(i) Confirmation of Minutes. The Minutes of the last meeting of Parliament which was held on 22nd November, 5th and 6th December 2017.

Mr Speaker: May I sign the minutes as correct? (Members: Aye.)

Mr Speaker signed the Minutes.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE CHAIR

Congratulations to Sir Joe Bossano KCMG MP on receiving knighthood from Her Majesty the Queen

Clerk: (ii) Communications from the Chair.

10

Mr Speaker: This item on the Agenda affords me the opportunity to pull rank. Moreover, the fact that I was first elected to this House on the same day as the Hon. Sir Joseph Bossano, back in 1972, perhaps also makes it appropriate that I should be the first one to congratulate the hon. Member today.

15

By any yardstick, an unbroken period of public service of 45½ years and still going strong is a remarkable achievement and throughout that time, the hon. Member has always fought Gibraltar's corner without fear or favour.

I am delighted that his well-deserved knighthood can also be enjoyed by his wife, now Lady Rose Bossano, who has been a pillar of strength for him.

My sincere and heartfelt congratulations to the hon. Member and to Lady Rose. (Banging on desks)

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if you have known him for 45-plus years, you know that Joe Bossano is the hardest taskmaster that there is in Gibraltar politics. If you do nothing, Mr Speaker, in your life, you will do nothing wrong – except of course that it is wrong to do nothing.

If you do things, Mr Speaker, especially if you do a lot, it is likely that amongst all the good that you have done, you may also do something which is not entirely to the pleasure of all those 30 around you and Joe Bossano, Mr Speaker – Sir Joe Bossano KCMG MP, (Interjection by Mr Speaker and laughter) as I believe his name will now feature in the Hansard of these proceedings, has done a lot for this community, Mr Speaker. He has done perhaps more than most for this community.

He has, therefore, in my view, Mr Speaker, rightly earned the respect of most, if not all in our 35 community. And he has delivered more than most for this community. He is also therefore, necessarily incurred the displeasure of some, when he has thought it necessary or appropriate in the public interest of Gibraltar to do so, and quite right too, Mr Speaker.

He has been the person who has most developed in the public consciousness of Gibraltarians the doctrine that the right of self-determination is acquired through the attainment first of the 40 self-sufficiency of a people.

Mr Speaker, he is a man who has led on issues of union rights, he is a man who has led on issues of human rights and of course he was the man who in great measure led the battle on parity.

He led us through a difficult period when the Ministry of Defence was withdrawing the amount of spending it made in the Gibraltar economy. He transformed Gibraltarians into a 45 community of home owners. He introduced the concept of the mandatory scholarship for undergraduates and I can tell hon. Members in this House and in the community at large that when the time came to have the debate to prepare the manifesto for the 2011 General Election, it was him leading the argument that we should introduce mandatory scholarships also for 50 postgraduates in today's economy.

He led on the concept of reclamation to gain land from the sea and to be able to extend further our community. And of course, one of the incarnations of which he is proudest is Community Care: a charity that every quarter has a positive effect on the lives of so many of his fellow Gibraltarians. I will not say 'fellow pensioners', Mr Speaker; I will just stick to 'fellow 55 Gibraltarians'.

But going back a little further and perhaps in terms of the most apposite today, Mr Speaker, this is a man who led in respect of the various processes that required opposition from Gibraltar. Whether it was the Strasbourg process, the Lisbon process or the Brussels process and the 60 bilateralism linked to the United Nations resolutions that saw the transfer of the Gibraltar sovereignty into Spain, they found a rock of opposition in Sir Joe Bossano from the mid-1970s, when the attempts began to try to suck Gibraltar into those processes.

Then as Chief Minister, Joe Bossano, as he then was, led the return of Gibraltar to the United Nations. Mr Speaker, that return continued unabated whilst Joe Bossano was in Government; it continued whilst hon. Members were in Government, except for this agreement between us as 65 to attendance at the C24 after 2006.

Joe Bossano continued whilst he was in opposition, funding the trips out of his own pocket because he thought it in the interest of Gibraltar to turn up at New York every year on two occasions and to go to the UN seminar wherever that might be held in the Pacific or in the Caribbean, where he is recognised by the secretariat of the United Nations as an authority on 70 the right of self-determination of the people of the non-self-governing territories.

Mr Speaker, I should add that in respect of the latter, in respect of the seminar, they paid his way for some time because they wanted him involved in those deliberations of theirs.

Mr Speaker, therefore, in the context of all of that and all of the things that Joe Bossano has done which I cannot reflect just in the moments that we have here as we begin our 75 parliamentary session, in the things that I have written about the merit of this award since it was made, those who know Joe Bossano know everything that he has done and anybody who studies the history of Gibraltar will realise the impact of the return to Gibraltar of Joe Bossano in 1972 and the effect it has had on the plans some others might have had for the future of this community.

80 Therefore in the grant of this honour, Her Majesty the Queen has not just rightly recognised somebody who I think the whole community is proud to see take a knighthood, but I see personally huge vindication of the legitimacy of the stands that Joe Bossano has taken since 1972 and vindication, if I may say so, for all those of us who have stood with him and I do not just mean for election, but who have stood with him in respect of the defence of the principles 85 that he has espoused, in respect of the policies that he has espoused and in respect of the politics that he has represented and represents.

If I may say so with respect, Mr Speaker, I will say proudly that in my view, and I believe it is the view of all his Government colleagues, no one in the modern era has done more for Gibraltar to remain British than Joe Bossano – sometimes even in the face of the British, and I think that is 90 the most important part of the contribution that Joe Bossano has brought to the modern history of Gibraltar. In our view therefore, Mr Speaker, Her Majesty could have chosen no better knight to continue to guard against any erosion of her unhindered dominion over British Gibraltar.

But I do think, Mr Speaker, that Sir Joe Bossano will be no silent knight. I do not expect that he is going to keep his views to himself, now that he has been knighted, in a way that others 95 might think was more appropriate. I think that this vindication, this recognition is simply going to spur him on to do more and that is exactly the effect that those of us who believe in him would want to see.

Joe Bossano, Mr Speaker, I think has still got a lot to do. He represents a part of the past modern history of Gibraltar, he represents the present and I think he also represents a huge part 100 of the future. He hates it when anybody gets up and says something nice about him. Imagine how much he must be hating the fact that we are all saying things about the fact that he has been honoured by Her Majesty herself! It must be embarrassing indeed to be lauded in your own presence, but it is a sign of his longevity that he is lauded whilst he is still a Member of this Parliament and still very active. It is a recognition of what he still has to contribute.

105 I say to the House today that the Government will, at the appropriate time, be moving a motion to bestow, with the support I hope of the whole House, the Freedom of the City of Gibraltar on Sir Joe also, now that Her Majesty has recognised his contribution as well. We think on this side of the House that it is important that the recognition of the people of Gibraltar in the way that the people of Gibraltar bestow that recognition also be considered.

110 Now, I suppose he will have to declare a conflict of interest and not vote on that motion, but it will be the best way of reflecting the requited love of the people of the Rock who he loves so much. Mr Speaker, he is to all of us an inspiration and a mentor. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

115 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, may we on this side of the House echo the sentiments expressed by Mr Speaker and the Hon. the Chief Minister and congratulate Sir Joe and indeed Lady Bossano and his extended family for this great honour that has been bestowed on Sir Joe.

120 Clearly the Chief Minister has set out the background to the honour insofar as Sir Joe's commitment – the commitment of the Father of the House to Gibraltar – and unquestionably 45 years of politics is certainly an unquestionable commitment to Gibraltar, despite where we sit on this side of the House.

125 There are many areas on which there has been disagreement over the many, many years between Sir Joe and his opposite numbers on this side of the House, and when he was sat on this side of the House, but clearly that is not for today. Today is to warmly and genuinely congratulate Sir Joe on his honour and also to remind our community of the work that he did together with others, in relation to our transition from an MOD-based economy to part of what it is today, together with others that led after him.

130 It is also true that we are reminded of his efforts and his work in relation to parity. And most importantly for me in fact is that most Members in this House of course are beneficiaries of the mandatory scholarship and the work that Sir Joe has done in relation to education and the development of opportunity for young people in our jurisdiction. I think many in this community, if not all of us that have been the beneficiaries of that, owe him a great debt insofar as the work he has done to develop opportunity for young people.

135 Although we may disagree moving forward and I think Sir Joe and I have had various debates on the question of how we increase opportunity and offer better opportunity to those in our community moving forward, it is right to recognise the hard work that Sir Joe has done in relation to mandatory scholarships, together of course in creating a nation of home owners, which I think is again an achievement that he should duly be recognised for.

140 What we say in this House, certainly on this side, is that we warmly congratulate him on this great honour and that for Lady Bossano. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Dr Joseph Garcia.

145 Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Mr Speaker, I would also like to if I may, to congratulate my friend and colleague, Sir Joe Bossano on the award of this honour by Her Majesty the Queen.

As you have rightly said, from 1972 until 2018 having the confidence of the electorate and of your fellow countrymen in election after election and being elected to this Parliament and to the House of Assembly before it for such a long period of time, is a record for Gibraltar and 45 years is the longest period of time that anybody has been elected to any of our institutions. That is a truly remarkable achievement.

150 I think one trait that Sir Joe has always shown is that his expositions and has taken positions on principle and not on their popularity, and that has continued throughout the years and it continues indeed to this day.

The analysis I recall he made at the time of the Brussels Agreement, of the Lisbon Agreement, at a time when people were taking different views on it, have been borne out in the fullness of time. It has been shown that the analysis that he made after these agreements were struck was actually the correct analysis and these views are now widely shared by everyone, even by those who opposed and who took a different opinion at that moment in time.

160 In 1965 he started with the pro-integration movement and since those days until today I think, Joe is still a revolutionary at heart, somebody who has never sought honours for himself and who probably finds, as the Chief Minister has rightly said, this whole process of congratulations uncomfortable and embarrassing.

165 The reality is that he deserves nothing less. He has been an ardent exponent of the Gibraltarian identity; he has contributed to its development significantly; the establishment of National Day in the early 1990s; his defence of Gibraltar at the United Nations – all that adds to the record that he has created in defending this community locally and abroad and in advocating our right to self-determination and our equal determination to reject the Spanish claim.

170 So it is, Mr Speaker, a very well deserved honour. It is an honour for him, for Lady Rose, for this House and indeed for our country as a whole. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Daniel Feetham.

175 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am delighted to be able to rise and to add my own voice to the voice of the Chief Minister, the Deputy Chief Minister and the Leader of the Opposition in congratulating Sir Joe and also Lady Rose on what is by any measure, in my view, a well-deserved and indeed a belated honour that should have been bestowed on the hon. Gentleman a long, long time ago.

180 It is a great privilege and also it is a great honour to represent this community and also to do what he has done, which is to lead this community for eight years in what has been a career spanning 45 years. But it is also phenomenally difficult as well to be a leader of this community and indeed to represent this community, even though it is a great privilege. The size of Gibraltar, 185 the closeness with the electorate, it bring with it dynamics that make it at times very difficult indeed.

There is one quality which the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister alluded to which I have always admired in the hon. Gentleman, and that is that he makes and he also defends decisions, however unpopular those decisions may be, but he takes them out of principle. In my view, that is something that our electorate expect out of its politicians. It is something that our electorate 190 respect in its politicians and you do not have to agree with the decisions that people take, but you do respect the fact that people do make, as the hon. Gentleman does, decisions out of principle.

As he knows, because he knows that even though I am one of the fallen – one of the fallen! - that I came to Gibraltar in order to follow him. He knows that. Things did not work out, but that is the reality of the situation. I have spent the last 17 years opposing him! (Laughter) But I did 195 come back in order to follow him.

There are two principles that he has always adhered to that I have, in my own political career and indeed as Leader of the Opposition, sought to weave into my own political discourse, out of conviction, and that is firstly the resolution to be resolute in the defence of our homeland; but 200 secondly, that in order to be resolute in defence of our homeland in the long run, you must also be able, in a community like Gibraltar, to be able to say no to people when that is justified, to live within your means, to make sure that you save for future generations, and to make sure that you have an overriding duty to protect the standard of living not only for working class people, but indeed for everybody in Gibraltar today but also tomorrow too; and that that part of that 205 Gibraltarian way of life that you are protecting is also protection against outside pressure from Spain, from the United Kingdom. It is terribly important that we live within our means, that we always have sight of those kinds of issues because they are – in my respectful view and I have always understood it, that is also his discourse – inextricably wound up.

I have to say, Mr Speaker, that although I have spent 17 years opposing the hon. Gentleman, 210 I am proud that my family has always and will always be linked with the hon. Gentleman and stood shoulder to shoulder with him right up to the end of the 1990s, when my father resigned from politics. I have absolutely no hesitation in adding my voice to congratulate the hon.
Member. (Banging on desks)

215 Mr Speaker: The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I rise from this corner of the House to congratulate the hon. Gentleman. We have not always agreed on much, but I suppose that maybe we can 220 agree on the fact, coming from a political family, that politics takes its toll on the family as much as on the politician himself or herself.

So I take this opportunity to wish congratulations to Sir Joe and his entire family on this knighthood.

Thank you. (Banging on desks)

225 Mr Speaker: The Hon. Neil Costa.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I think it is the very first time ever that I stand in this House to congratulate and to speak on the merits of a particular 230 person. I think that it is in the character of Sir Joe that he should be a living legend today in our politics.

I remember, Mr Speaker, in St Anne's, when in 1987 the class was asked as to whom parents would vote and every single person in that class – and there are other persons in this building today, who were also part of that class – who held up their hands to say that they would be voting for Sir Joe and his team. It is incontrovertible, Mr Speaker, that Gibraltar underwent a transformation during those eight years, in terms of the mandatory grants where students who wanted to go to university and who may not have obtained three As nonetheless went. I thought that was transformative.

I think the fact that there was so much reclamation and co-ownership and affordable homes built for the community, that was transformative, Mr Speaker, and also of course as has been mentioned, the tenacious defence of Gibraltar's interests abroad in foreign affairs. Very few people will also doubt that Joe was also transformative and fearless in the way that he defended Gibraltar.

Mr Speaker, Sir Joe for me has always been an inspiration and certainly a guiding light. I do not think I have ever told him this, but I in fact was drawn to politics when I was in St Anne's because of his programme, because of his politics. Every day he has served as a true inspiration for me. He always has time for me to provide guidance and to provide advice.

He has been a tireless and fearless promoter I think of all of us on this side of the House, always ready to help, always ready to provide advice, always ready to be painfully honest when required and, Mr Speaker, from the bottom of my heart I wish to sincerely thank Sir Joe and Lady Rose. I think that it is most certainly a most well-deserved and richly deserved honour and I could think of no-one better to be knighted than Sir Joe Bossano. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Lawrence Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, from the other corner of the House, I would like to congratulate Sir Joe Bossano and his family and anybody who supports the last 45 years in which he has been serving this community.

For my part, having served this community for just two years, knowing what it entails, the endurance that Sir Joe has had over the last 40 years is admirable and I congratulate him.

Thank you very much. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Dr John Cortes.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I had the honour and pleasure of serving with the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano when he was Chief Minister. I was the General Manager of St Bernard's Hospital at the time and we achieved great things then.

I also had the honour and pleasure of working with Lady Rose Bossano when she was a union representative. We developed an excellent working relationship and took the health service very far and completely converted the old health service at the time, back in the late 1980s, and gave it another boost of life, which we then took on again when we were elected more recently.

Apart from that, Mr Speaker, I do not know whether other people are aware that it was in the Government of Sir Joe Bossano that the first Minister for the Environment and the first Ministry of the Environment was created.

It was during his time and because of his vision and his commitment to the environment that the Botanic Gardens were created, that the Nature Reserve was created, that nature conservation legislation was created. So that Sir Joe Bossano had a profound effect on my own life personally and I owe him much of my development since then, but also to the environment and the governance of the environment in Gibraltar.

I am not going to repeat everything that has already been said that I totally agree with, but I thought I had to add my own personal congratulations. We go back a long, long time and I never thought at the time that I would have the honour and pleasure of serving with him as a Minister in the Government.

285 So, my own personal congratulations to Sir Joe, Lady Rose and all the family, who I know very well. (Banging on desks)

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I too wish to add my congratulations to Sir Joe because, Mr Speaker, I think I have known Sir Joe since the day I was born. Mr Speaker, I was born in the same year that Sir Joe founded the GSLP and I am a 290 third generation member of the party that he created. It is therefore, no surprise, Mr Speaker as to why all my life I have looked up to Sir Joe Bossano, particularly because of his socialist principles that he has enshrined throughout his life and in Gibraltar.

Mr Speaker, I have to have particular gratitude to Sir Joe because I am one of those in the generation of Gibraltar that we have to be particularly grateful to the visionary policies that 295 were introduced in the late 1980s and the early 1990s such as the grants that were given to students, Mr Speaker. I and people of my generation are examples of the success of the policies of Sir Joe Bossano's Government at the time.

Mr Speaker, we all know that Sir Joe's principles and steadfast ideals are unquestionable and it is always about having Gibraltar and the best for Gibraltar and Gibraltar citizens in his heart. I 300 frequently refer to Sir Joe as my role model and as a legend, and I know that he hates it when I say it but it is true, Mr Speaker: you cannot help but feel like that with someone who has been a very close family friend all my life.

I therefore wish to also extend congratulations to Sir Joe, to Lady Rose and all of the family.
(Banging on desks)

305 Mr Speaker: Perhaps for the sake of the accuracy of Hansard, I should have said that that was the Hon. Samantha Sacramento.

The Hon. Albert Isola.

310 Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, Sir Joe is probably having the worst time in Parliament in 45 years this afternoon, but I think it is absolutely right and proper that we should be airing our thoughts on an individual whose contribution to Gibraltar, as the Chief Minister has said before, I think is unprecedented.

It is impossible in the time that we have today to begin to list each of the things that he has 315 been involved in, whether it is defence of our community, whether it is in relation to our health services, our housing, our education, our business community and indeed our economy. Because in each of those areas that I have mentioned, his contribution and the work that he did between 1988 and 1996 is absolutely critical and crucial to the success that we enjoy today.

Because what he did in those years was do what was joked by Members on the other side of 320 the House as, 'Oh yes, so Joe Bossano is going to deliver an economic miracle!' The truth is, he actually did. Because what he did in those eight years in the transformation from the MOD to a private sector based economy was an absolute economic miracle. And the success that we have enjoyed since then can be traced and tracked very simply back to the work that was done in that time.

325 A few of the speakers today have talked about his vision and I think that is absolutely right. When you rewind the clock to 1990 and you imagine a socialist Chief Minister of Gibraltar engaging with a professional accounting firm, like KPMG I think it was at the time, who were instructed by Joe – (Interjection) PWC my apologies – who were instructed by the Chief Minister at the time to do a review of our entire financial services product range to see how they could 330 be improved, to see how they could be adapted and made more fit for purpose at the time, the first and only time it has ever happened. And those same products today are still being used by our professionals every day of the week. That is the sort of vision that Sir Joe has brought to Gibraltar and to this Parliament and that is which we should be applauding.

335 But there is another side to the man which we all know and love. Every single time that Sir Joe has stood in an election in Gibraltar in the 45 years that he has been, whatever the result the day after the election, he has gone back to thank the people in all the estates that voted for him. You would say that is clever politics: it could be, but to do it every time you have lost an election, to still go back to the people and thank them for trusting you with their vote, is 340 something that I have never, ever seen before and I am delighted that this party, under our current Chief Minister's tenure, is continuing with that programme in thanking people for their support the morning after an exhausting night, when people have voted for you at the election.
That tells you a little bit about the principles-based individual that Sir Joe is and has led by example for all these years of service.

345 Mr Speaker, when I heard the news of the appointment, I was absolutely overjoyed and what struck me most was that many of my friends who have not voted for him every time that he stood for election like I have said to me was that they too were delighted, because even they recognise the contribution, not just to Gibraltar but its structure; its fundamental base of success in its economy is down to Sir Joe. Even they, those who have not voted for him, fully agree that this honour is necessary and very, very richly deserved.

350 I have had the benefit of working with Joe within this party since 1987-88 but of course as a young child when Sir Joe would come home to my house in Bell Lane, in the days of the IWBP, I had the pleasure as a younger child of having spent many, many fantastic hours listening and learning from this wonderful Gibraltarian.

355 So it is with huge pleasure that I congratulate Sir Joe, Lady Rose and the family on an honour that is absolutely deserved and I am delighted to be a part of the Parliament that is here to greet him.

Thank you. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Paul Balban.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I cannot remain seated and not contribute and therefore also I wish to associate myself with the comments made here today.

365 I have had the privilege of sitting at the left hand of this man, the Father of the House, for six years; now giving me also a great opportunity to share time with him and to discuss matters while I sat behind him. A man who, love him or not, agree with him or not, you cannot fail to recognise what he has done for Gibraltar and its people. His beliefs and his actions have been purely dictated by what in his mind he felt was best for Gibraltar and its people, and he has stood by this regardless as a man of principle.

370 I have many things to thank Sir Joe for, not least his work on the Government's mandatory scholarships for all, which allowed me to gain an education and countless others in Gibraltar. His addictive attraction to the youth and its work with them is something quite remarkable and special.

375 I see countless young people run up to him to greet him or simply shout out his name, 'Joe,
Joe', and I have been present when this has happened and you can see the immense pride within him every time that happens.

380 Only yesterday I was given a photo of him taken at this year's New Year's bash standing with my eldest daughter, the same daughter who clung to him just a few years ago now, thinking that he was Father Christmas – but if not Father Christmas himself, she was already thinking that there was something very special in him.

Sir Joe is synonymous with Gibraltar. I wish to congratulate him for his work and his wife, Lady Rose for her years of support. I am sure that she would love me to say that clearly behind a great man, there is a greater woman.

Congratulations, Sir Joe. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, the Members of this House I think have already said a great deal about the qualities and virtues of Sir Joe. I alas have only known him in active politics for the last two years. But I can say, Mr Speaker, from my heart, that it has certainly been an experience (Laughter) and in every exchange that we have had across the floor I certainly do learn something new each time. I think just for that, Mr Speaker, I thank Sir Joe for his contribution to politics.

He said recently, I think in a Chronicle interview, that he felt that if in Gibraltar and in politics you could make a contribution you should do so. I think, Mr Speaker, he has certainly done so – 45 years' worth of doing exactly that. I do know he is a man of conviction, a man of principle and I salute him for that, and I think the people of Gibraltar also salute him for that.

Thank you, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Steven Linares.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, in honouring Sir Joe, I can say that when I returned from the UK in 1987 to become a young teacher, one of the things that I did was join the union and join the GSLP. I was a member of the GSLP for a long time and during the time that I was in the union, one thing that I remember when I was negotiating with him, Juan Carlos and Joe Moss, one of the things that were very clear to me was that if you made your case, whatever the case, and you made your arguments, then you would be listened to and they were implemented. That was Joe Bossano who at the back used to say, 'If you can justify why you should get things, you will get them'.

Due to differences that we had, I presented myself in 1996 and lost my deposit and there was a change of Government. But in the year 2000, when the Liberal Party and the GSLP got together, one thing that I asked Joe Garcia to say to Joe Bossano was, 'Look, I have been very much of an opposition against the GSLP in many cases. How do you feel now that I present myself with you?' I can tell you, there was not a shadow of doubt because Sir Joe actually realised that I was defending the teachers and that what was I was doing was as a matter of principle, and that is why he used to agree with these things.

After that, from the year 2000, I sat on that side in the Opposition because that is when the GSLP Liberals were in Opposition as an alliance, and I can tell you that the experience, the wise advice that I used to get from Joe Bossano in helping me draft questions, in helping me deal with the issues at the time is immense. I could not have had a better person helping me draft questions and getting statistics, which he used to love me to get from the utilities, whether the utilities were ... how many units things were costing and all that.

But it is a learning curve. Whatever I know now about politics and whatever I know now about this House is thanks to Sir Joe. He has given me a vision and that is why it is very easy for me to be on this side and to be serving in a Government with Sir Joe.

So, Sir Joe, thank you very much for helping me and I think you really deserve what you have got and also Lady Rose, I would also like to congratulate her.

Thank you very much. (Banging on desks)

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I do not rise simply to continue to the misery that Sir Joe must be enduring or indeed to –

Mr Speaker: Let me say for the record of Hansard, the Hon. Trevor Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: – or indeed because I do not want to be the only one in this House not to rise and say something in terms of congratulating Sir Joe, and indeed I do congratulate Sir Joe. In the two years that I have now spent in this House, I have learned to appreciate a very different side to Sir Joe that I was not aware existed prior to entering this House and that is a side that represents a man who dearly loves politics. I will not say loves politicians, but whether 440 you are with him or against him, he has a deep respect for what you do and say. That is always very evident in interactions both in this House and indeed outside of this House.

So in that regard I think the honour is wholeheartedly deserved. The surprise for me was not so much that the honour was extended to Sir Joe, but that he accepted. (Laughter) But there you go! (Interjection)

445 So Sir Joe and all your family, congratulations. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: On this historic day, 18/1/18 – again I am pulling rank – something that I forgot, really, is that Members have mentioned the extent to which the hon. Member was responsible for improvements in various areas of public administration.

450 I recall how from 1972 to 1980 with his questions from that side, from the Opposition, he influenced the work of a young Minister for Labour and Social Security who adopted measures like legislation against unfair dismissal, linking the level of old age pensions to average earnings. Those were matters which, from where the hon. Lady is sitting, he urged me to adopt and I was very happy to do so. A lot of the credit is due to him in that respect as well. (Banging on desks)

455 And last but by no means least, the Hon. Edwin Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker, sir.

It is indeed a real personal pleasure for me to be able to stand up today and round up and re-echo, and re-echo the ... what is it the 15 or 16 ...? (Interjection) Yes, the congratulatory 460 messages towards Sir Joe.

Sir Joe and I, I do not know if he remembers or not, actually first came into contact in a formal situation way back in 1973. I had just left school and was working as an extremely young civil servant at the time and I had joined the GGCA union. Sir Joe was considered as a walking legend already back in 1973. They were the early, early days of the fight for parity and Joe 465 Bossano sat there in his right as a branch officer of the TGWU and certainly we all looked forward, like my colleagues have said, to the inspiration that Joe gave. He always came across as an extremely fair person, he came across as someone who would never be afraid to call a spade a spade and when he had to put someone in their place, he did it with a decorum and a smile that only Sir Joe could have done.

470 I know he has done it in this House (Laughter) for the last 45 years, and in the 10 years that I have sat in this House, Joe and I have never coincided on the same side, we have been on one side or the other, but certainly I welcome the way that he has encouraged Ministers to work, like Mr Speaker has just said, the way that he can advise you behind the Speaker's Chair and above all, his frankness and his love for Gibraltar and all things Gibraltarian is what will always remain 475 in my heart.

Congratulations, Sir Joe, for many more years to come. (Banging on desks)

Clerk: We now carry on: (iii) Petitions; (iv) Announcements; (v) Papers to be laid.

480 Mr Speaker: For the first time in this Parliament (Laughter), the Hon. Sir Joseph Bossano.

Members: Hear, hear! (Banging on desks)

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): I do not know whether I have earned the honour in the last 45 years, Mr Speaker, but 485 I have certainly earned it in the last 45 minutes! (Laughter)

I can understand the surprise that I have been persuaded to accept the honour because I do not believe in honours. That is to say I am a socialist and we socialists believe that a better world can be created, one in which there is not a hierarchy.

490 But clearly I was wrong because the reaction has been that I have made more people happy by saying a three-letter word in five minutes than I have done in 45 years for all the other things put together because the response to the information that came out, the news that came out in the New Year, has been quite astonishing, I have to say.

I knew that those close to me who had been urging me to accept this for many years would 495 be happy that I had finally relented. It is not very often that people change my mind! But certainly I did not expect that almost every sector in Gibraltar and every person that I have known either as a friend or a foe would be so happy to see it happening.

I think it is good that it should be so, because when the whole of our community celebrates something, we do something that is the envy of the rest of the world, when we all share in 500 something and we see it as a collective good.

You know we always see that every year on National Day. On National Day we put our differences on one side and we are one people and I think when we are like that about an individual, if it happens to be the misfortune that on this occasion it is me, (Laughter) that what is happening is a good thing.

505 So I would like to thank everybody, Members of the House, my colleagues here, my family in the GSLP and my biological family, and everybody that has written to me or e-mailed or texted me. I am still in the process of answering each one individually, it reduces my efficiency of and productivity but I have to do it! (Laughter)

I think that there are two important messages that I would like to take this opportunity to 510 give for the benefit of Gibraltar and for the benefit of my colleagues in Parliament, whose responsibility it is to lead the people of Gibraltar in the problems that we face in the future like we have faced in the past.

I think the importance of economic self-sufficiency in our case is greater than in any other community because we have got somebody on our doorstep who is several thousand times 515 bigger than us that wants to take us over against our will. Therefore, economic strength is not just something desirable; it is something essential for our survival.

We are not in a position to be able to say no to the UK, no to Spain and no to the UN if we are not in a position to pay our way. That is why it is so important to be prudent in the use of money and to be putting money away for the future. You know, the rainy day fund now has got 520 universal acceptance – well, it used to be derided as a joke in 1996!

It is easier for politicians to do things that are popular with the money rather than to leave it as I did for somebody else to use it to be popular with the money I left him, which is what happened. (Laughter) And that meant that you are tempted to say, 'Well, I am not going to 525 make the same mistake twice.' Well look, my advice to my colleagues is well we have to make the same mistake again, even if the same thing happens again in the future, because it is the right thing to do.

It is the right thing to do that when we have got an opportunity to have more money than we need to spend, that that money should be there for the time when we may not have more money than we need to spend, and there is therefore a strength in having that money there.

530 The thing that has got mentioned less but in fact what was then the rainy day fund has now become the standard for anybody that creates a sovereign fund because whatever is the source of their revenue there is a surplus and they do not spend the surplus. They do not give it away back to taxpayers. They actually put it away in order to provide a safeguard.

In the world in which we live, independent of our own particular problem, today, in my 45
535 years of experience, I have to say the level of uncertainty in the world is something that I have not seen before in the whole of the 45 years. I think the level of uncertainty on a global scale is unparalleled and it is the first time that that level is happening since 1945, since the end of the war when the European countries decided that they should work to have a permanent peace time, which has only been broken occasionally in different geographical spots.

540 But what we are seeing also is a reaction against the establishment almost everywhere. That is a myth that I do not object to. (Laughter) But the way that that reaction is manifesting itself is 545 very dangerous because the reaction against the establishment is a reaction that is leading to people that instead of being people who seem to be capable of improving on the performance of the establishment, in many cases – in the case of the United States – that is now a scenario that the most powerful nation in the world is being led in a direction which changes almost on an hourly basis, never mind from one day to the next.

550 We cannot escape what happens in the world. The nature of the global economy is such that every day that globalisation is reaching deeper and deeper into every corner of life. We have to position ourselves wherever the future is going to be. The essence of success is to make a judgement – an intelligent judgement based on a logical analysis of where the world is going to be in x years and be there when that happens and be ahead of the rest.

555 That is part of the responsibility you have in Government. That sometimes makes it difficult for the people in the Opposition who may not understand where it is that you are heading for in what you are doing today. But again, in the case of Gibraltar we have to do that on the basis that there is somebody a few yards away from us that does not want us to succeed and therefore, planning for success requires us to do it so that when things are dried and signed is when we then can have the luxury of making them public because otherwise, they might never happen.

560 I believe that one of the most important things that has happened since the entire process of the attempted handover of Gibraltar to Spain which is what we have been subjected to in this Parliament almost since 1972 – certainly it is was not as clear in 1972, but it became very clear post-1975. But already in 1972 I think the transition was being seen in Spain. The days of the dictatorship were numbered and the position in the United Kingdom was changing, not in the political sphere in the people in Whitehall, that a Spain that had a democratic government should receive greater reception to its aspirations over Gibraltar than a dictatorship had.

565 As far as we are concerned in Gibraltar whether there is ... I often used to say if there were to be a socialist republic in Spain and a Conservative government in the United Kingdom, I have no doubt where I would want to be: as a socialist with a Conservative government in London and not with a socialist government in Spain.

570 Governments change. You cannot put the destiny of a country and its people simply because a particular government be there at a particular point in time because you do not know. We have seen how the things in the Córdoba Agreement that the previous Government genuinely believed could not be cherry-picked, they did not just pick a cherry; they picked the whole tree when they came in! Therefore, we know that we need to learn from those lessons when we take decisions for the future.

575 But for me there are some very important things about the situation we have today and one of the most important is that we have got a situation where we agree on both sides of the House of the need to be prudential in the use of money and put money away for the future. The rainy day fund is now a position that Members on that side take as well as we do and as important for the security of our country.

580 And we both agree that there is no future in the bilateral Brussels process which for many years only the GSLP was the entity that attacked Brussels when other people were defending it, Mr Speaker. I know that the position of the AACR was not one that was particularly popular within the AACR, but one that the leadership of the AACR at the time felt that it was and said so publicly. The best that could be obtained in the circumstances was what was agreed in Brussels and the same was true of the airport deal which is now being revived again by Spain.

585 So, we are now back with Spain thinking that it has the upper hand, as it has thought so many other times in our history and it is up to us – not just the Government, but we the 17 representatives of the people of Gibraltar – it is up to us to make sure that we fight shoulder to shoulder to defeat Spanish aspirations for Gibraltar.

590 And of course as I am the Knight Commander for the Queen (Laughter) I would expect every man and woman in this House to do their duty! (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: After those 17 communications from the Chair (Laughter) we can move on.

PAPERS TO BE LAID

Clerk: (vi) Papers to be laid – the Hon. the Chief Minister.

595 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, can I thank you on behalf of the whole House for your indulgence in respect of Communications from the Chair.

Can I reflect that it is probably the first time in the history of his presence in this House that Joe Bossano comes to a Parliament where the Opposition come to praise him and not to bury him, (Laughter) and can I beg your forgiveness for the disclosure by Neil Costa that in 1987 there was a plot at St Anne's School to vote for Joe Bossano and not for Adolfo Canepa. (Interjection by Mr Speaker and laughter)

600 To take a leaf out of the things that Paul Balban said, Mr Speaker, I rise from the right hand of the Father with the honour to lay on the table the Consolidated Fund (Supplementary Funding) Statement (No. 1) 2015-16, the Consolidated Fund (Reallocation) Statement (No. 2) 2015-16, the Improvement and Development Fund (Reallocation) Statement (No. 1) 2015-16 and the Annual Report of the Gibraltar Police Authority for the year ended 31st March 2017.

Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

Questions for Oral Answer

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, TELECOMMUNICATIONS AND THE GSB

Q1/2018

Chinese trade mission –
Tangible outcomes

610 Clerk: We now move to Answers to Oral Questions. We commence with Question 1/2018. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton Mr Speaker, can the Government advise if there have been any tangible outcomes from the four-day Chinese trade mission to Gibraltar in November 2017?

615 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

620 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Yes, Mr Speaker.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, would the Hon. Minister care to share with the House what those tangible outcomes might be – whether there are any inward investments or any particular business lines that the Government are looking to develop with the Chinese?

625 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: No, Mr Speaker.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, seeing as the Minister is not willing to share with the House any of the tangible outcomes, may I ask perhaps if he could tell the House who paid for the visit?

630 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, I am not prepared to share any tangible outcomes because in fact I am following his advice, which is also my view, that we should not make announcements until they are signed, sealed and ready to be delivered. That is what he said we should do and that is what I am doing, although I would have done it even if he had not advised it.

635 The visit was funded by the Embassy in London, except for what was provided here in terms of receptions or the accommodation and that kind of thing. They paid their own fares to Gibraltar and we looked after them while they were here, which is the normal thing that happens in situations like this.

640 I can tell him that I will be staying a day in London during our visit next week and I can tell him that I will be having meetings in London with both the China Development Bank and the Bank of China, so that shows that something is happening.

Q2-5/2018

Public debt, liquid reserves and General Sinking Fund balance – Figures as at 1st October 2017

Clerk: Question 2. The Hon. R M Clinton.

645 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please provide the total gross debt, aggregate debt after application of Sinking Fund to gross debt, cash reserves and net debt figures for public debt for the following date, being 1st October 2017?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

650 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 3 to 5.

Clerk: Question 3. The Hon. R M Clinton.

655 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please advise the total liquid reserves figure and its constituents, namely Consolidated Fund, Improvement and Development Fund, Government-owned companies, deposits, contingencies and other funds for the following date, being 1st October 2017?

660 Clerk: Question 4. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please advise how total liquid reserves are invested/held, giving details of all savings bank accounts and cash held for the following date, being 1st October 2017?

665 Clerk: Question 5. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise the balance on the General Sinking Fund at 1st October 2017?

670 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

675 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, the position as regards the total liquid assets composition, when, where and how these are invested on a particular date chosen by the Member opposite continues to be as previously stated.

The figures requested for 1st October are: gross debt, £447.7 million; General Sinking Fund, £5.2 million; aggregate debt, £442.5 million; cash, £150.4 million; net debt, £292,100,000.

Q6-7/2018

Government supply workers –
Maternity leave; services provided

680 Clerk: Question 6. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, what is the Government's policy in relation to supply workers who have been covering vacant posts for over 12 months within the Civil Service, Government-owned companies or agencies and have to take themselves up to six months' maternity leave?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

690 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question with Question 7.

Clerk: Question 7. The Hon. L F Llamas.

695 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide a schedule as at 8th January 2018 relating to supply workers within the Civil Service, Government-owned companies and agencies detailing: (a) the Department/company/agency the worker is providing services for; (b) the grade/position the supply worker is covering; (c) the reasons for which the cover is required; and (d) since when the supply worker has been providing services to the Civil Service, agency or company?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

705 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, it is not possible to provide the information for the date required in the timescale of the question. If the hon. Member repeats the question for the next meeting it will be answered.

710 As regards persons employed by private sector companies and who provide relief cover, they are employed on private sector pay and conditions of employment. It is not therefore a matter of Government policy but of statutory provisions.

Mr Speaker: May I say to the hon. Member I would have no difficulty in exercising my discretion and allowing him to put the question again at the next meeting.

715 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I understand fully that obviously the employees and supply workers are employed directly by private sector companies and as such their conditions and rates of employment are as such. However, when a person is covering a vacant post within the Civil Service over 12 months they commence to acquire rights towards that post or to any other 720 vacancy which may arise within the Civil Service. Therefore, does the Government not see that perhaps there is a case of discrimination where women who are covering for these vacant posts are then having to leave to take three to six months maternity leave but then when they return from their maternity leave they go back obviously to the private company and they lose out on that right which they acquired and perhaps they might be sent to another company or agency where the right is lost?

725 Therefore, Mr Speaker, would it not be possible for the Government to look into this policy? I believe there is a case for discrimination because obviously men do not have to have babies and the vacant post continues, so it only affects a demographic of women who have to go and exercise their right of maternity leave.

730 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: I am not sure whether the hon. Member is saying that it has happened to somebody or that it is capable of happening to somebody, (Hon. Chief Minister: Absolutely.) but I am certainly not aware that it has happened to anybody and I am certainly prepared to have a look at the point he has made; I thought he was referring to the nature of the entitlement that exists amongst the workers. Certainly I am not aware that anybody was deprived of the 735 opportunity of applying for a vacancy on the basis that they were back in doing supply work but there had been an interruption in the period because of their maternity cover. If it happens, then I think he has got a point that merits examination but we will see if it is really happening or not. I do not think we would take a policy decision on something that is not happening and has not happened just because it might.

Mr Speaker: From a procedural point of view, may I advise the hon. Member there are two things that he can do: he can either write to the Hon. Minister saying 'please can I have the information in February'; or for the February meeting you can give notice of the question straight away, but for the February meeting.

CULTURE, THE MEDIA, YOUTH AND SPORT

Q8/2018

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority – Grade 9 Administrative Assistant post

745 Clerk: Question 8. The Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, further to the answer provided to Question W194/2017, can the Minister for Sport update this House in respect of the Grade 9 – that is Administrative Assistant – post, which was or is vacant within the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the vacant Grade 9 Administrative Assistant will be advertised shortly, after which the standard recruitment and selection process will be undertaken.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, this question obviously was a follow-up to the Written Question last time where the Minister in his Written Answer said that there was one vacant post, a Grade 9, which we have now heard is to be advertised shortly. Is the Minister aware, can he 760 confirm, that this is the only pending vacancy at the moment, or have there been any changes?

765 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, after the extensive review that we have had in the GSLA, which I have explained in this House before to the hon. Member, this is the last post in the managerial side of the GSLA. As the hon. Member knows, there are admin and then there are the SLOs and centre managers and all those other posts, but in the case of the management this is the last post to be advertised.

Q9/2018
GSLA indoor facilities –
Cancellations

Clerk: Question 9. The Hon. E J Reyes.

770 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Sport inform this House as to how many cancellations have been necessary at any of the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority's indoor facilities since September 2017, indicating the location, date and reason for the cancellation?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

775 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the Tercentenary Hall was closed for the Christmas and New Year events on 19th December 2017 to 3rd January 2018. The impact on sports use was minimal due to the normal diminished use because of the festive period and training allocations were not requested.

780 Additionally, the Victoria Sports Hall had been closed on Tuesday, 9th January 2018 after 3.30 p.m. due to water ingress.

785 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, in my question on Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority's indoor facilities, I took it that within that the 25-metre pool or the pool for the learning of swimming and so on should have been included. Can the Minister confirm that those have not required any closures at all?

790 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, I do not have that information, actually, but I will ask for him if the pool was closed. I guess that in the question when you say indoor facilities they have taken it as should I say the 'dry' indoor facilities, but I will check for him.

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, I am satisfied, Mr Speaker, if the Minister is going to check and if he has anything then in a follow-up session ... if he is able to present it during this session of Parliament, so much the better because then it remains in Hansard. I appreciate it.

795 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, just to say that I will be communicating with the CEO straight away after this – at least the exchanges we are having now – to find out whether the answer also includes ... i.e. that there was no closure of the pool.

Q10/2018
GSLA facilities –
Criteria for whole season bookings

Clerk: Question 10. The Hon. E J Reyes.

800 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Sport say what are the qualifying criteria in order to be able to attain a fixed booking or allocation valid for the whole season in respect of facilities falling under the auspices of the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority?

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, fixed bookings or allocations in respect of facilities are only offered to those governing bodies of sports who are registered with the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority. In addition, regulated and registered commercial entities, i.e. aerobic classes, are also allocated slots for the whole season on a rental basis.

810

Q12/2018
Garrison Gymnasium –
Policy re use

Clerk: We move to Question 12. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain the change in policy for usage of the Garrison Gymnasium, given the facility is being used but not by the whole of the sporting community?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, there has not been any change in policy regarding the usage of the Garrison Gymnasium. No GSLA facility is used by the whole of the sporting community.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, in the last session I asked about allocations to Garrison gym and there had been none. This time – well, December last year, in 2016 – the Hon. Minister did say that the Garrison gym would undertake a refurbishment which would enable the use for the sporting community. However, it seems that the Garrison gym is back up and running but no allocations have been made, and at the same time we do not have any allocations or identification of who the premises are being exclusively used by. Is the Minister able to confirm what the situation is?

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, the situation is exactly the same as I said when this question was last posed, which is that the Garrison Gymnasium is still under the auspice of the GSLA. The GSLA will give allocations to the general ... and that is why I said it is not used by the whole of the sporting community.

835

Does the hon. Member expect that every single sport is going to be using the gym? The gym will be used by those sports that might not have allocations elsewhere, so it might be two sports that use the Garrison gym as opposed to the whole of the community or the whole of the sporting fraternity. What I am saying is that the gym itself allocations... As has been the case, the 840 GSLA will be ... Because of the refurbishment, the allocations have not yet been given, but once the refurbishment is finished, allocations will be given to those sports which will be able to use the gym.

845 Hon. E J Reyes: I think I understand that, but the allocations ... Am I right then in saying that the allocations will be available to those who fall under the criteria that he answered in Question 10 – that is, as well, not only governing bodies but also registered businesses and so on? Am I correct in deducing that as well?

850 Hon. S E Linares: Yes, Mr Speaker, as has always been the case with the GSLA, the GSLA is the one that manages the allocations of these premises. So, when sporting governing bodies come and ask for an allocation, depending on the sport and depending on the places that are allocated, they are given allocations.

855 For example, I can tell you that allocations for basketball are not any more given in the Garrison gym because the Garrison gym happens to have a low ceiling and it is not the actual size of a basketball court, although there are baskets there. I remember playing basketball there and it was not the actual size of basketball, so we have other facilities which we then allocate to the basketball the GABBA to play in the Tercentenary Hall, albeit in the Victoria Sports Hall and not in the Garrison gym. But there might be other sports that might be able to use that and that is up to the GSLA to give those sports the allocation in the Garrison gym.

860 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, given that there is a sign belonging to a football club outside the gym, can the Minister confirm that the gym has not been given exclusively to one football club in particular?

865 Hon. S E Linares: No, Mr Speaker, I have just said that the gym ... What has been given to the football club that he is mentioning is just the mezzanine. I know the hon. Member knows that place really well. It is just a mezzanine of the premises, so the premises has a mezzanine and then there is the gym. That football club has taken over because we have come to an agreement that they can use the mezzanine. They have refurbished the mezzanine and therefore the mezzanine they can use as their club. The rest of the gym is still for the community, not the whole of the community but the community who are able to use it.

870 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just returning a moment to Question 10, the Hon. the Minister said commercial entities as well as sports organisations. If I give the hon. Gentleman an example he will know where I am coming from with this particular question.

875 At the Tercentenary Hall on 31st December there was an event that was for all intents and purposes an event run by the Young GSLP, where I am told in fact the Hon. the Father of the House, Sir Joe, provided a speech. If, for example, the Young GSD would wish to undertake something similar at some point, how would that be structured? Would it be structured (Interjection) by a commercial entity? How much experience does that commercial entity have to have in order to be able to book something like that? Could he give us a flavour of that, please? (Interjection)

880 Hon. S E Linares: Yes, Mr Speaker, it is very simple. If the person who is in the young youth GSD, the person, can come and approach the GSLA and say they want to do a function there, (Interjection) they can then go through the process as if it was a private entity. A private entity pays for the use of the hall, but so does the GSLP youth pay for the use of the hall; there is a fee and any private ...

890 What we cannot have is what we used to have with the previous administration, where you have private entities doing, for example, concerts in the MUGA area, the private entity making the money and taking all the profits and the GSLA being left with a bill, and the bill is the overtime of the people who have to be there, the cleaning and any damage that is done to the place. So we do not allow private entities to do events there unless they pay the fee, and the fee is to cover the costs to the GSLA. I think it is sensible that the Government does not have to subsidise private entities to use the venue and the Government subsidising and then they take their profit. That is the idea.

Hon. D A Feetham: Thank you very much and I quite understand the rationale behind it. The confusion has arisen – and we were debating it internally – because the hon. Gentleman in his original answer said ‘commercial entities’ and of course a political party is not a commercial entity. So effectively the answer is that it is open to private entities as long as they pay their way?

Hon. S E Linares: Yes, but the GSLP contracted a private entity to do it for them, so they can say ... The GSLP says, ‘I want to organise –’ (Hon. Chief Minister: A private party.) (Hon. A J Isola: A joint venture.) Yes, well, a joint venture! What happens is that there is somebody who organises it for the GSLP youth and then they come as an entity and they say, ‘Well, we want to do this for the GSLP youth.’ So it is similar to what the hon. Member has explained, yes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Just one small thing, Mr Speaker, because I know the Minister quite well and I am sure he is not trying to mislead this House or anything but perhaps it could be misinterpreted. In referring to how facilities have been used in the past, the Minister said under previous administrations private entities have used the place and it could have been deduced that the GSLA had to foot exclusively the bill for overtime and so on without having recovered those expenses from the private entity. I can testify in this House that certainly during my tenure as Minister for Sport, the CEO of the Sports Authority did include the costs of any GSLA staff that may have had to work over and above for that there. If I am wrong, then the Minister can obviously check the information, but I do not want to just accept it on a point blank basis without either of us having the real facts, having checked it up on the accounts. But I know recovery of those moneys did have to come through, and the Estimates Books in the past I believe will reflect that.

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, he is right in the sense that what entities used to do before was leave a deposit, so any private entity that used to use the premises of the GSLA, the other CEO used to say, ‘Right you put down a deposit just in case there is ...’ and it used to be only damages but the rest was not charged and what they used to have was a deposit. I think, if I remember correctly, it was in the region of £500, where the private entity used to put up front £500 and then give back to the GSLA the premises. If there were any damages, they used to deduct the damages from the £500 but there was not a regime of actual charging all the costs.

Ministerial direct allocations over £2,000 – Government website

Clerk: Question 13. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Culture confirm that all ministerial direct allocations over £2,000 appear on the Government’s website in a document entitled ‘Government Contracts GC.6 Government awarded contracts (over £2,000) by Ministerial application’?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I can confirm that all ministerial direct allocations over £2,000 on behalf of my Ministry appear on the Government's website.

If the hon. Member opposite wants to write to me with any particular contract he feels has been awarded or is not listed on the website, I can investigate the matter and revert to him with further information in this respect.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, there is one query and I will say it now: can the Minister explain why he has not included in this list the allocation to Neon Angel Ltd for the MTV Gibraltar Calling Music Festival in this document?

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, because that did not go out to tender. Neon Angel are the agents of MTV. (A Member: Direct allocation.) No, we came to this House and gave a whole explanation because the question was posed before about Neon Angel and the relationship between Neon Angel, MTV and the Gibraltar Government. The hon. Member may want to go back to Hansard and see that everything was explained there in relation to Neon Angel.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, if I recall correctly, the Minister said that he would not divulge the value of the contract due to commercial sensitivity. Is that correct?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman needs to put his question into context. The Government made a public statement in a press conference that this was being directly allocated and gave the reasons why it was being directly allocated, and said that the amount would be reflected in the Estimates as the cost of the concert but not the detail of the amounts paid to each party. And so, Mr Speaker, I think the Government has done exactly what the hon. Gentleman has asked us, whether we have done or not. That is to say we have disclosed any contract which has not been awarded by tender. That is the contract that the hon. Gentleman is referring to in respect of Neon Angel because it was directly allocated in the context of the statements which set that out in detail at the press conference, which was followed up with a press release, which is on the record, and the statements in this House when we have been questioned about it.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, although I agree that that is how the Government presented the festival, in the past obviously it has been through a tender and the taxpayer has been – (Interjection) Well, at least it was on the same document on the Government website, so the taxpayer was able to compare the value of the previous organisers in comparison to what we have now. At the moment we are not seeing what the direct value of this contract is and I feel that the taxpayer is not being informed of the full disclosure of this contract.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, for all of the reasons that we have set out before there are some contracts which are commercially sensitive. The hon. Gentleman may want to go back and read what we said about the music industry and the commercial sensitivity of it, but the taxpayer knows exactly what the Music Festival costs because it is set out in the Estimates and then the Hon. Mr Clinton asked us to tell the House not just what the estimate had been but what the final account is and we provide that when it is ready and we have a ding-dong about when it should be ready, but when it is ready it is provided for.

So you have an estimate of cost and then you have an actual cost. The breakdown within that of each artist, each organiser etc. is not provided because it is that sort of industry; it cannot be provided. We would not be able to go back and organise it the following year if we had disclosed sensitive information the year before about an artist, about an agent etc. Nobody would touch us.

990 But the taxpayer knows exactly what it costs and what he or she gets for the value that is paid. So on an estimate of £2.5 million you got one concert one year and on an estimate of £2.5 million a year later you got a different concert the year after – so you know what you are getting. Whether Bananarama costs x or whether Duran Duran costs y or whether the agents that organise them cost x or cost y is not detail that we can give, but I have told the hon. Gentlemen before – at least I think I have told one of them – this is not information that we will 995 keep from them, it is just information that we are not allowed to give publicly. Therefore we are quite happy to tell them the amounts behind the Speaker’s Chair on the basis of confidentiality, but they cannot share that amount because this is the nature of that industry. It would be the death knell of the Gibraltar Music Festival if we started to disclose what we are paying artists and what we are paying agents or what we are paying organisers. It would be the end; nobody 1000 would touch us the year after.

Assuming that hon. Gentlemen want to see the Government prosper and deliver on its commitments – and one of the things that we were committed to doing was to organise a mega concert; we are now organising a mega festival – we want to continue doing that because we think it is good, not just for taxpayers but for Gibraltar as a whole in the context of the 1005 entertainment that is provided, how Gibraltar becomes a magnet for people, how international companies based in Gibraltar bring their international boards to Gibraltar around the Music Festival, all of the things I have said before when I have had to justify the existence of the festival to Members opposite who sometimes feel as if they do not want us to continue with it.

Well, we think it is a good thing for Gibraltar, we are going to continue with it and we are not 1010 going to do things or give information which does not enable us to continue with it.

Mr Speaker: Let me make one position clear. Under the guise of the question in the manner in which the hon. Member has made it, the Minister has invited him to say whether there is any instance where the information has not been included and he is prepared to investigate and 1015 revert to him. I cannot allow, in the exercise of my discretion of the matter of the Music Festival, greater ventilation of the matter than I have already done. There have been a number of exchanges on the Music Festival which do not arise directly out of this question, so I warn the hon. Member that I will allow him one last question but that is it.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I just wanted to clarify that it has got nothing to do with the artists or the agents who are bringing the performers over; it is to do with the organisers that the taxpayer used to see what the organisers were costing the taxpayer and that is no longer the case. I feel that obviously the commercial interests of a private company are being put over and above those of previous organisers, and the Gibraltarian taxpayer is none the wiser.

Hon. Chief Minister: That is plainly and utterly ridiculous! How are the interests of the commercial entity being put ahead of the interest of the taxpayer if what we are doing is in the interest of the taxpayer to ensure that the taxpayer can continue to enjoy the festival at the best possible prices? Does he think that we do not want to disclose it, Mr Speaker, because it costs us 1030 more if we do that? Doesn’t it obviously make sense if you apply a modicum of consideration that we are saying that we should not disclose it because that is how we get a better deal? Well, look, Mr Speaker, maybe by WhatsApp he can be told what to ask us next.

Q14/2018

Gibraltar Music Festival – Impact of change of dates

Clerk: Question 14. The Hon. L F Llamas.

1035 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, has the Government considered the impact of the return of students to university when changing the dates of the Gibraltar Music Festival?

1040 Mr Speaker: Let me make it abundantly clear before the Hon. Minister answers this question that I will only allow supplementaries in respect of students, no other members of the community. Are you with me? Very well, answer then.

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

1045 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Yes, sir.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Minister confirm how many students the Government expects will not be able or be able to attend the festival?

1050 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, to tell him the truth I would not know how many students would like to go to the Music Festival, so that question does not arise. How on earth could I assume? Or is it that all the students who go to the UK like music? Is it that every single student who is studying in the UK is going to come to the Music Festival? There are probably students who do not like music and therefore they do not come to the Music Festival. What I am saying to him in answer to his question, which is 'did we take into account?' ... I have already given a public statement as to why we chose the dates. There is a reason why we chose the dates. So, yes, of course when the dates were given to me one of the things that I said was, 'Well, the students are probably going to miss out' – and one of them is my daughter, who is cursing me because I have got it on the 21st and the 22nd and she might be leaving for university on the 19th. These are things that you have to work around other people. I have told him that we work around the GFA. It is to do with the dates that the GFA give us. So, do I take into consideration? Of course I take into consideration. These are people that are not going to pay in because if there are 200 students that are not going to come to the Music Festival, it means that we are going to make less money from those 200 people, but I expect people to come from the UK on that date because it might be better that they come from the UK on that date.

1065 Mr Speaker, I can tell him that I have got a little bit of experience of doing events now, I think, and when you do events of course you look at whether it is the high or low season of tourism; whether the fraternity of darts, for example, are going to come in March or April; which is the best time after the premier league in darts; are we going to have the tournament here. All these things are taken into consideration, of course they are, but when you are tied up with the GFA telling you these are the only ...

1070 By the way, last year the hon. Member must know that on 3rd September when we were all enjoying the Music Festival there were about 150 people going to Faro at the same time because there was a football match on the same day. We could then dictate, because the Victoria Stadium was ours, and I said to the GFA, 'I am sorry, you are going to go to Faro because I am doing the Music Festival on that date.' This year, because of what we have done with the GFA, it is a completely different ball game; I cannot do it on the week that it was done last year because there are football matches. That is where the dynamics of all these things are. So yes, of course I take ... That is why I said yes, sir – there is no other answer to the question: of course I did take into consideration students and everybody in the community.

Q15/2018
MTV Gibraltar Calling –
Viewing figures

1080 Clerk: Question 15. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, with regard to last summer's MTV Calling Festival, does Government accept viewing figures in the UK; and if so, how do they measure up to the one billion global audience that they said it would reach?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the one billion reach figure has a specific definition in the media industry in that it is an estimate of the total number of people who can access, i.e. see, a particular TV programme on MTV networks globally as opposed to the number of people that actually watch the programme.

To date the programme has been broadcast in 16 countries and on five MTV channels. Furthermore, MTV Gibraltar Calling World Stage was also broadcast last Friday, airing around another 150 countries worldwide.

1095

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, it is very easy to say 'access' but at the end of the day no one cares about access unless you actually watch it, and the Broadcasters Audience Research Board (BARB), who provide a minute-by-minute report which I have right here, on two of their programmes have shown that the average viewing was 0.06% at best on both programmes. So how can the hon. Gentleman expect us to believe that simply because it has got a access to a worldwide audience that everybody watched it, when at the end of the day the typical rate of viewing was 0%? Either the hon. Gentleman has misled the House or somebody in MTV has misled the hon. Gentleman about the potential of who was going to watch this programme, or these programmes, which both came at 0%.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, nobody has misled the House. What the House has been told is that this is the reach, in other words the number of people who can watch it – 0.6% of the UK watching population on television is more than watched the year before, I think the hon. Lady will accept that, so the exposure is going further, let alone what the hon. Gentleman has told her, which is the many other instances when the programme has been shown.

1110

The hon. Lady just wants to concentrate on two occasions when the programme has been shown because of the data that she has, no doubt having read an article about the subject in the Gibraltar Chronicle, as we all did. If that is the case, then the hon. Lady of course is entitled to say, 'On this occasion it was watched only by this number of people: are you disappointed?' Of course I am disappointed, Mr Speaker. I would like 100% of the UK audience available to switch off BBC1, switch off BBC2, switch off Channel 4, ITV and Channel 5 when there is something on which is about Gibraltar on MTV, and when Gibraltar: Britain in the Sun is on, I would like people to switch off MTV, switch off Channel 4, ITV, BBC2 and BBC1 and just watch Gibraltar: Britain in the Sun, because as a proud Gibraltarian I think we would all agree we want the whole of the available UK audience to watch the programme about Gibraltar – let alone when I am on Andrew Marr, Mr Speaker! If the Gibraltar programme is then going to be shown on the worldwide channels, as the hon. Gentleman has told her that it is being shown, not all of which are subject to the BARB because one of those Bs stands for 'British', we do not know exactly how many people have watched this programme but we know it has been watched by many more people who did not watch the programme, that did not exist, the year before; and we know that the advertisements that were shown about Gibraltar and MTV reached an audience.

1115

1130 What the hon. Lady has to decide is whether she is taking the position that having the exposure is valuable or that you only are interested in actual viewers. This is a very live issue in the world of advertising. Do you pay a channel based on the number of people who might watch it, on the number of people who do watch it on average, or the number of people who watch the programme where your advert appears? If you have ever done a contract for advertising you have to pay based on the potential reach of the channel and its average view, and that is what the hon. Gentleman has talked about in this House when we have been talking about viewers, 1135 when we have been talking about the potential number of viewers. We are very happy that the Gibraltar programme is going further; we wish it would go even further still. Perhaps as we continue in this process we will be able to persuade more people to watch the magnificent Gibraltar Music Festival programmes that are being produced by MTV.

1140 The reality is that this is a great advertisement for Gibraltar, it is a good thing for Gibraltar, Mr Speaker, and I do not understand why Members – if I may say so, on the extremes on the other side – now seem to want to do it down. Perhaps we should consult them on the list of people who are coming to perform and we might find them happier Members of the concert-viewing community.

1145 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, with respect, I think we continue to be misled.

By the way, following on from the Chief Minister talking about Britain in the Sun, just to get an idea, the BARB has shown that Britain in the Sun gets 1.9 million viewers. Now that is viewing. Viewing is 1.9 million, which would only have been a fraction of the one billion we were told, but actually we had 7,000 people watching this. So, of course my position is that I want to know whether Gibraltar has had the exposure that we were promised or led to believe, and saying that this was only the British association that was putting out the figures and that therefore does not mean much, I think actually the MTV show being in Gibraltar, for obvious reasons of proximity and accessibility, if it was going to be watched anywhere at a peak it was going to be the UK. So, even taking that as an average and timesing that by 30, you do not even get to 1150 130,000.

1155 So, yes, I continue to think we have been misled and I would like to ask the Government if they actually agreed to pay MTV to air the Gibraltar Calling shows directly or indirectly.

1160 Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, there is no question of us having paid MTV to air a show directly or indirectly. We explained to this House what the deal with MTV was when we came to this House and we set out to the hon. Lady and all Members opposite what the position was.

1165 If 0.06% of the global audience watched, that is 600,000 people around the world watching a programme about Gibraltar. If 0.06% – (Interjection by Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon) Mr Speaker, I understand that 0.06% is in the UK; I just made the point to her that it was in the UK. I am extrapolating to her 0.06% of one billion, which is the potential global audience of channels ... If we achieve 0.06% it is 600,000 people. If 7,000 of those are in the UK then 593,000 are in the rest of the world, which might not hear about Gibraltar so often.

1170 Mr Speaker, are we dissatisfied that there have not been one billion people watching? Yes. Are we dissatisfied that 1.9 million people did not watch? Yes. Are we dissatisfied that 52 million people in the United Kingdom did not watch? Yes. Do we want more to watch? Yes. Does that mean that this is the wrong deal? Quite not the case, the opposite: this is exactly the right deal because it is putting us in a position where we are potentially having that reach and where potentially more people will watch in the future, and perhaps this could become a classic and more people will watch it again in the future. 1175

But, Mr Speaker, I do not understand the belligerence. Why is it that hon. Members opposite, at least those at the extremes, do not appear to want us to do everything possible to advertise Gibraltar? I am left with the view that if we were now doing it with local promoters we would be 1180 told that we should consider doing it with international promoters who might give us a potential global audience reach of up to a billion.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, advertise by all means if it is viewed and absorbed, not if you get a 0% viewing rating.

1185 Following on from the question that has been confirmed that you paid MTV –

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, a point of order. I said the opposite. I said we did not pay MTV. We did to air this programme. We did a deal which included a television programme, so the opposite.

1190 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Culture therefore confirm whether this Government still believes, despite all these contradictory figures and promises, that the MTV deal is good value for taxpayer's money, or is this actually a case of a salesman pitching massive numbers to Government, the Government failing to conduct its own due diligence and now finding itself in a position where it either holds the provider to account and risks political 1195 embarrassment or carries on rolling forward as if everything is going to path.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I can confirm on behalf of the whole Government, before giving way to the Hon. Minister for Culture, who is going to give the hon. Lady more figures, that we consider that having a potential global reach of one billion is very good for the Gibraltar taxpayer, that we will continue not out of a fear of political embarrassment – which will not 1200 scare us; if we ever do something which turns out to be wrong, we will be the first to tell the public that we think we have got something wrong and we will deal with it – but that this is the right thing to do, both from the point of view of the entertainment provided, the cost at which the entertainment is provided and the potential reach of the advertisement that is this 1205 programme after the entertainment has been provided. A very good deal too. I commend the Minister for Culture for having done it, I believe it is absolutely right that we continue and I do not understand the potential motivation for Gibraltar not to make an international advertisement of a function in Gibraltar which is a promotion of what we do in Gibraltar.

I give way, before I sit down, to the Hon. Minister so that he can give her the figures that he 1210 has available.

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, first of all I would like to say to the hon. Lady that I do not know where the figure of 7,000 comes from. (Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Three and a half thousand.) She mentioned 7,000 in the BARB, which I have figures from of exactly how many 1215 people saw it. If she wants to go and say to the whole of Gibraltar that it is only 7,000 people who saw it, that is wrong.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, they may actually have been the same three and a half thousand twice, so he might be wrong.

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, what she does not understand is that you might have one programme which is shown and maybe only 7,000 people see it, but if the programme is repeated and repeated then they add on how many people have seen it because there is the iPlayer and there are different ways in which people see different programmes. Nowadays you 1225 do not just sit and say, 'Oh, hold on, at seven o'clock we all have to sit round the TV and see Gibraltar Calling.' (Mr Speaker: I do.) Well, you do, sir, but then there are different ways of – (Mr Speaker: I'm a dinosaur) Yes, but there are different ways and means of seeing the programme. It is there for people on demand to see programmes and I can tell the hon. Lady that her figures are wrong.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: They are not mine, they are BARB'S.

Hon. S E Linares: And I have got BARB'S figures: 162,000. (Several Members: Hear, hear.) (Banging on desks) If the hon. Lady wants, I can now quote figures: 282,000 – (Interjection) Yes, I have got it here: 282,000 because you can have one TV seen by four people or one TV seen by no one, and therefore it is very difficult to see how many people are actually watching this.

And then we go to the advertising value and the social media value. MTV has millions of Twitter followers. I took a photograph with Scotty T, who has 1.8 million, and I said, 'Here, have a photograph with the Minister in Gibraltar Calling'. He was brilliant, the guy, and he said, 'Now I am going to put it on my Tweet.' Look: he has got 1.8 million followers. And it goes on and on. That is the value and I can say to the hon. Lady that it has been valued as in advertising air time to 1.4 million.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: But none of them watched it.

Hon. S E Linares: Nada no se entera.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

INFRASTRUCTURE AND PLANNING

Q16/2018 Castle Steps – Ramps

Clerk: Question 16. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker – (Interjection) To more important matters, yes! Is Government intending to replace the ramps on Castle Steps to facilitate disabled and pushchair access as well as improve access to the emergency services?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the ramps at Castle Street were always intended to be temporary and were originally placed by developers to allow contractor vehicles access during refurbishment works to certain properties within the area. The ramps were defacing the original steps and in recent times were being used to illegally park vehicles in what is a pedestrianised area.

The Technical Services Department is already exploring the possibility of introducing pushchair ramps as currently exist along lower Castle Street.

Q17/2018 Upper Town escalator – Breakdowns and costs

Clerk: Question 17. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, since 1st September 2017, on how many occasions has the Upper Town escalator been unserviceable, and for each occasion for how long was it broken and what was the cost of repair?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

1270

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the major repairs required and carried out in September and finalised in November cost £74,316.73.

1275

During the period commencing 22nd November to 31st December 2017 the Upper Town Link escalators were out of service on five occasions as per the schedule I will now hand over, and on every occasion repaired under the annual maintenance contract at no additional cost.

Q18/2018
Fixed Penalty Notices – Forward-facing motorbikes

Clerk: Question 18. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Since the introduction of speed cameras, how many Fixed Penalty Notices have been rejected by the RGP for forward-facing motorbikes?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

1285 Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, since the introduction of the speed camera pilot scheme a total of 608 motorcyclists who were exceeding the speed limits have been fined using the cameras that capture the image of the rear of the motorcycle. A further 98 cases are being pursued by the RGP from images arising from cameras that capture only the image of the front part of the motorcycle.

1290 The Government expects that the introduction at the end of the pilot scheme of more cameras which capture the rear of motorcycles will result in more motorcyclists being fined for falling foul of the law. We would hope, however, that as motorcyclists see the effects of the speed cameras, their pockets, if not their consciences, will mean that less and less people offend.

1295 Finally, Mr Speaker, the Government is not aware of any model of motorcycle which has yet been developed or imported to Gibraltar which is not forward facing

Hon. T N Hammond: Indeed, very droll. I used the terminology that the Minister himself used at the last session of Parliament, which is why I thought by describing it that way he would understand the question.

1300 He did not actually answer the question, which is whether any had been rejected by the RGP.

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, those are the statistics that we have in our possession.

1305 Hon. T N Hammond: If I may then, just to make sure that I have understood the statistics, 608 were ... The question was how many Fixed Penalty Notices have been rejected by the RGP; the answer I received was that 608 people have been fined, 98 further are being investigated. Therefore, am I to assume that zero have actually been rejected, that there is not a case of one instance where it was not possible to identify the rider or pursue it?

1310 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I have given the hon. Gentleman the figures for the amount of people that have been pursued. One must remember that before this pilot scheme was implemented everyone who rode along that road, either on a motorcycle or in a car, would have gone past at the speed they wished and only in a few instances where perhaps the RGP had the roving cameras in sight would it have been potentially possible to have caught these individuals who are obviously flouting the law. Ever since this pilot scheme has come into effect, there has 1315 been a considerable decrease in the speed along this road, making it a lot safer, clearly, markedly safer not only for drivers but for pedestrians and for everyone in Gibraltar as a result of this pilot scheme.

1320 I am very clear and I have stated very clearly that this is a pilot scheme and before such a scheme there was no control. What will happen in the following months is that we will increase the amount of cameras throughout Gibraltar and we will also tackle the issue from both angles, as I have said in answering the question. A pilot scheme is there to be looked at, to see how it can be improved with other locations. As I said, there is a marked improvement on what was there before and this Government is extremely proud of the effect it has had on calming road traffic, making the streets safer and also reducing the levels of pollution, in terms of noise 1325 pollution, because fast vehicles mean greater noise on our roads.

We will continue embarking upon this scheme and we can safely say it will cease to be a pilot scheme because clearly it is working and all we need to do is make it work even better in the future.

1330 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, the question was not designed to pass any kind of judgement on the scheme itself. I welcome the scheme, I want it to work as well as possible; I think it is a very good and very necessary part of managing traffic on our roads.

However, the Minister still has not answered the question or confirmed whether no Fixed Penalty Notices to motorbikes have been rejected. That is all I am after: whether it is possible 1335 under the current scheme for you, if you are riding a motorbike, to pass one of these cameras in excess of the speed limit and not to be pursued by the RGP because it is simply impossible to identify either the bike or who was riding it. That is all I am asking, it is quite straightforward, and the information I have indicates that certainly some at least are being rejected, or it is not 1340 possible to pursue every case where motorbikes have been flagged up and photographed by the cameras; but if the Minister can confirm this is otherwise I will be very happy.

