member to look at my reply specifically to Question 322/2104, which sets out exactly how juveniles are accommodated and are dealt with, and which we consider still amounts to an adequate way, subject to the discussions that are currently taking place within Government Departments in order to see whether the system can be approved, and if there is a need at some point to have a very specific secure detention facility, then that is something that we are willing to consider and move on, as I stated in answer to Question 322/2014.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the Leader of the Opposition does know, because the Leader of the Opposition, as he rightly says, was Minister for Justice when he and also the hon. Member, Minister Costa used to ask me questions, and in particular questions of Minister Netto, as to how on earth we could allow a situation to prevail of offenders being imprisoned in Windmill Prison, and this was very degrading – (Interjection) No, and that one as well too, absolutely, because there was a controversy one particular year, with one individual who was up there, and many of the questions that have been asked by the hon. Member, Mr Phillips ... Obviously, he is asking in the context of this new report, but many of the questions about the teachers etc. Those were the same questions that I was fielding then, and I was saying that our position was it is perfectly adequate, and in Gibraltar, where you have limited resources etc. we feel that this deals with the situation adequately.

2115 But of course they did not think that it was adequate, because they were badgering us, when we were in Government, to actually provide different accommodation. So obviously the position has changed from when they were in Opposition.

2120 Does the Government have no plans at all ...? Does the Government have no plans at all because from recollection of the answers that he gave last time round, I think they did not rule out the construction of a secure unit for juveniles at some point in the future. Therefore, the question is: well, you, know, how soon will the Government deploy those plans, so that juveniles do not have to be locked up, so to speak, at Windmill Hill Prison?

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I am happy to just read part of it, because the hon. Member is right in his recollection that we did not rule anything out, and I did say at the time ... I am quoting from Hansard, Mr Speaker. I said ‘there are no immediate plans but it is something we are prepared to consider if it is deemed necessary.’

2130 When I refer back to that question, that is still the position. There are no immediate plans – as in today. I cannot say today we have plans to do x or do y, which is different, but it is something that we are actively considering, actively looking at. There are multi-agency meetings looking at, as I mentioned in the original answer, the whole question of juveniles – in particular, those who have a brush with delinquency – and how it is best that those should be dealt with.

2135 There is a multi-agency approach to this issue and clearly one of the matters that needs to be considered is whether, as the hon. Member has indicated, in a small place like Gibraltar, where ... I have given the hon. Member, in answer to a previous question, a list of the inmates, and as I recall – and the hon. Member may have it there – the number of juveniles there stated is zero at the moment, so cases are few and far between. Sometimes you have one, sometimes you have more than one, so is it justified to have a separate secure detention facility just for that odd occasion, or are the arrangements that are currently in place ... which we consider may be improved upon, certainly, but certainly work in respect of the detention of juveniles for the facilities that we have.

2145 So, it is something that we are not putting out of our minds, it is something that we are not discarding; it is something that we are constantly reviewing and it is something that is currently being discussed on that multi-agency basis.

2150 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I take a moment? Mr Speaker he has provided me with almost a carbon copy of the type of answers that I think that I used to provide (Interjection) – yes – which was, it is not an ideal situation to have a juvenile in Windmill Hill Prison, that we have got to take into account costs and we have got to take into account the size of the community, and that the Government obviously is always reviewing the situation because inherently it feels uncomfortable, and no doubt the hon. Gentleman feels uncomfortable with 2155 the situation that a juvenile ought to be in prison with adults at Windmill Hill Prison.

But I think that what my learned and hon. Friend, Mr Phillips, is getting at is that there is a different situation now, in the sense that there is now a report from an international organisation that is condemning the current situation, that there are now reputational issues involved as well, and does that therefore alter the Government's thinking in terms of the urgency, for example, in reviewing this kind of situation?
2160

It appears, really, from the answers that the hon. Gentleman has given is, that no, it has not really altered the Government's thinking. The Government really was reviewing it in 2014, it is reviewing it now – but, reading between the lines, really this is not one of the priorities the Government has and certainly not one of the priorities in his Ministry.
2165

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, no, that would not be a fair reflection of the current position.

Let me just mention first, when the hon. Member talks of juveniles 'with adults' in the prison, as I set out, I do not want the impression being given that they are just mixed together and not treated differently in any way. In fact, the legislation provides for different treatment in respect 2170 of juveniles. It also provides that they should not be unduly left without contact with other people, so if there is only one juvenile, it is not fair to keep that person almost as if he was in solitary confinement just because you segregate, so there is supervised contact in some way. But certainly there is a separate wing which is set aside whenever there is a juvenile and that wing is used essentially as a juvenile wing as if it was a separate detention facility, with the other 2175 facilities that are available – like the classroom, like the workshop and the gym – also available to the juvenile.

The hon. Member uses a word in relation to the report, that this 'condemns' the Government. I am not sure that the report ... Yes, 'condemning' – that is the word that the hon. Member used. I would disagree that that is a phrase either that has been used or that it is 2180 intended to be used. There are recommendations, and there are views set out in that report.

The position certainly has moved on since 2014. That is why, apart from referring to 2014, I said 'in addition, these things are being considered', and I did talk of the multi-agency approach and there is active consideration about all these issues and we are awaiting consideration of proposals, possibly from this group, as to whether we should move in that direction or not – and 2185 then the Government will have to take a policy decision, because although it might seem on paper to be desirable, there are all the other factors that the hon. Member has highlighted in terms of proportionality and the effectiveness of the current regime in respect of juveniles that was to be considered when it comes to Government taking a policy decision on that.

This is something that is being actively considered. It was being considered at the time. It has 2190 been ... I would not say 'reactivated' but certainly it is something that is very much on the agenda in terms of consideration, particularly as a result of the report and the review and the discussions we had with the gentleman who came over in terms of the committee to review the facilities – not just at Windmill Hill but also in the police station and the other facilities that were reviewed. So yes, this is something that is under active consideration now, so the position
2195 certainly has moved on from 2014.

2200 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: May I raise a very basic point? Mr Speaker, from what I understand, the juvenile wing is only a door apart from the convicted paedophile wing, with a small space in between. So I would ask the Minister to reconsider the logistics of the spacing of these two sets of offenders. It might be worth looking at.

Thank you.

2205 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I do not know the exact logistics. Certainly there is a wing where, as the hon. Member will know, where vulnerable, or, so-called considered vulnerable prisoners, which would include sex offenders ... I would not call it, certainly, any paedophile wing; that is not terminology that is being used either by us or the prison authorities, or would have been used by the former Minister for Justice, now the Leader of the Opposition.

2210 But separate wings are separate wings – whether they are separated by a door or a corridor, they are separate wings – and as long as the arrangements are adequate to keep juveniles separate and adequately supervised, those are arrangements for the Prison Superintendent to make and judgements for the Prison Superintendent to make, and I am satisfied that those arrangements are in place and are adequate in respect of the separation of juveniles.

2215 Hon. D A Feetham: Is the hon. Member ... I beg your pardon. I will give way, if you ...

2220 No, it is just that as information flows, my recollection of the scheme of this comes back to me. One of the issues ... I recall the schematics of it. You had the women's section and then there was a space, then there is this section that is used for juveniles when there are juveniles, then there is a small space, and then there is a further area where one would place prisoners that are at risk – for example, sexual offenders and paedophiles. Most people out there would call them paedophiles: that is what it is and we should not be ashamed of calling them such. (Interjection) But it is not a paedophile wing. I understand it is not a paedophile wing. It is a wing for those who are vulnerable, from potentially, to attack from other prisoners.

2225 One of the problems, as I recall, was that of course when you have a prison population that starts going up and space starts obviously becoming scarce within the prison, that then you have a situation where even these areas would then need to be used. Is the Hon. Minister aware of whether that has happened over the recent past, where this particular area which is reserved for juveniles has had to be used for the purposes of other prisoners because of the increase in the prison population, or spikes in the prison population at any particular time? That is what really causes ... and that you see was my concern at the time. My concern at the time, we built a prison, we have actually planned ahead, it has increased capacity hugely, but if the prison population continues to rise and rise, at some stage you have a situation where even these two spaces for the vulnerable prisoners and also for juveniles starts getting used by the general prison population.

2235 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, as I understand it – and I am speaking just from recollection – the prison can cater for something like 96 or 98 prisoners. In the last couple of years numbers have come down. Although we had a spike reaching 80-odd, numbers have come down and stabilised in the order of 50 to 60 inmates, so in that context making room available is not a problem. The hon. Member is right: if we had 98 adult prisoners ... well, we would have a problem in accommodating the 99th or the 100th adult prisoner, so it is not just a question of the at-risk or vulnerable prisoners and juveniles. That would be a problem in itself. It is not a problem that we have had, certainly, I recall, in the last couple of years where those numbers are stabilised.

2245 The effort must be made and must continue to be made in the other area that the hon. Member was talking about: reducing reoffending rates, reducing rates at which prisoners end up in prison on a second or third occasion. The efforts that the Government has been making – and I do not want to go into the other question, which will be answered, I imagine, tomorrow – the efforts that the Government has been making in respect of counselling facilities and the 2250 assistance in respect of employment we believe is the right way forward and the right way to reduce that kind of reoffending to the point that people not just reoffend but end up having further custodial sentences.

2255 So this does not involve just looking at numbers – the number of beds, how many people do we have; it involves looking at the criminal justice system across the board and seeing in what ways those who do offend can be assisted to become again good citizens and good members of society that make a valid contribution. That is the effort that the Government is making.

2260 Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the lengthy response to that question. I just have one further question: I would like, hopefully, a very simple answer to the question. The report from the European Committee has stated, and I repeated this statement: it is not a suitable place to accommodate children. All I want to know is whether the Government's position is: do they agree or disagree with that proposition put forward in the executive summary? That is all.

2265 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, if we agreed, we would not have juveniles in that prison. So we agree that adequate arrangements can be made for the keeping of juveniles, but we are keeping our options open and actively considering alternative arrangements.

Q91/2016
HMP Windmill Hill –
Admission of prison visitors

Clerk: Question 91/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2270 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, section 13 of the Prison Act provides that the rules and guidance of the Prison Board govern the admission of prison visitors. Can the Government confirm that all religious leaders, irrespective of religious affiliation, are afforded equality of access to HMP Windmill Hill?

2275 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information
(Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, all ministers of religion, irrespective of religious affiliation, are afforded equality of access to HM Prison.

Q92/2016
Arrest referral workers –
Allocation of additional resources

Clerk: Question 92/ 2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2280 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, Her Majesty's Government has committed to the implementation of Arrest Referral Workers and the relevant protocol. Can the Government confirm what additional resources are being allocated to Her Majesty's Court Service and the Royal Gibraltar Police to ensure that those persons who come into contact with the criminal 2285 justice system can access Arrest Referral Workers?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

2290 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information
(Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the Government has not made any commitment in relation to Arrest Referral Workers as the question suggests. The Government's commitment is as set out in page 93 of our manifesto, namely to introduce arrest referral protocols throughout law enforcement agencies to facilitate the process of dealing with detainees who are suffering from 2295 addictions.

To repeat what the Hon. the Chief Minister said this morning, as with other manifesto commitments that do not have a specific date for implementation, this will be introduced within this term of office.

2300 Hon. E J Phillips: In relation to Arrest Referral Workers, the whole purpose of these protocols and procedures and the engaging of individuals to work within the criminal justice system is that so that when someone presents at the court, or indeed at New Mole House themselves ... When they present with a difficulty with addiction or substance abuse, then someone, an individual, can be approached, an arrest referral worker ... Under a protocol they can be approached in 2305 order to deal with the situation, to tackle drug addiction at the very start of the process. That is the question I was getting at: does the Government, insofar as protocols are concerned ... ?

And I would point the Minister to the Scottish executive example of arrest protocols, where they introduced them and they set out a detailed pilot scheme within which they looked at arrest referral protocols, and they said in their report that there should be that interaction 2310 between the criminal justice system at the detainee level and at the court service, where individuals will need their own space at the court service and at the police station in order to deal with someone who presents with an addiction problem from the outset.

2315 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, fortunately for us, it is for the Government to set the policy and the agenda, and not for the hon. Member.

When the hon. Member says 'the whole purpose of this', I am not sure whether he is trying to interpret our manifesto and saying, 'The whole purpose of what you intended, was this.' We will be the judges of what we intend to do, as we set out in our manifesto.

2320 What we have identified is that there is a referral process to somebody who is identified as the person to whom that person with an addiction should be referred. How it is done and what it involves is a matter that the hon. Member will have to wait and see. As I have indicated, we have this term of office to do it.

2325 Hon. E J Phillips: Just for the record, I was referring to, yes, page 93 of your manifesto, in which you state:

Arrest referral protocols throughout the law enforcement agencies to facilitate the process of dealing with detainees who are suffering from addictions;

2330 What I am suggesting to you is that when someone presents at New Mole House and is detained and arrested, that you will have to refer him to an individual who has expertise in addiction so that that can be dealt with. It follows that you will have to engage arrest referral workers to deal with this issue when someone presents at New Mole House, or indeed the court service.

Hon. G H Licudi: No, Mr Speaker, it does not follow at all. It may be what the hon. Member might like to see, but it does not follow at all. All that we need to do is make sure that we know who is a person who can deal with addictions, and as long as we know that ... because the hon.

2335 Member has assumed that this necessarily has to do with workers and it is going to involve additional resources. Well, we will have to wait and see, once we decide how we are going to implement the manifesto commitment; and the hon. Member has read the manifesto commitment which is exactly in the terms of the answer that I gave him. (Interjection)

2340 So, if he wants to continue to read our manifesto and let everyone know the wonderful range of ideas (Several Members: Hear, hear.) (Banging on desks) that we have set out, which ... Let me try and recollect, was it seven out of 10? Almost seven out of 10 have voted for, so it must contain some very very good ideas and we will be very proud of implementing our manifesto during the next term of office – as we did in the last term of office and we were applauded back into office!

2345

Several Members: Hear, hear! (Banging on desks)

Hon. E J Phillips: With respect, my learned and hon. Friend finds it quite difficult to answer the question that I am putting to him.

2350 We are dealing with a very serious issue about addiction and people that interact with the criminal justice system at New Mole House and the court service. I am asking a very very simple question: how does the Government intend to deal with people that present at New Mole House and at the courts, that have deep addiction problems and who are committing crimes?

2355 It is all well and good having an arrest warrant protocol but you need the people to back up the system. And that is the question I am asking: what are the plans that the Government have in place to deal with that situation? At the moment you have said, in response to my previous question, that you are not going to engage workers. Well, I am just trying to dig down on what you actually mean by the protocol, and what you are going to do about it?

2360 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I have not said that we are not going to engage workers. I may have implied that it does not necessarily lead to that, but how we do it is a matter that we will have to consider. And as we will be saying again and again and again– because it seems that this is going to be a constant issue between us in this term – manifesto commitments will be fulfilled during this term of office.

2365

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, there is a distinction, does he not agree, between saying a manifesto commitment is going to be dealt with over a period of two, or three or four years ... ? You have got four years and you refuse to give us a timescale.

2370 My learned Friend's question is about the policy; it is not about the timescale. What he is getting at is, 'Look, you have got a manifesto commitment, how are you intending to fulfil that manifesto commitment?'

He has suggested that logically, to fulfil this manifesto commitment, what you would have to do is engage these types of workers. Now, the Hon. Minister has said, 'Well, not necessarily.'

2375 Can he give us, at the very least, a flavour of the type of options that the Government is currently considering, so that we can assess that? Because you see, otherwise we are left with a situation where we do not know what the Government is planning to do.

All it has – with respect to the Hon. Minister – is a vague manifesto commitment. And until the day that the Hon. Minister makes an announcement – two, three, four years, or indeed a year from now ... But actually, part of the democratic process – (Interjections)

2380 Shall I sit down, or is he listening? (Interjections)

Part of the democratic process –

Mr Speaker: I know we have had a tiring day and Members, when they get tired, begin to lose their control. (Laughter)

2385

Hon. D A Feetham: Thank you very much, Mr Speaker.

2390 Part of the democratic process, the to-ing and fro-ing, is also input from the Opposition – and it may well be that the Opposition could provide some constructive input in relation to those plans, in order to improve them. Because at the end of the day, we have all got a vested interest in ensuring that people are dealt with at an early juncture so they do not re-offend. (Banging on desks)

2395 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member (Interjection) makes an extraordinary statement talking of ‘vague manifesto commitments’. Well, at least we had a manifesto – they did not even have a manifesto for this election!

And the commitment is not vague at all – at all! It makes it clear: we are going to introduce arrest referral protocol throughout law enforcement agencies to facilitate the process of dealing with detainees who are suffering from addiction. The question is, does it necessarily lead to engagement of more people?

2400 But we may already have people, whether it is in the drug unit, the drug rehabilitation workers, who deal with people with addictions, who work at Bruce’s Farm and who know about these things. And all they need, perhaps, is a protocol as to notification to appropriately identified people – not necessarily newly engaged workers – but appropriately-identified people to whom a referral would be made, when someone is presented with the sort of addiction that the hon. Member has referred to, and which is clearly set out in the manifesto.

2405 So the position is simple: there will be a referral system to people who will be able to deal and assist that person, in respect of that addiction, whether it involves the engagement of one or two workers, or the use of existing workers who have expertise in that area. That is a matter that the Government will have to consider when it introduces the policy and the protocols.

2410 Mr Speaker: Having aired Justice, we will now go on to Education.
Next question.

HEALTH, THE ENVIRONMENT, ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Q22-31/2016

Dealing with infectious diseases – Further supplementary questions

Clerk: Question 93/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2415 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: May I first finish on a question regarding the incident on Health, before we went for the break, please?

I just want to take this opportunity to extend my thanks as Shadow Minister for Health – and the rest of the Opposition Members – to the GFRS and the staff at the GHA for their bravery and professionalism on the night of the incident. It must have been a very challenging and scary time for them, and we thank them. And just to make it very clear that we have not questioned their professionalism in any way; we have just been asking questions about procedures and protocols in order to maintain standards.

2420 Can I just ask the Minister for Health, Mr Speaker: when the investigations that are being carried out, when we can expect a conclusion, please?

2425 Thank you.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I cannot speak for the Port investigation which is a primary investigation.

2430 The internal discussions within the GHA: I do not have a date but I expect to have a full report within the next couple of weeks; but I am not aware of the Port's.

Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, if I may assist, as I think my colleague mentioned before –

2435 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the question was not about –

Hon. A J Isola: Do you want the information?

Hon. D A Feetham: No, the Port –

2440

Hon. A J Isola: Ah no, just Health?

Hon. D A Feetham: Just Health. We are talking about Health and I just have one further question in relation to this.

2445 The Hon. Minister has talked about internal discussion: I assume we are talking about an internal investigation conducted by the GHA. Who is conducting the internal investigation on behalf of the GHA? Can the Hon. Minister perhaps supply some information about that?

2450 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I do not know how we can go back now, after we had finished matters on that question. The hon. Lady raised a few –

Mr Speaker: What happened was that immediately after the recess, the hon. Lady would have wished to have pursued one or two supplementaries. But you were not in the Chamber at the time, so I suggested –

2455

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Ah, ok. Well I am happy to answer it.

This is an internal review of what happened. Whenever there is anything that happens which is out of the ordinary – and this clearly was out of the ordinary – the Health Authority and its different departments get together and discuss what lessons can be learned, what was done right and what could have been done better. And this is general in any organisation.

2460

So it is internal and, as I said, I expect to have a report within the next couple of weeks.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I might, can I thank the hon. Lady for the remarks she has made in respect of the professionalism of the GHA staff and the staff of the Gibraltar Fire and Rescue Service. They are there always to provide that assistance that anybody may need, and in this instance to ensure that even though others might have failed in the way that they dealt with these issues, they properly applied their professional skills to ensure that all of those issues were dealt with in the appropriate way; hence the confidence that we were able to express in the way that they had dealt with this matter, in this House, to reassure the community as we had done previously.

2465

2470

May I also extend that vote of thanks on behalf of the community to the staff of the Gibraltar Port Authority who obviously also did a very very important job on the day, even though it is important to ensure that all of the steps followed on that day were adequately dealt with. And I am sure that she would also wish to extend her thanks on behalf of the community, as I do to them also.

2475

Mr Speaker: Can we proceed to Question 93?

Q93-95, 97-98/2016
University of Gibraltar –
Enrolment; employees; volunteers; costs; courses

Clerk: Question 93/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2480 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Education provide information on how many students have been enrolled at the University since its opening in 2015, providing a breakdown by subject matter, age and nationality?

2485 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 94, 95, 97 and 98 of 2016.

2490 Clerk: Question 94/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2495 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Education provide a list of all the employees of the University, giving a breakdown of salary, including bonuses and added benefits, personal and financial?

Clerk: Question 95/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2500 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Education provide a list of non-salaried volunteer positions within the University?

Clerk: Question 97/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2505 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Education provide details of the running and recurrent costs of the University? (Interjections)
Number 97, you asked me to omit 96. Thank you.

Clerk: Question 98/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2510 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Education provide details of the format of the Gibraltar Law course offered at the University to qualified barristers, including the number of lectures in the course, how many exams need taking in order to pass the course, how spaced out those exams are from each other, and how many exams is a student allowed to fail but yet passing the course overall?

2515 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

2520 The Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the University is an independent statutory body established under the University of Gibraltar Act. The matters raised in these questions are therefore for the University and not for the Government.

2525 I would just add, Mr Speaker, that some of the information which is requested including, for example, the format of the Gibraltar Law course, I understand may be available on the University's website. And just to correct, by way of assistance: when Question 98 talks about Gibraltar Law course offered to qualified barristers, there is no limitation, as I understand it, in the course – certainly none was intended when we set up the course, that it was only available to qualified barristers. It is available to anyone who might want to undertake the course on Gibraltar Law.

2530

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: I was asking the question because, from what I understand, it is qualified barristers who are under the requirement and the stipulation to take this course in order for them to be able to practise in Gibraltar. That is why I was trying to gather some more information about how they have to qualify for this course in order to continue practising in Gibraltar.

2535

Thank you.

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, just on that course: that provision that the hon. Lady refers to is actually provided, I seem to recall, under the Supreme Court Act. The new training requirements that we introduced, which had an academic element, which was going to be met by doing this particular course. That is certainly a requirement, but it is not just for barristers – it is for barristers and solicitors. (Interjections)

2540

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the Hon. the Minister for Education has effectively refused to answer the question on the basis that it is not a matter for which the Government is responsible, and it is a matter which should be directed to the University.

2545

But with respect to the Minister, for example Question 93 which is, ‘How many students have enrolled at the University?’ you are talking about a university that is being funded at taxpayers’ expense. Surely the Hon. Minister can see that it is a perfectly legitimate question to ask how many students have been enrolled at a University for which the taxpayer is basically paying £10 million – that is what we voted for.

2550

Everybody wants this University to succeed, for example, but how do we on this side of the House, or the public in general, then find out how many students are there? You could have an empty university. I am not suggesting that this is the case, I am just setting a stark example in order to test the proposition.

2555

You could have a university that has no students, it is being funded to the tune of £10 million by the taxpayer and the Hon. Minister says, ‘Well, it is nothing to do with me; it is to do with the University.’ That surely cannot be right.

Therefore, I would urge the Hon. Minister to rethink the answer that he has given because I certainly believe that that is a perfectly legitimate question to ask.

2560

Hon. G H Licudi: No, Mr Speaker, it is not a perfectly legitimate question to ask. The issue is: for what is the Government answerable and accountable to the people of Gibraltar in this Parliament? That is, surely, the question.

2565

I can certainly act as a post-box and I can receive a question like this, and I can ask the University, ‘How many students have you got enrolled now; and give me a breakdown?’ And I can come here and give the information, but I would just be acting as a post-box. And if the hon. Member thinks that Government Ministers should simply act as a post-box, I think he has got the wrong end of the stick. (Interjections)

2570

But in relation to the importance of the independence of the University ... and it is not that the Government is refusing to answer. This is not information which is available to the Government. It is information that is available to an independent statutory body and I can ask, but I cannot force them to provide me with that information; and I cannot be accountable for that information.

2575

Hon. Members will recall that they placed a lot of importance in the University being established as an independent institution. Or does the hon. Member not recall asking Question 540/2014 which stated:

Mr Speaker, when will the Government grant the Gibraltar University a charter guaranteeing its independence and befitting its status as a University?

If it is independent, it is independent.

2580 And does the hon. Member not recall also the statements made during the Second Reading of the Bill on the University, in particular by the person who was then the hon. the backbencher, Sir Peter Caruana, who set out the statutory provisions in relation to lack of external interference and freedom of enquiry and research? And he had this to say, and I quote:

So that is the statutory statement of the desired level of independence and autonomy that the Government, in my view rightly, wants for this institution.

2585 So if it is independent, it is independent. And I can certainly ask, but the hon. Members can also ask; and I do not see why the hon. Members cannot write to the University –

Mr Speaker: This is a point that I precisely wanted to raise, as Speaker: can the hon. Members of the Opposition obtain this information from the University?

2590 You see, the position which I, as Speaker, find myself in: here are a number of questions which I could have disallowed, say, on the basis that in the House of Commons, Mr Speaker Bercow would have disallowed them. No Member of Parliament can stand and ask the Government in the House of Commons to provide information about the number of students that have been taken on by the University of Leicester, say.

2595 But the position is different because the University of Leicester is probably not funded at all from public funds; but this University of Gibraltar is. Therefore what I am saying is that, hon. Members, Parliament needs to arrive at a considered position as to what is the reality.

2600 Now, if the Hon. the Minister for Education is saying that if hon. Members of the Opposition ask the University, the Vice-Chancellor, for this information, it is readily available, then surely they do not have a problem because they would have that information at a time when the estimates of expenditure are discussed, when there could be a sub-head providing further funding for the University.

So I think it is something that needs to be considered.

2605 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: At what point does the Government subsidise a venture like the University and then wash its hands of it, in the same way as ... ?

A Member: Nobody is washing their hands.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Who will take ownership in the end, to answer these questions?

2610 On the Board of Governors, are there civil servants involved? At what point do you separate yourself from providing information about something that you have proudly built and been so proud of? (Interjection)

2615 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, it is an institution to be proud of and the Government is very proud to have inaugurated the University on 21st September! (Banging on desks) And so are the 2,300 people who visited the University on the immediately-preceding weekend and were all marvelled at the University. (Interjection)

2620 It is not a question about whether I can or cannot answer questions on the University. It is a question as to whether the Government and Government Ministers are answerable in this Parliament for these issues.

If I were to ask for the information – which I can do, get the information and pass it on – and if the question is then, ‘Why have they done this? Why have they engaged so-and-so? Why have they created this position?' (Interjection) Well, that is not an answer that I am prepared or able to give.

2625 Mr Speaker raises two issues: one is about public funding of universities. My understanding is that most universities in the UK do receive a large element of public funding, (Interjection) and that is precisely why fees are capped. They were capped at £3,000 until a few years ago and they are now capped at £9,000. That is clearly not the cost–

2630 Mr Speaker: But having said that, I cannot envisage a similar question being asked in the House of Commons.

Hon. G H Licudi: Of course not, no!

2635 Mr Speaker: It would not happen.

Hon. G H Licudi: Even though there is a great amount of public founding, there are one or two (Interjection) so-called private institutions, like I understand Buckinghamshire is a purely private university – but most universities in the UK are publicly funded to a great extent.

2640 Mr Speaker asked whether the information would be readily available from the University. I cannot answer for the University itself, but I do not see why not. I would encourage the hon. Members to write to the University and if there are further issues that they would like me to take up as Minister for Education, I am happy to do so.

2645 Mr Speaker: Is the University required to produce something akin to an annual report?

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I cannot recall off-hand whether that was a provision in the Act – I would have to look at it.

2650 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, this places everybody – certainly on this side of the House – in an invidious position. You have a situation, and this is really what it amounts to, where the Government could in future come and say to this House, 'We want funding for this University' – a University which is funded at the moment solely from public funds; and at the same time we are not being provided with information in this House – (Interjection) in this House.

2655 It is funded and approved by this House and we are not being provided with information as to how this University ... basically, whether it is good value for money for the Taxpayer, or it is not good value for money for the Taxpayer.

I do not want anybody out there to come out with the impression, from these exchanges, that we do not want the University to succeed and we do not want it to be a huge success. Of course we do! But a question like, 'How many students have been enrolled at the University?' is the type of question that I would have thought that the hon. Gentleman would have provided an answer.

I can understand when he then gets into a situation where there are supplementaries about the mechanics of the University, that is a different kettle of fish. But of course, let's assume for one moment that in two years' time there were 50 students, and this Parliament is funding it to the tune of millions of pounds of taxpayers' money. If I go to the University and say to the University, 'How many students are enrolled at your University?', and the University says, 'I am not going to provide you with that information', look we are, then left with a situation of then not approving funding, because we do not have the information to see whether it is cost-effective or it is not cost-effective.

2670 It really could be dealt with on a very common-sense basis where perhaps the Minister would say, 'Look, I have a concern here: it is a separate statutory body, I do not want to get myself involved in answering day-to-day questions about this University, it would not be right, therefore I am setting a marker but I am providing some basic information.'

2675 Because it seems quite basic to me, the information that the hon. Lady has sought from the Hon. Minister.

Mr Speaker: Yes, but I would also comment that it would not be sustainable for the University to refuse to answer the sort of information, 'How many students have been enrolled?'

I mean, if the University were not to provide that information – (Interjections) it would be very difficult for them to justify as to why they should not.

Hon. G H Licudi: And, Mr Speaker, particularly in the context of the public funding which the hon. Member has indicated. Clearly, the hon. Members opposite did not think about the effect of this independence when they were championing the University as an independent body, and the question is ... The hon. Member says we are refusing to answer; I am not refusing to answer, the answer is I do not know. It is not information that I have available myself. I can ask, but in the same way that I can ask and can oblige, the hon. Members can ask.

Mr Speaker: Looking at Question 93: '... providing a breakdown by subject matter, age and nationality ...' that kind of information might even be subject to data protection. That kind of information. Can a body like the University put into the public domain information of that nature? I am not sure. (Interjections)

I do not know, but it is something that has to be given some thought to.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): If I can try and assist the House on this matter, look, think the issue is a simple one. At Question Time the Government provides information it has on the questions of the Opposition. If the Government does not have the information – and that means the wider Government, the Departments, the Agencies, the Authorities, etc – well, then, the Government is not able to provide the information.

In the context of this particular example, the seed capital is provided by the public in a Bill which is brought to the Parliament to create the University, and a vote of money. If hon. Members would like to think of it this way: if they were to write to the Gibraltar Health Authority, to the Care Agency, to the Head of the Civil Service, and seek the sort of information that they are seeking in these questions, the answer will be, 'Please ask in the Parliament so that the Government provides the information.'

If they write to the University, the answer will be whatever the University likes – where they can address it to the Chancellor, the Vice Chancellor, the board, or whoever they like. But it will not be, 'Ask the Government in Parliament'. We have created the University, but as the Hon. Minister rightly says, if we are challenged on any item that these questions could have been on, and then follow up on, because it is independent we would not be able to deal with the issue. And I think that is the dichotomy that we have to have – that is not to wash our hands of it, that is not to be not accountable for the money, that is not for us to want to see something continue which is not flourishing.

But let's be clear: Question Time is about Government information. This is not Government information and for that reason is not susceptible to this sort of question.

I think Mr Speaker has indicated to the House why it was that he thought the question should be allowed in this case – because of the issues he has alerted us to – but I think in the context now of these answers ... Nobody is saying to the Opposition, 'You should not have that information.' But this is not information in the possession, custody, or power of the Government.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may, I have in front of me what I believe is the final version of the University of Gibraltar Act 2015 and I am reading, with interest, section 19(1) regarding the composition of the Board of Governors which it says can be:

... up to seven members,
(a) the chancellor,
(b) the vice-chancellor,
(c) the Director,
(d) up to four persons appointed by the Minister.

Now the Minister can appoint the majority of the board, and therefore de facto has control of the Board of Governors. (Interjection) He can then de facto ask for the information.

2730 How does he reconcile the independence of the institution (Interjections) versus his ability to control the Board?

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, that is an extraordinary statement. Just because there is a power to appoint members to an independent statutory body, the hon. Member is suggesting that the Government (Interjections) de facto controls that statutory body, and that they do what I tell them. Nothing could be further from the truth. (Interjections)

2735 Just as an example, the Chairman of the Board has been announced as Jose Julio Pisharello. One of the members of the Board is Peter Montegriffo. They have been appointed by me, but they now have duties in accordance with the Act. They are certainly not controlled by me in any way in the manner that is suggested by the hon. Member.

2740

A Member: Totally independent – totally!

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, if I might just also, to deal with that point: the hon. Gentleman is remiss not to read to the House section 5 of the Act, which says this:

Institutional autonomy.

5. The university, its board and its other constituent bodies shall be free from interference from all external bodies, ...

2745 – as we are – authorities or agencies in the exercise of the powers conferred by this Act, including as regards the following ...

And then it sets out three particular rights that it will be independent of.

But it is a blanket independence. So even the question from the Minister – ‘Give me ...’ rather than ‘Would you give me ...’ – ‘Give me the information because it has to go to Parliament,’ would be in breach of section 5.

2750

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the question of what a Government has a responsibility to answer is dealt with in Standing Order 15 and it says:

Any question addressed to the Chief Minister or a Minister shall relate to the public affairs with which he is officially connected ...

That is one limb, and the second limb is:

... or to a matter of administration for which the Government is responsible.

So there are two limbs: ‘relate to the public affairs with which he is officially connected ...’

2755 Now, there is no doubt that in this particular case, he is officially connected, the public affairs with which he is officially connected is the University of Gibraltar, in respect of which he has brought a Bill to this Parliament in order to officially constitute it as a legal body, but has also come to this House in order to seek funding in order to fund this particular University. Now, so in my respectful view it would fall within clause 15.

2760

But can I ask him this: has the Hon. the Minister for Education not asked the University, in his capacity as a Government Minister – I would be surprised if he had not – how many students

2765 have enrolled at the University since its opening in 2015? Because if I were Minister for Education – bearing in mind that this is a flagship project, not only for the Government but also for Gibraltar; I mean, it is a flagship for all of us – one of the things that I would be doing is asking the Chancellor, ‘Well, how many students do you have enrolled?’

Because you see, if he has asked that information and that information has been provided to the Hon. Minister, then I just cannot see why he should not be providing it to this House. But maybe the Hon. Minister has not sought that information.

2770 Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition has quoted, has read out, Rule 15. I have to pose an issue: ‘shall relate to the public affairs with which he is officially connected’ – is information about subject matter, age, nationality and so on, of students of the University, public affairs? I do not know. I cannot make a ruling immediately. I do not know. One might have to take advice on whether it is.

2775 But I think what hon. Members have to realise is that we are treading on new ground here. We have a new situation, but a situation that is not dissimilar to a body like the Gibraltar Broadcasting Corporation. (Interjection) No, it is not dissimilar alright. That is a statutory body and we have long experience of the Gibraltar Broadcasting Corporation, but we do not have long experience of a University which has just been created. Therefore, we need to treat warily; we have to consider ...

2780 It is fine the questions were brought here; they are bona fide questions. I said we have allowed them for the reason that we have, but we now need to go away from here and rethink, perhaps give some thought and reflect what is the exact position; do a little bit of homework. What exactly is the position of the University vis-à-vis this Parliament, vis-à-vis the responsibilities of Ministers and the legitimate function which hon. Members have of trying to get information in order to precisely justify public expenditure?

2785 These are matters that I think we need to reflect on and perhaps if nothing is concluded today ... We do not have to come to conclusions today. We give the matter some thought for the future.

2790 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, can I just be very clear in the attitude that we are taking to this, because I think sometimes we have a discussion which becomes an argument. It is not that we do not want them to have this information. It is that we do not have it to give them. But it may be that this issue can be very simply resolved, because the information can be provided to them directly by the University.

2795 In the analysis I did before, you know whilst the Department and agency or authority would not give the information and would refer them to the procedure established, the University may give the information. Then with that information they may wish to bring a motion in the House, all the rest of it. But that, in my view, is where we need to look to see what procedure we establish. It may be that the Board of the University does not feel comfortable simply answering a list of questions from the Opposition on a periodic basis and then they might take a different view. But it is for – (Interjection) exactly, but it is a matter for the Board to decide.

2800 When people are appointed to boards, Mr Speaker, by the Government – and there are many boards to which the Government makes appointments – the people who are appointed to boards are asked, certainly by this Government and I assume – I will give them the benefit of the doubt – by every other Government before to bring their independent decision-making capability to the board, not simply to be appointed in order to do what the Government says at any particular time.

2805 Should there be any residual concern in that respect, I say here publicly the Government would expect – even those members that we have appointed to the Board – in respect of this matter – as we do in respect of every other – to bring their own independent mind to whether they would wish to provide the Opposition or any other individual with the sort of information that is being sought today. The answer may be yes.

2815 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, you see, there is a broader principle and Mr Speaker's analysis was a very fair analysis and indeed reflects my thinking you know as these exchanges have transpired. Because of course it is all very well for us to engage with the University directly – we may well do that – but again what is the difference between this University and GBC, for example? Is there an obligation for the Government – as we believe there is an obligation on the 2820 Government – to provide certain information about the University before this House? Not all not all, the information, because I accept that it would not be proper for the Opposition to be asking questions about the day-to-day running of the University.

Indeed, when I have asked the supplementary question that I have asked – that the Hon.
Minister has not answered – I do not know whether he has the information or he does not have the information. I repeat the supplementary. I have narrowed down the supplementary, not to a 2825 question of subject matter, age or nationality. I have said how many students has the University enrolled? Because that is something that I would have expected a Government Minister, certainly a Minister for Education in relation to this flagship project, to have sought from the University.

If he has sought that, I think that he does have an obligation to provide it to this House, even 2830 if he says, 'Look, I do not have the information in relation to subject matter, age and nationality.
I do not believe that it is appropriate' – even though we disagree. But if he does have the information about the students being enrolled and how many students the University has, he ought to provide it.

2835 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I can tell him that I am aware that over 200 students have enrolled, but that is not information that I have obtained in respect of specific courses, as a result of this question, I have gone and asked in order to be able to provide this information. Of course I have enquired over time in my discussions with Board members, 'How is enrolment going and how many people have enrolled?' I have been to the University myself and I have seen 2840 the evening classes taking place; but that is very different to 'the Government' having an obligation to answer questions.

The Hon. the Chief Minister mentioned previously – I believe it was section 5, which is the guarantee of independence. That was one of the clauses that the Hon. Sir Peter Caruana referred to when during the Second Reading of the Bill, when it talked about:

... free from interference from all external bodies ...

2845 And he added:

In which I am certain the Minister would wish to include himself as an external authority and agency.

So there was a recognition there, certainly by Sir Peter Caruana, that that degree of independence was independent of the Minister. We now have a constituent body, within the, established under the Act and working in practice, which is the Board of Governors. These decisions are for the Board of Governors. We may agree or disagree with any decision that the 2850 Board of Governors make.

So the hon. Member may ask and there may be a certain decision and we may agree or disagree whether that decision was right or wrong. But if the hon. Members want information which they believe they should have in relation to the University, I would urge them to write to the University itself through the Board of Governors. Then they can make an assessment as to 2855 whether the Board is providing the information that they want or not.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just one question. Mr Speaker, section 45 of the Act provides as follows:

At the request of the Minister, the University shall provide the Minister with reports and any other information that the Minister considers necessary to carry out the Minister's responsibilities in relation to the University.

Has the Minister sought any such report from the University since the University was created?

2860

Hon. G H Licudi: No, sir, and that specifically refers to the Minister's responsibilities under the Act. It certainly does not refer to seeking information and seeking reports in relation to the questions that are being asked, but I have not asked for any section 45 report – (A Member: 43.) or 43! Any section 43 report yet. I may do so next week or next month or at the end of the academic year, but as of today I have not asked for that report.

2865

Mr Speaker: Before we proceed with Question 96, where the Government are able to provide information, there is another matter that Members should keep in mind. Information about the activities of the University will over a period of time come into the public domain. It is inevitable. In respect of undergraduate students, it might take three years before there is a convocation where degrees are awarded, but when that happens it will be in the public domain as to how many degrees have been awarded.

2870

In respect of graduate courses, that can happen sooner because a graduate course can be a year or two years. So over a period of time it is inevitable that we will all get to know how many students are being successful at the University and what courses they are pursuing.

2875

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, not just that, there is an obligation on the University to provide an annual report to the Minister.

2880

Mr Speaker: I thought I had asked you that.

Hon. G H Licudi: No, I thought the question was whether there was an obligation to lay the report before Parliament. (Mr Speaker: No, no, an annual report)

2885

There is no obligation to lay the report before Parliament. There is an obligation to provide an annual report to the Minister and, of course, if the Minister has that information after receipt of the annual report, it is right and proper that the hon. Members can ask, because that is then information that is in the possession of the Government. (Interjection) I can make a statement here in Government as to the affairs of the University following receipt of that annual report. I am happy to do so, of course.

Q96/2016
University of Gibraltar –
Cost of construction

2890

Clerk: Question 96/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Education provide the exact cost of the construction of the University?

2895

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the University was a Government project. Therefore, the Government was in control of the project and has the relevant details.

2900

Mr Speaker, the cost of construction of the University was £4,736,808.86. Good value for money, if I may say so myself.

Q99/2016
A-level subjects –
Available exclusively at Bayside or Westside Schools

Clerk: Question 99, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2905 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Education please provide a list of A-level subjects which are only available in either Bayside or Westside School? Thanks.

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.

2910

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, Sociology, Product Design, Italian and Further Mathematics are only available at Bayside. Economics and History of Art are only available at Westside. The offering of these subjects only at Bayside or Westside is determined by the availability of subject specialists to teach these at A-level and also to an extent by demand.

2915

It is the Government's policy that all students, irrespective of whether they are a boy or a girl, should have access to all subjects which are offered at A-level, irrespective of whether that subject is offered only at Bayside or only at Westside. This is of course subject to timetable constraints and the student satisfying the subject's entry criteria, in the same way as would apply, for example, to a Bayside student choosing subjects which are available completely at Bayside.

2920

Although some strides have been made in the implementation of this policy – for example, we have girls this year doing Further Mathematics and Sociology at Bayside; and not just this year, I understand this has happened in previous years as well – there has been no formal structure in place to make sure that the choice of all subjects is available to all students. Such a formal structure will be in place as from September 2016. This will mean that, subject to the constraints that I have already mentioned on timetable and entry criteria, subject to that, all students will be offered a full choice of subjects which are available at both Bayside and Westside.

2925

The result of certain choices could mean that a number of boys could become Westside students and a number of girls could become Bayside students. As an example, a girl wishing to do Sociology, French and Spanish can do so at Bayside and a boy wishing to do Economics, Physics and Maths can do so at Westside.

2930

The effect of the Government's policy is that no student will in the future be denied the opportunity of opting for a particular subject at A-level solely because that subject is not available in the school in which they are due to attend. Students will in the future have a full choice of all subjects offered at A-level across both secondary schools.

2935

I trust that this policy will be welcomed across both sides of the House.

2940

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: It certainly will.

Mr Speaker, considering the response – which I am grateful for – by the Minister for Education, doesn't this effectively express the desire, the appetite or the need to in fact merge the co-education issue that you know we were all discussing during the election campaign? Some were pro and some were against. Isn't this de facto evidence here that there is a case for 2945 co-education just by virtue of the fact that these subjects ... ? There is a demand by both schools and it would make sense to merge them.

Mr Speaker: I can allow a short answer, but no debate on the question of co-education at this stage.

2950

Hon. G H Licudi: Yes, Mr Speaker. Although I would be happy to have a debate, I am sure this is not the time or the place for it.

The effect of this is not that overnight we are going to have co-education in the sixth form. We are not going to have an integrated sixth form because we are going to have a sixth form at Bayside and a sixth form at Westside and in some cases some subjects offered in one and some subjects offered in another, for the reasons I have explained, particularly availability of subject specialists to teach that particular subject at A-level, which makes it unfeasible. Also due to numbers and demand may make it unfeasible to offer the two subjects in both schools.

2955

But the result of this is that there will be, over time – possibly as from September 2016 but certainly over time – an integration of boys and girls. So we will see an element if not full co-education at sixth form level, more by default than by design.

2960

This policy has not been designed or thought of in order to bring about co-education, because co-education is the ultimate aim. This policy has been thought of and introduced simply for the purpose of allowing a full choice to all students, and by default somebody who chooses subjects which are available in one school will attend that school. If there are timetable possibilities of attending only one particular subject, that is also a possibility, but certainly this will start at least at sixth form level.

2965

It is a different matter – and I do not want to go into the debate on co-education generally in the secondary sector. That is a wider debate which I understand certainly the Chief Minister answered some questions recently about this. This would be subject to careful thought and even a consultation process, because there are arguments for and against; there are educational issues that need to be considered.

2970

But the question solely relates to the sixth form or rather as they are now, years 12 and 13 at both Bayside and Westside. So yes, we will see inroads in that direction.

2975

Hon. E J Reyes: May I, Mr Speaker, very briefly just to ask the Minister ... ? He may already have it in his sort of forward planning.

In welcoming the news of greater choice of subjects at A levels in respect of our male and female students and so on at present, again there is some sort of arrangement whereby students on a certain particular subject area – Psychology comes to mind – have within timetabling constraints and so on, have an ability or a concession to be able to attend that class at the College of Further Education. Will the Minister at least be able to guarantee the young students that he will try and keep that option available? Because in gaining a lot of, of a greater scope in the choice of A-levels, we would not like to see the loss out of what we already have in that sort of backdoor type of unofficial consortium that does exist in many areas. It has for many years, and across the House we are all supportive of the principle that the Minister is aiming for.

2980

2985

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member is right. This is intended to widen choice, certainly not to limit choice in any way. So whatever choices are available now, will continue to exist in the future in addition to these provisions. The example the hon. Member raises, for example in Psychology – and IT is another example which is offered at the College – that is a consortium subject which is offered in a particular institution but is as a consortium of the three second schools in the secondary sector. This is not intended to dent in any way ... In other words it supplements and enhances the work done at consortium level by the three schools in the secondary sector and introduces a formal structure whereby all students will be given a choice.

2990

2995

3000 You will no longer have a student at Bayside getting three columns or four columns saying, 'Choose one from each' and 'These are the subjects offered at Bayside'. There will be full choice across the board, whether the subject is offered at Bayside or is offered at Westside. Then administrative arrangements will be made to make sure that that student is able – subject again to timetable constraints and entry criteria, as the Hon Member will know – the administrative arrangements will be made so that student will be able to attend those classes, even if it means becoming a student of the other school.

3005 That to an extent has already happened in some areas and I mentioned Further Mathematics. Further Mathematics is a case in point because that is offered usually – certainly in the last few years – in Bayside and students doing Further Mathematics at A Level clearly also did Mathematics at A-level. Girls would do that at Bayside. In some cases, we have had, for timetabling reasons, those girls doing Further Mathematics and Mathematics – that they had to do in Bayside – if they chose Further Mathematics also doing the third subject at Bayside, because it was not compatible with them being in Westside. So this has already been introduced in some way and that is why I said that there had been some inroads already being made into this. But this is now a formal structure of all choice being given to all students.

3010 Hon. E J Reyes: May I invite the Minister – and I hope he says yes – when this is achieved by September 2016, we can together with Mr Speaker, as an ex-teacher, we can all go out together and have a celebratory drink and toast to the students' health!

Q100/2016
Educational standards and school performance –
Assessment

Clerk: Question 100/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

3020 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, may I ask the hon. Member, the Minister for Education, are there any plans to review the possibility of establishing an independent unit or contract an independent unit to assess educational standards and school performance?

3025 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, there are currently no plans to set up or contract an independent body to assess educational standards and school performance and I would emphasise the word 'currently'. What I am saying is today I do not have plans to do this, but this is something that I am keen to discuss with professionals at the Department of Education and the position may change when a decision in a different direction may be made.

3030 But, if the question is, 'Today, do I intend to set up an independent body or contract somebody to do it now?', the answer is currently we have no plans to do that.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I move that the House do therefore now (Interjections) adjourn until 3 p.m. tomorrow afternoon, when we will deal with my questions first and then with those remaining on the Order Paper.

3035 Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn until tomorrow at three o'clock.

The House adjourned at 7.37 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

AFTERNOON SESSION: 3.05 p.m. – 5.23 p.m.

Gibraltar, Thursday, 21st January 2016

Contents

Questions for Oral Answer .....	3
CHIEF MINISTER.....	3
Q116/2016 Eastern Beach tunnel – Completion date.....	3
Q117/2016 Bluewater project – Update .....	4
Q118/2016 Calpe House – Government contribution to restoration and relocation.....	5
Q119/2016 GFA national stadium – Government funding.....	6
Q120-122/2016 Naturalised and nationalised British in Gibraltar – Numbers; housing waiting list.....	7
Q123/2016 Substituted public service posts – Number longer than three months .....	8
Q124/2016 No. 6 Convent Place – Cost of refurbishment, restoration and construction works.....	11
Q125/2016 Airport VIP lounges – Use by Ministers.....	11
Q126/2015 Debts owed to Government – Details; Credit Finance Company Ltd loans .....	16
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, TELECOMMUNICATIONS & THE GSB.....	17
Q101/2016 Midtown coach/car park – Source of investment.....	17
Q102-104/2016 Public finance debt – Breakdown of figures .....	18
Q105-106/2016 GSBA Ltd – Purpose.....	20
Q107/2016 Shell land lease – Financial terms.....	23
Q108/2016 Power station – Total cost and financing .....	24
Q109/2016 Urban wastewater treatment plant – Total cost and financing.....	27

Q110/2016 Maritime Cadet Training Scheme – Government-sponsored students.....	28
Q111-113/2016 Current and ex-prisoners and persons completing drug rehabilitation – Access to education, employment and housing .....	29
Q114/2016 GDP calculation for last 10 years – Breakdown by component.....	35
Q115/2016 Parliament building – Installation of lift .....	39
QUESTIONS FOR WRITTEN ANSWER.....	40
ADJOURNMENT.....	40
The House adjourned at 5.23 p.m. .....	40

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.05 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

Questions for Oral Answer

CHIEF MINISTER

Q116/2016

Eastern Beach tunnel – Completion date

Clerk: We continue with questions to the Chief Minister.
Question 116, the Hon. T N Hammond.

5     Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, could the Government provide an estimate as to when it expects the tunnel at Eastern Beach under the runway to be completed?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

10    Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, it is expected that the tunnel and road under the runway will be completed during the lifetime of this Parliament.

15    Hon D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Hon. the Chief Minister help us with this: is the tunnel under the runway going to be completed by GJBS, which was the intention of the previous administration – I think the hon. Gentleman made statements to the effect that that policy was going to be continued; or is it going to be completed and the works undertaken by some other company?

20    Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, an announcement will be made by the Government when the works are underway in respect of any part of the works which are not currently being finished by GJBS.

25    The hon. Gentleman knows GJBS have done an excellent job already of finishing the roundabout in the area of Beach View Terraces, the southern access road in that area, and have started the dewatering of the tunnel. If anybody else is going to become involved in any other aspect of the works an announcement will be made.

30 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, but can the Hon. the Chief Minister provide some further details and be a little bit more helpful in relation to this? Because, of course, if the works go to somebody else then one would expect – unless of course the works are going to be undertaken, for example, by OHL, I merely speculate in relation to this, which was a previous contractor, in relation to which the Government has these proceedings in London – that it would go out to tender. And therefore, if it goes out to tender, then we are talking about a process that is going to take longer than certainly could be done within the term of this Parliament, but it would take longer than just simply continuing the works when GJBS finish the works that they are presently undertaking.

35 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I do not envisage any eventuality which would make my original answer in any way incorrect.

40 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, if I could just ask then, for absolute clarity, obviously, within the term of the next Parliament, the Hon. the Chief Minister has given an assurance that the tunnel will be completed within the next four years?

45 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I think the hon. Member needs to look at the legislation. I understand an election would be due within 90 days of this Parliament having been sworn in, and so the maximum lifetime of this Parliament is probably just over four years.

Q117/2016
Bluewater project –
Update

Clerk: Question 117, the Hon. R M Clinton.

50 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Inwards Investment please give an update on the Bluewater project and whether the £83 million premium has been or is likely to be paid by Camoren Holdings Ltd?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

55 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, as at the date that the question was received, the £83 million premium is not due.

Discussions are still ongoing with Camoren in order to finalise arrangements which would lead to the payment of the premium agreed.

60 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, could the hon. Member please give an indication to those members of the public who registered interest in affordable housing as to when they might expect a response?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, that is a question that does not arise, in my view, from the question that has been asked.

65 Mr Speaker: I did not hear the supplementary.

Hon. Chief Minister: I have been asked, Mr Speaker, when those who have registered an interest in respect of some of the affordable housing on the Eastside may expect a response.

70 This is not a question, in my view, that arises, but I am quite happy to say very shortly, I understand.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you very much. And if the hon. Member would indulge me, in his Budget speech in 2015 he also mentioned another project at Coaling Island. Can he give us any 75 details on that?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, that is really quite a distance from the Eastside. I have absolutely no difficulty in continuing with this debate, but it would really be something that is not the sort of discipline we need to be getting into in respect of these questions.

80

Mr Speaker: I suggest to the hon. Member that he puts the relevant question on the agenda for the next meeting.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you.

85 I will continue on the Eastside project. Can the hon. Member give an indication as to when he might expect to complete negotiations? I see in today's New People they have been described as intense, but given that this project was announced back in June last year I would have expected the negotiations to be less intense by now. Can he give an indication as to at what point the intensity will reach a climax so that either he gets the £83 million or he decides to go with 90 another developer?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not like to go into the detail of the sort of intensity that the hon. Gentleman is talking about, but he can be assured that the climax is coming. (Laughter)

95

Hon. R M Clinton: I will look forward to that climax with baited breath! (Laughter)

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, he can be assured that I will enjoy it very much indeed.

Q118/2016

Calpe House –

Government contribution to restoration and relocation

Clerk: Question 118, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

100

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can the Government reveal what financial contribution it is making towards the restoration and relocation of Calpe House?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

105

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the amount donated by Government towards Calpe House in respect of the relocation and restoration of Calpe House is £144,245.

Q119/2016
GFA national stadium –
Government funding

Clerk: Question 119, the Hon. D A Feetham.

110 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please state what money has been paid either directly or indirectly by the Government, a Government-owned company, authority or agency, whether by way of gift, loan or otherwise, to the GFA or anyone else in respect of the proposed GFA national stadium project either at Europa Point or elsewhere?

115 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, after discussions with the GFA and UEFA, a temporary advance of £929,176 has been made to the GFA, which is due to be repaid with the funding agreed between the GFA and UEFA.

120

Hon. D A Feetham: Does the Chief Minister have a timeline as to when he expects that £929,000 to be repaid?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, during the course of the development of the new stadium.

125

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, but this must be a matter of contract and there must be a trigger date for the repayment of the £929,000. The course of the development is likely to take two years, three years – it might even take four years. Can he be more specific in terms of the repayment of this loan of £929,000?

130

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am sure I can be, but can I ask him to give me notice of the question and I will bring the details of the agreement entered into with the GFA.

135 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, this really is a supplementary that the hon. Gentleman should have expected because it arises out of the original question, but nonetheless I will ask the question again next time round.

What about in terms of interest? Is this an interest-free loan that is provided to the GFA, or is there interest accruing to the Government, and obviously the taxpayer, on this £929,000?

140 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I did not anticipate I was going to be asked the details of the loan. I was asked what amount had been lent; I was not anticipating to be asked this level of detail, but I can tell him it is not an interest-free loan.

145 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, if I recall correctly, I had once asked the Chief or asked the Government what expenses had been incurred, if any, in respect of the original development of the football stadium at Europa Point and I cannot remember the exact number – I know it was a very low figure he said. Does the Minister happen to recall if there has been no further expenses, or does he require further notice? I think I can deduce from the answer he has given me, because it is just a loan to the GFA, that there have been no other expenses; but if he is not certain, perhaps he could indicate that I should propose a question next time round.

150

Hon. Chief Minister: He is absolutely right, there are no other expenses.

155 Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Hon. Chief Minister please give details of with whom the contract is made with the GFA: is it directly with Government, or a Government-owned company?

Hon. Chief Minister: If the hon. Member gives me notice of the question I will be able to.

160 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I do not mind, because I really do not want controversy in the first session of Parliament after the General Election, which they won with 6.8 out of 10 people walking up and down Main Street. But, Mr Speaker, it does actually say 'by way of gift, loan or otherwise', it says 'directly or indirectly by the Government, a Government-owned company, authority or agency'. I would have thought that it arises out of one of those, and it is 165 certainly an answer that I would have expected to have been provided in the original answer to the question, or indeed you know for the Chief Minister to come prepared to answer a supplementary, because it really is something that arises out of it. But, Mr Speaker, I will give notice nonetheless, because I do not want –

170 Mr Speaker: Given the main question, 'what money has been paid either directly or indirectly by the Government, a Government-owned company, authority or agency, whether by way of gift, loan or otherwise', and the answer that the Chief Minister gave is that a temporary advance of £929,176 has been made. The Chief Minister has not said which entity has made that advance. I do not know whether he has that information or whether he does not, or whether at this stage he does not want to release it.

175 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I do not have that information because the question asks me what money has been paid. It does not ask me by whom the money has been paid, it asks me what money has been paid, and that is why the answer that has been prepared is the answer that has been given.

180 But, look, Mr Speaker, I am delighted that at least it is sinking that almost seven out of 10 people voted for us at the last Election – at least that is a positive outcome from today's Question Time.

Q120-122/2016

Naturalised and nationalised British in Gibraltar – Numbers; housing waiting list

Clerk: Question 120, the Hon. D A Feetham.

185 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, how many people have been naturalised British in Gibraltar since 1st December 2011 and how many of those (a) qualify to apply to join the housing waiting list and (b) have applied to join that list?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

190 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer this together with Questions 121 and 122.

Clerk: Question 121, the Hon. D A Feetham.

195 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, when, if they have not already done so, do each of those who have been naturalised British in Gibraltar since December 2011 qualify to apply to join the housing waiting list?

Clerk: Question 122, the Hon. D A Feetham.

200

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, how many non-British relatives of those nationalised British in Gibraltar between December 2011 and December 2015 were (a) in possession of a residency permit in Gibraltar before their relative was nationalised British and (b) were granted residency permits in Gibraltar after their relatives were nationalised British?

205

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, since 1st December 2011 a total of 1,090 people have been naturalised. Of these, 737 qualify to apply to join the housing waiting list and 208 have applied to join. All applicants naturalised who wish to join the housing waiting list are required to provide 10 years' proof of continuous residence and to meet the requirements, of course, of the housing scheme.

210

Seventy-two non-British relatives of those nationalised British in Gibraltar between December 2011 and December 2015 were in possession of a residency permit before their relative was nationalised British; 179 were granted residency permits in Gibraltar after their relatives were nationalised British.

215

Q123/2016

Substituted public service posts – Number longer than three months

Clerk: Question 123, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please provide details of all those posts within the public service that are currently being substituted for longer than three months?

220

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the question is answered in the attached schedule.

225

Mr Speaker: The schedule amounts to two pages, so could I suggest we move on to Question 124 and the Leader of the Opposition can come back and ask any supplementaries that may arise from the schedule.

Answer to Question No 123/2016

Civil Service

Department	Grade	WEF
Culture (Ministerial Office)	Senior Executive Officer (Ex GDC Officer)	May-12
Department of Education
Gibraltar College	TLR 1B - IT Co-ordinator	Sep-15
	TLR 2B - Assistant to Senior Teacher	Sep-15
	TLR 2B - Language Co-ordinator	Sep-15
Westside Comprehensive School	TLR 1B - Design Co-ordinator	Sep-15
	TLR 1B - Head of Spanish	Sep-15
	TLR 1B - Head of English	Sep-15
	TLR 2B - Head of Social Sciences	Sep-15
St Paul's First School	TLR 2C - ICT Co-ordinator	Sep-15
Bishop Fitzgerald Middle School	TLR 2D - Foundation Subject	Sep-15
St Joseph's Middle	TLR 2B - Year Co-ordinator & FSL	Sep-15
St Bernard's Middle School	TLR 2D - Foundation Subject	Sep-15
Driver &amp; Vehicle Licensing	Administrative Officer	Sep-15
Economic Development	Administrative Officer	Apr-15
Training	Instructional Officer	Oct-13
Invest Gibraltar	Executive Officer	May-15
Employment	Health & Safety Officer Grade 3	Dec-12
	EO (GDC Ring-fenced)	Mar-15
Environment Ministerial Office	Personal Secretary	Apr-14
Finance Centre	Senior Finance Centre Executive (Financial Services)	Dec-14
		Contd.....

Contd answer to Question 123 of 2016

Gibraltar Audit Office	Audit Manager	Jun-15
Gibraltar Courts Service	Senior Executive Officer	Apr-15
Gibraltar Health Authority	Administrative Officer	May-15
Housing Department	Principal Housing Officer	Dec-12
Human Resources Department	Human Resources Manager	Nov-12
	Senior Executive Officer	Jan-15
	Human Resources Officer (Ex GDC Ring Fenced)	Sep-14
	Higher Executive Officer	Sep-15
Income Tax	Commissioner of Income Tax	May-12
Justice Ministry	Executive Officer	Apr-15
	Personal Secretary	Mar-14
Ministry for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.	Higher Executive Officer	Feb-15
No 6 Convent Place	Administrative Officer	May-13
Technical Services
Ministerial Office	Executive Officer	Mar-15
Engineering & Design	SPTO	Feb-15
	PTO
Highways	SPTO	May-08
Sewer	HPTO	Oct-15
Treasury Department	Executive Officer	Mar-15

Q124/2016

No. 6 Convent Place –

Cost of refurbishment, restoration and construction works

Clerk: Question 124, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please state what has been the cost of all refurbishment, restoration and construction work done to No. 6 Convent Place from 235 9th December 2011 to 31st December 2015?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the total cost of the refurbishment, restoration and construction works at No. 6 Convent Place from 9th December 2011 to 240 31st December 2015 – the new annexe and the existing building – is £6,526,163.89.

Q125/2016

Airport VIP lounges –

Use by Ministers

Clerk: Question 125, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, on how many occasions from 9th December 2011 to 31st 245 December 2015 did the Chief Minister or any other Minister use the VIP lounge at Gatwick or Heathrow Airports; and what was the total cost per annum of such use?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I am advised that the information sought by 250 the hon. Gentleman is public information which is available on the Government website and is updated shortly after each of my trips.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the information is provided in the website. What there is not 255 on the website is a breakdown in relation to what relates to the VIP lounge in Heathrow and the VIP lounge in Gatwick. Does the hon. Gentleman have that information, and can he please provide it?

Hon. Chief Minister: I certainly do not have that information. If he wants it to be broken 260 down further, not only will it be provided but I will make sure that it is added to the Government website as a column so that the hon. Gentleman knows which of the two it is in the future.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, since 2012 there has been a considerable use by the hon.
265 Gentleman of the VIP lounge in London. We do not know whether it is the VIP lounge in Gatwick or Heathrow – it is probably a combination of both. In 2012 he used the VIP lounge on two occasions and in 2013 he used the VIP lounge on seven occasions, with a cost of £480 to £1200. He used the VIP lounge on three occasions in 2014, with a cost of £600 to £1,380; and he used the VIP lounge last year on four occasions, with a cost to the taxpayer of between £1,200 and £2,700.

Hon. D A Feetham: In the light of the fact that the hon. Gentleman used to examine the use of the two VIP 270 lounges by Sir Peter Caruana, or Peter Caruana as he then was, with the minute detail of a forensic accountant examining accounts, and indeed the criticisms of that use that he used to level at his predecessor, how does he justify that use of the VIP lounge which he used to criticise when he was Leader of the Opposition?

275

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman obviously knew that the information he was asking about was public information when he asked this question, because he was ready with it for his supplementary.

280

But let me tell him that I have flown, in the times that he has asked about, on 62 occasions and that I have not used the VIP lounge on 41 occasions by his reckoning, given the numbers of times he has said I have used it, and that between the period 7th June – he might want to make a note of this – 2006 and 18th October 2011, Sir Peter Caruana, then Peter Caruana, used the lounge on 78 occasions at a cost of £42,000 to the taxpayer, although the fees were then considerably lower.

285

So, Mr Speaker, it seems to me that I am using the VIP lounge must less than my predecessor used it, following exactly the rules that I indicated I would follow – which are that I would only use it when it was absolutely necessary and that I would not use it just not to go through security – and in fact the hon. Gentleman should know that most of the occasions when we use it are when we are travelling transatlantic and we need to connect and we would not connect if it were not for the VIP lounge.

290

I would also tell him that the Gatwick lounge, which is the one which was used many years ago when there was just a link to Gatwick, has the crest of Gibraltar there from the time that it was used by many of my predecessors as one of the entitled users.

295

So the ratio of use is exactly as it should be. Because I was very critical of the former administration using it all the time, I will not use it all the time, I have not used it all the time. The basic math tells him that I have used it a third of the times I have travelled. (Banging on desks)

300

Hon. D A Feetham: Well, in actual fact, I must apologise to the hon. Gentleman because I actually made a mistake. In actual fact, the figures that I quoted were the figures for the use of the VIP lounge - the Gatwick and the Heathrow we do not know – just for visits to London, not transatlantic. So, indeed, when you actually take the transatlantic and you add it to the London ones you are talking about double the number that I quoted and the number that he so self-satisfyingly quoted back at me with the comparison.

305

But, Mr Speaker, I have asked him because this is what I am concerned about and this is what I am charged to do. I am here to ask questions about Government policy, and the policy of the then Opposition when he was leading it was not to spend money on these VIP lounges because they were an expense to the taxpayer that was not justified. And, low and behold, he becomes the Chief Minister of Gibraltar and he seamlessly slips into exactly the same mode, which he criticised, of his predecessor. Now how does he justify the change of policy?

310

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, he was here for a lot of that time, so I am surprised he does not remember what the debates were about. The debates were about the fact that this lounge was used all the time.

315

He cannot get out of the fact that I have given him the statistics and in five years – in fact, just barely five years, almost, four years – when their party was in Government they used the lounge 78 times. In more or less the same period of time I have used it 26, although I have travelled 62. Now, Mr Speaker I think that demonstrates that we are keeping to our view that this lounge should not be used frivolously, We use it when we have to: we use it because we have got very tight connection times; I have used it because I have had meetings at the airport and I would not have been able to do that otherwise. Two thirds of the time I travel I do not use it.

320

325 He needs to understand that when they were here and what he used to defend was that it should be used all the time. All the time. I did not accept that, I did not think that was the right use of taxpayers' money, and I therefore make sure that it is only used when it is necessary.

I know it is very difficult for the hon. Gentleman to realise that we actually do what we say, that we demonstrate that we care about people's money and that we would only use this facility when it is necessary for the purposes of conducting Government business; not as the former Chief Minister said, because he did not like to show his toes at security.

330 Mr Speaker, I do not mind walking around in my socks like every other passenger has to do in order to comply with the exigencies of today's security requirements at airports. That is not what it is about. We use it when we have to, we do not use it frivolously, and the hon. Gentleman cannot get off that hook.

335 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I have more supplementaries?

Mr Speaker: You have some more! Yes. Absolutely.

340 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes. Well, Mr Speaker, let me read to him what he said in his supplementary to Question 336/2011. He said this to the Hon. Peter Caruana, Chief Minister:

I accept that Mr Speaker, and I accept, of course, that the cost of the hon Gentleman not having to take off his shoes and show us his toothpaste is not included today.

– I am not going to ask about shoes or toothpaste today –

But having now had an opportunity to glance at the schedule, can I commend to the hon Gentleman, and would he agree with me, that he should really, in my view, stop using this lounge – not 'use it for when it is necessary or essential': 'stop using this lounge' –

but if he does, can I prevail upon him to at least ensure he goes to Heathrow as often as possible because the cost of the Gatwick Lounge is £793 per trip, whilst the cost of the suite at Heathrow is £470, and, although I think, that he does not agree, that £470 is already too much to pay, is it not at least better that the hon Gentleman should pay that and not the £790 ...

And, of course, if you look at the actual schedule, you are talking about £2,700 at times that the Hon. ... Indeed, by no means is it out of the ordinary that he has been paying that amount of money in relation to these particular lounges – and that is the point, Mr Speaker.

345 At the time that he was Leader of the Opposition he was saying, 'Don't use it; it's costing too much money,' when it was only £470 and £790; and yet now, when it is costing £2,700, it is essential for Gibraltar business that the Chief Minister of Gibraltar uses it. Now, does he justify that shift in position from when he was Leader of the Opposition to now that he is the Chief Minister of Gibraltar, whether he takes his shoes off or he does not take his shoes off at the lounge?

350

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman does not factor into any of those calculations the savings that Gibraltar often makes because we do not have to stay overnight in London because we are able to make connections which we would not otherwise make by the use of the lounge, and sometimes there may be six of us travelling, or seven of us travelling, or 355 eight of us travelling, and the cost of us staying overnight in London would be higher than using the lounge.

But given that he wants to talk about pounds, shillings and pence, then let us do the comparison. Does he know that the amounts spent from the moment that charging was introduced when I told him it was, in 2006, by the Chief Minister, whom he defended, at those 360 lower rates, at those lower rates, was £43,000 – forty-three thousand pounds; and at the higher rates, because we use it much less, the total has been £33,000?

So, Mr Speaker, I am perfectly comfortable, because I know that I am doing what I need to do to ensure that we save taxpayers' money, that we use a resource that is there sparingly, that we ensure we use it when we need to and that it is not about, as the former Chief Minister said in 365 answer to an earlier question, which is what led to my remarks in that supplementary, that he used it because he simply could not be fussed standing at security with everybody else and taking off his shoes.

Mr Speaker, that is what being responsible is about, that is what we demonstrate, we ensure we look after taxpayers' money, and we use this resource sparingly and when required.

370 But I do remember, Mr Speaker, his face of adulation looking at Sir Peter – then simple Peter – clapping and banging the table every time he defended the use of that lounge. Well, that is when Sir Peter was not telling him to shut up and sit down.

Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, I can see the rueful grin of the Father of the House 375 when I am actually going through all these figures and the amount of money that the man that he has placed at No. 6 Convent Place is spending all this taxpayers' money, when quite frankly, and in fairness to him, the Father of the House, he would never have dreamt for one moment, being the socialist that of course he is, of spending £2,700 on a lounge in Heathrow and Gatwick.

380 But, Mr Speaker, you see, there is an inconsistency here. Not only did he criticise the previous Government in relation to this and now he does exactly the same, but in 2013 he told me, 'Well, I'm only using it for transatlantic flights, really as when there is a stopover,' which is part of the answer that he has given me today. But I look through this schedule and I see:

March 2013, Oxford Literary Festival with Mr G Flower
Oxford Literary Festival address, 'Deconstructing Self-determination' at Christchurch College, Oxford Attended reception, University College Oxford Dinner at Christchurch Oxford

I then look at further along the list and I see:

Meetings in London
Meetings with senior officials of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office
Conservative Party Conference

385 These are not transatlantic, because if you actually compare it with the dates that we know that the hon. Gentleman is going to be on transatlantic flights, they are not: they are just simple visits to London. So it just simply does not stack up, does it, that he is using these lounges just simply for transatlantic flights.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman is referring to information which I have 390 made public. It is not that he has discovered something and matched it up to something else. The schedule of what is on the website tells him when I have used it for transatlantic flights and when I have used it for another reason, and if I have used it for the purposes of travel which keeps me in the UK, there must have been a very good reason. In other words, I must have 395 needed to get somewhere at a particular time, which I would not have been able to do other than by using the lounge. That is what he is not getting. It is very simple.

The socialist sitting next to me, Mr Speaker – who is, in effect, sitting between two other socialists, I would have him know, and among seven socialists and three liberals – would be very happy to spend £2,000 if he was saving £3,000, £4,000 or £5,000 as a result.

400 So, Mr Speaker, it does not seem to be that the hon. Member gets it. Well, look, I will tell him this: he says that I am the person that Joe Bossano has placed at No. 6 Convent Place. Then he also says, when it suits him, that I am the Machiavelli who manipulated Joe Bossano into not giving him the crown of the GSLP and giving it to me. Well, Mr Speaker, Machiavelli or marioneta, but not both: he has to make up his mind!

405 Hon. T N Hammond: First of all, I really must commend the Hon. the Chief Minister on the depth of knowledge he has on this subject, when he was unable earlier to answer a question earlier on the GFA loan as simple as –

Mr Speaker: No, that ... I am sorry, I am not – (Interjections)

410

Hon. T N Hammond: I do have a question, of course.

Mr Speaker: Ask your question, but do not make a remark of that nature.

415 Hon. T N Hammond: Okay, I do have a question. The question is fairly straightforward: bearing in mind the intent of the use of the VIP lounge appears to be to save taxpayers' money, would those on the Government benches travelling in normal economy class when travelling British Airways, rather than in club class, to save further money, certainly on short haul flights?

420 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, we very often do. The hon. Gentleman, perhaps from his vantage point at the tower, may have seen that we do not often board the plane with the blue and red insignia; we very often go on the orange plane, and on the orange plane nobody yet has been able to find the club class section.

425 Mr Speaker: Any other supplementary on this matter?

Hon. E J Phillips: When the Chief Minister and other Ministers fly British Airways, is it not possible to use the fairly normal lounges that many people are accustomed to? I am certainly not accustomed to using the usual galleries at British Airways, but there are opportunities for that to happen rather than use VIP lounges. Unfortunately, I am not accustomed to the specific VIP lounges that you are referring to in this Chamber, but possibly maybe one day I will be.

What other lounges are there available that are low cost that include the price of the ticket or the price that you paying for?

I am grateful, thank you – a general enquiry.

430

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, for some time since I was a partner of Hassans I have enjoyed the benefits of a gold card with British Airways, and so therefore I am lucky enough to be able to enjoy the galleries lounge at any of the airports which offer them, and sometimes I am even able to wag my way into the first-class lounge by blagging about the fact that it is a gold card – and it is perfectly adequate, and that is why on two thirds of the occasions on which I have travelled I have used those lounges and not the other lounges.

435

I am delighted to hear him say that he hopes that perhaps one day he might be able to use the VIP lounge that I am referring to here today, because therefore he obviously (a) believes it should continue to be used and (b) has the intention of moving from that chair to the central chair at least on the other side and from there to here, because it is only used by the Chief Minister. There's another challenge on your hands! (Laughter and banging on desks)

440

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the Chief Minister's comment in relation to ... I really wanted to know what the VIP lounge was. Normal people are clearly not used to knowing what a VIP lounge is and I am grateful that the Chief Minister has now confirmed that only the Chief Minister is allowed to use the VIP lounge at Gatwick or Heathrow. I am grateful. Thank you for the response. (Interjection)

445

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just on that note, so that people understand what we are 450 talking about – because perhaps people confuse the VIP lounge with the club lounge at Heathrow and also at Gatwick – can the Hon. the Chief Minister provide some information, just for the purposes of listeners and viewers, in relation to what the VIP lounge is used for? Apart from simply sitting in the VIP lounge, also working in the VIP lounge, obviously, it is also a fast 455 track as well in relation to how you move around the airport, and perhaps the Hon. the Chief Minister can explain for the purposes of viewers and listeners to this exchange.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I am very grateful for the opportunity to do that. In fact, there is an element about the VIP lounge which is not very VIP at all, which is that there is 460 no food available in the VIP lounge, so the galleries and first-class experience of British Airways is much better in that respect. There is absolutely no shopping, so if you have got to the airport and have not bought anything for your wife or children you are really then in a very difficult position indeed and have to make the best of what is on the aircraft.

It is all about actually getting around the airport more quickly and it is about being collected at the aircraft and being able to get to your car and get out of Heathrow or Gatwick within 10 or 465 15 minutes of the aircraft landing, and about being moved from one aircraft to another without having to check in again, because they will come with your boarding passes. Therefore, it is for that reason and without, in particular at Heathrow, the issues about arriving at the airport at a particular time. The hon. Gentleman may know that one is now not allowed through into 470 Heathrow at Terminal 5, even from the check-in area, if you do not at least have I think it is an hour and 10 minutes, because they reckon you will not be able to make it to the gates.

Very often our connecting times are shorter than that, and what the lounge does is not to allow us to lounge at all – all it does is take us from the aircraft to a car that takes us to the other 475 aircraft and brings us home to Gibraltar or takes us to the United States or wherever it is that we may be going.

So it is not about lounging, it is not about more luxury; it is actually about the ability to work 475 harder for Gibraltar when we use this lounge and to get the best out of every penny that we spend.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I have used the lounge myself and I can assure the listeners 480 that we are not exactly slumming it when you use the VIP lounge.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for that indication.

Given that the hon. Gentleman has said that, I should just clarify that the rule that only the 485 Chief Minister can use this lounge – or engage the use of it, because there are other Ministers who may be travelling with him – is not my rule; it is the rule that was there before. It was the only rule that seemed to be sensible to keep, because the other rule was ‘book it every time we go to London’. That one I did away with; the one that it was only the Chief Minister who should use it I kept – with the full support of the 10 people who sit with me on this side of the House.

490 Mr Speaker: Right, I suggest we move away from the VIP lounges back to Parliament.

Q126/2015
Debts owed to Government –
Details; Credit Finance Company Ltd loans

Mr Speaker: Question 126.

Clerk: Question 126, the Hon. D A Feetham.

495 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, I used it with the former Chief Minister as well.

Mr Speaker, can the Government state how many companies, partnerships or entities owed the Government a cumulative amount of more than £50,000 in arrears in each of the financial years since 2011-12, providing a breakdown by reference to (a) PAYE, (b) Social Insurance and (c) other Government debts?

500

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer with Question 127.

505

Clerk: Question 127, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government state how many companies, partnerships or entities that owed the Government a cumulative amount of more than £50,000 in arrears in each of the financial years since 2011-12 have been provided with loans by Credit Finance Company Ltd?

510

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the information as requested is not presently available, as there is one database for tax and Social Insurance and another for Government debts.

515

The response therefore provides the number of companies, partnerships and entities with cumulative arrears for tax and Social Insurance in excess of £50,000; and separately, those companies, partnerships and entities with arrears of other debts in excess of £50,000.

It may well be that there are other entities when you add (a), (b) and (c) above which exceed the £50,000 limit. However, it is not possible to provide this information in that form. I will give it as follows.

520

In respect of PAYE and Social Insurance: in financial year 2011-12, 63; in financial year 2012-13, 74; in financial year 2013-14, 53; and in financial year 2014-15, 43.

In respect of other Government debts: in financial year 2011-12, 23; in financial year 2012-13, 29; in financial year 2013-14, 28; and in financial year 2014-15, 29.

525

Throughout the period of 2012-15, one such company has had arrears in excess of £50,000, in respect of Question 127 – in other words, those with loans from Credit Finance.

Clerk: That concludes questions to the Chief Minister.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, TELECOMMUNICATIONS & THE GSB

Q101/2016

Midtown coach/car park –
Source of investment

530 Clerk: We now move to Question 101, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Can the Minister for Public Finance please advise which Government-owned entity or agency has paid or committed to pay £17½ million for the Midtown coach/car park project, seeing as this amount does not appear as a capital project in the Improvement and Development Fund?

535

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

540 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
Mr Speaker, following the method that was introduced by the previous administration in respect of the car parks constructed in previous years, the car park company will be investing in the Midtown car park.

545 Hon. R M Clinton: I presume it is the Government-owned Gibraltar Car Parks Ltd: and will it own 100% of that facility?

550 Hon. J J Bossano: It will own the part that has been agreed with the contractor and which has not been put on sale. There are spaces that have been sold to members of the public and those clearly will not be part of it. The financing of the construction reflects the amount of car parkings that will belong to the car park company.

555 Hon. R M Clinton: Would I be correct in saying that the car parks sold to the general public ... that money does not accrue to the Government? And if perhaps the hon. Member could give some information as to how the remainder has been financed by the Government?

560 Hon. J J Bossano: The money that comes in from the sale of a car park goes to finance the building that is not financed by the car park company. The final account will be that the car park company will be paying for the one that it remains with, because they are not being sold to the public and therefore if those are rented they will produce a revenue.

In all the previous car parks that have been financed in this way, it has been the revenue from the rental that has serviced the cost of the investment. The same model is being used now.

Q102-104/2016
Public finance debt –
Breakdown of figures

Clerk: Question 102, the Hon. R M Clinton.

565 Hon. R M Clinton: Can the Minister for Public Finance please supply the total gross debt, cash reserves and net debt figures for public debts for each of the following month ends, namely: July 2015, August 2015, September 2015, October 2015, November 2015 and December 2015?

570 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
Mr Speaker, I will answer this question with Question 103.

575 Clerk: Question 103.

580 Hon. R M Clinton: Can the Minister for Public Finance confirm that there have been no breaches of the net debt limits or debt service ratio as set in the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008 at any time in the period from December 2011 to December 2015 inclusive?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
585 Mr Speaker, the gross debt at the end of each month from July to November 2015 has been £447.7 million. In other words, it has not changed.

The cash reserves in the same months have been £27 million, £30.7 million, £13.6 million, £34.6 million and £16.6 million.

The net debt for the same month has been £420 million, £417 million, £434.1 million, 590 £413.1 million and £431 million.

As regards the breach mentioned in the question, no such breach of the limits of ratio has taken place at any time in the period December 2011 to December 2015.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you.

595 I seem to have numbers for five months there, rather than six. Could the hon. Member please clarify or check?

Hon. J J Bossano: Yes, Mr Speaker, whenever we have answered questions previously we 600 made the point that the figures are not accurate unless they are a month in arrears, and therefore this is the figure at the 1st December, which is the end of November.

Hon. R M Clinton: Just to clarify then, we do not have the end of December number, which will be de facto 1st January, if I understand the Member correctly.

605 Hon. J J Bossano: The end of December will be 1st of January, and that is true of all the questions, as he will see in the other questions he has put.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you.

610 Clerk: Question 104, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Can the Minister for Public Finance advise if the Principal Auditor has sought clarification on any points from the Attorney General under the Public Finance (Control and Audit) Act section 56(1)(e) in the period from December 2011 to December 2015 inclusive?
615

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
620 Mr Speaker, I am informed by the Attorney General that no such clarification has been sought by the Principal Auditor in the period mentioned in the question.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, would it be in order for me to ask whether the Financial Secretary has asked for similar advice from the Attorney General?
625

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, he can ask it but he is not going to get the answer, because I asked the Attorney General and not the Financial Secretary, because that is what he asked in the original question.

Q105-106/2016

GSBA Ltd –

Purpose

630 Clerk: Question 105, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Can the Minister for Public Finance please advise the purpose of GSBA Ltd, whose £11 million of issued ordinary share capital is 100% held by the Gibraltar Savings Bank?

635 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
Mr Speaker, I will answer with Question 106.

640

Clerk: Question 106, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Can the Minister for Public Finance please advise with whom Credit Finance Company Ltd and Gibraltar Investment (Holdings) Ltd bank?

645

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
Mr Speaker, the purpose of GSBA is principally to hold real assets.

650

Credit Finance and Gibraltar Investment Holdings bank with the Government, since the former GSD administration established that Government companies are dealt with collectively in their cash transactions by the Treasury.

655 Hon. R M Clinton: Could the hon. Member please clarify what it means by 'real assets': is that real estates, physical assets, gold bullion? Some indication perhaps would be helpful.

In terms of the second question, by banking with the Government, which obviously is not a bank, I presume he means the savings bank?

660 Hon. J J Bossano: If I answer the second one, by Government I mean that the companies that he has mentioned and others do not have separate bank accounts, but collectively all the cash is dealt with by the Treasury. That was the system introduced previously and the system has not changed since 2011.

665 As regards the assets, the biggest single asset in that is in fact the building of the savings bank, the main street building. The others are not real assets, because if you consider the way the accounts of the savings bank are done, which are really the accounts of the special fund, there has never been a provision there showing anything other than the investments that the fund has made externally, as it were, with other people. It is not like a company account that shows the assets undepreciated. By putting things like the building or any other real asset in 670 there, we will be able to reduce the value over time, if there is a need for it, and produce therefore a more accurate reflection in the accounts. There is no other way of doing it other than by having it in a company.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you. I will try to deal with each point separately.

675 From my reading – and maybe the hon. Member can correct me – of the Principal Auditor's report in terms of Government cash reserves, would he agree with me that the majority of the Government's cash reserves, which I can only take to mean the Treasury, are actually held with the Gibraltar Savings Bank?

680 Hon. J J Bossano: The cash reserves of the Government are held in the Savings Bank, but the cash reserves can in fact – and have been, if the hon. Member looks in previous years – sometimes be less than the Government technically owns because part of it is owed to the Government by companies, or sometimes more than the Government technically owns because the cash surplus of a company is in fact included with the Government.

685 So in fact it is simply that there is one single pot of cash which covers Government Departments, authorities, agencies and companies.

Hon. R M Clinton: So my understanding, again if I am correct, is that the Treasury has a pool of money which collects in from Government agencies or Government companies. The Treasury and how the money, or the Government total cash reserves which would include the money it holds on behalf of companies, will be shown in the Principal Auditor's report in terms of the total cash reserves and how those cash reserves are invested. And if I have read the Principal Auditor's report for 2014 correctly, would the Member agree with me that the majority of that is invested in the Savings Bank?

695

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the Government does not have to put it in the Savings Bank. It generally does, but in fact there is nothing to stop the Government, for example, having a direct bank account with NatWest or Barclays. What I am telling him is that it is the Government that opens those accounts and not the companies.

700

Hon. R M Clinton: No, I understand that.

If I may come back to the investment by GSBA, again if I understand the Hon. Member correctly what he is saying effectively is that there is a fixed asset, which is the building in which the Savings Bank is housed. Could he explain to me how he reconciles that with the requirement to match the maturity profile of deposits?

705

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, because in fact the £11 million is less than the money that belongs to the Savings Bank as its reserves. That is to say the Savings Bank has more than £11 million, which it does not have to match to anything or anybody because it is its own money.

710

Hon. R M Clinton: So, Mr Speaker, by that logic I take it the hon. Member would accept that he has to keep at least the value of the investment, of £11 million, in reserves and that he cannot move that much out from the Savings Bank if he so chose.

715 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, it is not the case that it has to be kept; it is the case that, as a matter of policy, the Government intends to keep the profits of the bank in the Savings Bank. The Savings Bank could have rented the property and had it part of recurrent expenses; instead, it chose to buy it and hold it in a company, and therefore that is reflected in the profitability of the Savings Bank.

720

Hon. R M Clinton: I understand that, but that was not my question. My question was the Savings Bank Act specifically provides – and directs, in fact – the Financial Secretary to ensure that investments match as closely as possible to its maturity profile.

725

Now, obviously a fixed asset does not have a maturity date and, as you have just said, you have more profits in the bank than you have deposits and therefore it is not an issue. But by extension of that argument we would have to agree that you have to keep those reserves to cover that fixed asset.

730 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, as the hon. Member knows, the Savings Bank is programmed, as part of Government policy, to keep on increasing its reserves and retaining it and not distributing it to the shareholder, which is the Government. Therefore, what the maturity dates are about is the matching of the maturity of the external investments with the repayment of the debentures to the public.

735 The hon. Member is talking as if the Savings Bank tomorrow, for example ... in the month of December we had over £40 million maturing, and that has been repaid because we have had investments that have matured on the same date to enable ... It is not as if the position was that that £11 million represented maturing debentures and consequently the Government and the bank had to sell the baby to be able to pay of the debentures. That is surplus to the amount, because it is in excess of what is, if you like, owed to savers.

740

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I fully understand that. What I am saying is that the hon. Member could not, as is currently allowed under the Savings Bank Act, actually, as it were, pay a dividend to the Government that would eliminate the reserves such that they reduce below the cost of that fixed asset, £11 million; otherwise, he would not have a matching maturing amount.

745

Mr Speaker: May I say that the hon. Gentlemen should be careful that they are beginning now to debate. That was expressing a point of view. It was not framed as a question. It can be framed perhaps as a question – does the Hon. Minister agree with me that so and so – and then it becomes a question; otherwise you are making a statement.

750

Could I suggest that you rephrase it slightly, and then you are covered perfectly by the rules.

Hon. J J Bossano: Very good advice, Mr Speaker, because if he asks me if I agree with him the answer is going to be no – so just for the record! I am trying to satisfy his curiosity. I do not mind doing it and I do not think I am arguing with him or debating. I get on quite well with the Member.

755

The point is, of course, the choice was open to the Savings Bank not to invest in the building, for example, which, as I have told you, is the biggest element, and instead the building would have been owned by somebody else or some other company and there would have been a rental payment. Therefore, that would have been a reduction in the annual surplus.

760

The view was taken that, given the returns that we get, the return on the building would have been better if there was no rent, and therefore the asset had to be shown in some way. The only way that we can show the asset in the balance sheet, if the hon. Member looks at how special funds work, is that there really is no way of dealing with a building other than saying there is a company, the company owns the building and the value of the company reflects the value of the underlying assets into which the Savings Bank fund has in fact invested some of its reserves.

765

We do it, and we have done it, frankly, because we have done an exercise that shows that if, instead of doing it that way, we had not spent our own money, as it were, and invested in that, it would have been a less favourable return, so it was just a question of being intelligent about investing money.

770

Hon. R M Clinton: I thank the hon. Member for his indulgence. I think I have satisfied myself on the points on GSBA.

775

If I may return to the question of banking and Credit Finance and Gibraltar Investment Holdings, would the hon. Member agree with me that if Credit Finance, for example, or Gibraltar Investment Holdings, for example, have any surplus cash that they then deposit with the Treasury, that the Treasury in turn would deposit that cash with the Gibraltar Savings Bank, certainly given the profile as reported by the Principal Auditor for March 2014, when it would appear that the bulk of the Government's cash is in the Savings Bank?

780 Hon. J J Bossano: It is true that the bulk of the Government's cash and the cash of the companies is in the Savings Bank, because it makes more sense to have it there than to have it with another bank and not get any interest. Instead, it serves to maintain the liquidity in the Savings Bank.

785 The whole point of the question, as I understand it, is that the hon. Member wanted to know whether there were separate bank accounts, and the answer is no.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I do not know if you will allow this further final supplementary. Would the hon. Member agree, or perhaps he will disagree, that it is entirely possible to increase the deposit base of the Savings Bank by causing the Savings Bank to make an investment in a Government company, that Government company in turn depositing surplus cash with Treasury, who in turn deposits it with the Savings Bank?

790
795 Hon. J J Bossano: Well, it is theoretically possible to do that if one had nothing more worthwhile to do than do it. I can assure him that has not been done since 2011 and I do not know whether it was being done before 2011, but I think that the proportion of the Government money in the Savings Bank in 2011 was higher than it is now.

Q107/2016
Shell land lease –
Financial terms

Clerk: Question 107, the Hon. R M Clinton.

800 Hon. R M Clinton: Can the Minister for Public Finance please advise the financial terms upon which Shell is to be granted a lease on the land upon which the LNG storage tanks are to be situated?

805 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, this matter is currently part of the ongoing negotiations with the company.

810 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, would the hon. Member cast his mind back to the Chief Minister's Budget address of 2015, where, if I may quote the Chief Minister:

Another great driver of economic growth for our future, Mr Speaker, will be the establishment of an entirely safe Liquefied Natural Gas storage, re-gasification and bunkering facility.

The Government's discussions with interested parties suggest that the facility is likely to be financed entirely by third parties, giving the Government the option to invest in such a facility but not requiring us to do so.

815 Could the hon. Member advise whether the Government is taking up any such option, or whether the land is seen to be payment for some type of facility to participate in the LNG operation?

Hon. J J Bossano: I can tell him that there will be an investment by the Government; what I cannot tell him is the nature of that investment because those negotiations have not finished.

Q108/2016
Power station –
Total cost and financing

820 Clerk: Question 108, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Can the Minister for Public Finance please advise the total anticipated cost of the power station project and how this amount is to be financed, given that only £1,000 is provided for in the estimates for 2015-16?

825

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
830 Mr Speaker, the new power station is a design-and-build contract. As such, the precise cost changes with variations to the design, which, as Members will appreciate, is an iterative process. At present it is projected to cost around £73 million. Ongoing negotiations are underway to finance the majority of the cost through a Government-owned company.

835 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, in relation to the cost of the power station, have the costs that are ancillary to the power station. For example, the land reclamation – we now know that part of the power station is being built on the land reclamation – has that already been paid, or does it have to be paid?

840 Hon. J J Bossano: I cannot tell the hon. Member what has been paid until now unless he tells me information he wants and I ask the people who are doing it. All I can tell him is that the negotiations for the funding are still ongoing and there are things that have happened already but that does not mean that the invoices that have arrived have been paid or not ... without the hon. Member putting a direct question, for which I can then get a specific answer on a specific date.
845

Hon. D A Feetham: Does he accept that– in the light of the answer that he gave to Question 102 in relation to, for example, reserves, which stand at £16.6 million as at the end of December 2015, and indeed net debt stood at £431 million, very close to the £457 million debt limit – that 850 really the Government, as the law stands today, does not have the cash reserves, nor does it have the borrowing capacity in order to pay for the power station and the cost of £73 million?

Hon. J J Bossano: I only accept that that is accurate to the same extent that it was when he was in Government when they produced a list of projects of £1 billion and at the time they did 855 not have £1 billion. The reality of it is that of course the Government has got targets that it publishes ahead of time and we work to achieve the target by the date of that target. The hon. Member will see how these things fluctuate. In fact, if you ask me for one day's figures, then the following day it could be higher or it could be lower, because it is all about whether bills are being paid on a particular date or receipts arrive on a particular date. But the reserves of the 860 Government are not relevant to this, because I have already told him it will be done through a company.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, but it will be done by a company either capitalised by the Government through cash that the Government holds, ergo – the word that the hon.
865 Gentleman does not like us to pronounce – ergo, it is either from cash reserves of the Government or, alternatively, that company may borrow itself and may then effectively pay for it but from borrowing that the Government-owned company basically undertakes.

870 So, and at some stage, of course, the Government then has to step in, and unless that company is a profit-making company, the Government would have to step in or the Government would have to be some kind of guarantor in order to pay for that loan, I mean £73 million, a Government owned company... Unless that Government-owned company is producing some very serious profits it is very difficult to see or conceive of a situation where that Government-owned company is going to be able to pay £73 million to build this particular power station.

875 Hon. J J Bossano: Well I think the hon. Member, Mr Speaker, appears to have forgotten the system that they invented, which did not exist prior to the GSD being in government, which was in fact, as was explained at the time by the then Chief Minister, the greatest ever living Gibraltarian ... The position is that when this is done with a company there is a supposed higher element of risk that the lender is taking, precisely because it is not Government debt, and that 880 was said about, for example, the money that was raised for the car parks and the money that was raised for the hospital purchase and for the refurbishment of the building in Europort when that was converted into a hospital.

What the Government then explained in fact was that the agreements entered into by a company with a local bank, for example, which involved 20 years where there was an annual 885 payment and it involved a reducing element of interest on the balance of the loan because it was really like a repayment mortgage, where every year they paid off part of the original cost ... and therefore the £60 million of the hospital had been paid off like that. The car parks have been using that same system. Those systems were introduced as an alternative to public debt by the previous Government and it was explained in this Parliament, to questions that I put, that in 890 those cases there was a slightly higher element paid because in fact there was not a Government guarantee attached to that. That still is the system that is in place, the one they came up with.

Hon. D A Feetham: So, effectively what we are talking about is incorporation of a 895 Government-owned company that enters into some kind of lease arrangements in relation to the power station, whereby the power station is paid ... There are lease payments, for example, every single month or every six months or whatever, and over 20 years then the sum of £73 million will be paid over twenty years... the £73 million pounds. Is that what the hon. Gentleman is envisaging, the way that this is going to be funded?

900 Hon. J J Bossano: This is the nature of the funding model that is being looked at, that is still not 100% certain, because it is only one possibility – but it is the most likely one. That would be related to the assets – that is the real assets – that are being purchased. It will not cover everything, because there are certain things that are not covered by this kind of agreement, and the same has been done with other things where there has been an element of things that are 905 real assets, like construction, but other things that are not included and are not possible to include. But we are looking at using the mechanism that we found when we got there.

Hon. D A Feetham: I understand, and indeed we have had exchanges, he and I, in relation to 910 PFI arrangements, now for the last, I think its, 13 years. He may recall that in 2003, when the then GSD Government funded the hospital using a PFI arrangement, the public debt then was £78 million and the legal borrowing limit was £100 million. One of the points that I was making was that, actually, if you look at this PFI arrangement it is a way in which you can circumvent the legal borrowing limit, because if you had to borrow directly you would be over the £100 million.
915 At the time, he and the Hon. the Chief Minister were at idem – he was Leader of the Opposition – in relation to this. But you see the difference, then with now, is that then although there were commentators who were commenting adversely on the use of PFI arrangements because it is a form of hidden debt and were recommending that PFI arrangements be brought onto the balance sheet so that you can have a realistic debate on the real state of what the indebtedness

920 of the community of the nation is – and there were one or two, me included, even though I did not understand matters then as the hon. Gentleman – now the United Kingdom, for example, includes PFI arrangements as part of the calculation of public debt. Is the Government intending to go down the route of the United Kingdom and do that as well?

925 Hon. J J Bossano: Well I do not know whether it falls into the definition of a PFI arrangement or not, because in fact the former Chief Minister used to argue that what we did in our previous term in office with the incinerator had been a PFI arrangement without us knowing that it was a PFI arrangement, where somebody came in, built something and ran it.

I do not think that leasing assets, where there is a payment over the life of the asset which involves interest and repayment of the original sum, is necessarily the same as a PFI arrangement. But in any event I do not accept that it is part of the public debt and I am not sure that it is right in saying that things like this in the United Kingdom are included in the public debt. But even if they are, they are certainly not included in the public debt of everybody else in Europe. And in any event, even if we were to include this in the public debt, it would be nowhere near the 75% of GDP that the UK has or, for example, the ratio of debt to GDP that the third biggest economy on the planet has, which is 240% of GDP in Japan.

930 I do not think that leasing assets, where there is a payment over the life of the asset which involves interest and repayment of the original sum, is necessarily the same as a PFI arrangement. But in any event I do not accept that it is part of the public debt and I am not sure that it is right in saying that things like this in the United Kingdom are included in the public debt. But even if they are, they are certainly not included in the public debt of everybody else in Europe. And in any event, even if we were to include this in the public debt, it would be nowhere near the 75% of GDP that the UK has or, for example, the ratio of debt to GDP that the third biggest economy on the planet has, which is 240% of GDP in Japan.

935 So these things, from my perspective ... As the hon. Member knows, I view it on the basis that if you raise money, for example, to invest in a car park – which was the argument that was used by the Government when they did it the first time – and that, in effect, produces an income stream, then really this is not money that you are raising in order to produce a public service; this is ... Whether the Government should be in the business of running car parks or running other things is a different issue, but the nature of that transaction is that it would be no different if it was a private investor raising money to build a car park and then use the money that is produced by the utilisation of an asset to repay the cost of the asset.

940 So these things, from my perspective ... As the hon. Member knows, I view it on the basis that if you raise money, for example, to invest in a car park – which was the argument that was used by the Government when they did it the first time – and that, in effect, produces an income stream, then really this is not money that you are raising in order to produce a public service; this is ... Whether the Government should be in the business of running car parks or running other things is a different issue, but the nature of that transaction is that it would be no different if it was a private investor raising money to build a car park and then use the money that is produced by the utilisation of an asset to repay the cost of the asset.

945 From an economic point of view, whether it is a public entity or a private entity that is doing the transaction does not alter the nature of the transaction. Therefore, there are assets that have got an effect on the economy and on the output of the economy and it is not an unreasonable way to do it. I think the real use of public debt is when you are doing things like schools or things like that, which, at the end of the day, are assets that you create, which, after they have been created, do not produce income; all they produce is additional cost. There is no way, therefore, of amortising that asset and saying, 'Well, I am going to pay it out of the income that it produces.'

950 From an economic point of view, whether it is a public entity or a private entity that is doing the transaction does not alter the nature of the transaction. Therefore, there are assets that have got an effect on the economy and on the output of the economy and it is not an unreasonable way to do it. I think the real use of public debt is when you are doing things like schools or things like that, which, at the end of the day, are assets that you create, which, after they have been created, do not produce income; all they produce is additional cost. There is no way, therefore, of amortising that asset and saying, 'Well, I am going to pay it out of the income that it produces.'

955 So you know I do not accept the analysis and the logic of the analysis, but I accept that he has that view and is entitled to have it, and he used to have it when he used to criticise the GSD in 2003. At the time, he criticised me for agreeing with the GSD; and now he is criticising me for disagreeing with the GSD – now that he is a GSD.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, when he talks about all these countries having a huge debt, of course – sorry, large percentages to GDP in terms of debt; he has quoted the United Kingdom – it is not comparable. We have, for example, Bermuda, which is an Overseas Territory that has 36% debt to GDP, are in financial difficulty, because at the end of the day one also has to look at different factors, not just simply ratio of debt to economy – we have also got to look at income and other issues like that.

960 But just examining a little bit further how the model that is going to be used in relation to this particular power station, are we, is the Government exploring that the power station is going to be owned by the French company over the 20-year period and the French company perhaps is going to be selling electricity, or is it going to be just simply a straightforward lease? Can he give us some more information in relation to that?

970 Hon. J J Bossano: No, Mr Speaker, when it is ready to run there is an initial period where the French company will be involved, because there is a period of warranty and a period when our 975 people from the old generating station will be working alongside theirs, but I think there is a maximum of a year and then, after that, they go and we take over. So the whole issue is that the operation will be run by the Gibraltar Electricity Authority, and once the thing is completed it will be owned by the Gibraltar Electricity Authority to the extent that, like anything else, if tomorrow we buy in the old station a generating set and that generating set is financed by an arrangement where we are paying, if you like, in instalments, technically the engine is mortgaged in support of that facility, but that is the only element.

Q109/2016

Urban wastewater treatment plant –
Total cost and financing

Clerk: Question 109, the Hon. R M Clinton.

980

Hon. R M Clinton: Can the Minister for Public Finance please advise the total anticipated cost of the urban wastewater treatment plant project and how this amount is to be financed, given that only £1,000 was provided for in the estimates for 2015-16?

985

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, there is no anticipated cost in respect of this project in the current financial year.

990

Hon. R M Clinton: Would I be correct in assuming then that what the Hon. Minister is saying is that that project will not proceed in the financial year 2015-16?

995

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member's original question is how are we going to finance it in the current financial year with £1,000, and the answer is we are not even going to spend the £1,000 in the current financial year. He will have to wait until he sees next year's Budget to see what will happen after 1st April.

1000

Hon. R M Clinton: That may be the case. I understand what the hon. Member is saying, but does he have an indication of what the cost might be?

1005

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, he is asking me how am I going to pay it if there is only £1,000 in the estimates for this year, and the answer to his original question is the way I am going to pay it is that the £1,000 in this financial year, approved by Parliament at last year's estimate, is not going to be spent.

1010

If he wants to know how we are going to do it next year, then I am afraid he has to wait for the estimates for next year, which have not yet been prepared because the submissions come in at the end of January and then it has got to be looked at by the Treasury, and then that exercise finishes with a figure which will, if there is a figure, will be there when he gets the book in April, and that is when he can ask me the question.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, but hon. Member, if I recall correctly, at the last election the contracts for this treatment plant were imminent to be signed. Surely he must have an idea. If you read my question carefully, it is divided in two parts:

Please advise the total anticipated cost of the waste treatment plant project and how this amount is to be financed, given ...

– pause –

1015 So there really are two elements to that question. My first element is: how much do you think it is going to cost? Simple as that.

1020 Hon. J J Bossano: Well, I do not think there are two questions, but if there were, given that he has put so many different questions in other subjects, he should have put this one in two, because, as far as I am concerned, he is curious to see how I am going to meet what he expects to be an anticipated cost of £x-thousand more than £1,000, since I have only got £1,000. And given that he is as minded as I am to spend as little as possible, I would have thought he would be glad that we are not even going to spend the £1,000.

1025 Hon. R M Clinton: Well, of course I will ask this question in the next financial year. Thank you.

Q110/2016
Maritime Cadet Training Scheme –
Government-sponsored students

Clerk: Question 110, the Hon. E J Reyes.

1030 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can Government provide details in respect of any Government-sponsored students currently participating in the Maritime Cadet Training Scheme, indicating at what stage they are in with their training and estimated completion date together with qualifications aimed to be attained?

1035 Clerk: Answer the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, there are currently no students participating in this Scheme.

1040 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, the last time I asked this question was probably a year and a half or so ago. Minister Costa did answer me at the time that they were at a drafting stage and about to place out an advert to see whether there were any takers into the Scheme. Does the Minister have any information on whether anybody took on that offer – and has probably left the Scheme, because his factual answer is that there are none at the moment, but maybe since the time I asked the question to now, some did engage and are no longer in training courses. Is he aware of any of those statistics?

1045

1050 Hon. J J Bossano: As far as I am aware, there has not been any interest from anybody expressed in the Scheme. The Scheme, as the hon. Member knows, is not funded by the Government – it is funded by the industry.

Hon. E J Reyes: One other one, Mr Speaker – a supplementary, he may know: does the Government intend, perhaps in the short-term future, to advertise again to see if there will be any interest arising from potential students?

1055 Hon. J J Bossano: It is not that there has been any change of policy. I think the people who are involved in running this put out an advert when they think an advert has to be put out, or they test the interest in some other way. All I can tell the hon. Member is that I have asked the question from those concerned that he is asking me, and the answer that I am giving him is the 1060 answer that they gave me. But it is not that there has been a decision to discontinue this or to discourage anybody.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, I hope the hon. Member agrees that I periodically, perhaps once a year, ask this type of question because it would even enable him, when he meets with those 1065 who have traditionally been contributors to the funding of this Scheme, to make them aware that there is supposedly, from what I hear from some youngsters, there is some type of interest.
And it would be great, when one thinks really long-term plan ... In the same way that Gibraltar now boasts very proudly of having a Gibraltarian as Captain of the Port, if one wants him to be succeeded by yet another Gibraltarian we need to ensure that we do have the right people with 1070 the right qualifications in that particular area. He and I sing from the same hymn sheet when we like to make sure that our people are trained and attain as high a qualification within their areas of professional expertise as possible.

Hon. J J Bossano: I will make further enquiries in this and let the hon. Member know, and also perhaps what has happened to those who were last in it.
1075

Hon. E J Reyes: I am grateful, Mr Speaker.

Q111-113/2016

Current and ex-prisoners and persons completing drug rehabilitation – Access to education, employment and housing

Clerk: Question 111, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1080 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm what academic and vocational or skills-based training courses/programmes are available to those persons currently serving custodial sentences at HMP Windmill Hill and to those who have completed a term of imprisonment?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.
1085

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
Mr Speaker, I will answer with Questions 112 and 113.

1090 Clerk: Question 112, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm what support is available to those persons who have completed drug rehabilitation and are in need of remunerated employment?

Clerk: Question 113, the Hon. E J Phillips.
1095

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm what support is available to those persons who have recently completed a term of imprisonment to access housing, employment and education opportunities?

1100 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
1105 Mr Speaker, persons serving sentences at HM Prison receive regular counselling from a professional qualified counsellor provided by the training company and are followed up by visits on release.

As part of the process they are encouraged to take up training for employment that is available and for which they are suitable on release. Whilst they are at Her Majesty's Prison, 1110 training is offered with a course currently delivered on carpentry, which can lead to the Level 1 City & Guilds Certificate on maintenance operations. Additionally, there are English, maths and Spanish courses up to GCSE standards delivered to those who are willing to undertake them.

Those who have completed their term of imprisonment are encouraged to participate in the training programmes for the construction industry, which would involve them actually being taken on and paid the minimum wage.

1115 Persons who complete the drug rehabilitation programme in Bruce's Farm and register with the Employment Service are, on registration, referred by the Employment Service to the EDEC training section. They are then interviewed to explore past employment history, employment experience and future employment expectations. Daily vacancies are identified as suitable and 1120 individuals sent to those vacancies. Some are additionally supported by the in-house counsellor, who is also serving the Prison, as they may have been previously serving custodial sentences.
Sometimes you get a connection between the drug and the custodial sentence.

As regards access to housing, it does not follow that because a person has recently completed a term of imprisonment his housing situation has changed. Any person entitled to 1125 apply for Government housing is treated according to his or her requirements irrespective of whether they have served a prison sentence or not. If the person is homeless, the procedure for dealing with homeless persons would apply, again without discrimination.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the hon. Gentleman confirm what educational opportunities ... I think 1130 he answered the question in respect of housing in relation to Question 113, but not in relation to the educational opportunities.

Hon. J J Bossano: Well I do not know whether one can say that learning a craft is not an educational opportunity, but I think the educational opportunity is covered by the reference that 1135 I made to English, maths and Spanish classes up to GCSE level, which does not prepare you specifically for a particular trade but it improves the literacy and numeracy skills, and that is also available but it is not something that a lot of people want to take up, to be quite honest.

Hon. E J Phillips: Thank you for the hon. Gentleman's answer to those three questions.
1140 If we go back to yesterday, when Mr Licudi, the Minister for Justice, answered the question when I put it to him that, as part of getting people back into work after they have had significant problems with either offending or reoffending, the key to this is getting people back into work, would the hon. Gentleman agree with me that we need to be doing more than just encouraging 1145 people back into work? Offering English, maths and Spanish is a good thing – of course it is a good thing – but surely we should be doing much much more than just offering skills in carpentry. There must be other forms of ... IT ... Given the advances in the world in technology, that we should be offering further types of courses that are able to engage people and get them back into work, rather than looking simplistically at issues such as carpentry or language-based skills.

1150 Would the hon. Gentleman agree with me that we need to look at other ways to encourage people back into work with different types of courses that target the need for our community to resource other work places?

Thank you.

1155 Hon. J J Bossano: As the hon. Member may know, the focus in training has been, from 2011, that the training is driven by an analysis of the labour market on the basis that, frankly, people expect that they have got a better chance of getting a job if they get training than if they do not;
and if you train them for something for which there is no work, then at the end of the day they come back and say, 'Why have you trained me?' In effect, it is by analysing the skills shortages in 1160 the market and analysing the frequency of vacancies that are open in certain areas that the numbers of places offered in different trades is designed.

Everybody who comes out of serving a custodial sentence is given the same opportunity as somebody who has not been in prison. It is not that you get better treatment for having been in prison than you would, because otherwise the guy who does not go to prison will say, 'Do I have 1165 to go to prison to get better treatment?' But people should not be discriminated against, and of course we make a particular point of offering them training while they are still in prison so that, if they are willing to take on training, there is no gap between the release and the employment because the training company will offer employment to them immediately they come out if they are prepared to do it as part of a training programme.

In addition, we generally are prepared to give a longer period of time for trainees who come 1170 out of prison, on the basis that they have got greater difficulty because normally employers will be more reluctant; and therefore, in order to provide a more attractive incentive to the employer, we would normally negotiate with an employer that we would help to finance the training period longer if we want to encourage him to take somebody who has come out.

I think the most important thing, from the perspective of what we are trying to do to help 1175 stop people falling back into and finishing up in prison, is that during the counselling period we do everything we can to persuade them that the best way is for them, immediately they come out, to come to us and we see what we can do to get them employed as soon as possible after they come out – because we feel that it is the gap between the coming out and the getting a job that is when they are most vulnerable to getting into bad habits.

1180

Hon. E J Phillips: Thank you to the hon. Gentleman for the answer to that question – a lengthy answer to that question.

I would just like to explore in a bit more detail certain aspects of that, because the Minister for Justice talked about, statistically, yesterday, that 58% of people currently at the Prison are 1185 reoffenders. When you contrast that with the many thousands of people – and I do not say that in any way to criticise him, because it is a very difficult process given that we have a number of building projects undergoing in Gibraltar, but if one reconciles the fact that there are over 12,000 people moving each day through the Frontier to work in our jurisdiction, is it not right that we should consider analysing those jobs that those people are filling to try to see whether 1190 those people that are coming out of prison, or people that are in prison, and are in need of those skills ... that we do much much more to facilitate them going into those jobs? What I mean is, the hon. Gentleman is looking at the skills that are within the community. I think it is right to say, and I think it was reported recently in the press, that many thousands more people are crossing the Frontier to access opportunities in Gibraltar. I think it is right also to confirm that every 1195 opportunity should be open to everyone, irrespective of whether someone has completed a custodial sentence or not. But what attempt has the Government made to increase the possibilities and give them better opportunities for getting back to stop the cycle of crime?

1200 Hon. J J Bossano: Well I have always felt, Mr Speaker, that in fact our people are discriminated against when it comes to competing in the labour market, because we have got you know, people – not just who are born in the hinterland but born anywhere in Europe – whose background we know nothing about and therefore that when they come here they start with a clean sheet; whereas if you are a local everybody knows your life history, and that counts against you because you know you get stigmatised and branded.

1205 What we try to do, to compensate for that, is basically encourage people, to try to get them started in a job on the minimum wage, which is what we pay for trainees, which in a way is really, if you analyse it, the most we can pay. I mean there are 9,000 people on the minimum wage in Gibraltar – you could hardly be paying people more than the minimum wage while they are training and then say to them, ‘When you finish your training you will get a wage cut because the employer will only pay you the minimum wage.’

1210 But by trying to persuade them to go straight in I think is the best way of, in effect, getting them into that job before that job goes to an outsider, but there is a problem of resistance on the part of prospective employers and there is no getting away from that. The only thing we can do is try to change that attitude on the part of the employers and accept that everybody has got to be given an opportunity when they have settled their debt with society, and have an opportunity of building up their lives again. Certainly, as far as we are concerned, the money we invest in doing that is money well invested.

Hon. E J Phillips: I could not agree more in relation to putting in our resources where people can get back into work after a long period of offending, or at least a term of imprisonment.

1220 The reason why I asked the question insofar as access to the housing, employment and education opportunities, of course everyone should be afforded, if they have the need, to access housing.

1225 I declare an interest that I have had recent experience with a number of individuals who have gone through rehab successfully and have entered the aftercare facility successfully, but it is the issue of obtaining housing, employment opportunity and education opportunity as well which is increasingly, I find from my experience, and certainly I have declared my interest in it from clients I have had in my professional capacity ... that it is difficult for them to access those three, and that is why I raised the question.

1230 Insofar as housing opportunities, I asked the Minister for Housing yesterday as to whether there is any way in which we can encourage or at least give some special treatment. I understand that is not going to be the case at the present time, but I would just highlight the problem that I have experienced, and people have said to me that coming out of prison is a difficult process. They want to get back into a life free of crime and reoffending, and that is why I raise the point that surely the Government should now be looking at more of a joined-up approach in relation to accessing those opportunities and those services which they will certainly need for them and their families.

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, I do not think there is any political difference between us as to what the objectives should be, and however much we want to be doing now there are always ways of improving it. But it is a difficult issue, because people sometimes say, ‘Well, look, if somebody comes out of prison they seem to be getting more attention than somebody who did not go to prison, so if you are a law-abiding citizen and therefore you have to wait in a queue longer than somebody else.’

1245 In the area of training we do not have that problem because the training that is provided is provided in anticipation of people getting employment because the jobs have already been identified; therefore it is not that if somebody from prison has been given training, somebody else that has not been to prison will be discriminated against and not get the training. The training is based on the availability of people and the availability of jobs, and there are more jobs than people – otherwise we would not have any frontier workers.

1250 I think in housing it is a different issue, because it would be a very difficult thing, I think, to ... There is already a provision for treating social cases and treating homeless people, and the category of homeless and social cases cannot then be subdivided with a higher priority given to ex-prisoners I think without creating, in my view, other problems.

1255 Certainly I take note of the views of the hon. Member, and if there are ways in which we can do more than we are doing already the hon. Member can rest assured that it will be done.

1260 Hon. E J Reyes: May I, Mr Speaker, because I am very interested in the answers that the Father of the House has provided. At the very beginning of his answer he mentioned that there was counselling provided through the training company, and I am not certain whether that was applicable to persons who have completed drug rehabilitation or those who have completed a term of imprisonment. My confusion, if I throw it in now, was further exaggerated on my part when later on he spoke about an in-house counsellor. Perhaps the hon. Member can clarify that for me so I have a clearer vision.

1265

Hon. J J Bossano: The Economic Development and Employment Company has had a counsellor working at the prison part time, and that counsellor, in addition to visiting people while they are serving a sentence, continues to maintain contact with them, visit them, or they come and see him at our premises, after they have been released.

1270 The people who have been in Bruce's Farm and then come and register as unemployed and are referred to us for training opportunities also have the opportunity of having the support and the advice of the counsellor that is there, because the counsellor sees people on the premises and in the Prison, but he does not see the people at Bruce's Farm because they have got their own in-house situation. So the in-house counsellor that I am talking about is only just one person, who is a part timer.

1275

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, that has clarified that.

1280 Mr Speaker, really it is just sort of an update and a continuation of ... Perhaps the Minister may or may not be able to confirm to me. I know we used to have a counsellor within the Employment Services: are we talking about the same person, or are we talking about an additional counsellor? Because the counsellor who was inside the Employment Services was also very keen and very able in helping people prepare even their CV and prepare them for the job application process. Are we talking of a completely different system or just an enhancement?

1285 Hon. J J Bossano: This is the person that was actually doing voluntary work before – perhaps in the time of the hon. Member. People get help with their CVs but they do not get help from the counsellor; it is done as a normal routine thing every time somebody registers as unemployed and comes to us from the training point of view and gets interviewed. We help to prepare the CV because that enables us to evaluate what vacancies he is likely to be suited for.

1290 The way that this works is that when employers are contacted about a vacancy they are offered a selection of three, four or five individuals, depending on the kind of vacancy it is and on the supply of labour that we have got, on the basis that if they find one of those people suitable then they will get financial support as an inducement to take them on and in the knowledge that initially there is a period when the employee is not as productive as if he would be if he had been doing the job for a longer period of time.

1295

1300 So that the employer is, if you like, encouraged to take a less experienced employee as opposed to a more experienced one coming from outside. We try to balance the cost to the employer by agreeing the period of training that is required, and if there are people you know, with problems that make it more likely that the time they will need will be longer, then that serves a dual purpose. We agree a longer period, taking into account that perhaps somebody else might be able to gain the level of experience in a shorter time than somebody who has come out from drug rehabilitation or whatever, might need longer to do it, and the employer would then be, if you like, inclined not to take somebody would be, if you like, less productive over a longer period of time.

1305

So the assessment that is done by the evaluation of the counsellor and by helping people with their CVs helps us to try and match the skills and availability with the requirements of the employer. In that exercise we are using somebody that is a highly experienced and qualified person and who does the work for us by getting an hourly fee on a part-time basis.

1310 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just a very short question off the back of that.

One of the questions, which was 112, was in relation to what support is offered in relation to persons who had completed drug rehabilitation and the need to get them back into work. I think the counselling that the hon. Gentleman is referring to is the type of counselling that gives people who have served a custodial sentence and those prisoners an insight into their 1315 criminality, an understanding of why they have committed those criminal offences, and therefore how to make reparation and remedy that situation so they can get work and get a job in the future. I think, that is the type of counselling, for the avoidance of doubt, that is the type of counselling I think the hon. Gentleman is referring to. Is that right?

1320 Hon. J J Bossano: I can tell the hon. Member that the counsellor that we have provides what he is saying while they are in prison and continues to provide a follow-up, which is more helping them to adjust having come out of prison, and that if the people who have come out from drug rehabilitation feel that it would be helpful to them to also sit down and talk to the counsellor, since the counsellor is in the premises, we do not say to them, 'Well, no, you cannot see the 1325 counsellor because you have not been to prison.' The system is predominantly, and has been predominantly introduced, with a view to helping the reinsertion into a normal working life of people who have served a custodial sentence, but when people who come out from drug rehabilitation come to us, then given that that facility exists, if they want to have access to it and make use of it, then they are given the opportunity to do it. The point that I also made was in 1330 fact that it is quite often the case that people who come out of prison have also had drug problems.

I am just giving him a broad outline of how the thing works, basically.

1335 Hon. E J Phillips: Again, I am grateful for the answer to the question and I am familiar with the process in terms of counselling and the good work that that counsellor does insofar as trying to bring that individual back into society so they do not reoffend.

I am just more interested in the support and the services available to people that commit criminal offences and then back into the community. It is quite clear from page 77 of the hon. Gentleman's manifesto that the measures that are in place to get people back into work are 1340 going to be further enhanced, and that is the commitment that the Government has made in respect of reintegrating individuals back into work.

If the hon. Gentleman can ... I am not too sure whether he has the information available, but if he can explain what enhanced measures, which are referred to in the manifesto, will be made available to do that, to get people reintegrated back into work. I am grateful.

1345 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, when we went into the Election we were not expecting to complete the manifesto in the first two months.

In effect, what I am saying to him is that by providing the service we have been providing, there is also a process where we ourselves learn what more can be done.

1350 The hon. Member has referred to the numbers that are reoffending. I do not know what would be the nature of the answer that was provided before, but I think one needs to see whether there has been, over a period of time, an improvement in that ratio. That would be the kind of thing that ... If we are investing money and investing resources and we see that this is not delivering the kind of improvement we all want to see, then we need to say, 'Well, look, maybe 1355 we need to go back and put our thinking caps on and see where else we could be doing things that we are not doing which might be producing a more positive result than we have had to date.'

That is the kind of enhancement. The enhancement would be, in effect, by examining our own success rate compared to what was happening perhaps before we had the counsellor.

1360

Q114/2016
GDP calculation for last 10 years –
Breakdown by component

Clerk: Question 114, the Hon. D A Feetham.

1365 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please provide a breakdown by component of the GDP calculation for the last 10 available years, as performed by the Statistics Office?

1370 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, the final figures for GDP calculated by the income method for the last 10 years, eight of which were when the hon. questioner's party was in Government, are as follows.

1375 The GDP for 2003-04 was £560.39 million. Of this, the income from employment accounted for £322.21 million, income from self-employment was £51.61 million, gross trading profits of companies was £90.91 million, gross trading surplus of Government enterprises was £6.94 million –

1380 Hon. D A Feetham: Will the hon. Gentleman give way?

Mr Speaker, if he goes through the income method and the expenditure method, and bearing in mind that under the income method he has already got to gross trading, there is still rent, and then on the expenditure method there are about 10 sub-categories for 10 years, it is going to be a considerable amount of information that is going to be provided and read out to the House.

1385 Can I invite the hon. Gentleman to provide it by way of the schedule – just simply the answer that he already has, which we can take as a schedule and then analyse it at a later stage? There are not going to be any supplementaries arising out of this.

1390 Mr Speaker: We can move on to the next question while the answer is photocopied and provided as a schedule. (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) The only thing is that [inaudible].

1395 Hon. J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, you know my view, that if the Member opposite says the question is for oral answer, being as well behaved as I am in this Parliament, I try to do what he asks me to do, which is to give him an oral answer. And since we have had a multitude of questions for written answer, I have to assume that he does not want a written answer. That is why I read it to him, because I think that is what he is expecting me to do and that is why he says he wants an oral answer. And, as you know, I think that handing a piece of paper is not conducive to anybody that is in the audience, although not many, or listening or watching us, to know what is going on if all we do is say, 'Mr Speaker, I now hand over a piece of paper,' and that is the answer to every question.

1400

Mr Speaker: I have the answer here – it is not excessively long.

Hon. J J Bossano: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

1405 Mr Speaker, I have only produced the income calculation because it is in fact ... Both calculations come with the same result, but it has always been considered that the more accurate figure and more reliable figure, frankly, is the income side, because what happens with the expenditure side is that the figures are, sort of, rounded off in order to make sure that the 1410 two results are the same on the premise that GDP assumptions are that every income is matched by the expenditure and the two ... and the net result of the GDP has to be the same where it is calculated by the expenditure method or by the income method. So, in fact, it is only half as long, but if he wants to have the expenditure I can get that sent to him. But this is the more accurate system.

I had got as far as Government enterprises, as the hon. Member correctly says. The next item 1415 therefore is rent, which was £89.84 million in 2003-04, and therefore the total domestic income was £561.51 million and stock depreciation was minus £1.12 million, giving us the £560.39 million.

This increased in 2004-05 to £599.74 million. This was the result of income from employment going up to £338.58 million, self-employment increasing slightly to £52.79 million, gross trading 1420 profit showing a more substantial increase to £111.77 million, gross rated surplus of Government enterprises was down, in fact, in that year to £3.3 million and rent up to £94.5 million, and the adjustment to the figure was £1.15 million in depreciation.

In 2005-06 the GDP increased to £656.51 million, the income from employment rose to £384.81 million, from self-employment income went up to £56.77 million, trading profits rose to 1425 £113.77 million and Government enterprise surpluses were £3.72 million – a slight increase on the £3.3 million of the previous year, rent was up to £98.62 million, and again the adjustment in appreciation was minus £1.18 million.

In 2006-07 income from employment reached £440.57 million, self-employment rose to £61.69 million, trading profits of companies came to £128.11 million, gross trading surpluses for 1430 Government enterprise was down to £3.28 million, and rent up to £107.63 million. The adjustment for that year was minus £1.21 million.

In 2007-08 income from employment was £495 million; self-employment increased to £66.83 million; trading profits went slightly down to £127.74 million, just under £100 million; 1435 Government enterprises were up £4.68 million; and rent was up to £113.07 million. The adjustment was slightly up at minus £1.25 million.

In 2008-09 the total increased by nearly £90 million to £898.7 million, income from employment grew to £526.93 million, self-employment was down to £51.93 million, trading profits up to £197.89 million, Government enterprise surpluses up to £5.48 million, and rent up to £117.76 million. The adjustment by depreciation was £1.29 million.

1440 In 2009-10 the total went above the £1 billion mark for the first time – it was £1,012.58 million, of which employment contributed £542.42 million; self-employment, £58.24 million; trading profits, £274.79 million; trading surpluses of the Government enterprises was £4 million; and rent was up at £134.46 million. The adjustment for depreciation was £1.33 million.

2010-11 saw the GDP grow to £1,082.19 million. The employment contribution grew by 1445 £40 million to £582.11 million, self-employment was down from £58 million to £35.31 million, trading profits of companies was up to £310.44 million, there was a slight increase in the surplus of Government enterprises from £4 million to £4.77 million, rent was up at £150.94 million, and the depreciation adjustment was minus £1.38 million.

In 2011-12 it was £1,201.31 million, of which employment contributed over half – 1450 £652.33 million; self-employment, £35.73 million; company profits, £349.61 million; trading surpluses of the Government enterprises, £6.76 million; and rent, £158.3 million. The adjustment for depreciation was minus £1.42 million.

And the last year for which we have the final figure, which is 2012-13, the total is 1455 £1,317.06 million – that is £1.3 billion; employment contribution was slightly up at £661.24 million; self-employment was £48.34 million; company profits was £444.08 million;

Government trading surpluses was £6.35 million; rent, £158.5 million; and the adjustment for depreciation was minus £1.45 million.

1460 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I said there were no supplementaries – I had assumed, actually, that the last figure would be the figure for the end of 2014. I say that because when I asked for the GDP figures for the end of 2014, I think at the beginning of last year, I was told that those were going to be computed and calculated by November 2015, which is the usual practice.

1465 When will that figure for the end of 2014 be available, so that I do not have to ask this question again and I ask at the appropriate juncture? Because last time, I was told November 2015.

1470 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, I asked the Statistics Office to provide me with the final figures so that they would not be subject to any further adjustment. I do not know how close we are to closing the 2013-14, but I can send it to him if he wants me to send it to him without him having to ask the question as soon as it is ready.

Hon. D A Feetham: I would be very grateful if he did that. Thank you very much.

1475 Hon. R M Clinton: If I may, Mr Speaker – possibly it is only the hon. Gentleman and myself in this room who find these numbers exciting – could I ask him to perhaps, if he can, explain the source for the company profits numbers? Certainly the last one – 2012-13, £444.08 million – is that a number that comes from Companies House? How is it derived, does he know?

1480 Hon. J J Bossano: This is the figure that is compiled by the Statistics Office and it is a figure that gets adjusted, and this is why it is sometimes quite a long time before they are closed because when they do the first estimate, for example, if they have received 70% of the returns of company accounts ... I am not sure how the company accounts reach the statistics, whether it comes from the Tax Office or some other source ... It is not that the companies are asked to submit them to the Statistics Office, so it must be from some other department, and the most obvious and logical one would be tax returns by companies. What happens then is that at a certain point in time when something like 70% or 75% of the known companies that are trading have made their returns, the figure is then adjusted by an estimate in respect of the 25% that still have not done it. When those 25% start coming in, you then get a situation where, in some cases, the estimated figure is too high and it means a drop, and in other cases the estimated figure is too low and it means an increase, because in effect it is an arbitrary estimation – they just say, 'Well, if there are 100 companies and 75 have made so much profit, you just assume that the remaining quarter on average will make the same profit as the first 75.' There is no logical reason why that should be so. By and large it is not very far out because the ones that come in higher tend to cancel out the ones that come in lower. But it does mean, in fact, that the final figure can sometimes be revised downwards as well as upwards when they finally decide to call it a day in terms of revising the figure.

1495 Hon. R M Clinton: If I may just ask one further supplementary on that: in terms of the profits, would these, in his view, be taxable profit to these companies, or is it just profits of all companies registered in Gibraltar?

1500 Hon. J J Bossano: I do not think it is taxable profits, because a company may in fact have other things which reduce its tax liability, but if one were to reduce the profits that they have made, in effect you would be understating the output of the economy. The output of the economy is the income received by companies predominantly. If the hon. Member analyses the figures, for example, for the last year, out of the £1.3 billion, £440 million is companies and £660 million is employees, so you have got £1.1 billion out of the £1.3 billion, i.e. the income of workers or the income of the employers of the workers. The fact is that it does not necessarily mean that the £444 million was tax, because they might have had offsetting allowances or development aid, or depreciation or whatever, but the output of the economy is made of the money that people are making either as owners of capital or as owners of labour. That is the essence of what the GDP is all about.

The treatment of offshore companies is not reflected 100% here – that is what used to be offshore companies. So in fact, there is a... otherwise, what we have done with doing away with tax-exempt companies and having everybody paying tax now would have produced a huge increase in GDP calculations, because before they were not included. So I think what has happened is that the Statistics Office has ignored that change and, in effect, the companies that have been brought into the onshore field that were offshore before continue to be treated as to their income by giving more or less the same percentage reflected here that they were getting before. If that had not been done, then the year of the change would have seen a massive increase.

Hon. R M Clinton: I am grateful to the hon. Member for that clarification. That is exactly what I was trying to understand. Thank you very much.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I just ask one, because I too am finding this quite interesting. There are two questions.

First of all, are we calculating GDP here in the same way as, for example, the United Kingdom would calculate GDP in the United Kingdom?

And, just curiously – and this is where my interest has been piqued in the explanation that he has given – isn't there an element of double accounting, in the sense that if you count the income of companies basically before tax, so that it is just the gross income of the companies, and you calculate the gross income of the workers, surely that cannot be the output into the economy because there is an element of income of the workers that is coming from some of those companies. Does the hon. Gentleman follow? That is what has sort of piqued my curiosity in relation to this.

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, if it was the income of the company he would be right, but it is not the income of the company, it is the profit of the company, (Hon. D A Feetham: Of course, yes.) and therefore the income of the company is the sales. So this is not that Gibraltar had sales of £4.4 million; it is that Gibraltar made ... £4.44 million, you know, four hundred and forty four hundred million pounds was the profits made on would could be a turnover of £4 billion or £5 billion, (Hon. D A Feetham: Yes.) and of course the profit is after meeting workers' wages, electricity, water, the cost of the things that the business uses. So the answer is that the hon. Member would be right if this was the turnover of the company, but it is not.

Hon. D A Feetham: And is it calculated the same way as in the UK?

Hon. J J Bossano: As far as I am aware, yes, I mean, it is the same code as the UK Blue Book, which is available on the internet, and the Blue Book has always been the bible that the Statistics officers use – with certain adjustments because of the nature of the economy. I mean for example, there is no agriculture in Gibraltar, so, in fact, our economy has got less diversity than the UK. The UK is a much more complex exercise, because you get GDP collectively and then you get, for example, regional GDPs and you also get figures on the output of certain industries or the agricultural industry, or the service or the city. We do not do any of those things, so what is a massive exercise over there is a much more limited exercise here. But the principle of how you arrive at the elements really is quite simple, because at the end, what we are saying is, this is the £1 billion is the amount of money that collectively our community earned.

Q115/2016
Parliament building –
Installation of lift

Clerk: Question 115, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1560

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, considering that this House has not met since last July and the reasons for not having sat in September and October was that it would enable works to proceed on the installation of a lift to facilitate access to this House, and as no work seems to have taken place in the period since last July, is it still the intention of Government to have this lift installed; and if so, when can the works be expected to commence?

1565

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Yes, Mr Speaker, it remains the policy of the Government to provide lift access to persons with reduced mobility into the Parliament Chamber. The design and the location of the lift have both been studied in detail and exploratory works have been carried out. The project is expected to commence in the new financial year.

1570

Hon. T N Hammond: That is understood and thank you very much for that response.

1575

Is it likely to cause disruption to this House during the works, as it was forecast to do last year?

Hon. Dr J J Garcia: Mr Speaker, the exploratory works have already been done. Really, before the project commences it needs to go to DPC again because it is substantially different to the project that was originally envisaged and which went to DPC some time ago.

1580

So it will be a different project. Once, at the technical level, it has been approved, then we will be able to understand the kind of disruption that will be envisaged. What they were looking at in September and October was an internal lift, so obviously that would have been far more noisy and disruptive than if the lift turns out to be external at the end of all this.

1585

Hon. T N Hammond: Just one last question: so the current proposal would seem to be a reversion perhaps to the original concept of an external lift?

Hon. Dr J J Garcia: Yes, Mr Speaker. The issues really have been, first of all, the type of lift – whether it was internal or whether it was external. I think the Heritage Trust wanted to be satisfied that an internal stair lift, a platform lift ... whether it was possible to do this internally rather than externally. We have now established that it is not.

1590

The other issue was the location of the lift, and in that even the Heritage log itself was divided as to whether if it was going to be external then should it be on the Piazza side of the building or should it be on the Main Street side of the building.

1595

The design was obviously another issue, in terms of you know, what the structure would actually look like, and the heritage considerations obviously take into account that this is a listed building.

1600

So all those factors have been in the melting pot over the last few months and it is finally an agreed design that will go to the DPC.

Hon. T N Hammond: I appreciate that it still has to go to DPC, but has the Heritage Trust indicated that they are already happy with the design or satisfied with it?

1605

1610 Hon. Dr J J Garcia: Yes, Mr Speaker, there has been very close consultation between the project manager, the Government, the Heritage Trust and the Heritage department. Although there are perhaps I would say divisions or differences of opinion between those who would not prefer a lift at all and those who would, depending on the option or the structure, the design and what it looks like, in the final analysis it is going forward in full consultation with all affected parties, and also the Trust, as you know, has a voice in the DPC, and whatever final conclusion they come to I am sure will be expressed there in public for everybody to hear.

1615

Questions for Written Answer

Clerk: Answers to Written Questions. The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1620 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I expect not to see any Member of this House in that lift unless they have a problem with their legs. It is being done for a specific purpose: for people who have accessibility issues.

Mr Speaker, I have the honour to table the answers to Written Questions numbered W1/2016 to W24/2016 inclusive.

ADJOURNMENT

1625 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the House do now adjourn until tomorrow at 3 p.m. when we shall consider a number of Bills.

Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn until tomorrow at 3 p.m.

The House adjourned at 5.23 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

AFTERNOON SESSION: 3.07 p.m. – 5.36 p.m.

Gibraltar, Friday, 22nd January 2016

Contents

Order of the Day .....	3
Bills .....	3
First and Second Reading .....	3
European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016 – First Reading approved .....	3
European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016 – Second Reading approved.....	4
European Union (Referendum) Act 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting .....	18
Animals and Birds (Amendment) Act 2016 – First Reading approved .....	18
Animals and Birds (Amendment) Act 2016 – Second Reading approved.....	18
Animals and Birds (Amendment) Act 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting .....	20
Judicial Service (Amendment) Act 2015 – First Reading approved .....	20
Judicial Service (Amendment) Act 2015 – Second Reading approved .....	21
Judicial Service (Amendment) Act 2015 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting .....	26
Committee Stage .....	26
European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016; Animals and Birds (Amendment) Bill 2016; Judicial Service (Amendment) Bill 2015 .....	26
European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved.....	27
Animals and Birds (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved.....	30
Judicial Service (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved .....	30

BILLS FOR THIRD READING .....	30
European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016; Animals and Birds (Amendment) Bill 2016; Judicial Service (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Third Reading approved: Bills passed.....	30
Private Member’s Motion.....	31
Publication of Parliamentary and Ministerial Allowances – Debate commenced.....	31
The House recessed at 5.24 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 5.34 p.m. .....	35
Publication of Parliamentary and Ministerial Allowances – Debate continued – Amended motion carried.....	35
Adjournment.....	36
The House adjourned at 5.36 p.m. .....	37

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.07 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

Order of the Day

BILLS

FIRST AND SECOND READING

European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016 – First Reading approved

Clerk: Order of the Day – Bills – First and Second Reading

A Bill for an Act to enable the full participation of Gibraltar in the United Kingdom's Referendum on whether it should remain a Member of the European Union and to provide for the making of subsidiary legislation in connection therewith and for matters connected thereto including amending primary legislation by subsidiary legislation as the circumstances require.

Mr Speaker: Before we proceed with this Bill I want to make it clear that I have received, as is a requirement, notification from the Chief Minister that this is a Bill with a certain urgency and that is why we are proceeding with it without the normal six-week period.

Clerk: The Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to enable the full participation of Gibraltar in the United Kingdom's Referendum on whether it should remain a Member of the European Union and to provide for the making of subsidiary legislation in connection therewith and for matters connected thereto, including amending primary legislation by subsidiary legislation as the circumstances require, be read a first time.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question which is that a Bill for an Act to enable the full participation of Gibraltar in the United Kingdom's Referendum on whether it should remain a Member of the European Union and to provide for the making of subsidiary legislation in connection therewith and for matters concerned thereto including amending primary legislation by subsidiary legislation as the circumstances require, be read a first time.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The European Union (Referendum) Act 2016.

European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016 –
Second Reading approved

30 Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): I have the honour to move that the Bill be now read a second time.

Mr Speaker, a Bill of the same name was introduced into the House of Commons on 28th May 2015 in order to provide the basis for the Referendum on whether the United Kingdom would remain in the European Union.

35 That Bill was presented by the Conservative Government in fulfilment of its manifesto commitment at the last General Election in the United Kingdom. The Bill was passed by the UK Parliament and received Royal Assent on 17th December 2015. There are three general points in that Act that are worth addressing individually.

40 The first is concerned with the timing of the Referendum. Section 1(3)(a) of the Act provides the dates by which the Referendum must be held. That date is no later than 31st December 2017.

Hon. Members will no doubt be aware that the Prime Minister has not disclosed possible dates for holding the referendum. What he has said is that he will not set the dates until after the conclusion of negotiations on the changes that are being sought from the European Union.

45 The UK's position on the changes were set out in a letter to Council President Donald Tusk dated 10th November 2015, which is publicly available and which I will paraphrase. In that letter, the Prime Minister sets out four areas for reform: one, economic governance; second, competitiveness; third, sovereignty; and fourth, immigration. I will look at each of them in turn.

Economic governance:

What we seek ...

– said the Prime Minister –

50 ... are legally binding principles that safeguard the operation of the Union for all 28 Member States – and a safeguard mechanism to ensure that these principles are respected and enforced. Those principles should include recognition that: the EU has more than one currency; there should be no discrimination and no disadvantage for any business on the basis of the currency of their country; the integrity of the Single Market must be protected; any changes that the Eurozone decides to make, such as the creation of a banking union, must be voluntary for non-Euro countries, never compulsory; taxpayers in non-Euro countries should never be financially liable for operations to support the Eurozone as a currency; just as financial stability and supervision has become a key area of competence for Eurozone institutions like the ECB, so financial stability under supervision is a key area of competence for national institutions like the Bank of England for non-Euro members; and any issues that affect all Member States must be discussed and decided by all Member States.

Point Two was a question of competitiveness. On this question he said that:

... the United Kingdom would like to see a target to cut the total burden on business. that EU should also do more to fulfil its commitment to the free flow of capital, goods and services. The United Kingdom ...

– said the Prime Minister –

... believes it should bring together all the different proposals, promises and agreements on the Single Market, on trade, and on cutting regulation into a clear long-term commitment to boost the competitiveness and productivity of the European Union and to drive growth and jobs for all.

The third point was that of sovereignty. On sovereignty the Prime Minister said that he wants to work to:

... end Britain's obligation to work together towards an 'ever closer union' as set out in the Treaty ... in a formal, legally-binding and irreversible way.

55

He wanted:

... a new agreement where groups of national parliaments, acting together, could stop unwanted legislative proposals ... [from Brussels].

He wanted:

... to see the EU's commitments to subsidiarity fully implemented, with a clear proposal to achieve that.

The aim was to get at what:

... the Dutch have said, the ambition should be which is, 'Europe where necessary, national where possible.'

Mr Cameron said that:

... the UK will need confirmation that the EU institutions will fully respect the purpose behind the JHA Protocols in any future proposals dealing with Justice and Home Affairs ... in particular to preserve the UK's ability to choose to participate. National security ...

60 – he explained –

... was – and must remain – the sole responsibility of Member States, while recognising the benefits of working together on issues that affect the security of all of them.

The fourth point, Mr Speaker, was immigration. The Prime Minister said that:

The UK believes in an open economy. But has got to be able to cope with all the pressures that free movement can bring – on ... schools, ... hospitals and ... public services. Right now...

– he claimed in the letter –

... the pressures are too great.

He wanted to:

... find arrangements to allow a Member State like the UK to restore a sense of fairness to the immigration system and to reduce the current very high level of population flows from within the EU into the UK.

The Prime Minister argued that it was possible to:

... reduce that flow of people coming from within the EU by reducing the draw that the welfare system exerts across Europe.

65 He proposed that people entering to, 'from the EU must live in the UK and contribute for four years before they qualified for in-work benefits or social housing.' There was also a need to, 'end the practice of sending child benefit overseas'.

70 Mr Speaker, these were the four areas for reform on which the Prime Minister sought agreement. At the start of a 10-week period which ends with the Referendum itself, the Foreign Secretary must publish a report on the outcome of those negotiations between the UK and the EU. The report must also include the opinion of the Government of the UK on what has been agreed.

75 In the same timeframe, a second report must be published which contains information about the rights and obligations that arise under European Union law as a result of the UK's membership of the EU. This report should also contain examples of countries that do not have membership of the European Union but which have other arrangements. A description of such arrangements for each country must also be given.

Both reports must be laid before the UK Parliament. They will be available electronically as factual information to voters in the United Kingdom and in Gibraltar. The Referendum would then follow at the end of that final 10-week period.

Mr Speaker, having covered the background in the first general points, I move on to the second one, which is the actual question to be put at the Referendum. The UK Bill, when first printed, provided that the question should be, 'Should the United Kingdom remain a Member of the European Union?'

However, the Electoral Commission was concerned with the balance of the question which is considered as being potentially biased towards producing a stay in Europe results. The wording of the question was subsequently changed to, 'Should the United Kingdom remain a Member of the European Union or leave the European Union?' The alternative answers to that question, as they will appear in the ballot paper, are (1) remain a Member of the European Union, or (2) leave the European Union.

The third general point, Mr Speaker – and it is the point that most directly concerns this House – is that the Act makes provision for the enfranchisement of Gibraltar.

The United Kingdom went to the polls on 7th May 2015 and the outcome was a majority Conservative Government. This meant that the EU Referendum passed from being the policy of the Conservative Party to the policy of the UK Government and, as such, officials could commence to engage on the subject. It therefore became clear that the UK Referendum on EU Membership was going to be taken forward.

Mr Speaker, no effort was spared on our part to lobby for the inclusion of Gibraltar in the franchise. My hon. Friend, the Chief Minister, raised this matter with London a number of times. The argument that the outcome of the in-out Referendum would have a considerable impact on Gibraltar proved to be a compelling argument. The United Kingdom agreed to the inclusion of Gibraltar in their Referendum.

The Chief Minister asked me to Chair a working group of officials and the first such substantive meeting between the UK and Gibraltar Governments took place by secure video link on 2nd June of last year – under a month after the UK Election.

There have been several meetings in London which included officials from both Governments. I am sure that we will have a further debate on the merits, but at this stage I wish to limit myself to stating that the Government is very pleased that Gibraltar has been enfranchised in such a clear and unequivocal basis for which we must thank the Prime Minister, David Cameron, and the Minister for Europe, David Lidington.

Mr Speaker, I now move on to the mechanics of the enfranchisement itself. The House will know by now that, as is the case with European Parliamentary Elections, voters in the Referendum will be allocated two regions and, in the case of Gibraltar, a vote will be taken into consideration alongside the votes in the south-west region of England.

As an aside, during the passage of the Bill in the House of Lords, in particular the age of voting at the Referendum became an issue. Without wishing to enter into that debate here as well, it should be noted that the age for voting at the Referendum is now set at 18. In the European Parliamentary Elections legislative package, Gibraltar's legislation is effectively limited to the provision of the Gibraltar Register. On this occasion, HMGOG has not only been consulted but they have actively participated in the drafting process both at a political and at a technical level.

To that end, our drafting team has, over the last few months provided advice and feedback on the provisions in the UK Bill relating to Gibraltar. Similarly, the Bill before this House today has been produced in close consultation and co-operation with the UK team. The Government is grateful for the access that has been given to our officials. Given the positive feedback we have had from the UK, we hope that should similar circumstances arise in the future, HMG will engage with Gibraltar and with our officials in the same positive manner.

It was a pleasure to detect a genuine and positive desire to assist the enfranchisement of Gibraltar on behalf of officials of Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom once a 130 political direction had been given. Mr Speaker, it is not always the case that proposed legislation emanating from the Westminster Parliament that has a bearing on life in Gibraltar is the subject of such close consultation.

The UK side included the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, which was and is the lead Department, and the Cabinet Office. Mr Speaker, I also want to place on record the 135 Government's thanks to the Gibraltar team, in particular to the Attorney General, Michael Llamas, whose expertise on such matters is well known to all of us in this House and to Paul Peralta and Nadia Sisarello-Parody who coped tirelessly with drafting work, with interminable meetings and voluminous email correspondence, all of which against a background of considerable pressure from tight deadlines.

140 In our discussions with HMG one of the matters that we agreed was to mirror the UK's legislative framework and timetable. As far as the timetable is concerned, with amendments being moved in Westminster up until the very final moments, our drafters have had a very tight window in which to operate. It is for that reason that the earliest opportunity that the Government had in which to publish this Bill was December 24th. The decision by my hon.
145 Friend, the Chief Minister, to abridge the amount of time in which the Bill could be taken by this House, is a direct result of the requirement to meet the deadlines and the timetable set in the United Kingdom.