Hon. P J Balban: And the question that has been answered is the one referring to forward-facing motorbikes. If the hon. Gentleman wishes further information he can pose a more specific question on that matter and I will be happy to respond to him at a later date.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, is the Minister being deliberately obtuse? (Laughter) The question is about motorbikes and whether it has been possible to fine every single one of them that has been captured on the camera or whether they are being actively pursued. It is not about those that have been fined, it is about those that have not been fined and he has not 1350 answered whether any have not been able to be fined for that reason.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): I do not know whether the hon. Gentleman is being particularly obtuse on purpose or whether we all stand accused of the same thing. What we are saying is all motorbikes are forward facing, so the statistics that the hon. Gentleman seems to be 1355 asking us for, we find difficulty in trying to identify. All motorbikes are forward facing, and so if all motorbikes are forward facing we are giving him the data in respect of which the prosecutions are being pursued or people have been dealt with, but we are giving him that data in respect of a pilot programme – a pilot programme which the hon. Gentleman has already told him is being changed to include the ability to identify a vehicle from the front and the back at 1360 the same time so that we can see the licence plate ... if it is a motorbike which only has a licence plate on the back, how to identify them in that way. That is how the speed camera works: it works by identifying the licence plate. But the whole point of his question, Mr Speaker, is that it is phrased about forward facing motorbikes. All motorbikes are forward facing. We are giving him the statistics we have of prosecutions, or Fixed Penalty Notices or whatever it is, given in 1365 respect of such bikes.

Mr Speaker: I think the hon. Member is entitled to receive information in the future in respect of the 98 cases that are being pursued. If some of those are rejected, then that would satisfy the Minister in respect of his actual answer, which was about any of them being rejected.
1370 If the process had not been completed, obviously the Hon. Minister is not in a position to give the information, but I will allow the matter to be pursued at the next meeting if the Minister has the information by then. Can we move on then?

Hon. T N Hammond: If I just add one thing, Mr Speaker, yes, I agree entirely and if it is the 1375 case that in every case where a motorbike is involved there has either been a fine or they are currently being pursued – in other words there are none that have been dropped entirely – then
I can fully understand the Minister's answer.

Mr Speaker: And therefore in the future I think we are all agreed that the questions would all 1380 deal with motorbikes or motorcycles. Okay?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, there may be instances where not involving a motorcycle, involving a motor vehicle of another sort – there may not be a prosecution because there may be another difficulty with a camera, which is not the identification of a number plate on the 1385 front or back of a vehicle. What we are doing is we are giving the numbers that we have of prosecutions commenced, because if we start to look at why has a prosecution not been 1390 commenced or why has a fine not been issued there could be a myriad of issues in respect of that. There could be issues in respect of visibility at a particular date in question, there could be issues relating to the conditions of the road at the time, which might be identified and which might lead people to decide that it is not appropriate to issue FPNs or any other prosecutorial mechanism in respect of that moment.

1395 Mr Speaker: Does the hon. Member have any supplementary arising from the question on the escalators?

Hon. T N Hammond: I will have to look at that in a while.

Mr Speaker: Okay, well, I think this is a convenient point in which to have a recess of 20 minutes.

The House recessed at 5.06 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 5.27 p.m.

CULTURE, THE MEDIA, YOUTH AND SPORT

GSLA indoor facilities; cancellations – Further information

1400 Minister for Culture, the Media Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, if I may, it is in relation to the question that the hon. Member asked me about the pool and about whether we had closed down the pool, and I have already got an answer to that.

Just to say that on Tuesday, 10th October 2017 the pool was closed for one hour due to solid stool and it was at 18.25 when there was a Tarik swim session.

1405 Then on Thursday, 12th October the pool was closed for super chlorination because of somebody who had had a diarrhoea incident that occurred within the pool.

On Friday, 20th October 2017 the pool was closed at 5.45 for 30 minutes, again for another of those incidents.

1410 And then the last one was on Thursday, 7th December, where the pool had to be closed due to an electrical problem that occurred in the GEA electrical meter room. The incident occurred at 7.36 and the pool was closed until it was actually fixed.

1415 Hon. E J Reyes: I am very grateful for that, Mr Speaker. The only one I did not catch was on 12th October, the length of time it was closed. Was it the whole day? He never mentioned any actual timing – (Interjection) 12th October.

Hon. S E Linares: The pool was closed for 24 hours.

ENVIRONMENT, ENERGY, CLIMATE CHANGE AND EDUCATION

Q19/2018

DNA testing of dog faeces –
Number of samples tested, results and fines

Clerk: Question 19. The Hon. T N Hammond.

1420 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, continuing on the scatological theme, how many samples of dog faeces have been sent for DNA testing since 1st September (Laughter), have any results yet been received and have any fines been issued under this scheme?

1425 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, 25 samples have been collected since 1st September. One positive result has been received and one fine issued under the scheme to date.

1430 I need to qualify that, Mr Speaker: there were in fact two positive results but they were from the same dog, so the view was taken that, being the first one, only one fine would be issued and I am informed only today that another batch of results has come in and there appear to be a number of matches there too, so they will be processed and fines issued.

1435 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, does the Minister think that the pace of collection may increase as we get more habituated to this process, bearing in mind 25 collections since 1st September does not represent a very large number?

1440 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the point is that of the first results received there were quite a number of non-matches, which means that the dogs had not been registered. It obviously is clear that if you have had your dog registered and you are law abiding, you are not usually going to let your dog deposit faeces in the street because you know you are going to get caught, but if you have not bothered to register your dog then you are going to take the risk. What we have now done is we have changed the emphasis over the last couple of months to challenging people with dogs and asking for evidence of registration. We are doing it in a conciliatory way and warning people that they have to do it and we have been able to entice a number of people who have not registered their dogs to do so. We will shortly step that up and then we will be issuing fines to anybody who has not followed the legal procedure. So the emphasis changed from collecting the faeces to identifying those who were breaking the law by not having registered, and hopefully that will then sort itself out.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I certainly welcome the Minister's words in that respect. Clearly, if people are not registering their dogs it is impossible to fine them.

1455 Will the Ministry be making it known through a public campaign of some description to warn people that this is happening and you had better register your dog quickly because otherwise fines will be issued?

1460 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, the hon. Member may recall that we introduced this regime in January last year and we gave a period of grace of about three months. We intend to do the same and by the middle of March we will then change the chip almost and issue the necessary press comments and so on to encourage people to make sure that their dogs are properly registered, and then we will continue and enhance the number of samples collected. Hopefully the time will come when there is nothing to collect, but sadly I do not think that will actually happen.

Q20/2018
Beach lifeguard services –
Privatisation

1465 Clerk: Question 20. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, does Government intend to privatise the lifeguard services at the beaches; and if so, will the contract go to tender?

1470 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
1475 Mr Speaker, the Government is exploring options to improve the service offered to the public. No final decisions have been taken.

Q21-22/2018
Skywalk –
Confirmation of completion and reason why not yet open; admission charge

Clerk: Question 21. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can Government confirm that the Upper Rock glass walkway has been completed; and if so, when it was completed and why it has not yet opened?

1480 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1485 Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 22.

Clerk: Question 22. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Does Government intend to charge for access to the glass walkway on the Upper Rock?
1490

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
1495 Mr Speaker, although the Skywalk itself was completed last year, as I think I have said before in this House, additional works along Douglas Path had to be carried out since then. These works are nearly complete and the Department is now finalising the management aspects of the attraction ahead of the official opening.

1500 The Government is considering whether to introduce a separate charge for access to the glass walkway.

Hon. T N Hammond: I did not quite catch the phrase the Minister used, but it certainly sounded like management speak in terms of finalising – was it ‘finalising’? – who will manage the Skywalk that you referred to?

1510 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, what I said is that it was realised that the attraction would increase the footfall around Douglas Path and therefore some works had to be carried out to make that safer, which is what is being done now; and I said that we were considering whether there would be a separate charge for access to the walkway or whether it will be included within the general Upper Rock charge. (Interjection) Mr Speaker, I cannot hear.

Hon. T N Hammond: And in between those two points you made, you made a further point about the management of the walkway.

1515 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Oh, yes, sorry. The management aspects of the attraction, as to how it is going to be run: it is related to whether there would be a separate charge and therefore you would have to raise a fee there. That is the sort of thing that we are considering.

1520 Hon. T N Hammond: So, Mr Speaker, can the Minister confirm which Department will be responsible for the Skywalk?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: The Department responsible for all the sites on the Upper Rock now is currently the Department of the Environment and Heritage.

Q23/2018
Gibraltar Nature Reserve Management Plan –
Publication of final version

1525 Clerk: Question 23. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, when does Government intend to publish the final version of the Gibraltar Nature Reserve Management Plan on its website?

1530 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1535 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Government will publish the final version of the Gibraltar Nature Reserve Management Plan on its website – there is a draft version already there, just for clarification – as soon as it is ready to do so. It is currently not possible to give a firm date, given that the plan forms part of a wider and ongoing management review.

1540 Hon. T N Hammond: Does the Minister envisage the plan being changed substantially after the consultation process?

1545 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Not changed, Mr Speaker, but expanded. Given that the Department of the Environment, Heritage and Climate Change now is responsible for the sites, which was not the case when the plan was produced, there has been a change in the way that we run the different attractions and we are trying to marry the two and come up with a product that will be beneficial both for residents and tourists, and that is the process that ... So the actual management aspects in the draft are not expected to change in themselves but the remit will widen to other areas.

1550 Hon. T N Hammond: So, one final question. I am not going to try and pin the Minister down to a date because he has clearly said that he cannot provide one, but are we talking about perhaps the second half of this calendar year? Just to have a rough idea when maybe to come back with another question.

1555 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Certainly within this calendar year and I suspect that we may be making announcements around the summer with a view to implementing in the autumn, but it is not a firm commitment.

Q24-25/2018

Upper Rock Nature Reserve –
Works to remove Chasmanthe Floribunda and Acanthus plants

Clerk: Question 24. The Hon. T N Hammond.

1560 Hon. T N Hammond: Was any work conducted during 2017 – and forgive me if I pronounce it wrong – for the removal of the invasive species Chasmanthe Floribunda from the Upper Rock Nature Reserve, and where did that work take place?

1565 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 25.

1570 Clerk: Question 25. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, was any work conducted during 2017 for the removal of Acanthus plants from the Upper Rock Nature Reserve, and where did that work take place?

1575 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, Acanthus plants from different locations within the Upper Rock were removed, notably firebreaks, Jews' Gate, along Engineer's Road and Willis's Road.

1580 Chasmanthe floribunda were also removed from the roadsides near St Michael's Cave, St Michael's firebreak, Ince's Farm and Tovey Battery.

Q26/2018

2016 Thinking Green Digest – Publication date; air pollution data

Clerk: Question 26. The Hon. T N Hammond.

1585 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, when will Government publish the 2016 Thinking Green Digest and will it contain data for air pollution?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
1590 Mr Speaker, the 2016 Thinking Green Digest is available online already from the Gibraltar Government website under Publications in the Environment section.

Data concerning air pollution are included within the 2016 Statistics Digest, which is the partner publication, which is also available online.

Q27/2018

Thinking Green underwater camera –
Current status, breakdowns, maintenance and repair costs

1595

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Government say if the Thinking Green underwater camera is currently working, how often was it unserviceable during 2017 and what were the maintenance and repair costs for 2017?

1600

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
1605 Mr Speaker, the Thinking Green underwater camera is presently offline since it is being serviced by the Department's diving team. It should be back online before the end of the month.

The camera has not been unserviceable in 2017. It has, however, been offline on seven occasions for a variety of reasons unrelated to unserviceability, such as internet connectivity problems. There were no maintenance and repair costs during 2017 since this was carried out internally by technicians from the Department of the Environment, Heritage and Climate Change as part of their routine duties.

Q28/2018

Environment Charter 2006 – Current status

1615

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, does Government agree with and adhere to the principles set out in the Environment Charter 2006, which remains on the Government website but has not been renewed and so remains with the former Chief Minister and the former Minister for the Environment as signatories?

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
1625 Mr Speaker, the Government not only agrees and adheres to the principles set out in the Charter, we have implemented it and enshrined it into Government policy, which the GSD, who signed it, failed to do. To us, it is not a paper exercise, as it clearly was for the GSD. This administration has made it a reality in the working practices of the public sector.

Hon. T N Hammond: So on that basis, Mr Speaker, would the Minister consider actually putting his own signature and that of the Chief Minister on the Charter just to complete the exercise, if you like?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, it is not necessary because this is signed by a Chief Minister and a Minister for the Environment and therefore we consider it still valid.

I think I am shortly going to put my signature on a document which will be much, much more extensive than this, and then this one will almost become irrelevant.

Q29-31/2018

Europa Foreshore tunnels –

Sampling; environmental management plan; environmental impact assessment

1635 Clerk: Question 29. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, were samples taken prior to the recent washing out of the tunnels accessed via the Europa Foreshore both before the activity took place and subsequent to it?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 30 and 31.

1645

Clerk: Question 30. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Was an environmental management plan implemented for the works currently underway in the tunnels accessed via the Europa Foreshore?

Clerk: Question 31. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, was an environmental impact assessment conducted for the works currently underway in the tunnels accessed via the Europa Foreshore?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, both environmental and heritage assessments were indeed carried out by officials from the Department of the Environment, Heritage and Climate Change in consultation with experts.

As part of the ongoing environmental management inspections, the Department has been regularly monitoring the works and liaising with the appointed contractor to ensure that no significant ecological impacts occur within the reserve.

1665

There has been no washing out of the tunnels.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, could the Minister advise who those experts were who were consulted, and would he be able to make those reports that were made available to me?

1675 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the experts consulted included the Gibraltar Museum, the Ornithological and Natural History Society and the Gibraltar Heritage Trust. I am not aware of the format in which those comments were made but I am very happy, if he writes to me, to look into it and to make them available.

1680 Hon. T N Hammond: And, Mr Speaker, the Minister is absolutely certain that at no point during the building and construction phase up to this point has anyone effectively flushed out the tunnels with a hose or cleared out any rubbish that was in the tunnel by flushing with water?

1685 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I saw the post on Facebook where this was claimed to have happened. I take all these things very seriously; I was very upset at the allegations. I was there on site the following morning at eight o'clock. I personally inspected the area. I determined that there was no evidence of flushing, certainly no significant flushing of any type. There was litter as a result of a digging operation, which I personally helped in collecting and removing, but certainly there was no evidence at all of the alleged flushing by loads of dirty water. It was simply not the case. I was there myself. I took photographs and a colleague, a senior member of the Department of Environment and Climate Change, was there with me. It is an area that I love and have worked very hard to protect through the decades and I took it very seriously and I personally inspected the site: there had been no flushing of any significance.

Q32-35/2018

Renewable energy –

East Side power generator serviceability and output; proportion of total power from renewable sources and targets

Clerk: Question 32. The Hon. T N Hammond.

1695 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, following on from Question 322/2017, can Government confirm that the East Side wave power generator is still serviceable and whether it has suffered any periods of unserviceability since 1st June 2017; and if so, provide details of these?

1700 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 33 to 35.

1705 Clerk: Question 33. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, following on from Question 323/2017, what has been the average monthly output and peak output of the East Side wave generator since 1st June 2017?

1710 Clerk: Question 34. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: What proportion of the power generated in Gibraltar is produced from renewable energy sources?

1715 Clerk: Question 35. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Has Government set targets for production of power from renewable energy sources; and if so, could the Minister describe these targets?

1720 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the East Side wave power generator is still serviceable. However, being a prototype wave power generator, it will occasionally undergo modifications in order to enhance its efficiency and when these are ongoing it might indeed be out of service.

1725 The wave generator average monthly output since 1st June 2017 has been 82.5 kWh. Peak output was 3.2 kWh.

1730 In 2017 a total of 93,048 kWh were generated from renewable sources and fed into the network. In addition, there are also solar thermal installations at the GSLA, Victoria Stadium Tercentenary Hall, Tangier Views and St Bernard's Hospital which contribute to reducing the amount of power generated conventionally in Gibraltar.

The total is estimated to be around 1% of total generation. Government's aim is to achieve a minimum of 20% from renewables by 2020.

Q36-37/2018
LNG facility –
Safety report

1735 Clerk: Question 36. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm that the safety report for the LNG facility being reviewed by the competent authority is that required by Directive 2012/18/EU?

1740 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 37.

1745 Clerk: Question 37. The Hon. T N Hammond.

1750 Hon. T N Hammond: Can Government confirm that the documents that they published prior to the last election and presented to the public as LNG safety reports were not the safety reports required by Directive 2012/18/EU and did not contain the information mandated by that document, and that the latter document is at present under the scrutiny of the competent authority and has not yet been published?

1755 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1760 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, yes, sir, the safety report has been submitted in compliance with Part IIA of the Public Health Act section 95F and is being assessed by the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) on behalf of Environmental Agency, which is the competent authority.

1765 The report 'Gibraltar LNG storage: Pre-consent advice and three zone maps for the Shell proposal' was made public by the Government on 12th November 2015 and was approved by the UK HSE in accordance with UK standard procedures. This report was presented over and above the legal requirements of Directive 2012/18/EU as transposed in Gibraltar law. The HSE considered the report and produced the three zone maps which confirmed the suitability of the project to progress to the next stage. In addition it should be noted the stricter standard that applied to the report published by the Government in November 2015 was a proper and full analysis of the proposal for LNG storage and not an unreliable attempt at scaremongering like 1770 the report published by the hon. Member opposite which was funded by a Russian-backed competitor of Shell in an episode of political skulduggery, which the people passed judgement on, on 26th November 2015, delivering to Members opposite their worst General Election results in 25 years.

1775 Several Members: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Hon. T N Hammond: So, Mr Speaker, the Minister is confirming then that when we are talking about safety reports the only safety report that actually matters in all of this is that one prescribed by Directive 2012/18/EU, the one which we all thought was in the Government's hands and was supposed to have been published, and which the Government perhaps suggested 1780 was the relevant safety report to the people of Gibraltar when in fact it was not the safety report that is mandated and required by the EU, and indeed the safety report that contains all the essential and critical information with respect to liquid natural gas.

Is it not the case that when the Government issued that report, what they effectively did was make the public believe that they were issuing the appropriate safety report under Directive 1785 2012, when in fact it was nothing of the sort and contained none of that information, and that that report has still not been made public because it is still under scrutiny? And will the Government make that report public now?

1790 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo) There is nothing we would like more than to rerun the 2015 election – nothing we would like more!

Several Members: Hear, hear.

1795 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, a little translation to what the Chief Minister has just said is he removed the words from my mouth: me quitó las palabras de la boca. If the Member opposite really wants to rekindle the debate which was so dramatically rejected by the people of Gibraltar, I will take him on.

1800 Mr Speaker: If he wants to do that and the hon. Member wishes to engage him in that, he will have to bring a motion to the House because I am not going to allow that this afternoon.
Also, we are not here to go over the events prior to the General Election of 2015. Okay?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I will then keep it very brief and thank you for that advice which I will take with great pleasure.

1805 I disagree that the only report that matters is the one that is coming. All of these reports have been done with the utmost diligence by all the top experts and the report that we published in November 2015 the law did not require us to publish but we published it nonetheless and it was completely and thoroughly scrutinised by HSE.

1810 There is an additional report which is currently going through the process, which is the report that will be published which contains the preconstruction which was passed and vetted by HSL and therefore the construction has proceeded, and the pre-operational report, which is in the process of a very thorough discussion and which will of course be published once it is completed.

1815 I can say, Mr Speaker, just to offer a little bit more information, that the intensity and the thoroughness with which we are dealing with this matter is much more than Shell has ever had to bear anywhere else in the world.

Q38 and 42-43/2018
Cleaning of public areas and facilities –
Tenders received; current workforce;

Clerk: Question 38. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1820 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise how many tenders it has received on 27th November 2017 for the ‘provision of urban and street cleaning, upkeep of public areas and other public facilities’, have any been accepted and for what contract amount?

1825 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 42 and 43 from the hon. Lady.

1830 Clerk: Question 42. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: With reference to the future of the current Master Service workforce, how are their interests going to be guaranteed vis-à-vis the successful supplier?

1835 Clerk: Question 43. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1840 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: With reference to the future of the current Master Service workforce, can Government guarantee that the successful supplier will manage the workforce and all the work specified within the tender document for public cleaning and that there will be no subcontracting?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1845 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, four tenders were received in the first stage of a two-stage tender process. These four applications are currently being assessed to be shortlisted and invited to submit priced bids. Therefore, this contract has not yet been awarded.

The tender document specifically makes reference to TUPE provisions.

1850 All four tender submissions have stated in their bids that there will be no subcontracting. In any event, the Government of Gibraltar would not have allowed this, in the same way that it does not allow the current contractor to subcontract.

1855 The Government will, in the contract negotiations, be working in the interest of both the taxpayer and the workforce, given that we see those interests as being aligned. We will not allow current terms and conditions to be eroded and will be seeking improvements where commercially possible.

1860 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, with reference to Question 42, with regard to key personnel in the draft service agreement, with regard to key personnel, what role does Government envisage that they will play in connection with the new setup? I ask because schedule 5 in the draft service agreement, which deals with key personnel, is empty.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am not sure whether the hon. Lady is referring to what will happen once the tender is awarded or during the negotiations in the tender.

1865 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: It is ambiguous to me – that is why I asked – because I do not understand who or what key personnel is now in Master Service: what is the current definition of key personnel?

1870 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I think I would need notice to the amount of detail that I am being requested and I would be very happy to look into it and seek clarification, but the hon. Member is making reference to a specific section in a very vast document and I would not like to try and give what I think the answer is without checking the facts. I think it would be reasonable to at least be given notice. I am happy to respond if the hon. Lady wants to write to me. In the meantime I will seek clarification.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you, Mr Speaker – thank you to the hon. Gentleman. I will write to him and seek clarification.

1880 In clause 13.2 it talks about the Government having the power to get people dismissed as the authority whilst they will not be the employer. If there are issues with unfair dismissal, the fallout will be for the employer, not for the authority, so how will that work appropriately?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I believe that this is exactly the same as is currently in the present contract and the Government has never exercised that ability (Hon. Chief Minister: In our time.) in our time. It may have happened before our time.

1885 Because it is an exclusive Government contract there may be, very rarely, occasions on which the Government has to act categorically if there has been any particular misconduct and so on and therefore it would have to perhaps take certain action. It is highly unlikely that it would happen. I cannot envisage anything that would trigger that off in the normal run of things, but it is something that the Government does reserve as an option in the public interest and because 1890 it is a considerably large contract taking a large amount of taxpayers' money.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, thank you for that. If I could just ask one more question. I am aware that the union representing the bulk of the Master Service workers has been trying to achieve a meeting with the hon. Gentleman. At what point will the union be brought in to guarantee the existing and improved terms and conditions for the workforce?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, there have been meetings. The concerns of the members have been made to me directly and to the Chief Minister directly and to both of us together. They have raised a number of concerns. We have reassured them at meetings, we have reassured them at the motions that we had in Parliament just a few months ago and I think that my closing paragraph in my answer to Question 43 should further reassure them that we will have the interests of the workforce very much at heart – it is paramount to us, so I think that they need to be reassured that we will continue discussing, but clearly the contract is awarded by the Government and not by the union, but obviously the union's views will be very much taken to heart.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

1910 If I may ask the Minister: does he have an idea as to when the tender process will be complete and when he will be in a position to award the contract?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker, there is a tender board appointed. It is run by senior officials of the Government; I am not directly involved. I can seek that information but I do not have it at this moment.

Q39/2018

New buildings and refurbishment of schools –
Update re completion dates, contractors and costs

Clerk: Question 39. The Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Education provide updated information in respect of the new buildings and refurbishment of schools which Government announced it will be undertaking, together with a schedule of completion dates, details of the contractors carrying out each project and the estimated costs of each project?

1920

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1925

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I provided the completion dates in my answer to Question 711/2017; there has been no change.

The contractor for Notre Dame School is GJBS. The other projects have not been allocated. Estimated costs cannot be made public as we are engaged in a competitive procurement process.

Hon. E J Reyes: Not even the estimated costs for the one already awarded?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker, because potential contractors could take the estimated costs of the one that we are embarked on as an idea of what we may or may not be willing to consider. We feel that we should not pre-empt the issue and therefore we do not feel that it is correct at this time to reveal the estimated costs of the one that we have begun.

Hon. E J Reyes: And, Mr Speaker, so that I know for future reference, does Government intend to publish the full costs once it has awarded all the projects to the contractors? Does it intend to publish of its own accord or would the Minister like me to re-table this question in a few months' time – unless he can give a firm commitment now and make a note to table it in a few months' time?

1940

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I cannot say when. This is a matter which obviously will become public in due course. The hon. Member has a right to ask whatever question he wishes to ask, so I do not think I can comment any further on that.

1945

Q40/2018

Gibraltar Teachers' Association – Review of salaries structure

1950

Hon. E J Reyes: Can Government confirm if it has recently entered into a commitment with the Gibraltar Teachers' Association to carry out a major review of their salaries structure?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, this is not the case.

Q41/2018

St Martin's School – Provision of new bus

Clerk: Question 41. The Hon. L F Llamas.

1960

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government update this House as to the provision of a new bus for St Martin's School?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I am surprised that the hon. Member has not set up an online questionnaire asking what make of bus we should get and sat in front of it for a few hours to ensure he clicks it 802 times, but there we go. (Hon. D A Feetham: Oh, oh, oh!)

Mr Speaker, the bus is scheduled to arrive in March.

COMMERCE

Q70 and 83/2018

Business licensing process and regulation of real estate agents – Updating of legislation

Clerk: We now move to Question 70. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise if it has reached agreement with the Gibraltar Federation of Small Businesses in their joint review of the current 'cumbersome' business licensing process, and when does the Government anticipate bringing amendments to the legislation to Parliament?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

1980

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 83.

Clerk: Question 83. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state its position with regard to the regulation of real estate agents?

1990

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, the hon. Member asks when the Bill to amend the Fair Trading Act will be brought to Parliament. The Bill was published on 5th October 2017 and we are finalising the regulations in preparation for the approval of this Bill by Parliament.

1995

Government has conducted its own review of the Fair Trading Act which goes beyond the proposals of the Chamber of Commerce and the GFSB and we have extensively consulted with them in respect of these. We are currently awaiting their final comments on the details, the principles of which have already been agreed.

Mr Speaker, the regulation of estate agents is governed by the Fair Trading Act.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister clarify as to what code of conduct is relevant to the real estate agents in Gibraltar?

2005

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, the Fair Trading Act and the regulations that impose standard terms of trade that they must each comply with. It goes beyond in terms of client accounts now that poker applies in terms of money laundering and items of value. So the regulations that are there already. I do not think I need to give my friend legal advice.

2010

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, just to clarify with the Minister, he mentioned the Bill that was published on 5th October 2017. My reading of it is to do with the exchange of information and the solution of certain functions of the Business Licensing Authority, but not necessarily the review to which he is referring, which I assume must still be subject to agreement in order to be able to bring such a Bill to the House. I guess what I am saying, Mr Speaker, is that this particular Bill as published does not address the concerns of the various chambers.

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, that Bill that he refers to also says, and I will read:

AN ACT to repeal certain provisions and to amend others of the Fair Trading Act 2015 relating to business licensing, – which is what the question is about – in particular as regards the dissolution of the functions of the Business Licensing Authority; – which is what we are consulting on – to provide for the exchange of information or intelligence ...

2020

So, yes, this is the Bill which will enable us to introduce the regulations which are in discussions with the GFSB and the Chamber of Commerce.

Q71-82/2018

Financial Services Commission –

Appeals by licensed entities; appointment of inspectors; appointment of skilled persons and hybrid skilled persons with powers of an inspector;
new licences issued; enforcement strategy

Clerk: Question 71. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, does the Government intend to retain the right of licensed entities to apply to court for a stay of decisions of the Gibraltar Financial Services Commission pending determination of any appeal against decisions of that body?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 72 to 82.

Clerk: Question 72. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: I can see I am not going to get very far today on these questions. How many appeals to the Supreme Court from decisions of the FSC were filed in 2017?

Clerk: Question 73. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: How many times has the FSC appointed inspectors under section 101 of the Financial Services (Insurance Companies) Act 1987 to investigate the affairs of anyone carrying or suspected of carrying on insurance business in each of the calendar years since 2007?

Clerk: Question 74. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: In relation to the preceding question on the appointment of inspectors under section 101, please state whether the organisation for whom the inspector worked, consulted or was a partner at the time of the appointment was based in or outside Gibraltar and what did each appointment ultimately cost the entity investigated?

Clerk: Question 75. The Hon. D A Feetham.
2050

Hon. D A Feetham: How many appointments of inspectors have been made under section 8 of the Financial Services (Information Gathering and Co-operation) Act 2013 in each calendar year since that Act was introduced?

Clerk: Question 76. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: How many appointments of skilled persons have been made under section 7 of the Financial Services (Information Gathering and Co-operation) Act 2013 in each calendar year since that Act was introduced?

Clerk: Question 77. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: In respect of the appointments made under sections 7 and 8 of the Financial Services (Information Gathering and Co-operation) Act 2013 since that Act was introduced, please state whether the organisation for whom the inspector or skilled person appointed worked, consulted or was a partner was based in or outside Gibraltar?

Clerk: Question 78. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: How many appointments of hybrid skilled persons with the powers of inspectors have been made by the FSC in agreement with licensed entities in each calendar year since 2013?

Clerk: Question 79. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham. In respect of hybrid appointment of skilled persons with the powers of inspectors, please state whether the organisation for whom the inspector of skilled person appointed worked, consulted or was a partner was based in or outside Gibraltar?

Clerk: Question 80. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: In respect of (a) the appointments made under sections 7 and 8 of the Financial Services (Information Gathering and Co-operation) Act 2013 since that Act was introduced and (b) hybrid appointments of skilled persons with the powers of inspectors since 2013, what was the cost to each licensed entity of those appointments?

2090

Hon. D A Feetham: Can the Government please provide details of the 50 licences that the CEO of the FSC told GBC on 18th December 2017 had been issued in the areas of insurance, pensions and banking?

Hon. D A Feetham: During her interview with GBC on 18th December 2017 the CEO of the FSC said there had been a new approach to enforcement by the FSC. Is the Government content with this new approach?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, firms will continue to have the right to apply to court to stay decisions of the GFSC, and in 2017 there were 21 appeals from 11 firms to the Supreme Court.

Since 2007, no inspectors have been appointed under section 101 of the Financial Services (Insurance Companies) Act 1987 to investigate insurance activities and consequently the answer to Question 74/2018 is no firm was engaged to carry out this work.

Under section 8 of the Financial Services (Information Gathering and Co-Operation) Act, one inspector was appointed in 2014 and four inspectors were appointed in 2017. Under section 7 of the same Act no skilled persons have been appointed since the Act was introduced, and since 2013 one hybrid skilled person with the powers of an inspector has been appointed. All persons appointed under this Act have been from firms in Gibraltar and the United Kingdom.

Where firms have paid moneys to meet the costs of inspectors or skilled persons pursuant to sections 7 and 8 of the Act, or hybrid appointments of skilled persons, that information is confidential to the firms. In respect of fees incurred by the GFSC themselves, the GFSC in its annual report provides details of all these payments made to firms.

2115

In 2017 there were 47 new licences issued, which naturally include insolvency practitioners, statutory auditors and individual directorships, and a further four were licence extensions. All of these are on the GFSC website.

2120 The Government is content with the enforcement strategy of the GFSC.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just in relation to the penultimate answer that the hon. Gentleman gave in terms of the breakdown, can he provide me with an actual breakdown of the 50 licences?

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, the firms themselves where licences were granted are online. I am not going to give you the firms, but if you want the areas: AFIM authorised, one; AFIM registered, five; bank extension, one; bureau de change, one; category 3 investment firm, one; company manager, four; EIF, six; EIF directors, two; E - money institution, one; general insurance intermediary, one; individual company manager, eight; insolvency practitioner, one; insurance cell, three; insurance company, six, which includes three extensions; insurance intermediary general, one; insurance manager, six; personal pension scheme controller, one; statutory auditor, two.

2130

Clerk: We now return to Question 47. The questioner is the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Sorry, Mr Speaker, can I just go back to the Minister's answer to Question 82 and ask him if he is entirely satisfied or he identifies himself with the comment from Ms Barrass, who said that the new statutory regime that will come into force over the next year will look and smell a lot like the UK? Is that the Government's intention?

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, Question 82 was in respect of the enforcement strategy and the enforcement strategy has been in place since 2016. I am not sure if this question is in any way related to it. Don't forget that the LRP programme, that may be what I think you are picking up on, which ... I have not seen or heard that quote, or read that quote so I am not going to be able to address myself to it, but I can tell you that the LRP is a Government programme which we are working on hand in hand with the FSC and it is the subject of extensive consultation with the Finance Centre Council and will be the subject of further public consultation before then. So it is not as if the LRP is in the ownership of the FSC; we are working with them. It is very much Government driven. It is legislation and therefore there will be full and complete consultation with the sector, even though we have already started that with the Finance Centre Council in tranches, which is the most manageable way to deal with it. We are comfortable that we will get the result that we all want.

HOUSING AND EQUALITY

Q47/2018

New affordable housing scheme – Expressions of interest forms received

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise how many expressions of interest forms have been received in respect of the new affordable housing scheme announced on 28th September 2017?

2160 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, a total of 4,087 questionnaires have been received since 28th September 2017.

Q48/2018
Regulation of private landlords –
Government position

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state its position in relation to the regulation of private landlords?

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the regulation of private landlords is provided for in the Housing Act 2007. This Act, and particularly the provisions that relate to commercial residential landlords, is currently under review.

Q49/2018
Disability Act 2017 –
Delay re coming into force

2175

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, why is the Government delaying the coming into force of the Disability Act 2017 debated in this House in July last year.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, Government is not delaying the coming into force of the Disability Act. May I remind the hon. Gentleman that this Government has pioneered legislation that will give people with disabilities more rights and respect within our community, something that no previous Government has delivered.

2185

It is normal practice when large pieces of legislation are introduced that they not come into force immediately and that their implementation be staggered so that everyone is familiar with the obligations under the Act. I made this clear and said that extensive training and awareness would be provided on the legislation ahead of it coming into force, and this is exactly what we have been doing to ensure that the legislation is an absolute success.

2190

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, does the hon. Member have a schedule by when she estimates the staggering of the effective dates to be?

2195

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, as I have said before, we have a schedule that will deliver some ... I have said in the past that the introduction of the legislation will be staggered, some sections of the legislation will be introduced sooner than others, but the hon. Gentleman needs to understand that this legislation primarily relates to Government policy and 2200 he can rest assured that Government policy is up to speed on matters of equality, inclusion and disability and all the policies are being applied throughout the Government in a way that is unprecedented.

2205 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, if you will allow this supplementary: during the Disability Act debate and prior to that debate coming to this House we had a private conversation in which the hon. Lady assured me that there would be guidelines being published as from September in areas where the legislation is not being introduced because the domestic legislation already provides for that. Does the hon. Lady have an estimated date by when those guidelines will be published? I have not seen anything.

2210 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, in fact the guidance booklet that the hon. Gentleman is referring to, that I explained I would be issuing as a further assistance and guidance in the successful implementation of this landmark legislation, has already been published. From memory I am sure that we have published two and possibly three. We are publishing them as we go. In fact, we are publishing them in order to deliver the training so that people have a point of reference when they undergo the training – people particularly internally in different 2215 Government Departments – so that they have a point of reference on what is required from them in terms of policy and in the legislation.

Q50/2018

Supported independent living – Plans for those with mental health problems

Clerk: Question 50. The Hon. L F Llamas.

2220 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, does the Government have any plans to provide supported independent living for members of our community who suffer from mental health problems?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

2225 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there are now various types of provision of supported independent living for people with mental health problems. What is offered is person centred and according to individual needs.

There is residential accommodation provided at the new Ocean Views for some patients who have been clinically discharged but require a high level of supervision and support.

2230 As a result of collaboration between the Housing Department and the GHA, there now also exist flats in the community which are staffed by clinical carers provided by the GHA Mental Health Services.

Furthermore, for those who are independent, they will live in the community with outreach support provided via the GHA or the Care Agency.

2235 And finally, in addition, the Housing Department has developed a protocol with the GHA in the event that an existing tenant may require support, so that referrals and assistance are seamlessly provided.

Q51/2018
Housing waiting list –
Backdated applications

Clerk: Question 51. The Hon. L F Llamas.

2240 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, since December 2011, can the Government provide details of applicants to the housing waiting list who have had their applications backdated, including: (a) the date the application was accepted; (b) the list the applicant was placed on; (c) the position on the list the applicant entered in; (d) the date the applicant was removed from the list; (e) the type of property the applicant obtained on removal from the list (Government rental, affordable housing or other)?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

2250 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, since December 2011 a total of 11 applications have been backdated. Details are as follows: (a) eight applications were accepted in 2012, two in 2013 and one in 2016; (b) all the applicants were on the waiting list; (c) this information is not reflected in our records; (d) one applicant was removed in 2012, one in 2013, four in 2014, three in 2015, one in 2017 and one in 2018; (e) all properties allocated were Government rentals.

Q52/2018
Housing matters –
Lack of statistical information on Government website

2255 Clerk: Question 52. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Minister for Housing explain the lack of statistical information in respect of housing matters on the Government website?

2260 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

2265 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, we had noticed some errors in the information that was being uploaded and as a result of this we carried out an in-depth review of the whole system. The new format has now been agreed and the Housing Department is in the process of inputting the statistics in the new format and will upload them as soon as they are ready.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, the same question was posed almost one year ago by my hon. Friend to my right, Edwin Reyes, and the hon. Lady then said, and I quote:

Discrepancies and inaccuracies in the presentation of the data were noticed. The complete system is currently under review in order that statistics going forward are presented as accurately as possible. I hope the exercise is complete within six months.

2270 I would like to ask why it is still an ongoing issue and why, if a year ago we were referring to the statistics of the year before, why is it that the statistics of the last year are not up now. Why are they being treated in the same way as the problem that had occurred a year ago with the year before?

2275 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, I have already given the reason. It has got nothing to do with them being either this year's or last year's. It is that they were wrong. They were being collated in the wrong manner, unfortunately, and they were not being presented in a manner that I thought was helpful. That is why I asked that there be a review in the way that we gather the information and that we present the information in a way that is obviously accurate and more 2280 relevant to anybody who is checking the statistics. The information needs to be drawn from various Departments and that is where the main source of the confusion was coming from, because we had to rely on statistics provided to us by the Housing Department and by the Housing Works Agencies and various other entities as well, and it just happened that figures were not matching.

2285 We have looked at the whole system. It has unfortunately taken the Department a bit longer than they envisaged but I was presented with the new draft formats at a meeting, I think some two weeks ago. The whole format has been agreed and it is a question of the Department just getting the information up to date so that it can all be uploaded at once.

2290 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you for that answer. Considering that we are already six months past the timing that the hon. Lady gave us, how much longer are we to wait before we can expect the statistics to be up and running again?

2295 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I know that the Department has been working very hard on this, which is something of course that they need to do over and above the day-to-day business of the running of the Housing Department and the hundreds and hundreds of calls that they receive on a daily basis from members of the public. As I have just said in the answer to the previous supplementary, I was presented with a final review of what was going to be presented and the Department is currently in the process of analysing the data that is going to be presented. I do not think it will take very long; I would envisage maybe a couple of weeks. I know 2300 that the Department is giving it a lot of priority, but priority in the whole context of allocating flats as soon as possible and dealing with repairs and dealing with the ordinary day-to-day business of the Department.

DEPUTY CHIEF MINISTER

Q84/2018
Key worker housing –
Update

Clerk: We move to Question 84. The Hon. E J Phillips.

2305 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government update the House on the development of key worker housing?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

2310 Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Yes, Mr Speaker, a total of three developments comprising 382 studio apartments and 139 one-bedrooms have been tabled before the Development and Planning Commission and described by the applicants as key worker accommodation.

Q85/2018

Bayside, St Anne's and St Martin's Schools sites – Expressions of interest received

2315

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise how many expressions of interest it received on 21st December 2017 for the sites of Bayside, St Anne's and St Martin's Schools respectively; and have any been accepted, and if so, for what consideration?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Mr Speaker, the Government has received two expressions of interest for the Bayside School sites, two for the St Anne's School sites and five for the St Martin's School sites. They came in just before the Christmas break and are still under consideration.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for his answer. Does he have an idea as to when these will be determined? Does he think in the next months, six months or the lifetime of this Parliament, or some other timeframe?

2330

Hon. Deputy Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the expressions of interest are still under consideration and we are still looking at them, so it is really difficult to determine at this stage how long that process is going to take.

2335

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you. And would it be the Government's intention that the expressions of interest, if they are accepted ... that there would be payments in advance of the site being vacated, or would you expect a land sale to go through after the site has been vacated?

2340

Hon. Deputy Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, those issues will be part of the negotiation, whichever entities turn out to be successful in this process.

2345

Hon. R M Clinton: I see. So, Mr Speaker, if I understand the Minister correctly, the Government at the moment has not set out a negotiating position as to what it is it would prefer?

2350

Hon. Deputy Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Government has not yet decided with which of the parties it wants to negotiate, neither what the terms of the negotiation will be. Once we establish and we analyse the contents of all the different expressions of interest, we will be in a better position to answer that question.

2355

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, just one final question for the Minister. Of the expressions of interest received, would he be able to advise if, certainly for each of the three sites, there has been one particular tender that has tendered for all three sites; or, Mr Speaker, if I may clarify, there has been a tenderer that has tendered for each of the three sites?

2360

Hon. Deputy Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I would not be able to answer that question because I do not want to mislead the House. I am not absolutely sure. If the hon. Member would be kind enough to table that question again in the next meeting of the House, I will have the information before me at that point.

Q86/2018

Chinese and Commonwealth nations –
Nature of interest in Gibraltar

Clerk: Question 86. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Deputy Chief Minister state precisely what interest the Chinese and leading nations of the Commonwealth have shown in Gibraltar following his statement in his New Year's message to that effect?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Mr Speaker, the interest that exists is commercial and economic.

In relation to China, this is being driven by my colleague the Minister for Economic Development, Sir Joe Bossano, and also the Minister for Commerce, Albert Isola.

The interest shown on the part of Commonwealth countries, while also commercial and economic, comes in the context of the decision taken by the United Kingdom to leave the European Union and the new trading relationships that are expected to emerge post Brexit. There is also a political dimension to this.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, thanks for that answer. Would the Deputy Chief Minister be able to provide details of which are those leading countries in the Commonwealth we are currently dealing with?
2380

Hon. Deputy Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, some of those are public and we have made announcements of the countries that we have met. Others I would rather not tell the hon. Member across the floor of the House because in our experience then those countries get written to by third parties and we would rather avoid that situation, so I am very happy to tell him outside the Chamber.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I am left with no doubt that the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano KCMG MP has left the Chamber to avoid us once again tributing him for the award that he has received from Her Majesty the Queen. I warned him that we would once again engage in tributes before the recess and before the adjournment and he quickly decided that he would leave the Chamber rather than suffer again the ignominy of us telling him how much we value him and his contribution to public life.

Mr Speaker, I would now adjourn the House to Monday, 29th January at 2.30 in the afternoon. If it is of any assistance to Members, I intend to deal with the remaining business of the House on that day and adjourn sine die if time allows at the end of that evening.

Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn to Monday, 29th January at 2.30 in the afternoon.

The House adjourned at 6.40 p.m.

Questions for Oral Answer

TOURISM, EMPLOYMENT, COMMERCIAL AVIATION AND THE PORT

Q44/2018

Visitor arrivals –

Figures for July to December 2017

Clerk: We now move to Answers to Oral Questions and we resume at Question 44.
The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can Government provide the totals for visitor arrivals by land, air and cruise ships and the total visitor arrivals if different from the sum of the above, by month for the months of July to December 2017?

25

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the information requested in respect of the visitor arrivals by land, air and cruise ships, as well as the total visitor arrivals for the months July to December 2017 is as follows. I have been provided with the information on the answer sheet rather than as a schedule, so I will read them out and I can make a copy available later on to the hon. Member.

Visitor arrivals by land, air and cruise ships July to December 2017: July, land 877,848, air 29,533, cruise ships 44,616; August, land 1,028,424, air 28,038, cruise ships 59,557; September, land 943,587, air 27,545, cruise ships 57,214; October, land 932,691, air 17,000, cruise ships 47,744; November, land 808,481, air 10,028, cruise ships 33,332; December, land 762,411, air 9,179, cruise ships 11,689.

35

In respect of all visitor arrivals from July to December 2017: July, total visitor arrivals were 953,771; August, 1,117,861; September, 1,029,745, October, 998,916; November, 852,896; December, 783,872.

Q45/2018

Civil Contingencies Co-ordinator – Filling of post

40

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, further to its advertisement on 7th August 2017, can the Government advise if the position of Civil Contingencies Co-ordinator has been filled; and if so, by whom?

45

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the post was filled by Lieutenant Colonel Ivor Lopez, the Ex-Commanding Officer of the Royal Gibraltar Regiment. He took up his duties on 7th September 2017.

Hon. R M Clinton: I thank the Minister for his response. Mr Speaker, can the Minister advise what qualification he has in respect of emergency planning, resilience and response?

55

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I was not involved in the selection process, so I have not looked at that, but he was the Ex-Commanding Officer of the Royal Gibraltar Regiment and I expect that he would have been very well versed and very well qualified in all types of emergency and logistics planning.

60

What I can tell the hon. Member, given that he took up his post on 7th September 2017, is that he is in fact doing an excellent job in all the logistics and emergency planning in Gibraltar from a civil contingencies point of view. As Minister for Civil Contingencies, I am absolutely delighted with the work that he is doing. That is not to take anything away from his predecessor, Leslie Edmonds, who did the job for a number of years after his retirement from the Fire Service, but now we have a full-time and, I consider, very ably qualified person doing this very important job for Gibraltar.

65

Tourism Instagram page –
Lack of activity

Clerk: Question 46. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Could the Ministry of Tourism account for the lack of activity in its page on social media platform Instagram since July 2017?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi):
Mr Speaker, the Gibraltar Tourist Board operates three channels of social media, namely Twitter, Facebook and Instagram. We have been active on Twitter and Facebook but, due to an oversight, not on Instagram since July last year. This was rectified as soon as the oversight was brought to our attention.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, thank you to the Minister for that answer. Will the Government from now on prioritise Instagram, as it has said that it does with Facebook and Twitter, in order for Gibraltar's profile not to come across as shoddy, because Instagram is a very prominent social media platform these days?

85

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I do not agree that we come across as shoddy in any way just because we have not been active on Instagram. It is not a question of prioritising Instagram over other social media platforms but ensuring that we are active on Instagram in the same way as we are on the other platforms.

90

This was, as I mentioned, an oversight. Systems have been put in place to make sure that this sort of thing does not happen, and people will be overseeing the activity on all three social platforms to make sure that Gibraltar gets the exposure on this media that we should get and we deserve.

HEALTH, CARE AND JUSTICE

Q53/2018
Parole system –
Aspects for reform

Clerk: We move now to Question 53. The Hon. D A Feetham.

95

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, what aspects of the parole system is the Government considering reforming?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

100

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the question of reform of the parole system is currently being considered by the Law Commission.

The entire system of parole in Gibraltar is under review. The Law Commission has requested evidence, following its first meeting on 12th December last year, from a number of stakeholders so as to inform its views. These include the Parole Board, the Prison Service and the Probation Service. It is likely that further evidence will be sought following the second meeting.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, does the Hon. the Minister for Justice agree with me that great care needs to be taken in relation to reform of the parole system here in Gibraltar, in particular in relation to very serious crime?

110 The question of parole in the United Kingdom has come under a lot of media scrutiny in relation to the Worboys case, and does he not agree with me that at the moment the law in the most serious of cases – and I am talking about sentences that are life sentences – require ... a prisoner will not be granted parole unless he presents no risk to the public? That, at the moment, is the test and does he not agree with me that it is important not to water down that test?

115 I will just give him an example of why that is so by reference to, for example, what is going on in the UK. If you ever had a Worboys case here in Gibraltar, there is nowhere to hide for the victims of rape, for example, which it is in that instance. I am not suggesting that it is justified that Worboys be released in the United Kingdom – it has come under a lot of criticism – but in 120 the UK you can move into the next borough or the next county or you can go north, you can go south or you can move away. Here in Gibraltar you cannot do that, you cannot move into the next county, and you are likely to be coming face to face with the perpetrator of a very serious crime.

125 There is also an additional reason, in my respectful view, which ought to be kept in mind as to why we should not water down the requirements in relation to parole. In Gibraltar, as indeed in the United Kingdom, when an individual applies for parole or comes up for parole, the victims are asked for their view. In Gibraltar it is very difficult for a victim of a very serious crime to be providing their views honestly and earnestly because going through that victim's mind, what that person will have in their mind is, 'Well, if I add another year or another two years or 130 another three years to a person being incarcerated because of representations that I have made, if that person then comes out and I cannot avoid that person down Main Street or in town it is going to be very awkward,' or, naturally, a victim is going to be thinking there could be repercussions for the victim, rightly or wrongly. Therefore, it is really important that we are very careful about the work that is done in this area and for the very serious crimes – serial rapists, rapes, violent crimes – that the requirements that are there in place today are not watered 135 down.

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I think that the hon. Gentleman has asked me two questions among his remarks.

140 I am not sure from where he makes the assumption that we are in any way talking about watering down the provisions –

Hon. D A Feetham: I am not saying that.

145 Hon. N F Costa: – of the Prisons Act; quite the contrary. My view – and it is a personal view and I am obviously only one of the Law Commissioners; there are other Law Commissioners who will be weighing into the review of the parole system – is we will be looking at the point at which a person becomes eligible for parole, whether the eligibility for parole should vary depending on the type of offence for which the person has been sentenced and we will be looking at the models in other jurisdictions.

150 I think that the fact that we have a Supreme Court Judge, the Stipendiary Magistrate and other senior members of the community and the fact that we are asking for evidence from professionals like the Parole Board and the Probation Services and HM Prison, shows the seriousness with which we are embarking on this very serious endeavour. Therefore, the hon. Gentleman can rest assured that we will take our deliberations and the evidence as put to us extremely seriously. But to assuage any concern that the hon. Gentleman may have, we are in no way, even before having heard any evidence and even before entering into the minutiae of the deliberations, thinking of diluting any part of the Prisons Act.

Escalators outside Hospital – Repairs

160

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, considering the amount of time that the escalators outside the Hospital have been unserviceable, does the Government plan to repair them; and if so, when?

165

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the escalators outside the Hospital are currently operational.

Q55/2018

Gibraltar Health Authority –
PricewaterhouseCoopers review

170

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, further to Press Release 626/2017 on 23rd October 2017, can the Government advise if the PwC value for money review of the Gibraltar Health Authority has been completed and will the Government provide a copy of PwC's report?

175

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the PwC audit has not been completed to date. These reports are commercially sensitive and will not be made public.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, given that the report is for the benefit of the GHA, I personally fail to see why they would be commercially sensitive. Perhaps the Minister could indicate to the House why, in his belief, they would be commercially sensitive.

185

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, it is not my belief: the reports are commercially sensitive. They are being prepared by a firm of accountants and therefore the nature of the report concentrates on financials, procurements, processes and contracts, and within those reports there will be detail relating to contracts between the GHA and a particular operator and there will also be detail and advice to the GHA on how to, for example, obtain better value for money and how best to achieve that. To lay upon the table of this House or to provide a copy will be to disclose any strategy that is contained therein which has been designed for, as he says, the benefit of the GHA to be able to get the maximum out of the advice that PwC provides us to see how we obtain value for money in procurement and other areas and how to better manage contracts with certain providers.

I tell him all of this just so that he understands my thinking, but quite apart from the fact that I would not have made the reports public in any case, the business terms do not allow us to make the reports ... private. It makes it very clear that the reports be fed only and exclusively for the GHA and that they are not to be copied to anybody else.

200

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, as the Minister will be well aware, usually those disclosure provisions also include a paragraph that says 'not without our prior permission', so I am sure PwC, if the Minister asked, would be more than happy to do so.

Besides that, my question to the Minister is: would he be willing to make at least available what the terms of reference were for the report?

205 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, as I have told the Hon. Mr Llamas, I will be happy to make a statement once the advice that has been provided to us by PwC has borne fruit, but to provide in public details of what it is that we are looking into will necessarily alert those partners the GHA currently has contracts with that we are looking into these matters. We want to be able to keep our powder dry, look at the very detail and granularity of those relationships, dissect them, understand them, see how we can make them better and then go to those commercial partners. To ventilate those details in public will in effect neuter our ability to do so.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I understand what the Minister is saying.
If I can just ask one final supplementary: have PwC used the services of the Principal Auditor in any way, or are they doing this completely independently?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the services being provided are completely independent of the Principal Auditor.

220 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I ask a supplementary? The starting point, in my respectful view, on matters of disclosure must be surely that it is in the interests of transparency to disclose reports on important work by the Government. Therefore, if it is possible to disclose, and particularly, I also say, in an area where there has been a considerable overspend over the last few years, which is health – and I saw the hon. Gentleman’s interview on GBC a number of weeks ago just precisely on that point ... Because of transparency, because it is an area of overspend, there is a public interest in more, not less, disclosure, and therefore will the Minister not agree to reconsider his position and perhaps disclose the report in a redacted version, or alternatively more generic parts of the reports, leaving out specifics that may impact on commercially sensitive information?

230 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, as the hon. Gentleman knows, because I was on his side of the House six years ago, there has been an overspend in the GHA I think every year – except one, in fact, under my hon. predecessor Dr John Cortes – so the House is fully aware of the overspend in the GHA.

235 In respect of whether the report ought to be redacted and parts disclosed, I will not change my position because, in addition to the reasons I provided to the Hon. Mr Clinton, the reports will necessarily also mention officials within the GHA who have been dealing with and have been managing these relationships, and to therefore ventilate any part of the report, where the community will be able to see immediately who are those persons managing those relationships, any statements made therein will undoubtedly impact on the person. So for that reason as well I will not be making the reports public.

245 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, attempting to find common ground across the floor of the House on what is an important issue, what about a statement to the House on the report when the report is produced that deals with generics, non-specific –

Hon. N F Costa: I have already said so, yes.
Mr Speaker, I am grateful that the hon. Gentleman has given way. As I have already explained to the Hon. Mr Clinton and to the Hon. Mr Llamas, I will be making a statement in Parliament, which will probably be during the course of my Budget speech, that will set out the fruit of the advice provided by PwC, and by the remarks I will make, generalised as though they will be, it will be clear on what areas we have sought advice.

Q56/2018
Obesity in Gibraltar –
Under-17s

Clerk: Question 56. The Hon. E J Phillips.

255 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, in light of recent PCC statements regarding obesity, can the Government confirm what is the current obesity level, by percentage, of persons under the age of 17?

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I refer the hon. Gentleman to the Health Matters report of 2015, available on the GHA website, where the following statistics are available with regard to obesity levels in Gibraltar: 60% of Gibraltar's population are overweight or obese and 24% of Gibraltar's population are obese. The obesity level by percentage for persons under the age of 17 is not available.

265

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, would the Minister agree with me that, given the fact that obesity is a very complex issue involving behaviour, environment and possibly genetics and culture, that we should improve the strategy in relation to obesity? And what are the Government's short-to-long-term aims in relation to reducing obesity in Gibraltar?

270

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, given that it is his first supplementary question, I really do not want to seem combative but I have politely referred him to the GHA's lifestyle survey where the objectives of the Government are clearly stated. I have nonetheless also given him some information, even though it is public, and as the hon. Gentleman knows, given that the information is public he should not even be asking me the question.

275

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, to respectfully disagree, I have asked an important question about obesity levels in our community relating to children, which I think should be an important aspect of his work, and frankly, to be referred to public documents is completely ridiculous. I have asked this very simple question on how we are going to tackle obesity in our children and there should be an answer to that question. He should be able to answer that question. If he does not have the information, will he be able to ascertain what the obesity level is for children under the age of 17?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, it really takes some nerve to come to this House late, not be acquainted with the Rules of the House – (Interjections)

Mr Speaker: Order! Let's keep our cool.

Hon. N F Costa: – which clearly states in Standing Orders that if information is publicly available the Rules of the House do not permit questions to be put to Government Ministers.

I politely, and for his ease of reference, read out what part of the GHA lifestyle survey says and I have politely told him now, again, that if he wants more information he can refer to the public document and, once he has read it, if there is no information within it which he wants, he can then ask me a question in the House.

Q57/2018

Alternative and homeopathic remedies – Government position re GHA

Clerk: Question 57. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, what is the Government's position in respect of alternative and homeopathic therapies at the GHA?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, any treatment or therapy provided to a patient must be of the highest standards and based on the best clinical evidence and clinical peer reviews. There are many alternative and homeopathic therapies that do not fulfil these criteria and, as such, cannot be supported by the Gibraltar Health Authority.

Q58/2018

Stem cell therapy –
GHA position

Clerk: Question 58. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, what is the GHA's position with regard to the use of stem cell therapy?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, there are currently very few clinical indicators for the use of stem cell therapy in mainstream clinical practice in the NHS and other publicly funded European health services. This technology is improving all the time and it is the Government's policy to allow these therapies, as long as they are approved by the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence in the United Kingdom.

Q59/2018

St Bernard's Hospital catering – Provision of healthy eating options

Clerk: Question 59. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm what measures are in place to ensure that food prepared for in-patients at St Bernard's Hospital and for purchase by visitors contains low sugar and low salt and provides for healthier eating options?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the GHA caters for individual diets. Low-sugar and low-salt options are available upon request.

330 The GHA liaises closely with their top specialist dieticians. The menu always has a light/low-fat option, mainly of grilled fish such as fresh tuna, swordfish, salmon, cod and lean chicken breast and meats, amongst other offerings. Patients who require a low-salt diet will receive a low-salt diet and this is the case for an endless array of special diets, which can simply be gluten or lactose intolerance or a more complex ketogenic diet.

335 All meals are freshly cooked and served. Since the catering department was relocated to St Bernard's Hospital it can act swiftly in cases where patients have concerns over any meal not of their liking and a new alternative is supplied to the patient within minutes. This, unfortunately, was not the case when the former administration located the catering department in the North Mole: any concerns raised by patients took a long time for the situation to be resolved.

340 The Hospital canteen is operated by a commercial entity that provides a varied menu for visitors and staff and also allows for clients to order out of the standard menu as requested.

Q60/2018
St Bernard's Hospital –
Bed capacity rate

Clerk: Question 60. The Hon. E J Phillips.

345 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm the bed capacity rate over the last three months?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

350 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, total bed capacity is 130 beds and there have been no changes over the last three months.

Q61-62/2018
Accident and Emergency –
Average wait time; wait target

Clerk: Question 61. The Hon. E J Phillips.

355 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state what the average wait time is at A&E?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

360 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, this question will be answered together with Question 62.

Clerk: Question 62. The Hon. E J Phillips.

365 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state what the A&E wait target is?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, over the last three months the news headlines in the UK once again, and highly regrettably, have been about an 370 NHS in crisis. I think the whole House will have been shocked to have read of patients dying in hospital corridors and waiting for hours in the back of ambulances during the ongoing winter crisis because the NHS has been unable to cope due to underfunding and understaffing. In recent weeks 375 some hospitals have been so overloaded that they have been looking after as many as 120 patients a day in corridors and nurses are also treating patients in the back of ambulances. Overcrowding and understaffing has forced the NHS to cancel hundreds of thousands of routine operations with the Health Secretary in the UK apologising unreservedly to those affected. It has also been reported that under-pressure medics have stated they were working in 'battlefield' conditions, prompting 16 hospitals to declare black alerts, which is the highest level of alert and means full 380 bed capacity has been reached and that patients arriving at A&E were having to be taken to another hospital. NHS figures show that on one particular busy night 18 large hospitals in 12 NHS trusts across England did not have a single spare bed. My own personal alarm was compounded when I read that senior doctors had written to the British Prime Minister that, due to winter pressures, some patients were dying prematurely. New NHS figures have disclosed that the 385 percentage of patients being treated within four hours at hospital-based A&E units in England fell last month to its lowest level ever, 77.3%, triggering the following statement from the Royal College of Emergency Medicine, which represents A&E doctors: 'Our emergency departments are not just under pressure, but in a state of emergency.' The Imperial College Healthcare Trust has said its A&E is currently working at twice its capacity.

It is in the light of these sometimes harrowing facts about the state of the NHS and against 390 this background that I come to consider Gibraltar's Accident and Emergency Department. As this House knows from press reports, Gibraltar is also experiencing a surge in winter influenza and other flu-like illnesses. The A&E department saw a total of 500 attendances from 22nd December to 27th December 2017 and the wards have had increased admissions from just before Christmas.

395 During 2017 the A&E Department attended to 31,931 patients. In December last year 382 patients presented at A&E with flu-related symptoms. This was 44% higher than during the same period in 2016. Of those 382 patients, 46 required admission to hospital. This is double the number compared to December 2016. Moreover, the total number of laboratory confirmed cases of influenza for the whole of last year was 193% higher than the previous year. Already 400 this month we have seen an increase in the number of confirmed cases of influenza of 25% when compared to last January. It really is therefore with great pride and satisfaction and with full credit to our dedicated A&E staff to note that the average waiting time at the A&E department during 2017 from arrival at A&E and being first seen by a clinician was one hour and 27 minutes. The average waiting time at the A&E department for the same year from arrival at 405 A&E to departure from the department was two hours and 47 minutes.

Notwithstanding the increase in A&E attendances in the whole calendar year, and the surge during December and the increased number of admissions due to influenza, the GHA has not had one single operation cancelled due to non-availability of beds since 10th January last year.
(Chief Minister: Hear, hear.) Further, there was average nightly bed capacity of 32 beds between 410 22nd December and the 27th December – that is to say during the most pronounced winter surge.

I am sure that all hon. Members will join me in unreservedly thanking the excellent and magnificent clinical, emergency, administrative and industrial staff at St Bernard's for their dedication and commitment to our community's care. I think that we must congratulate the 415 GHA for these average waiting times, which are well within the four-hour maximum waiting time set by the NICE guidelines, which is also our target. I will not hesitate to say that those of our staff who work at A&E are absolute angels of care and treatment. I will also say that the appointment of matrons has been a huge success. I would also add that part of our success has been linking social care and healthcare and providing care plans for patients at home.

420 It was heartening to see the British Prime Minister, the Rt Hon. Theresa May MP, follow our policy lead in this respect. It is now over a year since the Hon. the Chief Minister created the Ministry of Health and Care, something finally done in the UK only this month and warmly welcomed by all professionals. This joined-up approach has been instrumental in us ensuring bed resiliency. That is how A&E staff are able to admit those who need admission and that is how we ensure we do not have to cancel any operations.

But it will not surprise a single hon. Member in this House that I think that the system still has room for improvement so we can make the discharge of accident and emergency care more efficient for our excellent clinicians and emergency teams. To my mind our professionals are second to none and we must surely be the envy of other clinical settings, and I must work even harder still to facilitate the execution of their life-saving functions. To this end my Ministry the GHA and the A&E department in particular are actively assessing the Department's workings to determine how we can improve further.

Finally, Mr Speaker, I would add one more thing, which is that every member of our community is responsible for ensuring that they only attend A&E, in other words Accident and Emergency, if they have an accident or an emergency. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Any supplementaries following that short answer from the Minister? (Laughter)
Next question.

Q63/2018
A&E admissions –
Plans to reduce pressure

Clerk: Question 63. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, obviously this is a potentially linked question, therefore I reserve my bullets for this question.

What plans, apart from those recently announced for the PCC appointment initiative, do the Government have in respect of reducing pressure caused by the volume of admissions at Accident and Emergency?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I suppose that he meant the bullets metaphorically, given that we are talking about A&E services.

My Ministry and the PCC, including the Deputy Medical Director, PCC Manager and Clinical Nurse Manager, have been working on a series of measures it was due to announce on Wednesday, 17th January. Given the question that the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition has asked, we did not hold the press conference or issue the press release, in accordance with the conventions of this House. We will proceed to make a public statement after the conclusion of the question and answer session.

Further, an A&E consultant who started work at St Bernard's Hospital on 13th November is currently working on a review of the workings of the A&E department.

I take the opportunity to remind the House that in the last calendar year, 2017, my Ministry and the GHA have already introduced the following measures partly in an attempt to reduce pressure at A&E and the PCC. These actions are as follows: (1) new procedures and protocols in the Elderly Residential Services, following the recruitment of three part time GPs, to reduce the need for ERS patients to attend A&E and the PCC for medical attention; (2) the introduction of the Community Mental Health Team Outreach Programme for patients living with mental health issues, by way of three enrolled nurses with experience in mental health providing community services; and (3) increased staff at A&E to one senior charge nurse in every shift, including the night shift, and the recruitment of a full-time consultant.

Q64/2018
Gibraltar Health Authority –
Complaints from service users

Clerk: Question 64. The Hon. E J Phillips.

470 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm the number of complaints it has received from the service users of the Gibraltar Health Authority for every month in the last six months?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

475 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the number of complaints the GHA received from service users in the last six months is as follows: July, 16; August, 45; September, 44; October, 10; November, 19; December, 7.

Q65/2018
Gibraltar Health Authority –
Disputes with service users settled out of court

Clerk: Question 65. The Hon. E J Phillips.

480 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm how many disputes with service users have resulted in legal settlements/compromises, broken down into claims not issued or issued before the courts in the last 12 months?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

485 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, in the last 12 months the GHA settled a total of 11 disputes, 10 of which were settled out of court.

490 Hon. E J Phillips: In relation to those 10, were they in relation to those where claim forms had not been issued?

495 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, my supplementary information does not make it perfectly clear. The information says out-of-court settlements, so I am assuming that implicit in that note is that there have been claims issued and served, but I will, when I sit, send an email to my office and I will be able to answer him during the course of the House.

Q66/2018
St Bernard's Hospital –
Number of staff sick days recorded

Clerk: Question 66. The Hon. E J Phillips.

500 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm by percentage the number of sick days recorded, certified or otherwise, by staff at St Bernard's Hospital in the last three months?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, it is a disproportionately lengthy task to provide the percentage of the number of sick days recorded by all staff at St Bernard's in the last three months as this data would have to be manually retrieved and would entail going manually through thousands of records. I hope the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition understands that, given the laborious exercise, it would take staff away from their principal role in the Hospital. If the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition would like to know the percentage for medical, clerical or nursing grades, may I suggest he chooses one grade and one particular month.

We have, however, been able to extract by percentage the number of sick days recorded by ambulance and industrial staff at St Bernard's Hospital in the last three months: in respect of ambulance staff, sick days against daily staffing levels, 1%; industrial staff, sick days against daily staffing levels, 7%.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for that information and clarification as to how a figure could be arrived at if it was asked in a specific way, but would the Minister know the average sick rate across the board? I assume it would probably involve the same process and therefore be laborious and take our health workers away from their main tasks.

Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman is correct.

Q67/2018
St Bernard's Hospital –
Overtime

Clerk: Question 67. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state by percentage the level of overtime being conducted at St Bernard's Hospital by all staff over the last three months? Mr Speaker, I preface that that also may be information that may not be easily ascertainable.

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Actually, Mr Speaker, that was a lot quicker to retrieve, as we have been keeping a close eye on overtime being worked.

A total of 92% of the overtime annual budget has been worked by all staff at St Bernard's Hospital as at 31st December last year.

Q68/2018
Xanit –
Termination of arrangements

Clerk: Question 68. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm whether the arrangements with Xanit have been terminated?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

540

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I refer the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition to the answer that I provided Mr Llamas to Questions 655 and 656/2017. For the same reasons, principally that we are in the middle of detailed discussions with Xanit, I will not be drawn into providing a blow-by-blow account of the negotiations. I can assure the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition, however, that I will be happy to make a full statement to the House at the conclusion of those discussions.

545

Hon. E J Phillips: Whilst I appreciate, of course, that the Government may be in delicate discussions and negotiations with various parties, it is a pretty simple question as to whether we are now effectively reducing our use of Xanit or using some other provider.

550

I only ask this question because a number of people have asked me that question, given that their care has now been transferred somewhere else. Obviously I do not want to go into detail about any other service provider, but it is a very clear question. I do not want the detailed knowledge of the negotiations – clearly that would not be in the interests until that has been concluded by the Government – but some indication as to whether the Government now intends to lessen its reliance on Xanit and move to another service provider would be helpful, I think, to those people that are receiving those services in the public.

555

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I think I can answer the hon. Gentleman by saying this: whether treatment, procedures and so on are provided by one Spanish provider or another is ultimately a clinical judgement, so that if I recall the last email I may have seen on this subject, there have been Gibraltar patients attending reviews and even surgeries, but I will not be adding anything else to that answer.

560

Hon. E J Phillips: Just to clarify the position, as things currently stand the relationship with that particular Spanish provider that is in Question 68 has not yet been terminated – that is correct? The position is that the relationship is still ongoing and we have a contractual relationship with Xanit?

565

Hon. N F Costa: The position, Mr Speaker, is that we are discussing the arrangements.

570

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, one last question. Therefore, given the fact that matters are still at, I assume, high-level discussions between the Government and that service provider, are patients still being sent to that service provider?

575

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the answer that I just gave to the hon. Gentleman ... to be clear, I am not providing him with a yes or a no. I just want it to be clear. I also want to be clear that we are in the midst of the very granularity of the discussions. Notwithstanding those discussions and notwithstanding that, as you would expect, there are different positions by both parties to those discussions. As I have told him, from my own recollection of emails that I have read, patients have been referred to Xanit for follow-up appointments and I also recall procedure referrals only in December of last year. So, in short, patients have been attending Xanit recently as well.

Q69/2018

Hospital beds at home –
Long-term provision for sick children

Clerk: Question 69. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

590 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Does the Ministry of Health commit itself to providing a hospital bed for any child who may be sick enough to require one long term in his or her own home?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

595 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the Ministry for Health is entirely committed to provide all the necessary home equipment for children with long-term medical conditions once an assessment has been carried out by the Paediatric Multi-Disciplinary Team.

600 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Health give us an indication of how long this process can take from start to finish?

605 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I am advised that the average times are one week for the assessment and up to four weeks for procurement of the bed under normal circumstances; in an emergency a bed could be made available sooner.

610 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I ask because I have discussed one particular issue with the Minister in the past of a child who has been waiting for a much longer time than has been quoted to me just now. So I ask the Minister if he would be willing to reassess the process and its timing so that children do not suffer, effectively, by this delay.

615 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I am perfectly aware of the case that the hon. Lady raises. In fact, I have personally attended the premises and the Hon. the Chief Minister also attended the premises, so we are au fait with the facts of this particular case. I agree with you that the bed should have been provided much sooner to this parent in question. She knows me well enough to know that my reaction was not the coolest when I found out the time that it had taken –

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Far from temperate.

620 Hon. N F Costa: Far from temperate, the Hon. the Chief Minister is saying, and as a result of that we have most seriously tightened up the procedures in that respect, which is why I was careful to say the ‘average’ time.

CHIEF MINISTER

Q87/2018

Credit Finance Company Ltd – Financial information

Clerk: Question 87. The Hon. R M Clinton.

625 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide a copy of the financial information for Credit Finance Company Ltd for 2017, previously referenced as CF1 and CF2, that was in the past published on the Gibraltar Government website?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, as hon. Members will know, we are in the process of auditing the accounts of CFCL for the years since its incorporation. Once those audits are complete we will advise him that they are available at Companies House. This will then bring this company in line with all other Government companies, the accounts of which are also being completed despite the failure by the former administration to have even started these since the late 1990s. Once these audits are completed, we will then be in a position to provide an update to these figures with the certainty that they will be consistent with any adjustments arising from the audit process.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, the Chief Minister is aware that Credit Finance Company Ltd was in fact incorporated by his Government and there is absolutely no reason why the accounts should not have been audited and filed much earlier if he is such a proponent for early filing of audited accounts.

I fail to see why then the Government published, and in fact it is still available on their website, CF1 and CF2 for 2016 and I would be grateful if the Chief Minister could explain the inconsistency in his approach if he is happy to allow the 2016 figures to be publicly available but he will not release the 2017 figures.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, there is no inconsistency in my approach. I remind them every time I have the chance to do so that they stopped filing the accounts of the companies. I remind them that we have been committed to filing the accounts of the companies, the companies that they refer to when they are in opposition as a web of companies and they refer to when they are in Government as the totally proper and appropriate Government company structure.

The Government company structure is undergoing the audit process. We have had to recreate for many of the companies the accounts from the 1990s when they stopped filing the accounts. In terms of consistency, I applaud the fact that the hon. Member is in fact one of the few people who I think has actually been in the GSD since then, so perhaps I can be generous and blame him exclusively for all of the GSD's failings since the late 1990s.

What we are saying is that all of the company accounts will shortly be ready, including CFCL, and we want to ensure that there is consistency in the figures of the audit and in the figures that are published, and therefore we will publish all of the figures at the appropriate time, or rather we will file the accounts at the appropriate time.

I do not think there is any inconsistency in what I am saying. In fact, I am advised by those who also practise in his former profession and in whom I have more faith – at least, it is not that I have less faith in him, it is that I have more faith in the fact that they are looking after my back rather than he might be looking after my back – that what I am saying is entirely consistent with the position we have taken and absolutely the right approach to take.

But I would also say this, Mr Speaker: when he sees the audited accounts of CFCL, what he will see, and I trust he will comment favourably on, is the full repayment of the Sunborn loan.

A Member: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, in order for me to comment favourably or unfavourably on any repayment of any loans, I trust the Chief Minister is undertaking to ensure that Credit Finance Company Ltd files its full accounts at Companies House and not abbreviated accounts, as I have been told previously in answers to questions that I am only entitled to that which the public can see at Companies House, which is only that which the company is required to file at Companies House, i.e. an abbreviated balance sheet.

Is the Chief Minister committing to provide the full, unadulterated, unredacted financial statements of Companies House as signed off by Pricewaterhouse, the auditors?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, of course I am committing to file the full unredacted etc. filed, but what will be public will be what is public for every other company and he will be able to access what is public. If he is able to access such accounts in respect of the company of which he was a director for many years, he will be able to access similar accounts in respect of Credit Finance Company Ltd, nothing less – but obviously nothing more, Mr Speaker – and in that I would expect that he would want to talk about the full repayment of the Sunborn loan because every time we talked about Credit Finance Company Ltd before, (Interjection) we have wanted to talk about the Sunborn loan in his House.

685

The Hon. Mr Feetham actually – (Interjection) Mr Speaker, I am giving an answer which the hon. Gentleman might find is elliptical in its relevance and I might come back to something which is absolutely in point in respect of the issue that he is raising. Every time we have dealt with the issue of Credit Finance in this House it was the issue of the Sunborn loan which hon. Members said was the thing that was going to undo not just that company but the public accounts of Gibraltar. The Hon. Mr Feetham, when he was Leader of the GSD – in fact, during the General Election campaign and maybe even featuring the hon. Gentleman – was responsible for that party presenting party political broadcasts with reference to the Sunborn. In fact, I seem to recall the Hon. Mr Clinton playing Monopoly and buying and selling the Sunborn in the context of explaining these issues. (Interjection)

So, Mr Speaker, all of the information which is relevant to be able to make public determinations about Credit Finance Company Ltd is of course going into its accounts and he will be able to access such of the accounts that people are able to access in respect of companies in the normal way. I think that is absolutely appropriate, it is what we have been committed to and we are going to file them not just in respect of Credit Finance Company Ltd but in respect of every company in the Government group, including all of the companies that they stopped filing the accounts for. Let's be very clear: the GSD, of which he was then a Member, stopped filing the accounts of the Government companies. They were doing it and they stopped it, Mr Speaker. So if they are going to accuse us of not being transparent because we are playing catch-up in the filing of the Government accounts, can they at least take the blame for stopping the process of filing the company accounts?

710

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, we are talking about a company that they incorporated and has nothing to do with any catch-up exercise. Furthermore, Mr Speaker, it is becoming apparent that the Government only pays lip service to transparency in that they have only the intention of providing to the public the very bare minimum that is required. If I am correct in what the Chief Minister is saying, he is saying he will only publish that information that the company is required to publish, and I assume from that – and the Chief Minister can confirm yea or nay – it will be the abbreviated balance sheet or any other such information but not the full accounts. Frankly, Mr Speaker, without the full accounts there is very little sensible assessment that can be made of the state of the Credit Finance Company.

Furthermore, Mr Speaker, the Chief Minister conveniently sidestepped the question as to why CF1 and CF2 for 2017 have not been published on the Government website. It is still there for 2016, so why won't he publish it for 2017?

725

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, it is really quite remarkable that we are being told that all we are going to file is not enough because it is the bare minimum, and yet that is what the law requires; and it requires it not just of the Government but of every company that passes a particular threshold. Mr Speaker, the bare minimum. It is the bare minimum, and that is the description that the hon. Gentleman has given, that they failed to file in respect of the 730 Government companies. It is the law that they failed to comply with in respect of the Government companies.

Mr Speaker, this Government will comply with the law. We will reconstruct the accounts and we will file, as required by law, the accounts for all the Government companies. They cannot get off the hook that they made for themselves. They said in 1996 that they would file the accounts of Government companies. They started to do so when they were required by law to do so, because that came in under their time. Then they stopped doing so. They failed to comply with the bare minimum, they failed to comply with the law and now they say how dare we comply with the bare minimum – you could not make it up. (Banging on desks)

740 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, would the Chief Minister agree with me that any Government-owned companies are of public interest and therefore maximum disclosure is desirable?

745 Hon. Chief Minister: Absolutely right, Mr Speaker, and that is why we are going to comply with the maximum disclosure required by law, which they failed to comply with.

Mr Speaker: On to the next question please. We are getting unnecessary repetition. The same question is being asked and the Government, the Chief Minister, is giving the same answer. I have heard it three times. So unless you have something fresh to provide ... If you are going to ask the same question as your colleague has been asking, I am going to rule it out.

750 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I think that you have given pretty much a lot of indulgence to the Chief Minister in the way that he is answering the questions.

If I may be allowed to ask my own supplementary but also prefix this, as is the custom, (Mr Speaker: Short.) with two very short ... No, very short. I certainly was not a Member of this party in the 1990s when the practice first started, but of course I note that he was not a Member of the GSLP either, he was a Member of another party, and indeed – (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister) Absolutely, and indeed I do carry on my person, actually – I am very attached to it – a membership form of a Government Minister for the GSD, so obviously he was on this side, there was a Member on that side and there was a Member on this side too.

760 In relation to the Sunborn, Mr Speaker, never did I suggest in the exchanges that I had with the hon. Member – and I ask him to ferret out the position if it were otherwise – that the loan was going to cause the ruin of Gibraltar or the Sunborn. No, what I castigated the Hon. the Chief Minister about was that when I asked has the Government directly or indirectly provided any loans to the owners of the Sunborn he said no, and my point was that a Government-owned company is the Government indirectly providing loans. That was the point.

765 But, Mr Speaker, at the centre of our exchanges on Credit Finance has been my assertion, going back to 2013, that the Government had not been transparent and the Government's assertion for most of that time that in fact it was providing a lot of information certainly in these tables, CF1 and CF2, on the Government website. My question is: what has prompted the Government to change tack and go from that position, telling me just barely a year ago, 'We are providing all this information in CF1 and CF2' and now not publishing that information throughout 2017, and to date it has not been provided? Unless, of course, it is an oversight, and if it is an oversight that is the answer; but if it is being done on purpose, can the Government please explain the change of policy and the reason why it is now not providing that information, given that it underpinned the Government's arguments that it was providing all this information and therefore was being totally transparent with the people of Gibraltar?

770 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman must think that gambling is a very good thing and a sure bet, because in respect of Credit Finance and the public finances, and in particular in respect of Credit Finance and the Sunborn, he used to say, when he was the much missed then Leader of the Opposition, that we were gambling with Gibraltar's public finances because we were lending to the Sunborn. If that is not to say that we were taking an unnecessary risk by lending to the Sunborn, then I do not know – 785 Mr Speaker: May I tell the Chief Minister that if I hear the word Sunborn again I will move on to the next question.

Hon. Chief Minister: The Sunborn, Mr Speaker. (Laughter)

790 Mr Speaker: It is no longer necessary to bring the Sunborn Hotel into the ambit of the answers to the questions that are being asked.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman was saying that the lending to the vessel that is a hotel and casino which is moored at the area of the Ocean Village was a gamble and therefore a bad thing. Now that it has been seen publicly that we have been fully repaid, that Credit Finance has been fully repaid, I would have thought he would either wish to say that the gamble paid off and that we were right or, at least to acknowledge that perhaps it was not such a gamble after all.

800 In respect of the filing of the balance sheet, as I would have called it, all I am saying is we are about to file the audited accounts and that means I am advised it is better to proceed now with the audited accounts, and that is what we are going to do.

But, Mr Speaker, given your decision to move on to another question if I ever mention the word Sunborn again – Sunborn, Mr Speaker! (Laughter)

Q88/2018

South Jumpers Bastion site – Gibraltar Broadcasting Corporation relocation

805 Clerk: Question 88. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide a copy of a lease or licence agreement entered into in respect of the South Jumpers Bastion site for the relocation of GBC together with the option to purchase agreement?

810 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): I am almost tempted to start by saying the name of a hotel in the north district, Mr Speaker.

815 The commercial documentation entered into with the developer landlord for the new purpose-built premises at South Jumpers Bastion is commercially sensitive and is not a public document.

820 The key commercial terms were included in our press release, which is Press Release 745/2017, and are summarised as follows: the completion date is the end of 2019, the rental is £300,000 per annum and the option to purchase is at £7.5 million. I expect that this is normal in such circumstances. The lease will be entered into once the redevelopment is complete. Once we enter into the lease it will be registered with the Land Registry within the statutory period required for registration, as set out in Gibraltar law.

At this stage, the hon. Gentleman can seek a copy himself from the Land Registry at Land Property Services, as the terms of the lease will be entirely public and fully transparent.

825 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the Chief Minister's response. I would be grateful if the Chief Minister could explain the Government's reasoning for, on the one hand, tendering for the redevelopment of South Jumpers Bastion, awarding the tender for a total of £300,0000, entering into a licence agreement with the developer for that same £300,000 830 aforementioned and then an annual licence payment or licence fee of £100 a year – to go from that to an agreement which is, in his words, commercially sensitive, requiring a rent of £300,000 a year and an option to purchase for £7.5 million. And I would also be interested to hear how the sum of £7.5 million has been arrived at.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, I would have thought it was obvious for a man of commerce. What 835 he does not tell you there, Mr Speaker, in the context of the way that he has put it, is when that expression of interest or tender was granted. It was granted some years ago, and in fact the developers were developing that on their own account as an office building. They were developing it originally as their office building and then they decided to sell that office building. They had a number of parties interested. They approached the Government, we had to relocate 840 GBC and therefore we considered the possibility of that being the new home for GBC. At the same time, we were going out to expressions of interest in respect of another site. We waited for a little whilst we explored further with this particular development company the opportunities that they presented for us. We then decided that we nonetheless wanted to see what came out in terms of expressions of interest for GBC to be relocated to the site at Queen's 845 Hotel and Queen's Cinema. What came back we did not find more commercially attractive, so we decided that this was the more commercially attractive route to pursue.

It is a site that was granted to a third party, it will be developed by a third party and the building will be owned by a third party. We will be tenants in that building. That is the reason for the payment of the rent. It is not an unattractive rent for the size of the property, as the hon.
850 Gentleman might be able to work out for himself, and the option to purchase is to give an opportunity in the future, should we decide that it is more attractive to own rather than to rent, to have the opportunity to purchase.

That is the reasoning. I cannot imagine that he did not understand that when he set out to ask the question.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Chief Minister for his response. Can he advise the House whether any premium has been paid for that option?

Hon. Chief Minister: None, Mr Speaker.

Hon. R M Clinton: And, Mr Speaker, can the Chief Minister advise as to ... the decision to move into this location was considered in the context of his previous manifesto commitment to include it within the National Theatre complex; and if so, why the change in thinking now?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I have just explained it to him. I have just told him that we looked at the expressions of interest that came in respect of the Queensway and Queen's Cinema site, the Queen's Hotel and Queen's Cinema site, and they were not as commercially attractive as this option was. And this in any event will be completed sooner. GBC has been at its current location for well-nigh-on 30 years. It needs to move quickly and this 870 development is going to be available sooner than the other development. In consultation with the management and staff at GBC the decision was made that this was the better location for GBC, and given that this is a commitment to GBC and the people at GBC thought it was a better opportunity for them, that is why we pursued it.

Q89/2018

Buses –

Replacement of entire fleet using buy-back clause

875

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, is it Government's intention to replace the entire bus fleet by exercising the buy-back clause within the original purchase agreement during the life of this Parliament?

880

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the Government is looking at different possible permutations in respect of the buy-back clause.

Hon. T N Hammond: And, Mr Speaker, of those possible permutations, will one of them be exercised within the lifetime of this Parliament?

Hon. Chief Minister: They might all be, Mr Speaker.

Hon. T N Hammond: They might, but not definitely then.

Hon. Chief Minister: Some might definitely be, some might definitely not be.

Hon. T N Hammond: So is it possible that none will be?

895

Hon. Chief Minister: Anything is possible, Mr Speaker. (Laughter) Possibility in every direction, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks and laughter)

Q90/2018

Midtown Parking –

Modifications to pedestrian doors

900

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, further to the answer given to Question 557/2017, can the Government update this House on the modifications to the pedestrian doors at the Midtown Parking?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

905

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I understand that the developer and the contractor are about to make their recommendations to Government and we will be in a position to make an informed choice quite soon.

Q91-93/2018

Marriott Hotel, former coach site, Rooke site –
Status of development plans

910

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, further to question 209/2017, can the Government give reasons why the building of the Marriott Hotel or a second hotel option being discussed by the Government appears to have fallen through or changed?

915

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer with Questions 92 and 93.

Clerk: Question 92. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, what is the expected cost for the building of the prefabs at the former coach site and until when does the Government expect them to be there?

Clerk: Question 93. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government reveal with whom they are negotiating for the development of the former Rooke site?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the Hon member is making assumptions as to the redevelopment of the Rooke site which are not correct. Nonetheless, and as previously stated and suggested by the hon. Members opposite, an appropriate announcement will not be made on these developments until the ink is dry on the agreement.

935

The expected construction cost for the modular – and I must stress moveable – buildings being erected at the former coach site is £3,263,097. The entities being relocated from the Waterport site will operate from here until decisions are taken by the Government regarding their permanent future locations. These buildings will, however, have a life beyond their present temporary life at this site. They are easily capable of being dismantled and Government has already earmarked other potential future uses.

940

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, is the £3 million price paid just for the framework, or does that include the actual foundation fitted by the contractors?

Hon. Chief Minister: As far as I understand, the whole thing, Mr Speaker.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, with regard to the Marriott Hotel or the second hotel option, it is separate to the Rooke? My understanding is that nobody knows what is happening at the Rooke. It is at the Marriott or the second hotel option which seems to have fallen through or changed? I would appreciate it if the Chief Minister could offer some clarity on it. The last time we asked this question was back in March, I believe, and the reason given for not allowing cars to move into the area to have the area ready was to have it ready for use in case a contract was actually awarded. Could the Chief Minister offer some clarification on what is happening at that specific site?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman is wrong again. It is not true that nobody knows what is happening in respect of the Rooke site. It may be that nobody knows on that side of the House, but on this side of the House, various of us know what is happening in respect of the Rooke site. But hon. Members have elected to vote in the turkey referendum for Christmas and they have told us not to say anything until agreements have been completed, so we will indulge them in their election and we will not say anything until agreements have been completed.

In respect of what is known as the Victory Place side of the same plot, it is wrong to assume that there are not continuing discussions in respect of hotels and with different hotel chains.

Hon. L F Llamas: But is it then, Mr Speaker, that the Marriott Hotel and the second hotel option have moved away from discussions, or are these two potential candidates still in negotiations with the Government?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am not going to make an announcement until the ink is dry on the paper, but the hon. Gentleman is making assumptions and, as the hon. Gentleman knows, to assume makes an 'ass' of 'u' and 'me', to quote the American spelling of donkey.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, one final question, although I presume I know the answer: is the Government still negotiating with London and Regional Property as announced in October 2015 for the development of the Rooke?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave a few moments ago.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may ask a supplementary of the Chief Minister: how many prefabs are to be constructed on that site? Does £3.26 million just cover the ones now? How many are we talking? How many prefabs is it that that sum covers?

Also if I may ask the Chief Minister: where will we see that expenditure going through in the books of the Government? Will it be the Improvement and Development Fund, or is this being funded through a Government-owned company?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am going to need notice of the question in respect of the number of buildings because I think that there are different ways of looking at those buildings, and they are modular so I cannot remember exactly what the numbers of those buildings were. There are a number of them in different configurations that there are going to be; it is not just one building.

Mr Speaker, in terms of the expenditure, I believe this is company expenditure.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I would be grateful if the Chief Minister could advise which entity or company is actually paying for this.

I must say I must admit I find it surprising that the Chief Minister does not know what he is buying for £3.26 million, which is possibly half the cost of buying GBC's building.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, that is a complete nonsense. It is not that I do not know what I am buying; it is that he has asked me for a specific number and if I give him a number and I get it wrong then I will be misleading the House, even if I do so inadvertently, and I do not want to mislead the House even inadvertently.

His question does not arise from this because this is a question about cost; he is asking about the number of buildings. I can tell him there is one across, there is one which is vertical, there is one that is next to the old hut that was there, which is all about the area of St John Ambulance. So I can tell him from memory that it might be three, but if it is four or if there are two that make up one building, he will then accuse me of misleading the House.

If he wants to pretend that I do not know what I am doing, Mr Speaker, but have an argument with the 10,500 people that voted for him – for me, rather, which is almost double the number of people that voted for him ...

1015

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the Chief Minister's answers and I am happy to see he is still getting his numbers wrong.

Can he advise how many of these prefabs have been erected to date? And he still has not answered the question as to which Government company is paying for them.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman sometimes tells us that he is not a numbers man – I am not surprised, given the analysis that he has given a number of speeches in this House.

On the opposite side they say that he is their expert on finance and public finances. Well, he has come late to public finances. He seems to understand very little about public finances, and given that I have told him that I am unable to give him an exact number as to the buildings which have been erected, I am not going to be drawn any further. If he wants the number, he can just write to me and I will give it to him, or he can ask me again, but it is very clear that all he wants to do is to try and score political points. I thought he was supposed to be the serious one on that side; that is why I used to call him Mr Beige. He has got a bit of a spark, Mr Speaker, but for all the wrong reasons.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, obviously I should have got a law degree from Oxford in order to know something about numbers, but alas I did not, instead of which I am a chartered accountant, and I am sure he is as well.

Mr Speaker, I ask again, for the last time: which Government company is paying for this?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, it is not that I have said that the hon. Gentleman is not good with numbers; it is that he has said, in the course of some of the things he has said in this House, that he is not good with numbers. I am quite happy to get that little “chivatito” – which, by the way, in Spanish means ‘person who tells tales’ – to reflect back to him exactly when it was that he made those remarks, Mr Speaker.

He is, of course, I have no doubt, able to obtain a law degree from Oxford. I do not know what that jibe brings to this debate, but if he needs any references I will be delighted to say that I think he is not a bad bloke but that sometimes he gets things a little bit upside down.

1045

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, and you may tell me off again, I did say it the last time, but again: which Government company is paying for this?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I need notice of the question. That is what I told him before: I need notice of the question because that is not something that was set out in respect of the question originally put.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, just one supplementary: is the Chief Minister able to explain to us what procurement process, if any, has been carried out in constructing these portakabins?

1055

Hon. Chief Minister: The work has been undertaken by GJBS, Mr Speaker.

1060 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, was that through direct allocation or was it through the three-quotes system.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, GJBS is owned by the Government, so in effect we are doing it ourselves because it is being done by GJBS.

Q94/2018
Disability Allowance –
Reason for delay in increase

1065 Clerk: Question 94. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain why there is a delay since August last year in increasing the Disability Allowance in line with the cost of living?

1070 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I can confirm that the Disability Allowance has been increased in line with the cost of living as announced in my Budget speech last year.

1075 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, the Hon. the Chief Minister would perhaps take note and look into this. I have had representations from various members of the community and they assure me that there has been no increase in cost of living since August. They are promised continuously that this will take effect in December, then in January, and now they are hoping it will happen in February. Will the Chief Minister look into this, please?

1080 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I have checked and I am told that the Disability Allowance has been increased as set out in my Budget speech. The hon. Gentleman might want to check again.

Questions for Written Answer

1085 Clerk: We now move to answers to Written Questions, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to table the answers to Written Questions W1/2018 to W4/2018 inclusive.

Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

Order of the Day

BILLS

FIRST AND SECOND READING

Proceeds of Crime (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 – First Reading approved

Clerk: Order of the Day. Bills – First and Second Reading.

1090 A Bill for an Act to amend the Proceeds of Crime Act 2015 and for connected purposes.
The Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to 1095 move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Proceeds of Crime Act 2015 and for connected purposes be read a first time.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Proceeds of Crime Act 2015 and for connected purposes be read a first time.
Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Proceeds of Crime (Amendment No. 2) Act 2017.

Proceeds of Crime (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 – Second Reading approved

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill be now read a second time.

1105 The Bill expands the definition of ‘unlawful conduct’ within the Proceeds of Crime Act 2015. Unlawful conduct will also include behaviour outside Gibraltar by a public official which constitutes gross human rights abuse, defined as torture or inhuman, cruel or degrading treatment of a person on the grounds that they have been obtaining, exercising, defending or promoting human rights or have sought to expose gross human rights abuses 1110 conducted by a public official. As a result, any property obtained through this conduct will be subject to the existing civil recovery powers within the Act.

These amendments reflect a similar change made in the UK earlier this year stemming from the so called ‘Magnitsky Amendment’, named after the Russian lawyer Sergei Magnitsky. Mr Magnitsky was tortured and died in prison in Moscow in 2009 after exposing an alleged $230 million fraud carried out by certain leading Kremlin officials.

1115 Mr Speaker, I will also move amendments to the Bill during Committee Stage. The amendments make it a criminal offence for a person to breach the duty not to disclose confidential information held or obtained from the GFIU pursuant to section 1L.

An amendment to section 146(6) has also been made to clarify the role of appropriate persons such as the AG and police and customs officers in investigations under Part 6.

1120 Finally, an amendment is required to change the year and amendment number cited in clause 1 of the Bill. The Act shall now be known as the Proceeds of Crime (Amendment) Act 2018.

I commend the Bill to the House.

1125 Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of this Bill?

I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Proceeds of Crime Act 2015 and for connected purposes be read a second time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

1130 Clerk: The Proceeds of Crime (Amendment No. 2) Act 2017.

Proceeds of Crime (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today, if all hon. Members agree.

1135 Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 –
First Reading approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act 1987 and for connected purposes. The Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1140 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act 1987 and for connected purposes be read a first time.

1145 Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act 1987 and for connected purposes be read a first time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment No. 2) Act 2017.

Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 –
Second Reading approved

1150 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill be now read a second time.

The Bill amends the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act 1987 for the purposes of making changes to the regulation of meetings and procedures of the Authority specifically in relation to quorum and allowing for the appointment of a substitute member on occasions where a member is unable to attend a meeting.

1155 Mr Speaker, I will also be moving an amendment to the Bill during the Committee Stage. An amendment is required to change the year and amendment number cited in clause 1 of the Bill. The Act shall now be known as the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment) Act 2018.

1160 Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of this Bill? The Hon. Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, as the Minister will be aware, I have in the past attended the public meetings of the Gibraltar Health Authority Board. I must express a degree of 1165 puzzlement at this amendment that has come before the House today and I will explain my reasoning as follows.

The amendment refers specifically to section 3 of the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act 1987. Section 3(1) lays out the membership of the Health Authority and I will quote:

- 3.(1) There is hereby established a Gibraltar Health Authority, which shall consist of –
- (a) the Minister, as chairman;
  - (b) the Chief Secretary of the Government;
  - (c) the Medical Director;
  - (d) three registered medical practitioners

1170 I will give way.

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the hon. Gentleman for giving way.

The Bill amends section 5 of the Act and the '3' refers to the members required, not section 3.

1175 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the Minister's intervention but I was aware of that; what I am doing is putting this in context. As I said:

- (d) three registered medical practitioners appointed by the Government on the nomination of the Medical Advisory Committee;
- (e) one person appointed by the Government after consultation with the Gibraltar Trades Council; and
- (f) three other persons appointed by the Government not being persons in whole or part-time employment under the Crown in right of its Government of Gibraltar, of whom one shall be a barrister or solicitor of the Supreme Court;
- (g) the Financial Secretary.

1180 Mr Speaker, when you add up those numbers, I make that out to be 11 and I see the Minister nodding in agreement. That is 11 members of the authority, which is why it is relevant to section 5(1), which says at present:

The quorum at all meetings of the Authority shall be five members in addition to the chairman or other person presiding which means, as it currently stands, of 11 members you would need six members to be present in order to achieve a quorum. I see the Minister nodding in agreement. So, based on simple maths, six of 11 is 54.5% of the GHA board members.

1185 Mr Speaker, the amendment that the Minister is proposing is in section 5.1. Instead of having five plus the Chairman it will be three plus the Chairman – in other words, four members of 11 – and, if my maths is correct, that is 36.36% of the membership of the board, which seems to me remarkably low, and unless the Minister has good reason to have a concern for the attendance at the GHA board I fail to see why the quorum requirements have been dropped so dramatically, especially in what is such an important board and given 1190 the care that has been taken to ensure that of the 11 members of the board there is representation from various fields and sectors. Certainly in the boards that I have attended I

1195 have noticed that, barring perhaps one or two particular functions, the board is generally fairly well attended, so I would be interested to hear what the Minister's reasoning is for this drop in the quoracy of the board – and it is quite a significant drop in quoracy, in terms of percentage, from 54.5% to 36.36%. I fail to see why the Minister would have difficulty in achieving a quorum.

1200 In addition, the further amendment which the Minister is seeking is to allow substitutes to attend on behalf of members of the board and I would be grateful if the Minister could, in his response, explain to the House whether these substitutes are de facto alternates, i.e. although I notice in section 2B that he proposes that the person nominated shall with the leave of the secretary of the Authority be deemed to be a member of the authority, I am not sure whether there is a two-step approach, whether somebody would suggest an alternate and then require approval – I say 'alternate'; I should say 'substitute' here and use his language – to attend the board meeting in the place of the member.

1205 And then, Mr Speaker, there is the additional concern to ensure that whoever it is that is named as a substitute meets the original requirements of the Act in terms of membership of the board – for example, if an individual is registered or appointed as a registered medical practitioner, that his substitute should equally be a registered medical practitioner, or indeed a person 'not being persons in whole or full or part-time employment under the Crown' being [inaudible] etc. I am not sure how the Minister will ensure that is complied with by these amendments and perhaps he may wish to use the word 'alternate' instead of 'substitute' and that alternates are named in pretty much the way they used to be in the boards such as the Financial Services Compensation Board or the Deposit Guarantee Board where you would have a member and a named alternate, which would then satisfy the requirements of the Act.

1215 And so, Mr Speaker, I must admit a degree of puzzlement as to the requirement for this change in primary legislation to the quoracy requirements of the board and indeed the substitute requirements for the board. In fact, if the wording for the substitute requirements were worded in a perhaps tighter form, there perhaps would be no need to amend the quoracy requirements of the board because a member could then just send their alternate and therefore you would not have a quoracy problem or need to reduce it from five to three.

1220 The Minister has provided, in a way, if he is having problems achieving quoracy, two solutions to the one problem, when really all he needs is one of those solutions. In fact, I would say perhaps the second solution would be the more appropriate, provided of course the substitute – or, as I would call it, the alternate – is identified and named accordingly in advance, and therefore he would have no problems in achieving quoracy.

1230 And so, Mr Speaker, I would welcome the Minister's comments on my observations, which again I make purely in good faith in the sense that I do not understand the requirement for these amendments in the way they have been put to the House.

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of the Bill?

1235 I call then on the mover to reply. The Hon. Neil Costa.

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman is of course, as he knows, welcome to the GHA board meetings; I know that he enjoys them and we enjoy having him there.

1240 You really never know what is going to excite the imagination of hon Members opposite. I came prepared to speak more on the Bill that we just debated and I never expected to have such a detailed thought-out process in respect of the minor amendments that we have made to the Gibraltar Health Authority Act.

1245 Although again I welcome his contribution in the House, I do not agree with him that a drop from five to three is either dramatic or significant. His contribution could certainly be characterised as dramatic, but I do not think that the numerical equivalence is such to merit such an adjective, but once again I applaud his zeal.

1250 There was in fact an issue when we last had the GHA board, where because of the month perhaps – I think it may have been December – we were at the brink of not being able to hold a meeting because of the quorum requirement of five, and as a result we held a meeting and decided to reduce the number of the quorum from five to three so that a meeting would be quorate with three members of the board. We do not expect that there will be a dilution or diminution of the attendance of members of the board. It is there only as an ‘in case’ measure that we once again have any particular board where for that particular board we are unable to have a quorate meeting.

1255 I take the point that he makes in respect of ‘substitute’. He prefers the word ‘alternate’. We in fact consider the word substitute to be the same as alternate, so we are considering it in exactly the same way. The issues that he mentions in respect of how is the GHA going to properly police that the alternate or substitute is in fact the right alternate, given the requirements of the Act in section 3, as he eloquently explained, to be of that particular category – well, that is why it says that it would be with the leave of the Secretary or the Authority. And to assuage his concerns, and I hope to his full satisfaction, internally we are of course ... and we have already sought the members – not from all of them but from some of them – to provide already the names and telephone contacts of those alternates that we can call in the event that a particular member is unable to attend.

1265 So I thank the hon. Gentleman for his questions and I hope I have been able to answer them.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act 1987 and for connected purposes be read a second time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment No. 2) Act 2017.

Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 – Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

1275 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today if all hon. Members agree.

Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

1280 Mr Speaker: The Hon. Mr Clinton might be interested to know that the required quorum of this Parliament is 35.3%.

Hon. N F Costa: I wish I had known that! Thank you, Mr Speaker. Superb! (Laughter)

Legal Aid and Assistance (Amendment) Bill 2017 –
First Reading approved

1285 Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Legal Aid and Assistance Act and for connected purposes. The Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1290 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Legal Aid and Assistance Act and for connected purposes be read a first time.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Legal Aid and Assistance Act and for connected purposes be read a first time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Legal Aid Assistance (Amendment) Act 2017.

Legal Aid and Assistance (Amendment) Bill 2017 –
Second Reading approved

1295 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill be now read a second time.

In line with the consultation paper issued last year to reform legal assistance, this Bill amends the Legal Aid and Assistance Act. The Bill makes three minor amendments, which are as follows.

1300 Firstly, the Bill amends section 20(1) by increasing the penalty for making false declarations in support of a claim for legal assistance from a fine of £100 to a fine not exceeding level 4 on the standard scale – in other words a £4,000 fine, which I am sure all hon. Members will agree is surely right to attempt to minimise abuses when expanding the scope of and access to legal assistance.

1305 Secondly and to this end we have taken the opportunity to amend the penalty for making false declarations in support of a claim for legal aid and placed it on a par with legal assistance. Accordingly, the penalty contained in section 7(2) has been increased from four to six months and the fine from £100 to a fine not exceeding level 4 on the standard scale.

1310 Thirdly, we have amended section 13(1) to allow financial eligibility for legal assistance to be calculated by way of a formula if the need arises.

Mr Speaker, as I mentioned at the outset of my remarks, a consultation paper was issued last year and these proposed legal assistance reforms. The Bar Council have now written to me with further representations regarding the consultation paper and my team and I are reviewing these representations with a view to agreeing any changes with the Bar Council.

1315 Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of this Bill? No.

1320 I therefore now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Legal Aid and Assistance Act and for connected purposes be read a second time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Legal Aid Assistance (Amendment) Act 2017.

Legal Aid and Assistance (Amendment) Bill 2017 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

1325 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today if all hon. Members agree.

Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

1330 Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

COMMITTEE STAGE AND THIRD READING

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1335 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the House should resolve itself into Committee to consider the following Bills clause by clause: the Proceeds of Crime (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017, the Legal Aid and Assistance (Amendment) Bill 2017, and the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017.

In Committee of the whole Parliament

Proceeds of Crime (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 –
Clauses considered and approved

1340 Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Proceeds of Crime Act 2015 and for connected purposes.
Clause 1 as amended.

1345 Mr Chairman: The Hon. the Minister has given notice of a procedural amendment to this one and to the next three Bills, which really just amount to updating them and substituting 2018 for 2017 wherever they occur. Is that agreed? Yes.

Clerk: Clause 2.

1350 Mr Chairman: So, clause 1 as amended stands part of the Bill and now clause 2 stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 3 as amended.

1355 Mr Chairman: Clause 3, again the Minister has –

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Chairman, may I ask a question in relation to this amendment?

Mr Chairman: Yes, please do.

1360 Hon. D A Feetham: Can the Hon. the Minister just explain this amendment again? I know that he touched upon it during the course of his speech. I am thinking about something and it may well be that I have got it absolutely wrong, but could he just explain the reason for the amendment?

1365 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Are we talking about 1L?

Hon. D A Feetham: It is 3B. Well, they are both connected, in fact.

1370 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Chairman, is the Hon. Mr Feetham speaking about what would be the new 1L(1)?

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes.

1375 Hon. N F Costa: In short, when we considered the amendments in relation to making unlawful conduct include unlawful behaviour which constitutes gross human rights abuses, we started on a longer discussion of the Bill and a discussion arose as to whether breach of section 1L in fact constituted a criminal offence or not. Given that there were three lawyers in the room and none of us could convince the other and we all agreed that we could all be right, we thought it was the safest thing to include sections 1, 2 and 3 for there to be no doubt.

1380 Hon. D A Feetham: I have just seen this amendment today. I do not know whether it was provided last time, but I have seen it today. Section 1L is about information that is provided by GFIU, so does this amendment extend to a situation where GFIU phones a bank – I give the hon. Member just an example which I have come across many times during the course of my practice – GFIU tells the bank, ‘Provide us with information or there is an investigation in relation to a particular bank account,’ and what this amendment basically does is if that information is then divulged by the bank to a third party it is a criminal offence, but presumably it does not include the taking of legal advice by the bank. It is in section 5 of the Act.

1390 Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Chairman, section 5 would make it clear that it is not an offence to obtain independent legal advice.

1395 Hon. D A Feetham: Sufficiently tied in with this amendment?

Hon. N F Costa: Yes.

Mr Chairman: Is the amendment agreed to? Clause 3 as amended stands part of the Bill.

1400 Clerk: The long title.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 –
Clauses considered and approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act 1987 and for connected purposes.

1405 Clause 1.

Mr Chairman: As amended to substitute 2018 from 2017. So, clause 1 as amended stands part of the Bill.

1410 Clerk: Clauses 2 to 3.

Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

1415

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Legal Aid and Assistance (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 –
Clauses considered and approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Legal Aid and Assistance Act and for connected purposes.

Clause 1.

Mr Chairman: As amended, 2018 in lieu of 2017, stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clauses 2 to 3.

1425

Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Proceeds of Crime (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 –
Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 –
Legal Aid and Assistance (Amendment) Bill 2017 –
Third Readings approved: Bills passed

1430 Mr Chairman: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to report that the Proceeds of Crime (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017, the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2017 and the Legal Aid and Assistance (Amendment) Bill 2017 have been considered in Committee and agreed to with amendments and I now move that they be read a third time and passed.

1435

Mr Chairman: I now put the question, which is that the Proceeds of Crime (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2018, the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) (Amendment No. 2) Bill 2018 and the Legal Aid and Assistance (Amendment) Bill 2018 be approved. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

1440

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I understand that the motions that are on the Order Paper are to be taken at the next meeting of the House and I therefore now move that the House should adjourn sine die.

1445

Mr Speaker: I now propose the question, which is that the House should now adjourn sine die.

I now put the question, which is that the House now adjourn sine die. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried. The House will now adjourn sine die.

The House adjourned at 4.32 p.m.

Questions for Oral Answer

CULTURE, THE MEDIA, YOUTH AND SPORT

Q95/2018

Rocks dumped at Coaling Island – Origination, purpose and assessment

Clerk: (vii) Reports of Committees; (viii) Answers to Oral Questions.
We commence with Question 95/2018, the Hon. T N Hammond.

30

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, where do the rocks being dumped in the sea at Coaling Island originate and can Government state for what purpose they are being dumped there and if the works have been subjected to a full Environmental Impact Assessment and if this has been presented to the DPC?

35

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the rocks being placed off Coaling Island originate from the works at Lathbury Parade ground to construct the new sports facilities.

A substantial amount of limestone bedrock is being broken out which is similar to the rocks used for sea defence structures and this is being temporarily stockpiled for use in future sea defence works.

No Environmental Impact Assessment has been undertaken as these works are not reclamation but before works started, various key entities were consulted including the Department of the Environment and the Gibraltar Port Authority. The Town Planning Department were also informed.

45

Arising from these consultations, a number of surveys were carried out including a protected species survey and a seabed survey. A number of environmental measures have also been put in place including the deployment of a protective boom fitted with a silk curtain fender.

50

Hon. T N Hammond: I understand then that if the rocks are being stockpiled there, there would be an intention to lift them out again at some point in the future and it just strikes me, would it not have been more straightforward to have conducted such stockpiling on the east side reclamation?

55

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, the volume of the rocks generated is substantial, therefore on plan the excavation footprint is the size of a football pitch and the running track over a depth exceeding six metres.

The stockpile of the rocks on land would have required a very large footprint which is simply not available so it would not have fitted on the east side because of the amount of rocks that have been excavated.

So that is the answer as to putting it on the east side, so we could not have stockpiled it on the east side.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Minister give a flavour of how extensive the surveys he has said were conducted in order to protect the potential marine environment in that area, and why wasn't there an option of actually conducting a proper Environmental Impact Assessment which would have assured us that there is no environmental damage being conducted to potentially endangered species in that area?

Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, for a start I am quite satisfied that they did do the survey before they were stockpiled where they were. So much so, that we actually had some species removed from the place because they are protected species. So that is how extensive the survey went and we even had some limpets removed from some rocks before the stockpiling of these rocks.

So, I am quite satisfied that this was done, and as I said in the answer to the original question there was no need for an EIA at this point. The EIA would have to be done once the rocks are moved to become part of the reclamation, but not for stockpiling at this present time.

Hon. T N Hammond: Just one more question, Mr Speaker, as the Minister raised the subject of limpets, about which I am not an expert. But I am aware that the last time limpets were relocated the entire rocks were moved, it was not a case of removing the limpets from the rocks because clearly that would damage and potentially kill the limpets.

Is the Minister saying that entire rocks were removed from the area and if so, at what cost?

Hon. S E Linares: No, Mr Speaker, in this case although it took about three or four days to remove them, it was not removing the whole rock it was actually removing the species to some other area, which is pretty easy to do if you know how to deal with limpets.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, may I out of curiosity; I am always thirsting for knowledge. The Minister said at the end of the answer to the original question that they had placed a silk curtain. Could he enlighten us non-environmentalists what a silk curtain is?

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, in my answer I have silk but I am corrected and apparently it is silt, for the silt. (Interjections)

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I can be of assistance, I believe that what you have is a silk curtain that holds in silt. (Laughter)

So, in order for there not to be a silt curtain, in other words in order for there not to be silt going everywhere, you put in a silk curtain which holds in the silt.

Yes, and I do not know whether the protected species was a Member of the GSD for example, there are very few of them about, or a limpet or whatever it is, but the silk curtain prevents the silt affecting the protected species.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

I just have a couple of supplementaries, can the Minister actually quantify in terms of cubic metres how much he expects in terms of rock, to be – using his own words – stockpiled there?

I am conscious of the fact that the Minister said this is not a reclamation project in itself and these are stones that will be used later on, I presume what he is telling the House is that there will be an exercise at some point in the future to actually go back, pick them up from where they have been dropped and move them somewhere else which would obviously involve some cost.

But having actually having witnessed the dumping by lorries of these rocks into that area, there is obviously going to be a time when there is a limit to how many rocks can be dumped in the same area and there is going to have to be some form of reclamation in order to continue to fill in the area.

120 Can the Minister advise whether there is a project, these rocks are presumably going to break the surface, and de facto reclaim the area and it is going to appear as land; or is there anything involved in this stockpiling of rocks which effectively will set up a land road surface in that area?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has asked whether we have the information as to the cubic metres of rock that we expect will be taken from the site. We do 125 have that information, it is 65,000 cubic metres that are expected.

Now, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman in relation to the rest of his question knows, and I do not think it arises from this but I am happy to assist the House and not require him to ask a specific question, knows that we have already announced that there is going to be a reclamation in front of Coaling Island, so the reasoning is therefore for using this site that we will be able to 130 move the rocks to form part of the revetment.

Now 65,000 cubic metres of rock might sound like a lot, but it may not even be enough to finish the revetment of the sort of reclamation that we envisage being in that area, although part of it may involve caissons being used rather than just rock revetment. And given the cost of double handling rock and other such materials, we will reduce the cost considerably by having 135 the rocks in that location, and simply having to displace the rocks rather than having to once again truck them down to the area if we had put them on the east side, for example, which would have cost twice again because of the double handling that would have been involved.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Chief Minister for the additional 140 information. Just for the sake of completeness, am I correct in understanding then that these rocks will have to be dredged up at some point in the future and located in wherever the sea wall would be in the future?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well I think the hon. Gentleman is using the wrong nomenclature, I do 145 not think you can dredge a rock. I think you can displace a rock, you can move a rock but as he and I know once something heavy is under water it is much easier to move, including me for example!

So, the hon. Gentleman will understand that moving a rock that is under water is easier than moving a rock from Lathbury to the east side and then moving it from the east side to Coaling 150 island.

Gibraltar Broadcasting Corporation – Subtitles for local programmes

Clerk: Question 96/2018, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state what steps, if any, are being taken 155 by the Gibraltar Broadcasting Corporation to ensure that subtitles for local programmes on television are available for the hearing impaired?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

160 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, GBC already provides closed captioning for the hearing impaired on its 'video on demand' service via the GBC Player that can be found on the Corporation's website. Subtitles are available within 48 hours of the programme first airing on GBC TV.

The corporation is currently investigating the possibility of introducing an element of subtitles on air, although this does not include live programmes, which would require a significant investment in technology and recruitment of additional specialist personnel.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I thank the Minister for the answer to that particular question. A number of people have approached me with hearing impediments in relation to this particular issue in relation to subtitles and obviously the GRA have issued several guidance notes, first of all in December 2013 in respect of accessibility for people with hearing and visual disability, and latterly on 17th March 2017 in which certain observations were made to the technical aspects of subtitling.

170

Is the Minister aware of those particular guidance notes issued by the GRA? I invite him to at some point, perhaps not today, comment on those to me privately. I would like to know whether or not subtitles can be provided on GBC news, for instance, because many people with hearing impediments get the news quite late, as you say 48 hours later, and it would be very helpful for members of our community that do have hearing difficulties to follow the news when it is delivered. If the Minister could give some information about the possible costings, or the 'significant' costs that the Minister alludes to, that would be helpful.

175

Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, initially it is not possible to give the costings of what is still at the investigation process, but I know GBC is investigating and the part where it says that it is the 'on air' is like for example the news could well be subtitled when it goes on at 11 o'clock rather than the 8.30 one. So those are the things that are being looked at.

180

I am aware of what the GRA is saying and I am also aware because we have had representations from the fraternity of people who have a hearing impediment. So, it is a thing that GBC is taking seriously but again it has to be in proportion to the financing and the availability of technology and also whether it is actually a thing that if we can provide it in another way, we would do so.

Europa Point shooting facilities – Government's relocation plans

Clerk: Question 97/2018, the Hon. E J Reyes.

190

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, further to the answer provided to Question 595/2017, is the Minister for Sport now in a position to inform this House of Government's plans for the relocation of the shooting facilities presently sited at Europa Point?

195

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, it is now public knowledge since the whole of the project was presented to the Development and Planning Commission, which is a public forum, for guidance and advice.

200 The area in the North Mole has been identified to build the shooting range. The building will include stores, car parking spaces and offices which are much needed in the area.

Q98/2018

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority –
Grade 9 administrative vacancy

Clerk: Question 98/2018, the Hon. E J Reyes.

205 Hon. E J Reyes: Further to the answer provided to Question 8/2018, can the Minister for Sport update this House in respect of the Grade 9 that was an Administrative Assistant post, which was vacant within the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

210 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the GSLA, the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority, has currently advertised this post internally within the public sector.

Q99/2018

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority –
Staff vacancies to be filled

Clerk: Question 99/2018, the Hon. E J Reyes.

215 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Sport inform this House of any staff vacancies or posts which are currently waiting to be filled on a substantive basis within the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

220 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, there are currently five vacancies of Pool Operative/Lifeguard. Closing date was yesterday Tuesday, 13th February.

225 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, may I ask the Minister to confirm that we can deduce from that that there is no other post that has been covered in an acting basis by someone of a lower grade acting for a higher grade? Is that a correct assumption?

Hon. S E Linares: Yes, sir.

Q100/2018

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority –
Cancellations since 1st January 2018

230 Clerk: Question 100/2018, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Sport inform this House how many cancellations have been necessary at any of the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority's facilities since 1st January 2018, indicating the location, date and reason for the cancellation.

235 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, allocations at the Victoria Sports Hall were cancelled due to water ingress on the following dates: 9th January 2018, 14th January, 28th January and 4th February 2018.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, last time I asked this question I had to clarify, and the Minister kindly sought out the information. What I really mean when I put down Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority's facilities, last time I said it was my intention to include the swimming facilities – what is sometimes commonly known as the GASA facilities – but perhaps I can quantify this one further.

245

I know that perhaps technically a facility may fall under a school grounds, for example, St Anne's School, but yet after school hours it is commonly known and recognised that it becomes a Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority facility. I do not know whether the Minister has that information at hand or he may need to find it.

250

Hon. S E Linares: No, Mr Speaker, because if the hon. Member would have asked that, I think it would have been the Hon. Minister for Education who would have answered that although the GSLA, as he well knows, is in charge of the allocations of the school, it is not in charge of the maintenance or the upkeep of the facility.

255

Therefore, if the question is the Gibraltar Leisure Authority's facilities, technically the schools are not the GSLA's facilities they are the Department of Education's facilities. But if the hon. Member wants to know about that he can well put the question, but it is not the GSLA's facilities, these are school facilities belonging to the Department of Education and therefore it is the Department of Education that deals with all the maintenance or issues like water ingress for example, if there is any in any of the school halls, and not the GSLA.

260

So, when he posed the question it was the GSLA's facilities and this is the only one where there has been water ingress.

Q103-106/2018
Gibraltar Football Association –
Victoria Stadium: agreements, payments, compensation, instalments, delays

295

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Sport update this House with details of agreements entered into and payments made to date by the Gibraltar Football Association in respect of all facilities which they lease at Victoria Stadium?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 104 to 106.

305

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise if it has agreed to pay any compensation to operators of catering establishments in the Victoria Stadium Complex, as a result of the anticipated sale to the Gibraltar Football Association and if so, to whom and in what amount?

310

Clerk: Question 105, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm that the two £5 million instalments payable by the GFA in this current financial year, are still expected to be paid before 31st March 2018?

315

Clerk: Question 106, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm the lengthy negotiations since the announcement was made in April 2017 in finalising the sale of the lease for the Victoria Stadium to the GFA will not result in the taxpayer being worse off?

320

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, HM Government announced on 18th April 2017 that it had reached an agreement with the GFA on the sale of the Victoria Stadium.

The announcement stated the GFA would pay £16.5 million for the purchase of the land in three instalments with funds exclusively provided by UEFA and FIFA. Two instalments of £5 million each will be paid in the current financial year 2017/2018, with a third payment of £6.5 million paid in the 2018/2019. That is exactly what is going to happen.

330

At present HMGoG is working closely with the GFA in relation to the terms and conditions of the sale. There have not been lengthy negotiations, as stated in the question from the hon. Member. What there has been is careful co-ordination between the Government and the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority and the GFA as to how to manage the transition period.

335

As hon. Members know, the Sports Hall is part of the sale. Therefore, all sporting associations who regularly use these facilities including the track and field are to continue to use them and will do so for a period of time, while all the other wonderful facilities are being constructed.

There is only one operator having a catering establishment in the Victoria Stadium and we are still negotiating terms and conditions with the directors.

The taxpayer will certainly not be worse off but much better off. Better off with football acquiring a new Cat 4 National Football Stadium; two alternative pitches for domestic games at all levels; sufficient training facilities and pitches to meet all demand within Gibraltar and at least two indoor futsal pitches.

345

Gibraltar clubs will be better off since they no longer need to train in Spain, they will be able to base all their training needs in Gibraltar. Rugby and cricket will be better off and be able to enjoy their own state-of-the-art facilities at Europa Point. Indoor sports and cultural entities will be better off since they will be able to enjoy new and more modern multi-purpose hall at Europa Point, in addition to the continued use of the Tercentenary Hall and the rest of the Bayside area.

350 HM Government will also have funds available to invest in hockey and other sports like paddle tennis as has been seen with the new refurbished courts at Bayside. All this will assist basketball, netball, volleyball, badminton and squash, amongst others.

Darts will be better off since they finally will have the area they desperately need and deserve, which they have been seeking since 1958, given their international achievements.
355 Athletics will be better off when they obtain an enhanced 400 m track at Lathbury Parade. Swimming will be better off with a new, much needed, 54 m indoor pool.

Premises for associations and clubs, offices, lecture theatres, treatment rooms and boardrooms are all being included in all these facilities being developed.

A specific new facility has already started for our Special Olympians who have done us proud 360 so many times. And all facilities will be made available to our schools.

The taxpayer is already benefitting through a huge economic activity and investment on the infrastructure without costing a penny to the taxpayer.

The benefit will be seen when we see 2,500 athletes coming to our shores for the Island Games in 2019; 2,500 athletes will be filling all our hotels. Friends and family who will be 365 accompanying the athletes and who will drink and eat in our bars and restaurants during the nine days they will be here. Therefore, all businesses will be better off.

After the Island Games, all our facilities will be the legacy of the Games with these new facilities capable of bringing to Gibraltar many more people in the form of events such as athletics meets, Rugby 7s and 15s tournaments, international swimming competitions and more 370 netball tournaments, the Association is keen to host amongst others.

The fact that international football will be played here is yet another benefit to our taxpayers and our economy generally. All in all, a win-win situation not only for the taxpayer but for our children, our young people and even our elderly.

I would at this point like to give my sincere thanks to all. To all sports associations who are 375 being very co-operative in working with us together, so that all the facilities will comply with all international requirements and also for being patient and helpful during this two-year transitional period in which there are disruptions due to all the construction going on.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, in my own question which was number 103, the Minister has 380 reminded us of the agreements entered into with the Gibraltar Football Association and even the target payment dates and so on.

But my question does say the payments made to date by the Association and I have not heard the Minister confirm the figure of what payments have been made to date.

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, as I said in my lengthy answer, there has not been any figures 385 yet because of the leases. We are looking at leases, we are looking at contracts, we are looking at agreements as my answer stated.

So, whether the hon. Member says has any monies passed, the answer is no; but we are guaranteed and part of the agreement was that it will be paid before the end of this financial 390 year – the amounts that were two instalments.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for his answer. If he could perhaps come back to my specific question in respect of the catering, the one catering 395 establishment in the stadium complex: can the Minister advise whether this catering establishment has a licence agreement from the Government or a lease, and has the occupier or the operator of this catering establishment indicated the Government any sums of money they would be seeking in terms of compensation at this stage?

Furthermore, I would remind the Minister and I am grateful for his clarification that he 400 expects the £10 million by the end of the financial year, but by my calculation he has 45 days to get it in.

405 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, as in the occupier of the one operator having a catering establishment in the Victoria Stadium, he has a lease and we are negotiating with him because part of the lease is where the GFA will be, so there are negotiations with it; but at the moment we are still negotiating with the directors as to how we work that one out.

Hon. E J Phillips: A question, Mr Speaker, so you are negotiating with this individual relating to the level of compensation? Is that part of it?

410 Hon. S E Linares: Not necessarily, Mr Speaker.

Hon. E J Phillips: Either you are or you are not. I am not too sure of the answer to that question – ‘not necessarily’ is not really an answer, with respect.

415 Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, when it is negotiations it can be either one or the other. We are in negotiations, that was the crux of the answer. If you are in negotiations, you do not give away whether it is one or the other; we are still negotiating.

420 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Hon. R M Clinton: Sorry, Mr Speaker I will be brief, my colleague may want a question as well.

425 Just coming back to finalise on the lease: are the negotiations for the complete surrender of the lease or partial surrender of the lease?

Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, as I said these are negotiating issues.

430 Mr Speaker: The answer that the Minister gave in his first answer was: ‘there is only one operator having a catering establishment in the stadium, we are still negotiating terms and conditions with the directors’. That is in the main body of his answer. (Interjection)
Next question.

Q107/2018
University of Gibraltar Halls –
Expected cost and name of contractor

Clerk: Question 107/2018, the Hon. L F Llamas.

435 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state the expected cost for the building of the University of Gibraltar halls and the name of the contractor?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

440 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the exact cost of the project to develop accommodation in the area of the University of Gibraltar has not yet been determined. We are still in negotiations with the contractor in relation to certain items.
The name of the contractor is Casais.

445 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I can understand that perhaps there will be small items of construction in terms of materials, etc. used which may affect the final monies paid for this project. But certainly the Government will have entered a contract with a contractor to provide this facility and therefore, there must be a ballpark figure towards this project already allocated, and a vehicle through which it will be financed.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, we repeatedly have to deal with these issues in the House. I mean it is almost as if hon. Members want us to get the worst possible deal for the taxpayer.

455 Now, if hon. Members are being told that we have not been able to finalise a figure, it is because we are trying to get a better deal for the taxpayer than the one that has already been presented to us. But some works can be done whilst other aspects of the contract are finalised. That is where we are.

460 We had lengthy exchanges in this respect in particular in relation to the magnificent car-parking facility now provided in the centre of town, where we said repeatedly we would provide the information once we finalised the amounts to be paid, but we were pushing to ensure that we got the best deal for the taxpayer.

465 Now, when you enter into an agreement with the contractor, the contractor is still negotiating with sub-contractors, and if a price is given in which the contracting party – the Government – has agreed with the contractor, then the sub-contractor is able to work out how much he can squeeze the contractor for.

Those are the issues, Mr Speaker. As soon as everything has been dealt with and finalised we will be in a position to give a final figure and do so when it is not in the interest of the taxpayer to continue a negotiation to squeeze the best possible price.

470 That is what we insist on doing, I would have thought we would have enjoyed the hon. Members' opposite support for that.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain what procurement procedure has taken place in the development of this project?

475 Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, Mr Speaker, we have sought quotes from a number of entities.

Hon. L F Llamas: And can the Government confirm whether this was the cheapest quote?

480 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I believe this was the cheapest quote for the work that the Government required.

Hon. L F Llamas: And finally, Mr Speaker, has the Government undertaken an assessment as to how these halls will be populated once the project is completed?

485 Hon. Chief Minister: Of course, Mr Speaker.

Hon. L F Llamas: And is the Government able to disclose that assessment?

490 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, why would we disclose that assessment at this stage if we are not yet at the stage where the facility is finalised? What is it that the hon. Gentleman wants to know? Perhaps if he asks us specifically about that, we may be able to share some information with him, but he almost wants us to come up with the marketing brochure that we might use at the end, now.

495 I mean it does not make any sense, Mr Speaker, this is an attempt to waste everybody's time.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, sir may I?

500 Mr Speaker: Yes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Is this an opportune moment, if there are no further supplementaries to this question I would like to go back to Question 101 when you deem it.

505 Mr Speaker: The one where the –

Hon. E J Reyes: The one where they had the schedule, but I think we need to finish the supplementary on this one first.

510 Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker, thank you.

I am grateful to the Chief Minister for expanding on the answer. I just have one question for him, if he can advise the House the cost of building these units which I understand will be Halls of Residence for the University of Gibraltar, are these to be borne by the Government entirely i.e. through the Improvement and Development Fund, or is there some other mechanism? And am I correct in my understanding then that it is the intention of the Government to gift this building to the University of Gibraltar?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, there are a number of questions there, not just one. The Government is looking at various options to finance this build.

520 Mr Speaker: The Hon. Edwin Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker, sir.

In the schedule provided as an answer to Question 101 I have tried to have a quick look to a previous answer I had via Written Question 195/2017. I notice first, Mr Speaker, the headings seem to have changed which makes it rather difficult to track but I thought – and I would like the Minister to confirm – he said this is an updated list of what has been paid in this year.

530 And if one looks at the 2017 answer for example, there was a £709 expenditure towards pistol shooting which in February 2018 does not appear in my schedule, it seems to have disappeared. Therefore, I am giving the Minister the benefit of the doubt, it cannot have been updated if it is missing data that was there before. Either the figure increases or it remains the same, but it seems to have disappeared.

And whereas in the previous schedule of last time, the Minister very kindly and very helpfully put down grants awarded for hosting special sports and leisure events, for example he had the backgammon tournament of which I know there has been a lot happening in that respect recently, I cannot find the backgammon tournament in the update of February 2018.

540 Maybe because that heading is missing as the heading of support granted to sporting societies, probably means the same as grants awarded to sports associations. But I need the Minister to confirm that where one reads societies it means the same as associations and there is no heading at the top of these - the answer to schedule Question 101 – whereas there was in the previous one.

If the Minister does have that information now, Mr Speaker, in the spirit of wanting just that information I do not mind delaying it and the Minister can come back at a convenient stage when you allow such a thing to be tabled properly and double checked.

545 Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, first and foremost the backgammon is on the list, it is Gibraltar International Backgammon Tournament £70,500. It is nine down the line of the schedule. Gibraltar International Backgammon Tournament, that is the first one.

The second one that the hon. Member is saying about, the target shooting, remember this is the current one so therefore if the target shooting had £700-odd when you asked the question before, it means that now they probably have applied for more money and it is updated from £700 to Target Shooting £5,745.

555 But given that the hon. Member is not happy with certain things, I have no problem in going through it with the hon. Member, like we have done before, and go through and see which are the ones ... because from the two he has mentioned they are there, and I have an explanation and I have just said it. But if he wants, I mean it is up to him how he wants to tackle this.

560 Hon. E J Reyes: Well, Mr Speaker, I did not use the words target shooting, I used the specific title here which is pistol shooting, because target shooting is what appears in the 2018 answer and I have been looking for what was given in the 2017 answer which was pistol. In 2017 it was given under the heading Grants Awarded for Sports Development Projects, and under Grants Awarded for Sports Development Projects neither pistol nor target – sorry, it just says Shooting Federation which is... and my interpretation is that it encompasses the triple pistol, clay and so on.

565 So at first glance it is extremely difficult to decipher this. But I think the Minister has extended an invitation for us to meet behind the Chair. We can do so and then if one has to modify anything in Hansard –

570 Mr Speaker: I prefer that since my understanding is that pistols would be firing at a target. In any case you might as well settle it behind my Chair.

575 Hon. S E Linares: Yes, Mr Speaker, I am happy to do so because yes there is. I can see where the hon. Member could be well confused where it says Target Shooting in one place and then there is another one that says Shooting Federation in another. And anyway, there are three different associations and clubs of shooting, so we will shoot each other behind the Chair.

Mr Speaker: Well, let us get on with Question Time.

INFRASTRUCTURE AND PLANNING

Q108/2018

Black cabs –

Purchase agreement

580 Clerk: Question 108, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, further to Question 231/2017, are the black cabs now available for purchase in left-hand drive and has Government finalised its agreement with the Gibraltar Taxi Association regarding their purchase?

585 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

590 Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, no left-hand drive variants are available yet of the new black cabs, the TX Model and no agreements have been finalised with the Gibraltar Taxi Association.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, does the Minister have an update on when the left-hand drives might be becoming available?

595 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the left-hand drives are starting to become available now, as we speak. In fact, there is an order which has been placed and the first 25 units are currently in production for a company, for a client in Holland. This is the first 25 units at the moment and there is actually no availability for anyone else because obviously they manufacture right-hand drive vehicles and they have just started to move into left-hand drive territory.

600 Hon. T N Hammond: I thank the Minister for that update and I presume therefore that we are a lot further than we were when I last asked this question in terms of being able to procure the vehicles.

Therefore, in that light has the Minister engaged or has Government engaged with the Taxi Association reference the purchase at all yet?

605 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the first thing that we have to do is to ensure that when these cars become available, they are suitable for Gibraltar's roads and until the thorough checks are carried out then we are not in a position to actually finalise or progress down the route of negotiation with the GTA.

610 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q109/2018
Parking schemes –
Parking permits per household

Clerk: Question 109, the Hon. L F Llamas.

615 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, without disclosing the household itself, can the Government provide a schedule on the number of parking permits issued per household since the recent launch of the parking schemes and the residential building or road that the household belongs to?

620 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the information requested by the hon. Member is set out in the schedule that I now hand over.

COMMERCE

Q110/2018

Gibraltar Financial Services Commission – Statutory Review

Clerk: Question 110, the Hon. T N Hammond on behalf of the Hon. D A Feetham.

630 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, when will the Statutory Review of the Gibraltar Financial Services Commission carried out in 2016, be published?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

635 Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, it is Government's intention to publish the Statutory Review shortly.

That does not mean that I am accepting in any way that it is a 2016 Statutory Review, because obviously that is not when it was completed.

640 Hon. T N Hammond: I appreciate this may not directly arise from the question, but can the Minister advise how much the exercise has cost to date?

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, no, I cannot, but what I can tell him is that I recall it was well within the budget that the FSC had provided for in its accounts.

645 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I know we have been around this particular buoy before: when the Minister says shortly, are we talking days, weeks, months, years? (Interjection)

650 Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, shortly. It is due very shortly – I mean, shortly. (Interjection and laughter)

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q111/2018

Gibraltar International Bank – Banking facilities for cryptocurrencies

Clerk: Question 111, the Hon. T N Hammond on behalf of the Hon. D A Feetham.

655 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, has the Gibraltar International Bank obtained alternative clearing facilities to enable it to offer banking facilities to cryptocurrency-related service providers?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, this work is commercially confidential.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Safety of Gibraltar’s networks

665

Clerk: Question 112, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, following recent reports in the UK media relating to data-cable security vulnerability, is the Government confident that Gibraltar’s networks are safe from sabotage and attacks?

670

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, Government’s Data/Voice communications infrastructure at the data centre and official buildings have appropriate physical security measures in place. These range from security personnel on-site, CCTV and access control systems.

675

Mr Speaker: Next question.

ENVIRONMENT, ENERGY, CLIMATE CHANGE AND EDUCATION

Q113/2018

Question deferred

680

Clerk: Question 113, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm that the entire £22 million cost of the announced wastewater treatment plant will be borne by the Improvement –
(Interjections)

Mr Speaker: In the absence of the Minister, is any other Minister answering this question, otherwise we can defer it? (Interjection)

I think we will defer it, shall we? (Interjections) We move on to Question 139.

HEALTH, CARE AND JUSTICE

Q139/2018

Illegal use of fireworks –
Government intended action

690 Clerk: Question 139, the Hon. E J Phillips on behalf of the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, what does the Government intend to do about the illegal use of fireworks in Gibraltar?

695 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the Government supports the celebration of the festive season, which on New Year's Eve has traditionally meant the discharging of fireworks. Government nevertheless believes that this should be done in a safe, legal and responsible manner and has, for some years supported the awareness campaigns conducted by the GFRS and the Royal Gibraltar Police.

700 As in previous years Customs, the Royal Gibraltar Police and the Gibraltar Fire and Rescue Service jointly engaged in their annual awareness campaign. These highlight that fireworks are prohibited imports, except under licence granted by the Collector of Customs, warning about the possible criminal offences concerning the use and possession of fireworks in certain circumstances, and setting out the Firework Code for the safe handling and use of fireworks. The campaign is promoted through social and traditional media outlets.

705 As part of this campaign, GFRS fire prevention officers distributed firework safety awareness flyers and placed posters at prominent locations. As an innovation and in a bid to curtail the indiscriminate discharge of fireworks in the run up to the New Year's Eve celebrations Government introduced a sales embargo window for legally imported fireworks that restricted their sale between 27th and 31st December.

710 This largely reduced the previously prevalent practice of discharging fireworks during the month of December and was hailed as a success by the Royal Gibraltar Police and the GFRS. Her Majesty's Customs also continue with their enforcement activity at the land frontier supported by RGP Dog Section officers with the explosives detection capability dogs. This served as a valuable and powerful deterrent in respect of the illegal importation of fireworks.

715 Government remains committed to the safe, legal and responsible use of fireworks during the festive season and will continue to promote similar campaigns in the future.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one further question in relation – I thank the Minister for Justice for that answer. Does the Minister have any information relating to the numbers of dangerous fireworks confiscated by Customs during that particular period?

725 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I do not have the answer to that specific question but I will be happy to seek it from Customs. What I do have is supplementary information to say that no one had been arrested for the discharge of fireworks.

730 Hon. E J Phillips: The one thing that we could do during that particular period would be to have a sort of amnesty bin where people are permitted to dump any fireworks that they have purchased, at Customs when they come in, with relevant warnings erected at Customs during this particular season. It may be an idea that the Government may wish to consider.

735 Hon. N F Costa: Well, Mr Speaker, I know as I said in the answer that the RGP and Customs do deploy dogs during the particular season, they are very much aware of the attempt to import any unlawful fireworks, but as I also said in the answer, any fireworks can be imported legally under the licence of the Director of Customs. But in respect of the particular question that he asks me, I do not have the information with me, but I will be happy to ask for it.

740 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q140/2018
Criminal justice system reforms –
Electronic tagging

745 Clerk: Question 140, the Hon. E J Phillips on behalf of the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government confirm whether they are considering introducing electronic tagging of individuals as part of its reforms of the criminal justice system?

750 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, no.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q141/2018
Sexual harassment in the workplace –
Promotion of legislation

755 Clerk: Question 141 the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state whether or not it intends to promote legislation before the House to strengthen measures in relation to sexual harassment in the workplace?

760 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the Crimes Act 2011 provides for offences which would capture the eventuality of sexual harassment type behaviour in any location, including the work place. These offences can be found under section 215 if the harassment includes physical contact.

In cases where the harassment involves verbal abuse or visual representations, as well as following or monitoring of an individual, offences exist under sections 88, 89 and 92 of the Act.

770 These offences are all captured under Schedules 3 and 4 of the Crimes Act, which, in turn, means that any conviction which carries a sexual element could trigger notification requirements, by virtue of sentencing thresholds or the application of Sexual Offences Prevention Orders on the offender.

775 The Act ensures the protection of victims of sexual assaults and sexual harassment type of behaviours, by ensuring legislation exists which criminalises this behaviour and allows for the monitoring of those convicted offenders through the Multi Agency Public Protection Arrangements process.

Sexual harassment in the workplace is firmly prohibited by section 14 of the Equal Opportunities Act 2006. The Equal Opportunities Act defines sexual harassment as 'any form of 780 verbal, non-verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature or that is related to gender reassignment or sex that has the purpose or effect of violating an individual's dignity; or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for that individual'. This definition reflects international standards including an EU definition that we are obliged to conform to.

785 A complaint for sexual harassment may be made to the Employment Tribunal. The Equal Opportunities Act 2006 includes a separate harassment claim in cases where an individual is treated less favourably because of that individual's rejection of or submission to the conduct.

Additionally, an individual subjected to less favourable treatment because they have made or intend to make a complaint under the Equal Opportunities Act has a right to claim for unlawful victimisation.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for explaining to me the statutory provisions in relation to criminal offences and indeed those that relate to equal opportunities and the ability of complainants to seek recourse through the Employment Tribunal in relation to complaints of sexual harassment in the work place; I am familiar with those.

795 My question really was to see whether there was any indication from the Government whether any of those laws would be strengthened. What I mean by that is in recent years, the United Kingdom Government have been debating whether or not additional protection should be afforded to those who have suffered sexual harassment in the workplace by ensuring that those companies and those employers in that situation who have compromise claims, as it were, 800 before the Industrial Tribunal or the Employment Tribunal, will not be allowed to hide away from those compromise agreements and that it would be recorded within an organisation such as the Employment Tribunal, the fact that a complaint had been registered against that employer.

805 So effectively, what I am asking the Government is whether Government intends to promote legislation to further protect individuals who have a complaint against sexual harassment against an employer for instance in the workplace, and whether or not it would consider whether those compromise agreements that had been entered into by the employer and the employee should not be obviously disclosed to the general public, but the fact that it be recorded that sexual harassment has been compromised in those circumstances with that particular type of 810 employer.

And what I put to him that of course, it is important that those who seek employment with our employers in Gibraltar understand that there have been complaints made against them in the past. That is what I am getting at. Of course there is debate in many countries relating to this particular point of compromising claims, but I would ask the Government to clarify whether it 815 intends to bring legislation to promote that.

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, it is not an area or a subject that I have discussed with any of my teams. It is not a matter that has been referred to me either by employers or the Royal Gibraltar Police. However, given that he raised it in this House I will refer the matter to the Royal Gibraltar 820 Police and we will discuss it.