Mr Speaker, from an early stage, I am aware that those timings are always going to be tight. One of the earliest policy decisions that had to be taken was whether to create a new register 150 for the EU Referendum or to use an existing one. Whilst the prospect of a General Election in late 2015 provided for an up-to-date register, the terms of the franchise of our own elections and the terms of the franchise for the EU Referendum are both different.

Our European Parliamentary Elections Register, however, contained the majority of the eligible persons, including the Irish nationals to whom the UK Government extended voting 155 rights. We therefore took the policy decision to use the European Parliamentary Elections Register as a basis for registration for this Referendum.

Turning now, Mr Speaker, to the specifics of the Bill, clauses 1 and 2 provide for the usual introductory matters. Clause 3 is a purpose clause which, as the heading suggests, sets out the context in which the Bill is to be construed. Clause 3 (1) formally sets out some of the detail 160 which I have already alluded to, namely that Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar agree to participation in the UK's Referendum and to the mechanism to make such participation possible. Sub-clause 2 explains the legal framework which is being applied – and perhaps I can explain it better again in less technical legal terms.

Mr Speaker, the basis upon which persons in Gibraltar will be able to vote in the Referendum 165 is set out in the UK's Act. That Act requires that a person be registered in the Gibraltar Register for European Parliamentary Elections. There is a test that needs to be met in order to be eligible. That test is that the person registered in the register is either a Commonwealth citizen or a citizen of the Republic of Ireland.

By relying on the European Parliamentary Elections Register, Gibraltar's European 170 Parliamentary Elections Act of 2004 is engaged. In the circumstances, the Bill provides for the adaptation of the framework to accommodate the EU Referendum.

Clause 5 provides a power for the making of subsidiary legislation. This power is required in order to give the Government the tools with which to respond in legislative terms to any circumstances which may arise.

175 If the Act is passed by our Parliament, it is our intention to invoke these powers to make subsidiary legislation to provide for some procedural matters. These have adopted the working title 'the Conduct Rules' and, like for the European Parliamentary Elections, the Gibraltar and UK Governments agreed that Gibraltar would also be passing this legislation.

The kind of issues that fall under the Conduct Rules relate to matters such as: notices that will 180 be published in connection with the poll; the official mark to be used; the issue of poll cards; the provision of polling stations; absent and postal voting; and accounts.

185 Clause 6, Mr Speaker, as I have already explained, the UK Referendum Act 2015 requires that a person be registered in the Gibraltar European Parliamentary Elections Register. Given that reliance on the European Parliamentary Elections Register on that framework, Clause 6 borrows the European Parliamentary Elections Act 2004 for the purposes of the Referendum.

This borrowing, therefore, requires that certain aspects of the 2004 Act be modified. This is necessarily a complicated process, although we have attempted to bring as much clarity as is possible by inserting the amendments in the first schedule and then actually setting out the legislation as amended in the second schedule.

190 Mr Speaker, I have given notice that at Committee Stage I will be moving a number of amendments and this includes the removal of Clause 7. Clause 7 had been inserted at the specific request of the UK Government's legal team but they have since asked for it to be removed.

195 Clause 8 is required because the European Parliamentary Elections Act 2004 is being borrowed and therefore an offence committed under that Act as amended is to be treated as an offence under the Bill and not under the European Parliamentary Elections Act of 2004.

Clause 9 confirms jurisdiction in Gibraltar where an offence is committed as a result of a breach of a UK enactment which has been specifically applied to Gibraltar for the purposes of the Referendum.

200 Clause 10 provides for the application of Section 3 of the Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act 2011 in cases where there is a breach of both Gibraltar and UK legislation. Section 3 sets out the procedure to be followed where there is a contravention of two or more Acts and this clause ensures that the UK Act falls within this procedure.

205 Mr Speaker, Clauses 11 to 37 are a series of offences and procedural matters that are set out in the UK's Representation of the Peoples Act 1983. That Act does not apply to Gibraltar in the context of the European Parliamentary Elections. Since it is relied upon by the UK and modified by them for Referendum purposes, we have reproduced the relevant provisions as a matter of Gibraltar law, and in compliance with our commitment to mirror UK procedures and UK law.

210 The nature of the offences are those which are commonly found in elections. Indeed, most are included within the corpus of our own domestic election laws. Offences under the clauses include voting more than once, tampering with the ballot paper, issuing imitation poll cards, publication of exit polls before the poll closes and breaches of secrecy.

215 Mr Speaker, I have given notice of a further amendment that I will be moving at Committee Stage that entails the insertion of a new clause, 27(a). Discussions with London have continued after publication of the Bill and in this instance, we have been asked to insert this clause which is aimed and broadcast from outside Gibraltar and the UK which seek to influence the vote in Gibraltar.

Clause 38 is what is referred to as a 'sunset clause'.

220 Clerk: Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: Let us hope that after this short unavoidable recess we are able to conclude our business this afternoon as expeditiously as possible.

The Hon. Dr Joseph Garcia had the floor.

225 Hon. Dr J J Garcia: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Okay, so I mentioned clauses 11 and 37 and the offences and procedural matters which were laid out there, so I move on to ... I will go over that again because I am not sure what has been recorded for the purposes of Hansard and what has not. So I will start again.

230 Mr Speaker, clauses 11 to 37 are a series of offences and procedural matters that are set out in the UK's Representation of the Peoples Act 1983. That Act does not apply to Gibraltar in the context of the European Parliamentary Elections. Since it is relied upon by the UK and modified for Referendum purposes, we have reproduced the relevant provisions as a matter of Gibraltar law and in compliance with our commitment to mirror UK procedures and UK law.

235 The nature of the offences are those which are commonly found in elections and most of which are included in the corpus of our domestic election laws. Offences under these clauses include voting more than once, tampering with the ballot papers, issuing imitation poll cards, publication of exit polls before the poll closes and breaches of secrecy.

240 Mr Speaker, I have given notice of a further amendment that I will be moving at Committee Stage that entails insertion of a new clause, 27(a). Discussions with London have continued after publication of the Bill and in this instance, we have been asked to insert this clause which is aimed and broadcast from outside Gibraltar and the UK which seeks to influence the vote in Gibraltar.

245 Clause 38 is what is referred to as a 'sunset clause'. As far as Gibraltar is concerned, the Act will be spent once the Referendum is over and this clause causes the Act to be repealed 12 months after the Referendum. In other words, the Act will repeal itself. In the unlikely event that there are any proceedings or any rights that are enforceable at the time of repeal, those proceedings or right shall subsist.

250 Mr Speaker, I have already referred to the first schedule and simply would restate that the purpose of it is to amend the application of the European Parliamentary Elections Act 2004 for the purposes of the referendum. The second schedule reproduces the entire European Parliamentary Elections Act 2004 as per the amendments affected by the first schedule and should be of practical value to any reader.

255 Mr Speaker, before I commend the Bill to the Parliament, I would like to say that this Bill is important because of the implications for Gibraltar that attend to the outcome of the Referendum. It is extremely positive and a reflection of the level of regard that Her Majesty's Government in the UK has for the rights of the people of Gibraltar that they have been included in what is the United Kingdom's Referendum, even though we are not a part of the United Kingdom. The Bill also reflects the level of detailed and close co-operation that can and should exist between officials from both Governments.

260 Mr Speaker, I commend the Bill to the House. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of the Bill?

265 The Hon. Mr Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

I have the honour to speak for this side of the House having consulted closely with my hon. colleague, Mr Daniel Feetham, and also with Mr Elliott Phillips, both professional lawyers, as to the principle of the Bill.

270 I think, speaking generally, from this side of the House we obviously welcome Gibraltar's inclusion in the UK Referendum Act on what is – as reported in today's Chronicle, the UK Prime Minister, in Davos, said – is going to be a massively important generational question for Britain and for Europe and obviously no less for Gibraltar.

275 The hon. Member opposite has gone through the reasoning for the Referendum of the UK's seeking and the questions that the UK Prime Minister is seeking, I suppose concessions is not the right word, but amendments or changes to the UK's relationship with Europe on those four areas.

280 Obviously, in Gibraltar it is important that we participate in this Referendum and that we get our view across as well. I am conscious that a lot of work has gone into this, both by the Members opposite and obviously the legal drafting team and various individuals assisting. We, however, on this side of the House obviously have had limited notice, but we appreciate the importance of it and will do everything we can on our side to expedite the process.

285 If I may, just talking about the Bill itself, what perhaps is unusual for me, having spent many years examining legislation – certainly local legislation – is obviously the interaction between the UK legislation and local legislation; and the Clerk to Parliament kindly printed out for me earlier this week the actual UK European Referendum Act 2015 and also the explanatory notes that go with it.

290 Now, I am also conscious that the amendment that has been brought to this House – or rather the Bill that has been brought to this House – is really to facilitate the mechanics of the Referendum or the actual account of how the Referendum will be held. Obviously, I am happy to be corrected if I am wrong in that assertion.

295 What I would like to raise, or perhaps put up for discussion, is that there are matters in the UK Act which, as it were, precede our Act or may still be there but we may not be aware or conscious of them in Gibraltar because they form part of UK legislation and not our domestic legislation.

300 If I can give, just by way of example, the idea of the Electoral Commission and their role in determining who are permitted participants in the Referendum, I notice in the explanatory notes, schedule 1 just on campaigning and financial, paragraph 2 says that Gibraltar established political parties which are not recognised in the UK and therefore do not fall in the section 54.2(a)(c), including Gibraltar Social Democrats, Gibraltar Socialist Labour Party, Liberal Party of Gibraltar are eligible to become permitted participants by virtue of section 54.2(a)(g) of the 2000 Act.

305 Now, these are obviously technical clauses but, whereas we are looking at in the Bill the mechanics of the Referendum as applied in Gibraltar, my concern is that we should not lose sight that there is obviously the UK Referendum Act and how that will interact with us in Gibraltar and how it will affect us.

310 This may be beyond the remit of this discussion – and again I am happy to be corrected – but, for example, the elements where the report of the Secretary of State is required to be tabled in the UK Parliament, obviously this Bill will not cover that, nor necessarily – and perhaps this will come as the Conduct Rules; which will be done by subsidiary legislation – how people in Gibraltar would go about either setting up their own ‘yes or no’ campaign or how they would go about becoming permitted participants for the purposes of the Electoral Commission; how are the rules of funding to be applied in Gibraltar – again maybe that will be covered by the Conduct Rules – and various other matters.

315 So, as I said at the beginning here, we are happy to work with the Government on this Bill to make it a good piece of legislation. I am grateful to the hon. Member for having had a discussion on one or two clauses we had concerns with, but perhaps he could add some colour to how he would envisage not just the actual undertaking of the Referendum but the period leading up to the Referendum and the putting of the question and how we in Gibraltar will be kept abreast of what is said in the UK Parliament, tabling of papers and other matters, so that people in Gibraltar are properly prepared when it comes to considering the question.

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to contribute at this stage?

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

325

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, this Bill deals with what is of course, as we all recognise in this House, a seminal issue for our community. A seminal issue that calls for a decision once the British Prime Minister calls a Referendum in which we are to also vote with the rest of the British people.

330 The hon. Member opposite is right, the Prime Minister said yesterday that this is a generational decision. In fact, it is exactly how I described it on Tuesday when we received His Excellency the Governor in this House.

Mr Speaker, it is such a generational decision, it is such a seminal decision for this community that it is almost a sine qua non that most Gibraltarians feel intrinsically that Gibraltar and the 335 United Kingdom should remain a part of the European Union because of the importance that the European Union plays in our lives.

Hon. Members may or may not know that one of the most compelling arguments put in the case of Matthews in the Court of Human Rights when Gibraltarians won – because we were not given it by Britain – won the vote in European Parliamentary Elections, was that the amount of 340 legislation which Gibraltar had to pass into law and which originated in Brussels and in particular then, already making its way through the European Parliament that was to become, as a result of the Matthews case, in legal terms, a legislature, was growing by the day.

Indeed, today this House very often deals with European directives that are becoming law or the amendment of existing Gibraltar legislation which requires change because of European laws 345 requiring those changes, sometimes even updating earlier European laws.

The Prime Minister said something else yesterday in Davos at the World Economic Forum. Asked by a French journalist whether he felt European, Mr Cameron said that he felt ‘deeply European’ and that in his view ‘Britain has a European destiny’. Well, Mr Speaker, I think everyone in this House too would associate with those words in terms of feeling deeply 350 European and believing that Gibraltar, with Britain, has a European destiny.

Mr Speaker, but when the time comes for a decision in that respect, Gibraltar must form part of that decision-making process and from the moment that it was mooted that there might be, as part of the Conservative Party’s policy at the last British General Election, the possibility of a Referendum on the United Kingdom remaining or exiting the European Union, the political 355 machinery of the Government moved into high gear to ensure that Gibraltar would form part of that moment of decision.

Mr Speaker, what many might have thought was going to be a battle for enfranchisement was absolutely nothing of the sort. It was no battle at all, because instinctively the Prime Minister knew and felt that Gibraltarians should also vote in that Referendum; and his 360 commitment and the commitment of David Lidington, even before they had won the General Election in the United Kingdom in May last year, was that Gibraltar should form part of the franchise when the time came.

And, true to their words, no sooner had the United Kingdom seen a majority Conservative Government take over the reins in Westminster, that we were following this issue up and the Prime Minister and David Lidington were being true to their commitment to the Government 365 and people of Gibraltar that we would vote in any such Referendum.

Mr Speaker, in my view, that is evidence of the very strong relationship of partnership that today Gibraltar enjoys with the United Kingdom at a Government level as a result of the very hard work we have done to ensure that there are strong personal relationships with politicians 370 and with officials in the United Kingdom who work with the Government of Gibraltar; and, Mr Speaker, very often working together in the best interests of Gibraltar and to give effect to the wishes of the people of Gibraltar in consonance with wider British foreign policy interests.

Mr Speaker, this Bill is a complex piece of work. It is a complex piece of work that interfaces with a very complex British Act. The House in its previous session saw that we produced a Referendum Act which was part of the manifesto commitment of the parties then and now 375 sitting on this side of the House, to ensure that any future national referendum organised in Gibraltar could not be attacked as our last one had been, as a referendum which did not have legal cover.

Intellectual enemies of Gibraltar have sought to challenge both our previous referenda on that basis; they will not be able to challenge future referenda on any such basis. This Referendum is different though. This is not just a Referendum in Gibraltar; this will be a Referendum in Gibraltar at the same time as a Referendum in the United Kingdom. The Referendum here will be part of the Referendum organised by the United Kingdom. The votes of Gibraltar will be counted with the votes of the United Kingdom.
380

Mr Speaker, if the United Kingdom is on a knife edge, who is to say that 22,000 or more votes might not tip it in one direction or another? Sometimes in European Parliamentary Elections, because of proportional representation, the number of people voting in Gibraltar can mean that extra seat for one party or another.
385

390 We may not hold the balance of decision in respect of the result of this Referendum but, Mr Speaker, we will participate in it and the method and manner of our participation is that which is now set out in this Bill which the Deputy Chief Minister has been working on with the team that he and I put together. All credit to the Deputy Chief Minister for what has been an intense piece of work over an electoral period, Mr Speaker.

395 Very often members of the public do not see that whilst politicians are out campaigning, those that campaign from the Government benches continue to work on Government business. And I know that this was a Bill that was occupying the Deputy Chief Minister even whilst he was also out energetically campaigning and also, before and after the General Election campaign, energetically dealing with all the other matters that are on his desk. He has steered the detail and policy with me in a manner that I think Gibraltar can be proud of and can realise how lucky 400 we are to have available that sort of talent that Dr Garcia brings to this Parliament.

I want to add Dr Garcia's remarks of thanks to the Head of the Government's Legal Office drafting team, Paul Peralta who is in Parliament today to assist Members in any queries they may have during the Committee Stage, and the hard and excellent work that I have seen first-hand of Nadia Sisarello-Parody – all of it, Mr Speaker, under the close scrutiny of the Attorney 405 General who, before taking that post, was the Government's chief legal advisor and is principally the man who understands European law best in Gibraltar. Gibraltar could not have been better served than with the team that I was happy to be able to put together to deal with this matter.

Mr Speaker, my commitment to the Prime Minister and to the Minister for Europe has repeatedly been that Gibraltar would not stand in the way of David Cameron being free to call a 410 Referendum at the time of his choosing when he felt it was most appropriate, because Gibraltar might not have complied with the requirements of having in place the legislation necessary to do the very complex exercise we are going to do which is to be holding a vote in two different places at the same time and with different laws governing those two different places.

So we need to put our laws entirely on the same page for that moment when the people of 415 Gibraltar and the people of the United Kingdom together are going to be free to express their will in respect of the continued membership of the United Kingdom of the European Union.

So, Mr Speaker, we have had to be fleet of foot, the United Kingdom Act became law in December and we had to be ready then, having seen the United Kingdom crystalize its views. Hon. Members who have been following the debate on this matter will have seen that there has 420 been a lot of politics in the United Kingdom about this Bill; there have been issues in the Lords and then there have been issues back in the Commons, and there is now a British Act of Parliament, a UK Act of Parliament, which we can now dovetail from.

We will now therefore, Mr Speaker, be ready, as a result of having certified this Bill as urgent, in January with an Act, if this House passes this Bill, that will enable us to say to the United 425 Kingdom, subject to what other administrative arrangements may have to be put in place, and such other regulations and subsidiary legislation as may be necessary; and perhaps even, Mr Speaker, potentially reserving the fact that we might have to come back and even amend the legislation, although there is a power to do so already by subsidiary legislation.

We will be ready, should the Prime Minister decide to call that Referendum. The Prime 430 Minister, in Davos yesterday, also said that he was not in a hurry to do a deal in February 2017 but if he does, Mr Speaker, and if he believes that this is the right time to call the Referendum then Gibraltar will not be found wanting for not having done the work we needed to do in the time that we had to do it, to bring the Bill to this Parliament.

Mr Speaker, I welcome the fact that Mr Clinton has said from the Opposition benches that he 435 will work with the Government to produce a good piece of legislation. If I may say so, Mr Speaker, I think this is already a very good piece of legislation that does what it needs to do to ensure that the people of Gibraltar can have the vote they need to have to express their will in respect of this seminal generational issue.

440 How are the people of Gibraltar going to be kept informed of what is happening in the United Kingdom? What is going to happen on the ground here, these are all the issues, Mr Speaker, on which we need to ensure that the politics that is now ongoing in the UK are reflected somehow in Gibraltar so that people understand the choices that they have to make.

445 I believe from what I have seen so far, Mr Speaker, that all political parties in Gibraltar will be campaigning for Gibraltar to remain within the European Union. But the people of Gibraltar, Mr Speaker, today have access to many news sources; they are very well informed indeed and I believe, Mr Speaker, they know what is at stake and exactly what it is that they have to choose between.

450 Therefore, Mr Speaker, I have no doubt that with the instrument in place for them to express their will in the Referendum with the United Kingdom, they will, when the time comes, express the view that the United Kingdom, and with it Gibraltar, should remain within the European Union.

Mr Speaker, I think the Hon. Deputy Chief Minister is absolutely right to commend the Bill to the House. (Banging on Desks)

455 Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, thank you very much.

460 Mr Speaker, the Prime Minister, as has been noted in this House, has described the Referendum on Europe as a generational decision. I think for Gibraltar it is a generational decision, but it is much more than just a generational decision.

For many areas of business, being in Europe is existential, it is an existential issue. For parts of the Finance Centre, being outside Europe would have a devastating effect and therefore a knock-on effect for revenue that comes into the Government.

465 And although it was inevitable that a debate in the United Kingdom would occur about whether the United Kingdom stays in or out of Europe and that this Referendum could be seen as being something that was inevitable for some time because of that debate that was ongoing for many years as to whether the United Kingdom wanted to remain in or out and in many parties, in the Labour Party, in the Conservative Party, there were large parts of those parties that were Eurosceptic in nature, to a lesser or a greater extent.

470 There has never been a debate in Gibraltar about whether Gibraltar wants to remain in Europe, as to whether Gibraltar wants to redefine its relationship in Europe, Gibraltar has always wanted to be at the heart of Europe and therefore, whilst, yes it is a generational decision, it is a decision nonetheless that Gibraltarians would have preferred to have done without, because we would have preferred to have done without this debate and this Referendum because Europe is of paramount importance to this community.

475 Although there may be some who may say that it would have been both unjustified and unjust for the United Kingdom and for David Cameron to have left Gibraltar out of the Referendum that is going to be taking place in the United Kingdom, I think it is appropriate that everybody should thank the commitment that the Prime Minister in the United Kingdom and also the Minister for Europe has shown to Gibraltar, not only in the decision that he has made to include Gibraltar in the Referendum but also in the commitments that his Government, both now and also as part of the coalition with the Liberals, have shown Gibraltar over the last five years.

480 And it has to be said, it contrasts sharply with the inherently colonial views that were expressed by the Leader of the Labour Party recently, Jeremy Corbyn, in relation to Gibraltar. And although, as somebody that was a member of the Labour Party in the United Kingdom – who never voted Conservative, always voted Labour, when I was in the United Kingdom as a student and also as a barrister – I feel absolutely justified that since I returned to Gibraltar in 2000, I have always supported the Conservative Party because the Conservative Party, over the 490 last 16 years, has always supported Gibraltar.

At the end of the day, for Gibraltarians, it is not about ideology when it comes to Europe and our relationship with political parties in the United Kingdom. Certainly the way I see it, it is about how those political parties react in relation to Gibraltar, defend Gibraltar and stand up for the rights of the people of Gibraltar.

495 That is why it is also right that in our own way – and all the political parties in Gibraltar have tried to do so – establish strong personal relationships with individuals within political parties in the United Kingdom; and we have, over a number of years, done that with the Conservative Party in the United Kingdom that has so supported Gibraltar; and both myself and also my friend, Elliott Phillips, have attended the Conservative Party Conference on a number of 500 occasions.

I end by also recognising the hard work that has gone into this Bill, not because it is particularly complex or it is one of the largest Bills that we have seen presented before this Parliament, but because of the complexity of the subject and also the timeframe as well that this piece of legislation has had to be produced. The United Kingdom has had far, far more time to produce legislation, to then debate it; it has taken six months from the time that the Bill was presented in the House of Commons to the time that it received Assent. The hon. Gentleman said, I think, 17th December of last year, and this has been produced in a far, far shorter timeframe. Therefore, I too, on behalf of Her Majesty's Opposition, wish to congratulate the Gibraltar team and in particular, Paul Peralta who I know very well from the time that I was 505 Minister for Justice and the very good quality work that he produced when I was heading that Department as the Minister, and also Nadia Sisarello-Parody whom the hon. the Minister also mentioned.

So I have absolutely no hesitation, as indeed has already been said by my hon. colleague, Mr Roy Clinton, in supporting this Bill. (Banging on desks)

515

Mr Speaker: Does anybody else wish to participate in the Second Reading of the Bill?

I will call upon the mover to reply, the Hon. Dr Joseph Garcia.

Hon. Dr J J Garcia: Yes, Mr Speaker, first of all I would like to, on behalf of the Government, as it were welcome the support of the Opposition for the Bill.

520

It was very useful also to have met up with the Hon. Mr Clinton and to have discussed some of the issues which he will see reflected in some of the amendments when those are presented and discussed during Committee Stage.

The hon. Member referred to the fact that a number of these issues are contained in UK legislation and he is correct, indeed they are. The reason for that is that it is a UK Referendum; it is not a joint Referendum, it is a UK Referendum and it is one in which we are very grateful to be able to take part and to have our votes counted.

525

The guidance will be provided by the Electoral Commission. They will publish detailed guidance in relation to almost every aspect of the Referendum, but the Public Liaison and Information role will fall on the Clerk in his capacity as, I think it is, Presiding Officer or Counting Officer in the Referendum for Gibraltar. So the public information notices and adverts will be issued through the Clerk.

530

Also, as my hon. Friend, the Chief Minister, mentioned, this is a top media issue in the United Kingdom, so anybody switching on Sky News or BBC or whatever will be well informed of the details of things as they develop. And, indeed, the local media as well obviously will pick that up.

535

In relation to the comments made by the hon. Member, the Leader of the Opposition, certainly he is correct. I mean there are no debates, I think, in Gibraltar as to whether we should be in the European Union or not. I think the results obtained by UKIP in Gibraltar locally during European Parliamentary Elections have shown that and people here tend to want to belong to Europe. Obviously, I think our argument is more about ensuring that Europe allows us to belong with the same rules and on the same level playing field as everybody else and I think that is probably where we have the debate. Can I – ? I will just give way to my hon. Friend, the Chief Minister.

540

545 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for that, at that moment where the hon. Gentleman is dealing with the words of the Member opposite. If I can just deal with one or two issues that the hon. Gentleman alluded to. He said this was more than just a generational decision. He said it was existential for some businesses.

550 Look I understand that. I think it can be a very difficult economic model for some businesses if Gibraltar is not within the European Union, because of the way that business models are determined today because we have access to the single market and therefore of course that is an opportunity that people are pursuing.

555 But as we start the process of having this debate and expressing views in this respect, can I counsel that we do not pretend that the United Kingdom exiting the European Union would be existential for Gibraltar.

560 Now, I wrote an article for a publication, the editors of which decided that they should title it almost in those terms and I took great exception at that, because we should not for one moment give our enemies the succour that if the United Kingdom were to make a decision which is contrary to that which we all seem to be expressing we would like to see the United Kingdom take, that Gibraltar might somehow be in a position where we were having to consider our very existence.

565 There would be a recasting of the economic model; there would have to be very serious thought given to what relationship we could have with the European Union, even if the United Kingdom had a different one; our relationship with the United Kingdom might have to be different, hence why it is important to start considering now constitutionally what those relationships might be and not wait for any such decision to give effect.

570 But let us not allow anyone to think – and I am not suggesting the hon. Member opposite has said this, he said this about some businesses ... but let nobody go away from this place thinking that our survival, economic, cultural or social is dependent on membership of the European Union. Our current economic model is ... and we would have to work very hard to find a different economic model and it would be very challenging, but if there is one thing that the people of Gibraltar are good at doing it is dealing with the worst adversity and turning it into a triumph. Evacuation, closed frontier, point of consumption tax – you name it, Mr Speaker, this community works together and ensures that we not just survive, we thrive; and nobody should think that any different is going to happen in respect of membership of the European Union through the United Kingdom or otherwise.

580 Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman said there had been no debate in Gibraltar about Europe. Well, Mr Speaker, we kicked off a debate in Gibraltar on this subject. I know that he felt it was just a gimmick but we kicked it off and we are working very hard on a review of the economic model and whether or not membership of the Common Customs Union and the Excise Union – something which was rejected in 1972 for entry on 1st January 1973 – whether that decision is still the right one today.

585 I think those who made the decision in 1972 made absolutely the right decision and the success of Gibraltar and our thriving economy is of course, in great measure, down to the benefits that the past – I can never forget how long it was – 43 almost 44 years since then, because they made the right decision. But going forward –

590 Mr Speaker: Would it help the Chief Minister if I were to tell him that that decision was revealed subsequently on at least two other occasions over the years when the AACR were in Government.

Hon. Chief Minister: Thank you, Mr Speaker, I am very grateful. I have seen the papers and they are very informative and have led some of my thinking of the work that we have been 595 doing to ensure that we review trying to use, where applicable, the same criteria so that we are measuring economic apples with economic apples.

But, Mr Speaker, today we need to ensure – and Brexit may have been a catalyst to this but it is not the only issue – that the Europe we choose is the Europe that is the right Europe for the next 30 to 40 years. And, Mr Speaker, the material available in respect of accession discloses that when those derogations were agreed, it was envisaged that Gibraltar would eventually form part of even those areas from which Gibraltar had derogated. On the basis that Gibraltar then, just to give people a flavour of some of the logic, Gibraltar then would have been a European economic community as it then was – island at the bottom of the Iberian Peninsula – with the European Union commencing again at the Pyrenees, but that eventually people thought Spain would become democratic, would join, etc. and when we were part of a Europe which was all in the EEC, Gibraltar would join.

605 Well, in fact Gibraltar has not chosen to join and has been right not to choose to join, and that is part of the prosperity that we enjoy today; but we still have to continue to review those issues.

The hon. Gentleman made some remarks about the Leader of the Labour Party, Mr Jeremy Corbyn –

Hon. D A Feetham: Will he give way please?

Hon. Chief Minister: In relation to those points?

615 Hon. D A Feetham: In relation to those points, yes ... Mr Speaker, just to say to the Hon. the Chief Minister, I am very glad, listening to him, that he is outlining the issues that he has been considering in relation to in the last three years. I would have expected him to have done so and I am very glad, certainly on behalf of the Opposition that he is doing so.

620 Could I also invite him that perhaps, at some stage when his itinerary allows, that perhaps he could have a meeting with me in order to brief myself and perhaps one Member of my team in relation to those issues in a little bit more detail than perhaps he could in this Parliament because it may involve issues that perhaps he may not want to canvass openly.

625 I would invite him to do so. There is a motion in this House that calls upon us to basically work together in relation to this and I would be even grateful if the Hon. the Chief Minister could brief us at some stage.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I will have no difficulty in doing so but this is a work in progress and there is very little to brief on at this stage. And I must tell him, Mr Speaker, I do look forward to working with him when the time comes on these issues, but he must not think that things which are existential, generational and seminal suddenly are fixed: if I meet with him, I take his views and then I get the answers; I do not think it quite works that way but I shall take that invitation to treat as a genuine one and I will look forward to our meeting.

635 Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman referred to remarks imputed to Jeremy Corbyn on Gibraltar which he said were very colonialist views. Mr Speaker, he and I will have different opinions of UK politics and of different UK Politicians, this one in particular. But can I put it to him, Mr Speaker, in fact, that Mr Corbyn has not made any remarks about Gibraltar. Mr Corbyn's remarks, unfortunate as they were – and I associate myself with everything he has said about Mr Corbyn's remarks – were about the Falklands, and I associate myself with him in respect of the Falklands.

640 But this is a very, very important issue: Mr Corbyn has not said anything about Gibraltar.

What happened, Mr Speaker, was that Miss Emily Thornbury asked a few minutes later about the remarks that Mr Corbyn had made reflected her own views, not Mr Corbyn's, in a way that was a little more acceptable than what Mr Corbyn had said about the Falklands, but certainly not the standard that one would expect in respect of a modern politician in a democracy like the 645 United Kingdom, reflecting on the rights of people like the people of Gibraltar and the people of the Falklands.

Mr Speaker, the relationship I am speaking of – because it is a relationship that I have nurtured in Government – with the Prime Minister and with David Lidington is of course, therefore, a relationship with Conservative politicians and the strength of the relationship that Gibraltar enjoys today, it enjoys with Conservative politicians and we have nurtured those relationships, regardless of political label or ideology, in the best way that we could leverage for Gibraltar; and not just as might have been done before but probably in a way that has not been done – has not been done – for 30 years, Mr Speaker, and I think those are therefore very useful indeed.

655 But I would say this, Mr Speaker – because he has brought into the debate, the issue of Labour or Conservative; I do not know that it was necessary to do so, but he has brought it into the debate – I believe the Labour Party has acted shamefully in relation to Gibraltar, in particular in relation to the joint sovereignty issues in the early part of the new millennium and in other instances; but has acted absolutely properly and better than any other previous Government, when it has given us the double lock which Sir Peter Caruana was able to negotiate with Labour Ministers.

I believe the Conservative Party has acted honourably and as it should in relation to this matter and in relation to other matters but that it acted shamefully with Gibraltar in relation to the Brussels Agreement and in relation to the Airport Agreement. Mr Speaker, swings and roundabouts! I think labels matter little, people matter more and I praise the commitment of Prime Minister David Cameron to the people of Gibraltar in relation to this matter, in relation to the issues we had with the Partido Popular Administration in the Year 2012, 2013 and 2014 and the way that, when it has come time to stand up for Gibraltar, he has stood up for Gibraltar, in the same way as Geoffrey Hoon stood up and was counted when the time came and the double lock was agreed. So, Mr Speaker, I wanted to make those points because I think they were important.

670 Can I just end by saying I found it slightly churlish of him to simply congratulate two out of a team of four, but I will assume that he wishes to extend his congratulations also to the Deputy Chief Minister for the fine work he has done and to the Attorney General.

675 Mr Speaker: Does the hon. mover wish to continue with exercising his right to reply?

Hon. Dr J J Garcia: Mr Speaker, only to say finally that I think the issues that will drive the Referendum debates in the – (Interjection) Is he flashing, sorry? (Laughter and interjections)

680 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes I am flashing I am afraid! (Laughter and Interjection) Yes, I am flashing. Yes, lest anybody think that I am being churlish in any way, shape or form, and bearing in mind the convivial way in which these proceedings have been conducted over the last few days and no doubt over the next few years, I have absolutely no hesitation, as I said, that I congratulate the entire Gibraltar team – and that of course includes the hon. Gentleman. (Banging on desks)

Hon. Dr J J Garcia: Mr Speaker, thank you for that and in the absence of anymore flashing lights, (Laughter) let me now conclude – 690 A Member: Or flashers!

Hon. Dr J J Garcia: – by saying that I think the issues that will drive the debate in the Referendum in the UK, which is the Prime Minister's renegotiating criteria and the four points I mentioned earlier, and those that will drive the debate and discussions in Gibraltar may well be very different. Whereas here we have issues with Spain and the border, in the UK the debate is likely to be centred around the Prime Minister's own renegotiation and perhaps that will not be the case here.

So, Mr Speaker, that concludes my contribution. (Banging on desks)

700

Mr Speaker: If the new hon. Members care to read the rules, I am sure they will discover how liberal I have been in interpreting the rules where the question of giving way is concerned, but I thought it was very appropriate that I should do so today.

705

I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to enable the full participation of Gibraltar in the United Kingdom's Referendum on whether it should remain a Member of the European Union and to provide for the making of subsidiary legislation in connection therewith and for matters connected thereto, including amending primary legislation by subsidiary legislation as the circumstances require, be read a second time.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

710

Clerk: The European Union (Referendum) Act 2016.

European Union (Referendum) Act 2016 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today if all hon. Members agree.

715

Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

Animals and Birds (Amendment) Act 2016 –
First Reading approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Animal and Birds Act.

The Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

720

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Animals and Birds Act be read a first time.

725

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Animals and Birds Act to be read a first time.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Animals and Birds (Amendment) Act 2016.

Animals and Birds (Amendment) Act 2016 –
Second Reading approved

730

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill now be read a second time.

Mr Speaker, from determining the political future of millions to microchipping the dogs of a few, Parliament is so diverse. Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move this Bill to which I have added after some discussions that I had yesterday and the day before with the Hon. Mr Llamas, an amendment which I will refer to later by way of letter.

735 The main purpose of the Bill is to require all dogs in Gibraltar to be microchipped. This is something that happens in other countries. In fact, in the UK it will become law in April. We were going to beat them to it but because we ran out of parliamentary time when the Election was called, we had to publish again so now we will not be ahead of them.

740 The permanent identification of dogs through microchipping has a number of benefits. First of all, it is the most effective means of reuniting strays or stolen dogs with owners as quickly as possible. Secondly, it will be much easier to identify the owner of a dog that has been abandoned by that owner and thereby to ensure that the owner takes responsibility for his or her dog. And, of course, microchipping also facilitates the cross border and international travel of dogs.

745 The advantage of a microchip over a collar in these scenarios is, of course, that a collar and tag are often left off or slip off and collars can also easily be removed from stolen dogs. Permanent identification through microchipping is effective at all times and is virtually impossible to alter or remove.

750 It is important to note that a dog will no longer be able to be registered or licensed unless it has been implanted with a microchip. This restriction is already in place for vaccinations. In the case of microchipping, however, we have provided for a grace period until 1st September, in order to give time to owners whose dogs are not already microchipped to ensure that they are. We have also provided for a permanent exemption from the requirement of microchipping where a veterinary surgeon certifies that the implanting of a microchip in a dog will harm it.

755 Mr Speaker, I also want to point out that this Bill provides for the implantation of microchips to be undertaken only by competent individuals and here is where, in discussions with the hon. Gentleman opposite, we have both extended the individuals from a veterinary surgeon exclusively to also a veterinary nurse acting under the direction of a surgeon, but also tightened it to ensure that anybody who has received instruction on implanting microchips will have done so from a veterinary surgeon and is acting under the direction of a veterinary surgeon and we felt that that was a tighter resolution to the matter.

760 Lastly, Mr Speaker, we have taken the opportunity in this Bill to tidy up and update some of the existing language in this part of the Act regarding Licensing Officers – for example, by pluralising where appropriate and vice versa – and we had some discussion about the implications of that and I think we resolved that and by strengthening the powers to compel the vaccination of a dog by an owner.

765 Mr Speaker, I commend this Bill to the House and I want to express my gratitude to Mr Llamas, the Hon. Mr Llamas for his collaboration in this and certainly in other plans we have to improve a legislation appertaining to dogs.

770

Several Members: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of the Bill?

775 The Hon. Mr Lawrence Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the opportunity to say a few words in respect of the amendments to this Bill later today.

780 Compulsory microchipping of dogs is already a common practice in most countries. Therefore, the principle of this Bill is in line with domestic legislation being introduced by other EU countries. It is also already an EU regulation to have dogs microchipped and vaccinated against rabies in order to travel with pets – that means dogs, cats and ferrets – between Member States under the EU Passport Scheme.

785 So the effect of this amendment will be to ensure that all dogs, regardless of whether they intend to travel within Member States or not, are microchipped and vaccinated against rabies by virtue of their residency in Gibraltar.

I am pleased to say that this side of the House shall be happy to support the amendments of this Bill as currently amended and I hereby thank the hon. Member, Dr Cortes, for the opportunity of working together for the good of this Bill and the purpose it serves.

790 Thank you. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Perhaps it is appropriate at this stage that we should congratulate not just the Hon. Mr Llamas, but the Hon. Mr Roy Clinton, for their first interventions during a debate in Parliament and what could be regarded as their maiden speeches. (Banging on desks)

795

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak on this Bill?
I will call upon the mover to reply.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, just to reiterate that it is a pleasure to have other animal lovers having joined this Parliament after the last election and I now put it to you that I commend the Bill to the House.

800

Mr Speaker: I will now put the question which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Animals and Birds Act be read a second time.

805

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Animals and Birds (Amendment) Act 2016.

Animals and Birds (Amendment) Act 2016 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today, if all hon. Members agree.

810

Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

Judicial Service (Amendment) Act 2015 –
First Reading approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Judicial Service Act 2007.

815

The Hon. the Minister for Education, Justice & International Exchange of Information.

Minister for Education, Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Judicial Service Act 2007 be read a first time.

820

Mr Speaker: I now put the question which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Judicial Service Act 2007 be read a first time.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

825 Clerk: The Judicial Service (Amendment) Act 2015.

Judicial Service (Amendment) Act 2015 –
Second Reading approved

Minister for Education, Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi):
Mr Speaker, I beg to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Judicial Service Act 2007 be read a second time.

830 A version of this Bill was first published as Bill 31 of 2015 on 27th August 2015. Due to the timings of Parliament and the General Election, it was not possible to bring this Bill before Parliament and, as such, it lapsed before the Parliament's dissolution. The Bill was then republished as the current Bill 35 of 2015 on 10th December 2015 in identical terms.

835 This Bill has two separate purposes. The first is to make provision for the Chief Justice to be the Head of the Judiciary in Gibraltar. These amendments will fulfil the commitment contained in the 2011 GSLP/ Liberal manifesto where we stated:

“Our view is that the head of the judiciary in Gibraltar should be the Chief Justice, as has always been the case, irrespective of who the post-holder may be.”

These amendments have been the subject of consultation with the Chief Justice and the previous President of the Court of Appeal, Sir Paul Kennedy, who had no objection to these changes being made. Sir Paul, of course, was a President until October 2015 and was, therefore, the President of the Court of Appeal when the Bill was drafted and first published.

840 The main amendment is the substitution of the current section 6 of the Judicial Service Act 2007 with a new section 6. The changes made therein are consequential to the change in the title from President of the Courts of Gibraltar to Head of the Judiciary, and reflect that the post will be held by the Chief Justice.

845 There are consequential changes to the Judicial Service Act where reference is made to the President of the Court of Gibraltar. The changes to sections 24 and 32 contained therein still contain a consultative role for the President of the Court of Appeal in certain circumstances. The change to section 37 simply changes the reference to the President of the Courts of Gibraltar regarding disciplinary powers to a reference to the President of the Court of Appeal. This reflects the constitutional role of the President of the Court of Appeal in such matters.

850 A second set of amendments contained in the Bill deal with the disciplinary provisions of the Judicial Service Act 2007 and in particular regarding the suspension of judicial officers. These amendments have been recommended by the Judicial Service Commission following a detailed analysis by them of the issues they had encountered and may encounter in undertaking disciplinary proceedings against judicial officers. Her Majesty's Government has accepted these recommendations.

855 The amendment contained in sub-clause 2(a) brings the language of sub-section 33(2) of the Act in line with that of the Constitution and ensures that it is not only the behaviour of holders of Judicial Office – that is Stipendiary Magistrate, Justice of the Peace and Registrar of the Supreme Court – that may be examined, but also their inability to discharge the functions of office. The amendment in sub-clause 2(b) sets out the power to make a recommendation to suspend such an officer pending the outcome of the proceedings and the amendment in sub-clause 3 allows for the Governor to make such interim suspension.

Finally, the amendment contained in sub-clause 4 ensures that the power of the Judicial Service Commission to make regulations under the Act include a power to make regulations regarding suspensions from office.

865

Mr Speaker, I commend the Bill to the House. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of this Bill?

870

The Hon. Mr Elliott Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the Bill to amend the Judicial Services Act 2007 appears to me to have been brought by the Government in short to amend section 6 of the Act to create the office of the Head of the Judiciary and to make further necessary consequential amendments, as the Minister for Justice has described.

875

It is proposed by the hon. Gentleman, the Minister for Justice, that the Chief Justice shall be the Head of the Judiciary. Furthermore, the hon. Gentleman proposes amendments to Section 33 and 37 of the Act which deal, as he stated, with the discipline of junior judicial office holders.

Before I set out the position of the Opposition, I think it is helpful to pause and reflect on what the Opposition's position was whilst in Government as promoters of the Judicial Services Bill in then 2007. The Judicial Services Act in its current form was debated in this House and it is fair to say that it arrived on the table during a controversial time in our judicial history. I do not intend to make further comment on that, save to flag the context.

880

There was a lengthy debate in this House between the Opposition spokesman for Justice, the Hon. Mr Picardo, and the Chief Minister, Mr Caruana, as they both then were. The nub of the issue at the time was the creation of the office of the President of the Courts of Gibraltar. The rationale of the Chief Minister, Sir Peter Caruana, at the time was that the President of the Court of Appeal was the most senior judge in the most senior court of Gibraltar's own judiciary and therefore it was, in his view at the time, therefore entirely appropriate that a President should hold the office of presidency of the courts generally.

885

890

The Bill before the House at the time underwent considerable consultation with all stakeholders, particularly the Bar Council, Judges of the Supreme Court, the Chief Justice and the Judges of the Court of Appeal. After the consultation process, the GSD Government accepted the advice of the consultees, which suggested that the day-to-day management and administration of the justice the administration in Gibraltar would be retained by the Chief Justice – eminently sensible in my view.

895

The Chief Minister at the time helpfully reminded the House that although section 3(a) gave the President of the Courts of Gibraltar, namely the President of the Court of Appeal, an overall responsibility for representing the views of the judiciary to Parliament. Section 5 also made provision for the right of both the Chief Justice and the President of the Court of Appeal to make representations to the Minister for Justice and the Government on matters that appear to them to be matters of importance to the judiciary or otherwise to the Administration of Justice in Gibraltar.

900

Mr Speaker, it is fair to say that the Bill enjoyed overwhelming support from stakeholders, save for the Members opposite who declined to support the Bill, ultimately because they felt that the GSD Government at the time were – to use the words of Mr Picardo's Opposition spokesman for Justice – 'exporting the headship of our judiciary to a non-resident'. It was accepted in the debate by the Hon. Mr Picardo at the time that neither the 1969 Constitution nor the 2006 Constitution designated the Chief Justice as Head of the Judiciary.

905

Be that as it may, Mr Speaker, and without wanting to reopen a nine-year-old debate, this side of the House will not oppose the Bill to amend section 6 of the Judicial Services Act and, in fact, on behalf of the Opposition, we will support the Bill for one simple reason, and it is this: that the Bill reflects reality and what is going on on the ground. The Chief Justice deals with the day to day Administration of Justice and there are excellent working relationships between the 915 Hon. Mr Justice Dudley and the judges of the Court of Appeal, and there is a strong open channel of communication between all of our judges which has served our community well and our judiciary is a credit to our community.

910

One point that I would like to give way to the Minister for Justice on, is in relation to the point that he makes on section 37(3). In fact I would like to seek clarification once I ... I will just mention that. My understanding from the amendments that is out on page 865 of the paper ... states that the Judicial Services Act which provides a mechanism for suspension of a junior judicial office holder in the context of maintaining confidence in judiciary; if the Minister for Justice can just explain the rationale for that deletion in relation to maintaining confidence in the judiciary.

925

Hon. D A Feetham: Just give way.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can I give way on that point?

930

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, he can give way because he has got other points that he –

Hon. E J Phillips: I only have two –

Hon. G H Licudi: I have not asked him to give way.

935

Hon. D A Feetham: No, no. He is giving way to you so that he can then continue with his speech, because otherwise he obviously ... I beg your pardon.

If there is an issue that he needs clarifying so that he can comment further, because he may not know what it actually means, there is a procedure long...going back many, many years where you give way, he explains and then he continues. Otherwise if he finishes his speech he cannot continue.

940

Mr Speaker: This is something that I am aware happened during the time when I was not a Member of the House. It has become an increasing practice. I have no serious objection to it.

945

What it does mean of course is that when we go into Committee and for each clause, there is an opportunity to debate/discuss the matter ad nauseum, that does not happen; it can happen then repeatedly without any problem.

Now, the other thing is, of course, that the hon. mover is going to exercise his right to reply and it is the practice at that stage for the mover to try to answer any points that have been raised by other Members on the general principles and merits of the Bill.

950

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the intervention by you, Mr Speaker, and clearly Mr Licudi, the Minister for Justice, does not want to accommodate that, but we will continue.

955

Finally, given that we are debating the Chief Justice as Head of the Judiciary, I am sure this whole House will join me in expressing the great sense of pride that one of our own jurists holds the office of Chief Justice and that he will now be the de jure Head of the Judiciary and not just the de facto Head of Judiciary.

960

On a personal note, and as someone who has appeared regularly before Mr Justice Dudley, I am sure the whole House will share the confidence, the respect and admiration that this side of the House has for Mr Justice Dudley as the first Gibraltarian Chief Justice. (A Member: Hear, hear.) (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Again, before I call on any other person to contribute to the debate, may I congratulate the Hon. Elliott Phillips on his maiden speech.

965

Does any other hon. Member wish to contribute to the Second Reading of the Bill before I call upon the mover to reply?

The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I just want to very briefly say this. There are occasions, Mr 970 Speaker, when in politics one takes a position, and one listens to the arguments on one side and the arguments on the other side, and the arguments are very finely balanced. We took a decision in 2006-07 on the grounds that the Hon. Member, Mr Elliott, has outlined, to have the President of the Courts, the most senior judge of the most senior court in Gibraltar as effectively 975 the Head of the Judiciary here in Gibraltar and they took the view that it should be the Chief Justice who was the most senior resident judge here in Gibraltar.

And, quite frankly, I see the arguments on both sides. I think that what has certainly persuaded me that we should be voting in favour of these amendments, is that it would not be right, Mr Speaker, for the Opposition, knowing that the Government is actually, because of its majority, going to get these amendments through this House, of having a situation where we do 980 not support the Chief Justice of the day in becoming Head of the Judiciary going forward. I think it sends the wrong kind of signal; and bearing in mind that you are talking about very finely based decisions here, we think certainly that we should support this particular Bill, despite the fact that we took a different position in 2006, so that there is absolutely no mixed signals going forwards about our support for the Chief Justice and the work that he is doing which is 985 absolutely first rate in relation to the judiciary here in Gibraltar.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo) Mr Speaker, can I associate myself with those remarks 990 about the Hon. the Chief Justice?

The Rules of Procedure of this House say that we should not call into question the conduct of any one of Her Majesty's Judges, but I assume that when we do in order to praise them, then the rules do not affect us in such a way because it is absolutely right and proper that we should reflect on the fact that Anthony Dudley has reached judicial heights that no Gibraltarian has ever 995 reached before and that must be a source of huge pride for the whole of this community; not just that he has reached those heights but how he discharges his office in the context of those lofty achievements in the judiciary.

But, Mr Speaker, what we cannot do is re-write history and what we cannot say is that today we support a measure in this House unanimously because not to support a Chief Justice of the 1000 day sends the wrong signal, when in fact that is exactly what happened in 2006. And the reasoning behind what was happening in 2006 was absolutely and utterly transparent. Mr Speaker, whether one agrees or disagrees with an individual, in the constitutional architecture of Gibraltar, it is not a good reason to move responsibilities from one or another.

It may be a good reason to seek to remove an individual; it may be a good reason to ensure 1005 that less responsibility appertains to that individual in respect of the things which he is doing on day to day, but not necessarily, Mr Speaker, to change the structure of the Administration of Justice simply because of issues between one individual or another in the hierarchy of Government.

Mr Speaker, that was wrong. That is why I spoke out against it at the time and that is why 1010 now, in the context of this Bill, we will be changing that. We did not do it at the first available opportunity, although we were ready to but, Mr Speaker, we had a President of the Court of Appeal who himself did not deserve to be removed from the job that he was doing because he was doing a very fine job, because this move is not to criticise Sir Murray or Sir Paul Kennedy for the work that they have done which has served Gibraltar well indeed.

1015 But, Mr Speaker, it is about putting the legal order back where it was, back where it should be and because no Chief Minister should ever say again of a Chief Justice, 'This town was not big enough for both of us,' as my predecessor said of the then Chief Justice. (Banging on desks)

1020 Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Minister for Education, Justice & International Exchange of Information.

1025 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, just on the question of timing, the Hon. the Chief Minister has alluded to this, this was of course, as I have explained, a manifesto commitment from 2011 and we clearly became aware that Sir Paul Kennedy was going to retire as President of the Court of Appeal, and consequently as President of the Courts of Gibraltar, in October of last year.

1030 That is why the Bill was published in August to bring it in, as it were, to make the change over to Head of Judiciary being the Chief Justice of Gibraltar when that actually happened. As it happened, we did not have Parliament at the time and therefore it was not possible to bring in that Bill. That is why we are bringing it now, even though there has been a new President appointed since then. But the intention at all times was to make it effective as from October, following the retirement of Sir Paul Kennedy from office.

1035 And as I indicated, although it is true the hon. Member has given us a little bit of history of the Act and having said why they changed it in the way they changed it – the GSD Government changed it at the time – he then goes on to say, well, they will now be supporting this particular change for the reasons that they have set out.

1040 But in doing so, the hon. Member talked of consultation with relevant stakeholders. I already mentioned it seems to us that it is particularly relevant that at the time of the drafting and at the time of the publication of the Bill, there was consultation, not just with the Chief Justice who clearly has an interest, but also with Sir Paul Kennedy who was the President not just of the Court of Appeal but the President of the Courts of Gibraltar at the time, and who had no objection to that Bill.

1045 But it was, in any event and it is in any event, the fulfilment of a manifesto commitment. It was a manifesto commitment we gave in 2011 which had the support of the people of Gibraltar and therefore we felt that it was right.

1050 Not only that, as has been mentioned, the Chief Justice of Gibraltar we certainly consider to be not just an able Chief Justice, but certainly a very able candidate to lead the Judiciary as Head of the Judiciary, as in fact had been the case prior to the Judicial Service Act which was introduced by the previous Administration.

1055 The only other thing, Mr Speaker, I would say on the Bill is in relation to the point raised by the hon. Member about section 37, which is the second limb of this Bill. The second purpose of this Bill is not, as I explained, just to make the Chief Justice Head of the Judiciary, but to bring in additional provisions following recommendations of the Judicial Service Commission in relation to disciplinary powers and proceedings concerning junior judicial officers in particular.

1060 As I mentioned during the course of my first intervention, Mr Speaker, these amendments actually follow the advice that has been given to us by the Judicial Service Commission and it is advice in relation to which we have clearly consulted the Chief Justice who is happy with these provisions and it involves also, the deletion of that last paragraph in section 37(1)(2) which talks about: that the suspension is necessary for the maintaining of the judiciary.

1065 It is important to note that what the section provides is that the Governor may in certain circumstances suspend a person from a junior judicial office. So it is a discretion and it is also acting on the advice of the Commission.

1070 There are certain things that have to be shown because one of the three items in (a), (b) or (c) have to apply – criminal proceedings, serving a sentence and convicted of a criminal offence, any of those – and as it is currently drafted it says, and in any of those circumstances, in addition there has to be, it is considered necessary for maintaining the confidence of the judiciary.

That is felt to be simply a constraint on the exercise of the discretion, because we have the various steps that have to be taken. Firstly, the Commission has to consider the matter and they should be free to consider all the circumstances and all the relevant matters, which may include question of confidence, but they should not be necessarily limited or constrained by that particular wording. So they will certainly consider everything in the round and when they do that they have to tender advice to the Governor who in turn may suspend the person from judicial office and again, in doing that, will consider the advice and will consider no doubt everything in the round.

1075 So we have taken the recommendation of the Judicial Service Commission, we have agreed with their recommendation and, therefore, we have set out the amendments that we propose for that particular purpose.

I commend the Bill to the House, Mr Speaker.

1080 Mr Speaker: I now put the question which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Judicial Service Act 2007 be read a second time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Judicial Service (Amendment) Act 2015.

Judicial Service (Amendment) Act 2015 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

1085 Minister for Education, Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken later today if all hon. Members agree.

Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

COMMITTEE STAGE

European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016;
Animals and Birds (Amendment) Bill 2016;
Judicial Service (Amendment) Bill 2015

1090 Clerk: Committee Stage and Third Reading.
The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1095 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, can I join you in congratulating all of those on the Opposite side who have made their maiden speeches in debate today and have the honour to move that the House should resolve itself into Committee to consider the following Bills clause by clause, namely the European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016; the Animals and Birds (Amendment) Bill 2016 and the Judicial Service (Amendment) Bill 2015.

1100 Mr Speaker: There are two matters which I think I want to explain. First of all, to reiterate that hon. Members may speak more than once on each individual clause if they so wish.

Secondly, that we have been adopting the practice of late that where a number of amendments are going to be made, some of which are lengthy, and provided sufficient notice has been given of these amendments, we do not read them out fully in Committee for each relevant clause, but we take them as having been read.

1105 That does not mean, however, that hon. Members are not free to intervene at that stage and express a view or ask the question for clarification if they so wish.

In Committee of the whole Parliament

European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016 –
Clauses considered and approved

1110 Clerk: A Bill for an Act to enable the full participation of Gibraltar in the United Kingdom's Referendum on whether it should remain a Member of the European Union and to provide for the making of subsidiary legislation in connection therewith and for matters connected thereto, including amending primary legislation by subsidiary legislation as the circumstances require.
Clause 1.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

1115 Clerk: Clause 2 as amended.

Mr Chairman: There is a small amendment to Clause 2. Do all hon. Members agree that it should be incorporated into the Clause?

1120 Members: Aye.

Mr Chairman: Clause 2 as amended stands part of the Bill.

1125 Clerk: Clause 3.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 4 as amended.

1130 Mr Chairman: There is a more substantial amendment to this clause. Do all Members support the amendment?

Members: Aye.

1135 Mr Chairman: Clause 4 as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 5.

1140 Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 6 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Clause 6, if hon. Members agree, as amended stands part of the Bill.

1145 Clerk: Clause 7 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Clause 7 – there is a very minor amendment – stands part of the Bill. Clause 7 as amended stands part of the Bill.

1150 Clerk: Clause 8 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Likewise a very minor amendment. Clause 8 as amended stands part of the Bill.

1155 Clerk: Clauses 9 to 11.

Mr Chairman: Clauses 9 to 11 stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 12 as amended.

1160

Mr Chairman: Clause 12 as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 13.

1165

Mr Chairman: Clause 13 stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 14 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Clause 14 as amended stands part of the Bill.

1170

Clerk: Clause 15 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Clause 15 as amended stands part of the Bill.

1175

Clerk: Clause 16 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Clause 16 as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clauses 17 to 19.

1180

Mr Chairman: Clauses 17 to 19 stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 20 as amended.

1185

Mr Chairman: Clause 20 as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clauses 21 to 29.

Mr Chairman: I have an indication that at Clause 27 a new clause is inserted.
Insert the following clause after Clause 27: Broadcasting from outside Gibraltar.

1190

Clerk: I beg your pardon, yes.

Mr Chairman: Correct?

1195

Clerk: Yes. Clauses 21 to 26.

Mr Chairman: Call the clauses up to 26.
Clauses 21 to 26 stand part of the Bill. Now Clause 27 –

1200

Clerk: Clause 27 as amended.

Mr Chairman: There is a substantial amendment. All Members agreed?

Members: Aye.

1205

Mr Chairman: Clause 27 as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clauses 28 to 29.

1210

Mr Chairman: Clauses 28 and 29 stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 30 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Clause 30 as amended stands part of the Bill.

1215

Clerk: Clauses 31 to 33

Mr Chairman: Clauses 31 to 33 stand part of the Bill.

1220

Clerk: Clause 34 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Clause 34, which is just clearing up 2016, as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clauses 35 and 36.

1225

Mr Chairman: Clauses 35 and 36 stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 37 as amended.

1230

Mr Chairman: Clause 37, which is inserting 2016 after the word 'regulations', stands part of the Bill as amended.

Clerk: Clause 38.

1235

Mr Chairman: Clause 38 stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: The first schedule as amended.

1240

Mr Chairman: There is a whole page of amendments to the first schedule. The first schedule as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Second schedule as amended.

1245

The Chairman: The second schedule as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

The Chairman: The long title also stands part of the Bill.

Animals and Birds (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Clauses considered and approved

1250 Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Animals and Birds Act.
Clause 1.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

1255 Clerk: Clause 2 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Clause 2 as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

1260 Mr Chairman: The long title stands part of the Bill.

Judicial Service (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Clauses considered and approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Judicial Service Act 2007.
Clause 1.

1265 Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill. (Interjection)

Minister for Education, Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi):
Mr Chairman, may I amend Clause 1 by replacing 2015 with 2016 so that the Act may be cited as the Judicial Service Amendment Act 2016.

1270 Mr Chairman: Clause 1 as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clauses 2 and 3.

1275 Mr Chairman: Clauses 2 and 3 stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

BILLS FOR THIRD READING

1280 European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016;
Animals and Birds (Amendment) Bill 2016;
Judicial Service (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Third Reading approved: Bills passed

Clerk: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1285 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to report that the European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016; the Animals and Birds (Amendment) Bill 2016 and the Judicial Service (Amendment) Bill 2016 have been considered in Committee and agreed to with amendments and I now move that they be read a third time and passed.

1290 Mr Speaker: I now put the question which is that the European Union (Referendum) Bill 2016; The Animals and Birds (Amendment) Bill 2016 and the Judicial Service (Amendment) Bill 2016 be read a third time and passed.

I am going to put the three of them to the vote. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION

Publication of Parliamentary and Ministerial Allowances – Debate commenced

Clerk: Private Member's Motion. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1295 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move the motion standing in my name which reads as follows: this House believes that it is in the public interest that the details of Members', Ministers' and office holders' allowances be published immediately on the parliamentary website and listed by way of annexe in the annual estimates and income and expenditure when presented in all future Budget sessions.

1300 Mr Speaker, in bringing this motion to the House, I am conscious of the sacrifice that our predecessors have made both in personal and financial terms for us to have the privilege to sit in this House today. (Hon D A Feetham: Hear, hear.) It was in 1911 that Lloyd George, as Liberal Chancellor, introduced Member's Allowances in the mother of all parliaments in the United Kingdom.

1305 At that time he stated that the money, a measly £400, was and I quote:

"... not a remuneration, it is not a recompense, it is not even a salary. It is just an allowance to enable us to open the door to great and honourable public service ..."

However, 100 years later after the UK MPs' expenses scandal, Dominic Sandbrook, writing in the Mail Online in 2011 wrote, and I quote:

"... MPs need to remember that they are servants of the people, never the masters."

1310 Mr Speaker, I was reminded of this shortly after the election when a member of the public stopped me down Main Street and urged me never to forget that my parliamentary salary was now partly paid by taxes deducted from the lowest paid employees in Gibraltar amongst others who could ill afford it.

1315 Mr Speaker, I may be new to this House but I am not new to the world of finance and the need for financial disclosure and transparency. I found it incredible that details of the allowance we each receive, funded by the taxpayer, are not readily available on the parliamentary website, as is the case in the United Kingdom.

Erskine May, in the book of Parliamentary Practice, discloses this information as regards the UK Parliament as a matter of course. You can see this on page 23 onwards of the 23rd edition.

1320 Mr Speaker, my motion is in no way a criticism of this or any previous Government. My motion is not in any way meant to be malicious or have any hidden intent. Mr Speaker, my motion is simply that this Parliament should resolve that details of MPs' and office holders' allowances be published regularly on its website, available for all to see, without the need for journalistic or parliamentary questions.

1325 Mr Speaker, my motion is also meant to ensure the full detailed disclosure is made in the annual Estimates Book every year and not just the totals of parliamentary allowances for Members. I ask: how can it be right that anyone can look up the salary of the Chief Secretary – £123,000, the Chief Justice – £132,000, the Financial Secretary – £123,000, in this the annual Estimates Book and yet the salary of the Chief Minister or MPs is not made public in the same way.

1330 Mr Speaker, those, put simply, are the reasons for my motion in requesting immediate full and transparent disclosure; not by this or any future Government as its whim, but by conscious resolution of this House requiring mandatory publication on this Parliament's website and disclosure in full feature annual estimates.

1335 Mr Speaker, this is not a matter for the Select Committee on Parliamentary Reform but a matter of good governance and common sense as parliamentarians in fulfilling our duty to taxpayers and the electorate.

I trust the Members opposite will have no problem in supporting my motion which, I say again, is directed solely at Parliament as a body and not at the Government or its Ministers.

Mr Speaker, with your leave, I hereby commend my motion to the House. (Banging on desks)

1340 Hon D A Feetham: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: I now propose the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. R M Clinton. Does any hon. Member wish to speak on the motion?

The Chief Minister.

1345

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Yes, and can I thank the hon. Member for the way in which he has put his speech. I am grateful that he has indicated that this is not in any attempt, as it could not be, an attempt to attack this Government.

1350 But, Mr Speaker, can I just make clear for those who may be listening and for the purposes of the record, that the salaries today are salaries fixed by a formula which was approved by the Government majority then made up of Members opposite in a motion of 17th December 1998.

1355 The hon. Gentleman knows that when he gave notice of his motion, the Government immediately acceded to the spirit of it and has now published on the website of the Government – not of the Parliament, of the Government – the details of the parliamentary salaries. I have no objection, once the IT Department are able to find time to do so, to also link from the Parliament website to that part of the Government website which sets out the details of those salaries.

1360 But can I just suggest to the hon. Gentleman that he might wish in future, if he wants to move a motion like this – it is a matter entirely for him – to get in touch with the Government, because the Government would have been very receptive to a proposal from him, which would have resulted in exactly the same resolution just as quickly in the posting of the relevant information on an easily accessible Government website.

1365 What we have done, Mr Speaker, is we have provided the salaries as they are today, we have provided the salaries since 1996, showing how they have risen, we have provided the formula. I think we have set out the details of the Hansard where the motion is, which is 17th December 1998, and the motion itself, so that everybody can see in what way the calculations are carried out and I think it is easy for people to also read the motion which was passed at the time which sets out that it was, in fact, the Government at the time, not the House, that carried the day on that subject.

1370 Mr Speaker, the 'servants of the people' is a phrase oft used in politics, not just from 2011. Andrew Rawnsley's excellent analysis of the New Labour Government was called Servants of the People and the phrase comes from even earlier than that. It would be a fool who forgot that they are here servants of the people. It would in fact be a fool in any part of our public sector

1375 who forgot that their salaries are paid by the taxpayer and that they must act always in contenance with their obligations to deliver not just value for money but also to do so in a way which is commensurate with the remuneration they receive and their obligations to ensure that that service is provided properly.

1380 In this House, in particular, we have a golden trust with the people who put us here to ensure that the work we do is in the best interests of this whole community, Mr Speaker. Speaking for Members on this side of the House we never see ourselves as the masters, we see ourselves always as the servants.

1385 In fact, Mr Speaker, I always remind people who refer to the number plate of the Chief Minister's car as G1 that that is not the number plate of the first Gibraltarian, it is the number plate of the Gibraltarian elected to serve all 30,000; the person who works for the benefit of those 30,000 and a more fitting number plate might actually be 30,001!

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak on the motion?

1390 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, before I sit down, as a result of all that, (Laughter) see how useful it is to have somebody of the ability to have attention to detail as the Deputy Chief Minister. I would move the following amendment to the motion, namely Mr Speaker – I will read the whole motion as we propose it to be, instead of just reading the amendments – that the motion should read as follows:

The House welcomes that the Government has listed the details of Members, Ministers and Office Holders allowances immediately on the Government ...

– in fact just take out the word 'immediately' as well –

... on the Government website and listed by way of annexe in the annual estimates of income and expenditure when presented in all future Budget sessions which will accurately reflect the position today.

1395 Mr Speaker, Members can have a photocopy of the written notice, I now give, of that amendment. Mr Speaker, the amendment is proposed in order to reflect the position as it is today.

1400 The hon. Member's motion is on the Order Paper because he filed it and the House today need not pass that motion because it has already been given effect to, the House today can pass the motion that reflects the reality, which is that this information is now on the website.

1405 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I thank the Hon. the Chief Minister for his remarks. As regards the amendment to the motion, my original motion was directed to this House and not at the Government. Therefore, to welcome the fact that the Government has put it on their website is not really addressing my motion. My motion is directed at this House, so this House should resolve that as a body we consider that this information should be in the parliamentary website and not at the discretion of the Government.

So I am not quite sure that his amendment really reflects the spirit of what it was that I intended.

1410 Mr Speaker: Having now received what the motion would look like if approved, I have to formulate what the actual amendment is. I am going to do that and the Chief Minister's amendment consists of the deletion ... it would delete the Chief Minister's amendment – and this is the amendment that he has proposed and which I will now put to the House.

1415 The amendment deletes after the word 'House', the words, 'believes that it is in the public interest'. It also deletes in the second line the words, 'be published immediately' and the word

'Parliamentary' and after deleting the word 'Parliamentary' that the word 'Government' should be substituted therefore.

1420 So the amendment is that the words 'believes that in the public interest' be deleted and substituted by the words 'welcomes that the Government has listed the details', the words 'be published immediately' be deleted, the word 'Parliament' be deleted and substituted by the word 'Government'.

1425 Therefore the motion would then read, 'This House welcomes that the Government has listed the details of Members', Ministers' and office holders' allowances on the Government website and listed by way of annexe in the annual estimates of income and expenditure when presented in all future Budget sessions.'

Does any other hon. Member wish to speak on the amendment first?

The Hon. Mr Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

1430 As I said before, the purpose of my motion is directed to Parliament, not at the Government, for this House to welcome the fact that the Government has actually published details on its website does not really address my original motion.

1435 Perhaps we could find a form of wording that this House welcomes that the Government has published on its website but, however, believes that it is in the public interest that these allowances be also published immediately on the parliamentary website and listed by way of annexe and that then becomes an amendment to the amendment.

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak on the Chief Minister's amendment?

1440 I will then call upon the Chief Minister to exercise his right to reply on his amendment.

1445 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think this is actually a better way of ensuring that the House records the position as it is today and, therefore, that is why I have made this proposal. The House is always the party resolving, it is the party that is making the determination, but the House, in effect, is making a decision today to say something which is not necessary because the information has already been listed and that is why I propose the amendment and I wish to now proceed with it, Mr Speaker, if you would put it to the vote.

1450 Mr Speaker: I will now put the amendment moved by the Chief Minister to the vote. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

So the motion as amended now reads as I have read it previously; I am not going to read it again. All hon. Members may speak now to the motion as amended, other than the Chief Minister; and of course the Hon. Mr Roy Clinton still has his right to reply at the end of it all.

1455 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I beg your indulgence here, as I now face an amended motion, I do not know if I can now propose an amendment to this amendment.

A Member: Yes, he could.

1460 Mr Speaker: I am sorry I missed that.

Hon. R M Clinton: I said I beg your indulgence, but as I am now faced with an amendment to my original motion, I do not know if I can propose an amendment to the amended motion.

1465 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, he can.

Hon. D A Feetham: The answer, Mr Speaker, is that he can propose an amendment to the amendment. Yes, he can.

1470 Mr Speaker: No, because he has already spoken on the amendment. Did he speak on the amendment? No. (Interjections)

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, he spoke on the amendment, he can make another amendment if he wishes. Any individual can get up and make another amendment.

1475 Mr Speaker: The Chief Minister's motion can be further amended and then we will have the amendment to the amendment. If I am to do my job properly, really I should have the amendments in writing, unless it is a very simple case of amending just one word or two.

1480 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, that is absolutely right. But of course in a situation where the Government amends without notice our motion, we do not know what the Government –

Mr Speaker: I am not asking for notice I am just asking to see it.

1485 Hon. D A Feetham: Absolutely, but what I am saying is that, because we do not know what the Government is going to be saying or amending the motion until we actually see it during the course of the debate, it has not been possible to produce something on the spot.

1490 But I am just discussing it with my hon. Colleague, Mr Clinton, because I do genuinely want this to go through by unanimous decision of the Parliament and I do hear what Mr Clinton has to say, which is a very valid point which is –

Hon. Chief Minister: No, no, no. Mr Speaker, if he is going to start speaking on the substance of issues then we are going to get ourselves into all sorts of knots about who can speak and who cannot speak. (Interjection)

1495 Is he now speaking to the amended motion? He will not be able to speak again.

Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, I am not going to be speaking on the motion and I do not want to entertain any controversy at this stage. All I want, Mr Speaker, is just a moment to confer with my colleague, Mr Clinton, in order to find a form of words that might be acceptable to the Government; because, as I say, I think it is in the interest of everybody for this to be going through on the basis of consent.

1500 It is just the question that concerns us, it is just a question of parliamentary ... it is a matter of Parliament rather than a matter for the Government. That is our substantive position.

1505 Mr Speaker: Would hon. Members like a short recess of a few minutes? Yes, we will recess for a few minutes whilst the amendment is being formulated.

The House recessed at 5.24 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 5.34 p.m.

Publication of Parliamentary and Ministerial Allowances – Debate continued – Amended motion carried

Clerk: Mr Speaker.

1510 Mr Speaker: Am I correct in saying that the amendment to the amendment proposed by the Hon. Mr Roy Clinton adds a few words?

Hon. R M Clinton: Yes, that would be correct.

1515 Mr Speaker: And after the word 'website' the motion be amended by introducing after the word 'website' the following words: 'and resolves that it should also be listed in the parliamentary website.'

Hon. R M Clinton: On the Parliamentary website.

1520

Mr Speaker: On. That it should also be listed on the parliamentary website.
I will now put the amendment –

1525 Hon. Chief Minister: Before you do, Mr Speaker, and in order to avoid having to move an amendment to the amendment, would the hon. Gentleman agree to move that the amendment should say 'and resolves that they' because it is not an 'it'.

Hon. R M Clinton: Absolutely, yes, agreed.

1530 Mr Speaker: ... instead of 'it'. The amendment proposed is that after the word 'website' the following words should be inserted: 'and resolves that they should also be listed on the parliamentary website.'

I will now put the amendment to the amendment to the House.

All in favour? (Members: Aye.) The amendment is agreed.

1535 Does any hon. Member now wish to speak on the motion before the House as amended? If not I will call the hon. mover to reply.

The Hon. Mr Clinton to reply.

1540 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, thank you very much for what has been a very productive motion debate. I am grateful to the Members opposite for having accepted my motion in the spirit it was intended. Being new to this House, this is something which I will no doubt learn more about, but I would now, without any further ado – I will read my briefing notes! – put the motion to the House.

1545 Mr Speaker: I will now put the motion to the House in the terms of the original motion moved by the Hon. Mr Clinton as amended by the Chief Minister and as further amended by Mr Clinton.

All in favour? (Members: Aye.) All agreed. Carried

ADJOURNMENT

1550 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Well, Mr Speaker, after a very convivial first 72 hours of parliamentary business, and having now found out – because I think it is true that most people did not know what the parliamentary salaries were – who has got the best part-time jobs in Gibraltar, I move that the House do now adjourn sine die. (Laughter)

1555 Mr Speaker: I now propose the question, which is that the House do now adjourn sine die. I now put the question that this House should now adjourn sine die.

I now put the question, which is that this House do now adjourn sine die.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

This House will adjourn sine die.

The House adjourned at 5.36 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

AFTERNOON SESSION: 3.00 p.m. – 7.10 p.m.

Gibraltar, Thursday, 25th February 2016

Contents

Prayer .....	3
Confirmation of Minutes .....	3
Papers to be laid .....	3
Questions for Oral Answer .....	4
Chief Minister .....	4
Q252-254/2016 Naval Ground car park – Details.....	4
Q255/2016 Marriott Hotel plans – Commencement of works .....	5
Q256/2016 Coaling Island development and reclamation project – Details .....	6
Q257/2016 Rooke development proposals– Details.....	6
Q258/2016 Eastside ‘Bluewater’ project – Whether going ahead.....	7
Q259-260/2016 Public finance and public debt – Written advice .....	8
Q261-262/2016 Drug Rehabilitation and Justice – Opportunity for site visits for shadow Opposition Members.....	9
Q276/2016 Drugs crime – Prevention measures .....	15
Q263/2016 ID cards – Printing and distribution.....	16
Q264-265/2016 Gibraltar Entertainment Network; Gibraltar Broadcasting Corporation – Board members; independence .....	17
Q266/2016 MOD workers’ safety net – Kings Lines Oil Fuel Depot .....	18

Q267-272/2016 Public sector posts – Recruitment; retirement; substitutions; agency workers.....	18
Q273/2016 Public sector post/service – Recruited or contracted without advertising .....	26
Q274/2016 Gibraltar Football Association – Loan provided.....	29
Q275/2016 Government commitments for next four years – Those not included in the GSLP/Liberal manifesto for 2015 .....	30
Business and Employment .....	33
Q128/2016 Unemployment figures – Numbers registered .....	33
Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth .....	33
Q129/2016 Central Police Station in Irish Town – Development plans.....	33
Q130/2016 Northern Defences – Stoppage of works.....	34
Q131/2016 Gibraltar Music Festival – Money from pre-paid wristbands .....	34
Q132/2016 Gibraltar Music Festival 2015– Total costs .....	35
Q133-134/2016 Lift components – Adequate storage near Retrenchment Block .....	37
Q135/2016 Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority – Three staff vacancies .....	40
Q136/2016 Hosting sports and leisure events – Grants provided.....	40
Q138/2016 Chess in Gibraltar – Mr Stuart Conquest .....	41
Q139-141/2016 Converted to written questions .....	42
Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services .....	42
Q142/2016 Life plans for the disabled – Assessment of individuals .....	42
Q143-144/2016 People with disabilities – Assessment details .....	43
Q145-147/2016 Care Agency and Social Services– Training for workers .....	45
Q148-149/2016 Social Services workers – Details of contracts and posts .....	46
Q150/2016 Care Agency and Social Services– Contracts with recruitment agencies .....	46
Q151/2016 Care Agency – Permanent and pensionable posts/positions .....	47
Q152/2016 Care Agency – Independent review .....	47
Q153/2016 Learning Disability Services Multi-Disciplinary Team – Details.....	50
Q154/2016 Care Agency – Chief Executive Officer .....	51
Q155/2016 Team Leader of the Disability Team– Recruitment to post .....	51
Q156/2016 Care Agency – Out-of-hours workers.....	55
Q157/2016 Men in need – Resources available .....	55
Q158/2016 Women in need – Properties identified.....	56
Q159, 163-164, 169 & 183/2016 Government debtors – Unpaid debts and rents .....	57
Q160-161/2016 Procedural.....	71
The House adjourned at 7.10 p.m. .....	74

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.00 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

PRAYER

Mr Speaker

CONFIRMATION OF MINUTES

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Thursday 25th February 2016 – Order of Proceedings.
Confirmation of Minutes – the Minutes of the last meeting of Parliament, which was held on 20th, 21st and 22nd January 2016.

5

Mr Speaker: May I sign the Minutes as correct? (Members: Aye.)

Mr Speaker signed the Minutes.

PAPERS TO BE LAID

Clerk: (iii) Communications from the Chair; (iv) Petitions; (v) Announcements; (vi) Papers to be laid – the Hon. the Chief Minister.

10

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to lay on the Table the Consolidated Fund Supplementary Funding – Statement No. 2 of 2014/2015; and the Audited Accounts of the Gibraltar Regulatory Authority for the year ended March 2015.

15

Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

Clerk: (vii) Reports of Committees; (viii) Answers to Oral Questions.

Questions for Oral Answer

CHIEF MINISTER

Q252-254/2016

Naval Ground car park – Details

20 Clerk: We commence with Questions to the Chief Minister.
Question 252/2016, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, further to Questions 688/2014 and 75/2015, can the 25 Government advise what the cost of the construction of the car park at the Naval Ground is?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with 30 Questions 253 and 254.

Clerk: Question 253, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Government advise how many of the parking spaces at the 35 Naval Ground car park are, or will be, available to the public and whether this is free parking or paid parking?

Clerk: Question 254, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Government advise how many charging points for electric cars 40 will be made available at the Naval Ground car park?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Government is not building the car park at the Naval 45 Ground. This is being constructed by a private company, Midtown Coach and Car Park Holdings Ltd.

The Government through one of its companies established by the former GSD Administration, namely Gibraltar Car Parks Ltd, will acquire the coach and car park once this is complete.

50 The coach and car park is expected to be completed for a cost of £21.3 million.

It is envisaged that there will be free day parking for residents using the new ID card and paid parking for non-residents, as well as overnight covered parking for taxis and local coaches.

A fuller statement will be made in due course as to the exact nature of the arrangements for parking at this excellent facility which will be very welcome by the whole community no doubt, 55 in particular, people living in the town area and those wishing to visit our city centre and the traders who depend on them.

There are a total of 45 charging points for electric cars in Midtown parking. More can be added in the future.

60 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, if I could just ask the Chief Minister whether those electric charging points are metred and paid for or whether they are freely available to members of the public who may own electric cars?

65 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, he and I and everybody else who is listening, are the only owners of an electric car in Gibraltar. The Taxpayer owns the Tesla P85 G1 vehicle, which is the only electric car in Gibraltar at the moment. The hon. Member will be able to see that from statistics he was given at the last meeting of the House. So G1 could be charged there and any other vehicle could be charged there in the future.

70 Whether we will be charging for the electricity, or not charging, is a point the Government is considering to see whether that might encourage people to continue to purchase electric vehicles, as the Government has demonstrated is a very positive and possible way of running a car like G1.

Q255/2016
Marriott Hotel plans –
Commencement of works

75 Clerk: Question 255, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Can Government confirm if the Marriott Hotel plans approved by the Development Planning Commission back in March 2014 are still going ahead; if so, when are the works scheduled to commence?

80 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo) Well, Mr Speaker, this is not a Government project. It is a private sector project for which planning permission has been obtained. The Government continues in discussion with developers in respect of this and other ongoing hotel projects.

85 Clerk: Question 256, the Hon. R M –

Mr Speaker: Yes, the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

90 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just in relation to that – and if the information is already in the public domain, my apologies – but it would be helpful if the Hon. the Chief Minister were to also inform this House as to whether the land on which the Marriott Hotel is to be built is owned by the Government and whether that has already been sold and that sale has already gone ahead. If it has, what is the consideration for the sale?

95 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the sale has not yet been finalised.

Hon. D A Feetham: And is there a consideration that has been agreed, even though the sale has not been finalised?

100 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, as I understand it, the consideration was agreed by the former administration.

105 Hon. D A Feetham: That may be so, but the Hon. the Chief Minister must have the information available to him, and I would appreciate it if he would provide the information. What is the consideration for the sale of this particular piece of land?

110 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have from memory so I will not be held to it, the figure of £5 million having been agreed by the former administration of which he was a Member, so I am surprised he is asking me for that information.

Q256/2016
Coaling Island development and reclamation project –
Details

Clerk: Question 256, the Hon. R M Clinton.

115 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Chief Minister please advise details of the proposed Coaling Island development and reclamation project mentioned in his 2015 Budget Speech, including the size of any likely premium?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

120 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the Government will make a statement in respect of this project in due course.

125 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, that is a very short and precise answer, but does he have any idea of what the nature of what the project entails, what side of the Coaling Island the reclamation is meant to be?

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, Mr Speaker, and I will make a statement about that in due course.

130 Hon. R M Clinton: Could the hon. Member perhaps expand on what he means by due course? Are we talking about weeks or months?

135 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, as the hon. the politician formerly known as Sir Peter Caruana, until he became known as the greatest Gibraltarian of all time in the lexicon of the Members opposite, indicated to us in the context of parliamentary debates, in this place 'soon' means when the Government is able to do it and 'in due course' means when the Government does it.

140 Hon. R M Clinton: From that statement, Mr Speaker, I take it that we are not going to see any money this side of the financial year?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, he might think so. I could not possibly comment.

Q257/2016
Rooke development proposals–
Details

Clerk: Question 257, the Hon. R M Clinton.

145 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, could the Chief Minister please advise details of the proposed Rooke development and the size of any likely premium?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

150 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the Government has issued a number of press statements in respect of the proposed redevelopment of Rooke already. Further details will be announced in due course.

Q258/2016
Eastside 'Bluewater' project –
Whether going ahead

Clerk: Question 258, the Hon. R M Clinton.

155 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Inwards Investment, please advise if the Eastside 'Bluewater' project is still going ahead with the chosen developer, Camoren Holdings Ltd?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

160

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the answer remains as set out in answer to Question 117/2016.

165 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am sure we all remember that exchange last month, in which an announcement was imminent and would be reaching a climax in due course. I would be grateful if the Chief Minister could perhaps enlighten us as to whether this project is indeed going ahead or not. There are people who have put their names down for affordable housing and they would like some indication.

170 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, the people who have put their names down for the affordable housing which was announced by the GSLP/Liberal Government will be very happy to know that they are going to be able to purchase properties in very short order and that those affordable housing projects are going to continue to be of the standard that has been developed by my Government in its first term in office, which by all accounts, is one with which everybody is very happy, given that people are already moving into the development at what used to be known as the Aerial Farm and will soon be moving in to the magnificent development in the area known as Mons Calpe Mews.

175 But, Mr Speaker, I do not think that I am going to be persuaded to give the hon. Gentleman a blow-by-blow account of what is happening in the negotiations with Camoren.

180

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, that is a shame. Perhaps he could tell us if he has had the £83 million premium, yes or no?

185 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave him a few moments ago.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I take that to be no.

190 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, if he can read, he can go back and read what the answer to Question 117/2016 was and he will then be able to work out whether the answer is yes or no. I am not here to answer questions on the basis of yes or no, or in any other terms that the hon. Gentleman might wish me to answer. I will answer them in the way that I wish to answer.

195 Hon. R M Clinton: Well, Mr Speaker, I am afraid I do not have the answer to that question in front of me, but as I recall he said that at this moment in time the premium has not been paid. Does he stand by that statement?

200 Hon. Chief Minister: I do not, Mr Speaker, because that is not what I said. If he is going to ask questions which follow up on earlier questions, he should check what he was told then. I told him that the premium was not yet due.

205 Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker. From that statement I take it that it has not been paid.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, playing ping-pong from one side of Parliament to the other is not edifying and Mr Speaker, if that is what the hon. Gentleman wants to do, I am quite happy to carry on serving him volleys.

210 It is very simple. If a premium is not due in answer to Question 117/2016 and the answer remains as it was in respect of 117/2016, it is still not due now. He can make of that answer what he likes, as I am sure he will.

Q259-260/2016
Public finance and public debt –
Written advice

Clerk: Question 259, the Hon. R M Clinton.

215 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please provide details of any written or verbal guidance or recommendations given by the Foreign Office or any other UK Government Agency to Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar, in respect of the management of Gibraltar's public finance or public debt?

220 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 260.

225 Clerk: Question 260, the Hon. R M Clinton.

230 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please confirm that the Financial Secretary is in agreement with the proposed removal of the reference to a recurrent revenue limit in the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act and that he has issued a written advice to that effect?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

235 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, neither the Foreign & Commonwealth Office nor anyone else has tried to tell us how to manage Gibraltar's public finances or Gibraltar's public debt.

Mr Speaker, no Government has ever kept the Opposition informed of what instruction it gives or does not give, or what advice it seeks or is offered by the Financial Secretary or any other civil servant as to what needs to be done or not done to give effect to Government policies.

240 That said, and given that the Member opposite is asking about the proposed Borrowing Powers Bill, in anticipation of a debate on another item on the Order Paper, I feel I should put his mind at rest.

245 I want it to be clearly understood that the Financial Secretary has not felt any need to give any views that suggest that the proposed change should not be made. In fact, it would have been surprising if he had, given that he suggested that the change in question should be made.

Having said this, I also want to make clear that this is not a precedent nor a change in the policy of all previous governments and administrations not to share advice referred to Ministers by civil servants or advisors in confidence.

250 I have answered today simply to put the record straight and so that further false information is not propagated by the Members opposite outside this House.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I do not know whether this may be in or out of order, but could the Chief Minister elaborate what he means by 'false information'?

255

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, outside this House, Members opposite have made statements about the state of Gibraltar's public finances which are, in the view of the Government, false and we believe that this question was designed to try and bolster that series of falsehoods.

260

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I can only deny whatever the Chief Minister imagines, but I thank him for his answer.

265 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I will make my own assessments as to his denials, but I am grateful that he acknowledges that I have answered his question.

Q261-262/2016

Drug Rehabilitation and Justice –

Opportunity for site visits for shadow Opposition Members

Clerk: Question 261, the Hon. E J Phillips.

270 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Drug Rehabilitation confirm that the Opposition Member of Parliament with shadow responsibility for Drug Rehabilitation will be afforded an opportunity in the next month to have a familiarisation visit to Bruce's Farm Rehabilitation and Gladys Perez Centres?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

275

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question with Question 262.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Justice confirm that the Opposition Member of Parliament with shadow responsibilities for Justice will be afforded an opportunity to 280 have a familiarisation visit to Her Majesty's Prison Windmill Hill, during the course of the next month?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

285 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, no sir. The Hon. Member is not the Governor and we are too busy working to do organised tours.

Hon. E J Phillips: Well, that is an unhelpful reply to the question, (Laughter and interjections) I think he will agree with me, but since we have had a number of them this morning, I would like 290 to ask the Chief Minister this question. Does he not think it is helpful that someone who is serving this community should be able to visit some of our institutions which would allow him to look at the issues that are involved in Bruce's Farm and also the Prison?

Does he not think it helpful that someone who, although does not have 70% as he likes to keep pointing out to us, still represents a number of people in this community that would like 295 him to visit the state of the Prison and Bruce's Farm to ascertain for himself whether there is any need for improvements?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, he likes to ask questions he knows the answers to. I suppose that is the training of the advocate, because you are always taught not to ask a 300 question unless you know the answer, because the obvious answer to that question is no, given the first answer that I gave him.

Now, Mr Speaker, it is not no because we are trying to be unhelpful – although it would be helpful if he told me where it was that he was getting answers this morning, and so that I might 305 find out why it is that he thought we were being unhelpful this morning. I thought we were being quite helpful this afternoon, the hon. Gentleman sitting next to him has just thanked me for answering his question.

Mr Speaker, the facilities that he is talking about are not a zoo. They are not there for him to visit and see and for us to organise a tour for him, Mr Speaker. Look, if he wants to see a facility which is open to the public then he is able to access that facility. If he wants to see a facility 310 which is a working Government facility, well, Mr Speaker, the position has been of successive administrations that you are not able as a Member of Parliament who is not in Government, to visit a Government facility.

Mr Speaker, if he thinks I am being unhelpful, then he needs to ask himself whether he is sitting with the right party, because when the GSD was in office and I was elected as a young 315 whipper snapper on the opposite side, (Laughter) I asked to spend a night on patrol with the RGP and a night with the Fire Service to understand the challenges that they face. This is the very helpful reply, Mr Speaker, I was then provided with by Mr Ernest Montado, the excellent Chief Secretary of the time, fondly remembered by anyone who has had the chance of working with him, and I have had an opportunity of working with him professionally. Mr Speaker, he said 320 this:

'Dear Fabian, I am sorry it has taken me so long to reply to your letter of 5th October 2004 which in turn referred to correspondence with the Commissioner of Police and the Chief Fire Officer going back to 30th August 2004. I hope you will understand that I have been heavily engaged on other matters these past few months involving extensive travelling which has resulted inevitably in a backlog of correspondence in the office.'

And, Mr Speaker, only Ernest would be as polite and elegant in dealing with a newly elected MP's letter.

'I should explain that it is normal procedure for Heads of Department to refer to me requests to visit Government Departments which have been received from persons or organisations outside of Government. Having regard to the nature and purpose of your proposed visits as set out in your letters, I have to say it would not be appropriate to accede to your request.'

This is the head of the administration, not a politician.

'It would not be acceptable for an Opposition politician to spend time with public officers, let alone officers in the essential services whilst they are engaged during working hours in carrying out their duties. You are at liberty of course to raise issues concerning the workings of Departments or terms and conditions of employment of staff directly with the Minister responsible, either by approaching him/her directly or by raising questions in the [then] House of Assembly. Moreover, it is open to you also to raise such issues with the relevant trade unions or staff associations and/or their staff representatives directly.

I trust that this clarifies the position.'

Mr Speaker, I trust that this clarifies the position.

325

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am glad to see then that nothing has clearly changed with the New Dawn Government.

I refer the Chief Minister to a statement in the manifesto of 2000 in which his Deputy Chief Minister said:

'We will be absolutely implacable in the pursuit of changing the political system.'

330

Is it right then if you are happy to change the system, implacable in changing the system, that you should be offering me the opportunity to go and visit our institutions to assist our community in understanding what is done there, what effective treatments are being offered at Bruce's Farm? (Interjection)

Have you finished?

335

Hon. Chief Minister: Have you finished?

Hon. E J Phillips: No, not yet I was just being rudely interrupted, I would like to know. (Interjection)

340

I have the floor?

Mr Speaker: Let me make one thing clear. There are occasions when comments are made on both sides of the House, and they may or may not constitute an interruption. It is for me in the final analysis to decide whether it is an interruption or not, and whether it is out of order or not.

345

So please continue.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful, Mr Speaker. That is my question.

350

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I am grateful that he reminds us of the provision set out in our New Dawn manifesto. It was a manifesto that seven out of ten people in the last General Election believe we had delivered with such vigour and so magnificently that they returned us to Government with a renewed and stronger mandate, under a manifesto to strengthen the foundations of this community.

355

We were in fact, Mr Speaker, implacable in the pursuit of change; or is it that the hon. Gentleman does not know of all the changes that we implemented to the way our democracy works? He himself was able to write to the Chief Secretary and to have access to the civil servants in the 90 days before the last General Election, something which I was denied, Mr Speaker – I have the letter here – on 25th October 2011 by the former Chief Secretary, because the previous administration, the one that he represents – he needs to be reminded of that, I think – did not think that that was appropriate.

360

So, Mr Speaker, many things that the GSD were doing, we have changed. Some we have not changed. Some of them, Mr Speaker, are just constitutionally as they were and will be. The ten people on this side are Ministers; the seven people on that side are Opposition Members. Mr Speaker, they have a role to play. That role is not to visit Government facilities and inspect them

365 in order to ask us questions about them. It is to receive the concerns of people who may use those facilities, as was so eruditely set out in the letter from Ernest Montado

But, Mr Speaker, not implacable in change, not a New Dawn administration. Well, Mr Speaker, he is on television today because of the New Dawn administration. He gets to ask us questions once a month except for the Easter break and the summer break because of the New Dawn administration. I wonder what he would have made of the GSD administration that called three meetings a year, sometimes two meetings a year? Oh hang on! He opposed them too, he was in a different party! (Laughter) He was making the same argument we were making. It is only now that he sits under the same initials of those he used to criticise that he believes that he should defend what they used to do in Government. (Banging on desks)

375

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, we welcome the institutional changes and the cosmetic changes to Parliament. I have something else to say about that, but that can wait until the Freedom of information Bill is presented.

Mr Speaker, I think it is right that a shadow representative in relation to the Prisons and in relation to Justice and in relation to rehabilitation of offenders is afforded an opportunity to visit these facilities. I take it from his answer that he is refusing. His Government is refusing me access to those two places.

Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, that is not right. If he wants me to arrange for an extended stay in the prison facility, I will talk to the Minister for Justice and see what we can do!

I am only joking, I am not pretending to incarcerate the hon. Member, I would miss out on all my fun in Parliament.

Mr Speaker, the Opposition remains, as has been the case in respect of all previous administrations – in other words, Government facilities which are not open to the public are not open to Members of the Opposition. It has ever been thus, it is not a question of change for the sake of change that we believe in. We believe in change for the purposes of ensuring transparency and accountability to our people, so that people can see what is going on in the heart of Government.

Look, a prison and a facility like Bruce's Farm are not a place, Mr Speaker, where we can, and I say organise tours; this is a place where people are either receiving treatment or it is a place of incarceration where people can have an element of shame because they are there. Mr Speaker, even when I have visited and I am in Government, I have visited once, I have been very careful. It has caused logistical problems for the prison staff because they need to ensure I am able to see areas and prisoners are moved etc.

Look, this is a small community, I know people who are there. I may have acted for them, I may know them in another way – it is very embarrassing for them. Others might welcome the contact; not all of them would.

And so, Mr Speaker, this is not a frivolous no. This is a well thought out, careful no. And Mr Speaker, believe me, I examine my conscience before I give these answers, I remembered the letter from Ernest, I checked the letter from Ernest, I tried to understand the issues in the letter from Ernest, which I had accepted at the time I must say, and I checked once again with the Chief Secretary. He gave me the same conclusion that the former Chief Secretary had given to me when he wrote to me, Mr Speaker.

This is about ensuring that those facilities are able to continue providing the service that they provide, and look Mr Speaker, it is not as if this is a place where if there is a problem in the Prison or in Bruce's Farm, he is not going to be told by someone who is going to go and tell him, 'Look, I have been up at Bruce's Farm and they have not changed the duvets for 15 years.' He is going to find out those issues. This is not a community where he needs to come and carry out an inspection.

415 For those reasons, Mr Speaker, having thought it through very carefully, we stand by the position set out in the letter of the then Chief Secretary of 9th November 2001. I am quite happy to give him a copy if he wishes.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the answer to that question. I only have one further question and that relates to an issue that has arisen in this exchange relating to contact with civil servants. The Chief Minister is aware that, as he said in one of his answers, the candidates were allowed the opportunity to contact civil servants, have a discussion with them about certain policy areas to help the civil servants in the event of a change in Government.

I did also follow that up very shortly after the election with a letter to the Chief Secretary, to ask whether we could review the position, or the Government would review the position, in relation to contact at pre-election time. I still have not yet had a response to that letter to the Chief Secretary, but I understand that he is in regular contact with you about this issue. As the Chief Minister will be aware, in the United Kingdom the length of time for contact varies from six to twelve months before a general election. I wonder whether we can have a commitment from the Chief Minister that he will review that with a view to increasing the time period allowable to candidates in general elections so they can have contact with civil servants. I am sure he will find that will be a helpful suggestion to those standing for election so that they can have that contact with civil servants.

Mr Speaker: I am only allowing that supplementary because of course the Chief Minister himself raised the issue of the contact period before a general election, otherwise it would not be relevant to the original question.

Hon. Chief Minister: I am grateful, Mr Speaker, and I am happy to answer the question. Mr Speaker, this is something I feel very strongly about. I introduced the issue when I was Leader of the Opposition and I followed through as Chief Minister to ensure that the contact was possible.

Mr Speaker, as I understand it, the convention in the United Kingdom is 90 days, I do not think it is longer. But, Mr Speaker, there needs to be an appreciation that in Gibraltar we tend not to have candidates for election 90 days before a general election, let alone a year before. In the United Kingdom, the position is that constituencies will, for parties, elect a person who is going to be the candidate, sometimes up to a year before and that person will be a candidate notionally. You could have political parties doing the same thing here but you do not have candidates for a general election in Gibraltar until 21 days before the poll. There are not candidates in the general election until 21 days before the poll.

And so therefore, Mr Speaker, we have to be very careful how we deal with this issue because anybody could say 90 days before a general election – I am not suggesting the hon. Members would. They are a political party, we are a political party or two and we are established, but anybody could say, ‘Well, I intend to be a candidate in the next general election, I would like to sit down with this civil servant and discuss something with him’, and that person might not have any intention whatsoever of being a candidate because it is not until the ink crystallises 24 hours after you have signed on here, as you know, that you become a candidate in the general election.

I do not know if the hon. Gentleman is a veteran, he has lost one or two in the past, but he knows what the process is, and therefore we have to be very careful how we calibrate that. I believe it is right that if you have got people standing for election, the judgement in a general election is made by the public, people in the run-up to the election should be able to speak to members of the Civil Service, test their policies, discuss with them what they would do if they were elected etc; but the period, which I understand is 90 days in the United Kingdom, is not in my view one that should be changing.

The hon. Gentleman has said it fluctuates and up to a year in the UK. I have not seen any evidence of that. If he writes to me, I am quite happy to investigate whether there have been further reforms in the United Kingdom in that respect. This is a practice in the United Kingdom that dates from the late 1960s. I know that the Blair Government made some amendments to it, I believe those amendments were simply about how the contact was established, but that the period was still 90 days.

Answering his question, I understand that the Chief Secretary wants my input in respect of the answer to his letter. He has not yet formally sought it, although I know he is going to send me a memorandum asking me for a policy decision in respect of one part of his letter which requires a policy decision.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the answer to that question. Just to be helpful, the background to this in the International Commission document that is attached to my letter would be helpful to the Chief Minister. The Chief Secretary has all that already, so there is no reason to write to the Chief Minister formally, but I will just refer to that letter.

I am grateful.

Hon. Chief Minister: Is the hon. Gentleman happy that the Chief Secretary should show me his letter? I mean usually the Chief Secretary would simply refer to me any part of a letter that requires a policy input. He would not share with me a piece of correspondence with an Opposition Member unless there was a good reason to do so.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am very happy for the Chief Secretary to share that letter with the Chief Minister.

But I would just like to pick up on one single point that he raised. I had a contact visit with the Social Services Department, Mr Bruzon, Mr Montegriffo, and the Chief Secretary himself, in relation to the rehabilitation of offenders and that only came two or three days before the General Election. I am very grateful to them to organise that at very short notice but in terms of testing our policies it is very, very difficult.

I am sure that the Chief Minister will agree that two or three days before the General Election was insufficient time for me to have a thorough meeting with them insofar as communicating our policy and that is why I raised the issue with the Chief Secretary, not to criticise the process because I welcomed the process that was introduced to have that month period, but I was simply asking for a longer period so that we could test those policies, as you referred to.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I detect in there the fact that the hon. Gentleman realises that this is a change we made which is a change for the better. The first time it operated was during the last General Election. It may be that it needs to be improved. I know that for the Civil Service in Gibraltar it was a new thing. I think that guidance was sought from the Cabinet Office in the United Kingdom as to how they should handle the matter and I think it is something that can only improve.

The political pendulum swings, it is not all that it should and we might be sitting on the other side at some stage in the next 100 years, and we might need access to the civil servants before a General Election.

Mr Speaker: The hon. Member may derive some consolation from the fact, if I inform him, that back in 1972, the Minister with responsibility for the Prison could not, according to the Superintendent of the Prison, visit the Prison unless there was permission given by the Deputy Governor and after clearance with the Head of Special Branch.

Needless to say that by 1981 the matter had been put right. (Laughter)

Hon. Chief Minister: I am surprised Special Branch agreed that you should visit, Mr Speaker!

520 Can I just make one final point to try and be helpful, Mr Speaker, as the hon. Lady has reminded me? When someone is admitted to Bruce's Farm for therapy, they are guaranteed anonymity. That is why we do not tend to visit Bruce's Farm. It is a facility that is always in use and they are guaranteed anonymity. We meet with people who have responsibility for Bruce's Farm, we are shown photographs of what needs to be repaired etc. but the hon. Lady goes when she is able to visit and not affect that guarantee of anonymity.

525 So this is not something which is, as we say in Spanish, coser y cantar. This is not just sew and sing; it is actually a very complex thing to organise.

Q276/2016
Drugs crime –
Prevention measures

Clerk: We move to Question 276, the questioner is the Hon. E J Phillips.

530 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Justice confirm what measures the Government will introduce to keep Gibraltar as drug free as possible and take the toughest possible action against drug pushers?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

535 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the fight against drugs is a serious community concern and, as such, figures prominently in the RGP's Strategy Document 2015-18 and in the Gibraltar Police Authority's Annual Police Plan every year.

540 To deal with the drug problem, the RGP operates a three pronged approach encompassing education awareness and enforcement. The school liaison officers deliver talks in school supported by Drug Squad colleagues and, importantly, by reformed addicts. There are numerous awareness campaigns throughout the calendar year with the flagship event being the Mini-Olympiad.

545 From an enforcement perspective, the targeting of drug trafficking offences is a key performance indicator. Dedicated resources in the form of Drug Squad officers are permanently allocated to this duty. The fight against drugs is a force-wide task and as such, all officers are charged with dealing with this community concern. Law enforcement in this area is intelligence led, targeting identified hot spots and individuals.

550 Additionally, the Government has now commenced the Proceeds of Crime Act, which enables the seizure and confiscation of assets arising from criminal conduct, even where no criminal proceedings are brought against an individual. This builds upon the provisions for drug-crime-related confiscation that existed before and is part of this Government's commitment to hit criminals where it hurts.

555 From a Customs perspective, enforcement controls have been increased. Her Majesty's Customs are in the process of setting up a dedicated flexible team to tackle the illicit importation of drugs. In this sense, the employment of 60 additional Customs officers will no doubt be very welcome by the community, despite some criticising the growth in the public sector; as are the new marine assets purchased by the Government for Customs which provides them with resources they did not previously have at their disposal.

560 Indeed, Mr Speaker, it is worth repeating that until we were elected into Government, the RGP and the Customs department had only vessels confiscated from drug traffickers with which to do their jobs. That changed after our election and with the important investment we made in safe and faster vessels for both of these law enforcement agencies, despite the repeated complaints by some who do not seem to want to see us invest public money in our public servants.

565 Another important factor is the work done by the Drug Rehabilitation Services. Their work is focused on continually addressing all the different facets of drugs misuse within our community. This includes ensuring that all students from middle school onwards receive drug education. This involves joint presentations from the Care Agency and the Royal Gibraltar Police. For older pupils, recovering addicts also deliver very powerful first-hand testimonies on the dangers of 570 drug abuse. Over the past year alone, they have delivered awareness programmes in such diverse settings from youth clubs to all new Her Majesty's Customs and Royal Gibraltar Police recruits. Only this past week the service has conducted three of these presentations. We must thank the recovering addicts for bravely doing this work for the community.

575 Additionally Drug Rehabilitation Services conduct various drug and alcohol awareness campaigns during key times of the year, such as during National Week and over the Christmas season. On the rehabilitation side since 2011, the service has witnessed the highest occupancy rates at Bruce's Farm over the past decade. Drug awareness programmes have been extended to Her Majesty's Prison where any inmate wishing to undertake a rehabilitation programme can see a counsellor who will work with them whilst in custody and beyond release.

580 The service also provides support for the families who have to contend with the consequences of addiction of a loved one. In short, they provide the network of support to ensure that anybody who needs help can readily access the service.

The Probation Service also works closely with the courts to ensure that any drug offenders given community services are dealt with in a manner that both deters them from further 585 offending and supports them to maintain drug-free lifestyles.

To this effect, the courts have recourse to impose Drug Treatment Requirements, among a range of other community services. The Probation Service also regularly supervises convicted drug offenders released on parole. This ensures that any risk these may pose to the community is kept to a minimum.

590 I recently supported the 'stay clean' campaign together with Minister Sacramento at a public fund-raising event at the Piazza. I look forward to the work I will be doing with that fantastic and brave group of people.

But this is only the beginning of a strategy that the Government is developing in this field to further improve the work done in this area. That is why I am taking responsibility for the Drug 595 Abuse Control Prevention and Cure aspects to No. 6 Convent Place. Mr Speaker, the fight against the illicit trade in drugs and their abuse is a multi-faceted, multi-agency one. I want to thank all those involved at every level in this pernicious battle.

I want to highlight in particular the work of our lead agencies, the Royal Gibraltar Police and Customs. Only this week they have once again thwarted the drug traffickers out of £5 million of 600 drugs in street value terms and the work of the agencies that deal with addicts is no less important. The GHA is often the first point of contact. The Care Agency is usually the authority to which addicts are referred to its Drug Rehabilitation Services and if necessary, families. A sincere thank you from all our community to all of these agencies for their hard work. I look forward to working with them in developing even further how we can join our strategies and do more.

Q263/2016
ID cards –
Printing and distribution

605

Clerk: We now move back to Question 263, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

610 Hon. Ms. M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can Government confirm whether there have been any issues with the printing or distribution of ID cards within the last couple of months, and if so, why?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

615 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, in the last two months there has only been an issue with one of the printers. This was resolved within a week.

620 Hon. Ms. M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I wish to inform the hon. Gentleman, the Chief Minister that I have received many complaints from people living in Gibraltar, international, possibly many high net worth individuals who contribute a lot to the local economy, and they are complaining of months and months and months of back log.

So I would just like to make him aware, I would not like Gibraltar's image to be tarnished over such a basic administrative fault that, like the hon. Gentleman has said, can be fixed quite easily and is likely to give us a bad name.

625 Thank you.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am very grateful for the hon. Lady telling me that. If she indicates to me who it is that has been waiting for months, I will personally ensure that I look into the issue.

630 I certainly do not understand that that is the case and I will tell her why. At the time that I was elected, I had received many tens of complaints from category 2 individuals and from run-of-the-mill Gibraltarians like she and me, that the process of ID card renewal was taking very long and for category 2 individuals, it was taking very long for the cards to be issued.

635 I looked into it, I ensured that that particular section had the support it needed and the problem had gone away. If it has come back I want to know how it is that it has come back and when it has come back so that I can address it immediately.

I believed then, that this was an issue that had to be dealt with and if it is happening now, I have not changed my mind in that it has to be dealt with. If the hon. Lady is able to do so, I look forward to having a discussion with her and she can point me in the direction of those who might have had this problem so I can fix it.

640

Hon. Ms. M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you, I am grateful for that. I will let you know on a confidential basis.

Thank you.

Q264-265/2016

Gibraltar Entertainment Network; Gibraltar Broadcasting Corporation – Board members; independence

645 Clerk: Question 264, the Hon. Ms. M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms. M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, does the Gibraltar Entertainment Network still exist and are its board members still those who were constituted in 2011?

650 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer with Question 265.

Clerk: Question 265, the Hon. Ms. M D Hassan Nahon.

655

Hon. Ms. M D Hassan Nahon: Is GBC ever going to be as financially independent as was promised in 2011?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

660

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the answer remains as set out in answer to Question 185/2015.

Q266/2016
MOD workers' safety net –
Kings Lines Oil Fuel Depot

Clerk: Question 266, the Hon. D A Feetham.

665

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please confirm that their manifesto commitment in respect of the safety net guarantees to MOD workers or workers of companies working for the MOD, extends to those employees of the Kings Lines Oil Fuel 'Depot'?

670

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): I think it is 'Depot'. We do not intend to deport any of them!

Mr Speaker, yes sir, as the gentlemen who work at the Kings Lines Oil Fuel Depot know.

Q267-272/2016
Public sector posts –
Recruitment; retirement; substitutions; agency workers

675

Clerk: Question 267, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, how many vacancies currently exist in the public sector and since when have they been vacant?

680

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 268 to 272.

685

Clerk: Questions 268, the Hon. D A Feetham.

690

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, Government advertised AA vacancies in June 2015: please disclose at what stage of recruitment they currently are, how many candidates have been interviewed and found suitable for the jobs and whether successful candidates, if any, were already working in the public sector via a recruitment agency or company, giving details of the recruitment agency or company.

Clerk: Question, 269, the Hon. D A Feetham.

695

Hon. D A Feetham: Can Government please provide details of how many workers since December 2011, working within the Civil Service structure, have been re-engaged after having retired, giving details of post or job description being undertaken, terms and conditions, salary, date retired and post retired from, reasons for re-engagement or contract given, dates re-hired by way of employment or contract?

700

Clerk: Question 270, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Can Government provide explanations as to the long-term substitution circumstances in relation to the following Heads of Department posts: Human Resources Manager; Commissioner of Income Tax; Director of Employment; and Principal Housing Officer; and what measures, if any, are in place to ensure these posts are eventually occupied on a permanent basis?

705

Clerk: Question 271, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Can Government explain the long-term substitution of the following posts: Senior Executive Officer, Culture; Instructional Officer, Economic Development; Health and Safety Officer Grade 3, Employment; Personal Secretary, Environment Ministerial Office; Senior Finance Centre Executive (Financial Services), Finance Centre; Senior Executive Officer, Human Resources Department; Human Resources Officer, Human Resources Department; Personal Secretary, Justice Office; Administrative Officer, Number 6; SPTO, Technical Services?

715

Clerk: Question 272, the Hon. D A Feetham.

720

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, do workers from recruitment agencies or companies working within the public sector sign the Officials Secrets Act declaration?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

725

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the vacant posts within the Civil Service are those set out in the schedule with the information requested.

The vacancies for Administrative Assistant were advertised simultaneously both within the public sector and to the general public. The internal public sector recruitment process was undertaken in September 2015, whereby applications were invited throughout the Civil Service in all Government Agencies, Authorities and Government-owned companies. A total of 31 applicants were interviewed of which 24 were successful and have already taken up appointment.

730

The external recruitment process is ongoing.

I now hand the hon. Member a schedule with the information requested in respect of re-engaged civil servants.

735

The vacant Head of Department posts to which the hon. Member is referring to, with the exception of the post of Commissioner of Income Tax which is not vacant, have remained vacant as a result of planned or ongoing Departmental reviews.

740

The post of Personal Secretary in the Environment Ministerial Office has been regraded to an Administrative Officer post and has been filled. The post of Senior Finance Centre Executive has been abolished.

The following posts – namely, Senior Executive Officer, Culture and Heritage; Senior Executive Officer and Human Resources Officer, Human Resources Department; Personal Secretary, Justice Office; Administrative Officer, No. 6 Convent Place; and Senior Professional and Technology Officer, Technical Services Department – are all vacant as part of a process of ongoing Departmental reviews.

745

In respect of an Instructional Officer, Economic Development, these posts are vacant due to officers covering for the vacant post while in the process of obtaining the required qualifications.

750 In respect of the Health and Safety Officer in the Employment Department, there is already an ongoing recruitment process.

Finally, Mr Speaker, I can confirm that all employees from our recruitment agencies or companies working within the public sector sign the Official Secrets Act declaration.

ANSWER TO QUESTION 272/2016

Answer to Question No 267/2016

Civil Service

Number of Vacant Posts	With Effect From
1	01/08/2006
1	01/11/2007
1	01/03/2009
1	03/08/2010
1	11/02/2011
2	01/04/2012
1	29/06/2012
1	02/07/2012
1	26/11/2012
1	01/09/2013
1	27/10/2013
1	07/12/2013
1	25/02/2014
1	26/02/2014
1	01/04/2014
2	30/04/2014
1	06/09/2014
1	14/11/2014
2	19/11/2014
1	11/12/2014
1	31/12/2014
2	04/01/2015
2	05/01/2015
1	13/01/2015
1	19/01/2015
1	21/01/2015
1	02/02/2015
1	18/02/2015
1	26/03/2015
1	30/03/2015
6	01/04/2015
1	17/04/2015
1	01/05/2015
1	13/05/2015

Number of Vacant Posts	With Effect From
2	27/05/2015
1	16/06/2015
1	02/08/2015
1	11/09/2015
1	15/09/2015
1	20/09/2015
2	30/09/2015
1	01/10/2015
1	02/10/2015
1	05/10/2015
1	15/10/2015
1	20/10/2015
2	21/10/2015
1	26/10/2015
1	01/11/2015
1	12/11/2015
8	18/11/2015
2	24/11/2015
2	30/11/2015
1	04/12/2015
1	07/12/2015
5	14/12/2015
1	17/12/2015
1	26/12/2015
9	04/01/2016
1	05/01/2016
1	12/01/2016
2	14/01/2016
1	17/01/2016
1	21/01/2016
1	26/01/2016
1	05/02/2016
1	08/02/2016
1	16/02/2016

GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT, THURSDAY, 25th FEBRUARY 2016

ANSWER TO QUESTION 272/2016

Answer to Question 269/2016

No.	Grade	Salary	Date Retired	Details of Post	Reason for re-engagement	Contract Given	Date re-hired	Status
1	Consultant	£75,964	31/08/2012	Specialist in Public Finance	To assist the department	Contract	01/09/2012
2	Administrative Officer	£28,042	21/08/2014	Administrative	To complete an exercise which she had originally started (Widows and Orphans Pensions)	Contract	03/09/2014
3	Clinic Manager	£30 per day	30/06/2013	Specialist	To set up the Hepatitis 'B' Clinic	Contract	17/03/2014
4	Part-time Handyman	£18,256	01/01/2012	Handyman	To assist the department	Contract	02/01/2012
5	Supply Driving & Vehicle Examiner	£33,558	17/10/2006	Technical	To assist with the demands of the department	Supply Contract	23/04/2014
6	Supply Driving & Vehicle Examiner	£33,558	30/06/2013	Technical	To assist with the demands of the department	Supply Contract	23/04/2014
7	Supply Teacher	£33,980	06/01/2013	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	01/09/2014
8	Supply Teacher	£33,980	02/09/2011	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	09/03/2012	Resigned
9	Supply Teacher	£33,980	01/09/2015	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	02/09/2015
10	Supply Teacher	£33,980	01/09/2007	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	22/02/2016
11	Supply Teacher	£33,980	01/09/2015	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	22/02/2016
12	Supply Teacher	£33,980	06/01/2014	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	02/09/2013
13	Supply Teacher	£33,980	07/01/2015	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	02/09/2015

No.	Grade	Salary	Date Retired	Details of Post	Reason for re-engagement	Contract Given	Date re-hired	Remarks
14	Supply Teacher	£33,980	01/09/2004	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	02/03/2015	Resigned
15	Supply Teacher	£33,980	02/09/2012	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	18/03/2015
16	Supply Teacher	£33,980	30/09/2013	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	03/03/2015
17	Supply Teacher	£33,980	14/01/2015	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	23/03/2015
18	Supply Teacher	£33,980	01/09/2005	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	10/03/2015
19	Supply Teacher	£33,980	07/01/2013	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	02/03/2015
20	Supply Teacher	£33,980	01/09/2014	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	22/02/2016
21	Supply Teacher	£33,980	06/01/2015	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	27/02/2015
22	Supply Teacher	£33,980	14/10/2012	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	01/09/2014
23	Supply Teacher	£33,980	01/09/2015	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	02/09/2015
24	Supply Teacher	£33,980	06/01/2014	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	01/09/2014

No.	Grade	Salary	Date Retired	Details of Post	Reason for re-engagement	Contract Given	Date re-hired	Remarks
25	Supply Teacher	£33,980	02/09/2012	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	22/02/2016
26	Supply Teacher	£33,980	01/09/2013	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	08/04/2015
27	Supply Teacher	£33,980	09/01/2011	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	03/09/2012
28	Supply Teacher	£33,980	07/01/2016	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	22/02/2016
29	Supply Teacher	£33,980	06/01/2013	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	01/09/2014
30	Supply Teacher	£33,980	01/09/2013	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	18/03/2015
31	Supply Teacher	£33,980	31/05/2010	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	16/03/2015
32	Supply Teacher	£33,980	01/09/2015	Teaching	Needs of the Service (i.e. sick leave and short term absences)	Supply Contract	02/09/2015

Mr Speaker: The Hon. T N Hammond.

755

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, if I may just ask the Hon. the Chief Minister when those Departmental reviews which are currently underway are likely to be concluded?

Hon. Chief Minister: As soon as possible, Mr Speaker. This is a process that involves the administration, the political Government and the unions.

760

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just on Question 267, to start off with – and, Mr Speaker, there is a lot of information here that the Opposition is going to have to digest and it may well be that we ask questions next time round in a month's time, because the schedules are very lengthy.

765

But in relation to Question 267 and the schedule that the hon. Gentleman has provided in relation to that question, I see that there are vacancies that go back to the GSD administration 2006. Indeed, there is a vacancy in 2006; there is a vacancy as from 2007; there is a vacancy from 2009; another one from 2010; another one from 2011; there are about five from 2012; three from 2013; and about ten from 2014; and a considerable number from last year.

770

Now, Mr Speaker, how can the hon. Gentleman explain those vacancies going back that length of time, in the light of page 13 of the 2011 discussion document that the hon. Gentleman circulated with the Civil Service, which read and I quote:

'We believe that all posts that become vacant should be filled as soon as possible'

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I trust the hon. Gentleman is not asking me to justify what happened between 2006 and 2011, and why they did not fill the post of Health and Safety Officer Grade 3 in the Employment Ministry from that date, or any of the others that go back. For example, the Senior Professional and Technology Officer in the Technical Services Department that goes back to 2007; or the Industrial that goes back to 2009. I assume that he is asking me about vacancies that have arisen since 2011.

775

But of course, Mr Speaker, the information that he has asked for is about vacant posts. He does not have the information – and in fact, Mr Speaker, he may have asked for it before, he may wish to ask for it next time, it may be in fact very, very voluminous indeed – about all the vacancies that have been filled since 2011. Because you see, Mr Speaker, one of the problems that I have with the question that he is asking today is that the thrust of his criticism usually is

780

785 that we have employed too many people in the Civil Service and in the public sector. Today he seems to be asking me why we have not employed more!

I suppose today, Mr Speaker, he is told the Chamber of Commerce and the GFSB not to tune in and he has told a union to tune in. I do not understand the dichotomy in approach, but so be it.

790 Mr Speaker, where there have not been vacancies filled since 2011, it is very likely that this is part of the reviews that we are undertaking with each of the Departments in order to try and understand how certain Departments should change and how they should evolve.

And therefore, Mr Speaker, in terms of what we said in 2011 and how we delivered in respect of our relationship, not just with the Civil Service but with the public sector as a whole, Mr Speaker, I think the fact is that we have worked very hard indeed on the review of the Civil Service that we have undertaken. That has not been something that we have been able to do in the time that we thought it could be done. It is a very complex issue involving more than one union and involving difficult assessment by the administration of how things are changing in terms of e-Government etc. and for that reason, in some instances vacancies have not been filled. But very, very, very many vacancies have been filled, many more than have not been filled.

800 But, Mr Speaker, he was in Government between 2007 and 2011. Can he explain to me why they did not employ a Health and Safety Officer Grade 3 in the Employment Department?

805 Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition does not have to answer that question. (Laughter)

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes well, Mr Speaker, I was about to suggest that this is going to turn into the famous Monty Python exchange about the dead parrot, and I certainly do not want that to happen!

810 Mr Speaker, does the hon. Gentleman not recognise that he has been in Government, as he delights in reminding certainly those on this side of the House, since 2011 – that he has now had six years – (Mr Speaker: Five.) five years, I beg your pardon Mr Speaker, yes of course, five years – in order to examine the reasons why there are vacancies going back to 2006 that have not been filled, and it is simply not acceptable for the Hon. the Chief Minister to give me a reply saying, ‘Well, why were those vacancies vacant from the period 2006 to 2011?’

Surely the Chief Minister ought to take responsibility for his five years that he has been in office.

820 Hon. Chief Minister: Four years and three months, Mr Speaker. (Mr Speaker: Correct.) Four years and three months – not six, not five, but four years and three months.

825 But, Mr Speaker, I commend to the hon. Gentleman the whole series of the Flying Circus (Laughter) because every time he refers to Monty Python, he always refers to the same sketch, the dead parrot sketch. There is a whole wealth, Mr Speaker, of sketches that he should be watching, especially Mr Speaker, the Ministry for Funny Walks, as the Hon. Mr Linares, the Minister for the performing arts has reminded me!

830 Look, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman says it is not acceptable. Well, not acceptable to who exactly, Mr Speaker? Not acceptable to him? Well, Mr Speaker, it may not be. Is it acceptable to the people who are working in the Employment Ministry and who are working with us in the review of that Ministry? Well, clearly it is, Mr Speaker, so I am going to continue working with the people who are doing the hard work of reviewing the public sector in Gibraltar with us.

835 The unions that are relevant, members of the administration that are relevant, the Members of my Government that are relevant with all our good faith in order to ensure that we have a public sector that is the size and shape it should be going forward, and not take any lessons from people who when in Government allowed the number of vacant posts to grow far beyond the amounts that they are looking at now – far beyond the amounts that they are looking at now – and especially given the number of posts that we have filled in the past four years and three months, Mr Speaker.

840 So frankly it is not acceptable, Mr Speaker, that he should come here to quiz us on issues like this when they have such a bad record in Government themselves.

Not acceptable to who? Well, not acceptable to me, in the same way as I suppose my statements are just not acceptable to him.

845 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, it does remind me of the dead parrot sketch because I am saying it is a dead parrot and he is saying it is a live one, when clearly it is dead, Mr Speaker!

Mr Speaker, the policy that was described by his party to the Civil Service in the 2011 discussion – and I will quote again – was:

‘We believe that all posts, all posts that become vacant should be filled as soon as possible.’

And there are vacancies that go back to 2006. There are vacancies that go back to 2007, vacancies that go back to 2009, 2010, 2011 and 2012.

850 Does he feel comfortable, in the light of that, that he is honouring that very clear commitment that he gave to the Civil Service in 2011?

855 Hon. Chief Minister: The other very good sketch, Mr Speaker, is the one about that book, Ethel the Aardvark Goes Quantity Surveying. Mr Speaker, I think the hon. Gentleman has embarked on the search for that book, Ethel the Aardvark Goes Quantity Surveying – the book that they could not find, Mr Speaker, in that particular sketch.

But I do fear, Mr Speaker, that he is caught in that other sketch about whether the office the gentleman had walked into was the Office for Arguments, and immediately to be told by the person behind the desk, it was not, to which he reposted that it was, and the argument ensued.

860 I do not want the argument to ensue, Mr Speaker. I have told him already we are working with the unions, we are working with the administration and with the good faith of the Government in order to continue the review that the same document he is looking at says we will undertake. If we have not been able to finalise it, it is not because we were not able to finalise it because of our good will, but because of other reasons, Mr Speaker.

865 Because you know this is a complex process and, Mr Speaker, is it not incredible that he is the only one raising these issues, because the unions are not raising these issues with us; the unions are working with us on these issues. In terms of the vacancies that there were, Mr Speaker, that we promised to fill, I put it to him, Mr Speaker, that we probably filled them all and that is why he could only spot three or four that date from their time, some of them going back five years even in their time, Mr Speaker.

870 So, Mr Speaker, obviously he is not going to agree with me. I do not think that is a good reason for us to continue to just have an argument about this, and we want to continue with the work of delivering a public sector that is as it should be for this community in this century, Mr Speaker. He spends his time criticising us for having grown the public sector. Today he seems to be criticising us for not having grown it enough. Well look, Mr Speaker, just do not stone me every time I say ‘Civil Service’.

880 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, can he just confirm that in fact there are 21 vacancies that remain unfilled that date back to at least 2014?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I assume that figure comes from his counting when he was in a sedentary position or one of his colleagues counting. I have given him the numbers, I am not going to accept his addition or anybody else’s. The numbers are set out in the schedule.

885 If that is the number, Mr Speaker, then I would be very proud indeed if that were all it was because when we were elected, I can guarantee him that it was very, very many more. So I will take it as a backhanded compliment for the excellent work that we have done.

890 Hon. D A Feetham: And indeed, Mr Speaker, that there are 68 vacancies that remain to be filled overall.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave a few moments ago and I will also take that as a backhanded compliment; but I do not know which of the compliments he is trying to pay me.

895 Is he trying to pay me the compliment of having filled many more vacancies than they used to fill; or is he trying to pay me the compliment of not having filled them when he puts on his hat of wanting to reduce the size of the public sector?

Mr Speaker, I just do not know because with him it is always one day left, one day right, one day yes, one day no, one day GSLP, one day Labour Party, one day GSD.

900 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, he seems to forget that he has his roots in the Liberal Party and went to the GSLP partially via the Labour Party, and he and I know what the private story in relation to that is.

905 But Mr Speaker, turning to Question 268, Mr Speaker, the question asked about people working within the public sector and recruited via a recruitment agency or company and I have said, 'giving details of the recruitment agency or company'.

910 Now, he has bunched a number of answers together and the answer he gave me in relation to that was that there had been 31 applications and 24 had been successful. But what he did not give me was how many of the successful ones related to a recruitment agency or company and which recruitment agency and company, which is the question that was posed.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, it is not such a private story any more is it, what happened at the time. But let us just be very clear, I am switching lanes in the dual carriageway that is the relationship between the socialists and liberal parties – 915 Hon. D A Feetham: Ah, is that what you call it!

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, and he is doing a U-turn, Mr Speaker! He is doing a U-turn from facing left to facing right. That is the difference between our positions, Mr Speaker.

920 And on the question, Mr Speaker, on the question that he has posed, the answer is there, Mr Speaker, I will just read it to him again. The internal private sector recruitment process was undertaken in September 2015 whereby applications were invited throughout the Civil Service and all Government agencies, authorities and Government-owned companies only, Mr Speaker – and 31 applicants from those, not from any recruitment agency etc. applied and 24 were successful.

925 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I would just like to pick up on one thing back from 2011 and that was basically that the GSLP did say that they would not allow people to fester in acting posts. Looking through the list we got last month, there seems to be a lot of people there being allowed to fester into these posts. Does the Chief Minister accept that there has been festering in posts, so much so that people are retiring from these posts and even people who may have been wait-listed to certain grades are not being given the opportunity of getting the vacant posts whilst the process and the review is being undertaken?

935 Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, I do not accept that. I do not accept that for one minute because the number of people who are waiting to take up a post is not what it used to be. We are not having to extend those lists in the way that the hon. Members used to have to do when they were in Government. People are able to move, perhaps not on the day that they get their promotion but within a reasonable period of time.

940 People who are acting sometimes are acting for a good reason and they are acting because there are reviews ongoing and they want to act, Mr Speaker. I do not want people to act for longer than they have to act, but I have to respect the fact that we are trying to work together to produce a better Civil Service, a reviewed Civil Service and in many instances, Mr Speaker that means that people are acting. And in many instances, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman needs to also understand that people are happy to act.

945 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, people may be happy to act but it was their policy not to have long-term substitutions, not to have long-term acting within the Civil Service, and there is a plethora of statements that they made from 2011, in fact continuing through their administration, and I can quote them but I am not going to do so.

950 But, Mr Speaker, in relation to the Commissioner of Income Tax, he said that the Commissioner of Income Tax, there was no substitution in relation to that particular post, but there is somebody that is acting as Commissioner of Income Tax whilst the Commissioner of Income Tax is at No. 6 Convent Place. Can he explain the situation there?

955 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the position is that the Commissioner of Income Tax post is not vacant. Mr Carreras, as he knows, is at No. 6 Convent Place but the position is not vacant. That is why there is somebody acting in his post but it is not a vacant post. He has moved to No. 6 Convent Place to do a particular role but he is still the Commissioner of Income Tax and somebody is assisting him and acting in his post.

960 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, how long does the Government envisage that that situation is likely to prevail? Because inherent in the answer is that Mr Carreras, who is the current Commissioner of Income Tax, spends most of his time at No. 6 Convent Place on his duties at No. 6 Convent Place, not on his duties in relation to Commissioner of Income Tax that somebody is acting there and of course, it is not fair for the person who is acting, who may be long-term acting without any prospect of actually taking the job on a permanent basis. I wonder whether he can provide some information as to how long he envisages that situation to continue.

970 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think it is very unfair that we are talking about an individual in Parliament. I think it is very unfair that we are talking about a post which has been filled. The hon. Gentleman had said the individual who is acting in that post, Mr Speaker, and I think it is very unfair to be talking about that individual or any other.

975 Mr Speaker, the Government believes that this is something that will be resolved in the next six months.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, there is a lot of information here. We have got to analyse it and then we will come back next month.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q273/2016
Public sector post/service –
Recruited or contracted without advertising

980 Clerk: Question 273, the Hon. D A Feetham.

985 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please provide details of any person or entity who has been recruited, promoted or contracted to provide services for over £2,000 within the public sector since December 2011, without the post or service having been advertised?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

990 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Well, Mr Speaker, this question is insufficiently precise for Government to provide an answer as no range is set for the £2,000 benchmark, making it impossible for an answer to be provided.

995 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I do not agree. I think the question is sufficiently precise. But why can't he answer for example, rather than the service part of it, the post part of the question and post within the public sector that has been filled without that job or post having been advertised. I mean surely he must have the information, knowing as I do how Civil Service operates at Question Time; the Chief Minister should have that information available to him in order to be able to answer proper supplementaries, as this one is.

1000 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not, for the simple reason that his question is one that is really at large.

Look, Mr Speaker, the answer to him could be every single person in the public sector. Because every single person in the public sector, in the period since December 2011, has very likely had pay rises between now and then in excess of £2,000 and those have not been advertised, Mr Speaker. So they will have had an increase in their remuneration, Mr Speaker, or promotions which could involve in excess of £2,000.

1010 So, Mr Speaker, the advice that I have from the civil servants who very carefully prepare answers and read them very carefully in order to prepare Ministers is that this question is incapable of being answered. And, Mr Speaker, I can understand why because if you say £2,000 but you do not say £2,000 a year – you just say £2,000 in the context of the past five years, Mr Speaker, or four years and three months as we worked out that it is, Mr Speaker – somebody who might have had very little money indeed in the past 50-odd months would come within this range, Mr Speaker.

1015 So, Mr Speaker, I am advised it is impossible to answer. I am quite happy for the hon. Gentleman to rephrase it and let us have it again next month, but he needs to understand that we are trying to answer his questions but when they are this 'at large' it is just not possible to do so.

1020 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I just simply do not accept it and I am going to re-read the question, so that those listening understand it.

1025 Can the Government please provide details of any person or entity who has been recruited (1), promoted (2), or contracted to provide a service for over £2,000. The service relates to the £2,000. We are talking about people who have been promoted, recruited or have had contracts for over £2,000 within the public sector and they have not been advertised. That is what it is about.

1030 Now, I could have understood, and I have to say I could have understood him coming and saying there are an awful lot of people and I came prepared to receive this answer. I have given him the benefit of the doubt, there are an awful lot of people that have provided contracted services for over £2,000 without being advertised, since December 2011. Why does he not increase the threshold of £2,000 and then perhaps we can reduce the numbers? But surely he can provide the answer as to how many people have been recruited or promoted within the public service – certainly recruited, there is absolutely no excuse for that – since December 2011 without the post having been advertised! And at least part of this question, there is absolutely no excuse for the hon. Gentleman not answering it.

1035

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, when the hon. Gentleman gets in a hole and he makes a mistake, what he does is continue to dig. He does not simply say, 'Well look, fair enough, I understand the issue I will try and be more precise in what I am asking and then the civil servants will be able to prepare an answer for you.'

1040

Mr Speaker, recruited: look you can understand that recruited is a particular thread of this question, but he does not just ask about 'recruited'. He asks about 'recruited, promoted or contracted', Mr Speaker, in a period of 48 months.

1045

Now, Mr Speaker, 48 months means very little money per month in that period. That is in four years. It is longer. It is 53 or 51 months, Mr Speaker. It is therefore almost impossible to answer because people may have got promotions and, Mr Speaker, when there are promotions, things are not advertised. They are advertised internally but they are not advertised externally so what does 'advertised' mean?

Several Members: Oh, come on!

1050

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, come on, no. Read the question that you put, Mr Speaker. Read the question.

1055

Does a bulletin mean either internal or external? Well, Mr Speaker, this does not say internal or external. Is a bulletin of circulars inviting applications for promotions something that has been advertised? The hon. Gentleman is going to say to me, that is not an advertisement. These days, Mr Speaker, the bulletin of circulars is an e-mail and a memo that goes round. So has that been advertised, Mr Speaker?

1060

This is just an impossible question to answer. Look, he knows what my position is, so can he just come back with a more precise question and we will answer it, but he needs to be precise in what he is saying.

1065

Is he saying who has received an extra ... I don't know, £50 a month in the past 53 months, which would get us to the £2,000? Does he mean £2,000 a year? Does he mean £2,000 a month? If he tells us what he means, if he is humble enough to read and stop digging, he might actually get the answer to the question that he wants answered.

1070

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the only person who needs to stop digging is the hon. Gentleman and this is precisely, Mr Speaker, why we do not accept for a moment his assertions that things have become more democratic during his time as Chief Minister. Because there is no point in having more meetings of the House if he continues to behave in the opaque way that has become his trademark over the last four years and two months, as he reminded me, that he has been in office.

1075

But, Mr Speaker, you can see from this question, when you are talking about recruitment, it means somebody like for an example ... I will give him an example of a post that has been recruited without having been advertised, Senior Administrator. I am told a post at £90,000 was not advertised and there are more that I have listed here. That is one of the areas that I am interested in.

1080

Now, if he wants me to just simply ask him the question because this is disjunctive – in other words it is separate, each one is separate, it is disjunctive: 'recruitment', comma, 'promoted', then there is the use of the word 'or' – that is disjunctive as well – 'contracted to provide services', so three items here. If the hon. Gentleman wants me to separate it item by item in three separate questions so that he can then come back and tell me who has been recruited within the public service without that post being advertised, internal or external – 'advertised' is an ordinary English word, Mr Speaker – then I will do so.

1085 But I repeat, if he has any information there, well perhaps he can provide me with some information so that we can then get on with it, and then we can move on to something else.

1090 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has the ability to demonstrate what in Spanish is known as his prepotencia every time that he gets up, Mr Speaker. His lecture on what disjunctive means is not one that is necessary on this side. Perhaps that is how he lectures his fellow members of Parliament as to how they should put questions. But, Mr Speaker, I must say they are the ones who should lecture him. They have put better questions than him and many of them have just been elected.

1095 Does he not understand, Mr Speaker, that it is because 'recruited, promoted or contracted' is disjunctive that I explained to him that that was one thread, Mr Speaker? But has he not done the maths, Mr Speaker? Because I will do it for him. It is not four years and two months; it is four years and three months, Mr Speaker. That is 51 months, Mr Speaker. If he divides £2,000 by 51 – I am not going to do it like he did the disjunctive bit, I am not going to say 'two, zero, zero, zero divided by 51', I do not think he needs to be spoken to like that, although he thinks he should speak to me like that, Mr Speaker – the answer is £39.

1100 His question in effect is whether anybody has had £39 a month without that being advertised because he has not said a range. The £2,000 could be over the whole five years as he said – sorry four years and three months, 51 months. That is what makes it impossible to answer, or does he not understand it, Mr Speaker? I do not think I have to speak to him like he tries to speak to me because he seems to think I have such a low IQ that he has to speak to me in that way.

1105 Well look, Mr Speaker, it is clear that he has a view about my IQ, I have my views about his.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q274/2016
Gibraltar Football Association –
Loan provided

1110 Clerk: Question 274, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker.

1115 Mr Speaker, further to Question 119/2016, can Government provide details of the terms of the loan or loans provided to the GFA of £929,176 including the terms of repayment, interest, the term of the loan, the identity of the borrower if not the GFA and any other salient term?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1120 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, a temporary advance of £929,176 has been provided by Government from the Consolidated Fund to the GFA. The purpose of the loan was for the GFA to meet preliminary expenses in connection with the proposed new national football stadium.

1125 The term of the loan is for a maximum repayment period of 10 years, commencing October 2016, which is when the repayment starts. Interest is charged at the rate of 6.5%. The borrower, as I indicated, is the GFA itself.

Q275/2016

Government commitments for next four years –
Those not included in the GSLP/Liberal manifesto for 2015

Clerk: Question 275, the Hon. D A Feetham.

1130 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide details of their commitments for the next four years not included in the GSLP/Liberal manifesto for 2015 but which were promises made in public or private letters from the Hon. the Chief Minister to members of the public; for example, letters to private and Government estates and some teachers in respect of their pensions?

1135 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1140 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the Chief Minister made no promises in private or in public letters to members of the public, in private or Government estates or to any teachers – disjunctive. (Laughter) The letters the Leader of the Opposition refers to were from the Leader of the GSLP.

Hon. D A Feetham: I am sorry if he has got upset about my disjunctive comment, it was not my intention to upset him this afternoon!

1145 But, Mr Speaker, well, I know the hon. Gentleman is answerable in his capacity as Chief Minister and not leader of the political party, but the importance of the question is that of course he is now elected, he is now the Chief Minister of Gibraltar, he in his capacity as Leader of the GSLP/Liberals had a manifesto and then had these side letters that were issued to various people in Gibraltar, and therefore presumably, those side letters have become Government policy, and I want to know what of those promises and those side letters have actually become 1150 Government policy and we can expect the fruits of within the next three years – and I think it is in his calculation – nine months?

1155 Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, because he obviously does not know the Parliament Act well enough to know that that is not how you calculate the lifetime of the Parliament, it is actually longer.

But, Mr Speaker, he does not upset me. I mean there is nothing I enjoy more than seeing him perform in Parliament, believe me. That is why, Mr Speaker, I wish him to remain Leader of the GSD for as long as possible. I am sorry to disappoint the others around him, but they shall not be receiving my backing.

1160 Mr Speaker, let us be very clear. These are not side letters, Mr Speaker. These are not side letters, these are not agreements with side letters. These are commitments of the political party that I represent outside of this House in respect of issues of policy that are put to me much as they are put to him.

1165 Mr Speaker, I saw some side e-mails from Members opposite in relation to the premises for the darts club. I mean I am not going to refer to those as side letters – those are commitments which they are acquiring in the context of a General Election campaign and those commitments are delivered in Government, Mr Speaker. And as we have demonstrated, we deliver in Government the commitments that we enter into with the general public in our General Election campaigns in a way that I think is admirable.

1170 Mr Speaker, seven out of ten people at the last General Election agreed (Laughter) and I have no doubt, Mr Speaker, that at least when it comes to delivering on our commitments, when it comes time for the next General Election, people will see that we deliver on all of them whether contained in a side letter, a manifesto or even a personal commitment given verbally to any 1175 particular member of this community, whether or not they are a voter, Mr Speaker, because that is not the issue.

So, Mr Speaker, he can expect the fruits as he described it, of our policies to be delivered in respect of all the commitments we entered into as a political party.

1180 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the day that this party wins a General Election with me as Leader, his entire world is going to collapse around his ears, Mr Speaker, because he seems to have quite a concern about that.

1185 But, Mr Speaker, returning to the matter at hand, can he at the very least tell us how many of these side letters the hon. Gentleman wrote to people in Gibraltar, giving commitments that were not in the manifesto? And it is a serious point and it is an important point. Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has been quite willing to answer questions about manifesto commitments, despite the fact that those manifesto commitments have been provided in his capacity as the leader of a political party and he now is Chief Minister of Gibraltar, and if one bears in mind that surely those side letters must also be of equal force, because he is not going to be making promises without an intention of not fulfilling them, well then, he cannot be reticent of answering questions about those letters as well as he is not reticent of answering questions in relation to the manifesto.

1190 At the very least can he tell me how many of those side letters the hon. Gentleman issued at the last election? (Interjection) For the avoidance of doubt, Mr Speaker, I am not talking about letters to every single household; I am talking about how many individual letters that went out, individual promises – the promise he has made that was not in the manifesto.

Hon. Chief Minister: At the moment after he sees the party he presently leads win the General Election, he will wake up!

1200 Mr Speaker, look, this is very simple. I sent out approximately 13,000 letters, Mr Speaker, setting out my position in respect of certain issues to individuals in estates etc. in my capacity as the Leader of the GSLP. I have no doubt the hon. Member has copies of each of them, I assume he has got at least one supporter in each estate and therefore he knows what they say and he can ask me about them in respect of the position of the Government. But I am not going to list for him what letters I have sent because some of the people I have sent them to might not like him to know, Mr Speaker.

1205 But I will deliver in respect of each of those commitments, because they are now, as he rightly says, the policy of the Government. And as we deliver, he will know what our commitments are. But if what he is saying to me is 'recite your policies', I am going to sit here and read him my manifesto, Mr Speaker. I am not going to recite policies, he will realise that we are delivering on our commitments, whether contained in our manifesto, whether contained in letters, whether contained in verbal undertakings or whether we acquire commitments after the General Election to do things.

That is how we do Government, Mr Speaker. We deliver.

1215 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the question itself refers to promises made to some teachers in respect of their pensions. Now as I understand it, I have not got any correspondence to wave in front of the hon. Gentleman so to speak to tell the hon. Gentleman, 'Look, this is the promise that you made', but my understanding is, and I would like him to confirm that, that certain promises were made to school teachers that were recruited post-2011, who were the teachers who had been working on supply pre-2011, in relation to their pensions – that they were effectively promised that they were going to be put on the final salary pension scheme as it was prior to 2011, many civil servants are obviously still on that pension scheme, rather than the contributory pension scheme that everybody was put on post-2011.

1225 Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, we will be talking a lot about pensions in the coming meeting, Mr Speaker. There are no such letters, Mr Speaker. There is a letter to the Gibraltar Teachers' Association dealing with that issue. There is also a letter to the GGCA dealing with a similar issue which does not relate to teachers.

1230 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, well in relation to that, that is helpful and if I can pull at that particular thread and ask the hon. Gentleman what is that particular promise in relation to those teachers and their pensions? I take from the answer that he has given me that he agrees with the supposition on which my question is based, that we are dealing with those 45 teachers, I think it was, that they promised to make permanent prior to the 2011 election, because they 1235 had been on supply prior to 2011 and they were made permanent after 2011 and therefore the Party opposite promised that should they be elected, that those teachers would be placed on final salary pension schemes rather than the contributory pension scheme, despite the fact that they were only made permanent and pensionable after 2011.

1240 Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, that is not how the issue is played out. There is a claim from the Gibraltar Teachers' Association for some time, Mr Speaker, in respect of those who have been employed before 2012 – before 2012 – because they were on permanent supply.

In other words, the hon. Members opposite when they were in Government had people employed doing the contradictory 'permanent supply' in a number of areas and one of them 1245 being the teaching profession. Those who had therefore begun work before the closure of the final salary scheme would be in the final salary scheme because it would be terribly unfair for people in fact who have started going to work each morning in 2009 and be dealt with as if they had first been employed in September 2012.

The same is true, Mr Speaker, not just of teachers but of people who were employed as civil 1250 servants but whose probationary year was up after 31st December 2011. And I took the view, Mr Speaker, after taking representations from the unions about two years into our first administration, but we had not been able to resolve it by the end and that is why as Leader of the Party, I wanted them to know that we continue that consideration and it would be a positive one.

1255 That it would be grossly unfair for somebody to start work on, say, 2nd January 2011 to then hear the Chief Minister of Gibraltar get up in March or May 2011, I cannot quite remember the date and say that 'As from 1st January 2012, it is the end of the final salary scheme and you have been working for three months already. You signed up as a Government employee, there is a probationary year but there is an assumption that you are going to be able to continue and you are not going to get the final salary scheme.' Well, Mr Speaker, it would be grossly unfair for that 1260 to have happened and that is why we took the view that it should not continue.

Of course, Mr Speaker, people who after 1st January 2012 enter into public service know that that is going to be the position and I would be very surprised if anybody were to ask me to continue for public servants the final salary scheme in respect of public servants who started 1265 after 1st January 2012.

But I have come to expect everything in this life.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, no I have absolutely no qualms with the hon. Gentleman's 1270 promise in that regard and indeed I am very grateful to the hon. Gentleman for explaining his rationale in relation to why he thought it was inappropriate to apply the contributory pension scheme retrospectively. No doubt it is something that the Government will bear in mind in the future in dealing with anybody else whose rights are going to be affected in that way.

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, indeed Mr Speaker, that is why we must move quickly to ensure 1275 that in the same way as those civil servants were being dealt with and others, that they should be able to contribute very quickly indeed to a contributory scheme and some people may even 1280 find, Mr Speaker, that instead of having to wait, for example 90 months for a pension to vest, they will have a pension vest immediately and that they will not have to do a period of service as extended as that in order to have a small nest egg for their service between the period that they start employment and that they are going to not continue in the public service.

But I have no doubt, Mr Speaker, that there will be no-one so bold as to ask me to continue a final salary scheme when it has been undone for everybody else in the public sector.

Clerk: That concludes questions to the Chief Minister.

BUSINESS AND EMPLOYMENT

Q128/2016 Unemployment figures – Numbers registered

1285

Clerk: We now return to Question 128, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Employment confirm the number of people registered unemployed as of 18th February 2016?

1290

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Business and Employment.

Minister for Business and Employment (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman may not be aware that it is the practice of successive Employment Ministers to relay unemployment figures on a quarterly average basis.

1295

In accordance therefore with this established practice, I am happy to note that the quarterly average for registered unemployed at the end of December 2015 was 255.

SPORTS, CULTURE, HERITAGE AND YOUTH

Q129/2016 Central Police Station in Irish Town – Development plans

1300

Clerk: Question 129, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Heritage please advise what are the latest plans for development of the Central Police Station in Irish Town?

1305

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, expressions of interest were invited for the development of the Central Police Station. HM Government is in negotiations with the preferred bidder but plans have not been finalised.

Q130/2016
Northern Defences –
Stoppage of works

1310

Clerk: Question 130, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Heritage please confirm if works have been stopped on the Northern Defences by the chosen contractor and if so, why?

1315

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the first phase of the Northern Defences project has been completed and therefore works have ceased until Her Majesty's Government takes a view on access and management. Further phases will focus on areas such as the King's and Queen's Lines.

1320

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the Royal Engineers who have once again assisted in cleaning out the Queen's Lines this month.

The Government would also wish to thank the Heritage Trust, for their volunteers who continue to provide excellent walking tours of the completed works despite the weather.

1325

These works are something the Government is justly proud of, having brought to life an area which had been abandoned for years. No doubt the hon. Member will want to congratulate the Government on this magnificent work.

1330

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, could the hon. Member please advise if the second and third phases that he mentions would be undertaken by the same contractor?

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, the second and third phases have not yet been concluded and therefore I am not in a position to say whether it will be done with the same contractor or any other contractor.

1335

Q131/2016
Gibraltar Music Festival –
Money from pre-paid wristbands

Clerk: Question 131, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Chief Minister advise the amount of money retained on the Gibraltar Music Festival pre-paid wristbands and whether the Government has made a decision to refund, retain or donate the money to charity; and if a donation is to be made to charity, how is that charity to be chosen?