But it seems in any case as though the subject relates more to employment law, rather than any amendment to the criminal law, in which case I will allow my hon. colleague to – (Interjection)

825 Hon. E J Phillips: Just to clarify the point yes, I was aiming particularly, given the fact that my question related to the workplace and strengthening measures in relation to sexual harassment, clearly as Minister for Justice, Mr Speaker, the Minister is answering the question from the context of the criminal law and indeed on equal opportunities. But the question is directed specifically to the employment situation, that is correct.

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, as the Hon. the Minister for Justice has indicated, this is not a matter that the Government has given consideration to, it is a matter that we may well now need to consider.

835 As I understand the hon. Member's point, it is that where there is a compromise arrangement, that there should be some form of register, some form of record which is publicly available to anybody that might possibly be seeking employment with that employer in the future. It is something that we will clearly need to consider, discuss and debate.

840 But two immediate issues come to mind of concern in relation to such a scheme. Firstly, the fact that there is going to be, or that there would be legislation requiring these compromise agreements at least to form part of a register, even not the detail of the compromise agreement. That may actually lead to a great deal of reluctance by employers to enter into a compromise agreement in relation to sexual harassment if there is going to be a record that the employer has, in some way, acknowledged sexual harassment by entering into this compromise agreement. So that might add to the detriment of the employee by making employers reluctant 845 to enter into such a compromise agreement.

And the second issue is in relation to the register which could be a public record. I really do not see how this could actually work in practice. If there is a compromise agreement, a compromise agreement could be made in relation to a complaint, an allegation which may not necessarily be proven, which may not necessarily be subject to any particular finding, simply an 850 internal issue between the employer and the employee which they decide to compromise in a particular way.

And as the hon. Member will know, having I am sure done many compromise agreements in the employment scenario in different aspects, that does not necessarily lead to any acknowledgement or acceptance of the facts. Therefore, a register where the employer could be 855 seen to be acknowledging something simply on the basis of an allegation, that would be something which could perhaps lead to conclusions which may not necessarily be 100% correct, simply on the basis of tarnishing or judging entities simply on the basis of allegations which may have been made and which, because of the compromise agreement, have not gone to an industrial tribunal or any kind of formal setting or any kind of judicial setting without there being 860 a particular finding.

So those are two areas of concern. I am not saying that this is not something we are going to consider, but having heard the hon. Member for the first time on this issue now, these are two red lights that spring to mind and could cause some concern, certainly on our part.

865 Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the answer by the Minister and this is a hotly discussed topic in the United Kingdom at the moment for obvious reasons. But I would certainly argue that having legislation or provisions like this that would strengthen the rules against sexual harassment in the workplace, would effectively prevent it from happening in the first place.

870 There is one argument to suggest that strengthening our measures would prevent employers from abusing their positions and prevent this from happening in the first place.

But look, it is a difficult subject I agree, but I take it that the Government is not as a result of that, intending to look at this in any detail at this stage.

875 Mr Speaker: Any other supplementaries?

Hon. Ms M D Hasson Nahon: Mr Speaker.

880 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I will answer that particular point. The Government has not closed its mind to the possibility of considering this, but there is a matter of public interest and public concern which we would have to look into.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, in the wake of the issues arising out of sexual harassment in Westminster, would the Government be looking at implementing a code of conduct for Parliament and parliamentarians on sexual harassment?
885

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, it is not something that is under consideration at this moment in time.

Mr Speaker: Sorry, what was that?

Hon. A J Isola: It is not something that is under consideration at this moment in time.

Mr Speaker: It isn't?
895

Hon. A J Isola: It is not, not that we are aware.

Mr Speaker: Perhaps it ought to be.

Hon. A J Isola: Perhaps it may, Mr Speaker.
900

Mr Speaker: Because there was a report, a Commission that I myself chaired which was debated here and it was a subject that is supposed to be dealt with by a Select Committee of this House and that Select Committee is not able to meet for the simple reason that most of its Members, notably on the Government side, the Chief Minister and the Deputy Chief Minister are otherwise occupied.

But I would put it to hon. Members that it is about time that perhaps a lower powered Select Committee were to be formed, involving other Ministers and other Members of the Opposition that could deal with these matters.

Mr Speaker: The question of a Parliamentary Code of Conduct is well overdue in my view. Otherwise, I think that the work that Commission did has been wasted. The years go by and it has not been done. I know that the Chief Minister is committed to it but he is physically, and his Deputy, unable to deal with the matter.

Therefore, I would put it to the Ministers who are here now, that it is up to them, two or three of them, to take on this burden. The Minister for Labour, the Minister for Justice, they could take over the work of the Select Committee and get on with the work. There is a need, I think, for a Parliamentary Code of Conduct.
915

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, thank you for that. We will certainly ensure that it is discussed at Cabinet at our next meeting on Monday morning.
920

Mr Speaker: I commend that precisely.

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, just in relation to... for our part, we stand ready to participate in that.
925

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, by when could we expect some kind of briefing or answer on these Cabinet discussions?

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, it is not customary for us to give briefings on Cabinet discussions, but when a conclusion is arrived at, I am sure that it will be communicated appropriately.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): If I can be of assistance, Mr Speaker.

935 Mr Speaker: Well, we are left pending the Hon. Dr Cortes.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, if I can be of assistance on this point as Leader of the House in respect of the issue of the Parliamentary Code of Conduct: there is a Code of Conduct prepared by the Government, it sits behind hon. Gentlemen, we have it here, it is available 940 online, the Government is entirely committed to it, Mr Speaker.

The only reason we have not progressed that is because the GSD asked us to take it to a Select Committee, Mr Speaker, and that is the reason why the Select Committee was created.

It is true I have heard you from inside that the Government has unfortunately been dealing with other matters which have made it impossible for us to progress the Select Committee – and 945 indeed, the fragmentation of the Opposition has made it impossible to progress with the Select Committees as constituted and therefore it will be necessary to ensure fairness, particularly in the context of a Code of Conduct for Members of the House, not just for Ministers, to amend the composition of the Select Committee to include both the independent hon. Members.

That is an issue that the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister has already dealt with today in the 950 context of the composition of the Committee on Brexit and we intend to deal with in the context of the Committee on the Codes of Conduct and I am quite happy to commit to the House that we shall try and do that before the House breaks for Easter, Mr Speaker, so that we are able to finalise these matters that quickly.

This is something that I have wanted to see happen from the moment that I was elected to 955 this House and indeed, I was committed to see happen from the moment that I became Chief Minister. The entreaty from the GSD was that we should not progress with the Code without them having the opportunity to deal with it in the Select Committee. I think we are there, I do not think there is anything more to debate in this context, but I want to give hon. Members, in particular the Independent Members, the opportunity to contribute.

960 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just on the point that the Chief Minister makes in relation to this, we have said categorically that we stand ready to participate in this process quite clearly, but it is certainly wrong to suggest that ... He describes it as a fragmented Opposition, but it is quite clear we stand ready to participate in this process.

965 The world did not stop the day that the United Kingdom decided to leave the EU –

Mr Speaker: It very nearly did –

Hon. E J Phillips: But it did not, Mr Speaker, but it does not mean that –

970

Mr Speaker: It very nearly did –

Hon. E J Phillips: But it does not mean that the rest of Gibraltar needs to stop functioning. We need to carry on, Mr Speaker, doing our daily business and accept the –

975

Mr Speaker: Twenty-four hours in a day.

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, Mr Speaker, the world did not stop the day that Brexit happened. In fact the Government has demonstrated that we are continuing with a whole raft of local 980 legislation, with a whole raft of initiatives. (Interjection) We are doing so many that the hon. Gentlemen say that we are rushing it.

But, Mr Speaker, that Select Committee did have to stop the minute that the GSD started to fall apart and the first time it lost a Member, we had to include her in that Committee; the second time it has lost a Member up to now, we are going to have to include him in that 985 Committee and if they lose any others, Mr Speaker, we are committed to Independent Members having a say, in particular on a code that regulates Members. So although Brexit did not stop the Select Committee, Mr Speaker, the breakup of the GSD did interfere with it.

Mr Speaker: Next question, 113. (Interjections)

990 I assumed that automatically Mr Cortes would want to carry on, but if between them they prefer that the Hon. Neil Costa should carry on, I am quite happy to do so.

Very well, okay so call the next question.

995

Q142/2018
Access to CCTV footage –
Protocols

Clerk: Question 142, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1000 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state what protocols are in place to limit access to CCTV footage?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1005 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker,
The Royal Gibraltar Police (RGP) controls and operates the Gibraltar Government's Public CCTV Scheme, which includes CCTV cameras located at various points throughout Gibraltar. This CCTV system operates with fixed and Pan, Tilt and Zoom (PTZ) cameras. The Code of Practice governs the evidential integrity and effective management of inter alia the Public CCTV system operated by the RGP. The Public CCTV system has been registered with the Data Protection 1010 Commissioner (DPC) and a copy of the Code of Practice has been made available to the DPC. Access to the Public CCTV system is password protected and auditable. The processing, storage and security of the data is performed in strict compliance with the provisions of the Data Protection Act 2004. A copy of the Code of Practice is also available on the Gibraltar Government Website.

1015 CCTV operators are not authorised to operate any of the cameras or system until they have received suitable training and are familiar with the Code of Practice. Everyone involved in the management and operation of the RGP and CCTV systems will be issued with a copy of the Code of Practice. They will be fully conversant with the contents of the Code and appropriate 1020 procedures, which may be updated from time to time, and with which they are expected to comply. The data controller runs a list of those persons who are authorised to view live images and amends the list accordingly. Viewing of live images from the Public CCTV cameras is restricted to secure areas at New Mole House.

1025 The CCTV system is operated with respect for all individuals and in such a way as to avoid infringement of individual privacy. The RGP recognises that it is its responsibility to ensure that the systems must always comply with all relevant legislation, to ensure its legality and legitimacy. The external Public CCTV systems will only be used insofar as it is necessary for public safety, the prevention and detection of crime or public disorder. The Code of Practice also ensures that evidence is secured, retained and made available as required so that there is absolute respect for everyone's right to a fair trial.

1030 The RGP's Professional Standards Department (PSD) is responsible for the effective management of the systems, ensuring the integrity and probity of the operating system for evidential purposes. The Professional Standards Department conducts audits on the operation of the RGP systems and compliance with this Code of Practice. Audits include examination of the monitoring room records and the content of recorded material.

1035 All cameras are positioned within an area suitably signed to alert the general public of their presence. The CCTV system has a 'privacy mask' feature, which allows for all windows and private areas to be masked out. This privacy mask setting will be applied to black out private areas, which are not intended to be viewed or recorded. The CCTV system will therefore only view and record images of public areas that are within its field of view.

1040 A member of the public wishing to register a complaint with regard to any aspect of the RGP systems may do so in accordance with the Data Protection Act 2004. Any performance issues identified will be considered under the disciplinary procedures to which all police CCTV operators are subject.

1045 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, sorry, just one thing. Can the Minister just confirm then because I seem to recall asking a question along these lines some time ago and it became apparent that the RGP were not the only operators of CCTV systems in Gibraltar and that perhaps the Customs and the Environment Agency and others ... Do the same rules apply or have they all now been brought under the single agency of the RGP?

Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, I have conferred with the Hon. the Chief Minister and the Hon. the Minister for the Environment and they are stand-alone systems.

1055 Hon. T N Hammond: And can the Minister confirm whether the same rules that he has just described as applying to the RGP system apply to those systems also, or are there no rules?

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
1060 Mr Speaker, if I may assist, there is close liaison between the Department of the Environment and the RGP and we follow their Code of Practice. In fact, the people or person, I think it is one person who actually looks at CCTV footage, is already in contact with the RGP and has received training from the RGP.

1065 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q143-148/2018

Care Agency and Elderly Residential Services – Employment details and fixed-term contracts

Clerk: Question 143, the Hon. E J Phillips on behalf of the Hon. D A Feetham.

1070 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, as at 31st December 2017, how many individuals were employed directly by the Care Agency and Elderly Residential Services?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1075 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 144 to 148.

Clerk: Question 144, the Hon. E J Phillips on behalf of the Hon. D A Feetham.

1080 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state how many workers as at 31st December 2017 employed directly by the Care Agency were on fixed-term contracts?

Clerk: Question 145, the Hon. E J Phillips on behalf of the Hon D A Feetham.

1085

Clerk: Question 146, the Hon. E J Phillips on behalf of the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state how many workers as at 31st December 2017 employed directly by the GHA were on fixed-term contracts?

Clerk: Question 147, the Hon. E J Phillips on behalf of the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state how many workers as at 31st December 2017 working within Mount Alvernia were on fixed-term contracts?

Clerk: Question 148, the Hon. E J Phillips on behalf of the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. E J Phillips: Of the previous three questions concerning fixed-term contracts within the Care Agency, the GHA and Mount Alvernia, please provide a schedule setting out (a) how many successive fixed term contracts each worker has been engaged on; and (b) the date each were first engaged on the first contract.

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, as at 31st December last year, the Care Agency employed 538 individuals, of which 316 were deployed within the Elderly Residential Services.

The total number of workers as at 31st December of last year employed directly by the Care Agency on fixed-term contracts, was 24.

As at 31st December of last year, workers employed by the GHA on fixed-term contracts were working in the following departments – Ambulance Services; Medical Department; Nursing Department; Physiotherapy Department; and Radiology Department.

As at 31st December of last year, there were 113 workers employed directly by the GHA on fixed-term contracts. It is pertinent to note that out of those 113 workers, 68 are contracts of consultants and doctors who have been on fixed-term contracts, some, for over 20 years.

1115

The Government is confident that all consultants will enter into new and specifically negotiated contracts during the course of this year. To date, 18 consultants have now entered into their new contracts.

As at 31st December of last year, there were two workers employed on fixed-term contracts working within Mount Alvernia.

I now hand over to the hon. Gentleman a schedule setting out (a) how many successive fixed-term contracts each worker has been engaged on; and (b) the date each were engaged on their first contract.

Q149/2018

St Bernard's Hospital A & E Department – Three new Charge Nurses

Clerk: Question 149, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes. Mr Speaker, further to the answers provided to Question numbers 658/2017 and 733/2017, can the Minister for Health say on which dates the three Charge Nurses took up their posts on a substantive basis at St Bernard's Hospital A & E Department?

1130

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the three Charge Nurses took up the substantive posts at the A & E Department on 2nd January this year.

Q150-152/2018

Hearing aids –
Funding and patient numbers

Clerk: Question 150, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state its position with respect to the funding of hearing aids for those suffering from hearing impairment and associated hearing conditions?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 151 and 152.

1145

Clerk: Question 151, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the position in respect of the funding of the maintenance of hearing aids issued by the GHA?

1150

Clerk: Question 152, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the number of adults seen by the Audiology Department in the GHA in 2016 and 2017?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1160 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the GHA offers hearing aids free of charge to all entitled patients following clinical assessment.

The GHA finances the maintenance and repairs of all hearing aids issued. If the manufacturers advise that the age or condition of a particular hearing aid is beyond economical repair, the patient is reassessed and issued with a new device.

The Audiology Department saw 1,251 adult patients in 2016 and 1,267 last year.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, may I?

Hon. N F Costa: You are affected!

1170 Hon. E J Reyes: Perhaps I should declare a vested interest because I am one of those who fit into the figure of 1,251 in 2016 and 1,267 of 2017.

The Minister said that it provides free of charge hearing aids to those suffering from hearing impediments yet, Mr Speaker, I know that some payments are to be made in respect of acquiring your first hearing aid.

1175 Are there certain conditions of why, for example, I have had to make a contribution? The way it was explained to me by the audiologist is that I was not paying the full cost, it was subsidised but certainly, payments have been made by many patients, of which I am one of those personally affected.

1180 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, according to the information I have been provided, and I have no reason to doubt the information provided, there should be no cost whatever to any of our patients who are entitled patients.

1185 The only thing I can think of – although of course I will need to go back to the Department and ask them specifically what the hon. Gentleman has raised in this House today – may be that the specification for a particular hearing aid is such, but that the patient wishes to have a different model or a different type of hearing aid and the difference is paid between the patient's choice and what is being advised.

1190 That is the only thing that I can think of but it may be completely mistaken of me to have said so, it may not be that at all, so I will go back to the Department and I will ask the question that the hon. Gentleman has raised today.

Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Having now heard the Minister, that could well be a possibility as well. You may be entitled to something but then there is a medical sort of recommendation that you want something else.

1195 It is not a pressing matter, I think he understands we are not trying to quiz him or anything but for members of the public at large who do unfortunately suffer this hearing impediment, if the Minister can simply find out and get himself informed, then it gives future patients as well the opportunity of saying, 'Well look, I could go for this other version.'

1200 Some people are a bit worried about what it looks like and they would like a hearing aid that would not be seen. At my age I am not bothered about that, I just want one that works, especially if it works with the loop system which makes a vast difference in your life.

1205 Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, as I said I will be happy to go back to the Audiology Department and as I say, given the remarks that the hon. Gentleman has made, it may be that there is a difference of opinion between the clinician and the patient as to what model the person wishes to be ordered and the view of the clinician may differ from that of the patient who may, in instances that have come to my desk, request a smaller hearing aid which the clinical advice is will not be sufficient for their purposes and that may be the reason why payments are made but I will confirm the answer for him.

Q153/2018
Mammography appointments –
Cancellations without notice

1210

Clerk: Question 153, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state why mammography appointments have been cancelled without advance notice to patients?

1215

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1220

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, routine mammography screening appointments were regrettably cancelled recently due to the unexpected failure of the equipment.

All patients affected have been contacted and advised of the reason for the cancellation. Patients have been informed both by post and by phone of the new rescheduled appointment date.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, this arises from just over five persons that became very concerned about the fact that they had not received such notification, or early notification as has been described, and effectively turned up to the hospital expecting to have this procedure done. They were then informed that it would be some time in April for these appointments and for the machinery to come back on line, as it will fixed.

1230

Obviously their concern was that obviously this is a delicate procedure for many women that have to undergo this procedure and therefore we wanted clarification as to why there would have been a mishap with five of them at least, I have been told at the very least, have been affected by this. But if the Government is assuring us that they have been communicated separately and through multi mediums, that is fine.

1235

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I think the point that I wish to stress is that we are talking about routine mammography screening appointments, so we are not talking about urgent referrals or anything of the sort. This relates to appointments for routine screening.

1240

As a result of the breakdown of the mammography equipment, the appointments for these routine slots had to be rescheduled, I always insist when re-arranging meetings whether you bring them forward or back that you call the person and I am assured that the Department made a point of calling every single lady.

1245

Of course, there may have been cases where we have been unable to contact the lady for whatever reason, maybe the number we have is a landline and not a mobile, or indeed we have called the mobile and there has been no one to pick up and then a letter would have been sent and there would have been no oral contact.

But I always make it a point of making sure that people are called to be told of any rescheduled appointment, for the reason as he says, these appointments are important and we would rather minimise any disruption to patients.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q154/2018
Orthopaedic Clinic –
Average waiting time routine consultation

1255

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state the average waiting time for persons referred to the Orthopaedic Clinic for a routine consultation?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1260

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the average waiting time for persons referred to the Orthopaedic Clinic for a routine consultation is 11 months.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q155-156/2018
Operations –
Number carried out and cancelled 2016-17

1265

Clerk: Question 155, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state the total number of operations carried out in 2016 and 2017?

1270

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 156.

1275

Clerk: Question 156, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state by percentage, cancellations of operations due to bed shortages from the years 2016 and 2017?

1280

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, a total number of 3,632 operations were carried out during 2016 and a total number of 3,649 operations were carried out during 2017.

The percentage of cancellations of elective operations due to bed shortages for years 2016 and 2017 are as follows: 2016, 1.79%; and 2017, 0.06%.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q157/2018

Mental health conditions –
Diagnosis statistics for children and young adults

1290

1295

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state what statistics it has to hand in relation to the number of children and young adults, ages 12 to 25, diagnosed with depression and other mental health conditions?

1300

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the Government has statistics in relation to the type of mental health condition and the number of children and young adults diagnosed with depression and other mental health conditions. These are available on our Primary Care Electronic Patient Record.

Q158/2018

Obesity levels – Policy for reduction

1305

Clerk: Question 158, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, further to Question 56/2018, can the Government confirm what its policy is in reducing the high levels of obesity in our community?

1310

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, child obesity is an important matter for concern, but the overall levels of adult obesity in Gibraltar is also significant.

The Government's strategy on the reduction of obesity is therefore designed to meet the needs of different ages, different strata of society and different lifestyles.

The Public Health department addresses these needs using a multi-dimensional approach, including health education, public engagement and direct interventions.

There are numerous ongoing activities, some examples as follows.

In health education, the GHA Public Health Department presents several leaflets on obesity prevention, healthy diets and other health improvement topics in its website www.healthygibraltar.org and updates these regularly.

Posters on healthy diets and lifestyle are placed on display at the Primary Care Centre and within St Bernard's Hospital. These are available to the public and regularly updated.

A number of TV infomercials are regularly aired on GBC on topics such as the Change4Life initiatives, dietary fats, sugars and salt. All of these have been produced in the last two years.

Articles on healthy eating and lifestyle are written for the Chronicle and Insight Magazine on a regular basis.

The health promotion officers have delivered a series of healthy eating lifestyle sessions to young adults at the Gibraltar College.

A healthy eating campaign is currently being offered to Year 10 students of Bayside School.

The Health Promotion Officers contributed to the Citizen's Advice Bureau's 'Stay Safe' campaign for senior citizens of the South District, providing information on healthy living and answering questions.

1335 The Health Promotion Officers regularly appear on Radio Gibraltar's Health File presenting key facts on contemporary topics like obesity and answering questions.

The Public Health department is working with Dieticians to expand the food and snacks offered in the Hospital canteen with healthy options.

The Public Health Department is working with Hospital managers and Dieticians to substitute healthy products in the vending machines within GHA premises.

1340 Highly calorific food products contribute to obesity and a number of leaflets highlighting the health, environmental and economic benefits of reducing dietary consumption of meat have been designed and distributed throughout Gibraltar.

1345 The Department is working with the Ministry of Environment on the 'Conscious Eating – A green Gibraltar' Initiative which promotes eating for health reasons as well as to protect the environment.

Mr Speaker, further, may I inform this House, with respect to Question 56 of this year, that I mistakenly referred the hon. Gentleman to the 'Health Matters' report of 2015, when, in fact, it is the 'Health and Lifestyle' report, which is available online in the GHA website and which contains information on obesity. My apologies.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful to the Minister for clarifying the position, it is just obviously when the Minister said that I should do my homework properly and read it, which I had done, and then ... I am grateful for the correction.

1355 But it is right, after reading this document, there is no short, medium or long-term strategy of the Government. It is effectively a statistical analysis conducted of a survey on the health of Gibraltar effectively relating to obesity, smoking prevalence, eating habits etc. But it is quite clear from this document that we need to do more as a community to reduce obesity. Some of the levels that have been described in this document and the summary as well, which is more alarming, which suggests that there is serious concern for the population of Gibraltar, it brings significant health risks and the likelihood of disease of these people and consequently increases the future burden of health care.

1360 Therefore, that is why I put the question as to what is the short-term, medium- and long-term strategy by the Government in relation to this and I am grateful to the Minister for answering the specific questions.

1365 But coming to the question that I was going to put, quite recently there was some debate as to whether increasing activity for our children in schools may well be an option from the usual 30-minute activity levels up to an hour per day. Has the Government considered any of those measures that could assist in obesity levels generally, reducing them?

1370 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I have been roped in by my learned colleague in view of my responsibility for public health and for education.

1375 This is certainly something I hesitate to say that we are reviewing physical activity in schools because I am going to be accused of doing yet more things because obviously it is now a crime for me to try and do anything more than I am doing already.

But certainly, this is something that we are reviewing, the important effect of obesity on the health and obviously on future budgets on healthcare is very important and this is certainly one thing that is being looked at.

1380 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister of Education's clarification in relation to those points relating to children.

1385 But quite clearly, our levels of obesity are higher than those in Spain according to this survey and Gibraltar has the highest prevalence of obesity in adults at the age of 45 in relation to the countries that were included within this survey, i.e. England, Scotland and other countries such as Malta, and some of the Channel Islands.

1390 So it is a significant problem concerning the health of Gibraltar generally, not only in relation to children but also older males as well and therefore, these are the reasons why I have targeted these questions and hopefully, put it on the public agenda because it is quite concerning when you read in detail, the Health and Lifestyle Report as to the consequences of obesity on our healthcare system – not only for those children, but for our growing elderly population as well and the burdens that it will create.

That is why I am trying to ascertain the short- and medium-term commitments by the Government in relation to reducing obesity across the wide ranges of the ages and demographic.

1395 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q159/2018
CCTV cameras at Dr Giraldi Home –
Location

1400 Clerk: Question 159, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state that the location of CCTV cameras situated at Dr Giraldi Home are restricted to the kitchen, communal areas and sitting room?

1405 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the CCTV cameras situated at the Dr Giraldi Home are located in communal areas which include lounges, kitchens and offices.

1410 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister confirm whether or not any of those cameras would be facing rooms, residential rooms for these particular people who are residing there?

1415 Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, the answer is no. They will never be pointed towards the personal living areas.

1420 Hon. E J Phillips: And just so that we get the position clear, because we talked about protocols in relation to previous questions of CCTV, I assume, and perhaps the Minister could correct me if I am wrong, that the protocols deployed by other agencies in relation to the use and limit of the view that CCTV cameras are applied also in the Dr Giraldi Home.

1425 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, first to say that the CCTV is not yet operational, the cameras are not yet in operation and the Care Agency are developing their own protocol relying of course, on the experience of other agencies. But because we are dealing with a residential setting, we thought it was best to have a particular protocol designed for that setting, rather than just relying on other agency protocols.

1430 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, when were the CCTV cameras installed? I take the point that they are not operational so they are not switched on, but when were they installed?
Does the Minister have that information to hand?

Hon. N F Costa: They were all installed in the week commencing 29th January this year.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q160/2018
GHA clinics –
Specialist clinicians

1435 Clerk: Question 160, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1440 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government since December 2011, provide details of specialist clinicians who have been providing GHA clinics including (a) the clinics, trusts or hospitals the specialist is from and (b) the time period the specialist has been or is hosting the GHA clinics?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health Care and Justice.

1445 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, since December 2011, the details of specialist clinicians who have been providing GHA clinics including (a) the clinic, trust or hospital the specialist is from and (b) the time period the specialist has been or is hosting the GHA clinics, is in the schedule I now hand over to the hon. Gentleman.

Specialist patient care –
GHA resourcing

Clerk: Question 161, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1455 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state whether any patient has been deprived of the appropriate specialist care as a result of the GHA not making appropriate resources available?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I can confirm that no patient has been deprived of the appropriate clinical care as determined by the GHA clinical team due to lack of resources.

1465 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, as I have explained to the Hon. Minister through private messages on some particular cases which I have been informed of, there has been what seems to be a breakdown in communication or a lack of resources being made available.

My understanding from what may have happened in a particular case which we are not going to ventilate in this Chamber for sure, is that a patient has for some reason been put into an annual list of reviews for example and not been communicated.

1470 Can the Hon. Minister please pledge to investigate circumstances such as this one and ensure that the patient is always aware of the care that person is meant to be receiving and is not left in a vacuum of uncertainty?

1475 Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, I have already carried out the investigation following the hon. Gentleman's message to me.

I have a note in front of me, the note seems to suggest that the gentleman in question was informed of the next step. Having said that I am working from notes so I was not present at the meeting where any such communication would have taken place. But it is entirely possible that either the information was not communicated entirely effectively or that the person did not quite understand what was being communicated to him. And to assuage the gentleman's concerns, there has been in any event an additional appointment now set for this particular gentleman, next week.

ENVIRONMENT, ENERGY, CLIMATE CHANGE AND EDUCATION

Q113/2018

Wastewater treatment plant – Financing

Clerk: We now return to Question 113, the questioner is the Hon. R M Clinton.

1490 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm that the entire £22 million cost of the announced wastewater treatment plant will be borne by the Improvement and Development Fund and if not, by whom?

1495 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Government is considering a number of financing options.

1500 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am sure the Minister is aware that in the last Budget there was a nominal £1,000 in the Improvement and Development Fund in respect of the wastewater treatment plant.

Is the Minister now advising this House that he does not think that this cost will be going through the Improvement and Development Fund?

1505 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, what I am saying is that we are considering a number of financing options. The £1,000 is there to reflect our commitment to it and to leave those options open. If a number of options are open, this could be one of them but we are not in a position right now to give any more information.

1510 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I must say I find it strange that the Minister announces the signing of a contract but he cannot tell this House how he intends to pay for it.

Will the Minister at least give an undertaking to come back to the House and tell the House how he intends to pay those contracts?

1515 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, that is not the position. The position is that the Government knows it has different options available to it to enable us to pay for the liabilities in the contract and we want to continue to have those options available to us.

When we have made a final decision in the interest of the taxpayer, because we are not going to choose the option that is most expensive, we are going to choose the option that is most in the interest of the taxpayer, we will then be in a position to make an announcement in that respect.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, the Chief Minister is confusing the cost to the taxpayer in terms of the contract and the way he is going to pay for it.

1525 At the end of the day he has already signed a contract, there is no further benefit to be obtained for the taxpayer as far as I am aware, so is the Chief Minister saying that he really does not know how he is going to pay for this wastewater treatment plant at this moment in time?

Hon. Chief Minister: That is not the position, Mr Speaker. What the hon. Gentleman is confusing is whether or not there might be any financing cost attached to the way in which we determine that we will pay for the cost of this liability or whether we will decide to approach the cost in another way which might reduce either the financing cost or indeed the £22 million in some way.

Mr Speaker, what he should be saying to me is that he is very pleased to hear that there is an opportunity to ensure that the taxpayer gets an even better deal.

1535

Q114/2018
Smoking –
Reducing prevalence

Clerk: Question 114, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state how it intends to reduce the prevalence of tobacco smoking in our community?

1540

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1545 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Government intends to reduce the prevalence of smoking in Gibraltar through the following initiatives:

Campaigning against the uptake of smoking by children – working through the Health Promotion team of Public Health.

1550 Monitoring the prevalence of smoking in schools – working with the Gibraltar Drugs Advisory Council to survey uptake of substances in schools.

Supporting the No Smoking Day initiative – a well-established initiative in Gibraltar to promote quitting.

1555 Promoting smoking cessation where tobacco consumption is disproportionately high – older men, ethnic groups, manual workers, etc.

Supporting and promoting the GHA Smoking Cessation service.
Increasing prices of tobacco products.

1560 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, given this report that I have been avidly reading because of Minister Costa's reference to it on the last occasion, it is quite clear that our community has one of the highest smoking prevalences compared to any other country studied in relation to this report.

1565 Therefore, I ask the question as to whether the Government intends to neutralise the packets containing cigarettes so they are blank so that we get rid of this advertising of the names on these packets. Also, you have seen in other countries where they illustrate in quite graphic detail some disturbing images relating to tumours and cancer generally speaking.

1570 But does the Government intend to do anything about the packaging in relation to cigarettes in order to further enhance armoury against tobacco and the prevalence of tobacco smoking in Gibraltar?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there is no doubt about both obesity and tobacco smoking are concerns as reflected in that report, which is the second report that this Government produced. It was produced in my time as Health Minister.

1575 The first one was also published by us, the survey had been carried out in GSD times but they never provided the funding for publication. So we are very pleased and proud that we are putting this sort of information in the public domain because it is of interest to the community and also it spurs us on to greater things.

1580 So in the same way that in answer to the previous question we are promoting different initiatives to help tackle obesity, we are looking at a wide range of possibilities in decreasing smoking in Gibraltar, particularly for young people.

These are some of the matters that are on the list of things that are being considered, but we have not taken a firm decision on those and that is why the ones that appear in the answer to the questions are the ones that we are actually carrying out at the moment.

1585 Hon. E J Phillips: And, Mr Speaker, just one further question in relation to that. Clearly the position in 2008 the percentage of those individuals who had declared themselves as smokers was about 28% but in the 2015 report that the Government has commissioned, demonstrates that there was 35% so clearly something is not working in so far as strategy is concerned.

1590 In relation to children of course, the figures are fairly low and although I appreciate and commend the Government for going into schools and telling children about smoking in particular, it is quite clear that we need to do more.

Does the Minister agree with that?

1595 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: As I say with anything, any question on environment, of course I agree we can do more; we are never going to reach total satisfaction in campaigning and working for things that are good for the environment and good for the health of the community.

1600 I think I have to remind the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition that we did introduce a Smoke-Free Environment Act, so although the statistics indicate that there are a few percentage more smoking, I would like to think that there is a huge percentage more of non-smokers who are now not exposed to smoke.

So overall, perhaps the direction is the right one that we are following but clearly the community has more to do on this and we are committed to doing so.

1605 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, may I take this opportunity to ask the Minister whether they have made any progress on the question I made about a year ago regarding banning smoking in children's play parks and then asked again five months ago, which is an issue of course of health and of environment as the Minister says, because we can educate our children all we want in schools but if they are living and breathing it in children's play parks, I do not know what example that is.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, we did, if my memory serves me right, ban smoking in the sports complex, I think that has been led by my friend and colleague the Hon. Stephen Linares, but I think that has already happened and we are intending to identify play areas and possibly other recreational areas.

1615

We are considering for example some parts of the Upper Rock where smoking can actually be a danger of fire that perhaps away from the roads and so on, to introduce for other reasons but this is certainly something that we are still considering and I hope that we will be able to see progress soon.

1620

Hon. E J Phillips: Just one final question, I promise, in relation to this. So the Government has no intention of standardising the packaging of tobacco products.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I did not say that. I said that this was one of the matters that is on the list of things to look at by way of improving our performance in smoking statistics.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, the Minister did say part of the strategy would or could be to increase the price of tobacco, a strategy that has been known to work in other jurisdictions certainly.

1630

Is the Government seriously considering that or is the Minister just saying that for purposes in this House?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): As Minister for Public Finance, I have raised the price of tobacco more in six years than was the case in the past 20, so I think there is an indication of our commitment.

Hon. T N Hammond: That does not actually answer the question because clearly if you are considering raising prices to discourage people from smoking, they need to be raised significantly and considerably. And that is why I asked the question, is the Government considering the kind of raises, the kind of levels that we may see tobacco prices have reached in other jurisdictions like the UK or even possibly Spain or not?

1640

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, in the past six years I have raised the price of tobacco more than has been the case in 20 years in this community and so, therefore, I think we have a track record of using price in a way that deters people from smoking. But if people are foolish enough to want to put a stick of grass in their mouth and light it, Mr Speaker, then it is very difficult to dissuade them.

1645

In the United Kingdom, raising the price of tobacco has meant that people continue smoking so in a community as affluent as ours that may not be the silver bullet that hon. Members pretend it is.

1650

But given that the last time they were in Government they did not take those steps, can I ask them, at least rhetorically, Mr Speaker, what it is that has changed their minds now.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q115/2018

Complaints to EU Commission re flaring at Cepsa – Response received

1655 Clerk: Question 115, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Further to Question 115/2017, has Government received a response to its complaints to the EU Commission reference the flaring at Cepsa and if so, what was the content of that response?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I can be of assistance to the House, I am just reminded that the increase in tobacco prices in the time that I have been Leader of this House, is 134%.

1665 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the –

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the answer to that question, but clearly the Government's – (Interjection by Mr Speaker) it is a question related - 1670 Mr Speaker: No, the matter is closed, I closed the matter, we are moving on to the next question.

I would think there is enough tobacco smoke around this place without dealing with the matter any further. It has been amply ventilated and we are moving on.

1675 Clerk: Question 115 and answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1680 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, as has previously been confirmed, the Government has received formal notification from the European Commission that the complaint has been registered and that it is being considered.

However, the Government has received no further feedback from the Commission since then. The Gibraltar office in Brussels is urging the Commission to expedite a reply.

Q116/2018

Thinking Green underwater camera – Operation

1685 Clerk: Question 116, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, has the Thinking Green underwater camera worked at all since the beginning of last month?

1690 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, no, sir.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, what is the reason for it not having been serviceable?

1695 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, in answer to a previous question, I had mentioned that there was a question of online connectivity. On this occasion, the problem was a little bit more severe and the diving team from the Department of the Environment and Climate Change inspected the whole length of the cable from the shore to the camera and found that severe weather had dislodged the rock that had fallen on the cable and pinched it.

1700 Therefore, it has required the removal of the whole cable and it will have to be laid again and the team is looking towards doing it over the next couple of weeks.

Hon. T N Hammond: I appreciate this may not arise from the question so I do understand, but does the Minister have any idea of what the cost of that particular exercise would be?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, we have enough cable to be able to relay it without having to purchase anymore, because most of it can be recouped and used and the work is carried out in-house by members of the Department's diving team so we do not have to pay over and above the normal wages of the men and women in question.

1710 So there is no separate cost other than the one as I said last time, routine maintenance is done by the in-house team.

Q117-118/2018

Dogs –

Testing of faeces; fines for non-registration

Clerk: Question 117, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1715 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, what is the cost of each DNA test or batch of tests conducted on samples of dog faeces?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1720

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 118.

Clerk: Question 118, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: How many fines have been issued or are pending for ownership of unregistered dogs?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the cost of each faecal DNA test is €12.88.

1735 In answer to Question 118, none yet sir, but I have to qualify that: although there has been no fining for unregistered dogs, there has been one fine currently being processed for an unlicensed dog. You have to register it and then license it every year. So the dog was registered but the licence had not been produced.

This is despite the fact that several hundred dog owners have been stopped to confirm their registration and there are daily patrols checking dog owners accordingly.

Q119/2018
Heritage Action Committee –
Meetings since March 2017

1740

Clerk: Question 119, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: How many meetings of the Heritage Action Committee have taken place since March 2017 and what has been discussed?

1745

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1750

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Heritage Action Committee has met twice since March 2017.

Mr Speaker, in my prepared answer, I do not have the details of what has been discussed, but as I have it here, I am going to read through in order to assist to pre-empt the supplementary that is inevitably coming if I may, Mr Speaker.

Discussion of the role of the committee in its method of operation, its terms of reference – this was in the first meeting which slightly pre-dates this, there was a meeting in February so it is three altogether since I reconstituted it – two since March, discussion on the Heritage and Antiquities Act and Government archives on the Gibraltar Museum, on the Garrison Library, the handing in of artefacts found by the public, heritage environment records, heritage management plans, GIS for plotting the schedule to the Heritage Act, inclusion of caves in the schedule, mobile heritage assets moratorium, Heritage Act feedback, the sports complex at Europa and Lathbury Barracks, Europa Point expressions of interest, Nun's Well options, Southport gates and the maintenance of city walls, the ex-MOD gatehouse relocation, the location of Admiralty anchors, Witham Cemetery, street art initiative, the World Heritage viewing platform, provision of archaeological services, the Garrison Library again, Lathbury Barracks and Europa Pass Battery, and discussion of heritage aspects of MOD assets.

These are the ones listed in a list. There will have been more informal discussions but I think that highlights the range. If I may add as well, Mr Speaker, this is an action committee so it meets when there are specific actions to be decided. There is a lot more consultation with the different members in our day-to-day work.

1770

Hon. R M Clinton: Just one question, Mr Speaker. I notice reference to a Heritage Management Plan; I do not believe that has been published yet. When might that be published?

1775

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I think I have answered a question on this previously. This is being drafted by the Gibraltar Museum team and I am looking forward to receiving a draft but without notice, I cannot tell the hon. Member exactly when I expect this.

Q120/2018
Upper Rock visitors –
Numbers per month since July 2014

Hon. T N Hammond: Can Government provide a list of the number of visitors to the Upper Rock, by month, since July 2014?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1785

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the information requested by the hon. Member is in the schedule which I now hand over.

1790 In the meantime, Mr Speaker, I would like to bring his attention to the fact that this information is available on line at <https://www.gibraltar.gov.gi/new/statistics-topic-area/2018/tourism>.

Hon. T N Hammond: I am not going to try and write that down!

1795 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, I am happy to give him a copy of this behind your Chair, Mr Speaker.

Q121/2018

Upper Rock Nature Reserve entrance fees – Arrears update

Clerk: Question 121, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1800 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide an update on the arrears detail position of debtors who may have exceeded their credit periods on Upper Rock Nature Reserve entrance fees, together with details of any other debts they may owe to the Government or its agents?

1805 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, there is currently one debtor. Arrears pending amount to £168,790.40.

1810 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, is that exclusively in relation to Upper Rock entrance fees or does that encompass other arrears.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, exclusively to the Upper Rock. I have not found any other debts by that debtor in other areas. If there are some, they certainly have not come to our attention when we were researching the answer.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Minister confirm that this is the same debtor that has owed a substantial amount of money for the last two years?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, sir.

1820

Hon. L F Llamas: Therefore, Mr Speaker, could I ask what the Government is doing in order to recoup this amount of money, given that this is again on the increase and obviously the operator or whoever the individual is, keeps on entering the Upper Rock whilst having this debt over the Government.

1825

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this is a snapshot, that debtor is regularly making fairly large payments. This is a snapshot at the time that this information was captured and it will depend on how many visitors come in and some months there will be more, some months there will be less, so I suspect that this will reflect a period, because there is a time lag of a couple of months before payments come in, so this could well reflect the end of the summer period.

I can find more information but I can assure the hon. Member that payments are coming in regularly.

And in answer to previous questions, he will have seen how this does in fact go up and down depending on when we take the actual data. I am happy to look into a more long-term analysis of this but I do assure the hon. Member that regular payments are being received.

1835

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, could I ask is any interest charged together with these payments for what could be described as an unsolicited loan?

1840

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Without accepting that definition I am not aware of what that answer would be, I would need to look into that.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just in relation to the answer the hon. Gentleman has given, does he know ...? Because what he is saying is that payments are regularly coming in, but of course, if payments are regularly coming in but the debt remains in the region of £200,000 then effectively the Government is subsidising this particular operator in a very significant way.

Now, does the Minister know whether in the period since the summer for example, whether that debt has actually reached zero, because then I could understand the situation better and I could understand what we have here is an open tally whereby on a monthly or bi-monthly basis or every three months the debt may go up and then it is reduced to zero.

I am just trying to understand what the nature of this debt and how long it has been outstanding is.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, it has not reached zero, but it would be almost impossible to reach zero unless there were no visitors brought by that operator into the Nature Reserve for say a period of three months.

There will always be, it is a dynamic situation, there will always be some debt. The debt has been considerably lower than it is now, when I have been asked at other times. I do not have a recollection nor the figures at this point in time as to what my answers have been, but they have been certainly at least, I think, I am working from memory, Mr Speaker, at least half of this.

1860

And if you then translate it into the number of tourists brought through, it may be that it is a reasonable amount of tourists if we are working on a two or three month lag. So it looks perhaps, I think it certainly looks worse than it is, but I would need a little bit of time to research it in the context that it has been asked.

1865 I was asked for a specific figure, that is what I have provided. I would be happy either if the hon. Member or Members write to me or if there is another question in future to analyse it in that way, but it is highly unlikely that it would ever be zero if there is a lot of trade, but I need to research that further.

1870 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, the fact that it cannot go down to zero is slightly confusing when this matter was first raised by the Principal Auditor in his report from 2014-15 and therefore, it was highlighted by the Principal Auditor as a going concern, given that it is the only ... There were two operators at the time, one obviously has satisfied his debts but obviously there still remains one particular operator or individual out there that simply cannot manage its 1875 debt appropriately and has been doing so now for two years, when this was not the case before this was actually raised by the Principal Auditor.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, how does the hon. Gentleman reach that 1880 assumption? Couldn't it also be the biggest operator by far, rather than just a debtor that is unable to manage its debt?

Hon. L F Llamas: Well, Mr Speaker, answering to the Chief Minister, I take that assumption from the concerns raised in the Principal Auditor's Report and if he is raising it as a concern, it is obviously a concern which we must then address and I hope the Chief Minister agrees that if he 1885 highlights it, it is something that his Government should be looking into.

Hon. Chief Minister: Nobody is saying it is not a concern. What I am saying is how has the hon. Gentleman assumed it is a debtor that is unable to manage debt and that the sums are not large sums because we might be dealing with one of the largest operators that brings the larger 1890 number of people, and the hon. Gentleman has said to him, as a result of that, the numbers get large.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I? Mr Speaker, no, I understand the point made by the Hon. the Chief Minister, but if it were the position that ... Effectively what we are dealing with is 1895 a running total of amounts owed to the Government simply because there are a lot of tourists going into the Upper Rock and at any given time there is always going to be some money that is owed to the Government, I could understand there is no concern.

But the point that is made by the Hon. Mr Llamas is that in 2014, the Principal Auditor raised this as a concern; therefore, it was a concern to the Principal Auditor and if it was a concern to 1900 the Principal Auditor, I think that it is a reasonable assumption to make. We do not know – I mean we are blind on this side of the House in relation to this; the Government has the facts. But if it was a concern to the Principal Auditor in 2014, then a reasonable assumption is that it cannot just simply be explained away by way of a running total that is reasonable in the context of a lot of tourists coming into the Upper Rock. I just wonder whether the Government knows 1905 the answer to this.

Are we talking about, which I think from the inferences to be drawn ... I do not think that is right, but is the Government satisfied that this is just simply a reasonable debt incurred as a running total because of the amount of tourists that are going in or is it a matter of concern which the Government then is attempting to deal with in any particular way?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Government is satisfied that the monies that the Principal Auditor said were outstanding in 2014 have been paid and that the monies that are outstanding today have been accrued subsequently as a result of the volume of traffic that this 1915 particular operator moves and the credit terms this operator provides to its clients and therefore the credit terms that it requires from the Government.

1920 But we are dealing with a going concern that pays the amounts outstanding to the Government, although unfortunately with slightly greater delay than the Government would like to see. The hon. Gentleman knows that this is a complex business which Government has an intention to try and see if we can deal with it in a different way. Not in relation to this operator but generally.

1925 But given the numbers that we are dealing with in the context of this particular operator, it would be wrong to say that this is mis-management of debt and this is the thing that the Hon. Mr Llamas said and it was the assumption that Mr Llamas made that I was challenging. There are some things Mr Llamas has said in this House which I very much welcome that the hon. Gentleman has taken issue with.

This one I take issue with because it is based on an assumption and as I often say to the hon. Gentleman, to assume makes an ass of you and me and in this instance, that is exactly what Mr Llamas has done.

1930 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may, would the Minister be able to advise what the standard credit terms would be for this operator – is it 30 days, 60 days, 90 days? Because obviously the concern of the Principal Auditor would have been that they exceeded their credit period.

1935 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I believe it is three months and as I say, I have this snapshot in order to be able to elaborate and analyse that. This amount of money by three months would be 56 per month, and then you would have to divide by the cost per visitor to see how many visitors we are talking about. So it is difficult to analyse it with all the information but it is, I believe, a three-month period.

1940 Hon. D A Feetham: Just one more, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: Yes, go on.

1945 Hon. D A Feetham: Does the Minister know whether the £200,000 that are outstanding –

Mr Speaker: £169,000.

1950 Hon. D A Feetham: £169,000, I stand corrected – that that money is outstanding for more than three months or less than three months? Because if it is less than three months, then of course, there is less of a concern. But if it is more than three months, then there is more of a concern because obviously they are exceeding and breaching their credit terms.

1955 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am not going to speculate. I learned my mathematics from you at school and without the data I cannot answer, I would have to look into exactly how this figure has come about.

1960 Hon. Chief Minister: I can tell the hon. Gentleman the way the question is phrased, I believe it is inclusive of monies owed in the period of three months and therefore, the out-of-credit-term amount is going to be significantly lower.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q122/2018
Upper Rock-Gibraltar Nature Reserve App –
Development

Clerk: Question 122, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1965

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain whether it is still pursuing a working Upper Rock-Gibraltar Nature Reserve App?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1970

1975

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, just one supplementary: does the Minister know when this App will be live and what the expected cost will be?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I know when: 'when' is the opening of the Sky Walk which is at last looming as we finish the safety works that we are doing in the area. The cost, I would need notice of that, Mr Speaker.

1980

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Clerk: Question 123, the Hon. E J Reyes.

1985

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, this might be a convenient time for the House to now adjourn until Friday at 3.00 p.m.

Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn until Friday at three in the afternoon.

Questions for Oral Answer

ENVIRONMENT, ENERGY, CLIMATE CHANGE AND EDUCATION

Q123/2018

Vacant teaching posts –
Details

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Friday, 16th February, 2018.

We continue with answers to Oral Questions and we commence with Question 123, the 5 Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Education provide details in respect of vacant teaching posts, indicating the school or establishment where these vacancies exist; as well as showing how many posts are currently being covered in an acting capacity and from 10 which dates?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

15 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, my prepared answer which I will read, I need to qualify after a discussion I have just had with the hon. Member opposite.

The answer is there is currently one vacant post for teacher, which has been vacant at St Paul's First School since last December – December 2017.

20 In looking at the prepared answer, it occurred to me that the hon. Member opposite might have been referring not just to posts of teacher, but also to teaching responsibility posts. I have clarified that and we have agreed that I will give him the information that I have here, but I will have to send him more concrete details which have not been prepared, later and the hon.
Member has agreed.

25 So in that respect, there are 15 teaching responsibility posts which are vacant other than maternity leave. There are other posts which are maternity leave cover but they are not vacant, so these 15 do not include maternity leave.

30 Of those, nine have been vacant for less than six months, six for over six months and of those, one was because of a very long-term sickness, another one is a post that is being revised, a third one there have been no applicants and the others are in the process of being advertised.

But as I say, Mr Speaker, and the hon. Member has graciously agreed, that I will send the detailed information very, very shortly in order to give him all the information that he requires.

35 Hon. E J Reyes: I can confirm that, Mr Speaker, we have come to an agreement. Just to clarify so that I do not pester him later, when the Minister provides for us the information of the posts being covered and so on, the final words in my question were 'how many are being covered in an acting capacity?' because hypothetically there could be TLR posts that are vacant and may not necessarily be covered. So when he compiles the information if I just give him a pre-warning that would be useful. I suspect that they will all coincide but it could be a case.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, the one of teacher-specific has been covered but obviously the others, that is the information that I will include in my reply.

Q124-125/2018
School buildings –
Restrictions on use

45 Clerk: Question 124, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Has the Minister or Director of Education spoken to Head Teachers about the restrictions on the use of school buildings recently imposed by some schools upon GTA/NASUWT?

50 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 125.

55

Clerk: Question 125, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Does the Government continue to support the restrictions on the use of school buildings imposed by some schools on GTA/NASUWT?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

65 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Government respected the decision of the Head Teachers taken at the time, and in the circumstances reigning in the schools at that time, not to hold the meetings in question in the schools, but there is no ban nor has there ever been one.

If necessary, the Government would make alternative arrangements for meetings to go ahead on other Government premises.

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, I am grateful, Mr Speaker, I do not know if the Minister has the information at hand, I seem to recall that there was something called a facilities agreement in place which was binding for both sides and it was my recollection that provisions were made in there for the GTA precisely to be able to use school premises for their meeting.

Were the Head Teachers aware of that or was there another factor that made that facilities agreement have to be bypassed or whatever?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there is in fact a facilities agreement and it is the subject of ongoing discussions between the GTA and the Government within the Social Partnership. We are reviewing that facilities agreement and a number of drafts are circulating and are being considered.

Despite that, Mr Speaker, a Head Teacher has to take responsibility for what happens in the school and therefore they took a decision on that particular day they felt it would not have been appropriate or useful to have held those particular meetings on those days. But, as I said, there is no overall ban, and if in the unlikely event that were to happen again, certainly the Government would provide either another school or other premises so that the meeting could go ahead.

85

Q126-128, 130, 132, 134-135, 137/2018
Plans for new schools and changes in Education –
Details and consultation with unions

90

Hon. E J Reyes: How many times did the Minister or the Director of Education meet GTA/NASUWT before 26th October 2017 to discuss the plans that Government subsequently announced on that date?

95

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 127, 128, 130, 132, 134, 135 and 137.

100

Clerk: Question 127, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: How many times have Government met GTA/NASUWT to discuss the plans they announced on 26th October 2017 since that date?

Clerk: Question 128, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: How many times did the Minister or Director of Education meet Head Teachers of the various schools to discuss the plans that they subsequently announced on 26th October 2017, giving a breakdown of which Head Teachers were met and when?

110

Clerk: Question 130, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: How is the Department of Education managing the key stage realignment transition in the run up to the new secondary schools?

Clerk: Question 132, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Is the Department of Education looking at implementing pay reviews in the run up to the new school structure?

Clerk: Question 134, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: How will the vocational courses be managed in the site with the two schools, shared facility or will each school operate independently?

Clerk: Question 135, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Does the Department of Education have the staffing levels available to cope with the new schools?

130

Clerk: Question 137, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, what plans does the Government have for the building currently being used by the College of Further Education?

135

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):

140

Mr Speaker, the location of the new schools was discussed with the GTA/NASUWT on 17th October 2017 at a meeting of the Social Partnership.

However, the GTA/NASUWT President was also a member of the working party that made the recommendations for the plans in relation to most of the changes, including co-education, key stage realignment, expansion of vocational courses and increased nursery provision.

The discussions therefore included the GTA since much earlier. The Director of Education was a member also of that working group and so he met on all the occasions that the working group met.

Since 26th October 2017, I have met the GTA on at least four occasions and have additionally been in touch either informally at events or by electronic means on at least five other occasions.

150

In answer to Question 128, we met on 4th July 2017 with Head Teachers of all schools, that was the Director and myself; on 5th September 2017 with Head Teacher of St Martin's School and myself; on 17th October 2017 with Head Teachers, from Bayside Comprehensive, Westside Comprehensive, St Anne's Middle School, Notre Dame First School, Bishop Fitzgerald Middle School, Governor's Meadow First School, St Martin's School, Gibraltar College, that was the Director and myself; on 24th October 2017 with the Head Teacher of Westside Comprehensive School, and that was the Director and myself.

155

Since April 2017, the Gibraltar Government Department of Education's current project management team has met Head Teachers from all schools involved with the planned moves regularly. This has happened both at the schools and at the Department of Education.

160

In answer to Question 130, a consultation process was set up in October last year and comprised of two different working parties looking at different aspects of the key stage realignment transition

TLR and pay reviews are not directly related to the new schools. There will of course be consideration of operational changes and this is a normal step in any major transition and will be carried out in consultation with all affected unions.

Each school will offer the same vocational courses independently in each of the schools. The specialist vocational areas within the campus will be used by both schools to run their own courses.

There will be a need to review teacher numbers – this in in connection with Question 135 – there will be a need to review teacher numbers in connection with some of the changes, such as the key stage re-alignment and increased nursery intake.

And in relation to the final question in this group of questions, various options are being considered.

175 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, in the breakdown of meeting dates and parties concerned and so on, I have not heard and perhaps the Minister can correct me, it is my understanding that the Chief Minister and the Minister of Education both personally attended a meeting with Members of GTA/NASUWT within Bayside School. That has not come across in any of his answers. Is it my error in noting it or perhaps he has not had ... ?

Mr Speaker: It is because that is the general body of teachers and your question does not deal with the general body of teachers.

Hon. E J Reyes: It deals with GTA/NASUWT. (Interjection)

Mr Speaker it deals with, Question 127, how many times the Government met GTA/NASUWT – that is representatives of the general body –

Mr Speaker: No, no, that was the staff. The meeting was with the staff of one of the schools.

Hon. E J Reyes: No, it was not staff. It was not just those schools. Mr Speaker, I understand that it was a general meeting of GTA/NASUWT, and perhaps the Minister can ...

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, if I may assist. The hon. Member is referring to Question 127 as opposed to 128. Because we have 127 –

195

Mr Speaker: But in the supplementary he is referring to the meeting that you and the Chief Minister held with the teachers. That was the subject of the supplementary.

200

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, that particular meeting is not included in the total, because it specifically mentioned the Director and myself, although yes, the Director was present, so then I would have to add one to the total number of meetings. Thank you.

So I am grateful to the hon. Member to have established that I have consulted even more than I thought I had.

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, thank you, Mr Speaker, so implied in that answer, the confirmation is that I am correct that it was the Chief Minister and the Minister for Education. Would he happen to have a note of the actual date when that happened?

210

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I would have to look in my diary. It was certainly after 26th October.

Mr Speaker: Any other supplementaries? The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, in relation to Question 135 about staffing levels, has the Department of Education decided whether it is the Year 7 teachers that will be moved up to the secondary schools or moved down to the pre-school and a new cohort in Year 7?

220

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this is an ongoing process. There will be discussion with the teachers concerned. There was a questionnaire sent out I believe some time ago, in which teachers were asked what their preference would be.

There are some who would wish to remain and perhaps, change the year that they are teaching and some who may wish to move. But this is something that is being considered and obviously we have time to be able to establish that, so there has been no definite decision but it will be done, obviously in consultation with the teachers concerned.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Just one more supplementary, if I may, on that Question 135. Does the hon. Minister know whether there are enough teachers available to form the new cohort needed?

230 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I would say there are. There are over 100 qualified teachers currently who do not have full-time employment. Whether their specific skills correspond to the emerging needs or whatever, there might need to be some induction or further training, is something that we will be establishing. But I believe there will be enough teachers in Gibraltar to be able to cover that, yes.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Lawrence Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, in the original answer given by the hon. Member, I latched on to the fact that he said that the locations had been discussed by the working party. I am surprised, because obviously when you read the report – (Interjection by Hon. Dr J E Cortes) That is what I understood. I will give way –

240

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I did not say the locations had been discussed. I said most of the changes and I listed which they were. I did not say the locations had been discussed by the working party, because they have not.

245

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

250

In relation to Question 137, asked by my hon. colleague, Mr Llamas, did I hear the Minister correctly saying he is considering various options and could he expand upon that? I do not believe I have seen the site as being put out for tenders or expressions of interest. Is it the intention to retain it within Government use?

255

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, it is not me personally who is considering the options. This is a Government decision. The question of land use is not my personal responsibility. I contribute to the discussions.

The options are being considered and one of the options could be retained for use; another option could be expressions of interest. The options are being considered. I have nothing further to add.

260

Hon. R M Clinton: I thank the Minister for his answer, but how would he distinguish between this particular site, the College site and Bayside, St Anne's which have gone out to tender for expressions of interest? What is it that makes these sites so different?

265

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: What makes the sites so different is that it is a different site. A different site and there will be different considerations appertaining to each site. So whereas the decisions clearly have been made in the other sites to go out for expressions of interest, this is still being considered and so we are not in a position to say any further on this one.

270

Hon. R M Clinton: Again, I thank the Minister for his answer. Would it be correct for me, possibly not correct for me to say, but would the Minister say or can he say, whether the Government have actually received expressions of interest before they officially asked the public for expressions of interest for those particular sites, seeing as the College site strangely was not in that original schedule of properties that went out for tender? Is it that the Government already had expressions of interest?

275

Mr Speaker: I am giving the hon. questioner the benefit of the doubt regarding relevance. In the answer the Minister makes, I do not want him to widen the scope of the answer beyond the subject matter that we are dealing with.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, my answer is simple. I am not aware of any expressions from any parties but I may not necessarily be aware because it is not in my direct area of responsibility.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Elliott Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one question in relation to the Minister's answer to Question 134.

As far as I understood the answer to that question, there would be a number of vocational programmes running through both schools as it were, with the possibility of shared resources for both schools in relation to vocational training. That is how I understood the answer and if that is the case, has the Government at this stage, identified which vocational programmes will be in each other school and what type of shared facilities there would be?

Obviously our thinking is that the College of Further Education retains a level of vocational training. How would that merge with the intended plans for vocational training in both new schools?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: The difference here is that in the comprehensive schools the vocational training is at an earlier stage. We are looking at GCSE stage and the facilities will be mirrored in both schools, except as the plans are now – and remember we are in stage three consultations so there is still some tweaking – as the plans are now, there will be a mechanical workshop in one of them and a hairdressing suite in another.

In order to do away with gender bias, it is likely that the hairdressing one will be in Bayside which will be mixed and the mechanical in Westside so people do not follow on the tradition of boys versus girls, but they will be running their own programmes.

Of course, there is a possibility that if there are very few students in any of these, we may have to consider the consortium arrangement that exists now for A-level and in exceptional cases, we may have to have pupils from both schools doing one or the other. It is not likely that that will happen because the plan is now that they will run independently but they may have to go across from one side to the other for particular specialist subjects only.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can I just ask, when the Minister says that the vocational courses are hairdressing and mechanics, are these the only two that are going to be ... ?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Those are the only two where there is going to be only one of each. But for other vocational courses, and I do not have the list with me, each school will be independently provided.

Mr Speaker: We will go on to Question 129.

Q129/2018

Children with hearing impediments –
Number in schools

Clerk: Question 129, the Hon. E J Phillips.

325 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the number of children with hearing impediments at our schools?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

330 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, there are 24 children with hearing impediments at our schools – I should add, with identified hearing impediments, of course.

Q131/2018

Department of Education–
Teaching and Learning Responsibility (TLR) review

Clerk: Question 131, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

335

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Is the Department of Education currently undergoing a TLR review?

340 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, no sir.

345 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, does the Department of Education intend to in the run up to the new secondary schools?

350 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this would be a total independent exercise from the new secondary schools. I believe that there has been some discussion within the Teacher's Association proposing something like this and if these proposals come forward, obviously we will consider the need but it would be a separate exercise.

355 We are not combining the two. One is the schools' transition into a new site, as I said in one of my answers, with looking at the specific operational needs of that school, but a much wider review obviously would have other considerations and cannot be part of the same exercise.

360 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I understand where the Minister is coming from but considering that the key realignment stage comes into it with the new schools, doesn't Government agree that there is a value or a need in undergoing this review, given the extra workload that teachers will have as a result of this new year coming in?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: This is a sort of operational part of any transition that would need to be looked at. But if the hon. Lady is referring to a wider cross-school TLR that would be a separate exercise. But clearly, we will have to see how we adjust operationally for the changes.

Q133/2018
Department of Education –
Heating levels in classrooms

365 Clerk: Question 133, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon. Is the Department of Education satisfied with heating levels in classrooms following last month's calls for heating to be at an appropriate temperature?

370 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, not entirely, sir.

375 However, despite the fact that school maintenance records did not corroborate nor indicate a concern regarding levels of heating, the concerns were followed up at the time with each individual school and detailed feedback was requested.

Six schools reverted, highlighting particular appliances or specific classrooms and a report was immediately issued to the Gibraltar Electricity Authority which has already completed any repairs.

380 The GEA has recommended a number of replacements or increases in provision which are being addressed. In some schools there is a difficulty with the electrical installations which will be reinforced.

385 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can the Minister tell me if St Joseph's Middle School is one of the schools having the problems with the installations? Because ten days ago a little girl – and not my own because I do have a child there but it was not mine, I am happy to confirm who it was outside – came up to me and told me if there was anything that the Government can do because all the little kids, their mouths and teeth were chattering in the classroom because they were so cold. (Interjection) No, I am sorry, it is true! (Interjection) No, no 'rumourology', I am happy to provide you with the name. (Interjections) No, a child in a school comes up to me and tells me that they are freezing – I think that it is relevant and if the Government does not consider it relevant, it is very sad, I am sorry. (Interjections)

395 Mr Speaker: Order, please! Order! Let's not get carried away.
Now, the Hon. the Minister for Education.

Hon Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I have received no such reports. I cannot confirm whether or not St Joseph's Middle School is one of the ones. I do not believe it is, it is not one of those of which I am aware had installation issues. I have received no such reports but clearly, I will look into them immediately.

Mr Speaker: Any other supplementaries?

405 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker –

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Edwin Reyes.

410 Hon. E J Reyes: It seems that the Minister is aware of at least some schools. Would he be able to provide us with the information of which particular schools are the ones that he is aware of that he asked the Electricity Authority to look into the matter?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I would need notice. I know of some, but I do not wish to give an incomplete list because it may then be misinterpreted.

415

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q136/2018

Postgraduate Certificates of Education (PGCEs)– Provision in Gibraltar

420

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, when does the Government expect to provide PGCEs in Gibraltar and what will be the policy for students wishing to undertake this qualification in the UK?

425

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the target date for PGCEs in Gibraltar has been set for September 2019. There is regular collaboration between the University of Gibraltar and the Department of Education to meet this initial target date.

430

With respect to students wishing to undertake this qualification in the UK there has been no change of policy. We will continue to fund students wishing to undertake a PGCE in the UK once our own PGCE has launched.

435

However, we will reserve the right to ask these students to ‘top up’ their UK PGCE with a Gibraltar specific course prior to being employed in our schools once our PGCE is in operation. This will ensure that all teachers who enter our educational system are equipped with the strategies and skill set which allow them to deliver high quality teaching and learning experiences.

440

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker – perhaps it is a bit premature to ask this question – would the ‘top up’ course be a part-time course where students could come back, work and do their part time course or is it something they would have to do full time before commencing any employment?

445

And perhaps would the Minister know if it would be something that they could do over the summer after they had qualified, so that they could start work, straight in, in September?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, it is premature. It will be done in such a way that it will have the least possible impact on the career of the returning teacher. But it is premature, we have not yet established what that would be.

Q138/2018

Department of Education – Recent trip to Finland

450

Clerk: Question 138, the Hon. L F Llamas.

455 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide details of the recent trip by the Department of Education to Finland, including preparatory work undertaken by the team and the Finnish officials met?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

460 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the team that went to Finland had extensive knowledge on the successes of the Finnish system following research, prior to their departure to Finland.

The trip was centred on understanding how those lessons could be applied to our own educational system to continue enhancing the standard of teaching and learning in our schools.

465 During this trip they visited a Finnish language school, a comprehensive school and one of the leading vocational schools in Finland.

In addition, they had professional meetings and lectures on assessment, anti-bullying and vocational education.

470 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I take it that the fact that the Government has sent a delegation over to Finland is because it is genuinely concerned and I appreciate that. It is something I support and I mentioned in my contribution at the co-education debate.

475 However, is there any difference between the physical building of schools in the national curriculum in the UK versus the Finnish schooling system which would require perhaps, modifications of our schools being built? Perhaps that is something that the Government has considered.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, it is probably colder in Finland even than in St Joseph's Middle School.

480 Mr Speaker, I am not aware, I believe that our schools, certainly those that are planned, could be adapted but I do not have that information so that I would need to research.

Mr Speaker: We now move to Question 162.

HOUSING AND EQUALITY

Q162/2018

Controlling and coercive behaviour – Intention to criminalise

485 Clerk: Question 162, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state when it intends to bring a Bill before the House in relation to criminalising controlling and coercive behaviour?

490 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the Government is considering criminalising controlling and coercive behaviour as part of its national strategy on domestic abuse.

Hon. E J Phillips: My understanding is of course that the RGP have promoted this issue in the press and the Minister will agree of course that this is a lesser known form of domestic abuse that should be legislated for.

500 I appreciate the answer to the question, but does the Government have a timeline in respect of the introduction of legislation concerning that?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member is right in that the RGP is promoting this and that is as a result of them forming part in our national strategy working group, they form part of the committee and this is part of the plan.

505 Because we do not have a formal written strategy available for publication yet does not mean that we do not give effect to the strategy. The strategy that we are preparing and is in draft format is a five-year plan for Gibraltar.

510 This is something that is being considered as part of the strategy. It is something that we need to take a decision on. Obviously it is something that we are actively looking at and once we have published the strategy, then the timelines for this and for various other initiatives will be clear.

Q163/2018

Laguna Estate –

Number of lifts not yet functional

Clerk: Question 163, the Hon. E J Phillips.

515 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the number of lifts which are not yet functional at Laguna Estate?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

520 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there are currently 37 lifts that remain to be commissioned at Laguna Estate.

525 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister confirm why it has taken so long for those lifts to be commissioned?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, it has not taken so long for these lifts to be commissioned. This is part of major refurbishment works on an estate which had fallen into disrepair, particularly during the 16 years that the party opposite were in Government.

530 When you undertake such a massive refurbishment work in Gibraltar's largest estates, in the context of it not being the only major refurbishment work, there were three big estates undergoing major refurbishment at the same time, Mr Speaker, things need to be phased in and the external refurbishment needed to come before.

535 When the professionals are staging these refurbishments, the lifts fall in a particular part of the refurbishment schedule and they have been started at a time that is appropriate. We have undertaken over 50% ... Over 50% of the lifts in this estate have been commissioned, 31 remain but this needs to be read in the context of all the other lifts that have been commissioned in the other estates and, Mr Speaker, we have to be mindful of the fact that we have installed lifts in buildings that did not have lifts before. So this is a brand new structure, it means that there have to be brand new installations of everything and they can only start at the appropriate time.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just in relation to that, as the hon. Lady will know of course, we are conducting outreach programmes to our estates to visit a number of the residents in relation to one of the biggest complaints, which is the question of maintenance and lifts.

545 I am not going to go into the maintenance but in relation to the lifts concerned, I visited many of them, many of which are boarded up with fences that would appear to have been there quite some time and in fact, it looks like the area is corroding quite excessively, so I am not too sure what reassurance we can give people listening in, or watching indeed, as to when this is going to get done finally.

550 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, unfortunately, the hon. Member does not seem to have properly heard what I said. Mr Speaker, it is a question of commissioning these lifts. Before lifts are commissioned, obviously they need to be installed.

555 There are different ... In Laguna Estate for example there are three phases to the works, so in the first phase, most of the lifts will have been installed and have been commissioned. In the second stage they have been installed and are in the process of being commissioned and in the third stage, the majority of them will by now have been installed and they will be the last phase to be commissioned.

It is a phased refurbishment plan and it is a logical way to do these things, Mr Speaker.

560 Hon. E J Phillips: One further question, would the Minister be willing to attend Laguna Estate with me so that we can speak to the residents themselves?

565 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the hon. Lady has attended Laguna Estate with me on a number of occasions. We shall be attending Laguna Estate on many occasions in the future, and if the hon. Gentleman needs us to get people to come down and see him – because I saw the woeful photographs of him and the new Leader of the GSD standing around on their own at Laguna Estate – perhaps he wants to propose a fee for us to get people to come down and actually see him.

570 But no, we are not going to go with them, Mr Speaker; we are going to go when the tenants wish us to be there and we will continue to go as we have gone, not just at election time, but throughout the life of a Parliament – during the life of the last Parliament and the life of this Parliament – to enjoy the excellent refurbishment work that has been done by successive Ministers for Housing under the GSLP Liberal Alliance at Laguna Estate, at Moorish Castle Estate, at Glacis Estate, at the other blocks refurbished by this Government and the other blocks that we will refurbish too.

575 And there, Mr Speaker, we will enjoy speaking to those residents of the estate who wish us to do more and who wish to congratulate us for what we have done. And I will just remind the hon. Gentleman that they used to say that we were wrong to do this refurbishment that we were doing too much and we were spending too much. And now, Mr Speaker, they appear to be taking a different line.

580 But I suppose I had forgotten, Mr Speaker, that I was now dealing with the PDP, not the GSD.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

585 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I?

Mr Speaker: Not on the subject of attendance by hon. Members of Parliament at Laguna. I will allow you a supplementary on something else.

590 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I did not attend Laguna.

Mr Speaker: I do not want any more exchanges on the subject of who attends where. I am making that proviso before you ask the question.

595 Hon. D A Feetham: Thank you very much, Mr Speaker, that is very helpful.

Can I ask the hon. Lady two supplementaries. One, she said that there were 37 that needed to be commissioned – she said 37 first in her answer and then in a supplementary answer she said 31. (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Thirty-seven.) Thirty-seven. How many have actually been commissioned in terms of numbers? She used percentages, but how many have been 600 commissioned in terms of numbers?

And also, can she confirm that all the services have been laid in respect of all the lifts that need to be commissioned? And by services of course, I mean the cables, etc. which was one of the issues that, as I understand it, has actually delayed the installation of lifts.

605 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I was correct on the first occasion when I said 37. I am sorry, when I said 31 I got confused, so 37 have been commissioned and there are 71 in total so we are pretty much halfway there, because 34 have already been commissioned.

In terms of the services, Mr Speaker, again because this issue is sequential in the schedule, the services are essentially the foundations that need to be laid in order for the lifts to be 610 commissioned so as a precursor, we have phased in the services that need to be installed, aligned with the phases of the actual estate.

So I think – I am pretty sure, though not absolutely sure – that all the services have now been installed. But if they have not been installed, it is because we are obviously organised in a way where the services need to be installed in order to meet the deadlines for the phases.

615 I am looking at a schedule now: not all the services in the final phase have been installed yet but there is a sequence to it so I am satisfied with the sequence, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Edwin Reyes.

620 Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

My parliamentary colleague has actually asked my doubt on the actual number of lifts and the Minister has now clarified the overall number of 71 so there is no longer a need for my supplementary.

625 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q164/2018
Housing estates –
Completion of works

Clerk: Question 164, the Hon. E J Phillips.

630 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state, when works are expected to be completed at all our housing estates?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

635 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the latest projected completion dates of the major refurbishment work at our housing estates are as follows: Moorish Castle Estate – April 2018; Glacis Estate – June 2018; Laguna Estate – June 2019.

640 This will include the installation of lifts, the external refurbishment of all blocks, the refurbishment of communal areas both internal and external; together with the infrastructure and road resurfacing.

Q165/2018
Housing estates –
Improving general maintenance

Clerk: Question 165, the Hon. E J Phillips.

645 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state what steps it will take to improve general maintenance at our housing estates?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

650 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there is now a clear plan for refurbishment and maintenance of all Government housing estates so as to ensure that they do not fall into disrepair again as they did during the 16 years that the GSD were in administration.

655 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am not going to deal with the political bait that has been put in front of us; I am going to deal with the issues that are before this House, Mr Speaker, and that is in relation to general maintenance of our housing estates.

Has the Government considered whether we should deal with an introduction of a warden scheme to deal with general maintenance queries by residents in housing estates?

660 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, now that the substantial work on the major refurbishment works of our largest estates have been undertaken, I have been working very closely with the Heads of the Housing Department and the Housing Works Agency on a strategy and a plan going forward, to ensure as I said in my original question, Mr Speaker, that there is a plan of maintenance for all our estates so that they do not fall into disrepair going forward. We 665 are looking to see the most efficient and cost-effective way to give effect to that objective.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q166/2018
Housing waiting list –
Number of applicants

670 Clerk: Question 166, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the number of people currently on the housing waiting list?

675 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there are currently 913 applicants on the housing waiting list.

Hon. E J Reyes: Sorry, Mr Speaker, can the Minister confirm that figure of 913 is on the main housing waiting list and does not include the pre-list?

680

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, this does not include the pre-list. The question was in relation to the housing waiting list and this is the number of applicants on the housing waiting list.

685

Hon. D A Feetham: May I also, Mr Speaker, ask the Minister whether she has the statistics for how many people that were on the housing waiting list in December 2011 are actually in those 913 or form part of those 913?

690

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, they remain on the waiting list and they will appear in this figure.

695

Hon. D A Feetham: I understand that, I am asking whether she has the figure for the number that were on the housing waiting list in December 2011 that remain on the housing waiting list as part of those 913?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, Mr Speaker, that is a detailed statistical question and I do not have that information before me, sorry.

Q167/2018
Government flats –
Current vacancies

Clerk: Question 167, the Hon. E J Phillips.

700

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state how many Government flats are currently vacant?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

705

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there are 58 vacant flats, 30 of which are under offer and the remainder are being refurbished.

710

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the answer to that question. Insofar as 'under offer', how long are they under offer for, generally speaking, on an average – would the Minister know?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: The offer process usually takes between a week or two weeks. There is a process where the person is contacted and then arrangements are made for the person to view the flat and then if the flat is accepted, it is then sent for it to be refurbished.

So I am unsure as to when these offers were made, but it is a very, very tight timeline that I keep to, to ensure that we have the fastest possible mechanism for turnover of these flats as possible.

720

Hon. E J Phillips: In relation to the other 28 homes, what is the Government's intention for those at this stage? To refurbish I assume.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, those have already been allocated. In those 28, people who have already been to view them, have accepted them, they have been allocated and 725 they are in the process for refurbishment. So they will come to us ready for the completion stage for people to move in, depending on the timeframe for each flat because some flats are in better condition than others and the timeframes for refurbishment differ.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I ask the hon. Lady, out of the 58 flats that are vacant, 730 does she know how many of those are in Government housing estates and how many of those are outside Government housing estates?

The reason why I ask this question is because Government housing estates are usually more attractive in terms of prospective tenants than, for example, a flat may be in the old town area. I just wanted to get an idea of the proportions between the two.

735 Hon. S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I do not agree with that analysis at all. We find that because of the manner and the standard to which we refurbish flats, people will accept the flats regardless of where they are located and there are some people who prefer them being in the estates and some who prefer them in the upper town or other places.

740 But by general logic, proportionately because of the volume, the majority of them will probably be in the estates. It is not a figure that I have to hand, it is not a statistic that would logically have been provided for me as an expected supplementary.

Q168/2018
Government rental homes –
Intention to build

Clerk: Question 168, the Hon. E J Phillips.

745 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state whether it intends to build homes for Government rental?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

750 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Yes, sir.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, may I ask the Government whether they know what type of homes would be built for Government rental?

755 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, announcements will be made in due course.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the reason why I ask this question of course is that as a community we should try to encourage co-ownership in relation to homes generally and when we need to, build homes for rental.

760 Our view, which we have expressed quite publicly is that they should be low rise and small distributions and that is why I asked that question. The Minister helpfully said that an announcement would be made shortly and I would ask the obvious question, as to when that will happen but I am sure there will be a chuckle from the other side.

765 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman can rest assured that everything is in hand and Government is very carefully looking at what is required. I can further reassure him that in doing so, we will make optimum use of taxpayers' funds.

770 Hon. D A Feetham: May I also ask the hon. Lady in terms of the type of rentals that the Government is considering building. Does it extend to, for example, the building of Government rental apartments for young couples that may not have the financial resources in order to be able to buy in the schemes that the Government has already built or intends to build?

775 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, we do not discriminate either in favour or against people on the basis of whether they are young or not, or couples or not, and as I have said in the previous two supplementaries, we will look to see what is required and announcements will be made in due course.

780 Hon. E J Phillips: Just one further question. Yes of course the Government must be alive to the concerns of Action for Housing, who have quite clearly pressed the Government in relation to its commitment for further building of rental housing. Clearly, they will have to take seriously the views of Action for Housing because they are on the front line when it comes to this matter.

I know it is difficult but if the Government is intending on doing that, has the Government considered locations in respect of rental housing?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I can once again reassure the hon. Gentleman that the Government looks at the demand of our society very closely and we are very clear on what is needed. Once again, Mr Speaker, in relation to the finer detail, announcements will be made in due course.

790

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just one more final question. I am slightly confused here by the answers the hon. Lady has provided, because on the one hand she said to me that everything is in the melting pot, so to speak, and was being considered and on the other, she just answered that the Government is very clear as to what is required.

So can I ask the hon. Lady to clarify, has the Government already made a decision as to the type of demand that the Government will be catering for, in terms of the rental apartments that it intends to build, or is this still in the melting pot and the decision has still got to be made?

800 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the Government is very clear in what it considers needs to be considered. Mr Speaker, we know on the basis not only of representations made by third parties, but on the basis of the information that we have on our waiting lists and looking at Gibraltar's community and our demographic, what is necessary, Mr Speaker. When we are planning these things – and these things of course we need to look at the short-term planning, the medium-term planning and the long-term planning – all considerations are taken into 805 account, Mr Speaker, to (a) ensure that we meet the needs of our community and (b) that we do so in a most cost-effective way. And once again, Mr Speaker, when we are ready to make an announcement on this basis, we will.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q169/2018

Previous Government rental accommodation – Number of properties purchased

810

Clerk: Question 169, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state how many people have been able to buy homes which were previously Government rental accommodation, since December 2011?

815 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, since 2011, 209 properties have been purchased.

820 Hon. E J Phillips: Does the Minister have an idea of the distribution of where these homes have been purchased, these 209 properties? And also, the other question would be the right to buy, as it has been referred to on many occasions – does that still exist, so people are still able to buy those homes that are in Government ownership?

825 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the flats that have been purchased are spread throughout all estates in Gibraltar in a very low number.

In relation to the second part of the supplementary, Mr Speaker, that question is already a separate question on the Order Paper.

830 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q170/2018

Government rental accommodation – Criteria for joint tenancy

Clerk: Question 170, the Hon. E J Phillips.

835 Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Housing state the criteria for joint tenancy in respect of Government rental accommodation?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

840 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, joint tenancies are granted to married couples, civil partners or those with children in common. In certain circumstances, siblings are also allowed to be joint tenants.

845 Hon. E J Phillips: Are there any extenuating or exceptional circumstances in which other relationships are also recognised?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I cannot think of any other kind of relationship beyond that, but extenuating and exceptional circumstances are always considered.

850 Hon. E J Phillips: Can for instance a friend who may happen to be living in a property, or a carer indeed?

855 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, in the general course of things then the answer is no because it is not recognised as a relationship, nor do I recall having it brought to my attention that any friend or any carer has asked for this in any event.

860 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes but, Mr Speaker, can the Minister confirm that there is a distinction but nonetheless an important protection for members of the family of the main tenant who are authorised to reside in the property and therefore they may not be tenants, but are also in the tenancy as an occupier, which then as a matter of policy gives those occupiers the right to, for example, inherit the tenancy should their parents die? (Interjections)

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, and they are in the majority of those cases, protected in law in any event.

Q171/2018
Government housing –
Rent arrears

Clerk: Question 171, the Hon. E J Phillips.

865

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the amount owing in rent arrears for all Government housing?

870

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the amount of arrears of rent owed continues to reduce and as at the end of January the amount owing in rent arrears for all Government Housing is £4,879,901.75.

875

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q172/2018
Government-owned high rise buildings –
Fire safety review

880

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state that it will publish the complete fire safety review of all Government-owned high-rise buildings?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the Housing Fire Safety Review Committee is finalising its report.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, does the Minister know when that report will be ready for publication?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I had a meeting in relation to this two weeks ago. I think, I am advised that the report is almost ready. There were a number of procedural things as a result of the report that the committee were considering, so I expect for the committee to finalise the draft of the report. I do not expect it to be much longer, Mr Speaker.

895

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, the only thing that was not clear from the Minister's answer was whether the report would then be published. (Interjections) I think that was the main emphasis of the original question, that it will publish the complete fire safety report, but the Minister was not crystal clear in her response.

900 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, for the moment this is an internal document so it is something that needs to be considered.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, is there any reason why the Minister thinks it would not be a valuable exercise to make such a report public?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, it is something that at this stage I have not considered.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

TOURISM, EMPLOYMENT, COMMERCIAL AVIATION AND THE PORT

Q173/2018

Collision of two merchant vessels, 24th January – Investigation and recommendations

910

Clerk: Question 173, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, has an investigation been conducted into the collision between two merchant vessels in the Bay on 24th January and, if so, have the causes been established and have any recommendations been made to reduce the likelihood of similar incidents in the future?

915

920

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the Gibraltar Port Authority advised the Gibraltar Maritime Administration of the incident on 24th January. The Gibraltar Maritime Administration immediately informed the Marine Accident Investigation Coordinating Officer (MAICO), who was engaged to undertake an investigation. The Gibraltar Port Authority is currently awaiting his report on the outcome of this investigation.

925

MAICO has collected all the relevant information in respect of this collision and has contacted the two flag states: Panama in respect of the Meridian Express and Norway in respect of Southern Light. The flag states have the obligation under the IMO Code to carry out an investigation into any incident involving vessels registered under their flag.

930

Panama is conducting an investigation into the collision and has appointed investigators who have received all the relevant information.

Gibraltar is a 'substantially interested party', both under the IMO Code and the EU Directive, therefore these flag states have an obligation to keep MAICO informed and MAICO can make comment on any report or recommendation that they may produce.

935

If the report makes any recommendations to operation of vessels in the Bay, these will be considered by the MAICO with the Gibraltar Maritime Administration (GMA) and all other stakeholders who may be affected.

940

Hon. T N Hammond: I thank the Minister for that comprehensive answer. Is the Minister aware whether by their nature, these reports are made available to the public, whether in a de-personalised way or in some way that at least the public can gain assurance that recommendations may have been acted upon?

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I am not aware of that but I will find out.

945

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q174/2018

Bathing in waters at Ocean Village Marina entrance – Measures to prevent

Clerk: Question 174, the Hon. T N Hammond.

950 Hon. T N Hammond: Will Government consider implementing measures to prevent bathing in the area to the north of Waterport Terraces, the entrance to the Ocean Village Marina?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

955

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, Rule 165 of the Port Rules states that:

No person may bathe within the port except at such places as are authorised by the Captain of the Port.

960 The Captain of the Port has not provided any authorisation for bathing in the area to the north of Waterport Terraces, at the entrance to the Ocean Village Marina and as such bathing is therefore not permitted.

There are currently no additional plans to implement any further measures to prevent bathing in this area. It is already covered by the present legislation.

965 Hon. T N Hammond: Could I ask the Minister perhaps to encourage the relevant authorities to enforce that particular part of the legislation, because it does appear that bathing ... particularly children do bathe frequently in that area in the summer.

I understand children will behave in this way but it is clearly a dangerous waterway for children to be swimming in and perhaps some oversight, or greater oversight, would be advantageous and hopefully contribute towards preventing a potential incident in that area.

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, as the hon. Member well knows, the enforcement of legislation such as this is not for the Government, but I take note of what the hon. Member says and I will transmit that particular message.

975

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q175/2018

Employment Service –
Notices of vacancies, engagement and terminations

Clerk: Question 175, the Hon. E J Reyes.

980 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Government state the total number of (a) notice of vacancies; (b) notice of terms of engagement, excluding variations and (c) notice of terminations filed at the Employment Services since September 2017 to date?

985 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the total number of vacancies, terms of engagement and terminations filed at the Employment Service from September 2017 to the end of January 2018 is as follows: vacancies, 3,793; terms of engagement, 4,647; and terminations, 5,088.

Q176/2018
Gibraltar, a Year of Culture –
Investments made in campaign

990 Clerk: Question 176, the Hon. L F Llamas.

995 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, since the Government has launched its campaign on ‘Gibraltar, a Year of Culture’, can it provide details of the investments made in this campaign?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

1000 Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the information requested by the hon. Gentleman is detailed in the schedule now being handed to him.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q177/2018

Visit Gibraltar website re-launch– Replacement details and expected cost

1005

1010

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain why the Visit Gibraltar website meant to be launched last September has not yet launched, including (a) when they expect the website to be replaced; (b) the entity contracted to perform the change and (c) the expected cost?

1015

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the re-launching of the website has taken a little bit longer than was anticipated. We have in fact added a Spanish version and other languages will follow.

We were also conscious, Mr Speaker, of the fact that we were launching the 'Gibraltar Year of Culture' campaign or the branding at the World Travel Market in London in November and we felt it was important that this should also be part of the website.

This week, I have held a meeting in my office to review the final version of the website and we are almost ready to bring this on line shortly.

Mr Speaker, it is, however, important to note that what we are doing is improving our website. That is not to say that the current website is either obsolete or is not fulfilling its purpose. Quite the contrary is the case. All the information one would expect in a tourism website, including what to see and do, where to stay or shop, where to eat, what events are taking place as well as information on Gibraltar's history or heritage are already there.

1030

The current service provider for the website, Piranha Designs, was contracted to carry out the changes. The expected cost of the changes will amount to circa £24,000.

Q176/2018

Gibraltar, a Year of Culture –
Supplementary question

Mr Speaker: Do you wish to come back to the previous question, matters arising from the schedule?

1035

Hon. L F Llamas: Yes please. Yes, I would like to come back to Question 176 if that is okay. In the question I am asking about the details of the investments. I appreciate the Hon. Minister providing this schedule which is very detailed.

Is the Minister able to break this down in terms of monies actually spent on each investment made throughout this campaign so far?

1040

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member asked about investments and I was not sure whether that meant what we were actually doing in what periodicals or newspapers or radio stations we were carrying out this campaign, or whether he wanted an itemised cost.

1045

What I can tell the hon. Member is that the overall cost of all the items set out in that schedule is in the order of £220,000. It is important to note that the main emphasis of the Gibraltar Tourist Board now is the carrying out of marketing or campaigns generally for Gibraltar.

1050 That was one of the reasons why the Ministry of the Environment took over management of the sites and beaches so that the Tourist Board could concentrate primarily on marketing.

1055 The Gibraltar Year of Culture is, certainly from the feedback we are getting so far, being a very successful branding and it is essentially a branding, rather than a campaign. We would have carried on with marketing campaigns in any event, so the hon. Member should not think when he looks at that list, that it is exclusively dedicated to the Year of Culture campaign.

1060 There would have been campaigns, there would have been advertisements, there would have been marketing in the normal way, except that the branding that is now being used is what we launched in the World Travel Market in November and subsequently in FITUR in January. But the overall cost of those items is in the order of £220,000.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q178/2018
Pensionable age –
Equalisation between men and women

Clerk: Question 178, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1065 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, when does the Government expect to equalise pensionable age between men and women?

1070 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Sorry, Mr Speaker, are we on 179?

1075 Mr Speaker: Question 178.

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the Government is committed to equalising pensionable age between men and women. This will happen when the new scheme for old age pensions is introduced. It is, however, necessary to know what the position will be post-Brexit before the new scheme is introduced.

1080 Mr Speaker: Next Question 179.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I ask a question? (Mr Speaker: Yes.)

1085 Mr Speaker, as a matter of interest, has the Government costed the additional cost which equalisation of the pension age would bring on a year-by-year basis? Has that kind of costing and that kind of analysis been done?

1090 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the scheme is not complete yet. It is impossible to carry out a costing exercise without knowing who the beneficiaries of that scheme will be and that is why I mentioned that we cannot do this until we know what the position will be post Brexit. Now the position may be one thing and post Brexit the position will be very different. Who will be the beneficiaries of old age pension schemes in Gibraltar remains to be seen and therefore, that exercise simply cannot happen at this stage.

1095 Hon. D A Feetham: I do not understand the answer. Without disrespecting the hon. Gentleman, perhaps the Minister for Economic Development can explain the position as to why Brexit should actually affect ... I can understand that Brexit may affect our economic ability to pay for any increase pensions liability, but what I do not understand is why would Brexit actually affect the class of persons entitled.

1100 It may affect the private sector perhaps, but in terms of the cost to the Government, that should be capable of being ascertained in the ballpark figures and I would just ask the Government to explain that.

1105 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I do not know whether the hon. Member is aware or not, but under Community law anybody that has in a lifetime accumulated 52 weeks of social insurance contribution here, can aggregate it with contributions in any of the other 27 Member States. That creates a potential pool of probably several hundred thousand beneficiaries.

1110 Hon. D A Feetham: Ah, right I see.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: We do not know whether that will continue to be the position after 2020. (Interjection)

1115 Mr Speaker: Yes, the Hon. Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

I just have one question for the Minister, when he talks about equalisation, does he have an idea as to what he means in terms of what the equalisation age would be or has he not reached a determination on that yet?

1120 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the requirement under EU law is that the discrimination between men and women ... that is to say this law discriminating in favour of women because they require less contributions and they get paid five years earlier and we did what everybody else was doing, but there is a deadline for the existing scheme of 2020, which means the deadline will not apply to us because we will be out by 2020.

1125 So in effect, we are no longer obliged by Community law to equalise. We took a policy decision, when the equalisation was there, to equalise at 60. The United Kingdom is currently equalised at 67. The new scheme, which we will call the Fully Funded Scheme, will be fully funded depending on how many people are paying in and how many people are receiving benefits and that is an impossible equation.

1130 But the policy continues to be to equalise from 60 upwards – that is to say, the policies that people should be able to take at 60 as the earliest date that they could take the pension. But what we have planned and prepared has now been put on hold until we know what is the nature of the post-Brexit relationship between contributions from EU nationals.

1135 For example, the rules on aggregation and apportionment do not apply to non-EU workers in Gibraltar, so if we had a lot of non-EU workers and very few EU workers in the economy, the numbers would be different, but we do not know whether in 2021 for example, EU nationals will be treated as non-EU nationals and therefore the aggregation rule would not apply to them so it is an impossible exercise to do because the variables are not yet determined.

1140 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q179/2018
Unemployment benefits –
Retired public servants claiming

Clerk: Question 179, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1145 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state since December 2011, how many retired public servants have successfully claimed unemployment benefits post retirement?

1150

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, since December 2011 and up to January 2018, 49 public servants have successfully claimed unemployment benefit.

Mr Speaker, it is 49 – I am not sure whether I said 49. (Interjection) Forty-nine, yes.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, is that in relation to post retirement? That was not clear in the answer.

1160 Hon. G H Licudi: Yes, Mr Speaker, that is certainly my understanding. The answer was prepared specifically in relation to the question. The question says post-retirement and therefore although I do not have that information, I am assuming – unless it is wrong and in which case I will correct it – for present purposes that this answers directly the question that was posed by the hon. Member.

1165 Hon L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, in light of the 49 public servants who have retired and then gone on to claim unemployment benefits, is this something that the Government is looking into in a way that they curtail this, given that obviously these people have received a pension and a gratuity in relation to this?

1170 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I think it has to be understood on the basis that it can equally be argued that the people in the public service who served a long time are in effect paying insurance to protect themselves against unemployment which they never have had the benefit of. There is an element of insurance contribution which in effect pays the unemployment benefit. People in the private sector who can sort of be unemployed every 13 weeks and go back and collect benefit access it more often than those in the public service.

I think in terms of the philosophy of their entitlement, whether they need it is another thing, but it is not something that the state is giving somebody as a gift.

1180 The law is that even if you retired from the public or the private sector, if you are available for work you have to register and be available for work, and therefore you are available for work and you have paid your contributions for 30 or 40 years and you are entitled to the 13 weeks and you choose to take it up I think it would be difficult to say I am going to curtail it, because as I see it anyway, the benefit is a benefit of insurance.

1185 If you were to take a policy with an insurance company that pays you if you become unemployed and you pay all your life and then you are unemployed because you have retired, on what moral grounds could I say to you well, because you have now got a pension, you cannot register as unemployed and you cannot seek another job.

1190 So frankly, my own view is that we should not seek to curtail it because I think it is something for which the worker has paid through his insurance contribution all his life. It is not as if it was a payment by the state which is non-contributory. The entitlement to unemployment benefit is 1195 the result of a contribution record which is laid down in the law and that law does not say that you are not entitled to do it. In fact, it does not even say that you cannot do it after a given age. You do not get it after you are pensionable because you get a social security pension and you cannot draw more than one benefit from the social security, but if you were, for example, not receiving a social security pension, it is now contrary to the law on discrimination to try and stop fairly young people like me at 79 from working.

So you know, the answer is that the Government certainly has not got a policy to curb it, but I personally believe that people are entitled to a benefit if they have paid for it all their lives.

1200 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I think that is in my view, a very dangerous path to encourage citizens to claim things that they may be entitled to but they may not need. Will the Government look into perhaps means testing those who claim such benefits?

1205 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: No, Mr Speaker, I do not believe they should be means tested in respect of things which are the result of contributions. In fact I think the previous administration did that in respect of Family Allowances that were means tested and I objected from that side of the House because of the principle of the thing.

You means test if you have got a state benefit like social assistance for which you have made no payment. Therefore, the state says that there is a poverty line and we help the people below that poverty line, for example the minimum income guarantee.

1210 But if I can draw a parallel, it is one thing to means test a minimum income guarantee which gives a person an income which we, for example, with the latest thing that we introduced now link it to the minimum wage so that people who are above retirement age, if they have a low pension, it can be topped up so that a married couple would have no less than 90% of the national minimum wage. That is means tested because the higher the pension you get, the less the gap will be and the people on the full pension would not get it.

1215 But I think if you were to say I am going to means test the old age pension because you have got a pension from the Civil Service, then I do not think that would be right because the contributions that you have made are the same as the contributions other people have made.

1220 I think we need to think of this as a social insurance benefit, not social assistance. It is standard procedure in all the European schemes that I am aware of that what gets means tested is social assistance which is not funded by the recipient. But social security benefits which have contribution records are dependent on how much you pay in. So how can you say two people will pay the same amount in, but one will get more benefit than another because of other income from another source? I mean, suppose somebody is more frugal with his income and saves money, does that mean that he gets penalised compared to the person who spends all his wages and has no savings?

1225 I know of no social security contributory scheme that is means tested. All the schemes that I know of in this field that are means tested are the ones where the payment is based on the income of the recipient, irrespective of whether he has made any contributions or not and therefore, it is by way of a transfer of income from people who are better off as taxpayers to people who are less well off as people with low or zero incomes.

1235 Hon. L F Llamas: Could I ask as a further supplementary, from the 49 public servants who have retired and then successfully claimed the unemployment benefit, does the Government have details of if they did a full service within the public sector or perhaps it was not a full service, or details relating to that, please?

1240 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I have a breakdown of the Department Agency Authority from which they came but not the amount of years of service in each particular area.

It is important to point out that the question relates to a period from December 2011 to January 2018, a six-year period. Clearly many more public servants than 49 have retired during that six-year period than the ones that have claimed this.

1245 So it is not the norm that public servants register as unemployed, register as seeking employment because as my hon. Colleague has mentioned, you have to be actively seeking work in order to be able to receive unemployment benefit. So it is certainly not the norm.

We also have a situation where the person reaches pensionable age in respect of the old age pension, that is a social security benefit that the person is receiving and they cannot receive another benefit and therefore they cannot receive unemployment benefit.

1250 In addition to that, there are those that at 60 are eligible to apply for community care. If you are receiving unemployment benefit, my understanding is that you would not get community care, so most people would opt to get community care and not register as unemployed. Therefore, although they have to do a couple of hours a week or whatever it is that they do in respect of the community care under the trust that regulates community care, people generally 1255 opt for doing that rather than unemployment benefit.

Therefore, the window within which this possible benefit can be applied for is very narrow. Essentially, you have to have reached compulsory retirement age, because if you do not reach compulsory retirement age under the Act you are not eligible for this. If you reach compulsory retirement age but you have not reached 60, generally the people within that category are those 1260 in the essential services – customs, fire service, prison. Those who retire from those essential services have reached compulsory retirement age at 55, not reached 60, are generally within the bracket that would fall to be entitled to register for unemployment benefit, provided that they register the employment service, they are actively seeking work, they attend the regular meetings in order to be able to say that they are actively seeking work, and provided that all the 1265 conditions are satisfied.

So there is this very narrow window that applies and clearly it is not something that everybody will take advantage of.

Hon. L F Llamas: Could I ask, I will come back next month, if that is okay, and ask for details relating to the years of service and the gratuity and pension taken by these civil servants. But in 1270 the meantime, could the Hon. Minister provide the Departments from which these civil servants have retired?

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, in respect of the 49: Customs – 6; Fire and Rescue Service – 13; 1275 GDC Housing – 1; GDC Tourist Board – 1; Gibraltar Health Authority – 3; Gibraltar Mechanical and Electrical Services – 1; Gibraltar Port Authority – 2; Economic Development – 2; Prison – 3; and Royal Gibraltar Police – 17.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, my attention was piqued by the analogy that the Hon.
1280 the Father of the House raised with insurance policies, but it is an inapposite analogy in my view, does he agree with me? It is like saying that I have health insurance and because my health has been perfect throughout my life and I have never claimed, somehow at the end I should have the right to make some kind of a claim because I have never really made a claim during the time of my life, because I have always been perfectly healthy.

1285 The reality is that what we have here are individuals who of course have paid their contributions, but they are individuals who have retired. They have reached the end of their working life, they are retired, they have obtained a gratuity, they are obtaining a pension and there is a distinction.

I can understand that somebody at the age of 55 may say, 'Well look, I am young and I want 1290 to continue to work', and I think most people would say, 'Well fine – if you can obtain work that is fine.' But what we are talking about here is the state actually paying a benefit on top of ...
(Interjection) unemployment.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: It is a fund.

1295 Hon. D A Feetham: Well okay, it is the fund. I understand it is the fund but it is the payment of that benefit on top of a person being retired.

Have I misunderstood it? If I have misunderstood it I apologise! But to me, it just seems counterintuitive that in a situation where, whether it comes from the fund or does not come from the fund, the reality of the situation is that resources are finite and if somebody has obtained a gratuity, if somebody is obtaining a pension, it does not seem to be right that the community, albeit through the fund, is paying as well for unemployment benefit.

1300 And in fact, just one final supplementary as well, the hon. Member may wish to deal with: does this actually happen in other jurisdictions?

1305 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, I think the analogy is wrong. It is as if, as the hon. Member said, you have paid insurance for medical treatment all your life, you have never been sick and now because you become sick at 50 you have to pay for private medicine.

That is the analogy because the person is unemployed at the age of 50, if he looks at the number it is no coincidence that the bulk of the grades in the 49 are the people who go at 50.

Mr Speaker: Police, fire service...

1315 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Police, fires service – it is perfectly reasonable that somebody at 50 should want to look for another job and it is perfectly reasonable that they should register as unemployed to look for work.

But what the hon. Member is saying, is that they should be told when they register, because you have been given a pension as a civil servant – or is it because you have been given a pension from anybody? – you are no longer entitled.

1320 That would mean that you would have to change the 1954 Social Insurance Act and he was in Government and had the opportunity to do it, the GSD had 15 years in which to do it. They thought there was no need to do it then and I do not know what it is that has happened since, that he finds it an anomaly only now and not when he was in Government, and he would have done it! I can tell him that if he had attempted to do it, he would have found me opposing him from that side.

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, can I just add for completeness that the benefit is actually payable for 13 weeks so it is not an unlimited benefit. It is very restricted. (Interjection) A maximum of 13 weeks. (Interjection) Well, since 1954 as the hon. Member has indicated.

1330 Mr Speaker: To be helpful, there is another category: persons who retire on medical grounds and who may wish to seek work because their pension is not adequate for them to live on.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, TELECOMMUNICATIONS AND THE GSB

Q180-185/2018

Government finances –

Developments with China; Debts and Funds; GSB staff

Clerk: Question 180, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1335 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, further to Question 1/2018, can the Government advise whether the meetings with the China Development Bank and the Bank of China in January 2018 have borne any fruit.

1340 In addition, can the Government indicate what China's interest might be in respect of Gibraltar, as regards its 'One Belt One Road' development strategy, given Sir Joe Bossano's recent trip or rather recent visits to Beijing?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

1345 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 181 to 185.

Clerk: Question 181, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1350 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please provide the total Gross Debt, Aggregate Debt after application of the Sinking Fund to Gross Debt, Cash Reserves and Net Debt figures for Public Debt for the following date, being 1st November 2017?

Clerk: Question 182, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1355

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please provide the total liquid reserves figure and its constituents namely Consolidated Fund, Improvement and Development Fund, Government Owned Companies, deposits, contingencies and other funds for the following date, being 1st November 2017?

1360

Clerk: Question 183, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1365 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please advise how total liquid reserves are invested/held, giving details of all bank/savings bank accounts and cash held for the following date, being 1st November 2017?

Clerk: Question 184, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1370 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise the balance on the General Sinking Fund as at 1st November 2017?

Clerk: Question 185, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1375 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise how many staff are directly engaged in the operation of the Gibraltar Savings Bank as at 31st December 2017, split between permanent and contract staff?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

1385 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, it is not the case that China is interested in Gibraltar as regards the 'One Belt One Road' strategy, but rather that Gibraltar is interested in China's 'One Belt One Road' strategy, given that historically Gibraltar has always been considered to be geographically well-placed as a trading territory in international trade routes.

Gibraltar's interest in participating, which is welcomed by China, is no different from the interest shown by many other countries who see this as a transformational change in trading patterns which will be developed from its implementation.

1390 As regards my meeting with senior officials of the two London-based Chinese banks, the position as regards the Bank of China is that presently in the UK they are not expanding their retail operations but concentrating on wholesale commercial banking and therefore would not be interested at the moment in providing retail services in Gibraltar. However, they have agreed to assist if they can my Department by putting me in contact with other potential Chinese parties that might be so interested.

1395 As regards the China Development Bank they are prepared to provide facilities for financing infrastructure projects which involve Chinese enterprises and entail capital requirements of £30 million or more. These are the lending criteria they currently use in the UK. Several possible projects are under consideration.

1400 The position as regards the total liquid assets composition, when, where and how these are invested on a particular date chosen by the hon. Member opposite, continues to be as previously stated.

The figures requested for 1st November 2017 are: Gross Debt – £447.7 million; Sinking Fund – £5.2 million; Aggregate Debt – £442.5 million; Cash £139.4 million; Net Debt – £303.1 million.

1405 As at 31st December there were 15 full-time and one part-time civil servants at the Savings Bank, assisted by 13 contract staff.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I welcome the Minister's feedback in terms of his meetings with the Bank of China and obviously would welcome any form of inwards investment that he could attract for Gibraltar at this time. I obviously wish him success in his endeavours.

1410 In terms of the Gibraltar Savings Bank, if I heard the Minister correctly there are 15 full-time staff, one part-time and 13 contract workers. Am I correct in assuming that the 13 contract workers are on 11-month contracts and if so, does the Minister consider it appropriate, given the Savings Bank and the nature of the work that it does, that it has almost 50% contract staff?

1415 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, if I did not think it was appropriate, it would not be happening.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, again when we talk about contract staff, these are individuals on 11 month contracts. Would that be right?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: They are, Mr Speaker, supply workers the same as exist in other places in the Government, yes.

1425 Hon. R M Clinton: Would the Minister be able to advise the House whether the supply workers are with any particular recruitment agency, one in particular, or are they split across several?

1430 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: I cannot say which. I think they are probably one of the two that we are using – there are two agencies, S&K and Beta Service which account for most of the workers. I do not think we have got anybody else supplying. Not just here, I mean this is no different from what exists in other Government Departments. We do not use any special agency for the Savings Bank.

1435 Mr Speaker: Any other supplementaries?

Q186-188/2018
Government workers –
Agency staff; maternity and sickness cover;

Clerk: Question 186, the Hon. D A Feetham.

1440 Hon. D A Feetham: Perhaps the answer is in the answer to this question.

As at the end of December 2017, how many individuals were working within Government Departments, companies, agencies or authorities through services provided by recruitment consultants and agencies, broken down by department, company, agency and authority together with the recruitment consultant or agency concerned?

1445

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

1450 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 187 and 188.

Clerk: Question 187, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1455 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide details since January 2016, which Civil Service posts have not been covered during maternity or long-term sickness, including: (a) the grade; (b) the department and (c) the period of absence not covered?

Clerk: Question 188, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1460 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, further to the answer to Question 7/2018, can the Government now provide this House with an update?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, the information requested for December 2017 and from January 2016 cannot be provided within the timescale of the question but will be provided in the next meeting.

1470 On 8th January 2018, supply workers were placed as follows: (a) Care Agency; Department of Education; Gibraltar Bus Company; Gibraltar Electricity Authority; Gibraltar Health Authority; Gibraltar SLA; Ministry of Youth and Postal Services, Gibraltar Joinery and Building Services; EDEC; and GCP.

1475 (b) Nature of the work was: Care Worker; Qualified Teachers; SNLSA; Music Instructor; Technicians; Cleaners; Drivers; Administrative Work; Nursing Assistant; RGN; Enrolled Nurse, Midwife; Domestic; Lifeguard; Youth and Community Support Worker' Postal Work; supply labour; and Messenger.

1480 (c) The main reason for providing cover either is to meet an increased workload or to provide cover for reduced numbers at work due to absenteeism, or posts temporarily unfilled due to temporary promotion or pending a decision on the required activity.

(d) The first date of relief cover that was provided by any given worker was as follows:

1485 Mr Speaker, in the case of the figure for 8th January, which is the last figure I have given, that is the number that was employed at that date but this is a group of workers of which we have no information as to whether they had, previously to that date, done supply work.

1490 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I am sure you will agree with me that this is a waste of parliamentary time (Interjection and laughter) in the sense that when one comes to Parliament and asks for a schedule, a schedule which you can link the company, the department the work is in, the grade that position is doing, the reasons why the cover is required and since when the worker commenced and the answers provided in an oral fashion in a way which you cannot even link the worker to which department that person is providing services to and why the services are required, I think does not answer the question, let alone waste this parliamentary session. (Interjection) Is the Government able to provide the information requested in a more civilised manner?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Yes, in Hansard.

1500 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the Member opposite is entitled to ask for information and I am providing the information following logically and precisely the sequence of his question.

If he does not want the question answered orally, then he should put it for written answer. (Hon. Chief Minister: Hear, hear. ) If he puts a question for an oral answer, then however long it will take me to read it, and however difficult it may be for him to understand it, I am doing what he is asking for. He is asking for an oral answer to an oral question and I have covered every single item in the question and given an answer on every single item.

He is entitled to ask a question and to get information, but he is not entitled to tell me in the Government how I should draft the answers, just like I am not entitled to tell him how he should draft the questions.

1510 Mr Speaker: I was not going to make any comment at this stage, but I will read from Erskine May, page 366, Oral Answers and Supplementary Questions:

The Speaker has stressed that the length of both ministerial replies and of supplementary questions should be curbed.

I do not know what Speaker they are referring to, obviously the Speaker in the House of Commons, but I am sure that Speakers throughout the parliamentary Westminster-style world, have been complaining over the years about precisely that.

1515 But I think that the Hon. Minister has a valid point. I think that whoever asks the questions should, in an instance such as this one, where all that you require are statistics ... that the alternative is to ask for a written answer, which you can then pursue at the next meeting. But that would avoid a repetition of this situation.

1520 Of course, the other way to do so, and we have had today very lengthy schedules, but the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano who has been here for 45 years is entitled – I cannot stop him; I can urge him to curb the length of his answer. Unfortunately the rules do not allow me to stop him. And having been here 45 years, who is going to attempt to do that? (Laughter)

So let us move on.

1525 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I make a civilised request myself? (Laughter)

Mr Speaker: Provided it does not add any wood to the fire, yes.

1530 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker reserves the right as to whether it is civilised or not, I understand that.

My question 186, has not been answered because the Hon. Minister has said that in the time available the information could not be compiled.

1535 Could I ask the Hon. Speaker, could I rely on Standing Order 16, which is the Standing Order that basically says that where a question remains unanswered at the end of the session, that the answer be provided in writing. Therefore, that would satisfy me so from now until the next session, if that question can be answered in writing, then I can lodge any supplementaries so to speak, orally or in writing for the next session.

But I do not want to repeat the question next time round.

1540 Mr Speaker: Does the hon. Member agree that it has been an oversight that it has not been answered?

1545 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, no. (Mr Speaker: No?) No, he has said that in the time available he could not answer it, so therefore I am saying it is remaining unanswered, can it be answered in writing? That is what I am saying, under Standing Order 16.

Mr Speaker: Yes, very well. (Interjections)

1550 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, before next month so that I can then ask further questions next time round.

Mr Speaker: Yes, very well.

DEPUTY CHIEF MINISTER

Q189/2018

Parliament building –
Installation of lift

1555 Clerk: Question 189, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, is Government still intending to install a lift at the Parliament building and if so, when?

1560 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Mr Speaker, yes. After reviewing all possible alternatives and having extensively consulted interested parties and specialists on access, the Government intends to install a lift during the course of the new financial year.

1565 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q190/2018
Brussels office –
Continuation post-Brexit

Clerk: Question 190, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1570 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, does Government intend to continue to operate its Brussels office once we leave the EU?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

1575 Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Mr Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr Speaker: Question 191.

Q191/2018
Bayside, St Anne's and St Martin's Schools –
Developer bid for all three sites

1580 Clerk: Question 191, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, further to Question 85/2018, can the Government advise as regards the tenders received for the sites of Bayside, St Anne's and St Martin's Schools, has any developer bid for all three sites?

1585 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Mr Speaker, the Government can confirm that an Expression of Interest for all three sites has been received from one group of developers. The different submissions from all entities are still under consideration.

Q192/2018
UK non-EU trade agreements –
Inclusion of Gibraltar

1590 Clerk: Question 192, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1595 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain how Gibraltar features in the trade agreements being negotiated by the United Kingdom and non-EU countries such as the US, China, New Zealand, Australia, etc?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

1600 Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Mr Speaker, the United Kingdom is unable to negotiate and conclude trade agreements while still a member of the European Union, but is free to have discussions on future trading relationships.

The priorities of Gibraltar will be fully taken into account by the UK with regard to any trade and investment relationships as those discussions progress.

1605 Hon. D A Feetham: May I ask a related question in relation to this, but from the Gibraltar perspective.

The Hon. Minister is obviously right that whilst the United Kingdom remains a Member State, it is not free to negotiate any deals with third parties.

1610 Now, is the Government confident that during the transitional provisions, Gibraltar will not be considered by the EU a third party in terms of its own agreements that it may wish to negotiate with the United Kingdom, bearing in mind that Gibraltar and the United Kingdom are not separate Member States; and if the Government is confident that that is not a trap that either our neighbours to the north or their friends in Europe are laying for us?

1615 Hon. Dr J J Garcia: Mr Speaker, the basis of the implementation period or the transition phase, is a continuation of the existing acquis, except that there will be no representation for the UK in the Commission, in the Council, in the Court or in the Parliament. But it is on the basis of the existing acquis continuing for the period of two years.

1620 Hon. D A Feetham: And Gibraltar would remain as we are at the moment, but obviously during that transitional provision within, as ... At the moment Gibraltar is part of the EU by virtue of UK membership. The Government is confident that that is going to continue throughout the transitional provisions?

1625 Hon. Dr J J Garcia: Yes, Mr Speaker, absolutely. A continuation of the existing acquis includes the terms of membership which refer to Gibraltar.

CHIEF MINISTER

Q193/2018

Sunborn Hotel –

Building certificate of fitness

Clerk: Question 193, the Hon. T N Hammond.

1630 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, does the Sunborn Hotel hold a building certificate of fitness?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1635 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, my reply remains the same as that in Question 268/2015.

Mr Speaker: Question 194.

Q194-196/2018
Housing Works Agency–
Early exit packages for employees; remaining staff; transfer of operations

1640

Hon. E J Reyes: Can Government provide details of how many employees at the Housing Works Agency have accepted early exit packages, indicating the grades of those concerned?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1645

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 195 and 196.

Clerk: Question 195, the Hon. E J Reyes.

1650

Hon. E J Reyes: Can Government provide details of how many employees will remain employed by the Housing Works Agency, after the termination of those who have accepted early exit packages, indicating the grades of those concerned?

1655

Clerk: Question 196, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm that it is to transfer the operations of the Housing Works Agency into two Government-owned companies, and if so, can the Government please identify those companies and the intended date to transfer the employees?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, 13 employees have already accepted and many more have indicated that they will be accepting in coming months.

1665

The following are those that have accepted: in Administration, 1 HEO, 1 EO and 1 AO; in Technical, 2 SPTOs and 1 TG1; in Industrial, 5 Craftsmen, 1 ZSO, which is a Zone Support Officer and 1 Labourer.

1670

117 will remain – that is 1 Head of Agency, 1 EO, 5AOs, 8 HPTOs, 11 PTOs; 1 Environmental Monitor; 16 TG1s; 48 Craftsmen; 3 ZOs, 8 Drivers; 2 Drains men; 2 Storekeepers; and 11 Labourers.

I can confirm that we are currently undertaking a holistic review of the outputs required to service and maintain the Government housing stock. An announcement will be issued in due course providing the detail of this review. The re-introduction of the early exit package at the request of the union was based on the move of those remaining into two Government-owned companies.

The GSD had agreed a reduction to zero of the complement of the Housing Works Agency as a condition of the early exit scheme.

1680

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the Chief Minister's answer, but I do not seem to have caught the name of the two Government-owned companies and/or the intended date of transfer.

Hon. Chief Minister: That is because I have not given them, Mr Speaker.

1685 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, would the Chief Minister be kind enough to provide this House with the information requested?

Hon. Chief Minister: It does not exist, Mr Speaker.

1690 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I presume from the Chief Minister's answers that these companies do not exist.

Hon. Chief Minister: That is right, Mr Speaker. As far as I understand it, these companies have not yet been incorporated and data has not yet been identified.

Q197/2018

Hotel development, former coach park site – Modular/prefab buildings purchased

1695

Clerk: Question 197, the Hon. R M Clinton.

1700 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, further to Question 92/2018, can the Government advise how many modular/prefab buildings have been purchased for £3.3 million, what is their expected useful life, who were they purchased from and which Government company is paying for them?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1705 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, a total of two buildings have been purchased for installation at the former coach park site. These buildings have a 50-year design life and have been purchased from RÖDER HTS GmbH as part of GJBS Ltd's contract for the works.

1710 Only the cost of the supply of the buildings in the sum of £949,699 is being paid for by GAR Ltd, a Government-owned company. The balance of £2,313,398 is being met from the Improvement & Development Fund as this relates to the costs of the enabling works, construction of foundations, internal fitting out and the provision of infrastructure and utilities.

Mr Speaker: Any supplementaries?

1715 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I may not have heard the Chief Minister correctly. The amount that GAR paid was for the two buildings themselves, the actual fabric of those buildings, in the sum of £949,000 and the £2 million balance, or the balance making up £3.3 million, is being paid through the Improvement and Development Fund.

1720 Can the Chief Minister just confirm that is my understanding and why GAR in particular is paying for these prefab buildings?

Hon. Chief Minister: Because that is how we chose to structure it because GAR will then own the buildings. I told the hon. Gentleman last time that the buildings are moveable and will have a life beyond their installation on that site.

Q198/2018

Government rental property tenants –
'Right to buy' policy; exclusions

1725

1730

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise what is its policy in respect of the 'right to buy' in respect of Government rental property tenants and are the housing estates subject to the £300 million mortgage namely, Moorish Castle Estate, Glacis Estate, Laguna Estate, Alameda Estate, Mid Harbour and Varyl Begg now excluded?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1735

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the take-up on the 'right to buy' in respect of Government rental property tenants has been quite low.

The Government is accordingly reviewing this policy as such a low take-up creates its own issues with the future management and maintenance of the respective estates.

1740

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I have not actually heard the Chief Minister say, in respect of the housing estates I referred to, whether the Government has taken a policy decision that they will not allow any further purchases of flats in those particular estates.

1745

And for the Chief Minister's information, I am aware of at least one individual who did try to buy, certainly in the last period one of those flats on one of those estates and, after going through a lengthy legal process, has only just been turned down.

Can the Government advise whether there has now been a hardening or an agreed position as to what the policy is in respect to the 'right to buy' for those particular estates?

1750

Hon. Chief Minister: He did not hear me say that, because that was not what I said. I said specifically what I said in my first answer, which covers the eventualities the hon. Gentleman may be referring to, but does not deal with it in the way that he is suggesting he thinks it has been dealt with, because it has not been dealt with that way.

1755

Hon. R M Clinton: Well, Mr Speaker, perhaps I can just put it simply. Can the Chief Minister confirm or perhaps correct me that there is still the possibility for tenants on those housing estates which are listed, to buy their properties if they so wish? Is it yes or no?

1760

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, the take-up on the 'right to buy' in respect of Government rental property tenants has been quite low. The Government is accordingly reviewing this policy as such and low take-up creates its own issues with the future management and maintenance of the respective estates.

1765

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, when does the Government intend completing that review, particularly given the answer to Question 169 in which it was stated that the Government sold 209 properties from December 2011. How does the Chief Minister rationalise that with his suggestion that it is a low take-up?

1770

Hon. Chief Minister: Because, Mr Speaker, those do not just include this sort of properties; they also include pre-war properties.

Mr Speaker: Any other supplementaries?
Next question.

Q199/2018

People recovering from drug addiction –
After care available

Clerk: Question 199, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1775

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state what after care is available for those recovering from drug addiction?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1780

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, there are a range of options available to those recovering from drug addiction which are tailored to meet the needs of the individual undertaking treatment.

1785

It is important to contextualise that treatment for many persons may not necessarily take place within a residential rehabilitation setting and that even for those who may undertake a residential programme, the support they will continue to need can extend into months and even years for a minority.

1790

For those who successfully complete a residential treatment programme at Bruce's Farm, these will continue to attend weekly after care group sessions for as long as they feel they need it. Some choose not to attend, whilst others assiduously attend for years after treatment completion.

1795

All patients completing treatment are also offered weekly one to one sessions with counsellors which take place in our outreach facility located at present, at the Mid Harbour Community Centre. This service is also extended to family members, to help them understand how best to support and cope with the dynamics of a loved one trying to lead a drug-free life.

Whilst in treatment, Bruce's Farm will also liaise with other relevant bodies as part of the patient's treatment plan, to help with the transition back to living within the community. These issues include housing, employment, mental health and criminal justice, amongst others.

For those who are experiencing housing difficulties, upon completion, there is a two-bedroom flat within the community where patients can benefit from living in a supported environment whilst their housing needs are addressed.

1805

There are a number of persons who, for a variety of reasons, cannot commit to a residential treatment programme. For these the support takes place within the community. They are seen by a counsellor at least once a week and the programme they follow mirrors the residential programme in most ways, but for obvious reasons may take longer. The sessions they attend are dictated by their individual needs and will often extend beyond the 12-week residential programme delivered at Bruce's Farm.

1810

Counsellors also work closely with HM Prison Windmill Hill where they hold weekly clinics. Inmates may choose to undertake a rehabilitation programme whilst in custody. Upon completion of their sentence, or if granted a Parole Licence, counsellors will continue to work with released offenders. This period is dictated by either their individual needs or the exigencies of a Parole Licence.

1815

It is important to note that, as part of any aftercare programme the voluntary sector plays an important role. Drug and Alcohol Services can proudly boast of a very close synergy with these groups and will often refer patients requiring treatment to them.

1820

It is a fact that the majority of the members of these groups comprise individuals who have successfully completed treatment under our care or of their family members. For all patients completing treatment either within a residential setting or in the community, a member of one of these groups is identified to act as a peer mentor to complement the after-care work of the Drug and Alcohol Rehabilitation Services.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q200/2018
Public Finance (Control and Audit) Act 1977 –
Delay in reform

Clerk: Question 200, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1825

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain the delay in reforming the Public Finance (Control and Audit) Act 1977 in line with the recommendations from the Principal Auditor, pledged to have been debated in this House before the 2016 Budget debate?

1830

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Hon. Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, as the hon. Member well knows, the points he refers to date back to the Audit Report 2008-09 and indeed earlier, as far back as 17th March 1998.

I will not rehearse the points relating to the Public Accounts Committee part of those comments as we have debated these in this Parliament by way of a Private Member's motion as recently as 7th October 2016, a debate at which he was present.

As regards to other points, it is the Government's intention to have considered these but it has been one of those matters which has regrettably been put to one side, given the pressures of Brexit.

An exercise is being undertaken to better understand those recommendations and once we are clear we can then proceed to consider those amendments that may be necessary.

1845

Hon. L F Llamas: Will the Chief Minister confirm whether that will happen during the lifetime of this Parliament or perhaps not?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, everything I say is about the lifetime of this Parliament.

1850

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am sure the Chief Minister is aware of the General Audit Matters, section 6.1.1 of the Principal Auditor's Report dated 26th September 2016, but he refers to, in his last two years' reports: 'I am hopeful the draft audit legislation which provides an improved legal basis to secure a more modern and efficient public audit service and adequately addresses key issues of audit independence will be taken to the Parliament during the financial year 2016-17', as my hon. Colleague has referred to.

1855

But I note that he refers to draft audit legislation which obviously must exist. Does the Government have any intention of perhaps issuing a command paper or consultation on that so that we can all at least see what work has been done to date, or is there going to be a further review of that draft which was ready at that point in time?

1860

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think the hon. Gentleman is right to quote from the report and I shall do likewise. Section 6.1.1 of the same General Audit Matters, a section in Part 6 2008/2009, the Principal Auditor then said this: 'I previously mentioned that my predecessor submitted proposals to the Government on 17th March 1998 to revise the audit legislation containing parts 8 and 9 of the Public Finance Control and Audit Act as no significant modifications had been made since its enactment in 1977. The primary aim of these proposals is to provide and improve a legal basis and secure more modern and efficient public audit services, fully independent of the Government of Gibraltar. I am hopeful that the draft legislation which adequately addresses key issues of audit independence will be taken to the Gibraltar Parliament during the coming year.'

1870 So, Mr Speaker, that has been said in every report since 1998. We picked that up ourselves and referred to it in our manifesto. And as I said in my first answer, we have been unable to progress matters because of the decision of the United Kingdom to leave the European Union. But as I have said in the context of my first supplementary, that is something that I hope we will be dealing with during the lifetime of this Parliament.

Q201/2018

International television channels –
Details of payments made

1875

Clerk: Question 201, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, since December 2011, can the Government provide a schedule of monies paid to international television channels including (a) the date the payment was affected and (b) a description of the payment?

1880

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, as part of its marketing campaign in the UK this winter, the Gibraltar Tourist Board, through its media buying agents in the UK have paid for 30-second adverts to be placed on Sky TV, Channel Four, Eurosport, Travel Channel and London Live from 21st December to 31st January 2018.

1885

The total cost for this was £50,000 paid by bank transfer to the media buyers on 13th November 2017 as part of an invoice to cover all the GTB's adverts for the winter campaign both on TV, online, radio, mobile and national print press in the UK.

1890

That is all we have got.

Questions for Written Answer

Clerk: Answer to Written Questions, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to table the answers to Written Questions numbers W5 to W11/2018.

With your leave, Mr Speaker, that might be a convenient moment for the House to recess for 20 minutes.

Mr Speaker: The House will now recess for 20 minutes.

The House recessed for 20 minutes.

Order of the Day

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS

Standing Order 7(1) suspended to proceed with Government Bills

Clerk: Suspension of Standing Orders, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I beg to move under Standing Order 7(3) to suspend Standing Order 7(1) in order to proceed with Government Bills.

BILLS

FIRST AND SECOND READING

Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Act 2017 – First Reading approved

Clerk: Bills – First and Second Reading.

1910 A Bill for an Act to establish and make provisions relating to persons who anticipate they may lack capacity in future to manage their health, welfare, property and financial affairs; to allow such persons to confer authority on individuals to make certain decisions on their behalf, to allow for the creation and registration of lasting powers of attorney; to make provision for a person to be able to decide about specific treatment they may not want to receive in future; to introduce a regime and safeguards for the assessment and authorisation of significant restrictions on liberty for persons who lack capacity and for decisions to be taken in relation to or on behalf of those persons; to amend the Mental Health Act 2016; to amend the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act, 1987 and the Care Agency Act 2009; and for purposes connected therewith.

1920 The Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to establish and make provisions relating to persons who anticipate they may lack capacity in future to manage their health, welfare, property and financial affairs; to allow such persons to confer authority on individuals to make certain decisions on their behalf, to allow for the creation and registration of lasting powers of attorney; to make provision for a person to be able to decide about specific treatment they may not want to receive in future; to introduce a regime and safeguards for the assessment and authorisation of significant restrictions on liberty for persons who lack capacity and for decisions to be taken in relation to or on behalf of those persons; to amend the Mental Health Act 2016; to amend the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act, 1987 and the Care Agency Act 2009; and for purposes connected therewith, be read a first time.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to establish and make provisions relating to persons who anticipate they may lack capacity in future to manage their health, welfare, property and financial affairs; to allow such persons to confer authority on 1940 individuals to make certain decisions on their behalf, to allow for the creation and registration of lasting powers of attorney; to make provision for a person to be able to decide about specific treatment they may not want to receive in future; to introduce a regime and safeguards for the assessment and authorisation of significant restrictions on liberty for persons who lack capacity and for decisions to be taken in relation to or on behalf of those persons; to amend the Mental Health Act 2016; to amend the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act, 1987 and the Care Agency Act 2009; and for purposes connected therewith, be read a first time.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Act 2018.

Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Act 2017 – Second Reading approved

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill be now read a second time.

Mr Speaker, it is a pleasure to have the opportunity to present to Parliament what I am sure the House will agree is an important piece of legislation which we hope will be used widely.

The legislation complements the Government's recent extensive work in improving the awareness, early diagnosis and care for dementia patients. It will also allow individuals to plan ahead in the early stages of a debilitating illness for a future in which they may suffer from dementia, mental health problems or brain injury. Time, research and resources have been directed into making the Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Bill a reality.

Mr Speaker, with your indulgence I will abbreviate the term 'Lasting Powers of Attorney' to 'LPA' during the course of my speech. The Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Bill has been produced with the following aims in mind, namely: to establish and make provision relating to persons who anticipate they may lack capacity in future to manage their health, welfare, property and financial affairs; to allow such persons to confer authority on individuals to make certain decisions on their behalf and to allow for the creation and safeguards and registrations of LPAs; to make provision for a person to be able to decide about specific treatment they may not want to receive in future, known as 'Advanced Decisions'; to introduce a regime and safeguards for the assessment and authorisations of significant restrictions and liberty for persons who lack capacity, and for decisions to be taken in relation to, or on behalf of, those persons; and to amend the Mental Health Act 2016 in areas to ensure compatibility with this Bill.

Mr Speaker, as you are aware, 'capacity' in this context means the mental ability to make decisions about a particular matter at a particular time. People may lack capacity to make a decision for many reasons. It may be because of, for example, a stroke, an acquired brain injury, a learning disability or temporary impairment and so the Bill has the potential to impact and transform the lives of many of our citizens.

1970

Examples of what might constitute an impairment or disturbance in the functioning of the mind or brain can also include conditions associated with some forms of mental illness, dementia, significant learning disabilities, long-term effects of brain damage, physical or medical conditions that cause confusion, drowsiness or loss of consciousness, delirium, concussion following a head injury or the symptoms of alcohol or drug abuse.

1975

As Members of the House may already be aware, the powers granted by this Bill have been available in the UK since the Mental Capacity Act 2005 received Royal Assent on 7th April 2005. Gibraltar is now in a position to offer similar rights and freedoms to her people.

1980

The United Kingdom's Mental Capacity Act was described at the time as a visionary piece of legislation and a significant landmark on the legal landscape. It represented a triumph of autonomy by recognising that insofar as possible, people should play an active role in decisions 1985 about their own welfare. We are in a fortunate position to be able to learn from the framework and experiences of the UK model, which has now been in place for a decade.

1990 As a result of the seminal case, HL v United Kingdom, also known as the Bournemouth case, the European Court of Human Rights held that the liberty of those lacking the requisite mental capacity who were admitted into hospital under the common law doctrine of necessity was not protected as required by Article 5 of the European Convention on Human Rights. As a consequence, in November 2006, the Government amended the Mental Capacity Act 2005 in order to provide protection for those persons caught in the Bournemouth situation.

1995 The outcome of extensive consultation in the UK suggested that minimum requirements in any legislation relating to the protective custody of the mentally incapacitated person was identified as: a clear and unambiguous definition of deprivation of liberty, introduced in our Bill's Part 5, Significant Restriction of Liberty Provisions; a clear definition of those liable to be made subject to these powers; processes and timescales for tests of capacity; admission procedures; assessment, care planning and reviews; the respective responsibilities of the various agencies involved; the role of advocacy; the rights of carers, relatives and friends, including a statutory requirement for appropriate persons to be consulted; and the appeals process.

2000 The Government studied both the United Kingdom legislation, as well as Jersey's Capacity and Self Determination Law 2016. At every stage of the drafting of the Bill, psychologist Dr Alan Lillywhite and our excellent mental health care professionals, the Care Agency and the Office of Parliamentary Counsel have been consulted, reviewed drafts of the Bill and have met throughout the year to discuss ideas, safeguards and practicalities in relation to the provisions of the Bill. This has ensured that all relevant parties have been actively involved in the process and contributed with recommendations and suggestions.

2005 At the core of the Bill, Mr Speaker, is the fundamental idea that a person must be assumed to have decision-making capacity unless it is established that he lacks it. The Bill places emphasis of the need to support people to exercise their capacity to make decisions where they can. If, on the other hand, it is established that a person lacks capacity to make a specific decision at a particular time, alternative decision-making mechanisms are provided for. The Bill will allow individuals a greater level of decision-making power so that they can plan ahead to a time when they may no longer have capacity. This will be introduced through the implementation of Lasting Powers of Attorney and Advanced Decisions.

2015 The Bill consists of seven parts with 59 clauses and three schedules.

2020 Mr Speaker, at this point I would have entered into a discussion of all the parts of the Bill but I met with the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition and the Hon. Mr Clinton only yesterday, to discuss the different parts of the Bill and I will, therefore, leave that part of my debate in this House and if there are any questions on the Bill, then I can be asked at the Committee Stage and I have parliamentary counsel and legal counsel here to answer any questions that hon. Members may have.

2025 Mr Speaker, mental health is a delicate area and can affect each one of us at some stage in our lives, which makes positive and proactive care in this sphere so critical. The Bill has implications for Gibraltar's health and social care system. It is founded on the principle of respect for personal autonomy and the determination of what is in a person's best interests when they lack capacity.

2030 The Government has worked hard and spent considerable time to modernise the law in the mental health sphere. There is a real need to engage and protect vulnerable adults to make sure their needs are listened to. A wide range of audiences require information on the Bill, ranging from medical practitioners to legal professionals, families, carers and individuals, on behalf of those who may lack capacity.

2035 The Government has prepared an easy-to-read guide and code of practice in relation to LPAs and further guidance will follow. I am confident that the Act will be a widely used tool. In the same way that individuals can currently plan ahead with a will and specify how their assets are to be administered an LPA allows a person to plan ahead for the time when they are still alive but may not have the capacity to make decisions for themselves. This is increasingly important and relevant as our life expectancy increases.

2040 Importantly, the donor does not have to have a lot of assets to make an LPA; it is a tool designed to help the vulnerable manage their affairs. For example, something as simple as paying ordinary bills can become stressful for the elderly. This would enable them to give authority to another family member or friend to pay bills on their behalf, should they not be able to do so themselves.

2045 From this legislation, there are many potential avenues for planning. In the UK, for example, business LPAs are growing in popularity, whereby a business can manage circumstances where a partner or co-director may lose their mental capacity. The Bill also provides empowerment for those who may lack capacity, a structure for decision making for those who do lack capacity and protection for carers, families and professionals in the area, by setting out clearly what can and cannot be done and what procedures need to be followed at all times, putting at its centre the safeguarding of individuals and their rights.

2050 It is a significant and in our view, progressive Bill, which will require awareness and understanding of its content from the general public to ensure its successful implementation. I firmly believe the Bill has the potential to make a real difference in the lives of our community, particularly to the lives of vulnerable adults.

2055 Mr Speaker, I commend the Bill to the House. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles of this Bill?

The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition, Mr Elliott Phillips.

2060 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the Bill will receive the support of Her Majesty's Opposition. I am grateful to the Minister for Justice for extending his invitation for us to put forward our comments and providing us access to his legal team, to whom I offer our thanks as well for explaining certain parts of the Bill that were confusing for us in the first instance. Obviously, we thank the Government for offering the opportunity for us to ventilate those issues before coming to this House.

2065 Mr Speaker, the purposes of this Bill of course are to provide a clear legal framework for people that are affected by lack of capacity. The law as it stands does not serve those people well and has evolved in a piecemeal way through various statutory provisions and the development of the common law. The Bill across refers to clearly defined principles which have been articulated in the Mental Health Act previously, which is understood will come into force in parallel with this legislation.

2070 The comment was made during our discussion that perhaps the principles set out in section 86 to 89 of the Mental Health Act should, for good order, be repeated in this Bill. However, after further discussions, we are persuaded that sufficient reference is made to allow for both pieces of legislation to run in parallel when considering the questions that underpin the principles.

2080 Mr Speaker, the Bill is likely to improve the lives of many people. At some point, Mr Speaker, people are either likely to lose mental capacity or have to deal with the care of someone close to them who has lost capacity. The Bill is well overdue but it is intended, as we read it, to improve the lives of vulnerable people, those who are charged with their care, the families of vulnerable people and professionals.

The Opposition welcomes the important introduction of Lasting Powers of Attorney which provides a statutory mechanism to allow people to appoint an attorney to act on their behalf if they lose capacity in the future.

2085 One note of caution which was aired during a discussion that Mr Clinton and I had with the Minister was that LPAs should be accessible to all and although I am sure that people will want to seek legal advice to establish an LPA and set one up, we need to ensure that the ordinary person can do so without too much of a cumbersome process and be guided appropriately without significant financial burden. I am grateful to the Minister for explaining that an easy-to-read guide will be provided and I suspect it will be provided at the point at which the Registrar of the Supreme Court will be able to provide people with that easy-to-read guide. It is obviously a careful balancing act but hopefully one that should be made easier through the issuing of guidance notes to our community on the impact of the legislation and the process as envisaged.

We have raised these matters with the Minister in our discussions and the Bill importantly provides a mechanism for people to make advanced decisions about their treatment in the event that those persons lack the capacity some time in the future.

My hon. Friend, Mr Clinton will address some of the other issues that we discussed at length concerning the public guardian and I will not trouble the Minister with that now, save to say that Her Majesty's Opposition will welcome the introduction of this legislation.

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to contribute to this Bill?

The Hon. Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

As my hon. Friend, Mr Phillips, Leader of the Opposition has said, this is a Bill which certainly from this side of the House we will be supporting.

It is important obviously to understand that this Bill has to go hand in hand with the Mental Health Act and that there are times when the Capacity Act as presented to us today will run entirely in parallel to the Mental Health Act, but there will be times in which there will be overlaps. This is why I again echo the thanks that we were able to have the meeting yesterday to explain the interaction between what will be two distinct pieces of legislation that have to be seen together to be able to see the full operation and the mechanism by which the LPAs will work, and work in terms of any concerns in respect of mental health.

From my point of view, and I am sure from a legal and technical point of view, everything it does is as it says. I am just emphasising the point that my colleague, the Hon. Mr Phillips said, that it should be accessible to the public. In the UK these are downloadable forms which you can get from the internet and from the Office of the Public Guardian.

It has been explained to me that we are not going to have an Office of the Public Guardian in Gibraltar, but rather an LPA register. I can understand the rationale for that. My only word of caution would be that of course the policing of the LPAs has to be undertaken by somebody and there has to be a process that is well understood and easily accessible to all.

I have two observations, one specifically on the Bill and one in general. The general one perhaps is one in respect of complex legislation like this. It runs to 262 pages and perhaps in future and certainly from the recommendations of the Commission on Parliamentary Reform, there was a comment made on Recommendation 10 that we recommend that the more complex or lengthy Bills, or those which are likely to substantially impact on citizens, should undergo in-depth legislative scrutiny by referring them to a select committee appointed for the purpose, i.e. a Public Bills Committee. I would urge the House to think whether this sort of legislation in future should go to such a committee chaired by the Minister presenting the legislation and we would effectively have a similar sort of meeting as we had yesterday, where we can thrash out some of the ideas and thoughts before debating it at Committee Stage in the House. Again, I just leave that out there for everybody in the House to consider.

My only other observation on the Bill is that there is a schedule 3 at the end, which I am sure the Minister will be able to explain to the House what its relevance is to the Lasting Power of Attorney and Capacity Bill, and that is in relation to the amendment to the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act, 1987 and the Care Agency Act, 2009, which sets out two clauses 7A in one and 7A in the other, in relation to the power to charge for residential services for the elderly. I welcome the Minister's explanation for why this particular schedule is necessary in this Act, and that we are not suddenly developing an American taste for tacking on other pieces of legislation 2140 to other Bills, God forbid! I am sure there is a very good reason for that, which I am sure the Minister will explain to us in due course.

2145 But other than those observations and again, as has already been said, the importance of this legislation for all of us to effectively take ownership and control for our own welfare is significant. It is significant also in that the general public will become involved if they get asked to become donees of these powers and they have to be extremely well informed as to what it is that they can, should or should not do. Again, I welcome the creation of the guidance notes which will be critical so that members of the public, who are not necessarily legally trained, will be able to understand quite clearly what it is that is involved.

2150 So, Mr Speaker, I again welcome the legislation and I look forward to its implementation in due course.

Thank you.

Mr Speaker: Is there any other contribution to this debate?

I will therefore call on the Minister to reply.

2155 Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, taking first the point of commencement, the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition is correct to say that the Bill currently before the House will be commenced at the same time as we commence the Mental Health Act, because for the same reasons as the hon. Members have mentioned, they need to work in parallel. So this Bill and the Mental Health Act will commence at the same time on 5th March.

2160 We think that we took care to draft the Bill in plain English. I think that although it is 62 pages, not 262 pages as the hon. Gentleman said, although it is a substantive and substantial piece of legislation –

A Member: He always gets his numbers wrong! (Laughter)

Hon. N F Costa: – it is drafted in plain English.

2170 Both hon. Gentlemen have raised the issue of guidance. We agree with the need to issue public guidance that is also written in plain English and to that effect, we already have a draft guide book ready, which should be approved by me, really, at any moment now, and we take great care again to be able to explain these concepts carefully in plain English.

2175 We do not consider that there will be any difficulty in getting to grips with the Act once it is enacted because of the guidance notes. We will also place online the forms that can be downloaded, the application form, and we will also introduce templates that people can use, because of course, this is not like other forms – like the Employment Tribunal forms, which the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition referred to me earlier, those require certain information to be introduced. There is a greater and wider latitude of what information can be introduced in an LPA. It could be simply a financial LPA or it could be a financial and also a health and welfare LPA, but we will introduce forms that represent templates that will provide guidance to members of the public who do not want to engage solicitors, to be able to do so on their own.