1340

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

1345

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the amounts retained on the pre-paid wristbands at the Gibraltar Music Festival is £23,250.67.

Government is considering which charity or charities should receive all or parts of this amount. An announcement will be made in due course.

1350

Q132/2016
Gibraltar Music Festival 2015–
Total costs

Clerk: Question 132, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1355 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, further to Oral Question 1/2016, is the Minister for Public Finance now in a position to advise the income generated, expense incurred and thus a total net cost of the 2015 Gibraltar Music Festival?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

1360 Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the answer to this question remains the same as that to the answer to Question 1/2016.

1365 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, does the Member opposite find it acceptable that given the time that has elapsed since the Music Festival, which I believe was in September last year, although we know the income and expenditure of the Literary Festival which was in November, we still do not know the income and expenditure of the Music Festival in September?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the size of the Music Festival is very different to the size of the Literary Festival.

1370 Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has in effect asked a question which is the same question that he asked last month and, Mr Speaker, we are not going to be able to answer the same question every month.

1375 There is a rule that you should not ask the same question every six months for more...without an interval of at least six months. Mr Speaker has allowed the question because I am sure it was not an identical question, but the purpose of the rule is so that there is –

1380 Mr Speaker: On the other hand, just adding the words ‘further to Oral Question number so and so’ does not change the fact that it might be an identical question. I mean the addition of those words does not alter the question in substance.

1385 Hon. Chief Minister: Indeed, Mr Speaker, and what I want to say to the hon. Gentleman is that we are not always going to insist that something be asked only after every six months. It is the rule in Gibraltar and in the United Kingdom because there may be an issue of general public importance and we can agree with Mr Speaker that something be put although it has not been put before.

But in this case, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman knows that accounts take time to be prepared. This is a very big event, Mr Speaker, and he will be surprised to hear that there are still bills coming in. So it is not as if the Government is not able to account for things; it is that the Government knows and is in contact with people who are still sending us bills.

1390 Artists are notoriously difficult and their management companies are notoriously difficult and so, Mr Speaker, he will understand that it is one thing to account for a Literary Festival, it is quite another to account for an event that involves 13,000 to 14,000 people at the Victoria Stadium and all the logistics that that involves.

1395 Therefore, Mr Speaker, we are perfectly comfortable with the fact that it is taking time to prepare these accounts.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, first of all I am grateful for your guidance, but I would make the point that if in answer to any general question the answer is ‘not yet’, and the answer to 1400 that question in following up is still 'not yet', at what point do we get an answer? Are we to effectively be satisfied with 'not yet' as an answer? Is that even an answer, Mr Speaker?

Mr Speaker: For guidance, I would say that if a question is answered and the answer is 'this information is not yet available', it is legitimate to ask some time later, and not necessarily wait for six months to ask 'is the Government now in a position to provide such an answer?' I would allow that because it is the same subject matter but the 'not yet' is elastic and therefore I think we do not have to wait six months for a Member of the Opposition to try to pursue the matter.

1405 But just the addition of those words 'further to' does not change it of course. But if the answer was an interim reply that he received, I think an hon. Member of the Opposition is entitled within those six months to try and pursue the matter. That is a ruling that I would give.

1410 Hon. Chief Minister: I am grateful, Mr Speaker, not that you have been asked for a ruling but if you had been asked for a ruling, it would have been a ruling sought on an unfair and incorrect premise. Because the Hansard of the proceedings, Mr Speaker, demonstrates that the answer was not 'not yet'; the answer was actually a much fuller answer, Mr Speaker.

1415 The hon. Gentleman was told this:

Mr Speaker, full details of payments and income generated from the 2015 Music Festival have not been finalised. Government will be publishing the details once everything has been finalised.

So the hon. Gentleman (a) was not told 'not yet', he was given a full answer; (b) he was told that they would be published when the time came, Mr Speaker.

1420 The hon. Gentleman asked again 'does the Minister have any idea as to how long that will take?' and there was a further answer, Mr Speaker, which I thought was a very helpful one where it said:

Mr Speaker, it will definitely be before the estimates are prepared, which should be by April. That means by 31st March which is the end of the year, so I reckon that by then we should have final figures.

and the exchange continued.

1425 And so, Mr Speaker, it is not correct for the hon. Gentleman to characterise the answer in the way that he did or to suggest that his question was being kicked into the long grass. He knew by when we expected to have the final accounts prepared and he also knew that we expect to publish that when it was prepared.

I hope that is helpful, Mr Speaker.

1430 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, thank you very much for your ruling, whether it is a ruling or not, and I will obviously in future, where I do not feel I have had an answer to a question, I will run it by you first for guidance as to whether that would fall within the six-month rule or not.

1435 But coming back to the question of the accounts, Mr Speaker, I find it somewhat incredible that the Chief Minister characterises Gibraltar Music Festival as a matter of great complexity requiring great financial engineering in order to arrive at a P&L. I trust he has better luck at running the finances of the Gibraltar Government as a whole before the financial year, where the numbers are substantially bigger. (Laughter)

1440 Mr Speaker, in relation to the Principal Auditor's Report from last year 2014, the Principal Auditor says the original estimates for 2014 were £300,000, the outcome was £1.4 million. That is, Mr Speaker, where I am coming from: we need to get a sense of whether they are on budget or not, but obviously Mr Speaker, they will not answer that question.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, delighted to answer that question – even with what appeared to be an attempt at humour at the beginning, Mr Speaker. I heard some 'Snickers' on the opposite benches, I wonder whether they are being recalled like Mars Bars or not, Mr Speaker. (Laughter)

1445 Look, Mr Speaker, we are very proud of the Gibraltar Music Festival. We think it is an excellent event, it attracts many tourists to Gibraltar and the value of it is well beyond the balance sheet, something perhaps the hon. Gentleman might not understand. It attracts also many businesses to Gibraltar who may have head offices here who bring many of their people from around the world to have meetings in Gibraltar at the time of the Gibraltar Music Festival.

1450 And, Mr Speaker, you know what? Given the performance of the Gibraltar economy in the past four years, I think that we as a whole have done quite well with the P&L accounts of the Government of Gibraltar. We have done quite well with the promotion of Gibraltar internationally. We have done quite well with the growth in our economy and I think that a little dig from somebody who has been a banker until a few months ago is not really going to hurt.

1455

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am glad we are not causing any offence and I trust the P&L of the Music Festival will be as impressive as he suggests.

Hon. Chief Minister: I have no doubt it will be, Mr Speaker, but I did not detect a question there and in this House, at this stage, we are here to hear questions from the other side.

1460

Q133-134/2016
Lift components –
Adequate storage near Retrenchment Block

Clerk: Question 133, the Hon. E J Reyes.

1465 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can Government give details of the circumstances which led to the storage of lifts' parts/components in the vicinity of the Retrenchment Block together with details of which project these lifts' parts/components pertain to?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

1470 Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 134.

Clerk: Question 134, the Hon. E J Reyes.

1475 Hon. E J Reyes: Can Government provide details of what measures have been taken to ensure and guarantee that lifts' parts/components recently stored in the vicinity of the Retrenchment Block are fit for purpose and not suffering from corrosion or other possible defects due to their exposure to the elements of inclement weather before installation?

1480 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, on a temporary basis the contractors were given authorisation to store the lift components at the facility of the Retrenchment Block. These components appertain to the Government Estates' beautification projects of Moorish Castle Estate and Laguna Estate.

1485

The measures to ensure and guarantee the lifts' parts/components are the responsibility of the contractor. On installation, the Government's technical staff, along with a specialist consultant will examine and evaluate each part and works prior to its commissioning. If defects 1490 are identified, it is the responsibility of the contractor to put these right at no cost to the Government.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, would the Hon. Minister happen to know who the contractor is, the one who was given permission to store these in the vicinity of the Retrenchment Block?

1495 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, I understand it was GJBS.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, one further question in my non-expert construction thing. The purpose of my question is to allay fears among the residents of the estates. Now we know it is Moorish Castle and Laguna where these lifts are going to be installed, but in my preliminary sort of pre-empting the Ministers answer, my preliminary explanation to this constituent, I said 'Yes, but surely I know that before a project is handed over, the Government will have their own people who go and check on the parts and see that it is properly done and so on.'

1500 This concerned resident has come up with further concerns and saying, 'Yes, if these are metal parts that are the ones that suffer from rust as a result of their exposure to the weather elements and so on, and are then encased within what is traditionally a brick or concrete casing, who is going to be able to see the amount of rust that is there, even before the lift has been installed?'

1505 Is the Minister aware, given the circumstances of the unfortunate exposure to the elements whether inspections are taking place even before they are completely encased in the building that will house the lift? Is there an extra measure, an extra that we can give?

At the end of the day the Minister and I should both share at heart that what we want to do is give as big an assurance as possible to the residents of these estates.

1515 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker yes, and the residents can be fully reassured because, Mr Speaker, you see it would be really quite nonsensical for the check of the lift to be after the lift has been installed, for the Government's expert to go into the lift to say that it looks very nice indeed and that it is very clean. That is not how we do the checking.

1520 Mr Speaker, there is a 75-point checklist in respect of every lift installed under this administration in respect of these refurbished estates. The 75-point checklist deals with every part that is installed, as it is being installed, so long before it is encased in concrete. Mr Speaker, that checklist is provided not just to GJBS; it is also provided to the Housing Authority which is the entity that has contracted GJBS to do this work.

1525 So it is very, very thorough indeed and we would be dealing with issues that affect the structural integrity of the lift as well as every other aspect of the working of the lift. Now, Mr Speaker, in respect of these particular lifts, they are going to transform people's lives in many areas. They are very difficult to install in some areas. In some instances the issue with installation relates to the requirement for three-phase electricity and that is why a delay has been occasioned in the installation.

1530 But, Mr Speaker, the hon. Member can go back with confidence and tell the person who raised the concern with him that there is a 75-point checklist and it is all carried out long before anything is encased in concrete.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, the Chief Minister's addition to the supplementary certainly goes a long way to allay fears and so on.

1535 I may or may not have come to the wrong conclusion: I think the Chief Minister was also referring to something that could be an online list or something. Is there a place online that residents may look at to refer to these 75 points or is that something that is private between the contractor and so on?

1540 Hon. Chief Minister: Well no, Mr Speaker, the next thing the hon. Gentleman opposite is going to ask me, is there a camera in my office, and next in my bedroom!

Mr Speaker, this is a mechanical engineering report which is provided to the Government – well, which is provided to the contractor which provides it to the Housing Department that is the contracting authority. It is a mechanical engineering report; we receive many reports in respect 1545 of each different area of expertise. It is not online and is not the sort of thing that would ever be put online by any administration.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, may I just add to clarify on a point, I would like the Chief Minister in future to interpret my questions in the spirit in which they are meant. That was to allay fears 1550 on behalf of the residents of that area, not because they are particularly interested nor would I certainly not entertain putting a camera into the Chief Minister's office, nor even ask him what brand of soap, whether it is liquid or a bar of soap, he uses in his bathroom.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, unfortunately Head and Shoulders because I am getting old – and he can have that information, I am quite happy to provide it.
1555

But, Mr Speaker, I fully understand the spirit in which he asks questions, despite the dulcet tones in which he asks them – put it that way.

Mr Speaker: Next question.
1560

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, if I may?

Mr Speaker: Yes – the Hon. Mr Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker if I just may take a slightly different tack with the storage of the lift materials in the area of the Retrenchment Block. It is the case that these materials have been stored there for quite some time now – six months, probably more. I do realise there is turnover in the material, but a lot of the packaging is plastic, a lot of it has already broken up and it is in very close proximity to nature reserves in that area and indeed those plastics, being a 1570 generally very windy area as Windmill Hill is, are contaminating those areas.

Is there any move on the part of Government to ensure that the contractor involved, GJBS as I understand it, will make sure that the area is properly cleaned up?

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes indeed and something that concerns us as much as it concerns the hon. Gentleman, and I thank him for the opportunity to clarify the position.
1575

So much so, Mr Speaker, that it is something that is being pursued by the Government even now, because we have great concerns about that area, Mr Speaker, in particular should anybody ever have the opportunity to create a power station with three huge chimneys, which would completely destroy that area and the nature reserve adjacent to it.

Hon. T N Hammond: Sorry, I did not quite get the...out of the ... The answer is then yes, that GJBS will be taking responsibility for cleaning up the area, regardless of what its future intended use may be – power station, football pitch, obviously?
1580

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, Mr Speaker, the answer is yes, GJBS will be fully taking responsibility for that. We are already asking them to do so because we really value the area and we want it to remain an area which can continue to complement the nature reserve, not detract from it, as would have been the case – and this is the bit that I was trying to emphasise to the hon. Gentleman – as would have been the case, if they had, perish the thought, won the election and erected a power station with three stacks pushing out grimy, smelly diesel into the nature 1590 reserve, killing our partridges and all the other wildlife in the area.

I am surprised, Mr Speaker, and very disappointed indeed that since Mr Netto left the Opposition benches, we have not been asked about the Barbary Partridge, (Laughter) but he should know that it is doing remarkably well.

1595

A Member: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q135/2016

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority –
Three staff vacancies

1600 Clerk: Question 135, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can Government provide updated details in respect of the three staff vacancies which are currently being reviewed within the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority as stated in answer to Question 3/2016?

1605

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the vacancies remain the same as per the answer provided in Question 3/2016.

Q136/2016

Hosting sports and leisure events –
Grants provided

1610

Clerk: Question 136, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Sports and Leisure provide details of all grants made since the answer to Question 4/2016 in respect of hosting of special sports and leisure events?

1615

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, grants awarded for the hosting of special sports and leisure events since my answer to Question 4/2016 are: Tradewise Chess Festival, £185,000; Gibraltar International Snooker Open, £15,868.21; Gibraltar Backgammon Championship, £25,000; Gibraltar Darts Trophy, £170.

1620

The GSLA's website is currently undergoing reconstruction works. While this is being finalised, all this information will be available on a monthly basis on the GSLA home page.

1625

Mr Speaker: Perhaps it might help new Members if I were to give a little bit of guidance as to why this question is perfectly alright, even though the hon. Member originally asked the same question last month.

The view that I have always taken, even before I was Speaker, was that the answer is not the same. He is trying to find out updated information in respect of a particular item, so 'can the Minister provide details of how much has been given in respect of such and such?' – but the answer is not the same if there has been further progress.

1630

Therefore I take a liberal view, because I think hon. Members of the Opposition have a job to do, that that question is perfectly legitimate.

1635

Q137/2016

Gibraltar Open Chess Championship and Backgammon Tournament – Grants provided

1640

Clerk: Question 137, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can Government provide details of all grants made in favour of the recently held Gibraltar Open Chess Championship and Backgammon Tournament?

1645

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

1650

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, in respect of grants made in favour of the recently held Gibraltar Open Chess Championship and Backgammon Tournament, I can confirm that the Gibraltar Open Chess Championship received a grant of £185,000, which I have just mentioned.

The Gibraltar Backgammon Tournament has received a total grant, which is different to what I have just said because it is the update, of £51,249.80. This includes assistance provided to the Gibraltar Backgammon Association in securing full membership to the European Backgammon Federation.

1655

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes. Thank you Mr Speaker, just for my own satisfaction and clarity, the £51,249.80 for the Backgammon, is that inclusive of or in addition to the £21,000 that comes under the subhead of Special Sports and Leisure Events. Just for the sake of clarity due to my still ineffective hearing.

1660

Hon. S E Linares: Well no, as Mr Speaker stated, that is why the question is different because what you asked in the previous question was an update, which is what I gave you. That is why the figures are different. But in this question you are asking for the total, as in the cost of the whole tournament. So you can assume that something was paid before, then the addition of what you asked in the next question adds up to what I have answered just now, if that is clear.

1665

Q138/2016
Chess in Gibraltar –
Mr Stuart Conquest

Clerk: Question 138, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1670

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Education reveal what is the nature of the contract between the Government and Stuart Conquest?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

1675

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, there is no contract between Mr Stuart Conquest and the Government.

1680 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Could I ask, if it was my understanding that he was a Government employee, where is he receiving his remuneration? Because from what I understand he was contracted to help with chess in Gibraltar. Could you point me in the right direction, perhaps?

Thank you.

1685 Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, what happens is usually sports have officers themselves who they send into schools – I can give you an example, cricket. The Cricket Association pays someone to go into schools and then the Department of Education, as the previous Minister for Sports knows, there are many associations that have different officers who would go and tap into, go into schools helping children or helping the teachers to teach children on particular sports.

1690 We have got a case with hockey, a case with rugby, with cricket and this is the case with chess, where Mr Stuart Conquest goes to school to help with the development of chess.

Q139-141/2016

Converted to written questions

Clerk: Questions 139 to 141 have, at the request of the Hon. T N Hammond, been converted to written questions.

TOURISM, HOUSING, EQUALITY AND SOCIAL SERVICES

Q142/2016

Life plans for the disabled – Assessment of individuals

1695

Clerk: So we now move to Question 142, by the Hon. L F Llamas.

1700 Hon. L F Llamas: With regard to individual life plans for the disabled, can Government provide details of those individuals who have been assessed since December 2011, giving details such as sex, age, condition/conditions and date of assessment and those waiting to be assessed, detailing sex, age, condition/conditions and expected date of assessment?

Clerk: Answer the Hon, the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

1705 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, as answered in Question 372/2015, the Disability Action Plan will outline a holistic approach to life planning for people with disabilities and will contain the following features: education; employment; income; health and wellbeing; choice and control; and inclusive communities.

1710

Hon. L F Llamas: Therefore, does the Minister confirm that no person has yet been assessed?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman is assuming that there will be separate assessments for this purpose.

1715

Hon. L F Llamas: Well, I am actually going by what was in the 2011 manifesto, that is that a programme will be made for the life planning of disabled persons. When I assume life planning, I presume that this would be for each individual person and not for a group, as each person is completely separate and a different case to any other.

1720

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the point is – and I am afraid it is lost on the hon. Gentleman, I have answered the question and of course there is a reference in the manifesto to life planning – but the point is, that the departments themselves will communicate to each other, Mr Speaker, so that when a person is assessed with a disability, then he will have the relevant departments at their disposal. It is not a question of having one central register for the purposes of the Disability Action Plan. It is to ensure that the resources, the policies and the strategies are available in the relevant departments, because not all departments will be relevant as part of the Disability Action Plan. It is just making sure that the availability is there. One person may not necessarily go to every department but every department will have the strategy as part of its policy.

1725

1730

Hon. L F Llamas: Is there a timeline set to commence with these assessments?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I have not said that there will be assessments. The hon. Gentleman, I said, is assuming that there will be assessments. It is not a question of an assessment for the purposes of the Disability Action Plan; it is a question of having the policies and the resources in place, Mr Speaker.

1735

It is not about assessments. He has it in his mind that there will be assessments and I am telling him there will not be an assessment for the purposes of the Disability Action Plan. It is about having the resources available, Mr Speaker.

1740

Q143-144/2016
People with disabilities –
Assessment details

Clerk: Question 143, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: How many people have been assessed as being disabled, although not born disabled, since December 2011, providing details of sex, age, condition/s?

1745

Clerk: Answer, the Hon the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 144.

1750

Clerk: Question 144, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: What is the process to assess people as to whether or not they are disabled, providing details of people who are involved during the process?

1755

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the premise of the hon. Gentleman's question is impossible to understand and specifically in what context he is referring to.

1760

Hon. L F Llamas: Well, I am asking to know how many people have been assessed as being disabled, I think the question is quite clear, although not having been born disabled. Have there been any people assessed? I think the question is quite clear.

1765 And then the second question is, what is the process to assess these people and who are the people involved during the process?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: 'These people' as he puts it, Mr Speaker, I am assuming are people with disabilities, but he...again Mr Speaker, the premise –

1770

Several Members: Oh! (Interjections)

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, Mr Speaker...!

1775 A Member: Who are they?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Who are they? Mr Speaker, it is the respect to which I deal with people with disabilities, Mr Speaker – it is not 'these people'. It is people with a need, Mr Speaker.

1780 But the point I am getting at, Mr Speaker, is that the question is so broad and so wide that I just do not understand it. If the hon. Gentleman could be a bit more specific, because people are not assessed as disabled because people may require certain facilities or assistance on account of their disability. But there is not a place where people go and say, 'Hello, I want to be assessed as disabled.' The GHA will assess people as disabled for certain things, other Government 1785 Departments may assess people so that we can help for their needs.

But what I am saying, Mr Speaker, is that the way that these questions are phrased and are worded are so wide, so vague, so ambiguous that I am unable to provide an answer because I cannot understand what the hon. Gentleman is getting at.

1790 If he could elaborate ... well not elaborate, in fact if he could make his question more concise and more specific, I may be able to answer it but certainly not in the way that it has been asked because it is just simply too vague. There is not one mechanism for assessing someone as disabled. There is not a central register where people go to be assessed as disabled. There is a collection of all the registers of people who are disabled, but 'disabled' will have different definitions, different tests, different results, depending on the individual, and that is what I am 1795 trying to explain to the hon. Gentleman.

Mr Speaker: In order to enable me to monitor the exchanges a little bit more closely, could I ask the Hon. Minister a question myself.

1800 Is the term 'disabled' actually being used, or in medical circles that is no longer used and disability is the term that is in fact, is used?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, you are entirely right. The actual correct reference is to 'people with disabilities'. In fact it may go further to people with learning disabilities, to people with physical disabilities but that is the more appropriate definition.

1805 Certainly not 'these people', Mr Speaker.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, if I may, is it possible to bring this question back on the next session in a far more detailed manner?

1810 Mr Speaker: Absolutely, and if the hon. Member wishes to have any assistance from the Clerk or myself, we are always only too happy to assist in any way that we can, okay?

Q145-147/2016
Care Agency and Social Services–
Training for workers

Clerk: Question 145, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1815 Hon. L F Llamas: How many workers are currently undertaking, or have successfully undertaken since December 2011, the NVQ course in Health and Social Care, giving details of the Department the worker is from, the post held by the worker, together with the date commenced and completed?

1820 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 146 and 147.

1825 Clerk: Question 146, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: What training is available to care staff in Social Services?

Clerk: Question 147, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1830

Hon. L F Llamas: What level of training is received by recruitment agency company workers working within the Social Services umbrella?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

1835

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, since 2011, 13 care workers from the Social Services Department of the Care Agency have completed the NVQ.

1840 There are two types of training delivered to staff in Social Services, these are mandatory training and needs led training and they are in addition to each other, they are not in substitution of. We do the mandatory training first and then the needs training.

The Care Agency is not responsible for the training of staff it does not employ, but it is satisfied that anyone who is contracted to provide a service has received mandatory training, Mr Speaker.

1845

Hon. L F Llamas: Are there any mechanisms in place to ensure that these workers have undertaken the appropriate training prior to working for Government in effect?

1850 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, when people are sub-contracted to provide services for the Government, we of course have policy documentation and contractual requirements with the employer of these workers to ensure that people provided to undertake the service are of a satisfactory standard and of course, they need to be vetted etc. So it is the responsibility of the employer but notwithstanding, what we do is, we do undertake quality assurance and spot checks on a very regular basis, to ensure that the standard of care being provided by employees of the sub-contracted agency are of course of a safe and satisfactory standard.

1855

Q148-149/2016
Social Services workers –
Details of contracts and posts

Clerk: Question 148, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1860 Hon. L F Llamas: Can Government provide details of workers, since December 2011, working under the Social Services umbrella, giving details of date commenced and date terminated, where applicable, area/department assigned, with a break-up of, for example, Care Agency into Dr Giraldi Home, Tangier View etc?

1865 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 149.

1870 Clerk: Question 149, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1875 Hon. L F Llamas: Can Government provide a detailed organisational chart of people employed by Social Services as at 31st December 2010, 31st December 2011, 31st December 2012, 31st December 2013, 31st December 2014, 31st December 2015 detailing the sections and detailed post held by each employee?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

1880 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, between December 2011 and February 2016, those who worked within the Social Services departments of the Care Agency are as follows: 27 in Social Services; 62 in Disabilities; 16 in Children's Residential; and 3 in Rehabilitation.

Between this period, between December 2011 and February 2016, the following have finished: 9 in Social Services; 14 in Disabilities; 11 in Children's Residential; and 1 in Rehabilitation.

1885 In answer to Question 149, Mr Speaker, no. The complement of staff is as it appears in the Estimates Book of Revenue and Expenditure.

Q150/2016
Care Agency and Social Services–
Contracts with recruitment agencies

Clerk: Question 150, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1890 Hon. L F Llamas: Can Government provide a copy of the contract/s signed for the service of workers provided by recruitment agencies to Social Services, including the Care Agency?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

1895 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, no.

Hon. L F Llamas: Can I ask the reason why you cannot provide this information?

1900 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, first and foremost, these are internal documents and of course they may be commercially sensitive and it is therefore inappropriate for these to be disclosed.

1905 Hon. L F Llamas: If they are internal documents which may be sensitive, I could understand when Government has not done this in the past, but if Government has done this in the past like the Financial Secretary's memo on the Domsday, why cannot we see this internal document?

1910 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I think the comparison is completely inappropriate because it is completely different, we are comparing apples and pears here, Mr Speaker. And in fact I am taking the same line that has been taken in relation to other questions, in relation to commercial documents, Mr Speaker. The answer is no. (Interjection)

1915 Yes, Mr Speaker and I remind the hon. Gentleman that of course the Domsday memo can only be sensitive to the GSD, Mr Speaker, because it embarrassed them but it is not the same kind of document, Mr Speaker. We are talking about contractual documents which are in fact confidential to begin with, but in any event, it would not be appropriate to disclose, Mr Speaker, because of commercial sensitivities.

Q151/2016
Care Agency –
Permanent and pensionable posts/positions

Clerk: Question 151, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1920 Hon. L F Llamas: Within the Care Agency, can Government confirm whether the employees are permanent and pensionable in the post or position they are undertaking; if not, provide details of the post/position each employee is permanent and pensionable in and what post/position the employee is currently undertaking, since when and for how long is this situation expected to continue?

1925 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there is no such thing as permanent and pensionable posts in the Care Agency.

Q152/2016
Care Agency –
Independent review

1930 Clerk: Question 152, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Has the independent review of the Care Agency been conducted as stated in the GSLP/Liberal Manifesto in 2011? If so, will it be published in full?

1935 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, independent reviews have been conducted on different areas of the Care Agency. These are ongoing and will not be published, Mr Speaker – not at the present time.

1940

Hon. T N Hammond: Sorry, Mr Speaker, then to confirm as described in the manifesto these reviews will be conducted presumably at some point in the last term of office, those reviews have not then been completed during that period of time and are still ongoing. Is that correct?

1945

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, Mr Speaker, I said independent reviews, there are more than one. Some have been conducted, others are ongoing. There are different types of reviews, reviews in relation to standards, reviews in relation to working practices, reviews in relation to employment conditions. There are all sorts of reviews going on in parallel. Some are self-contained, very easy to undertake and are on very nett issues which we have done and have done very quickly.

1950

But it is a question of, Mr Speaker, certainly what I embarked on was a complete review of the service with a view to improving it. So yes it continues and no matter how many reviews we undertake, we always have to continuously have reviews in services such as these, services which are always expanding and services in which the area is always progressing and for which there will always be room for improvement as we become more and more professional, Mr Speaker.

1955

Hon. T N Hammond I absolutely agree that obviously reviews in all sorts of areas, and particular in services as sensitive as these should be ongoing, should be continuous.

1960

Understanding that perhaps the detail of every review cannot and indeed should not be published because there may be sensitive information contained therein, would it be possible to at least have recommendations that come from these reviews published in some form so that the public or those members of the public particularly interested in these services, can assess what improvements may be targeted, what goals are being set and indeed, if those goals are being met?

1965

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, certainly at this stage I do not think that would be appropriate. It may be that at a later stage it would be, but certainly not in relation to the reviews that have been conducted so far.

1970

Hon. T N Hammond Mr Speaker, I cannot understand why it would not be appropriate to publish recommendations. There is no other way for the public or any Member on this side of the House or indeed anywhere in Gibraltar, there is no way for people to understand what good work is no doubt being done, what targets are being set, what we are trying to achieve through these services and it would be a very normal practice to at least publish objectives, recommendations, an agenda that we are heading towards, we are trying to achieve to improve these services.

1975

It strikes me as odd that the answer should simply be a straightforward 'no, it would be inappropriate.'

1980

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, there are various reasons for the decision as to not to publish. In fact, Mr Speaker, I could even take the opportunity of the reviews and the recommendations to make a lot of political capital, because certainly a lot of what was done initially was in fact very, very damning of the service which we inherited from the GSD.

1985

But there are various reasons not to make that public and it will continue to be an internal document, not least because of criticisms that have been made of staff, of internal practices and things which probably if they were to be made public would probably have more of a detrimental effect on the service and people who work within the service than the value that it would have for it to be made public.

1990 But the irony is, Mr Speaker, that if I wanted I could make a lot of political points as a result of it but it is not something that I want to do because my focus, Mr Speaker, is on the future as it has been from day one. It is not about looking backwards, it is about going forwards and it is about improving the service, a service which was very, very lacking in 2011, a service which was everybody, I think, referred to as the Cinderella of all the services because of the lack of investment and the lack of focus that there was.

1995 We are moving forward. We are improving, we are improving continuously and I think we have improved significantly, Mr Speaker and the position remains, Mr Speaker, that reviews that have been undertaken so far will continue to be internal documents for our own internal purposes, so that the professionals can continue to implement these and look at recommendations and review the Departments themselves.

2000 And all reviews are ongoing. It may be that it might be appropriate for some of the reviews once completed to be made public. It may be, Mr Speaker that at the end there can be a wholesale summary of all the reviews that have been undertaken. I am not categorically saying no to the future, I am saying no in relation to the answer to this supplementary and no at this stage. That is my answer, Mr Speaker.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, if I may, I think it is important to point out that no-one on these benches has tried to make any political capital out of this issue; it is very much trying to understand the developing situation and how the services are being improved. I am sure the services are being improved and that is why we would appreciate greater visibility of the reviews that are being undertaken. I understand if that is not to be made public, that is fair enough.

2010 If it is not to be made public, can the Minister say whether there are any other external audit processes which would look at these reviews and therefore hold those who are required to deliver recommendations of such reviews to account?

2015 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I think that yes, the hon. Gentleman I think makes a valid point and I would be very happy to make an announcement each and every time there is an improvement in the service, so I will bear that in mind and I am happy to make a public announcement every time that we make a change – and obviously when we make a change we think that it is for the better and that it is an improvement.

2020 Sometimes we make announcements of what we do. I think more often than not, we are actually so caught up in the day to day running of this service which is so acute, Mr Speaker, unfortunately it is one where professionals are incredibly busy that I think that too often they forget to sit back and actually reflect on the good work that they do.

2025 So I will take that on board and I will ask all my Heads of Department within Social Services to prepare for me when appropriate, and obviously not referring to individuals, announcements each time that we have a benchmark improvement.

Hon. T N Hammond Mr Speaker, that was not actually the supplementary question. I am well aware that the Government is impeccable in its ability of publicising all the good work it does – we see that every day in the Chronicle.

2030 However, my question was, due to the fact that the information that is being put out by these reviews, the recommendations put out by these reviews is not in the public domain, are there other audit mechanisms, ISO 9001 standards, whatever may be appropriate to ensure, still, that those responsible, including the Minister, for delivering what recommendations may come from these reviews are being delivered and that there is a record of that, rather than just the Minister's say-so where we do not get an answer one way or the other of either what the recommendations are or whether they have been delivered?

2040 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I am not quite sure what the hon. Gentleman is alluding to but we certainly engage with our relevant stakeholders, as it were, whether it is by way of employees or service users or their families, and they are certainly kept up to date in terms of developments and improvements.

2045 We are where we are, Mr Speaker, if the hon. Gentleman is referring to external bodies to which the organisation as an organisation is accountable to, then the answer is no, it does not exist. It has never existed in Gibraltar and in fact it was much less transparent and accountable in days gone by, Mr Speaker. But I do not want to look back and I am moving forward.

2050 In terms of this there is a statutory responsibility for a third party to oversee these organisations, no, not in Gibraltar and that is not something that has ever existed. Whether there is a need for it going forward, it may be something that we have to consider, but certainly in-house we have a Department which is dedicated to clinical standards which is somewhat separate to the clinical practitioners in the service and that person is at a very senior level and oversees the clinical standards of the Departments and ensures that quality assurance is undertaken.

2055 So in a way, while that post and that Department is internal to the agency, it is quite a big statutory body and the structure of the way that is set up is that in a way everybody, all the managers, have to report to that person and that person is independent of all the other heads of service. So in a way, within the organisation everybody has got to report to a particular person in addition to the Chief Executive Officer which of course is the person who oversees the smooth running and the quality assurance of all the services that we provide.

2060 Hon. T N Hammond Mr Speaker, quality assurance aside and obviously that is a very important element of the provision of services, the more human side of the services still may need or may be up for some kind of auditing. It is certainly something I would invite the Government to consider. Obviously that can be done on a completely confidential basis. There is no need for that information to be made public, but at least it would provide the Government a means by which it can have a service independently assessed, not necessarily by those providing the services. Not that those providing the services are not necessarily providing those services in the most excellent way possible, but having that done independently rather than internally, can certainly provide assurances that that is the case or otherwise.

2070 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I thank the hon. Gentleman – there was no question there, so shall we carry on?

Q153/2016

Learning Disability Services Multi-Disciplinary Team – Details

2075 Clerk: Question 153, the Hon. L F Llamas.

2080 Hon. L F Llamas: According to Government Press Release 65/2015 dated 5th February 2015, a multi-disciplinary team had been established. Can Government provide details of who forms part of this team and how many times has the team met, detailing dates and minutes of each meeting?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

2085 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, a specialist Learning Disability Services Multi-Disciplinary Team, and let's call it MDT for short, was established and consists of the following professionals: a consultant psychiatrist, a learning disability nurse, the Head of Disability Services who is a nurse, the occupational therapist, nurse and a social worker.

It formally met 22 times in 2014 and 29 times in 2015.

2090 It would not be appropriate for me to share the specific minutes due to their sensitive and confidential nature.

Q154/2016
Care Agency –
Chief Executive Officer

2095

Clerk: Question 154, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Who is the Chief Executive Officer of the Care Agency and when was that person appointed?

2100

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

2105

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the Chief Executive Officer of the Care Agency has been substituting in that post since 14th December 2015. As is the practice adopted in the past, it would not be appropriate to name the individual in Parliament.

Hon. L F Llamas: I was not suggesting that the actual person be named, I am just trying to create a style, learning bit by bit how the Minister would want her questions.

2110

I would like to know what is the actual plan in advertising this post or in actually is it under review or is this person going to continue substituting for an extensive period of time?

2115

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, before I get to the substance of my reply to the supplementary, the question clearly asked who the Chief Executive Officer of the Care Agency is and I cannot see that there can be any other interpretation other than asking me for the name of the person who is currently substituting.

2120

As I informed the hon. Gentleman in an answer to a question last month, in relation to vacancies in the Care Agency, I informed him that we review posts as and when vacancies arise as to the optimum structure that we should have in place and whether the post, because of course restructures cannot take place until posts are vacant, and what we do is we take the opportunity once posts are vacant to see whether they should remain the same or whether they should be somehow approved or amended with a view to improving the structure.

2125

At the moment the substitution of the post at the Care Agency has been for a very short period, in fact it has only been just over two months and I am working very closely with the Senior Management Team to see how we can best restructure this organisation to benefit the running of it and ultimately its service users and of course its staff, going forward.

Q155/2016
Team Leader of the Disability Team–
Recruitment to post

Clerk: Question 155, the Hon. L F Llamas.

2130 Hon. L F Llamas: What has been the reason for the delay in recruitment to the post of Team Leader of the Disability Team within the Care Agency?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Equality, Housing and Social Services.

2135 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there has been no delay in the recruitment of this post.

Clerk: Question 156, the Hon. L F Llamas.

2140 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I come back to that please.

Mr Speaker: Yes.

2145 Hon. D A Feetham: Just for the avoidance of doubt, is the hon. lady saying that this post has already been recruited – or the person has been recruited for this post, I should say?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, Mr Speaker.

2150 Hon. D A Feetham: Does the hon. Lady have the exact date since when this post has actually been vacant?

2155 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: I do not, Mr Speaker. I do not have the exact date since it has been vacant. But, Mr Speaker, someone has been acting in this post for a considerable period but that is not to say, Mr Speaker, that there has been a delay in recruitment because there was a conscious decision, because of the high turnover and particularly because of the problems that the Disability Services within the Care Agency were suffering, when we took office in 2011, and in fact they were acute, the person who was covering this post in fact retired, I think at some point in 2011 before we took office, and the post had not been covered. It was not being covered; it was being rotated with people acting up. (Interjection)

2160 Mr Speaker, I think I know my service and certainly I have a duty to Parliament when I say that it was not being covered substantively at the time. When the incumbent retired at some point in 2011, someone was asked to cover for a defined period of a couple of months and thereafter, people were rotating and acting up and covering for this post ad hoc.

2165 When I took responsibility for this service in 2011 we took the decision – I took the decision with the senior management team – that we needed some stability in this service which had suffered so much criticism for a long time and because no-one from within the service wanted to act up in this post, someone was seconded to it to help us review the post and stabilise the whole service, which in fact has been achieved and has been accomplished.

2170 I have to thank and congratulate the person who has done it because the service, the Disability Service in particular I think has been turned around in a way that is now unrecognisable to what it was four years ago. But that person was only coming in to assist, was seconded for a specific period and that period has elapsed. When the individual informed me that he no longer wanted to continue in the secondment then the post was advertised and the recruitment has been ongoing for a while.

2175 Of course, Mr Speaker, these posts are very specialist posts and it is one of those which for the time being, we have already recruited internally and we have already recruited locally and we have not really had an interest in these posts which is why we need to recruit from the UK. And because it is such a delicate post and such an important post, we are undertaking the recruitment process very, very carefully.

2180 But that is different to say that the recruitment process has been delayed. We have had someone seconded to the post for a specific period of time and we are now in the process of recruiting for it, now that that person will no longer be acting in the post.

2185 Hon. D A Feetham: So just so that I absolutely understand it, the hon. Gentleman has asked what have been the reasons for the delay in recruitment to the post of team leader. The answer from the hon. Lady is that there has been no delay to the recruitment. We were about to leave it, I stand up and I say, 'Well, has this particular post been filled?' and we find out that that post has been filled on a secondment, on an acting basis, for four years – correct? (Interjection by Hon. Miss S J Sacramento)

2190 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, that is not correct because this is not a court room and he is not here to cross examine. What is correct is what the hon. Lady has set out. The very careful process has been undertaken to ensure that the service has a person in post for all the reasons that she has dealt with, which indicate that it would not have been appropriate to simply fill the post overnight in a way that would have been not to fulfil the requirements of the 2195 role.

And she has detailed exactly what the Government has done in order to ensure that there has been no vacancy in the post, that we have been able to work with the professionals in the field to ensure that we do the right thing about a future incumbent in the post having the necessary qualifications and that therefore this is not a question of any delay in recruitment.

2200 That is what has happened, Mr Speaker, that is what has been said.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, it is a very simple question. Can the hon. Lady confirm that this post has been filled on an acting basis for four years, or just over four years?

2205 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, for all the reasons that I have explained, this post has been vacant for over four years because it was first vacant when the incumbent retired, I cannot remember precisely but I think it was in May 2011, so it was when the GSD were in office.

2210 But, Mr Speaker, because of their lack in succession planning, this person retired and everybody knew this person was going to retire, but nobody took any steps to have the appropriate training for the person who would take over for this person.

So lo and behold, this person retired in May 2011, in what is probably the most important and most delicate service of the Care Agency, with no-one to cover. Someone acted up in that post for a few weeks, I think, or maybe a few months, I do not know because that was before my time and then people were rotating in the acting post.

2215 So yes, the post has been vacant since 2011, but for some four years now, possibly under four years, I cannot remember the exact date when the current incumbent commenced ... In fact when the current incumbent was seconded to this post, the intention was that he would not be there for so long but the difference that he has made to the service and the improvements that he has made and in fact the positive feedback that we have had from absolutely everybody, not just people from inside the Care Agency but also the service users and their families, that the position has been reviewed periodically and it was decided to extend this period.

2220 The specific question, Mr Speaker, was whether there has been any delay in the recruitment of the post. The recruitment of the post commenced a couple of months ago, Mr Speaker, and it is ongoing. Mr Speaker, as you know in the public sector when someone is recruited for a post, there are various procedures which we must follow. First of all the post is advertised internally, then the post is advertised locally, and then if it is not successful then we have to recruit from elsewhere.

2225 So therefore, Mr Speaker, the minute that senior management and I decided to recruit for the vacancy in this post, the procedures have been followed and therefore there has been no

2230 delay, Mr Speaker, hence my reply to the question. A question was put to me and my reply has been on the basis of the question.

Had a different question been put to me, then the reply would have been different, Mr Speaker. But of course there are always opportunities to ask supplementaries, to which of course answers have now been provided. But it is about answers to the questions being posed.

2235

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am surprised that the Hon. the Chief Minister chastises me for asking questions as if I am cross-examining the Hon. the Minister, when she answers questions with the technicality of a legal contract. Because what she really is doing is she is not looking at the spirit of the question, she is looking at the precise question, 'Let us see from a legal point of view how I can possibly get out of this.'

2240

This is the problem here and this is why I have actually risen when she gave the answer, to make absolutely certain, because the hon. Lady has done it before.

Now the hon. Lady said that there were people acting on a rotating basis. Does this mean that for the period of four years, is more than one person that was acting in this particular post, or have I misunderstood the hon. Lady?

2245

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I am not sure whether I should apologise for my technical approach to things when I answer. I do have a very good memory, Mr Speaker, and I do know and care for my Department a lot, Mr Speaker, which is why I know the information in the depth and detail to which I know it. And if I should apologise for having such an in-depth knowledge for my Department, I do not know if the hon. Gentleman expects any less of me, but I think he knows me well enough to know that I take my job very seriously.

2250

I think that he has misunderstood my reply when I explained the acting. Initially – this is as I think it was because this was before my time, Mr Speaker – the previous incumbent retired at some point I think it was in May 2011, there was no succession planning and people were just covering on an ad hoc basis, on a rotational basis.

2255

Then someone was seconded in to cover for that, for a period of I think it may have been six weeks, it may have been two months, but again this was in 2011 and it was before my time.

After that, it was being rotated on an ad hoc basis, just acting up I think by other Heads of Department from other services or possibly other social workers acting up.

2260

So when I took office, we took office in 2011, a few months in I realised that I had inherited quite an acute problem in the management of this very important service and the decision was taken, initially to second someone in for a shorter period in which they have been in.

So initially, I cannot remember the exact date when this person started, it was in 2011 – (Interjection) Sorry 2012 and I cannot remember whether it was March, whether it was May, I cannot remember when in 2012 it was. It was not immediately, it was not January and it was not February but it was somewhere I think towards the middle of the year and that person has been ... his secondment has continued since that date.

2265

Initially we intended it to be for six months for the Department to settle down, but because, for continuity, I think that because he was doing so well in the job and actually took the service to another level because of the way that the whole Department was professionalised and because of the positive feedback, then we decided to extend the secondment to ensure that there was continuity in management, to ensure that the Departments within the service settled down and we are left in a way where he could walk away feeling satisfied that he left a safe and a functioning Department which his successor could inherit properly.

2275

Because we felt we were at that stage last year, last year we commenced the recruitment for that post. Insofar as the recruitment, we have recruited as quickly as we can. But we are recruiting.

Q156/2016
Care Agency –
Out-of-hours workers

2280 Clerk: Question 156, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: How are out-of-hours workers in the Care Agency remunerated and what are their terms and conditions when working out of hours?

2285 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, out-of-hours workers in the Care Agency are remunerated by the payment of the hours that they work.

2290 Staff salaries are shown in the Estimates Book of revenue and expenditure, and the rate of remuneration remains as it was prior to December 2011, with of course the benefit of public sector pay increases for Government employees.

2295 Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Minister simply expand a little bit more on the actual terms and conditions in the sense of whether they work one week on, one week off – the actual terms and conditions on which they work out of hours?

2300 Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I have to confess that I am a bit confused with actually initially the question and certainly that supplementary. The Care Agency runs a couple of services which are 24-hour services, and therefore people are remunerated accordingly if they are working at various hours of the day beyond the nine to five.

If the hon. Gentleman has a specific question, then I would be grateful if he could be a bit more specific because it is a very big service, and I just do not understand what information it is that he is asking for.

Q157/2016
Men in need –
Resources available

2305 Clerk: Question 157, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: What additional resources have been made available to men in need since December 2011 and what plans does Government have to expand this area?

2310 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

2315 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I was waiting for a specific question as a supplementary to the previous question, but it seems like I will not have one.

But in answer to this question, Mr Speaker, we have a manifesto commitment to provide a half-way house for men. This will happen during this term in office. And since 2011 and before then, men in need who have become homeless have been housed in the Government hostel, as well as in flats which women in need have at their disposal from Government.

2320

2325 Hon. L F Llamas: Can I just ask, from what I have been told by my predecessors, there was actually a facility being built for men in need in Gibraltar before the 2011 General Election and that was apparently stopped. Now you recognise that this is a sorely needed facility and can you be a bit more specific as to the timeline, apart from saying this will happen in the next four years. Is there a premises identified, you know just expand on it in general, please?

2330 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I am so sorry to burst the hon. Gentleman's bubble if he thinks that something was being built because it was not, Mr Speaker. And if he can identify a building that he knows was being built, perhaps he can show us, but certainly – (Interjection)

2335 Mr Speaker, I know from when I took office that there was talk of plans being planned, but as I recall there were not even plans, let alone a thought process or a building. And I do not know how the hon. Gentleman jumps from one thing to the other and the assumption that he has made that we recognise this and we recognise that. Mr Speaker, we do recognise that Gibraltar is a community where people are vulnerable and people need help and as and when people need help, we help them, Mr Speaker.

2340 I have answered the question that has been asked to me, Mr Speaker, whether we will help men in need. Of course we will help men in need. We will help men in need, we will help women in need and we will help children in need and people who are in need generally. We have short-term plans, medium-term plans and long-term plans but of course it is a manifesto commitment and like all our manifesto commitments, these will be delivered in this term of office. And I am surprised that after the submission made by the Chief Minister in Parliament last month, that the hon. Gentleman is asking me for a timeline.

2345 So for the avoidance of doubt and in case he did not hear the Chief Minister last month, all our manifesto commitments will be delivered in this term of office. Unless they are timed, the timeline is they will be delivered in this term of office.

In fact, Mr Speaker, if I could have a second so that we can check whether this was a specific manifesto commitment of theirs, if it was a manifesto, Mr Speaker –

2350 Mr Speaker: A pamphlet commitment.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: A pamphlet commitment, yes Mr Speaker, as I recall, I cannot remember.

Q158/2016
Women in need –
Properties identified

2355 Clerk: Question 158, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Can Government disclose how many properties have been identified for women in need and what is the expected timeline in handing over these properties?

2360 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, we continue in discussions with Women in Need in identifying additional properties which are being considered as and when they become available.

2365 Hon. L F Llamas: I am not going to ask for a time line. I am just going to ask if any have actually been identified as of today.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, from memory I recall there has been one recently and I know that as Minister for Housing I am aware of that one, so I can certainly confirm that there has been at least one.

Q159, 163-164, 169 & 183/2016
Government debtors – Unpaid debts and rents

2370

Clerk: Question 159, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: In relation to Mid-Harbours Small Boats Marina, can the Government confirm that debtors have to pay their debts in full and not just enter into repayment agreements with Government, Government-owned companies, authorities and/or agencies?

2375

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 163, 164, 169 and 183.

2380

Clerk: Question 163, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Social Services confirm how many people underwent a programme of drug rehabilitation (Interjection) – Sorry 163, my apologies. In fact I do have a point on that other question but that can come later.

2385

Can the Minister for Housing confirm what legislation it intends to bring before the House to extend the limitation period in order to recover rental arrears that are older than six years?

2390

Clerk: Question 164, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Just for the benefit of the laughter opposite, Mr Speaker, this question was put before the hon. Lady issued a press release in relation to the amendment –

2395

Mr Speaker: There are five related questions which she is going to answer together and therefore, unfortunately we are not dealing with just one Member of the Opposition questioning, but more than one.

So this one 164, and then there is 169 and 183 as well.

2400

Hon. E J Phillips: Understood.

Mr Speaker: So read out 164.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Housing confirm what measures are currently in place to recover rental arrears from Government tenants?

2405

Clerk: Question 169, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide full details of how much has been written off in respect of unpaid rents pertaining to Government rental homes since the answer given to Question 47/2016?

2410

Clerk: Question 183, the Hon. D A Feetham.

2415 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please state how many tenants of Government housing stock currently owe the Government more than three months in arrears of rent?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

2420

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, before I commence to answer this question, in relation to the previous question I am very grateful for the Chief Minister who has looked through the policy leaflet brochure that the GSD had for the last General Election and there is no mention here of any commitment for helping men in need, so I just wanted to remind the hon. Gentleman of their non-commitment in this respect. (Interjection) So see who it is now who has discovered to help men in need but in any event, Mr Speaker, two bubbles burst this afternoon.

2425

But in relation to the answer to Question 159, no berths will be allocated to anyone who is in arrears with the Government, Government-owned companies, authorities or agencies.

2430

In relation to Questions 163 and 164, the Government has established a Central Arrears Unit to prioritise the collection of all debts owed. In addition to the standard notification by the Housing Department of debts, all those who owe arrears of rent shall receive official notification from the Central Arrears Unit which will pursue all options open to us.

2435

A Bill to amend the Limitation Act is already in the public domain and the Limitation Act was published on 18th February 2016, the contents of which is public information and this will remove the time limit as a defence to the payment of debts to the Government.

2440

Entering into arrears agreements is essential for those who are unable to pay the full sum owed. A new arrears agreement has been prepared and debtors are now required to enter agreements and make payments. In addition, we have been working on updating all our systems with current information so as to enable recovery of rent arrears faster and more accurately.

2445

We have also changed working practices and introduced a new billing format which highlights all rent arrears. Insofar as public sector employees are concerned, we shall deduct arrears at source.

2450

Of course we shall implement all legal mechanisms available to recover arrears in the cases of those who do not wish to pay as opposed to those who cannot pay.

2455

Finally, people who are in arrears will not be able to avail themselves of the following advantages: of course, applications for berths at the new small boats marina, but also for parking permits and sheds offered by the Government of Gibraltar, exchanges, inclusions and exclusions on housing tenancies and non-essential repair works.

2460

Other measures are also being considered and further announcements will be made in the future in this respect.

In answer to Question 169, the answer is none. In respect of Question 183, 981 tenants of the Government housing stock currently owe the Government more than three months arrears in rent.

2465

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, can I just add one matter just for clarification purposes, because the hon. Lady has referred to the Limitation Bill which was published on 18th February. Just for clarification there was a Bill published on 18th February, that contained an error and that Bill was in fact withdrawn and the Bill was re-published on 19th February, so the one on the Order Paper is the one that was published actually on 19th February.

2470

I just thought I would clarify that small point.

2465 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the hon. Lady has very kindly given us the figure of tenants who are in arrears for more than three months and I have to say it is a staggering 981 tenants.

Can the hon. Lady confirm that that is just under a quarter of all Government tenants? My understanding is that there is about 4,000 Government tenants. If the hon. Lady says 5,000 then it is a fifth. But does she not agree with me ... ?

2470 Well, first of all, what is her understanding of the amount, the number of Government tenants? Does she not agree with me that that is a staggering proportion of all people who are currently on Government tenancies?

2475 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, it is a staggering proportion and what is even more staggering, Mr Speaker, is that some people have owed rent for almost 20 years, Mr Speaker.

But, I have some very good news, Mr Speaker. Since we started our new strategy at the beginning of the year, we have already had 100 people react to, just in relation to the new billing format alone, (Banging on desks) and my Department, who are delighted actually to be able to now have the ability to recover these rent arrears, because they are very hard working people in my Department, Mr Speaker, who since I think 2002 were not really allowed to vigorously pursue arrears of anybody and therefore, Mr Speaker, unfortunately the systems in place just fell away, the information was not there, the information in the computers was not really up to date, so the mechanisms were not there.

2480 But we have been working on it, Mr Speaker, I certainly made it one of my priorities when I was reshuffled into this portfolio just over a year ago. (Laughter) Yes, reshuffled – at the great reshuffle, Mr Speaker, where I had the bonus of the two additional portfolios, two very important additional portfolios which I am very happy to hold. And I am grateful to my predecessors, both Ministers for Housing who prioritised the acute problems that Gibraltar Housing had and the Housing Department had, which was of course the shortage of housing and because they had already dealt with these problems, when I came in, I was able to prioritise the remaining issue, which was the recovery of the arrears. It has taken us about a year to have the systems in place and have the new letters and documents and computer systems and we were able to really kick off in earnest in January. Since then, and in the last month, people in my Department have been extremely busy seeing people who are coming forward wanting to pay their arrears. People have paid them in full, people who cannot have entered into arrears agreements – our new arrears agreements – and now we have been contacted by 100 people and that is only in a month, Mr Speaker.

2490 So yes of course the amount of people who owe rent is very high but in only one month of our new strategy, Mr Speaker, we have already had 100 people come forward. Just imagine, Mr Speaker, if the mechanism had not been stopped in 2002, we surely would not have had 900 people today and yes, we have 900 people today and I am sure we will not have 900 people in the next six months, and less so in the next year. We certainly will not let it fester for 16 years, like others allowed it to do, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks)

2505 Several Members: Hear, hear.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker! I mean I have to say, Mr Speaker, the hon. Lady provides value and entertainment this afternoon, Mr Speaker. (Laughter)

2510 Mr Speaker, we have gone from “blame the GSD” to “blame Minister Balban”, Mr Speaker! Because in her answer she said when she had been reshuffled she found that the systems that were in place were so awful that she had to change them, but of course the systems in place were there three years into – (Interjections) Mr Speaker –

2515 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Point of order.

Hon. D A Feetham: Point of order – no, no I will sit down. The hon. Lady feels she needs to make a point of order, I will sit down and allow it.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, that is certainly not what I said.

2520 We inherited these systems that did not exist. (Banging on desks) We inherited them, Mr Speaker. And because the Hon. Mr Balban and the Hon. Mr Bruzon before him first of all prioritised the acute needs that Gibraltar had, which were the huge housing problems that we had, the huge problems that we had in relation to maintenance of Government stock, all the pending works that we had in Government stock, all those empty flats that were all over 2525 Gibraltar creating the housing problem that we had, it is thanks to the Government, this Government, that we have repaired all those flats that have had outstanding works for so long, made so many flats for elderly people accessible. Because how many pending works were there from bath to shower conversions? I forget now but I think there were over 200 works pending, which means that there were over 200 elderly people suffering. But we dealt with all that, Mr 2530 Speaker, so it is thanks to the work that was prioritised by my friend, my colleagues, the Hon. Mr Balban and the Hon. Mr Bruzon, because they dealt with that, because they had to deal with that first because it was right that they deal with that first.

Of course, the first thing we had to do was set off and build the houses that we have built and completed in record time, Mr Speaker, we have just seen people receiving the keys to their 2535 new flats at Beach View Terraces, Mr Speaker. We have built more houses in four years than the GSD ever did in 16 years, Mr Speaker. So that is why we prioritised that, and thanks to that hard work, Mr Speaker, I was then able to deal with what was left.

Mr Speaker: Will the Hon. Minister come back to the point, instead of delivering a – The General Election was last December, please come back to the business in hand. (Interjections)
2540

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, that was all extremely, extremely, extremely interesting I have to say. But I thought there was going to be a point of order in all that and I have not heard a point of order. I have courteously sat down, (Interjection) tried to listen for a point of order in 2545 order to respond and the hon. Minister has been a Member of this House for four years and must know that a point of order, when she calls for it, must follow. (Interjection and laughter)

But I must attribute–

Mr Speaker: Order, order!

2550 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I must attribute that to her obvious nervousness at being probed about this particular issue.

Mr Speaker, if they inherited a problem, Mr Speaker, they have been in Government for four years. Is it not the case that the hon. Lady could have, if these procedures were so awful and that they inherited in 2011, could easily have dealt with them earlier than they did and therefore 2555 the problem must be at least partly of their making, Mr Speaker, and not of the GSD's making, which is what they delight in suggesting at every single opportunity.

And when she answers that, I have got another more important supplementary really, because she is leading me to ask her this, when I really want to probe the hon. Lady on something far more important than that.
2560

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, what the hon. Gentleman did and what the hon. Lady dealt with in her point of order, was entirely mischaracterised what she had said as if she had blamed the Hon. Minister Balban for the time that he had been in Housing for the arrears.
2565

Only, Mr Speaker, a person with complete political short-sightedness could stand up and make that point, because of course to suggest that the arrears are down to the person who spent a year in post would be absolutely and utterly ridiculous.

2570 And when the hon. Gentleman says that the hon. Lady is getting excited because she is nervous and says that she is entertaining, I suppose Mr Speaker, he is just doing that which the proverb I am often reminded of by a good Jewish friend of mine says, which is that you see in others your own sins and you reflect them onto others in what you say about others. Because there is absolutely no nervousness on this side, Mr Speaker, and no desire to provide anything which is akin to entertainment. This is a very, very serious issue.

2575 The arrears of rent that have accumulated, which amounted to an increase of 600% in the 16 years that they were in Government, must be recovered, Mr Speaker. They must be recovered because those who pay do not deserve that those who do not pay be tolerated. (Banging on desks) (Several Members: Hear, hear.) And in all areas...And in all areas where we inherited this sort of neglect, we are working, Mr Speaker.

2580 In Housing, and these are housing arrears, Mr Speaker, the first thing we had to deal with was the very long housing waiting list and the lack of affordable housing that we had to provide. That is what the first order of business was when Charles Bruzon, may he rest in the peace that he deserves, arrived at that Ministry for Housing and started work on. And the work started, Mr Speaker, on those estates when Paul Balban was Minister for Housing and shortly before the 2585 General Election, Samantha Sacramento took over and we were dealing with a whole list of works to be done on people's houses, on existing tenants houses and this was an important issue, Mr Speaker, which we did not get round to dealing with in our first term.

But to attribute the arrears to us, Mr Speaker, is just absolute mathematical nonsense! To say that we did not deal with it in the first four years, absolutely right. The retort is: because you left 2590 us such a mess of a housing list, of people without affordable homes, of homes that required work that we had to deal with it first.

But now that we are dealing with it and having said that they want to support us on it, to come to this House to try and pretend to score political points on this fundamentally important issue, which as far as the Government is concerned goes to the fundamental fairness of people 2595 paying their way when everybody else does, is absolutely incredible, Mr Speaker.

The only person who is entitled to say that they have constantly been highlighting this is the Principal Auditor, who dutifully has put it in his report every year. And we have been dealing with issues in the Principal Auditor's report and this one we have not dealt with. And there are some others that we also have not dealt with, Mr Speaker, like, for example, an issue which I 2600 have flagged up to deal with, that the loan which the Government gave and the Principal Auditor is still trying to have information on, and it is a loan given at the time when they were in office and has been marked as unpaid.

And I myself am pursuing exactly what the information is behind that loan which they gave when they were in Government and was not paid, and it is not the OEM loan because they have 2605 not just lost £4 million of Taxpayers' moneys on bad loans and they have not failed to recover £4 million in rent. There are other loans which we are still looking into that they gave when they were in Government and the party that they all represent gave when they were in Government, which have been impaired and which have not been paid. That, Mr Speaker – those secret loans, because I found out about them reading about it in the Principal Auditor's report – will all be 2610 brought to light and the arrears will be paid, Mr Speaker, because we are putting in place a strategy which in effect goes back to the strategy that they dismantled in 2002, when they dismantled the Central Arrears Unit.

Now, Mr Speaker, if in months to come – in fact, I think they have got to be a little bit more generous than that – they are going to pursue where we are with the arrears, that is very 2615 welcome, that is part of their job and if we fail to get the arrears down, then Mr Speaker, we shall have to be accountable for that. But to try and blame us for the accrual of the arrears is frankly, Mr Speaker, something that beggars political belief.

2620 And what the hon. Lady is doing is not providing entertainment; she is doing the hard work that the Members opposite, or at least the Government that they represent with the initials of their party failed to do and in so doing failed this community.

So what the hon. Lady deserves is respect and support for the work that she is doing and she has it from all of her ministerial colleagues, and I trust she will have it across the floor of the House. (Banging on desks)

2625 Several Members: Hear, hear.

Mr Speaker: Of course, may I draw attention of hon. Members that they are now debating. These exchanges are not questions and answers, this is a debate.

2630 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: I am going to allow the Leader of the Opposition to make a short exchange unless he has a supplementary on any of the other questions because we are dealing with five of them. Otherwise we are moving on.

2635 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, thank you very much.

I do thank the Hon. the Chief Minister for that very long political speech and excuse as to why the arrears of rent went up from £3.6 million in 2011 when they first came into office to £6 million, £6 million today, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks) Now I know that mathematics and the public finances of Gibraltar are not his forte, hence the state of public finances today, but Mr Speaker, even he ought to understand that he and his Government must be partially to blame, which is the word that I used, for the increase in arrears from £3.6 million to £6 million.

2645 Now, Mr Speaker, if I can get to the question that I was going to ask. The hon. Lady spoke about the Central Arrears Unit and indeed the Hon. the Chief Minister has also decried the dis-assembly of the Central Arrears Unit when we were in Government. Now, when was the Central Arrears Unit set up by the hon. Lady's Government and why wasn't it set up earlier, given the importance attributed to it by the Hon. the Chief Minister?

2650 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I shall repeat my political speech which is not an excuse; it is an explanation of what happened and I shall do some mathematics with him, because in the same way as he tried to explain to us the meaning of a word before, and I said that when I was doing the mathematics, I did not think I had to explain the division to him, I will unfortunately have to do it for him. Or does he not realise, Mr Speaker that they presided over an increasing rent arrears of £3.6 million, whilst the amount that we are responsible for, without considering that part of it may be interest on the amount that they accrued, is £2.4 million, Mr Speaker. (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham)

2655 Mr Speaker, look and do they not understand, Mr Speaker that this amount is a cumulative amount that is increasing all the time and it is going to increase more in one year now than it did in one year before, Mr Speaker.

2660 But to say that we are making excuses and to ask us the question that he is asked again is simply to demonstrate that what they have alighted on, they think, is a point where they can make political capital and all they are interested in doing is pretending that they now have an interest in doing that which they were not doing. Well, I will tell him again what happened, that we inherited a housing ministry where the principal issue had to be dealing with –

2665 Mr Speaker: Now, now I must –

Hon. Chief Minister: He has asked a question, Mr Speaker, you should give him the answer.

2670 Mr Speaker: Well there was a specific supplementary. The specific supplementary was referring to the Central Arrears Unit. He made a comment that rent arrears had increased from £3.6 million to £6 million. The Chief Minister can answer that comment if he so wishes. Then he asked a supplementary regarding the Central Arrears Unit – the dates.

2675 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker.

Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, he did not ask for a date. What he asked was – (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) No, Mr Speaker. Mr Speaker, what he asked for was why – 2680 Hon. D A Feetham: Point of order!

Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, it is not a point of order, I am dealing with the question that he asked. (Interjections)

Mr Speaker: Will the hon. Members please sit down, both of you!
2685 Now, my understanding is that a question was asked. When was the Central Arrears Unit – that is what I heard.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes I did, I did.

2690 Mr Speaker: That is what I heard.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, as Hansard will show, because thankfully we have something that records what is said, what he asked was ‘why was it not set up earlier?’

2695 Hon. D A Feetham: Two – I asked for two things.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well I will answer the first one. I will answer the first one.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker –

2700 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, if he asks a supplementary which has two limbs, it is surely up to me to decide which limb I answer first.

Hon. D A Feetham: Perhaps the Chief Minister did not understand the question that I asked 2705 and you know, I accept that and it sometimes happens. I have been in court the whole week –

Mr Speaker: Repeat it please.

Hon. D A Feetham: I am going to repeat the question.
2710 When was the Central Arrears Unit set up and, given the importance that the Government attributes to the Central Arrears Unit, why wasn’t it set up earlier?
That was the question.

Hon. Chief Minister: Exactly, Mr Speaker, exactly. Why wasn’t it set up earlier?
2715 Because when we were elected, the Minister for Housing had a priority which was the huge housing waiting list that we inherited. The second priority therefore was the creation of affordable homes. The third priority: the repairs to Government tenancies which were in their thousands, Mr Speaker, in their thousands – thousands of jobs that had not been done, and Mr Speaker, because the Principal Auditor is rightly pointing it out, now the collection of arrears.

2720 When was it done, Mr Speaker? It was done in this term of office, we have been in office for less than 100 days and we have already started the process of collecting these arrears and we have set up the Central Arrears Unit. That is why it did not happen before and that is how it has happened, Mr Speaker, since we were elected this time.

2725 But I will let the hon. Gentleman know this: we were looking at this for some time before the General Election and the hon. Gentleman cannot pretend that he does not know that, for the simple reason we have been debating in this Parliament whether or not it is possible to collect rents which are older than six years. We have been debating in this Parliament the said creation of a Central Arrears Unit in the last six months before the General Election and it is there in Hansard.

2730 So he cannot pretend that we were not dealing with it and he cannot now simply look at the Principal Auditor's report and say 'You failed to do something about it', without at least saying, Mr Speaker, without at least saying we are responsible for it. We disbanded the Central Arrears Unit and we allowed the rental roll to become a debt to the Government of £3.6 million – although, Mr Speaker, I have to tell him that I do not accept that the differentiation is exactly that because I would have to check what the amount was on the day that we took over because 2735 the Principal Auditor's report for 2012 will reflect the picture for that year or perhaps the year before. So even that I am going to check to make sure that we know what amount we are responsible for and what amount we are not responsible for.

2740 But in any event, the amounts that we are responsible for are within the six-year limitation period and they can be recovered, even without a change in the law. To recover the amounts they allowed to accrue, we are going to have to change the law.

Hon. D A Feetham: No, Mr Speaker, that was going to be my last supplementary but I cannot allow the Chief Minister to get away with that.

2745 No, Mr Speaker, how can the Chief Minister know that the debts that have been incurred during his time in office have not been statute barred during his time in Office? He cannot possibly know that because he cannot possibly have the knowledge in respect of every single one of these debts.

2750 Mr Speaker, he must know – he is a lawyer. He must know that you can have a debt outstanding, for example, for three years in our term in office and three years in his term in office and it becomes statute barred in his term of office and therefore I would ask him to correct the record.

Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, because he is a lawyer and he should know –

2755 Mr Speaker: Now, since both Members are debating –

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, am I able to answer the question?

2760 Mr Speaker: I am going to allow you to make the last point and then we are moving on. And if we do not move on, I will suspend the sitting. It is as simple as that because I have been here three and a half hours, for three hours everything has gone right, but now hon. Members are beginning to get under my skin.

2765 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, unfortunately parliamentary debate requires that one robustly defends one's position.

Mr Speaker: Parliamentary debate is not to be conducted during Question Time. Those are the rules.

2770

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, in that case answering questions is something that has to be done in a way that ensures that the truth comes out and that one does not allow that the way that questions are put somehow puts a gloss on things which are not correct, Mr Speaker.

2775 What the hon. Gentleman should know, given that he is also a lawyer, is that debts which have accrued in the time that we have been in office are debts which are within the current limitation period.

In other words, any liability that accrued after 9th December 2011 is a liability that is within six years. You do not need to be a lawyer to do that. As long as you know that the limitation 2780 period is six years, you just have to count back to six. And therefore, Mr Speaker, every penny that has become due and owing to the Government of Gibraltar – every penny that has become due and owing to the Government of Gibraltar in respect of rent – since 9th December 2011 is within the six-year limitation period and I would have thought that given that he is a lawyer, he would have been able to work that out – unless of course it is because he cannot count back to 2785 six.

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member have a supplementary arising out of any of the other questions.

2790 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, with your indulgence, just one.

There has been a lot of talk about the Central Arrears Unit and I have one question for the Chief Minister. The Principal Auditor, our long-suffering Principal Auditor (Laughter) who constantly every year makes reference to the arrears regardless of Government – and I think he is entirely correct, as we must all share some blame for this – he expressed – (Banging on desks) 2795 (A Member: Hear, hear!) In his report of 2014 he expressed grave concern that the receivers of revenue are not priorities in the revenue, the arrears collection and monitoring function, mainly due it appears to lack of human resources.

He then went on to say on 16th July 2015, the Accountant General formally should discuss the setting up of a properly resourced Central Arrears Unit with the Financial Secretary, either as 2800 a unit within the Treasury or a separate unit, in order to tackle the increasing arrears situation.

My question, Mr Speaker, to the Chief Minister is: is this unit going to be within the Treasury or a separate unit and how exactly has he resourced it?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think you will find that those remarks are made by the 2805 Principal Auditor year on year. And, Mr Speaker, thank you for the confirmation by the hon. Gentleman, in fact the Central Arrears Unit was something already being dealt with then. It is being set up in the Treasury, Mr Speaker.

2810 Hon. R M Clinton: With how many staff, may I ask?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, that is not a matter which I can give him an answer on today. I can get the information from the Financial Secretary if he wishes so that he can have it, but it is not an issue where we are being involved, we are simply ensuring that they have the resources they need in order to do the job that they need. But this work will also include the 2815 Departments chasing debts, at least initially.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Hon. E J Phillips: Yes, Mr Speaker. In relation to the comment by the Minister for Housing on 2820 keeping all options open, will that also include an option to evict or an application to the court to evict those tenants who are in arrears that do not – to use her words exactly – wish to pay?

2825 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, of course eviction is an option open to us, but of course evicting somebody can only be something that can be done as a last resort. And I have to confess that I am very, very surprised (A Member: Hear, hear!) (Banging on desks) that a lot of what we hear from the benches opposite is an emphasis on eviction. (Several Members: No!) Because, Mr Speaker, yes, it is in every single press release that is issued by the Members opposite.

2830 Because, Mr Speaker, we have to remember that the person who may have accrued the arrears will be the tenancy holder. That tenancy holder may well have a family, may well have children so what do we gain by evicting a family where the tenancy holder is in arrears?

2835 So in answer to that, Mr Speaker, evictions is an option because it is an option that exists and that has always existed. It is a legal tool that is there and it is there at our disposal, but it will only be used as a last resort and in the appropriate circumstances.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I thank the Hon. Minister for that response. Just in relation to a point of order, there has absolutely been no reference to eviction in any of the last press releases that I have issued from this side of the House at all. I will show those in the next question we put before this House, in the next session next month.

2840 We entirely agree, Mr Speaker, with the answer that eviction should be the last resort, should always be the last resort, especially when young children and families are involved.

2845 My question that I would like to pose now is in relation to the repayment agreements. I have spoken to a number of individuals who are concerned about repayment of their debts. They have spoken to me on a very confidential basis and they are being told by the Minister's Department that these will have to be paid within a strict three-year period. Can the Minister confirm that the repayment agreements that the Minister has referred to in her response to the general questions put to her, that a three-year period on the repayment will be applied?

2850 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, what my office is doing – and it is not strictly the Minister's office, it is the people who work in the Housing Department and they are of course two separate offices – is that we have a specific team dedicated to the collection of arrears now and they are meeting with people individually to look at repayment options.

2855 Now, when these options are reviewed and considered, they take into account ... well, they ask for information so that they can take a view in how to calculate the repayment of arrears and it all depends on the amount of arrears that are available as well as the income that the person has at their disposal. Because what we cannot have, Mr Speaker, is an arrears agreement which is not interest based, so it is just a repayment agreement where people want to pay next to nothing on the never, never.

2860 It needs to be finite, it needs to be strict, it may be a coincidence that your clients, or people who have spoken to you, have been advised that three years is the period. There is no rule in that people need to pay within three years. People may be asked to pay within six months, people may be asked to pay within a year, people may be given four years in which to pay. It depends on the individual because some people may wish to extend the period of the arrears agreement for ten years so that they can go on a Caribbean cruise, but that would not be acceptable, Mr Speaker. So we try and keep the period of repayment as short as possible and of course we now also have a mechanism so that if people default on the payment of arrears, it is flagged up immediately.

2870 Hon. Chief Minister: If I can be of assistance to hon. Members, given their new-found desire to review the accounts of the Principal Auditor or the report of the Principal Auditor, I refer them to page 55 and in particular the paragraphs at 3.4 of the Arrears Report for 2011-12, which is the year for which they were responsible and which they will not find very enjoyable reading. In fact the amounts being written off in respect of the time, in the report for the following year 2875 in respect of the time that they had been in office, amounting to almost £800,000 in just one particular year.

2880 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: And on that note, Mr Speaker, I also want to add that when I was preparing for a debate on GBC recently, I had the opportunity to review the Auditor's reports all the way back to 1998 and as from the year 2000, Mr Speaker, the red flags and the alarm bells were being very, very loud and noises were being brought to the attention by the Auditor but specifically in the period between 2000 and 2002 which funnily enough, or disturbingly enough, is when the Central Arrears Unit seemed to have been disbanded.

2885 But certainly, Mr Speaker, this, the Auditor's Report in the last few years contains the exact same phrases that it has, certainly since back to 1998.

2890 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, will the hon. Lady undertake to go back and to check her facts in relation to this? I personally do not know them, but I am informed by my hon. Friend, Mr Llamas who worked in the Tax Office – (Hon. L F Llamas: Treasury.) the Treasury, he has come from the public service, that in fact the Central Arrears Unit was there until 2006. That is the question I am asking: will she undertake to go back, because she has repeated this on a number of occasions, and have a look at it?

2895 But in any event, Mr Speaker, I also want to say this. That certainly on this side of the House nobody shirks responsibility for debt during 16 years of Government. We do say that of course in four years, it has gone up from £3.6 million to £6 million, that we would congratulate the Government and congratulate the hon. Lady for any steps that she takes in order to make sure that the Taxpayer of Gibraltar is not short-changed and also to make sure that what is clear, (Banging on desks) Mr Speaker, a culture of entitlement to the tune of a quarter of all Government tenants ... that that ends, because at the end of the day, that is not good for Gibraltar and is not good for this community. (Banging on desks)

2900 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I am very pleased to see that the hon. Gentleman is going to be prepared to give us credit when it is due.

2905 But, Mr Speaker, this is not about a culture of entitlement; this is about people not having been chased, Mr Speaker. This is about people having been allowed to fall into arrears, Mr Speaker. This is about the Government in particular, they have now accepted, the Government, the record of which they are defending not even having sent out letters in respect of arrears, which is what the Principal Auditor refers to. So this is not about the culture of entitlement; this is about a Government failing repeatedly to bring to the attention of people that the debts they were accruing will be chased and that it is not acceptable that some believe that they can get away with it, Mr Speaker.

2910 I have full confidence that the work that the hon. Lady is going to do in respect of housing, but not just work in respect of housing but the work that also the Financial Secretary and the Central Arrears Unit will do in respect of all other liabilities to Government – because if hon. Members look at the book it is not just rents that are in arrears – will soon be where it should be. Of course they will likely never be zero, but everybody who is able to pay will pay, Mr Speaker, and there are a number of ways in which that is going to be the case, and some of them may require us to bring legislation to the House or other mechanisms to the House to ensure that people realise what their obligations are.

2920 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I will be very quick, just on the point that the hon. Gentleman raised, it may be that the Central Arrears Unit was disbanded in 2006 and not in 2002. I go by what I am told, but I certainly recall in my former life having conversations with Mr Llamas in relation to the Central Arrears Unit, because of the nature of my profession. But nonetheless, Mr Speaker, whether it was in 2006 or two thousand and whatever, we have an 2925 acknowledgement from the other side that the Central Arrears Unit was disbanded, certainly approximately 10 years ago.

But what I am told, Mr Speaker, in my Department is that there was some kind of a policy direction not to pursue debtors and people in arrears of rent, sometime in the region of 2002/2003. So it is a different point to the disbanding of the Central Arrears Unit, and if I am 2930 wrong and it was not disbanded in 2002 and it was disbanded in 2004 or 2006, then that may well be the case and it is not something that I want to ... it is a debate that I would rather leave here. But it is a separate thing that I referred to when I know that in the Housing Department there seemed to have been a reluctance to pursue arrears a little bit earlier than when the Central Arrears Unit was disbanded.

2935 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one question in relation to the arrears. Of course it is right that all parties and all administrations should shoulder the blame and responsibility for those arrears but one cannot forget, and by reference to page 53 of the Principal Auditor's Report, I know the Chief Minister has referred to others pages, but he has not referred to 3.4.5 which 2940 demonstrates – and my question will go, I am just referencing this point – that in 2009 under a GSD administration, in fact arrears went down by 1.4%. They went up 2.2% the year after, 6.5% the year after that, 7.4% when they took office, 9.6% in their second term of office, second year, and 8.2% in 2014 and in 2015, between March 2015 and December 2015, they went up 14%.

2945 Now, can the Chief Minister or the Minister for Housing explain to me why they do not shoulder the blame for that 50% increase over that period of time? It is right that the Government should shoulder some responsibility; they should be magnanimous in showing to this House that there was an increase of 50% in rental arrears. I think it is only right that Members of this House should in fact shoulder that responsibility.

2950 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I will explain to him why the amounts of arrears went up and it is unrelated to a General Election in 2015, as I have heard the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition mutter under his breath.

It is very simple, the arrears went down when they started the process of handing out homes in a new Government Estate, in respect of which, Mr Speaker, they entered into arrears 2955 agreements with a large number of people. A large number of people, Mr Speaker, who did not keep even, in some instances, to the first repayment under the arrears agreement and subsequently thereafter have continued not to make payments in respect of those arrears agreements.

2960 So look, we failed to chase them for those years but they are the ones who entered into the agreements that were with people who had failed to pay their rent before and did not give those who had been paying their rent the opportunity to move into new homes, Mr Speaker. That is what happened and that is how the rent arrears go up in that period.

2965 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, if that was wrong at the time, or if that was a mistake by a previous administration, why is the current Government repeating the same process with repayment agreements? Surely there are other measures that would be just as effective.

2970 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, he does not get it. The Government is not repeating the issue with the repayment agreements. We are dealing with these issues in a number of different ways.

People who have previously not had repayment agreements are entering into repayment agreements and are paying on them. Many people who have arrears agreements are paying on them, but a large number of people who entered into arrears agreements only to move to the new estate, stopped paying as they had been doing before – in other words they failed to pay, 2975 they entered into arrears agreements to move and then stopped paying their rent and the arrears agreement and that was not on our watch, Mr Speaker. That was on somebody else's watch.

2980 And when we have got into Government, Mr Speaker, when we have got into Government, we have given the priority that we have already referred we have given to issues in the Housing Department. But it seems to me, Mr Speaker, that despite saying that they want to share the burden of blame, that they want to work with us to collect the arrears, all they are interested in doing is using this as a rod with which to win political points.

2985 And this community is too clever for that! This community will see through this. This community will see a Government dealing with people who fail to pay, will see us correcting the situation, will understand that the priority we had to give to other housing matters was given, and will see that the product of the work that the hon. Lady is going to do, and that the people in the newly created Central Arrears Unit are going to do, is one that should never have been undone in 2006 or in 2002, and that we should never have got to the situation to which we have got, Mr Speaker. That is the position.

2990 And that I think is very clearly is what is going to happen and I will tell the hon. Gentleman for nothing, he can reply to me if he likes but people talk to the Government and people talk to the individuals that make up the Government and they do say to us that of all political complexions, what a hard face and little shame the Members of the GSD have to criticise you for this when they were the ones who disbanded the Central Arrears Unit and have seen the increases in arrears in their time.

2995 And if they are saying it to both sides, Mr Speaker, well then a pox on both our houses, but we are the ones in the driving seat now, we are the ones who are going to correct the position and we are the ones who are going to make sure that what was said by the Principal Auditor, repeatedly year after year and was not dealt with, is now dealt with. And if we have not dealt with it for four years because of the priorities that we had, we will deal with it now.

3000 And what the hon. Members are perfectly entitled to do, is to follow up on whether we are doing what we said we would. But as they will see, we always do what we say we will do.

3005 Mr Speaker: I realise as Speaker, I am not supposed to get involved but Members have been speaking, the Chief Minister and the Leader of the Opposition of two sides, GSLP and GSD. Now there are three sides. There was an AACR Government for 16 years and during that time rent arrears increased. The increase was probably due to the fact that in the late 1970s the grade of rent collector was phased out, because no analogue could be found in the parity agreement.

3010 So instead of having rent collectors knocking at the doors of people in Government housing every week asking for the rent, and if they did not pay it was very awkward because the neighbours would get to know, that post ... and I remember when that happened, when the grade of rent collector was phased out, the Father of the Gibraltarians, the Hon. Sir Joshua Hassan predicted that there would be an exponential increase in rent arrears. And that happened during the time when we were in office until 1988 and it has continued.

3015 Another point I want hon. Members perhaps to reflect upon, when were rents last increased? The AACR increased rents in 1982-83. Have they been increased since then? And if they had been increased, would the arrears now be £6 million or £16 million? Think about it.

3020 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker is absolutely right that his role is not to become involved in the debate in this way, because Mr Speaker is not representing any side and the parliamentary process is about Government and Opposition.

3025 But I am grateful for the information that Mr Speaker has provided and I would reflect, Mr Speaker, that another important aspect of this, is management of the accounts and there may be people who fell into arrears in the 1970s when the rent assessor disappeared, who have since passed away and whose debt is still on our balance sheet, Mr Speaker. And we need to understand that as well and we need to ensure that the amount that we are talking about is the real amount. There is no point having the fantasy that you have got if you are any business, that you have got £6 million out that people owe you, if in effect £3 million worth of creditors have since passed away or are companies that have gone into liquidation, etc.

3030 So, Mr Speaker, it is essential that we get this right for the whole of our community and there are modern methods to ensure that people pay their rent, not necessarily the rent collector, with direct debits, etc. One of the things that people will find us very harsh on indeed, is that people who have fallen into arrears, in particular public servants, Mr Speaker, will be required to pay their rents through direct debit, Mr Speaker. Well, in fact they will almost be garnisheed at 3035 source. And those who are not public servants will certainly be encouraged to pay, in fact not required to pay, by direct debit, so the rent collector knocks on the door of their bank account at the beginning of each month and takes the money by way of direct debit from their account. Because it is just not fair, Mr Speaker. It is not fair on those who pay.

3040 And if I can end, Mr Speaker, because it is my intention to adjourn now, on this basis I hope bringing some conciliation –

Hon. D A Feetham: Will he give way?

3045 Hon. Chief Minister: Let me say something first. Some conciliation to today's debate to an extent, it is good that we all feel so passionately about these arrears and that we want to ensure from different sides of the House, apportioning blame or not as is part of the political to and fro, but that we should feel very strongly about the collection of this arrears and that we should together ensure, with our respective roles, that this is an issue that becomes history as soon as possible. Because it is otherwise totally unfair to other Government tenants, to members of our 3050 community who are otherwise subsidising people's houses, in the same way as happens in business, Mr Speaker, where one business pays its PAYE, pays its Social Insurance, pays all its rent and rates, and the guy next door pays none of it and in effect is subsidised by the guy who is paying.

3055 So I think the passion that we have seen injected into this debate must be something that we should be trying to harness for the purposes of delivering to this community the collection of these arrears, ensuring that the balance sheet reflects the reality of the arrears and that together we move forward so that the next Principal Auditor's report – though that one will deal with the position two years ago, not with the position from now – but the next one dealing with the position from now is one which is much more salutary in its approach to the work that will 3060 have been done.

And before I sit down, I give way to the hon. Gentleman.

3065 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, I am very grateful to the Hon. Chief Minister, and he is absolutely right. There are a lot of passions running in relation to this particular issue because it is not only the fact that Government tenants, the people who pay, the Government tenants who pay are subsidising the Government tenants that do not pay.

3070 As Mr Speaker has rightly pointed out, rents have not increased the AACR Government and what we have in Gibraltar today are an awful lot of people who have got private accommodation, who have taken out mortgages, who work very, very hard in order to pay for those mortgages, they take their children to school every single morning on the school run in order to then go to work in order to pay for those mortgages and it is simply not fair, Mr Speaker, it is not fair to then have a situation where there are hundreds of people in Government tenancies who are in arrears, bearing in mind not only the fact of those arrears but the fact that Government rents have actually not increased since the 1980s.

3075 So I think that Mr Speaker's comments have been very apposite. Certainly from this side of the House, we have since I became Leader of the GSD, been very vociferous and very vocal and we will continue to be vociferous and vocal in attempting to deal with this culture of entitlement and although there is a disagreement between us in relation to whether this is a culture of entitlement, I think it is squarely a culture of entitlement when 981 tenants, roughly about a 3080 quarter or a fifth of all Government tenants owe more than three months in arrears of rent, and that has to end.

And I will say this to the hon. Gentleman, any help, any assistance that the hon. Gentleman needs in relation to this by way of political support and cover for the decisions that he takes, in order to ensure that the Taxpayer gets the value for and that these monies are paid, he will receive it. Because of course, short of sharing our ideas – and we have offered to sit down with them and share ideas in relation to how these arrears can be recovered – I am also offering the hon. Gentleman the political cover that there will be no criticism from this side of the House for the steps and the measures that his Government takes in order to make sure that this situation ends, which is unsustainable and unfair to Gibraltar as a whole. (Banging on desks)

3090

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, we are going to end on a much more conciliatory note than we started and can I just thank him for that offer of help, and perhaps he might agree to handle just the evictions for us! (Laughter)

Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman is right that the rents have not increased, we sometimes say since 1988; in fact the last rent increase was in 1984, Mr Speaker and that is why, during a General Election campaign, during a General Election campaign, when I was asked whether rents would go up I said that they would, that they should go up at least by the rate of inflation so that they caught up in real money terms, Mr Speaker.

And I repeat that today and the hon. Gentleman in one of the things he said, 'Oh, because there was an election on', look, even in an election you have to be honest and tell people what is going to happen and when I was asked, I made that clear.

Mr Speaker, the figure of 980 which has been given is not a figure that has moved very much indeed. The hon. Gentleman can look at the Principal Auditor's report and see that it has always been, unfortunately, quite that high. That is why I say this is not about the culture of entitlement but about people not having been chased and then having got used to it.

But, Mr Speaker, I think it is possible today, before I move the adjournment, for the House to adjourn on a House of accord and not of discord. And, Mr Speaker, that I sincerely, sincerely welcome. As I have often said in my Budget Speeches, my Government is here to help those who go out to work every morning, those who have obligations to meet and go out and meet them, the hard working people in this community who are the ones who make us tick and who deliver the success that we are today, and not to perpetuate those who seek handouts or fail to pay. That is who we represent, those who put their hands out to work, not who put their hands out to receive only when they are able to pay, and that is who we will chase more than anybody else – those who can pay and do not pay, not those who cannot pay.

With that, Mr Speaker, I would move that the House do now adjourn, unless somebody has any other supplementary on this subject, until tomorrow morning at 10.00 a.m.

Q160-161/2016

Procedural

Mr Speaker: Before we adjourn, there is another mea culpa on my part.

Question 160: would hon. Members please have a look at Question 160? I think it would be useful I think in order for Members to have guidance.

When questions are handed in, my staff here, the Clerk in particular are under great pressure because there is only a short span of time, as hon. Members know, from time immemorial, five working days and they try to get the questions to the relevant Government Departments and Ministers as soon as possible. And I delegate to the Clerk so that he has the first look at them, obviously I cannot be here all the time when questions are coming in he has the first look, sends them on to the Departments so that they have as much time as possible, unless he has some doubt about some particular question. If something arises which he wants me..., he will then phone me and tell me or I will come down and have a detailed look at any particular question.

Now, Question 160:

Can the Minister for Social Services confirm how many people underwent a programme of drug rehabilitation treatment in each year from 1996 to 2011?

3130 That question in my view, should not be on the Order Paper because the present Government do not have the responsibility for anything that went on between 1996 and 2011, so they are not required to answer questions for which they have no responsibility. If they wanted to, yes it is statistical information that is being asked for perhaps, so the information can be given.

3135 It is now on the Order Paper, I am not going to remove it, but if I had seen that question, I probably would not have allowed it, on the basis that you cannot ask a Government that came into office in 2011 to answer for something that went on 15 years before or during the time of the AACR. I mean, that is common sense.

3140 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I intervene at this stage. I agree with Mr Speaker, and I will explain why this has crept in, but on different grounds.

Mr Speaker, the Government constitutionally is a continuous entity, so despite the fact that there was a GSD Government from 2007 to 2011, there was a GSLP Government from 2011 to 2015, Government is a continuous constitution, there is never a gap in Government effectively, 3145 between one and the other.

So, Mr Speaker, it is perfectly legitimate to ask about something that occurred pre..., and there may well be circumstances in which it is legitimate to ask for a question and seek information about something that happened pre-2011, which is when they got elected. That is my own view, Mr Speaker, but of course I defer to any ruling Mr Speaker makes in relation to 3150 this.

This particular question has crept in, I personally would have taken it out and unfortunately, Mr Speaker, it is entirely my fault because I have been engaged in a trial the entire week and I was not able to look at every single question before they went out. I think where the question perhaps is objectionable is in actually the scope of the question in terms of the information that 3155 is being sought. I think that it is too wide and certainly on this side of the House, we have absolutely no hesitation in accepting that we have made a mistake.

Mr Speaker: I think hon. Members of the Opposition, particularly those who were here during the previous three years will confirm I hardly ever, we hardly ever turn a question back. It 3160 is a very rare occurrence for me to rule out a question.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): But, Mr Speaker, can I be of assistance to hon. Members so that they can have an idea of the issues. We spotted this question because obviously it came to us and we had to try and deal with it. Also the size of the data requested is very difficult to 3165 compile in five days, even if we had been the Government that had been in place since 1996.

In some instances it is very easy because it may be something that has been compiled before and may be data that is kept by the Civil Service, but if you have got to go back and recreate the data, then it becomes impossible to provide in the time available.

But can I just suggest to the hon. Members opposite in a way that might be helpful to them –
3170 whether or not they had been in Government in that period, but in fact they had been in Government in that period, some of them for some of that period, I think none of them since 1996 but they have colleagues in their parties who were – that of course it is always open to them, if they want to get information which they then can trust to the period that we have been

3175 in office, to write to the Chief Secretary and ask him, 'When I was a Minister can you tell me, can you just remind me of this or that?'

3180 That of course is something they are entitled to do and can sometimes be more helpful to them than asking the question only at Parliament time. The questions they can ask the Chief Secretary in respect of the time that they were in office, they can put at any time and they can be provided with the information and in that way, I think they might find it easier to do the job which of course they want to do and it is perfectly normal of contrasting things that happened in their time with the things that happen or are happening in our time.

Mr Speaker: Let me just, before the Hon. Mr Elliott Phillips stands, let me just read out to Members the Rule in question. Rule 15 – Matters to which questions must relate:

Any question addressed to the Chief Minister, or a Minister shall relate to the public affairs with which he is officially connected or to a matter of administration for which the Government is responsible.

3185 Clearly the present Government are not responsible for what went on between 1972 and 1988.

3190 Hon. D A Feetham: No, Mr Speaker, when it talks about Government, this is what I am ... but again I do not want this to be contentious, but when it is talking about Government, and I am not sure that this is contentious between myself and the Chief Minister. When one is talking about Government, one is not talking about the current Government because Government is a continuous entity constitutionally and therefore it reaches back. That is why constitutionally it is a perfectly legitimate question to ask, and Mr Phillips is now going to explain the reason why he asked it.

3195 When I saw this, and I have explained I have been preparing for a very long trial that I had and I could not vet every single question and this one I did not vet. My concern with this question when I read it today was that it says 'to confirm how many people underwent a programme of drug rehabilitation from 1996 to 2011.' I thought that is an awful lot of people – that is the reason why I, in the back of my mind I thought well actually if I had seen this before, I would have certainly spoken to Mr Phillips.

3200 Unfortunately, Parliament is always the third week of every single month which would have been last week, that is why the trial was listed this week and it has actually coincided and it has been very difficult to basically read every single question and it is entirely, entirely my fault.

3205 Mr Speaker: And mine.

Hon. D A Feetham: But, Mr Speaker, Mr Phillips says that he has a reasonable explanation for this.

3210 Hon. Chief Minister: Can I just speak?

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, of course, I give way.

3215 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, I don't think you have to – you are going to sit down.

But, Mr Speaker, can I just thank the hon. Gentleman for that because it is not contentious for us. In instances where only statistical information is being sought we will of course try and provide it, but going back to 1996 is well nigh impossible, Mr Speaker, we are talking about 20 years.

3220 But not just that, Mr Speaker, as hon. Members will know or should know, of course drug rehabilitation was not done by the Government until 2009, it was done by an independent trust which the Government supported and it was in 2009 that the former administration took over the running of Bruce's Farm, which had previously been handled at arm's length through a charity.

3225 So in any event, in respect of this matter, it would have been impossible for us to provide the information for that reason as well.

Hon. E J Phillips: For the avoidance of any doubt and in order to explain why I asked that question and also the following question, it was as a result of the Minister Sacramento's comment, and I will refer to it in Hansard at 124 page 33 on the morning of Wednesday, 20th 3230 January, in which she said, 'When I looked at the statistics' – when she entered office – 'it was clear there was no-one there, Mr Speaker.' And she went on to refer to how many people would be undergoing treatment and how many did undergo treatment before her time in office.

Therefore I think it is quite right and prudent and proper for the Opposition to ask questions that lead on from her statement, which has caused much controversy amongst a former 3235 Member of this House, regarding who had undergone a rehabilitation programmes – not who, the amount of people that had undergone a rehabilitation programme and those who were successful.

It is only right and I am grateful for Mr Speaker to confirm (Interjection by Hon. Miss S J Sacramento) that the question can stand. It is only as a result of the exchange that I had with 3240 Miss Sacramento where she described Bruce's Farm as a crack house when she entered, which was a very unfortunate use of words.

But, Mr Speaker, that is the reason and that is a reasonable explanation in my view for asking this question and the following question, that is why I am asking for a response.

Mr Speaker: I think therefore that I should give an explanation as to why it is on the Order Paper. Question 161 is similar, it is on the Order Paper, I am going to allow them tomorrow. It is for the Government to decide how they answer them, but I just warn hon. Members that on 3245 another occasion, we might not allow it for the reasons that I have explained, okay?

Thank you very much.

3250

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, Mr Speaker and that makes perfect sense, although I will tell the hon. Member that the words used by the Hon. Minister were words which adequately described the state of the place as we found it. And I know that the issue that his party colleague had was to say that when he left it, it was not in that state. But he might want to reflect on the fact that 3255 there was an interim period between our arrival in office and Mr Corby's departure from responsibility in respect of this particular facility and we were not the ones in office in that period.

Hon. E J Reyes: May I Mr Speaker, in keeping with that, I am not disputing what the Chief 3260 Minister said but I must also declare a vested interest. I personally succeeded Hubert Corby before my life in Parliament as Chairman of Bruce's Farm, so it is not just Mr Corby who took certain, perhaps displeasure, at the words but I also on behalf of those who were on the Board of Trustees with me.

Hon. Chief Minister: And that, Mr Speaker, is exactly the point. Because the hon. Member then became a Member of Parliament after that and there was a period when it was being run by the Government, the GSD Government, he was not the Minister responsible and then we took over. Then the description is about what we inherited, not from him or Mr Corby as trustees, but from the GSD.
3265

3270

Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn until tomorrow at 10.00 a.m.

The House adjourned at 7.10 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

MORNING SESSION: 10.05 a.m. – 1.05 p.m.

Gibraltar, Friday, 26th February 2016

Contents

Questions for Oral Answer .....	3
Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.....	3
Q160/2016 Drug rehabilitation– People undergoing treatment 1996-2011 .....	3
Q161/2016 Drug rehabilitation– People completing treatment 1996-2015.....	11
Q162/2016 Same-sex marriage – Religious beliefs .....	13
Q165/2016 Government rental homes – No means testing for allocation.....	14
Q166-167/2016 Government rental homes – Vacancies .....	14
Q168/2016 Government rental homes – Discrepancy in information given .....	15
Q170/2016 Government rental homes – Eviction of squatters .....	15
Q171-172/2016 Government rental homes – Urgent decanting of tenants.....	15
Q173/2016 Government rental homes – Expenditure to make empty homes habitable .....	17
Q174/2016 Government rental homes – Waiting lists.....	17
Q175/2016 Government rental homes – Housing Pre-List .....	18
Q176/2016 Government rental homes – Vandalism of lifts .....	18
Q177/2016 Anti-social behaviour – Curtailing in housing estates .....	19
Q178/2016 Gibraltar Literary Festival 2015 – Net total cost .....	20
Q179-182/2016 Rental housing estates – Refurbishments.....	21
Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.....	23
Q184-185/2016 Parking for people with disabilities – Details of permits granted.....	23
Q186-188/2016 Vessels departing British Gibraltar Territorial Waters – Pilotage .....	24

---

GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT, FRIDAY, 26th FEBRUARY 2016

---

Q189/2016 Small Boats Marina – Applications for berths .....	26
Q190/2016 Small Boats Marina – Advisory Board appointments .....	27
Q191-192/2016 Gibraltar bus company – MAN buses .....	31
Q193/2016 Gibraltar bus tracker app – Availability .....	33
Q194-195/2016 Parking tickets – Number of fines paid.....	33
Q196/2016 ‘No idling’ signs – Use .....	35
Financial Services and Gaming .....	37
Q197-198/2016 Fuel switching – Compliance with EU Directives .....	37
Q199/2016 Gibraltar office in Hong Kong – Resulting inward investments .....	38
Q200-201/2016 Gibraltar International Bank Ltd – Financial statements and mortgages provided .....	42
Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information .....	47
Q202/2016 Small boats Marina – Facilities.....	47
Q203-209/2016 Illicit tobacco trade – Smuggling.....	48
Q210/2016 Duty solicitor scheme – Introduction.....	54
Adjournment.....	58
The House adjourned at 1.05 p.m. .....	58

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 10.05 a.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

Questions for Oral Answer

TOURISM, HOUSING, EQUALITY AND SOCIAL SERVICES

Q160/2016

Drug rehabilitation–

People undergoing treatment 1996-2011

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Friday, 26th February 2016.

We continue with answers to Oral Questions.

We start at Question 160. The questioner is the Hon. E J Phillips.

5

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Social Services confirm how many people underwent a programme of drug rehabilitation in each year from 1996 to 2011?

10 What I would say, Mr Speaker, is that there was an error, that is my mistake insofar as 1996 is concerned. What I would like the answer to is from 1999 onwards rather than 1996. I apologise for that error, but if the Hon. Minister could answer the question in respect of that period, I would be obliged.

The Speaker: Given the distance between the hon. Member and myself, I would be grateful if he could raise his voice a bit. Thank you.

15

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, would you like me to repeat the question?

Can the Minister for Social Services confirm how many people underwent a programme of drug rehabilitation treatment in each year from 1996 to 2011?

20

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

25

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the Government is not answerable for any acts prior to 8th December 2011 and the collation of material going back 20 years as requested originally in five working days is, in any event, extremely difficult.

Since January 2012, 56 people have completed treatment.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, probably two supplementary questions in relation to that point.

30 Mr Speaker, you will recall yesterday that I referred the hon. Lady to a statement that she made in answer to a question that I put to her yesterday in relation to the statistics that she claimed that she had looked at on entering office and she said, and I quote:

And then the answer when I looked at the statistics was clear: there was no-one, Mr Speaker. In the days of the GSD Mr Speaker, we were paying for a rehabilitation facility which was empty, Mr Speaker. At the time, there may have been one person undergoing treatment, at most two.

Mr Speaker, in answer to Question 574/2001 there were over 310 admissions to Bruce's Farm from years 2003 to 2010 and the Hon. the Minister has confirmed there were 56, I believe, admissions at Bruce's Farm undergoing treatment.

35 Can the Minister now confirm that the position that she stated in this House was incorrect and ask her to correct the record?

A Member: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks) (Interjections)

40 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the statement is so preposterous that I actually do not know where to start, and I have to confess how sad it is that people are trying to score political points when it comes to rehabilitation.

First and foremost, Mr Speaker, yesterday you did make quite clear that we would not be answerable for any acts before we came into Government in December 2011 and notwithstanding the direction, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman continued to ask for statistics from 1999. So Mr Speaker, everything that you said yesterday fell on deaf ears.

Hon. D A Feetham: A Point of Order.

50 Mr Speaker: Yes, a Point of Order, what is it?

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, on a Point of Order, and it is important, and I would ask Mr Speaker to reflect upon it and if necessary not rule now, but rule after Mr Speaker has had some thought in relation to the matter.

55 I said yesterday that constitutionally it cannot be the position that a Government is only obliged to answer questions in relation to their term in office, because there may well be certain circumstances where it is justified to ask questions on the period prior and that constitutionally Government is a continuous entity.

60 Now of course it is always going to be at the discretion of a Speaker as to whether a Speaker allows those types of questions or does not allow those types of question because I can envisage that of course Mr Speaker can say, 'Well look, they were not in office at that time and also it is oppressive to be asking something going back 20 years because statistically, it really, the mass of statistics that that produces it is not fair on the machinery of Government or it is impossible or a number of other reasons.'

65 But it is the principle and the precedent that is being set of saying, 'We cannot be responsible for any answer prior to December 2011', which I do not believe is right and I think that the Hon. the Chief Minister in fairness to him yesterday, I think accepted that that cannot be right as a 'across the board' statement.

70 Therefore I would ask Mr Speaker, even if he does not do it now and allows the hon. Lady to continue, that he thinks about it and then rules in due course.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I can assist in this respect.

75 Let us be very clear, it is impossible for us to be responsible for matters which relate to the period before we were in office and responsibility is the key word here. If somebody wants data about something that relates to the period before we were in office and it is readily available, then of course it is provided and there will be no difficulty with that.

But in this instance, as I think was acknowledged yesterday, with five working days to prepare answers, it is impossible to produce 20 years of data unless it is already data that is maintained and easily accessible.

80 And, Mr Speaker, very often it is because something has been asked for in this House that data is maintained in a particular way and then you can literally pull it off the shelf when somebody asks for it to be updated because the civil servants will diligently be keeping the data in the form that it is regularly asked for.

But I certainly do not accept, and maybe the hon. Gentleman did not mean to say this, I certainly do not accept that we have responsibility in respect of anything which relates to the period before 9th December 2011, but we will certainly always try to assist in providing information which relates to any period because the hon. Gentleman was saying yesterday that there is one Government of Gibraltar and there are different administrations and that of course is the correct position.

90 There is a different Government of Gibraltar after every new Constitution so there was one from 1969 and one from 2006. It does not really make any difference to the point that I am making and that is why yesterday, Mr Speaker, what I also told the hon. Members they could do, is write to the Chief Secretary if they wished to have information about periods when they were in office – and in some instances I know that there are only two of them here who were in office and they may have to pray in aid the assistance of some of their colleagues who were in office before, if they want a piece of data which relates to their ministerial responsibilities at the time between 1996 and 2011.

We will always try to help with data where available but we will not be responsible of course, in respect of matters that relate before our election into office.

100

Hon. D A Feetham: Can I come back in relation to that?

We are both singing from the same hymn sheet. I stood up yesterday and I said and acknowledged that in relation to a question where one is asking for statistical information going back 20 years, there may be all sorts of reasons why the Government may say 'Well look, we cannot answer that question', which is the point that the Hon. the Chief Minister is making.

105 My point is a different one. What I do not want is the precedent being established that a Government refuses to answer questions just simply based on the fact that that question relates to information prior to them coming into office in December 2011, in this instance.

And I do not think there is a difference between my learned and hon. Friend, the Chief Minister and myself in relation to this, but of course because the hon. Lady has answered the question in the way that she has answered it, I feel obliged to stand up so that there is no precedent established that we cannot ask any questions that may be appropriate, proportional and reasonable, as to information that arises prior to them taking office in December 2011.

115 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, can I make one additional point before Mr Speaker rules?

Mr Speaker: No I am not going to rule. I am going to mention what I am going to do, but there is not going to be a ruling at this stage.

120 Yes, continue.

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member mentions the constitutional principle of continuity of Government, and that is of course true as a constitutional principle. But there is a difference between continuity of Government and continuity of information across different Governments, and there is a rule that there are some files that a Government does not have access to in relation to the previous administration.

125 So many files, once an administration comes to an end, the files are put away in boxes and it is the civil servants, and the Chief Secretary in particular, that has access to those files. Now if

130 information is sought of this Government in respect of a previous administration, we do not have access to those files to either contrast or compare or put data in its proper context and therefore coming to Parliament and being responsible for the information we give this Parliament, we cannot take that responsibility in respect of files that we do not have access to and therefore it creates a big, big practical difficulty for the Government, and certainly in terms of the Standing Orders which talk about giving information for which the Government is 135 responsible, we are not responsible for that information, particularly because in many cases we do not have access to that information and therefore cannot put even data in its proper context.

I am happy to give way.

140 Mr Speaker: But of course the administration, as the Chief Minister has said, the Chief Secretary would have access and he is the one who provides the continuity whenever there is a change of Government in particular.

Hon. D A Feetham: Absolutely. That is...exactly. That is precisely constitutionally what the position is.

145 And indeed I recognise what the Hon. the Minister for Justice is saying. There are files that are not disclosable, say for example a summary to the incumbent Chief Minister because it relates to something that happened prior to his coming into office and there are particular types of files, I think it is the D files – (Interjection) It is the D files.

150 Hon. Chief Minister: They are alphabetically numbered by Chief Ministers.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, they are alphabetically numbered by Chief Ministers, that is absolutely right and therefore I accept that. I accept that entirely and that is why I have come here and I have said that it is quite reasonable for a Government, under certain circumstances, 155 for a variety of reasons, to refuse to answer a particular question when it is posed.

But with respect to the hon. Gentleman, when the Standing Orders talk about for which the Government is responsible, you cannot just simply hermetically seal that or narrow down the scope to Government as at the point in time when they are in office because there may well be information for which they are responsible, but that information came to light and came into 160 being – probably the latter better than the former way I have characterised it – prior to them coming into office.

And I think we are all singing from the same hymn sheet, it is just that I am concerned that we do not have a practice or a precedent that is established that basically says, 'Right, okay we can only answer questions if the information really arises after December 2011.' That is not the 165 position as it transpires in these exchanges of the Government, it is not the position of the Opposition.

Mr Speaker: Very well, I get the gist of the point that has been raised and I will make a ruling in due course, insofar as it applies to Parliament, because one issue is constitutional 170 responsibility of the Government within Parliament and another matter may be what happens outside Parliament, where the Government may have the constitutional responsibility with regard to the general public. So it will purely be directed to Parliament.

Now, the Hon. Mr Elliott Phillips mentioned a question in 2001, okay? The hon. Lady was not a Member of the House of Parliament in 2001 and therefore she has no obligation to be 175 informed about any answer that was given in Parliament in 2001, unless, unless her Department in drafting answers have a file where that information may be available. If her Department has a file in which answers, having been answers in what was then the House of Assembly, those answers have been put into that file, then a Head of Department or the person drafting for the Minister an answer to the question may be able to bring that to the notice of the Minister.

180 But other than that, she certainly has no obligation to know what went on in 2001, so I do not think that he can refer to that.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Having said that, Mr Speaker, and because the hon. Gentleman is suggesting in a supplementary that I am misleading Parliament in my answer, then, and he is insisting with his facial gestures that he is making, Mr Speaker, in his supplementary, what he refers to is admissions to Bruce's Farm.

In his current question, his question relates to completion of treatment in Bruce's Farm, Mr Speaker and they are not – (Interjections) Mr Speaker, the question and I will read it for the sake of good order says:

Can the Minister for Social Services confirm how many people completed a drug rehabilitation programme between the years 1996 and 2015?

190 Mr Speaker, that is the question that I have on my paper.

Mr Speaker: That is the question that I have.

Hon. Miss S A Sacramento: The question that I have says the word completed. (Interjections)

195 Mr Speaker: She is answering the two questions together. Question 160, can the Minister for Social Services confirm how many people underwent a programme of rehabilitation? And Question 161: confirm how many people completed a drug ...

200 Hon. D A Feetham: We have not called Question 161.

Mr Speaker: It has not been read? Then what the Minister should say is I will answer Question 160 together with Question 161, and then the Hon. Elliott Phillips can read out Question 161.

205 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I do apologise. I had it open on the wrong page after yesterday after we left.

So yes I was answering, the statistics that I provided was in relation to Question 161 because I intended to answer both together.

210 Having said that Mr Speaker, if I can pre-empt the answer to this one I have noticed that actually I do not have the statistics. I have not been provided with an answer for Question 160 so I do apologise for that. I do not have the figures for those who underwent; the only figure I have been provided with is that for people who completed treatment.

215 So the number of people who completed treatment is 56, I have not been given the figure for those who underwent a programme between –

Oh no no, Mr Speaker, sorry! Reading Question 160, Question 160 asks how many people underwent a programme between 1996 and 2011, Mr Speaker, and my answer to that is that we will not be answerable in relation to anything that happened before the period of December 2011. So that is my answer to that and that in any event, it would be impossible to collate those figures in the short period of time that we have since the question was asked.

220 So, Mr Speaker, I have not made a mistake in the answer to Question 160, but I did make a mistake when I thought I was answering Question 160 and what I was answering was Question 161.

225 It may be easier if the hon. Gentleman asks Question 161 and then we can have the answer on that.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one question before we get on to Question 161. The reason why – it is a very simple reason – the reason why I ask this question was because she said in answer to the question that I put to her in the last session that she looked at the statistics after coming into office and it was clear that there was only one person there. Hence the reason for asking the question.

The matter was put before the House. She made a statement in relation to the number of people that were working at Bruce’s Farm, together with rather inflammatory language about the state of the service at the time and therefore I am entitled, I believe, to ask a question relating to those numbers, those statistics that my learned and hon. Lady has said that she has seen on entering office. That is precisely the point that I am making. The answer that she has clearly given shows that the impression that she gave from her answer to my question in the last session was wrong, and that is the point I am making.

I would ask – it is not a political point, I am not making party politics out of it (Laughter) – I am asking the hon. Lady to correct the record from information that she provided to this House that was incorrect. It is a simple point that I make and I would ask her to correct the record please.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I do not think he understands, because he has answered –

Hon. Chief Minister: It is strange for an Englishman not to understand English.

Miss S J Sacramento: He has answered his own question, Mr Speaker. Because what I said last month, Mr Speaker, was that when I first went to Bruce’s Farm early on after having taken office, it was empty. So clearly that could only have happened after 9th December 2011, so what has it got to do with the statistics before December 2011?

I am saying that when I went to Bruce’s Farm, when I was the Minister with responsibility for Bruce’s Farm, shortly after having been the Minister, the place was empty. On some days it was empty, on some days there was one person there or there could have been two people there. That was in the early days in which we took office. So the statistics that I am referring to, what I said – and he can check Hansard because I am pretty sure that that is what I said last month – was that very early on, it was empty.

And if it was empty very early on, it cannot be attributed to anything that we did, because all we did was inherit the mechanism that was there.

I have to say that I was horrified and I will say it again – I know he does not like it because he does not like being reminded of what I inherited – but I was horrified to find two things when I went to Bruce’s Farm.

Mr Speaker: No please, please. Look, I think I have been very liberal, even in respect of having on the agenda paper as I mentioned yesterday, two questions which my inclination would have been not to allow. Now constitutional points have been raised, I am going to make a ruling in due course, but now I think hon. Members really have to come down to earth and realise that they are widening the whole ambit of the thing and advantage is being taken really. Advantage is being taken of a very generous attitude on my part.

So please, keep strictly to the subject matter. I told the hon. Questioner that you are not expected to deal with something that happened in 2001 because you were not even a Member but the situation as you found it, because you are now going back to the question of the last meeting, the situation as you found it in Bruce’s Farm, you have made the point, please do not widen the ambit of the matter any further.

Therefore I ask the hon. Questioner to do the same. Let us keep a sense of proportion.

280 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I ask a question in relation to this? (Interjection) Well yes, Mr Speaker because of course the hon. Lady may be absolutely right that in 2011 when she took office there was nobody there. But as my hon. and learned Friend, Mr Elliott Phillips has pointed out, from 2003 to 2010 there were 310 admissions and that we know from questions that were asked by the hon. Gentleman immediately to the left of the hon. Lady, Mr Neil Costa who asked the question.

285 And can I ask the hon. Lady that in her exhaustive search for all the statistics which led her to believe that there was nobody there and this was some form of “crack house” when she took office – it’s the words that she used – did she at the very least talk to her hon. colleague, Mr Neil Costa who quite clearly had the information when it was provided to him in answers to questions?

290 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: I will answer that.

295 Hon. Chief Minister: Thank you.

Mr Speaker: In my view she had no obligation to do so. When I became a Member of the House in 1972, I had no obligation as a Minister to find out from Maurice Featherstone, Aurelio Montegriffo, or what have you, what went on in the exchanges that they made when they were sitting on that side of the House.

300 No, I do not think that is a requirement in a parliamentary process where people are elected at a certain time and leave Parliament at a certain time for that kind of continuity. No need for it.

Hon. Chief Minister: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

305 I think that is exactly the point that you have been making and remaking, and the only further point to make is that the hon. Gentleman still does not seem to appreciate that the description that seems to get their backs up so much of a ‘crack house’ is a description on the morning of 9th December, the morning of the great New Dawn of the state of the place as we inherited it.

310 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just for clarity’s sake, I do not want to overegg the point, but the question that I asked was in relation to – and it is a very simple point, Mr Speaker, because Hansard demonstrates to all of us here in this Chamber – that the Minister looked at the statistics at the time. Which statistics was she looking at, Mr Speaker?

315 Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, after December 2011 the statistics that told me that there was nobody there after 2011, Mr Speaker, and in fact I did not need statistics, I went there myself, Mr Speaker. And because of that, Mr Speaker, I asked the people who managed Bruce’s Farm to send me the report in the same way that you do with hotels, where you monitor bed occupancy. I asked for bed occupancy because I wanted to know. I wanted to see the pattern 320 whether people wanted to be admitted to Bruce’s Farm on a Monday, a Tuesday, a Wednesday, a Thursday, a Friday.

Actually I still do get the bed occupancy for Bruce’s Farm every day of the week and every day of the month and every month of the year, Mr Speaker, because I want to monitor the statistics while I and this Government is responsible for Bruce’s Farm, Mr Speaker. But I want to 325 make the point again, Mr Speaker, the statistics that I was referring to was the statistics of what was there when we took office in December 2011, after 2011 Mr Speaker.

And the reason I said what I did in relation to the GSD was because that clearly must have been the system that we inherited and the system that I wanted to put right. And I am sorry that it hurts them, Mr Speaker, but that is what it was, Mr Speaker. Yes, there may well have been 330 other admissions in the period as referred to in that question in Hansard in 2011 but I am talking about December 2011, January 2012, February 2012, Mr Speaker. That is what I am referring to.

The hon. Gentleman is insinuating that I am somehow misleading Parliament. I certainly am not. (Banging on desks) 335 Mr Speaker: Move on to the next question.

Hon. E J Reyes: I want to say something, Mr Speaker. May I say something?

Mr Speaker: You may.

340

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, I want to –

Mr Speaker: Are you asking a question?

345 Hon. E J Reyes: Alright, I am going to ask a question, yes, Mr Speaker. (Laughter) I will ask a question. I am going to add like a preamble to the question.

If in order to be able to collate the information which may be useful for either side, because at the end of the day the ultimate aim I think cross-parties is to improve as far as possible, the services offered by Bruce's Farm. I formally authorise the Minister to be able to access any data that I may have left behind at Bruce's Farm in respect of my days as Chairman of the Trust, when I know statistics and so on were there. It could help the current Government or future Governments in order to improve the facilities.

350 My question is without wanting to rumble back or whatever, because of the answer given at the time when both the Hon. Neil Costa and myself were Members of this Parliament in 2011, we got information that gives us admissions right up to –

355

Mr Speaker: You are asking a question.

360 Hon. E J Reyes: I am asking a question, Mr Speaker. What I am saying, my question is I have got information up to 2010, the Minister has been able to provide us with an answer of statistics from she says 2012 onwards? Yes. We are missing a figure for 2011, would it be possible for the Minister at some stage, if not now, to undertake it just to provide us the statistical figure of 2011 as well as, she may even have it, the 56 completions since 2012? Would she happen to have a breakdown of the years, what pertains to 2012, 2013, 2014? It is just so that we can complete the picture, seeing that we have 90% of it, Mr Speaker.

365

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, yes but that question was not actually asked, and the problem here is that I answered Question 161 before it was actually asked, because Question 160 is very defined in time, in that it only asks for the people who were admitted between 1999 and 2011. My answer to that was that I would not answer it because we are not answerable for anything before our period in office. So that is why we do not have the figures for admissions. The reason we do not have the figures for admissions is because it was not asked.

370

And I have pre-empted the answer to Question 161 by mistake before it has been asked and I have already answered Question 161.

375 But it may be more helpful if we carry on and I give the hon. Gentleman an opportunity to ask Question 161 and then at least if we are going to have anymore supplementaries, it will be in relation to the right question and not Question 160 because I did intend to answer them both together, it just as it happens I had my file open from yesterday and I had it open on the wrong page.

380

Mr Speaker: Question 161.

Q161/2016
Drug rehabilitation–
People completing treatment 1996-2015

Clerk: Question 161, the Hon. E J Phillips.

385 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Social Services confirm how many people completed a drug rehabilitation treatment programme between the years 1996 and 2015?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

390 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, my answer which is the answer to Question 160 and 161 which I am taking together, is once again, this Government is not answerable for any acts prior to the 8th December 2011 and the collation of material going back 20 years in five working days is in any event extremely difficult, but since January 2012, 56 people have completed treatment.

395

Hon. E J Phillips: Just for the sake of clarity, from 1st January 2012 until 2015 this month, 56 people is that right?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, but we are not in 2015, we are in 2016.

400

Hon. E J Phillips: Does the Minister have a breakdown for each year, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015 and partial month for 2016?

405 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, in relation to completion of the programme: for 2012 we had 14 people; 2013, 15 people; 2014, 14; and for 2015, 13 people.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Clerk: Question –

410

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I?

Mr Speaker: Yes.

415 Hon. D A Feetham: Is there a practical difference in terms of the numbers between undergoing a programme and completing a programme, and can the Hon. Minister perhaps provide some information in relation to that please?

420 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, there is a considerable difference between admissions and people who complete the programme because actually completing the programme is very, very difficult, and it may be that on some occasions people are admitted and they are not ready. No-one can force someone to either undergo a drug rehabilitation programme or complete a drug rehabilitation programme. It is something that is very, very difficult and a person has to be in the right place and in the right frame of mind in order to do so.

425

And while some people may be very keen to undergo drug rehabilitation treatment, because it is so difficult, not everybody succeeds or not everybody succeeds on the first occasion. It depends on the person, it depends on the situation and it depends on their level of addiction, and it may be that for some people it takes three, four, even five admissions for them to be clean and to stay clean.

430 It may be that people are admitted, complete the programme, relapse and need to be readmitted again. There are all sorts of different combinations in relation to admission and re-admission. Regrettably, this is something that ... there is no magic wand for drug treatment and rehabilitation. Everybody wants to help an addict and I think that nobody who is an addict wants to be an addict, but it is very, very difficult to get out of addiction.

435

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, that is exactly what I thought and of course it is unfortunate that people fall off the wagon, so to speak. People do not complete it and have to undertake the programme again. Therefore I was wondering, in order to actually see how many people are undertaking the programme and then comparing it to how many people are 440 completing the programme, I wonder whether the hon. Lady has the statistics of how many people underwent the programme during their term in office. Does she have the statistics there – as opposed to completing, obviously?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, Mr Speaker, what I could have is details of admission but we 445 can have situations where people are admitted and leave the following day, people may be admitted on a Friday and leave on a Monday, so how far does that constitute undergoing a programme? There are some people who are admitted for a few days and they may then undergo the programme in the community, people do 50/50.

One of the things that I introduced in fact in December 2011 was the support in completing 450 the 12 steps programme in the community, for people who found it difficult to be in Bruce's Farm for the three months for which the 12-step programme requires. So a very narrow interpretation of these statistics does not actually give an accurate overview of the situation, Mr Speaker.

It is something that is very, very difficult to monitor. We try as much as we can but it is what 455 it is, Mr Speaker. But at least what I am much more comfortable with now and much happier, is that admissions are up and we have never had a situation where we have not had anybody in Bruce's Farm. Thankfully when I review my statistics, I have never in the last few years had statistics which tell me that bed occupancy is zero.

460 Hon. D A Feetham: But can she tell us how many people have been admitted into Bruce's Farm from 1st January 2012 all the way to February 2016, on a yearly basis?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, that question was not put to me but of course the hon. Gentleman is free to ask that in the next parliamentary session.

465

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for that explanation. I think that will go some way, it is actually pleasing to see that the work is being done in the community to also reinforce the 12 step programme and a number have experienced outside of the work that we do here in relation to that. It is useful to see people in the community undergoing that 470 programme within the community outside the structure of Bruce's Farm. It is important work and I congratulate the Minister in respect of that work that she is doing.

One of the supplementary questions I would like to know is that I know the Chief Minister said yesterday that there had been significant increases in relation to the admissions and the Minister has alluded to that point again. Is there a reason, has the Government looked into the 475 reasons for increased admissions for people with addiction problems, alcohol and drugs?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, and in fact what we did was, the starting point in 2011 was looking at why people were not going to Bruce's Farm in the first place. There were several very significant stumbling blocks in relation to admission, in relation to the management and administration of the place once people were there, and there were all sorts of problems in 480 relation to admissions. People had to jump through hoops and all sorts of hurdles to get there.

So we have facilitated that. We have changed the protocol to facilitate admission but more importantly, to make the stay of the service user much more comfortable.

485 We wanted to do two things. Of course I inherited a problem where there was nobody there so clearly if there was nobody there, nobody can undergo rehab. I wanted to make sure that we had an increase in admission, Mr Speaker. I know that the Leader of the Opposition does not like it when I remind him of this, but it is a fact, Mr Speaker. So when I see something and I see that there is a problem, clearly if there is a drug rehabilitation centre that does not have a high occupancy level, it means that somewhere there must be a problem, so I need to look back and 490 see what the problem is.

One of the problems was that people found it difficult to be admitted because of the cumbersome procedure which we streamlined. People were not happy when they were there because of certain policies and procedures, which we looked at and we facilitated to encourage people to be there. And of course, very importantly, the makeup of the place and the structure 495 of the place had been left to fall into disrepair. I know that there are people who were very passionate about setting up Bruce's Farm initially in 1999 when it was a charity, but unfortunately those people were not those responsible for it towards the latter part of the GSD and while I do not blame them as individuals for it falling into disrepair, the reality is that it was not a comfortable place to go to, Mr Speaker.

500 So we did look into that and people have now been, I think, happier to be admitted to Bruce's Farm. I have to reiterate one of the points that when people are admitted to Bruce's Farm, they are guaranteed complete anonymity and that is a very important factor in relation to admission, Mr Speaker.

505 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q162/2016
Same-sex marriage –
Religious beliefs

Clerk: Question 162, the Hon. E J Phillips.

510 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the Minister for Equality has confirmed that in the context of the proposed amendments to the Marriage Act to make provision for same-sex marriage, religious denominations will not be forced to change their practices, beliefs or sacraments in any way. How does the Government intend to deal with a Registrar of Marriages refusing to marry a same-sex couple on the grounds of religious belief?

515 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the Government is presently considering the responses received to the Command Paper on Equal Marriage. It would be inappropriate to deal with issues such as that raised in the 520 question before the Government has announced the conclusion it has reached after a full assessment of that consultation.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q165/2016
Government rental homes –
No means testing for allocation

525

Clerk: Question numbers 163 and 164 have already been called out.
So we move to Question 165, the Hon. E J Phillips.

530

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Housing confirm that the Government has ruled out the introduction of means testing for the allocation of Government rental accommodation?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality, Social Services.

535

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Yes, Mr Speaker.

Q166-167/2016
Government rental homes –
Vacancies

Clerk: Question 166 the Hon. E J Reyes.

540

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, further to the answer to Question 42/2016, has Government made any further decision in respect of the possible sale/tender of the 77 homes identified for this purpose?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

545

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 167.

Clerk: Question 167, the Hon. E J Reyes.

550

Hon. E J Reyes: Further to the answer given to Question 42/2016, can Government say what it intends to do with the 66 homes classified as 'beyond economical repair?'

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

555

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the tender process of a number of these homes has already been completed and these have been removed from the housing stock. The remainder continue to be considered. The tenders will be issued in the usual way.

560

These properties are being reviewed by the Government's Land Management Committee, the aim of which is to maximise the properties or the space in the area in which they are.

Q168/2016
Government rental homes –
Discrepancy in information given

Clerk: Question 168, the Hon. E J Reyes.

565

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, further to Question 43/2016 can the Minister for Housing confirm if she has had an opportunity to check upon the discrepancy of information provided last month via Table H22 on the Government's website, when compared to her oral answer to the original question?

570

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, further to Question 43, I can confirm that I checked and the discrepancy arose as a result of an inputting mistake and human error.

575

Q170/2016
Government rental homes –
Eviction of squatters

Clerk: Question 169 has already been called out.
We move to Question 170, the Hon. E J Reyes.

580

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Housing provide detailed information in respect of any legal costs incurred relating to the eviction of squatters from rental homes since the answer given to Question 48/2016, together with any possible information as to how these squatters may have come about to unlawfully occupy a home?

585

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, none.

590

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q171-172/2016
Government rental homes –
Urgent decanting of tenants

Clerk: Question 171, the Hon. E J Reyes.

595

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide details of how many tenants required urgent decanting from their homes since the answer given to Question 49/2016, indicating the reason why and the date when said decanting became necessary?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

600 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 172.

Clerk: Question 172, the Hon. E J Reyes.

605 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide details of how many tenants who required urgent decanting have still not been able to return to their homes, as well as provide estimated dates by when they should be able to do so?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

610 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, since the answer given to Question 49/2016 three tenants have required to be decanted: one in January and two in February, due to a fire and a police investigation.

All three tenants returned to their flats in February.

615 Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, Mr Speaker, I know those three tenants have returned. What I am implying as well in Question 172, have any tenants, who, either of the three who have required decanting since Question 49 or prior to that ... are there still any who have not been able to return to their homes? Therefore the latter part of my question was, would the Minister happen 620 to have estimated dates when they should be able to return to those homes?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, my understanding from the answer provided is that they have all returned.

625 Hon E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, would the Minister happen to know how about is the decision taken, who takes a decision based upon what, that classifies someone, a tenant, as to saying right, urgent decanting is required from this residence?

630 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Well, Mr Speaker, obviously it depends on the circumstances. In these cases it is I think quite clear, because I have given the reason for the decanting in that it was a fire. So if someone is decanted as a result of a fire, I think it is quite urgent that they need to be decanted from their property. So obviously it depends on the circumstances.

635 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, I do not want to waste the House's time, may I ask the Minister would she indulge me just a few minutes of her time later during an appropriate break, behind the Speaker's Chair? Because there seems to be a bit of misunderstanding by certain tenants who claim that they have certificates, for example issued by the Electricity Authority, whereby they have cut off the electricity supply to the homes and classified it as being urgently not suitable and so on. There could be a misunderstanding and I think it is better and we will achieve 640 a lot more if the Minister agrees and we meet later just for a few minutes to allow her to chase up the matter. Is that possible?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, of course, Mr Speaker, and indeed it would be possible at any time before Parliament, if that means that it does not necessarily have to result in a 645 parliamentary question. I am always at the hon. Gentleman's disposal.

Q173/2016

Government rental homes –
Expenditure to make empty homes habitable

Clerk: Question 173, the Hon. E J Reyes.

650 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Housing provide details in respect of all expenditure incurred since the answer given to Question 50/2016, in respect of contracts awarded for making empty homes suitable for re-allocation, stating to whom payments were made, how much has been paid in respect of works for each individual home, as well as indicating the type/nature of repair work undertaken?

655

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Equality, Social Services and Housing.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, none.

Q174/2016

Government rental homes –
Waiting lists

660

Clerk: Question 174, the Hon. E J Reyes.

665 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide details pertaining to the house size requirements in respect of the 413 applicants who joined any category of housing waiting lists prior to the 8th December 2011 and who are still waiting for allocation or assignment of a rental home?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

670 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there are 231 applicants on the 1RKB waiting list. The remainder are either applicants who are adequately housed in pre-war accommodation or who have received notification of allocation.

675 Hon. E J Reyes: Sorry, Mr Speaker, the Minister may need to clarify something for me. Looking at the answer to Question 45 in the list that she kindly provided with a breakdown per year, up to 2011 I reach a figure of 413. From the answer I think that figure has changed substantially. Perhaps the Minister can enlighten me?

680 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, because when we were asked this question I noticed that there was an error in the previous question, in that there were some people who had already been given allocations but the information had not been extracted from that particular table. So I have double checked this answer and this is the correct answer.

685 Hon. E J Reyes: Okay, Mr Speaker, so then am I right in assuming that there is an error in the figures provided via Question 45? Would the Minister at some stage be able to provide me with a revised answer to Question 45, otherwise this one, Mr Speaker, remains on the record and the Minister has just said that it needs to be updated?

We can come to a mutual understanding when she can provide that information.

690 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, of course and we only noticed this a couple of days ago in preparation to this and we also noticed other mistakes. The hon. Member and I have already discussed it and I am grateful for his assistance in this.

Q175/2016
Government rental homes –
Housing Pre-List

Clerk: Question 175, the Hon. E J Reyes.

695

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide updated details in respect of by when Government intends to do away with the Housing Pre-List as per their 2011 manifesto commitment?

700

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, our performance in respect of our magnificent 2011 New Dawn manifesto was judged by seven out of ten voters at the recent General Election to have been exemplary.

705

We have now embarked on an equally exemplary record of performance in respect of our 2015 Strongest Foundations General Election manifesto and our housing commitments are contained therein.

Q176/2016
Government rental homes –
Vandalism of lifts

Clerk: Question 176, the Hon. E J Reyes.

710

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, further to the information provided at Table H28 on the Government's website in respect of lifts servicing Government rental homes, can the Minister for Housing provide details, if any, of the 26 faults reported have been attributed to vandalism?

715

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, four faults can be attributed to the wrongful use of the lift or vandalism.

720

Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

The Minister may recall in the past I had this habit of submitting written questions and she would give me a schedule, and there was a column that had 'breakdown fault'. Looking at the table now available on the website, it has made it superfluous now for me to have to ask that written question because most of the information required is there.

725

However, Mr Speaker, in her written answers where it said 'breakdown fault', it actually gave a bit of a description – for example, 'cabin doors forced' – and then one could deduce that had to be by logic vandalism attributed and so on. Although she has given me the answer saying it is four, I am lacking that sort of information where just to pick up on the trend, whether it is because the doors have been forced open or what it is.

730 If the Minister does not have it now, could she at least undertake it, if they hope to continue providing updated information via the website, that a column similar to how she used to do it in the written schedule be included and then it avoids my having to pose a question either in written or in oral format? There may be the odd occasion where I need clarification, but certainly it would help to expedite the proceedings of this House.

735

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes Mr Speaker, I will certainly consider that, but I am in a position to give the hon. Gentleman the information that he is asking now and he will be as horrified to learn as I am that the first two faults are occasioned because of a plastic bag wedged into the cabin door.

740

The other one is because the doors were manually forced open.
And on the fourth occasion, again the cabin doors were forced open and the door mechanism was damaged.

Q177/2016
Anti-social behaviour –
Curtailling in housing estates

Clerk: Question 177, the Hon. E J Reyes.

745

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide details of what effective actions it is implementing in order to curtail the unfortunately increasing anti-social behaviour being experienced in housing estates?

750

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the Housing Department has policies in place to deal with anti-social behaviour and where relevant and if necessary will refer matters to the Royal Gibraltar Police.

755

Hon. E J Reyes: And would the Minister happen to have, sort of any information that helps not only myself but helps tenants and so on, especially the law abiding citizens, to have a bit more realistic expectations of what the actual effective actions are contained in those policies they should be carrying out?

760

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Well, the action is on a case-by-case basis because anti-social behaviour, Mr Speaker, is a very wide range of incidents that could occur.

765

But on the whole, when someone complains of anti-social behaviour, once it is reported they will be met by officials in the Housing Department and the appropriate action will be taken, of course depending on the situation because anti-social behaviour can range from someone inconveniencing a neighbour by having a mop on the door step to then other kinds of potentially criminal behaviour by other people, in which case, we will of course report it to the police.

But in every situation when it is reported, the Department will meet with the tenants to try and find a solution within the range of policies available.

770

Hon. E J Reyes: And can the Minister then confirm from there, if after those initial steps and meeting with the tenant and so on, it is not producing much of the desired result, who ultimately then would take a decision and whose responsibility is it to refer the matter to law enforcing agencies such as the Royal Gibraltar Police and so on?

775

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Well again, it depends on the situation but it would be both or either or. It depends on the situation.

780 Of course the Government Department as the landlord will, in certain circumstances, have a duty to refer, unless of course the tenant may have very strong or compelling reasons why they do not want us to refer, but again it is very much an individual case-by-case basis where we want to, as a landlord, make sure that we exercise our responsibilities to that tenant in particular and to other tenants of course, to whom we have a responsibility.

785 Hon. E J Reyes: And would the accommodation be – I am being asked by some tenants who seem to be a bit stuck with what they should do. They have at times approached the RGP who take it upon themselves to perhaps look at some matters and in others, because at that particular moment in time they have been caught up with other duties, have referred the tenant to the landlord.

790 Would the Minister perhaps look at some sort of possibility of establishing some sort of rapport or agreement with the RGP? I know they have got a Community Constable's area and so on, I am looking towards making life reporting cases of unsocial behaviour as easy as possible and as anonymous as possible, because as the Minister is well aware, sometimes one has a rather unruly neighbour next door and some people actually fear for their own physical well-being.

795 I do not know if the Minister can just at least commit herself that she is willing to look into this and if need be we can even work together because she can certainly count on my wholehearted support on this matter.

800 Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, as far as I am aware, these mechanisms already exist, so they should already be happening. But if there are individual cases where the hon. Gentleman is aware that this may not be happening, then I am happy to hear from him and we can discuss this between us and we can find a way where we can assist.

805 But certainly, I am aware that there is a mechanism where the Housing Department meets with the Police, in fact on a regular basis, at least monthly I think, where these matters are discussed. But I will look into it to see if there is any particular case that may have fallen through the net.

Hon. E J Reyes: I am most grateful, Mr Speaker.

810 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, if I may, can I just ask, the small police offices that were established in the estates: are they routinely manned over a 24 hour period? How do they operate? In other words is there a continuous police presence or are they only occasionally manned?

815 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, that is not a matter that is the responsibility of the Housing Department, but of the Royal Gibraltar Police and I am afraid I cannot answer that.

Q178/2016
Gibraltar Literary Festival 2015 –
Net total cost

Clerk: Question 178, the Hon. E J Reyes.

820 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, further to the answer given to Question 37/2016, can Government provide updated details with a breakdown of all income generated, expenses incurred and thus net total cost of the 2015 Gibraltar Literary Festival?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

825

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the breakdown of payments to date is as follows: income generated, £267,381 – that remains the same as last time; expenses incurred, £375,480; and the net cost therefore is £108,099.

Q179-182/2016
Rental housing estates –
Refurbishments

830

Clerk: Question 179, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, further to the answer given to Question 38/2016 can the Minister for Housing name which blocks of flats within Laguna Estate are included within the completion dates given for each phase of the ongoing refurbishments?

835

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 180, 181 and 182.

840

Clerk: Question 180, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide updated estimated completion dates in respect of the different phases pertaining to the installation of lifts within the rental housing estates currently being refurbished, indicating which block of flats pertain to which phase for this purpose?

845

Clerk: Question 181, the Hon. E J Reyes.

850

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Housing provide details of completion dates in respect of any new lifts already installed during the current Financial Year within any housing estates, together with details of any breakdowns these newly installed lifts may have already experienced?

855

Clerk: Question 182, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please explain what is the current position in respect of the installation of lifts at Laguna and Moorish Castle Estates?

860

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, in answer to Question 179, I now hand the hon. Member a schedule with the names of the blocks in each phase.

865

Mr Speaker, I am not sure whether the hon. Member heard my response, my microphone was not picking up. But in answer to Question 180, the estimated completion dates remained as were answered in Question 38/2016.

870 In the case of Laguna Estate which has three phases, the blocks in each phase can be found in the schedule in answer to Question 179, which is the one that I just handed the hon. Gentleman.

No new lifts have been installed in this financial year other than those installed under the refurbishment programme which have yet to be commissioned.

875 And in answer to Question 182, the installation of lifts go hand in hand with the unprecedented and excellent external refurbishment programme which the Government has completed and are progressing according to its magnificent project completion dates for each individual stage in Laguna and Moorish Castle Estates.

Answer to Question 182/2016

Answer to Question 179/2016

LAGUNA NAME OF BLOCKS UNDER EACH PHASE

Phase 1 – September 2016
Rodney House
Smith Dorrien House
Mallard House
Forbes House
Landport House
Orillion House
Bayside House
Maidstone House
Blackwatch House
Causeway House
Nelson House

Phase 2 – February 2017
Laguna House
Inundation House
Somerset House
Liddell House
Kensington House
Jamaica House
Ballymena House
Madeira House
Boyd House
Elliott House
Sortie House

Phase 3 – April 2017
Sheffield House
Faulknor House
Hood House
Ark Royal House
Resolution House
Forrester House
Renown House
Fearless House
Somerville House
Firedrake House
Devon House
King House

880 Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, Mr Speaker, the Minister has said in this current financial year those that may have already been installed have not been yet commissioned. Am I right then in deducting from them that the estimated commissioning dates are those pertaining to the schedule here or are there any other different dates that are not contained here, perhaps pertaining to other blocks or lifts?

885 Because these here, for example, do not include anything under Moorish Castle and I believe there are some lifts as well assigned to Moorish Castle Estate?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, he is correct in that the lifts are installed but not commissioned. They will be commissioned by the date of completion and in Laguna Estate, the completion will take place in three phases and I am outlining in the schedule the blocks that relate to each phase.

890 But in relation to Moorish Castle, Mr Speaker, I already indicated the completion date in the answer last month and as I have just answered now, that completion date will not change. That is why I do not include all the lists because there is only one phase for completion in Moorish Castle.

TRANSPORT, TRAFFIC AND TECHNICAL SERVICES

Q184-185/2016

Parking for people with disabilities – Details of permits granted

895 Clerk: Question 183 has already been called.
We now move to Question 184, the questioner is the Hon. L F Llamas.

900 Hon. L F Llamas: How many people have been granted disabled parking permits since December 2011, providing details of sex, age and condition/conditions?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

905 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 185.

Clerk: Question 185, the Hon. L F Llamas.

910 Hon. L F Llamas: What is the process to consider disability parking permit applications, detailing who is involved during the process?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

915 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the Department has issued 605 permits since 2011. There are currently 496 active badges.

After consulting with the Data Protection Division of the Gibraltar Regulatory Authority, we are not able to release this sensitive personal information, as some individuals would be easily identifiable from the breakdown requested. Releasing this information would be contravening the Data Protection Act.

920 Mr Speaker, applications for disabled persons' badges are received at the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Department as the issuing authority for these parking permits. The prescribed application form is comprised of two parts, the second of which is required to be completed by the applicant's doctor.

925 As applications are received by the issuing department, these are referred to the Medical Advisory Panel which comprises a doctor, the GHA's head occupational therapist and senior members of the Department.

In this regard the panel carefully assesses all applications and may advise for approval or reject applications after considering the applicant's disability in accordance with the provisions of the Traffic (Parking and Waiting) Regulations 2011.

930 Hon. L F Llamas: Thank you very much for that answer. Just going back to the panel that assesses these applications and makes recommendations as to whether Government accepts the application or rejects it, is there any involvement from any civil servant or Minister who may reject a recommendation from the panel?

935 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, no, this is done independently so if I enquire I can find out. For example, this process is actually, the question that the hon. Member has asked has, maybe for the first time, looked at exactly what the medical conditions are for example, which I was not aware of. But it is totally down to the recommendation of the Medical Advisory Panel and it is on their recommendation that the permit is either granted or denied.

Q186-188/2016

Vessels departing British Gibraltar Territorial Waters – Pilotage

940 Clerk: Question 186, the Hon. L F Llamas.

945 Hon. L F Llamas: In relation to the tanker boarded and escorted out of BGTW by the Algeciras pilot vessel last 3rd February 2016, and any other vessel which has arrived in BGTW and left to Spain shortly after arrival, can Government explain what was the initial purpose of their visit?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

950 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 187 and 188.

Clerk: Question 187, the Hon. L F Llamas.

955 Hon. L F Llamas: Have any fees been left outstanding to the Gibraltar Government or the Gibraltar Port Authority in relation to the tanker boarded and escorted out of BGTW by the Algeciras pilot vessel last 3rd February 2016 or any other vessel which has done the same since December 2011?

960 Clerk: Question 188, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: In relation to the tanker boarded and escorted out of BGTW by the Algeciras pilot vessel last 3rd February 2016, why did the Gibraltar Port Authority not physically attend to the situation?

965 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the Gibraltar Port Authority launch did not attend to the situation as it was not available at the time. In any case, there would be no purpose for the launch to attend in these circumstances.

970 Furthermore, there is no requirement for pilotage for vessels departing British Gibraltar Territorial Waters from the Western Anchorage. The Gibraltar Port Authority cleared the vessel in question by VHF radio, to weigh anchor and proceed out of British Gibraltar Territorial Waters as is customary for these types of movements. By the time it was known that the Algeciras pilot had embarked on board the vessel, it was already underway and heading towards Spanish waters.

975 The vessel in question was in BGTW to carry out a ship-to ship-transfer operation in the Bay. It is not uncommon for vessels to anchor in BGTW for bunkers or other services – crew changes, stores, surveys etc. – before shifting into Spanish waters to conduct other business.

980 The agent for the tanker, SKS Mosel, have been invoiced for an amount of £2,275. The invoice was issued on 4th February 2016. No other arrears are outstanding since 2011 in respect of vessels which have called at Gibraltar and then continued their voyage to their port of call in the same circumstances.

Hon. L F Llamas: May I just ask about what the Hon. Minister has just said: the launch was unavailable, albeit perhaps it would have been non-efficient for it to attend the situation in any event. But may I ask if the Hon. Minister does know why the launch was unavailable?

985

Hon. P J Balban: Yes, Mr Speaker, the launch was out of service on that day in question because it was undergoing refit and repairs.

990 Hon. L F Llamas: Just a quick supplementary – is it fit for purpose now?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, General Elliot is now ready. It is undergoing its final trials and once that is completed, then it will be operational.

995 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, if I may, can I just confirm then that the vessel is under trial at the moment so the port does not have a vessel available to it, or it does have an alternate vessel available? That is just purely out of my own ignorance on this occasion.

1000 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the two vessels which are currently available for use in the port, one has just undergone extensive refit after many years of it not being up to standard and the other vessel is undergoing repairs.

1005 Hon. T N Hammond: So my understanding is that there are two vessels available but neither was available on this occasion. In such circumstances, obviously it must be undesirable for the port not to have any launch available to it. Is there any kind of provision for another agency to provide them with a launch in these circumstances or perhaps to cover the role that would otherwise be carried out by that vessel?

1010 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, yes, when it is necessary we can outsource the service. At the present time, as you rightly say, it is not ideal not to have the two boats available, but that is one of those things and as I have just mentioned, should there be a need for it, then the service is and will be outsourced.

1015 Hon. T N Hammond: May I ask, if the service is outsourced, to whom is it normally outsourced? Which agency would normally take that responsibility?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, what happens normally is the service is outsourced to whoever is available at that moment in time out of all the operators. So if there is a vessel available then they will actually outsource the crew from different agents available to us within the port.

1020 But they take port staff on board; it is not the agents.

Hon. T N Hammond: So the vessel that would be used would actually belong to a private entity, it would not be a police vessel or other such?

1025 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, that is correct. The vessel would be a private vessel which is outsourced and will carry on board port crew.

Hon. L F Llamas: Just for my own clarification, does the Minister know, the invoice that has been raised of £2,275 in relation to what services it has been raised, why the need for the invoice?

1030

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I am not entirely sure but I am being informed it must be the anchorage fees. I mean if you want the exact reason for it obviously I can find the information for you, but they are comprised of anchorage fees ...

Q189/2016
Small Boats Marina –
Applications for berths

1035

Clerk: Question 189, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can Government say how many applicants have applied for berths in the Small Boats Marina and the estimated date by which they will be able to have full use of these facilities?

1040

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, as at 19th February 2016, the number of applicants who have applied for berths in the Small Boats Marina is 1,131. The marina has not been handed over by the contractors yet. However, the Gibraltar Port Authority has already started the allocation process.

1045

Hon. E J Reyes: I appreciate that the contractor has not handed over yet, but does the Minister happen to have an indicative rough date by which time they will be able to have the use of the facilities?

1050

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I will answer that because I gave a date last month on when the marina was going to be handed over. The date I gave last month was 14th February, because that was the date that was given to us by the contractor at the time, in January.

1055

There has been a little bit of slippage and there is a few weeks' delay. There is still some extra work to be done and we expect the marina to be handed over towards the end of March.

Hon. E J Reyes: I do not want to be pedantic, I accept that delays happen. If the developer or contractor hands over towards the end of March, how long thereafter should one assume that those who are successful in obtaining a berth would be able to start using the facilities? Would it be imminent or would it be rather long term?

1060

1065 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, we are hopeful that very, very soon indeed, maybe not necessarily to coincide with the exact date, but as soon as possible thereafter.

As my hon. colleague has mentioned the allocation process has started but clearly there will be administrative matters to be put in place in terms of the management of the new marina and assuming that all that is in place, then those who have been allocated berths can start using the marina as soon as it is handed over to Government by the contractor.

1070

Q190/2016
Small Boats Marina –
Advisory Board appointments

Clerk: Question 190, the Hon. E J Reyes.

1075 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker sir, can Government say whom it has appointed as members of the Advisory Board in respect of the Small Boats Marina and for what period of time have these appointments been made?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

1080 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the Small Vessels (Mooring Control) Rules 2016 which provide the criteria for the occasional berths as the Mid-Harbours Small Boats Marina also establishes the Small Vessels Advisory Board which will report to the Minister for the Port and advise the Captain of the Port on matters concerning mooring facilities for small vessels.

1085 The Board will also be able to hear complaints from holders of or applicants for permits. Appointments to the Board will be for a period of three years.
No appointments have yet been made.

1090 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, given that we now have a revised handover date towards the end of March, and I am wishing the Government all the best in being able to have the boat users using this as soon as possible, hopefully in the month of April, since no appointments have been made, can the Minister say by when he intends to have the appointments to the Board in place?

1095 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, can I deal with the premise of the question first and then perhaps the Minister can answer the specific matter on the appointment, because the premise of the question is in relation to the Advisory Board in respect of the Small Boats Marina. That premise is in fact incorrect.

1100 This is not an Advisory Board in respect of the Small Boats Marina. It is an Advisory Board that is established by the Rules generally, in order to advise the Minister and to advise the Captain of the Port in relation to small vessels and moorings across the board and in relation to hearing of complaints and other matters.

1105 So the establishment of the Board is totally independent, separate, unconnected in a way, with the finishing off, the completion of the Small Boats Marina and the functioning of the Small Boats Marina. It is an Advisory Board on small vessels and moorings generally across various matters and not specifically related to the Small Boats Marina. This is not a Board that will have any management or control in respect of the Small Boats Marina and therefore the composition of the Board totally is unaffected by the completion date and the running of the Small Boats Marina, the new marina itself.

1110

Hon. E J Reyes: Well that is extremely useful, Mr Speaker, I am grateful.

Am I right then in deducing that the members of the Board would have the ambit or the scope of responsibilities in the matters of advisory which go well beyond just the area contained on that premise?

1115

If that is the case I am eternally grateful for that, it does clarify the picture for the future.

Hon. G H Licudi: Yes, Mr Speaker, that is indeed correct and that is why I wanted to stress that the premise of the question which was related to the Small Boats Marina might create a wrong impression, because this is an Advisory Board to advise generally in relation to small boats and they have specific functions set out in the Rules to advise on moorings in designated areas.

1120

One of the designated areas is the new Small Boats Marina but that is not the only designated area there is in respect of moorings and they have functions in relation to appeals etc. which go well beyond the Small Boats Marina.

1125

But certainly in relation to the marina itself, they have no function other than generally advising the Minister and the Captain of the Port.

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, Mr Speaker and when the Hon. Minister Licudi answered, he gave me the impression that Minister Balban was going to come in later. Having now had the clearer picture and so on of the responsibilities of the Board, I still have pending, by when is there an estimated date by when this Board is going to be appointed?

1130

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, as soon as reasonably possible because consideration has actually been given as to the composition of the Board and we are still at the very early stages of calling people in. So only a relatively small number of potential berth holders have been called in, so it is still a little bit early for that.

1135

Hon. E J Reyes: But this has nothing at all to do with, Mr Speaker ... My understanding of Minister Licudi's explanation has nothing to do with just the berth holders here. It is a wider remit.

1140

Please enlighten me, I am not a lawyer and I am starting to be totally lost. (Interjection and laughter)

Hon. G H Licudi: I am glad the hon. Member has given way. Just to clarify and to avoid any confusion.

1145

One thing is the process of allocation of berths in relation to the Small Boats Marina and the composition or the establishment of a committee to run the marina. That committee, in the first instance, will be selected as an interim committee by the Captain of the Port who is doing this exercise, and then once the berth holders and the stakeholders of the marina are there, they will select or elect their own committee.

1150

That is a separate process from the establishment of and the composition of the Advisory Board which as I indicated, has a wider competence than just related to the Small Boats Marina.

And just to confirm the position as stated by my hon. Friend, the composition of the Board itself is currently under consideration in terms of who should be appointed to the Board. But clearly, as soon as possible, but it does not detract from the allocation of berths and the opening of the Small Boats Marina. Although related in some way under the Rules, one thing does not depend on the other.

1155

1160 Hon. E J Reyes: And one does not depend on the other, so therefore the users of the Small Boats Marina can have the committee and so on, totally independent and not being delayed or whatever.

1165 Would the Minister, it is not notice here but I know the Speaker is very generous in these matters, this sort of establishing of the committee of the Small Boats Marina, can the Minister indicate to us by when he would like to see this happening?

Hon. G H Licudi: That is the process controlled by the Captain of the Port and that in fact depends on the allocation of the berths. Once the process is a little bit more advanced in terms of who the berth holders will be, then the Captain of the Port will appoint the interim committee.

1170 But clearly it is advisable to have that done as soon as possible so that the interim committee is in place to take over the management of the marina once it is handed over by the contractor to the Government, and by the Government in turn, to the Association that is established by the Small Vessels (Mooring Controls) Rules 2016.

1175 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I ask another supplementary arising out of answers that have been provided?

The Hon. the Minister for Justice mentioned the committee in order to deal with issues arising out of the Small Boats Marina and what he said was, the interim committee is going to be set up by the Captain of the Port and then afterwards, the boat owners who have berths there will then be selecting their own committee.

1180 Can he confirm that that is going to be done exclusively by the boat owners and that there is going to be no administrative effectively 'interference, in inverted commas – I use that word without any political connotations – from the Captain of the Port or anybody else, and it is just going to be exclusively those members selecting that committee?

1185 Hon. G H Licudi: That is indeed the case and that is the only way that it can be done. Those that are allocated berths in the new marina will be the stakeholders and it will be in their interest to manage the marina in the best way possible, subject to the rules and subject to the raising of revenue as set out in terms of fees, as set out in the rules. But the only people that can be and will be capable of selecting a committee to run the Small Boats Marina will be the berth holders themselves.

1190 Clearly we have to have a transitional provision in terms of establishment of the new marina, the allocation of berths, creating an interim management structure through the establishment of that committee and we have decided to set out the rules as a matter of legislation so that it is clear to everyone what the criteria is for the allocation, what the process is and it is the Captain of the Port that has the power to choose the interim committee. Once that interim committee is in place, they will have a constitution for the new marina.

1195 That constitution will then require or allow the calling of a meeting and once a meeting of all the members takes place, then the members themselves who will be the berth holders and therefore the stakeholders of the new marina, will be at liberty either to ratify the interim committee or select a new committee amongst their own, or in whichever way they consider it appropriate.

1200 But I can confirm that the people that will be running the marina will be the berth holders themselves.

1205 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, may I ask the hon. Member, when he says running the marina, does that mean to say they will be collecting the fees charged for the berths and deciding how that should be expended?

1210 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the rules provide what the original arrangements should be. Clearly there is no committee in place initially and therefore on allocation there is provision for an initial fee to be paid and then an annual fee to be paid on a calendar basis.

Therefore, whatever, if someone is given a berth, say on 1st April, then they would pay two thirds of the annual fee which is payable for the first year. Those fees will be paid initially to the Gibraltar Port Authority, but the Rules provide in terms of transitional provision – in fact Rule 18.2 provides that all the fees that are paid both in terms of the initial fee and the annual berthing fees, all those fees are held on trust by the Government or the Gibraltar Port Authority, for the benefit of the Association that is established for the running of the marina.

1220 Therefore all fees that are paid accrue for the benefit of the marina itself and in subsequent years, clearly the initial allocation and the initial payment will be done by the Port Authority, and the collection of the fees is done by the Port Authority, but clearly established in legislation, not Government revenue, held on trust for the benefit of the members through the Association. We have been very, very clear in establishing that.

1225 What happens subsequently? Well, subsequently by 1st January 2017, there will be presumably a new committee which has been elected and they will be charged with collecting fees and the fees again will accrue for the benefit of the running of the marina and the Rules actually provide that the fee structure has to contain three elements.

1230 Firstly it has to provide for the replacement in due course, because a guarantee is given of the gangways and pontoons for a period of 25 years and therefore there has to be a sinking fund, a reserve fund built up over that period so that we do not get to 25 years' time, there is a need to replace pontoons or replace gangways and there is no money available. So therefore there is a requirement for the fees to include a provision for the reserve sinking fund for the replacement of the pontoons. I believe it is in the year 2041 in 25 years' time.

1235 There is then provision to be made for an annual maintenance programme for the marina in order to make sure that it is maintained properly.

And the third limb is the normal operational costs, for example if there are security guards or cleaning, the normal operational costs, any office staff that there might be.

1240 So those are the three limbs that the Rules require that the committee take into account in establishing the fees. And because the Government has made a very significant investment and has an interest in making sure that it is kept properly, maintained properly and operated in a manner whereby sufficient funds are created to avoid, in 25 years' time not having the money, there is also a requirement in the Rules that although it is for the Association to set the fees and collect the fees, the budget needs to be approved by the Captain of the Port, just to have oversight and approval of that budget.

1245 Not for the purpose of interference with the management, but to make sure that the provisions which are set out in the Rules as to the requirement of what the fees are for, that those are properly kept to by the Association and approved by the Captain of the Port.

So I hope the hon. Member will accept that this is a well-thought-out structure, well-intentioned and it augurs well for the future of the marina and berth holders.

1250 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman must have done some calculations when he introduced the fee structure as to how much revenue is going to be raised under the various categories. I have done the calculation myself and if we are simply talking about, and of course it is very difficult, but an average boat size across the board, it is going to average out at about £1,000. All the fees, £1,000 per berth a year – that is my calculation, which is about £700,000 a year. Is that near the calculation that the hon. Gentleman has come up with?

1260 And what I have done is, I have looked at the ... There is one clause in particular in the Rules that the charging out of the berth depends on the size of the boat, so I have averaged the size of the boat, in order to basically come to this particular figure.

Hon. G H Licudi: No, Mr Speaker. I do not want to be controversial but maths does not appear to be the hon. Member's forte. (Laughter) That is not going to be, as I understand it, the average annual fee.

1265 There is an initial fee payable of £365. That is the initial fee that everybody pays regardless of the size of the boat. Multiplying £365 by 700 berths gets to around a £¼ million. The primary purpose of that initial fee is to start building that reserve fund that I mentioned.

So there is £250,000 – off the top of my head, I think it is £255,000 that is collected through that initial fee.

1270 Then there is an annual fee, which has a minimum threshold of £365 – as we set out, £1 a day for the annual fee for each berth as a minimum. But it depends on the size of the boat and there is a formula which is £27 x the length x the breadth or the beam of the boat.

I am not sure what the average will be, but if the average was something like £500 per boat then we are talking of maybe another £300,000 per year – £300,000 or £350,000 or a little bit more per year.

1275 The initial amount, the initial £250,000 or £255,000, that is a one-off. That is only available on the initial allocation in the first year. Clearly, if there are subsequent allocations, an initial fee will also be paid but these will be sporadic and one-offs. But the bulk will come in on the first year.

1280 But certainly the amount that will be available on a yearly basis will depend on the factors that I set out before, because these are the fees that are set out in the rules in respect of the initial allocation and the first year's annual fee. The formula that is set out is the first year's annual fee.

1285 As from January 2017, it will be for the Association to set the fee for 2017. Therefore the figure that will be payable which will no longer include the initial fee of £365, the fee that will be payable as from January 2017 will be calculated by the Association, having regard to the three factors that I mentioned – the sinking fund, the operational expenses and the annual maintenance programme.

1290 So they will have to do a budget of what that will cost and then set fees for that year in accordance with that budget. So all we can say is have an estimate of what will be collected in the first year. The second year will depend on the budget that it set out, having regard to those three factors set out in the Rules.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, maths may not be my forte, but I was not far off, in fact. The only mistake that I have actually made is that the initial fee is just a one-off, but in fact if one takes that out of the equation, it would not have been far off.

But thank you very much.

Q191-192/2016
Gibraltar bus company –
MAN buses

Clerk: Question 191, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1300 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Transport say if any of the blue MAN buses remaining in service remain in service with the Gibraltar Bus Company?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

1305 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 192.

Clerk: Question 192, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1310 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for Transport say how each of the MAN buses owned by the Gibraltar Bus Company has been disposed of?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

1315 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, none of the MAN buses are blue and none have been disposed of.

1320 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can I confirm then that all of the buses that were previously operated on the routes, the MAN buses, are still within the service of the Gibraltar Bus Company?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, none of the MAN buses have been disposed of.

Hon. T N Hammond: The question is, are they still in service with the Gibraltar Bus Company?

1325 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the MAN buses are the buses that actually are in service. We have around 22 MAN buses which are currently operating and they are red in colour.

1330 Hon. T N Hammond: So can I just confirm then that none of the buses that were previously in service – I was under the impression that they were MAN buses, but apparently not, I am led to believe – are currently in service with the Gibraltar Bus Company?

Hon. P J Balban: That is correct, Mr Speaker.

1335 Hon. T N Hammond: I shall follow up next month with a question reference how those buses have been disposed of.

1340 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, I understand that there may have been a mistake describing them as MAN buses, but clearly the question is about the blue buses. It is the buses that we contracted for when we were in Government. I cannot off the top of my head remember whether they were MAN buses or what they were, but the blue buses.

Now in relation to the blue buses have any of those been disposed of? That is the question that is being asked and surely the Hon. the Minister must have the information there.

1345 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, yes the old buses which were purchased by the GSD were actually Dennis Dart buses and they were blue in colour. If that is what the hon. Member is searching for, then Mr Speaker, I can confirm that none of the blue Dennis Dart buses remain in service with the Gibraltar Bus Company today. These have been disposed of as follows. In fact, two buses which were transferred to EDEC, which is the Economic and Development Employment Company, for driver training so we actually operate a training programme where we train our bus drivers by using two of these old buses.

1350 Further buses were completely beyond economical repair and those form the basis of ... They were actually given to the airport's fire service for training purposes, the ones you have probably seen in the press recently which were set alight for training purposes. Fourteen of the remaining buses, some were in extremely poor condition and they were sold together to Calypso Transport for their use within their bus company.

Hon. T N Hammond: Would the Minister know if any of those buses which were transferred to Calypso Transport are in service to the public?

1360 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, yes. Of all the buses that were transferred, which were 14 in total, a few are – out of all the buses, they managed to put a few together, and they are actually there at the moment.

I cannot tell you how many there are, because I would not know.

1365 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, we have to be very careful that we are just giving the hon. Gentleman an impression. We do not know what Calypso is doing with the buses, neither are we answerable for them.

1370 Hon. D A Feetham: Is Calypso the operator who operates the service from the frontier to the city? I do not know whether the hon. Gentleman knows that, who are the operators of Calypso?

Hon. P J Balban: Calypso Transport operates the route number 5, which is from the frontier to Market place via Reclamation Road.

Q193/2016
Gibraltar bus tracker app –
Availability

1375 Clerk: Question 193, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for Transport say when the GPS bus tracker and associated App will be available for use by the public?

1380 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, Her Majesty's Government expects to be in a position to announce the launch of the Gibraltar Bus Tracker WebApp very soon.

1385 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I come back to the previous question in relation to the blue buses. The Hon. the Minister may not be able –

Mr Speaker: There is no supplementary on this one?

1390 Hon. D A Feetham: No, I do not think there is, that is why I have risen.

Mr Speaker, can the Hon. the Minister perhaps help me with this and provide me with the information of how much those blue buses have been disposed of to Calypso Tours. Does he have that information there?

1395 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, these 14 buses were sold for £15,000.

Q194-195/2016
Parking tickets –
Number of fines paid

Clerk: Question 194, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1400 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, further to Written Question 6/2016, can the Minister for Traffic advise of the 10,620 parking tickets issued to local registered vehicles last year, how many were paid?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

1405 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this together with Question 195.

Clerk: Question 195, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1410 Hon. T N Hammond: Further to Written Question 6/2016, can the Minister for Traffic advise, of the 534 parking tickets issued to foreign registered vehicles last year, how many were paid?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

1415 Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, of the 10,620 parking tickets issued to local registered vehicles last year, 7,105 have been paid to date. That is around 66.9%.

Of the 535 parking tickets issued to foreign registered vehicles last year, 473 have been paid to date, or 88.4%.

1420

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I have to say it is a surprising statistic and those charged with the collection of these, particularly in relation to foreign vehicles, ought to be commended. I would have thought, I personally, when I looked at this question, I was expecting a lower figure in relation to foreign parking tickets: 88.4% recovery is actually quite impressive for foreign vehicles.

1425

But 66.9% in relation to locals is less impressive and of course, what that means is that roughly about a third of those parking tickets that are issued have not been paid. Can the hon. Gentleman perhaps provide us with a flavour of the reasons why such a high proportion of local tickets that are issued are not paid?

1430

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, this is an issue where we need to be clear what it is that we are talking about and the statistic that the hon. Member has asked for.

The statistic as to tickets for the past year relates to a period in respect of which, in some instances, people may not yet have had a letter reminder of a ticket, let alone a summons because they have asked for the period 'last year'.

1435

So if, for example Members were to ask for the parking tickets which have not been paid for the period in 2010 for example, that relates to parking tickets where somebody would have found a ticket on their windscreen, where they have made the decision to pay or not pay, where they will have subsequently receive a letter reminding them and offering them the opportunity to pay by letter, or the opportunity to challenge and go to court on a particular issue and challenge the ticket, or ultimately just ignore the letter and be summoned. Then there might be issues as to whether the summons is being properly followed up, whether people who do not even turn up on a summons are subsequently being hauled before the court etc.

1440

But for the period last year, in many instances, for us to give the reason why people have not paid is really just a shot in the dark. Some of the locals may want to dispute the ticket. They might say, 'I was parked properly, that is unfair and I am going to write in to the Commissioner as used to be the case or I am going to challenge the matter in court when the time comes.'

1445

So I think that we need to understand that the historic issue in respect of tickets is one and in respect of the snapshot of last year alone, I think it is probably too soon to speculate about reasoning.

1450

Hon. D A Feetham: I think the Hon. the Chief Minister is quite right in relation to that and perhaps I should have rephrased my question.

In addition to that, of course I recognise that the position in relation to this may be affected by various factors, not least the fact that some may go to court, may not go to court, people are 1455 in the process perhaps of getting paid.

But let me ask this and perhaps refine it in this way. Does the Hon. Minister in the discharge of his duties detect that there is any problem with the collection of parking tickets that are due and in particular, does he detect that there might be a propensity for an increase in, for example, debt due as a consequence of these tickets; or is this not an anomalous situation when 1460 one compares it to other years if he has information or if he has done the analysis himself?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I have not compared to other years in the past. One other reason which also needs mentioning, some of these tickets are actually cancelled so although the fines are issued, people will contest them and they may be cancelled to start off with.

So I do not think when we are talking of local tickets, I can see the reasons why obviously the question asked how many tickets were issued – that does not necessarily mean that these tickets end up going all the way and paid. Some are cancelled etc. but as the Hon. the Chief Minister has also explained.

So I do not think that it is leading to vast sums being accrued. I think we can account for all the tickets along the whole process from issuing to payment.
1470

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may, first of all for the amusement of the House, I must confess that I was issued with a ticket only this week!

I would like to ask the Minister, the hon. Member, in terms of the fees that are charged, are these accrued to the Government or is it Gibraltar Car Parks Ltd or is it Gibraltar Car Parks Ltd acting as an agent for the Government?
1475

Hon. P J Balban: Yes, the actual income, Car Parks actually collects the sums of money and then they pass it on to the General Account.

Q196/2016
'No idling' signs –
Use

1480 Clerk: Question 196, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Government say how many 'no idling' signs have been placed on our roads since 1st January 2012 and where have they been placed?
1485

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services.

Minister for Transport, Traffic and Technical Services (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, 'no idling' signs have never been used on our roads either before or after January 2012.
1490

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, if I could point the Minister in the direction of the Environmental Action and Management Plan, one of its objectives in terms of air quality is to continue the efforts to obtain tangible air quality improvements with the goal of going beyond minimum compliance with Clean Air for Europe Emission Target Values. One of the actions, it clearly states to be completed by 2013, is the placement of 'no idling' signs at the frontier and other locations where idling is present.
1495

Can I therefore, from the Minister's answer, draw the conclusion that that particular recommendation in the Environmental Action Plan has been rejected by Government?

1500 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, not yet. When the hon. Gentleman asked the question of no idling, I was a bit confused whether he meant leaving a car idling or whether it was to do with people loitering around in areas.

The 'no idling' signs are not something which, in my looking at the way Europe works, and I have actually had the question asked through different ... my officers have been asking around. 1505 'No idling' is typical of the US – it is a US sign and comes from the United States. I am not aware of any 'no idling' signs being used in any other parts of Europe.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can I just make clear that the nomenclature is not mine; it is the Government's nomenclature as produced in their own report, their own Environmental 1510 Action Management Plan, in order to improve air quality in Gibraltar.

All I ask is, has the Government rejected that recommendation? They are perfectly entitled to but I think –

Mr Speaker: Let me give you some guidance. You have asked the question here and the 1515 information is purely statistical in a way. Look, there are no 'no idling' signs and there have never been any.

In your supplementaries, you are pursuing something contained in a report or in a plan. That is a related matter. In my view, there should have been a specific question about that – something to the effect, 'When does the Government propose to implement the 1520 recommendation in such and such a plan?' That should be the proper question that you should have asked in the first place, okay?

Hon. T N Hammond: I understand that, Mr Speaker. It is just the way in which the Minister answered the question was to give the impression that there is almost no such thing as a 'no 1525 idling' sign, whereas whether there is or not such a thing as a 'no idling' sign, the fact is that their own report indicates that such signs will have been placed and give a deadline for the placement of those signs. That deadline has passed by two years now and the original question was to determine, obviously, where the signs have been placed and certainly, if these signs have not been placed, it would be good to know whether that is because the Government has chosen not 1530 to pursue that particular action within their own report.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): No, Mr Speaker, the original question was obviously designed not to disclose that there is a report which refers to these 'no idling' signs. If we really want to do business in this House in the interests of the community, then the question reflects 1535 the fact that there is something in a report which the hon. Gentleman has obviously checked has not yet happened and then we can, through the question, prompt action if necessary.

Or alternatively, they can simply try to lay a trap and get an answer and then, you know, herald a scalp. We can all play that game and we can all take many scalps, Mr Speaker.

1540 Hon. D A Feetham: But Mr Speaker, surely a Minister acting in the discharge of his responsibilities must know that there is a report that they have, that has been produced during their time that refers to these 'no idling' signs and refers to a recommendation for those 'no idling' signs to be introduced.

You can accuse us of laying whatever traps you like, but at the end of the day you must 1545 understand, and you must know, what is within your own ministerial responsibility. Indeed when the Hon. Mr Hammond asked the question, it was clear that not only did the Hon. Minister not know about this report, but the Hon. Minister then went further and said well, it is not even a concept that is known within Europe.

1550 Well look, it must have been known by his own Government because it is in a report that they had commissioned! It is a report to them.

1555 Now will the Minister at the very least undertake to look at that report and then perhaps write to my hon. Friend and basically tell him what the position is in relation to this particular recommendation, in relation to 'no idling' signs, whether it is that the Government is going to accept that recommendation or whether the Government is going to reject it. It is as simple as that.

1560 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman can rest assured that I will get to the bottom of this 'no idling' issue and see exactly where it has come from. I do apologise if as a Member of Government I am meant to know exactly about this report. I am not aware of the 'no idling' issue. But I will make it a point to see exactly what the 'no idling' is.

FINANCIAL SERVICES AND GAMING

Q197-198/2016

Fuel switching –

Compliance with EU Directives

Clerk: Question 197, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1565 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Government say if all the EU Directives on fuel switching are being fully enforced in the Port?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Financial Services and Gaming.

1570 Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 198.

Clerk: Question 198, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1575 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Government say if any non-compliances with EU Directives on fuel switching have been detected within the Port since 1st January 2014?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Financial Services and Gaming.

1580 Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, the Gibraltar Maritime Administration is the competent authority for the monitoring and enforcement of EC Directive 2012/33/EU as regards the sulphur content on marine fuels.

I can confirm that this marine sulphur content Directive has been transposed into Gibraltar law within The Motor Fuel (Composition and Content) Act 2001.

1585 The Directive has full effect and being enforced by the Gibraltar Maritime Administration who have Inspectors from its Survey Division regularly inspecting and monitoring the sampling of vessels within BGTW.

Within the context of EC Directive 2012/33/EU, as regards the sulphur content of marine fuels, the Gibraltar Maritime Administration has recorded six non-conformities since the mandatory regime came into force up to 19th February 2016.

1590 All cases of non-conformity were raised with the ship operators concerned, and they were instructed to rectify the matters.

Q199/2016

Gibraltar office in Hong Kong—
Resulting inward investments

Clerk: Question 199, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1595

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, since the opening of the office in Hong Kong, can the Minister for Financial Services detail investments into Gibraltar which are directly or indirectly attributable to the work of the Government in the region?

1600

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Financial Services and Gaming.

Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, the opening of an office in Hong Kong was part of a strategy to further open avenues of commercial activity between Asia and Gibraltar and we have worked hard these past years to make this happen.

1605

This investment in time and expense both in Gibraltar and Hong Kong in promoting our jurisdiction is one that has been shared by the private sector as they have supported and continue to support our trade missions there and, indeed, have been taking advantage of our presence there to make additional visits to the region independently.

1610

Senior partners of law firms, accounting firms, insurance firms, fund administrators and others, have all enjoyed the benefit of our Hong Kong Office and the serious work of our representative there, Mr Jason Cruz.

1615

In April this year we will return to Hong Kong and Singapore with representatives of our financial services sector and, for the first time in a joint visit, our maritime sector. This trade mission will piggyback on the work that we have been undertaking these past years in developing links and building bridges for our private sector.

Although I am unable to give details of the commercial activity this has created as this is clearly confidential, I am pleased to inform the Member that reports I receive from the private sector indicate increasing commercial links with Asia with real business being done and I expect some news being made public in the near future on a number of these initiatives.

1620

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the Minister's response in relation to that. However, insofar as I understand the commercial sensitivity about arrangements between certain businesses in Gibraltar and businesses in Hong Kong and trying to bring investment into Gibraltar, but in terms of pounds, shillings and pence, money and in terms of the value of that coming into our community, does the Minister have a figure for that, apart from the obvious relationships that exist between Hong Kong businessmen and Gibraltar businessmen which I agree with in terms of creating good working relationships in the private sector?

1625

But insofar as pounds, shillings and pence, does the Minister have any idea as to what investment will be coming into Gibraltar as a result of the work in the region?

1630

Hon. A J Isola: Yes, Mr Speaker, anyone who is involved with marketing – we have had these discussions before in the previous Parliament – will understand that you cannot dissect the benefits of marketing into pounds, shillings and pence in the manner in which the hon. Member wishes me to.

1635

Mr Speaker: I hope you don't, since pounds, shillings and pence were abolished in February 1975!

1640

Hon. A J Isola: Yes, Mr Speaker. So as a consequence of that, what we rely on in everything that we do when we embark on our business plan and its formulation, the first thing that helps us enormously in measuring the success or otherwise, is the element of private sector support that we get coming with us. Because very quickly, if you suddenly find they are not coming with you to these trips, you realise that actually it is not delivering business to them.

1645 But I can tell you that the visit in April will be the largest visit we have ever done to Asia. The numbers of people coming are significant, with senior partners of firms joining us, many of whom have been there before and some new ones, which is fantastic news.

But I think you also have to look a little bit wider. If you look at, for example, what other jurisdictions have been doing in terms of representative offices, in other words, is the Gibraltar office in Hong Kong the first of its kind and the answer is absolutely not, of course it is not.

1650 I can tell the hon. Member that Jersey opened up its Hong Kong office in 2009; they have got an office in Shanghai, in Mumbai and Delhi. They have an office in Abu Dhabi since 2011 and they also have an office in Dubai.

1655 Guernsey has an office in Shanghai and their office in Hong Kong opens on 1st March of this year. The Isle of Man has got an office in Shanghai and Beijing. The BVI has BVI Asia House in Hong Kong and in fact interestingly enough with the BVI, they have actually got a representative in BVI Asia House of their Financial Services Commission to engage directly with people in the jurisdiction and the surrounding areas on financial services matters.

1660 So when you look at the thinking as to why we did the Hong Kong office, and you look at what everyone else is doing and more and more of them are doing it, and when you then track the response of the private sector, which for me is critical, you begin to come to the very solid conclusion that it is working extremely well, even though we have only had it for barely less than two years.

1665 So I believe we have a long way to go in getting the maximum out of it, but if I can give you just one number, of the 900 licensed firms in Hong Kong, investment managers – 900 licensed – the Gibraltar delegations that have come through our office have met 300 of them. It is a phenomenal number and of course you go back to the premise that if you are not there and you do not go, you would not meet any of them, zero.

1670 So that is why the private sector is going, that is why the private sector is picking up business and I believe that once we begin to establish a real, bigger presence in Hong Kong, not in terms of the office but in terms of the business flow that we get coming, I think that will multiply in the long term to a significant business from Asia.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am certainly grateful for the comprehensive answer in relation to the strategy that the Government is deploying in the region, particularly in Hong Kong.

1675 But when we look obviously at the expense of running an office in Exchange Square – which I know the hon. learned Gentleman is familiar with the region, as I am – the very expensive property in Exchange Square in Hong Kong and also in relation to paying for a representative to conduct the marketing strategy in Hong Kong, I think it is right to ask this question, that when you are looking at marketing and you are spending money, what are we getting out of it?

1680 I understand it takes time to build up relationships with businessmen in other regions and it also takes time for senior partners of firms, as you say, to go out there and build connections and network properly, but is there any indication from the discussions he is having with senior partners of the respective firms in Gibraltar as to what is coming back to Gibraltar? I hate to use pounds, shillings and pence, but what value is coming back into Gibraltar from those efforts that the Government is going to in the region?

1685 Thank you.

1690 Hon. A J Isola: Well, Mr Speaker, I think I answered that in my original question, where I said that the reports I get from the private sector is that real business is being done and indeed a public announcement will be made in the coming quarter of other work that is coming to its fruitful conclusion.

The hon. Member has referred to cost and expense, and in particular the office in Exchange Square. You clearly have not been to the office in Exchange Square, of the Gibraltar office, 1695 because if you did, you would not be asking me the question that you have, because the office is absolutely tiny. And the reason for that is of course because of cost.

We had the option of going for a bigger office outside Central – which as the hon. Member knows is the centre of the business community, the City of Hong Kong if I can call it that – or having a far, far smaller office in a very good address, which is close by to everybody, with meeting rooms which you pay for when you use them. So our office in Hong Kong does not even 1700 have a meeting room. It has got an office with two desks, which is tiny and which then has the ability to use meeting rooms of whatever size you want, as and when you want them. So it is actually extremely cost effective for that precise purpose.

So we opted for a good address with a smaller office, nothing flash, very basic – literally two desks inside a door, sharing coffee facilities, sharing toilet facilities and sharing meeting rooms – 1705 a serviced office, very common in Hong Kong, London and everywhere else. So we are very conscious of the cost, of course we are and that is why we made that choice.

But what the private sector is telling me is that there are pounds, shillings and pence coming to Gibraltar and that is why they continue to go, and that is why in April next month, almost next month, we will have the biggest trade mission ever going to Asia from Gibraltar.

1710 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I quite understand that there is a dual purpose and both of them are linked to the Hong Kong office. One level is to facilitate links between professionals of this jurisdiction and then businesses and professionals in Hong Kong. Another aim is to obviously attract inward investment into Gibraltar. That may be inward investment that takes the form of, 1715 for example, a fund that is established with Hong Kong investors here in Gibraltar, entirely through the private sector, in relation to which the Government has very little involvement, other than having facilitated that contact through the Hong Kong office.

But of course there is a different level and that is direct investment from Hong Kong in Gibraltar via, for example, contacts with Government Ministers, and I know that the Hon. the Father of the House has been in China, busily trying to attract investment into Gibraltar, for which I commend him.
1720

But in relation to that aspect, investment that has come directly into Gibraltar, for which he obviously must have knowledge, can he point to any investment into Gibraltar that has been facilitated by the Hong Kong office that he can provide information to this House?
1725

Hon. A J Isola: Well, Mr Speaker, the hon. Member is right. The Hong Kong office is simply not focused on financial services. There are a whole series of introductions which have been made by Jason Cruz in the Hong Kong office to other businesses and other potential investments that are being discussed at this very moment in time.
1730

So it is not simply working on financial services issues; it is dealing across the entire board and spectrum of investments in Gibraltar which could take many different forms. I am not going to pre-judge announcements that may be made in the near future, but I can certainly say that directly as a result of the Hong Kong office, since it was set up in Hong Kong, direct introductions have been made which will lead to investments being made in Gibraltar which are not limited to financial services.
1735

Hon. D A Feetham: I understand that, but presumably the answer is that the Hon. the Minister for Financial Services cannot point to a direct investment in Gibraltar from businesses or businessmen or capital in Hong Kong that is attributable to the Hong Kong office. Is that correct?
1740

Hon. A J Isola: No, Mr Speaker, it is not that I cannot; it is that I will not.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just one further question. He is obviously not going to answer my question in that regard, but in relation to Jason Cruz, who is the gentleman that runs this particular office and is paid £250,000 in total, including private education of his children etc. is this gentleman working exclusively for the Government of Gibraltar in discharge of his functions as a representative for Gibraltar in the Hong Kong office, or is he allowed to do other kinds of business and pursue for example, his previous trade which was as an estate agent?
1745

1750

Mr Speaker: Let me make my position clear as Speaker. I am allowing that question because the Hon. Minister –

Hon. A J Isola: Is happy to answer it.

1755

Mr Speaker: – introduced this gentleman into his answer. Ok.

Hon. A J Isola: He runs the office, Mr Speaker.

1760

Mr Speaker: And he runs the office. But I am not going to allow a debate on his terms and conditions of service under the guise of this question.

1765

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, I am one of the many, many people who is extremely proud that a Gibraltarian man in a place as afar as Hong Kong has been able to succeed to the extent that Jason has in his specialised field, which is actually property and property investment. I would not call him an estate agent and I assume the term was intended to be derogatory, unfortunately.

1770

I am also not going to confirm the quantum, because I do not think that is anything for me to be involved in. But what I can say is that I am delighted with the work of Jason Cruz. The people from the private sector who accompany me on my many visits to Asia are also delighted with the work of Jason Cruz, because he is not just in Hong Kong, don't forget. When we go to Singapore, he is very much involved in assisting us in setting up and meeting people, and the events that we put up there, all in the best name of Gibraltar Plc. And for that I am eternally grateful.

As to whether he works exclusively for the Gibraltar representative office, the answer is yes.

1775

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the Hon. the Minister for Financial Services referred to work in the region from other jurisdictions such as the BVI and Jersey. I did notice somewhere, I cannot locate it now, about an intention by the Government to work in areas of India – Mumbai, Bangalore and look at different regions within there. What progress has the Government made in relation to working in that particular region? Given the reference to my question I am sure it is not an issue. (Interjection) Yes, the Asian region.

1780

What I said in relation to my question was, 'attributed to the work of the Government in the region'. I know that the Minister referred specifically also to work being conducted in Singapore, he referenced Singapore and also looked at other jurisdiction's work, in Mumbai for example, and Delhi.

1785

Can the Minister confirm whether it is the Government's intention to also work within that jurisdiction as well? I believe there was some reference either during the election campaign to that region as well.

1790

Hon. A J Isola: Well, Mr Speaker, yes we are pursuing the possibility of looking at India as a separate jurisdiction with separate representation there. We are in the process of a, if I can call it, Project India team being driven by the Chief Minister, which I am a part of, in looking at how we can best utilise the connections and the resources that we currently have to see what better way we can work in India.

1795

In terms of the Asian region obviously, Jason is responsible for the region, so China, Singapore, Hong Kong and he assists us on all of these fronts and potentially more.

Q200-201/2016
Gibraltar International Bank Ltd –
Financial statements and mortgages provided

Clerk: Question 200, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1800 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Financial Services please confirm that he will make available to all Members of Parliament, hard copies of the full audited financial statements of the Gibraltar International Bank Ltd, including the auditor's report as soon as these are completed for the years ended 31st December 2014 and 2015?

1805 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Financial Services and Gaming.

Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 201.

1810 Clerk: Question 201, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please state how many mortgages the Gibraltar International Bank have granted in the new affordable housing schemes recently completed or about to be completed?

1815

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Financial Services and Gaming.

Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Yes, Mr Speaker, the full audited financial statements of the bank will be filed at the Companies Registry and available for public inspection in accordance with the provisions of the Companies Act. It will therefore not be just for Members opposite, but for the whole community to see.

1820

The Government does not have the information requested in respect of mortgages; I will therefore not be able to provide this to the House. This information will, however, also be a matter of public record at the Land Titles Registry as every mortgage granted by a credit institution is required to pay stamp duty and subsequently be registered at the public registry.

1825

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I was hoping that the hon. Member would, out of courtesy to this House, agree to provide us with copies of those financial statements without having to go down to Companies House and pay £15 or in fact £30 for a copy of them.

1830

They will in any case I imagine by law be required to be made available publicly by the bank in due course. I do not see why he cannot make them available to this House.

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, if the hon. Member is suggesting that they should not have to pay the fee that the members of the public have to pay, I do not see why not.

1835

But once they are public, surely they are public.

Hon. R M Clinton: Well, Mr Speaker, I find that a particularly unhelpful response. I guess we shall have to walk to the bank ourselves and obtain a copy when they are going to be published. Does he have any idea when they are due to be signed?

1840

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, as I have already said in my answer, the accounts will be filed in accordance with the requirements of the Companies Act, in other words in accordance with the terms of legislation.

1845 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I was asking when the audited financial statements were due to be completed. Does he have any idea?

1850 Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, when we announced in December 2013 the setting up of the Gibraltar International Bank, I was delighted to see that the Members opposite welcomed the announcement. But at the time that they welcomed the announcement, they also urged caution, extreme caution because of course they were very concerned about the bank being independent, Government being at arm's length and not being picking and choosing because from this side of the House it seems that if we are serious about independence then we should stand back, but then we get criticised for not sharing information which we do not have. And if we do get involved and interfere, then we are interfering.

1855 So we have done exactly what we said we would do and what we promised we would do, which is have an executive team which is independent of Government, an independent board of directors and the executive team and the board of directors are running the bank.

1860 So do I know when the statements were signed or when they will be signed? The answer is no. I will happily receive the documentation as and when they are required to do which I have absolutely no doubt and every confidence that they will provide that information whenever it is due.

1865 Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member opposite is obviously fully aware that the Government is a 100% shareholder of the said bank and entitled to receive that information at no doubt the forthcoming AGM. I was merely asking as a matter of courtesy whether he could make them available to this House as well. If he is not willing to do so, fair enough.

1870 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, look, I think that we need to ... Look, we have got four years ahead of us, Mr Speaker. (A Member: Yes.) We have got four years ahead of us. I will, not from my office, from my own personal bank account, I will write the cheque for the £30. I will go down to Companies House and I will stop running the affairs of Gibraltar, in order to deliver to the hon. Gentleman at GSD Headquarters, at College Lane, even if it is an hour out of my time, a copy of the accounts.

1875 Because obviously he does not expect to have to do what every other member of the public will do, but I am very happy to go down there so that he has the courtesy of the delivery to him, because obviously the fact that he earns £39,000 to turn up in Parliament twice a month is not enough and he does not want to go down to Companies House, he does not want to obtain it, he does not want to write his own cheque. I will do it for him, Mr Speaker.

1880 But until now, the rule has been that if a document is public, the Government does not provide it in this House.

1885 The Government as a shareholder of this institution, Mr Speaker, is maintaining the strict attitude of independence that we have set out, which we were required to do by the real GSD – the GSD that used to sit in this House before the last General Election, but which the hon. Members opposite seem to have a different view from.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the pay rise the Chief Minister seems to have given me because I understood I was being paid £35,000 a year, but hey, I will take the other £4,000, and maybe I will not trouble him for his £30.

1890 But, Mr Speaker, I am not going to labour the point, I will go to the bank myself and get them but thank you very much for the offer.

1895 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, no problem (Interjection) Mr Speaker, no problem, but given that he is so keen for an almost 10% pay rise, I now understand why it is that he may have put a motion down on the Order Paper and why he was so keen to work out what it was that he was going to be paid.

When I was first elected into Parliament, I was not looking at what it is that the remuneration was going to be. I was here to serve the public.

1900 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I think that is a Point of Order. That is completely out of order compared to the line of the question.

Hon. Chief Minister: I do not detect that it is a Point of Order. The hon. Gentleman has said he is going to pocket a pay rise because I seem to have said one figure instead of another. So points of order, the hon. Gentleman needs to understand, are points which have to come within the rules of what points of order are or are not.

But look, I can understand why he has embarrassed himself and why he wanted to try and deflect attention from it.

1910 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member opposite obviously enjoys playing games with words. I do not, I stick to numbers and he obviously made a mistake, because I know he is not good at numbers.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, excuse me, can I –

1915 Mr Speaker: Could we bring these exchanges to a close please, because they have nothing seriously to do with the questions. It is just a case of petty exchanges in the overall ... As responsible people, let us get on with the business at hand, please. (A Member: Hear, hear.)

The Hon. Marlene Nahon.

1920 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can I just say that all that Mr Clinton was saying that the Chief Minister has been reiterating £39,000 a few times already and we actually get paid £34,995. He was not discussing a pay rise or suggesting that we deserve or want anything else; he was merely correcting the Hon. Chief Minister on a figure that was erroneous.

1925 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the hon. Lady's translation of what Mr Clinton meant. I will look to her to translate what it is that the person who is not good with words is trying to say if he continues to express himself in a manner that is not as verbose as he might wish to be, but more numeric.

1930 Mr Speaker: Please, call the next question.

Hon. D A Feetham: No, Mr Speaker, I have been waiting for my supplementaries on my question. (Laughter)

1935 Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has said that in relation to my question, I will remind him of my question and remind listeners, and that is how many mortgages the Gibraltar International Bank has granted in the new affordable housing scheme. It must be hundreds, I do not know. He has answered and he has said that the hon. Gentleman can effectively go to Land Property Services and do a search of mortgages and then he will get a figure.

1940 I just do not believe that that is a reasonable answer, bearing in mind that this is a national bank. It is an impossibility for me to go and do a search of all those documents in order to come to a figure, and I just wonder whether the hon. Gentleman can be more helpful. If he does not have the figure, then I can come back in a months time or in two months' time.

1945 But certainly it is important that we have this figure because we do want to monitor and it is in the public interest that the Opposition monitor how many mortgages have been granted by the Gibraltar International Bank in the new affordable housing schemes. There is concern about availability of mortgages in Gibraltar generally and that is why I have asked the question. It is not intended to catch the Government out in any way, but it is genuine information that we are seeking in relation to this.

1950

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, I understand all of that, which is why I said in my answer, the Government does not have the information requested.

1955

So it is not that I am telling you go and do a search of every bit of every single register at the Land Titles Registry. What I am saying to the hon. Member is that we do not have that information available.

1960

Why do we not have that information available? Because it is absolutely right and proper that we should not because we are standing at arm's length from a bank that is operating in a regulated environment. You will have sight of its full financial statements, auditors' report, directors' report, that will all be made public and consequently I do not know how many mortgages, nor should I know, I do not believe, how many mortgages the bank has given. I do not believe I should, no.

Hon. D A Feetham: I am sorry, but I disagree with the hon. Gentleman.

1965

Mr Speaker: We have a question of disagreement. The view is taken by the Leader of the Opposition that because mortgages are made available for affordable housing, which all Members support that policy of affordable housing, and the Government takes the view that their dealings with the Gibraltar Bank, even though they are 100% shareholders, is at arm's length.

1970

I do not think that those two views can be reconciled and because I believe that, I am not going to allow a debate at this juncture on that issue.

1975

The matter can be debated obviously when another opportunity arises or with a substantive motion if the hon. Member so wishes. But I am not going to allow a debate to try to reconcile the Leader of the Opposition to try to convince the Government that he is right or the Government to try to convince the Leader of the Opposition that they are right. That I will not allow.

1980

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am very grateful to Mr Speaker in relation to that, but I would like to ask this. Doesn't the Hon. the Minister for Financial Services recognise that there is a distinction and a fundamental distinction between interference in the management decisions of a bank, albeit state owned, which nobody in this House wants to see at all, and a situation where the Minister for Financial Services asks the bank, not for the identity of any mortgagees or anything of the sort, but purely statistical information as to how many mortgages have been granted by the bank in relation to affordable homes?

1985

And no doubt bearing in mind that this is an issue that is very much in the mind of the community particularly home owners, because of the lack of ... what has happened in the banking sector and the contraction in the banking sector and the availability of mortgages and mortgages on affordable rates, that is something that the Minister or somebody on the Government side would have wanted to have that information available in terms of monitoring a situation.

1990

And I have to say that I would have expected, for example, the Father of the House to have been monitoring something like that because these are the kind of important, I would say, statistical information that a Government Minister would want to know in order to monitor how effective the granting of mortgages and whether there is a difference between demand and supply in relation to this.

1995

That is the distinction and I just want the hon. Gentleman to recognise that there is a distinction that we do not want you to interfere in management decisions. It is just the statistical information that we believe is relevant and important in the discharge of everybody's duties to the community.

2000 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, we are not at Question Time in particular, going to be drawn into what is in effect a debate into the degree of independence that the bank should or should not have.

2005 Because we do believe, Mr Speaker, that that is the sort of level of granular detail as to the day-to-day business of the bank which if we were to become involved in, would in effect mean that we were looking at how many mortgages have you granted this week, how many have you granted the next week? And one of the issues that we were very clear on, was that this had to be an independent entity.

2010 Look, the hon. Gentleman is talking about numbers of mortgages. Numbers of mortgages is actually quite irrelevant because banks will tend to report an amounts invested in mortgages and that is how their capital ratios and the concentration limits that they are concerned with in terms of their regulation relate to the affordable housing schemes or their mortgage book generally.

2015 We are not going to be giving this information. We consider that we should not be in any event questioned on it, because there is a very simple rule, Mr Speaker, we do not have the information. The hon. Members cannot require us to go out and get information from an entity that is not a Department. This is not information which is within our control or power. As a shareholder, Mr Speaker, we could potentially require that information. We could potentially require that information but our attitude is to say that we have respected the bank's independence and this is very much the same attitude as we have taken to the university's independence and the bank will report like all banks report, and the bank will report publicly like all banks report.

2020 Mr Speaker, nobody asks the Prime Minister at Westminster whether he can please say how many mortgages have been granted by RBS, when the UK Government is the 80% shareholder of RBS.

2025 Mr Speaker: May I ask the Chief Minister myself, in order to be clear, is the position then, let us say during the Budget session: during the Budget session will the Chief Minister say for instance, he himself or the Minister for Financial Services, will they be raising the matter of the activity of the bank in respect of mortgages and other investments which make a contribution to the economy?

2030 Because the bank is a national bank, it is going to play an important role in the economy. Are these factors that will be the subject of debate during the Budget session?

2035 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the answer is that the only aspect of the operation of the bank which is relevant from the point of view of the Government is what we as shareholders perceive from the bank. So for example if the bank pays a dividend, then the shareholders are entitled to say, 'I have received a dividend of £10 million from the bank' because it comes into the Consolidated Fund.

2040 But, Mr Speaker, we are not re-inventing the wheel! The position of Gibtelecom is exactly the same. So Gibtelecom files an annual report which they make public. They put it on their website, they talk about the number of lines that they have, the number of mobiles, operators...the number of contracts that they have etc. and the Government comes here and says, 'Look, as shareholder, this year Gibtelecom has paid me so much in dividend and they have reported to the shareholder X or Y.'

2045 In the case of Gibtelecom, the Government has directors appointed to the board, Mr Speaker, who are Ministers. I am the Chairman of Gibtelecom at the moment and we have seen reports from Ministers in respect of that activity.

2050 Here, Mr Speaker, we are not on the board. We have a shareholders' representative, Mr Speaker, but we are not on the board because we wanted to preserve the independence. This was an issue of wide agreement across the floor of the House. The board appointed to be the board of directors of the Gibraltar Independent Bank I think met also with support and was welcomed by Members opposite; it is a totally independent board.

Mr Speaker, Peter Montegriffo is on that board – he is not somebody who has an affinity with the party represented on this side of the House. It is a totally independent board.

2055

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, nobody is disputing the desirability of keeping the bank independent at all. Now, it is our recollection from this side of the House that the Government has in the past – and we will look at it and if necessary come back next time round – that the Government has made statements about the percentages of mortgages in the affordable homes. Remember that it is the Government-owned bank in a Government project. That is what we are talking about and that is why the analogy that the hon. Gentleman gives is a false one. But they have given a percentage in the past of mortgages that were intended to be granted or had been granted by the Gibraltar International Bank in the affordable homes.

2060

Now, can the Hon. the Minister for Financial Services recall that, or the Chief Minister? Because if that is the position, then of course all I am doing here is asking for a translation of a percentage into actual figures.

2065

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, no, I do not believe the Government has given specific details. What there may have been reference to is what each of the banks, and this has certainly come up in meetings with the Gibraltar Bankers' Association, are able to give consistently with their concentration risks, but that is a totally different question to the one being asked in terms of how many has Gibraltar International Bank granted.

2070

Because what a bank can and cannot do in terms of lending is entirely within its own domain because even the concentration risk you can change by putting in more capital. So it is something that is moveable and flexible. It is not a red line as I am sure the hon. Member will understand better than I, the Hon. Mr Clinton.

2075

EDUCATION AND JUSTICE & INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION

Q202/2016

Small boats Marina – Facilities

Clerk: Question 202, the Hon. E J Reyes.

2080

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can Government provide details of any servicing yard and related facilities provided at the Small Boats Marina?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

2085

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, a servicing yard and related facilities will be provided in the vicinity of the Mid-Harbour Small Boats Marina adjacent to the Royal Gibraltar Yacht Club.

2090

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, I thank the Hon. Minister. He has given me the location but can he provide any details what facilities per se, and perhaps examples would be provided.

Hon. G H Licudi: This is essentially a yard for the servicing of boats. How it is used will be for the Association which has been established under the rules and which will be running the 2095 marina, and they will be essentially running the servicing yard in conjunction with the marina. So all we are doing is making available a piece of land.

2100 Hon. E J Reyes: So it is just a piece of land and it will be run by the committee and so on - answerable, because they are using what technically is land pertaining to the Government. The permits for the use of land facilities and so on would be subject to approval for example by the Captain of the Port and so on?

Because the danger is, the committee could become a free-for-all and who will monitor the control and correct use of facilities which at the end of the day are publicly owned, despite the berth holder paying his berthing fees, but the yard does remain Crown property.

2105 Hon. G H Licudi: Yes, Mr Speaker, the land will certainly be Crown property and although arrangements have not been finalised, I would expect, either through the office of the Deputy Chief Minister who is involved in land matters and LPS, what there will be, will be a licence agreement in terms of the grant of the use of the land for specific purposes and the purposes will be for use as a hard or servicing yard for the purposes of the Small Boats Marina.

2110 Hon. E J Reyes: I appreciate, Mr Speaker, the Minister is trying to provide the information. With your leave, Mr Speaker, I will leave it now; I am conscious that you keep on nicely reminding us of the six month period and so on. I think it would be prudent and better, more fruitful for both sides if I wait until the actual establishment of the committee and so on, such as was referred to in previous answers and if I require certain information perhaps with your leave, I can come back within the six-month period just to extract information and the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister might be able then to be in a position to shed some light.

2115 Because at the moment, all I am going to get is hypothetical examples and if we are all in agreement, I will leave it like that, Mr Speaker.

2120 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I am certainly happy with that approach but to the extent that the importance of the question is simply 'will there be a hard or servicing yard for the Small Boats Marina?', then there is no hypothetical issue about it. The Government has identified the piece of land and there will be that hard which will be made available for the purposes of the Small Boats Marina.

2125 Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, I appreciate that, Mr Speaker, but the original wording of my question was, I wanted the details and therefore the details will only be hypothetical. That is why I used that terminology.

Q203-209/2016
Illicit tobacco trade –
Smuggling

2130 Clerk: Question 203, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2135 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Justice confirm the total number of convictions for (1) unlawful transportation of tobacco in a commercial quantity; (2) knowingly concerned in the exportation of a commercial quantity from Gibraltar without authority or an export permit; (3) concealing cigarettes within a motor vehicle; (4) possession of cigarettes in a commercial quantity without a licence, since December 2011?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

2140 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 204 to 209.

Clerk: Question 204, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2145 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Justice confirm the total number of cigarettes confiscated and the value of the same for each year as from December 2011?

Clerk: Question 205, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2150 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Justice confirm the total number of fines imposed by the courts each year since December 2011 in respect of the following offences: (a) unlawful transportation of tobacco in a commercial quantity; (b) knowingly concerned in the exportation of a commercial quantity from Gibraltar without authority of an export permit; (c) concealing cigarettes within a motor vehicle; (d) possession of cigarettes in a commercial quantity without a licence?
2155

Clerk: Question 206, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2160 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Justice confirm the breakdown of individuals by reference to nationality prosecuted for offences in respect of the following: (a) unlawful transportation of tobacco in a commercial quantity; (b) knowingly concerned in the exportation in a commercial quantity from Gibraltar without authority of an export permit; (c) concealing cigarettes within a motor vehicle; (d) possession of cigarettes in a commercial quantity without a licence, each year since December, 2011?
2165

Clerk: Question 207, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2170 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Justice confirm the numbers of arrests for tobacco offences which have not proceeded to prosecution?

Clerk: Question 208, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2175 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Justice confirm what resources are available to the Royal Gibraltar Police and HM Customs to reduce the illicit trade in tobacco smuggling?

Clerk: Question 209, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2180 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Justice confirm what measures the Government are considering in the fight against illicit tobacco smuggling?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

2185 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, this administration has implemented various bold and ground-breaking measures to tackle the illicit trade of tobacco and to eradicate any antisocial behaviour that surrounds this activity.

These include new legislation and other measures which serve to – I will list various measures:

2190

- Reduce the retail sale of cigarettes from 1,000 to 200 cigarettes to the same individual at any one time;

- Provide an additional power to the Collector of Customs, to suspend wholesale and retail licences where the holder of a wholesale or retail licence or the servant or agent of the licence holder has been charged with an offence contrary to the Tobacco Act 1997;
- Place an obligation on the Collector of Customs to withhold consent to a change of director or shareholder of a company holding a licence under the Tobacco Act if such company or any of its servants or agents has been charged with an offence under the Tobacco Act;
- Restrict the maximum amount of cigarettes that a person can have in their possession to 200 in the area immediately before the land border with Spain and Gibraltar International Airport;
- Create special zones which serve to restrict the sale, possession and transportation of cigarettes in prescribed areas around Gibraltar. In these areas RGP and/or Customs Officers are empowered to make enquiries and carry out non-systematic checks which allow any person or vehicle to be stopped and searched on a random basis and without the requirement for there to be reasonable grounds for believing that an offence has been or is being committed;
- Issued a new direction in the public interest to discourage the issue of any new retail and wholesale tobacco licences unless an existing retail tobacco licence is surrendered, terminated or otherwise rendered permanently inactive;
- Apply new conditions to licences which permit only a maximum of 300,000 cigarettes in a retail outlet at any one time and for cigarettes to be sold only between 8.00 a.m. and 8.00 p.m. except for large supermarkets and petrol stations;
- Relocate the tobacco retailers in Glacis and Laguna Estates to other areas with only vending machines being authorised in these estates. A measure which has been very well received by the residents of those estates who have seen illicit tobacco activity and its related antisocial behaviour blight their peaceful enjoyment of their homes;
- Expand Four Corners station with a creation of two additional search lanes and a purpose built covered vehicle search facility, six outgoing barriers were also installed to carry out non-systematic outgoing checks and electronic gates erected in the underpass to the commercial gate, which are closed during the silent hours;
- Install CCTV pan tilt and zoom and automatic number plate recognition cameras in the area of Four Corners;
- The employment of 60 more Customs officers which provide the Collector with more human resources to deal with smuggling of any commodity.

Mr Speaker, the Government has already implemented these very considerable measures and continues to invest heavily and significantly in resourcing our law enforcement agencies. The Royal Gibraltar Police now have 238 officers and HM Customs 166 officers who are also equipped with new and very substantial land and marine assets.

The deployment of these resources in the fight against the illicit trade of tobacco and any antisocial behaviour that surrounds this activity are operational decisions for the Commissioner of Police and the Collector of Customs to consider.

The statistical information requested by the hon. Member is set out in the schedule that I now hand over to him and, if I may say so, Mr Speaker, reflects the excellent work done by the law enforcement agencies in dealing with the illicit trade in tobacco. In particular since we have enhanced the legal tools they have at their disposal by amending and tightening Gibraltar's world leading legislation for the curtailment of illicit tobacco activity.

SCHEDULE TO QUESTION 209/2016

Answer to Question 203/2016

The number of convictions for each year since 2012 to February 2016 in each category is as follows:-

Offence	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
Unlawful transportation of tobacco in a commercial quantity	44	52	31	48	1
Knowingly concerned in the exportation of a commercial quantity from Gibraltar without authority of an export permit	78	59	54	41	1
Concealing cigarettes within a motor vehicle	-	-	96	12	-
Possession of cigarettes in a commercial quantity without a licence	170	233	125	95	4

Answer to Question 204/2016

The total number and value of cigarettes confiscated for each year since 2012 to February 2016 is as follows;

2012	3,209,540	with an estimated value of	£288,859
2013	3,763,073	with an estimated value of	£338,677
2014	1,783,540	with an estimated value of	£160,519
2015	3,905,462	with an estimated value of	£351,492
2016	990,740	with an estimated value of	£89,167

The above figures are based on an average value of £18 per carton.

Answer to Question 205/2016

The number of fines imposed by the court in each year since 2012 in each category is as follows;

	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016
Unlawful transportation of Tobacco in a Commercial Quantity	27	31	22	27	2
Knowingly concerned in the exportation of a commercial quantity from Gibraltar without authority of an export permit	55	29	41	29	2
Concealing cigarettes within a motor vehicle	12	6	60	2	2
Possession cigarettes in a commercial quantity without a licence	120	168	70	47	4

Answer to Question 206/2016

2012

Nationality	Transportation	Exportation	Concealing	Possession
British	4	15		70
French				2
Irish				4
Romanian		1		17
Spanish	1	38		342
Moroccan		1
Bulgarian				2
Polish				1
Columbian				1
Estonian				2
Portuguese				2

2013

Nationality	Transportation	Exportation	Concealing	Possession
Argentinian				1
Brazilian				1
British	10	14		66
French				1

Romanian	2			13
Spanish	36	27		257
Moroccan				3
Bulgarian				1
Lithuanian				1
Portuguese				1
Sierra Leon				1

2014

Nationality	Transportation	Exportation	Concealing	Possession
British	10	8	5	18
Czech				2
Indian				2
Romanian	1		3	2
Spanish	15	53	86	124
Moroccan	1			1
Bulgarian				1
Lithuanian				1
Senegalese			2

2015

Nationality	Transportation	Exportation	Concealing	Possession
British	10	17		14
Spanish	18	53	48	83
Moroccan		1		1
Bulgarian	2	2	1	2
Lithuanian			1

2016

Nationality	Transportation	Exportation	Concealing	Possession
British	2	10		5
Spanish		5		4

Note 2016 = 01/01/2016 to 22/02/2016

Answer to Question 207/2016

The number of arrests for tobacco offences for each year since 2012 to February 2016 which have not proceeded to prosecution is as follows;

2012 (28)
2013 (37)
2014 (44)
2015 (56)
2016 (3)

Hon. E J Phillips: I thank the Minister for Justice for his answer and the schedule which I may need to come back to.

2240 But insofar as my Question 209 was concerned, I am grateful that he has set out the measures that have been implemented to curb and combat this trade, but I also asked in relation to what measures the Government are considering in the fight. Outside the ones that he has set out, what is the Government currently considering in relation to the resources currently at his disposal to fight this trade?

2245

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the question, which says simply 'confirm what measures the Government are considering in the fight against the illicit tobacco smuggling', just looked at on its own, might suggest, 'Well nothing has been done and what are you actually doing or what are you going to do about it?' And that is why we felt it was necessary to premise, not just this, but every other question which relates to statistical information with all the very considerable measures that have been taken.

2250

We now consider, having taken all these decisions, issued the directions, enacted the special zones, relocated some licensed premises from estates to other areas, that a very significant headway has been made as required by this Government to tackle this activity. We have also resourced as I have explained, adequately and significantly, the Royal Gibraltar Police and HM Customs, who have land, marine assets and a significant number of personnel in order to deal with this and other criminal activity.

2255

Having done all that, Government is clearly always on the lookout and always aware that there may be additional measures that may be required and these are matters that are continually reviewed and discussed with the Royal Gibraltar Police and with Customs. To the extent that additional measures may be appropriate or may be worth considering, then that is something that we are going to do.

2260

But certainly for the moment, we have gone a very, very long way in tackling this activity and as I have indicated in my answer, the results of the statistics that I have handed over to the hon. Member reflects the success that this Government has had in dealing with this issue, in putting all these measures in place, in properly equipping our law enforcement agencies and the excellent work that the law enforcement agencies are delivering, by actually delivering the results that are evident in those statistics with the number of arrests, prosecutions and confiscation of cigarettes that is evident in those statistics.

2270

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the answer delivered by the Minister for Justice in relation to that.

I take it from that answer, that currently as it stands there is no thought for the Government to introduce new measures, that they believe that the current measures that they have implemented are satisfactory.

2275

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, it is not a question of whether particular measures are satisfactory. This is not a process that comes to an end on a particular day and we say well, that is the end of the process.

2280 As I indicated, this is a matter that is continually being reviewed and assessed. We have taken all these measures already, we do continue with discussions with the relevant law enforcement agencies and as and when new measures are considered appropriate, they will be announced and certainly implemented. But we will certainly not hold back, should any additional measures be required and be advised of us that they should be implemented.

2285 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one further question in relation to the volumes of tobacco on our streets, as it were. I do not like to use inflammatory language but there clearly are significant numbers of cigarettes on our streets, over three million per year in terms of the confiscation amounts that you have kindly given me.

2290 Would you not say that should give our community significant cause for concern?

2295 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, no sir, for this reason. Mr Speaker, the quantities of tobacco which are sold in Gibraltar are often the subject of derogatory statements made against Gibraltar by instruments of the Spanish government and by members of the Spanish press.

In fact, the amount of tobacco sold in Gibraltar, which includes that amount of tobacco, is an amount which successive Governments of Gibraltar have defended with the European Commission, in fact also with OLAF, with the British Government and also in the press with the Spanish government.

2300 So we do not believe that there is a problem because if hon. Members care to look back at what I have said and been questioned on, on a number of occasions, in particular in relation to the number of cartons of tobacco sold in Gibraltar which is 12 million this year, or the year before, was lower than at the time before we were in office, if I could just put it that way and going closer now to nine million.

2305 That is exactly the sort of amount that is assessed as being the right amount by the European Commission for sale in a place like Gibraltar, given the number of visitors that there are in Gibraltar during the course of the year, which amount sometimes to in the region of 12 million visitors.

2310 So, Mr Speaker, as we and previous administrations have said repeatedly, in the defence of the legitimate tobacco trade there is in Gibraltar, the controls that we put in place to deal with the illicit trade in tobacco are the ones that we are advised are appropriate. They are now tougher than they ever have been and the amount of tobacco being sold in Gibraltar, we continue to believe, as the former administration believed of a much higher figure, is in keeping with the legitimate trade that can be done in a community such as ours with 12 million visitors a year.

2315 I would be very surprised if Members opposite were now taking a different line.

Q210/2016
Duty solicitor scheme –
Introduction

Clerk: Question 210, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2320 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Justice confirm whether the Government intends to introduce the duty solicitor scheme?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

2325 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, yes sir.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, any idea when this would happen?

2330 Hon. G H Licudi: Well, Mr Speaker, if it was solely up to us, it would have been in place already.

The hon. Member will recall that there is provision in the Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act for the provision of legal representation, particularly when somebody is arrested, which is what the duty solicitor scheme primarily deals with and that is, as I recall, the only provision that has not been implemented yet.

2335 We did create a scheme and announce a scheme and invite all lawyers to be part of the scheme. We were simply not able to implement the scheme because only two lawyers put their names on the list at the time. At the time – (Interjection) No, I understand Mr Phillips was not one of the lawyers that put his name on the list for that particular scheme, but it was simply a physical impossibility with two lawyers willing to carry out the work, to have a duty solicitor scheme.

2340 At the time that we were in discussions with the Bar Council in relation to the reform of legal aid, on which there is a separate question and the rates for legal aid. It was felt that we would retake those discussions in relation to the duty solicitor scheme once the new legal aid scheme was brought into place.

2345 That is now in place, the new rules have been established so this is a matter which is now on the cards in terms of discussions with the Bar Council – not necessarily because it needs their blessing, but certainly we would want the Bar Council to encourage all members, because it is a voluntary matter, to put their names, or as many as possible, to put their names on the list so that we can implement the scheme.

2350 So the question originally was: does the Government intend to do this? Yes, the Government has tried to do this. It has not been able to do so, we are hopeful that with the encouragement of the Bar Council I more barristers and solicitors will put their name on the list. We are ready to implement, we have all the administrative measures in place and were in place previously. We are ready to implement at any time, as soon as a sufficient number of lawyers agree to go on the list to make the scheme effective.

2355 Otherwise, if we do not have people on the list, there is nobody to call as duty solicitor. So we are very happy to implement this as soon as we possibly can.

2360 Hon. E J Phillips: Thank you for the answer. Does the Minister for Justice know whether his Department will be going out to the profession, to the Bar Council, seeking members of the Bar to join the scheme? It is just that I am not familiar with any recent requests from the Government to the profession asking whether there is an improved level of interest in relation to this scheme.

2365 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, as it happens I have a meeting planned with the Chairman or the President of the Bar Council, I believe it was next week, although it may be in a couple of weeks' time, certainly imminently and this is one of the items that I propose to raise with him.

2370 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, the issue really here, is the remuneration to criminal lawyers. Criminal lawyers at the end of the day and lawyers are a business. It is a profession and of course the rates that were being paid to criminal lawyers under the previous rules was not sufficiently attractive in order to allow people, or incentivise people to basically sign up to this scheme.

2375 Now the rules were changed I believe it was last year or 2014 – exactly 2014. Can the hon. Gentleman explain why it has actually taken so long from 2010 over ... my calculation I think is roughly about a year and a half from when the Hon. the Minister for Justice changed those rules to make the remuneration more attractive to now, in order to take this up with the Bar Council and with the profession?

2380

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, this is something that we have taken up with the Bar Council on a number of occasions, in particular before the attempt to introduce the scheme was made, I understand it was just before the new rules were published.

2385

There is a difference between the rules for legal aid which are the rules that are paid when somebody goes to court, when somebody is appointed to take a brief for the preparation for court work and the duty solicitor scheme. They are different rates. The rules that were published are not rates which relate to the duty solicitor scheme. The duty solicitor scheme has separate rates.

2390

The rates that we sought to implement at the time, which was even before we reformed legal aid, were the rates from recollection ... Certainly they were the rates we took from the UK duty solicitor scheme and from recollection, we chose the London rates which were higher but that is just from recollection. There is a duty solicitor scheme in the UK which has, as I recall, two sets of rates, one in London and one outside London.

2395

My recollection is that we chose the London rates, and those are the rates that would be implemented, subject to whatever adjustments have been made to those rates in the UK. So they were linked in a way to the new rules because one of the suggestions was that whatever the rates might be, if you attend somebody as duty solicitor and then that person is on legal aid, then the rates that will be paid on legal aid may determine whether you go on the list in the first place, even though those are not the rates of the duty solicitor scheme.

2400

But we now have the rates which were agreed with the Bar Council and we do have the rates set out as implemented in the UK, so we see no reason why this should not go live at any particular time, as soon as possible in fact.

Hon. E J Phillips: Thank you for the answer.

2405

Just one further question on this, is there a way in which the Government would consider or is the Minister for Justice and wearing his separate hat as Minister for Education, that we could encourage those students undertaking the certificate in Gibraltar Law, remind them of their duties insofar as this is concerned?

2410

As we all know, many of us who are lawyers in this Chamber have done free work, have worked on legal aid and on legal assistance matters. Is there a way that we could encourage those students? Mr Isola is shaking his head about free work, (Laughter) but is there any way we could encourage our students in terms of at education level, to remind them that is part of our duty as lawyers to conduct that type of work for our community?

2415

I just fly a kite in relation to that and would welcome any thoughts that the Minister may have in relation to that.

Hon. G H Licudi: Well, we would certainly want to welcome as many lawyers as possible to be part of the scheme, and I do very much hope that the hon. Member himself (Laughter) will put his name down for the list.

2420

Whether it is possible for those undertaking the Certificate in Gibraltar Law to actually do that, I do not believe it is possible at the moment because if hon. Members will recall, the new training requirements which were set out last year, included the academic course in Gibraltar Law, included a professional skills course which is undertaken at the end of the training year and a practical year of training. And it is only once those three elements are completed that the prospective lawyer is then able to apply to be enrolled and to be called to the Bar in Gibraltar.

2425

So those who are doing that course are currently solicitors or barristers in training, having done their degree, having done their professional qualification in the UK and now doing the local training requirements which are set out in the Supreme Court Act. In those circumstances, they 2430 do not have rights of audience, they can assist but I am not sure that it would be right for them to be the ones that become the duty solicitors.

Hon. E J Phillips: This is a point of clarity. I am not suggesting that a student should conduct, during the course of his training, the work of an advocate in court, but only that they should be reminded that as lawyers, they should be making that contribution, especially given the fact that this community helps them to achieve that through their education by becoming barristers in the first place in the United Kingdom as solicitors.

2435 I would have just thought that a message to them, as part of the criminal part of the course at the university, they could be reminded of those obligations as it were – moral obligations possibly.

2440 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, we are certainly happy to remind them and encourage all those trainees to sign up to the scheme, certainly once they become enrolled in the Gibraltar Bar and are able to practice as lawyers.

2445 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I think there is also a role of heads of chambers and firms because those heads of chambers or the management committee, ought to be reminding, particularly young lawyers, because when you are breaking into ... when you are first starting out as a lawyer and you are doing work that is perhaps civil, it is also criminal, you are doing work in the magistrates' court, perhaps it is not the kind of work that Mr Phillips who is nearly 20 years called, might be doing at this present moment in time – but certainly we have all done it. We have all been there, we have all done work in the magistrates' court and at that time, when you are a young lawyer, this is precisely the kind of work that you also should be doing. It enhances your experience as a young advocate and a young lawyer, to be precisely doing this kind of work. Duty solicitor work often then leads to legal representation in the magistrates' court. Indeed it may also lead to legal representation in the Supreme Court.

2450 But we have all got to, as a legal profession, make sure that not only are our new barristers, our new solicitors and I think more new barristers, because with new solicitors we have now got these articles, these training schemes within Gibraltar, but I understand the Hon. the Minister for Justice intends to look into the creation of pupillage as well for barristers here in Gibraltar.

2460 But in the context of reforming and also ensuring that barristers are properly trained, I think that encouraging and for chambers to take a lead in encouraging our young barristers and our young lawyers to participate in these schemes is very worthwhile indeed, not only for them in terms of the experience but also for the community generally, in service to the community.

2465 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I am not sure where the hon. Member gets the impression that I intend as Minister for Justice to introduce further changes in the form of pupillage that he has mentioned. This is not something that has been discussed with the Bar Council. We discussed the new training requirements for barristers and solicitors during the course of last year and implemented those provisions by way of amendment to the Supreme Court Act.

2470 But certainly to the extent that as much encouragement can be given to younger lawyers, although there will be cases which will be apt for more senior lawyers and like him, I certainly recall being called at two or three o'clock in the morning on numerous occasions to attend to clients in the police station and therefore subsequent representation in the magistrates' and the Supreme Court.

2475 But the hon. Member mentions heads of chambers and management, we have two partners across on the other side of different firms and I would ask them also to encourage their firms to, not to cause their lawyers to be part of the scheme but certainly to encourage as many lawyers in those two firms that have between them, a very significant number of the lawyers we have in Gibraltar, for as many of them to be part of the scheme so that it is as successful as it can be.

2480

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, I will discuss it with him and the Chief Minister, and Mr Phillips will discuss it with Mr Albert Isola. (Laughter)

2485

Mr Speaker: We are going to have one last question; it is the last one on Justice –

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, before –

Mr Speaker: There is one question left on Justice and then we will deal with Education in the afternoon.

ADJOURNMENT

2490

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): No, Mr Speaker, unfortunately the diary requires that I adjourn now, and I propose that we should return on Wednesday, at 10.00 a.m.

2495

Mr Speaker: Ah, so you are adjourning now.

Hon. Chief Minister: Wednesday at 10.00 a.m. to finish the questions and then deal with issues related to motions and Bills.

2500

Mr Speaker: Right. I now propose the question that the House do now adjourn until next Wednesday at 10.00 a.m.

I now put the question, which is that this House do now adjourn until next Wednesday at 10.00 a.m.

All those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against. Carried.

2505

The House will now adjourn until next Wednesday at 10.00 a.m.

The House adjourned at 1.05 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

MORNING SESSION: 10.03 a.m. – 1.00 p.m.

Gibraltar, Wednesday, 2nd March 2016

Contents

Questions for Oral Answer .....	3
Q211/2016 Question unallocated .....	3
Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information.....	3
Q212/2016 Legal aid and assistance– Date when reform Bill expected .....	3
Q213/2016 Health and safety in schools – Reports received by Government .....	4
Q214/2016 Teachers - Overtime payments .....	8
Q215/2016 Schools’ IT equipment – Availability of technicians .....	12
Q216/2016 Children in full-time education – Verification of residency.....	15
Q217/2016 Special educational needs – Assessment process.....	17
Q218/2016 Construction and refurbishment of schools – Anticipated levels of disruption..	17
Q219-220/2016 Supply teachers – Numbers available; HR policy .....	21
Q221/2016 Westside and Bayside Schools – Teaching assistants.....	22
Q222/2016 Teaching English as a Foreign Language – Level of resourcing .....	22
Q223/2016 Hot school lunches – Update.....	24
Q224/2016 Prison Service – Waitlisting for positions .....	26
Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.....	27
Q225-226/2016 Supported Employment Company – Numbers employed; assessment process.....	27
Q227/2016 Apprenticeship Training Programme – Diversification .....	30
Q228-230/2016 Apprenticeships and qualifications – Securing employment for trainees ...	33

Q231-241/2016 Public debt; reserves; Gibraltar Savings Bank – Figures for 2016 .....	35
Q242/2016 Improvement and Development Fund – Income from sale of Government property.....	45
Q243/2016 Consolidated Fund; Improvement and Development Fund – Income and expenditure.....	46
Q244/2016 Low-cost housing projects – Profit from sales.....	47
The House recessed at 1.05 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 3.00 p.m.....	49

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 10.03 a.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

Questions for Oral Answer

Q211/2016

Question unallocated

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Wednesday, 2nd March 2016.

We continue with answers to Oral Questions. We commence with Question 211, which is unallocated.

EDUCATION AND JUSTICE & INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION

Q212/2016

Legal aid and assistance—
Date when reform Bill expected

5 Clerk: We then move on to Question 212. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the Government stated in its manifesto that it expects the necessary work on legal aid and assistance to be concluded with appropriate changes to legislation before the end of 2016. Given that we are fast approaching March 2016 – in fact, we 10 are in 2016 – can the Minister for Justice provide an update as to when a Bill for the reform of legal aid and assistance will be brought before this House?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

15 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, following a process of consultation and agreement with the Bar Council, the legal aid system was reformed with new rates published and commenced on 25th September 2014.

We have embarked on a process of further consultation with the Bar Council on improvements to the legal assistance system. We expect the necessary work to be concluded 20 with appropriate changes to legislation made, as stated in our manifesto, before the end of 2016.

The Government therefore expects that a Bill will be brought to Parliament before the end of 2016 – in fact, in time for that Bill to be passed before the end of this year.

Q213/2016

Health and safety in schools –
Reports received by Government

25 Clerk: Question 213. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Minister provide information about what health and safety assessments and audits have been conducted in schools during 2014 and 2015; and, if any, what reports have been received by Government regarding health and safety at schools?

30

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the Government's 2011 manifesto committed to conduct an extensive and in-depth health and safety audit of all schools. This was successfully completed during the course of 2012. The majority of works and recommendations arising from that audit were addressed during 2012 and 2013.

35

Since then, health and safety reports continue to be prepared by schools and submitted to the Department of Education almost on a daily basis as part of the repairs and maintenance schedules. These reports cover a wide variety of issues such as dangerous flooring tiles, trip hazards, water ingress issues, electrical faults, broken or splintered furniture and fire safety issues. All reports relating to health and safety issues are prioritised and addressed as a matter of urgency.

40

In addition, planned works relating to health and safety issues were carried out to 13 schools during 2014 and 2015.

45

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, in cases where works have taken place not actually in the school but adjacent to schools, as we have seen on many building sites, does the school itself also conduct health and safety assessments of the potential impact of such works on the school environment, or is that left entirely to the developer to provide those health and safety assessments?

50

And in the case where, if it is left entirely to the developer, do the schools and the management of the schools, and indeed the Gibraltar Teachers' Association, have site of those health and safety assessments to ensure that they are fit for purpose?

55

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, there will be occasions when works near or adjacent to the schools may have an impact on the schools. The Government, the Department of Education, works closely with the Technical Services Department whenever those issues arise, so that the Technical Services Department are able to advise the Department and the particular school of any health and safety issues that might arise.

60

As an example, hon. Members will recall the works to Charles Bruzon House adjacent to Bishop Fitzgerald, then Governor's Meadow House, Governor's Meadow School, where some health and safety issues were raised and concerns were raised by parents. Technical Services was involved and advised the Department of Education, and although it was felt at the time that there were no health and safety risks to the schools or the children themselves, measures were actually put in place by the Department of Education and the Government to allay those fears and those concerns. One in particular, or two in particular were not just the erection of some scaffolding and protective roof over part of the school premises, but it also included no works being done to the adjacent site during school hours. That was done as a result of concerns expressed by parents, even though the advice that the Department of Education received was that there were no health and safety issues and no health and safety risks. In order to allay those concerns we took those extraordinary steps.

65

70

75 So, yes, by all means, whenever there are works near or adjacent to a school then advice is taken, in particular through the Technical Services Department, and appropriate action is taken whenever it is necessary, as we did with Governor's Meadow and Bishop's.

80 Hon. T N Hammond: Indeed, Mr Speaker, in that instance action was taken, albeit in a reactionary way rather than a pre-emptive way, and of course we all know that the ideal for health and safety is to pre-empt such incidents and the need to take action after an event has taken place.

85 We had a similar event at Bayside School with noise from an adjacent site affecting the education of students at that site, which is why I raise the question: is this looked at, the possibility of a site affecting a school, looked at ahead of the time rather than reacted to when an incident takes place? I am thinking in particular of the plans to build a new Bayside School whilst the school remains in action, as it were, and the clear need in that example to ensure that the risk to students and teachers working at the school, whether it be from debris, dust or noise, is kept to an absolute minimum.

90 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, there is a separate question on the Order Paper in relation to the planning of works for new schools, so I will deal with that last issue when I understand. The Hon. Ms Hassan Nahon has a question on that issue.

95 The hon. Member says that the example I gave was reactive and not preventive. Quite the contrary: the works that were actually carried out were preventive initially. I mentioned the scaffolding, I mentioned the covering to the part of the school playground at Governor's Meadow – no issues had been raised at the time. That was in conjunction with the start of the project of the building adjacent, and therefore these protective measures were taken to prevent any material from coming onto the schools.

100 What happened subsequently was not reactive to a health and safety issue. As I have already indicated, there was no health and safety issue. It was reactive to concerns which were raised by parents, which we believed needed to be allayed in this particular way – but not because we were advised there was a health and safety issue that we had to react to. There was no health and safety issue, because the professional advice – and Government has to act on professional advice – the professional advice was that no such issue arose, and therefore the measures we took were over and above those which were necessary from a preventive point of view and simply arose to allay those fears and those concerns which parents had. I went down myself when there was one incident simply arising out of the noise, and I saw the concern in the faces of the parents. I actually spoke to the parents myself, and then I and the Chief Minister went down the following week and addressed a whole group of parents in the assembly hall of Governor's Meadow to listen to their concerns and to explain to them what measures we were taking to allay those concerns. Not because they were health and safety risks, but because there were concerns which were raised and we felt it was appropriate to take those measures.

115 The hon. Member also talks about reactive measures in respect of Bayside. Again, there were no reactive measures taken in respect of Bayside. There was an incident in Bayside in relation to works – not an incident but circumstances in Bayside in relation to works – to Archbishop Amigo House, where, as a result of the noise being carried out to the works to Archbishop Amigo House, a couple of classes were disrupted and in particular a PE class and a geography class were disrupted. That incident was unfortunate and it was unfortunate for this reason: because the Government had already taken preventive measures to prevent those circumstances happening. The Government had given instructions to the contractor, to GJBS, not to carry out any works to Archbishop Amigo House during school hours. Those instructions had been given already. For some reason, as a result of possibly a misunderstanding or a lack of communication to the people on the ground, one or two people started drilling some holes as part of the works to Archbishop Amigo House, which should not have happened as a result of the measures that Government had already taken, and it was that drilling that led to those issues which arose in 125 Bayside with those classes being disrupted. Therefore, all that the Government needed to do as a result of that was to reaffirm the instructions which had previously been given, and since then no other incidents have occurred. So the Government had already pre-empted the fact that works were being carried out on an adjacent site by a Government contractor, steps needed to be taken to make sure that there was minimum or no disruption to the schools, instructions 130 were given. For some reason, something was missed at the bottom end and works were carried out, and we took measures to redress by reasserting the instructions which had already been given.

So, to the extent that it is in our control, then we will take measures which are appropriate in order to prevent disruption to schools. Certainly from the Government's point of view, and my 135 point of view as Minister for Education, safeguarding the risks to the schools and making sure that there are no risks, or minimum risk, and disruptions, as we will see in the later question, is an important aspect of the plan of any works. It is important that children do attend schools and teachers attend a work environment that is as risk free as humanly possible, and that is certainly a lot of the effort that is taken by the Department of Education and the Government to make 140 sure that is indeed the case.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, which is why I asked originally, or certainly early in the supplementaries, what role the schools themselves play in such health and safety assessments. I am not sure the Minister answered that, but if he did I must have missed the answer.

145 Are the schools or the school management, the Teachers' Association and other stakeholders actively involved in reviewing those health and safety assessments and judging whether they may have an impact for the school; or is that entirely left for the Department and outside of the school's hands?

150 Hon. G H Licudi: No, Mr Speaker, schools are involved, and I did mention that earlier when I said there is contact between the schools, the Department of Education and Technical Services, who advise on these issues. So there is active involvement.

In fact, before the issues that arose in relation to Bayside about the disruption of the class, I had actually attended the school specifically on this point to see for myself the works that were 155 going on, because one was a private entity on one side of the school, the World Trade Centre, and the other was the Government-contracted works on the Archbishop Amigo House, and there were some concerns raised by the schools on health and safety issues related here exclusively to noise rather than anything else; this was just a noise issue. I had attended myself because the schools had raised this issue, and myself and the Director of Education we engaged 160 with the schools as to the issue and as to the measures that needed to take place in order to not just allay those concerns but to reduce that disruption that was going on as a result of noise. And we did two things as a result of the direct involvement of the schools. It was as a result of that trip, that visit that I did to Bayside, that the instructions that I referred to earlier about no works in Archbishop Amigo House during the course of the school hours ... that was taken as a result of 165 the issues raised by the schools with me personally and with the contractor of the World Trade Centre. Although it is a private site, it is a private developer, we did engage through appropriate professionals with the contractors themselves and asked them to put in all measures that could possibly be put in place given that they were a working site. We could not ask them to not do any works during school hours, but we asked them to take appropriate measures to keep 170 disruption to a minimum and to keep noise to a minimum. I am advised that appropriate measures were taking place and, although there was still some noise during school hours, that was in fact kept to a minimum.

So, yes, schools are engaged, schools are involved, schools do voice their issues, do engage with myself, with the Director of Education, and in particular also with the Technical Services 175 Department, and we do try to take measures before they become an issue, as they did in two schools.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one question in relation to St Bernard's. Can the Minister confirm what health and safety reports have been received in relation to the new St Bernard's School?

180

Mr Speaker: Sorry, I did not hear the last part. Did you say St Bernard's School?

Hon. E J Phillips: St Bernard's School, Mr Speaker.

185

Hon. G H Licudi: I am not sure whether the question is ... In relation to any new schools, clearly the contractor will have an obligation to carry out health and safety assessments, and I am advised that everything that needed to be done by the contractor has been done.

190

Once a school is handed over to the Government and starts functioning as a normal working school, then the process will be the same as for all other school. Reports do come into the Department of Education and reports have come in from St Bernard's. In particular, I know that there was some water ingress issues, so there were some issues which arose following the handover of the school to the Department of Education – things that I would describe as teething problems or things that the contractor simply has to put right. So, some of those issues arise, but as and when any issue arises they will be dealt with in the normal way through the reports that come in, the requisitions that come in constantly to the Department of Education, and which are ... As I indicated earlier, when any such requisition concerns a health and safety matter, then these are given priority and remedied straight away.

195

200

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I rise because it is an important issue that we are discussing and that the Hon. the Minister for Education is answering questions on.

205

Just returning to the incident at Governor's Meadow School, as I understand it, what had happened there was that an object actually fell on the school itself – that is the information that we have – and that then that caused the Government to effectively ... May I please ask the question? And then the Government changed the times in which the contractors were operating. I just want to ask the Hon. Minister ... It may be that I am wrong and that the Government just simply changed the hours in order to allay concerns, rather than because anything had actually dropped on the school itself. My question is therefore this: is the Government satisfied that the health and safety measures that had been taken prior to those concerns arising were reasonable and proper in the circumstances, and have any lessons been learnt if the Government takes the view that those were not reasonable or they could have been improved in the circumstances?

210

215

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, no such incident arose. No object fell on the school. An assessment was carried out when those issues were raised with us. In particular, Technical Services Department was involved and looked fully into what had actually happened and we are entirely satisfied that that did not happen. What in fact occurred was that a noise was heard. Hon. Members will recall that I mentioned earlier that a structure had been put in place in the entrance in one of the play areas of Governor's Meadow School, whereby there was a scaffolding covered with sheeting – I think it was corrugated iron sheeting. The conclusion from the investigation as a result of the noise that was heard – and the noise was assumed by some parents perhaps legitimately, or clearly legitimately assumed by some parents that it was as a result of something falling onto the roof of the school, or rather the protective roof in the school area itself and there was this large noise .... The conclusion of the investigations was that there were some boards, which were laid out on top of that roof for workmen to be able to have access to part of the site that they were working on, and one of the workmen actually dropped the board, the plank – one of these planks that people put on in order to walk – dropped it, maybe a couple of feet rather than just placing it, and that is what caused the noise. So it was the workmen themselves taking measures as part of the works that caused the noise and caused that element of panic.

225

230 So it was not that the Government reacted to a health and safety issue that arose. In fact, no such issue arose, because we are entirely, and we were at the time, entirely satisfied. And it was exclusively – and we explained this to the parents when the Chief Minister and I addressed the assembly the following week – it was exclusively to allay those legitimate concerns that existed that we took the measures that we did, not because we felt that any incident which put any children at risk had actually taken place, because we were entirely satisfied that no such incident had actually happened.

Q214/2016
Teachers -
Overtime payments

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Clerk: Question 214. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

240

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Would the Minister for Education consider the prospect of introducing overtime pay to teachers who currently spend a lot of extra hours outside of their working hours doing unpaid work?

245

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, this is not being considered. (Interjection)

250

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I ask because, as you might be aware, in the UK there is very low morale in the teacher industry. Teachers are feeling burnt out, stressed, overworked and underpaid, and I am well aware of the directed time, as per their terms and conditions, where teachers need to be present after school, in particular for planning and preparing courses, lessons, assessing, monitoring and recording, but there is a lot of work that goes into the schools, such as the running of afternoon clubs, sports clubs, drama productions and things that teachers need to be present at, which is not acknowledged. So I would like to know if there is any acknowledgement or recognition for the teachers and the fact that they have lives outside school, yet put so many hours into it.

255

260

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, it is quite extraordinary that the Opposition ask whether we are going to introduce overtime pay for teachers in Gibraltar as a result of low morale of teachers in the UK. Where is the suggestion that we have an analogous situation in Gibraltar? In fact, I visit schools regularly and I see very, very happy teachers. Of course there are always issues that teachers raise. We constantly engage with the Gibraltar Teachers' Association, we have signed a social partnership with them, and we have a very good relationship with teachers. But by and large, although there are certainly issues, the morale is good, the conditions are good. We have increased the number of teachers by 47 when we came in in 2011.

265

With regard to the extra work that teachers do, that is certainly acknowledged – of course it is acknowledged – but it is part and parcel of what a teacher is expected to do. A teacher's work is not just, as I am sure the Hon. Mr Speaker will acknowledge, is not just going into a classroom at nine o'clock and coming out of that classroom at 9.45 or at 9.50. Of course it involves necessary preparation for that class and of course it involves necessary work in relation to marking subsequently. Again, Mr Reyes will have very, very clear experience.

270

275 As far as I am aware, neither with this Government nor in fact with the previous administration – and Mr Reyes was there for a long time – or the one before, when the GSLP was in office, has this been an issue and has any ... or even with the AACR, as far as we are aware ... that it has been an issue, that it has been on the cards, or that there has ever been a claim by the Gibraltar Teachers' Association for overtime to be paid to teachers. Clearly, we have discussions with them about terms and conditions, about pay scales, about spine points and all 280 that, and all those issues are addressed.

The hon. Member mentions directed time, she being aware of directed time, and she will be aware therefore that in the UK, given that she draws that as an analogy, what directed time requires is that teachers, over and above their teaching time, dedicate 1,265 hours a year. That is 1,265 hours a year over and above their teaching time in order to carry out all the necessary 285 preparation and all the necessary work. That is part of the pay and conditions of the UK teachers. It is what is contained in what is known as a Blue Book. We have not formally adopted ever, as far as I am aware, the Blue Book in Gibraltar, but certainly we derive some guidance from what the Blue Book says, which includes things like devoting reasonable additional hours as may be needed to enable the effective discharge of their professional duties, including planning, 290 preparation, assessing, recording and reporting. But also provided in that document is the entitlement to enjoy a reasonable work-life balance. So that is what it is all about: having a reasonable work-life balance. But whoever comes into the teaching profession is under no illusion that they get reasonable pay, good conditions of employment, but planning for lessons and work arising out of those lessons is a necessary part of their terms and conditions of 295 employment.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, thank you for the history lesson on previous administrations.

300 But I was under the impression that with the new foundations and New Dawn things would perhaps be looked at differently, but I suppose when it suits we go back to the way things were done and use them.

With regard to UK morale, it is also not, I do not think, strange to parallel the way we do things with the UK. After all, we do it with every other situation when it suits as well.

I suggest that if the Minister speaks to teachers he will perhaps learn that they are burnt out 305 and that there is low morale, and that they feel that if they do not do things like running afternoon clubs, sports clubs and drama productions, which are not part of the 1,265 hours which I am well aware of, they often get side-tracked for promotion, which is also quite something that brings down their morale.

310 So, when he talks about part and parcel, technically speaking and according to terms and conditions, the extra-curricular points that I have brought up, like the afternoon clubs, sports clubs, drama productions and school discos, which again, if they do not partake in are not technically or legally considered as part and parcel of directed time ... and this is why I was asking if there was anything that this Government would do in order to give these teachers recognition and acknowledgement in order to, so to speak, keep them happy and well 315 appreciated.

Thank you.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I want to rise because I want to acknowledge and congratulate the hon. Lady for being the first person on the opposite benches to realise 320 where there might be a rich crop of votes for the next General Election. (Laughter) She has absolutely rightly identified an area which she could mine, and I salute her for it. And she is right in particular to speak for the Opposition of the high regard that this community must have for those in the teaching profession.

Mr Speaker, apart from, I think, two or perhaps three of you in this room who might have had the benefit of the Christian Brothers education, most of us owe our education and our status in life today to the dedicated teachers, most of them Gibraltarian, who have spent time nurturing each of us and everybody else in this community. The work that teachers do is as important as the work that anybody else in this community does. Somebody was telling me the other day that, of course, all of us do important jobs and it is very likely that teachers could do any of our jobs, but it is also very likely that we might not be able to do the job that a teacher does.

And so, Mr Speaker, the recognition that this side of the House has for the work that is done by the members of the teaching profession is unstinting. It is best evidenced by the way in which we transformed the manner in which certain members of the now teaching profession were, in our view, being exploited by being on the irreconcilable concept of permanent supply – and the hon. Lady needs to understand what that was, because I am sure she will agree with me that it was right to end it – where you had people who were in the classroom literally every day of the term for a year, for two years, and I told her this the other day in relation to another matter, and were yet not a part of the teaching profession. The Hon. Mr Licudi, when he was the Opposition Member for Education, took a real interest in this. We understood the numbers, we quizzed the Government at the time, and we were very keen to ensure that we transformed permanent supply into permanent and that supply should really just be that: supply.

If she is now advocating for people who are permanently employed by the Government to have even greater terms and conditions of employment by having overtime payments made, imagine the situation that we inherited, where we had people who were working full time and were not even recognised as being full-time employees with all the consequences that that had – in particular, their ability to take mortgages, their pension provision etc. I am sure that she will agree with me that that was exploitation, it was for morale absolutely devastating, and that the New Dawn meant that 47 were immediately taken on as permanent members of staff.

Now, she also needs to understand who she sits with in Parliament and what their arguments are. Their arguments, unfortunately, in some areas, are that we are spending too much. I am sure she might say that we could finance the cost of the overtime for teachers with the cost of the refurbishment of Convent Place, but they are really running out of money at Convent Place. They seek to apply that cost to so many things that they would have refurbished Convent Place a hundred times over with the things that they pretend to pay with that refurbishment.

The cost of paying overtime is something that is at large, we would have to look at what that cost is, but this is not a claim that is being made by the Gibraltar Teachers' Association. It is not an issue in the UK that is one of parity. The hon. Lady said we sometimes look to the UK and sometimes we do not. Well, in terms of salaries and terms and conditions we do look to the UK. The hon. Gentleman has told her about the Green or the Blue Book – (Hon. G H Licudi: The Blue Book.) the Blue Book – but the issue of parity is one that is alive and well in terms of grading etc. in some of the areas that we deal with, with teachers. So I think those are important considerations that she has to bear in mind when dealing with this point. If, for the past 60 years of successful and outstanding Gibraltarian education through the hand of Gibraltarian teachers, the payment of overtime has not been an issue which has caused or not caused morale to rise or to in any way be diminished, then I will not be persuaded today that that is an issue. The fact that morale may be low in the United Kingdom may be related to a huge number of matters, not least the austerity that the United Kingdom is going through as public finances are capped and the lack of pay rises, which is not an issue which is affecting our teaching profession. The hon. Lady may know that there had been no pay rises in the public sector in the United Kingdom until last year, where I think the pay rise has been 1%, whilst here they have been in the order of 2%, and now almost 3% for the time that we have been in Government, and in fact starting at the time that they were in Government. So teachers in Gibraltar will be earning approximately 10% more than an equal teacher in the United Kingdom with whom they might be on parity.

375 And of course there is in the United Kingdom a shortage of teachers, Mr Speaker, whilst in Gibraltar there is not a shortage of teachers. We have a waiting list for people to come on to be employed, which demonstrates that there is a desire to enter the profession.

All of that, Mr Speaker, I say with the fondest regard for the way that she has quite properly identified an area which she could make a lot of in electoral terms – sometimes a talent, Mr Speaker, that I confess I have not spotted in any of the other Members sitting across with her. (Laughter and banging on desks)

A Member: Hear, hear.

385 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, thank you very much to the Hon. Chief Minister for the information, which I will review and in due course perhaps come back to the Minister of Education with any further queries. But let me remind the Chief Minister that education is my area, so whether it gets me votes or not is immaterial. If I get issues brought to me I am here to bring them up, and that is why I am talking about teachers – because they fall under the remit of education. (Banging on desks)

390 When it comes to spending we have a policy in the GSD that it is all about priority, (A Member: Exactly. Hear, hear.) (Banging on desks) and education would be paramount for the future generations and for our community, so obviously that was all I was trying to bring up.

Thank you.

395

Hon. Chief Minister: I am grateful, Mr Speaker, for that indication, and I am very pleased to see that the hon. Members clap each other when they remind the Parliament of what their shadow responsibilities are. (Laughter)

400 Mr Speaker, education could not be more of a priority for any party in the history of Gibraltar than for the GSLP, which I happily lead, and I will give her an example of why it is that I am proud to say that.

In 1988 the GSLP fought a General Election saying that they would change the practice that there had been until then that there were only a few discretionary scholarships and scholarships if you reached a particular number of points, so that anybody who secured a place at a place of further education in the United Kingdom would be able to go away and study. And, Mr Speaker, many of us sitting on this side of the House, and indeed many of those sitting on that side of the House might also be the product of that change. I am happy to say I think I achieved the points anyway, but those of us who might not have achieved the points would have been able to go, and this has been transformational for Gibraltar. Our opponents in that election – and I was not active in politics at the time; I was active in the Students Association with the hon. Member the Hon. Shadow Chancellor, Mr Speaker ... but it has transformed Gibraltar, Mr Speaker, although at that time, during that General Election, it was said that that policy would bankrupt Gibraltar.

410 Mr Speaker, the transformation in Gibraltar has been because there are Gibraltarian professionals now leading in the professions. The Gibraltar we have today is built on the backs of that education. That is why the New Dawn of 2011 also provided that we would extend that practice into secondary education. And of course, Mr Speaker, when you talk about educational priorities, I also stand here as the leader of the only party that has opened, in the last 30 years, opened two new schools. The last party to do that was the GSLP in 1988 with the two new St Joseph's Schools, the next party to do that was the GSLP Liberal Government with the two new St Bernard's Schools, and the only party with a General Election manifesto commitment to open many new schools, not a mega school at Rooke, was this party.

415 Mr Speaker, the transformation in Gibraltar has been because there are Gibraltarian professionals now leading in the professions. The Gibraltar we have today is built on the backs of that education. That is why the New Dawn of 2011 also provided that we would extend that practice into secondary education. And of course, Mr Speaker, when you talk about educational priorities, I also stand here as the leader of the only party that has opened, in the last 30 years, opened two new schools. The last party to do that was the GSLP in 1988 with the two new St Joseph's Schools, the next party to do that was the GSLP Liberal Government with the two new St Bernard's Schools, and the only party with a General Election manifesto commitment to open many new schools, not a mega school at Rooke, was this party.

420 So, almost 50 more teachers; in the first instance, compulsory grants for those who secured a place at further education and in the second instance, now, the second degree also mandatory if people are able to secure their place; and two more new schools and many more new schools to come. 'Education, education, education', as I said during the lifetime of the last Parliament – the hon. Lady was not here to hear me say it, so I am quite happy to repeat it for her – are the only terms, the only phrase that Tony Blair used in the time of the New Labour government with which every Gibraltarian, I am sure, would be able to associate.

425

430 Mr Speaker: May I draw the attention of hon. Members to the fact that we have spent more than half an hour on just two questions, and they might care, since we are talking about education, to take out a pencil and work out how much longer we are going to be here at this rate of or at this lack of progress.

435 Very important, education – a subject that I value enormously – but that does not mean that we have to have very lengthy answers in all cases from both Ministers. I think they are very, very lengthy and I would ask hon. Members to be more brief, unless they wish to be here for another week or so.

440 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, may I just seek a very quick answer from the Minister?

Mr Speaker: A very quick answer?

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes.

445 Mr Speaker: Absolutely.

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, just confirmation as a result of ... and I fully understand the explanations he was giving. Can he please reconfirm to teaching professionals and so on, other than the pay and conditions that are set out in what is commonly known as the Blue Book and so on, and the directed time, do we still have in existence those arrangements that we ... the nomenclature that used to be called the 'separate contract', whereby some teachers may offer their services, for example, to offer adult evening education classes, and that being considered duties over and above what their daytime job may be in one of our other schools, and they used to enter into agreements called separate contracts and therefore attracted separate remuneration? Has there been no change? Just confirmation there has been no change and that still continues, as has been the practice now for many years.

455 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I am certainly not aware of any change. I have not directed any change in relation to that, and therefore I assume, although I have not checked, that the position continues to be as it was.

Q215/2016
Schools' IT equipment –
Availability of technicians

Clerk: Question 215. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

465 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Does Government currently have technicians in schools to man and maintain IT equipment and resources?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, yes, the Government does have technicians in schools to man and maintain IT equipment and resources.

470 Full details were given by me in answer to Question 319/2014.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, are these technicians permanent in school, and how does the system work?

475 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I have just explained that full details were given by me in answer to Question 319/2014. It is in fact a very lengthy answer. I am happy to read the whole answer again, if Mr Speaker wants me to.

Mr Speaker: I think the procedure in such a case, where the Minister is referring an hon. Member of the Opposition to a question that was answered during the previous Parliament, I think the procedure should be that that should give the Member of the Opposition an opportunity to read up on that question, and I will allow of course a further question at the next meeting of the House. I will not apply the six-month rule, because the hon. Member of the Opposition is being referred to something that they need to read up on.

485 I hope the Government understands that procedure.

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I am happy with that approach, but just to answer directly the question whether there are technicians permanently based – although full details, as I said, were given in the relatively lengthy answer I gave in 2014 – just to confirm that there is one qualified ICT technician based permanently at Bayside and another based permanently at Westside, the College has its own ICT technician and there are four other technicians who are engaged as part of the Government’s IT and LD Department, who were engaged specifically for schools and provide support for first and middle schools as and when required.

495 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I was just trying to highlight, as I had been made aware that there were, in fact, as the hon. Gentleman says, only permanent IT technicians in Bayside and Westside, leaving middle schools and primary schools without permanent support. So this was something that I was wondering whether he would consider installing.

500 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, this is something that we did consider and, as I explained previously, when we came into office in 2011 there was, as I recall, only one permanent technician, who I believe was based in Bayside. Other than that, schools were at the mercy of the requirements of Government generally, and in particular of the Government’s IT Department. They were very stretched and support for IT in all schools was substantially lacking.

505 I went to great pains to explain what the system was before and how we changed the system, but now we have more permanently engaged technicians based at schools themselves and four specific technicians who were engaged for the specific purpose of supporting schools. They are based at the Government’s IT Department. Why is that? Simply for practical purposes, because there is work to be done in Government offices beyond the school hours and when the schools are on holiday, and therefore we took the practical decision that those four technicians would be engaged to support the schools but would be based at the Government’s IT Department and do other jobs when the schools were not in operation, either after 3.30 or when the schools are in recess during summer holidays and so forth.

510 But we engaged four specific IT technicians for schools, based at the Government’s IT Department, but those are very specific, to support first and middle schools, and that support simply was not there when we came in in 2011.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I understand what the hon. Gentleman is saying and I thank him for the information.

520 I understand there is a ticket system of sorts, and my question would be: what priority so schools take? It is 2016, and in five years IT would have taken a bigger priority in schools. You bring in systems, smart boards, computers, and I believe that perhaps there is more need to have permanently based technicians in schools. From what I understand, there are only

525 permanently based technicians in Bayside, Westside and the College, as he just said. So, what I am asking is whether they would consider having permanently based technicians in all schools in the advent of more IT being a priority in schools since 2011, when I accept that perhaps the IT support would have been substandard then but things have moved on.

Hon. G H Licudi: Well, Mr Speaker, they certainly have moved on, and they have moved on in 530 leaps and bounds since December 2011. I am basically being drawn in to reading the three-page, or two-and-a-half-page question to address all the issues that the hon. Lady is referring to.
Is it now GSD policy before we were being urged to pay overtime –?

Mr Speaker: Perhaps we can leave this question now, I think, and we revisit it at the next 535 meeting, (Interjection) after the hon. Lady has had an opportunity, because I do not think the Minister should be constantly referring, to what was a very very long answer to a previous question, should be constantly referring as a result of supplementaries.

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I am happy with that, but there was a specific question, which is 540 whether we will now be employing a technician to be based permanently in each school.

We assessed the requirements of the school system. As I was about to ask, is it now GSD policy that of the 17 schools there should be 17 technicians based in each school? Is that what they are urging us to do? It has never been GSD policy. It certainly was not GSD policy when schools were all but abandoned, particularly first and middle schools, from an IT point of view.
545 And I use that word advisedly, because that is what I have been advised was actually happening.
Schools were essentially abandoned up to December 2011 from an IT point of view.

Things have moved on very significantly and we now have permanent members of staff at Bayside, Westside and its own technician at the College, and four other technicians that attend to the needs of the first and middle schools. This is a matter that continuously needs to be 550 assessed, and should we believe and discover that the IT needs of the schools improve or increase and we need to give consideration to greater support through the Government's IT Department, that is certainly something that will happen. But what we have put in place is actually a system which is a far cry from the system we found in 2011.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I am just asking whether Government would be 555 willing to put in more permanent technicians, because from what I understand, a lot of the IT systems, they look great but a lot of the time they do not work and they are laid there, smart boards and computers, not working. I get this from teachers. I am not lying. So, if the Minister wants to adhere to these notes that I am giving him from what I am hearing, he can; otherwise, 560 he can leave it the way it is. As you well know, we are not in Government; we are not setting policy. I am simply bringing issues to the table, and if he wants to take them on board he can.

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, but it is all very well for the hon. Member to be a spokesperson or a mouthpiece for somebody who comes with a particular problem – that is certainly part of 565 their job – but it is simply not true to say that systems in schools a lot of the time do not work.
And just because the hon. Member has heard maybe one report from somebody who might have had one particular problem with one particular computer, that does not mean that systems in schools a lot of the time do not work, which is what the hon. Lady has elevated the matter to.

We have to be responsible about statements made in Parliament and not make those kind of 570 statements which bear no resemblance, no resemblance, to the actual truth.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I would not be so facetious or waste parliamentary time bringing one report from one person. I often speak to many people from many schools before I bring an issue to Parliament. I just want that on the record.

575 Thank you.

Q216/2016
Children in full-time education –
Verification of residency

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Clerk: Question 216. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

580 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Would the Minister for Education explain what procedures the Department of Education has in place to monitor the verity of the local residency of children in full-time education?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

585

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, a check on residency is part and parcel of the school enrolment process at the Department of Education. All applications for school enrolment in schools involve the submission of proof of residency by parents or guardians.

590

The Department of Education follows a number of pathways to check on residency status, including the use of ID cards, utility bills, permits of residence where these have been issued, rental agreements or contracts, and information and assistance from other HM Government of Gibraltar Departments such as Civil Status and Registration Office.

595

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I ask, in relation to this particular issue, whether any of the systems for cross checks that the hon. Gentleman has just outlined in his reply have actually changed from when they got elected in December 2011.

600

The reason why I ask is this: because I remember sitting on the Government benches and the hon. Gentleman actually asking very similar questions to the one that the hon. Lady has asked, and suggesting that there are quite a number of people across the Frontier who are coming from Spain in order to take advantage of our free education system, which then has implications for university etc. It just strikes me that if the systems are exactly the same as they were in December 2011, then those problems that the hon. Gentleman claimed existed prior to that date no doubt exist post that date, which is, I suppose, the root to the question that is being asked by the hon. Lady.

605

May I also add, in the context of that question that I have asked, that I have seen articles in the press supportive of the hon. Gentleman opposite – the Panorama Newspaper – where this appears to be something that is a problem, and I just wonder what checks have changed since the hon. Gentleman came into office, bearing in mind the questions that he asked when he was in opposition.

610

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I do not remember the specific issues that the hon. Member says that I raised. I am not saying that I did not raise them, I just have no recollection specifically of that.

615

It is certainly true that a check on residency has always been required; that is not a new system that we introduced. And the ways of checking residency may not have changed, either through rental contracts or agreements or ID cards, utility bills, permits of residence and all that. The issue might simply be a matter of emphasis on how stringent those checks are or whether they may or may not have been. I do not know, and it frankly did not matter to me what they were before, but certainly I needed to make sure that the checks that are made currently, and have been made for the last four years since I have been Minister for Education, are sufficiently stringent for the Director of Education himself to be satisfied in respect of residency for all students going to Gibraltar schools.

620

625 In most cases it is not an issue. In most cases, somebody who comes with an address in Varyl Begg, who has been through the normal process, it just is not an issue. In other cases issues are raised and documents need to be looked at a little bit more carefully. I know that in one case recently we have had the Director of Education and Senior Education Adviser going to a residence and knocking on the door to check whether the particular person who said he was 630 living at that residence was actually there. I do not know whether that happened before, but it certainly has happened. (Interjection) Mr Reyes suggests that that has happened before. So it is that extent of checking that is carried out, but the policy is very simple: if you are resident in Gibraltar you are entitled to free education in Gibraltar, and if you are not then you are not. The system is intended to make sure that that is exactly the policy that is applied.

635 Hon. D A Feetham: So just to be absolutely clear, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has no recollection that he has given instructions to introduce any kind of different system since he became Minister for Education on this particular issue?

640 Hon. G H Licudi: That is not what I have said. I have said I had no recollection about the previous questions that I supposedly asked. I have not said that I have no recollection.

Of course I have a recollection of giving instructions. This is a matter that I have discussed on a number of occasions with professionals at the Department of Education, with the Director in particular. I have asked for advice on what the system is and how the system can be improved, and I have given instructions that stringent checks need to be carried out wherever there is a 645 doubt, so that we make sure that those who are resident go to schools and those who are not resident do not take up places that should go to local residents.

So yes, I have given instructions specifically that stringent checks should be carried out on residence checks.

650 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I understand that but that is not the question. My question was: is there a different system in place, as a consequence of him becoming a Minister, to that which existed prior to December 2011? Because, no doubt if I asked the Minister for Education at the time that we were in Government he would say, 'I too met with the Director of Education,
I too met with the pertinent authorities and I too gave instructions that there should be 655 stringent checks.' But with these things it is not about a Minister giving instructions that there be stringent checks; it is about systems, those are, what is in place that ensures that people do not get through the net. That is why I am asking this question. I tried to give the hon. Gentleman the benefit of the doubt, because in four years ... It may well be that in 2012 he may have had a meeting and he may have said, 'Well, look, let's tweak the system in this way,' and he cannot 660 remember. That is why I phrased the question in the way that I phrased the question.

But just to be clear, again, he has no recollection – that is why I am putting it in this way – of giving any instructions to change the system as from December 2011?

665 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member insists, but I have not said that I denied in my earlier intervention that I had said that. Of course I have a recollection – and I say that again: of course I have a recollection – of discussing it. In fact, only last week I had a conversation specifically on this matter with the Director of Education before the – well last week or maybe a couple of weeks ago, certainly before the question arose.

Is the system different? I do not know whether the system is different or not. I know that 670 there has always been a requirement to check on residency. How stringent that was applied previously, that is a matter for the GSD and it is not a matter for me. What I know is that I gave instructions and I have repeated those instructions and I have had several meetings with the professionals in which the Government insists that stringent checks are applied in order to check on residency for the purposes of enrolment to our schools.

675

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Hon. T N Hammond: Sorry, Mr Speaker –

680 Mr T N Hammond: Yes.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, bearing in mind the Hon. the Minister has instructed the stringent application of the systems, is the Minister satisfied that there is not a single non-resident receiving an education in any of the public schools in Gibraltar?

685

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I am entirely satisfied that the policy that the Government has put in place is applied by the Department of Education and that the Director of Education is himself satisfied as to residency, otherwise he would take steps to remedy that.

690

Is there the remote possibility of someone having slipped through the net? Well, I suppose that possibility always exists, and I cannot give any possible guarantees. But am I satisfied that the system is working properly and the Director of Education himself is satisfied? Well, yes, I am satisfied, because I have asked him and he has indicated that the system is in place and is working.

Q217/2016
Special educational needs –
Assessment process

695 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Clerk: Question 217. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

700

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: In connection with the 2011 manifesto promising the SEN system, assessing all children to see whether they require special needs regardless of whether the child requires special needs because they are above or below average, would the Minister for Education confirm whether it has been done and/or is still in place?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

705

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I can confirm that all children are assessed upon entry and that, furthermore, this assessment process is ongoing to ensure appropriate provision and support is afforded.

Q218/2016
Construction and refurbishment of schools –
Anticipated levels of disruption

710

Clerk: Question 218. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can Government give an indication as to the level of disruption that teachers and students can expect in the forthcoming construction and/or refurbishment of the various schools as outlined in their manifesto?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

715

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information

(Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, Government is still at a planning stage in relation to works to schools and creation of entirely new schools as outlined in our manifesto. This will be the most significant investment in the fabric of our educational establishments in our history. Everyone in our community will no doubt welcome this investment in new schools. Already we have developed two new schools in one term and a University. We will go on and do even better now in this term. Teachers, parents and children will be delighted. Part of the planning process will clearly involve ensuring that any disruption is kept to a minimum.

720

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, in terms of the Bayside refurbishment, can the Minister confirm that the –

725

Mr Speaker: The hon. Lady has to be very careful, because only ten minutes ago that is precisely what was being debated.

730

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, but the Hon. –

Mr Speaker: Bayside. The Hon. Mr Trevor Hammond raised the whole question of health and safety on the incidents that occurred at Bayside. You need to be careful that you...

735

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: I understand that the Hon. the Minister for Education said that he would be dealing with it when the question came up to me, so –

Hon. D A Feetham: That is the point.

740

Mr Speaker: He did, I am very sorry and I apologise.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: – this is why I ask if in Bayside ... Are the students going to remain in Bayside during the refurbishment of Bayside? Because if they are, how can we minimise the noise? Because these children are going to be taking exams. It is a period where they do GCSEs and A-levels, and as much as I am sure the Minister would want to minimise noise, noise is inevitable and teachers are already complaining – not one teacher, many teachers in Bayside are already complaining – that they have to speak over and above their usual tone because of the World Trade Centre, for example.

745

My concern is that these children are taking exams at different levels and whether it would disrupt them and the teachers trying to teach the syllabus.

750

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I have said that Government is at a planning stage and part of the planning will involve logistics: how it is going to be done and how is that disruption going to be kept to a minimum in areas where we already have schools. It is one thing to build a new school, like we did with St Bernard's in a different site to St Bernard's first and St Bernard's Middle – Sacred Heart, as it was – and then bring the two schools together. Where one is working in a site where there are already children, then planning is of a different nature and logistics has to be taken into account. We already have experience of having done a number of works in existing schools – we did the extension to Notre Dame, we have done an extension to St Martin's, we have done an extension and extra classrooms in St Joseph's – so we already have some experience of the planning that needs to go into these matters.

755

But this is clearly the focus of what the Government is now doing: planning as to how it is going to be done, to make sure that we keep that disruption to a minimum. And I am certainly very well aware of the issues that the hon. Lady has raised. I have discussed this with the Headmaster at Bayside in particular. I know what the teachers are saying and all those views will certainly be taken into account and the works will have to be very, very carefully planned and very carefully logistically mapped out to make sure that we keep that disruption to a minimum.

765

770 Hon Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, from what I understand, already during the election campaign the GSLP party was saying that the planning stage had already been organised and that they already knew how they were going to minimise disruption. And having said that, as 775 much as they would like to minimise disruption I do not see how workers can be silent during the building of a property while students are in school. Personally, I would think that the only way to ensure that students are not disrupted would be to actually move them. I cannot imagine ... as much as they try to find logistics that will minimise disruption, as long as they are in the same building the disruption will be there. And from what I understand ... from what I remember, Minister Linares said once that he did not want to do a refurbishment at the Victoria 780 Stadium in order not to disrupt students at Bayside. So in order to make a new Bayside, how can you keep the students sitting in Bayside without disruption unless you actually move them?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, as I said during the General Election campaign, the party had been responsible for creating the manifesto commitments and the party which I represent has a plan which it is now sharing with the people who are responsible in 785 Government. (Laughter) Apparently, Mr Speaker, the fact that parties have a plan creates mirth on the other side. Given the result of the election, I am not surprised, Mr Speaker, that they do not plan in the party! That is what is now being consulted on and is being, of course, improved on.

If it is of any consolation to the hon. Lady she is not more concerned than we are that 790 students should not be disrupted. We are as concerned that they should not be disrupted. It is our responsibility that they should not be disrupted and we will ensure that the work is done in a way that minimises disruption.

Of course, on some occasions private entities have construction going on next to a school.
The World Trade Centre is there. It was a project which was approved by the former GSD 795 administration to be next to a school and therefore was going to have to be built next to a school and cause disruption. But I will give her this hint. We have demonstrated to them how it is possible to do works next to a school in a way that a school is not disrupted, if we are the party responsible both for the works and for the school, by the mechanism that the hon.
Gentleman has outlined to her was used in the area of Governor's Meadow, where workers 800 commenced at 3.30 in the afternoon after school was out and work which was carried on during the school day was carried on in a way that has not caused any disruption, has gone on – if I may put it this way, so that the hon. Lady understands it – inside the envelope of a building, and a lot of work has been accelerated during school holidays etc.

That is the way that the Hon. Minister delivered excellent refurbishments and additional 805 facilities for St Martin's and also for Notre Dame School, things which we sometimes forget when we are talking about the huge investment we have made in education. We sometimes only talk about the two new schools we have created, but we have created new classrooms at St Martin's and refurbished extensively at St Joseph's and Notre Dame – all of it, Mr Speaker, without disruption to students.

810 So that is our priority as much as it is theirs, if not more so, Mr Speaker, because it is our responsibility as well.

I will just end with this, Mr Speaker. I did my Oxford entrance exam with a pneumatic drill outside the room. I think that is why I finished quicker and managed to pass.

815 Hon. Ms M D Hassan: Mr Speaker, I am very grateful for that answer. Perhaps there are many students who are not as intelligent as our Chief Minister and are not of Oxbridge potential and therefore they need to concentrate more and they need less noise around.

I am grateful for the almost-undertaking among all the marketing and PR of this Government's record on education (Hon. D A Feetham: Hear, hear.) (Banging on desks) on how they are going to ensure that noise is minimised, and I will take it that students can count on no noise-related activity during school hours. Is that what the hon. Gentleman is saying?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, that is exactly what I am saying – that what we are going to do is to minimise any disruption to the maximum possible degree. Will there be no disruption? Well, Mr Speaker, I do not think it is about intelligence; I think it is about exam technique. If you are doing exams, I think it is about concentration if you are in the classroom. But will there be no disruption? Well, Mr Speaker, there will be the least possible disruption it is possible for there to be. We would like that to be zero, Mr Speaker. Will it be possible for it to be zero? Perhaps not, but we shall endeavour to make it zero because that is our responsibility. It is our responsibility to the students, it is our responsibility to the teachers and it is what we want to achieve. Will we be able to achieve it? Well, the engineering will guide us towards how we best achieve that, but I guarantee her that the work that we will do in July and August will cause zero disruption, and the work that we will do during the Christmas and Easter holidays will cause zero disruption, and that the work that we will do after 3.30 will cause zero disruption, and that therefore there will be less weeks in the year when there might be something going on during a lesson than there would be weeks in the year when there were things going on which will not cause disruption.

I assume that she supports that we should be making this investment – the public decided it should be our proposal that should be the one that continues and not theirs – and that she believes that we should be making the investment, and that she just agrees with us that we should be doing that in a way which is the least disruptive possible, which is what I am telling her is exactly the objective of the Government. It appears that we are ... despite the attempts to create a suggestion that she cares more, which is her PR style, actually the underlying reality is that we entirely agree that it must be done in the least disruptive way possible.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, all I was trying to ascertain was to ensure that we are all on the same page in terms of the least disruption, and I accept the hon. Gentleman's explanation.

May I suggest that, from my point of view, the least disruption clearly possible would be to actually move the students from Bayside, and may I remind the hon. Gentleman that during the GSD time in Government – for example, when the Hebrew School underwent a refurbishment – the students from the Hebrew School were moved to the College. So I am just wondering if there is a possibility for the Bayside students to be moved during this refurbishment, to completely ensure that they are completely not disrupted during their school time?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, the page is page 72 of the Strongest Foundations manifesto where the hon. Lady will see the magnificent plans that there are already for Bayside School. The logistics of the works – and Mr Speaker complains that we are going on for too long, but she is asking me to commit myself to the logistics of the works –

Mr Speaker: I did not complain. I just pointed out to hon. Members that, on the basis of this progress we may be ... I am prepared to be here next week, if necessary; that is my job and I do not complain. I just point it out so that hon. Members know where we stand.

Hon. Chief Minister: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

We have told her repeatedly that we are going to minimise the disruption etc. The logistics of that will be a package that will be dealt with by the professionals, by the Minister, by the Department, and will include, if necessary, a relocation. But I would have thought that is one of the things we would seek to avoid, because of course that creates its own disruption of another type. But she can rest assured, Mr Speaker, that this Government is 100% committed to the 870 least possible disruption to any student for the implementation of what is the most magnificent transformation of the fabric of educational establishments in Gibraltar ever proposed to our nation by a party in a General Election, and now this Government's commitment for the next four years.

875 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you, I look forward to that. And thank you for your own PR style on your spin on this.

Hon. Chief Minister: My pleasure.

880 Mr Speaker, she does not have to have the last word; she has to ask questions, (Laughter) and when she asks questions we get up to answer them.

Q219-220/2016
Supply teachers –
Numbers available; HR policy

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Clerk: Question 219. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

885 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister give details of the number of supply teachers currently available to cover sick and absent teachers?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

890 Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 220.

Clerk: Question 220. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

895 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Education explain what the Human Resources policy is in connection with sending supply teachers to cover absent or sick teachers, i.e. how soon after a school or college reports an absence does a supply teacher from outside the school or college come in to fill that absence?

900 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, there are 78 supply teachers currently providing cover for sick and absent teachers.

905 Supply teachers will usually cover for absent and sick teachers as soon as a suitable supply teacher is identified from the supply pool. There is no predetermined waiting period, but the deployment of a supply teacher will be prioritised in consultation with the headteacher according to the number of absences already affecting the school during the period, as well as any other significant circumstances such as the length and nature of the absence, the notice afforded to the Department, whether the absence occurs in a small or large school, whether it is 910 the primary or secondary sector, and so on.

I would add, Mr Speaker, that prior to December 2011 the general practice was that the school had to wait for three working days before supply was sent. That practice was done away 915 with by me following representations from schools to the effect that it made no sense for them to have to wait three days if a supply teacher was available to cover for the absent teachers.

I would also point out, Mr Speaker, that the increase of 47 full-time teachers in 2011 went a long way in addressing staffing issues at schools, and in many cases this makes it easier for schools to cover for absences internally, despite the criticism from some about the increases in public sector employees.

920

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q221/2016
Westside and Bayside Schools –
Teaching assistants

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Clerk: Question 221. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

925

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: How many teaching assistants are there in Westside and Bayside Schools respectively, and what are the criteria for them to be required to help in any given classroom?

930

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, there are 15 special needs learning support assistants in Bayside and 12 in Westside.

935

Pupils with special educational needs are discussed at the multi-disciplinary Special Needs Assessment Panel, as set out in the 1977 Children with Special Needs (Assessment Panel) Regulations. Recommendations on the level of support required per child, including support from learning support assistants, are then made to the Director of Education, who will then authorise the deployment and allocation of these resources. The Special Needs Co-ordinator within the schools will then assign these according to the needs of the children.

940

Q222/2016
Teaching English as a Foreign Language –
Level of resourcing

Clerk: Question 222. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Would the Minister provide details of the level of resourcing for TEFL (Teaching English as a Foreign Language) at primary, middle and secondary level?

945

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information

(Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, at secondary level there is a specialist teacher allocated to Bayside and Westside who works with pupils in small groups to support their learning and improve their English skills. Currently, 40 pupils are supported across both schools.

In the primary sector there are now established strategies developed after the Department of Education provided the Special Needs Co-ordinators with in-service training in 2012 on supporting and teaching children whose first language is not English.

Schools will use TEFL teaching using a wide range of methods, including in-class support, using special needs support assistants, teacher-led language support groups and, for children with additional needs, withdrawal from mainstream into smaller schools for more targeted teaching.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, may I ask the hon. Gentleman: with the increase in children of naturalised families and the many other international families that are residing in Gibraltar, perhaps the idea of a full immersion course at the beginning of the academic year ... would that be a consideration for Government in order to streamline the children? Also, it would cause less disruption to all the other mainstream pupils, who often get slowed down by teachers who have to explain things in a slower way to children who are not exactly up to speed.

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, an increase in naturalised families, as I understand it, does not result in an increase in residents. These are people who have been in Gibraltar for many years and have at some point – after 10, 20, sometimes more years, 30 or 40 years of living in Gibraltar – have become naturalised. So these are people who have been in Gibraltar for many years. And in fact those are the least of the problems, because the children of those people who are naturalised are generally those who have come through the education system in Gibraltar and have English, if not as their first certainly as one of their main languages, and that generally does not present a problem.

We have allocated a specific resource to the secondary sector. In fact, we were the first to do so. It did not exist before December 2011 and we took the opportunity in 2012 when the 47 extra teachers, the extra complement of 47, was being engaged, and there was one applicant who was not just a qualified teacher but has specialist qualifications in teaching English as a foreign language and we specifically employed that teacher as part of the 47 to be a peripatetic teacher in the secondary sector to provide the support which, as I said, did not exist before.

At primary level I have given examples of how these children are supported and the Department of Education, in conjunction with a strategy that we started in 2012 which involves the engagement of that specialist teacher, provide an in-service training to what are generally called SENCOs – Special Educational Needs Co-ordinators – of each school as to how to support children with language difficulties.

Ultimately, these are professional decisions. These are not policy decisions for the Government; we simply make resources available. We decide a policy. We have given the professionals at the schools and the Department of Education the necessary tools in terms of teaching resources. How they are best deployed for education in Gibraltar is really a matter for them.

I am advised that the measures that they have put in place are adequate and are the ones that are needed to support children with these difficulties. We clearly recognise that sometimes children come to Gibraltar with their families and English is not their first language and that creates an initial difficulty; but children are in fact very resilient and they adapt very quickly, and the younger they are the easier it becomes for them to adapt and they generally become an integral part of the class very quickly.

But clearly there is a need for support. That support is provided and the professionals of the Department, in my view, do excellent work in providing the necessary support to these children.

1000 Hon. Ms. M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I appreciate the work that the Minister for Education has been doing regarding teaching English as a Foreign Language, but I repeat my suggestion from the various sources is that a full immersion course would be a good idea in order to bring children up to speed, and I leave it at that.

Thank you.

1005 Hon. G H Licudi: Again, the hon. Member wants to have the last word and make a statement, rather than asking a supplementary. She has made a suggestion, I have picked it up, I will pass it on to the professionals and let the professionals decide whether her suggestion is a good one or not.

1010 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: It really is not about making a statement or having the last word. (Interjection) No. I put to you a question and you do not ... The hon. Member does not actually answer me one way or another, so I have to repeat what the question was in order for him to understand that that was the question.

1015 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, not getting an answer is not the same as not getting the answer she wants.

1020 We provide answers. We are asked questions and we provide the answers that we consider as a Government are answers to those questions. Whether she accepts or believes that those answers are adequate or satisfactory is a matter for her, but that is not the same as not getting an answer.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: This is precisely the point, Mr Speaker. I was not getting an answer.

Q223/2016
Hot school lunches –
Update

1025 Clerk: Question 223. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister provide an update with regard to their manifesto commitment on hot school lunches for all schools?

1030 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the Government's 2015 manifesto commitment states as follows, and I quote:

A full process of consultation with parents, headteachers, teachers and their unions will take place so that we can start the provision of hot school meals to all children whose parents agree.

1035 Government is in the process of planning such a consultation exercise with all the necessary stakeholders.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: I am very sorry if this may be a last word and not exactly a question as he would like it to be, but I think it is. From what I remember, the Chief Minister, at the opening of the University, declared as a commitment a fait accompli of hot school lunches 1040 for the next mandate that they won. So I did not know that it was in a consultation stage. From what I understand, it was a done deal.

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, again the hon. Member fails to ... and she acknowledges, on top of that, when she gets up, that she is not going to ask a question.

1045

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): She needs to be stopped.

Hon. G H Licudi: When she says she did not know that there was going to be a consultation process, has she just found out from me telling her now that there is going to be a consultation 1050 process? It is black upon white in the manifesto. It is a manifesto commitment and it is that manifesto – how many was it? – seven out of 10 Gibraltarians voted for. (Several Members: Hear, Hear.) (Banging on desks) That is the manifesto that we are seeking to implement and that is exactly the commitment that we are going to carry through during this term of office.

1055 Mr Speaker: I think I do have to remind hon. Members of the Opposition that they should ask questions. It is not a very difficult process, after a bit of practice, to rephrase a statement as a question. I commend that.

1060 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may ask the hon. Member, in terms of school lunches would he confirm that it is the Government's intention that these lunches be provided free across all schools, and has he undertaken a preliminary costing of this?

1065 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, as we have indicated, this is a matter that will be considered by the Government as a result, or as part and parcel, of the consultation process which is going to take place. That is the whole purpose of carrying out that consultation. And once we carry out that consultation process and take policy decisions, we will announce them.

1070 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I commend to the hon. Gentleman, that if the Government is considering, as it appears from the wording of the manifesto commitment, the charging for hot lunches to parents who may wish their children to receive these lunches, that of course they bear in mind that there are many, many people in Gibraltar who, because of their means, cannot pay and could not pay for hot lunches for their children, and therefore the state has a responsibility in relation to those children.

1075 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, in fact, let us be very, very clear about who stands for what.
There is absolutely no question of this Government pretending to charge a parent who is unable to afford it for a school lunch. It should also be common ground, Mr Speaker, I believe, that if people are able to afford it there might be no good reason to simply gift something to those families, because we have to concentrate on those who cannot afford.

1080 The Government's guiding principle of this issue is that there should not be a child in school, watching others eat, unable to eat because his parents cannot afford it. That is not the Gibraltar that we will be presiding over; it is not a Gibraltar that we would tolerate, Mr Speaker. But I have to tell Members here that today there are some instances where children are unequal at lunchtime because some parents may be able to afford to send something to school and others 1085 are unable to send something to school. We read, in particular from the World Health Organisation and from UNICEF, that even in Spain there are children who are now only getting their hot meal a day in school because of the austerity that has been there. That is not where Gibraltar is, Mr Speaker.

1090 What the Government will do in terms of paying for meals or not paying for meals is part of the consultation process. My own view, Mr Speaker, is that today parents spend money on food.
Parents would much rather it be provided and not have to prepare and provide it themselves and they would happily pay a reasonable amount of money for that. But if there are people who cannot pay, then of course the Government will ensure that those people do not have to pay. Gibraltar Socialist Labour Party: it means something to those of us who sit on this side of the House.

1095

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am very grateful to the Chief Minister. Of course, if I had not asked the question that information would not have come out, and the reason why I asked that particular question was to allay the concerns of anybody listening to these exchanges that that is the position of the Government. It was not meant in any way, shape or form in order to criticise the Government. There are things on which both political parties – indeed, I suppose any political party that were in this House and that were elected by the people of Gibraltar, who have a huge amount of common sense and would never elect to this place a political party that effectively charges people who cannot afford to pay for hot meals for their children.

1100

1105

I also welcome the statement by the Chief Minister that everything is in the mix, so to speak, and that those who can perhaps afford to pay for hot lunches for their children ... that perhaps the Government considers charging not an excessive fee but a reasonable fee in relation to those hot lunches, and I think that that is right and proper and that is the way that ... or considerations that ought to be taken in any future Gibraltar and moving away from a situation where one is entitled to everything and anything. Those who cannot ought to be sustained; those who can ought to pay their own way in situations like this.

1110

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I do not detect a question and I thought it was Question Time, but it has never been the position of the Government that those who cannot should pay; it only appeared to be the position of Mr Clinton a moment ago.

1115

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q224/2016
Prison Service –
Waitlisting for positions

Clerk: Question 224. The Hon. D A Feetham.

1120

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Minister – or can the Government, I should say – please state whether the period of time for those currently waitlisted for positions within the Prison Service will be extended beyond March of this year?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

1125

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the decision whether to extend the waiting list will be taken nearer the date.

1130

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, thank you very much for the answer. Without wishing to criticise the Hon. Minister, because it is not my intention – it is obviously not going to be very helpful to people who are concerned about this particular situation. I have had a number of them who have come to my office to express their concern at the situation that they are waitlisted at the end of March, and then they will come off the waitlist and the whole process starts again.

1135

1140 May I commend to the Minister that the Minister considers extending the waitlisting period beyond March, because I think that ... and again I do not want to be controversial, I want this to be as neutral as possible, because I really do believe that in the circumstances the waitlisting period ought to be extended. But over the last few months there is no doubt that the Government has put a freeze, so to speak, on spending, and that perhaps the position might be reviewed in the new financial year, and in the circumstances an extension of the time for people who are waitlisted would be very welcome, and indeed would be fair in the circumstances.

1145 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the Government has not put a freeze on spending. The Government has stopped unnecessary spending, and that is exactly what the Chief Minister has described on a number of occasions whenever this issue of spending has been raised.

With regard to the waiting list, this is a matter on which I will be advised on, on HR grounds.

1150 I am told that the usual waiting lists, whenever something like this happens, is six months. This waiting list has already been extended: it is now one year. The waiting list was created following interviews on 3rd and 4th March 2015. And circumstances do change during the year. There may be people on the waiting list who have moved on. In this particular case, with regard to the prison, the placing of people off the waiting list suggests that they are considered in some way suitable. They are vetted. Because of the time that has passed, that vetting process would have to start all over again. And there may be new people, who may not have applied last year, who may be interested in applying.

1155 That is why it is unusual for waiting lists to be extended beyond the year, and that is why I said a decision will be taken nearer the date. It is possible that it might, but it would be unusual for the waiting list to be extended after it has been in place for a year. Generally what happens is new applicants are given an opportunity of applying. I am not saying that that is what is going to happen on this occasion, but a decision will be taken nearer the time when the waiting list is about to expire.

1165 Hon. D A Feetham: I am very grateful. I will phrase it in terms of a question: will the hon. Member perhaps undertake that somebody from his office might either send me an e-mail or drop me a line in order to tell me what decision has been taken in relation to this, so that I do not have to ask the question again in this place and I can then go back to these people who have asked me and communicate the decision that the Government has taken? Because, as I understand it, there is no formal communication to those who are waitlisted, saying 'the waitlisting period has now expired and you are no longer on the waiting list'. That is the not the procedure, as I understand it, that happens in these types of cases. What I would like to do is, rather than come to this House and ask the question again in April, just simply get the information directly from the Minister's office. If that were possible, it would be very helpful to me.

1175 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I have no difficulty in advising the hon. Member once a decision is taken on this matter.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, TELECOMMUNICATIONS & THE GSB

Q225-226/2016

Supported Employment Company –
Numbers employed; assessment process

Clerk: Question 225. The Hon. L F Llamas.

1180 Hon. L F Llamas: How many people have been employed in sheltered employment since December 2011, providing details of sex, age and condition/conditions?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

1185 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question with Question 226.

Clerk: Question 226. The Hon. L F Llamas.

1190 Hon. L F Llamas: What is the process to assess people onto the sheltered employment scheme, providing details of the people who have been involved during the process?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

1195 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, if by 'sheltered employment' the hon. Member is referring to persons employed with the Supported Employment Company known as SEC, the position as of December 2011 was that there was no scheme to provide either supported or indeed sheltered employment.

1200 Persons with difficulties in obtaining employment were being placed in the £300 to £400 a month so-called Vocational Training Scheme (VTS) and had been in that position for many years – I think, in fact, the one that is still there and was longest there had come in in 1988 – due to the difficulty in transferring them to existing vacancies in the labour market.

1205 Their position, the so-called vocational cadets, was not strictly speaking that of an employee, since they were not covered by the provisions applicable to employees or liable to the employed person's Social Insurance.

1210 In February 2012, in accordance with the party's manifesto commitment of 2011, all vocational cadets were offered employment in the Employment Training Company, with contracts of up to 11 months and covered by Social Insurance. They were paid the national minimum wage, according to their hours of employment.

1215 A few months later – I think it was in June or July – a number of employees were identified by the persons running the discontinued VTS scheme as persons not likely to be able to find regular employment in the labour market. Those concerned were then transferred to a company specifically created to assist them, SEC, and given indefinite contracts. At the time that this happened I informed Parliament and this development was welcomed by the Leader of the Opposition.

1220 Since February 2012, others have been employed in the company as a result of having been identified as having little or no opportunity of employment without support either with the assistance of the employment service or the training companies. Some of those employed have nonetheless found regular employment since with other employers.

1225 The demographics of the employees of SEC at the moment are that there are 48 males and 23 females with ages ranging between 18 and 62.

Hon. L F Llamas: When it comes to new people coming onto the Supported Employment Company, what is the process and criteria that is applied and who makes the decisions as to whether that person will be included into the scheme, or the company, or not?

Hon. J J Bossano: The process is a process, I think, that to some extent existed before, in the sense that the people who were a very long time in the VTS before ... was because it was not possible to find them alternatives within the normal labour market that they could take up. So therefore, in effect, the process is that an attempt is made to fit them in vacancies when they 1230 register as unemployed, through the support of both the Employment Service on the one hand the Training Companies on the other.

In effect, what happened in the first few months of the Government after 2011 was that everybody who was in VTS was put into ETCL, the training company, and what we were then reduced to and transferred, which I think was something like 47 or 48 ... were the ones the 1235 people who had been dealing with them through the monitoring system that existed in Bleak House, as well as through the Employment Service, had identified that many previous attempts had been made to fit them into a regular job in the labour market and that the prospects of achieving this appeared to be virtually non-existent. That is why the new company was created and they were given the security of employment of having an indefinite contract, which is what 1240 is happening now.

The new people who come in, in effect, go through that previous attempt, either by putting them as trainees or by direct employment with employers and where vacancies are open from the public and the private, and where the practical results identify that that is going to be very difficult to achieve, then in effect they are put into those companies where it does not 1245 necessarily mean that the possibility of re-employing them in another job is lost, because in fact some six of the people we had previously have actually left SEC and gone into a normal job.

So, by putting them there, what we are not doing is saying, 'Well, look, we'll forget about trying to get them a real job, as it were, in the real economy.' We will still keep on trying after that, but the chances of success can be perhaps identified in the sense that we have managed 1250 with six and we have got 71.

So the answer is the selection process is part of what takes place, in effect, not because people are sent to us as having a problem, but because everybody who comes and registers as unemployed after leaving school is assessed when they are given the interviews, when their CVs are prepared, as to what kind of work we could find for them, and that has to be exhausted 1255 before they are put into the SEC company.

Hon. L F Llamas: Without wanting to criticise the scheme, because I think it is a very good scheme, what I am trying to get to is, who are the persons or person involved in controlling the scheme and taking decisions as to who will actually be admitted into the Supported Employment 1260 Company in the end?

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, in effect, the people who are really in control are the people who assess the individual and who are dealing with them from the day that they register as unemployed. If somebody does not come looking for work, then it does not come in at all. If 1265 somebody comes and registers as unemployed, the first stage of that process is the employment officers employed in the Employment Service. Those first contacts are then followed up by the people who interview and prepare the CVs for them to be sent to potential employers as normal trainees with the support of ETCL.

So, in effect, what we did initially in 2012 is what we continue to do now. The first stage is the 1270 ETCL, which is open to everybody, irrespective of whether they have got learning difficulties or they have not, and it is only at a later stage that we find ... But our first objective is that they should find a normal job in the normal economy and be part of a normal workforce. Only if that proves to be extremely difficult are they put in SEC. When they are put in SEC the process does not then stop. We still continue to do the same thing. In effect, it is on the recommendations 1275 and the judgement of the people with the experience that the management offers a contract to the individual.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

1280 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, may I seek a little clarification? I may have misheard the Minister.

When he was referring to the Vocational Training Scheme that existed before, he made a reference to Social Insurance. Can he clarify what exactly he said: that there was or was not any payment?

1285

Mr Speaker: [Inaudible]

Hon. J J Bossano: The reference that I made was, Mr Speaker, that the individuals in 2011 who were in the VTS did not pay Social Insurance and were not paying Social Insurance, were not covered by the Employment Act and were not treated as employees. They had an income which was tax free but was not a wage, and that was one of the things that we changed by creating a company that gave them a contract of employment. The trainees did not have contracts of employment with anybody in the scheme.

1290

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can I respectfully beg the Minister to go and check on those details, because I know that during the days when I worked at the Department of Education and had responsibility within a certain sector of Vocational Training Scheme right up to 2007 there was payment of Social Insurance, the idea being at the time that those youngsters would already start to accumulate the rights for their eventual employment.

1295

I cannot vouch 100% for what happened post 2007-11, but perhaps the Minister can investigate because there may be credits due to those individuals, which, if they have paid for them, by all means they should enjoy and reap those benefits.

1300

Hon. J J Bossano: There is an issue for covering that gap but the gap exists, and I think the gap exists because in fact the hon. Member is right – when it started, the scheme was that they were treated as employees, but that was subsequently changed by negotiation with the union and it was then treated as a tax-free allowance and therefore it was not pay. And, of course, if your Social Insurance contribution is a percentage of your pay and you are not paying because it is not considered to be a wage, then the allowance would have been illegal if it had been a wage because it was below the minimum wage. The way that was dealt with by the administration before 2011 – but I can find out for him the exact date when it happened – was that the amount was made tax free and therefore ceased to be a wage, and therefore ceased to trigger off the percentage of liability of employee insurance contribution. There is something there that ... In fact, we gave a commitment to take the necessary action to allow that gap in the record of those affected to be put right, and I am not very sure actually whether it has actually happened or not. But I am grateful to the hon. Member for reminding me, because if it has not happened I will make sure it does.

1305

1310

1315

Q227/2016

Apprenticeship Training Programme – Diversification

Mr Speaker: Next question.

1320

Clerk: Question 227. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, does the Minister for Economic Development agree that we need to diversify our Apprenticeship Training Programme to look beyond traditional skills training whilst also maintaining a rigorous programme of training which ensures that our people are the first choice for employment in skilled work?

1325

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
1330 No, Mr Speaker, I do not agree with the hon. Member.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for that response, and from that response he clearly does not believe that our people should be the first choice for skilled work; in my view they should be.

1335 I would like to ask this question, because if you look at the statistics – and I know that the hon. Gentleman is fond of looking at employment statistics – and particularly the one that was given by the hon. Gentleman, Mr Costa, last week, of 255 people currently on the unemployment register, what I would say about that is that insofar as occupations concerned in the abstracted statistics, the hon. Member will ... I am asking a question and I will get to it, if you bear with me.

1340

A Member: [Inaudible]

Hon. E J Phillips: I am not too sure, Mr Speaker, whether I am ... I was directing my question – 1345 Mr Speaker: The hon. Member may carry on but remember that he is supposed to ask questions and they should be, strictly speaking, supplementary questions.

Hon. E J Phillips: – which they are, related to – 1350 Mr Speaker: The cardinal rule is that they should be short, sharp and to the point. I would commend that to hon. Members. I am prepared to be liberal because we are only in the second meeting of the House, but that should be the objective to which they should be aiming.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful, Mr Speaker.

1355 In relation to the abstract of statistics, it shows that there are quite significant increases in occupations in the skill trades and process plant and machine operatives, and in fact I think it demonstrates also that in the construction industry we have seen a 41% increase and a year-on-year- on increase in terms of construction workers.

1360 Doesn't the hon. Gentleman agree that what we should be doing is identifying, quite rightly, those skills that we need in the economy and certainly find our people those jobs and train those people so that they can get those jobs, rather than looking towards other nations for resourcing the construction industry?

1365 I think it is always right, and I am sure the hon. Gentleman will agree with me, that we should be looking at training our own people to have those relevant skills so that they can fill those positions. After all, that was the purpose of the skills audit that the hon. Gentleman conducted in February 2012.

1370 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, first of all, we have got a policy, and it is a policy that has been explained before. The policy is not a magic formula; it is simply a question of supply and demand – there is a demand for labour and there is a supply of labour – and the provision of training is provision of training the pool of supply so that it is competent to equip it to feed the demand that exists from employers.

1375 The question says do I agree that there is a need. Well, no, I do not agree that there is a need, because there is an ongoing exercise to establish if there is a need, where the need is and how much it is, and it is a constant process. As vacancies are opened that we cannot fill from local sources we identify where the need lies, but the need does not arise simply because the hon. Member chooses to put me a question and I can say, 'Yes, I agree with what you have said.' I do not agree with what you have said, because in fact the apprenticeship training scheme is not the only thing we do.

1380 When we identified that there was a need in white collar workers for people with book-keeping skills because of the vacancies that were opening, when we sent the candidates the feedback that came back to us was that the candidates were being rejected because in their CVs or in the GCEs or in their qualifications there was not the level of numeracy in terms of skills that the employer was looking for. So if people are saying 'I want an accounts clerk' or 'I want a wages clerk' or 'I want that kind of clerk' and not just an office worker, we identify the need. 1385 When we identify the need we then provide the training to meet the need, so we introduced a course for book keeping, employer based with day release at the college, with the people paid and employed by the Employment Training Company. It was not an apprentice training scheme because it does not come under what we understand as apprenticeship. But in fact the result was that most of the people who were placed with offices in the private sector, paid for by the 1390 training company and sent on day release, at the end of the period – it was an experimental thing that we did about 18 months ago and it was quite successful at the end of the six-months period – most of the people were offered employment, even though in that case we had not made that a requirement because we were testing the market.

1395 We have got, for example, a situation where we trained a lot of bus drivers, because we were relying heavily on imported labour for bus drivers simply because the people concerned here in Gibraltar did not have the necessary skills. It was a not a skill that required a lot of investment either in time or money, but we took people who were unemployed and we paid them to be trained as bus drivers and we paid for them to take the exams and obtain from the Public 1400 Service Commission a public service vehicle licence, and most of them have finished up either working in the Bus Company or working in the tourist industry as coach drivers.

So those are areas where we identified the need and we moved away from the traditional skills. We have got a constant process of looking at things that we have not done before. For example, one of the things that did not exist before 2011 and we introduced in 2013 was motor 1405 car mechanics. We have had one intake in already and another one is there in the process of training at the moment.

So the answer is ... Do we need to diversify? We do not need to diversify, because we are already diversifying and because we diversify as a scientific process. We look at what is available in terms of the potential of the labour force, which is a constantly changing figure. Both the 1410 composition of the vacancies on the one hand and the composition of the registered unemployed changes on a daily basis. People register as unemployed, people come off the register, vacancies are opened, vacancies are closed. Monitoring that process is what gives us an opportunity to say, 'Well, look, there is a niche that we have now found where we can be doing something that we have not done before,' and that is part of the existing process.

1415 So my original answer is that I do not agree with him that there is a need that we are not already addressing.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, what I was trying to get at – and I am grateful for the response – is that I asked about diversification of skills. I think the hon. Gentleman has referred to a 1420 reactive policy of the Government, which is constantly monitoring the labour market so that they can identify skills, such as the bus example that the hon. Gentleman has given.

My question is directed as to whether the Government has a policy towards looking at the skills that we will require in the future. Looking at IT, for example, software development, gaming, filling those jobs, the future jobs in our economy that we should be looking to target 1425 and target particular individuals who will be able to fill those skills gaps in the future. I know a number of companies that have IT specialists that are crying out to employ local people in this area but they simply cannot do so. That was the purpose behind the question to the hon. Member, so that he could set out what the Government's position is in respect of building a long-term future for people to enter those particular industries.

1430 Mr Speaker: I hope the answer to that question will be briefer than the previous one; again otherwise, we are not making any progress. It is up to hon. Members to be here as long as they wish.