2180 It should also give them comfort to remember that those forms will then be placed before the Supreme Court Registrar and of course as they know, the Supreme Court Registry staff are extremely helpful so they will also have that line of officials who will be able to guide them in the event that for whatever reason, there is any question of the member of the public as to what they should fill in on the form.

2185 So, we are not concerned as to the ease with which persons will be able to fill in the Powers of Attorney. I do detect from the Hon. Mr Clinton a reluctance that anyone should pay legal fees to have to enter into Powers of Attorney. We certainly hope that we have drafted the legislation and the guidance in such a way that people will be able to do so very much on their own.

2190 In respect of charging, which is the question that the Hon. Mr Clinton asks, we have noticed that there is a certain discrepancy between civil servants who, when they are admitted into any of the elderly residential facilities, give up their pension. Their pensions are no longer paid to them, they are paid ... well, it is no longer paid to the person; it is kept by the Government as part of their admission.

2195 We have, however, received representations that we may have two persons side by side, one who has given up their occupational pension who was a former civil servant, but a person who has a private occupational pension who is not providing the same amount of pay to the elderly residential services, and we are allowing ourselves the ability to introduce regulations to see how we can remedy that unfairness; but that will be introduced by way of regulation in due course.

Mr Speaker: I will now put the question which is that the Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Bill 2017 be read a second time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

2205

Clerk: The Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Act 2018.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 12.

2250 Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 13 as amended.

2255 Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clauses 14 to 19.

2260 Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clauses 20 to 26.

2265 Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill. We now have a situation in which F applies, which is the substitution for 'Medical Director' of the words 'Chief Medical Officer', and in fact it occurs in every single clause from clause 27 to clause 45 and then clauses 51 and 52.

So, for all these clauses, when the Clerk – (Interjection) For all these clauses, the amendment is substituting 'Chief Medical Officer' for 'Medical Director'.

Yes, the Hon. Edwin Reyes.

2270 Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, Mr Chairman, just one query. I noticed before when we deleted the definition for Medical Director, like you I looked at how it affected it. By reading in place of Medical Director, 'Chief Medical Officer', there is no definition given in clause 3 for Chief Medical Officer; therefore, that could become a potential loophole. Especially, we have not got to it yet, but if one looks at it a bit later on in one of the sections, it does give very strong powers to the Chief Medical Director. Appeals can be made to him and so on.

2275 So, I think we need to be a bit watertight and have a definition of what is effectively meant by Chief Medical Officer, but I take your guidance Mr Chairman, and the Minister's guidance as well in this respect.

2280 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): No, Mr Speaker, we are not substituting the definition of Medical Director with a definition for Chief Medical Officer. We are not.

2285 Hon. E J Reyes: But my question is, I think there is a need to have a definition for Chief Medical Officer because otherwise, if we look at clause 27(2) that the Chairman has just referred to: 'an urgent authorisation has been granted by', following the amendment should be now 'has been granted by the Chief Medical Officer'.

2290 There is no definition, who is that Chief Medical Officer, from what entity and so on? It is not as watertight. I mean, even for the word 'Minister' there is a definition that quantifies it as the Minister with responsibility for health.

Here, 'Chief Medical Officer', it does not say whether it is one employed by the Health Authority, it just – I think it is a bit too vague. (Interjection) Or unless it is defined in some other Act and then we make a reference.

2295 Mr Chairman: If in the definitions, 'Medical Director', for that you substitute 'Chief Medical Officer' –

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, but he said no.

2300 Mr Chairman: Sorry?

Hon. D A Feetham: He just said no.

2305 Mr Chairman: No?

Hon. D A Feetham: He just said no. (Interjections) So that means there is no definition, that is what he said.

2310 Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, what I was proposing, Mr Chairman, is just delete the word 'Medical Director', substitute that for 'Chief Medical Officer' and it:

means the person appointed as such under section 10A of the Medical (Gibraltar Health Authority) Act, 1987

But if they say no, then how on earth do we know who the Chief Medical Officer is who is being referred to?

2315 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the absence of a definition in the Bill does not mean that we will not be able to identify who the Chief Medical Officer is. Not everything that appears in a Bill is defined in the section on interpretations.

2320 Hon. D A Feetham: Who appoints the Chief Medical Officer? Is the Chief Medical Officer something that is referable to some other statute? Is it a Civil Service post? Is it a GHA post? Because otherwise Mr Reyes' point is well made that you have got a reference to Chief Medical Officer but no definition, nobody knows who that Chief Medical Officer is.

2325 I mean he is not here to throw a spanner in the works; he consulted me first and I thought that it was a point that was well made. I am looking at this and I am thinking, 'Well, who is the Chief Medical Officer?'

2330 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the Medical Director carries out different functions, so the Medical Director does not just provide functions under the GHA as Medical Director, but also provides advice to the Government as Chief Medical Officer. So the functions under this Bill will be carried out by the same person who is the Medical Officer, but not as Medical Director, but as Chief Medical Officer.

Hon. D A Feetham: Then all you need to do is basically say that the Chief Medical Officer in the definition shall be anybody who holds the post of Medical Director from time to time. That is all you need to say.

2335

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Well, Mr Speaker, to an extent, this is like the issue of Leader of the Opposition. There is a reference to 'Leader of the Opposition' in the Constitution but that, as we know, is not a defined term. There is a very good reason that the Hon. Minister has set out, which I think is a fair one, not to have a specific definition, but there are other ways that we can ensure that there will be no way of confusing who will be the relevant post holder.

2340

So I think we are persuaded that this is not a necessary definition. If we were to do the exercise that hon. Members are suggesting that we do, we would have 262 pages of definitions in most Bills, even the simplest because we would be defining and cross-defining every term. And so, Mr Speaker, I think it is fair to continue as we are, in respect of the absence of a definition.

2345

Mr Speaker: Just for clarification, when this Bill now becomes law, on page 201, the middle of the page, will that say Medical Director or Chief Medical Officer? Because the amendment moved by F (Interjections) says 'for Medical Director', substitute 'Chief Medical Officer', wherever it occurs. It occurs there, so do you substitute it or don't you? (Interjections)

2350

'In clause 3(1) delete ...' Ah sorry, yes, we have already deleted the definition of Medical Director, of course, yes.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Chairman –

Mr Chairman: Yes.

Hon. E J Phillips: Just to pick up on the point that the Chief Minister makes, this is by no means an innocuous and minor suggestion that we include within the definition the Chief Medical Officer, given the significant powers that are attributed to the Chief Medical Officer within the Act. Therefore, our suggestion and recommendation would be that it is added as a defined term within the meaning of the Act. Unless the Government can satisfy us, the reason for not including it within the definition.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Chief Medical Officer will have no more powers than the Commissioner of Police, and the Commissioner of Police is not defined in our law. There is a Commissioner of Police and he has certain powers but you do not define every term because you would then be incurring a circular process of defining everybody as the person who is appointed under the Act to hold the post of Commissioner of Police, which is all you would be doing here.

So, the issue is, will this person be identifiable in the context of the powers which will be exercised? The person will be identifiable. The hon. Member I think is persuasive in making clear that there will not be more than one person who will be able to exercise these powers, or there will not be a nuance as to who is the person who will be able to exercise these powers. The Commissioner of Police is the Commissioner of Police, but there is no definition of who he is. We all know who he is and he has those powers.

2375

So, for example, taking a less controversial post, the Chief Minister is not defined in the Constitution, but there is a Chief Minister and he exercises those powers. And so the question is, will there be a designation of a person to that post? There will be a designation of a person to that post and as a result you do not need to incur in a circular definition, which will be 'the Chief Medical Officer shall be the person designated as the Chief Medical Officer by the Minister', which is all we are talking about adding in effect, and it is entirely circular and unnecessary.

2385 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can I just pick up on the point that the Hon. the Chief Minister has made. Perhaps I am wrong and if I am wrong I will be corrected.

As I understood the Minister, he did not say that there would be a designation of somebody as the Chief Medical Officer. What he said was that it is the Medical Director that will be performing the functions as Chief Medical Officer, so there is no designation; it is the Medical Director.

2390 What we have suggested from this side of the House is just simply to make that clear in the legislation, to say the Medical Director shall exercise the functions of Chief Medical Officer – ‘The Medical Director from time to time shall exercise the functions of Chief’ – (Interjection) That is the point, because if there had been provision in this Act for designation, ‘the Minister shall designate whoever it is as Chief Medical Officer’, I would have understood the point, but there is 2395 no such provision.

We are being told across the floor of the House that the Chief Medical Officer will be the Director exercising functions of the Chief Medical Officer. What we are saying is, that legislation should be clear and you should make that clear. This is not like the Chief Minister or the Commissioner of Police, where everybody knows who it is and, in any event, I have not looked at 2400 the question of the Commissioner of Police so I am not going to accept the point.

But, if this is as the Minister says, then it is capable of very easy remedy by just simply saying that.

2405 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I accept that would be a remedy but a remedy for a wrong; we do not think there is a wrong. We think that the Bill works and that there will be no opportunities to misinterpret what the Bill says in the absence of a specific definition.

If we were to do the exercise of a specific definition in this Bill, then why not do it in every single Bill in respect of any individual that is referred to? There are some instances where we do and some instances where we do not. We happen to agree with the draftsman that it is not 2410 necessary and so we think it is not necessary to continue to make the argument.

2415 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Chairman, if I may, if therefore I were as a layman reading the legislation and I read ‘Chief Medical Officer’, where would I then go to find out who the Chief Medical Officer is? Is that something I could read on the GHA website? Where would I be pointed or directed to understand who is the Chief Medical Officer?

2420 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, an explanation has been given already as to who will be discharging the functions of the Chief Medical Officer. You would go to the same place as you would be going if you were trying to work out who anybody else is in a piece of legislation. This is the point.

If we now go down the route of doing an exhaustive definition of who is who in every piece of legislation, and where you need to go to find out the identity of the person who is exercising a particular power, we would be doing a complete review of the whole Corpus Juris of Gibraltar, which we are not going to do.

2430 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Chairman, I think the fact that it was deemed appropriate to define Medical Director in the first instance suggests that perhaps a definition of Chief Medical Officer would be valuable; but also, the fact that the legislation has, as the Minister described it, been written as far as possible in plain language so that a layman can understand it. It would just strike me as sensible to have that packaged within the legislation, so that a lay person can read it and then understand and know precisely what is defined by Chief Medical Officer, because it is a role that plays quite a critical function within the legislation.

2435 Hon. D A Feetham: May I just add, and this is the final point that I will make, that without the actual definition and without a provision for the Minister to designate who the Chief Medical Officer is, although the Minister across the floor of the House is saying it is going to be the Medical Director exercising functions of the Chief Medical Officer, if tomorrow the Government on an administrative basis decided that it is going to be somebody somewhere else within Government, well presumably it could do so. But it just appears, it just strikes me as not a 2440 proper way to proceed that you leave the identity of that individual in such a nebulous state.

It must follow that if there is no provision defining the Chief Medical Officer, the hon. Gentleman says it is the Medical Director, that is who it is, but if there is no definition and there are no separate provisions designating somebody as the Chief Medical Officer, presumably you could get anybody from within Government to do it. It is just counterintuitive as to whether that 2445 is right.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the whole point is premised on the definition being nebulous, which we do not agree it is.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Chairman, may I make, I have just one question for the Minister and that is, is he satisfied that with these amendments in respect of Medical Director and Chief Medical Officer, nothing has to change in the Mental Health Act that we debated last year, to make sure that the two pieces of legislation are in sync?
2450

Hon. N F Costa: To answer his question, Mr Chairman, yes.
2455

Mr Chairman Any other questions? Let's move on.

Clerk: Clauses 27 and 28 as amended.
2460

Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 29.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.
2465

Clerk: Clauses 30 to 45 as amended.

2470

Clerk: Clauses 46 to 50.

Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clauses 51 and 52 as amended.
2475

Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clauses 53 to 59.

Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.
2480
Yes?

Hon. R M Clinton: Sorry, Mr Chairman, on clause 59, when I asked the Minister for an explanation for the charges, he explained the charges and the rationale for the charges, but he did not quite, and maybe I did not hear it ... I did not quite understand the rationale for why they had been tacked on to this particular Bill. Why is schedule 3 within the Lasting Powers of Attorney Capacity Bill 2017? Should this not be a separate Bill in its own right?

2490 Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Chairman, as the hon. Gentleman knows, we are also amending the Mental Health Act through this Bill, so that when we commence this Bill and the Mental Health Act, they can work in sync and this was an opportune moment to be able to make the amendment here.

2495 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Chairman, yes, I appreciate that the Mental Health Act still has to come in but I do note the other schedules, in terms of schedule 1 and schedule 2, probably are directly related to LPAs and the Capacity Bill and mental health and needing particular amendments in order to make sure the two marry up. But frankly, if you were to delete schedule 3 entirely, I do not see how it would have any effect whatsoever on either the Mental Health Act or this particular Bill as presented to the House.

2500 I also fail to understand what this is doing here because otherwise we run the risk of doing what the Americans do and we get other bits of legislation tacked on to something else, which I do not think is the route we want to go down in the future.

Again, I would appreciate the Minister's thinking on this.

2505 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I refer the hon. Gentleman to the definition of 'Care Home' which is :

means an establishment that provides accommodation, together with nursing or personal care, for persons who are or have been ill, persons who have or have had a mental disorder, persons who are incapacitated, disabled or infirm which is not a Hospital, independent clinic or a children's home;

2510 So we are dealing with persons in these contexts and the power to charge therefore is relevant within the context of the Bill and as the hon. Gentleman will recall, when I did make changes to the Gibraltar Health Act on the last occasion, we did not just make changes to the Gibraltar Health Act; we also made changes to the Care Agency, because there were synergies between the changes that were being made to the Gibraltar Health Authority that impacted on the Care Agency which, you will recall, was that we were changing and transferring the elderly residential services from the auspices of the Care Agency to the Gibraltar Healthy Authority. So we took the opportunity, when changing the Gibraltar Health Act, to do that as well.

2515 But of course there is a relevance to having introduced the charging power within the schedule of the Bill, because of the fact that we are talking about persons within the care home who are going to be deprived of their liberty and then the question arises.

2520 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Chairman, in terms of the previous amendments to the Gibraltar Health Authority Act and the Care Agency Act, I can see the logic in that. But in this particular instance, would the Minister agree that frankly this need not be here; this could be an entirely separate Bill in its own right? Whether we have a Lasting Powers of Attorney Capacity Bill before us today or not, this particular schedule can stand by itself, it need not be here.

2525 My only concern is that we do not go down a slippery slope of tacking on other bits of legislation to important pieces of legislation and not fully, as it were, being cognisant of what it is that is being added on as a schedule to a fairly important piece of legislation in its own right.

I understand what the Minister is saying but I am not convinced, or I have not been convinced, that this needs to be here and again, I would really like to be convinced.

2530 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Chairman, the hon. Gentleman will have had since the date of the publication of the Bill to raise that issue with me. He came to my offices yesterday – this was not a matter that he raised.

2535 We had the opportunity to do this Bill on the last meeting of Parliament and I agreed not to take it then, because we had agreed that we would meet to discuss the Bill, but the arguments that he makes as to the fact that schedule 3 in his opinion could be a stand-alone piece of legislation could very well also be said about the Lasting Powers of Attorney. You can extricate the Lasting Powers of Attorney parts from the mental capacity parts.

2540 We are dealing in effect with a Lasting Powers of Attorney Act and a Mental Capacity Act. We have brought them together and everything that he has said to me now about the fact that schedule 3 could be separate could also be said about the Lasting Powers of Attorney Act part or the Mental Capacity Act part. So the arguments that he makes are also viable for separating Lasting Powers of Attorney from the Mental Capacity Act. We have decided to bring it together, because of the synergies that were discussed during the course of the meeting yesterday: the ability to be able to make advanced decisions for persons who may be suffering from a debilitating disease and they can foresee that they will lose their ability to make advanced decisions and they want to be able to make those advanced decisions to refuse treatment for instance, by way of a Lasting Power of Attorney, but that part of this Bill can stand separately from the Mental Capacity Bill, and we could have had two Bills instead of one.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Chairman, without wanting to labour the point too much, and I fully understand what he is saying, but obviously mental capacity and LPAs obviously go together. This does not necessarily go with it.

2555 Now, as regards the amount of time that I have had to consider this, as I said in my contribution on the debate on the Bill, this is a complex piece of legislation and again, in future I would welcome that the House consider having Public Bill Committees to go through this line by line, clause by clause and give it due process and due thought.

2560 But it just occurred to me that this particular schedule just does not fit here and it could be somewhere else. But if the Minister is absolutely convinced that it is necessary for the passing of this Bill that schedule 3 be there, well so be it. As I said, we welcome the legislation. If he is telling us that this has to be here, I will take him for his word but I am just concerned that we do not go down the American route of tacking on things that do not have to be there.

2565 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Chairman, the hon. Gentleman should be fair with me on the basis that we did publish the Bill a while back, he had the opportunity to raise those issues with me before. I agreed in the spirit of collaborative working not to take this Bill last time. We met in order to have the discussions yesterday as to their concerns. This was not a matter that was raised yesterday which you could have easily raised with me and we could have had a discussion.

2570 I am not, of course, abrogating his perfect right to be able to raise it now at Committee Stage, but he will recall that when we met yesterday, he also had concerns about having the Lasting Powers of Attorney in the same Bill as the Mental Capacity Bill. He will recall that he was concerned about that as he was also concerned about the fact that the principles in the Mental Health Act were not being repeated in this Bill.

2575 We simply took the view in drafting that it did not, in fact that the Lasting Powers of Attorney parts and the Mental Capacity part did go well together.

2580 Hon. R M Clinton: I will accept the Minister's recollection, but that is not my recollection in terms of that I wanted a separation between Lasting Powers and Mental Capacity. But look, I think I will leave it there, Mr Chairman. I think I have made my point and understand what he is saying and we are obviously going to have to agree to disagree.

Clerk: Clauses 53 to 59.

2585 Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

Clerk: Schedules 1 to 3.

Mr Chairman: Stand part of the Bill.

2590 Clerk: The long title.

Mr Chairman: I think this is the longest title I have seen in the last five years, (Laughter) but we will let it stand part of the Bill.

Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Act 2017 –
Third Reading approved: Bill passed

2595 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to report that the Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Bill 2018 has been considered in Committee and agreed to, with amendments, and I now move that it be read a third time and passed.

2600 Mr Chairman: I now put the question, which is that the Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Bill 2017 – I am just wondering, should that become 2018 since we are in 2018? (Interjection) It is going to be the Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Act 2018 – (Interjections) Okay. I now put the question that the Lasting Powers of Attorney and Capacity Bill 2017 be read a third time and carried. All in favour? (Members: Aye.) All against? Carried.

ADJOURNMENT

2605 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): So, Mr Speaker, just in time for the Sabbath, I am reminded that 60 years ago today, the words ‘This is Gibraltar’ were first uttered on the radio and we have been encumbering the airwaves too much in my view this afternoon and we should all wish Radio Gibraltar a very happy birthday indeed. At 60 she can now take her Community Care and her State Pension but she is very much alive and a part of this community and this is 2610 one place where video did not kill the radio star, Mr Speaker – in particular in the listening to of Parliament that many people still do on the radio.

Mr Speaker, with that, I move that the House should now adjourn until next Friday at 2.30 p.m.

2615 Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn until next Friday, 23rd February at 2.30 in the afternoon.

The House adjourned at 6.41 p.m.

PRAYER

Mr Speaker

IN MEMORIUM

Tribute to former Member, Mr Aurelio Montegriffo

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament – Friday, 23rd February 2018.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

5

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, when a person who has served this nation in this place passes, it is incumbent on us, however long ago he may have graced this Chamber with his presence, to remember what it is that his contribution was to the development of our country. This week, we had over the weekend the sad news of the passing of Aurelio Montegriffo, a man who in the time that I have been politically conscious, after he had retired, was well known to all in Gibraltar of his generation as the first Gibraltarian Minister for Health.

10

In the tributes that I have read, written by those who shared time with him in this Parliament and the memories shared of his time in this Parliament, he is not just a man who was Minister for Health, he is also a man who was very highly regarded across the community, even across the political divide. Mr Speaker, I think it is right to say that you were his closest political colleague still in this House, but the Father of the House, who is not with us this afternoon, has had fond memories to recall also of Aurelio Montegriffo although he sat opposite him in this House.

15

You will make your own tribute and you have already said some things, Mr Speaker, that indicate the affection that you had for Mr Montegriffo and the regard you had for his political ability. From this side of the House, on behalf no doubt, of the whole community and of the whole of this House, our condolences go to his family.

20

It is true, Mr Speaker, that we all build on the work that those who have come before us have done. In the context of somebody who passes away at the age of 97, I am left to reflect that this is a man of my own father's generation: of the Gibraltarians who were in Gibraltar before the war and when the war came, they were not taken from Gibraltar, they remained in Gibraltar to defend Gibraltar and from their efforts before the war, they started to build, as we saw the return of the Gibraltarians to Gibraltar, a community that would become a nation.

25

We owe them that forever. (Banging on desks)

30

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, there is little that I can say about the late Aurelio Montegriffo CBE, former Minister for Medical and Health Services and former Deputy Chief Minister, that has not already been said by those who knew him well and who had the opportunity to engage with him. It would be ineloquent of me to reflect on a life of contribution and achievement in relation to matters which took place long before I was born and where so many in our community have contributed to numerous eulogies and reflections of one of Gibraltar's sons.

In my quest to learn more about Aurelio's contributions to this House, I discovered that not only was he a man of deep conviction and faith, he was a staunch defender of Gibraltar. Aurelio's family have rightly and importantly, via traditional and social media, reflected on a full life lived well.

It does, however, fall on me in my contribution to ensure that on this side of the House, the Parliament reflects on Aurelio's life and his contribution to our political development as a community. I will simply refer to his journey as passing in what he stood for, his values and his deep faith.

I never knew Aurelio, but I suspect that I have missed out, on not knowing him.

In my research and looking into some of our old Hansards I notice that from Thursday, 30th October 1969, Aurelio made a passionate contribution to the then constituted House of Assembly on a motion brought before this House on the subject of initiating talks between the Government of Gibraltar and the British Government on the question of UK Citizenship.

Aurelio said:

We, as I have said before, have agreed very forcibly with the rest of the Members of this House, and I am sure with the rest of Gibraltar, that Gibraltarians have a right, not only because of the situation prevailing in Gibraltar, not only because of the square miles, but because, Mr. Speaker, we have thrown in our lot with Britain too. We have done our part in the Referendum. Therefore, Sir, we must initiate these talks, not as beggars begging for something – even a concession, – it is something we are entitled to. We have not only thrown in our lot with Britain but we share our land with Britain. We give her facilities of a base; we give her our workers to help in those facilities and, if I may say, en passant, the sweat and labour of our workers at not a very high price, because we all know too well we have been in this struggle [...] So, Sir, we must initiate these talks with the understanding that we are going to fight, and fight it all the way.

Mr Speaker, in my further research, I discovered that his very first question in the House of Assembly as it was then, and as he was then an Opposition Member, was in relation to the provision for people with mental health issues. That for me revealed much about the man and his clear ability to navigate Gibraltar internationally and on the domestic agenda. It is impressive to note that we as a community are rightly putting much emphasis now on mental health, which for many has been a taboo for many, many years and understanding Aurelio's concern for its provision in 1969, demonstrates his commitment to the health of our community and to tackle an important issue.

Mr Speaker, I could go on about Aurelio's contribution to this House, but I have purposely made out two examples which demonstrate his staunch defence of our community and his empathy on important domestic issues such as mental health.

Aurelio was clearly a politician of his time and although political flags move in the wind, Aurelio's values and what he stood for stand the test of time. I do like to think that the same inbuilt humanity and passion and drive for bettering our community exists in this House today as it did in Aurelio's time. Aurelio does, I think, represent a political class which the current crop of politicians on both sides of this House have much to learn from. Gibraltar indeed is a different place to when Aurelio was a politician. Our challenges are different and in many ways are more complex and are the product of an evolution of our community, but we can learn many lessons from our forefathers.

It is important to ensure that our young people, Mr Speaker, know about the political journey, not only of our community but of those individuals who are pivotal in their development. One suggestion I would have to the Government is trying to make politics more accessible to young people, by looking at the personalities behind the politics and making it easy 75 for our young people to digest them and identify the struggle that Aurelio described in his contribution for example, to the UK Citizenship debate in 1969.

In celebrating the life of Aurelio, we celebrate Gibraltar. In celebrating Aurelio's political achievements, we celebrate Gibraltar. They go hand in hand. It is right that Aurelio's children, grandchildren and great grandchildren celebrate a life well lived as a family and record his contribution to public life in this way. I would like to express on behalf of Her Majesty's Opposition not only our condolences to the family, but also our genuine and sincere gratitude for sharing a significant part of Aurelio's life with his homeland. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Ms Marlene Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, when I heard of Aurelio Montegriffo's passing in the early hours of Sunday morning, I felt like I had lost another piece of my father, because since losing my father at the tender age of 21, and hearing the stories of the development of our nation ever since from his peers and contemporaries, I learned how crucial members of his political family had been to him, both politically and personally. And naturally, Mr Speaker, Aurelio Montegriffo was one of my father's closest, political and personal allies during his long and substantial political journey.

90 Mr Speaker, Aurelio Montegriffo is the last of the AACR founder members to leave us – the end of an era one could say. An era of men and women of pure conviction, serving at a time when there was no precedent or template to follow. A time when foundations were being laid and existential battles were being fought. Aurelio Montegriffo was one of our pioneers, our defenders, our forefathers and therefore we as a society must reflect on this and make known our eternal gratitude to him for securing our democratic platform that we take for granted today.

95 As Deputy Chief Minister, he offered Sir Joshua Hassan an invaluable and solid co-stewardship of our community at a time when my father would so often feel isolated and shunned by the external forces trying to play a part in our destiny.

100 In those days, Mr Speaker, it was all about purpose. Today, there is intrigue, intel, hearsay, technology, self-interests and a barrage of factors, including apparently even the Russians, Mr Speaker, that influence and play with our decision-making processes. In those days, Mr Speaker, it was about conviction, conviction and more conviction.

105 Health, Mr Speaker, is one of those things in life that binds us all. It knows no parties, it knows no sides. It is the one portfolio that we are all invested in. Other portfolios can benefit many or a few, but health is the one issue that we all depend on and Aurelio Montegriffo had the foresight to understand the magnitude of delivering this essential service to our citizens and to our society at a time when Gibraltar was far from being the wealthy state that it is today.

Aurelio had the vision to provide Gibraltar with the first primary care centre known then, and even still by many known today, as the Health Centre, as well as to extend a much-needed section to the original St Bernard's Hospital.

115 These accomplishments would have certainly enhanced the quality of life and even the life expectancy of so many of our citizens at the time because of course, it follows that having a dedicated health centre and better facilities at our hospital would have translated to an overall better and more sophisticated level of general healthcare in our community. And for this, we have Aurelio Montegriffo to thank, Mr Speaker.

120 Mr Speaker, my father always used to tell me that we have to hope to get lucky not just in life but also even in death, and Aurelio Montegriffo did not have an untimely or painful death. Last Sunday, Mr Speaker, Aurelio Montegriffo had peacefully died in his sleep, had lived for almost ten decades and had been a pivotal part of a collective that shaped our democracy in the harshest times of our political history.

125 Aurelio died a committed husband and father of six on 18th February 2018, leaving 18 grandchildren and 18 great grandchildren. It was incredible to see that the number 18 was all around Aurelio, Mr Speaker, because a religious, God-fearing Christian like him might have known that in the Old Testament, the numerical value in Hebrew of 18 translates to the words 'God' and 'life' and is time and time again associated with luck, health, positivity and fruitfulness.

130 Mr Speaker, just like the number 18, Aurelio Montegriffo was all of these things and equally we, as a society, have indeed been as lucky as the number 18 to have had this exceptional man in the front line, shaping our political development to the proud nation that we are today.

Thank you. (Banging on desks)

135 Mr Speaker: The Hon. Dr Joseph Garcia.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Mr Speaker, I would like to add my own tribute. I was fortunate enough to have met Aurelio Montegriffo in the old days of the Gibraltar Evening Post when I was still a child.

140 I think he has shown and his political trajectory shows that he is one of those historical political figures of Gibraltar, somebody who, like many others, were born in the heyday of the AACR and who cut their teeth in that political organisation and indeed who participated actively in the political and constitutional changes which followed very rapidly since the end of the Second World War – so the City Council, the Legislative Council and later on, the House of 145 Assembly.

So I think one thing which people will know about him, those who knew him, is his very human approach to politics and that sense of humanity which sadly is sometimes is lacking in politics in general. But at the age of 97, I think that people will agree, however painful, it was perhaps a good innings and that certainly he has made his mark in the political and 150 constitutional development of Gibraltar.

So I pay my own condolences to his family. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Yes, the Hon. Lawrence Llamas.

155 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I did not have the privilege of knowing Mr Aurelio Montegriffo. Nevertheless I am acquainted with many of his descendants, some of whom are here today and others who are not here. What is definitely true from his life is that you know more about the person when they pass away, and that is sad, about the legacy that they leave, than when they have been alive. Obviously, that is as a result of the age gap between some politicians who are 160 here today and when he was serving.

Nevertheless, Mr Speaker, what I have learned this week from the late Aurelio Montegriffo is what a genuine and loving person he was, as much as he cared for his family, but also the deep respect he had within his faith.

165 I would like to pass my condolences officially to the family who are here today and represented, and obviously join and echo what has been said already from Members in this House contributing to his tribute. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Any other Members? The Hon. Neil Costa.

170 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I too unfortunately never met Aurelio and the House has discussed already the many excellent attributes he had as a politician and as a family man. Therefore, there is very little for me to add, except to say that many of the foundations that we take for granted today in our health services were in fact laid by Aurelio.

175 The Hon. Ms Marlene Hassan Nahon has spoken about the fact that he started the Health Centre and indeed he inaugurated it in June 1973 and all of us today will take for granted the fact that we have an outstanding Primary Care Centre and that, as the hon. Lady has said, health is one of those issues that touches all of us at one time or another in our community.

180 But it is not only the Health Centre which Aurelio envisaged and which he inaugurated. To his credit, he also started another foundational block of the Health Service, which is the GPMS scheme and that also occurred during his tenure, so that we have a system whereby we are prescribed medicines in the Health Service and that was all down to the Act which he enacted as Minister for Health in 1974.

185 So in two consecutive years, a primary Health Centre and the GPMS – again another foundational block of a health system which we all take for granted today, but which I think the record of this House should reflect is thanks and due to the vision of Aurelio Montegriffo.

190 But Mr Speaker, there is also yet another revolutionary foundation block which he also instigated, which is the Sponsored Patients Programme, which he started in 1974 during his tenure for Minister for Health. So my predecessor, Dr John Cortes and myself have to thank him for having laid those foundational blocks which have allowed all of us today to receive the health care free at the point of delivery, which we take for granted but which we all I think must agree must pay tribute to his efforts, to his vision and for laying those foundations which provide today the health system that we have today.

195 So I wish to associate myself with all of the words that have been spoken here in remembering Aurelio Montegriffo and to pay my condolences to his family. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Dr John Cortes.

200 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I have very little to add to all the things that have been said here today, except for one thing. Being I think the oldest elected Member present here today, I did know Aurelio Montegriffo. He was a close friend of my late father and his name was very often mentioned at home. I remember visiting his office on more than one occasion with my father when I was a child.

205 What I want to say, Mr Speaker, is nothing more than this. Everything that everybody here in this Chamber has said about him, for the people who did not meet him, I can confirm was absolutely true. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Anybody else?

210 Listening to hon. Members, it just struck me for the first time that the fact that I am sitting here today, I probably owe to Aurelio Montegriffo since he, more than anybody else, was the person that opened the door to my entrance into Gibraltar politics back in 1963.

215 I first came across Aurelio Montegriffo when I was about 10 years old. My family moved to Willis's Road and we lived a couple of floors below Aurelio, Lourdes, and his already growing family. Then in 1963 when I returned from University, it was through him that I was invited to join the executive committee of the AACR. Then of course, in 1972, we both came into Government when we defeated the Integration With Britain Party in 1972.

220 Aurelio, I have already paid tribute to his qualities as a journalist and as a politician, a man of great ideals and commitments. His ideals as part of the philosophy of the AACR, his ideals of Gibraltarianisation, that the Gibraltarians were fit and proper people to take over the management and the running of Gibraltar, his commitment and nurturing of the campaign for recognition to the right to our land, Gibraltar belongs to the Gibraltarians – these are matters which he always pursued most ably in the columns of the Gibraltar Evening Post.

225 Then our friendship grew and developed from 1963 onwards and throughout the last six decades as we shared many similar hopes and ideals.

Another thing that happened in 1972 was that my brother-in-law, my wife's brother, married Aurelio's only daughter and they are our neighbours and so my wife and I, we feel part of that extended family that are the Montegriffos here today.

230 Finally, as I say, going back over these six decades, I share very many happy memories of Aurelio. May he rest in peace. (Banging on desks)

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, before we end on this subject, can I just quickly reflect that I did not realise that Mr Montegriffo lived in Willis's Road. Interestingly, therefore, that makes Willis's Road a place which has had one Chief Minister and two Deputy Chief Ministers, like Buena Vista Road has had.

Not that that is relevant in any way but it is relevant to say that the fulsome gratitude that has been expressed here today to Mr Montegriffo for his contribution and to his family is a reflection of the character of the man and the love that Gibraltar had for this particular servant.

If I could for just one moment reflect that The New People, which is not a newspaper that has been known for its praise of the record of the AACR, (Laughter) nor indeed those who pretend to be its successors, carries a very fulsome obituary, a very generous obituary of the man, which I think recognises that affection across the political divide that must be a characteristic that we must seek to carry forward. Today, Mr Speaker, as we turn to debate and we characterise each other in less than perhaps as friendly terms as we might, we must bear that in mind as we go forward.

So, Mr Speaker, I would like to thank all hon. Members for the contributions they have made in this House to reflect the contribution of Mr Montegriffo and see the power that a Montegriffo/Hassan partnership had brought before this House before, and hope we never see one again. (Laughter)

Order of the Day

BILLS

FIRST AND SECOND READING

Pensions (Amendment) Bill 2016 – First Reading approved

Clerk: We now move to Bills.

A Bill for an Act to amend the Pensions Act and Pensions Regulations.

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

255

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Pensions and Pensions Regulations be read a first time.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Pensions Act and Pensions Regulations be read a first time. All in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

260

Clerk: The Pensions (Amendment) Act 2018.

Pensions (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Second Reading approved

265 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill be now read a second time.

Mr Speaker, this Bill amends the Pensions Act and the Pensions Regulations. The Bill gives effect to the agreement entered into by the Chief Secretary, the Gibraltar Port Authority and Unite the Union, to make port officers an essential service akin to fire, prison, police and 270 customs officers and which commenced on 1st April 2016.

Port officers of a marine grade, with the exception of the Captain of the Port, who were transferred from service under the Government to the Port Authority, and to whom the Pensions Act applies, will receive all the benefits attributed to essential services. This includes officers receiving a pension rate of 2/600ths of his pension emoluments between his 20th and 275 27th year of service as a port officer, in accordance with regulation 4(1) of the Pensions Regulations, commonly referred to as the 'doubling up rate'.

Furthermore, like the other essential services, port officers will have their compulsory retirement age set at 55 years. Those measures will be deemed to have applied to all port officers as from 1st January 2018.

280 Officers who retired between 1st April 2016 and the 1st January 2018 are entitled to similar benefits in accordance with the terms of the early exit scheme agreement approved by the Financial Secretary. Like other essential services, port officers will benefit from not paying tax on their pensions as from the age of 55. This will be implemented by way of amendment to the Income Tax (Allowances, Deductions and Exemptions) Rules, 1992.

285 Mr Speaker, we will also be moving amendments to the Bill at Committee Stage. An amendment is required to change the year cited in clause 1 of the Bill, because the Act shall now be known as a Pensions (Amendment) Act 2018 when it becomes an Act.

A further amendment is required to give this Bill retrospective effect as from 1st January 2018, which was the date when the provisions were meant to apply to all port officers. As this 290 date has now passed, amendments to clause 3(4) are required and clause 4(3) can be deleted in its entirety.

Lastly, amendments have been made to remove the Assistant Chief Fire Officer and the Deputy Commissioner of Police from the definitions of 'fire officer' and 'police officer' respectively so that only the heads of department are excluded from the definitions. In any 295 event, the two posts that have been removed from the definitions actually no longer exist.

I therefore commend the Bill to the House.

Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of this Bill? No.

300 I will now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Pensions Act and Pensions Regulations be read a second time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Pensions (Amendment) Act 2016.

COMMITTEE STAGE AND THIRD READING

Pensions (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Committee Stage and Third Reading to be taken at this sitting

305

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I beg to give notice that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today, if all hon. Members agree.

310

Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree that the Committee Stage and Third Reading of the Bill be taken today? (Members: Aye.)

Mr Speaker: Would the Chief Minister formally move that the House resolve itself into Committee.

315

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the House should resolve itself into Committee to consider the following Bill clause by clause, namely the Pensions (Amendment) Bill 2016.

In Committee of the whole House

320

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Pensions Act and Pensions Regulations.
Clause 1 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

325

Clerk: Clause 2 as amended.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 3 as amended.

330

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 4 as amended.

335

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Clerk: The long title.

Mr Chairman: Stands part of the Bill.

Pensions (Amendment) Bill 2016 –
Third Reading approved: Bill passed

340

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to report that the Pensions (Amendment) Bill 2016 has been considered in Committee and agreed to with amendments, and I now move that it be read a third time and passed.

345

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Pensions Act and Pensions Regulations be read a third time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

GOVERNMENT MOTIONS

Select Committee on Brexit –
Increase in committee membership –
Motion carried

Clerk: We now move to Government Motions.
The Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Mr Speaker: Yes, the Hon. Dr Joseph Garcia.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Yes, Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move the motion standing in my name, which reads as follows:

THIS HOUSE:

RECALLS the establishment of a Select Committee on the UK and Gibraltar's departure from the EU known as "Brexit";

HEREBY RESOLVES that The Hon P Balban and The Hon L Llamas be added to the membership of that Committee.

355

Mr Speaker, the motion is self-explanatory. I do not propose to add anything further to it.

Mr Speaker: I now propose the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

360

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, it is unfortunate that the Government's rationale for altering the composition of the Brexit Select Committee has not been fully explained to Members on this side of the House.

365

The Gibraltar Social Democrats is the only political party represented on this side of the House. We occupy five out of the seven seats. All seven Members on this side of the House participated in the 2015 General Election under the same GSD banner and supported our programme for Government.

370

Our community decided that we should form Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition and we are proud to serve our community in Opposition and aspire, with the support of our community, to govern Gibraltar. It is a great privilege, Mr Speaker, and responsibility to serve our community in the role of Opposition and we do so with pride and respect.

Mr Speaker, Opposition is not easy. It requires us to hold the Government to account and we are required to challenge their decisions and robustly test their policies. There is a time when 375 the greater good and the public interest of our community means that we must put aside our differences, swallow our pride and do what is right for the wider and sometimes unseen interests of Gibraltar as a whole. My colleagues in and outside this place will always put Gibraltar first.

380 The decision of the UK to leave the EU was not one that we as a community shared or agreed with, but it is one which we must accept. The world did not stop turning and we must get on with the job we have been elected to do. We must ensure that Gibraltar continues to succeed in the context of international challenges to our way of life. Gibraltar will survive. There is no question that we will overcome the challenges Brexit presents to us. I for one, although disappointed that we are being dragged through this process, see it as an opportunity for us to refocus on the domestic agenda and our people.

385 Of course, no one doubts that the Government should be doing everything it can to ensure Gibraltar's survival, but we must not forget the people who we do this work for. We cannot forget those in whose name we act for in and out of this place. They are people with real concerns about education, health, housing and skills training, to name a few.

390 We will support the Government on areas of common interest and put Gibraltar first.
However, we cannot support the Government on a motion when they are demonstrably playing party politics in relation to the composition of this important committee. It is clear to us that, despite what anyone says, they will force this issue in without any real analysis and without any explanation.

395 I know that Members opposite are fond of comparing us to the UK from waiting numbers at hospitals, to education and in that vein, perhaps they should look at how select committees are comprised in the UK. In its brief guide to select committees published on the UK Parliament website, the principle is that the membership of committees reflects the party balance in the House as a whole, meaning that a majority of each committee will be MPs from governing party or parties.

400 I remind the House that it was on this principle, the principle that composition should reflect the composition in this House, that the Government brought a motion establishing the Brexit Committee in the first place, in August 2016, and it is on this basis that we supported the August 2016 motion. In fact, Mr Speaker, it was the Hon. Chief Minister when bringing the August 2016 motion who recited the following: 'believes that the composition of the select committee should 405 reflect the composition of the House.'

In the debate on the motion of 7th October it was the Hon. Chief Minister himself who made the following observations on composition of the Brexit Committee namely – quoting the Chief Minister:

Mr Speaker, the one thing that I think is important is that I explain why the composition would be four, two and one. In the context of select committees the Government will have always an inbuilt majority, and, in order to ensure that the committee stays nimble and small enough, the only way that we would be able to have an inbuilt majority if it were bigger would be to have five Members of the Government, three Members of the Opposition, and the Hon. Lady, because we think the Hon. Lady, as an independent parliamentarian, should be represented in that select committee. That would mean that the Parliament would be meeting with almost half its Members in select committee – there would be eight of us – so, in order to keep it nimble and try and reflect the numbers opposite, the only way we can do it is to do three and therefore four on our side, if the Hon. Lady is going to be one on the other side. Of course, the other way to do it is to keep it three on our side, the Hon. Lady, and just one of the Members representing the party opposite. We thought that would be less representative, so that is why we are proposing four, two and one, to keep it nimble in that way.

410 Mr Speaker, it is on this basis that I wrote to the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister in response to his motion currently before this House, changing the composition of the Brexit Select Committee and consistent with ensuring that committees are nimble, that the current composition remain or that, should an addition be made, that the official Opposition should also be provided a further seat in that form.

415 We make this point as the only Opposition party and the Members who hold the majority on this side of the House and it is our view, that should properly be reflected in the select committee of this House, as has always been the case.

420 To try to construct this in any other way is an attempt to eliminate and denigrate our contribution as the elected official Opposition of Gibraltar. It is not right and it reflects very badly on the GSLP Liberal Government's supposed democratic credentials. It is telling that both the Select Committees on Parliamentary Reform and Constitution Reform have not sat for two years since their establishment by this House. It is a shameful reflection of its purported support for democratic reform.

425 We also suggest that the Government, consistent with further observations by the Chief Minister in the previous debate, could at any stage brief other Members of Parliament at any stage. The Hon. the Chief Minister will recall that, at page 26 of the debate on the 2016 motion, that he himself said:

But hon. Members should know that we do intend to advise them, even without the select committee, of such aspects of the discussion and negotiation ...

Mr Speaker, the Chief Minister went on to cement what he was saying by saying:

but that the hon. Members should be briefed, they will be, select committee or no select committee.

Mr Speaker, what are we doing here? To recap:

430 (1) The official Opposition has five out of seven Members on this side of the House and over 5,000 people voted for us to be in this House. We are the majority and the only Opposition Party in this House.

(2) The Chief Minister is on record as having stated that select committee composition should reflect Parliament's composition.

435 (3) The Chief Minister, is on record, has stated that the independent having the same number as the official Opposition would be less representative.

(4) The Chief Minister is on record as having stated that he could utilise briefing to Members of this House, select committee or no select committee.

440 Mr Speaker, the Chief Minister's clear change of position on all four points smacks of playing party politics with the most important duty and responsibility that he is charged with, namely safely navigating Gibraltar's exit from the European Union.

I call on him to abandon the motion, under Standing Order 22, which has little to do with protecting our community and more to do with him and his petty crusade against the Opposition. (Banging on desks)

445 Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, what a petty crusade I have just heard the hon. the subordinate to the Leader of the Party that is the Official Opposition, namely the Leader of the Opposition, embark upon, to seek to exclude an independent Member of this Parliament from a Select Committee of the House.

450 I think it is probably the only time in the history of democracy in the world that an opposition has argued for less involvement from members of opposition benches in the work of a parliament. It could not happen in a dictatorship, because in a dictatorship the government is the one that is excluding the opposition, but in this democratic society in which we operate, in these complex and difficult times, the Government is seeking to include more Members of the Opposition benches in the determinative work that we are doing in respect of the future relationship that we will have with the European Union.

And the leader of the official Opposition – not even the Leader of the Opposition; the Leader of the official Opposition – makes an argument to keep fellow parliamentarians out of a select 460 committee process, because he says we can brief them anyway. Of course we can brief them anyway, but the Select Committee is about briefings and other things too. It is about making decisions together when the time comes.

That is why ... The Hon. Mr Llamas knows that he and I sometimes have very big disagreements, Mr Speaker. We probably have many more disagreements than we have 465 agreements. In this Select Committee, he may come in to disagree with us – because we do not know what attitude he is going to take, because we do not know what we are going to put to the Select Committee yet – but we think he should be there.

How can it be right to try, as parliamentarians – forget the fact that we sit on this side of the House as Government and they sit on the side of the House over there as Members of a 470 fractured Opposition – how could it be right to try to exclude a parliamentarian from a select committee process? I would have thought the argument was to include more parliamentarians in the process.

But of course, we are a small Parliament and we have to be careful not to find ourselves in a situation where the whole Parliament is sitting as a select committee of the Parliament. But, 475 Mr Speaker, we have to have an inbuilt majority in a committee where we are going to make decisions. We owe that to the result of the last General Election and we feel that it is right, proper and appropriate to include Independent Members in that decision-making process.

Now, Mr Speaker, we have been accused of many things unfairly, but never, never with the lack of political logic that the hon. Member has for what he has got up and said in this House.
480 Mr Speaker, I hope he is fast receiving WhatsApp messages from his Leader outside this place to try and get himself out of the mess that he has got himself into! Because it is impossible now, Mr Speaker, in the future for the hon. Member to say anything that will restore any democratic legitimacy to any argument he can ever make. It is absolutely impossible.

Let us look at the type of contradiction that the hon. Member has brought to this House, 485 both being Leader of the official Opposition and before his Leadership of the Opposition, to judge the logic of what he says now.

The hon. Member has said to us, alongside his former leader, when we were facing the result of the referendum, that the Government should stop work on everything and concentrate just on Brexit. Today, Mr Speaker, he has told us that Brexit should not stop us from continuing our 490 national political agenda. That is the sort of black-and-white thing that the hon. Gentleman will say and not even blush. He will go from black to white without going red. It is really quite incredible, Mr Speaker! It is quite incredible. This community deserves better. It deserves a better and more mature political debate in these difficult and challenging times than a purported defender of the Parliament getting up to seek to exclude a fellow parliamentarian 495 from an opportunity to discuss and debate the future of this community in a select committee.

Mr Speaker, I do not think that if you were seeking to do petty partisan politics, you would be excluding parliamentarians who represent independent views from a process of debate. If you were trying to do petty partisan politics, you would not have included any of the Independents in the select committee; you would simply have said, 'Right, you are the Opposition, you have 500 got two, we have got three – let us get on with it quickly.'

It is absolutely the opposite of what the hon. Gentleman has said that we are actually seeking to do, because it is obvious – the hon. Gentleman said, 'We have got 5,000 votes' – well, it is obvious that the 5,000 votes were not for him, Mr Speaker. They might not even have been for the person who at least had the gumption to lead the party at the election. I hope he is not 505 claiming those votes for the person who now leads the party, who was not even a Member of the party at the time they got those 5,000 votes.

But those 5,000 votes, Mr Speaker, would in some measure have been for the hon. Lady. She came second in the ranking of those 5,000 votes. That means, Mr Speaker, in any democracy, she is the second biggest vote winner on the other side, Mr Speaker; not him. (A Member: Hear, 510 hear.)

And the hon. Gentleman may have just been the 17th Member to caress the list of those elected, but he is nonetheless an important part of the team elected opposite – except that he is no longer a Member of that team. But he is also entitled to claim the credit for his votes – these are the people that he represents.

515 Now, we may have a party system but the hon. Gentleman may wish to reflect upon the fact that each of us has been elected individually, with the votes individually of members of this community. And the Hon. Mr Llamas, although I might disagree with what he says and what he does with those rights of representation that those votes give him, has been elected with a large share of those votes. I cannot actually remember the numbers, Mr Speaker – I think it was just 520 18 more than somebody who thought that they would have been first but it was more than the person who came 18th. Therefore, Mr Speaker, an argument that seeks to exclude somebody like that from the position advanced by the Government, which is an inclusive one, is not an argument that can be said to be based on any attempt to extend democratic legitimacy in a representative democracy like ours.

525 Now, Mr Speaker, I said all the things the hon. Gentleman has read from Hansard about being nimble, with the situation that I was presented with – except, Mr Speaker, that the fracturing of the official Opposition as much as it has fractured up to now – up to now – means that we are less nimble. We were dealing with one party first and there was another as Government on this side, Mr Speaker, with two parties but acting as one Government. So one 530 and one suddenly became one and two. Now it is one and one and one, Mr Speaker. We find ourselves, Mr Speaker, with three Oppositions. When it comes to education, we deal with all of them separately, some of them together, one of them doing ...

Mr Speaker, this is really a nightmare for the Government! In the old days, I almost miss the hon. Gentleman and his aggressive press releases. There was one coming and one back, one 535 coming and one back. Now there are three coming and there has got to be three back! (Laughter) This is the reality that the breakup of the GSD has visited on our community. But to say that we have to pander to that breakup and that we have to ignore the fact that there are others who have different views, on something as fundamental as Brexit, is really frankly just not acceptable.

540 Mr Speaker, look, we have just seen how the Leader of the party opposite not in Parliament has sought to change the way that the rules on broadcasting should be changed as a result of the circumstances in which they have put themselves. Well, Mr Speaker, that was rightly not agreed to by the GRA, on the unanimous response of everyone who was not in the GSD who was asked for a point of view, Mr Speaker.

545 Indeed, I seem to recall that was the view expressed by Mr Llamas and I wonder, Mr Speaker, whether the very unparliamentary and contra-democratic approach taken by the Hon. the Leader of the official Opposition today is not a vindictive attempt to pay back Mr Llamas for the response he gave to the Gibraltar Regulatory Authority on the attempt by the Leader of the GSD to try and change those rules.

550 But, Mr Speaker, all of the answers are in the way that we have to address each other. The Hon. Mr Phillips is today in Parliament, although not the Leader of the GSD, the Leader of the official Opposition; and there are others in Opposition. We will make a decision in the Brexit Select Committee about things we may put to this Parliament, Mr Speaker and we will make it with the official Opposition and with the Independents, who also represent the voice of the 555 community in however small a way, however deprecatory I have to be about it on other instances, but it is absolutely right that they should form part of that decision-making process.

That is why, Mr Speaker, the motion brought by the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister enjoys my full support and it will of course enjoy the support of the Government. It was something that we considered in Cabinet, Mr Speaker, and it is a motion which hon. Members may expect to 560 see rolled out in respect of the other Select Committee issues that this Parliament is dealing with, so that the Select Committee decisions made in respect of those other matters are also truly representative and inclusive of the views, even if I disagree with them, of hon. Members who represent independent opinion in this House.

And if I may say so, Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Hon. the Leader of the official Opposition for the way that he has represented the view he has expressed in this House today, because never again in any debate will hon. Members be able to claim the mantle of democratic legitimacy and/or indeed, Mr Speaker, to pretend that they are truly parliamentarians at heart. What they represent is an attempt to use this place for their own ends. They demonstrated it when they were in Government and they used the power of the Executive always to get away with it and they thought, Mr Speaker, they would be able to get away with it in Opposition too, and exclude Independent Members.

They have fallen apart already and lost two, Mr Speaker. I would not be surprised if that was not the end to it. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to – ?
The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I have to say I have been really surprised by this intervention by the GSD, I honestly did not expect it at all. I have no idea why the GSD would want to curb a voice when it suits them, while at the same time demand and consider it appropriate to be treated as an equal by the GRA, when they have a leader that is not an elected Member of the House. The double standards are totally palpable.

And as for petty crusades, Mr Speaker, I can talk a little bit about petty crusades. Petty crusades is, for example, when Members by my side over here try to get me kicked out of the reception when David Cameron came to town and other such examples which there are many of. (Interjections) Those are petty crusades, Mr Speaker, but curbing the voice of another independent speaker, whether they are with them or not, is just an addition to our democratic voice here in this Parliament. So I have no idea why this would even be an issue and I think it is a waste of parliamentary time.

I for one welcome an extra voice on these benches to the Brexit Select Committee.
Thank you. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Is there any other contributor before I call on the mover to reply?
The Hon. Daniel Feetham.

Hon. Chief Minister: Hear, hear! (Laughter)

Hon. D A Feetham: I can see that you have all missed me! (Laughter)
Well, Mr Speaker, I had hoped to say either very little or nothing at all during the course of this debate, but I think that the contribution of the Hon. the Chief Minister has left me with no alternative but to rise and to give my own views on the matter.

The Hon. the Chief Minister referred to logic and what I would like to do is to examine through the cold calculus of logic some of the issues that are at stake in this debate, because I think what we are doing today is setting a very dangerous precedent indeed in simply inviting or electing somebody onto a select committee by dint of his status as an Independent Member of the House.

What I would like to do is to examine very briefly what the role of a select committee is, not only in Gibraltar but also elsewhere; then look at the question of 'Who does Mr Llamas actually represent?', because that lies at the heart of this debate. When we talk about somebody or a select committee being representative, we do not talk about a select committee being representative simply because somebody is in this House. A person represents people and I would like to examine more closely who exactly Mr Llamas represents.

615 And then finally, Mr Speaker, I would like to draw a distinction, even though she has been particularly ungenerous to me today, but I would like to draw what I believe is a distinction between the hon. Lady and the hon. Gentleman. I will conclude with that and I hope that I will be able to persuade Members opposite that it is not the right course of action. I will not hold my breath but nonetheless, let us examine some of the issues logically.

620 Mr Speaker, in the United Kingdom, select committees are convened on a cross-party basis – and I will return to the concept of cross-party – and provided by Parliament with a very specific remit in order to report back to Parliament on its findings. It is then Parliament that makes a decision on any recommendation made by the select committee. There is no question of anybody curbing a voice by not forming part of a select committee, because of course, the hon. Gentleman, Mr Llamas, will have as much of a say of what is recommended by the select committee as anybody else in this House, and nobody is trying to dampen or quiet or suppress the voice of Mr Llamas.

625 In the UK, although there are differences between the select committee here and the UK, because in the UK select committees are selected from the cadre of backbenchers – very rarely do we see a front bench spokesman either on the Government side or on the Opposition side, forming part of a select committee because their function is usually to hold the Government to account – but the way that they are chosen I think is instructive, and it is not unusual to have a competition for places in a select committee. An individual may propose himself to a select committee, may be proposed by Members of a political party, but what the Parliament actually does is it chooses the best people for a particular role in a particular select committee.

630 There is not a Parliament in the world that simply says, ‘Because you are an Independent Member of the House, you have got to form part of a select committee.’ It is an absolute absurdity and an absolute nonsense with respect to the position that is being adopted today by the Government.

635 And it is easily tested. Look, Mr Speaker, there have been occasions and I know that the hon. Gentleman when I make this point, it is going to draw derisions from the other side and the usual response about the GSD breaking up and all the rest of it. But look, in 1975-76, the IWBP crumbled. You could have a situation in the future whereby for whatever reason, you have seven Members in the Opposition that are all Independents because of circumstances. Are we seriously suggesting (Interjection) that in those circumstances, every single Member of the Opposition, because by dint of the fact that they are Independents, should form part of a select committee? I think that is nonsensical and it sets a dangerous precedent.

640 And in fact, Mr Speaker, I probably would have sat down, would have made no contribution but for the fact that the Chief Minister appeared to suggest, which caused me concern, that this is the precedent that we are establishing. Not only is it going to be this committee but it is going to be the Constitutional Committee, it is also going to be the Committee on Parliamentary Reform.

645 Let us look at it logically. We are a Parliament and we are making a decision that is extremely important: choosing the people that the Parliament believes are best suited to be on a select committee to set out a road map about how Gibraltar deals with Brexit.

650 And do you know what? If the Hon. the Chief Minister had come to this House today and he had said, ‘Look, we want to add one more person on the Government’s side’ – the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano, for example – ‘because we feel that his knowledge of public finance and of certain areas in the economy is such that he can make a valuable contribution, but because we do not want the select committee to become unwieldy, we are not going to be adding anybody else on the Opposition side’, do you know what I would have said to the Leader of the Opposition and to my colleagues? I think that is a good enough reason and therefore we should not object to what the Government is trying to do. Because what we should be doing is we should be choosing the best people for this particular job as indeed the best people for the role of the Select Committee on Constitutional Reform and the best people for the role of the Committee on Parliamentary Reform.

665 And we have to look at it logically – what does Mr Llamas have to offer this particular select committee that Mr Bossano does not have to offer, or Mr Licudi, or Mr Clinton with his experience in banking, or Elliott Phillips with his experience of cross-border commercial litigation extraditions, which could be useful in terms of considering Justice and Home Affairs as part of Brexit deliberations?

670 If we had been talking, for example, if we had been saying this is a select committee on canine welfare, for example I would have been the first one to say – and I am not suggesting that that is the only talent that the hon. Gentleman has or that he cannot contribute in other ways, but I would be the first one to say – (Interjection) that his expertise is second to none. But the reality is, that to say that we are adding somebody by dint of the fact that he is an Independent Member of this House is not, in my respectful view, the right decision.

675 I know that the Government will come back and the Government will say, ‘Ah, but the Select Committee ought to be representative of this Parliament,’ and that lies at the heart of this debate, because when we examine who Mr Llamas actually represents, we are drawn to the inevitable conclusion that he represents no one that he is not represented by the people here in the GSD, Mr Speaker.

680 Look, the hon. Gentleman has mentioned the number of votes that Mr Llamas obtained at the last election. Fact number 1: Mr Llamas obtained less votes than anybody else in this Parliament. Fact number 2: a swing of 14 votes would have meant that Mr Llamas would have been left out at the last election.

685 Now, I give the hon. Gentleman an example that I wish the Parliament to consider. Let us assume that he had been selected for the GSD and after nominations had closed, Mr Llamas turned round to the electorate, we could not add somebody else to the slate, and Mr Llamas turned round to the electorate in 2015 and said, ‘We intend, I intend, to now ask the people of Gibraltar to vote for me as an Independent.’ The reality, Mr Speaker, the inescapable truth is that Mr Llamas would never have been elected to this Parliament, because at the very least there would have been a swing of 14 votes against him, if not thousands of votes. Therefore, when we ask, ‘Who does he actually represent, that the GSD does not actually represent?’, no one, Mr Speaker – that is the reality of the situation.

695 Then I come to, Mr Speaker, the difference between the hon. Lady and the Hon. Mr Llamas. Because you see, I think there is an important difference here, and if there had not been this difference, perhaps my view would have been different.

700 The hon. Lady has said, ‘I intend to fight the next election and set up a political party.’ That is my understanding of her position and she has said, ‘Look, even though I stood for election with the GSD in 2015 and I left within six months of being elected as part of the GSD slate, I will ask the people of Gibraltar to hold that in the balance with all the other positive things that I have done in the last four years, and if the people of Gibraltar decide to elect me, fine.’ But she has had the courage to come out and to say, ‘I have an office in Main Street at Headquarters and I intend to fight the next election and it is my aspiration to form a political party.’ That takes courage, whatever my criticisms of her may be as to how she is where she is now but that is the reality. That is the reality.

705 Now, Mr Llamas, we all know – we are not stupid – we all know is not a lone wolf. (Interjections) He forms part of a pack of wolves, political wolves. (Laughter) A rather timid pack of wolves, (Laughter) one that prefers to lurk in the political shadows (A Member: Hear, hear.), rather than come out openly in broad daylight, but a pack nonetheless.

710 And indeed, Mr Speaker, the House should not take my word for it. I will just read from the hon. Gentleman’s, Mr Llamas’s Christmas message. He said, ‘I am acutely aware of the privilege that serving you as an Independent MP represents’ – and of course it is a shame that he did not have and feel that same privilege and honour to represent people in the capacity that he was elected. But look that is not the type of logical argument I am asking the House to consider, let us ignore that.

715 But what he said was this:

I share a vision with a growing number of people who I am working with. We believe that it is important that this new vision for Gibraltar be alive to the dangers we have yet to articulate, whether home-grown or external. We believe that this vision requires honesty, regardless of whether we like what we find when we search within.

Then he says:

Join me and others who already share these views, others who are keen to make a difference and keen to see the vision I have set out a moment ago become a reality. You can make a difference. We can make a difference.

Mr Speaker, the Hon. the Chief Minister, a few weeks ago, asked Mr Llamas from a sedentary position whether he was asking anyone by WhatsApp what supplementary question he should ask next. (Interjections) Indeed, and he is absolutely right, I have a lot of sympathy from the view that he expressed from a sedentary position. Politics should not be conducted vicariously. Politics is not a form of ventriloquy. Politics is to be conducted openly, Mr Speaker.

The hon. Gentleman and I have had many battles over the years in this Parliament – many, many battles but nobody can accuse me of not saying to him in his face anything, because that is the way that politics ought to operate. And, Mr Speaker, I say also this: that the majority of people in this Parliament have tasted defeat in politics in one form or another. The reality is that you have got to be able to take defeat in order to make success meaningful. (Interjection) I once said that victory is all the sweeter when you have tasted defeat, but you have got to have the ‘castanets’ to be there! (Laughter) Yes sir, and I am not referring to a Spanish percussion instrument when I use the analogy ‘castanets’! But you have got to have the courage and the guts! (A Member: Hear, hear.)

That is why whatever the hon. Lady may say and whatever the hon. Lady’s historic decisions, look, she has had the courage to say, ‘That’s my aspiration.’ But the people around Mr Llamas do not appear to have the same type of courage. (Interjection) If you are a political person and you aspire to lead this community, you have got to have the guts to say, ‘I am going to stand as the leader of a political party,’ the same way as Mr Clinton had the guts to do so. Or if you do not agree with that political party, you have got to have the guts to set up your own outfit, openly, transparently, out of the shadows, into the full glare of the sunlight.

But what you cannot and what is objectionable is to do what Mr Llamas and his group are doing, which is operate from the shadows as I have indicated a few moments ago.

And, Mr Speaker, in the immortal words of the US rap singer, Eminem: ‘Will the real Slim Shady please stand up, please stand up?’ (Laughter) And that I am afraid is the message that this Parliament – (Interjection and laughter) I can assure the hon. Gentlemen that my gym sessions have not been the same ever since. Every time the song comes up I have visions of ‘slim’. (Laughter) Behave please!

The message from this Parliament should be that if Mr Llamas has, and those around him have the courage that she has shown, well then, the Parliament will consider him as a separate political entity that intends to contest the next election, that they will form part of other select committees. But not in this way, Mr Speaker, when we can all laugh, but we all know what is going on.

Some of the people around Mr Llamas continue to be GSD members, so what are we saying? What is this? That this Parliament provides political cover for a situation where, let us use Mr Llamas as the Turk’s head, let us see whether his cry to arms to people, ‘Come and follow us, come and follow us,’ whether that succeeds or it does not succeed. If it does not succeed, we are still in the GSD, Mr Llamas can come back to the GSD and we will do an Alien Resurrection and let him take over the GSD from within. It is not right, Mr Speaker, and I think that this Parliament is making a wrong decision in doing what it is doing and is setting out the precedent that it is establishing for the future.

Therefore, Mr Speaker, for all the reasons that I have outlined, I think that this Parliament should not be setting the precedent that it is setting, which is just that by mere dint of the fact that somebody is an Independent – not elected into this Parliament as an Independent – that person is entitled to form part of every single select committee. And I have risen, Mr Speaker, because the Hon. the Chief Minister appeared to indicate that that is precisely what the Government intends to do.

765 I have to say, I am going to think about things very, very carefully over the next seven days, but at this stage of my political career I do not have to hide from anybody. I have always been known to speak my mind, more so now than ever, and I feel so strongly about this particular issue that I will be considering my own position within the Select Committee over the next seven days, because I think that this one I might have been prepared to just allow under the radar, but 770 it is the precedents establishing for the future.

And lest anybody says, 'This is a piece of political vindictiveness by Feetham', let me set the record straight. I was one of the biggest supporters in the Executive of the decision to have a joint platform with the hon. Lady on education. I believe that you have got to make the right decisions for Gibraltar and to the extent that it is possible for the Opposition to come together 775 and hold the Government to account on issues, I think that is important.

And look, if the hon. Member wanted tomorrow to join his members of his group and return to the GSD, I am not going to attempt to block him at all. I am not, as indeed I left before he left. He did not have to leave because of me, so I am nobody's political beard, but what we cannot do is just simply ignore realities and ignore what is going on in this Parliament and in politics today, 780 with Mr Llamas and the people around him, and something that the Hon. the Chief Minister knows that is happening. And I for one, just cannot just remain seated and not express my views about this.

Mr Speaker, thank you very much for your indulgence. (Banging on desks)

785 Mr Speaker: Is there any other contributor to this motion? If not, I will call – Yes, the Hon. Lawrence Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the Government on bringing this motion to the House giving effect to that commitment of including Independent Members of the House in 790 relevant select committees and I look forward to contributing in this Select Committee and any other further select committees requiring our attention as we move forward.

Unfortunately, Mr Speaker, it was never my intention to cause any harm to the GSD whatsoever. It has certainly not been my intention to do anything that may in any way negatively influence the process of consolidation, repair and rebuilding which I expect the GSD is 795 engaged in, following its leadership election.

It is clear on the party's own admission that the GSD is at a critical juncture in its path and in that context, the return of a credible and capable people who once sat on that Executive should be welcomed and not resisted.

It would seem, Mr Speaker, that Mr Feetham is unable to accept the possibility that I have 800 developed a rapport with such people – people who remain GSD members and people who hope and keep the possibility of rebuilding bridges alive. This is, in my view, the approach the current Leader is hoping to engender, and I would have expected and would have welcomed a more positive approach, especially from Mr Feetham.

I do not wish to reopen the reasons for which I left and resigned from the party I once stood 805 for. For whatever reason and from the party's own admission, there was a communication breakdown on such an important issue and on the analysis of facts, I had been left out of a decision-making process on such an important Bill such as the Appropriation Bill.

It was my view, Mr Speaker, at the time that I had to put Gibraltar first and my party second. It was my view that voting against the Budget, however much I agree with the arguments put in 810 favour, Gibraltar in the context of a Brexit backdrop needs to unite. Mr Speaker, Gibraltar at this point in time, needs parliamentarians to have faith and to support the Government of the day and to show a vote of confidence in Gibraltar, in its economy, in its workers and in its public service.

815 Mr Speaker, unfortunately the main Opposition Party, the GSD failed to realise the implications of their actions or lack thereof. When the original motion for the Brexit Select Committee arrived in this House, they unflinchingly allowed the original motion forming various select committees, debated in this House, to go through. Back then, they made absolutely no mention of any dissatisfaction with this setup and therefore endorsed what they now consider a weakening of the GSD Opposition.

820 This, once again, Mr Speaker, exposes the lack of foresight the GSD has and the characteristic hypocrisy of the party. It is quite rich, Mr Speaker, for a party who has a leader in this House, and a party who has a leader outside the House, to make representations to the GRA on challenging the legitimacy of how broadcasts are done by GBC, even though the leader of the party does not enjoy a seat in this House. But for it, Mr Speaker, it is the audacity to challenge a democratic, legitimate participation of a Member of this House in a select committee.
825 Mr Speaker, it is deplorable and you simply could not make it up.

All this, Mr Speaker, while still publicly declaring a desire for the return of past Members. It is awfully confusing, Mr Speaker, but awfully confusing is what the GSD appears to have become. (Laughter) A leader inside and a leader outside. (Laughter) Being led, or perhaps misled, by the other Independent Member to make joint statements is utterly confusing.
830

Mr Speaker, the GSD is asking who I represent. (Interjection) Yes, I do my homework and I am committed to what I do. (Interjection) The GSD is asking who I represent. Well, Mr Speaker, I represent those who contact me, those who know I am always on the other side and, Mr Speaker, in particular, I represent many of the GSD members who are lost, many of the electorate who are lost.
835

What qualities do I have, Mr Speaker? I am not one to judge myself. I shall let the electorate do that, if I do stand again. But what I can say, is that I do possess a vision and an initiative which they so far have failed to provide this community. Unlike a former member of my party, a former colleague I should say, I consider my parliamentary allowance to be simply a stepping stone in order to fulfil my commitment in this House and a way in which I can provide for my family. I do not consider it, Mr Speaker, to be my holiday money.
840

Mr Speaker, for me it is a privilege to serve this community and I shall ensure and endeavour that that privilege is always met. No doubt, Mr Speaker, I shall be voting in favour of this motion (Interjections) on the basis that it is legitimate, that I should be included following the precedent set in this House by all its Members.
845

Thank you, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Is there any other contributor? The Hon. Roy Clinton. (Interjections)

850 Hon. R M Clinton: I rise only to talk about numbers. (Laughter and banging on desks) I am glad to have brought a smile to people's faces.

Mr Speaker, the original composition in terms of ratios of the original Select Committee, in fact as it stands today is in a proportion of four to two to one; I am happy to be corrected on that. But with the proposed amendment, it becomes five to two to one to one.

855 So from the point of view of the Opposition, regardless of the arguments we have heard this afternoon, the Official Opposition of which the Government must recognise we are the majority on the Opposition benches, there being five of us, no longer have a majority of the Opposition views in that Select Committee.

And where the Government have been very careful to ensure that their representative majority is retained, we being the Official Opposition, have lost ours. And, Mr Speaker, it is on that point I feel that the proposed amendment is inequitable because all the Government has to do is add one more Member from the Official Opposition and then perhaps we might be satisfied in terms of ratios at the very least.
860

Thank you, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks)

865

Mr Speaker: Any other contributor?

I call on the mover to reply.

870 Hon. Deputy Chief Minister: Yes, Mr Speaker. I think little did the Government know that when we tabled a two-line, seemingly (Laughter) perfectly innocent motion for this House, it was going to lead to this kind of discussion.