1435 Hon. J J Bossano: But, Mr Speaker, the shortest answer is to just agree with everything that the Opposition says we should agree with. That is not the answer they are going to get. But if I tell them that I do not agree, I think they deserve to be given an explanation why I do not agree. (Interjection) It is not that I do not agree because he is suggesting it; it is because he is suggesting that I agree to something on what I consider to be a false premise of what is actually happening.

1440 It is not a question of being reactive. If the hon. Member says there are people crying out for trainees to be doing something in some area, then that is reactive if what I am doing is reactive, because it is the same thing. What I cannot do is say, 'Well, look, I am now going to ...' For example, part of the reason why the training is under the Ministry for Economic Development and not elsewhere is precisely to do with what he has just said. It is precisely, and has been the case since we took office ... part of the strategy is that when new investors come to Gibraltar who require skills that do not exist in the economy, when we negotiate with those investors to open up business we introduce, as part of that negotiation, a provision that if they need to bring people from outside, and particularly if they need to bring them with work permits, there should be an opportunity for introducing trainees paid by us alongside the people so that there can be a transfer of skills from those who are coming in to those we have got here.

1445 The reality of it is that the limits that we have got in doing this is also what determines the necessity of doing it. The limits are the limits of the size of our workforce. The size of our workforce is less than 50% of the total jobs in the economy. So it is not that the people who are unemployed are unemployed because there are not sufficient jobs in Gibraltar; they are unemployed because the jobs are asking for skills that they do not have, or asking for experience that they do not have, and this is why if you want those jobs to be filled by local residents – which is some of the issues covered in the next questions, where I will deal with what the hon. Members says about the unsatisfied demand – that you can only do by talking to the people who claim to be interested and willing to take on trainees. When that happens, then we will supply what is needed – but I am dealing with that in the other questions, Mr Speaker.

1460

Q228-230/2016
Apprenticeships and qualifications –
Securing employment for trainees

Clerk: Question 228, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1465 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Economic Development confirm that of the 233 craft apprenticeships who obtained qualifications in wet trades, carpentry, painting and plumbing, have all completed placements and are now in full-time employment?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

1470

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): I will answer with Question 229 and 230, Mr Speaker.

Clerk: Question 229, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1475

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Economic Development confirm what measures the Government is taking to secure greater employability in the construction industry by the resident skilled labour force?

1480 Clerk: Question 230, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Economic Development confirm whether there is an intention to diversify apprenticeship training from solely providing trainees the opportunity of obtaining City & Guilds qualifications?

1485

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): No, Mr Speaker, I cannot confirm the points made in each of the three questions.

1490

The qualifications are at different levels, as the hon. Member knows, so it is not the case that all apprentices have completed their training with placements provided, although the majority have.

1495

The position to which that question refers is that of the 209 trainees who between them obtained 233 awards at Levels 1, 2 and 3. Those who have completed Levels 2 and 3 are in employment, unless some of the apprentices at Level 2 already entitled to craft pay have expressed a wish to continue to Level 3, which is therefore optional.

1500

At present we have apprentices in the Centre but employer based, continuing their studies at Levels 2 and 3, since at this level there is a requirement for a portfolio of evidence of work done on building sites.

1505

One hundred and forty-five are now in full time employment. The balance of 64 consists of those who left with some Level 1 units or a full Level 1. Of those, 49 are in placements to continue with their training to Level 2, and 15 are unemployed having decided not to continue or because of termination due to unsatisfactory attendance.

1510

The Government has taken measures to increase employability in the construction industry of resident workers by implementing the requirement in the Government construction contracts announced by the GSD administration in 2010 which had been put in practice previously but in a limited version.

1515

We have gone in fact further than was the case by ensuring that all construction contracts are reflected in a way that they have to give priority to people from the unemployed workforce that are resident in Gibraltar, which is what the condition is in order to be considered an approved Government contractor.

1520

Existing apprentice training is not limited to City & Guilds qualifications. There are the EAL qualifications and the CITB qualifications and therefore it is not a question of considering whether we should move away from City & Guilds because we are doing things that are not City & Guilds.

1525

The City & Guilds was originally introduced in 2012 because a number of employers in the construction industry said they preferred that qualification and therefore if it increased the possibility of people getting jobs if we gave them the qualification that the employer preferred we moved in that direction.

1530

As I was reminded I think by the Hon. Mr Reyes at the time, the content of the qualifications was the same. The difference is in the awarding body and we are prepared to consider any awarding body that is available (a) if that makes it more likely that people will be successful or (b) if that makes it more attractive to employers.

1535

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q231-241/2016

Public debt; reserves; Gibraltar Savings Bank – Figures for 2016

Clerk: Question 231, the Hon. R M Clinton:

1530 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please provide the total Gross Debt, Cash Reserves and Net Debt figures for public debts for each of the following dates: 1st January 2016 and 1st February 2016?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

1535

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question with Questions 232 to 241.

Clerk: Question 232, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1540

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please advise the total liquid reserves figure as at 1st February 2016 and its constituents, namely Consolidated Fund, Improvement & Development Fund, Government-owned companies, deposits, contingencies and other funds?

1545

Clerk: Question 233, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please advise how total liquid reserves at 1st February 2016 are invested or held, giving details of all bank/savings bank accounts and cash held?

1550

Clerk: Question 234, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please advise the amounts of total deposits of the Gibraltar Savings Bank and further broken down by Debentures, On Call Investments Accounts, Ordinary Deposits and Bonds for each of the following dates: 1st January 2016 and 1st February 2016?

1555

Clerk: Question 235, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1560

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please advise the balance on the General Sinking Fund on 1st February 2016 and provide details of individual movements in the fund since inception, being 22nd November 2012, to date?

Clerk: Question 236, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1565

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please confirm that he gave instructions to the Financial Secretary to incorporate GSBA Ltd and cause the Savings Bank Special Fund to purchase £11 million of GSBA ordinary shares, with the sole intention of purchasing the property being 206-209 Main Street and 2-4 Bomb House Lane from Credit Finance Company Limited?

1570

Clerk: Question 237, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1575 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please advise who agreed the purchase price of 206-209 Main Street and 2-4 Bomb House Lane by GSBA Ltd from Credit Finance Company Ltd and was an independent valuation report obtained prior to the purchase?

Clerk: Question 238, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1580 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please advise who the auditors of GSBA Ltd are and have any audits been completed?

Clerk: Question 239, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1585 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please list the assets owned by GSBA Ltd, specifically identifying by address any leasehold or freehold property?

Clerk: Question 240, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1590 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please list any leases granted by GSBA Ltd, identifying to whom and on what financial terms?

Clerk: Question 241, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1595 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please explain why Credit Finance Company Ltd purchased 206-209 Main Street and 2-4 Bomb House Lane from a Government company, namely GCP Investments Ltd, for £4.5 million, being £1.5 million more than the original cost of £3 million, and who made the decision and who decided the valuation of the property?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

1605 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, as the hon. Questioner has already been informed in the last meeting of Parliament, the information is provided a month in arrears, as is the established practice in respect of statistical information.

I am therefore giving him this statistical information where the questions request the data as at 1st January but not where the information requested in the question is in respect of 1st February.

The information requested for 1st January is: Gross Debt, £447.7 million; Cash, £31.97 million; Net Debt, £415.73 million.

1615 The total deposits in the GSB on 1st January 2016 stood at £928,587,625. This broke down as follows: Debentures, £743,324,499; On Call Deposits, £42,482,117; Ordinary Deposits, £84,245,824; Bonds, £58,535,185.

No, Mr Speaker, I cannot confirm what instructions may have been given to the Financial Secretary or indeed whether any such instructions were given to him or any other civil servant. That is not Government policy.

1620 The official authorised to agree the purchase price for the investments in real assets by the GSB is the person who agreed it.

The auditors of the company have not yet been appointed and as yet no audit has been completed.

I am not prepared, Mr Speaker, to provide any further detail of how GSBA goes about its business in investing in real assets or in any other aspect of the running of the business.

1625 The properties in question were purchased because the company thought they were worth purchasing and the increase in value was a result of the investment made in refurbishing the property.

The decisions were made by the people authorised to make them, following an independent valuation by M J (Gibraltar) Ltd.

1630

Hon. R M Clinton: Well, Mr Speaker, bear with me because obviously there were a lot of questions asked and I just need to make sure that all the questions have been answered.

1635 Mr Speaker, if I may ask the hon. Gentleman to explain, if I understood him correctly, he said the Gross Debt effectively at the 1st January 2016 is £447.7 million. Could he explain ... I do not think, Mr Speaker, he has given any answers in respect of my Question 235 on the Sinking Fund. Could he explain how it is that in answer to Written Question 17 of the last parliamentary session, there was a movement of £15 million on the Sinking Fund at 1st December and yet I do not see a reduction in Gross Debt.

If I could start with that question.

1640

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not know why he expects to see a reduction in Gross Debt because there is money in the Sinking Fund.

1645 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I can, by way of explanation, the answer I was given as the balance in the Sinking Fund was £22,000. My understanding, and I am happy to be corrected by the hon. Member, is that the money in the Sinking Fund can only be applied in reduction of debt.

1650 Hon. J J Bossano: The money that was applied in the reduction of the debt in the Sinking Fund was money that was applied before this figure was arrived at, not after it. That is to say when he got the answer, the money that had been applied in the reduction of debt had been applied prior to the date on which he got the answer.

1655 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the hon. Member then perhaps enlighten me as to what the balance on the Sinking Fund is as at 1st January?

1660 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, he did not ask for the figure of the Sinking Fund for 1st January. He asked for the figure in Question 235 on 1st February, and I have told him that I will give him the figures in arrears and I told him that the last time. So I have told him this time that I am not giving him the answers for 1st February because it is not a month in arrears and I am not giving him the answers for the 1st January, because he did not ask the question.

1665 Hon. R M Clinton: Well, Mr Speaker, perhaps the hon. Member could give me the movements on the Sinking Fund to the date he is prepared to give me?

1665

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, that answer is quite simple: I really should not have to give it to him because it does not arise as far as I am concerned from the question that he asked about 1st February, but since there has been no movement, I do not mind telling him.

1670 Mr Speaker: Any other questions?

Hon. R M Clinton: Yes, Mr Speaker, you will have to bear with me because as you will appreciate, there is quite a lot of information to absorb here.

1675 Mr Speaker, would the hon. Member agree with me, or perhaps clarify for me, that any money on the Sinking Fund can only be applied in the reduction of debt?

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, strictly speaking, no. It can be applied in servicing the debt, which can be a reduction of debt or the paying of interest.

1680 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I note the hon. Gentleman has indicated that ... well, let us go back to the Savings Bank. Mr Speaker, would the hon. Gentleman like to comment on the reduction on the balance on On Call and Investment Accounts since April of £122 million down to £42 million as at December?

1685 Hon. J J Bossano: Well no, I do not see why I should comment on whether people put money in or take money out, or the Government puts money in or takes money out. To the extent that the money in the Savings Bank is money that is the liquid reserves of the Government, then he does not need me to tell him that if the liquid reserves are lower, there is less money in the investment account; if they are higher, there is more money in the investment account.

1690 But I am not going to accept the principle that I should comment or be asked to comment in Parliament on why movements happen in and out of any of the elements of the accounts of the Savings Bank.

1695 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the hon. Member. He has in fact just reminded me that one of my questions was in fact in relation to the composition of liquid reserves, which I do not believe I have had an answer for.

A Member: Question?

1700 Hon. D A Feetham: He has not answered the question ...

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member has reminded me that I did ask a question about total liquid reserves as constituents and how that money is held. I do not believe I have had an answer.

1705 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, whilst he is at it, Question 232 has not been answered as well, as far as I can see. I have been listening to these answers and it has not been answered.

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, can I repeat my original answer.
1710 As the hon. Questioner has been informed at the last meeting of Parliament, the information will be provided a month in arrears, as is the established practice.

I am therefore giving him the statistical information where the question requests the data on 1st January and not where the information requested in the question is in respect of February.

1715 Having told him that, he then stands up and he says I have not been given the answer to 1st February. I know you have not been given the answer to 1st February; (Laughter) I told you I was not going to give it to you!

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, so be it.

1720 May I then move on to another question? That is: the hon. Member will be aware that the investment in GSBA Ltd was £11 million and he may refuse point blank to answer this question. The property where the Treasury building is, where the Savings Bank is located, cost £4.6 million. I note that GSBA Ltd had another injection of capital, £6 million. Is he willing to explain where that £6 million has gone, if not on the purchase of the Treasury building?

1725 Hon. J J Bossano: Well, I can explain to him that it has not gone anywhere. I know that the election is over and I know that during the election, he made a big issue of the fact that there was all this money put in the Savings Bank for safe keeping and I had put on a balaclava and taken it all away and run down Main Street with it to reinvest it. I know that. But he does not 1730 have to carry on with that fiction anymore, because he has already achieved being elected and sitting over there, Mr Speaker.

The answer is I am not willing to go beyond the information that I have provided on the basis of answering his questions, in the sense that I am not prepared to give the hon. Member details of how the investments in the companies are made by the people who are employed to make them.

1735 So it may be that it has been invested in some other real assets or it may be that it is in cash.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, perhaps the hon. Member would enlighten me as to his thinking as to when he considers it appropriate to disclose what the company has invested in and when it is not.

1740 Because in the last meeting of Parliament he volunteered that he had bought the Treasury building. I have gone to Land Registry and done a search, rolled my sleeves up and found that certainly the property only cost £4.6 million. So if on the one hand, he is willing to tell me that much information, why will he not provide me with the information as to the balance?

1745 Hon. J J Bossano: Well, first of all, Mr Speaker, the only information I am required to provide in respect of my responsibility for the Savings Bank is that the law requires me to produce the accounts of the Savings Bank once a year, and not once a month. I do not know of many financial institutions who every month produces a breakdown of all the money that goes in, all the money that goes out and all the money that is invested and how it is invested.

1750 What I am not prepared to do is to have a situation where the institution for which we are responsible is subjected to a level of scrutiny by the Member opposite that nobody else is required to be subjected to anywhere else that is in this business.

1755 This is a very safe investment. They tried to make it sound unsafe during our election campaign. They have failed and I informed them previously that in fact I did not want them to stop doing it, because the more they attack the savings in the bank, the more money that came in because they gave it publicity and I do not waste money on advertising. I think they were doing a very good job for me and I am grateful for that.

1760 The reality of it is, Mr Speaker, is that the public has got complete confidence in the Savings Bank and if there are things that are in the public domain and then a Member spends pounds on searches and finds it, well fine, he is entitled to what is in the public domain. But if he finds that a property has been bought, that does not mean that now because he has found a property has been bought, I have to tell him why it has been bought at that price, who bought it at that price, who took the decision to buy it, who gave the instructions to buy it, what time of day it was given.

1765 Well look, this is not on. I am not going to have a situation, Mr Speaker, where the hon. Member's view is that every time he gets a question answered, it is for him then to dissect that question into a number of elements which can be done ad infinitum. That is to say that if you think this can keep us here for an extra day, I can tell him with the process of dissection and then subsequent questions, we will be here for a month, not for a day.

1770 And the answer is, the information that is available is information that I am willing to make available to him, and if tomorrow he finds that we have invested in another property, well fine, he is entitled to find it. That does not mean that I therefore have to tell him who was the one that took the decision, how was it valued, when was it valued, who gave the instructions and who implemented it.

1775

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I go back to my original question, which is: how does the hon. Member opposite reconcile in his mind giving me the information in the last session and now not willing to provide me with any further information?

1780 And just for the record, I am not in the business of attacking the Savings Bank. What I am doing is my job – my part-time job, as the Chief Minister is fond of reminding me – of holding the Government to account, nothing more and nothing less.

1785 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member's concept of holding a Member to account is not the concept that was shared by the party to which the hon. Member belongs in the last 15 years. Therefore he is entitled to get treated as I used to be treated, but he is lucky that he is not going to be treated like I used to be treated, because I am a nicer guy than the guy who treated me the way I am describing.

1790 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, it would appear evident that I am not going to get an answer today, tomorrow or any time soon. As regards the property transactions, I believe the public are entitled to an answer but again, I am not going to get a response, so I think we can move on to the next question.

1795 Hon. D A Feetham: May I? Mr Speaker, thank you very much.
Mr Speaker, before I start, may I welcome the hon. Member back to the House. I understand that on Friday he was not feeling very well and I am glad that he is feeling as fit as a fiddle and back to his old tricks yet again in the way that he answers questions! Which I do enjoy, even though I am afraid that they are the epitome of the lack of openness and the lack of transparency that we have been severely critical of the Government over the last three to four years.

1800 Can I just ask him to go back to Question 241? It may be that I have got it the wrong way, but it is my understanding that the value of the Main Street / Bomb House Lane property forms part of the so-called reserve that the hon. Gentleman keeps on quoting, and kept on quoting before and during the General Election, that the Savings Bank had. Part of their political case was that there was this reserve in the Gibraltar Savings Bank amounting to £20 million but part of that was the value of this particular building. Is that correct or not?

1805 Hon. J J Bossano: The way he has put it is not correct. Of course he may know it or he may not.

1810 The fact that you choose to employ some of your reserves in purchasing the building rather than renting the building, because you can actually make more money by purchasing and saving the rent that you can get by investing in something else, does not mean that it can be described in the way that the hon. Member has described it. The way that I have described it is the accurate way.

1815 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, let us not play musical chairs here. He knows the question perfectly well that I am asking, and I think I know what the answer is but I want him to confirm it.

1820 Essentially, what the hon. Gentleman is saying is, there is £20 million of reserves in the Gibraltar Savings Bank. These are the much-vaunted reserves they were talking about during the General Election. It is not all in cash because part of that cash, for the reasons that he has just described, has been invested in this particular property. So part of it may be cash but part of it is in bricks and mortar, because he has chosen for economical reasons – in other words not to pay rent but to invest in property – to invest in that property. Is that correct?

1825 Hon. J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, it could be correct if in fact only the money that is the reserves of the bank was there. But as the hon. Member knows, the assets of the Savings Bank, of which he normally gets a breakdown when he asks the right question with the right date, does not match the deposits other than in total. So there is nothing that says the money in the property is not from the debentures or is not from the bonds, it is from the reserves.

1830

1835 From the perspective of the bank, given that in theory the Savings Bank would be required to repay everybody at a certain point in time, if no new money came in, if that theoretical position was reached and if all the money that is deposited with the bank had to be repaid, the accumulated profits of the Savings Bank, which would previously have been withdrawn and spent, would include the building.

That is to say we would not be selling the building in order to pay a depositor but there would be nothing to stop us doing it if we chose to, let us be clear. That is to say, we could if there was a situation where we did not want to have part of the accumulated profits of the bank in that building, we could undo the transaction, and I can assure the hon. Member there would be no difficulty in getting somebody to invest in a property which houses the Gibraltar Savings Bank where the tenant is very secure, and a very long lease and the rental can be negotiated.

So if what he is trying to say is that the money is impossible to convert into liquid funds, the answer is no.

1845 Hon. D A Feetham: No, the hon. Gentleman is unfortunately trying to pre-empt the political point that I want to make in relation to this. Let me tell you what the political point is – it is not that.

The political point is that if you have £20 million of reserves, which is the position that the hon. Gentleman has consistently on a number of occasions outlined in relation to the Gibraltar Savings Bank, and part of it is this particular building and this particular building has been bought for a consideration, which as the hon. Gentleman says is £4.5 million and it has been now valued at more, then surely it is a matter of public interest. It is a matter that the Opposition are entitled to know. How on earth does a building that is bought for a particular price, £4.5 million, is now valued at a higher amount – bearing in mind that part of what the Government is telling the people of Gibraltar is that the Gibraltar Savings Bank has £20 million in reserves, which actually includes this particular building?

1855 And therefore, does he not recognise that it is a matter of public interest and that it is a matter that the Government ought to be more transparent about, bearing in mind the great store that the Government has placed in relation to these reserves of £20 million, which includes this particular building?

Hon. J J Bossano: No, Mr Speaker, he is wrong.

First of all, it is not valued at more than £4.5 million, okay?

1865 Secondly, I have already answered that question by telling him that the investment in the building is not identified as the investment of part of the £20 million, that there is no correlation between the position of the building and the position of the reserves.

The only correlation there could be is that if we have got in the Savings Bank £928 million – okay, if we have got at the moment £928 million – and tomorrow the maturity date was the maturity date of the £908 million, but not the £20 million which is the bank's money, then in that hypothetical but impossible situation, because all the money that is on deposit is not on 24-hour notice – it is on call going into the future – but if that were the situation, that the £928 million included £20 million belonging to the bank and £908 belonging to depositors and all the depositors had their money back in 24 hours, we would be left with £20 million.

1875 In that £20 million there would be included the £4.5 million building, logically. Because we are not going to say to a depositor who says, 'I want my £4 million back', 'Take the building with you'.

Even if that were a possible conjecture, which it is not, for the reasons that I have explained, it does not mean that the Government's reserves – or the Savings Bank's reserves, rather, which belong to the Government – cannot be converted into liquid assets.

1880 Hon. D A Feetham: I understand that.

Hon. J J Bossano: You understand that. Well, I do not understand then what the issue is with the hon. Member saying is it part of the £20 million.

1885 Well no, it is not part of the £20 million. It is part of the £928 million, because we have not said the money that we have invested in the property is the money from the £20 million reserve. We have not said that. But it would be that situation if we repaid the £908 million tomorrow, which is not going to happen because people are putting money in, not taking it out.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am afraid that as usual, in relation to the way that the Government manages and chooses to manage its public finances, in particular the way that it runs the Gibraltar Savings Bank, the position is as clear as mud. That is the reality of the situation.

1890 May I just simply refer the hon. Gentleman to the title deeds. Well, this is a search that we have conducted in relation to this particular property, and the consideration paid for this particular property appears to have been £4.6 million – just under £4.7 million – so I did not get the figure wrong when I outlined it to the hon. Gentleman.

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, I am sorry, he said it had been increased above the £4.6 million.

1900 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, yes.

But can I go back now to Questions 232 and 233 and again, I am afraid my criticisms of the Government are phrased in the question.

1905 Does he not agree that it is highly susceptible to criticism, an answer that he provides to this House, which is ‘Ah, you have only asked the question for the beginning of February 2016,’ in relation to for example the total liquid reserves and the question at 232, ‘and we do not have the figure for the 1st February 2016 because the system we are working under, we would have the figure in a month’s time but we are not going to have it today’?

1910 But what is the problem providing the answer to the question in terms of, which is usual, what the position was at 1st January 2016? Surely the hon. Gentleman does not expect us to come back in April, ask the question for 1st January 2016, when it has always been usual, Mr Speaker, for the Hon. Ministers of whatever party and political persuasion to say, ‘Well look, we do not have the figures for 1st February 2016 because we work in arrears or whatever, but I am going to give you the latest figures that we have, which is 1st January 2016.’

1915 And I ask the hon. Gentleman to explain the quite extraordinary response that he has provided, which is ‘You have only asked for 1st February, I do not have it, I am not going to provide it and I am not going to provide 1st January because you have not asked that.’

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, the explanation is quite simple. I made the mistake of assuming they are rational, thinking beings on the other side of the House, and I apologise for that mistake.

1920 I assume that if somebody says to me in Question 234, ‘can I have the information for 1st January and 1st February?’ and then he asks me in the next question, ‘can I have the information for February only?’, it is because he is not interested in the 1st January and he is not asking for it, because the hon. Member chose to put in one question January and February, and in the others February only.

1930 The hon. Member may think from the opposite side of the benches that it is legitimate criticism that I do not answer the questions that are not asked. Well look, that is a vast improvement on the situation that I have for 15 years, when I did not get answers to the questions that I did ask. So he cannot complain that he does not get an answer because he did not ask it. If they wanted 1st January, all they had to do was to do with the other questions what they did with 234 – simple as that.

1935 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, first of all I do not accept the characterisation of the way that we used to answer questions; but secondly, it is not an answer, Mr Speaker, having spent 16 years criticising the GSD that now we are not going to provide you the answers because you did not provide me with the answers when they were critical of the then ... presumably they were critical of the then Chief Minister for failing to provide those answers. It just does not stack up, quite frankly.

1940 But does he not recognise that there is a distinction in the way that my learned Friend – my hon. Friend; not learned Friend – my hon. Friend, Mr Clinton has asked the questions in relation to 231 and also ... well, certainly 231? The distinction is this: for Gross Debt, Cash Reserves and Net Debt we ask the question every single month. The idea is to obtain the position every single month – that is why he has asked the question like this.

1945 In relation to Question 232 and 233 which are new questions, he wants an up-to-date position. Now the only up-to-date position that the Government has at the moment is 1st January and I would just ask him to be helpful – I know that goes against his nature! As much affection as I have for him, it has to be said he likes to call a spade a spade and I too like to call a spade a spade, and he is not particularly helpful.

1950 But rather than get us to come back next time round and ask the question for 1st January, if he could at the very least be helpful, if he has the information and provide it, which I would expect him to have the information.

1955 Hon. J J Bossano: I think the hon. Member knows the answer to that, but I will tell him if he does not.

No, I am not prepared to do it, and given that he has said that the reason why the question was different was because they wanted the most recent date, I would not expect that they would ask for January the next time round because then it would not be the most recent date.

1960 Secondly, it is not the case that I criticised the Government when they failed to give me the answers. I accepted that they were the Government and they were entitled to give the answers in the way they thought fit, which has always been the case. I have been longer on the Opposition than I have been in Government, so I have been longer at the receiving end than the delivery end of this.

1965 But the hon. Member must understand that it is not that I am saying to him, 'Because you answered in this way, I am going to do the same to you.' What I am saying to him is, 'If you answered in this way when you were the Government, you must have thought it was right for you to do so.' And what you cannot do is say, 'It is right for me to do it when I am in Government but it is wrong for somebody else to do it when they replace me as Government.'

1970 So it is not a question of wanting to pay them back for the way they behaved, misbehaved when they were in Government. It is a question simply that I am doing it the way they did it because I assume that is the way they are comfortable and happy with, because I cannot imagine they were doing it to spite me at the time, just like as I am not doing it to spite them now, Mr Speaker.

1975 And as an afterthought, I must say that maybe the omission of the date was after all because the hon. Member is not learned.

1980 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just one final question. I have to say I do enjoy the exchanges with the hon. Gentleman. As I have said before, he is value for money, even though he is the epitome of the lack of transparency and the lack of openness on the Government benches! But then again!

1985 Now, Mr Speaker, in some of these questions, the question seeks to understand who it is that has given instructions, who it is that has agreed the purchase in relation to the Bomb House Lane property and the hon. Gentleman said, 'officials'. That was the answer. Can I assume from that, that he means the directors of Credit Finance Company Ltd; and if he does not, what other officials were involved in the decision making process?

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, if he wants to assume that the officials are directors or not that is a matter for him. I do not want to tell him what he should assume or not.

1990 But if I had wanted to use the word 'directors', I would have said 'directors'. So the fact that I have not used it, he can assume it is because it is not the directors – if that is what he wants to assume.

1995 But at the end of the day, I am not here to try and assist him with his assumptions. The point is that the people who are employed in the Civil Service do jobs which are required of them to do, in order to give effect to Government policies. It is not the established practice, as I think the Chief Minister has already alluded to in his answer to a previous question – it is not the established practice of any Government, never mind the last 15 years, in the last 44 years – to be asked who gave an instruction to a civil servant or who was the civil servant who carried it out.

2000 We are responsible politically for the policies and we employ people to carry out the acts which give effect to those policies.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member has spiked my curiosity.

2005 In terms of Credit Finance Ltd, in the last House I asked the question if there were any open employment contracts with ETB and the answer was no. From that, am I correct in assuming that Credit Finance has no employees of its own and that the only mind and management body available to Credit Finance are in fact its directors?

2010 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, Credit Finance has no employees of its own and all the work that needs to be done is done by people within the service. Therefore, the answer to the hon. Member's question is that he will be happy to know that I am keeping a very tight control of the purse strings, so that we are getting very good value for money by not employing specific people to do specific tasks. Everybody in the outfit multi-tasks.

2015 Hon. R M Clinton: Could the hon. Member explain or perhaps elaborate on what he means by 'in the outfit'?

Hon. J J Bossano: We are the outfit, Mr Speaker, and we employ four and a half thousand people – and we were elected to be the outfit very recently with a majority of three to one.

2020 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I understand the hon. Member correctly, first of all Credit Finance has no employees of its own, the directors of Credit Finance do not necessarily make the decisions, and the decisions are made by the Government or officials appointed by the Government.

2025 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member can rehearse his reinterpretation of the answers that I give, so that he can then have plenty of material for his Facebook and he is entitled to do that.

But the answer that I have given him is the answer that I have given him and not the interpretation that he puts.

2030 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q242/2016

Improvement and Development Fund –
Income from sale of Government property

Clerk: Question 242, the Hon. R M Clinton.

2035 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please provide a breakdown by property item of the anticipated income in 2015-16 in the Improvement and Development Fund as per the 2015-16 estimates on the sale of Government properties and other premia?

2040 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, the estimates are provided to Parliament at budget time in respect of the revenue from property sales by the Treasury and the finance department by making a judgement of the likely level of property sales in the year ahead.

2045 This is done taking into account the state of the property market, the stock of available properties and land, any tender awards or negotiations with prospective investors, etc. The estimates therefore are not predictions as to what property is going to be sold at what point in time and at what price.

2050 The exception is where a property is already being put out to tender. The successful tenderer is already known and the transaction has not yet happened but is imminent.

Hon. L F Llamas: Can I just ask have there been any negotiations or actual sale of the Gibraltar Air Terminal?

2055 Hon. J J Bossano: Is that arising out of the original question?

Mr Speaker: I am not sure, will you explain how it is that it arises from the original question.

2060 Hon. L F Llamas: Well basically, we have certain information and we believe that perhaps the sale or predicted sale of the air terminal is included in this –

Mr Speaker: Was there anything in the estimates for 2015-16?

2065 Hon. L F Llamas: No, it is –

Mr Speaker: Then I do not see how it can arise.

Hon. L F Llamas: It is a catch-all item in the estimates.

2070 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, you asked is there anything in the estimates for 2015: this is precisely the question I was asking, for which the hon. Member basically has not given a breakdown, so we do not know if the airport was in the estimates.

2075 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, if what the hon. Member is saying: is the sale and the profit of the terminal included in the estimate of the I&D, then the answer that I have given him shows that it is not.

Q243/2016

Consolidated Fund; Improvement and Development Fund – Income and expenditure

Clerk: Question 243, the Hon. R M Clinton.

2080 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please provide the cumulative – I think I can guess the answer – position to 1st February 2016 (Laughter) for income and expenditure for the financial year 2015-16 for each of the Consolidated Fund and the Improvement and Development Fund?

2085 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunication.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Well, Mr Speaker, the hon. Member knows already that I would not answer this question because it is for 1st February.

2090 But I do not want to mislead him and I have to tell him that I would not have answered it even if he had put 1st January. (Laughter)

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the hon. Member's frankness. Perhaps he could enlighten me and say well are there any off-limit questions in terms of finances that he is not willing to provide an answer to, or perhaps he could enlighten me as to which ones he is.

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not need to enlighten him because if there are answers that I think can be answered he gets the answer and the ones that I think cannot be answered, he does not get it.

2100 But let me give him an explanation why the question would not have been possible to answer, even if it had been 1st January – and frankly, I am surprised that he should not have arrived at that conclusion himself.

2105 Mr Speaker, the hon. Member wants to be given the cumulative changes in the income and the expenditure of the Consolidated Fund and the Improvement and Development Fund for the whole of the financial year to date. These cumulative total changes involve the whole of the public sector and the whole of the capital works of the Government.

2110 Cumulative means providing the receipts of every single entity in Government. The cumulative totals for the financial year start to change from midnight on 31st January as payments are received and invoices are paid, which produces either a negative charge or a revenue flow into the Consolidated Fund and into the Improvement and Development Fund.

2115 These cumulative changes are done retrospectively in each case for the plus and the minus items when they are inputted into the Treasury accounting system. In effect, what the hon. Member wants is to be given the detail of each item that the whole of the Treasury department is engaged in, as are all the controlling officers and all the receivers of revenue.

2120 Quite apart from the fact that the volume would have to be collected manually and presented for answer in oral delivery, the compilation of the answer would take months. If we stopped everybody working in the relevant departments, just preparing the answer to this question, in effect from the moment we started producing the answer would mean the Government would not be in a position to receive revenue or pay invoices because everybody would be engaged in this exercise.

It may be that he did not realise the implications of what 'cumulative' means, but to me cumulative up to a point means identifying each change, each plus and each minus.

2125 The GSD in 15 years in Government was only willing to provide tentative figures at the mid-point of the financial year – that is for the 30th September – limited to the summary of heads of expenditure, not every item, and provided three months in arrears. That is, by January, if there happened to be a meeting then and with a caveat that the results were not to be taken as indicative of the likely result of the financial year as a whole.

2130 The system in place that only enabled that to be produced is the system that still exists. It is a system, Mr Speaker, that I do not think has changed in the 44 years that I have been here. That is to say, it is a system that was there when I arrived in 1972 and it is a system that in order to be able to produce up-to-date information quickly for the Government, let alone for the Parliament, needs a major, major change and I think a move from a lot of manual handling of paperwork to more of an electronic system.

2135 It is something we have not been able to do in the last four years. It is something that I hope within this term we will do something about, but it does mean that the getting together of any answer ... and certainly, I imagine it is not an easy thing to do, because the previous administration had the same system and they did not do anything to make it a faster and more accurate system in 15 years and certainly we, in the eight years we were in Government previously, we did not do anything either because there were too many other things to do.

2140 So the answer is it is not possible to produce this.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the hon. Member's explanation and the information given, to which I sympathise with.

2145 Just one question, possibly for my own curiosity: to what extent is the information the Government itself receives from Treasury up to date? Are they one month behind, two months behind? What are the latest numbers that the Government could get itself on a cumulative basis?

2150 Hon. J J Bossano: In some instances, more than one or two months behind. I mean the money that comes in gets recorded faster than the money that has to go out, because sometimes you get invoices that have arrived late and then there is the time it takes to check the accuracy of those invoices, that they have been certified as correct by the right person.

2155 If the wrong box has been ticked, there is a long line of paperwork which then has to be gone back down to get back to the point where the tick was put in the wrong box. Therefore, even the one month figure that I am prepared to give will not be accurate, there will be further revisions.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I would like to thank the hon. Member for that again and perhaps if for future reference, would he be prepared to give a mid-term statement, as he mentioned, the 30th September in future if we request it?

2160

Hon. J J Bossano: Yes, Mr Speaker, I am prepared to give what was being produced before.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q244/2016
Low-cost housing projects –
Profit from sales

Clerk: Question 244, the Hon. R M Clinton.

2165

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance advise how much money are Government companies due to receive on the completion of sale of the low-cost housing projects and what profit is the Government anticipating to make in total?

2170 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, there is no profit anticipated as the affordable homes are sold at cost. The amount of money will not be known until the sales are completed.

2175 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman says that the affordable homes will be sold at cost, that was also my understanding. But can he answer this: when he says 'cost', of course these are sold at 50%. So is it 50% of cost and therefore is the position that the Government is effectively subsidising ... ? We do not know how much because some of these flats may be 50%, others may be 60%, even though the majority are 50%, as the Hon. the Chief 2180 Minister has said on a number of occasions.

But am I right in saying that effectively the Government is subsidising, by a percentage, the construction of these flats?

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, there is a subsidy in two aspects, or there is a subsidy in the sense that the land is free, obviously. And there is a subsidy in the sense that the Government invests in 50% of the house and does not charge rent for that 50%. That is the whole concept of the 50/50 home ownership which transformed home ownership in Gibraltar in the 1980s, or in 1989 whenever it was we did this. But calling it a subsidy, well fine, it is a subsidy less than the subsidy involved in renting.
2185

2190 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes. Perhaps... Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the answer. Perhaps I have not actually made my question sufficiently clear, and I apologise to the hon. Member. Of course, there is going to be a subsidy.

What I am getting at is whether there is effectively a cost to the Government, beyond the cost of the land – forget about the land for the time being – in terms of the construction cost and the proceeds that the Government gets back from the purchase of the 50% or the 60% or the 70%, what it gets back from the tenant, whether there is a cost in monetary terms to the Government beyond what it is recovering in respect of the sale of the properties, forgetting about the cost of the land.
2195

2200 I know if you have taken into account the cost of the land, then the mathematics work out that, yes ... but I am talking about actual costs, money in the pocket, that it is costing the Government beyond what it is receiving in terms of receipts.

Hon. J J Bossano: Well I am not certain, Mr Speaker, whether he is referring to the fact that if 50% of the house ... for example, if the house has cost £120,000 and somebody buys 50%, then the money of £120,000 is paid by the Government to the contractor and the Government is only going to get £60,000 back.
2205

2210 So if that is the cost that the hon. Member is referring to, then the answer is to the extent that people do not buy that other 50%, that is something that will be there for as long as the house is there. It is not something that is written off. There is in fact an asset there which is Government-owned.

Hon. D A Feetham: No, no. Mr Speaker, I understand that. I am just in my own mind trying to work out something that I have been considering in the past and we have been discussing here as well, which is in monetary terms, does it cost the Government ... ? Does the Government recover its monetary investment?
2215

Because the hon. Gentleman says the cost of the flat may be £120,000. That assumes of course that it is costing the developer £120,000.

2220 The developer in this particular case is GJBS, the Government-owned company. Now if it is costing the developer £120,000 to actually build the flat, that does not necessarily follow. The flat may have cost less to build, but it is being sold at £120,000.

What I am getting at is, whether the Government is actually recovering 100% of what it is costing, the Government at the end of it is paying, to build these flats?

2225 Hon. J J Bossano: My understanding is that the price has been fixed on the basis of the tenders that were submitted for the building of the estates.

What I cannot be 100% sure of, for example, is if there are public areas or areas ... whether they are fully incorporated in the price per unit. I am not 100% certain of that. I can find that out and let the hon. Member know.

2230 But as far as I am concerned, the political decision and the policy decision of selling at cost is that if it costs to build £x, we do not sell it for £x plus a percentage.

2235 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may ask the hon. Member whether he has the number with him, what that £x is for all the low-cost housing projects – what the total cost of all the housing projects is to the Government?

Hon. J J Bossano: I do not have that information with me, but I will find it and let him have it, Mr Speaker.

2240 Hon. R M Clinton: I am grateful, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: The House will now recess to 3.00 p.m. this afternoon.

The House recessed at 1.05 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 3.00 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

AFTERNOON SESSION: 3.00 p.m. – 10.20 p.m.

Gibraltar, Wednesday, 2nd March 2016

Contents

Questions for Oral Answer .....	4
Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB.....	4
Q245/2016 Gibraltar Home Loans Company Ltd – Loans or mortgages granted to date.....	4
Q246/2016 Credit Finance Company Ltd – Loan applications; investment decisions .....	4
Q247/2016 GSBA, Gibtelecom and Credit Finance Company – Market value of ordinary and preference shares .....	8
Q248/2016 Civil Service – Agency workers .....	9
Q249/2016 Approved contractors scheme – Details of scheme members .....	10
Q250/2016 Brussels office – Payments to staff.....	11
Q251/2016 Brussels office – Lobbying activity.....	11
Questions for Written Answer .....	12
Order of the Day .....	12
Government Motions .....	12
Select Committee on Constitutional Reform – Committee established .....	12
Select Committee on Parliamentary Reform – Committee established .....	35
The House recessed at 5.30 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 5.55 p.m. .....	39
Bills .....	39
First and Second Reading .....	39
Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015 – First Reading approved.....	39
Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015 – Second Reading approved .....	39

Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting .....	43
Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016 – First Reading approved .....	43
Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Second Reading approved .....	43
Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting.....	45
Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 – First Reading approved.....	45
Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 – Second Reading – Debate commenced.....	46
The House recessed at 7.25 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 7.30 p.m. .....	60
Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 – Debate concluded – Second Reading approved .....	60
Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting.....	72
Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016 – First Reading approved.....	72
Parliament (Amendment) Act – Second Reading approved .....	73
Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting .....	80
Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 – First Reading approved.....	80
Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Second Reading approved .....	80
Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting.....	81
Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 – First Reading approved .....	81
Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 – Second Reading approved.....	82
Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting .....	83
COMMITTEE STAGE .....	83
Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015; Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016; Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016; Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016; Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016; Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 .....	83
In Committee of the whole Parliament .....	83
Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015 – Clauses considered and approved	83
Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved .....	84
Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved .....	85
Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved .....	86
Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved .....	89
Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved .....	90
BILLS FOR THIRD READING.....	90
Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015; Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016; Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016; Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016; Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016; Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 – Third Reading approved: Bills passed.....	90

PRIVATE MEMBER’S MOTION .....	91
Review of Members’ salaries and pensions etc. – Motion not carried.....	91
ADJOURNMENT.....	100
The House adjourned at 10.20 p.m.....	101
Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 – Debate concluded – Second Reading approved .....	Error! Bookmark not defined.
Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting	Error! Bookmark not defined.
Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016 – First Reading approved ..	Error! Bookmark not defined.
Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Second Reading approved .....	Error! Bookmark not defined.
Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting.....	80
Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 – First Reading approved .....	80
Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Second Reading approved.....	80
Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting.....	81
Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 – First Reading approved .....	81
Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 – Second Reading approved .....	82
Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting.....	83
Committee Stage .....	83
Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015; Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016; Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016; Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016; Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016; Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 .....	83
In Committee of the whole Parliament .....	83
Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015 – Clauses considered and approved ..	83
Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved.....	84
Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved .....	85
Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved .....	86
Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved.....	89
Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 – Clauses considered and approved .....	90
Bills for Third Reading.....	90
Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015; Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016; Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016; Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016; Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016; Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 – Third Reading approved: Bills passed .....	90
Private Member’s Motion .....	91
Review of Members’ salaries and pensions etc. – Motion not carried .....	91
Adjournment .....	100
The House adjourned at 10.20 p.m.....	101

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.00 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

Questions for Oral Answer

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, TELECOMMUNICATIONS & THE GSB

Q245/2016

Gibraltar Home Loans Company Ltd – Loans or mortgages granted to date

Clerk: We continue with answers to Oral Questions.
Question 245. The Hon. R M Clinton.

5 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance advise if Gibraltar Home Loans Company Ltd has granted any loans or mortgages to date?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
Not yet, Mr Speaker.

10

Hon. R M Clinton: May I ask if the company has applied for a credit licence?

15

Hon. J J Bossano: I cannot confirm whether they have or they have not. I will go back and check, but no loans have been... the home loans company has not engaged in any activity to date.

Q246/2016

Credit Finance Company Ltd –
Loan applications; investment decisions

Clerk: Question 246. The Hon. R M Clinton.

20 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance please advise how loan applications are made to Credit Finance Company Ltd and how investment decisions are made and by whom and with reference to what criteria?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): In writing, Mr Speaker. Whether to proceed with the granting of the loan application is a decision that is made by the people authorised to make it by reference to the return on the investment, the security granted and the effect on the social and economic development of the community.

25 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, may I ask where are applications to be addressed and who are the people authorised to make those investment decisions?

Hon. J J Bossano: Yes, Mr Speaker, and I have answered that the applications are made in writing and that the people who process the applications are the people authorised to do it. I do 30 not know whether he expects me to give him their date of birth and their name and address, but he is not going to get it if that is what he is expecting.

Hon. R M Clinton: No, Mr Speaker, my supplementary was to ask where, in terms of the physical address rather than the people, these applications should be addressed, and ... I will sit 35 down.

Hon. J J Bossano: Credit Finance has an address, and if you write to somebody you write to the address where the company is registered. That is what you normally do, at least to my 40 knowledge.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, in answer to previous questions the hon. Member has advised us that Credit Finance has no employees, so am I correct in coming to the conclusion that the people making these decisions are neither employees nor directors?

45 Hon. J J Bossano: I think it follows that you do not have to be a Sherlock Holmes to deduce that if there are no employees there cannot be employees making decisions, because they do not exist.

I said the people authorised to make it, and whoever is authorised to make it, whether it is a director or one of the public officials who run the Civil Service system in the Treasury... This is all 50 managed by the Treasury. We do not employ people outside to do these things. So, whoever has got the authority to assess this and apply the criteria that has been laid down as a policy by the Government, which is consistent with the criteria that is contained in the legislation in the Savings Bank, are the people who take the decision.

55 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, may I ask: have the directors of Credit Finance Ltd given any general or specific powers of attorney to anyone?

Hon. J J Bossano: The hon. Member can ask anything he wants, but whether they have or they have not is something that I have not enquired. I do not know whether he is saying that 60 they should have or that they should not have, but I have not asked any director whether he has a power of attorney, nor would I expect to be asked that supplementary from the original drafting of the question.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, perhaps we can cease going round in circles and he could just simply answer this question: does the outfit make the decisions that my hon. Friend 65 Mr Clinton is talking about?

Hon. J J Bossano: The outfit is the collective reflection of the people of Gibraltar. They make their decision and it is a collective representation of the people who vote there. Every decision 70 the outfit makes is consistent with the election manifesto for which the people voted. We are carrying out the will of the people, not the will of the Members opposite.

Hon. D A Feetham: I understand, Mr Speaker. It may well be that the decisions of the outfit are a reflection of the will of the people of Gibraltar by virtue of the fact that they got elected 75 into Government. But that was not the question. The question is whether the decisions that are being explored and asked about by my friend Mr Clinton are being taken by the outfit: yes or no?

Hon. J J Bossano: The answer is he should have paid attention to me when I gave the first 80 answer, because the answer to the original question is that the decisions are taken by the people authorised to take them, and that the policy that they apply in making the decision is made by the people elected to make policy decisions – and that policy has also been spelled out.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, but this is an important point. We are talking about a 85 company, Credit Finance, that has had transferred to it £400 million of savers' money. I will repeat that so that listeners and viewers understand what we are talking about: £400 million of savers' money has gone from the Gibraltar Savings Bank into Credit Finance.

Credit Finance has no employees, according to the hon. Gentleman; all it has is directors. In 90 fact, we know that the directors are corporate directors; they are not even human beings. The human beings are in the corporate directors.

When we asked earlier this morning about decisions that were taken in relation to some other aspects of Credit Finance, you said that it is the outfit that made the decisions – that is the Government. Now, we are entitled to know who is making these decisions. Of course the policy is going to be made and is going to emanate from the Government of the day. That I understand, 95 and indeed that was precisely my criticism when I criticised the lack of openness and transparency and also sought to establish that link with the Government, because I was saying, 'Well, hang on a minute, this is the Government,' and he was at pains in the early stages of the debate to place an arm's length between the Government and Credit Finance. But if the directors do not take decisions because there are no employees that are employed by Credit 100 Finance, then surely it must be the outfit that is taking the decisions – and that is the Government, by his definition.

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, all the decisions that are taken in the public sector are the responsibility, politically, of the Members on this bench, whoever implements the policies.

105 I know that the hon. Member repeats what he says so that everybody hears, so the first thing is that he is wrong to say any money was transferred. The Savings Bank invests in the shares of Credit Finance – it owns Credit Finance.

And he does not seem to be able to even understand the difference between purchasing an 110 asset and transferring money. The asset has been purchased. The entity has got a moneylender's licence and it lends money. The criteria for lending the money are laid by the Government. The policy is laid by the Government. The Government has defended that in an election, and the hon. Member has attacked it, and the majority have accepted the view of the Government and not his view – just like they did in the opposite direction in the last four years, and we have reminders of that every other day from them. So nothing has changed. The only difference is 115 that the hon. Member thinks that he can govern from that side of the House, and the answer is that he cannot.

If and when he ever gets elected, he can run down the Savings Bank again, he can stop issuing debentures, he can stop Credit Finance and he can slow the economic growth of 120 Gibraltar. But as long as we are here, the people employed in the public service, who are public servants, will be carrying out our policies, helping the private sector to expand and helping the economy to grow. That is what is happening there, and if that is not sufficiently transparent for him, it is sufficiently transparent for the electorate.

Several Members: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

125

Hon. D A Feetham: No, Mr Speaker, it is not sufficiently transparent for me –

130

Mr Speaker: May I tell the hon. Members, the Minister and the Leader of the Opposition, that they are now beginning to debate, and there is a limit about the extent to which I am going to allow that.

Hon. D A Feetham: Of course, Mr Speaker. I defer to Mr Speaker's judgement on these matters, as I must.

135

But of course it is not sufficient for Members on this side of the House, because it is not sufficient when a Government of the day acts in the opaque, non-transparent manner that this Government acts.

140

But it is very simple. The question is very simple and it requires a very simple answer, because it is a factual question. It is about who takes the decisions, who makes the decisions on behalf of Credit Finance – and it must be the directors of Credit Finance. That is the simple answer: it is the directors of Credit Finance. Even though the Government sets the policy, it must be the directors of Credit Finance. But he finds it difficult to even tell me that – that it is the directors. He talks about officials. It cannot be these phantasms of officials, because Credit Finance, which is a Government-owned company – but nonetheless is a company, it is a limited company – must act through its directors, and it has no employees, it has no officials. You cannot have phantoms of officials acting on behalf of a company when the hon. Gentleman has said there are no officials. That is the point.

145

150

We only want to know who is taking these decisions. This morning he was very helpful. We may disagree with the outfit taking the decisions, but this morning he told us that it was the outfit that took the decisions. In other words – the outfit, according to him, was Members on the opposite side, the Government – the outfit was making the decisions. Now he is telling me that it is the officials, but this company has no officials. I just want to know who is taking the decisions in relation to a company that has – whether by way of transfer, investment or whatever it is – it has £400 million, £400 million of savers' money, and the Government has a responsibility to shed light on how those decisions are being taken and by whom.

155

160

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the Members opposite, who have been doing their best, unsuccessfully, to undermine the policies in this area since 2011 (A Member: Yes.) – a policy that the previous GSLP initiated in 1988 when the bank grew, as it did, from £3 million to £300 million in eight years – have been making an issue of the fact that if you give savers' money to Barclays Bank, as they were doing, you do not ask, 'Who has decided to make a loan in the Savings Bank: the directors or the guy employed in Barclays Bank to do it?'

165

The answer is that Credit Finance does not have people on the payroll of Credit Finance. Credit Finance, as a company, is managed on a day-to-day basis by the Treasury. The people in the Treasury are the officials that I have said are the people authorised, and I have used the word 'authorised' as opposed to being employed, because they are not employed. Whether anybody authorised needs to go back to ask a director for any clarification on anything, it would be if there was any doubt whether the criteria laid down by the policymakers, which is us, was being met or not.

170

As far as I am concerned, that is the same explanation that I have given him several times. It is not an explanation that he wants, because he wants something to be able to criticise – and if he accepts the explanation, he cannot criticise it. Well, he can carry on criticising it, because it will do him as little good this time as it did the last one.

Q247/201

GSBA, Gibtelecom and Credit Finance Company – Market value of ordinary and preference shares

Mr Speaker: Next question.

175 Clerk: Question 247. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance advise how the market value for ordinary and preference shares held by the Savings Bank Special Fund in GSBA Ltd, Gibtelecom Ltd and Credit Finance Company Ltd, have been determined?

180

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, the shares in question do not have a market value, since they are not quoted on any stock exchange.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for that answer.

185

I wonder if he could reconcile that statement with the schedule of investments we get regularly, and in fact are in the Principal Auditor's Report, whereby, for example, Credit Finance is being shown as having a market value; or is that perhaps a mistake and perhaps should be reclassified to being held at cost?

190

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the shares have the value in the balance sheet of the Savings Bank, which is the value at which they were issued to the Savings Bank. That does not mean that it is a market value, nor indeed that it is their real value, because there may be profits in the company, which means that the profit per share would enhance the cost price of the share. So all the shares are shown at the original cost of the acquisition.

195

Hon. R M Clinton: I thank the hon. Member for his answer, but would he agree with me that it is perhaps a misnomer in the way the investments are currently disclosed in the schedule of assets of the Special Fund?

200

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, it may be a misnomer because the title that has been put in the column is 'market value'; but, for example, the debentures of the Government have no market value and the Savings Bank has got debentures of the Government – and the hon. Member has not asked me what is the market value of those debentures. It is the same thing, but okay, if it makes him happier I will get the title at the top amended, and it will say 'market or acquisition value'.

205

Hon. R M Clinton: Yes, I appreciate that remark, Mr Speaker, but I would suggest that, rather than change the title at the top, perhaps the schedule should be split in two so that we know which ones are really at market value and which ones are at cost.

Q248/2016
Civil Service –
Agency workers

210 Clerk: Question 248. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide details of workers who have been working within the Civil Service structure in the last 12 months from recruitment agencies or companies, giving details of the start date, end date or expected end date, the reason why the services is/was required, recruitment agency or company from which the worker was provided, Departments in which the worker has been placed, and, if any, have been employed by Government since?

220 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, as the hon. Member knows from the Estimates of Expenditure, the Government decided some time ago, as a matter of policy, to make provision for relief cover in the Civil Service structure of all Departments, which, prior to 2011, existed in some and not in others.

The relief cover head has been used to pay for the following number of staff supplied for two companies: Rock Admin with one supply worker; and S&K with 27. Eleven supply staff provided by S&K are no longer in the Civil Service structure. One of them obtained employed as Audit Clerk.

225 The current dates of termination of the supply cover are all in 2016. However, the hon. Member presumably understands that, for example, when someone comes back from maternity cover, sick leave or annual leave, or any other reason for the staff shortage, supply workers terminating in one Department often get redeployed onto others where a new requirement arises. This sometimes happens seamlessly and sometimes the supply agency takes its employee elsewhere and may bring the person back at a later stage. The bulk of those placed started in 230 2015 or late 2014 but have not necessarily been posted in the same area.

The deployment by Department currently stands as follows, but could change tomorrow.

Technical Services	1
Fire and Rescue Service	1
Income Tax Office	3
Statistics	2
Housing	1
Department of the Environment	1
Human Resources Department	1
Gibraltar Audit Office	1
IT Department	1
Post Office	1
Treasury (Salaries)	1
Treasury (Wages)	1
Treasury (Accounts)	2
Treasury (Payments)	1
Education	3
GHA	5
CSRO	1
ETB	1

235 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, and none of these commenced their service within the Civil Service structure, so to speak, earlier than late 2014?

Hon. J J Bossano: That is correct, yes.

Q249/2016
Approved contractors scheme –
Details of scheme members

Mr Speaker: Next question.

240

Clerk: Question 249. The Hon. D A Feetham.

245 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please provide details of all companies, businesses, self-employed individuals and other entities who are or were on the approved contractors scheme as at the end of December 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014 and 2015, together with details of their specialist trades, works given and value of such, together with the work currently being undertaken and value of the same?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development and Telecommunications.

250

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): No, Mr Speaker.

Hon. D A Feetham: Does that mean that the outfit does not want to provide us with an answer to this particular question?

255 Hon. J J Bossano: No, Mr Speaker, it does not mean that. It means that this is not information that is readily available and can be produced at the push of a button. The hon. Member, having been in Government, knows this full well. It would take a considerable amount of time and an army of people going through five years of paper records to try to compile the volume of information; and, as he wants it in an oral answer and I always try to please him in that respect, if I had to read the question it would take me a week.

260

What I have readily available is the most recent list of approved contractors and their specialities, and I am happy to pass that over to the hon. Member. I can also tell him that my impression is that the list sees very little movement in or out.

265 Of course, if it is information that he wants collected to bring the public administration to a grinding halt, then he can count on me not to help him.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, in relation to the last lesson, I chose not to learn that particular lesson from him – because he was the master of asking statistical questions in order to grind the administration to a halt when he was on these benches.

270

Yes, I will take any information that he can provide, of course. But if this question is left over – or I can repeat this question, if it is a question of time – for next time round, and for example ... Look, he may not have all the information for all these years, but certainly he must have it for 2014 or 2015. I would just appreciate some guidance from the hon. Member as to what parts of this he could answer, for example next month, and I will just simply repeat the question next month.

275

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, I can get people working on different parts of the question, if the hon. Member is happy with that. He does not need to ask me every month. I will send him ... As it is ready he can get what is available.

Q250/2016
Brussels office –
Payments to staff

280 Clerk: Question 250. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide figures for the amount paid during 2015 to each member of the Brussels office in salaries, allowances, bonuses, retainers, fees or any other benefit in kind?

285 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Yes, Mr Speaker, the information requested by the hon. Member is as follows:

	£
EU Political Director	207,437.50
EU Legal Representative	96,173.65
Finance and Admin Director	53,893.41
Interns	20,376.15

290 It should be noted, Mr Speaker, that the relevant tax rate in Brussels is from 48% to 52%.

Q251/2016
Brussels office –
Lobbying activity

Clerk: Question 251. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Government provide a list of all lobbying activity conducted by the members of the Brussels office since its establishment?

295 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Yes, Mr Speaker, it is not in the public interest to publicise a detailed list or description of all lobbying activity conducted by the representation in Brussels since its establishment.

300 The Government can, however, confirm that in 2015 the Brussels office organised and participated in individual bilateral meetings on many occasions, more than once with the same person, with at least 79 Members of the European Parliament, 29 officials of the European Commission, nine officers of the Permanent Representations of the Member States, and two members of the Economic and Social Committee.

305 At these meetings, the individuals concerned were briefed on issues that are of political importance to Gibraltar. These include issues such as the dispute with Spain over the application 310 of the EU aviation legislation to Gibraltar, the unjustified labelling of Gibraltar as a tax haven, the restriction imposed on the right to free movement of people at the border between Gibraltar and Spain, or issues relating to general misconceptions held in EU circles over Gibraltar's status in the EU.

Clerk: That completes answers to Oral Questions.

Questions for Written Answer

315 Clerk: Answers to Written Questions, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to table the answers to Written Questions numbered W25/2016 to W35/2016.

Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

Order of the Day

GOVERNMENT MOTIONS

Select Committee on Constitutional Reform – Committee established

320 Clerk: Order of the Day. Government Motions.
The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move the motion standing in my name, which reads as follows.

This House:

Notes and recalls that the Gibraltar Constitution of 2006 was adopted 10 years ago;

That the said Constitution of 2006 furthermore had its origins in a process which commenced in 1999;

Considers that there should be a review of the 2006 Constitution by a Select Committee of this Parliament in order to assess what changes to it are necessary or desirable;

And therefore hereby resolves to establish a Select Committee which shall be known as the Select Committee on Constitutional Reform which shall consist of three Members nominated by the Chief Minister and two Members nominated by the Leader of the Opposition.

325 Mr Speaker, the position of the Government in respect of this motion is well known. In fact, it is one of the matters set out in our manifesto at the recent General Election, where we set the agenda for what would be the progress in respect of constitutional advancement, setting out the need to review, on page 18 of the manifesto, the possibility for a select committee and a constitutional review conference.

330 Mr Speaker, the Constitution that we have in place at the moment – and I note that you and other Members of this House were part of the Select Committee, or in fact part of the negotiating team that went to London to obtain that Constitution – has been a Constitution that for 10 years has, of course, changed the way that Gibraltar has been run. We saw wholesale amendments to our legislation after its introduction – in the Interpretation and General Clauses Act, for example, where the word ‘Governor’ was changed for the word ‘Minister’. The repatriation of powers was quite substantial and the House and the Government have been working under the auspices of the new Constitution now for almost 10 years.

Mr Speaker, in broad terms it is likely that there will be four types of amendments that we will be identifying, or proposed changes that we should be identifying.

340 Initially, of course, the Select Committee made recommendations which were not able to flourish in the negotiations with the United Kingdom in the period 2004-05 when the negotiations were ongoing. Some of those the select committee to be created might consider should now be put again and might prosper.

345 Secondly, Mr Speaker, the nuts and bolts detail of the working of the Constitution. With the best will in the world, in creating a document of this sort there will sometimes be nuts and bolts issues which will need to be changed. Those sometimes arise also in the context of judicial proceedings which may have thrown up minor issues with the Constitution: issues relating to trials etc., non-political issues which the Constitution also deals with and have to be updated as a result of decisions of our court making it desirable to do so, indications from judges that it might be desirable to do so, or indeed judicial developments outside of Gibraltar in other courts that Gibraltar may also have to take cognisance of – at the Court of Human Rights, the Court of Justice and the Privy Council in the United Kingdom.

350 Mr Speaker, there are other proposed changes that the select committee may wish to make when the time comes. We have made many changes to the way Gibraltar is run since 2011 – for example, the monthly meetings of Parliament and other aspects of what we have done, which the select committee might decide are better dealt with in the context of the Constitution.

355 In parallel, Mr Speaker – and I will move in a moment another motion – we have the Select Committee of the House that I hope will soon finish its work. We spent some time looking at the work that had been done by the Independent Review Commission during the lifetime of the last Parliament – we need to round off that work. Some of that work may result in proposed changes which this Parliament may adopt, which may also need to see some read-through into a new Constitution in the manner of ensuring tying into the Constitution some of the things that the Select Committee on Parliamentary Reform may recommend – for example, issues relating to codes of conduct in public life etc. Those are things which we may decide should be in the Constitution.

365 Mr Speaker, those are the character of changes that it may be that you can define as being the different heads that the select committee may come up with. I think this is necessary work. I think this is a review that needs to happen.

370 All options are open for the select committee. The select committee could come back to the House and say that on reflection the time is not ripe for a position to be put to the British Government, or it could be that there are issues to be put and that we should then consider those in this Parliament and determine together how best to take that forward. That, I think, is work that we need to do.

375 I am conscious, of course, of the fact that it was highly unsatisfactory for Gibraltar not to have had constitutional change for 30 years between 1969 and 1999 when the former Select Committee was created. It then took some considerable time for the Select Committee to do its work and to then prosper with the 2006 Constitution.

380 There are, of course, political issues that we need to look at together in the select committee and decide how we want to put them for our people, not for any of our individual parties or partisan interests. All of those things, Mr Speaker, I think are the mature way to ensure that you keep under review, but in a way that is accountable to the people, how the Constitution is working.

385 I have in mind also some detailed work. We have discussed, for example – and I think I have said publicly before – that we have wanted to ensure that the rights of disabled people are secured for them not to be discriminated against. We think it is important that there should not be two different categories of fundamental rights – fundamental rights contained in a constitution and fundamental rights contained simply in a statute, important though that is – and that there may be a requirement to ensure that all the categories of non-discrimination that this Parliament believes are appropriate should be contained in the same standard of document.
390 Those things I am sure will be things that will carry the support of the whole House.

Mr Speaker, in my research in respect of how important it is to keep constitutions under review, I note that the Bermuda constitution, which has always been seen as the one which is just slightly more advanced than the current Gibraltar Constitution, is a constitution that was granted before, I believe, the 1969 Constitution for Gibraltar, but has been amended, I think, 395 eight or 10 times already by order in Council.

And so, Mr Speaker, I think it is important that we do this exercise. I trust it is an exercise we will be able to do together. It is an exercise in which we have to be totally accountable to our people, because this is, in effect, our Magna Carta, and I sincerely hope that this is a motion that will enjoy the full support of the whole House and that the select committee will be able to do 400 its work in an atmosphere of co-operation and conviviality.

Mr Speaker: I now propose the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. the Chief Minister.

405 The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, thank you very much.

The Opposition cannot support the motion in its current form.

I am very grateful to the Hon. the Chief Minister for recognising that the new Constitution in 2006 was effectively a game changer constitutionally for Gibraltar. As he says, it was a new 410 Constitution that was negotiated, agreed, and then, following a referendum, enacted here, provided and extended to Gibraltar, which effectively changed the way that the Government was run in terms of the relationship with the Governor, the relationship with the United Kingdom, and the repatriation of many of the powers that we now enjoy back to, or, extremely to the Gibraltar Government from what was then the Governor.

415 I am extremely, extremely proud about the way that certainly the party on this side of the House not only supported the process of the Select Committee through the negotiating process with the United Kingdom, but also the way that it recommended to the people of Gibraltar in very clear terms that the people of Gibraltar ought to vote a yes to the Constitution, which was something that was heeded by the people of Gibraltar in the results of the referendum.

420 But, Mr Speaker, our position has been, and it is one of the fundamental policies of the GSD since the 2006 Constitution, that the 2006 Constitution provided the people of Gibraltar with the maximum level of self-government compatible with British sovereignty short of independence. That has been a fundamental tenet, a fundamental policy of the GSD party, and one that we are not prepared to compromise on and one that continues to be a policy of the party.

425 I recognise that of course it is a policy of Members opposite, but what this is about is Members opposite asking the Opposition to adopt a policy that is not ours, a policy that is theirs.

I have gone on record in the past asking the hon. Gentleman to explain what it is that he envisages and what it is that he means – in the words of this particular motion, but certainly it is something that I have raised before this motion was drafted: what are the changes that he believes are necessary and desirable?

430 Today he has talked about the nuts and bolts, the need to be changed as a consequence of traditional review. I am not aware of changes as a consequence of decisions. He then speaks about ... well, there might be areas that arise as a consequence of parliamentary reform and the other Select Committee that we have convened and the work in relation ... I am none the wiser 435 in relation to what the Government means by changes that are necessary or desirable.

Of course, in any exercise such as this, a Government needs to come in, or the parties need to go in, with a very clear idea of what they want to achieve. In 1999, when we started the process of constitutional reform, of course we had a very clear idea, because the genesis of the constitutional process in 1999 was that there had been a White Paper by the United Kingdom
440 Government. So, in 1999 a White Paper, 'Partnership for Progress and Prosperity in Britain and the Overseas Territories', which was sent to every single Overseas Territory by the United Kingdom Government inviting proposals for constitutional reform. That is what then led to this House setting up a Select Committee on Constitutional Reform, which then produced a draft Constitution which formed the basis for the negotiations that took place and started, I think it 445 was in 2004. I had the privilege and the honour of forming part of that negotiating team, along with the Hon. Mr Speaker, the Father of the House, and also the Deputy Chief Minister, and that then produced the result, our 2006 Constitution, which was adopted in a referendum. But it appears to us that this is quite a different situation altogether. Then, there were proposals being invited by the United Kingdom Government; this is their own initiative, and I think that it is 450 incumbent upon them to provide us with a very clear understanding of what it is that they want to go with this.

Thirdly, there is, I think, an additional difficulty, and that is that although I cannot foresee fundamental ... I do not see the appetite in Gibraltar for fundamental constitutional reform, and of course I have already said our position is that the Constitution provides the maximum level of 455 self-government short of independence compatible with British sovereignty, but the one area where I envisage circumstances where there might be a need for fundamental constitutional reform might be after the Referendum on 23rd June; because if, God forbid, there were a decision by the people of the United Kingdom and Gibraltar collectively to leave the European Union, then I think that in those circumstances we have to really get our serious thinking caps on 460 and do some serious thinking about our relationship with the United Kingdom and how it is that we want to progress that relationship. It may well be that we want to go towards a situation ... I put it no higher than that, but we might want to go to a situation where we want some form of devolved integration with the United Kingdom in order to provide us with the protection that we might need in case our neighbours to the north decide to play silly buggers, so to speak, with the 465 Frontier and use their full powers, in the circumstances where the United Kingdom leaves the EU, to try and place restrictions on the Frontier.

Those are the three areas that cause me concern. Having said that, I have said as well that the Opposition wants to try and see whether it is possible at all to work with the Government. And what we have done is come up with proposed amendments that I would like the Hon. the 470 Chief Minister and Members opposite to consider in order to see whether we can progress and amend this motion in a manner that allows the Opposition to participate on the terms of this amended motion. If I may just distribute some to my colleagues.

Mr Speaker, I have to move the amendment before I sit down and that is why – 475 Mr Speaker: For guidance, you see... would you have...what the Leader of the Opposition has circulated is what the amended motion would look like if the proposed amendments are incorporated into the Chief Minister's motion.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes.

480

Mr Speaker: More correctly, what you should have done should have been to actually circulate the proposed amendments. That is what you should have done more correctly.

But, having looked at what the amended motion would look like, I am not going to ask the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition to do that now, because it is not a straightforward exercise, but ideally that is what should have happened.

485

So, what I would say is that what the amendment being moved by the Leader of the Opposition amounts to is this: the addition of –

Hon. D A Feetham: Can I go through it myself?

490

Mr Speaker: I am going to ask you to read it out in a moment, yes; but what it would amount to, really, is the –

Hon. D A Feetham: Well, let me explain, Mr Speaker, what it amounts to and then I can read it out. But I just –

495

Hon. Chief Minister: Read the amendment.

Mr Speaker: Sorry?

500

Hon. D A Feetham: I will read the amendment.

Mr Speaker: I have to though.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker will have to read the amendment. I just want to explain very briefly, Mr Speaker, so that it is understood how opposition arises.

505

Mr Speaker: You see...In order to arrive at this –

Hon. D A Feetham: I am totally in Mr Speaker's hands.

510

Mr Speaker: In order to arrive at this, you really have to –

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon J J Bossano): Move the amendment.

515

Mr Speaker: In order to arrive at this you would have to delete all the words after 'Furthermore' in the Chief Minister's motion and replace –

Hon. D A Feetham: No, Mr Speaker, the parts in red –

520

Mr Speaker: 'Recalls that the Gibraltar ... was adopted'

Hon. D A Feetham: Nothing has been deleted. There have been additions; nothing has been deleted. That is why I just want to –

525

Mr Speaker: But then those amendments should be moved individually. They should be moved separately. The correct way of doing it would be for those amendments in heavy type on the sheet circulated by the Leader of the Opposition ... All those amendments in heavy type should, strictly speaking, be moved separately. In order to avoid that ... That is the correct position. I am prepared, not to complicate matters, to allow the Leader of the Opposition to read out what the motion would look like as amended and allow debate, but I think I ought to give notice for the future that this is not the way to do it. That is not the way to do it. (Interjection) That is not the way to do it, okay?

530

535 The Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am very grateful.

The proposed amendments are in bold and in red.

The first amendment reads, 'After '1999' – in other words the paragraph that says:

'That the said Constitution of 2006 furthermore had its origins in a process which commenced in 1999;'

I am adding ... and I know the Hon. the Father of the House says that is wrong ... And in fact, if it is wrong and he persuades me that it is wrong, we can delete this. That is not a die-in-the-ditch issue for us, but it reads:

namely the invitation in the 1999 White Paper, 'Partnership for Progress and Prosperity, Britain and the Overseas Territories', to Overseas Territories Governments to submit proposals for constitutional reform.

540 That was, I believe, the genesis of the constitutional process that commenced in 1999. It was a response to an invitation by the United Kingdom – I have always understood it as such – to make proposals for constitutional reform.

545 The second paragraph is an important one to the Opposition, because, Mr Speaker, the motion as read out, as it stands drafted by the Hon. the Chief Minister, provides that the House considers that there should be a review of the 2006 Constitution by a select committee. Well, that is not our position, and what I want and seek agreement of this House is that the position of the Opposition ought to be acknowledged. Therefore, the paragraph that I have inserted states:

acknowledges that it is the position of Her Majesty's Opposition that the 2006 Constitution provides for a modern relationship between Gibraltar and the United Kingdom and that gives Gibraltar a maximum degree of self-government compatible with British sovereignty of Gibraltar.

Indeed, hon. Members will note that that is almost precisely the wording that is provided in the ... I think it is the preamble to the new Constitution of 2006.

And then I have added the words:

acknowledges that Her Majesty's Government considers because it is their position that there should be a review.

And then I propose:

acknowledges that Her Majesty's Opposition is not aware what provisions of the 2006 Constitution Her Majesty's Government considers should be assessed for changes

– because we do not – acknowledges that in the interests of unity Her Majesty's Opposition agrees to the establishment of a select committee for the purposes of reviewing the 2006 Constitution, but that no substantive work will be undertaken until after the EU Referendum on 23rd June 2016.

550 In other words, Mr Speaker, we are agreeing to participate in a select committee, acknowledging what is our long-held position constitutionally and what this Constitution did for Gibraltar, acknowledging that there is a very difficult decision that has got to be taken by the United Kingdom by the people of Gibraltar about in/out of the EU on 23rd June, which might have an impact on the process. It does not mean that we cannot have meetings, for example,

555 prior to 23rd June, but that there will be no substantive decisions that will be taken until after 23rd June 2016.

I would hope, Mr Speaker, that the hon. Gentlemen opposite can accommodate what are, in our respectful view, reasonable but necessary amendments in order to also reflect what our 560 position is, that will allow us to participate in this process, which is their policy, in a spirit of unity and also co-operation and constructiveness.

That is why I am proposing these amendments, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: All Members of the Government, including the Chief Minister, can speak on the amendment.

565

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am very disappointed to see that the hon. Gentleman is not going to be able to support the policy of the Government which has been elected 98 days ago with an overwhelming majority of public voting in the General Election, which has a policy to undertake this review in this way. A select committee is a committee of both sides of the House, 570 where both sides of the House are able to put their own views.

Mr Speaker, if the hon. Gentleman believes that we have reached that maximum possible level of self-government, that we should not do anything before Brexit etc., it is up to him – he can say that in the select committee, that he has a different policy.

575 He may have a different policy as to whether we should, as a result of the review, make any changes to the Constitution or propose them, but surely he is not saying that he is not even prepared to review the Constitution. That is his position, Mr Speaker, as explained today, given that he says that it is our policy to review, but that he is not aware of any provisions that should be changed.

580 Well, look, he might become even more convinced that there are aspects of the Constitution that have to be changed than we might by the end of the process. This is not a commitment to a change; this is a commitment to a review. Therefore, Mr Speaker, we do not accept that this is a question of setting out the different policies of the Government and of the Opposition in respect of the motion, which deals with the paragraphs that he has included.

585 He is trying to set out what his position is. He is trying to put into a particular box the position of the Government, as it being just the Government's view. He is then trying to set out that the Opposition itself is not aware of anything that should be assessed for change, and then setting out that only in the interest of unity the Opposition is going to support the creation of the select committee.

590 Mr Speaker, I must say this is the most ill-tempered proposed amendment I have ever seen to a motion seeking to establish a select committee, especially given that I have said at the beginning that we are not going into the select committee with any preconceived notions – I have given just an indication of the types of issues that we would be wanting to look at.

595 Mr Speaker, he told us about the campaign for the 2006 Constitution, at the referendum, and how proud he was that the party that he now sits with – I forget whether he was with them then or not; he must have been, because he was included by Mr Caruana in the negotiating team in order to try and raise his profile a little bit ... how proud he was of the work that they had done in presenting the Constitution at the referendum and how the Constitution was one of the defining benefits that they had left us.

600 I do not think it is the position of all of them, Mr Speaker, because I am reminded that nobody on this side of the House led the no campaign. The no campaign was led by Mr Robert Vasquez, who described the 2006 Constitution at the time as a wasted opportunity. Well, Mr Speaker, maybe Mr Vasquez can give him a hint of the things that he might like to see reviewed in the 2006 document that we are dealing with.

605 But that aside, what we are talking about establishing is not a committee with a predetermined destination; it is a committee to undertake a review. And that committee, as it did last time, can take evidence from people. Mr Vasquez, who was not elected at the last

General Election, could come to give us evidence again, as he did to the last Select Committee, and tell us what he thought were the wasted opportunities of 2006, others could come and tell us what their views are, and by the end of that process we may all unanimously be convinced that there is nothing to propose or that there is a lot to propose.

But, Mr Speaker, I do not want to deal with all the other issues that the hon. Gentleman has raised, and I have a lot of other issues to go through; I want to deal only with the amendment that he has proposed. For those reasons, those paragraphs of the proposal that he is making which seek to carve out the position of the Opposition and the position of the Government and put them in separate boxes is not one that I think is positive. I do not think it is conducive to unity. I think it sets to etch in stone the differences of opinion between the Members opposite and us, and therefore I do not think that it is appropriate that they should prosper.

I know that the Hon. Mr Bossano has something to say about the paragraph that deals with the 1999 White Paper, which is the only paragraph in respect of which our position has not yet been set out.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Mr Bossano.

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, as well as putting it in the amendment, he actually mentioned the White Paper as the initiator of the process of the constitutional proposals that came from Gibraltar. This is totally incorrect. In fact, 1999 was the date that the Select Committee was set up and we were invited by the then GSD Government to join with them in order to put proposals to the United Kingdom when they had already tried to achieve it on their own and got nowhere. It was not in response to the 1999 White Paper, and in the motion before the House then at no stage did the Government say we were being invited to respond to anything from the United Kingdom. This was a Gibraltar initiative, independent of the White Paper.

What happened at a later stage, towards the end of the negotiating process, is that the United Kingdom Foreign Office hijacked what we were doing and put us together with all the other Overseas Territories who had had constitutional amendments, and then of course came up with this collective mantra that we were not being decolonised but we were now non-colonised because we were now modernised.

There has been a very clear debate for many years in this House between the GSD and the GSLP that modernity is not the equivalent of decolonisation and that the farce of this nonsense that a modern non-colonial constitution is something different was put beyond the shadow of doubt by something that I happened to have been closely involved with, which was the position of the Turks and Caicos Islands, where Lord Triesman – in the Labour Government, to their shame – the man who had been the General Secretary of the Labour Party, actually went to the Turks and Caicos Islands and encouraged them to accept a new constitution, which had been negotiated by the local political parties with the United Kingdom, and told them that the result of that was that the United Kingdom was no longer the colonial power and that it meant that they were now effectively, practically self-governing, consistent with a continuing British sovereignty, but that it was a modern and a non-colonial relationship. And having said all that, he said that they were not going to the United Nations for delisting because they did not believe in the delisting and because they had abstained in the motion of 1964 when the delisting was introduced. Having said all that, two years later they suspended the constitution, removed the government, removed the opposition, removed the parliament and removed the speaker. Jolly good job it was not a colony: if it had been a colony they would probably have executed the lot!

So either you are a colony or you are not a colony; it is a matter of international law. We happen to have, without a doubt, a level of self-government that is higher than almost any other of the British Overseas Territories except one, which is Bermuda. But Bermuda has a higher level of self-government than we have since 1968, so they have not got a modernised or modern or recent constitution. And the only reason in the talks in London ... I do not know whether the Leader of the Opposition remembers or not, when I raised this point the only reason that the 660 legal adviser of the Foreign Office gave for the position of Bermuda having been attained in 1968, was that they gave it only because they were misled by the Bermudans into thinking that the Bermudans were on the point of going independent, and therefore they were persuaded to grant them almost total independence. And then the Bermudans did not ask for independence and they were stuck with it, but they were not prepared to repeat that with any other Overseas Territory.

665 So, first of all, it would be wrong to include in a motion in this House something which is factually incorrect and untrue. Indeed, when I spoke from the Opposition benches to set up the Select Committee, what we did was we said we would join it for one purpose and one purpose only, and that was to get the right of self-determination enshrined into the Constitution, which regrettably we did not to the extent that we wanted, and that the purpose of the Constitution
670 was to come up with a Constitution that was capable of being accepted by the international community as a decolonising Constitution. And when we started the process I asked the then Chief Minister, as Chairman of the Committee, to inform the Secretary General of the United Nations that we were starting work on a Constitution with the objective of arriving at a decolonised Gibraltar. He said the Government would consider that. I said, 'Because that is the 675 reason why we are joining: you have your agenda, this is ours.'

We then said about the agenda of the Government. The agenda of the Government was to go line by line – that is why it took so many years – line by line through everything in the existing Constitution and everything in the Constitution they had already put to the UK and the UK had already turned down on the basis that that might produce something which would be accepted 680 if it was a unanimous position from both sides.

We accepted everything that the GSD said was important to them: everything. We said, 'We are not here to decide whether we meet once a month or we meet every day in Parliament, or whether we do things more for us; the issue is the decolonisation of Gibraltar. That is the issue for the Socialist Party, and therefore, as part of the exercise of having a joint approach we will 685 support all the things the GSD want.'

After that, when the process finished – in the room that used to be here before, which looked much better than this one (Laughter) –

690 Hon. D A Feetham: I agree with that.

Hon. J J Bossano: Good – at least we agree on something!

Hon. Chief Minister: [Inaudible]

695 Hon. J J Bossano: We agreed in this meeting what the final paper was going to be, and I then asked the then Chief Minister, 'What is going to happen with the letter you promised me three years ago?'

He said, 'Well, the Government still has not made up its mind.'

I said, 'Well, look, I have been very patient with you. You know that this is important to us.
700 Now at the very least what you can do is say, "We have now finished the Constitution, which we are going to put to the United Kingdom in order to decolonise Gibraltar." If you did not want to say it at the beginning you have got to say it at the end.'

'Well, no, no, no, if you push me,' he said in his usual fashion, 'if you push me, then the answer is no and I will stop considering it'

705 I will not go into all the graphic details of what transpired after that event. I think it was actually recorded on tape, but I do not know whether the hon. Member remembers what came out publicly afterwards. No? Well, I do not think I should repeat it. Okay, I will paraphrase it. Is that okay?

710 Hon. D A Feetham: You have lost me.

Hon. J J Bossano: I have lost you. Well, maybe I can jog his memory, or maybe he was not that interested in politics in those days. I do not know.

715 When the meeting finished ... It was very heated, you know, and we parted on not very friendly terms. I cooled down and the then Chief Minister departed. When he got downstairs and GBC was waiting at the door and they asked him how did the meeting go, Mr Caruana said, 'Well, very badly. We are not going to meet anymore, because Mr Bossano of the Opposition has called me ...' something – I will not say the 'something' – and, being a much more moderate person than he was, when I came down after him GBC was very anxiously waiting for me to come out and they said, 'How did it go?' 'Well,' I said, 'it could have been better. We have got strong differences, we have expressed our views but ...' and he said, 'But is it true that you called Mr Canepa' –

Mr Speaker: Mr Caruana.

725 Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Caruana, sorry. I beg your pardon, Mr Speaker. (Laughter and banging on desks) I have never called you anything all the time that we have been here together, ever.

I said, 'Yes, it's true, I did.' And then ... I think it was Stephen Neish who said to me, 'Well, why is it that you have not mentioned it when I asked you?' I said, 'Well, because you provide news and what I have called him is what the whole of Gibraltar knows he is, so it's not news.' (Laughter) I would have thought he would remember that, because this came out live on television. I will tell him what the word was afterwards, when we are out, so he does not miss the juicy bit.

730 So the answer is that it is not the case we set an agenda. That agenda, in fact, achieved most of what the GSD wanted, practically all of it, so I am not surprised that they say that they were happy with the result. In fact, what the GSD could not do on its own, we did. Of course, in 1999 the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition was neither here nor indeed in the GSD, because in the year 2000 he was not here at all, then that is why he missed the juicy bits then.

735 In 2000 he actually campaigned against them on the basis that I was being too soft. Notwithstanding what I called him, I was being too soft with the then Chief Minister and –

740

Hon. Chief Minister: 2003.

Hon. J J Bossano: Oh, 2003, even later then. No, in 2000, of course, he was still with us, campaigning against him. (Interjections) Yes, he was with us in 2000.

745

Hon. Chief Minister: In 1999 he was not here; in 2000 he was here – 2003.

Hon. J J Bossano: In the year 2000 he was still campaigning against the GSD.

750 Hon. D A Feetham: I wasn't campaigning with anybody in 2000.

Hon. J J Bossano: Yes.

Hon. Chief Minister: Después de las elecciones.

755

Hon. J J Bossano: No, he was campaigning in 2000 against him because he supported the policies of the GSLP, he defended them publicly and he disagreed with the GSD. So he disagreed with everything we were doing in 1999 and in 2000. He then went, in an election in 2003, against them on the basis that I was too comfy in the Leader of the Opposition seat, that I wanted to stay there and I was not being aggressive enough, and therefore he tried to demonstrate how aggressive he was by going with a guy to New York and then joining his party when he came back. There you are. (Laughter)

760

So, for all those reasons I feel I cannot support his amendment, Mr Speaker.

765 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, my turn on the amendment.

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak on the amendment? No.

Hon. D A Feetham: My turn on the amendment.

770 Mr Speaker, I know that the hon. Gentleman thinks that I have been playing a central role in Gibraltar politics since 2000. He delights in reminding me that I was somehow campaigning on behalf of the GSLP.

775 I came back in 2000 and I think it took me about six to eight months to fall out with the hon. Gentleman – it did not take me very long for me to fall out with the hon. Gentleman! So there was not a lot of campaigning that I did as an ordinary member of his party since I was a little boy in short pants, as he has always delighted in reminding me, when I used to follow him and my father around – one cannot get around that.

780 But, Mr Speaker, just responding to some of the points that he has made, he has sought to correct what he says was a factual inaccuracy on my part that the constitutional process that was started in July 1999 with the establishment of the Select Committee in the House of Assembly for Constitutional Reform – that that did not have its genesis in the 1999 White Paper, but that it had its genesis elsewhere.

I refer the hon. Gentleman to the despatch, which is the despatch that accompanied the Constitution. It is signed by Margaret Beckett on 14th December 2006 and it reads as follows:

the starting point for the work to modernise Gibraltar's constitution was the invitation in the 1999 White Paper (Partnership for Progress and Prosperity: Britain and the Overseas Territories) to the Overseas Territories governments to submit proposals for constitutional reform. In July 1999, the Gibraltar House of Assembly constituted a Select Committee to report on Constitutional reform. The Committee published its proposals in January 2002. We formally received them in December 2003. These proposals were subsequently discussed between delegations from the UK and Gibraltar in November/December 2004, September 2005 and March 2006.

So, actually, the position is set out in the despatch enclosing the new Constitution to Gibraltar.

785 I do not know ... I have asked my colleague, Mr Llamas, to see whether he can ferret out the actual motion for the establishment of the Select Committee in 1999 to see whether there is any mention of that or whether it was mentioned in any of the speeches. Quite frankly, nothing turns in relation to this and it is not a die-in-the-ditch issue for us, that particular first paragraph.

790 Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has also said that, for them, what was important was the delisting of Gibraltar, and that has always been clear – and that is important to me too, the delisting of Gibraltar. But the reality, as we have always said, whether you are or you are not a colony does not depend on whether the United Nations insist that you are listed in a list of non-self-governing territories. It is a matter of fact. It is about an internal relationship between Gibraltar and the United Kingdom and whether de facto, whether de facto you are a colony or you are not a colony, whether de facto you are self-governing or you are not self-governing. And de facto – as a matter of fact – as a matter of constitutional law, as a matter of constitutional fact as a matter of constitutional fact, Gibraltar is not a colony; it has a modern non-colonial relationship with the United Kingdom.

800 That the United Nations refuses, for its own political internal reasons, refuses to recognise that constitutional reality to me does not alter the legal constitutional position. Indeed, it is somewhat like being pregnant, I suppose: you are either pregnant or you are not pregnant, and Gibraltar has been nine months pregnant for the last I don't know how many years and has gone to the United Nations nine months pregnant and the Committee of 24 has refused to recognise, quite clearly, that pregnancy and quite clearly the fact that Gibraltar is not a colony. That has 805 been the position and I refuse, and this party refuses, to acknowledge the position of the United Nations by arguing that we are a colony simply because, for their own political reasons, they refuse to delist us. Because that, I think, weakens us; it does not strengthen us as a nation.

Mr Speaker, turning to some of the points that the Hon. the Chief Minister has made, I tried to keep my contribution, speaking on the amendment and the motion, as serious as possible, trying not to make party political or partisan points. The hon. Gentleman has quite clearly diverged from that approach by drawing attention to the fact that Robert Vasquez was one of the people who campaigned for 'No'. That may be so, but the hon. Gentleman opposite went from a no to a yes ... Sorry, I should say from a yes, because I remember quite clearly that the hon. Gentleman, the Father of the House, shook the hands of the leader of the UK delegation, saying that he was going to support it – that is my recollection; I was there – and publicly Mr Licudi, in a debate ... well, it was not a debate, it was a programme with a number of people giving contributions, and he said, 'We are going to be campaigning for a yes vote at the referendum,' only to go to a no three days later, and I think by the end of it they were saying publicly, 'You have got to vote with your conscience,' when all these polling booths were manned by GSLP activists actually telling people secretly, not openly, to vote against the new Constitution in the referendum just simply to give the Government of the day a bloody nose, because the Government of the day had invested quite a lot of political effort – in the interest of Gibraltar as a whole, it has to be said – in the adoption of this Constitution.

So I need no lectures from anybody, Mr Speaker, on this particular issue as to who is acting reasonably, who is acting unreasonably and who is acting in the public interest. I am disappointed, I have to say, because I have really attempted, together with my colleagues, to find a formula of words that allows us to participate in a select committee whilst at the same time recording what our position is and also recording what, in our view, is a reality, which is that there is this Referendum on 23rd June that may or may not be seminal and that may or may not necessitate some very fundamental changes to the Constitution. I was really hoping that I could come to this House today, that I could move these very reasonable amendments that do not seek to tie the Government down to any particular position, still less to tie the Government to our position, but certainly records what our position is very clearly, because our acceptance of this motion is implicit and explicit recognition that there is a need to review and reform the Constitution, and that is certainly not our position.

I remind the hon. Gentleman how the motion reads in its second paragraph, substantive paragraph, which says:

Considers that there should be a review of the 2006 Constitution by the Select Committee of this Parliament

We certainly do not accept that that is necessary. We accept it is the hon. Gentleman's position that there ought to be a review, and had he agreed to these very reasonable amendments we would have participated, but obviously we would have had the cover at the very least that our own position was protected, and that is all that we have sought to do with these amendments.

Mr Speaker, for all those reasons we will be voting against the motion.

Mr Speaker: Before I put the amendment to hon. Members, may I reiterate and explain in slightly more detail what I said earlier about how an attempt should be made to amend a motion.

I would urge, in future, hon. Members, when they wish to amend a motion, of which previous notice will have been given some time before in the Agenda, that they should consult the Clerk – and therefore, through the Clerk, me – to ensure that they get it right.

I say that supported by ... and I am sure the Hon. the Father of the House will testify to what I am saying, that between 1972 and 1992 there were 20, 30, 40, 50 ... a huge number of motions of a similar nature which very often were amended, and therefore over the years of my membership here in the House, and I am sure it has happened with Mr Bossano, we learned 855 from others, like Sir Joshua Hassan, Bob Peliza and the then Speaker, we learned about the process in which such amendments should be made.

I have looked through the amendment that should have been properly proposed by the Leader of the Opposition and it would not have been very, very difficult at all to actually set out what the amendment should be –

860

Hon. D A Feetham: But I think it is more helpful this way, but next time I will do it this way.

Mr Speaker: Yes. But having said that, this is what it would have resulted in.

865 Therefore, what I am going to put to the House is that the Chief Minister's motion should be amended by the addition of the words which are set out in bold type in what would eventually have become the amended motion if it were to be accepted. All right? So it is the words in bold type that I am actually ... That is what constitutes the amendment and that is what I am going to put to the House. Those in favour? (A Member: Aye.) Those against? (Several Members: No.)

870 I take it that the amendment is defeated by Government majority, and therefore we are now back to the Chief Minister's original motion. The Leader of the Opposition has spoken on that motion. The Hon. Mr Bossano has spoken on the amendment, so he is therefore free to speak on the original motion and so are all other Members, after which the Chief Minister will have his right to reply.

875 Does any other hon. Member wish to contribute to the debate on the Chief Minister's motion? If there is no Member I will call upon the Chief Minister to exercise his right to reply.

880 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think it is quite historic that the Opposition have set out, from the moment that the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition got up in this Chamber to speak on this motion a moment ago, that they will not be supporting a motion to review the current Constitution.

885 The hon. Gentleman tried to take us to a part of this motion where we said that we would, in fact, put forward reforms from that select committee – just as he was about to sit down – and he realised, I think, halfway through his point that he had got it completely wrong, that the motion as it stands does not actually commit anyone to do anything other than review the Constitution. And when he started going on about that paragraph he said, 'and of course it goes on about reform and review'. This only talks about review, whatever your position may be, and he set out his position, with which of course we do not agree, that the select committee that we have sought to establish today and that we will establish today does not bind him in to do anything – although it does do one thing, which is the Government's position: it binds us into review.

890 If they come to the conclusion in the select committee that there is nothing after that review that should be reformed and we agree with them, we come back together to this Parliament and we say there is nothing to be done.

895 If we believe that there is something to reform and they do not, it is not that they are stuck and come to this House with a report from the select committee and I am able to use their presence in the select committee to champion reform: they issue a minority opinion of the select committee, full stop. Full stop.

900 So, have they taken that option? No. They have taken the decision – which will have resulted, no doubt, in much rubbing of hands with glee outside of Gibraltar – not to support the legitimately elected Government of Gibraltar in a review of the Constitution, let alone a potential for reform.

He said, Mr Speaker, that the 2006 Constitution was a game changer. Well, I suppose it was to an extent.

905 Hon. J J Bossano: So was the 1969 one.

Hon. Chief Minister: So was the 1969 one, Mr Speaker, absolutely, and the one before that in 1964.

910 But I will tell him what was the biggest game changer, given that we are now going to get on to a debate of things that are de facto and de jure – and if they care to pay attention for a minute and stop tweeting or squeaking or Facebooking for a minute they might understand this point better, Mr Speaker. The game changer was the election in 1988 of a Government that delivered the constitutional advancement of Gibraltar de facto and which then, as a party in opposition, joined with the then party in government to deliver that de jure in 2006. Did the 915 2006 cause the usual repatriated powers de jure? Of course it did, many of those, as the Hon. the former Chief Minister, sometimes referred to as the greatest Gibraltarian of all time, has said on more than one occasion because he recognised the work done by Joe Bossano after 1988 in that respect.

920 What else are they doing by their negative approach today? Well, Mr Speaker, they are thwarting the will of seven tenths of the people of Gibraltar, who have supported this position in a manifesto that they have selected.

925 Have we achieved or have we not achieved the maximum possible level of self-government compatible with British sovereignty? Mr Speaker, I do not understand how he believes that that is the case when he left Gibraltar with a negotiating team with a list with a hundred things on it and he came back with less than a hundred things. I am not even going to characterise it as 50 or 75 or 99: he came back not with everything that he went to ask for. Unless he was prepared to form part of a negotiating team that went to ask for things which were incompatible with British sovereignty – and I would assume that he would never have lent himself to that, Mr Speaker – then there must be things that are compatible with British sovereignty that were still in the list 930 of things that could be achieved. We may together decide that there are some of those that we should achieve and seek to achieve; we may together decide that they are not issues that we need to be pursuing.

935 Mr Speaker, for the reasons the honourable, the former leader of the GSLP, and former Chief Minister and Leader of the Opposition Joe Bossano said, we supported them in 1999 when they set up the constitutional review Select Committee, but this is their approach today, not to support us, even though they might not entirely agree with the need for a review and even though we are not trying to tie them in to what the consequences and conclusions of that review should be.

940 He asked what the changes should be. Well, Mr Speaker, I have said what the types of changes that we might end up reviewing or proposing might be. I have said previously, when the hon. Gentleman has said on television that he would like a meeting with me to discuss in detail what it is that we are going to propose, that I think these are things that we need to do in a way that is accountable and objective. So I am surprised that somebody who accuses us of being opaque wants to be quite so opaque. I think we should do this review together here, that it 945 should be recorded, that we should put our positions – and that if we come to a joint conclusion, great, and if we do not, so be it.

950 The United Kingdom has already indicated it is prepared to speak. The most recent documentation with the United Kingdom in relation to Overseas Territories talks about review of constitutions – or is it that he does not know that? But we are in an unprecedented situation, Mr Speaker. Seven tenths of the people of Gibraltar want there to be a review. The United Kingdom is prepared to engage with us in respect of that, and the Leader of the Opposition is not. He is the one who is not ready to talk. He is not ready to sit down and do an analysis of the Constitution.

955 He says in any event it should not be something that we pursue until after Brexit. Well, look, Mr Speaker, he has a much greater regard for the alacrity with which this House's Select Committee have ever been able to move than any of us have, because no Select Committee of this House has ever reached a conclusion, tabled a report and gone to the United Kingdom, if that were relevant to it, within four months. Nobody is proposing that we should do this before

960 the Brexit Referendum is over. This is a process we should start, and it will go through the Brexit Referendum and beyond the Brexit Referendum. It is work for the lifetime of this Parliament. I do not know where he gets it from that we are proposing to do this before the conclusion of the Brexit Referendum is held. ‘Oh, people will say that I have been wise to put the Referendum first and then the review second,’ he might think. Well, Mr Speaker, it is not about the Brexit Referendum. The Brexit Referendum is knocking on our door; this is work to be done in the 965 lifetime of this Parliament.

The amendments which were proposed were clearly not an attempt at unity, but I will nonetheless seek to move an amendment to give him an opportunity to continue to work with us on this subject, and perhaps when he ponders what the political consequences ... let us just say what the political consequences to him personally might be of not engaging in this process 970 with us, he might reconsider.

But I have never heard an analysis as flawed as the one that he has just done about whether or not Gibraltar is or is not a colony being not a matter to which the United Nations position is relevant. To hear a lawyer say that the international legal order is not relevant to the international legal status of a territory is absolutely incredible. They might get uncomfortable 975 listening to it, they might not like what they are hearing, but the reality of international law – not Spain’s position, the UK’s position or Gibraltar’s position, the reality of international law today, whether we like it or whether we do not, whether we move to change it or whether we do not, the reality of international law today is that Gibraltar is on the list of non-self-governing territories, Mr Speaker –

980 Hon. J J Bossano: For as long as it is there.

Hon. Chief Minister: – de facto and de jure. So, as long as the list of non-self-governing territories is the criteria by which the United Nations determines whether or not a territory is 985 self-governing or not, that is relevant. You can give it more credibility or less credibility, you might argue, but what you cannot argue with any shred of authority in international law – or even in national law, which has regard to international law in respect of these matters – is that the only thing that matters in determining the nature of the relationship is the internal rules and situation within the state, in this case the United Kingdom, that reports to the United Nations. It 990 would be absolutely untenable for anybody to make that argument in any reasonable way in any tribunal, national or international.

In pregnancy terms, Mr Speaker, (Laughter) although I think it is quite the wrong illusion, if we turned up 50 years ago pregnant, we would most certainly not still be pregnant now.
Something would have gone very wrong indeed. (Laughter) A gestation period of 50 years would 995 produce something as anomalous perhaps as the fact that there are still some colonies in the world today.

As the Secretary General of the United Nations said only last week, Mr Speaker, the committee which is reconstituted again for this year needs to ensure it continues its work to eradicate colonialism, and that means get rid of colonialism and ensure that there are no nations 1000 left on the list of non-self-governing territories.

You can take another attitude, which is what the hon. Gentleman has told us he would do and he has set it out perfectly today: ‘Whatever the United Nations says, I am not going to deal with it.’ Well, Mr Speaker, that has got a description de facto. It is called the ostrich syndrome, and the hon. Gentleman has demonstrated that in the most serious aspect of the political 1005 international future of our nation – the decolonisation debate and the defence of our nation before the United Nations – his is the ostrich approach. Well, Mr Speaker, he will be judged for it politically by people.

But why is it a diversion, as he said, to look at the position at the United Nations? It is, in fact, the international legal position with which we have to deal. Why is it a diversion from the 1010 seriousness and conviviality that the hon. Gentleman likes to pretend that he wanted to bring to 1015 this debate to refer to the fact that one of the people he stood for election with less than a hundred days ago had a position which is diametrically opposed to the one that he has set out here today, when he has said it is the GSD's position and this person stood for election not just with him but with the GSD? Well, it is a de facto reality, isn't it? That is what Robert Vasquez said 1020 at the time. So I am not trying to sow diversion or division or do anything other than relate the facts as they are. And he said, 'Well, the fact is that some of you also said one thing – you shook a hand and you said something on a television programme.' Doesn't he remember that one of the important issues here, in terms of the exercise of the right of self-determination in a plebiscite of the people of a non-self-governing territory, was whether or not the referendum 1025 was binding? And the words of the Attorney General, then a Member of this House, that he considered the referendum a non-binding facultative taking of opinion which was of no legal consequence? These things might be boring to some, but this is about the core of what matters in terms of the future, the constitutional and political future of our people. That was one of the issues which made us determine what our position was going to be in the Referendum.

1030 Mr Speaker, this has been today, as far as we have got, a cop-out of historic proportions. I do not think that this House will ever again see an Opposition fail to support the Government in doing a review of the Constitution – not in committing itself to anything, in simply accepting the result of the last General Election, something it is important that the hon. Gentlemen do. I heard the hon. Mr Bossano have to tell him he has to realise that he is not going to be ruling Gibraltar 1035 from the Opposition benches. He has to accept what we were committed to in the election and the fact that that was chosen by the people, as we do, and we are totally bound by that and we will continue in the endeavour that the people of Gibraltar have chosen.

I hope that this ill-tempered debate will not be what prevails and that we will be able to move together to review, review – and maybe once I have said that enough times the hon.
1040 Gentleman can have the comfort that I am not for one moment suggesting that he be bound into reform anything: review – the Constitution together. That is why I propose the following amendment to my own motion, notice of which I am happy for the hon. Clerk to provide in writing to you in the form which I think is the one usually required and the one that has always been used before. It will be to add at the end of the motion the following words: 'and in the 1045 event that the Leader of the Opposition were to fail to nominate any Member to membership of the Select Committee within 21 days from the date of the passing of this motion, then to proceed with the work of the Committee with the Members nominated by the Chief Minister.'

Speaking on that proposed amendment, Mr Speaker, we are not going to fail to do the things that we have set out in our manifesto to do, whether in relation to the Constitution or 1050 otherwise. But I want him to reflect on what has been said, and if we take away all of what it is that we have been arguing over he has said he does not want to be bound in to reform the Constitution, because it is not his policy to do so, and I have said, 'Don't worry, this is just a review.' He has tried to pretend that the motion as it stands says the opposite. It does not, and when he was doing the analysis he fell in trying to suggest the opposite.

1055 Well, now he has the chance with this proposed amendment to sleep on it and to nonetheless nominate two Members to this committee within 21 days from today's date, and if he does not do so the Government is then free to continue. And we want to continue by way of select committee because we want to do it in this House. We want them to form part of the select committee so that they are able to do so. We accept that their membership of the select committee would be with all the caveats that he has set out during the course of his speech 1060 about not wanting to be tied into a reform. I have not indicated that we would be prepared to reform anything at this stage, only that we would want to consider reviewing, and that for the purposes exclusively of reviewing and with the ability to provide a minority opinion from the select committee in the event that they were not to agree with us on what the proposed reforms that might emerge from that committee, if any, were to be, that he should nominate someone for that purpose.

For that reason, Mr Speaker, I move the amendment in what I think is the traditional, proper and appropriate way:

Add at the end of the motion the following words:

'and in the event that the Leader of the Opposition were to fail to nominate any Member to membership of the Select Committee within 21 days from the date of the passing of this motion, then to proceed with the work of the Committee with the Members nominated by the Chief Minister.'

1065 Mr Speaker: I now propose a question, which is that the Chief Minister's motion be amended by the addition of the following words, namely:

and in the event that the Leader of the Opposition were to fail to nominate any Member to membership of the Select Committee within 21 days from the date of the passing of this motion, then to proceed with the work of the Committee with the Members nominated by the Chief Minister.

The amendment is now before the House.

1070 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the position of the Opposition continues to be exactly the same. This paragraph adds absolutely nothing to the substantive motion. It is in the nature of a gimmick that has long been, unfortunately, the hon. Gentleman's trademark, and it does not alter any of our very real concerns about this process and this particular motion.

1075 You do not undertake a review unless you yourself take the view that something needs to be changed. That is the point, Mr Speaker. Of course I accept that it is the hon. Gentleman's policy that the Constitution needs to be changed.

I have never said to the hon. Gentleman, 'Come to me and tell me exactly every single area that you feel needs to be changed,' but I said, 'Give me an idea.' The hon. Gentleman has not even been willing to do that.

1080 I have asked him to bilaterally meet with me, not because I want to deal with these matters off camera, away from public glare in a non-transparent way, but because I believe in dialogue and because I believe in sitting down and attempting to iron out problems. That is why I came to this House with amendments that were designed for us to be able to participate safely in this process, Mr Speaker. Safely in this process.

1085 Mr Speaker, of course the United Nations is undertaking currently a process to eradicate colonialism, but indeed the United Nations has described this decade as the second decade, or the third decade, I think it is, for the eradication of colonialism. In other words, there was a first decade, there was a second decade and there was a third decade.

1090 In relation to Gibraltar, the problem is not that Gibraltar has a modern Constitution. The problem is not that Gibraltar has a relationship with the United Kingdom that cannot by any stretch of the imagination be described as being colonial. The problem is not us. The problem is not our relationship with the United Kingdom. The problem is the United Nations and the problem is the pressure that Spain places on the United Nations and the loss of bottle by the Committee of 24, which does not want to anger and antagonise Spain. That is the reality. We 1095 could go to the United Nations with a gold-plated, a gold-plated Constitution that ticked every single conceivable box and the United Nations would still keep us listed in the list of non-self-governing territories, because that is where Spain wants us to be.

1100 That is why my position is, and the position of this party is that we will not play into the hands of Spain by adopting a position that says that we are a colony simply because we are listed. No, we are not. No we are not. Indeed the position historically of Gibraltar has been that there may well be resolutions of the United Nations in relation to Gibraltar. Spain has argued in the international fora and politically that those resolutions somehow give her legal rights, and indeed the hon. Gentleman, Mr Bossano, the Father of the House, quite rightly pointed out in 1105 the late 1970s and early 1980s, I think it was the Strasbourg process had its genesis in those very same resolutions. That is why he took the view, rightly, that we ought not to be participating in that process, I think it was, because his position was, 'Well, look, the roots are those resolutions from the United Nations.'

1110 We refuse to accept the position of the Committee of 24 that constitutionally Gibraltar remains a colony. That is a matter of fact and law that involves looking at the reality of a situation in Gibraltar, just like it is common ground that Gibraltar enjoys the right to self-determination, and of course the United Nations, who could refer it to the International Court of Justice, and Spain, who could agree to refer it to the International Court of Justice, do not do so because they know that we are absolutely right.

1115 Mr Speaker, the fact that the United Nations keeps us listed in a list of non-self-governing territories does not affect that constitutional relationship that we enjoy with the United Kingdom, that cannot by any stretch of the imagination be described as non-colonial, because being a colony is a matter of fact and law and it involves analysing the Constitution and analysing whether the territory is a self-governing territory – and Gibraltar is a self-governing territory and we should not be listed, and we should not be listed by the United Nations in their list of non-1120 self-governing territories.

1125 Mr Speaker, I really came to this House hoping – hoping beyond hope, because I know that sometimes anything that I propose ... and I had toyed with the idea, I really had, of not taking the lead in relation to this particular motion and allowing one of my parliamentary colleagues to do so, but it is my duty as Leader of the Opposition, but I have toyed with the idea because I knew that the hon. Gentleman ... It is almost like a bull to a red rag every single time that I rise and I propose something that is reasonable. We wanted, we wanted, we wanted – and I want the position to be reiterated and for the position to be clear: we wanted to participate but safeguarding what is fundamental policy for the GSD and our position, and that is what this attempts to do.

1130 And Indeed Mr Speaker, and indeed, in order to give it one final opportunity, one final opportunity for the Opposition to participate, safeguarding our position, I am quite prepared for this motion, and I invite the Hon. the Chief Minister to adjourn this motion and for us to discuss it on Monday – we are meeting on Monday at three o'clock – to see whether a form of wording can be agreed between him and I in order to allow the Opposition to participate in 1135 circumstances that our position is protected. I invite him to do so and I invite him to set aside whatever view he has of me and whatever is his desire to attempt to turn things around and distort in order to cause me, personally, political damage, which has been his modus operandi over many, many months and the last three years, in order to see whether this can prosper. And I invite him to do so, because if what he wants is for the Opposition to participate in a select 1140 committee that furthers his policy, not ours, then I think that he ought to invest that time and political energy in sitting down with me in order to see whether a form of wording can be agreed to see that this prospers.

1145 Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak on the amendment?

The Hon. Mr Bossano.

1150 Hon. J J Bossano: With your permission, Mr Speaker, I feel that, since the arguments that have been put by the Leader of the Opposition have been the arguments in support for not participating in relation to what he considers to be the legal international position of Gibraltar – which is totally, totally and completely wrong, I can tell him, because it is not possible to argue that the de facto nature of the level of self-government determines the legal status of the territory, or indeed the relationship that exists between us and the United Kingdom.

We are on that list because the United Kingdom put us on that list. Jersey, Guernsey – 1155 Hon. D A Feetham: Pre-Constitution.

1160 Hon. J J Bossano: When the United Kingdom put us on that list we were under the Constitution of 1954, which was then changed in 1964, which was then changed in 1969. The constitutional changes we probably owe to Spain, because it all happened after Spain joined the United Nations and started claiming us. Indeed, in the United Nations on more than one 1165 occasion it was being argued by Spain that the changes that were taking place were precisely to create a quasi-independent Gibraltar and frustrate the obligation the United Kingdom had under the Treaty of Utrecht. But the reality of it is that the Charter of the United Nations is the only instrument of international law. That Charter has a signatory and that signatory is the United Kingdom, and the United Kingdom has chosen to go to the United Nations and say, 'I am the administering power of the non-self-governing territory of Gibraltar.'

Hon. D A Feetham: We had another Constitution then.

1170 Hon. J J Bossano: Yes, we had another Constitution then, but the fact is that in 1968 Bermuda got a Constitution which gives them more power than we have today, and that continues to be reported on by the United Kingdom as a non-self-governing territory for whom it is the administering power.

1175 So what do we have? We have a situation where the United Kingdom every year, every year repeats it. They did not just say it in 1954: every year the United Kingdom sends a report to the United Nations about its 11 colonies, or 10 colonies, and says, 'I, the administering power of Gibraltar, report what is happening in my Overseas Territory for which I am internationally responsible –

1180 Hon. D A Feetham: Will you give way a minute?

Hon. J J Bossano: Of course.

1185 Hon. D A Feetham: I am very grateful to the hon. Gentleman because I think this is an important debate and the hon. Gentleman makes some very, very important observations and very important comments.

1190 But is it the hon. Gentleman's position that really the arbiter of whether we are self-governing or not self-governing is the United Nations? The arbiter of whether we have a Constitution ... and look, it is a question of degree and I think that at the heart of this there is a distinction, there is a difference between the hon. Members and us – which is why I want this reflected – which is that we believe that we have the maximum level of self-government short of independence beyond which there is only independence. That was the position that the former backbencher, the former Chief Minister, outlined on many, many occasions, and continues be our position, and I think that their position really is, no actually, we could go further than that.
(Interjection) Well, that is what I am asking, because what I fundamentally disagree with is the 1195 notion that we are hostages to fortune of the United Nations in terms of characterising our own relationship. That is what really ... Even though I accept that the decision as to whether we are listed or not listed ... sorry, not whether we are listed or not listed, whether we are removed from the list is a decision for the United Nations.

1200 But if I am right, they are making decisions based on politics, they are not making a decision based on constitutional reality, so I would ask the hon. Member to perhaps clarify what his views are in relation to that, as I am genuinely interested in his views.

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the position –

1205 Mr Speaker: May I remind hon. Members that the actual amendment before the House has nothing to do with delisting by the United Nations; it is about the appointment of two Members within 21 days by the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. J J Bossano: In speaking to the amendment to the motion I am not really trying to delist Gibraltar; I am trying to enlist the Leader of the Opposition into joining us. Therefore, I welcome the opportunity to give him an explanation. It is an explanation of what we have already publicly recorded in the UN and what I have said year after year in the seminars that I have attended in the Pacific and in the Caribbean.

He needs to understand that this is not a question of the Committee of 24 – there are now 28 of them in the Committee of 24 – as a matter of who are being free to remove us from the list or keep us on the list. The criteria of the United Nations, as the Chairman of the Committee of 24 said to the then Chief Minister on one particular occasion when he started criticising the Committee of 24 ... He said, 'Well, look, if you don't agree, or if the United Kingdom doesn't agree with the criteria that the United Nations has, then let the United Kingdom, as a Member State, come to the United Nations and propose a change in the criteria. We in the Committee of 24 don't make the rules; we apply them.' That is the position.

Although we have got people who are in the pocket of Spain, primarily the South American countries, we have still got strong supporters and friends in that Committee, and that has been no accident. That has been the years of hard work, persuading them that the presentation of Spain, which started in 1964 as puppets of the United Kingdom, was not a reflection of what the people of Gibraltar are. When the people of Gibraltar or the people of the Falklands go there and they say 'we are British and we are not a colony' to the people who are there to decolonise people they do not do themselves any favours. So the position that we have maintained is we have negotiated with the United Kingdom a Constitution that takes us as far on the road to decolonisation as the United Kingdom was willing to agree to, which is exactly the same position that they adopted with every single one of the other territories as a result of that 1999 White Paper.

But when he quotes, as he does, from the letter that was sent by the United Kingdom, it is what I told him: that they hijacked our process and stuck it with what they had initiated in the others. All the other territories were asked by the United Kingdom to bring in constitutional proposals. In the Turks and Caicos, which I mentioned earlier, Mr Speaker, to demonstrate to the hon. Member that it is not what it seems to be, having first described it as a non-colonial modern relationship, which was as far as it could go, having then suspended everybody, they then imposed a new constitution on the territory which gave them less powers than the one they had removed. I was asked by them to go over there and actually participate as an independent observer in the electoral process that brought the new constitution in, and then I was invited to go back a second time to explain to them how the parliamentary system works, because of my 40 years in the business.

So what I am telling the hon. Member ... It is very simple. This is not a question of the people who are in the pocket of the Spaniards doing the dirty on us; the question is that there is a Charter, there is a chapter 11, and that chapter 11 says there are territories that are not fully self-governing. Those territories that are not fully self-governing ... underwent a fundamental change in international status in the Charter of the United Nations because they stopped using the label of being a colony and they adopted the label of being a non-self-governing territory, and they stopped using the label of colonial power and they started using the concept of administering power on the premise – which is what the law says, what the international law says – that in those territories that were not fully self-governing the administering power was in locus parentis helping the people of the territory to progress. And we have progressed, and they have progressed in other territories.

The point at which the progress has reached the maximum that it can, consistent with the resources of the territory, with the relationship with the administering power or with any other criteria, is something that the Committee of 24 is required by the Charter of the United Nations to assess. The problem that we have got is not that they say we must stay as a colony; the problem that we have got is that they refuse to be engaged. When we have gone to the United Nations, we have not gone and said, 'We have decided that this decolonises us.' We have said,

1260 'Look, it's your responsibility: look at our Constitution, do the review' – the review that we are saying we should be doing. We have said to the UN, 'You review this Constitution, and if you tell us it is not the fullest attainable measure of self-government for a territory in the conditions of Gibraltar, tell us where we are short,' and they do not answer. And the reason why they do not 1265 answer is because it would lock them into a situation where they would be accepting that the constitutional changes of Gibraltar are legitimate steps in the progress to self-government.
(Interjection) And the reason why they do not do it is because the United Kingdom agreed with the Kingdom of Spain in the Strasbourg process, in the Lisbon process and in the 1984 Brussels Declaration, all of which were condemned in Gibraltar at every inch of the way and at every step 1270 of the way originally and exclusively by the socialists and not by anybody else who was defending them. Those are the things that have stopped us.

The reason why the United Nations does not move is because every year two things happen.
 One, the UK says to us, 'You are not a colony anymore, you have now got the fullest possible measure.' Then they go to the United Nations and say, 'Here is a report on my colony, which I am required to submit under chapter 11 of the United Nations Charter.' And then they go to the 1275 Fourth Committee and they do a consensus with Spain which says, 'We must continue talking to achieve the decolonisation of Gibraltar.'

Well, look, what is it that you are doing? Are you changing our Constitution to decolonise us, or are you negotiating with Spain to decolonise us? That conflict, that incompatibility is where the problem has been created, and regrettably it has been created because we did not stop it 1280 when we should have stopped it in 1964 with the Strasbourg process and the Lisbon talks in 1981. (interjection) Not in 1964, sorry, in 1976 when the Strasbourg process started. And therefore we have now got, fortunately, a position of unanimity in this Parliament and unanimity in Gibraltar that none of us will play that game ever again, that none of us will ever go to sit down at a table where Spain and the United Kingdom are deciding what is our future and 1285 we are simply then, at the end of the process, informed of what is good for us. That, fortunately, is history and I am convinced that no future generation of Gibraltar will permit that and no political party, either the GSD under the leadership of the Member opposite or us under whoever it may be – Fabian, or anybody who comes in future – or the Liberal Party will go along with that line. So we have got a stronger position in Gibraltar constitutionally, fortunately, than 1290 we have ever had before, because there is at least on one fundamental point, which has been the Achilles' heel, where we are completely united. The problem is that the United Kingdom is stuck there and does not know how to extricate itself from that situation, so it says one thing in the UN and then it says, 'But this is with the caveat that I will never actually do what the consensus says, unless the Gibraltarians give me permission.' Given that that situation is there, 1295 we have been trying to get the United Nations to accept that they should review our situation in terms of our Constitution and tell us, 'We don't accept it because what is missing is (a), (b) and (c),' and I believe that we must continue to do that, even if they look the other way or put plugs in their ears, because the moment they actually accept to do that we have hooked them.
(Interjection)

1300 But what we are saying today, Mr Speaker, in my view honestly does not mean that we are saying we are coming with an agenda to which we want to persuade the Opposition that we want to declare UDI or we want to do anything else.

When I was sitting there, I actually gave a blank cheque to the GSD. If the Member looks back at the motion that set up the Select Committee that led to the new Constitution, which was 1305 before the question of the 1999 invitation, the 1999 invitation was never mentioned to me at all either before, during or after. It was mentioned for the first time by the United Kingdom side after the process had started. But look, the reality of it is that the GSD had tried to get the Constitution changed on its own without inviting the Opposition, and they got nowhere. And because they got nowhere they then came to the House, and when they came to the House I 1310 said, 'Okay, well, we know what you want. You have got a range of things you want to change, we have got one thing we want to change. We want to see self-determination and decolonisation clearly reflected in that Constitution.’ The reality of it is that everything that we got was what the GSD had put down and the one thing we did not get was what we had put down.

1315

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am very grateful to the hon. Gentleman for giving way again. I appreciate it and I do not want to overextend the debate.

1320

Mr Speaker: I am being very, very liberal – I hope hon. Members will realise that – in an attempt to try and reach a consensus, but please try to be brief in the points that you are making. At the very least try to be brief because we have a very limited amendment before the House.

1325

Hon. D A Feetham: I am very grateful, Mr Speaker.

1330

I quite understand the points that the hon. Gentleman makes. It strikes me, of course, taking the analysis to its proper and logical conclusion, that if he is right it does not really matter what we do here in Gibraltar in relation to our Constitution, because the decision as to whether to delist Gibraltar or not is a decision that is being taken by the United Nations, bearing in mind the position of the United Kingdom – which is the point that I have been making, with different emphasis, that it really does not matter whether we have a gold-plated Constitution in Gibraltar; it is not going to be accepted by the United Nations for political reasons. Because that is what it amounts to: it is a political decision by the United Kingdom, as he characterises it, bearing in mind what has been its long traditional position, going back to Strasbourg in I think it was the 1970s. (Interjection) Yes, 1976, and then Paris. (A Member: Lisbon.) Lisbon, I beg your pardon, and then of course the Brussels Declaration in 1984.

1335

But, Mr Speaker, I prevail to the Hon. the Father of the House, wearing his trade union hat, knowing how difficult issues are normally resolved by sitting down, by attempting to look at them and through compromise to perhaps prevail upon the Leader of the House to sit down with me and to attempt to find a way in which a formula of words can be agreed that properly protects our position and that therefore allows us to participate in a reasonable way.

1340

We are trying to be reasonable, but what we are not going to accept is a railroading of the position of the Opposition into participating under a form of wording that we do not feel comfortable with. I am absolutely certain, absolutely certain – and I say this with all the sincerity in the world; it may sound like a political point, but it is not, it is a factual point that I am making about something that I really do believe – that if the hon. Member was making these decisions, or indeed if the Deputy Chief Minister was making these decisions, I think that it would have been possible for us to sit down and to find a compromise, and that is what I urge upon the Leader of the House to do in order for us to move forward.

1345

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to contribute to the debate on the amendment before I call upon the mover, the Chief Minister, to reply?

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1350

1355

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, I was giving way. Let me say that in fact everything that I have said was to try and convince him that the dangers that he sees in joining do not exist.

1360

Hon. Chief Minister: So Mr Speaker, dealing with the points that the hon. Member has raised in his various interventions on this short amendment, it is clear that he is the one who sees a red rag when dealing with a particular politician – namely me – because he said that if he were dealing with Joe Bossano, whose falling out with whom led him to leave the party of his political heritage, form a new political party and then go to what he used to call ‘the dark side’, or with Joseph Garcia, it would all have been easier, but dealing with me is impossible. I am very sorry if I am a red rag to him; I really seek not to be.

1365 I am not asking him for a blank cheque, although Joe Bossano gave Peter Caruana a blank cheque 20 years ago. I am not asking him for that; I am just asking him to help me. Let me put it in terms that he might feel more flattered by: I am asking him to help me review it. I am not saying let's reform it; I am saying sit down with me and review it and then we can make a decision together on what it is that we go on to do.

1370 And I am not trying to railroad anything, Mr Speaker. There is no railroading to be done. He can issue a minority opinion if he is not happy with the conclusion of the select committee. It is very likely we will be, together, able to reach a consensus view in the select committee if he forms part of it. I am not going to railroad him into anything.

1375 This is not a gimmick, Mr Speaker. We can call each other everything that we like and people will judge us for that, and it is not good politics but people sometimes fall into the trap in the heat of a debate to go further than perhaps they might. That is, unfortunately, human. In my view it is not good politics but it is, unfortunately, human that when debates get heated the natural instinct is to defend, and therefore things might get out of hand. But this is not a gimmick, as he has described it; this is too important. This is the Constitution of Gibraltar. This is not necessarily about him and me, although for reasons I will get to he seems to think it is all 1380 about him. This is about the Gibraltar Constitution that we potentially leave our children and our children's children – unless they have the good sense to review it every 10 years, as I am suggesting that we should, Mr Speaker.

If I may say so, the position that he has taken today is one that puts him on the wrong side of 1385 history, and history will judge him very harshly indeed for being the first Leader of the Opposition, indeed the first politician in Gibraltar's history, who has said that he will not even review something with the Government. This is an invitation. It is not a compulsive requirement that he reach any conclusion. I do not know how I can say it in any other way. This is an invitation to do that which he says he is prepared to do, which is sit down and dialogue and review. He says, 'I believe in dialogue.' Well, we all believe in dialogue, but I believe in honest 1390 dialogue, and the dialogue I am asking him for, the assistance that I am asking him for is to sit down with me and one of his colleagues and to review a document that is our Magna Carta – and he is turning his back on that, pretending that I am asking him for more. I am not asking him for that blank cheque or sticking him to any reform, Mr Speaker.

1395 Of course I have my own personal views of what might potentially need to be addressed in the Constitution, but they are not fixed views and I would like to have other people's opinions on them: people in the select committee, people from the rest of this community who I think need to form a part of this process. The select committee should take evidence from the public, as I have said, and I want the benefit of that consultation and that dialogue, and I want him to form part of that process with me, Mr Speaker.

1400 So if he says I see a red rag to a bull when I see him he needs to ask himself why I am trying to involve him in this. Again, he set out his position. How can I pretend that his membership of the select committee is anything other than based on the position that he has set out already during the course of today and had already been the case that he had set out before?

1405 Mr Speaker, frankly, I was going to deal with the issues about whether we are or are not a colony if we turned up with a gold-plated Constitution, but I think the Hon. Joe Bossano has dealt with it better than anybody else can – certainly better than I could, given his almost 50 years' experience in this subject. But he did say something during the course of his intervention.
When he was talking about the committee he said, 'Well, if we turned up with a gold-plated Constitution in New York, even then we would be turned down.' There is almost implicit in that 1410 the suggestion that we have not turned up with a gold-plated Constitution in New York, and if that is the case why does he not sit with me, with the Deputy Chief Minister and with the Hon.
Joe Bossano, who are going to be the people I am going to nominate to form part of this committee to have this discussion and to work out together how we better review the Constitution for that purpose amongst so many others?

1415 Mr Speaker, we want to move on from what has been this ill-tempered debate and get to the stage where we are able to work together. This is very important. I do not want to cause him political damage. I think he does that to himself all the time, all on his own. It is not about him. I want him to form part of the committee and I want him to do so with all the caveats that he has set out in the context of his speeches today, just to do this review with us.

1420 Mr Speaker, last night he was re-elected as leader of his party for another four years. I am delighted to congratulate him in that respect. I am very happy he is going to be the leader of his party for the next four years and at the next General Election. He knows that I think that is good for me and good for this party, but it is not about that. This is about the Constitution of Gibraltar. This is about whether together we undertake – and I am going to be very specific in the wording again – undertake a review exercise or whether we do so without them, not about sticking to any reforms. And so, Mr Speaker, the amendment that I move allows him 21 days to nominate someone to this committee. I sincerely hope that with honest and genuine dialogue, in good faith and in good will, we will be able to meet – we are going to meet on 7th March; I think that may be Monday – we are able to meet in a way that persuades him to nominate someone in that period to review without being stuck with any requirement to reform. And I would ask that in the context of what happens between now and then we are temperate in our approach, so that we leave open the possibility that when we meet we can come to a conclusion which is a happier one for our community than to have them exclude themselves from a review. And so, Mr Speaker, I commend the amendment to the House.

1435

Mr Speaker: I now put the Chief Minister's amendment to the House. Those in favour? (Several Members: Aye.) Those against? (Several Members: No.) Carried by Government majority.

1440 I will now put the motion as amended to the House. Those in favour? (Several Members: Aye.) Those against? (Several Members: No.) The motion as amended is carried by Government majority.

Select Committee on Parliamentary Reform – Committee established

Mr Speaker: The Chief Minister now has another motion on the agenda.

Clerk: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1445

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move the motion standing in my name which reads as follows:

This House:

Recalls that a Select Committee on the Implementation of the Recommendations of the Independent Commission on Democratic and Parliamentary Reform (known as the Select Committee on Parliamentary Reform) was established by Motion of this Parliament on 4th June 2013;

Notes that the said Select Committee was composed of three Members nominated by the Chief Minister and two Members nominated by the Leader of the Opposition;

Resolves that a new Select Committee with the same terms of reference should be established and that it should continue its work seamlessly from the point where the Select Committee established on 4th June 2013 left off;

Hereby approves the appointment of the Hon. Fabian Picardo MP QC (Chairman), the Hon. Dr Joseph Garcia MP, the Hon. Neil Costa MP, the Hon. Daniel Feetham MP and the Hon. Elliott Philips MP to the said Select Committee.

1450 Mr Speaker, I intend to say very little in respect of this motion. It is a motion which is self-explanatory and it is about the work that needs to be undertaken by the Select Committee, which is described in the terms of the motion.

Mr Speaker: I now propose the motion in the terms moved by the Chief Minister. Does any other hon. Member wish to contribute?

1455 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, yes.

I have discussed this particular motion with the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister, and the Opposition will be participating and the Opposition will be voting in favour of this motion. But I do have a few words that I wish to say on this and I wish to say about the work of the Select Committee.

1460 I remind Members of the House that the original motion that formed the Select Committee, the final paragraph read as follows:

We will refer the said report –

– the report by the Independent Commission, that is – to a select committee on the implementation of the recommendations of the Independent Commission on Democratic and Parliamentary Reform, to be known as the Select Committee on Parliamentary Reform, which is hereby established to include three Members appointed by the Chief Minister and two appointed by the Leader of the Opposition – and this is what I want hon. Members to emphasise to the House and for hon. Members to understand – to consider the implementation of appropriate – of appropriate –

recommendations of the report.

1465 It was something that was emphasised during the course of the debate that of course the work of the Select Committee in considering the report by the Independent Commission does not bind the Select Committee into accepting any part of those recommendations, and that indeed it is for the Select Committee to consider what appropriate recommendations are in the report for implementation.

Indeed, I refer the Hon. the Chief Minister to his own contribution to the course of the debate, where he said as follows after it was raised by the then hon. backbencher, Sir Peter Caruana, where he said:

1470 We do not want to use language which assumes that they are all acceptable and we are just going to discuss the implementation of them.

1475 Mr Speaker, the reason why I also make this particular point is this: the hon. Members have decided to bring, and we will debate that particular Bill in due course ... have decided to publish and will bring during the course of the next session of Parliament a Bill that proposes to amend the pension entitlements of Members of Parliament.

1480 Mr Speaker: I –

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, it is a perfectly –

Mr Speaker: No. I will tell you why I am not allowing you to speak on that. I will tell you why.

1485 Hon. D A Feetham: I am not speaking on that. I am actually giving my view on what the work of the select committee is, and I am going to refer back to part of the debate. I am placing it in context, Mr Speaker.

1490 There is a Bill that is going to be brought to this House which proposes a change to the pension entitlements of Members of Parliament. It does not affect Members of the House, Members of the Government, it does not affect me, it does not affect Mr Reyes. It affects five Members of the Opposition. During the course of the motion setting up the Select Committee the Hon. the Chief Minister said:

Well, Mr Speaker, we think that taken together we agree with both these recommendations.

That was the recommendation ... I will read the recommendation:

We recommend that any new pension scheme should come into effect for new Members of Parliament elected after the next election, thereby safeguarding the acquired rights of current Members.

1495 That was the recommendation of the Independent Commission. And then, commenting on that, the Hon. the Chief Minister said:

Well, Mr Speaker, we think that taken together we agree with both these recommendations. Given that this Parliament having in effect made changes, for example, to the Civil Service Final Salary Pension Scheme, it would be rather unfair not to look at what new scheme might be introduced for Members who might be elected after the next General Election. This is certainly something, in our view, that we should refer to the Select Committee for it to determine who best to advise us on the matter.

In other words, his view was it should go to the Select Committee.
And then he said:

Our own initial view is that new Members of Parliament after the next General Election should be on the scheme – I think it is the Provident scheme – as new entrants to the Civil Service, for example. That seems fair and equitable to us but we agree that this should be considered objectively with independent persons, as was previously the case when allowances were reviewed in the 1970s.

1500 Mr Speaker, we have been debating about the motion on constitutional reform and that we are not being led by the nose in relation to any particular matter, it is just a review; but I want to remind Members of the House that the initial terms of reference was that any of those recommendations that were going to be adopted should be considered by the Select Committee. That does not mean that the Opposition has a right of veto over anything that the 1505 Select Committee recommends or does not recommend we adopt, because they have got a majority and we have got a minority, but certainly it ought to be considered within the context of the Select Committee. And of course in that context the Bill that we are going to be debating in a month and a half's time is a ... Are we going to be taking it now? Oh. Are we going to be taking it now? Well, I am very grateful for that. I thought it was going to be the next –

1510

Mr Speaker: [Inaudible]

1515 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, I know, but, Mr Speaker, it is proper that I raise it in this context, because there is a Select Committee, it was quite clearly set up to consider appropriate recommendations, there has been no decision by the Select Committee and no recommendation by the Select Committee that we adopt this particular recommendation. The Government has decided to unilaterally go it alone and to bring a Bill to Parliament in order to unilaterally change the pension entitlements of Members of Parliament that affects five Members of the Opposition only. It does not affect anybody else currently within this Chamber. That is why I take great care, great care, great care in what the Opposition agrees to in these motions. We have had the debate on constitutional reform a few moments ago, but certainly I want to reiterate that our participation is on the basis that it is for the Select Committee to consider what recommendations of the Independent Commission are appropriate or are not appropriate. We are not going to be led by the nose by the Government into a situation where we are just there for show, as furniture, without participating in the decision-making process. I do not think that is fair and I do not think that is the way that these Select Committees ought to be conducted. And by the looks of it – and there are amendments to pension rights for Members of Parliament – bearing in mind the comments that he made during the course of the debate, that is precisely what is happening.

1530

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to contribute to the debate?
I call upon the mover to reply.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I see that the ill temper is going to affect everything we deal with this afternoon. I do not know quite what it is that is wrong with him.

1535

Mr Speaker, he is not furniture, because we decide to progress our own views of what should be happening and when it should be happening. There are many aspects of the report of the Independent Committee on Reform which we have already implemented. We are on television because we implemented that recommendation, which was also our policy. We meet once a month because we believe it is right that we should meet once a month, except for one month for Easter and one month for summer. And we are not bound to only implement those aspects of the Independent Report which hon. Members agree with. We could implement some of them today and some of them not today. We have already moved on some aspects which deal with the Register of Members' Interests etc. We have tabled the Code of Conduct.

1540

Mr Speaker, that is the way that we are going to continue to handle this matter. We are going to continue in the Select Committee with them considering those issues which are appropriate to be considered there, and if the Government believes that it needs to do something which is recommended by the Independent Committee on Parliamentary Reform before the Select Committee decides, then we will do it and we will bring it to this House and we will defend it in this House. And they may support it or they may not support it, Mr Speaker.

1545

1550

It is up to him whether he supports this motion in the ill-tempered manner that he has, or not. I have certified the Bill on Members' pension provisions as urgent, for reasons that will become apparent when I speak on that motion, and I think on reflection they will welcome what I am doing. I will explain the position and they will understand that I believe I am putting them in a better position than they are today, and once they understand that they may take a different view even of this and the position they have taken on the Select Committee on the Constitution.

1555

Mr Speaker, I do not want to pre-empt something else that is on the Order Paper, so I commend the motion to the House.

1560

Mr Speaker: I now put the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Chief Minister. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? The motion is carried unanimously.

I think this is a useful juncture, since we are now supposed to go on to Bills, that since I have heard talk about the House meeting on Monday, I wish to have from the Leader of the House some clarification as –

1565

Hon. Chief Minister: [Inaudible]

Mr Speaker: No?

1570 Hon. Chief Minister: We are meeting on Monday.

Mr Speaker: Ah, it is not the House?

Hon. Chief Minister: No.

1575

Mr Speaker: And therefore is it the Chief Minister's intention that we conclude the business today on the agenda, the Bills? In that case, given that in the House of Commons the Speaker is not required to sit for more than two hours because they have Deputy Speakers – you might put that in the notebook about constitutional reform (Several Members: Hear, hear.) – and given that I have now been sitting for two and a half hours, and I am sure we all require a comfort zone, the House will recess for 20 minutes.

1580

The House recessed at 5.30 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 5.55 p.m.

BILLS

FIRST AND SECOND READING

Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015 – First Reading approved

Clerk: Bills – First and Second Reading.

1585

A Bill for an Act to appropriate further sums of money to the service of the year ended 31st day of March 2015.

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1590

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to appropriate further sums of money for the service of the year ended the 31st day of March 2015 be read a first time.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to appropriate further sums of money to the service of the year ended the 31st day of March 2015 be read a first time.

1595

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Supplementary Appropriation 2014-15 Act 2015.

Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015 – Second Reading approved

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill be now read a second time.

1600

I thank the hon. Clerk for pointing out that this Bill, when it is passed, will pass in 2016 and that therefore in committee we will need to amend the long title for that reason. This is a Bill that comes from a publication last year.

Mr Speaker, the purpose of this Bill is to appropriate further sums of money to meet Government expenditure incurred during the year ended 31st March 2015.

1605 Hon. Members will note that in past years requests for approval of supplementary appropriations have been brought to this House as part of the main Appropriation Bill for the year. For example, the supplementary funding requirements for the financial year 2013-14 were included as part of the main Appropriation Bill for the year 2014-15 and the supplementary 1610 funding requirements for the financial year 2012-13 were included as part of the main Appropriation Bill for the year 2013-14.

Because the main Appropriation Bills for the year are normally now debated in this House at around June or July of each year as part of the Budget session, this has meant that the annual audited accounts for the previous year have necessarily been delayed until the approval of these supplementary appropriations and the Principal Auditor has not been able to complete his audit 1615 of the annual public accounts until then.

In order to enable the Principal Auditor to complete his audit of the annual audited accounts earlier and for these annual accounts to be laid in the House on a more timely basis – something I am sure will be welcomed by some, Mr Speaker – the Government has decided to revert to the earlier practice of presenting the Supplementary Appropriation Bills separately. These will 1620 therefore no longer be included with the main Appropriation Bill for the year. The practice in future will be that the Supplementary Appropriation Bills will be published earlier and within the statutory nine months after the close of each financial year prescribed for the submission of the annual accounts to the Principal Auditor under section 52 of the Public Finance Control and Audit Act.

1625 Mr Speaker, this Bill is therefore the annual Supplementary Appropriation Bill required to provide appropriation cover retrospectively for the outturn figures for the year ended 31st March 2015 – that is the financial year 2014-15.

The outturn figures for 2014-15 have, of course, already been published in the Estimates Book for 2015-16 and the estimated breakdown of these additional expenditure requirements is 1630 therefore already available to hon. Members. The forecast outturn figures in the Estimates Book were based on the latest estimates available at the time, and, although these were quite accurate, in view that they were prepared towards the end of the financial year, the figures now included in the Supplementary Appropriation Bill are based on the final and confirmed expenditure that has been incurred and which is now available following the closure of the 1635 Government's accounts for the year.

Hon. Members should note that in the case of the £16.2 million required to cover the additional expenditure incurred under the Consolidated Fund, this represents the amount required in addition to the supplementary provision of £9 million that is already included in the approved Estimates Book under head 43, which is the supplementary provision head. And let's 1640 be clear, Mr Speaker, it is not an extra £16.2 million; it is £16.2 million moving not from one head to another, because that can be done by simple virement, but it is £16 million between Departments, and in particular in the year of the reshuffle when bits of Departments also moved with Ministers.

A full breakdown of the £25 million, which is the £16.2 million and the £9 million of 1645 reallocations to be made from head 43, will be tabled in the House at the next session of the Parliament, as is the usual practice. This will provide hon. Members with a full and detailed breakdown of the heads and subheads for which this supplementary provision has been applied.

Mr Speaker, I commend the Bill to the House.

1650 Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of this Bill?

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I welcome the hon. Member's initiative in bringing the Supplementary Appropriation Bill in a more timely manner such that the Principal Auditor is 1655 then in a position to sign off on the annual accounts in a more speedy manner.

1660 I have, in fact, of course, looked at the estimates and the outturn. I just have a slight difficulty with the reallocations being presented in the next meeting of the House, because without that statement, which in the past ... certainly in the meeting of 25th July 2015 they were presented all together. So we find ourselves today in the position where we are being asked effectively to approve a £16.2 million 'overspend', is another way of putting it, comparing it to the estimates without having sight of which heads of expenditure that relates to. Again, I refer back to the meeting of 22nd July 2015, where these were presented together.

Mr Speaker, this should come as no surprise to the Chief Minister, because I did in fact write to him in February before the meeting of this House – 17th February, in fact – saying:

As regards the Supplementary Appropriation Act, I would be grateful if you could supply Parliament with a breakdown by departmental head of the £16.2 million required to meet additional departmental Consolidated Fund expenditure, as I cannot identify this from the 2015 estimates and 2014 outturn.

1665 So I find myself in the unenviable position of having to look at or effectively de facto being asked to approve for the Government a supplemental requirement of £16.2 million with no information whatsoever as to what this relates to. That, as you will appreciate, puts us in a rather invidious position.

1670 The other elements on the Supplementary Appropriation Bill which I have been able to identify from the Estimates Book, and they are quite obvious in that you have the £29.9 million going to community care and the £3.6 million exceptional expenditure, which was in relation to the Giraldi Homes inquiry, and the other supplementary appropriation of expenditure in relation to the Health Authority for £7 million, and the other elements are probably not material, really, for us to worry too much about.

1675 But I really must emphasise that I am somewhat surprised that we do not have the Consolidated Fund reallocations from head 43, as we have had in previous years, especially since I did specifically request clarification on this point from the Chief Minister prior to the meeting of this House.

1680 Therefore, Mr Speaker, whereas we know, or have an idea, what the other supplemental appropriations are in relation to, we really are completely blind on this £16.2 million, which, if you take it with the £9 million, is effectively £25.2 million of expenditure. Now Mr Speaker this is effectively and although it is after the event, in that this money has already been spent, we are effectively talking about an overspend on an estimate in the Budget. I would expect that we would have somewhat more information as to which heads this expenditure relates to. And we are not talking small amounts. We are not talking £1, £10, £100,000, £10,000 – we are talking something in the order of £25 million. I would have hoped that, given my letter in advance and given the previous practice in this Parliament, that the Consolidated Fund reallocations would be provided with this Appropriation Bill – which, sadly, today we have not.

1685
1690 So it is going to be very hard for me to recommend to my parliamentary colleagues on this side of the House to vote in favour of appropriation amounts which we have no sight of or have any idea of what the amount is. I think it would only be fair to this Parliament, for everybody, including his own Members on his side, to know what it is that this additional expenditure on the Consolidated Fund is in relation to. I can see that the Financial Secretary is in the House today and I would hope that he would provide the information to the Chief Minister. Without that 1695 information, Mr Speaker, I am afraid that I will have to advise my colleagues to vote against.

Mr Speaker: Any other hon. Member wish to contribute to the debate on the Second Reading of this Bill?

I call upon the mover to reply.

1700

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I am surprised that the hon. Gentleman is surprised, because I wrote to him in reply to his letter and set out what the position was in respect of the provision of this additional amount. I sent my letter to the hon. Gentleman, to his 1705 address at College Lane, and I copied my letter to Mr Speaker – I believe it went out on Monday; it was certainly signed out by me on Monday – and I set out there ... I will give way in a moment. I set out there that the practice, as I had understood it, was that this was tabled at the next meeting of the House after the passing of this Supplementary Appropriation Bill.

I will give way on the issue of the letter now, Mr Speaker.

1710 Hon. R M Clinton: I thank the hon. Gentleman for giving way.

Mr Speaker, I have received no such letter to date. I do not know if it was sent by messenger or by post, but certainly I have not received that letter.

I suppose I cannot really talk about what he just said about the tabling, because certainly in previous parliamentary sessions they have been tabled together – but I will let you continue.

1715

Hon. Chief Minister: So Mr Speaker, my understanding of the position is that they are tabled after the debate. That is the position that has been put to me and that is what will happen. The hon. Members will have a full and detailed breakdown of this amount.

1720 The hon. Gentleman has said something that I think it is important I should deal with, which is that this is an overspend. I do not want anybody to go away with the idea that this is additional money. This is money that is moving from one part of the book to another part of the book. So that hon. Members understand, if there is a movement within a Department, then that is done by a document called a virement. That is a document that does not require that we come and legislate in this House; it is a document that we table in this House, and hon. Members
1725 have been able to see it. If there is a saving in one part of a Department and there is an over-expenditure in another part of a Department, that requires a supplementary appropriation of this sort, and that is what we are doing. This is not £16.2 million of extra money; this is £16.2 million moving from one place to another in the book. That is why I made the point that we were dealing with a reshuffle in that year, and the reshuffle actually also moved some parts 1730 of Departments that followed Ministers and there was therefore some overspending in some Departments as Ministers took some responsibilities with them from one Department to another. Hon. Members will be able to see that in detail when we table the exact genesis of this £16.2 million at the beginning of the next meeting of the House, Mr Speaker.

1735 My letter dealt with one other matter, which is the Bill that is later in the Order Paper. I will try and see whether it is possible to obtain a copy and let the hon. Gentleman have it as soon as possible. I am very surprised that he has not got it, because I think most of my letters go by hand – and it went to his College Lane address – but I will follow up exactly where it is. The House has not got it either? Well, I am very surprised, because I did sign it and my letters tend not to go astray, but I will make sure that we get a copy of it to him straight away.

1740

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think I do need to say formally that I will be moving the amendment at the Committee Stage to the long title.

1745

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to appropriate further sums of money to the service of the year ended the 31st day of March 2015 be read a second time.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

1750

Clerk: The Supplementary Appropriation 2014-2015 Act 2015.

Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today, if all hon. Members agree.

1755 Mr Speaker, before you put that question, can I just advise Members that, given the number of Bills that we have and one other motion, they should make arrangements to be here until we get through the order of business today. I do not know whether it will take long or not long, but I know some of them have other responsibilities outside the House and they may want to make those arrangements.

1760 Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
First Reading approved

1765 Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Gibraltar Savings Bank Act.
The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Gibraltar Savings Bank Act be read a first time.

1770 Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Gibraltar Savings Bank Act be read a first time.
Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Act 2016.

Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Second Reading approved

1775 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I beg that the Bill now be read a second time.
This Bill is a very simple Bill as published, which simply changes the definition of 'Minister' who, with responsibility for the Gibraltar Savings Bank ... as the Minister for Public Finance too, the Minister being the Minister for the Gibraltar Savings Bank, so that a particular Minister can be designated with specific responsibility for the Savings Bank and be read as being the Minister with that responsibility in terms of the workings of the Act.

1780 It is self-explanatory. Hon. Members have seen this Bill published for some time now and I think it is very clear. As the explanatory memorandum says, the Bill amends the definition of Minister in the Gibraltar Savings Bank Act, as I have just set out.

1785 We are going to move some amendments at the Committee Stage in respect of other matters that will be dealt with, and I think the hon. Member who I have designated with responsibility under the particular directions under the Constitution to have responsibility for the Savings Bank will be tabling those amendments, Mr Speaker.

1790 Mr Speaker: Does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of the Bill?
The Hon. Mr Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

1795 The Bill is, as the hon. Member has just said, quite a simple amendment. My understanding of the Savings Bank Act is that the Minister, who previously would have been the Minister for Public Finance, has the ability to amend the rules of the Savings Bank, which of course is entirely right and proper if you have a Minister who is the Minister for the Savings Bank.

1800 Perhaps tongue in cheek I should say that there would have been no need to amend this legislation if in fact the Hon. the Chief Minister had made the Minister who is in charge of the Savings Bank the Minister for Public Finance, and then there would be no need for this Bill at all. But that is as it is, and perhaps in future he will consider that.

We have no problem with the Bill as it stands.

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak?

I call upon the mover to reply.

1805 The Hon. Mr Bossano.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):

1810 Clearly, Mr Speaker, the hon. Member who has spoken for the Opposition is so happy to see me in charge of the Savings Bank that he is willing to support the Savings Bank Act being changed to make it possible for me to be the Minister responsible, or alternatively for me to be made responsible for Public Finance, although I am responsible for the Savings Bank.

I must say that it has come as a pleasant surprise that he is such a fan of mine in the Savings Bank, given the apparent criticisms that he has of the Savings Bank to date. Maybe I am gradually persuading him and I am doing a better job than was previously thought.

1815 I am taking the opportunity – since I have now got formal responsibility, whereas before really it was delegated by the Minister of Finance to me – to insert a number of amendments at the Committee Stage, and I will explain the purpose of each of those amendments but I can tell the hon. Member that they are, in effect, dealing with some of the things that he has raised in the past.

1820

Mr Speaker: Does the Chief Minister wish to reply?

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, Mr Speaker.

1825 The Hon. Mr Bossano is too long in the tooth for me to have to tell him to beware of Greeks bearing gifts! (Laughter) But given that there has been a tongue-in-cheek part to the intervention by the hon. Member, let me respond to him.

1830 The Minister for Public Finance has responsibility in relation to a number of pieces of legislation, and in some instances as Minister for Public Finance I will be retaining those responsibilities, but in some instances I believe it is appropriate to have the ability to designate a different Minister to do certain things, who may or may not also at any particular time be the Minister for Public Finance, the Chief Minister or otherwise. I could designate the Minister for the Environment to also be the Minister for the Gibraltar Savings Bank once this amendment is done, and that gives you the business efficacy in Government – (Interjection and laughter) You would not need to persuade me, Mr Speaker, by telling me that he is anything other than one of my most responsible Ministers, as they all are, and that he and Mr Clinton would go off and erect a huge monument to the 200th anniversary of the Alameda, if they were allowed to. (Laughter) But this gives business efficacy also not just to the business of the Savings Bank but to the business of Government in being able to designate a particular individual with responsibility for that particular area, without being stuck with a ministry that has all of those additional responsibilities already provided for.

1840

It is an exercise that was also done by the previous administration in some areas, and I think it is one which is useful to do when we are dealing with issues – because, for example, I have designated and I have said Mr Bossano under the Constitution to have that responsibility. He has 1845 it, but when it comes to making changes I would be the one who needs to sign documentation to change the rules. We cannot change the legislation in that way, it requires the sanction of this Parliament and that is why we have brought the Bill.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Gibraltar Savings Bank Act be read a second time.
1850 Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can I ask for somebody to look into what I am about to say? I have noticed during the course of proceedings this afternoon that every time Mr Clinton rises and makes an intervention the camera on that television is on Mr Speaker, so Mr Clinton is ... I 1855 do not know whether there is a problem just with that particular monitor or whether people at home are also seeing Mr Speaker when Mr Clinton ... I am just saying it because we are about to move to the Bill on the public debt, which Mr –

Mr Speaker: Well, let's try it and see what happens.
1860

Clerk: The Gibraltar Savings Bank Amendment Act 2016.

Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken later today, if all hon. Members agree.

1865 Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 –
First Reading approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008.
The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1870 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008 be read a first time.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008 be read a first time.
1875 Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2016.

Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 –
Second Reading – Debate commenced

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill be now read a second time.

1880 There is absolutely no attempt to keep Mr Clinton off anybody's television screen. I assume the hon. Member does not think I was conspiring to achieve that. He knows, apparently, according to him, that if I was conspiring to achieve it I would have ensured that it was his image that did not appear on television screens, so it must have been a gremlin.

1885 Mr Speaker, under section 3(1) of the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008 as it currently stands, the Government is not permitted to draw down or incur any additional public debts nor without the leave of the House by resolution draw on the cash reserves in a manner that will cause the net public debt after such borrowing or drawdown to exceed either £200 million or the lower of two formulas based on GDP and Consolidated Fund recurrent revenue. Those formulae are those set out in the Act as follows: namely, firstly, 40% of the gross 1890 domestic product; or secondly, 80% of the Consolidated Fund recurrent annual revenue.

Mr Speaker, in terms of the economy of Gibraltar today, the effect of those formulas means, in number terms, the following: in terms of 40% of the GDP and calculating the GDP as £1.8 billion, the 40% figure would be a maximum net debt of £720 million – we are nowhere near that figure and hon. Members know that in fact our target is even less than half of that 1895 figure, namely £300 million by the next Election and is predicted in the current estimates to reach £314 million by the end of this financial year, which will be by the 31st day of this month; and 80% of the Consolidated Fund revenue in the past financial year, which was £571 million, would have amounted to £457 million.

Mr Speaker, at £314 million of net debt, where we expect to be at the end of this month and 1900 what we are predicted to be at the end of this financial year, we are very, very well within the current legal limit of debt, so we are nowhere near hitting the legal limit of debt set out in the law as it stands, either based on the Consolidated Fund revenue position for the past financial year, which is relevant this year, or under the anticipated Consolidated Fund revenue position expected to be reported this year in the estimates that are presently being prepared. So this is 1905 not by any measure a law that is designed to allow a Government to borrow more because we might be close today or we might be close tomorrow to hitting the current legal ceiling of debt.

Mr Speaker, hon. Members will in fact know that the most recent occasion where Gibraltar has been close to hitting the ceiling of debt was at the time of the 2011 General Election. At that time, the then Financial Secretary, the distinguished and learned Dilip Dayaram Tirathdas had 1910 cause to write to me, as the newly elected Chief Minister, to advise that we would soon be hitting the borrowing limit ceiling unless we took measures to increase the ceiling. A resolution of the House would have been required to avoid the limit being hit and to allow further borrowing.

Mr Speaker, given that there are a large number of new Members on the benches opposite, I 1915 think I should set out clearly what the position was exactly at the time that we took over and how precarious it actually was. To do that, I need to explain to them that it is traditional for the Financial Secretary to prepare a note of the public debt position for any arriving Chief Minister after an election. That is not, of course, the most pleasant thing that happens upon winning an election for the first time but it is one of them, Mr Speaker. The Financial Secretary's memorandum giving me a snapshot of the public finances of Gibraltar as at 8th December 2011
1920 read as follows.

It was headed 'Position of the Public Finances of Gibraltar on 8th December 2011' and then went on to say this:

Under section 3(1) of the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008 the Government is not permitted to incur any additional public debt nor draw down on its cash reserves unless it is approved by a resolution of Parliament if this will cause: (1) net public debt after such borrowing to exceed either (a) 40% of Gibraltar's gross domestic product or (b) 80% of Consolidated Fund recurrent annual revenue; or (2) the annual debt service ratio, the ratio of annual debt interest payments to Consolidated Fund recurrent annual revenue, to exceed 8%.

Net public debt refers to aggregate public debt, i.e. the total amount of public debt owing to the Government, less Government's cash reserves, i.e. the Government's cash holdings in the Consolidated Fund and the Improvement and Development Fund. Aggregate public debt currently stands at around £519 million with cash reserves standing at around £234 million. Net public debt therefore stands at £285.8 million.

The latest figure of gross domestic product published by the Statistics Office is £954.1 million. This is in respect of the year ended 31st March 2010.

Consolidated Fund recurrent annual revenue for the last financial year ended 31st March 2011 is £382.7 million.

Annual debt interest payments, which are applicable to the current level of aggregate public debt, are at around – this is an important figure –

Annual debt interest payments, which are applicable to the current level of aggregate public debt, are at around £21.3 million. The weighted average interest rate payable on the public debt is 4.1% per annum.

Applying these figures to the provisions of the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008, no new borrowing is permitted that would cause: (1) net public debt to exceed either £381.6 million, which is the 40% of Gibraltar's gross domestic product, or £306.2 million, 80% of Consolidated Fund recurrent annual revenue; or (2) annual interest on aggregate public debt to exceed £30.6 million.

Assuming interest on new borrowing at say 5% per annum, a further increase in aggregate public debt of £186 million would be possible. However, useable cash reserves stand currently at just £20 million.

1925 Mr Speaker, that was the position put to me by the Financial Secretary on the day that we were elected – at the close of business of 8th December 2011.

On 9th December, the election result was announced, we entered Convent Place and I took papers home to read for the weekend.

1930 By the following Monday, 13th December, the position had already worsened. By then, all my colleagues and I had done in Government was have a cup of tea, and this is what the Financial Secretary told me in a memo of that date, 13th December:

Public debt – proposed resolution to drawdown on the cash reserves.

Under section 3(1) of the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008, the Government is not permitted to draw down or incur any additional public debt nor without the leave of the House by resolution draw on the cash reserves in a manner that will cause: (1) the net public debt after such borrowing or drawdown to exceed the lower of (a) 40% of the gross domestic product or (b) 80% of Consolidated Fund recurrent annual revenue; or (2) the annual debt service ratio, the ratio of annual debt service payments to the Consolidated Fund recurrent annual revenue, to exceed 8%.

The aggregate of gross public debt currently stands at around £520 million and current cash reserves stand at around £230 million. The net public debt, i.e. the gross debt less the cash reserves, is therefore £290 million.

The Consolidated Fund recurrent annual revenue for the financial year ended 31st March 2011 amounted to £382.7 million. This leaves the cash reserves which are available for drawing down at around £16 million – four days later, £16 million –

382.7 x 80%, which equals £306.6 million less £290 million.

In order to fund the Government's ongoing capital expenditure ...

I need to pause there in reading the Hon. Financial Secretary's memo. That was, hon. Members will want to recall, GSD capital expenditure. We had just been elected. There were capital projects that were still ongoing under the former administration.

and in order to give the Government the necessary flexibility in the implementation of its economic plan, I recommend that a resolution be passed in order to enable the Government to draw on its existing cash reserves.

1935 Mr Speaker, the diligent Mr Tirathdas had even gone to the length, I am happy to inform the House, of attaching the necessary draft resolution, which would have provided as follows:

This House approves the resolution pursuant to section 3(1) of the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008, giving leave to the Government to draw on its existing cash reserves.

1940 That was the resolution that he prepared, Mr Speaker. My Government decided not to bring that resolution, but before Members opposite pretend that it was not necessary because what I am saying is not correct, they need to remember the statement from their former leader at the time of the ceremonial opening of Parliament in 2011, when the man sometimes known to them as the greatest Gibraltarian of all time said that he would support us in bringing such a resolution, thereby demonstrating that it was necessary. Mr Caruana actually specifically said that the GSD would support the new Government in any parliamentary approval that might be required for additional borrowing.

1945 But that was not the only time that the GSD had taken Gibraltar to the brink of hitting the debt ceiling. The previous occasion when the ceiling was almost hit was in 2009 when the last amendment was made to this legislation, also by the GSD.

1950 Dealing with that law as presently in place since the last GSD amendment, Mr Speaker, a further restriction on the level of permitted public debt prescribed under the Act is that the annual debt service ratio must not exceed 8%. This means that the annual debt interest payment divided by the Consolidated Fund recurrent annual revenue must not exceed 8%.

Mr Speaker, this Bill seeks to amend the Act in order to provide the Government with additional flexibility in the management of the public debt.

1955 Let me be clear about that purpose: we are not here looking to amend the law because we need to increase borrowing. We are proposing these changes in order to provide additional flexibility so that we can get a better deal for Gibraltar when it comes to the borrowing already in place and to allow Governments of whatever political complexion to take future borrowing based on the size of the economy's growth and taking the sum of £300 million as the benchmark, given that that is the sum set out in our manifesto as the target to which we will get our net debt by the next General Election.

1960 As hon. Members are aware, the public debt is currently made up of £200 million of commercial bank loans which mature within the next five years and around £250 million of very short-term Government debentures. There is therefore a clear need to increase the maturity profile of the public debt.

1965 There is also a great opportunity, with the current low level of market interest rates and the availability of low-cost finance, for the Government to secure medium to long-term financing at historically low levels of interest rates. Indeed, an article in The Times of London two weeks ago set the position in context, stating that the British Government has never been able to borrow at rates as low as those available today. I think they are the lowest in three or four hundred years, Mr Speaker. Two Saturdays ago, the Financial Times set out an even clearer statement of the position by reference to the possibility that emerged beyond the negative interest rates already on offer in some places, referring to the potential for helicopter cash to be provided by financial institutions to their clients.

1975 Indeed, Mr Speaker, the House will want to note that gilt rates have only been lower than they are now on 28 days out of the last 10 years. That illustrates that this is a historic low in interest rate terms and that we are at a juncture at which we must have the flexibility to reorganise the nation's borrowing in a manner that is designed to take full advantage of these opportunities for the taxpayer. Our common shareholders would expect nothing less.

1980 The Government therefore considers that the time is now right to embark on the restructure of the public debt with the aim of having longer-term financing in place and at a considerably lower cost than is the case today. Indeed, Mr Speaker, it would be highly irregular for us not to make the most of the opportunity that presents itself to us. In fact, it would not be prudent for us not to take advantage of these historically low rates and it would be very imprudent to continue to borrow at higher interest rates than those that might now be available for us for longer and fixed terms. Indeed, it would only be bankers, Mr Speaker, that would stand to gain

1985 from us continuing to pay on old rates without seeking to improve the performance of our borrowing. The public debt needs to be more stable and with a wider base of funding sources. It needs to be made up of both medium and long-term borrowing and it needs to be at a much lower cost per pound borrowed.

1990 Mr Speaker, this Bill seeks to amend the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008 to provide the Government with the flexibility that we require in order to do this. The amendment ensures that a prudent level of maximum public debt is maintained at all times, whilst ensuring that the maximum level of permitted public debt remains responsive to the growth in our economy.

1995 We may not need to rely on this amendment in any way, Mr Speaker, and we expect that we will not need to, but we do have to create the flexibility in case the ability to take advantage of the historic low rates does mean that we need to take the public debt option of increasing the net debt, even if for a short period. We obviously have to consider all the opportunities that are now becoming available and we are reviewing all the options in the market in order to take maximum benefit for the taxpayer.

2000 Having said that, in fact it would be wrong for any Member opposite to argue that this amendment in any way or in some way delinks the debt from the annual recurrent revenue. In fact, the link is maintained. The Act will continue to provide, in section 3, that the annual debt service ratio must not exceed 8%, thus maintaining the link with Government revenues and ensuring that servicing costs of gross debt remain affordable at all times. We consider that this is 2005 an important link to the ability to service our debt at all times and we believe that it is a link that should be maintained. And the link is maintained at a very prudent level indeed. We are not raising the 8% provision at all; we are maintaining it at the level at which it is today and at which it was set by the GSD when they were in office.

2010 Indeed, Mr Speaker, the naysayers out there who like to try and pretend that our borrowing is at a level which is anything other than entirely prudent have the huge difficulty to contend with that very few nations or households can boast a debt servicing ratio as low as 8% to national recurrent revenue or household income. And, as any householder will tell you, that is undoubtedly the most prudent way to calculate whether or not you have borrowed too much.

2015 As in every other analysis done in good faith, we can show that in fact our borrowing is at very prudent levels, and by this measure in particular people will be able to see for themselves that we can more than service a debt which amounts in interest terms to no more than 8% of our annual recurrent income. In number terms, that means that our interest payments per annum cannot exceed £44.7 million, and they do not, Mr Speaker. In fact, the annual debt servicing cost is currently approximately £20 million. Hon. Members will recall that I gave them 2020 the figure for what it was in 2011 when we took over: it was £21.3 million then, Mr Speaker.

2025 The other important link to the size of the economy, which we of course intend to maintain and is maintained by this amendment, is the link to the GDP. The maximum level of net public debt will therefore also continue to be restricted to 40% of the Gibraltar gross domestic product, thus ensuring that the net public debt remains at a prudent level but in a way that is also responsive to the needs of our economy.

Mr Speaker, just to set that aspect of the formula in context, I remind the House that the GDP has increased from £1.1 billion to £1.8 billion in the past four years alone. It is expected – it is projected, in fact – that the GDP will rise further to approximately £2.4 billion in the next four years. As a result, we expect that our economy will, in effect, have grown by 118% from the time 2030 that we took over. Our net debt, however, will have increased only by 4.8%, from the amount that we inherited of £286 million to our target of £300 million, by the date of the next election.
Those are ratios to be very proud of indeed.

2035 Mr Speaker, the amendment also provides for the minimum level of permitted net public debt calculated as a fixed sum and not with regard to the formula to be increased from £200 million to £300 million. Although this may have no practical effect at present, in view that our public debt already exceeds this amount and that the other two measures outlined currently provide for a higher level of maximum public debt, the Government has considered it prudent to retain this minimum threshold, especially in view of our declared target of net public debt for the end of the next four years.

2040 Mr Speaker, it is worth reminding ourselves that the net public debt of Gibraltar was £100 million until 2008. Then the GSD changed the limit, or the legal ceiling, by 100% to double, namely £200 million. It is important that the House notes that point. I therefore want to emphasise that we saw a 100% increase in the maximum ceiling of debt in 2008 by the introduction of the borrowing powers legislation which is before the House today for 2045 amendment – and I hesitate to remind hon. Members that we supported that motion, Mr Speaker. We supported the 100% increase in the net public debt which hon. Members brought in – the debt, rather, because it was then in gross terms. And let's be clear that that was the GSD Government's position.

Just one year later, Mr Speaker, in 2009 – one year later – the GSD came back to this 2050 Parliament and told us that they had once again to change the debt ceiling. In just one year they came back to change the criteria again, and so therefore in 2009 the proposal from them was to move away from a formula based on gross debt to a formula based on net debt – I believe on both occasions with our support, Mr Speaker. So the debt went from £100 million in 2008 to £200 million under the GSD, and that was not enough, and within a year, in 2009, the GSD
2055 needed more and came back to Parliament to increase the debt again and change the formula from a gross debt formula to a net debt formula.

By the time that we took over the administration of our nation's affairs, on 9th December 2011, the net debt had increased to £286 million. That amounts to a net debt increase of £186 million, from £100 million at the time of the 2007 General Election to £286 million by the time of 2060 the 2011 General Election. That amounts to an increase of 186% in net debt terms under the GSD between 2008 and 2011. To be clear, that means that net debt was then, under the GSD, 26% of the GDP of our nation of £1.1 billion, and I am giving them the benefit of that figure, being the figure for that year.

Since then, we have seen our net debt increase under our administration with a target of 2065 £314 million by the end of this financial year in 29 days, Mr Speaker – £314 million in the next 29 days. The ratio of net debt to GDP will then be 17% net debt to GDP ratio, down from 26% when the GSD left office – 17% of £1.8 billion, 26% of £1.1 billion.

As a result, Mr Speaker, the position by the end of this financial year will be that the net debt will have increased from £286 million under the GSD to £314 million, an increase of only 9.8%, in 2070 the time since we took over: 9.8% in four and a half years – not bad, compared to 186% in four years. A less-than-10% increase in four years and three months, Mr Speaker, and by the end of the lifetime of the Parliament the result will be even healthier with a GDP to net debt ratio of 12.5% as we project.

I therefore come to the House safe in the knowledge that we have therefore been able to 2075 show that the management of our nation's public finances is more than safe in our hands. That is what our nations shareholders decided in our General Election late last year, less than 100 days ago.

By bringing this Bill to the House we are giving effect to the will of the people that we should continue our prudent management of our public finances in the manner which they so 2080 overwhelmingly approved at that said General Election and setting the target of £300 million set out in our manifesto and chosen by the people as the maximum possible net debt if the other formulations produce the results, as well as allowing through this Bill also the flexibility necessary for the prudent management of our nation's affairs to continue and to be better structured.

2085 Mr Speaker, I commend the Bill to the House and I have no doubt everyone will want to support Gibraltar paying even less interest. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of the Bill?

2090 The Hon. Mr Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

First of all, I would like to place on record that I have the utmost esteem for the Financial Secretary, given that the Chief Minister stated in answer to oral questions:

I want to make it clearly understood that the Financial Secretary has not felt any need to give any views to suggest a proposed change should not be made. In fact, it would be surprising if he had, given that he proposed the change in question should be made.

2095 Mr Speaker, I do have a problem with the change proposed.

I am grateful to the Chief Minister for having through the memos from the Financial Secretary of 8th and 13th December.

2100 The first point I would like to make is, as he himself has said, that the net debt when he took office was £285.8 million – or £290 million; we will take either number. What he omits to say, and in answers to questions this afternoon, is that the net debt as at 1st January 2016 is now £415 million. Mr Speaker, he has got to find £100 million in the next three months to bring it down to £314 million.

A Member: Three weeks.

2105

Hon. R M Clinton: Well, three weeks – I do not know what the position is now, unless he is telling me that is the position today. (Interjection)

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

So far, I have not actually heard a cogent reason for increasing the borrowing limits.

2110

If the Chief Minister is relying purely on the advice of the Financial Secretary, I refer him back to the memo of 13th December and the section at the end which he did not read out. It was an explanatory note which the then Financial Secretary suggested should accompany the motion, and in it he said:

The Government intends to bring a Bill to the House early in the New Year in order to amend the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008 to provide for the Government's borrowing levels to be measured and controlled in future on the basis of a maximum level of gross debt, rather than net debt. It is the maximum gross debt that the Government considers to be a clearer measure of our national debt as well as a better measure for comparison purposes with other countries. The gross level of debt of Gibraltar –

– as he writes then – is currently £520 million and the Government is committed to bring this gross debt level down significantly during its first term of office.

Now, Mr Speaker, we all know the Government failed in that attempt.

2115

What I am trying to say is that the Government obviously did not bring this resolution to the House, so it does not follow automatically that whatever the Financial Secretary suggests is followed by the Chief Minister.

2120

Furthermore, from his contribution I seem to deduce that the reason he is giving for this increase in the limit is in order to refinance the Government debt. It is important to note that of the Government debt he says £200 million is bank financing, which I believe Mr Mena only just refinanced the NatWest facility of £50 million only recently at a favourable rate. I remember the Chief Minister congratulating him profusely, and I too congratulated him. What the Chief Minister fails to point out is that £250 million, or thereabouts, of that Government debt is in fact Government debentures which are held by none other than by the Savings Bank. And in answer to questions in the last Parliament – I refer to the Written Answer W11:

2125

As at 1st December ... the aggregate public debt which comprises Government debentures had no maturity date and at 6% p.a. interest.

2130 Six per cent. So the Government is paying 6% to the Savings Bank, which is obviously how he is generating reserves in the Savings Bank and paying the 5% interest. I fail to see how an increase in borrowing limits is going to allow him to refinance at least that element of the public debt. And the other element of the public debt, which is NatWest, was only recently renewed, with the success of the Financial Secretary, but that remains the under £150 million with Barclays Bank. I still do not see why you would need to increase the borrowing limits if all you are doing is renegotiating interest rates at what are historically low levels.

2135 So, Mr Speaker, in terms of the arguments which the Chief Minister has put so far, I find nothing of substance. All I have heard so far are lots of statistics, which are great but they do not address the issue.

Mr Speaker, the Bill we are debating today is of critical importance to the financial stability of Gibraltar and is yet fundamentally flawed in its conception for the reasons I propose to explain.

2140 Non plus ultra was a warning that all ancient mariners would be familiar with as they approached the Pillars of Hercules. Put quite simply, it meant there was nothing further beyond and to venture through the Straits of Gibraltar was both foolhardy and reckless.

2145 And so it is with the formula adopted in the past to control Gibraltar's net debt limit, which is meant to mark the boundary between the safe and unsafe, prudence or perdition. That limit, as it stands today, is derived by the application of formulae, namely, as the Chief Minister has already said, net debt not to exceed the high of £200 million or the lower of (a) 40% of Gibraltar's gross domestic product – i.e. I took £1.6 billion, he has £1.8 billion, I would arrive at £657 million, he arrives at £720 million, both numbers are still higher than at present; or 80% of Consolidated Fund recurrent annual revenue – 80% of £571 million giving us £457 million, that number we both agree on; and (b) the annual debt service ratio not to exceed 8%. Assuming 8% of £571 million, that would give you £45 million notional interest cost, and if you grossed it up it would give you a gross debt of about £750 million, assuming interests costs of 6%. Obviously, the interest cost is much lower if you can get it at negative rates – I guess you can have an infinite amount of debt.

2150 Any additional borrowing that would cause the above limits to be exceeded would require a resolution of the House. The current net debt limit, as we have said and agreed, is £457 million.

2155 Mr Speaker, it would serve us well to remember the origins of the formula. The Hon. Joe Bossano, in his 2015 Budget speech, gave us a very good history of the setting of the debt limits in 2008 after the new Constitution in 2006. He said, and I quote:

The Public Debt of Gibraltar was first limited at a finite figure of £100 million, and this was changed by a formula which happened to be what the Foreign Office requires the other colonies to adhere to and which we have chosen to apply voluntarily.

2160 Thus, Mr Speaker, the debts formula is effectively considered to be the best practice, if not the legal requirement, in other Overseas Territories of the United Kingdom. In the FCO White Paper dated June 2012 entitled 'The Overseas Territories: security, success and sustainability' the following two key statements were made in respect of maintaining sound public finances. Firstly:

The UK Government expects Territory Governments to manage public finances sustainably and takes a close interest in this because it is an important part of good governance.

And secondly:

The UK Government and some Territory Governments have agreed Borrowing Guidelines, which provide a disciplined framework for managing public finances and a valuable commitment to sustainability.

2165 Going into more detail in respect of the borrowing of financial reserves of the 14 Overseas Territories, including Gibraltar, the FCO went on to say, on borrowing:

It is important for Territory Governments to keep borrowing under control. The need to exercise discipline on borrowing is particularly important to ensure the economic resilience of the Territories because of the structure of their economies and the limited macroeconomic tools available to Territory Governments.

And further, on financial reserves:

Building financial reserves during good economic times is a particularly important contributor to economic resilience. A healthy level of reserves helps Territories maintain public services and capital expenditure throughout the economic cycle and creates room for counter-cycle cyclical fiscal policies.

2170 Mr Speaker, all this may sound like common sense, and indeed in it we can recognise a reference to the Hon. Joe Bossano's prudent and sensible rainy day fund. But the Government is neither being prudent in increasing our borrowing levels nor is it building up cash reserves for maybe difficult times ahead. What the Government is currently doing makes no sense.

2175 The amendment proposed in the Bill to the formula seeks to remove any reference to recurrent revenue and instead rely on the levels of GDP to determine borrowings in a measure that is evidently running contrary to the guidelines given to other Overseas Territories as good practice. Indeed, we can learn a lot from the experiences of our distant cousins in other territories such as the Cayman Islands and Bermuda.

2180 In the Cayman Islands the finances became so dire that in November 2013 the Cayman Islands had to agree a so-called 'framework for fiscal responsibility' with the UK Government. This required the Cayman Government to pass into law the Public Management and Finance (Amendment) Law 2012. This law makes for sober reading in that changes to the framework require the permission of the UK Secretary of State. Among many conditions and targets for public spending and borrowing are the following items of interest in annexe A of the legislation. Firstly, borrowing is deemed to include the following:

conventional borrowing from commercial and concessional institutions;
the capitalised value of all alternative financing transactions (including PFI/PPP arrangements) that will place future financial obligations (in terms of increased expenditure or reduced revenue) on the Cayman Islands Government;
the risk weighted debts and PPP/PFI arrangements of statutory authorities, government corporations and companies; borrowing that is contracted by the Cayman Islands Government, but then on-lent; and finally any other debt guaranteed by the Cayman Islands Government.

2185 Mr Speaker, I would challenge the Government to adopt the above definition and then perhaps we would have a true picture of Gibraltar's indebtedness, including the £400 million in Credit Finance. (Banging on desks) (Several Members: Hear, hear.)

2190 Mr Speaker, if the above definition was not enough to put a strait jacket around the Cayman Islands Government, then secondly the borrowing limits were defined as the following: net debt not to exceed 80% of operating revenue; the debt service ratio to be 10% maximum operating revenue; and a new requirement, which we have not even mentioned up until now, is a liquid assets requirement of at least 25% of operating expenses – meaning they would have to keep 90 days' cash in reserve.

2195 Mr Speaker, note that in the limits agreed by force of circumstance between the Caymans and the UK in 2011 there is no longer any reference to a percentage of GDP for net debt, and in fact a new requirement in respect of liquid assets has been introduced. The Caymans will require to be within the limits by 2015-16, this financial year. If Gibraltar introduced a liquid assets test we would be required to hold at least £130 million, being 90 days' expenditure in the cash reserves as opposed to the £16.6 million at 1st December and the new number £30-odd million as at today.

2200 The Members opposite may well argue that the Caymans is an extreme example of what can go wrong when public finances are badly managed. (Hon. D A Feetham: Hear, hear.) However, let me now turn to the case of Bermuda.

2205 Bermuda has not had any conditions imposed upon it by the UK, but the Bermudan Government is painfully aware of the weak fiscal position they are in. They have a direct debt of around $2 billion and a recurrent budget deficit. The Government of Bermuda has set itself a target of reducing debt and debt service to less than 80% and 10% of revenues. In the past the Government have committed to setting aside a fixed percentage of a standing debt into a sinking fund, but even this has not been enough. In their 2016 budget statement, the Finance Minister, the Hon. E T Richards, was quoted as saying:

We must get to grips with the deficit and debt problem because they stand between us and a secure future.

2210 Mr Speaker, he could not have put it more clearly, and that is the warning for any other similar-sized territory, like us.

2215 The Government of Bermuda are taking responsibility for their predicament, and in fact they have gone so far as to commission an independent panel on fiscal responsibility to report to their Parliament on an annual basis as to progress towards their set targets. The panel's first report was published in December 2015 and I consider it to be worthy of Members' attention, and to that end I have placed a hard copy of this report in the Parliament's ante-Chamber for their convenience, to read when they get a chance. If not, you can get it from their website. (Interjection) It is there. I can hand deliver it to you – silver service!

2220 This report is important in a number of areas: firstly, it helpfully provides a debt limit comparison table with other jurisdictions, including Gibraltar; and secondly, it gives an opinion on the suitability of net debt to GDP as a target limit.

I will quote briefly from their executive summary and the body of the report. This is what the panel of experts had to say. I quote:

The debt and debt service to revenue targets are the important ones for Bermuda. We therefore suggest dropping the debt to GDP target, but if it is to be retained it should be considered at a consistent level – of around 15%.

– I pause here –

Mr Speaker, Bermuda's current debt to GDP ratio is around 38%.

In discussing debt to GDP ratios, the panel of experts noted, and I quote:

Debt/GDP is a conventional measure used for larger economies, with GDP giving a measure of the taxable capacity of an economy and hence of a government's ability to service its debts. Debt and debt service to revenues are however in some ways more appropriate measures of fiscal sustainability for jurisdictions like Bermuda with low levels of taxation, with significant sections of the economy that are difficult or impossible to tax at a much higher rate, and which cannot afford the pressure that high expenditure on debt service puts on finance for government services.

2225 And so, Mr Speaker, if this was my A-level pure maths homework, I would now be confidently writing 'QED' in having proved that linking debt limit to GDP is neither current nor good practice for jurisdictions and economies the size of Gibraltar.

2230 The Government's proposed amendment to the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2018 can now be seen to be contrary to good government and financial management in that rather than abolish the limit link to GDP and keep the limit link to recurrent revenue they are proposing the exact opposite. Abandoning the link to recurrent revenue will mean that automatically the net debt limit will increase from £457 million to £657 million on my calculations. Although there will be a higher number on his calculations, I reckon there will be an increase of at least £200 million.

2235 Mr Speaker, in examining the reasons as to why the Government are seeking to introduce this amendment, let us first of all dispense with one urban myth the Government are trying to promote, namely that it is a manifesto commitment; and nor is it, as per The New People headline on 7th January 2016, a 'tidying of debt'. This is pure spin to cover up a dangerous financial situation.

2240 The GSLP Liberal manifesto makes no mention of amending the borrowing limits – in fact, quite the opposite. I quote:

Nett debt will be targeted at £300m for the end of the next 4 years, well below the maximum limits of the ratios provided in the law of 80% of revenue and 40% of GDP.

They also stated, and the Chief Minister has confirmed today, that a target for 31st March 2016 is that net debt should be £314 million, in line with the 2015-16 estimates. If this is the case, then the Government will have £143 million headroom before reaching the 80% recurrent revenue limit of £457 million.

2245 In the Government's Press Release No. 6/2016 of 6th January they state, and I quote:

The ratio of 80% of revenue for limiting the size of the debt is removed because it has the effect of restricting the debt level, even when it is comfortably below the other two criteria, and exposes the Government to unexpected fluctuations in income.

Mr Speaker, as I have already discussed, is it the ratio of debt to revenue that is the proper measure as to affordability, (Hon. D A Feetham: Exactly.) and if revenue is dropping, so should our borrowing capacity. It is tantamount to applying for a credit card limit increase when you know your income is set to fall.

2250 Given that the Chief Minister has avowed he does not intend to increase net debt by £200 million or borrow any other amount, then what can be the real reason for this move now? Again, I am grateful for The New People – which I read avidly, as the Members opposite will know (Interjections) – who wrote on 7th January 2016:

The current law requires that debt be no more than 80% of recurrent revenue. This means if recurrent revenue falls, the debt, which is manageable and the interest on which is easily payable, could suddenly be rendered illegal. A fall in recurrent revenue could come at any time from a reduction, for example – and I quote them –

A reduction in import duties.

2255 Mr Speaker, this raises two interesting points. Firstly – and I hope the Chief Minister is taking notes – has the revenue actually fallen that much, such that for the year starting 1st April 2016, i.e. financial year 2016-17, the net debt limit will be so much lower? On the projected net debt of £314 million on 31st March 2016, for this to be a breach of the 80% limit to recurrent revenue, then revenue would have to drop from £571 million in 2015 to £392.5 million in 2016.

2260 That would be a decrease of £178.5 million, or 31.3% year on year, which would by all accounts be catastrophic. If this is indeed the case, I would expect the Government to issue an emergency statement to this House. On the other hand, if net debt is not decreased to £314 million on 31st March, then one can only speculate as to what the Government's intended level of debt would be that would cause a breach of the limit.

2265 The second point on the commentary in The New People which is of interest is that net debt going above the 80% of revenue threshold does not, from a reading of the current Act, as I have been advised, automatically make the debt illegal. Existing debt accumulated at a high-water mark of revenue, so to speak, is not rendered of itself illegal. What it does mean is that if the Government sought to raise additional borrowing it would need to seek the resolution of 2270 Parliament to do so.

Mr Speaker, I have sought to demonstrate, as I said at the opening, that the proposed Bill is flawed. It is flawed because the set borrowing limit is based primarily on GDP only, which is not prudent or best practice; and also, because if its aim is to protect against fluctuations in income, it is unnecessary as the high water mark debt level would not of itself be rendered illegal.

2275 Mr Speaker, if I may now perhaps turn to a more positive contribution, I would urge the Government to follow the recently issued advice on how to deal with debt issued by their own Citizens' Advice Bureau. Their top two tips are as follows: (1) don't bury your head in the sand – dealing with debt problems is easier the smaller they are to take action before they start to spiral out of control (Hon. D A Feetham: Yes!); (2) think very carefully before you take out more credit or a loan to cover your debts. This is sensible advice.

2280 The Government should start planning now to reduce its debt burden rather than make it the next generation's problem. To this end, I would suggest the Government continue with its sinking fund but do so in a disciplined manner with a set percentage set aside, as the Government of Bermuda have done.

2285 To this end, I wrote to the Chief Minister on 17th February proposing an amendment to the definition of net debt in the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008 to include the balance of any special sinking fund created specifically for the repayment of public debt. Unfortunately, I have not had sight of his response letter but no doubt he will enlighten us in his reply. This would avoid, in my view, the perverse inequity of cash balances in any debt repayment special fund not being taken into account when calculating Gibraltar's net public debt.

2290 Mr Speaker, this Government needs to realise that it has a fiduciary duty to the people of Gibraltar in the management of its public finances. History will not be kind to any Government that fails in that duty and leaves Gibraltar on the road to perdition. It is a dangerous road that this Government embarks Gibraltar on by its proposed amendment. It is a fiduciary duty owed by the Government itself and not any public servant.

2295 The Hon. Chief Minister indicated, in answer to a question, that the suggestion comes from the Financial Secretary, but his answer has not explained why the Financial Secretary may have made this suggestion. Is it because of the desperate need for money to pay outstanding debts or pay Gibraltar's way and this is the manner in which he suggests the issue can be resolved immediately? If that is so then, first, the responsibility still lies with the Government for that political decision, and secondly, it still lies with the Government, having placed Gibraltar in the invidious situation that requires more debt. The issue should be revisited to avoid a Bermuda or Cayman situation developing in Gibraltar with all the adverse consequences that would have, including our unique issue with Spain.

2300 So, Mr Speaker, in conclusion, if the Government insists on increasing the net debt threshold in the manner it proposes, then for the reasons I have given and outlined, it will be, regrettably, without the support of Members on this side of the House.

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

2310 Hon. D A Feetham: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to contribute to the debate?

Hon. D A Feetham: Does anybody on that side want to before I ...?

2315

Mr Speaker: Apparently not ... except the Hon. Mr Bossano.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): I will not deprive the Leader of the Opposition of hearing me, since he is so anxious to do so.

2320 Mr Speaker, the history of the introduction of this is that it was brought to Parliament in 2008 by the GSD, who, like most of the things that they did, presented it as the best thing since sliced bread and said that they were being more prudential than anybody else anywhere else and that 2325 this was a wonderful way to proceed. Indeed, when we were debating this I had misread the provision and I thought that the ceiling that was being put prevented the debt from reaching £200 million, and I said so in my contribution. The then Chief Minister said, as if he had caught me out, 'Ah! Then what the hon. Member is saying is that he would support us to have more,' and I said, 'Yes, I would support you to have more. I think it is wrong to put constraints on the ability that you have got to borrow if you have got an opportunity to borrow money and invest and do something that is productive and creates growth and jobs and activity.' At the end of the day it is not so much what you borrow but what you do with it when you have borrowed it that matters, and that has always been the analysis that I have made as an economist.

2330 Having said how wonderful it was to control the gross debt, within 11 months they found themselves in breach of the law that they had brought. So all the arguments they had put in 2008 were all rubbished in 2009, and now the correct thing to do was to bring the control on to net debt. But having brought it to net debt, in 2010 they found themselves in breach of the net debt and they invented a number of things in the changes that they made to the estimates. Many of them were by creating expenditures which were revenues. That is to say they suddenly discovered, for the first time since 1704, in 2010 that the Government should be paying rates to itself on all Government buildings. So, suddenly, the expenditure of the Government goes up by say £10 million, the revenue now goes up by £10 million, and now you can borrow £8 million because you have got £10 million more revenue. They then discovered that having taken out of the Government Consolidated Fund a number of agencies, authorities and entities, this was not transparent, so they legislated retrospectively – not in order to increase the debt but in order to be transparent – for all the things to be included, so that now, instead of, for example, the £50 million of Social Insurance money going to the Health Authority as it used to do, it first goes into the Consolidated Fund and out of the Consolidated Fund – and now you can borrow £36 million.

2340 That is just simply to illustrate to my opposite number, the Hon. Mr Clinton, who is a recent arrival in the GSD, what the GSD standards of prudence and manipulation of numbers was, because the reality of the situation was that they had created a rod for their own back.

2350 The hon. Member has quoted what the Foreign Office has told the Cayman Islands they must do. Of course, this is the modernised, non-colonial relationship of the Cayman Islands with London. (Interjection) Well, according to the United Kingdom when they speak in the UN they say all their territories are modern non-colonial relationships.

2355 I can tell the hon. Member the relationship with Gibraltar was changed way before the Constitution was changed. It was changed in 1988, because the first time that I was told the Financial Secretary has to go to the Foreign Office to get permission to increase the public debt I said, 'The policy of the Government is very simple: if we need the permission of the United Kingdom, then I want a letter in writing saying that they guarantee and underwrite my debt, in which case I can now borrow at UK rates and not at Gibraltar rates. I get charged more, as Gibraltar, than the UK does precisely because they will never say in public what they are implying in private, that there is a contingent liability. They want to use the contingent liability to control what we borrow, but they do not want to admit to it because then, in effect, it would give us an advantage.'

2365 Obviously, none of the other colonies did what this colony did, and they decided that the question of what we could borrow or what we could not borrow did not really apply to us, and this was under the 1969 Constitution in 1988, never mind under the 2006.

2370 So I think what the United Kingdom says to its colonial territories has to be taken with a pinch of salt because they do not apply it to themselves and they do not apply it to Jersey, Guernsey or the Isle of Man. They do not tell anybody in Scotland or Northern Ireland there has to be this ratio to revenue. Indeed, their ratio to GDP is now 84%. The requirement by the European Union for joining the single currency, the euro, the Economic and Monetary Union criteria set out for the first time was that it should not exceed 60% of GDP. Nobody in Europe meets that criteria now, except Gibraltar. In the third economy in the world, Japan, the GDP to debt ratio is now 225% and will soon hit 240%. If these economies had links to revenue they would be, in effect,

2375 bringing about a deflationary policy on the economy, and in our case the one thing that changed, which makes the ratios even more of a straitjacket than they were by definition, is what was done by introducing the 10% tax rate, because now we have a situation where, if we say – as indeed the GSD did when they brought somebody from the UK, from the London School of Economics, to say that a debt to GDP ratio of 40% was very low ... Well, look, if it was very low 2380 then it must still be very low now. We can always pay the same guy who said it for them to say it for us. I hope the price has not gone up because inflation is only 0% at the moment.

The point is, of course, that if you have got an economy that is growing predominantly by private sector growth ... If the hon. Member looks at the figures that the Leader of the Opposition asked me for recently, about the different elements, he will see that the biggest 2385 element in the growth in the last few years has been the growth in company profits. When the company profits go up by £100 million the GDP goes up by £100 million but the revenue of the Government goes up by £10 million. If that is the relativity between Government revenue and private sector generated economic growth, in effect what you can guarantee is that if you keep the 80% of ratio revenue what you are saying is forget the 40% because you will never be able to 2390 reach the 40%, which is not considered to be a dangerous level, has never been considered by anybody else in Europe. The level in Europe is 60%. Everybody is above 60%. We are below 40% and we are never going to get above 40%. But in any event, de facto the 80% ratio, if the economy is growing, will create a situation where that 80% may start being the equivalent of 35% of GDP and then it will be 30% of GDP and then it will be 25% of GDP, because one of the 2395 components of the formula is growing at 10% and the other one is growing at 1%, because the tax ratio is one tenth of the company profits and the company profits are the biggest element in the GDP growth.

Therefore, he is right in saying, ‘We don’t need it: why are we doing it?’ Well, we are not doing it because we need it; we are doing it because it is a stupid thing to have there, which 2400 creates an unnecessary constraint and it serves no useful purpose other than to say if you have got a ratio of 80% of your revenue you might as well scrap the other two. All he has to do is look back and he will find that the ratio that has limited the debt always has been that 80%, and it has limited it because it is ill-conceived, because it only exists in the colonial territories that had it imposed on them by the Foreign Office, which does not impose it on itself.

If the Bank of England or the Foreign Office or the Treasury in England thinks it is such a good idea and so prudent, why don’t they try doing it to themselves? Why do they do it to the people who have no choice? Because it is typical of them that what they are doing is not saying ‘this is what you need to do in your economy’; it is ‘this is what you need to do so that I am safeguarded from a possible cataclysm in which I might have to spend my money to rescue you – so I don’t 2410 give two sods whether you guys in the Cayman Islands have got unemployment as a result of this ridiculous rule or you are unable to do things unless you raise taxation and drive away customers, all I am concerned with is protecting my own back.’ That is what that rule is for. And of course, since they have tried it even when they had the theoretical power to do it in 1998 with me and I am still around, I do not suppose they want to have another go at me, so they 2415 have never suggested that we should do it. And, of course, nowadays, in any event, they have finally come around to accepting that we know how to run our house, that we do not need anything from them, that we do not want anything from them and that we do better in the running of our economy than they do with theirs, (A Member: Hear, hear.) and anybody else is doing in Europe.

I think, Mr Speaker, therefore, that in the position that I have explained, the fact that we are doing away with this measure is not driven because we want to borrow more and we cannot; it is because it is a measure that makes a nonsense of the criteria that everybody else uses in Europe, other than in the Caribbean territories that are British colonies – in the other Caribbean territories it does not apply – and by the measures and the standards of the rest of Europe the 2425 40% is considered very conservative, and by the measures of the GSD in government they proclaimed that the 40% was very conservative and they spent money bringing somebody from the London School of Economics as evidence that they were right, that 40% was a very conservative ratio. They did not make any reference then to the 80% of revenue.

2430 The 8% of revenue is remaining because there is logic to that. The hon. Member opposite has mentioned that other people are setting the standard at 10%. Well, look, if you are spending one twelfth of your income in having to pay the interest of the debt, that is high enough as far as I am concerned and it should go no higher than that. And, of course, that in itself is vulnerable if you go into debt at floating rates, because you can be borrowing ... Everybody is now talking about negative rates, never mind low rates. I think we are in an economic situation globally for 2435 which there are no precedents, and it is very difficult to predict the future because this is a cycle that is supposed to have ended some time ago and we seem to be entering now the beginning of another cycle without having come out of the last one. In those circumstances everybody seems to be convinced that the lack of demand and the failure of all sorts of different fiscal and monetary stimuli to get the economies of other countries moving is not working, and that as long as it is not working money will continue to be cheap.

2440 One of the arguments that was used for the increase in borrowing in the GSD years was the advantage of locking in to low rates. Of course, what were low rates then look like high rates now, but nobody can predict the future. I was persuaded to lock myself in, in 1989, at 11%, and I kept on paying 11% long after it had fallen – but you get the advice when you get it, and either you take it or you do not. People were predicting that rates would go up and they came down, 2445 and I am sure that what happened with the GSD was the same thing: people were predicting that if they went in at 5% or 6% in the future it would be more, and it has worked the other way round. The £200 million of bank debt that we have got – as the hon. Member says, one was rescheduled when it finished, the £50 million; the £150 million from Barclays Bank I think 2450 matures in 2017 or 2018 and we may decide, if we have got flexibility to borrow more before that matures, if we think that the interest is going to be higher, if we have to wait until that is repaid and borrow again, for example.

2455 But I am convinced that this is the right thing to do. I am convinced that it does nothing to put Gibraltar's economy in danger and that in fact it is a rule that nobody else, other than the colonies of the remaining parts of the British Empire, of which we are no longer a part ... We are British, but not in the colonial empire anymore, so we do not have to apply these absurd rules to keep people happy in Whitehall, and therefore ... It has done enough damage already and we do not want to have to go through the kind of gymnastics that the previous Chief Minister went through by pretending that things were being done for reasons other than the one that was 2460 blatantly visible, because he was putting money in one pocket to take it out from the other pocket and say 'now the revenue has gone up by £10 million, so I am going to borrow £8 million'. And I can tell him that if he has any doubt all he needs to do is to look at the figures in those years that I have given him and he will see the movement.

2465 So, for all those reasons I think they are wrong not to vote for it, but it is their prerogative, Mr Speaker.

A Member: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

2470 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, before any other Member on the other side rises, as I am the mover of the Bill and I need to absent myself from the Chamber for five minutes given the amount of water I have consumed, and I always like to be the red rag in order to get the best out of the hon. Gentlemen opposite, can I offer the House a recess of five minutes?

2475 Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am saying that the House should recess for five minutes so I can be here when he speaks. (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) No, Mr Speaker, I move that the House recess. I have 10 votes. The temptation is not going to get you anywhere! (Laughter) Work it out!

The House recessed at 7.25 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 7.30 p.m.

Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 –
Debate concluded –
Second Reading approved

2480 Mr Speaker: Is the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition going to participate?

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, of course, Mr Speaker. I beg your pardon.

2485 Before I start, I would like to congratulate my hon. Friend, Mr Clinton, on an erudite, powerful and understandable contribution to this House on what is an extremely complicated subject matter. It just reinforces my belief that placing my trust in him in succeeding me to what is this important portfolio of the public finances of Gibraltar was not misplaced. (A Member:
Hear, hear.) (Banging on desks.)

Mr Speaker, my contribution will be short.

2490 It is with a sense of déjà vu that I rise in order to make my contribution, because this Bill shows that, just as in 2011 the Government succeeded – and I have to say I congratulate him for it, because he won the election – succeeded in pulling the wool over the eyes of people as to how they would finance their ‘Time for Change’ manifesto, so too does this Bill show that they have successfully pulled the wool over the eyes of people in how they were going (Interjection) to fund their manifesto in 2015. Because, in 2011, let’s not forget – and I do have to go back to 2495 2011 because a lot of the problems and a lot of the seeds for Gibraltar’s future problems were sown in 2011 – and in 2011 they fought an election promising £750 million of capital projects.
Easier said than in fact it is easier to spend, and yet they managed to spend £750 million during the course of four years. They also promised to freeze rents, rates and electricity. They promised to bring the effective rate of Income Tax down to 15%. I am not sure whether they brought it 2500 down to 15%, but they certainly brought down the effective rate of Income Tax and I cannot remember exactly to what level. And of course they also promised to donate every single last penny of Government surpluses to Community Care – which they have done, in fairness to the hon. Gentlemen.

2505 Mr Speaker, you do not have to be an economic guru, you do not have to be a rocket scientist, to look at those promises that I have just outlined and to see that it just did not quite stack up to spend £750 million in capital projects, to freeze – indeed, cut – income available to the Government and to also gift away all the spare cash that the Government had to a charity like Community Care. And at the time, we said – rightly, Mr Speaker – that it could not be done.
Of course, what we had not reckoned on was the fact that the hon. Gentlemen opposite, in their 2510 secret economic plan, were not going to be playing by the rules; because, low and behold, what they did barely three months after the 2011 election is come to this House and amend the Gibraltar Savings Bank Act in order to change the requirement for investments in the Gibraltar Savings Bank to be made in cash or cash equivalent from the capital preservation point of view – in other words a very safe form of investment which required a matching of investments. If I give 2515 the Government, the Gibraltar Savings Bank, £200, the Gibraltar Savings Bank is required to match that in liquid investments, £200, which of course is a low return, I accept, but a very safe form of investment. And without telling the electorate that that they were going to do this, in 2011 when they made all those promises to the electorate, what they did was they changed that in order to allow the Gibraltar Savings Bank to invest in whatever the Gibraltar Savings Bank and 2520 the Government effectively wanted. And that is what allowed them to then invest, as he calls it – and there is very little difference between his and my nomenclature, but I will use his nomenclature, 'invest' – £400 million in Credit Finance, which then allowed them to use that money in order to fund that 'Time for Change' manifesto. When we look at the books of the Government and we look at public debt, which in March of 2012, Mr Speaker, the first Budget 2525 that they had when they were in office ... net debt was £330 million, I think it was, and indeed the legal borrowing limit was only about £370 million. They did not have the borrowing capacity in order to fund that 'Time for Change' manifesto, so what they did was they then changed the law in order to allow them to use the money in the Gibraltar Savings Bank. And that is why we 2530 have consistently been saying over the last four years that it is unrealistic to just simply look at the debt position of the Government directly – and in other words the net debt position, what the Government owes directly – without considering that you have got this £400 million which the Government is also basically using for its own manifesto commitments, which ought to be considered as part of the debt position of the Government. Indeed, as Mr Clinton has rightly observed during the course of his erudite contribution to this House, in England the debts of 2535 government-owned companies do form part of the public debt, as indeed do PFI arrangements and other forms of indirect – yes, they do – other forms of indirect borrowing.

Mr Speaker, you then fast forward the position to 2015, and we fought a General Election telling the people of Gibraltar that the Government had spent too much money, that the Government had borrowed too much money, that indeed when you took into account the fact 2540 that you had this direct borrowing and indirect borrowing that the public debt of this community was over in excess of £700 million – indeed close to £800 million – and that when you looked at the direct debt position of the Government, which in June of last year was £400 million for net debt with a legal borrowing limit of £547 million, they only had £47 million ... it was possible for them to borrow £47 million. Bearing in mind that we did not know how much cash was available
2545 in that investment that had been made in Credit Finance, but that we suspected that it had either already been committed or spent, our position was, 'Well, actually, the Government is running out of money. The Government does not have the money available, either in cash reserves' – which were very low; I think it was about ... Well, I can do the calculation – it was about £40-something million, I think it was – I will be corrected by the Hon. the Father of the 2550 House – in June of 2015 ... 'The Government does not have either the cash reserves ...' And remember that if you spend cash reserves net debt goes up the closer you are to the legal borrowing limits. The Government did not have the cash reserves, nor did the Government have the borrowing capability to pay for all those promises that the Government was making directly in their manifesto and that the Chief Minister was sneakily making in all those letters that he was sending to private individuals, school teachers, estates, this, that and the other, which I 2555 asked him a question about at the last session of Parliament and he refused to give me details of all those extra manifesto commitments.

Mr Speaker, that is precisely the reason why the Government has to come to this House in order to ... not increase the legal borrowing limit – that is not what the Government is doing 2560 here; it is redefining the legal borrowing limit in order to allow the Government to borrow £200 million more on the size of the economy as it stands now, but if the economy grows then it will be able to borrow even more than £200 million.

I believe, Mr Speaker, that the Government ought to have been honest with the people of Gibraltar, just as they should have been honest with the people of Gibraltar in 2011 when they 2565 were promising all those capital projects and all those goodies which were going to cost so much – and indeed they delivered on most of them; some of them they are still delivering, like the cladding and refurbishment in the three estates. But they ought to have said honestly to the people of Gibraltar, 'Yes, the legal borrowing limit is £447 million, our net debt in June was £400 million; we do not have enough money to do what we are promising, and therefore we are 2570 going to be funding it by borrowing an extra £200 million this financial year and more next financial year. They did not do it, and not only did they not come clean with the people of Gibraltar – because, as I said when I started off, this is not a question of the hon. Gentlemen simply keeping quiet. If you read the manifesto carefully, as I did, those parts certainly that were drafted by the Hon. the Father of the House, what they were basically saying in that manifesto ...

 2575 and creating the impression that they were going to be working within the constraints of the legal borrowing limits as existed then, which was 40% of GDP or 80% of revenue, whichever was the lowest, and that net debt was going to go down to I think it is £314 million.

Mr Speaker, I am afraid, yes, they did win, and yes, they did win with 6.8 people out of 10 – not seven, 6.8. (Interjection by the Chief Minister) But I voted. But they won and the election 2580 victory was a handsome electoral victory, and it would be churlish of me not to say so. I was generous to the hon. Gentleman when the election result was announced, even though he was less generous to me in his response. But, Mr Speaker, that apart, this is a fundamental aspect of Government business. It is a fundamental aspect for our community, how manifestos are going to be funded, what levels of debt Government expects to saddle the community with in the 2585 future – and they never said anything to the people of Gibraltar that they were going to be redefining the debt limits in order to allow them to borrow an extra £200 million.

And yes, I do believe, Mr Speaker, that they are taking a huge gamble. I have described it and I have been the lonely voice in the desert, yes, but if I had the choice I would do it again, even knowing that I was going to lose the election with 6.8 people out of 10. I would still do it again 2590 (Banging on desks) because I believe, as a matter of deconviction (Laughter) that the hon. Gentlemen opposite are taking a huge blind gamble with the future of Gibraltar and that they are mortgaging the future of our children and our children's children, and no one on this side of the House is going to remain silent or sit idly by and not say something when we believe that the hon. Gentlemen opposite are taking such a blind gamble with the future of the people of 2595 Gibraltar.

They say that history is a great educator of men, and I certainly believe that. I certainly, as a historian, believe that we should be learning lessons that have been taught by the way that other jurisdictions have conducted themselves and the mistakes made by other jurisdictions. In Bermuda – that was but 10 years ago held out to be a model of financial prosperity – their debt 2600 is 38% of GDP and they are effectively bankrupt. They are effectively bankrupt, and the reason for that is because they adopted a policy of pegging debt to GDP when now they are trying to rail back and they are trying to peg debt to income, because at the end of the day a debt is only prudent and is only safe if you are able to service that debt, and hence why that 80% of revenue is included in the formula.

Therefore, Mr Speaker, for all the reasons that Mr Clinton has given in his speech, which he explained better than I can, the Opposition is going to be voting against this particular Bill.
 2605 (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: I call on the mover to reply.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, here we are debating our public finances again, and I would say that the hon. Gentleman supports the move back to pure sound and the return of the music industry to vinyl, because he really does sound like a broken record. All we have heard from him today is exactly the same things that he has been saying, not as a lonely voice in the wilderness, 2615 he has been saying it with the support of all of his entourage during the course of the past three years, and he will not be silenced. I do not want him to be silenced, Mr Speaker. I want him to say it more and more and more. But he is saying exactly the same thing that he has been saying for the past three years, completely ignoring everything I had said in my speech presenting this Bill and everything that the Hon. Mr Bossano had said in the presentation of his own views in respect of this Bill.
 2620

I must say, Mr Speaker, when it comes to Joe Bossano, there is not an English phrase that can come up to the clarity of the Spanish description of más claro que el agua, because the only thing clearer is water – for the purposes of the Hansard translator – because you could not have got a clearer exposition of his views in respect of the position of the British Government in 2625 respect of setting this criteria that applies to other Overseas Territories than you have heard from Joe Bossano, and I think that Mr Clinton enjoyed it as much as we enjoyed it in its clarity and in the depth of its analysis. Mr Speaker, for that reason I know that every right-thinking Member of this House would take Mr Bossano's lessons on every subject – except diplomacy, a subject which he does not declare a forte for one moment. (Laughter)

2630 Mr Speaker, let me start by dealing with the intervention from Mr Clinton. I am not going to describe it as erudite or not erudite, I am just not going to describe it – I do not think we are here to describe each other's interventions – but he has noticed that somebody to the right of him wants him to feel flattered and I am sure that there are good political reasons for that, but I am just going to deal with the facts as he put them out there.

2635 He said that net debt was £286 million when we took over, given the numbers I had provided, but that I had failed to deal with the fact that it is £415 million, not today but some months ago when he had the figure. Well, Mr Speaker, he fails to deal with the fact that £286 million of net debt was 26% in terms of the ratio to GDP and that £415 million would be 23% of GDP, calculated as the GDP is today, which would be 3% down. But in any event we are talking about the financial year, and we are clearly still aiming for the £314 million figure, which would put us at 17% of GDP, and our target will be 12.5% of GDP – something which would come within the criteria that he went on to tell us Bermuda was now adopting.

2640 I noted that he was able to download, print and provide to all Members something which is available publicly on the internet, and I encourage him to have that ability also in respect of local documents as he appears to have in respect of international documents. But that is about Question Time.

2645 I did not read the explanatory note on the sixth paragraph of the Financial Secretary's second memo, that of 13th December 2011, because it raised an issue which we were not prepared to countenance, Mr Speaker. I therefore did not read that part of the memorandum. I dealt with the issue of the resolution, which was the issue that I was bringing.

2650 They themselves had dealt with the issue of gross debt in 2009. It was gross debt that was the standard set out in 2008 and they came to this House to change that standard and move it to net debt in 2009. That was the change that they made to the formulation at that time.

2655 Mr Speaker, he said that I had failed to point out that we had £250 million of debentures. I think if he has an opportunity of going through my speech in Hansard he will see that I actually did go to the £250 million of debentures. He knows that that is one of the elements of producing income for those who have taken debentures and it is something that was introduced by the GSD – it is the reason why it is there, although there is a move now to the Savings Bank. (Interjection) They introduced the concept of the Government debenture, Mr Speaker, and that is why the Government still holds some of those debentures. And the reason that we pay very high interest on those debentures, above market rates, is because they wanted to provide an income to pensioners. This was all set out in the speech of the man they formerly described as the greatest Gibraltarian of all time, when that concept was introduced.

2660 Mr Speaker, why would we need to change the existing rules if all we are going to do is reschedule debt and we were going to change one debt for another? Well, I am surprised that, as a banker, he does not understand that aspect of this. Let me just put it to him in very simple terms. Mr Bossano set it out, but let me set it out again. If we want to take new debt which is lower in terms of the interest paid and for a longer period, because we want to change the maturity profiles of our debt and the interest that we pay, we may not be able to do that on the day that another debt is going to mature. We may have to do it slightly earlier, because we have to repay the other debt with the new debt. And at one point, even if it were momentarily or for a week or a month, we might be holding both debts, the good new debt and the old debt, because we do not want to incur, for example, any break charges on some debt etc. So there may be a need to be holding the more advantageous new long-term lower-interest debt at the same time, and therefore for that period we may need to be at a higher debt ratio. But that is still about flexibility and rescheduling debt; it is not about anything else.

2675

2680 Mr Speaker, he talked about the non plus ultra, and that is exactly what the Straits of Gibraltar used to be for the Romans, but we have long worked out that there was an ocean beyond the Mediterranean and that for Calpe today to apply those principles would be not even to go to the United Kingdom to the Joint Ministerial Conference of all Overseas Territories, let alone to negotiate a new Constitution.

2685 But the FCO issues that hon. Members have raised, and both of them have raised it, really ignore the point that is so salient about the reports. He quoted one of the reports, which I have seen. There is a particular memorandum that the Foreign and Commonwealth Office provided to the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Westminster Parliament in 2008 where they set out even more succinctly the position, and I will read it to him, Mr Speaker. It deals with all the points that we have been addressing today, so it is worth having regard to. It is paragraph 20 of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office memorandum to the Foreign Affairs Committee of 2008, and it says this:

To mitigate the risk of excessive Overseas Territory borrowing creating liabilities for the UK – and thereby demonstrating that Mr Bossano is exactly right when he analyses why the criteria was established –

we [the Foreign and Commonwealth Office] have introduced Borrowing Guidelines for those Overseas Territories that wish to undertake borrowing. The guidelines define three ratios, which together specify a prudential framework for Overseas Territory Governments and Government-guaranteed borrowing. The ratios impose maximum limits for the total volume of outstanding debt and the annual cost of debt-servicing, and a minimum level for Government reserves. If all three ratios are not met, further Overseas Territories borrowing will not ordinarily be approved by the UK Government. Separate (pre-existing) arrangements apply for Bermuda and Gibraltar.

2690 So, pointing to that criteria avails him of no consideration, other than to say that Gibraltar is in a different position.

2695 Mr Speaker, perhaps the Foreign and Commonwealth Office is not the organisation with the best reputation in this House, and therefore let us look for another source of comfort for that provision. The Foreign and Commonwealth Office's 'Managing Risk in the Overseas Territory' document, which is a National Audit Office publication and published on 12th November 2007, says this about the issue of borrowing. Under the heading 'The FCO partially mitigates fiscal risk, by limiting Territories' borrowing and aiding economic diversification', paragraph 1.5 at page 13 starts as follows:

Territories (except Gibraltar) are required to obtain approval by the Secretary of State when seeking to borrow.

2700 So, Mr Speaker, the position of Gibraltar is very different to that of any other Overseas Territory when it comes to dealing with these issues, and we are perfectly comfortable that it should be, because we believe that there is a very good reason for Gibraltar not to be dealt with as other Overseas Territories are in this respect, not least the fact that Gibraltar has enjoyed prosperity for many years now, surpluses for many years now, and is therefore a very stable economy and in particular in terms of the management of its public finances.

2705 He said that these Foreign and Commonwealth Office criteria are important because it is important to keep borrowing under control. We entirely agree. That is not his position and not ours; that is our common position. We believe it is under control and he, I believe for political reasons, is trying to make the case that it is not under control. I would welcome, if that were not the case, that he should clarify it, because the Government certainly believes that borrowing is very much under control and for all the reasons I have given in my speech – if he goes back and looks at it he will see that the ratios to GDP are much better now than they were, and our aim, I hope should be a common aim, to get down even further when we get to £300 million in the context of a GDP of £2.4 billion.

2710

2715 What a difference, Mr Speaker, to when they brought this Bill in 2008, the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2008 to this House, which enjoyed our support – and when they came back in 2009 they also enjoyed our support. In fact, I am sure the hon. Member has read the speeches. Mr Bossano at one stage was thinking of abstaining, or not supporting, but only because he thought that the Government was further restraining its ability to borrow – not because of the amounts that it might borrow, but because of the ability to borrow being 2720 restrained – and he was persuaded, by Mr Caruana in fact, that the provisions that were being brought were to provide that greater flexibility, and therefore we gave our support to the hon.
Member’s party when they were making this proposal. Because, you see, the mantra has to be, as Mr Bossano set out, not how much you can borrow; it must be what you borrow for.

2725 Mr Speaker, hon. Members can use a better analogy, and perhaps the Hon. Mr Feetham might be attracted to this ability that I am going to deploy now to clarify this very complex issue in the following way. Instead of thinking of borrowing and finances, which some people find daunting, let’s just think of speed. A car can have a maximum speed, the speed limit may be much lower than the maximum speed and the driver may choose to go at an even lower speed.
Just because your car can reach 260 km an hour does not mean you are going to drive it at 2730 260 km an hour; and just because the speed limit is 120 km an hour, you are not going to drive necessarily at 120 km an hour – you may drive at 80 because you may not be such a confident driver or you may think that it is imprudent to drive at that particular speed.

In relation to borrowing the same is true. You can set a limit at a particular amount, but you do not have to borrow that full amount; and if you do, what do you borrow for? If you borrow to 2735 pay recurrent expenditure, it has always been a rule of the GSLP that you are, in effect, hanging yourself, and you do not do that; but if you borrow for capital projects which are going to produce income, then you are borrowing for the right reasons. Sometimes you have to borrow for capital projects that produce less income but have a social value, and in that way I think that the issue of borrowing being under control is one that is very much on our agenda, that is 2740 rigorously tested by the Cabinet and by Ministers, and therefore he needs not concern himself with the idea that we might be, in some way, out of control. But when he is talking about the Cayman Islands and he is talking about Bermuda, two cases I will deal with now – and he failed to talk about Jersey; I would have thought that he would have also talked about Jersey, given the difficulties that Jersey is going through – he must allow me to say that it almost felt as if he was 2745 wishing that upon us, because that might in some way prove that they were right at the last General Election and we were wrong. I would hope, Mr Speaker, that Members on both sides of the House, whatever position they might have taken, on their own in the wilderness or otherwise, will only want to see Gibraltar grow and prosper, and if they have been saying that borrowing is out of control and it is not, they should be very happy indeed and not disheartened.

2750 Mr Speaker, that brings me to a remark made by Mr Caruana at the ceremonial opening of the Parliament last time. The hon. Gentleman thinks he is a red rag to me, and I think I am a red rag to him, but my principal political opponent, as far as I am concerned, was Peter Caruana and I beat him in a General Election on 9th December 2011, but when he got up in this Parliament to speak at the ceremonial opening, he said this:

Mr Speaker, whilst we will hold the Government to account, especially against their electoral promises, the Opposition will support, not undermine the Government, where the interests of Gibraltar must come first

– oh, yes, but listen to this bit – in areas such as economic development, in creating confidence amongst lenders and investors in our economy and in Government’s financial strength, or in the defence of our self-Government and political rights and aspirations as a people.

2755 Mr Speaker, how are they encouraging the confidence of investors by suggesting that we might be in the same situation as Bermuda or the Cayman Islands? It is absolutely impossible to run with the hares and hunt with the hounds on this issue. But I will deal with why we are not Cayman and Bermuda in a moment.

2760 He also said that one of the issues to also bear in mind, and which the new Cayman Islands strictures provided for, was that PFI arrangements should be on the books. Well, Mr Speaker, the only party who has entered into any PFI arrangements was the party that they represent. The party that they represent entered into a PFI arrangement in respect of the purchase of St Bernard's Hospital. To his credit, the Hon. the now Leader of the Opposition, the then leader of the Labour Party, having recently left the GSLP, said at the time – although I do not know 2765 what his position was after he joined the GSD – that he was against it. (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) But, Mr Speaker, that is the position. The PFI arrangement that is on the books of the Government is not one that we put there, and when it was put there it was what they like to say is off balance sheet, not because we decided it should be off balance sheet but because they, when they were in Government, decided it should be off balance sheet. So let's be very clear, 2770 that is the position that they entered into: a PFI arrangement which was a sale and leaseback. We are not talking about borrowing for the purposes of developing capital projects through company entities. That is also something that they did, Mr Speaker, but in terms of PFI arrangements, that is not a sin that can be attributed to us; it is only a sin which can be attributed to them, and the fact that that it is off balance sheet is something which was their 2775 responsibility also.

But in any event the Cayman Islands, he told us, in these strictures will have a ratio of debt servicing to recurrent income of 10%. He might have used that as something to avail himself of an argument against this Bill if it was not that we were not changing, that it should be 8% in Gibraltar. In other words, in Gibraltar it is lower. As Mr Bossano said, we are not going for one 2780 tenth of our income being available to service our debt interest, we are going for one twelfth. What the hon. Gentleman has to remember – and he may not be aware of it – is that Cayman was going through a very, very difficult period indeed in 2010, 2011 and in 2012. The culmination of that was the arrest of Mr McKeeva Bush, who was the Chief Minister of the Cayman Islands, as a result of an investigation which was being run into the manner in which the 2785 government was disposing of government assets. So the issues afflicting the Cayman Islands were very, very different to an issue just related to what the debt was. There was serious instability in the Cayman Islands at the time. We are not in a position to make any statements about that, but it is obvious that the position now, under Premier Alden McLaughlin, has changed considerably.

2790 Mr Speaker, Bermuda is not a situation where the UK can impose anything. In the first of the documents that I read him from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office I was able to point to the fact that Bermuda also is not covered by the requirement to seek the consent of the Secretary of State to borrow, so this is not a case of imposition, but Gibraltar is in a much stronger position also than Bermuda and we must not go away thinking for one moment that any of the things 2795 that happened to Bermuda can befall Gibraltar at any time, certainly whilst we are in administration. What happened to Bermuda was that its services became too expensive for its clients in a whole range of areas – some of its financial services and some of its tourist services. I have had long discussions with the current and former Premiers of Bermuda – Craig Cannonier and Michael Dunkley – about how they found themselves unable to sell services to tourists etc.
2800 because they had become too expensive, and that led to a breakdown of their income which then led to the difficulties that they are experiencing.

Mr Speaker, if there is one thing that we will agree on it is that – whether it is Cayman, Bermuda, Jersey or A N Other – where there is a problem that others go through it would be foolish for us not to understand what that problem was and learn from it. Absolutely right. And 2805 in that respect you are already preaching to people who I think I have now been able to demonstrate have done the analysis of what was wrong there and understand those issues. None of those issues afflict Gibraltar. But if what we are going to have is an attempt to suggest that we are going to have the same problems as they have had, simply because we are an

2810 Overseas Territory, then nothing could be further from the truth and I trust that they join me in hoping that our ability to manage the affairs of Gibraltar will actually produce a dearth of support for them, at least on this subject, because we will show that Gibraltar will prosper and will not experience any of those issues. And again I am surprised he did not bring up the issue of Jersey.

2815 Mr Speaker, he told us that the panel of experts has understood that in Bermuda the ratio of debt to GDP was 38%, and if there is a panel of experts that is giving advice to Bermuda then I sincerely hope it is good advice for the people of Bermuda and that following it they will be able to once again ensure that their ship is as steady and strong as we in Gibraltar no doubt wish that it should be. And by taking these examples and making these comments I want to make clear 2820 that the Government of Gibraltar is making no comment on the current state of the Bermudan economy or the Caymanian economy, because we have no expertise to comment in respect of any of them – we are simply working on the basis of the reports that we have seen. But we certainly wish them all the very best indeed ... And that the experts, he said, in Bermuda had recommended that the debt to GDP ratio should be 15%. Mr Speaker, I would have thought if he 2825 had wanted to reply to me – but I saw that he had a prepared text, and one is often tempted to simply read and get it off one's chest – that he would have paused there and congratulated the Government, given that ours is presently 17%, or will be at the end of the financial year when we reach £314 million on a GDP of £1.8 billion, and that we are aiming for 12.5%. So the reference, I would have thought, would have been to applaud the fact that we have reduced the debt to GDP ratio from 26%, as it was when we inherited it in 2011-12, to 17% now and that we 2830 are aiming to 12.5%.

My conclusion, Mr Speaker, at that moment was that, actually, perhaps on reflection, and given that he is neither a red rag to me and nor do I think I am a red rag to him, that on reflection, and when he reads my speech now, and perhaps during the Budget debate and after my speech on the Budget debate, despite his views as to whether I am good with numbers or 2835 not – I think that is irrelevant – that he might actually ask me for a membership form of the GSLP, or perhaps even of the Liberal Party if he cannot come to terms with joining the GSLP.

But, Mr Speaker, given that he was recommending that we should be aiming for a Bermudan 15% GDP debt ratio, and we are aiming for 12½%, I would have thought he would have said very well indeed, especially because if he had been aiming for 10% I would have thought, 'Well, 2840 he has set a higher standard,' but he went into a General Election telling us he was going to take the debt limit to £900 million. They were going to take the net debt to 50% of GDP. They were going to take it to 50% of GDP out of £1.8 billion, Mr Speaker. So, look, if he had set a lower standard, perhaps I would have accepted that he might not want to come over – but I accept these things can be embarrassing and he may just want to sit where he is for now and eventually 2845 make another sort of political decision.

It is contrary to good government to borrow more than you can repay – absolutely,
Mr Speaker, absolutely, we agree, and that is why we would not put Gibraltar in that position.
That is why we have worked to bring the ratios down. That is why they are now in a lower debt to income ratio and debt to GDP ratio, Mr Speaker.

2850 The hon. Gentleman talked about us being able to go up to £616 million of debt – he knows the calculation I did was slightly different to the one he did – and I have told him already, in my speech, Mr Speaker, that this was not going to happen and I explained to him why we needed the flexibility already, but he went on in his speech to say how terrible this was. But, Mr Speaker, he went on television and his leader went on television and told us that the only safe thing for 2855 Gibraltar to do was to go to £900 million. Well, look, Mr Speaker, I do not know how they reconcile it, but there is one thing that I learnt today about the hon. Gentleman, or had confirmed today about the hon. Gentleman, that I sincerely believe is to be commended, and that is that he reads The New People. (Laughter) I had heard that his reading of The New People had got him into very hot water indeed (Laughter) with the Knight of the Realm formerly known 2860 as the greatest Gibraltarian of all time, and that that hot water had led him to walk out of a meeting and never walk back whilst that man was still the leader of that party, Mr Speaker. (Laughter) The only reason I know that is because I read it in The New People! (Laughter) Given that the hon. Gentleman gives it such credibility, it must be true, Mr Speaker. It must be true.

2865 He then went on to talk about the question of why it was that we needed the greater amount of flexibility if we were just going reschedule debt, and I have explained that to him. But he then went on to deal with the other limb, which was the question of whether recurrent revenue had in fact fallen to such an extent that this was why we were having to decouple from the recurrent revenue criteria. Again, I sense – but I am prepared to accept it was not there if he tells me it was not – an angst that that should be the case, a desire that recurrent revenue had fallen 2870 through the floor and that this would cause the Government a huge problem. He is shaking his head, so I take it in good will from him, Mr Speaker, that he did not wish for that to be the case and that if I detected that sort of thing in his intervention it was not the case – because he would have been very disappointed if that is what he had wished for, Mr Speaker. In fact, he would be very disappointed indeed, if that had been the case, to hear that recurrent revenue is holding up 2875 very well indeed. He has no need to worry himself, Mr Speaker.

But let us not do ourselves out of a Budget debate where we deal with all of the actual numbers of recurrent revenue as they will be declared to have been for this year by the Treasury when we come to look at the Estimates Book for 2016-17 when we all have it available. He seemed to have relied, however, on The New People almost as if it were a Bible, Mr Speaker, and 2880 took what that publication had said about the reason for the publication of this Bill – and other commentators have commented as well. I am surprised he only chose that one. He needs to understand, Mr Speaker, that Bills are presented for the reasons that hon. Members who present them set out in this House in their speeches, they are presented for. Not for the reasons that The New People might set out. So it is my speech that matters, not what he reads in The New People that matters, but I understand that he was preparing himself for this debate on that 2885 basis.

Well, Mr Speaker, what can I say to him? The fact is the Government has set out its reasoning in the Second Reading. I am now replying to what they have said. But there is a point more important even than the point in The New People. Hon. Members issued press statements at the 2890 beginning of this year, in fact when the year was still in the single digits of January, dealing with this Bill and giving us their point of view. The hon. Member then wrote to me, in a letter which I believe I have replied to and he believes he has not had a reply to, telling me how imprudent he believed that this was and passionately suggesting that I should change my views in relation to it. Part of my reply tells him that I was surprised that he had taken that attitude without hearing
2895 what it was that we had to say, because he took that attitude without listening to the presentation I had made about the flexibility required and he asked a question about why we needed that flexibility in his intervention. I have now replied to it, Mr Speaker.

The hon. Gentleman needs to understand, as a young whippersnapper of a parliamentarian that he is, that we tend to wait until we are here in our interventions at the Second Reading to 2900 make up our minds about legislation, because the Parliament is otherwise useless. If we are going to publish something and we are going to hear what their attitude is and they are not going to support it before we come to Parliament, what is the point of having a parliamentary debate on a Bill? Others might wish to comment, but when we are here we present our reasoning for a Bill, they present their views, usually after they have heard us. Sometimes they 2905 might come with a prepared speech. But I would have thought if they want to hear us and why it is that we are presenting a Bill ... and then make up their minds, however much research they may want to do in the interim ... But, Mr Speaker, that should not dissuade him from continuing to read that excellent weekly publication that is The New People, the oldest weekly publication in Gibraltar – a very good reason for Members to continue to read avidly that publication.

2910 Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman then reminded us of the tips that CAB have put out for people who may have got themselves into a difficult position in relation to debt: do not bury your head in the sand and think carefully about taking more. I entirely commend those tips to them. The economy of Gibraltar is doing very well indeed. Borrowing is very much under control. However much they might wish to drum up support for their idea that things are not going well, people have a very good litmus sense as to whether things are going well or not, and they determined at the last General Election – by seven out of 10, when rounded up to the ‘wholest’ human (Laughter) – that actually things are going very well indeed, and they are sticking their heads in the sand like ostriches by continuing to say that things are not going well.

Mr Speaker, it is true that his letter contained a proposal to change the definition of aggregate public debt. I wrote back to him telling him that the Government agreed that there should be a change in that respect and that we were going to bring a different amendment which we will be moving at the Committee Stage. I trust that he will be able to agree it.

And then, Mr Speaker, almost at the end of his presentation and in what I thought was an attempt at dramatic flurry, he reminded us that it is a fiduciary duty of a government not to incur more debt than it is able to repay. He said it is a dangerous road indeed that we go down if we forget that. If it is any consolation to him, we do not think it is just a fiduciary duty; we think it is part of the sacred trust that is deposited in us by the people of Gibraltar in those ballot boxes that we should always be more than prudent and ensure that the economy and the public finances are safe in our hands. We would never put that in danger or at risk, Mr Speaker.

‘Is there a desperate need for cash?’ he says. There is no desperate need for cash. I have explained to him why it is that we are doing what we are doing. At that time, when he was saying those things, because he had them in his prepared speech he was in effect ignoring everything that I had told him. It was almost as if this had been a dialogue of the death. I had made a speech and he got up and made a speech, which did not reply to mine; it was just the speech that he felt appropriate he should make. I trust, Mr Speaker, that I have demonstrated to him, in getting up now and replying to the detail of what he said, that perhaps I am not so bad at numbers and that in fact what we need to do in this House is engage in debate, rather than just deliver set speeches.

I am delighted that he has indicated that he does not wish upon us the difficulties that we have seen afflicting the Cayman Islands and Bermuda, and therefore with this part of my reply I hope that I have satisfied many of the things that he raised during the course of his intervention.

Mr Speaker, then the Hon. Mr Feetham got up after Mr Bossano had spoken and spent much of the first part of his speech describing Mr Clinton’s demeanour and ability – and, as I have said before, whether somebody is erudite or not erudite is really not something that is going to concern the Parliament when considering a Public Finance Bill.

But then he moved quickly to say that this Bill shows that we successfully pulled the wool over the eyes of people at the last General Election. Mr Speaker, how can it be that we successfully pulled the wool over the eyes of people at the last General Election if the hon. Member had listened to any of what I had said and understood any of what I had explained to the House as the reasoning behind this Bill? It can only be one of two things: either that he did not listen or understand; or that he believes that I am somehow presenting a case for this Bill which is different to the reality of what is actually the position. Because I have told him that it is not about borrowing more; it is about changing the profile of our debt. But he does not just stop now about what it is that I am doing with this Bill. He goes back and says that the seeds of future problems for Gibraltar were sown in 2011 when we came up with £750 million in capital projects in the last four years. Doesn’t he know that they spent more in their last four years in office than we spent in our first four years in office? I know he is not looking at me, but I really want him to understand because I do not like him to make the same mistake twice. He said it before, and I do not want him to have to say it again. He said that £750 million was far too much to spend in four years, and they spent more in their last four years in office ... unless that is also one of the things that they are decrying about the manner in which the man formerly known to him as the greatest Gibraltarian of all time had run the Gibraltar economy. Look, he needs to reconsider.

But then again, Mr Speaker, should I stop him when he is making a mistake? Only when the way that he does it calls into question Gibraltar’s public finances and therefore goes against 2965 what Mr Caruana was saying an Opposition should do, which was to assist to create confidence where it is in the interest of Gibraltar to do so in areas of economic development and creating confidence amongst lenders and investors in our economy. He does the opposite.

But I am going to set him a challenge, Mr Speaker, and the challenge is this. Given that he says that we have sown the seeds of our problems for the future, it is a very simple challenge indeed: will he be prepared to stand up and applaud us if all the problems that he says he has been pointing out in the wilderness turn out not to be the case and actually what we continue to provide future prosperity for our nation in exactly the way that we predict in our economic plan and in the manifesto, which he said he read so avidly, at least in respect of the bits that the Hon. Mr Bossano was responsible for writing? Well, at least we had a manifesto, Mr Speaker.

2975 He said that you do not have to be an economic guru to realise that we could not afford the £750 million, which was less than the amount that they, when they were the economic gurus, had spent in their last four years. Well, you know what? I do not believe that gurus should be the standard. I believe that the people who are wiliest, who are best able to work out who is telling them the truth, what is or is not in the best interests of our community, are the people of this nation – and by 68% they decided that what we were doing was not sowing seeds that would cause problems, but actually that we were doing the right thing for the prosperity of our nation. And Mr Bossano explained exactly why it was the right thing to invest in our future, to invest in jobs in Gibraltar, etc. Of course, what he is saying is that 68% of our electorate are easily duped – and that is a huge disrespect, not to us but to the general public and to the voters of this community.

2985 He then went on to say that the changes in the Savings Bank Act had moved away from liquidity etc. Well, Mr Speaker, Mr Bossano has dealt with issues relating to the Savings Bank today and nauseam and our analysis is different to his, as he knows, but he should recall that the debt interest that the Government had taken on in Government debentures amounted to approximately £9 million a year just being paid to pensioners in those debentures.

2990 And then he became very impassioned, talking about his obligations as Leader of the Opposition. He does that. Hon. Members opposite should not be surprised that they will see this happen once in a while – he will get very impassioned, talk about how won't shut him up etc. We have no intention of shutting him up. In fact I want to encourage him to continue in that vein, Mr Speaker. But the people of Gibraltar have been very astute indeed in the last Election. They have agreed with the analysis that I and Mr Bossano have been making about the way that we have invested this money.

3000 Mr Speaker, then he went on to say at one stage that £47 million was the amount available for borrowing, that the debt ceiling was £47 million away. He does realise, doesn't he, that that is £31 million more than the position on the day that we were elected after they had been in administration: £31 million more. He has got to at least give us credit for that. If the position was £47 million of available credit, well, it was £31 million more than they had.

And then he accused me of making sneaky commitments in letters to teachers.

3005 Hon. J J Bossano: Not overtime, I hope.

Hon. Chief Minister: Certainly not a commitment to pay teachers overtime, Mr Speaker. We only heard of that today. (Laughter)

3010 We obviously have different models of politics, Mr Speaker. I believe that telling people what you are going to do, understanding what it is that they want addressed and dealing with it in writing so that it is clear and it becomes your commitment to them is the right thing to do. They might believe in just saying something to people in the streets, trying to gain their confidence, trust and therefore their vote, and then not doing it. But not all of them, Mr Speaker.

3015 I do not think that is sneaky; I think that is the right way to do things. And neither do all of them think that that is sneaky, because I saw and I reminded him the other day ... I saw an email from Mr Reyes to the Gibraltar Darts Association promising them premises after the last election, and I did not see that in the manifesto. So I am pleased to see that other people in his party take the view we take, that things should be in writing so that the commitments are clearly recorded and that sneakiness is left to those who will not stick their colours to the mast.

3020 The Government, he said, ought to have been honest with the people of Gibraltar, to set out the fact that he says we are the opposite. Well, if there is one thing that we are it is absolutely honest with the people of Gibraltar and we will never be anything but, Mr Speaker. People are good judges of character and that is why they have put us here twice and they put him there twice. In fact, they put them there with the second lowest result in the history of politics in Gibraltar, so I think people are being very astute indeed.

3025 Then he went on to say that we are going to borrow more and that is why we have brought this Bill etc. Well, I have answered those points and I dealt with those issues in my presentation, and I have told Mr Clinton the circumstances in which we may increase the debt etc. This is not about borrowing more; this is about flexibility. Mr Bossano has explained that flexibility, not just today – Mr Bossano explained that concept in 2009 in the way that he replied to the then Chief Minister’s presentation of the Bill at the time, in 2008 at the time that he made the presentation of the Bill at the time, and in 1988 when he brought the first Borrowing Powers Bill to this House.

3035 He then went on to say that this was a fundamental aspect of our community and that we are going to saddle our community with debt. Well, we are not going to saddle our community with as much debt as we found it with, Mr Speaker. I have already demonstrated that the debt is going down.

3040 He said that we are taking a huge gamble. Well, I have been hearing that language now for the past two years. I have seen the advert with the attractive cartoon depiction of me. People did not buy it. He can go on ... I am not going to stop him saying it, he can say it for as long as he likes, but it is nonsense. It is absolute and utter nonsense. We are not going to mortgage our future. The only mortgage I would advise the people of Gibraltar to enter into is one for a very long period of time at a very low interest rate if it was in the interest of Gibraltar to reschedule its debt in that way.

3045 He said he would not be silenced or sit idly by. Well, I would be apoplectic if he did not continue to make his case as he has been doing so, because I then would find it much harder for us to persuade people as successfully as we have of why we are doing things right and they are not.

3050 Mr Speaker, I think that has dealt with all of the points that hon. Members opposite have made. I do think that there is a need for me to say much else, but I would just deal with this point. The net debt of Gibraltar today has been reached on the basis of us delivering everything that we promised to deliver in 2011. It has not yet been a hundred days since the last Election – in fact, it has been 98 days since the last Election. We are already moving to deliver on our new manifesto. But what they did not do at the last Election, and I put it to them that they will have to do at some stage, is that if they are against the level of the net debt today, if they say it is all too high they need to tell us – beyond No. 6 Convent Place, which is the project they do not like – which of the things we have done that they would not have done. Would they not have employed the 47 new teachers, although they believe teachers should even have overtime, let alone not be on permanent supply? Would they not have made the repairs to the affordable estates that were occasioned as a result of the works done whilst they were in office? Would they not have repaired the MOD properties that were in such a terrible state of disrepair? Would they not have built more affordable homes, although now they chase us on how they are being allocated? Would they not have increased the public sector by one individual? Although they chase us to do more about tobacco, don’t they support the 60 new Customs officers? Given 3055 that they want us to fill all the vacancies in the Civil Service, surely they must believe that we need to be spending more in recurrent expenditure if that is what they are encouraging to do.
3060 Or is it that they want us to pay overtime to teachers and have 17 full-time IT technicians in the schools? Because, when they are making those points they do realise they are urging us to spend more, don't they?
3065

3070 Mr Speaker, I am very comfortable in the skin of the Chief Minister who has led this community to the prosperity that it enjoys today after the great four years that we have experienced of our economic management, I am very comfortable with the work that we have done with the money that has been put at our disposal by the hard work of this community, which has produced the recurrent revenue that we have today, and I have heard nothing, 3075 Mr Speaker, in any of the speeches of hon. Members opposite to persuade me to do anything other than to commend the Bill to the House. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008 be read a second time.

3080 Those in favour? (Several Members: Aye.) Those against? (Some Members: No.) Carried by Government majority.

Clerk: The Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2016.

3085

Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today, if all hon. Members agree.

3090 Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
First Reading approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Parliament Act.

3095 Mr Speaker: Before we proceed, before I call upon the Chief Minister, I should inform hon. Members that I have received a letter from the Chief Minister certifying that under the provisions of section 35(3) of the Constitution the time required for consideration of this Bill should be abridged (Hon. D A Feetham: Why?) on the grounds of its urgency. The Chief Minister considers this to be an urgent Bill. No doubt he will explain in more detail in the course of his moving of the Bill why that is the case.

3100 The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Parliament Act be read a first time.

3105 Mr Speaker: I will put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Parliament Act be read a first time.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against?

3110 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill now be read a second time.

Mr Speaker –

Mr Speaker: Hang on a moment. Carried.

Parliament (Amendment) Act –
Second Reading approved

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill now 3115 be read a second time.

Mr Speaker, I have heard what the hon. Gentleman has said during his earlier intervention in respect of the Select Committee in respect of this issue. He also usefully read the House – and given the hour, I am not going to repeat – what it was that the Select Committee recommended should be the case after the General Election ... (Interjection) the Commission on Reform had 3120 recommended.

Mr Speaker, many things that that Commission recommended have been done, even though the Select Committee has not reported. In this instance, I have had indications that this is a Bill designed to do the new Members opposite out of something, and I hope I will be able to demonstrate to them that it is actually quite the opposite. It is a Bill designed to protect hon.
3125 Members for the following reason.

The new schemes which are applicable to members of the Civil Service joining after 1st January 2012 are contributory schemes. In other words, you start to contribute from the moment that you join the Civil Service and you create a pot for yourself which then you are able to contribute more or less to etc. The old scheme is a non-contributory scheme, so under the old 3130 scheme there is no contribution in the Civil Service but you have a final salary at the end.

That is not exactly the position for Members of this House. Members of this House, under the old scheme, must do 90 months before they are able to qualify for a pension. In other words, if you do 89 months you do not qualify for a pension. If any of the hon. Members opposite who are new Members were to decide not to stand at the next election, no pension. If they stand at 3135 the next election and they become Ministers or they continue to become Members who are in opposition, and whoever is the Chief Minister calls the election on the 89th month – and that does not have to mean a very great shortening of the period – no pension, and if they then decide not to continue or they are not elected, no pension. They have done almost eight years here and no pension.

That is not a fanciful position. There is one particular individual, who was a Member for Parliament with the GSD – he was a Minister from 1996 to the early 2000s – who misses out on a pension, as presently structured, by a month or two, right? That is something which should be looked at; it has happened to others in the past. But essentially ... Some people say the rule should be two terms, or not 90 months, because 90 months is two terms, and then if a Chief 3145 Minister decides to call it earlier, well, you have done two terms and you should not suffer because a Chief Minister has called an election earlier.

Today, the hon. Gentleman read out that the recommendation was that after the election of 2015 the new scheme should have been in place and the Select Committee, which was supposed to report in six months, has taken two years to report and has not reported yet and nobody has 3150 put in place any reporting for anybody to give us advice on salaries or pensions.

Today, hon. Members will have been Members of this House for two and a half months, or three months, since the ceremonial opening. What this Bill will do, and I want them to understand it and why it is urgent is that they will be able to contribute immediately – in my view, from the date of the election – towards their pots, and the Government, the Parliament, 3155 will be contributing as well from the date of their election. So, from their first salary, which I think was December, they would make the contribution – they have an option as to what that 3160 contribution should be – and the Government would make their contribution as well. In the event of them not standing again in four years or leaving earlier, their pot is their pot and they can take it. If they do eight years, their pot is their pot. If they do 12 years, 14 years, 16 years, their pot would be their pot and they would have it from now, Mr Speaker.

Should there be a decision – I cannot imagine any circumstances when this would happen – where hon. Members were to ascribe to themselves the final salary scheme, which was non-contributory, whilst denying it to the Civil Service, they would have both the final salary scheme and they would have this. I think it would be an absolute scandal if that is what they proposed to do, because you could have as many pensions as you like – this is a contributory scheme and I think it would be an absolute scandal. But given that it would be an absolute scandal, and I am sure that politically they see it would be an absolute scandal for them to try and get for themselves that which they, when they were in Government, stopped for the Civil Service ... and therefore, as we are moving to a contributory scheme, we have to allow them the possibility of moving to it as soon as possible. And therefore, if they decide, lo Bueno que soy, if they decide not to stand again, they have got four years in their pot, if they continue they have got as many years as they like, and it is now quick and soon enough that the Government will go back and make the contributions from their first salary, from December. Right, Mr Speaker.

3175 I have seen that the hon. private Member has put a motion proposing that we deal with this and that we once again outsource this, in the terms of the Commission, to third parties. That, Mr Speaker, is an issue we are going to deal with dealing with that motion. We think it is an issue for the Select Committee. We agree that the Select Committee should make that recommendation, it should come to Parliament and it should happen. If that body – whichever body it may be, whoever it may be made up of – recommends something different, it is very easy for hon. Members to be given an enhancement or to be given a reduction, or whatever it is that that body provides for. But if we do not move now to enable them to make the contribution and to have the offer made to them ... They do not have to do this, it is completely voluntary. The Chief Secretary will make them the offer – probably the Clerk, in the case of Members, but the Chief Secretary or the Clerk will make the offer. They can then enter the contributory scheme, they can start contributing and the Government will go back and contribute from their December salary.

3180 The alternative, Mr Speaker, is that they are without a contributory scheme because there is no provision to offer them a contributory scheme, and they are without the final salary scheme, because there is no question of the Government agreeing to extend to them the final salary scheme, especially given the recommendations of the Commission, which were public, especially given the fact that the final salary scheme is something that they stopped for all new entrants to the public sector. But if they want to make that case, they can still make it despite this; this just protects them and gives them the opportunity of making contributions from now, with contributions from the Government also from the date of their first salary package.

3195 And so, Mr Speaker, for all those altruistic reasons by which I look out for the five new Members of this House in my obligations as Leader of this House to do so, I commend the Bill to the House.

3200 Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of this Bill? Yes.

3205 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Passing unilateral laws that are carefully designed to only affect one side of the House does make me very nervous, and it makes me wonder whether this is the beginning of the end of democracy. This is not about me and my pension rights or the different element of a pension. This is about the fact that the Government has come up with a scheme and designed a scheme that is only affecting one side.

I would like to know why exactly October 2015. Why not back to 2011 or 2007? How come only as from the newcomers that were only on the GSD side? It makes me worry because this 3210 new Bill seems designed only to affect one opposing party, and it is reminiscent of that part in George Orwell's Animal Farm:

All animals are equal but some animals are more equal than others.

I urge, Mr Picardo, that you reconsider this terribly unjust Bill because it is retrospective and you are the party that set up the Ministry for Equality. To me, this goes against equal opportunities values, and I urge you to live up to those values. (Banging on desks) 3215 Mr Speaker: The Hon. Mr Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, having worked in the private sector for many years, in fact all my life, I am only too aware of the cost of final salary pension schemes, which are now becoming practically ... very hard to find in the private sector because of the cost.

3220 Having seen this Bill, again I fail to understand the urgency for this Bill, because this can go to the Select Committee and the Select Committee can issue their recommendations. What I find hard to understand is why the Members opposite, or in fact the other Members of the House who were previously elected, should be allowed to retain their non-contributory final salary scheme to the detriment to those of us who are new to this House. If the principle is it is not fair because the civil servants no longer have access to this, well, fine, Mr Speaker, we should abolish it for the whole House and not for the new five Members. Maybe that is something for the Select Committee to consider.

3225 Furthermore, without wanting to embarrass any Members of this House, I understand that it is the practice that Members who are over 55 may cash out their pensions at the end of any parliamentary period, which, to be honest, I was very surprised about this. Perhaps those who have cashed out should be on the new scheme and not on the old scheme.

3230 Again, Mr Speaker, I feel that these are things perhaps left to the Select Committee to consider on a non-partisan basis, because at the end of the day, as I keep on saying, we are servants of the people.

3235 Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, when I came to consider last week about our position in relation to the constitutional one and the formation of the Select Committee on Constitutional Reform, what the Government is actually doing here, actually it did play on my mind in terms of our approach to that, because here you have a Select Committee on Parliamentary Reform that has been set up, and we were assured, in 2013 I think it was when the hon. Gentleman brought the motion to the House, that the recommendations of the Independent Commission would be considered by the Select Committee, the Select Committee of this House would then make recommendations, and that it would not be a unilateral decision by the Government of the day as to which ones they implemented and which ones they did not.

3240 The hon. Gentleman has, during the course of an earlier intervention and this intervention, spoken about some of the measures that were implemented without regard to the Select Committee. But actually, when you read that debate you will see that we were in favour of the televising of Parliament, we were in favour of the monthly meetings of Parliament. But in relation to the other recommendations that were being made by the Independent Commission it was quite clear that the hon. Gentleman gave a commitment to this House and to those Members of that Select Committee that he would not go it alone and that it would be discussed within the Select Committee and that he would allow the Select Committee to make a recommendation – that does not mean that we have a right of veto; of course not, because they have got a majority in the Select Committee – but what he would not do was precisely what he is doing now, and that is why I am sceptical about assurances that the hon. Gentleman makes and gives me in relation to the motion on the constitutional reform. Look at how he is behaving in relation to this.

3255

3260 Mr Speaker, it is all very well for the hon. Gentleman to come to this House almost like a financial adviser saying, 'But you're all going to be better off,' but it is not affecting him, it is not affecting the Members on that side of the House, it is not affecting me. Yes, it is not affecting me and it is not affecting Mr Reyes, but it is not affecting them. They are the movers of this particular Bill. It is not affecting them and – rightly, as Mr Clinton has pointed out – it is also not 3265 affecting those on that side of the House, one of whom was very vigorously bashing on the table, who have cashed in their pensions.

Mr Speaker, I can now start the restart of the clock in terms of the future. It does not affect them. It does not affect them, but it affects five new Members on this side of the House who are now going to have their pension rights affected retrospectively.

3270 I also remind the hon. Gentleman of the answers that he gave in Parliament, I think it was last week, and I just wonder how far the answer that he gave me last week had played a part in him certifying that this Bill is urgent. Because last week – and when he was answering the question the penny had not dropped, but it dropped afterwards – last week what he said was that in relation to the 47 teachers who were on supply and had this claim at this Election ... They were 3275 taken on ... so that people who are listening understand it, 47 supply teachers that they took on, post the 2011 Election, and in relation to those 47 school teachers, who were placed on the contributory pension scheme, even though some of them, as he rightly pointed out, had already started on supply, I think he said, three months before the Election – three months before the election, Mr Speaker, that is the time limit that he used – and there was a claim that was made
3280 on behalf of those 47 and he took the view, 'Well, actually, because they started before the General Election, albeit some of them only three months, we do not want to affect their rights retrospectively and we think they should have the same acquired rights' – because they were not changing their rights retrospectively, because they were supply teachers, but anyway, they should have the same rights as those who had come into the Civil Service prior to 2011.

3285 Well, Mr Speaker, my five colleagues, who all do not want the Hon. Member – it does not matter what advice the hon. Gentleman comes to this House with – do not want to have their rights and pension rights affected retrospectively, they are in exactly the same position, because they were elected in November, and lo and behold this Government comes to this House with a Bill in March.

3290 Mr Speaker, I urge him – for the sake of attempting to have that constructive relationship between the Opposition and the Government in relation to not only the Select Committee and the work of the Select Committee on Parliamentary Reform, but others – show us that the hon. Gentleman is capable of at the very least being fair in relation to this. He is not being fair in the light of what he told this House, in the light of the assurances that were given to me when I 3295 formed part of the Select Committee in 2013, when I was part of the Select Committee in 2013, that he was not going to unilaterally be making decisions outside that Select Committee.

And you know, Mr Speaker, my five colleagues, who obviously feel uncomfortable with the situation because they are advocates in their own cause, because it affects them ... It is quite understandable that the hon. Gentleman is placing them in that situation, but it is not right that 3300 the hon. Gentleman should use the power that is vested in him as Chief Minister of Gibraltar, backed by a Government, to affect retrospectively, and affect the rights of just simply five Members of the Opposition.

If he were to just amend this Bill and for this Bill to say 'this part does not apply to a person who after the 31st December 2015 has become an elected Member' instead of October 2015, 3305 well then anyone who stands for election next time round knows that this is the law and that therefore their pension rights are going to be determined in accordance with the law. But what he is attempting to do is, after people have been elected, is affecting their rights retrospectively.

Mr Speaker, I have gone on for too long, but I just ... I do not hold my breath that I will be able to appeal to the hon. Gentleman's sense of fairness, because as I say, nothing that I can say 3310 is ever going to persuade the hon. Gentleman. But if he does not want to take my views on board as to why we are voting against it, well maybe the hon. Gentleman will listen to the hon. Lady's impassioned speech as to why hon. Members ought not to proceed in the way that they are proceeding.

3315 Mr Speaker: The Hon. Elliott Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Just to add to the Leader of the Opposition's comments in relation to the amendment, I understand from the amendment to the Act that that would also remove and dis-apply directly those provisions that deal with death in service under section 97-98 of the current Parliament Act. It would be helpful if the Chief Minister could also confirm the position in relation to that.

3320

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak on the Second Reading?

Hon. R M Clinton: Just as an afterthought, Mr Speaker –

3325

Mr Speaker: You have spoken already.

Hon. R M Clinton: Oh, sorry, my apologies.

3330 Mr Speaker: In committee, you are able to rise again on a particular clause; not on the whole thing, but you are able to speak on each clause separately.

Does any other hon. Member wish to speak?

I call on the Hon. the Chief Minister to reply.

3335 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I really do not believe my ears. First of all I am accused of passing unilateral laws. Well, I do not know what a unilateral law is. I may have just passed one because they did not support the Public Finance Bill, but that was not referred to as a unilateral law. I forget which are the other ones they have not voted in favour of – are they all unilateral laws?

3340 Mr Speaker, this is a serious place where we have to put serious arguments. It is not about Animal Farm and all animals being created equal; it is about the policy of their party. The hon. Lady seems to forget that the most trenchant advocate against the final salary scheme is no longer here: it was Peter Caruana. He was the one who said that the final salary scheme was a noose around the neck of Gibraltar, and that it was ended as from 1st January 2012 and closed for good.

3345

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): A ticking time bomb.

3350 Hon. Chief Minister: A ticking time bomb, he used to say it was.

All we have done is ensure that those who were employed before that date continue to have the benefit of that scheme. This is not a Bill that affects only one side; this Bill could affect anybody who is elected with us in the future.

3355 The fact is that hon. Members have got up and have completely ignored what I have told them. Look, it is very simple. Let me explain it to them again. We will have a Select Committee. The Select Committee, not this House when it deals with a motion, will appoint that independent review. They can make whatever submissions they want in that independent review. If they are able to persuade the independent review to recommend that they should have the final salary scheme, and then that is accepted by the Committee or by the Parliament, they can have the final salary scheme, because they do not have to contribute anything to the final salary scheme. All we would need to do is amend the law, because that would be the recommendation of the Committee. If we do not do this apparently unilateral law today, and whoever it is that we appoint does not say that they should have the final salary scheme, where are they? What are they left with? Say that takes three years, what are they left with? They have to go into the contributory scheme then. Are they going to make up the payments for three years then? Are they going to then continue to pay? Mr Speaker, it is very simple: they can have their money back after three years, if that is what is recommended, and they can go on the final salary scheme. I really do not see what they have worked themselves up into a frenzy over. All I am doing is giving them the opportunity – they do not have to take it, by the way; it is the opportunity – to enter into a contributory scheme today. Should they ever win Government, should they ever persuade an independent body that this is the right way to go, then they can have their final salary scheme and they can either ... In fact, I was wrong. They can either have their money back or they can continue with a contributory scheme as well, if they like, because a contributory scheme is a pot. I think the Government would stop contributing, because if the Government is contributing and also giving them final salary it would be too much, but they could continue to put 8% into a pot, if they wish.

3360

We are not doing away with anything that they have, Mr Speaker. Or is it that they do not realise that they do not have a pension at the moment? No one who has been elected at the last Election, or even at the former election, has yet got a pension. They have to do the 90 months. This gives them an opportunity to have a contributory pension. Yes, it does. The hon. Lady is shaking her head. This gives them an opportunity to have a contributory pension as from today, and if it is determined that they should have a final salary non-contributory pension in the future, they can have that as well and they can take the money out of the pot –

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: It is not about the money.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, if it is not about the money I do not understand what it is about.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: It is about equality.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, if it is about equality she is sitting with the wrong party, (Laughter) and I will tell her why: because we did not stop the final salary scheme. We have now got civil servants working next to other civil servants who are not on equality (Hon. J J Bossano: Exactly.) because of their policy to get rid of the final salary scheme. So you have got civil servants making contributions to a defined contribution scheme next to civil servants on a final salary scheme – because of GSD policy implemented by the GSD.

What we did was we said it would be unfair for somebody employed before that bit to not have the benefit of the final salary scheme. The final salary scheme has gone, and whilst we are in Government they will not persuade us that they should have extended to themselves the benefit of a non-contributory final salary scheme which they have taken away from civil servants (Hon. J J Bossano: Exactly.) and which their former leader described as a ticking time bomb and as a noose round the neck of Gibraltarians. But if they are able to persuade an independent body that they should have it, it is very easy, because then you take your money out of this pot – whatever you have put in you can have back – and you can have your final salary scheme.

The alternative is very dangerous, Mr Speaker. They do not want to hear me, but the alternative, they need to understand, is very dangerous. If in four years' time the issue has not been resolved, they will walk out of this place, if they lose their seats, without a penny. This gives them a different sort of opportunity. (Interjection by Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon) If they, in the future, are able to persuade a body that they should have the final salary scheme, they can have it, but this creates a prejudice to them by not extending the right to them today. They do not seem to agree, Mr Speaker. We seem not to be able to agree on anything today; I suppose that is why we sit with different sides.

3415 This is not about us imposing anything. Nothing could be easier, I believe, for them to understand if they had an open mind about why this is happening, but they have come here with a prejudice. They have come convinced that we are here to do them (Interjection by Ms M D Hassan Nahon) something which is a damage, and this is far from a damage. This is an advantage that we are creating for them. They will have the ability – (Interjection by Ms M D Hassan Nahon) Mr Speaker, it is not usual to be heckled from a sedentary position. The hon. Lady needs to keep her wits about her. This is not going to do her out of a penny. She needs to keep her wits about her and listen to my explanations.

3420 Mr Speaker, the Hon. Mr Clinton said when he put his first motion that he did not know – (Hon. D A Feetham: Disgusting.) The Hon. Mr Feetham is saying from a sedentary position that what I am doing, in giving them the same opportunities that they decided should be the opportunities given to civil servants, is disgusting. Well, they might like to explain that to the new civil servants.

3425 Mr Speaker, the Hon. Mr Clinton said, when he put his first motion, that he did not know how much he was going to earn as a Member of Parliament. I believe him: neither did I – when I became a Member of Parliament I became a Member of Parliament because I am here to serve the people of Gibraltar at whatever cost, and that is what we are here to do. But suddenly, 3430 although he did not know how much he was going to earn, he wants to hang on for dear life to the final salary pension scheme. That, to me, is very surprising indeed, Mr Speaker. It is a complete contradiction in terms.

3435 He talks about people who are over 55 who have commuted. He might care to hear me tell him that the push for commutations for people who are beyond 55 has not come from anybody on these benches. He might be surprised to hear that the person who has had the greatest desire to receive a commutation from Credit Finance Company Ltd, which is the company that does the commutations – and if he does not know that, he needs to go back and read all the Hansards, where we explained how they work, Mr Speaker – was the Knight known as the greatest Gibraltarian of all time. (Laughter) He is the post-55-year-old who has wanted a 3440 commutation. It has been foisted on another one, who did not want it. (Laughter)

3445 So that point – No, I do not have any intention whatsoever of giving way at nine o'clock in the evening when I am giving my explanations, Mr Speaker. So that point is not a point that he has in order to make any valid reference against what the Government is doing. Actually, the Government is offering commutations to anybody who qualifies, and the request to qualify has been by a Member who was opposite.

3450 Mr Speaker, of course there will be a non-partisan decision as to what happens when the committee, or whatever is set up to look at salaries ... and when they make that decision the only prejudice that hon. Members opposite will have suffered is that they will have paid into a moneybox. And let me be clear again: if the decision is that they should have the final salary scheme, or any other scheme, they have their moneybox back and they are put in the position that they would have been in. The alternative is that they are then told three, five or six years down the line, 'You have now got to come up with six years of contributions if you want to have all your period of service considered.'

3455 So, Mr Speaker, frankly, when the hon. Gentleman got up and said all of the things that he has said, it was absolute nonsense, designed to try and play to what they must have believed this law was about rather than to the logic that we have presented to them is the reality of what this law is about. But let me be very clear: all that is going to happen is that they are going to be offered this product, and if they do not want it they do not take it. They do not have to pay anything in and they can take their chances and wait to see whether they persuade those who 3460 are coming to advise us independently, when they come, that they should have the other scheme. No problem. They do not have to pay into the moneybox, they can leave the moneybox empty; it is up to them. That is all that this does: it creates that opportunity. It deprives them of nothing, Mr Speaker. But look, if they want to raise this issue to the level of whether this is equality or not equality, rights to pensions, when they might all walk out of here without any 3465 pension – and, Mr Speaker, if they continue to perform as they are doing today I doubt whether any of them will be afforded the privilege by the people of Gibraltar of doing 90 months in this place – it is a matter entirely for them.

Finally, Mr Speaker, the issue of death in service is not one which I believe is affected by this. I believe there is an insurance policy that deals with death in service with everybody who is on a public emolument.

Mr Speaker, I therefore commend the Bill to the House.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Parliament Act be read a second time. Those in favour? (Several Members: Aye) Those against? (Several Members: No.) Carried by Government majority.

Clerk: The Parliament (Amendment) Act 2016.

3480

Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today, if all hon. Members agree.

Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
First Reading approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Friendly Societies Act.
The Hon. the Minister for Financial Services and Gaming.

Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Friendly Societies Act be read a first time.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Friendly Societies Act be read a first time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Friendly Societies (Amendment) Act 2016.

Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Second Reading approved

Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill for the Friendly Societies (Amendment) Act 2016 be read a second time.

This Bill delivers yet another commitment from our election manifesto to continue to develop services for cancer patients and survivors as it would be of primary benefit to the Cancer Relief Society.

3500 We are currently working with the Society for the provision of hospice services by that charity at the Cancer Relief Centre. The Society views its current structure as unsuitable for the provision of such services and is keen to restructure as a private limited company and to transfer all its engagements to that company.

3505 This Bill amends the Friendly Societies Act so as to allow a society registered under the Act to transfer its engagements to a company or to convert into a company, subject to the fulfilment of certain conditions. In particular, the Registrar of Friendly Societies must confirm the transfer or conversion in order for it to take effect.

3510 The Registrar of Friendly Societies also has a residual power to give a direction requiring a registered society to transfer all or some of its engagements to a company, mainly in the interest of its members. The main conditions which the Society are required to fulfil prior to a transfer or conversion are set out in the new schedule 5, which sets out the information that a registered society needs to give votes to its members and the Registrar.

Finally, Mr Speaker, the new sections do not apply to any engagements relating to the carrying on of insurance business as defined in the Financial Services (Insurance Companies) Act.

3515 Mr Speaker, I commend the Bill to the House.

Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the principles and merits of this Bill?

The Hon. Mr Edwin Reyes.

3520 Hon. E J Reyes: If I may, Mr Speaker, just very briefly to say that this side of the House will be supporting the Bill, for the obvious reasons that the Hon. Minister has just highlighted, and we can at least in the notes here, say that we will be unanimous in continuing to offer our undivided support to Cancer Relief Gibraltar.

3525 Mr Speaker: Any other hon. Members?

I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Friendly Societies Act be read a second time.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against. Carried.

3530 Clerk: The Friendly Societies (Amendment) Act 2016.

Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting 3535 Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today, if all hon. Members agree.

Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 –
First Reading approved

3540 Clerk: A Bill for an Act to make provision for and to consolidate, revise and re-enact the laws on pilotage and for connected purposes.

The Hon. the Minister for Financial Services and Gaming.

3545 Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to make provision for and to consolidate, revise and re-enact the laws on pilotage and for connected purposes be read a first time.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to make provision for and to consolidate, revise and re-enact the laws on pilotage and for connected purposes be read a first time.

3550 Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Gibraltar Pilotage Act 2016.

Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 –
Second Reading approved

3555 Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill for the Gibraltar Pilotage Act 2016 be read a second time.

This Bill is an important piece of legislation for the Gibraltar Port Authority that seeks to streamline the pilotage services in port waters.

3560 The Bill updates and modernises very old outdated and obsolete provisions for pilotage service in the existing legislation.

The Bill also introduces endorsement of pilots by way of authorisation or licence granted to them by the Captain of the Port and also provides for pilotage exemption certificates to a master or a chief mate of a ship if the Captain of the Port is satisfied that his skill, experience and local knowledge is sufficient for piloting any ship within our waters.

3565 Further, Mr Speaker, the Bill sets out required qualifications for people to be authorised or licensed for pilotage services. Basically, both authorised pilots and licensed pilots have to have the same qualifications but the authorisation and licensing procedures are slightly different.

3570 The Bill also introduces the Pilotage Committee, headed by the Deputy Captain of the Port, which Committee holds inquiries into the conduct of authorised pilots and licensed pilots and submits its findings and recommendations to the Captain of the Port. The Pilotage Committee is also tasked to oversee training of personnel engaged in the pilotage service and to investigate and advise the Captain of the Port on matters referred to it.

3575 The Bill allows the Minister to make regulation for various purposes, including determining additional qualifications for pilots, to fix the rate of payment of charges to be paid to authorised pilots and licensed, and to regulate the quantum of pilotage fees.

The Bill amends the Merchant Shipping Act by way of repealing part 9, sections 180 to 2003, and the end result is that a standalone piece of legislation dealing with all aspects of pilotage will be implemented for Gibraltar British Territorial Waters.

3580 Mr Speaker, I commend the Bill to the House.

Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the merits and principles of this Bill?

3585 I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to make provision for and to consolidate, revise and re-enact the laws on pilotage and for connected purposes be read a second time.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Gibraltar Pilotage Act 2016.

Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

3590 Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

COMMITTEE STAGE

Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015;
Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016;
Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016;
Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016;
Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016;
Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016

Clerk: Committee Stage and Third Reading. The Hon. the Chief Minister.

3595 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the House should resolve itself into Committee to consider the following Bills clause by clause: the Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015; the Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016; the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016; the Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016; the Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016; and the Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016.

In Committee of the whole Parliament

Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015 –
Clauses considered and approved

3600 Clerk: A Bill for an Act to appropriate further sums of money to the service of the year ended the 31st day of March 2015.
Clause 1.

3605 Mr Chairman: Notice has been given of an amendment to substitute '2016' for '2015'.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, we are happy to take any letters that have been lodged as effectively proposing the amendments, rather than the hon. Gentleman having to read them out.

3610 Mr Chairman: Yes, I am going to take it that all amendments have been circulated. Unless hon. Members of the Opposition tell me to the contrary, I will accept them and we will incorporate them on that basis into the necessary clause.

3615 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): This Bill will suffer no amendment other than the change of date.

Mr Chairman: Well, just that: 2016 instead of 2015. So, clause 1 as amended stands part of the Bill.

3620 Clerk: Clause 2.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: The schedule.

3625

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

3630

Mr Chairman: The long title. Stands part of the Bill.

Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Clauses considered and approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Gibraltar Savings Bank Act.
Clauses 1 and 2.

3635

Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 3 as amended.

3640

Mr Chairman: Clause 3 as amended stands part of the Bill.
The Hon. Mr Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker –

3645

Mr Chairman: You may be seated and address the Chairman.

Hon. R M Clinton: Chairman, okay.

Mr Chairman, before we go through every single clause I just have an observation, on reading the Savings Bank Act, that maybe the Members opposite may want to consider, and that is with the main amendment to the Savings Bank Act there is the provision where the Minister will be the Minister of the Savings Bank. But if they look at clause 8 – and they may or may not have considered this – where the guarantee is given by the Government for the money in the Savings Bank, there is a clause that says:

3650

if at any time or times the assets of the Savings Bank shall be insufficient to pay the lawful claims of every depositor, the Minister shall cause such deficiency to be met out of the Consolidated Fund, and the Financial Secretary shall certify such deficiency to the Minister without delay.

3655

Obviously, if he is not the Minister for Public Finance he may not have the power to do that. I wonder whether Members opposite will want to change the word ‘Minister’, or say ‘Minister for Public Finance’ or something else.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Chairman, just dealing with that point, I do not think it is necessary to make the amendment, because I think the Minister, whether he is the Minister for Public Finance or whether he is the Minister for the Savings Bank or otherwise, does not have the ability to simply engage spending on his own. He engages spending as part of a Council of Ministers and all spending eventually ends up here, so it really is the Government that does the spending. The Minister is the instrument through which the Government is engaged. Therefore, I genuinely do not believe that that is a necessary change. The Minister for the Savings Bank would simply be the one that presents the case to the Council of Ministers for a Bill to be

3660

3665

3670 published for an appropriation for that purpose, or in effect for the Appropriation Bill to deal with that issue in that particular year if there were that shortfall. On the basis of collective responsibility, that is the way that it would be handled, so I do not ... The hon. Member should not think that the Minister for Public Finance is simply the man who has the cheque book, and that if you move away from the Minister for Public Finance then the cheque book moves into somebody else's hands – or rather he has the responsibility but he does not have the cheque book. That is not the way it works. It works on the basis of the Council of Ministers having to engage that payment. Neither the Minister for Public Finance nor the Minister for the Savings 3675 Bank on their own would engage that. That is why the language is 'would cause to' and the cause would be to cause the Government to do it through the instrument of the Council of Ministers publication of appropriation etc.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Chairman, thank you.

3680 I will obviously defer to the hon. Member's reading of the clause as it would stand when the Minister for the Savings Bank becomes the Minister responsible. Again, it was just an observation.

Thank you.

3685 Clerk: Clause 3 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Clause 3 as amended stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

3690

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016 –
Clauses considered and approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Act 2008.
Clauses 1 to 2.

3695 Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 3 as amended.

3700 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Chairman, I do not seem to have a copy of that. Not the Savings Bank one. This is the Borrowing Powers.

Mr Chairman: Do you have it?

3705 Hon. D A Feetham: Sorry, we have not seen the amendment.

Mr Chairman: You have not seen it?

Hon. D A Feetham: No, we have not seen it.

3710 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Chairman, I was trying to find my copy of the Borrowing Powers Act. I seem to have misplaced ... Ah, found it.

The change in definition seems to be to aggregate public debt not net public debt. I just wonder why that would be the case and you would not want it in the net public debt.

3715 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano):
Well, Mr Speaker, I think the hon. Member was informed that we had already in the pipeline considered a possible change as he was suggesting, but that it was not exactly the same as he was saying. In fact, we feel it is more appropriate that when the money is put into the sinking fund it does not simply affect the net debt but it affects both the net and the aggregate, because 3720 there is no logic saying it affects one and not the other. By reducing the aggregate, automatically it reduces the net.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Chairman, I understand his point.

3725 Clerk: Clause 3 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

3730

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Clauses considered and approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Parliament Act.
Clauses 1 to 3.

3735 Mr Chairman: This is the Parliament Act.

Hon. D A Feetham: This is the Parliament Act? Mr Chairman, are we on the Parliament Act?

Mr Chairman: Yes, we are.

3740

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Chairman. Perhaps the hon. Gentleman can clarify this point that has occurred to me. I alluded to it during the course of my own speech, but it has crystallised in my mind as I was listening to the Hon. the Chief Minister.

3745 Can he explain what is the difference between somebody who becomes an elected Member and therefore he takes the view that should not be subject to the final salary pension scheme, just as civil servants are not subject to the final salary pension scheme if they joined after 2011, and a situation where someone, a Member of this House – let's put it neutrally; it does not have to be a Member of the Government, although I think that it does affect Members of his Government – has cashed in their pension because they have had the entirety of their pension
3750 paid, commuted, and therefore, as I understand it ... I may be wrong, but as I understand it the time for qualification for a further pension begins to run again, so therefore they have got to serve two terms before they qualify for a pension again. Surely they are in exactly the same position as the new Members of Parliament who are effectively having to qualify, and in relation to that aspect of people within the Government they should also be subject to the contributory 3755 not the final pension scheme, Mr Speaker.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, he is wrong in the interpretation. What happens is that the maximum that a Member can accumulate is 20 years and the threshold is eight. So anybody who has got a day less than eight gets nothing – as was the case with the Civil Service, except that in the case of the Civil Service the minimum was 10 – and anybody who does more than 20 – (Mr Chairman: Twenty eight.) The maximum is 28 years?

Mr Chairman: Twenty eight years of reckonable service.

Hon. J J Bossano: Well, 28 years, and anybody who has more than 28, even if he comes back, does not start with a new one. Otherwise, I should now be collecting my third pension, given that I am in the 44th year. (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham and laughter)

What happens is that a Member who has got a pension ... For example, when this issue was first raised ... When I left the office of Government in 1996 I already had 24 years' service and I was 57. Nobody at that time had suggested that you could actually collect your pension and come back. Nobody had suggested it before 1996, or since 1996 until 2011 when the GSD lost Government. The then leader of the GSD raised the issue of being able to collect it and then come back and count the years after, which in fact he did and which I was told applied to me as well, although I had not asked for it and I found it very odd that if it applied to me then they owed me back money going back to 1996, but I did not make a claim.

So what happens is that the accumulated years get reconsidered and revalued in the same way that a civil servant who has had a break in service ... before, the break in service would have meant that he would have to start from scratch again. That was changed by the GSD, and I think rightly so, and there were people who had more years than somebody else but got a smaller pension because there was a gap. In some cases the gap was that they had been a week out of the service. They had finished in one week and had come back one week later, and although before that week and after that week together they had many more years, they were getting a smaller pension and were entitled to a smaller pension. The Government allowed the Civil Service Pension Scheme, by amending the Pensions Act, to provide for people to be able to, if there was service before a date and after a date, to put the two periods together in order to maximise what they were entitled to.

That is what happens when there is a situation where somebody has left Parliament and come back later. The same provisions were applied to the parliamentary pension, and when somebody comes back after an election, whatever they maybe have being collected, the next time they leave the Parliament, if their entitlement as a result of doing more years is higher than the one they got before, they are entitled to the difference.

In my case, obviously there is no way I can increase the years because I have already got too many. (Laughter)

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, but of course I understand it in his case because he has reached the 28 years, but you could conceivably ... I do not know what the personal circumstances of Members opposite, but you could have a situation where there are Members of the Government who have commuted their pensions. It is legislation that they introduced, that applies to parliamentarians, that they could commute and then the clock starts all over again and they are in exactly the same position as effectively people who have got elected to Parliament. For pension purposes that must be true, that must be the reality, because the clock starts ticking again and they are not entitled to anything unless they serve eight years. That is the ...

Hon. J J Bossano: Mr Chairman, the explanation I have given the hon. Member is, for example, when this issue was raised by the former leader of the GSD for the first time since I joined the House, I thought it was the wrong interpretation. It went to the Principal Auditor and 3810 the Principal Auditor said he was right and that I was wrong, and then what happened was that he commuted 25% of his pension but he was able to continue clocking up service when he got re-elected into the Opposition. That is what happened, and it happened on an issue where the initiator of that policy was the GSD, not us.

Mr Chairman: May I remind hon. Members that a Bill came to Parliament (Hon. J J Bossano: 3815 Yes.) in February last year to give effect to 100% commutation.

Hon. J J Bossano: I know, but the point about the continuing service is relevant whether it is 25% ... Look, the 100% commutation is the maximum that you can take. It is not that everybody is required to take it. Within the Civil Service, in fact, the average take-up is 45%. Most people do 3820 not take the 100%.

So what I am telling the Member is that it is not that if you take the commutation and if, for example, he were to find that there was evidence through opinion polls that the GSD would stand a better chance of being elected if its former leader came back, then the former leader could come back, stand for election and get elected, but he would not then start counting a new 3825 pension from zero and have to do eight years minimum. Every month after he came back would mean that what he got previously would be recalculated at the end of the second term.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): But the amounts that he had taken would be deducted.

3830 Hon. J J Bossano: But the amounts that he has already had ... He gets paid the difference. He does not get a pension every eight years – that is not what happens.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Chairman, would it not be equitable, where Members have either commuted their pensions or come back to the House, that they should be made to join the new 3835 scheme and not continue in the old scheme?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Chairman, as the hon. Gentleman is saying, when they have commuted 100% of their pensions, I assume, not if they have taken their gratuity of 25%, for example. That is not an issue which is current, in the sense that, as far as I understand it, 3840 certainly on this side of the House that situation has not arisen. It may have arisen on the other side of the House – it may have arisen in relation to somebody who is no longer there or to somebody who is there – but that is an issue that the Independent Commission can look at, and I am very happy that they should look at it and make a determination.

It is not urgent, in the sense that they have gone already and if there is anybody who is going 3845 to accrue in that way in the future so be it, but it is not as urgent as enabling them the opportunity of being able to contribute to the new scheme in the event that they wish to, to ensure that there is no period for which they are not covered.

It is something that we can certainly look at and we can look at what opinions have already been given by the Principal Auditor in that context.

3850 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Chairman, I am grateful for that contribution.

Given that he is extolling the virtues of the new scheme, I wonder if it is possible to give any indication to the Members on this side of the House what that scheme would be, because it seems to be at the complete discretion of the Chief Secretary as to what type of scheme that 3855 would be.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Chairman, I think it is the scheme that is offered to civil servants which is the scheme that would be offered to them. Now, which of those ... I think there is an option of two. This is the Committee Stage: we are looking at the detail of the words 3860 on the page. I am quite happy to facilitate a meeting with the Chief Secretary so that they can understand and deal with him on the subject of which scheme they consider to be the most advantageous and go on to most advantageous, to the superannuation scheme and others, but this is about the words on the page and those say they will be offered a scheme.

3865 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Chairman, my experience is that when you talk about pension schemes you make reference to whether they are contributory or non-contributory or a combination. This amendment to the Bill makes no reference to what type of scheme it is.

3870 Hon. Chief Minister: I am sorry, Mr Chairman, I entirely disagree. The section is absolutely clear, and if he cares to read it, it says:

89B. A person who, but for the operation of section 89A would be entitled to a pension under this Part shall be offered, by the Chief Secretary an opportunity to join such pension scheme as may be available to officers in the public service.

Those are the contributory schemes that are now available, there are no other schemes available, and they are available to members of the Civil Service and also not to members of the Civil Service – that is why it says public service. I think even members of the Civil Service or public service have an option of what scheme to join, and they should be given that option too.

3875 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Chairman, I want to also make it absolutely crystal clear that we do not disagree with the principle, even though I have to say that I would have preferred the matter to have been formally put through the Select Committee and the Select Committee would have recommended ... but it is the date. We fundamentally disagree with the situation where 3880 effectively what they are doing is, they are affecting the rights of five Members of Parliament retrospectively, all on this side of the House. If this had said 31st December we would have voted in favour of it, but not in the circumstances that it affects just simply five Members on this side of the House retrospectively, as it does.

3885 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Chairman, this is the Committee Stage and it is not for speeches on rights and how people would have voted or not voted in the Second Reading.

The fact is it gives the date it gives because that is, I think, the date of the dissolution of Parliament. That is why that date has been fixed, and he might be surprised as to how many Members on his side it might affect, given his interpretation as to commutations and what effect 3890 that should be.

But this is about the stage where we are looking at the detail of the words that are used in the legislation. I think his comment is entirely out of place in the Committee Stage and should not have been allowed, frankly.

3895 Clerk: Clauses 1 to 3.

Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

3900 Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Clauses considered and approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Friendly Societies Act.

Clauses 1 and 2.

3905 Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 –
Clauses considered and approved

3910 Clerk: A Bill for an Act to make provision for and to consolidate, revise and re-enact the laws on pilotage and for connected purposes.
Clauses 1 to 33.

Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

3915

Clerk: The long title.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

BILLS FOR THIRD READING

Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015;
Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016;
Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016;
Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016;
Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016;
Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 –
Third Reading approved: Bills passed

3920 Clerk: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to report that the Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015 as amended, the Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016, the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016, the Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016, the Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 and the Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 have been considered in Committee and agreed to with amendments, and I now move that they be read a third time and passed.

3930 Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that the Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015, the Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016, the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016, the Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016, the Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016 and the Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016 be read a third time and passed.

Those in favour of the Supplementary Appropriation (2014/2015) Bill 2015? (Several Members: Aye.) Those against? (Several Members: No.) Carried by Government Majority.

3935 Those in favour of the Gibraltar Savings Bank (Amendment) Bill 2016? (Several Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Those in favour of the Public Finance (Borrowing Powers) Bill 2016? (Several Members: Aye.) Those against? (Several Members: No.) Carried by Government majority.

3940 Those in favour of the Parliament (Amendment) Bill 2016? (Several Members: Aye.) Those against? (Several Members: No.) Carried by Government majority.

Those in favour of the Friendly Societies (Amendment) Bill 2016? (Several Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Those in favour of the Gibraltar Pilotage Bill 2016? (Several Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION

Review of Members' salaries and pensions etc. – Motion not carried

3945 Clerk: Private Member's Motion. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move the motion standing in my name, which reads as follows:

This House believes that the salaries, pensions and other benefits enjoyed by Members of Parliament should be determined by a body independent of Parliament.

3950 We seem to have been superseded by events, but nevertheless I will carry on my prepared speech. (Laughter) I do carry on, do I?

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes.

It's your penance for taking away his pension rights! (Laughter)

3955 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I bring this motion in the same spirit as that of my last motion in January, in that I am looking to Parliament as a whole to ensure best practice and transparency in governance of MPs' pay and conditions. This is not and should not be considered a partisan issue.

3960 First of all, I wish to record my thanks to the Chief Minister and the Clerk to the House in so rapidly ensuring that the parliamentary website has been updated to include full details of MPs' allowances and method of calculation going back 20 years.

3965 Mr Speaker, I am also grateful to you for having directed me to review the report presented to Parliament in January 2013 by the Commission on Democratic and Political Reform, which in turn has led me to review the minutes of Hansard of 4th June 2013, during which the Select Committee was formed.

3970 I do not intend to dwell upon the merits of my motion – they should be self-evident – but perhaps illustrate the current practice in the United Kingdom in support of my motion. In the United Kingdom the Independent Parliamentary Standards Authority (IPSA) was created by Parliament in the wake of the MPs' expenses scandal. IPSA was given the remit and powers to introduce independent regulation over MPs' business costs and expenses, and subsequently pay and conditions and pensions. On their website they state:

Our approach and rules are a clean break from the old system of self regulation by MPs and the House of Commons. The new rules are fair to MPs and the public purse, workable and, crucially, transparent – anyone can go online and see what their MP has claimed for and what they are paid.

IPSA is independent and in everything we do, we focus on our main duty: to serve the interests of the public.

The Constitutional Reform and Governance Act 2010 in the UK provided for IPSA to be given responsibility for determining MPs' pay and pensions: pay in May 2011, and pensions in October 2011.

3975 The IPSA issued their final report on MPs' pay in July 2015. The following two quotes are pertinent. I quote:

No-one can be in any doubt that consideration of MPs' pay is a toxic issue.

– as we have seen today –

A thousand and one reasons can be advanced for putting it off. There is never a right time to do anything. But putting it off for decades led ultimately to disaster in the form of the expenses scandal of 2009. What we are putting in place will settle pay for a generation.

Also, they said:

MPs

– without patting ourselves on the back too much – are an indispensable part of our parliamentary democracy. Our duty is to provide a package of remuneration which, while still modest by professional standards, does not deter people from entering political life, nor confine it to the independently wealthy.

– or, I should add, lawyers (Laughter) –

This is what our decisions are designed to achieve.

Hon. D A Feetham: [Inaudible].

3980 Hon. R M Clinton: Sorry, that was my addition, Mr Speaker! (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham and laughter)

IPSA's Chair, Sir Ian Kennedy, said:

Parliament gave IPSA the power to deal with the vexed issue of MPs' pay independent of Parliament and Government. Pay has been an issue which has been an issue which has been ducked for decades with independent reports and recommendations from experts ignored. An MP's salary is supplemented by an opaque and discredited system of allowances.

3985 Mr Speaker, in reading Hansard from 4th June 2013, during which the report of the Commission was discussed extensively, I note that the Chief Minister in line 530 onwards suggests the Select Committee appoint independent assessors to consider MPs' salaries and pensions. I gather we have not yet had the report of the Select Committee created almost three years ago in June 2013, and that the Government has now indeed reconstituted that Select Committee today to continue its work in considering and advising on the recommendations of the Commission on Democratic and Political Reform.

3990 I believe this House should make the work of the Select Committee easier by agreeing to one fundamental point, that being that the pay of and any changes to salaries, pensions and other benefits enjoyed by MPs should be determined by an independent body similar to the IPSA and not by Members of this House, in what could be perceived by the general public as an obvious conflict of interest.

3995 Mr Speaker, with your leave, I commend my motion to the House. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: I now put the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. Mr Roy Clinton.

4000 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, rising to reply on behalf of the Government, together with other Members who will speak, the hon. Gentleman will be disappointed to know that the motion he brings today will not enjoy the support of the Government benches. The principle does enjoy support, Mr Speaker. The principle enjoys support and will be something that we see through.

4005 The hon. Gentleman said that having to hear his speech despite it being overtaken by events was a penance. Well, Mr Speaker, it is the last time I try and do him a favour in ensuring that he has got a pension from the first moment he has been elected, if I am supposedly going to be made to suffer a penance as a result of it.

4010 The hon. Gentleman has read what he says is the best practice in the United Kingdom in support of his motion. Well, I do not think he has read it in support of his motion, and I think that he should not pretend that this proposal is his doing, by suggesting that he is reading something in favour of his proposal. This is the doing of the Commission that was constituted by my Government to recommend reform, Mr Speaker, and it is in the Select Committee that we have now created that we will be considering exactly this issue and, certainly with our support, bringing inter alia other proposals to this Parliament for this exact issue, as I have indicated – to deal with salaries and pensions etc. Because, Mr Speaker, we fully agree it is an obvious conflict of interest for this House to be determining salaries, and to do so would create an invidious conflict – (Interjection) And pensions, Mr Speaker, especially when people are trying to take advantage and avail themselves of pensions that they do not have and pretending that they have them.

4020 For that reason we did not support the former GSD administration when they brought the issue of salaries to this House, Mr Speaker. The Hon. Mr Bossano is going to remind us of that in a moment and take us in detail, no doubt, through the discussion at the time, but the current salaries are the salaries that have been fixed for the first time in the history of this Parliament by this Parliament. Previously, the salaries of this Parliament were fixed by independent commissions and advice from outside – until the GSD took office and they decided that, even with the votes of Members opposite against, they would fix for themselves new and higher salaries. So, given that he has today also disavowed that particular practice of the GSD, he will find that we are of the same mind but we were of the same mind some time ago. We sent these recommendations to a Select Committee – in fact, on the advice of the former Chief Minister, who suggested that we should send all of these to the Select Committee – and we will continue to do that work in the Select Committee and come back with this one from the Select Committee, but not otherwise, Mr Speaker.

4035 I do not think I need to deal with any other point that the hon. Member has raised, other than to say that, for those reasons, we will not be supporting his motion.

Mr Speaker: Did I hear that the Hon. Mr Joe Bossano is going to contribute to the debate?

4040 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I am glad to see that the new GSD has abandoned the position of the old GSD, but I think it is important for them to know just how awful the position of the old GSD was.

4045 When the salary structure that exists now was introduced, it was introduced by the GSD by bringing a motion to the House about which there had been no prior consultation with anybody. They decided what it should be and they brought the motion here in 1998. They decided what the salary should be and they decided what it should be in 1999. And they decided that they were going to change the structure that existed by giving themselves in Government a bigger pay rise than they would give the Opposition. That is what they decided.

4050 A Member: And the Speaker.

Hon. Chief Minister: And the Speaker.

Hon. J J Bossano: And the Speaker, yes, that is right.

Hon. Chief Minister: With unilateral legislation. (Interjection)

4055

Hon. J J Bossano: The point that I made when we opposed what they were doing ... because in fact on the previous occasion that there had been a review of the pay of Members of Parliament, or Members of the House of Assembly as it then was ... what the AACR Government had done, under Sir Joshua Hassan as Chief Minister, was that Sir Joshua actually consulted both Peter Isola, who held the majority of the Opposition seats, and me as the leader of the GSLP with one seat. Not only did he consult the majority Opposition, he came to get a consensus view as to how we should approach a review of the salary, because it was following the introduction of parity in the public sector, and therefore the effect of that very big increase after a long period when there had been no pay rises meant that there was a disparity between what people got paid in this House and what people were being paid outside the House. Sir Joshua felt – and Peter Isola felt, and I felt – that it was a difficult thing that we should be taking decisions putting our own pay up.

4060

4065

Therefore it was agreed by the three of us that we should approach the UK Parliament and find out how they did it. They sent a person they said was an expert in this area, (A Member: David Pring.) David Pring, and the Pring report was what suggested what our relativities should be. That was what operated until the GSD was in Government, when the GSD decided unilaterally to do it on the basis of what they thought was good for them, what they thought was good for us on the opposite side and what they thought was good for the guy in the Chair.

4070

When I suggested that it might be better to bring somebody from the UK so that nobody could accuse us of paying ourselves more money I was accused of wanting to go to London to be told by Bwana what was good for us. That was the wording of the greatest ever Gibraltarian. (Laughter) I pointed out that I was not particularly well known for going to Bwana to be told what to do, but certainly he was accusing not just me – he was accusing Peter Isola and Sir Joshua Hassan of wanting to go to Bwana to tell us what we should be paid.

4075

As well as rubbishing that, he said that the idea that people should enter politics because it was a vocation, because it was a matter of wanting to serve the people, was a romantic nonsense (Laughter) and that this was a job like any other. (Hon. Chief Minister: Shame!) (A Member: Oh, brilliant!) (Laughter) He said, 'We do not subscribe to this romantic notion that politics is a vocation and that one should do it for nothing.' Well, look, we were not doing it for nothing. I accept that when I joined I was doing it for practically nothing, because I had three kids, one on the way, and a pay of £500 a year in 1972.

4080

4085

Mr Speaker: £350 – you were a Member of the Opposition.

4090

Hon. J J Bossano: Oh, yes, £500 in the Government. Yes, £350, right. And of course when my good friend Mr Speaker left his post in the education he did it to take a pay cut.

Mr Speaker: £700 a year ... [Inaudible]

4095

Hon. J J Bossano: So the reality of it is that there has been a tradition in this Parliament of people joining because they want to contribute to the welfare of our community, a view that in 1997 clearly the GSD did not share, and if there is one good thing about the change it is that narrow view of what it is to be a Member of Parliament, which is a career just like each other ... I pointed out to the greatest ever Gibraltarian – he was not that at that time, but I pointed out to him that he could hardly say that it was the same as anybody else entering into any job and having a career. Because, look, people who enter at the bottom do not all get to the top, and in any event there are quite a number of people who enter after they have ended their career. There are a number of people on the opposite side who have finished one career and are

4100

4105 coming here after completing one career. And I, in fact, at that point in that debate in 1998, said that this was a good thing because people had come from working in the private sector or working in the public sector and they brought to Parliament years of experience in their profession, which would be a useful input when we were taking policy decisions and debating legislation. It is not like entering the Civil Service as an AA and finishing up as Head of the Civil Service. Therefore, to say 'Because this is a career, if the Head of the Civil Service earns 4110 £100,000, then I as Chief Minister must earn £75,000' ... Well, look, but you have had a career in the private sector as a lawyer earning a lot of money, and the person who got to be the Head of the Civil Service had to work his way up.

I was a bit surprised about this motion – and I do not know whether it was connected with the Bill that dealt with the pensions or not, or what prompted it – because my first reaction to 4115 the motion was to say, 'Well, what is it that the Hon. Member Mr Clinton is raising? An issue because he thinks the pay is not enough, or because the pay is too much?' Normally, I would not say we need to review what we are getting unless I thought it was too much or too little. I would not expect to say we need a review to tell us that it is just right.

4120 Given that what we are getting, in my view, is too much ... was something that the GSD introduced, then ... and I have heard nothing from their side that they think they are getting too much, and in fact the thought of losing final salary pension is seen as an attack on their rights ...
It is a right that they only enjoy after eight years, not after two months, so the right does not exist at this point in time, but – 4125 Hon. D A Feetham: It exists now.

Hon. Chief Minister: Nonsense.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes it does.

4130

Hon. Chief Minister: And what happens if they do not get re-elected? They get nothing.

Hon. J J Bossano: They get nothing. (Interjection)

4135 Hon. Chief Minister: Because it is true. That is why it is relevant.

Hon. J J Bossano: I suggested that there should be somebody externally because that is what we had done the last time. And the last time that we had done it we had not done it on my suggestion – it was the suggestion of Sir Joshua, and Peter Isola agreed with it and I agreed with 4140 it, and we all felt that given that we all entered politics with an idea that this was not a career and that ... And the Chief Minister who was in office when this dramatic change in values took place argued that that was because we were all part time before, but now that we were not part time it was different. He said that when it suited him in 1997. When we pointed out that some of his Ministers were still happily running their businesses, his answer was that there was no 4145 obligation to be full time on public duties when you were a Minister – and that is right, there is no obligation. There is nothing in our Constitution, in Parliament or in anything else that says that Ministers should not have private interests. It is the GSLP who made it a condition in 1988 that everybody who stood as a candidate stood as a candidate on the basis that we were fighting to get into Government and that if we got into Government it should be a full-time job.
4150 In fact, Mr Speaker was the only Minister in the AACR who did that by giving up a job in the Civil Service as a school teacher and not taking a part-time job in the private sector, and was the only full-timer that there was in the Government.

That approach means that I think, when we are looking at a motion saying we need somebody to look at the benefits, we need to look at it from the philosophical point that it is 4155 right that the money should be sufficient, and indeed one of the things that I argued was that it had to be sufficient so that a person would not need to have a second job, even in Opposition. When I became the Leader of the Opposition in 1996 I did not look for a second job. I spent 16 years in Opposition, having accumulated enough years that if I had chosen to take my pension I probably would have been better off. But the idea that you are in Opposition... Well, look, I do not know to what extent our society has changed, but I can tell Members opposite that, from a socialist perspective, if you were a socialist Member of the Opposition and you did not have a job that you kept, you did not have an easy ride in trying to find another job. And certainly when I came back in 1972 I found it extremely difficult to persuade anybody to employ me. I came back knowing that that was a risk I was taking, and I came back with a very young family. Therefore, those values ... I think, whatever we may do or may not do, whether we contribute a lot or we contribute a little, it depends on our ability and on how many mistakes we make while we are here. But what we should encourage is that the people who come to this place and offer themselves should be doing it for the right reasons – and the right reason is not so that they get parachuted to the top jobs in our society on the basis that it is a career but it is a career that you can reach overnight through the ballot box and not through working your way up.

I think there are Members on both sides of the House who have had that view for many years, and I am glad that it can now be the view unanimously of this House and not, as it was under the previous administration, a view only held by the Opposition and decried and ridiculed by the GSD administration of those years. (Banging on desks)

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, very briefly, because it is very late and no doubt hon. Members want to get on to other things.

It is slightly incongruous that the hon. Gentleman agrees with the principle behind the motion and yet they are voting against the motion. Not only are they voting against the motion but also they have come to this House amending the Parliament Act in order to unilaterally change the pension rights of five Members of the Opposition without sitting down, without that collegiate approach which he rightly emphasised in the 1980s between himself, Peter Isola and Sir Joshua Hassan.

That is precisely the type of approach that I would have expected from the Hon. the Chief Minister in relation to the Parliament Act. That is precisely the type of approach that I would have expected, bearing in mind that there is a Select Committee, that he was going to reconstitute a Select Committee, and that this particular issue was going to be considered by a Select Committee. He has chosen not to do so, unfortunately, and we are where we are.

It does not serve to increase trust between the Government and the Opposition in relation to other areas of business where the Government and the Opposition ought to be working together, because going it alone in these circumstances really does not bode well for mutual trust and confidence.

I only end by saying this, Mr Speaker. The hon. Gentleman has always attempted to give Members of this House a history lesson, but of course it may be right – it is right – that the GSD Government in 1998-99 changed the salaries and increased the salaries for everybody, for the Government and for the Opposition, but he must also recognise ... And I recognise everything that he has said. For me, being in politics is not a career, it is a vocation. I have always wanted to be involved in politics, to make a contribution to my community, to help keep my community safe and secure. That is what I am doing. But when he made Government full time, quite rightly, in 1988, he did not actually increase the salaries in 1988. (Interjection) No, indeed. So what happened then was that you had Government Ministers on a full-time basis for a part-time salary, because the salary was pegged on the basis that Government Ministers were on a part-time basis, and actually –

Mr Speaker: In fact, if I may –

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, of course.

4210 Mr Speaker: There was a benchmark created and the benchmark was that a Minister would get half the salary of the Financial Secretary, and then the structure was developed on that basis.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, and I –

4215 Hon. J J Bossano: Above the minimum wage.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, because I come from a family with roots on that side, as he delights in reminding me at every single opportunity – reminds me how far I have fallen, the fallen angel who came from the GSLP and fell to the GSD, the political equivalent of Lucifer, from the dark side, the darkest, darkest, pitch black side of the political spectrum – I can tell the hon. Gentleman that of course I remember. (Interjection) (A Member: Hear, hear.) Yes, Mr Speaker, exactly! (Banging on desks) For the first time this evening applause, Mr Speaker, for the Leader of the Opposition from the Government benches!

4225 Of course, because I come from a family with roots on the other side he knows as well as I do that there were Ministers on his side, on the then GSLP Government side, who decried the fact that he was – how can I put this in diplomatic terms ... perhaps there is no way I can do so at this time of the night, my brain is not fully engaged – that he was rather tight with money and that he did not want to correct what was an obvious injustice that Ministers on his side, in his Government, were working full time for a part-time salary. Effectively, what the GSD did was correct that anomalous position, and the GSD what it did was it basically paid a full-time salary for a full-time job, which in the end also benefitted Members of the Opposition.

4230 I just thought that I might maybe complete the history lesson with my own memory, Mr Speaker, coming as I do from his side, as he delights in reminding me.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I would like to declare a few things about what has been said today, because we have been given history lessons by different parts, and I remember as well – because, like Mr Speaker, I was a schoolteacher – the elections of 2000, when I had three options. When you stand for election there are three options: (1) you either win and you become a Government; (2) you are not elected at all; or (3) you become a Member of the Opposition.

4240 I had already planned out what could happen, whichever scenario, and what happened was the worst scenario for me personally, which would be becoming a Member of the Opposition, because I had to leave my teaching profession to become a Member of this House. At the time, I was earning what a schoolteacher was earning with an A allowance, and my salaries were knocked down to £14,000. I did not have the opportunity of getting a job, because it was then the GSD Government that was there, and therefore I found it very, very difficult to have a wife, with my second child at the time and then a third one, at that salary. So yes, it is a vocation that I had at the time, and I remember that when the salaries were increased by the GSD they were increased substantially for Ministers, and it is what we are here now ... in that we are earning the same, but for the Members of the Opposition it was not that substantial, the amount of money that we were getting.

4250 A Member: There was an increase.

Hon. S E Linares: There was an increase, yes, of course, and now what I am saying is that you are earning what, £39,000 or whatever. (A Member: Thirty four.) Thirty four, right – £34,000 or £35,000. I was earning £14,000. Therefore, I would like to state that I am convinced that the people who stand for election should be on a conviction, not a career like is happening in many places, in many parliaments where politicians become career politicians – they are not conviction politicians.

4260 I thought I would say that because I have been very quiet here, seeing how people have said about their families and all that. Well, I can tell you that my family suffered. We knew what we were getting into, but I am glad that I did. (A Member: Hear, hear.)
Thank you. (Banging on desks)

4265 Hon. L F Llamas: It is very, very late. I will not go on for long and I am not going to bring out any saga stories of how many children we all have and the sacrifices we all make to become parliamentarians and serve our community. We are not disputing the fact that we come here on a point of conviction – we agree entirely with that principle.

4270 I think what we are trying to express is that we were sworn in on certain rules and certain legislation, and that is being changed retrospectively. That is the only point that we want to make (Banging on desks) and that is the only point that we want to raise, because for us that is the only point that we fear can – (Interjection) Well, I accept that, and I took that (Interjection) on board when I joined the GSD. Yes, I had the final salary scheme but I took that on board, that if I would only serve in Parliament for four years I would go back with nothing. All those things 4275 are taken into consideration, yes.