But I have to say that in 19 years as a Member of this House, I have seldom heard such nonsense coming from an official Opposition. (Laughter and banging on desks) (Interjection) And I think, as the hon. Member said, it was unfortunate and that it was remarkable that this motion 875 had been presented. What is unfortunate and remarkable, I think, is the lack of pure political acumen that is continued to be displayed both inside this House and outside it.

And they said that the rationale for the motion had not been fully explained. But, Mr Speaker, the reality is that the rationale had been fully explained to them. It has been fully explained by me, by email to the hon. Member when he asked what it was. I told him then and I 880 agreed from the email, the position of the Government is that select committees should contain as wide a representation of Parliament as possible. We believe that Mr Llamas is therefore entitled to be on the Committee and to have his views heard within its formal structure.

It is also our view that such committees should be composed of one more Government MP than all the Opposition MPs combined. The proposed arrangement for the Brexit Select 885 Committee would provide for four Opposition MPs and five Government MPs.

The further expansion of the Committee runs the risk of making it unwieldy and unworkable in the context of Gibraltar, were six Government MPs to continue, or to sit as members of the committee for no good reason. And then I told him that we would have to agree to disagree on this one.

890 So, Mr Speaker, the rationale behind the decision taken by the Government to propose the motion was fully and properly explained to the hon. Members opposite. When they are going to accuse the Government of indulging in party politics over this issue, I think the reality is in them indulging in their own internal intra-Opposition party politics, which really has got absolutely nothing to do with us. (Interjection)

895 When the hon. Lady left the Opposition, the official Opposition as Mr Llamas I think has rightly explained, the Government then changed the structure of all the Select Committees and decided to add the hon. Lady to each of them. (Interjection) Then to balance that, a Government MP was also added to each of those Committees.

So, Mr Speaker, what we are proposing to do now with Mr Llamas is exactly what we did 900 when the hon. Lady left the Official Opposition. It is exactly the same.

We believe, as I said, that there should be as wide a representation of parliamentary views as possible on the Committee. What we cannot do is to add an MP from the official Opposition every time that an MP is added or an Independent MP is added to the committee. That would 905 then require us to add a Government MP as well and we will end up with a situation where we have more than half the Government sitting on the select committee. So, Mr Speaker, that is simply not possible and is not going to happen.

So, we took the view as I said that Mr Llamas is entitled to be on it and whatever views he may care to express on the important subject of Brexit, he is therefore entitled to sit on the committee and to express it.

910 But I should also add, something that was said earlier about who represents who and who do each of us represent. The reality, Mr Speaker, is that, as the Chief Minister rightly said, Members are elected individually and that we sit as Members of Parliament also on each or any select committee.

But this whole situation reflects very poorly not on the Government as the Leader of the 915 Opposition has said, but I think the petty, short-sighted and nit-picking approach they have taken reflects very poorly on them, Mr Speaker. That they should seek to exclude an Independent Member with clearly different views to them and to the other Independent Member, from expressing an opinion on a select committee, is unacceptable and undemocratic. It also betrays, I think, a singular lack of knowledge of what select committees are for and how they work.

920

I have had the opportunity to sit on every select committee in this House in the last nearly 20 years that I have been a Member of it, and the hon. Members should know that this idea of having more MPs from the official Opposition than Independent MPs on the committee, really shows that they do not know what they are talking about, because each individual Member represented on a committee is free to dissent or to disagree with the view expressed by the majority of Members on that committee.

925

And there can be, and there are in the UK and in other places, there is a majority report expressing the majority view of the committee on any given issue and there are then also minority reports on minority views expressed on whatever that issue might be. So the actual manner and the procedures, the way in which select committees operate, allow for that to happen already, does not require for there to be more MPs from the official Opposition than there are Independent Members on it.

930

And I think, Mr Speaker, I have to say also that I think it is particularly inappropriate, and I did raise this issue with them too, that they should choose to raise this particular issue with this particular committee, which is a Select Committee about Brexit, which is a hugely important issue of our time – not only for Gibraltar but also for the wider United Kingdom and European Union, where we have tried I think, as far as possible, to be as united as we can in the views that we express, indeed in the information that we provide to the hon. Members opposite and where we are trying to work together for the wider interests of Gibraltar.

935

There are other select committees already in existence where they could have taken this view and perhaps behaved in this petty and inappropriate manner with regard to those issues, which are still also considerably important – I would not try to diminish that – but on Brexit, Mr Speaker, to choose Brexit to raise this issue is wrong.

940

I think it was, the hon. Member mentioned this idea that Mr Llamas was the last one who had been elected and that it took a swing of 10 or 14 votes. Well, I think my answer to that, although really it is perhaps not for me to answer, but my answer is that look, Members are elected and elections are lost by one vote. So if it was 14 or 9 or 10 or 15, so be it. But it just takes one vote to lose an election. That is what democracy really is all about.

945

And who do we represent? Well, Mr Speaker, all 17 of us represent the 32,000 people of Gibraltar. That is who we represent. Each of us represent all the people of Gibraltar, not just the people who voted for you. (A Member: Hear, hear.)

950

So, I think as I said before, it is intolerant of different opinions, it is blinkered, it is undemocratic, it is holier than thou, and is an approach to politics that we thought was confined to the dustbin of history in 2011. So I was very sorry to hear all this resurrected again in this particular motion on Brexit.

955

So, Mr Speaker, as I said earlier, the Government value having Independent voices on the committee. It is our policy that those voices should be there and before I close on the motion, I give way to the hon. Member who I think wants to say a few words.

Hon. Chief Minister: I am grateful to the hon. Gentleman for giving way, Mr Speaker, because in the course of the intervention that the hon. the former Leader of the official Opposition – (Interjection) former, former Leader of the official Opposition made, he told us that he had considered not making any intervention and it was just something I said that moved him to become involved in referring us to the cold calculus of logic.

Well, Mr Speaker, what he is missing is the abacus of parliamentary mathematics and that is what he has got to put in the balance. The abacus of parliamentary mathematics tells us that we started with ten and we have still got ten. They started with seven and then they lost one, and now they have lost another one. And for that reason, Mr Speaker, it is necessary for us to act in 965

970 the way that we are going to act by supporting the motion that the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister has put before the House.

He started with a theory, Mr Speaker, that because Mr Llamas no longer sits with the GSD whip, he now represents no one – or at least no one that the GSD does not also already represent, although he wants us to think that that does not apply to the hon. Lady because she said that she is going to stand for election with a political party in the future.

975 Well, Mr Speaker, that may be true about the future. The hon. Lady may seek her own independent mandate in the future, but the hon. Lady's position is, as he knows, whether he shares the view or not, that she has an Independent mandate today because she had 4,892 votes. That is the position.

980 Why should the position of the Hon. Mr Llamas, because he had 4,565 votes, be any different? He may or may not yet evince an intention to stand for election in the future, with her, with them, with us or with the wolf, (Laughter) but that does not change his position, Mr Speaker. It does not change his position at all today and the regard we must have for the democratic legitimacy of his position in this House.

985 Mr Speaker, he then presented the work of select committees as if we had not on this side understood what the work of a select committee is here and in the United Kingdom and indeed, in the work of the former select committees that have been in this House, including important ones like the ones on the Constitution. It is because we understand the work of select committees that we have thought it appropriate to bring this motion and have indicated that we will bring similar motions in respect of other select committees.

990 And, he told us in one breath that the GSD is not breaking up, although he then told us in another breath, in what was clearly, Mr Speaker, a further fit of pique, that there are some within the GSD who are working with the hon. Gentleman, Mr Llamas. Well, Mr Speaker, we may not be a million miles away from thinking that breaking up is hard to do, unless you are in the GSD these days, because the breakup does not seem to have ended yet. The fissures may not have become entirely visible to all of us on this side of the House or in the public yet.

995 The example he gave of the breakup of the IWBP is perhaps the wrong example for him to have chosen, for a simple reason. Good students of history, other than those who have lived history like Mr Bossano or Mr Speaker, will have read in the Deputy Chief Minister's book on the political history of Gibraltar that in fact those who stood with the Gibraltar Democratic Movement, did not just leave the GDM after the breakup of the IWBP; they left the GDM and then were seduced by the clutches of a formidable actor then as Leader of the House, and they crossed the floor.

They did not become Independents, Mr Speaker. (Interjection) Mr Mascarenhas and – 1005 Mr Speaker: The Hon Mr Mascarenhas was not a Member.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Mascarenhas was not a Member, you're right. The Hon. Brian Perez (Interjection by Mr Speaker) and Mr Valarino crossed the floor, Mr Speaker, at the time. They did not stay Independents, Mr Speaker. So that is not the best example to have chosen.

1010 And what if they all went Independent, Mr Speaker? Well, he did not say that this would not happen, which was interesting. The hon. Member said, 'What happens if we all go Independent?' without saying, 'but of course that will not happen', because of course with the underlying tensions, there is very little GSD on the other side, Mr Speaker. There is the Hon. Mr Clinton, Mr Reyes; but I look up and the rest of what I see is PDP and Labour Party so it could still go a million miles from where it is today.

1015 What happens if they all go Independent? Well then, Mr Speaker, I suppose we would ask them as a group of Independents, to nominate who they would like representing the Independents on the select committee (Laughter) because it would be impossible, Mr Speaker, to have a select committee of the House with seven Independents in it without having at least eight Members of the Government.

But then there would not be an official Opposition. Doesn't he realise that the example that he postulates lacks logic because there is no official Opposition in that example; there are seven Independent Members? That is the reality and that is not what we are dealing with.

1025 And if there are people, Mr Speaker, in the GSD who are working with Mr Llamas as he has said today, well then, Mr Speaker, it is important that we hear their voice and we will not hear it from him, we will hear it from Mr Llamas who is working with them. He has legitimised the exercise that we are doing in that respect.

1030 He pretends to try and drive a wedge between us on this side of the House, by saying, 'Of course, if you were saying Sir Joe Bossano should be a member of the Select Committee, well then, we would take a different attitude. Does the hon. Gentleman think that we did not ask Sir Joe Bossano whether he wanted to be a Member of the Select Committee before we determined who should be in the Select Committee?

1035 But he should know Sir Joe well enough that Sir Joe says he wants to spend more time at his desk if possible and give us his input in Cabinet, which is the place where we have the benefit of the input of Sir Joe Bossano, of Gilbert Licudi who he mentioned, Albert Isola, Paul Balban, Neil Costa, Samantha Sacramento, John Cortes and Steven Linares. We do not need to bring them into a select committee to hear their contribution. Frankly, it is nonsensical to have made that attempt to drive a wedge between us. We meet together in the Über-Select Committee every Monday morning.

1040 'And what has Mr Llamas got to offer?' he says in such a derisory fashion that it is impossible for him, the hon. Gentleman, to not demonstrate the utter vindictiveness with which he has approached this debate. Now, we saw some of that vindictiveness in the now legendary press conference that he gave when he retired as Leader of the GSD. He talked about dogs and canine issues and I am not going to talk about crocodiles and tears, Mr Speaker, but we saw some of that vindictiveness then.

1045 If Mr Llamas is putting together a group, it is even more important that we hear what he has to say in the Select Committee. If there are people assisting him, we must hear their views. But how does he know that he represents no one but the people who voted GSD. Is it that we do not have secret elections in Gibraltar, Mr Speaker? We have a secret ballot, don't we? How does he know that the 4,565 people who voted for Lawrence Llamas are included in the 5,054 that voted for him? How does he know that?

1055 There is enough difference, Mr Speaker, between 10,852, which is the number of people that voted for me and 5,054, the number of people that voted for him, that they could represent the 4,565 that voted for Mr Llamas. Hasn't he worked that out? People who voted for him might have been called Peter and Keith and the people who voted for him might have been called Ned and Marlene for all we know, Mr Speaker. So it is just utter nonsense to say his votes are represented by the GSD. It is just remarkable, Mr Speaker, that we have heard that in this House today.

1060 And if the hon. Gentleman is going to pretend that he was not pejorative, then to refer to the hon. Gentleman as a wolf and talk about canine aspects of what he does, Mr Speaker ... I mean to think that he got up and said that it was wrong to have referred to a dog show, when the hon. Gentleman was not here and he now talks about canine aspects of what the hon. Gentleman can be an expert at, and talk about wolves –(Laughter) the petty crusade was never clearer than at that moment.

1065 But it was not on this side, Mr Speaker. The petty crusade was on the lips of the hon. Gentleman and I apologise to Mr Phillips, Mr Speaker, the Leader of the official Opposition because I thought he was getting his prompts from WhatsApp and from beyond this House; he was obviously getting them from just across the way from next door. He did not need an electronic device; he had the former, former Leader of the Opposition to give him all of the vindictiveness and pettiness that was required, because that was clearly what was coming across.

1075 But for him, Mr Speaker, of all people, to get up and say that politics is not ventriloquy, well Mr Speaker, tell it to Michael Bain – that is what I say. But I will say one thing, Mr Speaker, to the hon. Gentleman. It is true that in politics and here, he and I are fully in agreement: if you want to succeed you have to suffer defeat as well. He will recall the editorial of the former editor of The Gibraltar Chronicle who referred to the cold steel of election night, cold steel that we have both felt on election night, Mr Speaker. That is absolutely true.

1080 I give him another quote to match the one he gave us. Nixon said on the day of his impeachment that his supporters and those who worked with him should not have pity for him, because it was only by being in the lowest valley that he could understand the value of having been atop the highest mountain, namely to have held the office of President of the United States. If somebody wants to hold high office, Mr Speaker, they have to have the courage to suffer defeat in elections. Otherwise, the political system that they want to operate in is not the political system that he and I have operated in with relative amounts of success.

1085 So, Mr Speaker, he talked about, in all of that context, people having to come out of the shadows; but he was the only one shadow boxing in the course of this debate. He was the only one who seemed to be talking not at Mr Llamas, but at someone else, Mr Speaker, in the context of this debate. In fact, I will say that one of the reasons I miss him so much, Mr Speaker, is because he is probably, he is the only person who can masquerade as wholesome in the way that he presents himself in debate, whilst actually being petty and vindictive like no one else.

1090 But to talk about wolves, Mr Speaker, when he is the perennial wolf in sheep's clothing, especially in the way that he has presented the arguments today – and I am very sorry to have seen us reach that level of discord in the context of a debate on enlarging the Brexit Select Committee – something as important, as the Deputy Chief Minister said, as Brexit.

1095 I can only say, Mr Speaker, that in respect of the things that Mr Llamas has said when he referred to the 'characteristic hypocrisy of the GSD', I sometimes feel with him that I have found a political soul mate, Mr Speaker, and that when the Hansard of this debate is available, I will ask him to autograph a copy of his speech and give it to me for posterity. Because it is absolutely right, Mr Speaker, that hon. Members of the official Opposition opposite present themselves as wanting democratic legitimacy and wanting parliamentary debate and then when we come to a moment where we seek parliamentary involvement, they try and shut it down.

1100 I can only say one thing, Mr Speaker, to this community today after this debate. The Deputy Chief Minister, the Attorney General, the Cabinet, the Financial Secretary, who is an important part of the team also, the Brexit team must be doing a pretty good job for Gibraltar if the Opposition think that the use of parliamentary time to which they have put the last hour makes any sense in the context of the challenges facing this community today.

1105 And, Mr Speaker, I know that the Deputy Chief Minister will now rise to commend the motion to the House. Before he does, I will say, Mr Speaker, that involving the hon. Gentleman opposite I think is a demonstration of the inclusiveness of the debate that we want to have in the context of this difficult moment, but that today in this debate more than one mask has slipped and once they slip, they can never go back.

1115 Hon. Deputy Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I commend the motion to the House. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: I now propose the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against?

1120 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think that it is appropriate for the purposes of history and Hansard that we call a division.

Mr Speaker: A division, very well.

A division was called for and voting resulted as follows:

FOR

Hon. P J Balban
Hon. Dr J E Cortes
Hon. N F Costa
Hon. Dr J J Garcia
Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon
Hon. G H Licudi
Hon. S E Linares
Hon. L F Llamas
Hon. F R Picardo
Hon. Miss S J Sacramento

AGAINST

Hon. R M Clinton
Hon. D A Feetham
Hon. T N Hammond
Hon. E J Phillips
Hon. E J Reyes

ABSENT

Hon. J J Bossano
Hon. A J Isola

1125 Mr Speaker: Two Members are absent. There are 10 votes in favour, 5 against. The motion is carried. (Banging on desks)

Rules on Points of Order and giving way – Ruling by the Speaker

Mr Speaker: Before we move on to the next motion, there is something that I feel bound to say. I must draw the attention of hon. Members to the Rules of Debate, Rule 45(10):

No Member shall interrupt another Member except:
(i) [on] a point of order ...

and then Rule 45(10):

(ii) to elucidate some matter raised by another Member in the course of his speech, provided that the Member speaking is willing to give way and resumes his seat and that the Member wishing to interrupt is called by the Speaker or Chairman.

1130 I think the intervention this afternoon of the Hon. the Leader of the House goes beyond that. It goes beyond the spirit of that Rule. What has happened I think is that sometime between 1991 and 2012, this practice grew. It did not happen during the years that I was a Member of the House of Assembly.

1135 Yes, a Member might give way, say, on the Government's side or on the Opposition's side, to give one of his colleagues an opportunity to make a point. But to make a point is not to make a speech and what we have had this afternoon from the Chief Minister is a speech. Therefore, the Government have had really two rights of reply and that is wrong.

1140 When the Hon. Mr Feetham spoke, I suspected that the Chief Minister would want to answer him. If it had been the other way round, if Mr Feetham had spoken before the Chief Minister spoke in the debate, he would have answered him in the course of his speech. But of course, having lost the opportunity in the debate, he then had to ask his colleague to give way in order to make a speech answering Mr Feetham. I believe sincerely, as Speaker, that that is not the spirit of this Rule and I hope hon. Members will agree. I hope the Chief Minister will agree that he went beyond the bounds of clarifying a point.

1145 Now, given that it is also incumbent on the Speaker to call the Member, because the Rule says (a) a Member must give way and (b) the Speaker has to call the Member, I feel today that the spirit of that Rule has been exceeded, and I hope that that practice will not continue in whatever time there remains for me to be Speaker, because if it were to continue, then I will invoke the Rule which requires that I call the Member, because then I will not call any Member to interrupt.

1150 Having said that, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I am very grateful for that clarification. As you said, this is a practice that has built up in the time that you have not been here, but I think your Ruling is a helpful one. We shall ensure that of course, we abide by your Ruling and the spirit of the Rule that you have referred us to, which I have no doubt is exactly as we should be behaving.

1155 But hon. Members will know that with so much talk of sheep and wolves, it was essential that I get up and reply.

Mr Speaker, I think this might be a convenient moment for us to recess for 15 minutes for a comfort break before we come back to deal with other business.

1160 Mr Speaker: The House will now recess for 15 minutes.

The House recessed for 15 minutes.

Gibraltar Courts Service –
Caseload and waiting times; monitoring need for fourth judge –
Motion carried

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1165 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move the motion standing in my name, which reads as follows:

‘THIS HOUSE:

ACKNOWLEDGES the work of our excellent Judiciary, Justices of the Peace and the Gibraltar Courts Service in upholding the highest standards of judicial independence and ensuring the effective administration and delivery of justice in Gibraltar;

NOTES the oath made by the Minister with responsibility for justice, pursuant to the Judicial Services Act 2007, which provides that the Minister should discharge his duty to ensure the provision of resources for the efficient and effective support of the courts;

NOTES that the appointment of judges on a temporary basis to deal, when the need arises, with the short-term needs of the judiciary, namely, backlogs of specific types of cases, dates back to 2011;

FURTHER NOTES that in 2014 a need was identified for a fourth judge to be employed on a temporary, fixed-term basis for a period of three years in order to clear a general backlog of civil cases in the Supreme Court and that, with the contract having come to an end, the backlog being cleared and in the context of Brexit, the Government deemed a fourth judge, in that role and at that time, unnecessary to the effective working of the Courts;

NOTES that the Honourable Mr Justice Dudley, Chief Justice, at the Opening of the Legal Year on the 29th September 2017, stated that-

- 1. he did not have any legitimate expectation that the post would continue beyond the 3 year term;*
- 2. it was always clear to him that the funding was made to provide for the short-term needs of the judiciary and this was not a permanent increase to the judicial complement and;*
- 3. “The judiciary, like any public service needs to justify the need for resources and that includes justifying an increase of the judicial complement. I will be monitoring the impact which the reduction in the number of judges has upon the* workings of the court and if the evidence justifies it, I will seek to persuade Government to reconsider its funding decision.”;

AND THEREFORE RESOLVES that the Government should, in close consultation with the Honourable the Chief Justice and the Bar Council, keep the case load of the Courts and the waiting times for cases under constant review, so that, if evidence justifies it, the need for a fourth judge may be reconsidered in order to meet the short-term needs of the judiciary AND that such review should pay particular attention to future demands regarding complex and high value litigation and any impact that the proposed legal assistance reforms may have on current resources.’.

Mr Speaker, I am pleased to say that the text of this Government motion has been agreed with the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition and therefore counts with the support of the official Opposition.

1170 I am also pleased to say, Mr Speaker, that both hon. Independent Members, the Hon. Ms Marlene Hassan Nahon and the Hon. Mr Lawrence Llamas, have also agreed and that therefore the motion enjoys the support of the whole House.

1175 There is no doubt in my mind, Mr Speaker, none whatever, that our judiciary upholds at all times the highest standards of judicial independence and that the service works tirelessly in ensuring the effective administration and delivery of justice in Gibraltar.

I remind Parliament of the Oath which, as Minister with responsibility for Justice, I took under the Judicial Services Act. The Oath provides among other vital duties, that I will ensure the provision of resources for the efficient and effective support of the Courts.

1180 Mr Speaker, this is a duty that I, like all the previous incumbents in the post have taken with the utmost seriousness and we have all given the Oath the weight and attention it deserves. In fact, it is an opportune moment to note that the investment and commitment of Her Majesty’s Government of Gibraltar, as well as the excellent work of the Judiciary and Court Services, has meant that there continues to be no backlog at the Magistrates’ Court and the Supreme Court in respect of dates provided for criminal trials and for civil and family applications waiting for first hearing dates.

1185 Furthermore, the Gibraltar Court Service continues to modernise and improve the services provided to court users. In this respect, since October 2016, court users can enjoy the use of Wi-Fi facilities in all of the courtrooms. The Gibraltar Court Service website continues to be regularly updated, with judgments being available for the Supreme Court and Court of Appeal since 1997 to date.

1190 Since January 2016 sentencing pronouncement for criminal trials at the Supreme Court are also available to download from the website, enabling the general public and the service users to keep up to date with court decisions.

1195 Further, the Laws of Gibraltar Judgments website continues to be up to date, with all reported judgments since 1812 available for download, with future reported judgments to be uploaded subsequent to the publication in the Gibraltar Law Reports Volumes.

The Gibraltar Court Service is constantly looking at ways in which to improve the services and level of performance, with court users today enjoying a modernised, open and approachable court service, through which the public can have access to the justice system.

1200 Of course, Mr Speaker, as the Hon. the Chief Justice has pointed out, the making of provision for the administration of justice in a small jurisdiction such as ours is as much an art as a science. It is, when one looks at, for example, the number of senior judges required, an art that necessitates finding the right balance between having sufficient resilience to cope with unforeseen extraordinary demands whilst not being at the same time over-resourced and therefore wasteful. Such a delicate assessment is all the more necessary given the uncertainties 1205 that the current Brexit position brings to our shores.

It is against this background, Mr Speaker, that the custom of appointing additional judges on a temporary basis is, in the Government’s view, adequate and sufficient to address the short-1210 term needs of the judiciary, namely backlogs of specific types of cases such as criminal trials or complex commercial matters.

The solution, Mr Speaker, as I have had occasion to note previously, dates back to 2011 and commenced under the then GSD administration. The criteria set out for such an appointment by the then Minister for Justice is the same as it is today. Short-term appointments will be made and I quote:

‘for a limited period to help with the backlog of cases and the idea is to have a temporary appointment, so effectively as and when there is no need for that fourth judge, we will go back to three judges.’

1215 It is on exactly the same basis, Mr Speaker, that the Government decided that the most recent appointment of a fourth judge in 2014, which was for a fixed three-year period to deal with a backlog of civil cases, was no longer necessary for the efficient and effective support of the courts. This decision was made in the context of the backlog having been cleared and, as mentioned, in the context of Brexit.

1220 The motion, Mr Speaker, sets out the most salient points that the Hon. the Chief Justice had set out in the context of judicial resourcing, namely that it did not have any legitimate expectation that the post would continue beyond the three-year term. It was always clear to him that the funding was made to provide for the short-term needs of the judiciary and that this was not a permanent increase for the judicial complement and that, and I quote:

‘the judiciary like any public service needs to justify the need for resources and that includes justifying an increase of the judicial complement. I will be monitoring the impact which the reduction in the number of judges has upon the workings of the Courts and if the evidence justifies it, I will seek to persuade Government to reconsider its funding decision.’

1225 It is also, Mr Speaker, important to note that the Hon. the Chief Justice set out that, in the context of the decrease in civil claims, the Government’s decision was not unreasonable and that the three remaining judges should be able to cope with the demands that are made of the Supreme Court.

1230 Mr Speaker, the Hon. the Chief Justice has to date not sought to persuade the Government to reconsider its funding decision.

Mr Speaker, it is of course right that I and the Government should keep the caseload of the courts and the waiting times for cases under constant review and that this should be in consultation with the Chief Justice and all relevant stakeholders.

1235 Mr Speaker, as in 2011 and as in 2014, if the evidence justifies it, funding for a short-term, fixed-period puisne judge will be made available to meet the needs of the judiciary at that point in time. I am more than happy for the need to keep this under review, to be included on the face of the motion as it is already the case.

1240 I am also happy to agree that the possible areas that should be most closely monitored are those of high value civil litigation and the possible impact of the legal assistance reforms on judges’ caseload. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: I now propose the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. the Minister for Health. Does anybody wish to ... ?

Yes, I call upon the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

1245 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, initially, firstly I would like to seek leave of this House to withdraw the motion that stands in my name of 13th October 2017 in respect of this particular issue of judicial resourcing.

1250 Mr Speaker, the starting point for my contribution, of course, was the original motion that we have now sought leave to withdraw. Both the Minister and I have enjoyed a useful discussion in an attempt to deal with the contents of this motion which has been agreed by way of consensus and agreement. Although we describe it, Mr Speaker, as a joint motion, clearly the Rules do not provide for a joint approach in the way that was suggested and therefore, mechanically it has been done in this way.

1255 Both the Minister of Justice and I met to discuss the redraft. That was circulated and it is our hope, Mr Speaker, that the joint motion will reflect the unquestionable support that this House has for the function and role of the judiciary in our community and the administration of justice.

1260 Mr Speaker, it is of course, common ground that all Members of this House hold in high regard the work being done by our judges to preserve, protect and advance the administration of justice in Gibraltar. Our judges are very ably supported by the work of civil servants and in the Court Service.

1265 Mr Speaker, there is a strong bond between the legal profession, the Courts and many of us in this House, who have the privilege of working in the court environment on each day. Many of us will recall fondly not only our time preparing and appearing before our judges past and present, but also the friendly and efficient interaction with the Court Service and the Registry.

I am sure that both – if she was here – the Minister for Housing and Mr Licudi, who I see here, will remember our many interactions as opponents at the Bar and our almost daily contact in a set of interesting cases which dominated the resources of the Acting Chief Justice as he was then.

1270 Our legal profession, Mr Speaker, our judiciary and our Courts have seen radical changes in the last 16 years. We have all in this House been impressed with the investment that the Minister talked about in his contribution and the redevelopment of our Courts into a modern court complex which by any standard, and from comments that I receive from visiting professional cousins, our Courts are the envy of many of the British Overseas Territories.

1275 Mr Speaker, we have four Supreme Court rooms which can cater for any type of case from complex fraud, international commercial disputes including commercial trust disputes, to serious crimes involving vulnerable witnesses. I am proud of what we have done in respect of the investment into our court infrastructure and our human capital. I am especially proud as a commercial litigator, when I am asked to express a view of our court structure and our judges, and to demonstrate to the outside world the high value and high regard in which our judiciary is held by people abroad.

1280 Mr Speaker, if we are serious – and this was the reason why the original motion was put in that language – about attracting big business to our homeland, then we have to be equally serious about ensuring that we respond accordingly to having a robust judicial resource that can be called upon by litigants to have their disputes adjudicated here. Our legal disputes are becoming more complex, more technical, with values of some cases eclipsing our own GDP. Dealing with cases such as these brings new opportunities to develop our jurisprudence even further and to show to the outside world that we are able to adjudicate important cases that involve the common law. Just as the Cayman, the BVI, Jersey and Guernsey have developed a body of trust law, for instance, so should we.

1285 Mr Speaker, if we are serious about creating more access to justice from those who cannot afford to vindicate their rights in terms of the legal assistance, we will need a robust and flexible justice system that delivers to the ordinary citizen. Mr Speaker, the Government has announced, following a consultation with the legal profession that it intends to increase the threshold for legal assistance from £5,000 to £14,000, which may well see an increase in litigation before our courts.

1290 We should be live to the impact of those reforms on our judicial resources and I think it is appropriate that the Minister, when he has talked to the motion on the second page, has referred to that specifically after our discussion at his offices. This is something that both the Minister and I focused a great deal of time on.

1300 Mr Speaker, I am fortunate, as Mr Licudi, Miss Sacramento and Mr Feetham have, to be involved in very complex and high value litigation, which from time to time places very significant pressures on the resources of our Courts. Members will know that it does not take long for a fairly busy judge to be entirely overtaken by one complex criminal or commercial case.

1305 It is said by the Government and echoed by the Attorney General in his speech at the Opening of the Legal Year, that the number of actions instituted may be down on previous years. That is right, Mr Speaker, but on the ground, cases are becoming more complex and more document heavy than ever before. Therefore, we should be careful to rely solely on statistics in an area which requires a degree of flexibility.

1310 Mr Speaker, the Chairman of the Bar, in the Opening of the Legal Year, said, amongst other things, that the number of cases are only a small and not a decisive indicator of the need for judicial resources nowadays, he said. The lower numbers of cases that hit the Courts are also significantly more complex both in terms of issues that they raise and in terms of the volume of paper that they generate. That requires resources. In a jurisdiction with three or four Supreme Court judges, it is easy to see the emergence of a couple of complex trust matters or a long criminal matter in effect put a judge out of action for a long time.

1315 Mr Speaker, the Chief Justice in his unprecedented statement also said that the judiciary required this degree of flexibility. He said that the workload of the court cannot be measured exclusively by relying upon statistics, but it is also dependent upon the complexity of matters coming before the courts. The Chief Justice went on to say:

‘Because we are demand led, it is also useful to retain an element of flexibility, which the extra judicial resource provides. Therefore, whilst I understand the decision not to fund the post of a third puisne judge at this stage, it is one that I will seek to persuade Her Majesty’s Government to reconsider.’

1325 Mr Speaker, the front-line litigators on both sides of this House will appreciate the force of both points that I have raised on this issue. The motion, Mr Speaker, has been brought to this House on a joint basis and on a collaborative approach, as both sides of this House clearly wish to ensure that our judiciary receives the appropriate support it needs to perform its vital function.

I have set out, Mr Speaker, two practical examples which I hope reflect on the ground views in response to the production of judicial resources. There are of course, important matters of principle that I would just like to raise very shortly... thus far, in terms of the position that has been adopted so far by the Government.

1330 On 17th August, Mr Speaker, the Government said that the reduction of the number of Supreme Court judges will not make our court less agile or robust. Secondly the Government say that the policy of fixed-term judicial appointments was implemented by the GSD. Thirdly, it is said on behalf of the Government that in 2014, a need was identified for a fourth judge to be employed on a temporary fixed-term basis in order to clear the backlog of civil cases in the Supreme Court. Fourthly, Mr Speaker, it was said that the fixed term had come to an end and in the context of Brexit, a fourth judge was deemed unnecessary to the effective working of the Courts.

1340 If I can deal with those particular arguments that were deployed by the Government in this way. Firstly, as regards GSD policy yes, the Government is correct: just as the Government has done, the former GSD administration had utilised fixed-term judicial contracts in line with the Commonwealth Latimer House principles on the three branches of Government.

1345 Latimer House addressed the question of judicial appointments and said judicial appointments should normally be permanent, whilst in some jurisdictions, contract appointments may be inevitable. Such appointments should be subject to appropriate security of tenure. Secondly the appointment judges on fixed-term contracts requires special justification.

1350 Secondly, Mr Speaker, Latimer House acknowledges that fixed-term contracts in small jurisdictions may be inevitable, where there is a shortage of candidates with the legal skills and experience required at that level. However, Mr Speaker, the Venice Commission recommends strongly against the use of fixed-term contract appointments for ordinary judges, due to the concern about judicial independence, although the Commission makes an exception for constitutional judges who are appointed for fixed-term contracts in some European countries.

1355 It is true, Mr Speaker, that the making of non-permanent judicial appointments is controversial and the IBA Minimum Standards of Judicial Independence in 1982 recommended the practice should be avoided as far as possible, except where they exist along democratic tradition.

1360 In summary, Mr Speaker, there is clearly a debate about the efficacy of fixed-term contracts, but I am inclined to agree with the Minister of Justice that in a small place like Gibraltar and in the absence of willing members and senior members of the Bar to be able to make that contribution to our legal precedent, we may need to look beyond our country for suitable candidates on fixed-term appointments. In our view, it is not a question of the efficacy of the fixed-term appointments; it is a question of funding.

1365 This brings me to the second point. The Government has said that with the contract having come to an end, the backlog cleared and in the context of Brexit, a fourth judge has been deemed unnecessary to the effective working of the Courts.

1370 Mr Speaker, as the Minister for Justice did refer to in his contribution, he swore an Oath to this House under section 7 of the Judicial Services Act, which guarantees the respect for the rule of law, defence of the independence of the judiciary and a discharge of his duty to ensure the provision – and this is the key point – provision of resources for the end, for the, and effective support of the Courts.

Mr Speaker, the Chief Justice in his unprecedented statement and the Chairman of the Bar are clear in their views, which I have already repeated to this House and I understand the Minister of Justice also repeated the comments from the opening of the new year.

1375 I know from my dealing with the Government and particularly the Minister of Justice on this issue that they will keep a close eye on judicial resources with close consultation with the Chief Justice, the Bar Counsel and the Bar generally, given the likelihood that they may have to return to a fourth provision within our judiciary.

1380 Mr Speaker, this brings me neatly to the main thrust of the position and that is one of funding, which is an important thread running through. Mr Speaker, Principle IV(b), Guideline 2 of the Latimer House Principles declares the following:

Sufficient and sustainable funding should be provided to enable the judiciary to perform its functions to the highest standards. Such funds once voted for the judiciary by the legislature, should be protected ...

The footnote to that declaration states the following:

The provision of adequate funding for the judiciary must be a very high priority in order to uphold the rule of law, to ensure that good governance and democracy are sustained and to provide for the effective and efficient administration of justice. However, it is acknowledged that a shortfall in anticipated national income might lead to budgetary constraints.

Finance ministries are urged to engage in appropriate consultations in order to set realistic and sustainable budgets where parliaments should approve to ensure adequate funds are available.

1385 Mr Speaker, in summary and although there has been much debate on the question of the fourth judge publicly, we hope that the raising of this issue in this place and the joint collaborative approach adopted by the Government and the Opposition will serve as an example how our continued co-operation on the question of matters that relate to the delivery of justice and access to justice.

1390 Our courts are in many respects the window to the common law world and interactions with business high-end commercial activity is often played out in our courtrooms. It is with this that is at the forefront of our minds, alongside the important legal assistance reforms which demonstrates to many that there is a real requirement for flexibility and the resourcing of our courts.

Mr Speaker, in a number of common law jurisdictions, commercial courts have been established to deal with complex matters and one day, I would like to see our courts being 1395 resourced to that level. Step by step, Mr Speaker, we shall develop but we must ensure that we do not take a step back in the level of judicial resourcing and expertise.

Mr Speaker, I would commend the motion to the House. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to contribute to the debate on this motion?
The Hon. Lawrence Llamas.

1400 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I would just like to say that I am glad that the Brexit context has been taken into account and acknowledged in this House, a context requiring a prudent and sensible approach to the management of the public purse, and I shall hereby support the motion.

1405 Mr Speaker: Any other hon. Member?
I call upon the mover to reply.

1410 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I think it is a very good thing that the whole House has unanimously supported the motion on the administration of justice. I think it shows that there is consensus on this issue. I just want to reply on a few matters that were raised by the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

1415 He said that we should not rely solely on statistics but I want to assure him that that is not the case. I think that statistics are important to the extent that they show that there was a vertiginous drop of I think it was 60% from one year to the other in ordinary civil claims and that from 2015 to 2017, the drop is still something like 40%.

1420 So, although he is right to say that statistics cannot be the only yardstick, and we agree with him completely, it is also true to say that it is a salient fact. But I have given a commitment to the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition, and indeed to Parliament and therefore the wider community, that we will keep a close eye on the potential of complex commercial matters overwhelming the judiciary because there may be interlocutory applications, submission of large volumes of documentation and that therefore, whereas there may be a lower number of civil cases, one or two civil cases could in effect overwhelm a judge more than a particular number of cases.

1425 So we have agreement across the floor of the House that it is not only the number but also the complexity of any particular case, which is why we both say on the face of the motion, that we will keep a particular eye specifically on complex commercial matters and also, the impact on the legal assistance reforms.

1430 I wish to say, in respect of the legal assistance reforms, that there has also been unanimity both from the former Leader of the Bar, which is the Leader of the GSD and also the Chief Justice, during the course of the Opening of the Legal Year, that the legal assistance reforms as currently formulated and put to the community will result in a significant increase in the access to justice, which is why I agree with him entirely that we should have made particular mention of any potential impact on judicial resources that may come from the positive consequence of having more members of our community having access to legal assistance.

1440 He did say, and I really do not want to sound controversial in saying this, during the course of his contribution that 'it is said by Government'. With respect to him, it is not said by Government; it is said by the entirety of this House. It is also said by him, because the motion, although presented in my name on behalf of the Government, also enjoys his support. So all the matters raised in that motion in fact are agreed by all of us.

1445 Therefore, Mr Speaker, I think it is fair to say that in respect of the practice instituted in 2011 of having fixed term appointments, we are persuaded and the hon. Gentleman at the conclusion of his contribution, also said that notwithstanding concerns about the potential impact on access to justice due to the legal assistance reforms, the possibility that the judicial calendar may be overwhelmed as a result of a particularly complex commercial case, as a result of interlocutory applications and so on, that they are inclined to agree with the Government that fixed-term appointments in a small jurisdiction such as ours, are necessary.

1450 He makes the point, and I am going to disagree with him on this point only: he says that it is a question of funding, but with respect to him, for us it has never been about funding. The contract clearly stipulated that the contracting of this particular fourth judge was expressly stipulated within for the short-term needs of the judiciary for a fixed period of time, so that both parties knew that there was a particular period of time in respect of which this fourth judge would be serving the community.

1455 And in that respect, it bears mentioning that the Hon. the Chief Justice himself, in the Opening of the Legal Year, himself says that he did not have any legitimate expectation that the post would continue beyond the three-year term and it was always clear to him that the funding was made to provide for the short-term needs of the judiciary and that this was not a permanent increase to the judicial complement.

1460 As a result, Mr Speaker, it is not that we are taking a step back; it is that we are returning to the usual complement of the Supreme Court, which comprises one Chief Justice and two puisne judges. Therefore, Mr Speaker, for all of the reasons that I have mentioned, I commend the motion to the House. (Banging on desks)

1465 Mr Speaker: I now put the question in the terms of the motion proposed by the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1470 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I am conscious that there are other motions on the Order Paper and I know that hon. Members have been giving indications that they do not wish to progress with them today, given that the time at which we find ourselves makes it impossible for the House to sit for much longer and so, Mr Speaker, I am going to move that the House should now adjourn sine die – with this final thought.

1475 Thirty-seven years ago today, in a parliament in the Iberian Peninsula, shots were fired. Today in this Parliament, the only bullets flying are the words we throw at each other in democratic debate, Mr Speaker, and long may it be so in this place, that we never have to commemorate anything like that, Mr Speaker.

I now move that the House should now adjourn sine die.

1480 Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn sine die.

The House adjourned at 5.17 p.m.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Joint Ministerial Council – Statement by the Chief Minister

Clerk: (iii) Communications from the Chair; (iv) Petitions; (v) Announcements.

10

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to lay on the table the Ombudsman's Annual Report for the year – (Interjection) oh, the statement. Oh, I see, I thought I had to lay on the table first.

15

Mr Speaker, last Thursday, 8th March, the Deputy Chief Minister and I attended the sixth session of the UK-Gibraltar Joint Ministerial Council (JMC), the Gibraltar EU Negotiations Council between Her Majesty's Government of the United Kingdom and Gibraltar on our exit from the European Union.

20

The JMC is the process which the United Kingdom has established to liaise with different relevant administrations in respect of the implementation of the decision to leave the European Union.

25

This sixth meeting was the final meeting ahead of the March European Council Meeting. The meeting was chaired by the Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for Exiting the European Union, the Hon. Robin Walker and during the course of the JMC meeting and in culmination of the work leading up to it, we agreed a series of measures that will ensure that the valued and historic links between the United Kingdom and Gibraltar grow, deepen and endure.

As a result, Mr Speaker, the United Kingdom has now guaranteed Gibraltar Financial Services firms' access to UK markets as now until 2020. This date is important because it is the date being presently set by the EU Commission as the date on which the implementation or transitional period being sought by the United Kingdom will end.

30 As a result of the invidious inclusion by Spain of clause 24 of the European Negotiating Guidelines, some uncertainty has arisen as to the position of the UK and Gibraltar in respect of the application of the withdrawal, transition and future arrangements to Gibraltar. The Government of Gibraltar, Mr Speaker, has already made clear that we consider and are advised that that clause 24 of the Negotiating Guidelines is contrary to European Union Law.

35 The United Kingdom has made clear and is insistent in stating that it is negotiating for the whole of the Member State of the United Kingdom, including Gibraltar. Nonetheless in order to deprive from benefit those who might relish the existence of such uncertainty as a result of the potential exercise of the illegal Spanish veto, Her Majesty's Government of the United Kingdom and of Gibraltar have now made a statement that clarifies and puts beyond doubt that the 40 existing market access arrangements between us would not be affected by the exclusion of Gibraltar from any such transitional period.

Of course, that is not the end of access. The United Kingdom has already – and I repeat, Mr Speaker, already – committed itself to the maintenance and where possible the enhancement of market access for financial services from Gibraltar – indeed, for services from 45 Gibraltar, but that obviously includes financial services.

Indeed, in January of this year, the Secretary of State himself, the Rt Hon. David Davis, made the position of the United Kingdom abundantly clear in terms which cannot be misinterpreted. In his letter to the House of Lords European Union Committee, he said the following:

HMG and GOG intend to pursue a close economic partnership underpinned by shared high standards of regulation. It is the unshakeable objective of the United Kingdom Government to ensure the seamless continuation of existing market access into the UK and enhance it where possible ...

Mr Speaker, that is not a date-limited commitment, and it is just the latest iteration of that 50 commitment to continue to allow market access to the UK after we have left the EU single market. I am not going to repeat each of the times that this wording has been employed by UK Ministers, starting with Secretary of State, Liam Fox during the events of Gibraltar Day in London in October 2016.

So I am able to confirm to this House, as I have already before, that the United Kingdom 55 market will remain open to Gibraltar in financial services even after 2020. No one should be in any legitimate doubt about that. What we are seeking to do – and this goes to mechanism, not to principle – is to ensure that we create mutual confidence in and co-operation on regulatory and supervisory structures for the period beyond 2020.

But the statement last week is about 2020, insofar as it creates that immediate cushion to 60 ensure that our potential illegal and nonsensical exclusion from the transitional period would have no effect as between Gibraltar and the United Kingdom. It does not operate as a limit in any way on the very clear and unequivocal open-ended commitments given by Her Majesty's Government of the United Kingdom to maintain – that is to say keep – and enhance – that is to say improve – market access where possible.

It is as a result of this that the United Kingdom Government will work closely with the 65 Government of Gibraltar to design a replacement framework to endure beyond 2020 based on these shared high standards of regulation and enforcement of this regulation and underpinned by modern arrangements for information sharing, transparency and regulatory co-operation.

Mr Speaker, how will we do that? Well, we intend to carry out an outcomes review to ensure 70 that regulatory outcomes in Gibraltar and the United Kingdom are aligned and designed to ensure consumer protection above all else. And the Gibraltar Order, made under the Financial Services and Markets Act, will be recast and redesigned to ensure that it is modernised and adapted into a bespoke piece of UK legislation that will create the gateway for access into the UK under the new bilateral arrangements.

75 A Gibraltar team has already drafted this in Gibraltar and consideration of this is in train, and is part of the UK general legislation being prepared by Her Majesty's Treasury legal team. [A mobile phone rings.] I can hear one of the devils just next to me, Mr Speaker, already working hard on the Order! (Laughter)

80 This is better than excellent progress at this stage in the game, Mr Speaker, when operators in other jurisdictions do not have any certainty or clarity of what access they may have into the UK marketing services. This is particularly relevant in respect also of services in the on-line gaming industry. Mr Speaker, Gibraltar is the only jurisdiction to have the benefit of a firm UK commitment on continued market access after we leave the European Union.

85 Specifically, the UK has provided assurances that gambling operators based in Gibraltar will continue to access the UK market after we leave the EU in the same way as they do now. This is an important advantage for Gibraltar as no other EU jurisdiction at all can boast such a clear and unequivocal statement of continued market access post Brexit.

Additionally, we are working towards agreement of an MOU which will enable closer working and collaboration between gambling regulators in Gibraltar and the UK.

90 Further, Mr Speaker, and moving on to other areas, the UK has provided assurances to the Government of Gibraltar that following EU exit, British citizens resident in Gibraltar will continue to be eligible for higher educational home fee status at English institutions, both during the implementation period and afterwards, subject to concluding a reciprocal agreement for UK students studying at higher education institutions in Gibraltar.

95 Mr Speaker, hon. Members should note that higher education is an area of devolution and that therefore the UK Government is not able to enter into arrangements for the devolved administrations. That is why this commitment is expressed as being for England only. We are already pursuing the matter also with the other devolved administrations.

100 But just to give the House a flavour of what has been agreed, there are 867 undergraduate and postgraduate students from Gibraltar in England. To help the House to understand the value of what was agreed in the JMC last week, the average yearly tuition fees for home and EU undergraduate students undertaking standard courses at English universities is £9,250.

The average yearly tuition fee for overseas students undertaking standard undergraduate courses in English universities is £14,463.

105 The average yearly tuition fees for home students undertaking postgraduate courses at English universities is £9,974.

The average yearly tuition fee for overseas students undertaking postgraduate courses at English universities is £16,100.

110 The difference between the overseas undergraduate fees and the home undergraduate fees, is £5,213, whereas the difference between the overseas postgraduate fees and the home postgraduate fees is £6,126.

In order to calculate the difference in value between our students being charged an overseas fee or a home fee, we have relied on the under graduate calculations only, which are the predominant ones involved, which amounts to a total saving of £4.5 million – £4,519,671.

115 Mr Speaker, for the information of hon. Members, there are at the moment 108 Gibraltar scholarship students in Welsh universities and 15 in Scottish universities. There is one student studying in Northern Ireland.

120 Mr Speaker, we have also agreed that the United Kingdom is committed to work closely with the Government of Gibraltar towards transfer arrangements post EU exit that support Gibraltar's prosperity.

The UK will also maintain the current reciprocal health care arrangements between the UK and Gibraltar. This means that Gibraltar can continue to refer an unlimited number of their patients to the UK for free elective treatment.

125 The UK remains committed to fully involving Gibraltar as we leave the European Union and we will continue to work together through the JMC process to ensure we take account entirely of Gibraltar's priorities in the context of the United Kingdom's negotiations with the EU.

130 Additionally, the United Kingdom and Gibraltar have agreed to recognise the importance of enhancing our liaison on all of the environmental and fisheries implications of EU exit that are relevant to Gibraltar whether by sharing information as openly as possible by providing specialist expertise across a range of policy areas to support Gibraltar with its own preparations or by considering with Gibraltar where our interests might be promoted in future through regional or international arrangements.

135 Mr Speaker, this announcement and the benefit it brings is the fruit of hard work. The Brexit team I lead has worked flat out these past 18 months. There is a lot still to do. The Deputy Chief Minister has been fully engaged on these matters, together with the Minister for Financial Services and Gaming. All other Ministers are providing detailed input in respect of the areas of responsibility on which their input is required.

140 The Attorney General is part of that team and is leading on the European aspects of the legal work. The Financial Secretary is dealing with matters that relate to his area of expertise. This work, Mr Speaker, is therefore the work product of an administration that has got its teeth into Brexit, although it was not the dish we chose from the menu presented to us.

145 Finally, Mr Speaker, it would be remiss of me not to also thank the Prime Minister, the Chancellor, the Foreign Secretary and the Secretary of State for leaving the European Union for their support in delivering this enduring packet of measures.

I must also thank the Gibraltar team of officials in the Foreign Office and in the Department for Exiting the European Union for their work in delivering these measures. We are working honestly, openly and closely together to deliver results that work for the people of the United Kingdom and the people of Gibraltar.

150 We will continue to do so successfully as we finalise the process of our departure from the European Union. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

155 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, whilst we broadly welcome this announcement by the Government as an interim package of measures that have been negotiated with the British Government and we note the Chief Minister's comment in relation to the open-ended mechanism in order to maintain and further enhance our access to specific markets, we also welcome the commitments in relation to gaming, health and particularly in education. But of course, education, every Government has always committed to the payment of tuition fees and 160 maintenance grants for our students in the United Kingdom. What I would say about that is that we are clearly paying what we have already paid before in the past and we are committed to doing so.

165 Insofar as the Government's Statement, of course we remain cautious in respect of the commitment up until 2020 and what we have said fairly publicly in relation to that is that in the last two years the Government has, by its own admission, worked flat out in relation to this question on Brexit. But we would have thought, certainly on this side of the House, that we would have had a stronger commitment moving forward from 2020, although it is appreciated, the new words being echoed from the Government now in relation to open-ended arrangements and the maintenance of the status quo and enhancement of those arrangements.

170 One thing that I would like to point out, Mr Speaker, is in relation to the cross-border situation as well: that we have certainly noted that there needs to be an increase in our cooperation with our neighbours because ultimately when we are dealing with the very large issues that affects all of us in relation to Brexit, of course we need to maintain those relationships that the Chief Minister has spoken about previously – relationships of 175 consanguinity, I think is the word that he used, and commercial and business relationships across the frontier.

Mr Speaker, we broadly support and welcome the statements by the Government particularly in relation to financial services but we again echo our concerns and a note of caution moving forward from 2020.

180 I would also mention, Mr Speaker, that when you speak to the normal man and woman on the street in relation to Brexit, their concern of course is that the Chief Minister and his team navigate us safely through this storm that we appear to be in the middle of, Mr Speaker. But the concerns of the man and woman on the street are, again, repeated to me daily and to my colleagues about domestic issues that affect them and their families, Mr Speaker. Although I 185 understand that the Chief Minister and his colleagues have been working flat out in respect of Brexit, it does mean that there needs to be also an increased focus, and I would respectfully encourage the Government to continue to focus on the domestic agenda and the concerns of normal working families during this Brexit situation and reconciliation with the United Kingdom Government when we come to further arrangements.

190

Mr Speaker: When the Chief Minister makes a statement of this nature, the practice is to allow the Leader of the Opposition to make a short statement in reply and to ask any questions of clarification that he may consider necessary.

I can also extend the practice of allowing questions for clarification purposes to any other 195 Member of the Opposition who may wish to do so.

No, we will then proceed with the next item on the Agenda.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have been asked for clarification.

Mr Speaker: Yes, okay.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the hon. Gentleman recognising the work that has been done by the Government in respect of these matters and I will deal with his final point at the end.

205 But the broad welcome that hon. Members give seems to be tainted by some suggestion that some aspect of what has been announced by the United Kingdom is limited to 2020. Hon. Members opposite have, through the Leader of the Opposition, expressed a desire that given all the hard work we have done already, we would already have a mechanism that would endure beyond 2020.

210

Well, Mr Speaker, I want to clarify the position by saying again that there is a mechanism for all financial services and other services that are presently provided from Gibraltar into the United Kingdom to continue to be provided into the United Kingdom. That is the unshakeable commitment of the UK Government, not on a time limited basis. That is why I explained to hon. Members, Mr Speaker, that the issue of 2020 was as to mechanism, not as to principle.

215

And so what the hon. Gentleman tells me he wished we had achieved, I am confirming to him again we have achieved, Mr Speaker, because that is the way that the Secretary of State for Exiting the European Union and the Secretary of State for International Trade and one of the Principal Under Secretaries at the Department for Exiting the European Union, Steven Baker, have specifically expressed the commitment. The time limitation has come in not as a limitation of principle; it is because the mechanisms that we have in place are the mechanisms that will be in place until then, and there will be other mechanisms in place in respect of thereafter because those will be the purely bilateral mechanisms, Mr Speaker.

220

What we are saying is we are holding the ring on the single market terms of access until 2020 and we are agreed there will be continued access after that. That is the unshakeable commitment and these are not new words. As the hon. Gentleman has said, these are words 225 that come from January 2018, from December 2017 and from October 2016 and that is why, 230 Mr Speaker, I was surprised that hon. Members felt they had to somehow caveat their welcome in a way that might be picked up by some operators in the market who might think that there is not the certainty that there clearly, unshakeably is in respect of access by companies in Gibraltar doing financial services business beyond 2020.

One might have to ask themselves why it is that anybody would want to create any uncertainty in that respect. We know that the Spanish wanted to do that, but I would wonder why it would be that anybody in this House would want to do that. So I am going to assume that that is what the hon. Member did not intend to do.

235 On the issue of education, Mr Speaker, the hon. gentleman says that this is just a continued commitment to pay the amount that has been paid. Again, Mr Speaker, I have to clarify to him that that is not what we are dealing with. What we are dealing with was the potential that Gibraltar students could be charged overseas student rates once we leave the European Union and what we have achieved, Mr Speaker, is that Gibraltar students, Gibraltar 240 scholarship students in the United Kingdom after Brexit, will continue to be charged as home students and therefore, the £4.5 million is money saved if the numbers stay the same.

So it is not just we are just confirming the commitment to continue to pay what we have paid; it is that we have been able to avoid, or avoid any uncertainty as to whether that would be increased by 50%, Mr Speaker.

245 Finally, Mr Speaker, I am always very happy when people remind me that apart from Brexit, there are domestic issues to deal with because I do not want to deal with Brexit. I do not enjoy dealing with Brexit, we do not want to leave the European Union but we are having to deal with it. But I do enjoy my domestic issues, Mr Speaker, because I was elected by the people of Gibraltar to serve them and that is what I principally do in the role that I discharge.

250 So, therefore, Mr Speaker, I do not need reminding that the Government of Gibraltar needs to deal with domestic issues. We are not a centralised Government. We have ten Ministers: two of us are dealing principally with Brexit; other Ministers are dealing with all the other matters that are relevant in domestic politics in Gibraltar.

255 But I do have to say, Mr Speaker, that it is slightly peculiar to be told one day that you have to continue to deal with the domestic issues and not forget them by the same person who told me six months ago, we were not doing enough on education and told me three months ago, we were doing too much, too fast, Mr Speaker. We will keep going. (Banging on desks)

265 We begin with Question 202, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes. Mr Speaker, further to the answer provided to Question 98/2018, can the Minister for Sport update this House in respect of the Grade 9 (Administrative Assistant) post which was vacant within the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority?

270

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the vacant Grade 9 (Administrative Assistant) post which is currently vacant within the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority is being covered temporarily by a supply worker via S&K Recruitment.

275

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, Mr Speaker. Last time the Minister also said that the applications for the post had been invited. Is the Minister aware now – I think we can take it for granted that the closing date has gone past – of any details in respect of number of applicants and when the selection is expected to be completed?

280

Hon. S E Linares: Not at this moment, Mr Speaker.

Q203/2018

290

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

295 Clerk: Question 204, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Sports inform this House how many cancellations have been necessary at any of the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority's facilities since the answer provided to Question No.100 of 2018; indicating the location, date and reason for the cancellation?
300

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, further to the answer provided in Question 100/2018, the use of the Victoria Sports Hall was cancelled due to water ingress on 7th March 2018.
305

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, from that answer that the Minister has given, it is just one date, yet some feedback from sports users, for example the Netball Association, seem to have had more than one days cancellation. Is there misinformation coming my way somewhere?
310

Hon. S E Linares: No, sir.

Q205/2018

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority – Payments made by GFA for Victoria Stadium facilities

Clerk: Question 205, the Hon. E J Reyes.

315 Hon. E J Reyes: Further to the answer provided to Question 103/2018, can the Minister for Sport update this House with details of payments made to date by the Gibraltar Football Association in respect of all facilities which they lease at Victoria Stadium and which are due within this current financial year?

320 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, no payments have been made by the Gibraltar Football Association as, to date, the sale of the footprint in question has not been effected.
325

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for his answer. As he is fully aware, part payments was due of £10 million this financial year, out of the £16.5 million of which most of that, as I stated previously, was going to go towards paying for the new facilities at Europa Point and Lathbury Barracks.
330

Is the Minister confident that these payments will be received and if so, when?

Hon. S E Linares: Before the end of the financial year.

Q206/2018

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority –
Floodlights failure at Victoria Stadium

Clerk: Question 206, the Hon. E J Reyes.

335 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Sports provide details in respect of the floodlights failure at Victoria Stadium since 1st January 2018; indicating the dates when such failures occurred, the length of time taken to correct the floodlights deficit and what action if any has been taken to try and avoid these reoccurrences.

340 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, floodlight failures occurred this past weekend commencing on Saturday, 3rd March when the last fixture needed to be called off due to a couple of fuses blowing.

345 Patch-up works were carried out, however, an investigation into the problem was severely hindered with the torrential rain experienced over the weekend.

Both evening fixtures on Sunday and the last fixture on Monday were cancelled. In total, four fixtures were postponed.

350 The problem was fully assessed on Tuesday 6th March and the contractor has lowered the output by switching off a few bulbs in order for the existing infrastructure to cater for the light on offer.

A quote has been approved for a new switch fuse to be installed for the East side pylons in order to up the power supply and cater for the floodlights to work at full capacity. The switch will arrive in the next ten days.

Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

360 A couple of things arising from there. First of all am I correct in assuming, because I asked about floodlight failures at Victoria Stadium that the references and the failures have only occurred in what is commonly known as the football pitch or pitch number one. And then I think the Minister as well in his answer said that a quote had been approved. Can he enlighten us as to the figure of that quote?

365 Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, he has not asked that specifically in the question so I do not have that information, but I could easily pass it to him at his convenience. Because we do have a three-quote system when we go through quotes and so yes, I have not got the information for him but I can give it to him.

370 Hon. E J Reyes: And the other part, I think the Minister was nodding yes, but I am not entirely certain. Can we confirm that the power failure was restricted to pitch number one, the main football pitch?

Hon. S E Linares: Yes, sir.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Roy Clinton.

375

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Can I ask the Minister, given that the entire complex is going to be sold to the GFA within the next two weeks, where does the responsibility for maintenance for these lights lie in the future?

380 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, we are still in negotiation with the GFA on how we are going to approach that.

Q207/2018

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

390 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Yes, Mr Speaker, I now hand over to the hon. Member opposite a schedule in respect of all payments made during this current financial year in respect of any sports related grants.

Mr Speaker: Could I ask the Minister, is this information on the Government website?

Hon. S E Linares: Yes, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: Then there is no need to provide an answer here and take up Parliament's time unnecessarily.

Hon. E J Reyes: I know that the Minister, today he has not said it. In the past he has told me that the information is available on the website. As I was preparing for Parliament the Government website was not up and running and therefore I could not access this information, Mr Speaker.

400

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, the information is always updated in the website. It could well coincide that we have Question Time and it is not uploaded, but it is always uploaded once we have the Parliament because the questions might have been put a week ago and therefore, during that week they are updated and they are constantly updated.

405

Mr Speaker: Does the hon. Member have any supplementary arising from the schedule he has been provided?

410

Hon. E J Reyes: It being a lengthy one, Mr Speaker, would you indulge me the privilege as you have done in the past – if I see in a few minute's time I have something arising from it I will then ask? Because it is one and a half pages of details and I need to do a quick comparison in case I cannot identify a particular item.

415

Mr Speaker: Okay. Next question.

Q209/2018
Skate park –
Update on current status

Clerk: Question 209, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

435

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can Government update the House on the current status of the skate park?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

440

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the skate park currently located at the east side of the Victoria Stadium is open daily from approximately 8 a.m. until 10.30 p.m. This skate park falls within the footprint of land soon to be sold to the Gibraltar Football Association.

445

The Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority are working closely with the Gibraltar Skating Association with regard to a new site for the skate park. Skate park installers have already been approached to provide conceptual designs.

450

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I thank the hon. Member for his answer, but if I may just say that I was approached by some young lads who made representations to me about the closure of the skate park. I will take his word for it if it is open but if these young teens are telling me that they are not finding it open, could it be that it has been down temporarily for maintenance? Because from their point of view they do not seem to find access to it.

455

Hon. S E Linares: No, Mr Speaker, the only reason that – and I am thinking aloud – that might have happened is that cars might have been parked in front and therefore they could not have access or that the lorries had been loading and uploading and they have not been able to go in. But I know because I attend that place quite often and it is usually open from eight o'clock in the morning to 10.30 at night.

460

The fact that maybe one or two youngsters might not be able to access on one given day, because a car might be parked or lorries might be unloading or anything like that, is a bit unfortunate. But I can tell the hon. Lady also that we are satisfied with what we have got now but we are going to make it much better. We are going to make a skate park, because like I said, I have already had representation from the skating fraternity/association, young people coming to my office, wanting this skate park – and some of them who are not even members of the association have approached me on this matter.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one supplementary question, because the Minister has raised the question of possible blocking of cars at the skate park. It is something I experienced yesterday when I was watching my son run and I know that the Chief Minister also attends that area on a frequent basis and I think the Chief Minister will probably agree with me in respect of this point, that the traffic issue there is horrendous. It has been a difficult one for many, many parents who experience that.

475

I suspect that the reason why many of these children cannot access the skating park is because of the very, very difficult drop off parking issues concerning that particular area and I was wondering whether the Minister knew, in order to alleviate the issues clearly to the skate park but to other parents who drop off their children or indeed try to park in order to watch their children play sports, whether the Government had any solution to that in the interim period before that area is sold off.

480

Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, there has been a solution of sorts, because if you look now at the way the parking slots have been painted, there is a circulation in order to come in and out. But one cannot stop parents who stop the car in the middle of what is supposed to be flowing. You drop off your child, you then drive round where the cars are parked in the middle. But sometimes parents are – I would not say inconsiderate, but they are in a rush or they want to see their children in and therefore park the car in the middle. These are things that we can mitigate as much as we can but there are times when there is no actual solution.

485

Q210-211/2018

Football pitch and play park, Moorish Castle Estate – Restoration

Clerk: Question 210, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

490

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Does Government intend to restore the football pitch in Moorish Castle Estate to working order?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

495

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 211/2018.

Clerk: Question 211, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

500

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Does Government have intentions to restore the play park at Moorish Castle Estate to working order?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

505

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the football pitch within Moorish Castle Estate is currently being used as a lay down/storage area by GJBS Ltd under the Major Works Refurbishment Project and will be refurbished to a standard which is fit for purpose.

510

With regard to the play parks, there are two parks within the confines of Moorish Castle Estate. One is located within the vicinity of Key House and is open for use. The other play park is located behind Tarik House and Wall House and has been closed for a very long time. This particular park is currently part of the works envisaged under the Major Refurbishment Works Project to the estate.

These works are scheduled to commence shortly.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I thank the hon. Member for his answer. On the question of the football pitch, from what I understand – of course like he says, it is to do with using it as a depot for the construction materials – but I know that it has been out of use for apparently about three years and the children there are desperate to be able to get it back and play and have somewhere where they can physically do some exercise.

520

Is there any way that the Minister could maybe relocate that construction equipment because it has been a very long time and these children, effectively they are in the upper town and they need to exercise a little bit and are really desperate to get it back, so I am echoing their sentiments?

525 And on Question 211 it is the same, is there any way that they could recoup these areas so that they can actually have a bit of extra sport and leisurely time up there?

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, I cannot agree more about what the hon. Lady is saying. I do completely agree. Again I go there often because we have the Plater Youth Club – I know she is 530 going round seeing the youth clubs and all the good work that the youth service do and these are the things that the young people who go to the youth club say that they cannot play football and all that.

But it is one of those things that we try and mitigate as best we can and all I can do is to try and say to the contractors, 'Could you please finish as quickly as possible' so that the children 535 can have these playgrounds back. Other than that, there is not much more that I can do.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Sorry to harp on. So the Minister is saying that there is no way to find another location to store construction equipment for the moment, right?

540 Hon. S E Linares: Not that I know of.

Mr Speaker: Next question. Yes, the Hon. Mr Reyes.

Q207/2018
Sports related grants –
Supplementary questions

Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker. With your leave, can I make a quick reference back to the answer of Question 207.

545 I am very grateful because as the Minister and I have spoken last time, it is now consolidated under the same headings.

One small question, Mr Speaker, there is a payment under 'Grants awarded for hosting of Special Sports and Leisure Events' of £5,965, classified as Gold Coast Expenses, which is the same as the previous time. But on the next page under 'Sports grants awarded for International Competitions', it says Commonwealth Games, £42,000. Surely those Commonwealth Games are 550 the same, unless the location has changed, is the same as the Gold Coast which is happening now, so I am a bit sort of uncertain of why they are separate rather than having them both together, like for example the Minister has decided to do for Target Shooting and the Shooting Association because they are all shooting related. So that one gives me an uneasiness of exactly 555 what is what.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I am not fully aware of why that is. I will be asking the question myself, but I am sure it is something to do with the actual games which is not payment to the association itself. It could well be some sort 560 of ... to the International Association or maybe the Gold Coast organisers or something like that, but I will ask.

Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker. So if the Minister, when he does have an answer could inform me of that. Could I also query something because I had queried it last time?

565 There are some expenses given in the answer to Question 101/2018 where the three related to extra cleaning services. One was for the Gibraltar Song Festival and the other was for the boxing event and the other one was for the Philharmonic event and I do not see them in the answer to Question 207. It could be that they have been changed over to another sub-head. If the Minister has information on that it would clarify matters.

570 Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, because he actually mentioned that to me last time and he was absolutely right because it should not have been here, it has actually been moved from here to another head and therefore it does not appear here anymore. Because in fact when I did get the original schedule there were these things in it and I said they should not be here and that is why they were removed.

575

Q210-211/2018

Football pitch and play park, Moorish Castle Estate –
Supplementary questions

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I go back to the Plater Youth Club question the hon. Lady asked. I am just slightly worried by the answer that the hon. Gentleman gave.

Is the Government's position that there is nowhere else in Gibraltar where they can store this material and it has to by necessity go in an area that has previously been used by the youth of that area to basically enjoy their activities?

And if that is the case, when does the Government expect that state of affairs to end because surely, we cannot have a situation where that just simply continues open-endedly?

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, as to the first part of his question, if the materials are to be used in Moorish Castle, I would assume that there is no other place in Gibraltar to put them other than in Moorish Castle Estate. They would not be stocked up somewhere else as opposed to in Moorish Castle.

But I do accept that these are works which are unprecedented works that we are doing which should have been done nearly 20 years ago, when he was in Government, and they were not done. Now we are doing them, we are fixing up all the estates and these are the consequences sometimes of trying to fix up the estate.

590

Like I said in my answer to the hon. Lady, I will try and pressurise the contractor to hurry up and get on with it, so that the children do get that playground back.

Hon. Chief Minister: I think I am the only person that used to play in that particular playground!

595

605 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 213/2018.

Mr Speaker: May I ask the hon. Minister to check the first part of his answer: financial year 2016 and 2018 for Site Trading he gave 10/03/18 – is that correct or should it be 10/03/17?

640 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, is it financial year 2016-17? (Mr Speaker: Yes.) Site Trading, £1,048 –

Mr Speaker: The next one.

645

Hon. S E Linares: £732.00.

Mr Speaker: 10/03/18 you have got as the date. That is not the financial year 2016-17. Should it be, if that is correct, it is not that – I am just asking should it be 2018 or 2017?

650

Hon. S E Linares: It should be 2017 because it is in March, so it is wrong, yes. So therefore, can I just say that if the hon. Member just amends that from 2018 to 2017.
Thank you, Mr Speaker.

655 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, in relation to these works, given that there are different companies and contractors undertaking these works, is it a fact that these works are different and unrelated to each other or is it possible that a company is repairing works done by another contractor?

660 Hon. S E Linares: No, Mr Speaker, this is a system which the hon. Member usually asks us about, do we go out to tender and it is a question of getting three quotes from different companies to do the works. So when we identify the problem, companies are called in, they submit their quotations and then we decide which one is the value for money and the one we pick. That is why you get different companies coming in. That is the answer, it is the three-quote system that we use so that we give a chance to all the companies to bid in.

INFRASTRUCTURE AND PLANNING

Q272-277/2018

Rock falls in various locations – Risk assessments made; planned mitigation

665 Clerk: We now move to Question 272, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, were any assessments made of the risk and impact of rock falls on Beach View Terraces prior to the construction and if so, by whom were they approved?

670 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 273 to 277.

675 Clerk: Question 273, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Prior to the rock fall that occurred on 2nd March onto Devil's Tower Road, had any surveys of the rock in that area been conducted recently and if so, when?

680 Clerk: Question 274, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: What measures are Government intending to take to mitigate the risk of further rock falls landing on Devil's Tower Road?

685 Clerk: Question 275, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Is Government intending to provide improved alternate access for the residents of Beach View Terrace to mitigate the impact of any further rock falls in this area.

690 Clerk: Question 276, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: With the planned construction of a visitor centre in almost the exact location of where the largest rock fell, is Government satisfied that it is safe to proceed with this project as planned or are further measures required to ensure public safety?

695 Clerk: Question 277, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state how many checks/tests were conducted on the rock face and other areas which are prone to or present a risk of injury or damage to property from rock falls over the last 24 months?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the Beach View Terraces development falls a considerable distance away from known rock fall trajectories from the rock face.

When the development was reviewed by the Technical Services Department in 2013 there was no reason to suggest that the development was at any risk of the impact of rock falls.