A Member: [Inaudible]

4280 Hon. L F Llamas: Yes, but all those things were taken into consideration. What we did not take into consideration was the force with which things would be shoved down our throats without being given the opportunity of having sight of these issues.

Hon. Chief Minister: The only thing that is being shoved down your throat is your ability to contribute to a scheme that you can cash out of in four years ... [Inaudible]

4285 Hon. L F Llamas: Fine, I accept that, but obviously, if in four years' time (Interjection) I leave and I leave with a pot, well it is better than nothing. Fine, but perhaps it should have come as a two-sided opportunity (Hon. D A Feetham: Of course.) and we should have discussed it. (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister) 4290 Hon. L F Llamas: I must actually say that he did look out for me.

Mr Speaker: Order, order. You are now speaking across the floor. I know it is very very late and we all want to go home.

4295 Hon. L F Llamas: No, but for him to say that he did not look out for us five ... I can personally say that he did. He told me 'It is a big risk' and he tried to force me not to join, and I have to appreciate that he was more concerned for me than I was. I leave it at that.

4300 Hon. D A Feetham: There is a silver lining to this cloud, which is that you are not going to be able to buy out any members of the Opposition... [Inaudible]

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak? Yes.

4305 Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, can I just ask a very quick question. The Members opposite refused to support a Bill to review the Constitution, which we were reminded constantly was modern, 10 years old – maybe not quite so modern now. Could I just understand from the mover of the Bill what it is that he believes needs to be reviewed in respect of the Members' of the Parliament remuneration package? That is all I 4310 would like to understand. What is it that he believes requires to be reviewed by the independent body?

Hon. T N Hammond: If I may, (Interjections).

4315 Mr Speaker: The hon. Member should make a note of that point, and then, when he exercises his right to reply he can answer. Now there are other Members who may wish to contribute.

The Hon. Trevor Hammond.

4320 Hon. T N Hammond: If I may, Mr Speaker, I think we have actually drifted quite a way from the original motion. The motion is very straightforward. I will actually read it. It is whether 'this House believes that the Salaries, Pensions and other benefits enjoyed by Members of Parliament should be determined by a body independent of Parliament.'

4325 Nobody on this side of the House is suggesting the salaries should be higher, lower, different, the same. (Interjection) All we are suggesting is that they should be determined by a body other than this Parliament, (Interjection) and if that body should determine they should be lower then so be it, and if that body should determine that they should be higher, so be it. That is the point. It should not be determined by this Parliament. It should not be within the power of this Parliament to set its own salaries. (Hon. Chief Minister: We agree.) And you appear to agree; however, you will not vote for the motion, which seems an oxymoron.

4330

A Member: Agreed!

Hon. Chief Minister: ... [Inaudible] which is the mechanism we have already voted for in selecting the Select Committee.

4335

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, and if you check that ... [Inaudible]

Mr Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak?

4340 Hon. Chief Minister: Because it is urgent, because otherwise they would not start contributing. I will not tire of making the point.

Mr Speaker: I then call on the mover to reply. The Hon. Mr Roy Clinton.

4345 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, it is late. Listening to the contributions, in fact from both sides of the House, I could not help but be reminded of the famous Monty Python sketch (Laughter) of the four Yorkshiremen, where they say, 'You were lucky' and 'You thought you had it good.' And unfortunately, Mr Speaker, I shudder as to how the general public – if anybody is viewing this – will react.

4350 I am grateful to the Hon. Joe Bossano, as ever, for having explained the background to the methodology in how salaries have been arrived at – about which, to be perfectly honest, I really had no idea.

4355 I think we agree on the basic principle, and this is perhaps where I am slightly disappointed that the Government cannot bring itself to vote in favour of a motion which should cause them no offence whatsoever. I think both sides of the House agree that it is perhaps not good form for us to sit here and decide amongst ourselves what we should or should not be paid.

4360 Going back to the Hon. Albert Isola's question, I can set his mind at rest that the way I wrote the motion ... I have no intention of suggesting that there should be a review, merely that the point of principle should be that we here should not determine it. It is as simple as that – nothing more, nothing less, as I said in my opening address. There is no malice – there is nothing in my motion which should cause offence (Interjections) to anyone in this House, including you, Mr Speaker. It is really a point of principle, and also to avoid these sorts of unseemly debates, which I do not think are appropriate in the Parliament in a modern age.

4365 And so, as I said in my opening address, I hoped it would have been a simple point of principle which we could all agree on, but if the Chief Minister feels that it has been superseded by the Select Committee ... I think it is complementary to the Select Committee, but of course there is nothing I can say that will persuade him otherwise. (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister)

4370 Hon. D A Feetham: You have chosen to come to this Parliament unilaterally.

Hon. Chief Minister: You just don't understand what ... [Inaudible] (Laughter)

4375 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, without wanting to castigate either my own leader or the Chief Minister, this is precisely the sort of debate that we should not be having, and this is precisely why I have brought this motion to the House.

If the Chief Minister feels he is unable to support it, so be it, but I take comfort in that the Hon. Joe Bossano at least agrees with the principles of my motion. (Interjections)

4380 A Member: We all agree with your principles.

Hon. Ms M D Nahon Hassan: So why don't you support it?

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, in that case –

4385 Hon. Chief Minister: As I have explained, it is already happening in the Select Committee.

Hon. Ms M D Nahon Hassan: But you are passing a Bill.

4390 Hon. Chief Minister: We passed the Bill to give you ... [Inaudible] (Interjections)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Mr Clinton, you can either carry on with your speech and, by speaking over and above them, do not allow them to make these comments; or else I suggest that, if the hon. Member has finished, he sits down and I will put the motion.

4395 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, that is a tempting thought. (Laughter) Perhaps I should continue for the next hour or so as to the merits of bodies determining their own pay.

I think I have said enough. I have tried to make my point. I have obviously not been able to make inroads into the Chief Minister's mind. I leave it at that, and I will sit down. (Laughter)

4400 Mr Speaker: I now put the question in the terms of the motion proposed by the Hon. Mr Roy Clinton.

Those in favour? (Several Members: Aye.) Those against? (Several Members: No.) The motion is defeated by Government majority.

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

4405 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, to leave people with no possibility for doubt, the Chief Minister agrees that we should not be setting our own salaries. That will be an issue dealt with in the Select Committee, and that is why we have voted down this motion.

ADJOURNMENT

4410 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Now, Mr Speaker, I very happily move that the House should now adjourn sine die.

Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn sine die – and I am not putting it to the vote!
(Laughter)

The House adjourned at 10.20 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

AFTERNOON SESSION: 3.00 p.m. – 3.23 p.m.

Gibraltar, Friday, 24th June 2016

Contents

Prayer .....	2
Confirmation of Minutes .....	2
Suspension of Standing Orders .....	2
Standing Order 7(1) suspended to proceed with a Statement.....	2
Silence in memory of UK Member of Parliament, Jo Cox .....	2
Congratulations to Mons. Carmelo Zammit on appointment as Bishop Designate of Gibraltar .....	3
Result of Referendum on UK membership of the European Union.....	3
Statement by the Hon. the Chief Minister .....	3
Statement by the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition .....	6
Statement by Mr Speaker.....	7
The House adjourned at 3.23 p.m. .....	7

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.00 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

PRAYER

Mr Speaker

CONFIRMATION OF MINUTES

Clerk: Confirmation of Minutes – the Minutes of the last meeting of Parliament, which was held on 25th, 26th February and 2nd March 2016.

5 Mr Speaker: May I sign the Minutes as correct? (Members: Aye.)

Mr Speaker signed the Minutes.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS

Standing Order 7(1) suspended to proceed with a Statement

10 Clerk: Suspension of Standing Orders. The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I beg to move under Standing Order 7(3) to suspend Standing Order 7(1) in order to proceed with a Statement.

15 Mr Speaker: Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Silence in memory of UK Member of Parliament, Jo Cox

Clerk: The Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, thank you.

20 Can I start, Mr Speaker, by reminding the House that it is the first time that this Parliament meets since the cruel murder last week of United Kingdom Member of Parliament, Jo Cox.

I propose therefore, Mr Speaker, that the House should hold a minute's silence before I commence my statement, to honour her memory.

Members stood in silence.

Hon. Chief Minister: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Congratulations to Mons. Carmelo Zammit on appointment as Bishop Designate of Gibraltar

25

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Now before I commence my address in respect of the Referendum held yesterday, may I also congratulate Monsignor Carmelo Zammit on his appointment as Bishop Designate of Gibraltar. He has long been a friend of Gibraltar and his appointment at this important time will be most welcome indeed.

RESULT OF REFERENDUM ON UK MEMBERSHIP OF THE EUROPEAN UNION

Statement by the Hon. the Chief Minister

30

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the people of Gibraltar yesterday voted by 96% to 4% to remain within the European Union. Members of this House will have noted the decision of the rest of the British people who were called upon to vote yesterday, which was to leave the European Union, by a margin of 4 percentage points. In a franchise of 46.5 million people, with 72% voting, our contribution did not even move the needle.

35

This House was nonetheless united in campaigning for a vote to remain in the European Union. Unprecedented unity swept our nation in support of that cause and I want to thank the Members of the House who were genuinely committed to dropping our differences and uniting in working for Gibraltar's greater interests together.

40

I call, Mr Speaker, on Members to sustain the spirit of unity that they have shown over the coming months as we adjust to the reality of change across the United Kingdom, Europe and most significantly Gibraltar itself, that the decision to pull Britain out of the European Union will bring.

45

This morning I met with my Cabinet colleagues and later with the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition and the Hon. Messrs Hammond and Clinton. For the good of Gibraltar, we have agreed to work together in order to face the challenges that the vote to exit the European Union will bring. This is a time to put egos aside and work together, as some of our predecessors here did for the benefit of our community as a whole in the past. I have no doubt that Members opposite will do so.

50

We have also agreed the outline of the substance of what needs to be done, although this will no doubt require further work as events develop in coming weeks and months. I intend to discuss with my Cabinet the mechanisms and the formula through which this co-operation between Government and Opposition will take place. Later this morning I spoke also to independent Member, the Hon. Miss Hassan Nahon. I have no doubt we will also be able to count with her support as we deal with the issues that now arise.

55

All of them backed the Stronger In campaign and the result that it produced for Gibraltar, and the Gibraltar results declared in the early hours of this morning have, in my view, served also to fully reinforce the unity with which we stood on this issue. Indeed our clear and unequivocal statement as a people will now be a critical element in helping us to better shape the political and economic interests of Gibraltar in the months to come. It is a mandate that I know that the British Government will not ignore.

60

This morning, following the formal declaration of the outcome of the Referendum, I spoke to the Minister for Europe, David Lidington. I considered with him some of the many issues which will be thrown up by the result.

65 The British Government and the people of the United Kingdom have heard the clear message from the people of Gibraltar that we aspire to the continued freedom of movement of people, services and capital throughout the EU. The British Government are deeply aware of that and of the fact that it falls on them to help us mitigate the negative impact of leaving Europe, as we also will now be able to work with them on capitalising on the positives that might also emerge.
70 We have agreed that we will speak again later today.

After we spoke, the Minister for Europe made a statement to reiterate from London that the United Kingdom remains 100% behind Gibraltar. The double lock commitment on sovereignty has been specifically reiterated by him. Mr Speaker, we are of course not alone in being affected by the Referendum decision.

75 There are likely to be some tumultuous months ahead for Britain as it adjusts to the real impact of the decision its people have taken. Northern Ireland and of course Scotland are affected also as nations that voted to remain in the European Union. Jersey, Guernsey and the Isle of Man did not vote in the Referendum, but have access to the single market in different degrees via the United Kingdom. Theirs is a model of success based on those different degrees
80 of access to the European Union, which is different to ours. I have already scheduled calls with the leaders of each of these nations and Crown Dependencies. In addition, I have been in touch with other overseas territories' leaders, with whom we will also work at this time.

The change which is heralded by this result will bring uncertainty – of that there is no doubt. But of course there will be benefits as well as burdens, and we are clear and determined to 85 capitalise on those benefits.

Mr Speaker, the Government has not been idle in the run up to this decision which cannot be described as unexpected. As we campaigned vigorously for a Remain vote, we were also working on the preparations for what has now happened. The top priority has been in working towards a sustainable alternative economic model and making best use of the time we have now, to 90 position Gibraltar's economy whilst the complex task of uncoupling the UK from the EU and building new trading political relations will start, it appears, to take place.

But let me be absolutely clear. Despite the noises that are bound to be made by some in the neighbouring nation – indeed, some have already been made this morning – this Government is confident in the support from the British Government that there will be no talks, nor even talks
95 about talks, against the express wishes of the people of Gibraltar in respect of the sovereignty of Gibraltar.

So let others make irrelevant noises about flying flags over our Rock, if they want to waste their breath. Such ideas will never prosper. Gibraltar will never pay a sovereignty price for access to a market. Gibraltar will never be Spanish in whole, in part or at all. So I ask all our citizens to 100 ignore these noises. Our work will be focused on the more pressing issues before us. Redirecting and protecting our economy are what we must all now focus on.

Let me tell the public today that we know that we are able to deliver on our manifesto commitments on economic growth in the lifetime of this Parliament. Of that, we have no doubt. It is true that doing so will be harder and that we will face new challenges. Of course we cannot 105 diminish the significance and potential impact that the decision to leave the EU may have on our community. But we are also entirely confident that the core elements of our economy and our Government's public finances remain sounder than ever. In fact, Gibraltar is better placed today than ever in our history to address a decision like that taken today by the British people.

Even if we face a perfect storm, to take a meteorological allusion, we are ready to weather it and we are ready to weather it well, Mr Speaker. This means that those areas we have long 110 identified as priorities for the community will not be affected as we move forward.

There will be many issues to address in the coming months which raise legal and even constitutional questions. For obvious reasons, some of these will be best shared with the Leader of the Opposition in privacy. The last thing we need to do is to inform those who do not wish us 115 well of what we are doing to secure a good future in this new and game-changing scenario which Brexit brings to Gibraltar and its people.

I will also look to forming working groups and committees which will include Members and others, where these can help chart the way ahead in a new world outside the EU.

120 Mr Speaker, can I – and can I say this also with the greatest of respect – call on the public at large to resist knee-jerk reactions or rushed reactions to what is undeniably a momentous decision. As I stated earlier this morning, this is a time for reflection. As the drama of this day recedes, we will enter a period where diligence and calm thought, action and diplomacy will be required. We know that irrespective of their position on the Referendum, the British people are hugely supportive of Gibraltar and its people. The people of Britain will not let us down.

125 Our ties with our friends in the British Parliament are strong. We have been working and will continue to work closely with the UK Government Departments, including the Foreign Office and the Treasury, to ensure that the partnership we have established will continue to flourish and be productive for the good of Gibraltar. The strength of our inter-governmental relationships and our strong, objectively verified reputation will greatly assist us as we move forward to protect 130 and promote our economic interests.

Mr Speaker, in this respect, the Government will over the coming weeks and months begin to unroll a series of measures and strategies designed to guide Gibraltar through the new reality before us. It is important that we work in tandem with the UK and that we take one step at a time. I can assure this House that the Government is confident and ready to take all the steps 135 necessary to take Gibraltar forward and we shall do so.

This afternoon I will be meeting with the Gibraltar Gaming and Betting Association and the Gibraltar Finance Centre Council. I have been hugely encouraged by the support already expressed by a number of gaming companies, who confirm that the result today does not change their commitment to remaining in Gibraltar. The market that matters most to them is of 140 course the United Kingdom, so the establishment of a common market between Gibraltar and the United Kingdom has been the main issue we have long been working on with the UK. We are confident that this is entirely achievable.

I will also meet today with the Federation of Small Businesses and the Chamber of Commerce. On Monday, I expect to be able to meet with Unite, the Union, the GGCA and the 145 Gibraltar Teachers' Association. I also expect to meet with the Grupo Transfronterizo which includes all of these groups and others from the Campo. It should be clear to all that after the Prime Minister's statement today, no Article 50 Notice will be submitted by him next week. It will fall to a new Prime Minister to do that in the autumn.

150 On that ground, Mr Speaker, there will therefore be no immediate changes to speak of in respect of the application of rights and obligations between us and the rest of the European Union.

Mr Speaker, the many cross-frontier workers who come to Gibraltar each day are an important part of our success. They will continue to be welcomed by us and I trust that their passage into Gibraltar and that of the tourists and others who they work for when they are here 155 with us will not in future be impeded. In this respect, I have today been in touch with both Juan Franco, the Mayor of La Linea and Juan Carlos Ruiz Boix of San Roque in this regard. I expect to meet both of them in the coming days and weeks.

Mr Speaker, it has been a tough 24 hours, but I have been humbled by the support of the people of Gibraltar this morning for both my Government and for myself and the leadership that 160 we provide to our community in coming days, weeks and months. All in our nation can rest assured that the Government has the energy, the ability, the capability and the commitment and enthusiasm to steer a clear and steady course through the coming months and years.

Challenges there will be, but then again, Mr Speaker, haven't there always been for our people? To an extent for Gibraltarians, this is business as usual: just one more mountain to 165 climb. And I, as no doubt all Members of this House, have great faith in the resilience and the spirit of the Gibraltarian to overcome such challenges.

Together, Mr Speaker, we will overcome. With hard work, Mr Speaker, we will overcome. We have done it in the past; we will do it again.

Thank you, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks)

170

A Member: Hear, hear.

Statement by the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

175 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, before I start, may I add my own voice to offer our congratulations certainly from this side of the House on the appointment of Bishop Carmelo Zammit. We would have wished that it would have been in more auspicious times but I hope certainly that he will be just as popular and just as loved as his predecessor was.

180 Mr Speaker, in 1980, Joseph Elliott Trudeau, the then Prime Minister of Canada and the father of the current Prime Minister of that country, reflecting on the Quebec Referendum said, and I quote:

‘It is obvious that these are historic moments. There are very few examples in the history of democracy of one part of a country choosing to decide for itself and by itself whether, yes or no, it wants to be part of a country to which it has belonged.’

185 In less than two years, Mr Speaker, the United Kingdom has faced not one such historic moment, in the Scottish Referendum, but a second, equally seminal moment in yesterday’s Referendum which ironically will test the resilience of the Union itself in the forthcoming years. And I pray, Mr Speaker, as someone who feels passionately about the Union and forming part of the British family of nations, that though undoubtedly tested, the Union will prove resilient over the next few years.

190 Sadly for us, the result has not been what we wanted in this House or what the people of Gibraltar have voted for in massive numbers. We could not have done more than we did in Gibraltar and I am proud of my fellow Gibraltarians who once again were not found wanting, Mr Speaker, when the chips were down in Gibraltar. (A Member: Hear, hear.)

195 It has not been indeed, the will of the people of Scotland or Northern Ireland who have also voted by a majority for Remain. But it is the will of the United Kingdom as a whole and in any democracy, one must respect that will. Every new chapter in life, and politics is no different, brings its challenges, but so too hope and opportunities.

We as a people are no strangers to adversity and have faced and overcome many challenges in the past. Our community has the strength of purpose and the resilience to overcome adversity again, and together we will again prevail.

200 There will be no despair, Mr Speaker, on this side of the House and I want the people of Gibraltar to know that we will be working hard to ensure that Gibraltar is kept safe, that Gibraltar is kept secure and that Gibraltar is kept prosperous in the years to come. In this House we must all now collectively deal in hope – realistic hope but hope nonetheless.

205 We need above all to develop a positive and workable road map for the future, and that is what we will concentrate on doing on this side of the House; hopefully, Mr Speaker, working alongside the Government to devise that road map as equal partners on a non-partisan and transparent basis. The creation of a non-partisan road map will help confidence and create a measure of certainty that our businesses and that the people of Gibraltar need at this time.

210 One of our main immediate focuses has to be to obtain from the United Kingdom guarantees that Gibraltar will be included in any trade deals that are negotiated with third parties, any re-negotiated access to the single market and unrestricted access to the UK market in areas such as insurance, financial services and gaming.

215 Mr Speaker, this situation is not of Gibraltar's making and the Government of the United Kingdom, particularly one led by Brexiteers in the future, owes a duty to the people of Gibraltar to ensure we are not left behind and that Gibraltar does not suffer economic damage over the next two years. Early guarantees from the United Kingdom will ensure that certainty and that stability in Gibraltar.

220 My message to Gibraltarians today is this: Gibraltar has always prevailed, even in the most difficult of circumstances and I am confident that working together, Government, Opposition and the rest of the population in Gibraltar that we can work through those future difficulties and that Gibraltar will prevail at the end of it stronger than ever before. And we will be able to maintain, Mr Speaker, that Gibraltarian way of life that we are all here in this House committed to defending and that with will and hard work, Mr Speaker, that we will maintain and we will protect over the years to come.

Thank you very much, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks)

Statement by Mr Speaker

225 Mr Speaker: Before we conclude, as someone who was active in support of the In campaign, I would like to lend my support to all the elected Members in whichever way I can as they go about their business of securing Gibraltar's future.

230 I was reminded by the fact that we held a minute's silence for Jo Cox about something which Nigel Farage said in the early hours in his victory speech. He said that Britain's Independence Day today had been achieved without a single bullet having been fired. He was of course quite correct. Three bullets, not one were fired when Jo Cox was massacred.

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

235 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I want to thank the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition for his words and you for your kind words. This is a time for us to work together for the good of our nation.

240 Mr Speaker, therefore, I am not going to proceed with further Government business today, I am going to propose that we adjourn the House now until Wednesday at 3.00 p.m. in the afternoon. But it is still my intention to proceed with the nation's Budget on Monday 4th July, which is certainly American Independence Day.

Business as usual.

245 Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn until next Wednesday at 3.00 p.m. in the afternoon.

The House adjourned at 3.23 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

AFTERNOON SESSION: 3.00 p.m. – 3.23 p.m.

Gibraltar, Friday, 24th June 2016

Contents

Prayer .....	2
Confirmation of Minutes .....	2
Suspension of Standing Orders .....	2
Standing Order 7(1) suspended to proceed with a Statement.....	2
Silence in memory of UK Member of Parliament, Jo Cox .....	2
Congratulations to Mons. Carmelo Zammit on appointment as Bishop Designate of Gibraltar .....	3
Result of Referendum on UK membership of the European Union.....	3
Statement by the Hon. the Chief Minister .....	3
Statement by the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition .....	6
Statement by Mr Speaker.....	7
The House adjourned at 3.23 p.m. .....	7

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.00 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

PRAYER

Mr Speaker

CONFIRMATION OF MINUTES

Clerk: Confirmation of Minutes – the Minutes of the last meeting of Parliament, which was held on 25th, 26th February and 2nd March 2016.

5 Mr Speaker: May I sign the Minutes as correct? (Members: Aye.)

Mr Speaker signed the Minutes.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS

Standing Order 7(1) suspended to proceed with a Statement

10 Clerk: Suspension of Standing Orders. The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I beg to move under Standing Order 7(3) to suspend Standing Order 7(1) in order to proceed with a Statement.

15 Mr Speaker: Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Silence in memory of UK Member of Parliament, Jo Cox

Clerk: The Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, thank you.

20 Can I start, Mr Speaker, by reminding the House that it is the first time that this Parliament meets since the cruel murder last week of United Kingdom Member of Parliament, Jo Cox.

I propose therefore, Mr Speaker, that the House should hold a minute's silence before I commence my statement, to honour her memory.

Members stood in silence.

Hon. Chief Minister: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Congratulations to Mons. Carmelo Zammit
on appointment as Bishop Designate of Gibraltar

25

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Now before I commence my address in respect of the Referendum held yesterday, may I also congratulate Monsignor Carmelo Zammit on his appointment as Bishop Designate of Gibraltar. He has long been a friend of Gibraltar and his appointment at this important time will be most welcome indeed.

RESULT OF REFERENDUM ON UK MEMBERSHIP OF THE EUROPEAN UNION

Statement by the Hon. the Chief Minister

30

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the people of Gibraltar yesterday voted by 96% to 4% to remain within the European Union. Members of this House will have noted the decision of the rest of the British people who were called upon to vote yesterday, which was to leave the European Union, by a margin of 4 percentage points. In a franchise of 46.5 million people, with 72% voting, our contribution did not even move the needle.

35

This House was nonetheless united in campaigning for a vote to remain in the European Union. Unprecedented unity swept our nation in support of that cause and I want to thank the Members of the House who were genuinely committed to dropping our differences and uniting in working for Gibraltar's greater interests together.

40

I call, Mr Speaker, on Members to sustain the spirit of unity that they have shown over the coming months as we adjust to the reality of change across the United Kingdom, Europe and most significantly Gibraltar itself, that the decision to pull Britain out of the European Union will bring.

45

This morning I met with my Cabinet colleagues and later with the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition and the Hon. Messrs Hammond and Clinton. For the good of Gibraltar, we have agreed to work together in order to face the challenges that the vote to exit the European Union will bring. This is a time to put egos aside and work together, as some of our predecessors here did for the benefit of our community as a whole in the past. I have no doubt that Members opposite will do so.

50

We have also agreed the outline of the substance of what needs to be done, although this will no doubt require further work as events develop in coming weeks and months. I intend to discuss with my Cabinet the mechanisms and the formula through which this co-operation between Government and Opposition will take place. Later this morning I spoke also to independent Member, the Hon. Miss Hassan Nahon. I have no doubt we will also be able to count with her support as we deal with the issues that now arise.

55

All of them backed the Stronger In campaign and the result that it produced for Gibraltar, and the Gibraltar results declared in the early hours of this morning have, in my view, served also to fully reinforce the unity with which we stood on this issue. Indeed our clear and unequivocal statement as a people will now be a critical element in helping us to better shape the political and economic interests of Gibraltar in the months to come. It is a mandate that I know that the British Government will not ignore.

60

This morning, following the formal declaration of the outcome of the Referendum, I spoke to the Minister for Europe, David Lidington. I considered with him some of the many issues which will be thrown up by the result.

65 The British Government and the people of the United Kingdom have heard the clear message from the people of Gibraltar that we aspire to the continued freedom of movement of people, services and capital throughout the EU. The British Government are deeply aware of that and of the fact that it falls on them to help us mitigate the negative impact of leaving Europe, as we also will now be able to work with them on capitalising on the positives that might also emerge.
70 We have agreed that we will speak again later today.

After we spoke, the Minister for Europe made a statement to reiterate from London that the United Kingdom remains 100% behind Gibraltar. The double lock commitment on sovereignty has been specifically reiterated by him. Mr Speaker, we are of course not alone in being affected by the Referendum decision.

75 There are likely to be some tumultuous months ahead for Britain as it adjusts to the real impact of the decision its people have taken. Northern Ireland and of course Scotland are affected also as nations that voted to remain in the European Union. Jersey, Guernsey and the Isle of Man did not vote in the Referendum, but have access to the single market in different degrees via the United Kingdom. Theirs is a model of success based on those different degrees
80 of access to the European Union, which is different to ours. I have already scheduled calls with the leaders of each of these nations and Crown Dependencies. In addition, I have been in touch with other overseas territories' leaders, with whom we will also work at this time.

The change which is heralded by this result will bring uncertainty – of that there is no doubt. But of course there will be benefits as well as burdens, and we are clear and determined to 85 capitalise on those benefits.

Mr Speaker, the Government has not been idle in the run up to this decision which cannot be described as unexpected. As we campaigned vigorously for a Remain vote, we were also working on the preparations for what has now happened. The top priority has been in working towards a sustainable alternative economic model and making best use of the time we have now, to 90 position Gibraltar's economy whilst the complex task of uncoupling the UK from the EU and building new trading political relations will start, it appears, to take place.

But let me be absolutely clear. Despite the noises that are bound to be made by some in the neighbouring nation – indeed, some have already been made this morning – this Government is confident in the support from the British Government that there will be no talks, nor even talks
95 about talks, against the express wishes of the people of Gibraltar in respect of the sovereignty of Gibraltar.

So let others make irrelevant noises about flying flags over our Rock, if they want to waste their breath. Such ideas will never prosper. Gibraltar will never pay a sovereignty price for access to a market. Gibraltar will never be Spanish in whole, in part or at all. So I ask all our citizens to 100 ignore these noises. Our work will be focused on the more pressing issues before us. Redirecting and protecting our economy are what we must all now focus on.

Let me tell the public today that we know that we are able to deliver on our manifesto commitments on economic growth in the lifetime of this Parliament. Of that, we have no doubt. It is true that doing so will be harder and that we will face new challenges. Of course we cannot 105 diminish the significance and potential impact that the decision to leave the EU may have on our community. But we are also entirely confident that the core elements of our economy and our Government's public finances remain sounder than ever. In fact, Gibraltar is better placed today than ever in our history to address a decision like that taken today by the British people.

Even if we face a perfect storm, to take a meteorological allusion, we are ready to weather it and we are ready to weather it well, Mr Speaker. This means that those areas we have long 110 identified as priorities for the community will not be affected as we move forward.

There will be many issues to address in the coming months which raise legal and even constitutional questions. For obvious reasons, some of these will be best shared with the Leader 115 of the Opposition in privacy. The last thing we need to do is to inform those who do not wish us well of what we are doing to secure a good future in this new and game-changing scenario which Brexit brings to Gibraltar and its people.

I will also look to forming working groups and committees which will include Members and others, where these can help chart the way ahead in a new world outside the EU.

120 Mr Speaker, can I – and can I say this also with the greatest of respect – call on the public at large to resist knee-jerk reactions or rushed reactions to what is undeniably a momentous decision. As I stated earlier this morning, this is a time for reflection. As the drama of this day recedes, we will enter a period where diligence and calm thought, action and diplomacy will be required. We know that irrespective of their position on the Referendum, the British people are hugely supportive of Gibraltar and its people. The people of Britain will not let us down.

125 Our ties with our friends in the British Parliament are strong. We have been working and will continue to work closely with the UK Government Departments, including the Foreign Office and the Treasury, to ensure that the partnership we have established will continue to flourish and be productive for the good of Gibraltar. The strength of our inter-governmental relationships and our strong, objectively verified reputation will greatly assist us as we move forward to protect and promote our economic interests.

130 Mr Speaker, in this respect, the Government will over the coming weeks and months begin to unroll a series of measures and strategies designed to guide Gibraltar through the new reality before us. It is important that we work in tandem with the UK and that we take one step at a time. I can assure this House that the Government is confident and ready to take all the steps necessary to take Gibraltar forward and we shall do so.

135 This afternoon I will be meeting with the Gibraltar Gaming and Betting Association and the Gibraltar Finance Centre Council. I have been hugely encouraged by the support already expressed by a number of gaming companies, who confirm that the result today does not change their commitment to remaining in Gibraltar. The market that matters most to them is of course the United Kingdom, so the establishment of a common market between Gibraltar and the United Kingdom has been the main issue we have long been working on with the UK. We are confident that this is entirely achievable.

140 I will also meet today with the Federation of Small Businesses and the Chamber of Commerce. On Monday, I expect to be able to meet with Unite, the Union, the GGCA and the Gibraltar Teachers' Association. I also expect to meet with the Grupo Transfronterizo which includes all of these groups and others from the Campo. It should be clear to all that after the Prime Minister's statement today, no Article 50 Notice will be submitted by him next week. It will fall to a new Prime Minister to do that in the autumn.

145 On that ground, Mr Speaker, there will therefore be no immediate changes to speak of in respect of the application of rights and obligations between us and the rest of the European Union.

150 Mr Speaker, the many cross-frontier workers who come to Gibraltar each day are an important part of our success. They will continue to be welcomed by us and I trust that their passage into Gibraltar and that of the tourists and others who they work for when they are here with us will not in future be impeded. In this respect, I have today been in touch with both Juan Franco, the Mayor of La Linea and Juan Carlos Ruiz Boix of San Roque in this regard. I expect to meet both of them in the coming days and weeks.

155 Mr Speaker, it has been a tough 24 hours, but I have been humbled by the support of the people of Gibraltar this morning for both my Government and for myself and the leadership that we provide to our community in coming days, weeks and months. All in our nation can rest assured that the Government has the energy, the ability, the capability and the commitment and enthusiasm to steer a clear and steady course through the coming months and years.

160 Challenges there will be, but then again, Mr Speaker, haven't there always been for our people? To an extent for Gibraltarians, this is business as usual: just one more mountain to 165 climb. And I, as no doubt all Members of this House, have great faith in the resilience and the spirit of the Gibraltarian to overcome such challenges.

Together, Mr Speaker, we will overcome. With hard work, Mr Speaker, we will overcome. We have done it in the past; we will do it again.

Thank you, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks)

170

A Member: Hear, hear.

Statement by the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

175 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, before I start, may I add my own voice to offer our congratulations certainly from this side of the House on the appointment of Bishop Carmelo Zammit. We would have wished that it would have been in more auspicious times but I hope certainly that he will be just as popular and just as loved as his predecessor was.

180 Mr Speaker, in 1980, Joseph Elliott Trudeau, the then Prime Minister of Canada and the father of the current Prime Minister of that country, reflecting on the Quebec Referendum said, and I quote:

‘It is obvious that these are historic moments. There are very few examples in the history of democracy of one part of a country choosing to decide for itself and by itself whether, yes or no, it wants to be part of a country to which it has belonged.’

185 In less than two years, Mr Speaker, the United Kingdom has faced not one such historic moment, in the Scottish Referendum, but a second, equally seminal moment in yesterday’s Referendum which ironically will test the resilience of the Union itself in the forthcoming years. And I pray, Mr Speaker, as someone who feels passionately about the Union and forming part of the British family of nations, that though undoubtedly tested, the Union will prove resilient over the next few years.

190 Sadly for us, the result has not been what we wanted in this House or what the people of Gibraltar have voted for in massive numbers. We could not have done more than we did in Gibraltar and I am proud of my fellow Gibraltarians who once again were not found wanting, Mr Speaker, when the chips were down in Gibraltar. (A Member: Hear, hear.)

195 It has not been indeed, the will of the people of Scotland or Northern Ireland who have also voted by a majority for Remain. But it is the will of the United Kingdom as a whole and in any democracy, one must respect that will. Every new chapter in life, and politics is no different, brings its challenges, but so too hope and opportunities.

We as a people are no strangers to adversity and have faced and overcome many challenges in the past. Our community has the strength of purpose and the resilience to overcome adversity again, and together we will again prevail.

200 There will be no despair, Mr Speaker, on this side of the House and I want the people of Gibraltar to know that we will be working hard to ensure that Gibraltar is kept safe, that Gibraltar is kept secure and that Gibraltar is kept prosperous in the years to come. In this House we must all now collectively deal in hope – realistic hope but hope nonetheless.

205 We need above all to develop a positive and workable road map for the future, and that is what we will concentrate on doing on this side of the House; hopefully, Mr Speaker, working alongside the Government to devise that road map as equal partners on a non-partisan and transparent basis. The creation of a non-partisan road map will help confidence and create a measure of certainty that our businesses and that the people of Gibraltar need at this time.

210 One of our main immediate focuses has to be to obtain from the United Kingdom guarantees that Gibraltar will be included in any trade deals that are negotiated with third parties, any re-negotiated access to the single market and unrestricted access to the UK market in areas such as insurance, financial services and gaming.

215 Mr Speaker, this situation is not of Gibraltar's making and the Government of the United Kingdom, particularly one led by Brexiteers in the future, owes a duty to the people of Gibraltar to ensure we are not left behind and that Gibraltar does not suffer economic damage over the next two years. Early guarantees from the United Kingdom will ensure that certainty and that stability in Gibraltar.

220 My message to Gibraltarians today is this: Gibraltar has always prevailed, even in the most difficult of circumstances and I am confident that working together, Government, Opposition and the rest of the population in Gibraltar that we can work through those future difficulties and that Gibraltar will prevail at the end of it stronger than ever before. And we will be able to maintain, Mr Speaker, that Gibraltarian way of life that we are all here in this House committed to defending and that with will and hard work, Mr Speaker, that we will maintain and we will protect over the years to come.

Thank you very much, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks)

Statement by Mr Speaker

225 Mr Speaker: Before we conclude, as someone who was active in support of the In campaign, I would like to lend my support to all the elected Members in whichever way I can as they go about their business of securing Gibraltar's future.

230 I was reminded by the fact that we held a minute's silence for Jo Cox about something which Nigel Farage said in the early hours in his victory speech. He said that Britain's Independence Day today had been achieved without a single bullet having been fired. He was of course quite correct. Three bullets, not one were fired when Jo Cox was massacred.

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

235 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I want to thank the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition for his words and you for your kind words. This is a time for us to work together for the good of our nation.

240 Mr Speaker, therefore, I am not going to proceed with further Government business today, I am going to propose that we adjourn the House now until Wednesday at 3.00 p.m. in the afternoon. But it is still my intention to proceed with the nation's Budget on Monday 4th July, which is certainly American Independence Day.

Business as usual.

245 Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn until next Wednesday at 3.00 p.m. in the afternoon.

The House adjourned at 3.23 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

AFTERNOON SESSION: 3.04 p.m. – 8.11 p.m.

Gibraltar, Wednesday, 29th June 2016

Contents

Papers to be laid .....	4
Questions for Oral Answer .....	5
Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change .....	5
Q289-290/2016 Glass lookout, Mount Misery; Royal Anglian Way suspension bridge – Progress, costs and maintenance .....	5
Q291-292/2016 Unlawful incursions into British Gibraltar Territorial Waters – Details of Spanish fishermen .....	8
Q293-294/2016 Bluefin tuna – Tonnage caught and registered in Gibraltar .....	9
Q296-299/2016 Fisheries Advisory Committee – Allocation .....	10
Q300-302/2016 Dust and water pollution – Monitoring and fines .....	12
Q303/2016 Bathing water standards – Revision .....	13
Q304-305/2016 Countering vandalism and litter across Upper Rock – Maintenance programmes; CCTV cameras .....	14
Q306/2016 Rock of Gibraltar and Upper Rock Management Plans – Publication .....	15
Q307-308/2016 Upper Rock and Marine Nature Reserves – Watering points; vulnerability assessments .....	15
Q309-321/2016 Environmental Action and Management Plan – Biodiversity; electricity and water; tidal currents; grants; transport; development; heritage .....	17
Q322-323/2016 Wave generator – Cost, funding and output .....	21
Q324/2016 Europa Point sewage outfall – Monitoring regime .....	26

Q325-326/2016 Climate change programme – Government action plan .....	26
Q327/2016 Recycling – Penalties for failure .....	27
Q328/2016 Renewable energy or carbon offset– Developing projects in Morocco .....	28
Q329-331/2016 Industrial noise levels – Steering Group; Noise Bill .....	29
Q332/2016 Waste treatment plant – Award of tender .....	30
Q333/2016 Nature Reserves – Invasive plant species .....	31
Q334/2016 Biodiversity Action Plan 2006 – Guide for Government .....	32
Q335-336/2016 Trees in urban areas – Number planted since 2014 and cut down since 2012 .....	32
Q337/2016 Europa Point foreshore – Litter cleaning .....	35
Q338/2016 Environmental guidance for boat owners – Details .....	36
Q339/2016 North Front Cemetery – Plans to improve condition .....	37
Q340/2016 Yellow-legged Gulls – Number of breeding pairs .....	38
Q341/2016 Litter Committee – Meetings during 2015 .....	39
Q342-348/2016 Dog fouling – Complaints to Royal Gibraltar police.....	40
The House recessed at 5.05 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 5.35 p.m. .....	42
Q349/2016 Cleaning Gibraltar – Government contracts .....	42
Q350/2016 Mount Alvernia – Government workers .....	43
Q351/2016 Mount Alvernia – Non-Government workers .....	43
Q352/2016 Primary Care Centre counter – Non-Government workers.....	44
Q353/2016 Primary Care Centre counter – Government workers.....	44
Q351-352/2016 Supplementary questions.....	44
Q354-356/2016 Antenatal classes, births and maternity staff – Details .....	45
Q357/2016 St Bernard’s Hospital operations – Cancellations.....	47
Q358/2016 Ambulance decontamination – Health risks.....	50
Suspension of Standing Orders.....	52
Standing Order 7(1) suspended to proceed with a Government Statement.....	52
Post-Brexit Meetings in London.....	52
Statement by the Hon. the Chief Minister .....	52
Questions for Oral Answer continued .....	58
Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change .....	58
Q359/2016 Ambulance service – Plans to relocate .....	58
Q360/2016 Dementia residential care facility, Old Naval Hospital – Service provider .....	59
Q361/2016 Dementia day centre – Progress.....	61
Q362/2016 Old Naval Hospital dementia facility – Panel of experts.....	63
Q363-364/2016 GHA Complaints – Complaints received .....	64
Q365/2016 External health referrals – Reasons, institutions and costs.....	65
Q456/2016 Primary Care Centre – Complaints.....	68

Q457/2016 St Bernard’s Hospital – Security re dementia patients .....	70
Q458-468/2016 General Medical Council – New framework .....	71
Q469/2016 St Bernard’s Hospital – Number of surgeons .....	78
Q470/2016 St Bernard’s Hospital – Bullying of junior doctors.....	79
Q471-472/2016 Xanit Hospital – Transfer of patients by ambulance .....	80
Q473/2016 Xanit – Monthly payment.....	82
.....	86
Q360/2016 Dementia residential care facility, Old Naval Hospital – Service provider.....	59
Q361/2016 Dementia day centre – Progress .....	61
Q362/2016 Old Naval Hospital dementia facility – Panel of experts .....	63
Q363-364/2016 GHA Complaints – Complaints received .....	64
Q365/2016 External health referrals – Reasons, institutions and costs .....	65
Q456/2016 Primary Care Centre – Complaints .....	68
Q457/2016 St Bernard’s Hospital – Security re dementia patients .....	70
Q458-468/2016 General Medical Council – New framework .....	71
Q469/2016 St Bernard’s Hospital – Number of surgeons .....	78
Q470/2016 St Bernard’s Hospital – Bullying of junior doctors.....	79
Q471-472/2016 Xanit Hospital – Transfer of patients by ambulance .....	80
Q473/2016 Xanit – Monthly payment.....	82
The House adjourned at 8.11 p.m. .....	86

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.04 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

PAPERS TO BE LAID

Clerk: Wednesday, 29th June 2016 – Order of Proceedings.

(vi) Papers to be laid. The Hon. the Chief Minister.

5       Acting Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, as Acting Chief Minister, I have the honour to lay on the Table: the Consolidated Fund Pay Settlement – Statement No.1 of 2014/2015; the Consolidated Fund Supplementary Funding – Statement No. 2 of 2014/15; the Consolidated Fund Reallocations – Statement No. 3 of 2014/15; the Improvement and Development Fund Reallocations – Statement No. 1 of 2014/2015.

10

Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

The Hon. Mr Cortes again.

15       Hon. Dr J E Cortes: And on behalf of the Deputy Chief Minister, I have the honour to lay on the Table: the Air Traffic Survey Report 2015.

Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

20       Clerk: The Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

20

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to lay on the Table: the Tourist Survey Report 2015; and the Hotel Occupancy Survey 2015.

25       Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

Clerk: The Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

30       Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to lay on the Table: the Accounts for the Gibraltar Heritage Trust for the financial year ended 31st March 2015.

Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

35       And I myself have the honour to report that in accordance with Standing Order 12(3) the Ombudsman's Annual Report for the year ending 31st December 2015 has been submitted to Parliament. I now rule that it has been laid on the Table.

Questions for Oral Answer

HEALTH, THE ENVIRONMENT, ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Q289-290/2016

Glass lookout, Mount Misery; Royal Anglian Way suspension bridge – Progress, costs and maintenance

Clerk: (vii) Reports of Committees; (viii) Answers to Oral Questions.
We commence with Question 289/2016, the Hon. L F Llamas.

40

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, when is the glass lookout at Mount Misery expected to open and what are the insurance and maintenance costs expected to be?

45

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 290.

50

Clerk: Question 290, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, when is the Anglian Way suspension bridge expected to open and what are the insurance and maintenance costs expected to be?

55

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

60

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the glass lookout or skywalk at Mount Misery is expected to open in October. The Royal Anglian Way suspension bridge was opened by the Hon. the Chief Minister on Tuesday, 21st June.

There are no insurance costs for either as the Government is self-insuring.

In relation to maintenance for both, the Nature Reserve maintenance team will manage the general day-to-day maintenance which will include cleaning and odd jobs as and when required.

65

Arrangements for more specialised maintenance are currently under consideration.

Hon. L J Llamas: Does the Hon. Minister have an indication of what those specialised maintenance may be or is it just a starting project?

70

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, particularly in relation to the bridge which has already opened. In relation to the skywalk, the technical documents are being studied and presented and will be handed over at the time of handing over of the skywalk.

75

In relation to the bridge, we have the manuals and what we are looking at is what the costs and so on are going to be. They are not expected to be more than a few thousand pounds a year. It is mainly checks on such things as the cabling and so on and so forth which have to be done by people who know what is involved and that is what we are studying at the moment.

Because it is brand new, this will not be required, I believe, until approximately one year's time and we are quite far advanced in knowing what arrangements we are going to be putting in place.

80 Hon. R M Clinton: If I may, can the hon. Member advise us of any anticipated charges for the use of the skywalk or the bridge in future?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the bridge has been opened and there has been no additional charge and no charge at all introduced. There are no plans at the moment. As the House knows, we are reviewing all sorts of different aspects about the Upper Rock, but there is no specific plan at this point in time to introduce charges.

That does not mean that when we have developed the Upper Rock Project further, there may not be changes. But at this moment, none are envisaged.

90 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, in relation to the insurance, the hon. Gentleman said that the Government was self-insuring. It means obviously that the Government has decided not to take any insurance and will pay any claims if they arise.

Is this a conscious decision by the Government to take out no insurance, or is it for example that the quotes that the Government has received from insurance companies the Government felt were prohibitive?

Did the Government explore the possibility of obtaining insurance or from the very beginning did the Government just simply make a decision they were going to be self-insuring and not seek any quotes from insurance companies?

100 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: There was no initial intention to have specific insurance. I think it must be stated that both structures, and I can speak from personal experience of the bridge which I have already crossed, are extremely safe. They are built to very, very safe specifications and are probably safer than the average walk on the Upper Rock. Therefore we do not feel that there are any particular dangers involved at this stage, but as I say the whole policy for the Upper Rock is being reviewed and these are things that may be considered in the future.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, the reason why I ask is that ... Of course, the structure is going to be a safe structure; nobody is talking about a structure actually falling and for the avoidance of doubt, there was no implication in my question that that is the case. It is that of course, if you have for example young children who are crossing this particular bridge it is unsupervised, you may have implications, legal implications in terms of if there is an accident on the bridge involving young children or anybody else.

It is in that context that I am asking whether the Government has sought any kind of view on the insurance aspects of this particular project or not?

115 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I will not rule out anything. These are things that can always be studied, but I have to state again that it is very safe – not just from the point of view that the bridge is in no danger of collapse, but from the point of view that it is actually safe. The Hon. Leader of the Opposition actually lives closer to the bridge than probably anybody else in this Chamber, I do not know whether he has experienced it himself, but apart from the fact that it is under supervision, it is also safer from that respect because there are high barriers on either side. It is not a place that you can fall off.

As I say, it is probably safer than a lot of other areas on the Upper Rock or any other mountain trail that one might go on anywhere else in the world. It is not considered to be a high-risk structure.

Hon. D A Feetham: Thank you very much, Mr Speaker.

And in relation to maintenance costs, the hon. Gentleman said there would be some cost. Now, I would have expected the Government to know precisely how much the maintenance cost is going to be and I would ask the hon. Gentleman to give us the information.

135 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, we have an estimate of what we expect the maintenance cost for the bridge, which has been handed over, to be. I said, 'a few thousand pounds'. If memory serves me right, it may be something like five or six thousand pounds a year. It is a question of finding quotes to see who would be providing those services.

So we have an idea but we are waiting to see proposals for the maintenance. As I said, some of the maintenance is going to be done in-house by the Upper Rock management team. We are talking about cleaning and basic things like that.

140 Hon. R M Clinton: If I may, would the hon. Gentleman be able to advise if there are any security arrangements in place for the bridge and the skybridge at night, and if so, what if any measures have been taken to manage the apes in the area?

145 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: There is security. Security is going to be provided throughout. The security is briefed and there are signs at either end of the bridge asking people not to cross when there are monkeys on the bridge – only because in a confined space, monkeys do not particularly like that and may react.

150 But they are tending not to use the structure at the moment. Everybody expects monkeys to love jumping up and down on bridges but they have not been seen doing that on a regular basis. But there is a security presence and also signs on either end. It is the same as if you face a monkey on Charles V Wall, which is a narrow area and that is the only time when it is possible that a monkey might find itself confined and may attack.

155 So people have been warned clearly and there is somebody there warning people, should they see monkeys on the bridge, then go round the path and not cross it. But technically, if you come face to face with a monkey in a restricted area anywhere, that is a fact of life.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, the Minister referenced security for the suspension bridge. Can he just describe in a little more detail what that security comprises?

160 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, there is a security guard present on site.

Hon. T N Hammond: Is that an additional security guard and so therefore, is that included in the maintenance costs of the bridge, if you like?

165 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: We have an arrangement with a security firm to carry out security duties throughout the Upper Rock – environmental security which includes being at some of the Macaque sites and so on to warn people off and so on – so it is included in that package and it is a question of them re-deploying in different areas but always making sure that there is somebody by the bridge.

170 So it is not an additional cost; it is just a re-arrangement of the current security arrangements.

175 Hon. T N Hammond: Thank you. And just to get clarification for my purposes, the Minister referenced the Nature Reserve management maintenance scheme. It is not a document I am familiar with obviously. Is that purely an internal document or is that one that may be available?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Maintenance team.

180 Hon. T N Hammond: My apologies, I heard 'scheme'.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Maintenance team: it is the team that has been in place now for about eight or nine years which does work on the Upper Rock.

185 Hon. T N Hammond: My apologies, I misheard that. I heard scheme so I thought it was a programme of some sort.

Thank you.

190 Hon R M Clinton: If I may ask one final question. Just from a point of view of security again: at night, is the site secure?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Arrangements are being made for a security presence day and night.

Q291-292/2016

Unlawful incursions into British Gibraltar Territorial Waters – Details of Spanish fishermen

Clerk: Question 291, the Hon. T N Hammond.

195 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for the Environment state how many unlawful incursions into British Gibraltar Territorial Waters have taken place by Spanish fishermen since May 2015, broken down on a monthly basis and how many of these have ended up with a fine, appropriation of a boat, or the confiscation of their assets?

200 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 292.

205

Clerk: Question 292, the Hon. T N Hammond.

210 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Government say how many vessels have been boarded by either the RGP, GPA or any other agency in order to check for compliance with the Marine Protection Regulations since 1st June 2015; and would the Government provide a breakdown of how many of the vessels were local and how many were foreign?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

215

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I hand over to the hon. Member a schedule containing the information on the number of incursions into BGTW by Spanish fishermen since May 2015.

220 On the subject of boarding of vessels, this has been done by the Royal Gibraltar Police and relates to two tuna fishing cases, both foreign.

The Department's Environmental Protection and Research Unit has five cases which are being reported for process, including four cases of seizures of equipment. All relate to Spanish nationals.

ANSWER TO QUESTION 292/2016

Answer to Question 291/2016

FISHING INCURSIONS

YEAR	MONTH	INCURSIONS
2015	May	6
	June	17
	July	20
	August	18
	September	24
	October	11
	November	13
	December	17
	2016	January	11
		February	10
March		12
April		13
May		11
June		0

225 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, there is a little bit of data here. In order to keep proceedings moving, I am happy, as long as I am afforded the opportunity, to come back should it become necessary.

Q293-294/2016

Bluefin tuna –

Tonnage caught and registered in Gibraltar

Clerk: Question 293, the Hon. T N Hammond.

230 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for the Environment state what has been the tonnage of Bluefin tuna caught and registered in Gibraltar since the current legislation was enacted?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

235

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 294.

Clerk: Question 294, the Hon. T N Hammond.

240

Hon. T N Hammond: Further to the answer given to Question 304/2015, can the Minister for the Environment state (a) the information available so far in the Department of Environment Fisheries database; and (b) the figures for the fish tagging programme and type?

245

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

250 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the tonnage of Bluefin tuna caught and registered in Gibraltar since the current legislation was enacted – that excludes this year, the season only started about a week or so ago, so it is last year's figures, Mr Speaker – is 13.473 tonnes.

The information available in the Department of the Environment Fisheries database consists of data pertaining to the licences issued to date for all the different licence types available under the Marine Protection Regulations.

255 The figures that are currently available for the fish tagging programme are as follows: Bluefin tuna tagging, 88 specimens; White Bream tagging, 19.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, just reference the Bluefin tuna catch, 13.473 tonnes – that would be almost half a tonne over the legal limit?

260

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker. The explanation for that is that tuna come in and they are weighed. You then assess the tonnage at the end of the day and it just takes two tuna to go over by 400 kilos. Therefore I do not have the exact details but you cannot have the precise cut off at 13. So as soon as it was seen that the data came over 13, it was stopped. There is always a little bit of leeway.

265

I think we must also remember that includes tuna which were confiscated by the Department because there was a second tuna caught and so on, but the real crucial thing is that you tally at the end of the day and therefore if you were just under 13 you are going to be just over 13 on the actual cut off. That is the reason.

Q296-299/2016
Fisheries Advisory Committee – Allocation

270

Clerk: Question 295 is unallocated, so we move to Question 296, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Has the Government established a Fisheries Advisory Committee as recommended by the Fishing Report?

275

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 297 to 299.

280

Clerk: Question 297, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for the Environment advise what research, as recommended by the Environmental Action and Management Plan, has taken place for the purpose of EU Marine Strategy compliance?

285

Clerk: Question 298, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister say if a research programme on the nursery function of BGTW for fish species has been undertaken?

290

Clerk: Question 299, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister say if it has been possible to establish a code of conduct for dolphin watching, in collaboration with Spanish authorities, as recommended in the fishing report?

295

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

300

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, marine research in British Gibraltar Territorial Waters (BGTW) has taken great strides in the past four and a half years. Following a publication of Gibraltar's initial assessment of British Gibraltar Territorial Waters and the proposals for good environmental status in BGTW in 2012, HM Government of Gibraltar published its Marine Strategy Framework Directive (MSFD) Monitoring Programme in July 2015.

305

There are currently numerous research areas that are being investigated by the Department of the Environment and Climate Change in line with the monitoring programme and the environmental descriptions included in the programme include: EU-protected habitat types such as reefs; EU-protected species including cetaceans and marine reptiles; non-indigenous species such as invasive algae; contaminants in water and marine biota; marine litter; sea-floor integrity and benthic ecosystems.

310

A Fishing Working Group has been created.

Investigating the nursery functions of different areas within BGTW forms part of the Department's research aims and this led to the creation of No Fishing Zones in Sandy Bay, Seven Sisters and Mid Harbours.

315

As part of this research, the Department installed an underwater camera in spring 2015. The camera is helping the Department monitor fish species amongst other useful bio-indicators within the Rosia Marine Conservation Zone. It is also assisting the Department's marine awareness campaign by providing live underwater footage to the general public.

320

A code of conduct for dolphin watching known as the Cetacean Protocol has been implemented in British Gibraltar Territorial Waters. This has not been established in collaboration with the Spanish authorities but is similar to the protocol established in Spain under Spanish law.

325

Hon. T N Hammond: I thank the Minister for that comprehensive answer. He did reference the marine camera that has been installed and I admit I too go to the Thinking Green site and do enjoy the images.

Does the Minister by any chance know how much the camera costs to situate in that location, how much it costs to maintain and how often it has been unserviceable since its installation?

330

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I would need notice. I volunteered the camera information so I would need notice as to the particular cost. It has been out of action several times, as one would expect a camera out at sea is likely to, and obviously has to be serviced. It is generally serviced in-house by the Department's diving team but I would need notice for the more specific information.

335

Hon. T N Hammond: Thank you. And reference the Cetacean Protocol, I understand that we have introduced a protocol which reflects a similar protocol which must exist in Spain. Do Spanish dolphin operators comply with the protocol in BGTW?

340

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I hope so. It is very difficult to police something like that because we are talking about distances and so on and you have to be ... but it is expected that the Spanish operators would. I cannot answer specifically whether there are any occasions where they have not.

345

Spanish dolphin tour operators tend to do most of their watching on the other side of the median line, but I have no information that they have not. They would be expected to because it is a protocol that has to be followed in BGTW but I have no specific information – and certainly no reports of any instances of it not being followed have come to me.

350 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker. Mr Speaker tying answers that the hon. Gentleman has given to the questions that he has just dealt with, with also the answers to questions in terms of the incursions from 2015, and just taking the Hon. Minister to the schedule: if the Hon. Minister looks at the schedule that he has given me for fishing incursions, apart from one month where there have been six incursions, the minimum number of incursions a month during those 15 months is 11, the maximum is 24 so there is an average of about 14 or 15 incursions per month.

355 What kind of an impact does the hon. Gentleman believe that these incursions are having on fishing stocks in Gibraltar and the Government's initiatives that of course he has quite comprehensively outlined in his answers to the question a few moments ago?

360 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: What an interesting question, Mr Speaker. (Laughter) No, genuinely interesting!

Mr Speaker, it is hard to tell because these are figures provided by the RGP which monitor this and this does not tell us and the data I have seen does not provide information on whether these fishing incursions are actually fishing, for how long they are fishing and so on. So it really does depend on whether they are just on their way through and how long and so on.

365 To me, whether the impact is significant is again something that would require data: how many fish have been caught or how many shellfish have been raked. To me all those are things that I would not like to see, it is absolutely clear.

The only thing I can say is that the people I have spoken to who fish in Gibraltar waters from Gibraltar recreationally have commented on increases in fish stocks. We have had reports of whales spending considerable periods of time within BGTW and humpback whales feed very largely on fish. So I think that there will be an impact. I do not think it is stopping the recovery of stocks.

370 Clearly I would like there to be zero incursions. That is nothing that is going to surprise anybody. Scientifically, I am unable to say because I just do not have the scientific information to analyse that.

Q300-302/2016
Dust and water pollution –
Monitoring and fines

Clerk: Question 300, the Hon. T N Hammond.

380 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for the Environment say if a method for the quantification of African dust intrusion has been developed?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

385 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 301 and 302.

Clerk: Question 301, the Hon. T N Hammond.

390 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for the Environment say if a rain gauge has been installed at the Rosia Road monitoring station?

Clerk: Question 302, the Hon. T N Hammond.

395

Hon. T N Hammond: As a part of the strict application of the 'polluter pays' principle set out in the Environmental Action and Management Plan, can the Minister for the Environment say what fines have been issued since 2011?

400 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, in answer to Questions 300 and 301, yes sir, it has to both questions.

405 In answer to Question 302, the Environmental Agency has instituted legal proceedings for breaches of the Environment (Control of Dust) Regulations 2010 in 2016 and three fines have been imposed.

Q303/2016

Bathing water standards – Revision

Clerk: Question 303, the Hon. T N Hammond.

410

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for the Environment say if the required standards for bathing water have been revised since 2012?

415 Clerk: Answer the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, yes they have.

420 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, as they have been revised, have those revisions been made publicly available? They may well have been; I am just not aware of having seen anything to that effect or any announcement to that effect.

425 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I would have to check. I believe they have. I believe they have been referred to in press releases. I have no problem in summarising what they are if that would be of assistance.

430 This is a new Bathing Water Directive which was adopted in 2006 which led to progressive improvement in ... It was aimed at achieving progressive achievement in water quality and the new requirements came into force in 2015 so they are effective from this year. And so they now require monitoring of two microbiological indicators of faecal contamination, E.coli and intestinal enterococci.

435 At the end of 2015 bathing sites were classified into four categories: excellent, good, sufficient or poor. These specifications are based on an analysis of sample results in 2015 and the preceding three years cumulatively. They are considered together.

Additionally, the current water quality has now got to be classified as acceptable and low, depending on the number of organisms seen in the samples taken. That is a brief synopsis.

440 Hon. T N Hammond: And bearing in mind the EU report on the waters, which I know we have already gone through in the press so I do not want to necessarily re-open that discussion, does any independent monitoring of our waters and the quality of our waters take place?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Not to my knowledge. This is sampled by the Environmental Agency so I have no reason to think that they need to have independent scrutiny, but I am not aware of anybody who does it separately.

445 I think that it is relevant to say without entering into any discussion that we have already had, and it is in the public domain, that the 2015 quality taken on its own is better in all cases than the four-year average, which includes 2015 which obviously shows improved water quality, with the exception of Western Beach, which remains poor as an average, as we know, and Little Bay which remains good. It has not gone like, for example, Eastern Beach which has gone from good 450 to excellent and so on.

So the quality was better last year than the four-year data, which I think is a good sign but in answer to that supplementary, I am not aware of any independent sampling and certainly we do not do it, other than the Environmental Agency.

Q304-305/2016

Countering vandalism and litter across Upper Rock – Maintenance programmes; CCTV cameras

455 Clerk: Question 304, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, in November of last year, the Government announced ‘the implementation of efficient continuous maintenance programmes backed by anti-litter measures, to counter vandalism. CCTV cameras were also deployed across all tourist sites within 460 the Upper Rock.’ Can the Government describe in more detail, these maintenance programmes, in particular anti-litter measures, and whether any fines have resulted from these measures?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.
465

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 305.

Clerk: Question 305, the Hon. T N Hammond.
470

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Government say how many CCTV cameras have been deployed across the Upper Rock and where are they located?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.
475

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Gibraltar Nature Reserve Management Team, as well as the maintenance team of the Gibraltar Tourist Board, carry out regular maintenance works within the Upper Rock.
480

The maintenance programme is wide ranging and includes the removal of litter and graffiti, clearing footpaths and vegetation, restoring historic structures and street furniture, as well as other routine tasks.

In addition to the installation of CCTV across tourist sites, the most significant anti-litter measure carried out has been the deployment of environmental security guards and environmental protection officers.
485

No fines have been issued to date.

There are 57 CCTV cameras across the Upper Rock.

Q306/2016

Rock of Gibraltar and Upper Rock Management Plans – Publication

Clerk: Question 306, the Hon. T N Hammond.

490

Hon. T N Hammond: Would the Minister for the Environment advise when the Government will be publishing the Rock of Gibraltar Management Plan and Upper Rock Management Plan?

495

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

500

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the draft Nature Reserve Management Plan is ready – you can see it here – and will be published as a consultation document within the next few weeks. It will be available online from the Department of the Environment and Climate Change website.

505

Hon. T N Hammond: Just so I have complete clarity then, that is the document, and I did not quite catch what it was called, that is covered by the descriptions in the Environmental Action Management Plan?

510

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, when we undertook to carry out the Upper Rock Management Plan it was still called the Upper Rock Nature Reserve, but because of the expansion it is now called the Gibraltar Nature Reserve and therefore, although largely it will refer to the Upper Rock, it will also refer to other areas. So the full name is the Gibraltar Nature Reserve Management Plan.

515

I must say, Mr Speaker, that we were going to publish this a couple of weeks ago and then notice came of the question and because of the guidance given in the past, I thought it would be improper to just put it on the website and tell the hon. Member today it is on the website already, but it will be there very shortly.

Hon. T N Hammond: I very much appreciate that action on the part of the Minister.

The original timescale for that plan was actually to be completed by 2013. Can the Minister explain why there has been such a substantial delay?

520

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Because it is a lot of work, Mr Speaker, and most of the work has been done by one of the senior members of the Department of the Environment and Climate Change, Steven Warr, who is also leading on all sorts of other areas. But also the importance of widespread consultation and every time one reads it, you say, 'Well okay, this we need to discuss with another stakeholder.' It has really been in process, also because as I said before, the Gibraltar Nature Reserve is now bigger than just the Upper Rock and has to take other sites into consideration, but I am glad to say that we are there.

525

Q307-308/2016

Upper Rock and Marine Nature Reserves – Watering points; vulnerability assessments

530

Clerk: Question 307, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister say how many extra watering points have been placed across the Upper Rock Nature Reserve?

535

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 308.

540

Clerk: Question 308, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister say if any vulnerability assessments have been conducted for habitats and species within the Upper Rock and Marine Nature Reserves, as recommended by the Environmental Action Management Plan?

545

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

550

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, five extra watering points have been created across the Upper Rock.

Mr Speaker, in answer to Question 308, yes, vulnerability assessments are being carried out by the Department in both the Upper Rock and the Marine Nature Reserve.

555

Hon. T N Hammond: And is the Minister aware for what species or habitats these assessments are being conducted for?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, generally. Surveillance monitoring data is collected by the Department, by Government contractors and by NGOs in both the terrestrial and the marine sites and they are used to determine the vulnerability of different habitats and species.

560

The Barbary Partridge is one that comes to mind which has resulted in our reintroduction programme, which as we know has been successful. Maybe limpets are another one: the Mediterranean Rib Limpet, which is the one with special protection.

565

I cannot specifically give a list of everything – well, I suppose I could if I sat down and thought about it, but those are two specific examples. It is general monitoring and then you focus.

Yes, another example: the Lesser Kestrel is being monitored. Unfortunately it seems that from 20 pairs five or six years ago, there is only one pair left, probably due to the fact – anecdotally I can give it to you now – that they have to fly further and further away to feed in Spain, as La Linea has expanded.

570

So those are the sorts of things that are picked up and then you say, what can we do about it? So right we are going to try and enhance the captive breeding of Lesser Kestrels to see if we can release them. That is the sort of thing I mean.

575

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just out of interest, it is something that the hon. Gentleman and I speak about occasionally; we have not for some time. I know that in the Upper Rock Nature Reserve in the last one, it outlined that the Government, I think it was our Government, had made an attempt – and the hon. Gentleman was involved in that – to introduce foxes into the Upper Rock and there were a number of foxes that were introduced. Certainly I have never seen any and I wonder whether he can give us some information in relation to that?

580

Also an interesting project in the old Upper Rock Nature Reserve was the introduction of the idea of the Iberian Ibex which was something that again was being planned and I wonder whether that is something the Government intends to do in the near future or perhaps in the future.

585 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I have no problem in answering those, in fact I am going to enjoy doing so. They are not specific supplementaries but with your leave, Mr Speaker, I will just very briefly answer them if I may.

A decision was taken just a couple of weeks ago, in consultation with the Nature Conservancy Council, to attempt once again the reintroduction of the Red Fox and we have already started 590 sourcing suitable animals. They will be fitted with satellite transmission collars so we can keep tabs on where they are, and that is something that can be put in the public domain.

Regarding Ibex, what has held us back when we have consulted the experts of the species – it is the Iberian Ibex so clearly there were experts in Spain – is the possibility of the fact that they spend a lot of time on cliffs, destabilising cliffs and possibly causing danger. In a place like 595 Gibraltar where we have cliffs overlooking roads and so on, we have taken a step back from that, because we thought although we would love to have Ibex, the risk was too high. Therefore we have stopped that project, sadly. Unless we have other assessments that say otherwise, we thought that public safety, clearly we all agreed, was more important.

Q309-321/2016

Environmental Action and Management Plan –

Biodiversity; electricity and water; tidal currents; grants; transport; development; heritage

600 Clerk: Question 309, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for the Environment say if the Biodiversity Action Plan described in the Environmental Action and Management Plan has been published?

605 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 310 to 321.

610 Clerk: Question 310, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: In the Environmental Action and Management Plan, Government stated that to encourage greater energy efficiency, electricity bills would be revised to provide more 615 information to the end consumer. This would happen by the end of 2014. Can the Minister say what additional information has been made available on these electricity bills?

Clerk: Question 311, the Hon. T N Hammond.

620 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for the Environment say what revisions have been introduced as recommended by the Environmental Action and Management Plan, to the electricity and water tariff system?

Clerk: Question 312, the Hon. T N Hammond.

625 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for the Environment say if the study of tidal current profiles in BGTW as recommended by the Environmental Action and Management Plan has been completed?

630 Clerk: Question 313, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Government say if any part of the existing electricity grid has been upgraded to allow for the connection of renewable energy, as recommended by the Environmental Action and Management Plan?

635 Clerk: Question 314, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: The EAMP recommends the establishment of a fund for energy efficient home improvements to be in place by 2014: can the Minister say if the fund is in place and how many grants to home owners have been offered through this fund?

640

Clerk: Question 315, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: The EAMP recommends the implementation of educational programmes to encourage children to walk or cycle to school: can the Minister say how many programmes have been run and at which schools from the start of 2014 to the present date?

645

Clerk: Question 316, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister say how many cycling proficiency courses, as recommended by the EAMP, have been held since the beginning of 2014?

650

Clerk: Question 317, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister say on which dates the “In town without my car” days have been held since the beginning of 2012 and, as recommended by the EAMP, which roads were reserved for pedestrians, cyclists and public transport on those days?

655

Clerk: Question 318, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister say what permanent measures have been introduced since 2013 which have been aimed at contributing to modal transfer from the private car to an environmentally sound means of transport?

660

Clerk: Question 319, the Hon. T N Hammond.

665

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister confirm whether all Government development projects are now subject to the planning process as recommended by the EAMP?

Clerk: Question 320, the Hon. T N Hammond.

670

Hon. T N Hammond: Considering the volume of imminent development, is Government intending to apply the recommendation in the EAMP that any new development includes a minimum of 5% total land area as green areas?

675

Clerk: Question 321, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Government say how much progress has been made towards the creation of an Environmental Heritage Register as described by the EAMP?

680

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will take the questions in turn. They have been put together because they all refer to the EAMP and it was, I think, a convenient way of dealing with them.

685

The EAMP actually, Mr Speaker, does not say that a Biodiversity Action Plan was going to be published, but rather that the existing plan was going to be implemented and this work is currently ongoing.

690

The electricity and water bills now include a graph showing the last 12 months of usage. This allows consumers to identify patterns in their energy consumption. The information will allow customers to take informed decisions on daily habits which will lead to energy as well as cost savings. Similarly, customers will be able to see whether the measures taken to reduce consumption are having the desired effect.

In relation to Question 311, no changes have been introduced to date.

695

Question 312: a study of tidal current profiles was conducted by French oceanography company Énergie de la Lune.

700

Question 313: the Government through the GEA continues to invest in the upgrade of the electricity grid, not only to allow for the connection of renewable energy as recommended by the EAMP but also as an integral part of the construction of the new gas-fired power station at North Mole. At low voltage, most schemes can already be accommodated.

Question 314, the fund has not yet been set up. However, interested parties can apply to the Ministry of Finance for loans for projects which will result in energy and efficiency and renewable energy benefits. The placing of solar panels on the roof of Sir William Jackson Grove is an example of such an initiative.

705

Question 315, the Department of the Environment and Climate Change has an ongoing environmental education programme through which the departmental scientists visit all schools every year to talk to different year groups about environmental issues. The issue of traffic and pollution and the ways in which they can help to tackle these, such as by walking, cycling or taking the bus to school, are addressed every year.

710

Thirty-three cycling proficiency courses have been held since 2014.

An 'In town without my car' day was held on Saturday, 22nd September 2012. Secretary's Lane, Governor's Lane, Convent Place, Convent Lane and the southern end of Main Street were closed to vehicular traffic from 10 a.m. till 7 p.m.

715

During subsequent years, time and resources have been focused on developing the Sustainable Traffic, Transport and Parking Plan. However, I am pleased to say, that an 'In town without my car' day will be held again this September on Sunday, 18th with Secretary's Lane, Governor's Lane, Convent Place, Convent Lane and the southern end of Main Street, and Line Wall Road up until the junction with the Haven all being closed to vehicular traffic for the day.

720

In answer to Question 318, a number of fiscal incentives have been introduced with this aim. There is a £1,000 cash back available to those who register an electric or hybrid vehicle and import duty on these vehicles has been reduced to zero. New Euro VI engine buses have been purchased, routes have been reviewed and refined, a night bus service was introduced and most recently, real time information for a number of bus routes has been made available.

725

Question 319: all Government projects go through the planning process for guidance and advice. Issues discussed at the planning stage are then considered and usually adopted by Government. Additionally as part of the green filter policy adopted by this Government when we first came into office, Government projects are referred to the Department of the Environment for environmental considerations. The new Town Planning Act will require Government projects to be processed formally.

730

In answer to Question 320, yes, the Government will continue to apply this policy which it currently does through the planning process. It is a standard condition included by the Department in their reviews of new development building applications. Where this is not feasible, alternatives are suggested such as green roofs and increase in trees and planters within the development.

735 In answer to Question 321, the Department is working on a draft register of sites.

Hon. T N Hammond: Just going back to Question 314, I can therefore confirm that no fund has at this point been established for this purpose?

740 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, that is what I said, at this point in time.

Hon. T N Hammond: And for Question 310, no amendments have been made to the electricity bills either. I made a note but I was not sure that I heard you correctly.

745 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the bills are different. They now have, as I explained, the information regarding consumption. There is a chart which shows you how much you have spent in the previous 12 months and then you can compare that. That is the information that is now provided which was not provided in the old format.

750 Hon. T N Hammond: And for Question 317, and again I think I heard the Minister correctly when he said that no 'In town without my car' days had been held since 2012 but there was one planned for later this year, on Sunday 18th September, I think I heard.

Does the Minister think it is appropriate to hold such a day on a Sunday, when perhaps it is certainly convenient in terms of traffic, but it is hardly encouraging the daily commuter, who may be encouraged to try a different mode of transport to get to work, to actually take that option if they do not have to go to work and will more likely be going, on that date, potentially to beaches and places, and avoiding town with their car anyway.

760 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Well, there are different patterns at weekends. That is clearly something that is obvious. But I think our message is clear. There are people who will use their cars at weekends and on Sundays to perhaps go to lunch somewhere and different types of activities, including going to the beach and they will have to take alternative routes.

So I feel that it does make a statement and my regret is that we have not done it on an annual basis, but as I explained before, initially this was an NGO initiative by the 'In town without my car' group. It was only in 2012 that the Government decided to support it and get involved.

765 But we have been putting our resources towards the traffic plan. I am hoping that this year will be the start of more regular events such as this. The fact that it happens to be my wife's birthday is an absolute coincidence.

770 Hon. T N Hammond: I accept what the Minister said and it is a scheme to be applauded, which is why I am somewhat surprised. I thought I had just missed the day somehow over the last three years. I had not genuinely realised that it had not occurred at all. It is a pity.

Bearing in mind it is going to be held on a Sunday and the bus service, for instance, tends to run with less frequency on a Sunday, on that particular day will the bus services be enhanced to give people the opportunity to use the bus perhaps?

775 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this is something that I have not been briefed on by the Department. It may be the case, I do not have that information. I will enquire and take it up as a possibility. Clearly, one of the things we want to do is to encourage walking. In some cases for some of our citizens that is not an option, but I will need to look into that.

780 Hon. T N Hammond: I come back to the fact that the day is being held on a Sunday because it does feel a little like this is not in the spirit of the day. I presume it is programmed in for this year and nothing can be changed in that respect, but I wonder if in future years the Government may consider holding such an event on a weekday to encourage commuters to experiment with other modes of transport – particularly if eventually we get a ReadyBike scheme and other alternate means of arriving at destination.

790 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I have listened to what the hon. Member has said and it is something that can be looked into. I have not been involved personally in choosing the date so I really need to enquire, but the principle remains the same and I think the fact that the Government is now doing it is a significant step.

795 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may refer the hon. Member back to Question 314 which has a finance angle to it. He mentioned that although there was no fund in place, applications could be made to the Ministry of Finance for loans for energy-efficient home improvements. Does he have any idea about the minimum/maximum amount of loans and what criteria will be used; and does he intend to issue a statement or make this more publicly known?

800 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker, I do not. I would need notice of that and if he will write to me, I would pass it, obviously, to the Financial Secretary. I do know that Sir William Jackson Grove obtained funding in that way. I know that there were other people who applied but I am not sure of the outcome. I do not have that information here.

805 My Department is involved by way of assessing whether it is legitimately energy-efficient, renewable and so on, but not in the actual funding side of it.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I presume it is an initiative that is supported by his Department and therefore you obviously have a real interest in promoting people to do this. Am I correct in saying that so far to his knowledge the only people who have taken advantage of this type of funding arrangement are housing estates rather than private individuals?

815 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: So far as I recall, but that was included by way of an example and I have not consulted or looked into files and so on to see the total amount. So it is as much as I recall at this point in time.

Again, I would need notice if I was going to look into it further or by way of correspondence, I would be happy to assist. It is certainly something that one wants to promote.

820 Hon. T N Hammond: Just going back to Question 309, can I just confirm that the existing plan that the Minister is referring to is the 2006 plan published by GONHS? That is the biodiversity plan?

825 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: It is the Biodiversity Action Plan published by GONHS which probably has a forward by me in it. That is the one. That is coincidence by the way! That is the one. Perez & Bensusan, I believe it was.

Q322-323/2016
Wave generator –
Cost, funding and output

830 Clerk: Question 322, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide a breakdown of the total cost and funding of the wave generator commissioned in May 2016?

835 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 323.

840

Clerk: Question 323, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can Government provide figures for the daily power output since commissioning and the average hourly power output for the period since commissioning of the wave generator?

845

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

850 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the EcoWave project has not been funded by the Gibraltar Government. The project was co-funded by the European Union and EcoWave.

The project total cost was broken down as follows: EU Structural Funds, £98,455.70, which is 30% of the cost; Private Sector Investment, £229,729.96, the remaining 70%.

855 The commissioning process commenced on 6th April 2016 and to date the total power generated has been 37Kwh hours.

The average daily output up to the end of May has been 0.672 Kwh hours and similarly the hourly of 0.03 Kwh.

860 Hon. T N Hammond: I must confess, I do get slightly confused with these figures sometimes. So 0.672 Kwh as an average hourly output equates to 672 Watts per hour, is that correct? So that is a dozen light bulbs. (Laughter)

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Probably a little bit more than that; several kettles. (Laughter)

865 Mr Speaker, I think it is important to say that this is the commissioning period and that during this time, what has been happening is that not all the generators have been working at the same time. Some of them have been done one at a time in order to see how they develop. So this is no reflection of the ultimate output. Also obviously sea state affects this.

870 The full potential is 100 Kw and that has been clear from the outset, but at this moment in time in the initial stages where it is still going through a testing phase, the output is absolutely low, absolutely low that is no secret.

However, the fact that at least an infinitesimal amount of the light lighting us up here today comes from the sea, to me is significant. But clearly it is early days, the plan is to go up to the 5 Mw within the next 12 to 18 months.

875

Hon. T N Hammond: I do apologise, it was not my intention to be facetious. It just sprung to mind, once I realised the level of power output.

So in order to produce those 5 Mw what would be the dimensions? How many wave generators will we need to achieve that?

880

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: It is not necessarily bigger in size. The bigger plant will not be at that location. That location has the potential for some increase, but due to the fact that the pier is very old and structurally, the end of the pier is not safe enough for installing all of these wave generators, there are several other sites that we are planning to use and we are in discussion with EcoWave as to which they would be. But it is not that huge, it is not directly proportional to the ones that are there now.

885

Hon. T N Hammond: Can I just confirm wave generators do require waves to generate energy? It is not like solar panels where daylight is sufficient. They do actually require waves so if you have extended periods with little wave action, there is little energy?

890

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker, any movement will generate.

On the day that the plant was opened, you would have looked at the sea and said it was calm. But if you went into the unit where the generators are, you could see them moving. So any movement will generate wave power.

895

They will act between a wave difference – and I am using memory here – between 40 centimetres and four or five metres wave range. Clearly the higher the range, the quicker the pressure is built up into the cylinders which use a natural oil and the release of the pressure moves the turbines. Any movement will do it, but the more waves and the higher the waves, the more power.

900

So one would expect that the winter would be a more productive time than the summer, except when we have a levantera, but any movement will do it. Technically it is supposed to be 40 centimetres to kick it off, but even with less there will be some generation.

905

Hon. T N Hammond: And therefore whilst sites for other potential generators have not necessarily been identified at present, they could work equally well on the east or the west side of the Rock?

910

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes indeed, they have been identified. Several options have been identified and we are discussing with EcoWave which would be the best from the point of view of wave generation and also environmental impact. There are several sites both on the east and west side that have been identified and discussions are in progress to see which would be the ones to be used.

915

Hon. T N Hammond: I presume that while this pilot project has not cost Government any money at this point, the fuller rollout of a project such as you describe would have cost implications to Government?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker.

920

Hon. T N Hammond: So the incentive for the company to provide this then is presumably that we will buy the energy it produces off them?

925

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, in this market power purchase agreements are the way forward. The investment and the risk is purely on the side of the person developing the technology.

930

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, what percentage of Gibraltar's electricity output does the Government expect will be produced via this particular source if it does really work to its full potential?

935

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: If it is 5 Mw, it would be approximately 15%. If the 5 Mw plant works well and it could be increased to 10 Mw, then that would be 30%. So that is the bracket we are aiming to achieve; 15% is probably the minimum that would satisfy me.

935

Hon. D A Feetham: So effectively 15% of electricity would be produced by a private company that is effectively selling electricity to the Gibraltar Government and that is how it is going to be funded. Correct?

940 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Put that way, yes. Yes I think that is a correct way of assessing it. I would emphasise the benefits of waver power over and above that consideration, but it is a power purchase agreement so we would be buying the power.

I am not going to go into details of the contractual arrangements because there may be time elements and so on, where other things would come into play.

945 Hon. D A Feetham: But this would have absolutely nothing to do with the Electricity Authority; this is entirely private.

And could I also ask the hon. Gentleman whether ... and I accept that he may need notice of this and he may not be able to answer it, but is this going to be a potential template – in other words the buying of electricity from a private company – for the expansion of electricity capacity in Gibraltar in other areas – not necessarily, I may add, in relation to the power station. I look at the Father of the House who probably has more information in relation to this than the hon. Gentleman.

955 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, not necessarily.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may ask the hon. Member, in relation to the power generation, does he have in his mind or does he have information in terms of how long the contract is with EcoWave and is there – obviously there will be in a hire purchase agreement – a contracted rate per unit of electricity is supplied? Can he advise the House what that would be and of course whether that is a more expensive option or cheaper than other sources of power generation?

965 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I do not have all the information, I would need notice. The rate is commercially sensitive, but clearly there is a rate, otherwise you do not have a power purchase agreement.

Hon. R M Clinton: But would the hon. Member know if that rate is more expensive than, for example, the envisaged gas fired power station?

970 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I hesitate to answer yes or no because I would need to check facts and I am not going to commit myself to something that could then be attributed to me without having had the necessary information.

975 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just following on from that, of course we all understand that having electricity generated in an ecologically sensitive way is preferable to something that is not as friendly to the environment, and there is an intrinsic value in that and one has to accept that. But there are obviously balancing exercises to be done in assessing things like this and one is the question of cost.

980 Now, I can understand if it were very expensive compared to other more conventional forms of electricity, that the Government may say, 'Well actually, the reason why we are doing it is because we have to provide 20% of our electricity, renewable electricity by a particular date.' I think it is – if we are to stay in the EU! – I think it is by 2020/2021 that there is a requirement that we move towards 20% of renewable energy.

985 Is that what this is about? Is this integral to the Government fulfilling what were its obligations to provide, to have 20% of renewable energy by 2020/2021? Is that what it is? Because then of course I could understand that, rather than a situation where one is simply going for environmentally friendly but it is going to cost much more – and we still do not know and I am giving him the benefit of the doubt because of course we have not seen the figures. But I just want a flavour of the thinking of the Government in relation to this.

990

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member knows who he is asking that question to (Laughter and interjection) and he knows that the environmental considerations are extremely important. (Interjection) My colleague says 'trumps all', but I do not like using that word in a political context!

995 Mr Speaker, I would not be concerned about renewable energy being more expensive without giving any detail, because as I have said before, I do not think I have them. It is part of an EU obligation of 20% by 2020. I would like to think that we can surpass that and if we are no longer bound by the EU I would like to think that certainly from the environmental point of view, if we do not comply we do not comply because we are better and not worse than what the EU currently requires of us.

Hon. D A Feetham: I accept, Mr Speaker, that environmental considerations are extremely important in this day and age and moving towards the future, but Government and the reality of the situation is that financial considerations also need to be weighed in the balance too, when one is considering the various alternatives and if it forms part of the 20%, that is more understandable certainly if it is going to cost far more.

1005 But just looking at the cost to the community in relation to something like this, what is the length of the contract that the Government is envisaging with this particular operator in order to provide that 15% of electricity? Because for this to actually work for the operator itself, one would imagine that we are talking about a fairly lengthy contract. The way that these things work is that the cost, the outlay to the operator is repaid over a period of time, and it is repaid by the sale of the operator to the Government of electricity, which inevitably is going to cost more than conventional ways of funding electricity, but I am interested in the length of the contract if he has any information in relation to that.

1015 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Again, Mr Speaker, it is not directly asked in the questions and I do not want to use my memory in order to do that. So I do not have the information available. It is clearly available to the Government, I do not have it here with me.

1020 But I think we have to bear in mind the benefits to the company as well, and the publicity that this has given them so they may have other considerations, and there are people in the private sector who actually do give the environment importance over and above commercial considerations, and maybe this company is one of them.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, and it may well be that in fact we are wrong to assume that it is going to cost more. I would be surprised because there has to be a recoupment of the investment by the company. But I wonder whether the Father of the House knows how long we are looking at in terms of this particular contract for the supply of this particular renewable energy?

1030 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): I have no involvement in this, Mr Speaker.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, let me just add that it is not that the Government does not know; it is not a direct question being asked and therefore I need to have that information researched.

Hon. D A Feetham: I can assure the hon. Gentleman that I am not calling into question the collegiate credentials of the Government at all and we will ask the question next time round.

Q324/2016
Europa Point sewage outfall –
Monitoring regime

1040 Clerk: Question 324, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for the Environment say whether the recommendation made in the Southern Waters Management Scheme for a monitoring regime to be implemented for the sewage outfall at Europa has been acted upon?

1045

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1050 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, yes sir. A multi-faceted monitoring approach is being implemented by the Department to monitor the Europa Point outfall. Bacteriological samples have been collected by the Environmental Agency at different distances from the Europa Point outfall and the Department routinely collects water and sediment samples in the Southern Waters SAC/SPA. Intertidal surveys of Europa Point foreshore are also carried out by the Department.

1055 SAC is Special Area Conservation; SPA is Special Protected Area under the EU Habitats and Birds Directives.

Hon. T N Hammond: And are the results of those investigations published on the Government website?

1060

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I am not sure whether they are specifically; they are part of a larger project. But if the hon. Member wants to write to me I can provide that information. It is not something that is ... but I could not tell you, there is a lot of information on the website. I could not tell him, Mr Speaker, whether this specifically is there.

Q325-326/2016
Climate change programme –
Government action plan

1065

Clerk: Question 325, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Has the Government published a climate change programme and an associated action plan?

1070

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1075 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 326.

Clerk: Question 326, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1080 Hon. T N Hammond: Has Government conducted a risk and vulnerability assessment as recommended by the EAMP to better understand the localised impact of climate change?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1085 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, in relation to the first question, not yet. I have a very advanced draft with me among these papers, but it is not yet published.

In relation to the second question, a preliminary desk-top assessment of climate risks and hazards was carried out by the Climate Change Adaptation Working Group during the EU Cities Adapt project in 2012.
1090

Hon. T N Hammond: Just reference the second of the two questions: whilst that work was conducted in 2012, there is no definitive risk and vulnerability assessment available to Government at this point?
1095

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Well, the 2012 work that was done as part of an EU wide project in which Gibraltar was one of the cities that was selected to form part of it, informs the Climate Change Report and therefore it is updated.

The basic data was collected in 2012 as part of the EU Cities Adapt project, so there is a report that exists to look into the risks and vulnerability in relation to climate change generated instances like storm surges, flooding and so on. That work has been done.
1100

Hon. T N Hammond: And has that report highlighted any particular areas in Gibraltar which may be vulnerable in the future by climate change in particular in global temperature increases?
1105

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker. Again from memory, the lower lying areas of Gibraltar are ones that are more at risk. A number of works have been done recently to reduce the likelihood of flooding, for example in the Wellington Front area and in Queensway, but this is something that is a problem throughout the world. Unlike some islands in the Pacific, we have not disappeared under the waves, which some islands have.
1110

So the major risks in the foreseeable future are due to storm surges, as we saw some years ago, and those risks have all been looked at as the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition will know from the time that happened as he was in office, works were carried out to strengthen lots of the western seafront and at the moment, any developments on the seafront actually take those risks into consideration when levels and so on are being assessed.
1115

I can for example say that the power station in the North Mole, the reclamation has been informed by the different assessments before in their time and since in our time, to ensure that we have the resilience that the way the climate is going requires of any advanced community.
1120

Q327/2016
Recycling –
Penalties for failure

Clerk: Question 327, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1125 Hon. T N Hammond: Has Government conducted any work in examining the feasibility of establishing penalties for failing to recycle or of offering a recycling incentive?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.
1130

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, yes. The Government has conducted work in both examining the feasibility of establishing penalties for failing to recycle and offering recycling incentives.

1135 Hon. T N Hammond: And could the Minister offer us any conclusions which may have been drawn from that work?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker. Because recycling is actually increasing and has increased since we expanded the recycling to include cardboard and paper in 2012 and since rolling out more recycling points and so on, at this point in time we have no intention of establishing penalties because it is still increasing.

The advent of the eco-park which is just maybe six or seven months old – maybe more, one loses track of time, as you well know, in this work – has also increased the amount of recycling. I hope to have figures in my Budget speech which I will deliver sometime next week.

1145 Therefore at this point in time it is not felt necessary to establish penalties but this is something that could always be considered in the future. But at this point in time I am glad to say that the Gibraltar citizen is collaborating and co-operating and therefore we have to encourage by way of positive feedback like I am doing now and not by way of penalty.

Q328/2016

Renewable energy or carbon offset– Developing projects in Morocco

1150 Clerk: Question 328, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Has Government conducted any work in examining the possibility of developing renewable energy or carbon offset projects in Morocco?

1155 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Yes, Mr Speaker, the Government has conducted work in both examining the possibility of developing renewable energy and carbon offset projects in Morocco.

Hon. T N Hammond: And could the Minister elaborate on what that work comprises so far?

1165 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Not very much, Mr Speaker, because this work is not concluded. The Government has received a proposal for carrying out studies on the feasibility of laying cables and also has explored, to some degree, possibilities of protecting areas of woodland in Morocco as part of a carbon trade-off scheme. This was discussed by me in Rabat some time ago with the High Commissioner for Water and Forests, but these are all still in early exploratory stages and therefore I cannot offer any more information.

1170 Hon. T N Hammond: Could the Minister perhaps offer a timeline, bearing in mind the original timescale for this work was to be completed by 2015, according to the recommendations of the EAMP? I fully accept that those timelines may be fluid, but is the Minister in a position to be able to say another five years, another two years or give us any ideas in that respect?

1175 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker, I am not.

Q329-331/2016
Industrial noise levels –
Steering Group; Noise Bill

Clerk: Question 329, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1180 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister say if the Reactive Noise Steering Group has been established in accordance with the recommendations of the EAMP?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1185

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 330 and 331.

Clerk: Question 330, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1190

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, what work has Government conducted to reduce levels of noise arising from industrial operations?

Clerk: Question 331, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1195

Hon. T N Hammond: Is the Government drafting or intending to introduce a 'Noise Bill' as recommended by the EAMP with an original target date of 2014?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1200

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, there is no Reactive Noise Steering Group. There is an Environmental Noise Steering Group and the recommendation of the EAMP was to reactivate this group.

1205

I can confirm that this group was indeed reactivated soon after I took Office. The group has met seven times since 2012. I might add that it is thanks to this Government's reactivation of the group, that potential EU infractions on environmental noise were averted.

In answer to Question 330, industrial operations in Gibraltar are divided into three categories: first, noise from power stations; second, noise from construction sites; and thirdly, noise from the ship repair yard. The Environmental Agency regulates these as follows.

1210

In respect to noise from power stations, the new power station is being designed with the latest noise insulation measures which will be a condition of their IPCC permit.

In relation to construction sites, the hours of operation are subject to conditions imposed by the DPC at the planning stage of an application. Additionally, the Department requires all construction projects to provide a Construction Environmental Management Plan with noise mitigation being one area of control. The Environmental Agency investigates any complaints and if necessary, ensures that Best Available Techniques (BAT) are used in their construction operations. The Environmental Agency takes legal action when necessary.

1215

In relation to Gibdock, the Environmental Agency has monthly meetings with the management of Gibdock to discuss any problems that may arise. There is a standing agreement that no noisy operations will be carried out during the silent hours.

1220

In relation to Question 331, a draft Noise Bill has been introduced but is still work in progress.

Hon. T N Hammond: With respect to Question 331, has the Minister any idea when that Bill may be presented to the House, how far down the line of progress we are?

1225

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker.

Q332/2016
Waste treatment plant –
Award of tender

Clerk: Question 332, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1230 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, further to Question 449 of July 2015 and Question 8/2016 where the Minister said that he was hopeful that an announcement of an award of a tender for a waste treatment plant would be made in the first quarter of this year, can the Minister state if indeed an award of a tender has been made?

1235 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): No, Mr Speaker, an award has not yet been made for a waste treatment plant.

1240 Hon. T N Hammond: Could the Minister explain what has caused the delay in the awarding of a tender which in January of this year he was suggesting was imminent?

1245 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, lots of things have happened in the last few months, in fact in the last year. But we are still looking at the technologies and we are still looking at the funding packages and costs involved.

This is a complex issue; it is an issue that we have to get absolutely right because it is looking after the treatment of waste in Gibraltar for the next few decades. It has to be tied in with the fact that we are also increasing recycling targets. So it is a complex issue and it is taking time to resolve.

1250

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, no, I am not at all suggesting that it is not a complex issue but the Minister has had four and a half years now just to bring this project to a point where a contract may be awarded.

1255 Bearing in mind it was a 2011 manifesto commitment also, I am really finding it difficult to understand how we are still in a position, when as recently as January this year, and certainly in July last year, the Minister was giving the impression that a contract award was imminent, that we still find ourselves not having awarded a contract on this very critical environmental project. There is no doubt that of all the things we do, pumping raw sewage into the Mediterranean is probably one of the worst things we do in terms of environmental impact.

1260

I have to ask the Minister surely it is time to resolve whatever difficulties remain with respect to this project and award a tender to a company and get the project moving within a reasonable time period.

1265 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, it seems that we were talking at cross purposes. I was referring to solid waste; the Member opposite is referring to sewage.

The situation is very similar. Mr Speaker, I am as keen as he and probably keener than most to get this going forward. There is active work going on in order to achieve this. We are not ready yet and the reason we are not ready is that we want to get it absolutely right, and I am sure that we will.

1270

I think that at this point in time that is all that I am able to say. I am confident that we will get it right but it is something that is complex and needs the time for us to achieve it properly.

1275 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I ask the hon. Member – and I have heard this phrase before about getting it absolutely right – does he mean in financial terms or in terms of technology?

1280 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: In every kind of way, Mr Speaker. I may have taken four years in doing this: that still gives me another 12 to go before I can compare to other people who never did it. (Laughter)

Hon. T N Hammond: I find the last statement by the Minister unnecessary quite honestly. (Interjections)

1285 The fact is this was a 2011 commitment for a manifesto which was claimed to have been 100% delivered, yet clearly this particular element was not delivered and it remains a critical infrastructure project and a critical project for the environment.

Can the Minister at least give a commitment that we will have a sewage treatment plant in place and running before the end of this Parliament?

1290 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, at this point in time, I can say yes. But obviously I have said that before and I have been questioned because it has not happened. So, Mr Speaker, the intention is certainly to do it and we are getting very close but I have nothing further to add.

1295 It is something that as I have said before, I am probably keener than most to have and I am totally committed to it, but at this point in time we are being cautious in the way that we approach it from all sorts of different angles because of the complexities and for every single reason. We have to get this right and right we will get it.

Q333/2016
Nature Reserves –
Invasive plant species

Clerk: Question 333, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1300 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, within the Nature Reserves, can the Minister describe what activity has taken place to remove invasive plant species?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1305 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, invasive plant species have been removed from the following areas of the Gibraltar Nature Reserve: Windmill Hill Flats; Upper Rock; Europa Foreshore; Northern Defences; and the Great Sand Slopes.

In addition, invasives have been removed around Europa Road, which is outside the Nature Reserve.

1310 In no particular order, species removed include Lantana spp; Agave spp; Hottentot Fig; Aloe spp; Bear's Breech; Prickly Pear; and Pennisetum spp.

I must here acknowledge the tremendous work in this field being carried out by environmental enthusiast Bart Van Thiesen, on a totally voluntary basis. His work supported by the Department and by GONHS is outstanding and exemplary. (Banging on desks)

1315

Hon. T N Hammond: I thank the Minister for the response and I would add to it and also like to show some appreciation for the work that Bart has done in various areas around Gibraltar, not least the foreshore, in removing the invasive species there.

1320 Just on that point, because Bart has shown an enormous amount of energy around the foreshore area and I know he has been working closely with the Department of the Environment in that respect – in terms of the Upper Rock, I may have missed it in my notation, has much work been conducted on the Upper Rock in terms of specifically invasive species, rather than nuisance species?

1325 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, in fact Bart himself did a lot of work in removing Chasmanthe which is a Gladiolus-like plant which was covering large areas of the fire breaks in the St Michael's Cave Area and those have mostly gone. But there has been other work as well done by the Nature Reserve Management Team in the Upper Rock in removing Agaves, Opuntias, Prickly Pears and other species.

1330 The problem of invasives on the Upper Rock is not as great as in some areas of the south and the east and therefore although there is work to be done, there is not so much work there. It is more important to remove invasives from areas like the Europa Point area because that is where the invasive species, which are largely South African, have obliterated a lot of the native vegetation and by removing the invasive species the native vegetation will naturally re-seed. We have already seen great success in that.

1335 So there has been work done in the Upper Rock, not as much, for two reasons: there is not as much there and the more sensitive species are those in the more literal zones around Europa Point and the east side.

Q334/2016
Biodiversity Action Plan 2006 –
Guide for Government

1340 Clerk: Question 334, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Does the Minister for the Environment believe that the 2006 Biodiversity Action Plan, Gibraltar: Planning for Nature, is still a document which Government should use to guide its hand in the management of the Nature Reserve?

1345 I will just add that the Minister has already answered this question but we may as well, for the record, have it reiterated.

1350 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, it is. As is always the case, because of nature's dynamics, there are however some aspects of the plan that need to be updated and these changes are being incorporated into the Gibraltar Nature Reserve Management Plan.

Q335-336/2016
Trees in urban areas –
Number planted since 2014 and cut down since 2012

Clerk: Question 335, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1355 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister say how many trees have been planted within urban areas since the start of 2014, by year, and where?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1360 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 336.

Clerk: Question 336, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1365 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister say if any trees have been cut down since the start of 2012, where, and provide the reasons for their removal?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1370 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the information requested by the hon. Member is in the schedules which I now hand over.

1375 If I may just summarise for his benefit, the question asks me how many trees have been removed since 2012, but how many trees have been planted since 2014, so the figures are not directly comparable – but that actually probably works to my advantage.

The total number of trees planted in 2014, 2015 and 2016, so that excludes 2012 and 2013, is 1,811 trees; 51 trees have been removed. So the net increase in trees, even not accounting for those planted in 2012 and 2013, is 1,760 trees.

ANSWER TO QUESTION 336/2016

Answer to Question 335/2016

TREES PLANTED FROM 2014-2016

Area	2014	2015	2016
Camp Bay	13	1	2
Chilton Court		5
Convent Garden		1
Corral Road	9
Devil's Tower Road			72
Dr Giraldi Home			3
Edinburgh Estate		18
Europort Avenue			7
Europa Advance Road			1230
Gasa	14		1
Gibraltar Bank		9
Gibraltar Museum		1
Glacis Estate			1
Harrington Buildings			2
Landport			2
Mid Harbours Estate		2
MOD			1
Mons Calpe Mews			50
No. 6		2
Notre Dame School		65

CONT. ANSWER TO QUESTION 336/2016
Cont. Answer to Question 335/2016
Ocean Views		70
Opposite Glacis Estate	30
Orange Bastion		1
Red Sands Estate	66		19
Rosia Road	2		1
Rosia Waste Ground	4
Secretary's Lane		2	1
Sir Herbert Miles Promenade	5
Sir William Jackson Grove			30
St Bernards Hospital		4
Trafalgar Cemetery	6	3	4
Transport Lane Waste Ground		2
Urban Car Park	44
Waterport	1
Waterport Road Containers	3
Other		2

Answer to Question 336/2016

Trees removed from 01/01/20012 to Present

Site Address	APDate	Reason for Works
19 EUROPA ROAD	27/04/2012	AFFECTS THE INTEGRITY OF THE RETAINING WALL ALONG EUROPA ROAD
21 SOUTH BARRACK ROAD	20/09/2012	TREE REQUIRES FELLING DUE TO STRUCTURAL DAMAGE TO THE ADJACENT BOUNDARY WALL EXACERBATED BY GROWTH OF IVY FROM CRACK IN THE WALL
ST PAULS SCHOOL	08/03/2013	THE TREE IS CAUSING HEALTH PROBLEMS TO PUPILS AND STAFF, WHO DEVELOP RASHES DURING TERM TIME IN SPRING AND EARLY SUMMER
LOQUAT HOUSE, SOUTH PAVILION ROAD	03/05/2013	REMOVAL DUE TO PROBABILITY OF INFECTION WITH RED PALM WEEVIL
3B ROSIA ROAD	21/03/2013	TREE REQUIRES FELLING DUE TO STRUCTURAL DAMAGE
EDUCATION DEPARTMENT	02/01/2013	REMOVAL OF TREE FOR NEW DRIVE WAY
CANCER CENTRE	22/03/2013	TREE REQUIRES FELLING DUE TO STRUCTURAL DAMAGE
LAND PORT DITCH	17/05/2013	RISK OF FALLING, CAUSING DAMAGE OR EVEN FATALITIES
SOUTHPORT GATE	21/08/2013	DAMAGE TO HERITAGE WALLS
PETANQUE CLUB	04/09/2013	DAMAGE TO HISTORIC WALLS
ST VINCENT HOUSE, 4 ROSIA PARADE	09/12/2013	TREES REQUIRES FELLING DUE TO STRUCTURAL DAMAGE
FLAT C, DEVIL'S GAP	15/01/2014	TREES REQUIRES FELLING DUE TO STRUCTURAL DAMAGE
OLD COACH PARK	16/01/2014	REMOVAL OF TREES FOR NEW HOUSING SCHEME
BISHOP FITZGERALD SCHOOL CAR PARK AREA	14/03/2014	TO ALLOW CONSTRUCTION OF RESIDENTIAL BUILDING
MONS CALPE MEWS	10/02/2015	SERIOUS RISK OF COLLAPSE
PENNY HOUSE, NAVAL HOSPITAL ROAD	23/04/2014	POTENTIAL OF ROOTS DAMAGING THE STRUCTURE OF BUILDING
DR GIRALDI HOME	19/02/2015	REMOVAL OF TREE DUE TO DAMAGE CAUSED BY WINDS AND RESULTING IN TREE BEING AT SERIOUS RISK OF COLLAPSE
JOSHUA HASSAN HOUSE COURTYARD	19/02/2015	TREE HAS BEEN DAMAGED BY RECENT STRONG WINDS
NORTH MOLE ROAD	21/05/2014	CONSTRUCTION OF NEW ENTRANCE TEMPORARY POWER STATION
18-20 BOMB HOUSE LANE	17/03/2015	BASE OF TRUNK AT ADVANCED STAGE OF DECOMPOSITION
6 GOWLANDS RAMP	04/06/2014	TREE HAS BECOME HAZARD FOR PASSERS BY
5D LIBRARY RAMP	25/06/2014	PALM HAS OUTGROWN ITS PLANTER
FORMER ROYAL NAVAL HOSPITAL COMPLEX (BLOCK E NURSES QUARTERS), EUROPA ROAD, GIBRALTAR	10/04/2015	PINE TREE: TO PROVIDE CLEAR ACCESS FROM THE REAR OF THE BUILDING AND ALLOW NEW RAISED LEVEL SEATING/LANDSCAPED AREA FOR PATIENTS.
BISHOP FITZGERALD EXTREME WEST PATIO	09/07/2014	PALM TREE: THE PALM TREE IS BLOCKING VEHICULAR ACCESS TO THE BUILDING
CASTLE RAMP/ROAD TO THE LINES	13/08/2014	TO ALLOW THE CONSTRUCTION OF A ROOF
CORNWALL'S LANE	13/05/2015	ROOTS DAMAGING INTEGRITY OF WALL
WINSTON CHURCHILL AVENUE	15/05/2015	THE PLANTER WILL EVENTUALLY COMPROMISE THE TREE'S SURVIVAL. DUE TO THE NARROW FOOTPATH IT CANNOT BE ENLARGED.
ELLIOT'S BATTERY COMMUNAL PATIO	15/05/2015	AFFECTING FUEL PIPES
LANDPORT DITCH	19/09/2014	THE TREE HAS BECOME A HEALTH AND SAFETY HAZARD AND RISK OF SERIOUS DAMAGE TO THE SURROUNDING STRUCTURES
"LES OLIVES" 2B GARDENERS ROAD	27/07/2015	HIGH HAZARD RATING, TREE GROWING ON RETAINING WALL
	20/07/2015	TREE CONCERNED IS A MEDIUM TO LARGE OLIVE TREE THAT HAS A SERIOUS LEAN OVER AN ADJACENT PROPERTY. IT IS GROWING THROUGH A RETAINING WALL WHICH IT WILL EVENTUALLY CAUSE SIGNIFICANT DAMAGE TO. THE TREE OF VERY POOR FORM AND GROWING IN THE WRONG PLACE. THE TREE COULD FALL INTO THE NEIGHBOR'S PROPERTY AND THEREFORE A DANGER.
EUROPA ESTATE	30/10/2014	TREE IS DISRUPTING ROAD AND PAVEMENT CREATING A SIGNIFICANT HAZARD
HOSPITAL RAMP AREA OF EX-ST BERNARD'S HOSPITAL	30/07/2015	AREA IS NEEDED TO IMPROVE TRAFFIC CIRCULATION FOR NEW SCHOOL IN AREA
QUEENSWAY ROAD, EDINBURGH ESTATE	03/11/2014	REPLACEMENT IN ORDER TO IMPROVE THE AESTHETICS OF THE AREA
BRYMPTON PROPERTY, BORDER WITH PENNY HOUSE PATIO	10/08/2015	INFESTED WITH WEEVILS, COMPLAINTS FROM RESIDENTS OF PENNY HOUSE
GEORGE DON GATES, THE ALAMEDA, GRAND PARADE, SOUTHERN END	06/11/2014	IMPROVE THE AESTHETICS OF THE MAIN ENTRANCE TO THE GIBRALTAR BOTANIC GARDENS
ROCK COTTAGE, SOUTH BARRACK ROAD	26/08/2015	THE REMOVAL OF THESE PALMS (PHOENIX CANARIENSIS) IS DUE TO THE INFESTATION OF THE RED PALM WEEVIL (RHYNCHOPHORUS FERRUGINEUS)
LANDPORT DITCH CAR PARK	10/12/2014	THE TREE IS OF POOR FORM AND LEAN IS OBSTRUCTING PARKING SPACE
39/41 FLAT BASTION ROAD	09/09/2015	TREE CRACKING RETAINING WALL
GLACIS ROAD, BY JUNCTION WITH ST ANNES ROAD	10/08/2015	CONSTRUCTION OF NEW MULTISTORY CARE PARK
BACK GARDEN OF GARRISON LIBRARY	24/02/2015	TREE IS GROWING FROM A CREVICE IN A WALL AND THIS HAS CAUSED THE WALL AND LANDING JUST ABOVE TO BREAK-UP, THE WALL IS SEVERELY UNDERMINED BY TREE.
DEVIL'S TOWER CAMP	05/11/2015	TREES ARE CURRENTLY OCCUPYING SPACE REQUIRED FOR NEW PARADE GROUND AND MUST BE REMOVED. THERE IS HOWEVER AN ADEQUATE AREA ADJACENT TO REPLANT THESE TREES IF REQUIRED.
MONS CALPE MEWS	10/11/2015	J HAMILTON INSPECTED THESE 2 PINE TREES WHERE I SHOWED HIM HOW TRENCHES HAD BEEN DUG BY GIBLEC/AQUAGIB AND ROOTS TO THESE TREES HAD BEEN SEVERED. THEY POSE DANGER. DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENT ALSO WITNESSED.
MALLARD HOUSE LAGUNA ESTATE EAST PATIO AREA	09/12/2015	DUE TO THE REFURBISHMENT WORKS AT LAGUNA ESTATE THE SAID TREE IS OBSTRUCTING THE PAVEMENT AND BLOCK ACCESS WHEN APPROACHING THE BLOCK ENTRANCE FROM THE SOUTH DIRECTION
PATHWAY BETWEEN MORRISON'S SUPERMARKET & ST BERNARD'S HOSPITAL	19/01/2016	THE ROBINA TREES ARE ON THEIR WAY OUT AND NEVER ADJUSTED TO ITS NEW LOCATION. FIGUS TREES ARE BETTER SUITED FOR THAT LOCATION AND WOULD ALSO KEEP WITH THE OTHER FIGUS TREES PLANTED ALONG THE ROAD
PARK OPPOSITE CATHEDRAL OF THE HOLY TRINITY	26/01/2016	PEPPER TREE IS COMPLETELY HOLLOW INSIDE AND COULD EASILY FALL ON TO CHILDREN PLAYING IN THE PARK.
TRAFALGAR CEMETERY	19/02/2016	A LARGE TREE THAT IS IN A POOR STATE. ITS FORM IS UNATTRACTIVE AND IT IS UNHEALTHY, WITH ROT IN THE TRUNK AND BRANCHES
BISHOP FITZGERALD SCHOOL	24/02/2016	TREE HAS SNAPPED RECENTLY DUE TO THE INCLEMENT WEATHER AND AFTER FURTHER ASSESSMENT IT IS EXTREMELY HAZARDOUS DUE TO ITS LOCATION.
RECLAMATION ROAD
WESTSIDE SCHOOL	24/02/2016	TREE HAS BEEN DAMAGED QUITE EXTENSIVELY RECENTLY DUE TO INCLEMENT WEATHER AND AFTER FURTHER ASSESSMENT IT IS BEST REMOVED DUE TO ITS LOCATION AND PROXIMITY TO CHILDREN
3 EUROPA ROAD	04/03/2016	MATTER HAS BEEN ADVISED BY DR KEITH BENSUSAN WHO RECOMMENDS CUTTING DOWN FOR HEALTH AND SAFETY REASONS.
ST CHRISTOPHER'S PASSAGE	08/03/2016	THE TREE HAS BEEN SURVEYED BY EDEN BOTANIC AND THE HAVE SAID THAT THE TREE IS DANGEROUS AND THAT IT HAS BEEN NEGLECTED AND NOW POSSES A RISK OF FALLING TO ONE SIDE. THERE SUGGESTION IS OF ITS REMOVAL
RETREAT CENTER	21/03/2016	THIS SMALL TREE IS GROWING ON A ROCK FACE THAT IS BEING ERODED. MOVEMENT BY THE TREE AND ITS ROOTS IS POSSIBLY CONTRIBUTING TOWARDS THE EROSION AND THE ROOTS AND BASE OF THE TREE ARE BECOMING EXPOSED.
LATHBURY

1380 Mr Speaker: Let us go on to Question 337 and if the hon. Member has any supplementaries arising from the schedule I will allow him to ask them.

Q337/2016
Europa Point foreshore –
Litter cleaning

Clerk: Question 337, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1385 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, how often is the Europa foreshore cleaned of litter and flotsam by Government agencies?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1390

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, Europa Point foreshore is cleaned on an ad-hoc basis by the Gibraltar Nature Reserve Management Team.

1395 Hon. T N Hammond: Would the Minister consider implementing a programme so that areas such as the foreshore are regularly swept of flotsam and litter, rather than on an ad-hoc basis?

And if we are to proceed on an ad-hoc basis, what triggers the action on the part of the Ministry? Is it reports or what else could it be?

1400 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: In the case of Europa Point foreshore, because of the voluntary work that is being done there, very often it is the volunteer himself who reports that there are accumulations and then the Department responds to that.

1405 It is also true that I occasionally at weekends have a look around the area and I may spot things myself. But there are lots of active people bird watching or watching nature and so on. If they report anything specific, then that triggers off the response and I think there are enough people looking around the area of Europa Point, sometimes the hon. Member himself with his camera, to trigger off those things.

1410 So the volunteer network actually seems to work in that particular area, so I do not think we need to do any more. If we found that it was an area that was no longer visited and it starts to accumulate a lot of debris, then obviously we would have to introduce a more regular monitoring and we would have the resources to do that through our environmental monitors and so on.

Q338/2016

Environmental guidance for boat owners – Details

1415 Clerk: Question 338, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Minister describe what environmental guidance has been produced and disseminated for boat owners by the Department of the Environment?

1420 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1425 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the environmental guidance produced and disseminated for boat owners by the Department of the Environment, consists of a booklet aimed at informing anglers on the requirements of the Marine Protection Regulations. A species identification booklet has also been produced and both guidance documents are available online. The Department has also engaged with numerous marinas, the fishing working group and cetacean tour operators to advise them on the requirements of the Cetacean Protocol.

1430 Hon. T N Hammond: Yes, I understand that some documentation has been produced for the guidance primarily of anglers, but has anything been produced more specifically for boat owners in general who may not be anglers, but will still enjoy their weekends out on the waters, particularly now as we are likely to have significantly larger numbers of boat owners with the new boat marina?

1435

1440 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this very point was raised by members of the Fishing Working Group which obviously does not talk just about fishing but largely about fishing. It is something that has been accepted as being something that could be done in order to make boat owners aware of the wider environmental responsibilities and that is something that the Department is working on.

1445 Hon. T N Hammond: Would the Minister agree that it would perhaps have been wise to have produced such information prior to the inevitable influx of new boats that we are going to see with the marina? The marina has not happened overnight and it would have been something that we could have been proactive on, rather than reactive to.

1450 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, it is always a point to make. However, I do not think that our new boat owners ... Well, firstly not all of them are new boat owners; some of them are old boat owners who were not able to have a boat because the marinas were taken away and not replaced. Now we have replaced them so they will already be quite savvy about seamanship.

1455 I do not think that most boat owners are necessarily irresponsible from an environmental perspective. So whereas clearly the sooner one has this sort of guidance available the better – and that is a wide rule that we can accept – I am not unduly worried as to things that may be happening now that could be done better. However, as I say these things take time, the Fishing Working Group brought it up and we are responding and we are hopefully going to be preparing something.

1460 Let me add, Mr Speaker, that there are other Government authorities and agencies – the Port for example – that produces guidelines and if I am not mistaken, I believe there has been input by the Department of the Environment into some of that work. But I am not 100% sure, but I believe so.

1465 Hon. T N Hammond: For the record, I was not suggesting that boat owners new or from the past have ever been deliberately out to damage the environment of course, but if guidance is not provided they could through lack of knowledge cause damage to the environment. Perhaps the Minister for the Port could corroborate what the Minister has said or otherwise, and advise what information has been disseminated from an environmental perspective to boat owners.

Q339/2016
North Front Cemetery –
Plans to improve condition

Clerk: Question 339, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1470 Hon. T N Hammond: Does Government have any plans to improve the condition of the North Front Cemetery which currently finds itself in such a state of disrepair?

1475 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, yes sir.

1480 Hon. T N Hammond: And I realise I need to ensure that my questions are not closed questions when I ask them, (Laughter) but could I ask the Minister to elaborate on what those plans are?

1485 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, unfortunately and I think I have explained this, possibly not publicly, because I have had correspondence with a group that raised issues to do with North Front Cemetery and I have explained to them that there have been a number of changes in the structure of the cemetery which for a particular period of time reduced the amount of hours that were going in to the strimming and so on of the vegetation.

1490 That has now been virtually put right and the areas have now been strimmed and so on, so the state of the cemetery as it was some weeks or months ago is now much improved. We are now identifying resources to put in to have a regular vegetation management problem, which is the usual problem. If it was not a cemetery, if it was a meadow, the poppies and flowers would look great, but clearly we have to ensure that people who go to remember relatives there have access to the graves and so on.

1495 So that I think we will now be able to control. In any case, in discussions with the management of the cemetery, we have made it clear that if ever there should be a problem of access, the management will immediately respond and make sure that they open particular access directly to any particular gravestone that a relative may want to visit.

So I am confident now, Mr Speaker, that the problems that we have seen identified or raised by the public in the last few months will not occur again.

Q340/2016
Yellow-legged Gulls –
Number of breeding pairs

1500 Clerk: Question 340, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Minister say how many breeding pairs of Yellow-legged Gulls are estimated to have bred in Gibraltar for each year since 2010?

1505 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1510 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, thorough surveys of Yellow-legged Gulls have been carried out during the breeding season for the years 2002, 2009, 2010, 2015 and 2016.

Although in the past these surveys took place on an ad hoc basis, either when funding could be obtained or volunteer help was available, Government has now arranged for surveys to take place on an annual basis.

1515 Due to the Rock's topography, it is impossible to ascertain accurately the number of breeding pairs of Yellow-legged Gulls in Gibraltar. Instead these surveys provide relative estimates of abundance and the main purpose is to assess population trends as a response to culling activity.

1520 The trend is clear: the data estimate an average decrease in numbers of breeding pairs of gulls of some 4% per annum, with an estimated 40% decrease in breeding Yellow-legged Gulls between 2002 and 2016. Although this represents a substantial decrease, the trend is not as marked as would be expected from a closed population. For example, approximately 16,000 fledged Yellow-legged Gulls, mainly adults, have been removed between 2012 and mid-2016 and the expected decrease should be much greater if there were no input of gulls from elsewhere.

1525 There is no doubt that there is substantial immigration of gulls to Gibraltar from nearby breeding sites. Although censuses of the type that are carried out in Gibraltar do not take place in nearby Spain, the species is known to be increasing steadily throughout coastal areas of Andalucia, much of which it has colonised only recently. Some limited culling activity has taken place in the province of Cadiz, but not on the scale that it is carried out in Gibraltar. Unfortunately much of that activity has ceased in recent years.

1530 Gibraltar has to contend with what appears to be a considerable re-population of gulls from nearby Spain and possibly elsewhere from this 'Meta population' of Western Mediterranean Yellow-legged Gulls, and that makes the control programme more difficult. Even accounting for this, however, the breeding population of gulls in Gibraltar is definitely declining as a result of the culling programme.

1535 Hon. T N Hammond: The question did actually ask, though, for more specific figures. Are those figures available?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, my point is that because it is impossible to accurately census every single breeding pair because of the topography of Gibraltar, what is done is you work out an index based on the amount of observer coverage and so on. Then what you do is you compare year on year averaging out the different things.

1540 I am very happy to share that information with the hon. Member. It is a trend so clearly figures can oscillate but the trend is downwards and the decrease, the figures that have been produced to me, show a 40% increase since 2002. I am happy to share the more detailed information and if he will write to me by way of a reminder, I would be happy to do so and to show how those estimates have been arrived at.

Hon. T N Hammond: I will of course write to the Minister as he has requested it, but the question itself was actually asking for the information. I accept a 40% reduction; what I was hoping to see was evidence of that, rather than just a description of how the numbers are arrived at.

But I will write to the Minister, thank you very much for that.

1555 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: The description is crucial because the figures in isolation, because of the difficulty of censusing, it is not going to be an accurate reflection and you need the description and both go together so that will be provided.

Q341/2016
Litter Committee –
Meetings during 2015

Clerk: Question 341, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1560 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister for the Environment advise how many meetings of the Litter Committee took place during 2015 and if the meetings were minuted, are those minutes available for review?

1565 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, three meetings of the Litter Committee took place during 2015. Notes are recorded of these meetings but for the purpose of internal action only.

1570

Hon. T N Hammond: So if I wrote to the Minister, would he not necessarily provide those notes, but certainly would he be able to provide a description of what actions are maybe coming out of those meetings?

1575 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I would have no problem with that whatsoever.

Q342-348/2016
Dog fouling –
Complaints to Royal Gibraltar police

Clerk: Question 342, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1580 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Justice ... I apologise that this question was written originally for the Minister for Justice but I will change it.

Can the Minister confirm how many reports/complaints have been received by the Royal Gibraltar Police or the relevant authority in respect of dog fouling?

1585 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 343 to 348.

1590 Clerk: Question 343, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister confirm what action has been taken in respect of dog fouling reports/complaints?

1595 Clerk: Question 344, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Since 26th November 2015, how many individuals have been prosecuted for dog fouling offences and what fines have been imposed by our Courts?

1600 Clerk: Question 345, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1605 Hon. E J Phillips: In March 2016, the Minister for the Environment confirmed that DNA fingerprinting procedures would be effective within the next few months. Can the Government confirm that the new procedures are in place and if not, explain the delay and confirm when they expect the new measures to be in place?

Clerk: Question 346, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1610 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm how much the DNA fingerprinting will cost the Taxpayer?

Clerk: Question 347, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1615 Hon. E J Phillips: Is the Government confident that the new measures will drastically reduce dog fouling offending and, more importantly, act as a deterrent?

Clerk: Question 348, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1620 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government also comment on whether it is the Government's intention to increase the level of fines open to the Court to impose on those who continue to flout the law by letting their dogs foul in our streets?

1625 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the following reports or complaints have been received formally by the Royal Gibraltar Police, or the relevant authority in respect of dog fouling: 2011, four; 2012, two; and none in 2013, 2014, 2015 or 2016 to the present.

1630 When reports or complaints are received, the matter is investigated to try and ascertain who the culprit is. Additional patrols are made in the area. If the person is not caught in the act or a witness does not come forward, it is very difficult to find a culprit. This is precisely why the new measures are being introduced.

As from 26th November 2015, no persons have been prosecuted for dog fouling offences.

1635 The current fine is set at £250. It was increased from £150 in 2013 and the intention is to keep it as is once the new system is implemented. The new measures are in the final stages of preparation and will be in place shortly. Regulations were published in the Gazette on 16th June, and an amendment to the Animals and Birds Act will be published shortly – maybe tomorrow, maybe next week.

1640 It is envisaged that after 1st November 2016, all new dog owners will need to DNA fingerprint their dogs and existing dog owners have them fingerprinted upon renewal.

1645 There have been no delays. The starting time towards the end of the year was always envisaged as there was a need to consult stakeholders. This is a new system for Gibraltar and judging from success elsewhere, one which we are confident will tackle the long standing issue of dog fouling around Gibraltar.

1650 DNA identification is scientifically proven and conclusive when a match is found. Enforcement officers no longer have to catch an offender in the act, which has been a major reason for the lack of fining in the past. They simply have to collect a sample and that will be matched to the dog in question. The fine will then be sent to the owner. The system has for example, completely eradicated dog fouling in the island of Capri and is being adopted across an increasing number of European cities, including London.

1655 The system will not cost the Taxpayer. There will be an increase in dog licencing fees from £5 to £25 to cover the initial cost of the DNA fingerprinting and the cost of the testing of the samples and DNA matching.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the extensive answer to those questions, particularly in regard to the DNA fingerprinting.

1660 But would the Minister not agree with me that even though you are going to have DNA fingerprinting available to the environmental officers or those who carry out those functions in respect of dog fouling, it clearly is not going to cater for those dog owners who have not registered their animals? Therefore would the Hon. Minister agree with me that it is a question of enforcement and continuing education in respect of the licencing requirements by those dog owners?

1665 Hon Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the question of unlicensed dogs is wider than just this, for a number of reasons. From the point of view of the health of the dog population, the problem possibly of having dangerous dogs which we are not aware of, but I think the thrust there has to be, once this regime is in place, to try and identify unregistered dogs and to deal with those.

1670 The problem has been – and believe you me, Mr Speaker, we have tried having policemen, in having environmental enforcement, environment agency officers, in areas putting up cameras ...
When you put up a camera, that area becomes free of dog fouling but go round the corner and you will see. So enforcement is very, very difficult.

1675 As a lawyer, the hon. Member will realise that you have to provide the evidence that you did it, it was your dog and you were there when you did it. So it is very, very difficult and this is what has made us go towards the DNA finger printing. So I think we need to give this a chance and then tackle that later if it is still a problem.

1680 That still leaves the problem of unlicensed dogs and the Hon. Mr Llamas is, I know, very active in that world and it is something that we have to tackle as well, but for wider reasons. And there are other issues relating to dogs which we are looking at and in fact I have discussed them informally with the hon. Member opposite and hopefully that may include dealing with the problem that the hon. Member has identified.

1685 Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for that response. I am sure the Minister will join me in condemning those irresponsible dog owners that continue to allow their dogs to foul in our streets. It is a rather disgusting mess and I think we should continue in our campaign to educate people insofar as the fouling is concerned.

1690 But I would also say that we should in my view, and I want to take some soundings from the hon. Minister in respect of the level of fines, that we should also in our view increase the level of fines so that those who continue to let their dogs foul in our streets are fined appropriately and at higher levels so that they stop doing this.

A Member: Hear, hear.

1695 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the purpose of every such regime is not to get people and fine them or throw them in jail – not that you would be jailed for this. The purpose of our law and the fines is to stop the offence being committed and that is my primary reason for doing this.

1700 I am quite confident that the system will work. If it does not, that is the time to consider the increase in fine. I do not think we should be punitive if we have other solutions, but certainly it is something that is open to us. We increased the fines a few years ago by £100 and that is still open, but I think this is not the time. I think we have got to give dog owners a chance to respond and then take it from there.

1705 Mr Speaker: The Minister has been answering questions for the better part of two hours.
This is a convenient time at which to have a short break.

The House recessed at 5.05 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 5.35 p.m.

Q349/2016
Cleaning Gibraltar –
Government contracts

Mr Speaker: Question 349, the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

1710 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, what contracts does the Government currently have to clean Gibraltar?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1715 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Government currently has a contract with Master Service Ltd to clean Gibraltar.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Hon. the Minister say when this contract expires or is it a revolving contract?

1720

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the contract was put in place by the former administration and is due to expire in March 2017.

Q350/2016
Mount Alvernia –
Government workers

Clerk: Question 350, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1725

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, how many workers employed by Government, Government-owned companies, authorities and agencies are currently working in Mount Alvernia?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1730

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, 229½. The half obviously being the odd number of part-timers – not half a person!

Q351/2016
Mount Alvernia –
Non-Government workers

Clerk: Question 351, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1735

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, how many workers not employed by Government, Government-owned companies, authorities and agencies are currently working in Mount Alvernia?

1740

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, 46.

1745

Q352/2016
Primary Care Centre counter –
Non-Government workers

Clerk: Question 352, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1750 Hon. L F Llamas: How many workers not employed by Government, Government-owned companies, authorities and agencies are currently working in the Primary Care Centre counter?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1755 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I have taken the liberty to include 'counter' in the plural, as there are many counters in the Primary Care and it was not clear which one was being referred to.
The answer, Mr Speaker, is 11.

Q353/2016
Primary Care Centre counter –
Government workers

1760 Clerk: Question 353, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, how many workers employed by Government, Government-owned companies, authorities and agencies are currently working in the Primary Care Centre counter?

1765

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1770 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, 19.

Q351-352/2016
Supplementary questions

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I could go back to Questions 351 and 352, the non-Government employees. Would the Hon. Minister be able to advise what type of services they provide in general?

1775

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Questions 351 and 352. It depends, they could be nursing services and they could be cover for example for administrative services, for people on maternity leave, long term sick leave and the like.

1780 I think that probably covers all in Mount Alvernia and in Primary Care.

Hon. R M Clinton: And if I may, Mr Speaker, would the Hon. Minister know whether these are all supplied by the same legal entity or are they on separate contracts individually?

1785 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I know that they are not. It depends; they do come from several areas. For example, nursing may come from one area, admin may come from another. I do not have all the exact details but it would be certainly more than one.

1790 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the hon. Gentleman just explain, if he has a reason, why such a high proportion of non-Government, Government-owned companies, authorities and agency workers are actually employed, which is 11, compared to 19 that are directly attributable if I can call it, to the public service – and I take the public service in the wider sense of the word, including Government-owned companies and authorities.

1795 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I alluded to this earlier, Mr Speaker.
The main reason would be maternity leave where people may be away for up to a year. It may be long term sick leave. On occasions, because it is such front-line work that they do, on occasion if there are going to be delays in ... You see, staff in the GHA may be civil servants, they may be GHA employees and if there are delays in recruitment processes and so on, we cannot be without front-line staff so on a temporary basis we may take on people who are not directly 1800 from the Government or Government agencies.

So mainly it is short-term cover, whether it is to cover gaps where we cannot afford to wait for the longer process or maternity or long-term sick leave, that sort of issue. I could not tell you which is which in more detail than that at this point in time.

1805 Hon. D A Feetham: So he could not tell us how many of those 11 are actually covering short-term, maternity and long-term illnesses that he has outlined and for other reasons?

What I am obviously getting at is: is he satisfied that we do not have a situation here where there are non-public service employees almost working on a permanent basis in these jobs at the counter in the Primary Care Centre?
1810

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, they are temporary engagements, as I have explained before. I do not have a breakdown. I was asked for figures, I have given figures, I do not have a breakdown.

Q354-356/2016

Antenatal classes, births and maternity staff – Details

1815 Clerk: Question 354, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please state how many prospective parents attended antenatal classes for the past 24 months?

1820 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 355 and 356.
1825

Clerk: Question 355, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide details of the babies born during each shift at the maternity ward during the past 24 months?

1830 Clerk: Question 356, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide details of the complement of staff working in each shift at the maternity ward during the past 24 months?

1835 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the information on antenatal classes in the handout I now hand over.

1840 Mr Speaker, the information regarding birth numbers is collated per day and not per shift and is also in the handout provided.

Midwives per shift are as follows: three midwives on night duty from 8.30 p.m. to 8.00 a.m.; one midwife additionally on call as from 8.30 p.m. to 8.00 a.m.; four midwives on day shift from 8.00 a.m. to 8.30 p.m.; one to two midwives daily in the community setting, visiting mothers or mums to be at home between 8.00 a.m. and 8.30 p.m.

1845

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, would the Minister be able to advise whether antenatal classes have now been suspended in the GHA and the GHA is no longer providing those? Is there any truth in that?

1850

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker. I think that in the handout that I have provided, I have shown that they are not suspended.

Parent-craft classes of this nature are no longer done in the United Kingdom. This is something that we still do in Gibraltar for first-time mums. They have not been suspended.

1855

Answer to Question 354-2016

Parent craft classes 2014	Couples booked	Couples attended
Jun-14	16	14
Jul-14	12	12
Aug-14	16	14
Sep-14	21	18
Oct-14	15	15
Nov-14	17	15
Dec-14	15	5

Parent craft classes 2015	Couples booked	Couples attended
Jan-15	16	12
Feb-15	18	18
Mar-15	16	11
Apr-15	11	10
May-15	3	3
Jun-15	19	13
Jul-15	9	4
Aug-15	19	14
Sep-15	20	18
Oct-15	15	13
Nov-15	9	7
Dec-15	11	10

Answer to Question 355-2016

2014	Number of deliveries
May	41
June	34
July	38
August	40
September	46
October	42
November	41
December	41

2015	Number of deliveries
January	34
February	29
March	51
April	39
May	51
June	33
July	27
August	47
September	41
October	51
November	40
December	44

2016	Number of deliveries
January	34
February	27
March	33
April	40
May	37

Q357/2016
St Bernard's Hospital operations –
Cancellations

Clerk: Question 357, the Hon. D A Feetham.

1860

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government please state how many operations have been cancelled at St Bernard's Hospital in each of the financial years since 31st March 2012?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1865

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the information is in the schedule I now hand over.

Answer to Question 357-2016

1 st April 2012 to 31 st March 2013 – 343 cancellations (57 of these cancellations are due to no bed availability)
1 st April 2013 to 31 st March 2014 – 223 cancellations (44 of these cancellations are due to no bed availability)
1 st April 2014 to 31 st March 2015 – 249 cancellations (12 of these cancellations are due to no bed availability)
1 st April 2015 to 31 st March 2016 – 346 cancellations (33 of these cancellations are due to no bed availability)

1870 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, if I might just read the numbers and then ask a supplementary because I think this is important to contextualise the question.

In the year up to 31st March 2013 there were 343 cancellations. In the year up to 31st March 2014, there were 223 cancellations. In the year up to 31st March 2015, there were 249 cancellations. And then in the year up to 31st March 2016, there were 346 cancellations.

1875 Can the Minister explain, and I know there is an explanation: in the first year there were 57 cancellations due to no availability of beds; in the second 44 due to no availability of beds; 12 in 2015 because of no bed availability; and 33 again in the year ending 2016 because of bed shortages.

1880 Those explanations apart, what explanation is there for the significant level of cancellations? In 2016 it is 346 cancellations – 33 because of bed shortages, but 346 cancellations. I wonder whether the Hon. the Minister for Health can provide an explanation in relation to this that is satisfactory to the House.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, it gives me great pleasure to have the opportunity to ‘contextualise’ this, in the words of the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

1885 Mr Speaker, the reason why I have highlighted in the handout the cancellations due to bed availability, is because this is something which obviously concerns the community as a whole. So I will talk about those in a minute.

If we talk about the overall figures, those figures include many different reasons, most of which are not the ‘fault’ – for want of a better word – of the Health Authority.

1890 For example the surgeon might take a decision that on a particular day it is not advisable to go ahead with those operations. The patient may decide even at the last minute that they do not want to have the operation. Some patients do not attend. Some operations on the day are no longer required. The patient may be unwell or there may be other medical reasons.

1895 So the only one really that one could attribute to possibly – it depends on how you see it – something which might be a fault of the system is the bed availability. Hence the second lot of figures.

1900 Clearly, the figures to 2016 of 33 are still below 2012/2013 and well below previous years but you have not asked me those, and I am not going to go back. They are above the year before where we had a particularly good year, but I think again if I can contextualise that, if you consider that in 2012 we carried out 600 operations and in 2015-16 we carried out 2,900 operations, then in percentage terms, then in the year to 2013 there were 9.5% cancellations but in this last year only 1.1%.

Several Members: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

1905

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: So to cancel 33 out of 2,900 is much more significant than to cancel 57 or more in years before that out of 400 or 500. (Banging on desks)

1910 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker. (Laughter) Well, Mr Speaker, talking about contextualising things, I remember when the Hon. Minister Costa was on this side of the House, he used to say – because I remember it very well – that one cancellation was one cancellation too many, Mr Speaker! (Laughter)

1915 So if we are going to talk about properly contextualising, well perhaps Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman – and I am really trying, post-Brexit, very hard to try and keep the political point-scoring very low indeed! – but if we are going to contextualise, then of course the Minister ought to take a leaf out of his colleague’s book and judge things by one cancellation of an operation is one cancellation too many.

But, Mr Speaker, just looking at these numbers, and I take on board and will analyse the figures later on and we may have further questions at the next session of the House, but are all 1920 these cancellations at St Bernard's Hospital and there are no cancellations that are attributable to, for example, Xanit Hospital?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: The figures that are provided here are St Bernard's Hospital.

1925 If I may just comment, absolutely every cancellation is a cancellation that we do not want to have, when they are not based on medical reasons or the patient not turning up and so on – absolutely.

Clearly there are pressures on our beds for a host of reasons that we do not have to go into, and I have to pay tribute here to the very hard-working bed management team in the GHA who ensure that these figures are kept to an absolute minimum.

1930 But Mr Speaker, going back to what I said, we are operating not hundreds but thousands more cases than we were just a few years ago and although one cancellation is one cancellation too many, in context I think we are delivering a much better service than we used to.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, well thank you very much for that.

1935 In relation to these cancellations due to bed availability, can he help me with this: what is the pressure in terms of numbers that obviously then will have a knock-on effect on cancellations due to no bed availability?

1940 What are the numbers of say for example, people that are suffering from dementia that are long term in St Bernard's Hospital and are therefore taking a bed at St Bernard's Hospital which then has a knock-on effect on bed availability for the purposes of operations?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I am always too keen to speak and I press the button too early!

Mr Speaker, I do not have those figures; they are available if I am asked, but I think we have to bear several things in mind.

1945 One, clearly there are elderly people in St Bernard's Hospital and this is something that has been a problem in Gibraltar for as long as anyone can remember and is a problem throughout the world.

1950 But it is not just that, Mr Speaker. There was one weekend some months ago in which there were 20 emergencies that needed admission – about 20 – through A&E and even if you have 15 beds available that means that on the Monday after that weekend, you may have to cancel operations. So this is a dynamic thing.

But the figures on how many elderly and so on are available, but I do not have them now.

1955 Hon. D A Feetham: And of course, Mr Speaker, the Hon. the Minister must accept some responsibility, does he not, for the fact that you have a dementia facility that has been completed quite a considerable time ago and the decision has been taken by the Government to delay the opening? Because that not only has an effect on people who are suffering from dementia, but certainly people whose operations are being cancelled, because that must – indeed it is inherent in the answer he has given me – be contributing to the cancellation of operations. Does he accept that the Government must share some responsibility for operation cancellations on that basis?

1965 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, as I said earlier in relation to another project, an infrastructure project, things often take longer than you would like them to, particularly when you want to get them right. So I think that a Government must accept responsibility for all sorts of things, but not necessarily blame and there is a subtle difference there.

So I would like to say that ... Mr Speaker, rather than say whether I accept responsibility or not, I will not accept blame certainly, I will accept the praise that I will get when it is open and we are providing for our elderly better than ever before.

1970

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, just relating to part of the answer the Minister gave earlier on. He referred to 2,900 operations that did take place under the GHA. Were those all at St Bernard's or were those the operations that have taken place within the auspices of the GHA but at other centres?

1975

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: St Bernard's Hospital, Mr Speaker.

Q358/2016

Ambulance decontamination – Health risks

Clerk: Question 358, the Hon. D A Feetham.

1980

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, does the Government believe there are any dangers or health risks with the decontamination of ambulances and the potential spread of diseases?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

1985

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, in line with other UK Ambulance Trusts and to abide by present epic3 – which for your assistance is a national evidence-based guideline for preventing healthcare-associated infections in NHS hospitals in England – NICE, which is the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence and the World Health Organisation recommendations in the prevention of Healthcare Associated Infections (HCAIs), the ambulance service introduced a number of new and better infection control policies in February 2015.

1990

It is the responsibility of the clinician to ensure adequate aseptic practice when attending patients and the responsibility of the ambulance crew to ensure the vehicle cleaning schedule is abided by.

1995

Infection control measures are promoted and reviewed to protect the patient as well as the clinician.

In the event that a highly probable or confirmed Category IV infectious disease case is established, the ambulance would be driven to an area designated by the infection control team, quarantined and prepared for cleaning and disinfection. The Environmental Agency will then take over responsibility for vehicle decontamination.

2000

Hon. L F Llamas: May I just ask then if the Minister is actually happy with the way things have been done in the past and there is no risk of contamination when these procedures are carried out in terms of water going into the drains and into the normal sewerage and so forth?

2005

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker. In order to keep improving, we introduced the new system in February last year.

Remember, as I said, in Category IV, which are the very, very serious ones, there would be an area identified by infection control away from the hospital where these would be treated and the vehicle decontaminated by the Environmental Agency. So we have improved from what we were doing before. Obviously, one keeps on reviewing systems and so on, but we are certainly in a much better position than we were just two years ago.

2010

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, because the difficulty and what we are getting at here is when you decontaminate an ambulance and you clean an ambulance, obviously the residual material – be it water or other materials – from the decontamination, you do not want it to go into the main sewer system for example, because then it may have a knock on effect, particularly in very serious diseases and the propensity actually to spread the disease amongst the wider population.

2015

2020

Does the Government have a designated area where for those Category IV diseases, that cannot happen and there is a segregation, there is a protection so that the water does not go into the sewerage system so that we keep the contamination at effectively zero, or as close to zero as possible?

2025

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, that would be determined at the time of the incident by the infection control team and also depending on the situation in Gibraltar.

You never know what area may be more or less used or more or less connected, so the decision is taken on the evidence at any particular moment.

2030

We have not had cause to do this very often, but the decision is taken at the time, based on the current circumstances by the infection control team.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, but with respect to the hon. Gentleman, it is an unsatisfactory answer. It is an unsatisfactory answer because what I would have expected is that in a situation where you have a Category IV disease, and we are talking about seriously infectious diseases, and you are decontaminating an ambulance, the GHA or whoever is responsible would have already identified beforehand where it is that the ambulance is going to be contaminated.

2035

It is not an answer to say, 'Well it is going to be determined on the hoof, bearing in mind whoever has the discretion at the appropriate time.' That is the way that I have understood the answer and I am giving him an opportunity to explain it, because it appears to me that the only satisfactory way of dealing with something like this is to already have identified an area where it is possible to decontaminate an ambulance in a way that is safe and a way that is secure.

2040

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, these decisions cannot ever be described as 'on the hoof'. There are dedicated infection control teams who know what they are doing and will judge every single situation separately, so they would be well researched.

2045

It may well be, Mr Speaker, but I do not have that information here, that they have a list of sites where it would go to and I will find out and I will share that information. At this point in time I cannot provide him with the list nor am I going to invent one because those may not be appropriate.

2050

But I can reassure the hon. Gentleman that the ambulances in a Category IV infectious disease would be taken to a safe place. The exact identity of the place would depend on circumstances and on the layout of the land at any particular time. But I will find out from the team which are the sites on their list, so I am assuming they have a list of potentials and I would be very happy to share that information.

2055

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, well I am very grateful to the hon. Gentleman for that answer, but is he confirming that effectively what we have is a number of sites and it depends – ? (Interjection) Well, that is the way I understood the answer: a number of sites and it depends for example where the ambulance may be at a particular time, taking into account the situation at any particular time. Because that is what he appears to be saying: that there is a list of sites and it will depend on where it goes depending on the circumstances.

2060

Can he say that for sure because that is what he appears to be saying?

2065

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, I cannot say that for sure but knowing the professionalism of our infection control team, I can say almost for sure that they know very well where they would send that ambulance. I do not know it at this particular point in time, but it is something that I will find out and share, as I have said several times.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS

2070

Standing Order 7(1) suspended to proceed with a Government Statement

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, good afternoon to all Members.

2075

Mr Speaker, I beg to move under Standing Order 7(3) to suspend Standing Order 7(1) in order to proceed with a Government Statement.

Mr Speaker: Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

POST-BREXIT MEETINGS IN LONDON

Statement by the Hon. the Chief Minister

2080

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, hon. Members will know that I have returned to Gibraltar this afternoon after a series of meetings in London yesterday. As I rise, hon. Members will forgive me for having to keep the ringer of my phone on.

The Government issued a Press Statement yesterday evening which gave some details of the work I had been doing.

2085

I was accompanied by the Deputy Chief Minister and assisted by the Attorney General and both Albert Poggio, who is retiring as London Representative, and Dominique Searle who will be taking over in that role.

Mr Speaker, the House will wish to note that I had discussed with the Leader of the Opposition in one of our meetings earlier this month, when we planned how we were going to act in the event of a vote for the United Kingdom to leave the European Union, that I would be travelling for meetings with the Minister for Europe yesterday and that we were already preparing for our 'Greenland' style arguments.

2090

It was clear to us both that the Deputy Chief Minister and I should proceed with these meetings and that we should soon be able to finalise some mechanism to work more closely together in respect of the future work that will need to be done as a result.

2095

Mr Speaker, the Cabinet has not yet met to consider how we will propose to the Leader of the Opposition that we should best do this. Mr Speaker, I understand actually that in fact that the Leader of the Opposition has written to me on the subject of which mechanism we can best use for the purpose of acting in a unified manner going forward and giving confidence in Gibraltar. I expect to see his letter when I return to my office later this evening and it will no doubt inform Cabinet's thinking in this respect.

2100

Mr Speaker, the events of the last week continue to require careful handling. This afternoon, on arrival and before stepping into the Chamber, I have met with and briefed the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition in greater detail in respect of the issues I have dealt with in London. I have also similarly briefed Ms Hassan Nahon who sits independently in this House.

2105

Mr Speaker, Hon. Members are aware that one of the many avenues we are exploring involves working with Scotland's Parliament in order to seek ways to give direct effect to the will of the people of Scotland and Gibraltar who overwhelmingly expressed a desire to remain within the European Union and the Single Market.

2110 Hon. Members will have read reports of my very positive discussions yesterday with Mrs Nicola Sturgeon, the First Minister of Scotland, in this respect. Mrs Sturgeon and I have agreed that we have a common purpose in exploring possibilities which could achieve our common objectives.

2115 The Scottish Parliament yesterday supported the First Minister's motion to explore and pursue these possibilities for Scotland after a debate in which the First Minister confirmed our discussions.

Our aim, Mr Speaker, will never be to thwart the will of the British people. It will in fact be the opposite, that is to say: we will act to seek to give effect to the will of the British people of Gibraltar as much as to the British people of England, Wales, Northern Ireland and Scotland.
2120 That may give rise to varying degrees of membership of or access to the European Union or the Single Market.

That which may seem anathema to some, or impossibly complicated to others, is actually of course already the reality we have been operating under for the 44 years which have elapsed since we acceded to the European Union with the United Kingdom in 1972, or the European Economic Community (EEC) as it then was.
2125

A technical team from Gibraltar will be communicating with the team set up by the Scottish Parliament for the purposes of understanding what the possibilities are.

This will no doubt involve seeking further understanding of the precedent set by Greenland's departure from membership of the EEC, or the European Economic Community, which predates the Treaty of Lisbon and the provisions of Article 50 thereof.
2130

There is no rule book which would prevent Gibraltar negotiating – with the support of the United Kingdom – remaining both 100% British and 100% in the EU or in the Single Market, even if the United Kingdom or parts of it were to leave.

2135 Mr Speaker, can I just at this stage and can I remind Members, who no doubt do not need reminding, that section 47(3) of the Gibraltar Constitution provides as follows:

Without prejudice to the United Kingdom's responsibility for Gibraltar's compliance with European Union law, matters which under this Constitution are the responsibility of Ministers shall not cease to be so even though they arise in the context of the European Union.

Mr Speaker, that will be an important clause to understand in coming months.

2140 Mr Speaker, we have also been in close contact with the team of the Mayor of London who is seeking also to ensure that he acts to protect the interests of the City of London and all Londoners, who also voted to remain in the European Union. I expect that we shall be doing come considerable work in the future also with the Mayor's team.

It is important in this respect to note that both Scotland and Gibraltar are separate legal jurisdictions to England and Wales. Gibraltar is British but it is not part of the United Kingdom, which in legal terms could be as advantageous as it might be disadvantageous for the purposes of this analysis.

2145 It is true, therefore, that there are political realities that might make difficult all aspects of our current considerations and some legal realities too. But in the context of negotiations, it is clear that ours can be a position which would achieve many objectives and which cannot be discarded out of hand.

2150 It would deal with business concerns about access to the single market. It would deal with general concerns about freedom of movement. And it would certainly deal with the concerns I am hearing expressed by Spanish cross-frontier workers, whose representatives I will be meeting in coming days.

I sincerely welcome that the regional government of Andalucia, the Junta de Andalucía, have set up a working group on Brexit to analyse the potential impact on the region as a result of the 2155 Referendum result and the creation of which is in part at least explicitly stated to relate to the issues which arise in our hinterland, the Campo de Gibraltar.

I expect we will be able to work with the Junta also to understand the negative consequences that could arise from a bar to the free movement of people across our frontier with Spain and to prevent any such eventualities from arising, whatever the outcome of a potential United Kingdom notification to withdraw from the European Union.

2160 As I have said before and will say again, the Spanish and other nationals who are cross-frontier workers are very welcome in Gibraltar. Migration is not an issue in Gibraltar as it may have been elsewhere in the United Kingdom, Mr Speaker. We welcome migration as a cornerstone of our success. Cross-frontier workers and those who have moved to Gibraltar from inside or outside the European Union are part of our success. We wish to continue to see them working alongside us in our economy for many years. And Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar is committed to ensuring guaranteed and unhindered access to Gibraltar for them, as well as for the businesses and clients of businesses who such workers serve.

2170 And to achieve that, it is imperative in my view that we remain, as we always have, ready to work with all relevant parties in the United Kingdom and beyond in the context of Gibraltar's desire to secure its human and business need to retain physical and commercial access to Europe.

2175 For that reason we have worked in the last 24 hours with friends and contacts in the United Kingdom and beyond. In particular we have been able to express the detailed concerns that are relevant to businesses in Gibraltar to the Minister for Europe in person directly. We have also communicated in writing to the Prime Minister directly and via colleagues in the Conservative Party the things that we need to ensure are dealt with urgently.

2180 We are also perhaps most importantly able to report to the House today that Gibraltar will not just be consulted in the process of a potential negotiation to withdraw the United Kingdom from the European Union. We will actually be fully involved in such a process and we will work in partnership with the United Kingdom to seek to ensure Gibraltar's interests are protected and advanced. That is the same level of involvement that will be afforded to the political leaders of the Home Nations in the United Kingdom.

2185 The Minister for Europe confirmed this to me yesterday and he will be writing to me to set out this position in the coming days, as the official position of Her Majesty's Government of the United Kingdom.

2190 The work has also already started in the terms of some of the other technical and underlying issues that have long afflicted Gibraltar's ability to access the United Kingdom as a market for our services. I am confident that we are progressing well with that work with colleagues in the United Kingdom.

Last night was a propitious moment to celebrate the work that Albert Poggio has done for Gibraltar in London since 1988. For over a quarter of a century, he has worked the corridors of Parliament to keep the Gibraltar issue in the minds of the most influential people in politics in the United Kingdom.

2195 As a result, on his retirement from the post of Director of Gibraltar House in London, the reception in the Speaker's House in the Westminster Parliament was attended by representatives of all parties and of all factions of all parties. It was a final opportunity yesterday to ram home some of the things that we had already communicated to decision-makers during the day.

2200 Albert Poggio will continue to work with us in relation to political lobbying in the United Kingdom. That was always the agreed position; but I am sure that if it had not been, Albert would have nonetheless stepped up to the plate now in any event.

2205 Last night, Mr Speaker, our message, was being very well received indeed. But the House should be alive to the fact that politics of the current moment in the United Kingdom is as much in flux as the commercial aspects of the future relationship between the United Kingdom and the EU. It is important therefore that we stand up for Gibraltar's interests together and united, as I know this whole House will do.

To end this intervention, Mr Speaker, I want to reiterate again some fundamentals, which the House will agree with me bear repetition:

2210 Mr Speaker, in all of the options we are looking at, in every alternative we consider, in every future that we countenance, Gibraltar will retain 100% of its British Sovereignty.

We have a Sovereign, Mr Speaker. We love our Sovereign. There are no vacancies for a new Sovereign for Gibraltar!

2215 What we are going to do is act to ensure that we properly contextualise for the whole world the situation in which Gibraltar finds itself. We are going to act to ensure we are the ones shaping the future for our nation and our community. We are going to act to fashion a reality that is in keeping with the expressed will of the people of Gibraltar.

2220 Finally Mr Speaker, I will shortly be consulting the Leader of the Opposition and the Independent Member, Ms Hassan Nahon on the text of a motion that I expect to move in coming days in this House to deal with the result of the Referendum and the response thereto.

I trust hon. Members will now have a better understanding of the activity that has occupied the Deputy Chief Minister and me for the past 48 hours. I will seek to keep the House and the whole nation as informed as possible in the coming weeks and months as we progress the pursuit of the best interests of Gibraltar in these rapidly changing scenarios.

2225 Can I also tell the House that I will not be present throughout this Question Time session and will perhaps have to absent myself at other times to travel, meet or speak to those who may be relevant as we pursue matters. I obviously mean the House no disrespect if that occurs and I know all Members will fully understand.

2230 One thing is clear, Mr Speaker, and I think Members of this House are now fully cognisant of this, and that is that the result of the Referendum on the United Kingdom's continued membership of the European Union has in fact ignited a chain of events, the resolution of which will be more like a marathon than a sprint.

2235 And not just for Gibraltar, Mr Speaker; for the whole of the United Kingdom, for the whole of the European Union and for the whole of the world. I am sure we all in Gibraltar have the energy for it and none of us will be found wanting!

Thank you very much, Mr Speaker.

A Member: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

2240 Minister for Financial Services and Gaming (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, may I just, by clarification, before the Leader of the Opposition is invited to speak?

Mr Speaker: If you wish, yes.

2245 Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, as Members of the House will know, it is indeed my job to work with and reassure businesses in Gibraltar across the spectrum of services that I represent, that Gibraltar is indeed open and available for business as usual.

2250 I am delighted to report to the Members of the House that indeed these past days that I have been engaging with them directly, what I have had is them reassuring me of their commitment to Gibraltar, their commitment to business as usual and applauding the energy, the drive and the logical sense which our Chief Minister and Deputy Chief Minister have demonstrated these past two days in knowing which way Gibraltar needs to go to protect their businesses and, of course, to protect our economy and our people.

2255 And if I may just add, it was ironic yesterday that Faisal Islam, the Sky News reporter, tweeted that he now had four people that knew what they were doing in terms of their plans for the Brexit. They happened to be Nicola Sturgeon from Scotland, Jeremy Hunt, Sadiq Khan and he added to that list Mr Fabian Picardo. I think that is a sign of the recognition that our Leader and Deputy Chief Minister have displayed this past week since the stormy events of last Friday.

2260 I should also report to this House, Mr Speaker, that in this past week since Friday, we have had gaming companies that have relocated and plan to relocate more of their business to Gibraltar who have expanded and committed to take on more premises in Gibraltar and indeed, opened up more vacancies for their business in Gibraltar. All of this since last Friday.

2265 I am also delighted to report, Mr Speaker, that just today an MMOU has been signed between the Gibraltar regulator and the Cayman Islands' regulator facilitating more business between our jurisdictions and importantly and critically, since last Friday two new insurance companies have made applications to our Financial Services Commission.

So indeed in the sectors that I represent, Mr Speaker, and despite the uncertainty that undoubtedly lies, I am delighted to say it is very much business as usual. (Banging on desks) 2270 Mr Speaker: I will invite Members of the Opposition, in particular the Leader of the Opposition and the Hon. Independent Lady to ask any questions or clarification on anything that arises from the statement made by the Chief Minister if they so wish.

The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

2275 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, yes. Mr Speaker, I have no questions and I am going to be keeping my intervention short. I actually think that at this moment in time, the less said the better and it is a time for actions rather than words.

2280 But let me say this: that the Opposition as I said last week, remains ready, willing and able to be engaged and to work with the Government on behalf of this community and for the benefit of this community and that the Opposition will place the interests of this community over and above its own narrow political interests every single day of the week.

2285 Because, Mr Speaker, at the end of the day, what we are talking about here is the future not only of the people here in this House, but of our children, our children's children and generations to come. (Banging on desks) And, Mr Speaker, those generations of people will not forgive us if we get this wrong and therefore we must get it right.

2290 Mr Speaker, as the Hon. the Chief Minister has said, I have today written to him in order to suggest to him a mechanism whereby the Government and the Opposition can work together on this particular issue. I understand that the Chief Minister arrived from the United Kingdom this afternoon and he has not been able to read my letter. But it shows that the Opposition is already constructively attempting to suggest a way forwards, in order to make sure that this Parliament and indeed the Government and the Opposition are united as far as possible in making sure that what is an important challenge to Gibraltar and to the future of Gibraltar is met as effectively as possible.

2295 And I finalise by saying this, Mr Speaker: that I think it is important that we do not close the door to any potential way forward that is obviously workable for Gibraltar and that delivers for Gibraltar the type of access in particular that we need in relation to the European Union, but also less important access to any trade deal that the United Kingdom may have with third parties.

2300 But equally as important as the first, in my view – and no doubt we will hear about this during the course of the Budget speech and the intervention of the Minister for Financial Services – is uninterrupted access to the UK market in the areas which I outlined last week, gaming, insurance and financial services in particular.

2305 And that the UK Government understands, Mr Speaker, that having effectively got us into the position that we are in, because the UK Government and the current Prime Minister called the Referendum, that obviously it then needs to do all that it can in order to make sure that any restrictions on our operators trading in the United Kingdom are removed as quickly as possible and that restrictions that we have seen in the past, that perhaps those are also revised. And I know that the Hon. the Chief Minister is also in fairness working in relation to that.

So, Mr Speaker, that is all I wish to say at this stage. (Banging on desks)

2310

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Ms Marlene Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, thank you.

2315 As I thank the Chief Minister for his briefing, Mr Speaker, may I rise to clarify one aspect of the Chief Minister's address, given that he says he is willing to involve me in his briefings? Can I just ask him what mechanisms he is going to put in place to ensure the regularity of those briefings?

2320 And, Mr Speaker, I would also like to say a couple of words. I would like to say to the House and to the people of Gibraltar that I am proud to be part of a people who are united, especially now – a people who know what is good for them and a people who are outward looking. We are not an insular people and we thrive on our acceptance of all cultures. This is a reflection of our maturity as a people, as seen by the overwhelming result of our part in the Referendum last Thursday.

2325 Therefore I take this opportunity to call for unity, Mr Speaker, because I believe we need to stand shoulder to shoulder, as Members of the House have always done in times of great adversity, to protect our own interests because nobody will protect Gibraltar's interests like we will here in Gibraltar. That is a fact and I applaud the Government's efforts in exploring all avenues to take control of Gibraltar's future.

2330 Also, Mr Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to call for Gibraltar's solidarity with our European brothers and sisters in the light of the recent hate-filled attacks in the UK today and last night and I remind them that they are as welcome here today as they were this time last week.

Thank you. (Banging on desks)

2335 Mr Speaker: Before we return to the more mundane matters of Question Time, I have a copy of a letter here which I think I should bring to the attention of hon. Members, because I think it will please them to see in what very high regard the team that conducted the Referendum here in Gibraltar have been held by the Electoral Commission in the UK.

2340 The Clerk of Parliament works to me in his capacity as Clerk. As Returning Officer or as the officer in charge of conducting the Referendum, he has of course nothing to do with me, but I feel that I should take this opportunity to acquaint the House with the fact that Mr Martinez has received from the Chief Counting Officer of the Electoral Commission in the UK, a letter of thanks and of high praise for the work not only conducted by Mr Martinez but his whole team, in the smooth manner in which the whole show, the whole of the Referendum was conducted and the count afterwards.

2345 They ask that thanks be passed on to all his colleagues and I am sure that all Members in the House and Gibraltar generally will welcome the fact that we have people in Gibraltar who can rise to the occasion and carry out such a task to such great satisfaction.

2350 A Member: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

2355 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, can I just associate the Government and no doubt all Members of the House with those words on behalf of the Electoral Commission. I think all of us were hugely impressed by the way that Gibraltar was able to synthesise with the UK for the purpose of this Referendum. We had expected that we would be able to because the Clerk has shown that he does it so effectively at European Election time, but we were in a different way under the microscope this time that we were not before.

2360 Can I just say that the fact Gibraltar reported its results first – let alone that they were so resounding, but that they were reported first – put Gibraltar in the minds of everyone who was watching that night. And I think everyone who was watching that night at the end of the process, at least the political people, knew that Gibraltar had voted massively in one way and that the United Kingdom had in the end, by a smaller margin, voted in another way. So I want to associate the Government with the words of the Electoral Commission, and in fact the whole House and community with the words of the Electoral Commission, in thanking the Clerk.

2365 And may I simply deal with the issues that have arisen in clarification of my statement. Can I thank the Minister for Financial Services for the information that he has given the House. No doubt he will elaborate on that during the course of the Budget debate next week, but although the Deputy Chief Minister and I and other Members of the Government were aware of that, I think he will have given great comfort to others in Gibraltar and no doubt all Members of the House to hear just what reassurance we are receiving from international businesses in Gibraltar about their continued commitment to Gibraltar going forward.

Can I thank the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition for his words of support and unity. We had an opportunity to speak earlier and we will be looking to see how we can give greater shape to the way that we are going to work together in the coming weeks and months and perhaps years.

2375 Can I say to the hon. Lady that will to a very great extent determine how I am able to also include her in briefings, so that when we come to this House we are all aware of what we are talking about? There may be things that we are not comfortable saying in the context of the broadcast of this House because we want each other to know what we are doing to secure Gibraltar's position; we do not want to give a heads up to those who want us not to be in a secure position, to know what we are doing. It is therefore important to all of us to have the information.

2380 And can I simply reflect that when Gibraltar acceded into the European Economic Community, there was a Bossano, a Canepa and a Hassan in this House and so it looks good, Mr Speaker. We may still have a chance to stay!

2385 Mr Speaker: Question 359.

Clerk: Question 359, the Hon. –

2390 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, just for the purposes of the historical record, I am reminded that there was also an Isola. (Laughter) Things are looking up indeed, Mr Speaker! (Banging on desks) Things are looking up indeed!

Questions for Oral Answer continued

HEALTH, THE ENVIRONMENT, ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Q359/2016

Ambulance service –
Plans to relocate

Clerk: Question 359, the Hon. D A Feetham.

2395

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, on that positive note, can I ask the Government, are there any plans to relocate the ambulance service?

2400 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, yes sir.

2405 Hon. D A Feetham: Well thank you very much, Mr Speaker, and can he elaborate on those plans, please?

2410 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, a public announcement was made some months ago regarding the potential use of the Rooke site and that one of the possibilities was incorporating an emergency services hub. So that is one of the areas where consideration is being given.

In the interim there are also plans within the context or the confines of St Bernard's Hospital to do some changes in order to better accommodate the ambulance crew. But the longer-term plan that is being considered is the Rooke site.

2415 Hon. R M Clinton: If I may, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Roy Clinton.

2420 Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you. Mr Speaker, could the Hon. Minister please elaborate what he means by an emergency services hub. Would that include the Fire Brigade?

2425 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker, I cannot speak for the Fire Brigade. I refer the hon. Member to a Press Statement some months ago which mentioned the possibilities for the Rooke site. I cannot elaborate any further other than to answer the question that I have been asked in relation to the possibility being considered of moving the ambulance service.

Hon. D A Feetham: So when the hon. Gentleman talks about an emergency hub, he is just talking about the ambulance service and nothing else?

2430 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am talking about the ambulance service. I am not in a position to elaborate further.

Mr Speaker, this is all on public record if the hon. Members opposite do their research.

2435 Mr Speaker: Question 360.

Q360/2016

Dementia residential care facility, Old Naval Hospital – Service provider

Clerk: Question 360, the Hon. D A Feetham.

2440 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm the chosen service provided to run the dementia residential care facility at the Old Naval Hospital?

2445 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, it is presently Grand Home Care but subject to the negotiations to further reduce the cost to the Taxpayer.

2450 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, is the Minister in any position to disclose what the successful – or we are led to believe the successful – tender amount by Grand Home Care was?

2455 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker. There was a panel that considered the various applicants for this contract. Grand Home Care was the preferred applicant and there are discussions at the moment into the costing, particularly the costing also a little bit on the manning levels, but I am not in a position to disclose that because we are still negotiating.

2460 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, but my understanding, and the Minister will correct me if I am wrong, this particular service has gone out to tender has it not? Therefore presumably Grand Home Care was the lowest tenderer. Well, the Government is not obliged to take the lowest. It may be that the view the Government took was that Grand Home Care provided the best service and you are now trying to reduce the cost. Can he explain whether it is one or the other? Were they the lowest tenderers, Grand Home Care?

2465 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I was not part of the tender process, but the tender process took into consideration cost as well as the ability to deliver the service. Because we are currently negotiating with them, I do not think it would be appropriate for me to give any further information.

2470 Hon. D A Feetham: But, Mr Speaker, was there a tender process in relation to this? Is this a situation where the service has actually gone out to tender and Grand Home Care have basically said, 'We can provide this service for x thousands of pounds'? Can he at least confirm that?

2475 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, expressions of interest were invited and a number of different organisations gave their proposals. These were considered by a board, and I think there is a question – in fact, I think, two questions – down on that, taking into account costs as well as their ability to provide the service we require. Grand Home Care, and it is already in the public record before today, were the preferred option and we are currently in negotiations with them.

I am not going to give any more details because it would not be proper for me to do so.

2480 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, yes, but then there has not been a tender. What the Hon. the Minister is saying is that there was no tender, that there were invitations for expressions of interest, that those expressions of interest came in and that the Government have identified Grand Home Care as their preferred option, presumably based on both cost and quality of care, and you are now negotiating with them in order to see whether you can drive the price down. Is that an accurate way of characterising it?

2490 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, that is not what I have said. I have said that we are looking at costs and the service that they can provide, and I am not going to be drawn into giving more details at a point when we are actively in discussion. I think that would not serve the community well.

2495 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may, following on from what my colleague the Hon. Mr Feetham asked, I would be grateful if the Minister could enlighten us in terms of what is normal procedure for this type of contract: whether a formal tender is issued; is the Procurement Office involved; and who decides to whom expressions of interest are sent?

2500 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the providers in this field are limited and well known in Gibraltar. The Government works with virtually all of them and the panel that discussed and met with all the applicants was made up of professionals – it is pre-empting Question 362 – in the field.

2505 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, but he understands that there is a distinction between ... and the Hon. the Father of the House will understand it – there is a difference between something going out to tender, whether it is handled by the Procurement Office or not, and an invitation of expressions of interest. There is a difference. In relation to the former there is a price, that price goes in, and normally will go to the lowest tender but not always because there may be other factors. At least can he tell me has there been a formal tender here, or is it an expression of interest?

2510 And also – this will be my last question – in that expression of interest or that offer that was made pursuant to a tender ... I am not asking for the actual price; I am just asking were Grand Home Care the cheapest option.

2515 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, as I have already said, it was a call for expressions of interest and I am not going to give any further details because we are in the middle of negotiations.

Q361/2016
Dementia day centre –
Progress

Clerk: Question 361, the Hon. D A Feetham.

2520 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain what work has been done in the past 12 months and is currently being done in order to open the dementia day centre?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

2525 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, works to the building have been completed, handover of the building is expected next month, recruitment is in progress and the purchase of equipment and furniture is in progress.

2530 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, dare I ask the Hon. Minister for a projected opening date?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: You dare, yes, you may dare. Are you going to ask me, or are you just asking me whether you may dare? (Laughter)

2535 Hon. R M Clinton: I do love your wit! (Laughter) Do you have a projected opening date, Minister?

2540 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, we are projecting to open in September. It is tight, I will admit it, because we have a lot of work to do, but I am meeting with the team on a weekly basis and I am confident that we should be able to meet the September target.

Clerk: Question –

2545 Hon. D A Feetham: May I just come back to this? The Hon. the Minister mentioned that the Government is undertaking recruitment, I think he said. Is that recruitment additional to any labour that has been provided by the service provider – in this case let's assume Grand Home Care – under its service provision contract?

2550 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, there will be a few clinical – I mean very few, a handful, two or three; I do not have the exact figures here – and supervisory admin roles that will be included as well as the contracted carers.

The clinical involvement in the day facility will be provided by the GHA. We are talking about speech therapists, that sort of thing, and a small element of supervision of the contractors.

2555 Hon. D A Feetham: And, Mr Speaker, will this involve a transfer of existing employees from other parts of the GHA into this particular facility, or are we talking about advertising for new posts? Are they new posts, effectively?

2560 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: It will involve both. There will be a lot of services which will be just a change in location – the memory clinic being one – but there are one or two, a very small number of posts, that are being provided for as additional.

2565 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, would the Hon. Minister be able to advise whether the residential care centre and the day care centre were bundled as one service in terms of expressions of interest, or will they be separate contracts – or are we looking at two different service providers?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: They are being handled separately, Mr Speaker.

2570 Hon. L F Llamas: Is the Minister able to confirm, then, who has been the successful applicant for the day centre?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker.

2575 Hon. D A Feetham: And, Mr Speaker, in relation to the day centre, is this also a case where the Government or the GHA is in negotiations with Grand Home Care, or is the GHA in negotiation with somebody else for the provision of this particular service?

2580 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: The process of dealing with expressions of interest is current, and this is part of the recruitment process that I was referring to.

2585 Hon. D A Feetham: I think that certainly on this side of the House we would benefit from clarification, because when the Hon. Minister talked about recruitment, automatically what came to mind was that the Government was either going to be relocating existing employees into this particular facility or alternatively advertising for new jobs. But then when he has talked about service providers, that conjures up a different type of approach that is not a recruitment of individuals. What that is is the contracting out of the service.

2590 Could he explain this? Because also the Hon. the Minister for Health has also said that you are talking about very few posts – two or three I think he mentioned at one stage, or three or four – so how do you recruit and also contract out service providers in relation to just simply four posts?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, in order to clarify, there will be a contracted provision for the caring, nursing element, which is currently in process, a similar process to what happened for 2595 the residential centre, where I said Grand Home Care is the one that is being discussed, and there is a separate process of a small number of posts that are being recruited or transferred.

2600 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if the Hon. Minister could clarify, he is giving a date of opening of September for the day care centre but he has not selected a provider yet. I believe for the dementia residential we are still talking about ... autumn, I think, was the last, more or less, date that he gave. Given that you already have a preferred supplier for the dementia residential care centre, how is it you are more confident for the September opening date for day care, even though we have not got a preferred supplier yet?

2605 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: It is a totally different thing. You are not talking about 24-hour care; you are talking about nine to five, eight to six, that sort of thing. The human resource element will be smaller. There is also the possibility of a phased opening, floor by floor; so it is not a challenge, we are still on time to deliver by that time.

2610 Remember, a day centre is not the same as manning a residential home 24 hours a day. It is a very different operation. It is an easier thing to do and much quicker to generate than a 24-hour shift service with all sorts of covers of shifts and overnight security and that sort of thing, providing food or whatever. So with the day facility we can still say we are on track because it is a much less complicated thing than a home that has to be open 24 hours a day.

2615 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am sure the dementia carers and also the future users of the facility will very much appreciate that.
Thank you.

Q362/2016
Old Naval Hospital dementia facility –
Panel of experts

Clerk: Question 362, the Hon. D A Feetham.

2620 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government disclose the names and posts of the panel of experts who have chosen the preferred applicant to run the dementia residential care facility at the Old Naval Hospital?

2625 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, this is one that got away. I should have combined it with the earlier one, but when you have about 120 questions to answer, if one gets away, there we are – maybe two get away.

2630 I do not think it is appropriate to disclose the names of the panel, but I can assure the Member opposite that they were all highly experienced and of a qualified professional capacity in health. I would be happy to provide the names on a confidential basis.

Q363-364/2016
GHA Complaints –
Complaints received

Clerk: Question 363, the Hon. D A Feetham.

2635

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, how many complaints received by the GHA Complaints Board in each of the financial years since 31st March 2012 related to (a) the service at the Primary Care Centre and (b) the accident and emergency ward of St Bernard's Hospital?

2640

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question with Question 364.

2645

Clerk: Question 364, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, please give details of the number of complaints received by the GHA Complaints Board for each of the financial years since 31st March 2012 together with the number of complaints upheld. And, Mr Speaker, if the hon. Member is minded to provide that, obviously he can provide it in the schedule exactly.

2650

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

2655

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, the information is provided in the schedules which I now hand over. There are two tables on that sheet of paper.

Answer to Question 364-2016

Answer to question 363-2016

	PCC complaints	A&E complaints
1 st April 2012 to 31 st March 2013	25	17
1 st April 2013 to 31 st March 2014	51	19
1 st April 2014 to 31 st March 2015	41	27
1 st April 2015 to 31 st March 2016	47	33

Answer to Question 364-2016

	TOTAL COMPLAINTS	UPHELD
1 st April 2012 to 31 st March 2013	125	67
1 st April 2013 to 31 st March 2014	160	99
1 st April 2014 to 31 st March 2015	165	92
1 st April 2015 to 31 st March 2016	222	44

2660 Please note that there is no such thing as a GHA complaints board; we have changed the law.
All complaints are handled by the Public Services Ombudsman through the complaints handling scheme.

2665 Since this system was introduced on 1st April all complaints, however minor, are logged, so the figures after that time are not directly comparable to previous years. Mr Speaker, before we introduced the ombudsman system, some of the minor complaints were dealt with in a less formal way and may not have been logged, so the figures are not totally comparable.

Mr Speaker: Are there any supplementaries arising from the information provided?
Question 365.

Q365/2016
External health referrals –
Reasons, institutions and costs

2670 Clerk: Question 365, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide a breakdown for each financial year since 31st March 2011 of referred health cases to medical institutions outside Gibraltar and the United Kingdom, detailing the reason, cost and medical institution where treated?

2675 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

2680 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, this was quite a task and I must here commend my personal staff and the staff of the St Bernard's Hospital and particularly the sponsored patient department for, despite all their onerous tasks in dealing with patients, extracting this information.

Mr Speaker, they are long, complicated schedules, so I suspect they are going to need a bit of time to look into. Clearly no names are included, as we have to make sure that these things are totally anonymous.

2685 I now hand over these schedules.

The document can be found here:

Schedule to Question 365 of 2016

Mr Speaker: Where schedules to answers are concerned, this one takes the biscuit: there are well over a hundred pages here of very, very small type.

2690 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am very grateful to the Hon. the Minister for Health for answering this particular question; I think it is an important question.

The reason why I went back to March 2011 is obviously I wanted to compare the last year of our Government with the beginning of his Government to see whether there has been any perceptive change in the practice thereafter. That is the reason why I went back to 31st March 2011.

2695

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I have to comment there. Clearly it is asking for a hospital other than the United Kingdom; the vast majority will be Spain. Prior to 2013 we did not have a contract with any Spanish hospitals and clearly that will be reflected in greater usage, but I am 2700 willing to answer – (Interjection) Yes, absolutely, and I am willing to answer any supplementary now, or later if they need more time.

Hon. D A Feetham: May I also thank the hon. Gentleman's staff and the individuals who compiled this schedule. It is by far the longest schedule that I have seen in my time in the House and probably one of the longest schedules in parliamentary history, so I am very grateful indeed to the hon. Gentleman's staff.

Hon. R M Clinton: If I may ask just one supplementary to this. The Hon. Minister mentioned contracts: would I be correct in assuming that the vast majority of contracts will be denominated in euros?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Sorry, I missed that.

Hon. R M Clinton: The contracts will be in euros, the currency?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I cannot answer that question. I suspect probably not. I need notice of that question.

The contracts were negotiated based on NHS UK prices, but whether that was converted to euros for the purpose of the contract is something that I would have to check. Please do remind me. I am happy to answer a letter. Do not rely on my memory – after three or four hours answering questions, that one might slip.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I just have one or two supplementaries – figures that are striking, that caught my attention, and perhaps the Hon. Minister can help us with that.

We see, for example, that with Xanit Hospital obviously there is no history prior to 2013-14 because it is a contract that no doubt has been negotiated and agreed by this current administration. But then in 2014-15 we see payments to Xanit of £4.1 million, and then there is a marked increase in that figure to £7.1 million in the year 2015-16. Can he explain why there has been almost a 40% increase in terms of money in the service provided by Xanit?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, Xanit was used before this administration but on an ad hoc manner and without a contract, and prices were not fixed. This contract does fix prices for particular treatments and is largely based on NHS figures.

The increase in Spanish hospitals, particularly Xanit, has been clear for a number of reasons. Xanit, as opposed to some of the National Health Hospitals, as a result of a certain amount of deterioration in standards, which were reflected in complaints, following the financial crisis that affected Andalusia until very recently, if not current ... and as a result of complaints we had little option but to redirect some of the patients. Therefore, although we do pay the Sanidad hospitals, those bills come delayed sometimes by several years because they are processed through the EU or the UK as the case may be.

Also, there is an increasing preference by members of the community to be treated in Spain, as opposed to the UK, because they are closer, because relatives can visit them at the end of a drive of an hour or two rather than move all the way to the UK. But also the fact ... and I do not have the figures here, but if I am asked the figures for the number of sponsored patients as a whole the number of sponsored patients is increasing very, very greatly as awareness increases, new medical opportunities increase, but also the fact that a sponsored patient who is new this year will still be a sponsored patient next year, the year after and the year after if they are still undergoing treatment. So there has been an increase in the number of sponsored patients which will largely mirror the increase in costs.

2750 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, in due course we will do the analysis, because what the Hon. Minister is saying is that we can expect to see perhaps some decrease in the use of other Spanish institutions in favour of Xanit over the years. It does not strike me as such, looking at 2755 these figures, but we will undertake an analysis in due course, because of course we can see from this that when we were in Government, in the year ending March 2011 £1.2 million was being spent on Xanit and that has increased to £7.1 million at the end of this particular financial year.

But, Mr Speaker, I also see that there is a substantial increase in the use of the Clínica Universidad de Navarra. The Clínica Universidad de Navarra is a world-renowned cancer centre.
Unfortunately, I had reason to send my mother there and it is a fantastic, fantastic, fantastic 2760 centre. We see that there is an increase from £7,000 at the end of 2013, to £627,000, nearly £628,000, at the end of March 2015, and this year it has been £½ million. Can he explain why there has been such a significant increase in what is a world-renowned but of course a private hospital as well?

2765 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker. Clearly the Clínica Universidad de Navarra, which is known locally as Pamplona, is a private hospital with which we are discussing contracts – we do not have a firm contract with them – and is generally used very exceptionally, without going into too many details because there are a handful of people whom I do not want to be identifiable as a result of this discussion. It is used quite infrequently, generally for particularly difficult cases.
2770 The success rate is probably not as much as we would like. In some cases it does add some months or years to people’s lives – obviously, it is a very delicate issue – and there has been some success and there have been some referrals there, although as I say, it is carefully managed and is usually for specifically difficult conditions where they happen to be the place to go.

2775 There will be other places, some in the UK, some in Europe, and over the last four years I recall particular patients have been sent to Switzerland or Germany and these are all patients with particular conditions. It tends not to be the rule, but that is why it features now and it would not have featured before.

2780 Hon. D A Feetham: So am I right in saying that if a particular cancer can be treated in Xanit, for example, or in the United Kingdom in particular, that the GHA would not consider sending an individual to Pamplona, even though obviously everybody wants to go to Pamplona because Pamplona is one of the most renowned centres in Europe if not the world, and if one had the choice one would go to Pamplona rather than go somewhere else? Certainly, if I unfortunately 2785 had a member of my family ... that is something that would play on my mind too. But this is the provision, of course, of a National Health Service, where very difficult decisions have got to be made and I am just trying to really get to the bottom of the criteria for sending somebody to Pamplona rather than somewhere else.

2790 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, let me just say that Pamplona is not the place for every condition, and there are many conditions that are better treated or just as well treated in other centres of excellence, such as the Royal Marsden and so on.

But, Mr Speaker, these are clinical medical decisions and not political decisions. It is up to the clinician to identify the case that would most benefit from referral to Pamplona or anywhere 2795 else. They are not political decisions. We do have agreements with a host of hospitals in the UK, for example, and most of our cancers would go to the UK rather than to Xanit or Pamplona; but clinically, sometimes there are cases which merit other consideration. But they are medical decisions and not political ones.

Q456/2016
Primary Care Centre –
Complaints

2800 Clerk: We now move to questions to the Hon. the Minister for Health and the Environment, Energy and Climate Change by the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.
We commence with Question 456.

2805 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, if I may, I am aware that this is the first time I address or even ask questions to the Parliament as an independent Member of the House, and that some of you, and even the people of Gibraltar, may have some questions and even deserve clarification on how I perceive this role. But I will address this at our budgetary session next week, where we will also have a fuller House. In the meantime, I shall proceed with my questions.

2810 Can the Minister for Health state whether he believes and has evidence to the effect that things are working better in the Primary Care Centre and whether complaints have decreased in the last few months since I asked the question and was asked to give quote 'a few months' to see improvements?

2815 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

2820 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I thank the hon. Lady for giving me the few months – although we have not sat, but I appreciate that comment.

2825 Mr Speaker, there are many ways in which one can say the system has improved. One is the relatively low rate of official complaints received with regard to the appointment system. I say 'official' because there will be complaints on Facebook and so on. Sadly, many of the complaints on Facebook, if I might just digress for the moment, never get to the people who need to see them, so I would encourage people with complaints to actually write in or phone in or email.

2830 But anyway, there are only six officially registered complaints since January until now. The majority of these centre on the fact that the patients have not been able to see their preferred doctor and not that they have not just had access to a GP: they have seen a GP but not their preferred doctor.

2835 Another sign of improvement may be fact that on some days we are seeing advance appointments left over from one week to another or the fact that emergency appointments are not always being taken up. The most solid evidence is the increase of routine slots available from 1,361 slots in January for advance appointments, to 1,905 offered in May, or 1,630 slots offered for on-the-day appointments in January, compared to 2,805 on-the-day consultations attended to in May.

The most common concern expressed by service users is around the fact that they may need to call on subsequent days before they get a slot with their preferred doctor. However, the service has responded to this by having all doctors on an on-the-day appointment only rota. This has resulted, in most cases, in an improvement in access.

2840 The routine appointments and advanced appointments in a public health system must prioritise those people who have an illness and not, as was the case previously, with the same clients pre-booking appointments as a matter of routine month after month.

2845 In the old system, all advance appointments were exhausted for the month by 10 o'clock on the first of the month. Now you have to phone again but you have a chance of getting an appointment. Patients were then not inconvenienced by having to phone over a few days as there was not an advance appointment to be had anyway.

2850 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: So, Mr Speaker, is the hon. Gentleman, the Minister for Health, saying that the plan and the system that he has put in place is carrying on as has been started, or is he still changing things around; or are we carrying on with the new system, or are we looking for different ways, different improvements, all the time?

2855 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, we are looking for improvements all the time. The system, I think, from the evidence provided to me, is better. I can, for example, say I have got the figures for June so far in front of me and on every day there have always been some slots not used. We have never, in the whole month, actually reached a point where there were no emergency slots available. There may not be a slot with your own doctor – that doctor may be away on leave, may be sick or whatever. As I said before, we have been playing around with the system. Between January and May we have increased the number of slots offered. We have made sure 2860 that some doctors have only on-the-day appointments regularly, so that people will know that they can see their particular doctor. So we are slowly moving forward.

I would not say that this task is finished; I would say we still have room for progress. I welcome people asking, and even complaining, because it will help us improve the system further. So I think it is better, but we always have room for improvement.

2865

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, may I ... if the hon. Lady has finished?

I am very interested with what the Minister answered at the very beginning. He said that he is aware, as I am, of people expressing many views which can be classified, broadly speaking, as complaints and so on, yet when it comes to official figures, which is what the Minister can only answer for in this House, it was down to six.

2870

Can he give us, the general user of the Primary Care Centre, some guidelines? If I am wishing to put forward a complaint or grievance or something, what is the Minister's recommended process – which by all means would have to be far better than Facebook?

2875 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker. I think, if it is related specifically to primary care, it is to talk to the primary care administration team either directly or by e-mail – they are available by email – and make sure that they are aware. If it is a more general complaint or maybe a more serious complaint, then clearly we have the complaints handling scheme, which I mentioned earlier in answer to a question from the Hon. Mr Feetham. But I think the first point of contact would be the management team in the Primary Care Centre.

2880

Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

And therefore, in keeping with that, can I recommend and would the Minister take on board to look into it, perhaps a simple notice within the Primary Care Centre waiting rooms or whatever, saying 'Should you wish to bring something to our attention ...' and actually provide the e-mail address. Because sometimes when you go to the general counter you can be in the queue for a few minutes, and you have just come out of the blue waiting area and you are a bit upset, and the longer you wait the more you get upset. So in order to help us all to calm down at that moment a simple notice means it allows you to go back home and send your e-mail in a more cool, calm and collected yet constructive manner, which is what both the Minister and this side of the House would like to see.

2890

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, clearly there will be instances and occasions and times of the day or particular days when there will be a build-up and so on. This is why I say we have to keep on improving.

2895

People who use the internet will be able to have access to an e-mail address where all complaints can be sent, and they are all centralised in fact by one of my own personal staff and then sent to the different departments. But the idea of having a notice there specifying it is a good one and I will take it up. Thank you.

2900 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, with your leave, if I may add to my hon. colleague's suggestion, again in terms of quality of service would the Minister consider a sort of an exit ... not so much a survey but a satisfaction process where you can then collect data from users of the centre on a daily basis as to how they perceive their experience and the interaction of the Primary Care Centre – a bit as we have all seen in the airport security queue lines, where you have these three or four buttons to press: were you happy with your service today, or not? That would then give you an anonymous source of real data as to people's perceptions and their experience of the Primary Care Centre.

2910 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I take the point. I thought for a moment that the hon. Member was suggesting that we have staff doing questionnaires there, and frankly I think we would all rather they be doing other things more directly with patients. But an electronic method is a possibility, and again it is something that I will be very happy to look at.

2915 Hon. E J Reyes: If it helps the Member, Mr Speaker, I think there is one at Gibtelecom offices here, just a stone's throw away from this building. Maybe we can get them to sponsor it.

Q457/2016
St Bernard's Hospital –
Security re dementia patients

Clerk: Question 457, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2920 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: What measures do we have in place in terms of security for dementia patients who are admitted in St Bernard's Hospital to ensure that they remain at all times within the hospital premises?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

2925 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, St Bernard's Hospital has three uniformed security guards, on a 24-hour seven days a week basis, stationed at St Bernard's Hospital.

One is stationed at the main reception to monitor CCTV, another is based at the accident and emergency department for obvious reasons, and a third guard carries out patrol duties.

2930 Wards are locked with a door access card system, and if the risk is significant nurse management will allocate one-to-one supervision, depending on staffing constraints.

2935 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I have been made aware of a case who escaped at night – and yes, thankfully, I have only heard of the one case so far, but can we use this as alarm bells, despite the hon. Member saying that he has three ... so that this does not happen again, obviously?

2940 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, I am aware of that case and it is regretted. It is the only one I am aware of in many, many years; one case which has resulted in systems being checked and awareness being increased.

Fortunately, nothing untoward happened. It does happen in hospitals all over the world. It is regrettable and we have taken steps to try and ensure that it does not happen again. But I appreciate the comments.

Q458-468/2016
General Medical Council –
New framework

2945

Clerk: Question 458, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Did the Minister for Health, or indeed the Health Ministry, consult doctors or practitioners prior to and since its decision to enforce General Medical Council regulations by the second half of 2016?

2950

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question with questions 459 to 468.

2955

Clerk: Question 459, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: What is the plan of action as regards the upcoming implementation of General Medical Council regulation vis-à-vis doctors permanently employed since before the law was passed, and what will happen to those doctors who do not wish to register?

2960

Clerk: Question 460, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2965

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Have Government considered and factored in the cost to re-educate doctors and send them out to retake courses in tertiary clinics and universities as part of the new General Medical Council framework?

2970

Clerk: Question 461, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Has Government made arrangements with British universities for the re-training of doctors as part of the new General Medical Council framework?

2975

Clerk: Question 462, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Before the new General Medical Council regulation is put in place, has Government ensured that a support body for doctors, like the BMA in the UK, be put in place in order to counterbalance an authority like the General Medical Council? What has been arranged in terms of support for doctors?

2980

Clerk: Question 463, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Will we have a programme of continued revision and assessment to comply with the General Medical Council Standards that the Government will be setting doctors?

2985

Clerk: Question 464, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2990

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Does Gibraltar have the infrastructure to be able to cope with this new regulatory standard that doctors will be forced to comply with?

2995 Clerk: Question 465, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: How does the new order of subscription to the General Medical Council tally with our doctors who are also working within the Spanish system?

3000 Clerk: Question 466, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: In connection with the new General Medical Council framework about to go live, has Government set a frequency for revalidation as is done in the UK, where there is a five-year plan? Will there be a similar revalidation timeline put in place for Gibraltar?

3005 Clerk: Question 467, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Who will be doing the peer review or appraisals when the General Medical Council Framework is implemented?

3010 Clerk: Question 468, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Who is going to be the responsible body and officer once the General Medical Council structure comes into place?

3015 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Minister for Health and the Registration Board have been in extensive 3020 consultation with doctors since 2013. This included periodic e-mails and updates from the Medical Registration Board to registrants, open presentations for all doctors private and public, meetings with the Minister – myself – with doctors' representatives, regular meetings of the Revalidation Committee set up by me, regular meetings with private doctors and periodic meetings with the resumed Medical Advisory Committee of the GHA.

3025 All doctors have to obtain a licence from the General Medical Council, as this is essential to raising standards at all levels and to providing public confidence in the Health Services.

The General Medical Council has several procedures for doctors with different levels of achievement and help is available to assist doctors in selecting the route appropriate for them. Doctors who do not wish to register will be encouraged to do so, so that they do not lose the 3030 ability to practise.

There is no requirement for doctors to be re-educated or to undertake courses in tertiary clinics and universities. The GMC only expects a doctor to possess the minimum undergraduate medical qualification. Any doctor, who can satisfy the GMC that he or she has either a recognised primary medical qualification or has achieved a level of competence equivalent to 3035 such a qualification will be granted a licence to practise.

There is no requirement for doctors to be retrained under the framework. They have to show evidence of a recognised primary medical qualification or the basic level of competence equivalent to that of a newly qualified doctor.

3040 The GMC is a statutory regulatory body in the UK. Gibraltar has its own statutory regulatory body, the Medical Registration Board, which works separately from the GMC but in partnership with it.

The BMA is a trade union. Many Gibraltar doctors have joined other trade unions already operating in Gibraltar, such as Unite or GGCA. However, doctors are free to join the BMA should they so wish. There was a time, Mr Speaker, when they had a branch in Gibraltar, but that is no 3045 longer the case.

The Medical Registration Board has been setting standards for doctors practising in Gibraltar from its inception in 1997 and it has largely applied the GMC Council standards for its purpose. Hence there should not be any significant change in the standards expected of doctors in Gibraltar, although, through the need for appraisal and revalidation, standards are expected to rise.

3050

The main additional responsibility that doctors will have to undertake is the annual appraisal. The GHA has contracted with accredited appraisers to provide the appraisal services for doctors. It already has infrastructure that the GMC requires, like complaints procedures, clinical governance policy and the responsible officer system, while it is progressively building up other infrastructure such as clinical audit.

3055

Doctors who wish to practise in Gibraltar must obtain a GMC Council licence irrespective of nationality. The European Union requires that doctors who work in multiple EEA countries should be regulated by at least their country of establishment, but they may be subject to regulation by all the countries in which they work.

3060

Revalidation of doctors in Gibraltar will take place ordinarily every five years, as in the UK. For some doctors the first revalidation may occur sooner, for other doctors the responsible officer has the power to seek deferment.

In the case of GHA doctors, a contract has been in place for the past two years with Health Education Wessex to provide appraisals for all GHA doctors. Most private doctors have also set up similar appraisal agreements with Spire, which is a private medical organisation in the UK, or Wessex, the same one for the GHA uses, or other accredited providers.

3065

In relation to other designated bodies, the Medical and Health Responsible Officer Rules 2014 created designated bodies under the schedule, and these included (a) the Gibraltar Health Authority, (b) Post graduate medical deaneries established in the UK, and (c) bodies which employ or contract with medical practitioners.

3070

The Gibraltar Health Authority has appointed Mr Safwat Tosson as its responsible officer and he has been accepted by the GMC as a suitable person.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can I have a couple of minutes because there were about 10 or 12 questions and I need to look over anything that the hon. Member may not have dealt with?

3075

Mr Speaker: On one occasion today also we had a number of questions together ... [Inaudible] if hon. Members are agreeable, generally speaking it was a practice that I adopted previously, before the General Election, where such a huge number of questions are answered together, I could ask the answer ... [Inaudible] because I get here all the answers together. This would be made available at the end of the meeting. I think unless Government Ministers are not agreeable to the procedure ... , they were in the part, I think I should make that available, because I think it helps both sides, because sometimes listening to the answers to ... [Inaudible] questions, the questioner may not realise that he or she has received an answer until they see it in print.

3080

3085

I am sorry that I did not do so ... [Inaudible] Trevor Hammond ... [Inaudible] I would like to do it now and continue to adopt that practice. Okay?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, let me just point out that there is a logic behind the joining together. As I explained in the Environment section, they were all related to the Environmental Action and Management Plan, and these are all related to the registration of doctors. It is a logical sequence that I have followed and there was no reason other than pooling all together, because one does flow into the other.

3090

3095

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: I completely understand that it is all one big package, but I now need to digest all the information and I cannot simply launch into supplementaries without digesting what the hon. Member has answered.

3100 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, I totally accept that. I just wanted, by way of explanation, to say that there was no malice in the –

Mr Speaker: No, it is a regular practice and I understand the Hon. Mr Elliott Phillips is already in a position to ask a supplementary. He can do so by all means.

3105

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful, Mr Speaker, and firstly I thank the hon. Lady for bringing this subject to Parliament. I think it is an interesting subject. It affects many doctors in our jurisdiction and I think the whole House should join us in saying they do a sterling job both in public and private practice.

3110 My question in particular addresses the question of non-EU doctors. The question of EU doctors I think was dealt with by the hon. Gentleman in respect of revalidation, but my question relates to the non-EU doctors and how the Government intends to deal with their revalidation.

3115 From my experience with those doctors who practise in Gibraltar, both in public and private, they have some very deep concerns and reservations about the regulation, and that relates mainly to their revalidation in Gibraltar. I would like confirmation from the Minister as to how they go about dealing with their revalidation and their recognition, because quite clearly many of the non-EU doctors who are practising, both in public and private, have done amazing work within the GHA and in their private practices, and I think we should be very careful when dealing with doctors who have had 30 years of unhindered practice in this jurisdiction and particularly, 3120 without any cause for complaint, that we should make sure that they are also catered for.

A Member: Hear, hear.

3125 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, absolutely. There are a handful of such doctors, not many, and there are ways in which the GMC can accept their revalidation, and I am, in fact – not just my team but myself personally – in discussion with the GMC to find a way through, and we believe that we have found a way because of the fact that they have been practising in Gibraltar for such a long time. The GMC has certain clauses which may be applicable here. I cannot go any further because we are still in discussions, but I am hopeful that by the time this now becomes a requirement, because I extended the period in order to allow persons like the doctors the hon. 3130 Member has mentioned, who are genuinely trying to register ... and there may be a doctor who decides he cannot be bothered for whatever reason, very very few, or may be concerned about their ability to reregister – and I do not know of any. Most of the doctors are absolutely working hard to revalidate and therefore we have extended the period to the end of the year and we are 3135 very close in our discussions with the GMC and I suspect this will be resolved, otherwise we will have to address the issue. But we are working to resolve it.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, how would you propose I put forward my supplementaries – one by one?

3140

Mr Speaker: As you wish.

3145 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Okay. I noticed there was a supplementary in the Gazette a few days after I put my questions forward, and from what I understand in my limited legal knowledge as a lay person is that the doctors who have been hired before 2017 are in a different package to those who will be taken in after 2017. If that is the case, does that not, in effect, provide a two-tier system, which would raise questions of different standards and doctors having different treatment in that sense? Because I believe this is a worry for the doctors at the moment.

3150

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker, that is not the case. I think the hon. Member may be referring to something else, in that doctors who were registered before 2015 had a slightly different regime, but the amendment that was published last week ... and it was not as a result of this question – this is something we had to publish before July because the time was arriving, and it was largely in order to rectify what may have seemed unfair but, in order to take account of those doctors who were genuinely legitimately trying to get their paperwork and so on in order with the GMC ... So there is no difference as to whether they are registering now or registering later.

3155

The law will apply as from 1st January 2017, requiring doctors to be registered and licensed by the GMC. If their licence is not due for another two or three years they will be registered in Gibraltar and then they will have to revalidate at that time, but I do not think there is going to be that difficulty in the future.

3160

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: As a supplementary to Question 460, the hon. Member says that there is no requirement for doctors to be re-educated or undertake courses, but from my understanding, speaking to doctors who practise in the UK, it is the failing doctors who need to keep up with and take courses This is all part of the GMC framework. Do we not have a structure for these failing doctors as part of the infrastructure that you surely must have been preparing in order for this system to work in order for doctors to be put right, shall we say, in terms of training. How would you go about this?

3165

3170

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Well, no doctors have failed yet because we have not introduced the system yet, although because we have been able to get a responsible officer, under our law, accepted as a suitable person, which is a legal term under UK law, by the GMC, we have already revalidated and licensed doctors, so this is already happening.

3175

Failed doctors will have to be dealt with at the time. If they are within the Health Authority, then the Health Authority will take a view as to why they have failed, as to whether it is issues that should concern the employer in a negative way or should suggest to the employer that they assist the doctor in making good those failings.

3180

If they are in the private sector, then it would be the private employer who would have to assume that responsibility. I suspect this is the case in the UK.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: But, Mr Speaker, when you embark on a system of clinical governance to improve standards across the board, surely there has to be an overall skeleton of how this is going to be achieved. I understand that we have not started yet with the doctors – we do not have failing doctors because the system has not technically gone live yet – but surely there has to be a plan of action for when these things start to happen, because the whole point is to keep the standards up. If we do not have a system whereby we have not yet spoken to universities in England in order to provide the training for the doctors who are failing, what is the point of embarking on this system for higher standards?

3185

3190

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this is all speculative but I am not going to not answer for that reason.

Doctors who fail would not be able to continue to practice until they have taken remedial steps. The remedial steps could be extremely broad and wide. If they require some kind of support or they deserve some kind of support, then that will have to be considered on its merits. It could be that doctors who fail – and I think it is highly unlikely that any will – may have to have other more negative steps taken, depending on the reasons for failure.

3195

I do not think we can see this as a negative. Until these regulations were introduced there was no system of checking on doctors. You had to rely on people maybe coming up with complaints and then referring it to the Medical Registration Board, perhaps referring it to the GMC. At least now we will be able to ensure that by annual appraisals and by regular revalidation these standards are maintained, and I think we should look at the positive – always being available to consider and discuss individual doctors who may, and I suspect there will be very few, who fail in their revalidation. The support would be given absolutely if they deserve it.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I have no doubt that the support would be given, and in particular working with the hon. Member behind the scenes, always willing to help people, I can assure you that he is more than accommodating in his capacity as Minister for Health. But, in my humble opinion, I remain disappointed that the Government has embarked on a system where they have not encompassed every single aspect of what can happen and how they will deal with the remediation for that. But I will let it be and remain positive and hope that there will be a plan if and when that does happen.

Turning to a supplementary on Question 462, which refers to the BMA and learning that there used to be a BMA in Gibraltar, which I actually did not know about, the hon. Member, the Minister for Health tells me that doctors have joined different unions. The thing that also leaves me disappointed is that, as we know, the GMC came about largely as a result of the horrendous things that were done to patients by Harold Shipman. This was why the whole thing came about, and basically the General Medical Council is there to protect patients. But doctors themselves need their own union for protection and the BMA is the bespoke union for doctors, so my question was whether Government would look at bringing a support body or working directly with the BMA in the United Kingdom as a bespoke medical union in order to provide for the needs of doctors, which is a very technical profession and not a profession which can be generically be taken care of by a generic union, in order that doctors themselves feel protected and so they can feel that there is a remediation system in place for them by a bespoke union.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the BMA is an independent trade union that doctors can join. It is not for the Government or the Health Authority to decide what union the doctors wish to join.

There used to be a BMA in Gibraltar. It was still there when I left the GHA in my former incarnation in 1991; it was no longer there when I re-joined it as Chairman in 2011. The Government and the GHA cannot direct and would not dream of suggesting to its employees which union they should join. They are currently represented by Unite largely and some by GGCA. They are free to join the BMA, but this is something that would have to be at the instigation and initiative of the doctors and not of the Government or the Health Authority.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Does the hon. Member, the Minister for Health believe ... This is as a supplementary to Question 464, when I asked about infrastructure to cope with this new regulatory standard. Does he feel that doctors are feeling upbeat about this new system? From my understanding the morale is quite low and they do not feel ready to take on this new infrastructure.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: It depends on who you talk to. The initiative was largely spearheaded by a group of doctors who were very concerned that if we did not enact laws in Gibraltar to allow revalidation while they were practising here, they would actually lose their licence to practise in the UK, which they considered important in some cases because they may want to do locum work in the UK or because they thought it was better for them on their CV and for their own good standing to have this licence. So this was supported by a large body of doctors.

There were other doctors who doubted that we would be able to pull this off and be able to get the GMC support in establishing them – I am glad to say that we did get GMC support – and many of those have said, 'Well done, it is something that we did not think you would achieve but was achieved.' There are some doctors who still feel that perhaps this is not the system that is most appropriate, but I am convinced that it will do a lot to improve the medical standards in Gibraltar, and I am also convinced that as we roll the system out our doctors will feel ... as 3255 happened in the UK, where there was a lot of debate for many years and now the general body of doctors actually accept that it is good for them and it is good for their patients.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: In regard to the doctors who may not be the ones who are happy and supportive of this, does the hon. Gentleman worry of a possible exodus of the highly 3260 qualified doctors or consultants who do not want to be submitted to this, and that if there is an exodus ...? I understand a few doctors or consultants have already resigned.

Trust me, I am not in any way rubbing my hands with glee. My interests are always for the good of this community, but given that some are feeling disenfranchised, does the Health Minister have plans to bring in more doctors so that we do not have a domino effect of 3265 cancelled operations or chaos, shall we say, in the hospital?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am not expecting an exodus – certainly not expecting an exodus of any doctor committed to improving standards. I am not aware of any doctor who has 3270 resigned specifically because they have not been able to register, and if doctors resign for whatever reason, or retire for whatever reason, we will of course replace them.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may, would it be a logical conclusion to come to, in terms of future recruitment policy of say the GHA, that he would make it a requirement that any 3275 applicants should be registered with the GMC in future?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, that is already a requirement as a result of this legislation. So any new appointments would have to be registered. The only exception would be they would 3280 have to convince the board that they were registerable without any issues and the appointment would then be dependent on that.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, from what I understand, the responsible officer would be Doctor Tosson, as the Minister for Health has said. Has Government thought out how 3285 to ensure that in a small place like Gibraltar with a small hospital, that whoever the responsible officer may be – in this case, Doctor Tosson – he maintains a firm level of impartiality in ensuring that no doctor feels that any personal acrimony may lead to poor appraisals and poorer standards for them, and effectively a worse report?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Absolutely, Mr Speaker. Any indication that there was any abuse of position would be dealt with most seriously.
3290

We also have a number of arrangements that are coming into place with regard to cases where, quite legitimately and for no negative reason, there may be a conflict between one particular responsible officer and perhaps a particular doctor. So we have arrangements coming 3295 into place with a number of UK bodies that we are linked with, so that we can use their responsible officer in order to be a backup to ours.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Going back to Question 459 and reading the response of the hon. Member, he says that doctors who do not wish to register will be encouraged to do so, so that they do not lose the ability to practice. This means that effectively some doctors who may 3300 insist in not wanting to join this body, this infrastructure, they will effectively lose their positions within the hospital. If that is the case, how long is the grace period until they have to pack up and leave, basically?

3305 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, doctors were given 18 months until July this year; they have been given an additional six months. This has been done because there are legitimate cases where there have been procedural issues. If that fails, then we will have to consider what action is taken, but as I said earlier in answer to the Hon. Mr Phillips, I am confident that with the progress that we are making with the GMC that will not be an issue, but I will have to address that when the time comes.

3310 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: One more question. I am sorry if I have missed it in all the answers that I have been given, but as from when this system goes live does this mean that the doctors who do have the six months' grace period, are they entitled to practise? How does it work exactly? Are they entitled to carry on, even if they are not with the GMC in the hospital?

3315 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, provided they are taking steps to register and they are not just deciding they do not want to – and I can tell you that all the cases I am aware of are taking steps to register – then they can carry on practising.

3320 Mr Speaker, they are all qualified medical professionals. We are going that extra mile to ensure an increase in standards, so it is not that anybody is at any particular risk. They are able to carry on practising until the end of the year because we feel that that is enough time for them to regularise the situation.

Q469/2016
St Bernard's Hospital –
Number of surgeons

Clerk: Question 469, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

3325 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Within the last eight years, two separate reviews have concluded that St Bernard's Hospital was short on surgeons. This has not been listened to and we still have the same number of surgeons. Does the Minister for Health have any plans to adhere to these reviews as a matter of priority and increase the number of surgeons in the hospital?

3330 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

3335 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, this is not the case. The total number of surgeons in the past eight years has been: 2009, 15; 2010, 15; 2011, 16; 2012, 13; 2013, 16; 2014, 18; 2015, 19; 2016 reads 19 but in fact should read 20. Let me add that this is including all grades of surgeon from consultant through associate specialist to non-consultant hospital doctor.

3340 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, let me clarify: I was talking about surgeons, and if I have my information incorrect then I apologise but I want to make clear that I have been given information that there are two surgeons in the hospital, one locum and one regular. Can the Minister please confirm that this is in fact completely incorrect and we are talking about over 10, 12 numbers, as he says?

3345 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I have included surgeons who are doctors who operate. That includes junior doctors, associate specialists, it includes gynaecologists, orthopaedic surgeons and general surgeons, and the numbers ... and those are consultants. If we only look at consultants, the numbers have increased from seven to 12 from 2009 to the present.

3350 General surgeons: there are three consultant general surgeons and one associate specialist general surgeon. But the numbers of junior doctors have increased from I believe it was four to six, and they are the surgical team.

3355 We also use services on a sessional basis for particular specialities – for example, urology. We now have a urologist who does five sessions a week, which is half time, and I have not included that one. So the figures are there and I can put names to them – not here, obviously, but I could do that.

3360 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I have the names of two doctors who have recently resigned and I would like to ask the hon. Member how the GHA is mitigating this loss, how they are keeping up with operations based on the fact that two general surgeons, I believe they are, have resigned; and does this effectively mean more outsourcing to Xanit? Is there a direct correlation between doctors who are resigning or leaving and the influx to Xanit?

3365 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: That would be very hard to determine. I do not think so. These resignations are very recent: one is about a week old; the other one is a resignation/retirement, which is not effective until August and we have already started the recruitment process. So I do not think that any of those have resulted in cases referred to Xanit, but I would have to look case by case. Certainly one of them is not effective until August, so that would not be the case.

Q470/2016
St Bernard's Hospital –
Bullying of junior doctors

Clerk: Question 470, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

3370 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Would the Minister for Health be willing to investigate the fact that various junior doctors in St Bernard's Hospital, despite feeling too scared to come forward about it, are feeling bullied by some in managerial or directorial positions?

3375 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

3380 Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, let me first say – I made a note and then, because of all the issues we were dealing with ... I thank the hon. Lady for the favourable comments she made about me earlier. I do appreciate it and I will continue to co-operate with her in any way I can for the good of the people that we serve.

3385 Mr Speaker, any such allegation would of course be investigated without any cause for worry on the part of the complainants and I would encourage the hon. Lady to let them know that they can come and see me ... I am not saying tomorrow, because tomorrow we will be here but when next they have the opportunity, and I will more than willing on a confidential basis to take up any of their concerns.

3390 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I will do my best, obviously, but I think there is a lot of fear, and on that basis, if I am not at liberty I will not be able, much as I would like to, to collaborate. But I urge the Minister to keep an eye open for the low morale that is resulting out of this and that he should take my word that the information I come with in this House is true and I will do my best to try and furnish him with more information on this.

3395 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, it has to be said, in relation to this, that I have also received some complaints, and not only in relation to junior doctors but senior nursing staff, which I am looking at at the present moment in time. I do not know whether they are related or not, but certainly I am also prepared to sit down with the hon. Gentleman to make sure that this is panned out, because it is not in the interest of anybody to have low morale amongst either junior doctors or senior nursing staff.

3400 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I must comment here. I have no doubt that the hon. Lady is convinced that the information she is given is correct and she would not bring it here if she thought it was not. In the case, for example, of the number of surgeons, it has not been correct, but that is no reflection on her, Mr Speaker, but on the information.

3405 But certainly anybody who feels that coming out with concerns cannot be done because of fear of some kind of retribution should absolutely have it clear that that is not the case, and I think the Members opposite know very well that I would deal with them in a proper manner because I would not tolerate such matters.

Q471-472/2016
Xanit Hospital –
Transfer of patients by ambulance

3410 Clerk: Question 471, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Are we using our own ambulances and doctors or ambulances and doctors from Xanit when transferring a patient to Xanit Hospital in Spain?

3415 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 472.

3420 Clerk: Question 472, the Hon. Miss M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Miss M D Hassan Nahon: How much is it costing to transfer a patient to Xanit Hospital in Spain by ambulance?

3425 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the information on costs is commercially sensitive but I would be happy to supply it on a confidential basis.

3430 A Xanit retrieval team is used when transferring critically ill patients to Xanit or other hospitals in Spain from St Bernard's Hospital. Local doctors are not used nor contracted to do so. The retrieval team and patient are normally transported by a GHA ambulance, but on occasions, although rare, subcontracted ambulances have been used.

3435 Hon. Miss M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I would just like to make the hon. Member aware of the fact that I believe that some A&E doctors are feeling disenfranchised from this opportunity, which at the same time apparently costs more when using the Spanish alternative.

3440 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, A&E doctors should not feel that way because it would not be A&E doctors who transfer a critically ill patient; it would be an anaesthetist. (Interjection by Ms M D Hassan Nahon) 3445 The cost is for the crew. The anaesthetist service and the provision of the anaesthetist as such is not charged for separately. This was added because the GHA felt it exposed the community when we have a low number of anaesthetists present in the hospital, if one of them were to go on an ambulance to transfer a patient to Xanit and then we have got a couple of emergencies turning up.

3450 So an arrangement was made with Xanit as a result of the fact that clearly we have a relationship with them and they provide the anaesthetist without charging over the charge that was being charged for the crew. Therefore, I do not think that is correct. But our anaesthetists may not be aware and may be thinking that we are paying large amounts, which we in fact are not paying.

3455 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: I am sorry, I do not quite understand. Is the hon. Member saying that it is actually cheaper all round and logistically wiser and more viable to go with the Spanish option and not our own?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am saying that it is not just cost. Sending an anaesthetist from St Bernard's to accompany a patient to Xanit is removing an anaesthetist who I would rather have here attending to possible emergencies.

3460 Therefore, in order not to delay, for example, a critically ill patient in transferring by having to call somebody in, for example – should they be available, which is not necessarily the case – and in order not to transfer a patient without an anaesthetist, an arrangement was made that for those critically ill patients, and it does not happen every day, Xanit supplies an anaesthetist to go with the patient.

3465 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, in relation to Question 472, which was the question about the cost to transfer patients to Xanit in Spain by ambulance, and the hon. Gentleman has said that he is not prepared to provide that information, can he elaborate first of all – and I have got another supplementary, but can he elaborate why the Government cannot provide that information? The Government, for example, does not have to provide the information of the actual cost per ambulance; it may be able to provide a cost over a period of time in order to disguise any commercially sensitive information. That is one question.

3470 I will ask a second, if Mr Speaker does not mind, and therefore get it out of the way, so to speak. Is that cost of transferring patients to Xanit Hospital by ambulance subsumed within the £7.1 million that it is actually costing the Government of Gibraltar at the moment to use Xanit Hospital, which was the schedule that he provided to me when he answered a question. I would be very surprised if it was not, but I would like the hon. Gentleman to confirm that.

3480 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am not sure. I am not going to answer in any other way. The question that I previously answered with those schedules – and if we go through them perhaps we can identify that – was provided by the sponsored patients department based on their information.

3485 I am not absolutely sure, although I can find out, clearly, tomorrow or the day after, whether that is included there, because it is a different process and within the Civil Service public service accounting processes it may be a different head and maybe when that information was asked for it did not come from that head and that information is not there. I cannot answer that now.

3490 On the question of why is it essentially commercially sensitive, it may be possible to pool figures but I took the question as a detailed cost for transfer. But there are other private entities in the area in the game and therefore publicly stating what we are paying to one particular entity when there are others I do not think is correct. But as I say, I am happy to share it on a confidential basis.

3495 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, but in my respectful view it is a perfectly reasonable question that the hon. Lady has asked, and if there is any problem with commercially sensitive information ... Well, she is not asking, as I understand it, for details of the contract and detailed prices. But, for example, the hon. Member can say it is costing the GHA x amount per month to send these people by ambulance, or per week or whatever, and I just wonder whether he is willing to provide that information and willing to write to me and also to the hon. Lady and provide the information, because that at the very least will provide us with some information in relation to what is an important question.

3505 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I said more than that. I said I would be willing to provide the information on a confidential basis. But as far as monthly figures, yes, I do not have an issue with that; I just did not want to give more specific details which could be used by other commercial entities also in the market of ambulances.

I would ask the hon. Lady or the hon. Gentleman, or both, either to write to me or to remind me tomorrow so that I can make sure that I do. I am sure that I will remember, but I do not want to be taken to task for not having provided information otherwise.

Q473/2016
Xanit –
Monthly payment

3510 Clerk: Question 473, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: How much is being paid by the GHA to Xanit month by month?

3515 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change.

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I am providing information since the execution of the contract in July 2013 in the handout.

Answer to Q473/2016

Financial Year	Total
2012/13	£1,639,638.11
2013/14	£3,468,875.52
2014/15	£4,681,302.93
2015/16	£7,125,429.41
2016/17 (as at 20th June 16)	£1,466.76

3520 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this is unfortunately in annual figures which are similar to the ones that I have already given but totalled up. They may be from not exactly the same period but the figures will be more or less the same – not month by month, because we do not always get invoices on a monthly basis. Sometimes they are pooled together, sometimes they come at the end of a particular patient's treatment, so it would be an artificial figure.

3525 I have given the annual figures, which I hope will be the information more or less that you are interested in, which is very similar to information we have already discussed before. You will see the increase at the time that we discussed.

3530 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Is the Minister satisfied with the fees in general that the Health Authority incurs in Xanit, or is it looking to bring home many of the treatments in Xanit in order to decrease the expenses that are resulting from Xanit and apply them to St Bernard's instead?

3535 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, of course, Mr Speaker. Repatriation is one of our main aims. At the moment, we are actively working on repatriating urology services so that some of the interventions that could not be done here before are being done, or will be done. As much as we can do here in Gibraltar we will do, and this is an ongoing process in which we are identifying things that we can do within our own resources.

3540 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if the Hon. Minister could advise ... We spoke earlier about the quality control over individual doctors. I was just wondering what kind of quality control does the GHA exercise over Xanit, and also, from a financial point of view, are there any processes in place or procedures to ensure that we are getting value for money and that we are not just being treated as a private patient to be exploited commercially?

3545 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, these are all concerns which I share, and it is my duty to be on top of these things. I think we can still do things better, but let me just say we are not treated as private patients because we have a negotiated rate with them which is not the standard private patients rate, so that is one thing.

3550 There are, I believe, six-weekly meetings of the GHA team with the Xanit team, usually in Gibraltar, sometimes in Xanit, and that goes through clinical, operational, billing, all those sorts of things. We have recently appointed one of our consultants as being the medical co-ordinator with Xanit to be able to improve the clinical work.

3555 So there are regular meetings and regular interactions and we are working on streamlining that and increasing the efficiency and the scrutiny of the work that we do. It is something that one has to be on top of all the time, but it is our duty to ensure that we get value for money and also clinical excellence.

3560 Hon. D A Feetham: Just following on from this question, he may not have the information in front of him but what is the difference in rate? He talked about rates. What is the difference in rate between a private care rate so to speak and the rate that the Government gives? What kind of a discount are we seeing that obviously is then reflective of the huge amounts of money that the Government is spending in relation to Xanit, which was £7.1 million last year?

3565 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I do not have that information. (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) No, I do not have that information. The contract is now three years old, so it is not in my head at the moment.

I can say that we based the prices that we were seeking on NHS prices with a little bit of ... Obviously, we also need to consider the fact that if patients go to Xanit we do not incur on the travel and accommodation expenses and so on.

3570 That information is in a schedule and if I am asked for it, either in writing or whatever, I can provide that, but I do not have that information at hand at the moment.

Hon. E J Phillips: Does the Minister agree with me that the significant increase from 2012-13 up until 2015-16 should cause the Department for Health a degree of concern? On the basis of the huge amount of figures, the value that is being paid over to this particular hospital, is the Minister concerned about the increasing expense to the public purse in relation to this?

3575

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Interested. 'Concern' is a difficult word, because clearly I want to reduce costs but I want to maintain a service. This is why these regular meetings are taking place, why we have appointed a consultant to look at the clinical side and also to have a view at interpreting some of the things that are being done there and to look more closely at what can be done here. So this is constantly being done.

3580

I would like to reduce our costs everywhere, provided we maintain the service. But remember what I said earlier: we do have more patients. The demand on healthcare has really grown in the last few years for all sorts of reasons, and also, as I sa, a new patient today will still be a patient – hopefully in the sense that they will survive whatever intervention – next year and the year after. So it is a cumulative thing and patients do have to go for review.

3585

So it is something that I am keen to control and we are setting processes in place in order to keep a very close eye on this, but there is already quite a lot of work being done on this. It is something that is not just being ignored and filed away; it is something that is constantly being looked at.

3590

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can I just ask: the figure of 2016-17, half a year, but £1,466 surely is not reflective or accurate – is there something that we should be expecting?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, those are the figures that I have. It has raised my attention. I need to check whether there is a typographical error and I can check that tomorrow, or whether it is just that the payments have not been processed because the financial year started on 1st April, but I need to consult.

3595

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can I also ask: perhaps the very steep spike between 2013 and 2015 could have something to do with ... if the hon. Member may agree ... Are more patients now being sent to Xanit and less to the UK? How do these decisions get made? I think that if we are looking at the Budget, we would have to put it all in a basket and see how expenditure is going in general. But is it because we are taking more away from the UK and allocating it more to Spain? And if so, how are these decisions being taken, why and how?

3600

3605

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, in part. I do not think we can get away from the fact – and I will provide the figures in my Budget speech – that we have a lot more sponsored patients than we had and the numbers increase. Therefore, no matter where they go the costs are going to go up, and we are trying to control that by repatriating. Chemotherapy is an example, and we are going to be reflecting, as you will see in the estimates next week, by trying to keep a control on the funding for sponsored patients because we want to do things differently. So there will be some redeployment from the UK to Spain, but overall there is an increase in the number of sponsored patients. That is one thing.

3610

As far as the decisions go, the decisions could be practical in the sense that we need a hospital nearby urgently for something we cannot do here and therefore we send them to Xanit because they are an hour or two down the road. They can be clinical in the sense that the doctor feels that the treatment available there is the one the patient needs, or it can be patient choice. There are some patients who actually do not want to go to the UK because ... In fact, there have been some whose fear of flying keeps them from going to the UK. There are some who have a lot of relatives and they want to be close to them and therefore they would rather be in Xanit than in a centre in UK. So there are all sorts of different reasons why this could be. The decisions are mainly clinical, but there is an element of patient's choice in it.

3615

3620

3625 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I know that my father always used to say that Gibraltar's national sport is gossip, so we cannot take everything we hear law, but there has been a lot of talk that there was some type of connection between a relative of the GHA and Xanit and some type of venture. There has been a lot of talk about that and that patients were sent to Xanit a lot as a result of some sort of joint venture. Can the Minister put us all at ease that there has been no such venture between any relative of the GHA leading to the spike of budget towards Xanit?

3630

Minister for Business and Employment (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, if I may, on points of order I think that it would be a very dangerous precedent if a Member opposite were to ask us a question on the basis of gossip, because as the hon. Lady very rightly says, in Gibraltar it is quite common to hear things said about people, about things which happen to have no fact or basis at all and are unsubstantiated.

3635

In that respect, Mr Speaker, on a point of order I would say that it would be out of order to ask a question as to whether statements of private individuals are accurate. There is no way that the hon. Gentleman would be able to know if any private individual has made a statement which is accurate or not.

3640

Also, Mr Speaker, a question should not be asked for an expression of opinion or on a hypothetical. I know that the hon. Lady asks in good faith, because if she hears something it may be important to ask it, but on those two Standing Orders alone it would be extremely dangerous if, on the basis of gossip, the Minister responsible were to be asked to provide an answer in this House.

3645

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Minister is, of course, perfectly correct.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to my colleague, but because the question was asked in good faith I can just say, without actually responding to the gossip specifically, that a contract with Xanit came about as a result of the need to formalise an ad hoc arrangement which was not working and was not safe, and had nothing to do with any relationships with anybody in GHA or anywhere else.

3650

I have answered that because of the good faith and because of the fact that the hon. Member is relatively new to this House, but I thank my hon. and learned Friend for his intervention.

3655

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I know it is not a question and I have been accused of making comments and not questions, but I just want to say I am grateful for your faith in my good faith, and also that because we live in a small village words do get around, and there is gossip but there is also the saying 'no smoke without a fire'. So trust me when I say I am giving the hon. Member the opportunity to put out some bad rumours that go about which shape the talk of the town in our little town, which end up becoming concerns. So thank you for that.

3660

Mr Speaker: I think it is a day of records. I have never known any Minister to answer questions without interruption – well, with just a short comfort break. I have never known a Minister, in all the years that I have been in the House, to answer questions for so long. A great tour de force. I commend the Minister and I am going to give him the opportunity, therefore, to move the adjournment of the House until tomorrow.

3665

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, I move that we adjourn the House until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

3670

3675

Mr Speaker: The House will adjourn until tomorrow morning at 10.00 a.m.

The House adjourned at 8.11 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GIBRALTAR PARLIAMENT

MORNING SESSION: 10.00 a.m. – 1.44 p.m.

Gibraltar, Thursday, 30th June 2016

Contents

Questions for Oral Answer .....	3
Business and Employment .....	3
Q277-278/2016 Disability Allowance – Entitlement .....	3
Q279/2016 Registered unemployed – Quarterly average .....	5
Q280-283/2016 Gibraltar Joinery & Building Services Ltd – Vacancies; notices of terms of engagement; complaints; termination notices .....	6
Q284-285/2016 Bullying in the public service – Number of complaints received; action taken .....	8
Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.....	10
Q286/2016 Marrache & Co – Offers made for items with heritage and cultural value to Gibraltar.....	10
Q287/2016 Europa water tanks – Consent for demolition .....	11
Q288/2016 Gibraltar Music Festival 2015 – Cost.....	11
Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.....	15
Q366/2016 Tourists visiting Upper Rock – Details of travel.....	15
Q367/2016 Upper Rock ban – Exemption for disabled persons in foreign licensed vehicles	17
Q368/2016 Gibraltar International Airport – Departure lounge security .....	17
Q369-370/2016 Care Agency – Agency workers .....	18
Q371/2016 Care Agency workers – Details of current posts .....	18
Q372-373/2016 Dr Giraldi Home – Government and non-Government workers.....	19
Q374-377/2016 Care Agency establishments – Residential and respite admissions policies	21

Q378/2016 Care service companies – Plans for regulation .....	22
Q379-380/2016 Housing medical and social category lists – Details of applicants.....	25
Q381/2016 Affordable housing flats – Allocation.....	27
Q382/2016 Government housing rent arrears – Agreements since January 2016 .....	28
Q383/2016 Government housing – Rent arrears.....	29
Q384/2016 Public sector – Drugs-free workplace policy.....	33
Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information .....	34
Q395, 398-399, 403, 474/2016 New schools – Commencement and funding of works .....	34
Q396-397/2016 Teaching English as a Foreign Language – Numbers qualified teachers and pupils requiring support .....	37
Q400/2016 Anti-Corruption and Anti-Bribery Authority – Mothballing of Government commitment.....	40
Q401/2016 Legal Aid Bill – Progress .....	42
The House recessed at 12.30 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 12.40 p.m. .....	45
Q402/2016 Court and Tribunal Service – Consolidation of tribunals .....	45
Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB .....	46
Q404-409 and 414-420/2016 Public finance – Sinking Fund – Gross and Net Debt Figures for public debt .....	46
The House recessed at 1.44 p.m. .....	59

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 10.00 a.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

Questions for Oral Answer

BUSINESS AND EMPLOYMENT

Q277-278/2016 Disability Allowance – Entitlement

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Thursday, 30th June 2016.

We continue with answers to questions. We commence with Question 277, the Hon. L F Llamas.

5

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state who is involved in the decision making as to whether a person shall be entitled or not to a disability allowance?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Business and Employment.

10

Minister for Business and Employment (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 278/2016.

Clerk: Question 278, the Hon. L F Llamas.

15

Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Government provide details of the number of persons with disability and consequently receiving a disability allowance, providing details of condition and whether the disability arose from birth or later?

20

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Business and Employment.

25

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the Director of Social Security makes a reasoned decision on whether a person shall be entitled or not to Disability Allowance, having regard to all the particulars of a case. A panel made up of health professionals assess applications for Disability Allowance and provide advice and recommendations to the Director of Social Security. The panel consists of health professionals made up as follows: a physician drawn from a number of possible specialties, a psychologist, a physiotherapist, an occupational therapist, a social worker, a speech and language therapist, a general practitioner, a mental health welfare officer and a lay person appointed by the Director.

30 I would like to explain, Mr Speaker, that since July 2015 Disability Allowance is no longer awarded on the basis of having a particular health condition or impairment, but on the impact of the health condition or impairment that this has on the person claiming Disability Allowance or on their carer's everyday life. It is not the role of the health professionals on the panel to 35 consider diagnosis, but rather whether the impairment has a substantial and long-term adverse effect on his or her ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities. It may not always be possible, nor necessary, to categorise a condition as either physical or mental impairment, as the underlying cause of the impairment may be hard to establish. In many instances it is a combination of different conditions that is substantially impacting on the activities of daily living.
40 It is the effects of these impairments that are being considered by the panel, rather than the underlying conditions themselves.

We are not able, Mr Speaker, to release information on the conditions of the persons in receipt of a disability allowance, as this is sensitive personal information and some individuals may be identifiable from the information being requested. Releasing the information would in any case contravene the Data Protection Act. As a result, it is immaterial whether or not a 45 disability arises from birth.

The number of persons receiving Disability Allowance as at the end of May 2016 is 243.

Hon. L F Llamas: Thank you very much for that well-detailed answer; I am really appreciative of that.

50 Would the Minister be able to confirm whether the Director, in making the final decision, normally accepts the recommendations of the board, or are there times when he refuses recommendations made by that board?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, if I may, it is actually a very good question, because there have 55 been instances where an applicant has made an initial application which has been rejected, which then is brought to appeal by a different panel, which then also reject it, but the Director has been told by me on various occasions that even when the panel advises against the award of Disability Allowance she should not feel fettered by that and that she has an absolute discretion to exercise that discretion in favour of a person, even when the panel advises against it. But if 60 memory serves me well, she has accepted the advice of the professionals on 100% of the occasions. I can check the exact figure, but I think it is 100%.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, just reference whether the disabilities arose from birth or later, I understand the Minister has already suggested that there may be data protection issues 65 at stake here. However, I do not think it would be unreasonable to provide a figure on that basis and that it would be very difficult without going into any details of disability or anything on providing a figure for the numbers of people who receive Disability Allowance or who have received Disability Allowance from birth and those who have received Disability Allowance having developed a disability during their lives.

70
Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, if the panel would make a decision on whether to award the allowance on the basis of whether or not a person had the disability from birth, then I would agree with him that it would only be proper that I provide that information, but what I have just explained to the Hon. Mr Llamas is that the panel does not consider that particular condition.
75 The panel considers whether the impairment or condition of the person has an impact on the daily living of the person. To put it another way, the things that he and I, I suspect, take for granted, like getting up in the morning, dressing oneself, showering, coming to work, walking and seeking jobs and so on ... those things which he and I take for granted may not be able to be carried out by a person who has a disability or some other impairment, and the panel considers 80 whether that impairment affects a person's ability to get on with his or her life independently, as he and I do. Therefore, there is never an analysis on whether a person was born with a particular condition from birth, so it is not part of the consideration. This is why I said that the award is not contingent on that condition. If it were, I would provide the details, but it is not, so it does not arise.

85

Hon. T N Hammond: In which case, would the Minister be willing to provide figures purely for those who have been awarded disability allowances by the panel?

90

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I am not sure that I have understood the hon. Gentleman correctly, but my concluding sentence was that there are 243 people in receipt of the allowance. Was that what he was asking?

95

Hon. T N Hammond: Possibly. That is 243 people who have been awarded the Disability Allowance by the panel?

Hon. N F Costa: Yes.

Hon. T N Hammond: I missed that point. Thank you.

Q279/2016
Registered unemployed –
Quarterly average

Clerk: Question 279, the Hon. E J Phillips.

100

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Business and Employment provide this House with the quarterly average for registered unemployed?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Business and Employment.

105

Minister for Business and Employment (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the quarterly average for the period ending March 2016 was 291.

110

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the response by the Minister for Business and Employment. Given that the figures that we were looking at during the General Election were about 164, and then at the last Parliament that we had here, in February I believe it was, the figure was 255 and now increasing to 291, I am perfectly aware of the attempts that have been made by the Minister in relation to reducing unemployment, but if he could explain also what other measures the Government are looking at in order to reduce unemployment ... and in particular I raise the question of apprenticeships, because I know that that was raised also in the context of his press releases regarding both those two initiatives that the Government has released – but particularly in relation to that. I understand that he is doing work in relation to getting unemployed ... and I think he has been very helpful to Mr Feetham I me in relation to a number of individuals who have sought employment recently.

115

120

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, first of all, in respect of apprenticeships, I would simply answer the hon. Gentleman by telling him that there are questions on the Order Paper in that respect. In –

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful to him for giving way, but that is one of the questions Mr Clarke, his assistant, I have asked him to check, because in the order there are no questions

125 on apprenticeship. There are four questions but they are not listed in the notice of questions. I have asked him to go and check to make sure that they do come up to ... I just preface that to caveat that point on apprenticeships, if they will be raised by Mr Bossano later.

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the Hon. Minister Bossano has just told me that the questions 130 the hon. Gentleman has given notice of do not specifically mention the question on apprenticeships – he asks about training and skills – but there are questions on the Order Paper in relation to training and skills, if I am not mistaken.

Mr Speaker, then to answer his second supplementary he asks – given that the quarterly figure in January was 291, I imagine the question was whether there is cause for concern, given 135 that in August of last year the figure was 164. Well, in the first place, I think it should be said that the employment strategies of the Government are certainly working when last year we had the lowest ever recorded levels of unemployment. Last year, the quarterly averages were 255, as he rightly remembers, in the last quarter; 207 in the third quarter; 204 in the second quarter; but it was 282 in the first quarter; and on this occasion, this year, it is 291. So there is only a very small 140 difference between one and the other.

Without wishing to steal my own thunder for the Budget address, I have to tell him that the employment strategies that the Hon. Minister Bossano and I are working on – and he makes particular mention of the press releases and press conferences I have held in respect of the approved contractors, again on which I am working with the Minister – I am happy to say that 145 those are yielding fruit. Because the month of June closes today, I am unable to give him today the quarterly figures for the second quarter. I wish I had them with me, because they tell me, the Employment Service, that they already make good reading, but I am telling him now that I am confident that, given the focused strategy that we have implemented in calling in the approved contractors of the Government and asking them to please help us in recruiting persons 150 who are on the unemployment list, the unemployment figures are indeed going down, there is an increased number of Gibraltarians in employment and I will very happily give him the hard numbers when we meet for the Budget session.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for that response, and not wishing to have the last word I will 155 address most of the other questions that relate to training and skills to Minister Bossano.
Thank you.

Q280-283/2016

Gibraltar Joinery & Building Services Ltd – Vacancies; notices of terms of engagement; complaints; termination notices

Clerk: Question 280, the Hon. E J Phillips.

160 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Business and Employment confirm the total number of vacancies opened by the Employment Service in relation to employment opportunities with GJBS since 26th November 2015?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Business and Employment.

165 Minister for Business and Employment (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 281, 282 and 283/2016.

Clerk: Question 281, the Hon. E J Phillips.

170 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Business and Employment confirm the total number of notices of terms of engagement filed by GJBS since 26th November 2015?

Clerk: Question 282, the Hon. E J Phillips.

175 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Business and Employment confirm the number of employment-related complaints received from current employees and former employees in relation to GJBS?

Clerk: Question 283, the Hon. E J Phillips.

180 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Business and Employment confirm the total number of termination notices filed by GJBS each month to the present day as from 26th November 2015?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Business and Employment.

185 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the information the hon. Gentleman requests in respect of vacancies, notices of terms of engagement and notices of termination is confidential by virtue of the Employment Regulations 1994.

In connection with any complaint received by GJBS, the hon. Member should note that I am not the Minister with responsibility for GJBS. In any event, Mr Speaker, please note that any 190 complaint received by the Employment Service would be strictly confidential.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one supplementary question, hopefully, in relation to this matter. We receive numerous complaints by employees of GJBS, or former employees, in relation to their employment, and they often say to us, invariably – or most of the time – that 195 they are approaching either your offices or Mr Bossano's offices in relation to it. I am sure Mr Bossano cannot answer now in relation to that point, but it would be helpful to identify the number of complaints so that we know what the Government is doing about that. Are they simply assisting GJBS employees or former employees get further employment, or are they assisting them in their dispute, or just turning them away and saying, 'Look, it's a private matter 200 between you and GJBS,' and nothing further?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I have to tread carefully, because I have just said that the Employment Regulations impose a legal obligation – on employment officers who administer notices, terminations and vacancies – of confidentiality.
205

But whereas the Standing Orders say that we should not deal in hypotheticals, with your indulgence perhaps you would allow me to deal in one hypothetical to say this. If any person, whether they work for GJBS or for any company in Gibraltar, were to come to me to complain of a particular company, my immediate reaction would be to refer him or her to the Labour Inspectorate of the Employment Services, but I would also make it very clear to them what the 210 powers of the Labour Inspectorate are under our legislation and that they should seriously consider obtaining legal advice, because it may be that their only recourse is legal rather than administrative by way of a Labour Inspectorate investigation – hypothetically, should anyone come to my office to complain about anyone.

Q284-285/2016

Bullying in the public service –
Number of complaints received; action taken

215 Clerk: Question 284, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Business and Employment confirm the number of complaints received by his Department in respect of bullying in the public service workplace?

220 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Business and Employment.

Minister for Business and Employment (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this Question together with Question 285/2016.

225 Clerk: Question 285, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Business and Employment confirm what steps have been taken with respect to any bullying complaints received?

230 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Business and Employment.

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, as the hon. Gentleman is aware, I am responsible for four departments, namely the Employment Service, the Department of Social Security, the Office of Fair Trading and the Royal Gibraltar Post Office. In any case, as I have just said in answer to a previous question, any complaint in respect of bullying received by any one of my departments would necessarily be strictly confidential.

235 Should any of my constitutional responsibilities, however, receive a complaint of bullying, I would immediately refer the matter to the Human Resources Department for their investigation and any necessary action. Once again, the Human Resources Department has confirmed to me that any such complaints and investigation by them would be strictly confidential.

240 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am not asking for the confidential details of complaints. All I am asking for are numbers: would you now provide those numbers?

245 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, as I say, should any complaint come to any head of department of my four departments, or should any complaint indeed come to me, my immediate reaction would be to advise either the head of department or myself to refer the matter immediately to the Human Resources Department. It is not something that I would necessarily institute, investigate or take action on. It may be that, in the hypothetical example, somebody does complain to the Human Resources Department and there is an investigation. The Human Resources Department would necessarily have a recommendation to the head of department or to me, which we would have to implement.

250 Mr Speaker: We are dealing with two questions here, one of which is asking for statistical information, numbers – that is straightforward. The other one asks about steps to be taken. That is another matter, that steps to be taken can be deemed to be confidential. But I would say, myself, that where we are arriving at numbers, if the Human Resources Department has received four complaints, say, about bullying, that information surely cannot be confidential. It does not have to be.

260 Hon. N F Costa: Well, Mr Speaker, that is what I was advised. I personally –

265 Mr Speaker: Let me tell you that – as Chairman of the Public Services Commission, we deal with disciplinary matters – I am well versed on the subject. Again, giving information, steps, details, out of the question; but numbers ... Look, I think you should go back to the person who has given you the advice.

Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, I am happy to do so.

270 Mr Speaker: And when you do, bring the advice here to the House.

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, we ... If – 275 Mr Speaker: Remember what I am saying: numbers.

Hon. N F Costa: Yes, but –

280 Mr Speaker: If Government, as an employer, receives complaints from a number of their employees, I submit to you that that information does not have to be confidential, covered by any piece of legislation that makes the numbers of complaints confidential. The details: of course you are not supposed to and you must not give any details.

285 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, with all due respect to the chair, if I were to tell any official that I will bring to this House his advice, my fear would be that they may not give me what, in their opinion, is the best advice, because they know that their advice will be ventilated in this House. I will most certainly take Mr Speaker's direction and I will go back –

Mr Speaker: Where?

290 Hon. N F Costa: – to the Human Resources Department manager and discuss the matter with him. But if I may, Mr Speaker, and with your indulgence, I will not tell him that I will air his advice in public, because then I will be prejudicing my ability to be able to carry out my constitutional functions.

295 Mr Speaker: Where the question is wrongly directed is in that you are asking the Minister for Business and Employment, and that is not his responsibility. He does not have responsibility for Government as an employer, it is the Human Resources Department, and therefore your question should be directed at Government, instead of asking the Minister: can the Government say what steps have been taken; can the Government say how many complaints have the Human Resources Department received in respect of bullying since the legislation was enacted? That is a perfectly legitimate question and you would be asking then someone like ... the Chief Minister presumably would make himself responsible for answering that. But you are directing your questions to the wrong person.

305 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, thank you for bringing up that matter. Certainly if he were to ask me a supplementary, one of the things that I would definitely have said was ... if he were to ask me in respect of bullying complaints before the industrial tribunal, that is certainly different because that is publicly noticed anyway.

310 Mr Speaker: The Minister for Employment has responsibility for employers in the private sector; he does not have responsibility for Government as an employer.

315 Hon. E J Phillips: The only other question, with the greatest respect, is if he received bullying complaints from his own Department. That is a perfectly plausible question to put to the Minister, of course.

I take the point from the Speaker and I will make sure it is framed better next time, but I would say this ... and I agree with Mr Speaker in relation to the number of complaints and I will put that question in the next session, and if that is not forthcoming I am sure Mr Speaker will have something more to say about it.

320 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, regarding your comments just now, would it be a correct assumption to make that, really, to make things easier, we on the Opposition benches should always phrase our questions ... or address them to the Government in general, rather than a specific Minister?

325 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, if I may comment, in my view the Opposition asks questions of the Government and the Government designates who should answer it, really.

330 Mr Speaker: It is a learning process. It is not something that when you are on the Opposition ... It is a learning process for you. A Member of the Opposition asking a question cannot determine through the question who is going to answer it. The Government can decide. It is the role of the Government, the Chief Minister, to decide who is going to answer.

335 What you are able to do, to guide yourself, is to look very carefully at the portfolios of the Ministers, look very carefully at the responsibilities that they have, which are published in the Gazette, and that is very good guidance – you might get it wrong once or twice, but that is very good guidance – and when you are in doubt, instead of mentioning a Minister, ‘Can the Government say ...?’ and someone ought to answer.

340 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I think, with your leave, the previous question, in relation to unemployment figures, is a perfect example of where Mr Bossano, the Minister for Training and Skills, interconnects with Mr Costa’s ministry, and the difficulty with that point is that when both Ministers are announcing certain press releases ... One comes to mind from last year in relation to Gibtelecom, for example, where both of them were effectively on the stage announcing that apprenticeship, so it is very difficult to distinguish whether Mr Bossano or Mr Costa should be answering certain questions in relation to employment training skills, and therefore, quite rightly so, maybe address the question to the Government generally ... and up to the Government to allot the question to the relevant Minister. I am grateful.

SPORTS, CULTURE, HERITAGE AND YOUTH

Q286/2016

Marrache & Co –

Offers made for items with heritage and cultural value to Gibraltar

350 Clerk: Question 286, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Hon. Minister for Heritage please advise whether an offer has been made to the Marrache & Co joint liquidators by Government for any of the items in the collection for sale; and, if so, how they have been selected?

355 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the collection in question contains items which, the Government was advised, should not be allowed to leave Gibraltar because of their heritage and cultural value to our community.

I can confirm that an offer was made to the joint liquidators of Marrache & Co for all items that had any relevance to Gibraltar, be they artworks, books, prints or documents. The offer was accepted by the liquidators. Due to adjustments required between the amounts due from the joint liquidators, the final nett amount of the offer is not yet determined. The gross offer was £200,000, which was just under the amount of the total offers received by the joint liquidators for parts of the collection related to Gibraltar.

A full statement will be made by the Government shortly on the items acquired and where they can be viewed by the public or where they will be stored and made available for researchers.

Q287/2016
Europa water tanks –
Consent for demolition

Clerk: Question 287, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Heritage please confirm that the Government will not allow the demolition of the Rosia ... sorry, the Europa tanks?

360

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): It wasn't the Rosia tanks – the Rosia tanks were destroyed by yourselves! (Laughter) And therefore the answer is the Government, after consultation with the Gibraltar Heritage Trust, will not consent as landlords to the destruction of the water tanks under the old Casino building in Europa Road.

365

Q288/2016
Gibraltar Music Festival 2015 –
Cost

Clerk: Question 288, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Public Finance advise whether the 2015 Gibraltar Music Festival was over budget; and if so, by how much?

370

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth.

Minister for Sports, Culture, Heritage and Youth (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, a perfect example of the hon. Member asking the Minister for Public Finance – and I am not the Minister for Public Finance, but I am answering this question, so it just gives us an example of this.

375

The information requested is contained in the draft estimates of revenue and expenditure book, which the hon. Member knows is confidential until the Appropriation Bill is approved by this House. The hon. Member has a copy of this book with the information he requires. Once this happens, the information will be in the public domain for all to see.

380

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I fully recognise that the Estimates Book is entirely confidential and it will become a public domain document during the Appropriation Bill next week.

385 Obviously, because it is a confidential document, we are certainly not in a position to make public any figures from that document; but surely, when asked a specific question such as this one, and where the Government has figures available to it, it would be appropriate for Government to bring those figures into the public domain a week earlier.

390 Mr Speaker: No, it is not a question of whether they are a week earlier or not.

Hon. S E Linares: No, Mr Speaker –

395 Mr Speaker: These are papers that have been laid in the House. The estimates were given to hon. Members at a certain time on a confidential basis in order to enable them to prepare for the Budget debate.

Next week, you will be able to go to town on the matter, won't you? You have got the estimate; there is going to be a debate precisely on the estimates of expenditure. If you want to, you will be able to have a field day, if such is the case, but not today at Question Time.

400

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, as you will fully appreciate, I have been after this sort of information since the very first session of this Parliament in January, and the Minister has said, 'The figures are not yet available; I do not have the figures. We will make an announcement in April.' April has come and gone and we have had no announcement. It just happens to be pure coincidence that the Budget is next week.

405

Mr Speaker: The information is in the estimates: you have them, I have them. I have seen what the figure is. You want to make it public: it will become public next week, but not today. It is very straightforward, and it is the way that this Parliament has been operating since 1950.

410

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, respectfully, how much time shall I leave in between Budget sessions when I ask financial questions? Should I not ask a question a month before we get the estimate books, two months, three months, one week?

I know I have the estimates, but I am asking a very specific question, following up questions I have asked before: is he over or under budget? That is all I want to know.

415

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, it is a question of order as well. The hon. Member should not be asking questions which he has already got eye of anyway. He knows exactly what the figures are. Therefore, I stand to be corrected but you cannot ask a question of what you know the answer for. He knows the answer. The fact that he has been asking months and months, and I understand that he has been putting questions every month, and my answer is I cannot give him the answer because it is not finalised. Now it is finalised, he has got the figures, which are confidential, and he can come back next week when it is not confidential, because we have to go through the Appropriation Bill. Therefore, once we go through the Appropriation Bill, he can then use the figures, like Mr Speaker has rightly said.

425

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I think my hon. colleague raises an important point. Where we come to asking questions on issues of public finance, is there a line after which we are not permitted to seek answers – for instance, when we are issued the Estimates Book?

430 It needs to be borne in mind on this particular occasion, I think, that, for external factors – the matters of the Referendum – both sides of the House did agree to suspend this Parliament for a period of months, and therefore, obviously, my hon. colleague has not had an opportunity to come back on his previous questions on this issue, and it just so happens that the first 435 opportunity he has had to do so has occurred a week before the Budget session. But because this particular matter, rather than other matters that may be associated with the Appropriation Bill and the Estimates Book, has been asked previously and we have been promised answers previously, I am sure my hon. colleague – and I agree with him – felt it was appropriate to ask that question again.

440 Mr Speaker: The reality, of course, is that you are going to be able to deal with the matter on Monday.

445 From my understanding ... my experience of 16 years in Government is that where the Government expenditure is concerned, a figure can sometimes be put on an item in the estimates halfway through the year – the money has been spent and that is the end of the matter – but there are very many instances where invoices come in, bills have to be paid, and these are submitted on an ongoing basis. The end of the financial year is 31st March. The beginning of March may arrive and not all the invoices have been received, and therefore you cannot give a final figure as to what the outturn has been in respect of some item or other. In some cases you can, because it happened many months ago and that was the end of the matter: 450 a specific sum was spent on a specific matter, and that was it. But where you have ... In this case the Music Festival was a big do and very many people must have been involved in it. Billed invoices are submitted, the Treasury goes through them carefully, payments are made and eventually you get at a figure. That figure, the final outturn, is in the Estimates of Expenditure, because I have seen it. But it is confidential until next week – that is all. You know what it is and 455 you will be able to divulge it next week, and you will be able to debate the matter and hold the Government to account in respect of the figure. So your ability to hold the Government to account is not being curtailed by the fact that you cannot do it today.

460 Hon. R M Clinton: So, Mr Speaker, again just for our information and our benefit on the Opposition benches, would I be correct in saying then that the minute we receive the Estimates Book in April we will not be able to ask any questions at all in relation to any outturns?

465 Mr Speaker: No, I would not say that it is the case that you cannot ask any questions at all. What you cannot do is to ask for information which is there in the estimates; that is what you cannot do. There might be very many questions which are related. Look, the Estimates of Expenditure cover all Government activity. It does not mean that you cannot ask any questions on Government activity, but a specific item such as that one you cannot ask.

470 Hon. T N Hammond: One more question from me, then. Could I just ask the Hon. Minister when he had those finalised figures for the expenses of the Music Festival made available to him?

475 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications & the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, may I point out to the Members opposite: the figure in the Estimates Book is a forecast even at this stage. What we have is the amount for the whole Budget broken down that was approved a year ago, and then what is the estimate, and that estimate is revised several times until the book is printed. But even after it is printed it is still a forecast. If the hon. Members look at the column that says the final figure for 2014-15, (Mr Speaker: Outturn.) the final outturn, and they compare it with last year's forecast, they will find that there was a difference of a 480 couple of million.

Hon. T N Hammond: Of course, I appreciate the Minister's correction there and I do understand that point and the inaccuracy of the statement I made. However, the point remains: was it at the point of publication of the Estimates Book, or the draft that he would have seen, is 485 that the point at which the Minister became aware of the forecast outturn for the Gibraltar Music Festival, or was he aware of the forecast outturn at some point before that?

Hon. S E Linares: As soon as they are sent to the printers, it is the forecast outturn, i.e. an estimate of what is going to be spent up to the end of the year. If you look at the book, next year, before you print, you have the actual, exactly how much has been spent. So, at this stage, 490 there is a forecast up to the end of the year, but like Mr Speaker said, we are still receiving some invoices. Even last week, we received them. The book was printed and then we received invoices, or even revenue, whatever – it is still a moving thing.

495 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if may ask a question – not a financial question in relation to the Estimates Book, but in terms of the approval process for the Music Festival, was the Minister himself personally responsible for determining how much would be spent or was it a Cabinet collective decision?

500 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, it is a Parliament decision. It is in the Estimates Book ... by the Parliament in the Appropriation Bill last year. The Government can go over or under, but it is the Parliament that approves the Estimates Book ... last year ... there is a sum there and we might go over, but that is then a decision that governments take – sometimes it goes over, sometimes it goes under, but that is a decision of the Parliament.

505 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I appreciate if you want a retrospective approval of Parliament for any overspend, I guess dig deeper.

Who determines which music acts come to Gibraltar? Is it the Minister himself or somebody else?

510 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, the Music Festival is not ... I do not go and call agents and invite the superstars to my house. This is a production team, of which there was a tender process – and the hon. Member should know this; this is public knowledge – in which two companies in this case together bid. They then do the Music Festival and they get on with it. They do the production, they do the lights, the sound, the procuring of the artists, the VIP, the VVIP – to 515 which the hon. Member comes and is invited to. All these issues ... You must understand, I cannot be sitting in my office ... whether we get a fork-lifter to put the cranes on or not. This is a production team; these are specialised teams.

It is exactly the same as ... For example, we had, a couple of weeks ago or a week ago, 520 Calentita. That is another event. All these events are managed in a way, financially, by my Department. Of course there is a controlling officer who has to sign things, and the invoices go from the production team to the controlling officer. At the beginning of the year, they do the same as we do to the Parliament, which is they give me an estimate and they say, 'Right, okay, this year we are going to spend so much on artists,' and then it is up to us to say, 'Well, we have 525 not got so much money,' or whatever. Or, you have enough money. So they bring me an estimate, and then we agree the estimate and they get on with it. So it is not the Minister who decides. Sometimes I might influence them because I like a band and I say to them – (Interjection) Yes. And I say to them, 'Look, why don't you bring ...' Roger Hodgson was my choice – why, because I used to like Supertramp – and they actually acquired him, but it is not 530 that I am sitting in my office thinking, 'Oh, well, hold on, I am going to tell them to bring so and so.' (Interjection and laughter)

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, thank you.

I thank the Minister for that – (Interjection and laughter) I have no talents in the music 535 department, I am afraid!

Mr Speaker, I thank the Minister for his explanation and clarifications. He did mention that there was a tender process for production teams and that there would be people who submit tenders. Can he confirm those were fixed-price tenders?

540 Hon. S E Linares: No, they were not. It was a tender to produce, and therefore one of the conditions of the tender was that they had to previously bring an estimate, but then it is the Government that decides whether that estimate is approved or not.

545 Therefore, what I am saying is that they got a four-year contract. In fact, this year is the last year of the current company, the company that are doing it, and it will go out to tender again; therefore, everybody can bid in. What we do now is that we ask them to give us estimates of how much they think, because when you bring it out to tender they have to say, 'Well, we can do it: expenditure, revenue,' – how much we can get it done for.

TOURISM, HOUSING, EQUALITY AND SOCIAL SERVICES

Q366/2016

Tourists visiting Upper Rock –
Details of travel

Clerk: Question 366/2016, the Hon. L F Llamas.

550 Hon. L F Llamas: In each financial year since 31st March 2012, please provide a monthly breakdown of tourists visiting the Upper Rock, detailing whether they are entering the Nature Reserve as a passenger of a public service vehicle, private vehicle or walking?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

555 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the information requested by the hon. Gentleman is detailed in the schedule that I will now hand over.

ANSWER TO QUESTION 366/2016

11/12	Apr-11	May-11	Jun-11	Jul-11	Aug-11	Sep-11	Oct-11	Nov-11	Dec-11	Jan-12	Feb-12	Mar-12
By Private vehicles	6135	4649	5690	9611	12,987	6889	5980	2789	2909	2337	3133	2947
By PSV	47,170	53,408	44,480	48,623	55,429	58,418	53,520	26,220	15,436	13,667	19,681	29,386
Walking	3197	2769	2418	3652	4445	3274	3735	2094	1854	1604	2331	2507
Other	22422	26022	27707	36530	48462	31804	28391	11072	10556	9323	8036	12250

12/13	Apr-12	May-12	Jun-12	Jul-12	Aug-12	Sep-12	Oct-12	Nov-12	Dec-12	Jan-13	Feb-13	Mar-13
By Private vehicles	6579	4822	5022	9709	10,832	5,841	5989	3094	2294	2238	2794	4265
By PSV	45,069	55,968	42,792	46,162	53,205	56,091	50,537	19,646	11,182	9,619	15,491	25,783
Walking	3810	3464	2496	3478	4533	3245	3117	1575	1343	1450	1643	2355
Other	22411	24728	24160	38356	48714	31354	24915	9675	8186	3757	7370	10541

13/14	Apr-13	May-13	Jun-13	Jul-13	Aug-13	Sep-13	Oct-13	Nov-13	Dec-13	Jan-14	Feb-14	Mar-14
By Private vehicles	4877	5110	5224	9624	5716	3356	3874	2124	2077	1939	2086	2561
By PSV	40,020	52,089	45,078	50,772	44,160	52,630	48,125	19,762	12,681	9,815	12,740	22,994
Walking	3613	3814	2890	4031	3681	2734	3227	2121	1747	1454	1846	2707
Other	18,839	25,170	23,367	39,549	35,522	24,196	23,970	11,827	7325	5260	7520	10,707

14/15	Apr-14	May-14	Jun-14	Jul-14	Aug-14	Sep-14	Oct-14	Nov-14	Dec-14	Jan-15	Feb-15	Mar-15
By Private vehicles	4671	4250	4,512	8844	10,018	5519	4596	2374	2405	3106	3159	2725
By PSV	44,504	50,061	44,283	50,160	49,293	61,559	52,499	22,079	13,091	10,587	17808	24,129
Walking	4523	3743	3062	4573	5346	3832	4650	2885	1992	2543	2785	2622
Other	26113	23972	25594	36760	45946	33051	29101	10222	9977	2538	3755	12209

15/16	Apr-15	May-15	Jun-15	Jul-15	Aug-15	Sep-15	Oct-15	Nov-15	Dec-15	Jan-16	Feb-16	Mar-16
By Private Vehicles	4766	4253	4934	8903	12,989	7344	5974	3429	3426	3014	4441	5429
By PSV	50,089	50,389	47,327	55,010	53,609	65,410	58,671	24,251	15,113	9514	17,992	32,347
Walking	5396	4019	3652	4083	6537	5123	5103	3764	2815	2243	3624	4835
Other	27363	26591	27673	37625	45437	34815	32194	11733	10797	6954	1905	17850

15/16	Apr-16	May-16
By Private Vehicles	527	0
By PSV	49,142	64,585
Walking	7246	7193
Other	27047	30,456

Mr Speaker: We go on with the next question, and then, if there are any supplementaries, I will allow you to ask them.

Q367/2016

Upper Rock ban –

Exemption for disabled persons in foreign licensed vehicles

Clerk: Question 367, the Hon. L F Llamas.

565

Hon. L F Llamas: Does Government have plans to exempt persons with disabilities travelling in foreign licensed vehicles from the Upper Rock ban?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

570

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the Government already has this procedure in place.

Hon. L F Llamas: Is the Minister able to tell me as from when this measure was implemented, please?

575

Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, this measure was implemented when the new measures in the Upper Rock were implemented as to access to foreign registered vehicles within the Upper Rock. It may have been perhaps a bit confusing in the first couple of days, but it has certainly been implemented since then.

580

Hon. L F Llamas: The only reason why I am asking is because, as you know, I was asking in press releases and I actually visited and saw certain people with disabilities being turned away. This was well over a month after the new implementation on foreign licensed vehicles had taken place, so I cannot accept that it was a thing that was implemented as from 1st April. I believe this must have been considered and implemented later, but obviously I am not privy to what instructions you have given to the people who actually man the sites.

585

Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, as I said, I think there may have been a bit of confusion initially, but certainly I was not aware of that situation, and on that basis I will make sure that instructions are circulated again to make sure it does not happen again, but certainly the policy is in place.

590

Q368/2016

Gibraltar International Airport –

Departure lounge security

Clerk: Question 368, the Hon. L F Llamas.

595

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, does Government have plans to improve security traffic when entering the departures lounge at the Gibraltar International Airport, especially on Sundays?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

600

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, HM Government of Gibraltar has already increased security personnel in order to cater for the expected increase in passengers at the Airport.

Q369-370/2016

Care Agency –
Agency workers

Clerk: Question No. 369, the Hon. L F Llamas.

605

Hon. L F Llamas: Further to Question 148/2016, can the Government state the commencement date for the recruitment of agency workers currently working within each service provided by the Care Agency?

610

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 370.

615

Clerk: Question 370, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, when a recruitment agency worker, working within the Care Agency, for whatever reason, is unable to work certain days, what is the practice in replacing that worker?

620

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, there are no recruitment agency workers in the Care Agency.

625

Hon. L F Llamas: Does that mean that all the workers listed in Question 148 are no longer working within the Care Agency?

630

Hon. S J Sacramento: No, Mr Speaker, the workers listed in Question 148 are not recruitment agency workers.

Q371/2016

Care Agency workers –
Details of current posts

Clerk: Question 371, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, how many Care Agency employees are currently acting and since when, detailing posts individually by post?

635

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there are 10 Care Agency employees currently acting in vacant posts. These have been acting since ... There are two since October 2011, one since February 2012, two since October 2012, one since March 2016, two from April 2016 and two from June 2016.

640

The posts that they are acting in are as follows: Senior Social Worker, Senior Care Worker, Deputy Manager, Executive Officer.

645 Hon. L F Llamas: Is the Minister able to provide the actual post and date coinciding with each, so I may tally them, please?

Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, that is not the question that was put to me. If the hon. Gentleman wishes to put that question framed in that manner for that answer on the next 650 occasion, then of course I am happy to do so.

Q372-373/2016

Dr Giraldi Home –

Government and non-Government workers

Clerk: Question 372, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: How many workers employed by Government, Government-owned companies, authorities and agencies are currently working in the Dr Giraldi Home?
655

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 373.
660

Clerk: Question 373, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, how many workers not employed by Government, Government-owned companies, authorities and agencies are currently working in the Dr Giraldi Home?
665

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the complement of staff at Dr Giraldi Home is as it appears in the Estimates Book of Revenue and Expenditure. Indeed, a figure was provided to the hon. Gentlemen in the last parliamentary session.
670

As explained previously, there are workers who are subcontracted from time to time to provide temporary cover or temporary additional resources. As explained previously, this is a fluid service and numbers fluctuate even on a daily basis, and temporary cover is used when 675 necessary to cover or for temporary influx of work.

Hon. L F Llamas: So, in that case, the Minister is confirming then that the complement of staff as it is in the Estimates Book is covered by actual employees and not by subcontracted workers – yes?
680

Hon. S J Sacramento: No, Mr Speaker, that is not the question that was asked and that is not the answer that I provided.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I am finding it a little bit difficult to understand. The Minister is telling me that the complement of staff is as it is in the Estimates Book, but I did not ask for that; I asked how many workers employed by Government, Government companies and authorities and agencies are currently working. I am asking for a specific number, and, in the same way, I am asking for a specific number as to how many workers are not employed by Government or any other agency or authority, and I am not getting that answer from the answers I am given.
685

690 Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the reason is because this particular service – as I have said in the past, because I always get asked this question, pretty much in every session – is a very fluid service. It means that, as I have explained, we may use workers who are subcontracted from time to time on a temporary basis, either because we need to call them in or because there is a temporary influx of work.

695 Indeed, Mr Speaker, the situation was explained by my colleague, Minister Cortes, yesterday. Sometimes we may have people who call in sick. In a place like the Dr Giraldi Home it is not like having someone who is a receptionist who calls in sick on a particular day, which means that the filing does not get done. This is not what it is. In the case where someone calls in sick for a day, two days, perhaps long term, someone from an agency that we use to subcontract will be called 700 in to cover that post. It means that on that particular day we have a temporary need for cover, but that worker may be there one day and may not be there the next, which is why, on every occasion, I always say that it is fluid, because it is not the practice – which is, I think, what the hon. Gentleman may be trying to insinuate – that complement posts are covered by workers who are not employees of the Care Agency.

705 As I have explained in the past, and in the same way that Minister Cortes explained yesterday, we use people for short-term temporary cover. Because it is short term, because it is temporary, it changes and it can change from day to day, which is why I always explain that it is a very fluid situation. I am therefore unable to give a concrete figure, because of the particular nature of this service.

710 Mr Speaker, on a particular day I may have a service user who may have a particular behavioural problem manifesting itself. It may be that on that day we need to call in extra support. It may be that for a day or two I need to call in a subcontracted worker to work alongside my people for two days, but then on the third day, if I no longer need it, then I no longer need them. That is why it is so fluid – it is because situations differ from day to day.

715 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I am asking for some guidance from you on this Question. Is it unreasonable for me to expect at least maybe end of month figures to be able to see what the trend is?

720 Mr Speaker: It would seem to me that in respect of workers employed by Government, Government-owned companies, authorities and agencies, these are not employed on a casual basis, these are not temporary. In respect of that, you are entitled to ask for the information that you are seeking – for the figures.

I think the Minister has answered the question indirectly by telling you to have a look at the 725 Estimates Book because the information is there. She also says a figure – I do not know whether it is that specific one – was provided at the last parliamentary session.

But you certainly are entitled to ask and would expect to know how many workers the Government, its companies and agencies are employing.

730 Hon. S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, and as you say, I referred to the figure that I provided in the February session of Parliament which, as you know, was less than six months ago. I could also have answered the question saying this figure was provided less than six months ago, but I am just referring to the last session of Parliament where I did provide the figure. It is not that I am not providing the figure, Mr Speaker; I provided it in February.

735 Mr Speaker: When we come to next week there is a general debate during the Second Reading of the Bill, and then the House resolves itself into committee, where we deal with each head of expenditure and each item, in fact. Then, when it comes to the appropriate head, you can ask and get the information that you require. Okay? There will be no difficulty in getting it 740 then; but even so, you are being referred to the estimates, because the information is there.

745 Hon. L F Llamas: Sorry to keep on this point: the question in Question 372 is: how many workers employed by the Government, Government-owned companies, authorities or agencies are currently working in the Dr Giraldi Home? I think that figure, in particular, should be made available. If the number of workers is the same – (Interjection) I did not ask this question in February. If the number of workers is exactly the same as those in the Estimates Book, then that is all I need to know. I accept the second part of the question, but in relation to Question 372 I do believe I am due a number in order to confirm that the number of workers within the Dr Giraldi Home is exactly the same as what is in the Estimates Book.

750

Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I am quite surprised by this supplementary, given that it was the hon. Gentleman who asked me this question in February. In February I was asked the question of how many people worked in Social Services, broken down by Department. In February I answered the number of people who worked in Social Services, broken down by Department. My answer refers to the question in February, Mr Speaker. It was the hon. Gentlemen who asked me the same question in February – and it was answered in February.

755

Mr Speaker: So, are you saying that the information in respect of the Dr Giraldi Home is contained in that answer that you gave about the Department?

760

Hon. S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker. To clarify, question one: how many people work in the Dr Giraldi Home? Answer: I replied in February. Answer: it is in the Estimates Book and I gave you the figure in February.

765

Question two: what about people you subcontract? Answer: it is fluid and I am unable to give you a wide-ranging answer because it is so fluid that it is difficult to answer without a more specific question.

Q374-377/2016

Care Agency establishments – Residential and respite admissions policies

Clerk: Question 374, the Hon. L F Llamas.

770 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, what is the admissions policy for residential care under the Care Agency establishments?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

775 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 375.

Clerk: Question 375, the Hon. L F Llamas.

780 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, what is the admissions policy for respite care under the Care Agency establishments?

Clerk: Question No. 376, the Hon. L F Llamas.

785 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, are the admissions policies in respect of respite care and residential care applied equally across the various establishments?

Clerk: Question 377, the Hon. L F Llamas.

790 Hon. L F Llamas: Since December 2011, have there been any exceptions made to the admissions policy for respite and/or residential care at any of the Care Agency establishments?

Mr Speaker: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

795 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, in answer to Questions 374 and 375, each area of service within the Care Agency has a different policy for residential care and respite services. This is because in Children's Services admissions are based on legislation and/or concerns for children following assessment, and in the Learning Disabilities Services admissions are based on the need of the service user and are subject to the eligibility criteria first.

800 In answer to Question 376, each area of service within the Care Agency has a different policy, which will depend on the need of the service user and area of service delivery, as explained in the previous question.

In answer to Question 377, the answer is no.

805 Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Minister expand on the policy criteria not covered by statute in the different establishments, please?

810 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, in respect of children, while the statute provides a statutory obligation in particular circumstances, there may be other circumstances where the statutory obligations do not kick in, but if there is a referral, subject to assessment by the professionals, usually in these circumstances, in the absence of a statutory order, then with agreement with the parent, children will be admitted into care.

815 In relation to the other services – the Learning Disability Services for adults – that will be upon a general assessment of the needs of the person. The service is person-centred and therefore the needs of the person can be ... The person can come to the service for different reasons, by application or sometimes by referral, but it entirely depends on the individual.

Q378/2016

Care service companies – Plans for regulation

Clerk: Question 378, the Hon. L F Llamas.

820 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, does the Government have any plans to regulate care service companies?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

825 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the existing care service companies subcontracted by Government to provide services, insofar as this is the case, are regulated.

Hon. L F Llamas: Can the Minister enlighten me as to which body regulates them, please?

830 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, they are regulated by the body which commissions the service. The organisations which are commissioning these services will be Government Departments and they are regulated contractually, of course, to provide a specific level of care, but then there are also inspections – planned inspections and unannounced inspections – to ensure that the clinical standards required of them are met.

835

Hon. L F Llamas: So I assume these investigations and spot checks are done when the care is provided to Government services. Is this expanded to those who may contract these companies on a private basis?

840

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, they are in effect the same companies and the reality is at present that the majority of the work undertaken by these companies is for Government as a client.

845

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may ask the hon. Lady, would I be correct in saying there is at present no external regulatory body – the same as, for example, the Financial Services Commission for anybody who wanted to provide financial services in Gibraltar – in terms of care provision? There is no licensing regime as there would be for financial services?

850

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, there is not the same model in terms of financial services, but again the service is different and the size of the service is different.

855

Within the Government Departments that provide care there will be separate departments to monitor the care being given internally by the Government. Of course Government has its own standards and in relation to the care that we subcontract we ensure that the same standards are applied. So while the framework is not the same as having an independent statutory body as the Financial Services Commission, independent verification of those agencies to whom we subcontract is subject to our quality control, our quality assurance and our clinical standards.

860

Hon. L F Llamas: Does Government have plans to introduce an independent body like exists in the UK, the Care Quality Commission, for example?

865

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, we had this same conversation, not to say debate, at the last session of Parliament. It is not something that is a manifesto commitment, but it is something that we can consider and at the appropriate time it may be that it is introduced. It is not something that is a manifesto commitment, so I cannot commit for it to be done in this parliamentary session. That is not saying that it will not be done, but it is something that will be considered, is being considered; but of course we have other priorities first. Having said that, it does not mean that entities are not regulated; they are regulated.

870

Minister for Health, the Environment, Energy and Climate Change (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): If I may assist, Mr Speaker, those persons who provide care who are registered nurses are obviously covered by the Nurses and Midwives Registration Board and their registration is covered, and there are some who are. That would apply in the private as well as in the public sector. If there was any behaviour that caused the registration to be put into doubt, this would be taken up by the Nurses Registration Board.

875

Nurses and carers are not registered at this point in time. As my hon. Friend has mentioned, it is not something that is a manifesto commitment, but we are in the process of renewing the Nurses and Midwives Registration Board and I think that it is quite possible that, in discussion with my colleague, we may look at ways in which some kind of system could be introduced to extend what has already happened for registered nurses to other levels of carers.

880

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, if I may, because I do not have this clear in my head at all when we are talking about regulation or not. The Minister is describing that the industry is 885 regulated by the Government. In most of the regulated industries I have come across, including my own industry, the regulations are established in law and a regulatory body is set up to oversee that. That does not appear to be the case, although I stand to be corrected in this case.

So it appears to me it is more of a contractual oversight that is being provided – a service is being contracted and the Government oversees that contract to ensure that services are being provided in accordance with that contract, but there is no regulation or regulatory body 890 established in law. Is that correct?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, the question is exactly the same as the question which the Hon. Mr Clinton asked, and the answer is the same. I think I made it very clear that it is not an independent statutory organisation of someone who regulates independently, but that 895 there is oversight provided by the Government, and at this stage, given the size of what we are doing, I am satisfied that there is control at this present time.

But, as I said and as my colleague Minister Cortes also said, it is something that is in the process of being reviewed as well.

900 Hon. T N Hammond: Absolutely, and I appreciate the clarification – it is precisely why I asked the question, because I think there is a distinction between regulation and contractual oversight.
Certainly, the Minister gave the impression in her initial responses to my hon. colleague that the industry was regulated, but it seems that the industry is certainly not regulated in law, if I am correct, but it is some sort of contractual oversight that is provided by Government.

905 Thank you.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I never said that it was regulated in law, but because something is not regulated in law does not mean that it is not regulated. I just wanted to make that point, Mr Speaker.

910 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, to further clarify my contribution, the Nurses and Midwives Board is a regulatory authority; it is independent of the politicians and it regulates not just registered nurses at staff nurse level but, something that does not happen in the UK, also at enrolled nurse level, and that is a totally independent regulatory authority.

915 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, at the risk of raising a hypothetical question, but with the indulgence of the Speaker and the Minister for Health, would I be correct in saying, Minister, that I could tomorrow set up a care business incorporated, hire non-registered nurses and trade as a care home with no intervention from Government?

920 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I am quite surprised that the Minister for Health is being asked a supplementary question in my substantive question. The answer, Mr Speaker –

Mr Speaker: Which he does not have to answer!

925 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: But, Mr Speaker, the answer is no. It is something that could have happened between 1996 and 2011, but it is not something that can happen now. Why? Well, the logical reason now is because there are certain factors that need to happen before something like that happens. The hon. Gentleman referred to a company being incorporated, 930 and a company which is incorporated and needs to trade will require a business licence. When a business licence for something like that comes across the Office of Fair Trading they will make a referral to the appropriate bodies and therefore we will, as Government organisations, have an input in that regard.

935 So, Mr Speaker, we know what is happening, we know what organisations are ... This is Gibraltar; we know when a company is incorporated. If a company is going to advertise services for a particular subject area for which we are responsible then we will find out and we will inspect, and the reality is that we know what companies there are.

940 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, again with the indulgence of the hon. Lady, would I be correct in saying that the only stage at which setting up such a business would be picked up is when somebody applies for a trade licence – only at that stage? There are no other permissions that would need to be applied for?

945 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I think I said that that is an example of how Departments work together and I gave that as an example of when someone incorporates a company, which is the obvious initial stage and the precursor to what he just said.

950 ‘What if someone were to come and incorporate a company?’ was the supplementary question, and the answer was as soon as someone incorporates a company the entity will be referred to the relevant bodies. Something which is new, I might add, Mr Speaker, because before the introduction of the Office of Fair Trading it was not a field that was regulated, because it may not have fallen within the remit of the trade licence; because services were provided as opposed to the sale of goods, and the provision of goods and services, as we may know, were not regulated before the introduction of the new legislation introduced by my colleague, Minister Costa.

Q379-380/2016

Housing medical and social category lists – Details of applicants

955 Clerk: Question 379, the Hon. L F Llamas.

960 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can Government provide details of applicants on the housing medical list, including when the applicant was accepted onto the list, their current circumstances and the property required?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

965 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 380.

Clerk: Question 380, the Hon. L F Llamas.

970 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can Government provide details of applicants on the housing social category list, including when the applicant was accepted onto the list, their current circumstances and the property required?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

975 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, there are 245 applicants on the medical lists and 99 applicants on the social lists who require flats between one and 5RKB. I am now handing the hon. Member a schedule with the dates of when they joined these lists.

Answer to Questions 379 & 380/2016

Dated Accepted on List	Social	Medical
1997		1
1998		1
1999		2
2000		1
2001		3
2005		4
2006	1	2
2007		1
2008	5	6
2009		2
2010	1	4
2011	1	20
2012	4	25
2013	9	30
2014	25	60
2015	29	50
2016	24	33

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, pre-empting the schedule, are there any expected dates within the plans as to when these people may be able to obtain a property?

980

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, in the absence of a crystal ball, what I can assure the hon. Gentleman is that a lot of the people who have been waiting on these particular lists will be alleviated in the coming months upon the allocation of the purpose-built flats for the elderly at Charles Bruzon House and at Seamaster Lodge.

985

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, looking at the schedule, I asked for a list of current circumstances and the property required, and I am not getting this in this list. I am getting the date in which they were accepted, but I am not getting a breakdown of when each individual was accepted onto the list, the current circumstances and in what conditions they are currently living in, and the property they are required as has been recommended.

990

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the current circumstances can only be whether individuals find themselves on the medical list or on the social list. Beyond that, it is not information that I can provide. I cannot go through, or the Department cannot go through 245 people to see what each individual's circumstances are. That is the role of the Housing Allocation Committee. They are the ones who consider whether individuals find themselves in social circumstances or medical circumstances and are then categorised accordingly.

995

It is completely impossible and I think counterproductive, Mr Speaker. I am unable to give people's individual circumstances. They have been categorised either by being on the medical list or on the social list, and the question asks when they were accepted on these lists and the information is on the table.

1000

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I fail to find, given the explanation ... and I accept that maybe I should phrase it 'what current property they are living in' instead of 'circumstances', I accept that, but I fail to see the property required – whether it is a one, two, three, four, 5RKB. I would think that information would have to be provided within the premise of this question.

1005

1010 Mr Speaker: May I say that it is very difficult to interpret a question, to know exactly what the hon. questioner is after, including when the applicant was accepted onto the list: is the hon. questioner after a specific individual, that details should be given as to when individuals appeared on the list, 200-and-something individuals; or is it of a general nature, as has been answered?

1015 There is a question of confidentiality, questions of data protection arise, and these have to be taken into account by the Department when providing answers. In any case, the hon. questioner ... provide details – what sort of details is it that he is after, beyond what he has been given? It may not be entirely clear. It may be interpreted differently, but there are, in any case, limitations as to how much information can be given of an individual nature.

1020 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: That is how I understand it.

Q381/2016
Affordable housing flats –
Allocation

Clerk: Question 381, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1025 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, have any of the affordable housing flats been allocated to persons not on the housing waiting list as at 9th December 2011 or in possession of a Government flat?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

1030 Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Yes, Mr Speaker.

1035 Hon. L F Llamas: Is the Minister able to provide how many people have been allocated without being on the housing waiting list prior to 2011 or in possession of a Government flat?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, there are slightly over 300 individuals who were not on the waiting list before 9th December 2011.

1040 Hon. L F Llamas: Is the Minister able to expand and confirm whether those 300 were on the housing waiting list after 2011; whether they formed part of the housing waiting list? It may be too much to ask at this stage, but I am just asking it in case.

1045 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, the majority of them were on the waiting list. Not all of them were on the waiting list before 9th December 2011, because not everybody who was on the waiting list before 9th December 2011 wanted to purchase affordable housing or could purchase affordable housing. The people were offered, but just because people have the opportunity to purchase affordable housing does not mean that they take advantage of that opportunity.

1050 Of course, when we went through the list we went through the list in order of priority; therefore, the person who has been waiting the longest will have had the first opportunity, and as the Department worked its way through the list then they will have been offered to people who were on the list after 9th December 2011, if those who were on the waiting list before December 2011 were not interested in buying.

Q382/2016
Government housing rent arrears –
Agreements since January 2016

Clerk: Question 382, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1055

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide template copies of the agreements entered into since January 2016 in respect of housing arrears?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

1060

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Yes, Mr Speaker, and it is also available online. I will now hand the hon. Member a copy.

Answer to Question 382/2016

Housing Department
 HM Government of Gibraltar

OBLIGATION TO PAY RENT ARREARS

PAYMENT PLAN AGREEMENT

(1) I/we.....
 of.....
 hereby acknowledge that I/we owe Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar the sum of
 .....
 .....
 in respect of overdue Rent payable be me/us under the Tenancy Agreement.

(2) I/we undertake to pay this debt as follows: [ ]

(a) An initial instalment of £1000/£1,500

(b)

Amount Arrears £	Period	Frequency	Monthly Repayment £	Final instalment £
	Start:
	End:

(3) I/we understand that if I/we do not make the required payments of the overdue amounts in accordance with this plan, Points (a) and (b), legal proceedings for the recovery of the amount due may be instituted against me/us and I/we may be evicted from the premises. [ ]

(4) I/we further undertake that I will pay the current rent of [£ ] per month as and when due. By salary deduction/Pension deduction/standing order per month as and when due. [ ]

(5) The terms of this Payment Plan Agreement have been explained to me by a representative of HM Government of Gibraltar. [ ]

Tenant..... For HM Government of Gibraltar.....

Date: Tenant Code:

Q383/2016
Government housing –
Rent arrears

Mr Speaker: Next question.

1065 Clerk: Question 383, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Housing please advise the level of Government housing rent arrears at each of the following dates: 1st December 2015, 1st January 2016, 1st February 2016, 1st March 2016, 1st April 2016 and 1st May 2016?

1070

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services.

Minister for Tourism, Housing, Equality and Social Services (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, since the answer to the last question on the level of arrears of rent, i.e. people who owe the Government in excess of three months' rent, the calculations at month end are as follows: 31st January, £5,446,720.31; 29th February, £5,453,570.02; 31st March, £5,452,435.25; 30th April, £5,621,667.01; 30th May, £5,478,819.73.

1075

1080 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, would the hon. Lady be agreeable to giving us those numbers in writing for our convenience to analyse now?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I am afraid, because it was short, I did not put it in table format, but I am happy to make a copy.

1085

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I thank the hon. Lady for the numbers.

Can I ask her, in terms of the rate of rent arrear collection, and further to her press release on 13th April in which she announced a reduction by £260,000, from £6 million to £5.7 million, which would be approximately an £87,000 recovery every month, whether that rate of collection is continuing and does she still feel that she will be able to collect £1 million by the end of the year?

1090

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker – though yes and no, because every month is different because of the individuals involved.

We have, unfortunately, inherited a huge debt in relation to housing arrears and it is not something that is easy to deal with, particularly because we are dealing with a huge volume of people. We need to look at arrears in a different way and I will be providing further statistics next week at the Budget session of Parliament because I will have updated data by then. Because we are changing the IT systems, I do not have everything that I wanted to have had by today. That is one of the wider strategies that has been successful, Mr Speaker, because we have completely changed our IT systems to see how we recover.

1100

The important thing is that we are looking at the arrears in two different ways: it is about the arrears that already existed and recovering those; and it is about curtailing arrears from increasing going forward, and these statistics clearly show that they are not going up. For the last few years we have seen year on year, month on month, that the arrears have been increasing; we are now seeing a downward trend.

1105

The Department has seen already, in the last three months since we started the strategy in earnest, hundreds of people to explore methods of repayment. While they have been seeing people, some people have made a lump sum towards their existing arrears, but not everybody is in a position to do that, which is why the level of arrears can fluctuate from month to month.

1110 But the important thing is that we are working with people and securing the arrears from increasing going forward. So we have got a parallel strategy. One is about making sure that people who are in debt do not continue to be in debt, and we work with them in terms of the current payment and the payment going forward, and it is about sitting down with them and exploring repayment of their existing debt. Some people may have a debt of a few hundred 1115 pounds, which is easy for them to pay off; some people have not paid rent in 20 years. Within that category of people there will be people who genuinely cannot afford to pay rent because of particular social circumstances and needs, in which case we work with them, and there are certain cases where people do not pay rent because they do not want to pay rent, and of course we work with them as well to ensure that they pay.

1120 So I cannot pre-empt. I think it is a bit artificial to review the recovery of rent on a monthly basis, because on a particular month we will be – because our strategy is phased – working with different groups of debtors and in a particular month we may deal with a big volume of people who owe smaller amounts and that month we will probably recover more; and then in another month when we send out letters to people who owe a particular sum which will be bigger, it is 1125 probably unlikely that we will recover a lot in that month.

But the important thing is that there is a very clear strategy. It is in its early days; we only started it in January, but it is clearly already giving us results and I think that a better analysis of the whole arrears recovery project will be more accurate in six months' or nine months' time.
We will see it at the end of the next financial year. We will have a clearer picture. At the moment 1130 there is a huge impetus in getting letters out, in getting the message across to people that it is no longer acceptable not to pay rent because you do not want to. I think people have been left to believe that for too long.

I have to say that people are engaging. We have changed our billing system and people in arrears will have a red footnote at the bottom saying, 'You are in arrears, please contact the 1135 Department.' People who do not contact the Department will receive a first letter; if they ignore the first letter, they will receive a second letter. And people are engaging. I think the whole system, for the last 20 years, people were afraid to tackle, and it sometimes becomes a bit of ostrich syndrome, bury your head in the sand, because it just gets bigger and bigger, and psychologically people may have thought it was insurmountable and could not be tackled. It has 1140 been tackled and very effectively, I think, particularly because ... and I have to thank everybody in the Department: the strategy is very effective because they are sensitive to people's needs.

I always say it when I talk about arrears: there are two kinds of people who do not pay arrears. There are the people who do not pay arrears because they do not want to, because they would rather go off on a holiday, on a Caribbean cruise, and that is not acceptable. It is not 1145 acceptable to other tenants of Government properties who pay their rent on time, it is not acceptable for people who have mortgages and pay them at the end of every month, and it is not acceptable to the taxpayer who is subsidising these flats, when people do not pay rent. The people who fall in that class, of course, are dealt with and of course we are sensitive to people who genuinely cannot pay rent.

1150 Mr Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Department. They have seen hundreds and hundreds of people in the last couple of months.

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

1155 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I thank the hon. Lady for her comprehensive answer. I, for one, will always welcome positive action in safeguarding Government revenues and it is only just and equitable that everybody should pay their fair share. I am sure the principal auditor, in his report for the coming year, will equally echo that praise.

I have two questions, really, in terms of supplementaries. The first is in respect of the draft agreements, which I am grateful for: is my understanding of this agreement ...? And again the 1160 learned Lady must bear with me because I am not a lawyer. Is it true that there is no ability to enter into a payment plan agreement if you do not pay a lump sum? Again, I stand to be corrected.

1165 And then, secondly, only yesterday I came across a member of the public who had been sent what looked to me like a standard letter saying, 'Please pay; if you do not pay we will take appropriate action.' This individual was one of the category which she just described as being one of the more needy in our community who probably would not be able to pay the amount in full, and I am just wondering what interaction ... or how it would all work between her Department, and whether her Department is responsible for the granting of rent relief, because these individuals are worried because they do not want to be evicted, they do not want to lose 1170 their homes, and it does cause them sleepless nights.

As you quite rightly said, people do react to these letters and I think they genuinely want to make a payment, but when you have somebody on welfare or on Income Support, where they are receiving a very low amount of money and then they get a bill saying, 'You need to pay x amount by whatever date or else', obviously they get worried. So I am just interested to see how 1175 these types of issues are dealt with.

And, while I am standing, it just occurred to me – at what stage would the Minister consider talking to the Ministry of Finance in terms of write-offs for any arrears which are obviously completely irrecoverable?

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

1180

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I will deal with the three supplementary questions, but I would start off by saying that while of course we have the power to evict people for non-payment of rent, that is not something that is our priority and certainly not something that we would pursue lightly. And it would, of course, be a last resort – if appropriate and if necessary. Everybody has been given that assurance and I have given that assurance publicly before.

First and foremost, in relation to our new rent arrears payment plan, this is a working document, it is a live document, and, as I explained before, everybody who is in arrears is given the opportunity of a face-to-face meeting with a dedicated arrears section within the Department. People are met with individually and their circumstances are considered. It is not 1185 automatic that people need to make a lump sum and it would be ludicrous to say, 'Well, unless you pay a lump sum we are not going to enter into arrears agreement' if what we want to do is recover arrears. We work with people, we make it workable and we make it practical. But it is a very fluid situation because we need to make sure that it works. Clearly, if someone owes £15,000 we are not going to accept that they pay 3p a week. If someone has not paid rent in 1190 20 years, then it is about time that they take responsibility for paying rent – subject to them being able to pay rent. There are some people who have not paid rent in 20 years and they cannot pay rent, and maybe they cannot pay rent for the rest of their lives but that is what a responsible government does in the prosperous community, in which we are. But those are the minority, I can assure you.

1195 We spent towards the latter end of last year improving our databases and looking at our tenants, and we are working very closely with the Department of Employment and with the Department for Social Security to see who is in employment, and of course people who are in employment are being pursued first. People who are not in employment will be our last priority. When you have so many people owing money you have got to start somewhere, and we are not 1200 going to start with people who are on welfare benefits. Having said that, everybody who is in debt will have received the amended bill and will have received the new format, the new letters that we are generating.

You are referring to a standard letter. The tone of that letter ... The very first letter says, 'You are in arrears. Please contact the Department so that we can help you.' So actually the first 1205 letter is a very polite letter and a very helpful letter, inviting people to a meeting with an official at the Housing Department in order to assist them. If that letter is ignored, then there is a second letter, which is still a very nice and a very helpful letter because we are giving the individual an appointment at a specific date and a specific time for them to come and meet someone in the Department. If they ignore that one, then there is a third letter, which is still helpful and is not as nice as the first letter and the second letter, but it is still a perfectly polite and a perfectly acceptable letter, and it is certainly not ... Of course there will be a paragraph that says, 'If you continue to ignore our letters we will take the appropriate action', but that is only in the third letter or in the fourth letter. But every single letter that tenants who are in debt receive, the impetus of the letter and the tone of the letter is, 'Please contact the Department: we will help you.'

1215 So I would urge that we work together and people are directed to the Housing Department, where I have restructured the Department – at no additional cost; I have just had an emphasis in expanding ... just relocating people internally and having more people dedicated to recovering arrears.

1220 And on the final point, on people who are entitled to rent relief, of course it is adjusted. We have been working with the arrears department within the Housing Department and we feed into the central arrears unit. We are working closely with every single relevant Department that exists within the Government in order to assist people. If someone comes to one of the arrears meetings and that person is entitled to welfare benefit and they have never applied for it at the Housing Department, then that calculation is adjusted, which is why sometimes the figures fluctuate. Because we are sending the letters, because people are coming to us, we now know that we need to adjust their rent and make it commensurate to ... If they are not in receipt of rent relief, then we adjust it and allocate the rent relief.

1230 But there is one point that I need to make: when people are paid welfare benefits at the Department of Social Security, there is actually a part of the welfare benefit ... When you calculate the welfare benefit, part of that welfare benefit is for rent, so it is actually for rent. So, when welfare benefits are calculated, the commensurate apportion of rent is included there. So we are working closely with the Department of Social Security to have our systems talk to each other, because a lot of people who are on welfare benefits are telling us that they would prefer to have the apportion of rent deducted at source from Department to Department. But, again, every week, as we see more people and as things develop, we learn more things and we are just adjusting the systems that we have.

1240 Mr Speaker: I will allow one final supplementary because we have been dealing with this ... It is an important matter, I realise, but we have been dealing with this for some time and we need to make progress. There is a substantial number of questions on the agenda paper and we really need to move on, but I will allow another supplementary.

Go on, ask your question.

1245 Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Just following on from the hon. Lady – again, I am very grateful for her explanations and we will pass on the procedure to anybody who does come to us asking for help. Just in terms of write-offs, does she have any sense (Interjection) by Hon. Miss S J Sacramento) of any write-offs?

1250 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I am sorry, there were so many supplementaries in that supplementary that I forgot the write-offs. In relation to these – 1255 Mr Speaker: If hon. Members care to read the Rules, they will find out that they are not supposed to ask a whole lot of supplementaries at the same time. Have a look at the Rules about Question Time – I commend that to hon. Members. It is very easy to forget them, but it is my business to keep them very much in mind.

1260 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, at the moment nothing has been written off, so the figures do not reflect any write-offs whatsoever. However, of course there will come the time when we will have to prepare particular cases for the financial secretary to consider for them to be written off. The reality is, Mr Speaker, because arrears of rent have not been pursued for the better part of 20 years, a lot of people who owe rent have passed away.

1265 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, on the question of rent arrears, given that arrears rose from £3.7 million at the time that the learned Lady took office in 2011, to £6.1 million in December 2015, isn't it right that she should now correct the record in relation to her statement insofar as inheriting a problem that she referred to before?

1270 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, while of course the rent arrears grew in the initial stage that we were in office – and I have already explained in this Parliament and publicly as to why – when we came into office we inherited all sorts of problems and our priority was first to build homes. That was our first priority and that was the priority of the previous Ministers for Housing.

1275 When I took office as Minister for Housing, because my colleagues – my predecessors Minister Balban and Minister Bruzon – had already dealt with the pressing matter of providing allocation for people, both by constructing affordable housing and the very quick turnover of empty flats which had been lying dormant for years, the priority that was left was the recovery of arrears, which I set about to do initially. But because the systems were incredibly archaic and there was basically very little information to go on, the priority was of course the recovery of arrears but the whole infrastructure and the foundation to do that took me about a year.

1280 We started in earnest in January and we are already seeing the fruits. So, as a matter of fact, yes, of course arrears increased in the first years that we were in office; but, Mr Speaker, we cannot ignore the fact that when we took office arrears were in the amount of £3 million. But more to the point, when we left office in 1996 arrears were less than £1 million, and in the GSD's term in office, in 16 years it grew by 600%. So, if the hon. Gentleman wants me to acknowledge that arrears increased in our first term of office, it is a matter of fact that it did. But they cannot hide from the fact that while the GSD were in office – and did pretty little to control this; they were the ones who let it spiral out of control – it increased by 600%.

1290 Mr Speaker: Now you are beginning to debate, and at this juncture I am not going to allow it – we will have the debate next week.

Q384/2016
Public sector –
Drugs-free workplace policy

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Clerk: Question 384/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1295 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm what progress it has made in respect to its commitment to introduce a drugs-free workplace policy throughout the public sector?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Equality, Social Services & Housing.

1300 Minister for Tourism, Equality, Social Services and Housing (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, a draft policy has been prepared and at present is being considered internally, following which it will form part of a consultation with stakeholders, after which we will be in a position to make a definitive announcement.

1305 Hon. E J Phillips: I am very grateful for the response to that question. Would that consultation also go out to the trade unions?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker. In fact, I have already been in touch with the trade unions on this matter. In fact, the initial discussions were with the trade unions.

EDUCATION AND JUSTICE & INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION

Q395, 398-399, 403, 474/2016

New schools – Commencement and funding of works

1310 Clerk: We now move on to Question 395/2016, and this is a question by the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, when does the Government intend to commence works on a new St Martin's School?

1315 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

Minister for Education and Justice & International Exchange of Information (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 398, 399, 403 and 474/2016.

1320 Clerk: Question 398/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Education confirm when works will start on all new five schools?

1325 Clerk: Question 399/2016, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1330 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Education confirm how the Government intends to fund the building of the new Bishop Fitzgerald, Notre Dame, St Martin's, Bayside and St Anne's schools?

Clerk: Question 403/2016, the Hon. R Clinton on behalf of the Hon. D A Feetham.

1335 Mr Speaker: Perhaps I should explain to hon. Members, that the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition is unfortunately unable to attend due to family reasons.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker, our thoughts are with his grandmother. When does the Government intend to commence works on a new Bayside School?

1340 Clerk: Question 474/2016, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

A Member: They are all ganging up!

1345 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: When does the Minister for Education envisage bricks and mortar being laid for the new Bayside, Governor's Meadow, Bishop Fitzgerald and St Martin's schools?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Education and Justice.

1350 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, work in relation to our manifesto commitments relating to St Martin's, Bishop Fitzgerald, Governor's Meadow, Bayside, St Anne's and Notre Dame has already commenced.

We are engaged in a consultation exercise with the head teachers and staff on the specific needs for each school. This is the same process that was carried out in relation to the new 1355 St Bernard's schools which were started and completed during our previous term of office.

As hon. Members will understand, a significant amount of preparatory work is required before any bricks and mortar are actually laid. As with other manifesto commitments which have no specific completion dates, the Government has every intention of delivering on these commitments within this term of office.

1360 The Government expects that funding for these projects will be from the Improvement and Development Fund, as with other Government projects.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Is the Minister confident that he will fulfil his party's manifesto commitment for these five schools in only the three years that we have left to the next election?

1365

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, by my reckoning we should have more than three years before the next elections, but I have actually said so. I have said that the Government has every intention of fulfilling those manifesto commitments within this term of office.

1370 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one supplementary question. The Minister talked about significant preparatory work that needs to be conducted before the laying of bricks and mortar. I was wondering whether any guidance could be given to this House in relation to what type of significant preparatory work needs to be undertaken. I know you are looking at going out to consultation, the physical infrastructure and everything else, teachers – but how long will that 1375 actually take? The hon. Lady talked about three years left and I think it is a very short period of time in which to complete it; but insofar as the significant preparatory work, how long is that going to take before you actually start moving children around, thinking about the disruption that that will cause, and moving people into different buildings and laying bricks and mortar? Is there a plan?

1380

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, it will take as long as it will need to take. As I have explained, there is a significant amount of work that needs to be carried out. We have already gone through this process in the previous term of office – we did it in relation to St Bernard's. We have to consult with the two headteachers and senior management staff of each school, relating 1385 to the specific needs – identification of rooms, requirements, number of children – before the actual planning and design can be carried out.

In relation to St Bernard's, that process extended for a considerable amount of time: the actual building, I seem to recall, was in the order of something like 18 months.

We also had the same experience with the University project, and again a significant amount 1390 of preparatory work was done, and that project, in terms of building itself, was completed in seven months. So, even though there was a short time available at the end, the project was successfully completed for inauguration and opening in September 2015 – as with the two new schools.

1395 There have already been meetings with senior management staff. The schools' senior management staff are also in the process of consulting other staff members in relation to the specific needs – all of that needs to be collated. We have a project manager actively working on this as we speak, so whenever that process is completed then the actual start of the construction, or whatever works need to be carried out, will be done.

1400 But as I have already indicated, we do envisage that that process which needs to be done, and needs to be done comprehensively and properly, in order for the construction phase to be done in the way that it has to be done ... and once all that is carried out, then we will begin construction with every intention, as I have indicated, of completing the projects and fulfilling our manifesto commitments within this term of office.

1405 Hon. E J Phillips: Just building on one of the points that the Minister made in relation to the schools, clearly in relation to the University and St Bernard's you were dealing, effectively, with a vacant building or a site on which to build up, in terms of the University. Insofar as Bayside is concerned, you have 1,000 students and the other schools will be occupied during the building works – we assume, certainly on this side of the House. Therefore, that will understandably take