This conclusion was reached on the strength of reports carried out in 2005 and 2009 when works were being considered on the Aerial Farm site. These clearly showed that rock fall trajectories were contained well within the Aerial Farm site.

710

Various studies have been commissioned in the area of the Aerial Farm between the North Face and Devil's Tower Road. These have included the following: in 2005 there was a Golder Report for Bassadone Motors for the development of the site; in 2009 a Golder Letter Report for Government for use of site for storage of rubble; in 2014 a Golder Scoping Study for the wine vaults site; in 2014 a Golder Report for Government following a major rock fall of December 2014.

715

Following the rock fall of 2nd March 2018, Technical Services Department carried out a visual inspection of the North Face together with Golder Associates to determine the possible causes of the rock fall and identify immediate and longer-term solutions to mitigate the risk of further rock falls in the area.

720

The initial assessment has concluded that the rock fall has occurred from a similar area to the rock fall of 2014 and it appears that the residual risk of further rock fall from that location is small.

The rock fall trajectory modelling carried out in the past, together with observation of recent rock fall patterns, provides confidence that primary rock falls are contained within the Aerial Farm site. There is, however, some concern on the effects of fly rock from rocks shattering upon impact.

725

In the first instance, a robust hoarding will be constructed along the boundary of the site to contain the fly rock. This will then be followed by a more detailed survey of the rock face to determine whether large magnitude rock falls are likely. This will then provide information on the type and extent of mitigation measures which can be put in place to reduce the impact of further rock falls as much as possible.

730

Although it is still too soon to say what these mitigation measures will be, it is likely that they will include ditches and screens to minimise the impact of further rock falls as much as reasonably possible.

735

Mr Speaker, in light of the recent rock fall event, HM Government of Gibraltar can confirm that it is considering keeping the rear access to Beach View Terraces that was created following the rock fall, as an emergency relief road.

Mr Speaker, as part of the planning process, all developments which are proposed within a known rock fall area are required to engage a reputable geotechnical engineering consultant, who would need to be approved by the Government, to carry out the necessary risk assessments for the proposed development and provide advice on any works that may be considered necessary to allow the development to proceed and to ensure its continued stability and safety thereafter.

740

Further discussions will be carried out with the developer as initial proposals for the visitor centre did clearly not anticipate the magnitude of rock fall which occurred on 2nd March 2018.

745

It is important to try and identify the residual risks of further rock falls and whether the initial proposals to mitigate these risks are acceptable in the long term.

750 Mr Speaker, over the past 24 months numerous inspections have been carried out by the Technical Services Department on a number of cliff faces around Gibraltar. These have mainly been carried out at the Upper Rock Nature Reserve in areas which have included Signal Station Road, Engineer Road, the Apes Den and Mediterranean Steps. Other areas have included Green Lane which is currently still closed off to vehicular traffic as a result of the known risk of rock falls in the area.

755 Other study areas carried out by the Technical Services Department have included the East Side Slopes and this has seen the construction of two sections of high capacity rock catch fences being installed at the base of the slopes just to the south of Both Worlds. Both these phases have seen the construction of 50m lengths of high capacity fence with total construction costs of just over £300,000 for each phase. This clearly demonstrates Government's continued commitment to the issue of rock safety.

760 Mr Speaker, the Rock of Gibraltar is a live geological feature with a number of geological faults and different rock strata. The total surface area of the cliffs surrounding Gibraltar and the various and often complex mechanisms that trigger rock falls make it an impossible task to predict, and therefore mitigate against every rock fall event which can take place.

765 The Technical Services Department, who has responsibility for rock safety, therefore focus their efforts on those areas where there is a known history of rock falls and where the impact of these would be greatest on the general public. They also react to rock fall events as they occur and where necessary and provide additional measures to reduce the impact of these.

770 It must also be noted that for almost 20 years, responsibility for mitigating against the effects of rock falls has fallen on developers who wish to develop in areas in which there is a known rock fall hazard. As previously mentioned, part of the planning process is to engage a reputable geotechnical engineering consultant, who would need to be approved by the Government.

Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar is fully committed to the issue of mitigating against the risk of rock fall and will continue to invest in this area as they have done so far.

775 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just in relation to my Question 277, I think I asked the Minister how many checks/tests were conducted and he described it, I think the answer was 'numerous'. But does the Minister have any further information in relation to the numbers? That is the nature of my question 780 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I have laid out the locations as to how many in each specific location. The total amounts I have not got figures for. Needless to say, numerous studies have been carried out in all those locations that I mentioned previously in the question.

785 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the Hon. Minister mentioned two reports, one in 2005 and one in 2009. Can the Minister confirm who commissioned those reports?

790 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, what normally happens as I said in my reply is that when a developer wishes to develop a certain site, it is they who consult and get a geotechnical engineer to provide them with the information necessary. That is the procedure and it is based upon that report as to what is done. It is their responsibility otherwise they cannot progress along the planning process.

795 Hon. E J Phillips: So in other words, Mr Speaker, the assessment of particularly vulnerable parts of the rock, insofar as the health and safety of people and potential damage to property, is only assessed when developers are considering using sites for development?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker no, this is ongoing. But when there is a specific application for a specific site then there is a very detailed study which is carried out by a consultant approved by 800 Government. In this case, one that Government has used for many, many years has been Golder Associates.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I think Golder's deal with environmental ground engineering remediation and deal specifically with governments in relation to risk concerning complex geological features, such as our Rock.

805 One question I would have in relation to that of course is I have asked how many, is the Government satisfied that we have the necessary expertise, technical expertise within Technical Services, to carry out these tests and checks on either the North Face and other parts of Gibraltar, because clearly, as a huge geological feature, certainly on this side of the House, I 810 would expect that we have very detailed knowledge and expertise in relation to the Rock itself, given that it is a huge geological feature and is a complex geological feature that we have lived with for generations.

Is the Government satisfied as to the level of expertise and experience that we have in terms of testing in response to potential rock falls and any health and safety risks associated with falls?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, for years and years this is the way ... The Technical Services Department is as expert as they possibly can be in numerous fields within the civil engineering and engineering specialities. But when it comes to specifically to rock falls, this is why companies like Golders are engaged for this purpose.

820 So if they feel that by inspection there is a certain risk or they can see that there is something not right, then the fall-back position would be to seek the advice of the consultants. And as you said yourself, it is Golder's who are considered the experts and approved by Government for this purpose.

825 Hon. E J Phillips: The reason why I asked those sets of questions relate to the fact that clearly, the reports of 2005 and 2009 commissioned by developers, I think referred to by the Minister as the Golder's Report, clearly demonstrate that there was no risk of rock fall trajectory insofar as what we have experienced of late.

Therefore, the risk that was exposed clearly was not foreseen in the context of the Golder's
830 Report and therefore you will understand and appreciate the concern obviously by many of our residents and certainly from this side of the House, that we are trying to drill down on what types of assessments are made to the North Face and other parts of Gibraltar that present a risk to injury and therefore, that is the type of question that we have been asking the Minister and that is why we would like very specific answers to our questions regarding the numbers of tests 835 and how invasive these tests are in relation to particularly vulnerable spots.

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman wishes a detailed schedule of all the different dates that can be provided, but I do not have that information with me.

840 But rock falls have changed in time, we have never experienced the size of a rock fall that we have recently. There was 700 tonnes of rock which fell on this occasion. The previous rock fall in 2014 I think I said was 500 tonnes, so this has been the largest rock fall.

845 And when rocks do fall, generally the rock falls and we can predict where it is going to fall, but the issue of fly rock, which is what has happened on the past two occasions, is something new to us in that respect, so it is not where the rock falls; it is where splinters reach to and that is a new phenomenon because we have not seen the magnitude of rocks falls that we are seeing now.

In the past they have been much smaller rock falls in different areas where the height has been less, but you look up to the rock face and you do not know when or if ever, there is going to be another rock fall and it is impossible to see exactly whether there will a lot ever be another 850 rock fall again or whether there will not.

855 The consultants in their preliminary studies have looked at the rock face and they think – and again it is just an opinion because we can never guarantee this – that what has fallen it is good that it has fallen because if anything that was what was remaining there that could have fallen and they believe that the risk is substantially reduced now but then we cannot say that it is never going to happen again.

So it is something which is ... but we do live very close to the rock and there are many estates that surround the Rock and there is a happy balance, what we must ensure is that the people who work and live in the area are sufficiently outside of the area so that when rocks do fall they fall where they should.

860 But again, it is very difficult for us to predict these things. It is like living beside the sea and you do not know when the next hundred-year storm is going to hit the shores and sweep part of ... so it is one of those things.

865 Hon. E J Phillips: Whilst I appreciate the explanation, Mr Speaker, that the Minister has given in relation to the new phenomenon of large rocks falling in our community – (Interjection) It was described by the Minister himself as a new phenomenon. (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister) Therefore what I would say - 870 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if the hon. Gentleman will give way, what the hon. Member has said is that fly rock is a new phenomenon. Fly rock, Mr Speaker, is when a large rock falls, splits and then when it splits, the shrapnel flies from there. It is not that falling rock is a new thing; it is the impact followed by shrapnel is something that had not been assessed. That is what the hon. Member said.

875 Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the assistance of the Chief Minister and the technical expertise on fly rock and how it splits. But, Mr Speaker, generally speaking, people that come to us and speak to us about the new phenomenon in splitting rock on our roads, Mr Speaker, is the Government commissioning an extensive review of significantly prone areas to rock falls or splitting rocks across our roads, so that the community generally can be reassured as much as possible and reduce the mitigation possible to injury, to personal injury or damage to property.

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member has mentioned this phenomenon – I did not actually say the word ‘phenomenon’, it was not the word I mentioned – but the reason why this has not happened before is because our rock falls in the past have been significantly smaller.

885 So when there is a couple of tonnes that fall, it is just absorbed by the earth below it and that is the end of it. But when you consider what 700 tonnes of stone and the power that comes down at about 10 metres per second acceleration, when it hits the ground – I mean this has never happened before, save back in 2015 I think I mentioned, so it is a new phenomenon, if you want to call it that, because we have never had rock falls of this size before.

890 But the process of what Technical Services do, because it is the responsibility of Technical Services, they are constantly looking at the Rock but the Rock is huge, although it is small compared to our geology around us – it is a huge rock and at risk, it is always at risk and to be able to identify and to actually see where potentially the next rock could fall is very, very difficult.

895 It is impossible, and anything can cause a rock fall, for example even a bird nesting in the rock can cause rocks to fall; even trees growing, the roots could cause rock fall. There are also times of the year when it is raining, as it has been raining, bad weather: statistically that is when rock falls do occur and that is when we are most vigilant in that respect.

900 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I would like to ask a question. Bottom line, had there been a tragedy or had there been loss of life or even substantial damage to human life, who would have borne the consequences of this, the Government, the contractor, where does the buck stop here?

905 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, the hon. Lady is asking us a hypothetical question and I think we all agree it is a good thing that it is a hypothetical question.

But there are some things that we cannot plan for and unfortunately there are clauses in contracts of insurance which used to be known as the clause on act of God, which is also described as a force majeure clause, where what we are dealing with is something that is a natural event that is unforeseeable.

910 And, Mr Speaker, short of planning for the whole of the North Face to fall, it is impossible to do anything other than that which successive Governments of Gibraltar have done now for generations, which is to have an active, current and ongoing programme of cliff stabilisation, which means that the Technical Services Department of the Government every year brings to the Government those areas where they believe it is necessary to do cliff stabilisation in that financial year and they seek budget for it. We come to the House and we approve it and we deal with those issues of cliff stabilisation.

920 Now, Mr Speaker, there will be areas which are not dealt with in cliff stabilisation which are the areas which happen to create rock fall in that year. Minor rock fall or larger rock fall, then creating the new phenomena that we seem to disagree we are talking about. Mr Speaker, that is the reality.

925 Now, if somebody comes to the Government and seeks access to a tunnel which is accessed through the rock face and the Government says we are unable to give you access to that tunnel, absent risk from rock fall from the North Face, you have to deal with your experts and our experts putting in place whatever plan they agree is the plan that you need in order to create a canopy to give access there safely and the method statement for how that is done – that is not a Government issue. That is an issue of experts having agreed a methodology which was working until the rock fall happened with their assessment of risk. That is what we are dealing with here and this is an act of God, an act of force majeure and thank God, Mr Speaker, I am able to give a short answer to the hon. Lady, which is that her question is hypothetical.

935 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you for the answer. If I may ask a couple of questions, from what I understand the wall was removed by the contractor so that is why I was asking who bears ... If something happened that could have led to a tragedy, it is not just because force majeure, earthquakes, volcanoes and things happen. Something was removed which could have led to a disaster and who is responsible for the fact that there was a void in the protection by the effect of that removal?

940 And the other question is, I do not know if I am actually allowed to ask, but can I just find out if it is possible, what is happening with the wine vaults? Is it happening or is that not allowed in this supplementary?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the rock fall could have happened, could not have happened; it is something which there is no certainty about.

945 Now, why was the wall that the hon. Lady mentions removed? Well, because the wall had to be removed so that construction could take place and so that access could be gained. Now the unlucky part of the situation was again no one had no control over it, that the rocks decided to fall at that given moment in time when the wall was not there.

950 Who is to blame? Well, again it is force majeure, nothing could have happened and something did so there is absolutely no way of scanning the rock or doing an MRI scan on the rock face to see where potentially a rock can fall when the wall is going to be removed for a specific purpose.

Now, regarding the second part of the question, which is what happens now to the project of the vaults, in light of what has happened, a more thorough investigation will need to be carried

955 out and we need to take into consideration this new phenomenon that has just been mentioned – although I did not say ‘phenomenon’ – of fly rock because it is something that we have not experienced in the past.

960 Now bearing in mind that fly rock, if ever there were to be a rock fall of the magnitude that we experienced recently happening again, and fly rock becomes the issue, then we would have to mitigate for that as well. But that is something new in that respect because in the past rock falls have been substantially smaller and the impact has been absorbed by the surface of the land.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just picking up on the question of this statement that the Hon. Minister has made that you cannot MRI the rock face: I recall about three years ago that I 965 was sitting with my wife, Julia in the living room in my house and I heard a buzzing sound outside the house. I came out and there was a drone flying in my garden. For a second, I thought it was the Chief Minister from his living room controlling this drone, spying on the Feetham house, although I disregarded it completely by the next second!

970 However, I did phone the RGP because I thought maybe it is somebody controlling a drone and being a nuisance in the garden and they put me in contact with a contractor that was conducting, apparently, a cliff survey all around Gibraltar, because that is the only way that you can establish where there are potential ... well, not the only way, but one of the ways you can establish where there are potential weaknesses.

975 Now, my question is that given that information, did that information on that survey reveal any particular weakness in this particular area of the rock face that would have alerted the Government that there was a potential problem in this area?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, obviously the drone is for visual inspection; it is hardly an MRI in that respect but this is the process, this is the method the consultants will use to see whether 980 to carry out a visual inspection, because there is no other way from the ground at certain elevations so that is the method used in that respect.

985 Had the drone, or whatever method they used, picked up that there were areas which were significantly at risk and that was the conclusion made by consultants, then clearly something would have been done in that respect. But because it is spotting things which look out of place – and again, I may be speculating because I have not got that information with me – I am sure, had the consultants found a reason which was of concern in the rock face, that would have been brought to our attention and something would have been done about it.

990 Part of my question refers to Green Lane as well: with Green Lane the mitigation, unfortunately for residents, was that we had to close that road because the risk was considered substantially large enough for us to do so. And perhaps it was not a popular thing at the time, but it is for the safety of individuals.

995 Just like people have been complaining that they have not been able to access certain areas and the road has remained closed, but it is because the proper measures need to be taken to at least mitigate and ensure that we are as confident as humanly possible that the risk is reduced to a significant level or low enough level to be able to permit access once again. That will be happening, the road is due to reopen later on this evening, I have not heard anything to the contrary so that is what we are aiming for.

So based on that, that is the position we are at the moment. (Interjection)

1000 Hon. Chief Minister: You were right about the drone.

Hon. D A Feetham: I beg your pardon?

Hon. Chief Minister: You were right first time about the drone.

Hon. D A Feetham: Oh, was I? It was controlled by you! (Laughter) Simply because one is paranoid does not mean that they are not out to get you, as they say! (Laughter)

1010 But is the Minister satisfied – and if he does not have the information, I do not want him to answer the question based on incomplete information and perhaps, if he is not satisfied, he can go back – that as a consequence of that inspection three years ago with these drones looking at the rock face, there was no information that came to the attention of the Government at the time that indicated any kind of particular weakness in this area that would have alerted the Government to the need to do something about that area?

1015 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I would not be able to give a concrete reply to that question because I have not asked that question to my Technical Division.

Hon. T N Hammond: If I may, Mr Speaker, and I genuinely thank the Minister for his comprehensive answers so far, because I think this is a matter of significant public interest and relevance at the moment.

1020 I note the comments on the removal of a wall for the construction. Is the Minister aware whether that wall was in place to prevent falling rocks or fly rock from reaching out into Devil's Tower Road and beyond, or was it just a wall to segregate the existing site?

1025 And also, is the Minister aware if there were any other measures in place which may have been removed since, for the restriction of and mitigation of rock fall onto Devil's Tower Road?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the wall itself would have helped mitigate. It was not the reason why the wall was there, I think it was just a barrier wall dividing the road from the Aerial Farm site but it would have provided some protection in that respect and that was removed, as I said, to gain access into the site.

1030 There was also a bund there and that was removed in part as a result of the developments to the wine vault area. So again, as I said previously, rock falls prior to these last two occasions, as far as we have known them, have simply fallen and the impact has been absorbed by the land because they have been small rock falls. We have never experienced rock falls of this magnitude before.

1035 So now obviously, we are looking at measures. So what we have done, which we have actually been putting out in the public domain, we have moved the road, diverted the road towards the beach and using part of the roundabout which is still under construction which will form part of the new road into the tunnel to try and move cars further away from the area which will give us time to build a wall which will probably be provisional in nature, it is a wooden hoarding which will help prevent to some extent, further fly rocks should more rocks fall.

1040 As I said earlier, the risk is considered relatively small now after what has fallen, but again we can never say it is never going to happen again. That is what the consultants have come back with but again it is no guarantee. So the wall will go back and once the wall, that hoarding is back in a couple of weeks' time as a mitigation measure, then we will bring the road, we will realign the road as it was once again.

1045 Remember, the risk of rock fall statistically has always happened when it rains and when the weather is bad and when it is windy. That is not to say that it will not ever happen when it is dry so it is something which, and then we will say is a phenomenon if it has never happened before and rocks are falling in dry weather. But because the weather has been unsettled, we always err on the side of caution and obviously we try to mitigate as far as possible. It has taken a while for us to be able to create now this diversion in this respect and obviously following the advice that Golder's provides us and that is what we act and respond to.

1055 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I know the Minister has referred to the Aerial Farm on numerous occasions now, can he define that because my understanding of the Aerial Farm was actually the area on which Beach View Terrace and the Eastern Beach car park were constructed, not the other side of the road, albeit there were areas on that side of the road as well. But that whole piece to me always meant the Aerial Farm. He seems to be taking a narrower definition of the Aerial Farm.

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I had the same view on the matter just a few days ago. I actually asked the same question because in my mind the Aerial Farm was always that part closest to the sea, to Eastern Beach and I was informed that the Aerial Farm in fact is both sides with the road in between.

So now the Aerial Farm we are referring to is the Aerial Farm stuck to the Rock and not where the new building is.

Hon. T N Hammond: And just one final question, Mr Speaker, again on the removal of the bund and the wall, when it was determined that that would be necessary as part of the latest construction project, was the risk of doing that, of removing that rock fall protection, captured within any assessments made by the developer and presented to the DPC or was it missed entirely? Because clearly, those measures may have prevented some of the worst of the damage to property and thank goodness no injury was sustained from this particular rock fall.

I think we have to be careful talking about a new phenomenon. Historically at least we are aware, even if we have not had any recent memories of quite significant rock falls. I think that if you look at Catalan Bay there are one or two rocks there that have fallen at some point in the past which are very substantial indeed. I am not suggesting that a repetition of such an event could be prevented by any means that we take, and I certainly welcome the fact that Government is looking at additional measures and is hopefully doing so in a hurry and has already taken some measures to mitigate.

But I would be interested in whether or not the risk of rock fall was accounted for as part of this construction project during the phase of the project.

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I am sure it was. There is an exclusion zone and all properties are outside – or what they call 95% – of that exclusion zone. You asked whether they went to the DPC: I would have to ask whether it did or did not. But, again it was considered ‘safe’ enough to not need the bund in that respect and we think that the wall itself would probably have been enough.

Again, the behaviour of fly rock, we need to now look into further because we need to analyse how rock reacts when it falls in this manner and magnitude. So now we will need to look at this in further detail, we need to assess what is happening there, what the developments are and ensure that we are fully aware of what needs to be done and we are looking at, as I said in my question, perhaps building ditches and building other forms of measures – even looking at the rock face itself to see whether anything needs to be done to the main North Face.

But again, it is still very early days and we are waiting for a final report from Golder’s because it is still far too soon to be able to see where we go from here.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just one final question on this. There have been questions of the Government about the wall that was taken down and this issue about whether it is force majeure or act of God, etc. But the Government is satisfied that the taking down of the wall did not contribute to the rock fall, at least that is something that the Government can state it is satisfied, or is it an ongoing investigation? I do not know. It is the first time that I have heard about the wall in this Parliament.

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, Government is 100% satisfied.

Q278-279/2018
Redibikes –
Running costs; reduction of fees

Clerk: Question 278, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. N F Costa: Don't mention the wall!

1110

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, further to Question 587/2017 can the Government provide an updated schedule including: (a) monthly revenue generated and (b) monthly cost of running the scheme?

1115

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 279.

1120

Clerk: Question 279, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, is the Government considering reducing fees on Redibikes considerably to make them more attractive?

1125

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the monthly revenue generated is detailed in the schedule I now hand over. The monthly cost for running the scheme is £12,400.

Mr Speaker, Redibike went live in May last year and Government has closely monitored usage since inception. I can confirm that pricing has already been reduced since September 2017 from £2 to £1 per day. The project will be reviewed after a year and the possibility of relocating some stations to areas where usage will be optimised is also being considered.

Schedule to Question 278

Month	Revenue
May-17	£386.00
Jun-17	£369.00
Jul-17	£355.50
Aug-17	£516.80
Sep-17	£201.00
Oct-17	£204.20
Nov-17	£111.00
Dec-17	£132.20
Jan-18	£221.00
Feb-18	£223.00
Mar-18 (to 9th)	£21.00

1135 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, just looking at the schedule, the original schedule provided in answer to Question 587/2017 did include the number of users per day. Does the Minister have that information with him?

1140 Hon. P J Balban: No, Mr Speaker, the schedule I have handed over to the hon. Gentleman is the revenue generated by the scheme.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I would appreciate it if the Minister could perhaps email that after the session.

1145 With regard to the costing, would the Government agree that whilst we have free parking within the mid-town parking which provides 12 hours of free parking, that people are not going to embrace this scheme and obviously the Redibikes will not take off in a way which obviously people if they did find a more convenient way of travelling, then they would embrace.

1150 But obviously having free parking in mid-town parking, and not having, and finding that we are using the Redibikes is actually more expensive to the pocket, is this something that the Government could actually agree on and pursue?

1155 Hon. P J Balban: I do not think that the actual cost is what is detracting people from the scheme as such. I mean £1 a day for the use of the bikes, you can use the bikes all day long for £1. It used to be £2. I do not think that is the issue, there are a lot more factors surrounding why people may choose to cycle or not and the weather has a lot to do with it as well. If you look at statistics and when the weather is bad there is less usage. When the weather is better in August, there is a lot more usage in that respect.

1160 But I think that as part of the STTP we are looking at how to try to encourage people to adopt sustainable alternative forms of transport and I think it is one of the challenges we are having to face: how do we get people to use bicycles as opposed to their cars? That is the major issue. But I am happy that there is usage, they are being used on a monthly basis, not to say that no-one is using them.

1165 I would love to see them used a lot more, definitely, and I think we need to look at locations because we are finding that usage perhaps happens, although the scheme was originally intended to be a commuter route, we were piloting it for commuter use, I do not think that it has been taken up as much as I would have liked to have seen in terms of commuters because most people can buy a bicycle and they are relatively cheap. If I buy a bicycle it is my bicycle and I can take it all the way to my office and take it all the way home. I do not need to leave it somewhere and then walk the rest of the distance.

1170 So it is convenient in that respect and I do not think that making it a free service or one penny per day or ten pence a day is going to make much difference in that respect. So we are looking at moving some of the lesser used stations because we are coming to that one year mark now, I think it is May we come to the year and then we will have statistics for one year and beyond that point we will be in a position to compare year on year usage. What I am hoping for is to see an increase in usage, but it is still very early days.

1175 But we are looking at the stations which have been used the least and we are considering moving those, in fact more than considering, we are actually looking to where we can move them to and perhaps spreading them out further towards the hotels and to the east side as well and more towards the sports area in that respect.

1180 We hope that will help encourage further use, but I think it is a lot more complex than just reducing, 'Let's just reduce it' – we could say, 'let's do it for free – I do not think that the usage will make much difference. I think it is a very good rate and it has come down from £2 to £1 already.

1185 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, if I can just pick up on something that the hon. Member just said. Just as the Government is looking to find ways relocate the stations for the bike usage and all that, isn't it just as important or even more so, to consider finding, actually building routes for bicycles so that our bicycle users are not riding through pot holes on the road and have designated bicycle routes as we see in other cities in the world?

1190 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, that is part of the bigger picture that I was alluding to earlier when the hon. Gentleman asked his question. There is more to it than just the money; it is how safe people feel and that is what we are actively doing as part of the Traffic Plan. We are already quite advanced with looking at routes. Unfortunately we live – or fortunately, it depends on how you look at it – but Gibraltar is a place where our streets are narrow, we do not have the luxury 1195 that we will find in other bigger cities where you can have a segregated bicycle lane which provides the safety that people may wish to see for them to be able to adopt cycling.

But as far as possible, we will be finding ways of giving people routes which are feasible in certain areas and which will provide safety and we will see whether that will also help. But you are right in that respect, it is more than just what we charge for use of the scheme. It is 1200 providing also, if possible, alternative routes which we are very actively doing at the moment.

Q280/2018
Refurbished buses –
Age, cost and usage

Clerk: Question 280, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, since 2011, can the Government provide details for each bus it has refurbished including: (a) the year the bus was manufactured; (b) the cost of the 1205 refurbishment; (c) the usage purpose of each bus?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the information 1210 requested by the hon. Member is contained in the schedule I will now hand over.

Schedule Tto Question 280

Registration Number	Registration Date	Make	Cost of Refurbishment £	Details
G 96381	2000	Toyota Coaster	1,880.00	Upholstery & Paintwork
G 4584D	2013	Ford Transit	440.00	Paintwork

The usage of both vehicles is for the carriage of passengers.

Q281-284/2018

Residential Parking Scheme Zone 2 –
Parking spaces; applications; demand; consultation

Clerk: Question 281, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1215 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state how many parking spaces have been made available for residents of the Residential Parking Scheme Zone 2?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

1220 Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 282 to 284.

Clerk: Question 282, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1225 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state currently how many applications have been received for Residential Parking Scheme Zone 2?

Clerk: Question 283, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1230 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state if it will be looking to interim measures given the apparent lack of demand in Residential Parking Scheme Zone 2, in particular, outside the city walls?

Clerk: Question 284, the Hon. L F Llamas.

1235 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government disclose the public feedback sought when designing Residential Parking Scheme Zone 2?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

1240 Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, within the area designated as Residential Parking Scheme Zone 2, there are 505 on-street residential parking spaces available.

1245 Holders of Zone 2 Resident Parking Permits are also allowed to park in loading and unloading bays after the operational hours and therefore the overall residents' on-street parking stock at night increases to 627 spaces.

Mr Speaker, as of Thursday, 8th March 2018, Gibraltar Car Parks Limited have received a total of 531 applications for the Residential Parking Permits for Zone 2.

As to Question 283, Mr Speaker, the Residential Parking Scheme Zone 2 has not commenced yet, hence there are no interim measures to consider for a scheme that has not started.

1250 Although 531 applications have been received, applications continue to be received, hence we will not be in a position to assess the demand for the scheme until a later date.

Mr Speaker, a vast public consultation exercise was carried out in all aspects of the STTPP. So vast, that Members opposite criticised the Government from consulting what they thought was too much.

1255 Furthermore, the Residential Parking Scheme has undergone even greater consultation with Tenants Associations and other interested parties when this has been deemed necessary or upon the request of representative groups.

1260 Mr Speaker, there is also an STTPP working group specifically dedicated to the Residential Parking Scheme which includes technical staff that analyse and recommend improvements to existing and future schemes.

I want to emphasise, Mr Speaker, that these are pilot schemes and account will be taken of any teething problems we may experience.

1265 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I appreciate with any scheme which is being introduced there are always bound to be teething problems. However, Mr Speaker, looking from the statistics, there seem to be quite a lot of applications and a lot of vacant parking spaces during the day. Is it a possibility that from the 531 applications received, people do not actually have their permits issued yet or is it that the 531 have already been issued with a permit? Because walking round Gibraltar you also see a lot of cars parked in Zone 2 which are not displaying any permit whatsoever.

1275 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, although the scheme went live, the policing of the scheme will not commence until 3rd April because we have allowed sufficient time for people to get their permits. One of the reasons why we went out so early was to try and announce and let people know, tell people that there was a process required to get a permit. You do not apply for a permit today and get it tomorrow. There is a process whereby we will check, especially if there are any arrears because having arrears would deem that that applicant would not be able to get a permit in that respect.

1280 Now, that is why you see cars without permits parked in these parking spaces and why not? I think until 3rd April people can enjoy these parking spaces, even whether they live in the zone or not. The time that it is required for it to go live is a time which is necessary and the PMOs out there will actually place, it is not a fake or dummy fine; it is an information leaflet that goes in the window saying 'You have parked in a place where you should not be parked' and advising them so that they get used to the idea.

1285 Coming to the question of the permits, of the 531 permit applications that have been received, 268 have been collected. So there are still for example, 37 permits waiting to be collected at the counter and there are 226 awaiting checks with the Central Arrears Unit to see whether they are eligible. Of those, 27 applications have already been notified that they cannot, unless they pay their arrears.

1290 So this requires time and although we would have liked people to have been in possession of their permits by now, and there was ample time for them to have done so, human nature is that 'We will let it go for another day and we will go when we can' and this is what we are faced with at the moment. But I am sure that when 3rd April does come, those people will be looking at the scheme, it is human nature, to see how it works and people will then be part of the scheme.

You also mentioned that there are lots of permits that have been or you thought had been issued and yet so many parking spaces, but there are 2,700 households so even at 531 applications, it is still quite low in that respect.

1300 So take-up of the scheme, I am hoping that because there are a lot of parking spaces in town which are private and which are within car parks and perhaps people are not using them because they find the parking on the street, and those people who pay for those parking spaces, either they rent or own them, may say 'Well, why have a permit if I really should be using my car parking space?' So I am hoping that if that is right then it may be something positive.

1305 But I reiterate, this is a pilot scheme. The comments are that people may be unaware, they do not know how it works. I mean, it is something which we had a manifesto commitment to do. This is what people wanted and it appeared in our manifesto in that respect. Now, a residential parking scheme is exactly that: it is a residential parking scheme for residents which means that if you live in an area you will be able to benefit from parking in your area. But it

1310 does not mean that you will be able to park where you work as well and when you go and visit your mother or whatever. It is a scheme for residents and that is something which I think, maybe, people are starting to grapple with at the moment.

Alameda Estate. In Alameda Estate we had similar issues, there was a massive uproar, people were not happy, change is change and people do not like change. I had a lot of 1315 complaints from a lot of people, we held our ground and we need to give it time. And now I am being stopped and being told, 'Look, it is the best thing that has happened for Alameda residents, we can go out and go shopping, we can come back, we are not guaranteed a parking space, but really the probability is that we will find a parking space and we are finding parking spaces.' So it is working and they are happy.

1320 So Main Street and Zone 2 is a different kettle of fish completely and I am not a glutton for punishment, I do not like ... Obviously there is a lot of attention, a lot of public interest in this but this needs to settle because otherwise, we are just jumping, if we react. We have had comments of 'Why is there parking in Queensway, they have all got parking?' But that is for Zone 2 because Zone 2 extends all the way to the walls, to Southport Gates. So it is in an area 1325 which is relatively close. They are not for people that live in Queensway Quay which are not part of that scheme, they are not for people that want to go and eat there. For that they have Romney Huts car park where there is a pay and display so we have catered for that as well.
That is the only way that you can get people moving from one area to another; that is where cross-fertilisation occurs. So you can go and visit parents or go and visit family members. That is 1330 why there has to be pay and display in different areas so people can go and visit.

If we just keep it purely residential as what we inherited because that is what the scheme was when we took office in 2011. We had a scheme which was so fixed in that respect that people just could not visit, carers could not get in and that is how we have addressed it through pay and display which allows people to move about.

1335 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I appreciate the Minister's understanding. In particular I want to pick up on one of the things that he said which comes to me often, which is people who complain about the parking spaces in car parks which have been built in and around town. They see many of the car parking spaces empty because people are parking in the street. So would it 1340 mean that somebody then who has one of these parking spaces will not be able to apply for a street parking permit? That is one question.

And also, with regard to the loading and unloading and these things, I do get a lot of complaints in particular from parents who need to, who cannot seek any alternative transport because they need a vehicle to move around Gibraltar to take children to extracurricular 1345 activities and so forth, that they do struggle to find a parking space now with the residential scheme in order to do their activities during the day and in the afternoon. Is this something that the Government will look into and alleviate the situation for this particular demographic?

1350 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I will try and see if I can answer both questions from the Member opposite, because there was quite a lengthy preamble to the questions.

But the first point is that everyone can apply, everyone has the right to apply for a permit whether you have a parking space or whether you do not. The schemes vary in different locations so certain conditions that we applied for example in Grand Parade and Alameda Estate have not been reproduced in Zone 2.

1355 Every area is different, every residential scheme has to be different because otherwise in one area there is perhaps ample parking facilities and in others there is less. So what we have done as far as possible, people who are in possession of a parking space have to buy a permit at the next tier level. So there has to be a cost involved because otherwise there is no disincentivisation.

1360 There are many ways of skinning this cat. You could say, 'I will give every household one permit and if you have got two or three permits, you do what you have to do, it is not our problem.’ But the fair way, the way that we have decided to do this is to allow people to apply for more permits if they want to but the permits start at a different level.

1365 Now, what we hope to see is people will start using those parking spaces more and that is ...
There are areas in Gibraltar where you drive past an open car parking space which is rented and it is pretty empty. That is because unfortunately we are that way. I think we are all like that and I include myself in it. If you drive past your house with your three children and your shopping and there is a parking right outside your door, you are not going to go and park... even though you pay rent for that parking space, because it is much more convenient.

1370 So there is a lot of that that does happen and that is why you sometimes pass by a car park and see that it is empty. But with this, because there is a financial cost to a permit, which is not a huge financial cost but there is a bit of a cost, then people start thinking twice, ‘Well, why don’t I use my parking space?’ or let go of it, let’s give The parking space to somebody else, or let somebody else rent it out and ‘I will get a permit because I may stand a better chance on 1375 the street because I park 99% of the time on the street anyway and do not use it.’ Well, that is the decision that we have to make.

Now, as to the second part of the question, the reason we place pay and displays is actually for that purpose: so that people who need to move around from one place to another can find parking because ideally you say just give people free parking for say a maximum stay of 10 or 1380 20 minutes, but it is impossible to police. You would have to have a PMO at every single place all the time because people will park and stay there longer and then when somebody else comes after them they find there is no space and ‘Now what do I do with my car?’

So by charging it is at least one way, it is a lot easier to police in that respect as well and that allows the movement of people. But remember, I did say and I have said it publicly, these are 1385 all parts of the jigsaw puzzle. It is still very early days because we have only got the residential scheme that we inherited which is the one that is at Glacis, Laguna and the North District which eventually we will review at the end, but it is there, it is working in its own right and it is working differently to other schemes.

We have got the Alameda Estate and now we are going to Zone 2. Then there will be Zone 3 1390 and then Zone 4 and until all the pieces of this puzzle are altogether, then that is when we will see how this works and how zones interact with each other. This is a very difficult task. It is difficult, it is very technical and it is also a lot of trial and error as well. It is very, very important to stress that it is a pilot scheme, it is something which the Opposition when they were in Government started doing themselves but they just had one scheme. They did not get past that 1395 election and they could not see that scheme progress but if you look at many modern societies and modern cities, there are residential parking schemes and they have encountered all the issues we are having now.

But at the end of the day, Gibraltar is small enough to try to encourage people to use alternative modes of transport. We have got to that stage where we just cannot continue the 1400 way we are going, there are just too many cars. We have gone past that breaking point and there are just not enough parking spaces any more.

And this is just one other method that we are using to see whether we can change and instil a different way of thinking. It is difficult, change is hard and all I ask is, I predict that between 1405 six and eight weeks’ time those parking spaces which are empty will probably be all full. And if they are not full and say in three months they are still empty, then I need to review what is going on with these parking spaces and decide whether I just get rid of the pay and display or place a pay and display there or whatever needs doing because we have to make this work for people. At the moment it is something that appears for some an aggressive measure, with time they may say this is the best thing that happened.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker.

May I refer to certainly my own personal experience in relation to this? Perhaps the Government might find it helpful. Not only mine, but actually people that have come to me with their experiences that coincide with mine.

1415 That is that prior to the Zone 2 parking scheme introduced in Queensway, people like me that for example need to do a school run – there is no other way, I have got to get into my car, take my son to St Joseph’s and then from there I have got to come down. I cannot from the Upper Rock, go to St Joseph’s walking, it is impossible. And there are people like that, even though I accept that there are too many cars in Gibraltar.

1420 But if I was at ten past nine, even quarter past nine at Mid-Town Car Park, I would virtually always find a car park at Mid-Town. In fact, very often I find myself thinking to myself, actually the Government has done a good job here and you would find car parking spaces.

1425 What has now happened as a consequence of this scheme is that the people who used to park in Queensway are now parking in Mid-Town and you find that of course you cannot find a parking spaces in Mid-Town. So people like me and others like me, there are others like me who have been very, very severely affected by this Zone 2 parking scheme.

1430 I wonder whether the Government might want to consider a variation of the scheme whereby from let’s say nine o’clock in the morning to six o’clock in the afternoon, it is open to members of the public to park there, but by six in the afternoon – six or seven – you have got to take it out so that residents then have evening parking spaces.

1435 But it really has caused – and I say that not wanting to make political capital out of this, I am giving the Hon. Minister my honest experience about the effect that this has had – it has become a real nightmare for people who unfortunately have to use their car because of where they live, to park in the mornings in the area as a consequence of this. And it is rubbing salt in the wound, so to speak, to be driving down Queensway in the mornings to look to your right and to see empty spaces all the way along at the Ragged Staff end and also in Commonwealth Park!

1440 Now, the Minister today has said that enforcement will only become effective as from 3rd April. It would have been helpful if that information could have been provided to the public because then we would not have had as many empty spaces as we have had over the last week or so, and perhaps that would have also helped people that really need to have the car.

1445 But my question really is, will the Government consider a variation of the scheme to at least allow people in Queensway – and Queensway remember has always traditionally been used by people to park their cars that need to come into town with their cars ... during that time period, for others to use it as well.

1450 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, yes I agree. Coming down Ragged Staff and looking to the right and seeing all those empty parking spaces, it is a funny thing – (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) What happened, if you go back say a few months ago and you drove past that road, how many parking spaces were available for you to use? None at all. In fact, they were all taken and they were taken in effect for ... there were many vehicles that were being sold and you could not really and there was nowhere ... Now it is salt in the wound, because before you could not get a parking space, now you cannot use them either but for a different reason. (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham)

1455 Yes, but I just need the hon. Member to realise, this is a huge, huge challenge and I am sure that when they were doing it on that side, I think they realised how big this challenge was because I have looked at how the plan went and in fact the GSD decided to keep Zone 2.

1460 Mr Speaker: Please try to answer the specific question that you have been asked. Will you consider, the question was, a variation. You have just been 10 minutes answering a supplementary and now you seem to be winding yourself up for another few minutes. If you start talking about what went on before, in the days of the GSD, we finish up with a debate and we are not here to debate. We are here to answer questions.

1465 I cannot control the length of your answers, but I must tell you, within reason, to answer the specific supplementary that you were asked, which is a variation on the scheme in certain hours.

1470 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, thank you, not being one I think who would be considered very verbose in Parliament, I am quite enjoying for once (Laughter) having a bit of –

Hon. D A Feetham: Limelight!

1475 Hon. P J Balban: A little bit! (Laughter) And the reference to the GSD was not in a negative capacity, it was a statement of fact, I was saying that –

Mr Speaker: Please try to get to the point.

1480 Hon. P J Balban: I will try to speak even less then. But it was because Zone 2 was left till the end because it was the hardest one.

1485 Now we have gone through, we have looked at all different ways of skinning this cat. There are many different options, we have looked at different schemes throughout different cities and what is best and the scheme that you are asking specifically about, we do not think will work in Zone 2. But it could well work in Zone 3, which is going to be starting – and I will tell you why. Because people who live in town, work and play in town generally, okay? So their requirements are for long-term parking. They do not get their car to go to work because they probably work and live in the same area; whereas people in the South District will tend to ... there will be an exodus of cars moving from the south to work and maybe a scheme like that is something that we should be considering for Zone 3.

1490 But we do not believe that there is going to be sufficient parking to allow for that sort of scheme but we have thought about as it and I have reiterated already, this is a pilot scheme. All options will be looked at but I think we need to let this scheme, the way it is, breathe. Give it time, we will see how it works and I think it is very unfair to criticise it or to say it is not working. Let it start first and once it starts, then let us analyse and this is what the STTPP is all about. We review, we look at things and then we change it if necessary. But we have to give it time and that is the last I will say, unless there are other supplementaries.

1500 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, what about considering something else which is if somebody is in a situation, not in Zone 2 but has to use his car for whatever reason, makes out a case, why just simply exclusively allow these parking spaces to be used by Zone 2? The problem here is, the situation that has been created is that for a class of people that need to use their car for whatever reason, they just cannot get around that, you have a situation where there is misery in the mornings in trying to find a parking space. And I mean misery, because it really is misery to be driving and driving around and even driving all the way to the small boats marina and to find that even the small boats marina has been taken by, usually now, foreign-registered licence plates that have been shifted from somewhere else and are parking there. It is just proving to be an impossible situation.

1505 Finally, can I ask the Minister, what is Zone 2, what area is included in Zone 2, if he knows or can direct me as to where I can find that information?

1510 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, booklets were actually prepared and obviously we issued press releases and there was a press statement made on the internet, a press launch. Zone 2 is from Wall to Wall, from Southport Gates all the way to Landport Ditch, it stops at the wall adjacent to Queensway and it goes all the way up Prince Edward's Road, Flat Bastion Road and down Prince Edward's ... It does not include the Upper Town, it is confined to that area.

1515 And as I said earlier, there are 2,700 households in that area and only 505 parking spaces there, so logic will say it is not possible to fit 2,700 cars, assuming one per household, into 505 spaces so that is why at the moment we are seeing what happens in that respect.

1520 But you have hit the nail on the head, it is an impossible task. It is an impossible task because we have got to that point where it is just not possible to sustain the amount of vehicles. Again, in all fairness, these past three or four weeks since the scheme started the weather has been atrocious, so that has not helped either. A lot more people used their cars than they would normally, a lot less motorcycle use as well. A lot less walking, a lot less cycling.

1525 So it is not just because of Zone 2 has been implemented, that is why life is a misery. When there is school there is more traffic, when there is no school Gibraltar is a lovely place to drive around. But the scheme needs to settle and from then on, we will take ... It is not my intention to create something and create misery for people, that is not the intention behind this. On the contrary, it is trying to help, this is what people wanted and we are starting to see already a flicker of 'wow' this is working. I am starting to notice that but it will take time. All I ask is let the scheme settle for one, and then we will see where we go from here.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can I just ask, is the eligibility for the parking spots just for residences or also for businesses in the Main Street or town area?

1535 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, residential parking scheme: it is for residents. It is not a commercial parking scheme, it is not a visitor parking scheme. It is a residents' parking scheme. Everyone in Gibraltar is a resident. Not everyone is a business owner or a user or a commercial entity but everyone is a resident.

1540 So this scheme is to help people who reside in the areas to have a better chance of finding parking where they live; and how they move from place to place, well that is dictated whether they use the pay and displays around the area. But it is a residential parking scheme.

1545 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, having been brought up in the Upper Town area, especially in Prince Edward's Road, my father used to park his car at Grand Parade because it was virtually impossible even then to find a parking space on Prince Edward's Road and we are talking about the 1970s and 1980s.

1550 The Minister has now introduced a scheme where by his own admission, you have a less than or an 18% chance of obtaining a parking space if you obtain one of these permits in the Upper Town. What is the policy objective here? He is asking people to buy a permit which effectively gives them an 18% chance of getting a parking space, no guarantee of a parking space and yet they are being asked to pay for something that they are effectively not going to be able to get or depend on luck to get.

So what really is the policy objective he is trying to achieve in what he has already admitted is an impossible task?

1555 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, absolutely right – but if there are only on-street parking spaces. So there are 505 on-street parking spaces for 2,700 houses. But when you look at the whole parking pool in town, it does not comprise of only on-street parking. There are a lot of parking spaces within garages and car parks, etc. which are rented, owned privately or within houses.

1560 So 2,733 parking spaces exist within town but they are not on the street; they are off the street. They are in Theatre Royal, they are in Engineer's Lane car park, they are in Mid-Town, they are in Engineer's Lane, and within private residences, Gavino's Dwellings have some parking spaces, Centre Plaza has some parking spaces within so the whole parking stock is over 3,000

1565 What we are doing is, we are controlling the amount of on-street parking spaces and this is why we look at the amount of applicants. At the moment the numbers are looking quite good 1570 because of the 505 spaces, as I mentioned earlier, there are 531 applications. Some have been denied and some are awaiting collection but so close to D-day – the scheme went live already, but so close to 3rd April there are not 2,700 applications coming through. So again, we have to suck it and see, we have to see how this goes. I think it is too early days to actually have an opinion on that.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just finally on this because I think it is important, it is an issue that is vexing the community generally, the issue of parking.

1575 But why has the Government not imposed a condition that if you do have a parking space for your car, which is a private parking space that you own, that you will not get an off – road... a parking permit? Because that is really the only way you can grab the bull by the horns. You can say, 'Well right, you have got a parking space: you park in your parking space.' Why leave that parking space empty and park in a road-side parking space that is going to take away the 1580 opportunity from somebody else?

I can understand that in certain cases, when we did it, residential parking schemes are good but the reality is that this involves taking very difficult decisions and having the political bravery to take very difficult decisions. It appears to me that if you have got a parking space in Mid-Town or you have got two parking spaces in Mid-Town, you should not be entitled as well to 1585 have off-road parking at Queensway where you can occupy that space and leave your parking space empty.

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the hon. Gentleman –

1590 Hon. D A Feetham: Or rent it out, yes.

Hon. P J Balban: – I am grateful to the hon Gentleman for saying that it does require quite a bit of political bravery. This is something that is not easy at all. We need to look at the bigger picture, and where we are going in terms of the environment and how this is affecting pollution 1595 and the way we live and our health, etc. This is one of those measures.

Yes, there are many ways of doing this. We could have been a lot more draconian we could have said, 'Okay, you have a parking space, you are not going to get a permit.' But we felt that we would start off by disincentivisation in terms of increasing the cost of a permit. So if you are in possession, for example, of a car parking space in Engineer's Lane, you cannot get a permit 1600 for £60 a year; your permit will cost £120 a year.

And there are families that own three, four and five cars and they double on each car. So if you are not using a car and you have got a car on the street which you rarely use or do not really need or you are waiting for the clutch to come in and it never comes and you never fix it, then you would probably get rid of it and that is the end of it.

So it is a start. It is a start to where we want to go. I think what we are doing is brave enough, and again it will be reviewed and if it is felt that we need to approach it from a different angle, fine. But if what you are saying is that is how perhaps you would have tackled it, it is quite positive to hear that on your side you probably would have been even more draconian in that respect because you would have had the political bravery to do so.

1610 At this moment in time – (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) Well you would have done it because it was part of – (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) Your predecessor was doing it. But the elections stopped that from progressing any further but that is the inevitable truth. If you start a residential parking scheme, you have to go the whole hog. What you cannot do is start a residential parking scheme and say, 'This is hitting us in the face, let's just pack this in!'

1615 There are consequences, we need to look at the whole picture and we will see. We are not here to make people unhappy, to make people's lives difficult. But you have said it, Gibraltar is becoming impossible in terms of vehicles. If we can adopt alternative forms of transport, we should, but this is I think something which ... We have got all eyes on it, we have teams working

1620 with it and we are getting comments which are worthwhile for us, we are looking at social media, we are looking at letters, complaints and also positive comments as well, because there 1625 is always two sides to a story.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if that is a convenient place to park the issue, (Laughter) I suggest that the House should now adjourn until next Thursday, 22nd March at 1625 3 p.m. in the afternoon.

Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn until Thursday, 22nd March at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.00 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE CHAIR

Estimates of expenditure for next financial year – Agreed to be circulated confidentially by 30th April

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Thursday, 22nd March 2018.
(iii) Communications from the Chair.

5 Mr Speaker: As hon. Members are aware, it is a requirement under section 69(1) of the Constitution that the estimates of expenditure for the next financial year be circulated to hon. Members, on a confidential basis, not later than 30th April.

Since the House is not due to meet next month, I am proposing that the provisions of the Constitution will be deemed to have been met if the estimates are circulated to all hon.
10 Members before the end of April. This is what we have been doing for the last few years and so I propose that it should be the case again for this year. Is that agreed?

Members: Agreed.

Questions for Oral Answer

ENVIRONMENT, ENERGY, CLIMATE CHANGE AND EDUCATION

Q214/2018

Criminal acts by students on teachers – Complaints to Police in last 24 months

15 Clerk: We now continue with Answers to Oral Questions. We commence with Question 214, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm the number of complaints made by our schools to the Royal Gibraltar Police for alleged criminal acts by students on teachers in the last 24 months?
20

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, the answer is two.

25

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister confirm obviously not the identity of the perpetrator, but identify the offences themselves?

30

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I would rather not say that across the Chamber, but I would be very happy to inform the hon. Member behind your Chair.

It might just be that by mentioning the cases it may be possible to identify the person in a place as small as Gibraltar, so I would rather not do that but I will give him the information immediately we get a chance later.

35

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am happy for that method to be deployed in respect of this matter, but insofar as future reference is concerned, clearly we can identify categories of offences rather than individual offences themselves.

Look, if it is a sensitive issue, I am willing to take the Minister at face value and we can have the discussion behind the Speaker's Chair, Mr Speaker.

40

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, it is a sensitive issue.

Q215/2018

Referrals made by schools to Social Services – Number in last 24 months

Clerk: Question 215, the Hon. E J Phillips.

45

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the number of referrals made by our schools to Social Services in the last 24 months?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

50

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Yes, Mr Speaker, 61 direct referrals from schools to the Care Agency.

55

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, given the significant volume of referrals to the Care Agency, can the Minister confirm the category or type of complaint? Or again, is this an issue that could identify 61, 20 or 40 students themselves?

60

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, when we are talking about two as in the previous question, it is much easier to identify. In 61 I would not have a problem, but as I was not specifically asked that – the question clearly said the number – I do not have that information, but I would be happy to provide it for him.

I would ask him if he would not mind writing to me so that I do not leave it undone. But it is a different case where you have 61; where you have two it is easier to identify.

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Q216/2018
Foundation degrees/programmes –
Funding policy

Clerk: Question 216, the Hon. E J Phillips.

65

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state its policy in respect of the funding of foundation degrees/programmes?

70

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, foundation degrees are discretionary in nature. The exception to this is art-related courses where the only route to an undergraduate programme is via a foundation course.

75

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I may be wrong, but my memory at the moment is that the scholarship publication in the newspaper, in The Chronicle recently, stated that the funding of foundation programmes would not be provided and it would not be entertained as an application. Can the Minister clarify that statement in the advert to the press?

80

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I cannot recall the wording of the advert, but the situation is that applicants for foundation degree courses would be considered but in a discretionary manner.

85

The problem, Mr Speaker, is that as things are developing and some universities are looking at funding and so on and are willing to provide foundation courses in cases where A-level results are not particularly good, one has to be wary of rewarding students who may not be working hard on an A-level in the belief that they are going to be allowed on a foundation course. This is why it is discretionary. There would be an element of considering the student's work during the A-level years in considering that. But I do know for a fact that they are considered and very often they are given. But in some cases, the board considers that it would not be a good investment of money.

90

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, as part of the policy, does the Government consider the potential leapfrog from the foundation programme to the full degree, and in that consideration does the Government consider the needs of our community at large in respect of that degree?

95

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I do not have all the details of how the board that considers this deals with it. You will recall that all ordinary degrees as opposed to foundation degrees, where a student has a place, are automatically funded and that does not enter there.

100

I would have thought – but this is subject to confirmation, I am not involved in this at all – that there would be a whole range of considerations in considering each student. The policy of the Government and of the Department is to encourage students who are bona fide and who would benefit from such a degree, but we have to be wary that it is not a reflection of 'I don't have to bother because I am going to go there anyway.' It is something that has to be borne in mind, together with what benefits the community might get in the end.

105

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one further question about foundation degrees. Would the Minister agree that, certainly in the limited experience that I have with foundation programmes, there are a number of students in our community that would benefit from foundation programmes that lead to degrees, on the basis that there are students that are late developers. Some thrive in foundation degrees that are much more suitable and much more geared, particularly in the vocational areas of social care for instance. Would the Minister agree that we need to watch out for those types of students so that we can engineer them into full degrees later where they will probably thrive?

110

115

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, absolutely. This policy is by no means aimed at discouraging that; it is just that we cannot give them automatically for the other reasons that I have stated.

120

Hon. E J Reyes: May I, Mr Speaker, for my own clarification. The Minister has explained clearly that the awarding of the scholarship for foundation degrees comes under the discretionary subhead. On successful completion of that foundation degree, most universities offer that student to continue with a full-blown degree and then they even get exempted for either the first or first two years. Because it is then an ordinary degree, does the student have to apply as a further discretionary award or does it now kick in automatically as a mandatory thing and therefore he or she can take it for granted that the mandatory award would come through?

125

I don't know if the Minister understands what I am asking.

130

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Absolutely. I think those circumstances would mean that a person has got a place at university and therefore for students who have recently left school, it would be in my view mandatory. If you are coming at it later in life, because any degrees applied for even without a foundation year, are discretionary after two years from completing your studies, then they would be discretionary.

135

But certainly, if it is a student who, for example has decided to go on a foundation course on their own backs, then certainly that would be a consideration, as the hon. Member has described.

Q217-218/2018

Students unable to complete UK studies due to mental health issues – Numbers; refunds of awards

Clerk: Question 217, the Hon. E J Phillips.

140

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the numbers and gender of those students who have returned to Gibraltar without completing further or higher education studies in the United Kingdom on the basis that their mental health issues have prevented them from completing the course?

145

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 218.

150

Clerk: Question 218, the Hon. E J Phillips.

155

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, in relation to those students who are unable to complete higher education programmes in the United Kingdom because of mental health issues, can the Government state its position with respect to the obligation of the student to refund monies paid by the Government in tuition fees and maintenance awards?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
160 Mr Speaker, the Department of Education considers issues of mental health to be as important as any other medical condition a student might face whilst studying abroad.

I can confirm that there were six students who returned to Gibraltar as a result of their medical conditions including mental health in 2016-17 – three females and three males. I can also confirm that three students have returned so far in 2017-18 as a result of medical 165 conditions – two females and one male.

Students unable to complete their higher education programme as a result of unavoidable health issues are dealt with as per the guidance afforded in their scholarship contract, which requires medical evidence from a mentally qualified medical practitioner to the effect that the student was unable to successfully complete the course for unavoidable health reasons.

Q219/2018
Vacant teaching posts –
Update

170 Clerk: Question 219, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Education provide details in respect of any changes of vacant teaching posts since the answer provided to Question No. 123/2018, indicating the school/establishment where these changes may have occurred and from which 175 dates?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

180 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, I seem to have my questions out of sequence. What was this number again?

Clerk: 219.

185 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Question 219 seems to be missing from here, but it is okay, I have the answer in draft form, or maybe I have ... Oh, I have taken two together and put them in my 'out box' so to speak. My apologies, Mr Speaker.

There have been no changes to my answer together with the information I subsequently sent my hon. Friend, Mr Reyes, other than the advertising of 18 posts.
190

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, I can confirm to you that the Minister very kindly as we had agreed, did forward me a schedule. I need your guidance, Mr Speaker, perhaps the Minister at some stage might be able to provide this schedule to Parliament so that it becomes part of Hansard and therefore in a few months' time if one needs to make a reference we are referring 195 to something that is available to all Members of the House, rather than just privileged information that the Minister has made me aware.

If it is within your liking, Mr Speaker, I think the Minister can do that.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, absolutely, Mr Speaker, you will recall that there was a slight 200 difference in interpretation, we had agreed beforehand that I would send the information and I did, quite soon after that. I have the schedule available, I will make it available and it can form part of Hansard, so delighted to do that.

L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, given the noise issues caused during the World Trade Centre construction in its proximity to Bayside Comprehensive School, how does the Government intend to mitigate the construction of the Europort Avenue affordable housing development on the doorstep of the new St. Martin's, Governor's Meadow and Bishop Fitzgerald schools?

240 Clerk: Question 224, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain how it will grapple with ensuring that the following recommendation from the Co-Education Group of 2017 is adhered to: 'New entrants from the middle school sector are often daunted by the prospect of the transition to 245 secondary education; every attempt should therefore be made to ensure they are not overwhelmed by finding themselves almost overnight in an excessively populated metropolis.?’

Clerk: Question 225, the Hon. L F Llamas.

250 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, following a recent comment made by the Minister for Education that should the September 2019 deadline not be met, transitioning to new schools would take place after the Christmas or Easter breaks, can the Government state which schools it would foresee to transition during the academic year, and which would transition in September 2020, if any?

255

Clerk: Question 226, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, when planning school locations, can the Government provide details of the persons or entities it consulted and the locations considered before determining on the final locations.

260

Clerk: Question 227, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state which schools will have parking spaces beneath the building’s footprint detailing: (a) how many spaces; (b) if they will be sold, rented or otherwise allocated; and (c) whether these are at street level or underground?

265

Clerk: Question 228, the Hon. L F Llamas.

270 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain how it will manage security risks and hoax calls on schools with underground private parking?

Clerk: Question 229, the Hon. L F Llamas.

275 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state where the evacuation meeting points for pupils will be in the new schools?

Clerk: Question 230, the Hon. L F Llamas.

280 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state how many pupils it envisages will attend the two secondary schools if they were to open in September 2019?

Clerk: Question 231, the Hon. L F Llamas.

285 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government disclose the proposed intention for development on the site currently used by St Martin’s School?

Clerk: Question 232, the Hon. L F Llamas.

290 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state what the new pupil capacity will be at the new St Martin’s School?

Clerk: Question 233, the Hon. L F Llamas.

295 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, has the Government considered and consulted when it comes to populating the new schools, to populate the schools by age, by having a lower secondary in one school and a higher secondary in another?

300 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Director, in conjunction with the Advisory Service, set the composition of the two working parties.

305 Staffing and resources are currently the two main aspects of the key stage realignment transition that have been identified.

In relation to Question 222, the matter is currently under consideration in conjunction with the Ministry for Transport.

310 In answer to Question 223, all necessary steps will be taken and a working plan will be part of the design process.

In answer to Question 224, the schools have been designed accordingly. At an operational level the schools will have the capacity to ensure that a year group is situated on one floor per section and have zoned break areas for different year groups distinct from the rest of the school.

This is in line with a further recommendation for the working group which reads:

(j) Initially Year 7 students in both Bayside and Westside would enjoy their own ecosystem: a school within a school so to speak; an area especially reserved for them, not quite segregated from the rest of the school, but not fully integrated either.

315 In answer to question 225, Mr Speaker, no, sir.

In answer to Question 226, these were internal discussions.

320 In answer to Question 227, as plans stand, parking spaces will be provided at ground level beneath St. Anne's, Notre Dame, Westside and Bayside schools. The number of spaces and the method of allocation are under consideration. All security aspects are being discussed with the relevant authorities.

In answer to Question 229, the matter is being considered by the Gibraltar Fire and Rescue Service in conjunction with specialist fire consultants.

We estimate, Mr Speaker, that there will be a school population of approximately 1,300 students in each of Bayside and Westside school when the schools open in September 2019.

325 In relation to the St Martin's site, Question 231, Mr Speaker, this site has gone out for expressions of interest which have now been received and are currently being considered.

In relation to Question 232, Mr Speaker, the answer is 100.

330 And in Question 233 yes, Mr Speaker, it has. The preferred option is that the two schools will be distinct entities and will be populated separately. The schools will each run their own Year 7 through to 13.

335 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, if I may, coming back to my own question 221, the Minister said that the composition of the two different working parties were the Director and the members of the Advisory Services. Does that lead me to safely conclude it was the same people in both or perhaps I misunderstood the actual answer?

340 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, this answered the question of who composed the working groups. I was answering as who named them, who made them up. It is the actual composition is different: the Director and the Advisory Service decided who would be in the early stage working groups. I am happy to facilitate the people concerned, if that will assist. I have got that information here in case it was requested.

Mr Speaker, we have Mrs Ferro from Governor's Meadow First School, Mrs Duarte from St Anne's Middle School, Mrs Lester from Bayside Comprehensive, Mrs Barabich from Westside, Mr Abecasis from the College, Mr Tavares from Bayside, Mr Clinton from St Joseph's Middle, Miss Cruz from Notre Dame and Miss Scott from Westside. That is for the primary and secondary working group, that is the initial working group.

And then different sub-groups will be established as the process develops. For example, there will be one working group specifically looking at the nursery aspect which will have the early years foundation stage co-ordinators and nursery teachers who will all break out and for the nursery working group, which is the introduction of more nursery provision, we have Mrs Mason from Notre Dame, Mrs Burgod from St Joseph's First School, Mrs Parral from Bishop Fitzgerald, Mrs Montegriffo from St Joseph and Mrs Holmes from St Bernard's First School, Mr Speaker.

Hon. E J Reyes: That covers a part of what the different aspects were for the two groups or is there anything else that was touched upon in any other groups? Because my question did end up saying 'details of what these aspects were'. The Minister I think referred to primary and secondary and then he moved on to the primary and nursery education. Were there any other matters that were looked upon by these entities?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, there have been two meetings of each of the two groups so far. There was a recent communication sent out to schools last month in relation to current structures and the impact on the current structures, which the heads were asked to discuss with their staff.

There was also a curricular audit sent to all teachers, inviting them to identify areas of a curriculum that they are confident in teaching and with what training they are happy to deliver, because obviously we are shifting between primary and secondary and we wanted to feel what the teachers themselves felt about their own personal position, as well as the overall.

And as I said, Mr Speaker, there will now be different subgroups established to deal with each of the major items.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I would like to touch upon first the security issue which is at the moment being discussed by the Minister and his Ministry with the relevant authorities. Is this not something – and I expect it is the case – that the Minister has already undertaken and it is just final details that are being discussed, or is it something that is being discussed now after the plans are being produced?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this is an ongoing process. There has been initial contact at an early stage but clearly, as we firm up on the plans and the design which is now almost complete in the sense that stage two has been signed off and we are now completing stage three, which is the detail within classrooms and movement and so on. That requires its own additional discussion.

So this is an ongoing process which has gone quite far but there is still a bit of a way to go, absolutely.

Hon. L F Llamas: But, Mr Speaker, with regard to the parking underneath and the importance of ensuring that in particular, pupils are not given the opportunity to use the parking beneath it as leverage to get out of exams and things like this.

And obviously being such a big school, 2,600 pupils that will be going into the school, having to undertake security threats of this nature in such a big school will obviously have its toll on the education, the timing and obviously the location of the school, which is in a corner which is obviously within the traffic flow from the cruise terminal. What has been the reaction and the advice given by those who advise the Minister on this sort of security risk?

395 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member has listed a large number of issues, a lot of which I do not agree with as issues. Hiding in the car park in order to avoid an exam, I mean nowadays you hide round the corner in the Victoria Stadium or have I misunderstood?

400 Hon. L F Llamas: No, Mr Speaker, he has misunderstood. What I mean is hoax calls obviously from children who could threaten that there could be risks underneath in the parking which obviously would need investigating and could lead to stifling and bringing the school to a halt on many occasions.

405 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I would put it to the House that the danger of a hoax call now, with a parking site just this far away from an active classroom, is much greater than if it is in an underground car park with a huge slab protecting the school.

I think if anything, the safety will be enhanced in that situation to what it is now, so I do not accept that concern.

410 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, in the 2015 manifesto the GSLP Liberals had a manifesto commitment to expand if necessary the St Bernadette's or Dr Giraldi Home onto the location currently used by St Martin's. Is this still the case or are they deviating from that policy?

415 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I suppose that the hon. Member is referring to that question on the sites regarding expressions of interest. I explained the Government's position in my answer and I have nothing further to add.

Hon. L F Llamas: But could the Minister confirm whether this is one of the possibilities or has this been disregarded?

420 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, in all honesty I have not yet been involved in that. I expect to be involved as Minister for the Environment, as I am in all allocations of land, but I have not had any involvement so I cannot answer that question.

425 Nor was it specifically asked in the original question, so I was not in any way able to look into that information.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, given now that the plans have been disclosed to the public in the John Mackintosh Hall, and the Government has now finalised that stage of the preparation, has the Government now made a decision on how it will actually populate the two secondary schools?

430 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this is a matter which is still being finalised. I have made this clear in my discussions, for example my recent discussions with the Teachers' Association who had expressed, had made some comments on one of the possibilities which was the alternation between receiving schools, but no decision has yet been made. This is part of the consultation process to which I have made numerous references in the past.

440 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, with reference to the answer given to Question 225/2018, I did not quite get an answer or it missed me completely, the comment made in public by the Minister that if the 2019 deadline is not met, that some schools could ... in particular this was made after a press conference to deal with the two secondary schools – that the transitioning could occur in between the academic year.

Is that the case just for the two secondary schools or is that the case for more than just the two secondaries?

445 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I said I would not answer that question because it is a hypothetical one.

Mr Speaker: I do not agree that it is a hypothetical question because I recall seeing the Minister in an interview on television accepting the possibility that the schools might move after the Easter or Christmas vacations. Therefore, it is not hypothetical; he himself has included that possibility.

455 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, absolutely, Mr Speaker, and I apologise if I have given the wrong impression. It is not that it is hypothetical. What is clearly not definite and therefore has to be hypothetical is to which schools would end up in that situation. I said that it was possible but at the moment we still have those target dates. That has not changed and therefore I do not know which schools might have to have their opening or their move changed to another holiday period. Therefore, I cannot answer that question, Mr Speaker.

460 Once we have that information then I would be very happy to share that.

Hon. L F Llamas: However, and without wanting to use any hypothetical questions, but given that the statement has been made, was that statement and the content of that statement made with the assurances and backing of the teachers and the Education Department, in that it would be possible if need be to transition schools in that two-week period, whether it is Christmas or Easter?

470 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, we must not take what I said out of context. What I said was relative to the fact that we certainly cannot move a school in the middle of term time. Some schools would be easier to move than others. I would put it to you, Mr Speaker, that a relatively small first school would be easier to move in a relatively smaller period of time than a large comprehensive school, and this is something that would have to be discussed with the schools to see whether it was possible or not.

It is a possibility in the future but we are not there yet.

475 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can we have some assurances from the Minister for Education that all is being done to be on top of the sensitivities associated with moving schools during a period which can be very close to exam time for students, please?

480 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Absolutely, Mr Speaker.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, in relation to Question 229, did the Minister actually say that this is something which is currently being discussed with the Fire Department?

485 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there are two levels of discussion and they include the Fire Department or the Fire and Rescue Service and specialist fire consultants. Where we are in this stage as to the detail, as to whether the fire consultants have passed on their recommendations to the Fire Service yet or not, I have not got that information. But certainly, both are key elements in that discussion.

490 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, but the Government cannot confirm that evacuation points and meeting points for pupils has been identified and agreed?

495 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker, this is part of the process. We cannot identify those points until we have the school designed. Now we are going to stage three, now we will know how the different classrooms will be populated, what kind of flow there will be. Now is the stage for that sort of thing, you cannot do it when it is just a plan with empty spaces in it.

So this is an ongoing process, it is something that cannot be done before it is actually done.

500 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, but would this not be something that would have been consulted and agreed on in the same way as the evacuation has a traffic impact from the onset from the moment go, before actually designing and deciding on locations? These sort of things should have been agreed with by then. (Interjection)

505 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, we have a plot of land and I have to be careful, Mr Speaker, because I have brought a motion to this House where there will be ample time to debate. I want to avoid the need to debate it now and debate it again, but later, at the proper time if I may say, Mr Speaker.

510 But we are limited in Gibraltar as to the space that we can provide but within that, the design will inform what evacuation routes there have to be, what access routes there have to be. These are things that have to be developing continuously and there will be iterations and there will be changes as we improve, before finally opening the school.

I hope, Mr Speaker, that I will not have to answer these same questions every month or every other month because we must expect that this is a live process. It is a dynamic live process which does have to evolve and grow as I say, as the process proceeds.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, in relation to the answer given to Question 227 to do with the parking beneath the footprints, from my understanding the new Notre Dame is already being built so those designs should already be more than agreed and firmed up, in the same way as – I cannot recall now and I am sure I can find a picture of it – the two secondary schools had already allocated a number of parking spaces.

Is the Minister able to provide the number of parking spaces that will be provided in each school, given that obviously that information does exist?

525 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, we have an area allocated to parking. How they are going to be allocated is under consideration. The number of spaces for perhaps rental, a number perhaps for purchase, a number for one or the other thing, the number of electric charging points and so on, all these have a bearing on the configuration of the car parking, on the size of the parking bays and therefore, these are things that we have general figures, but not specific. And these again are being developed as we go along.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

535 If I may keep the Minister on the same question, 227, can the Minister advise the House whether it is absolutely essential to the viability of the construction of the schools, that the available parking that is created is in fact sold to the private sector?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Sorry, could he repeat the question? I did not catch it all.

540 Hon. R M Clinton: Certainly, Mr Speaker.

Can the Minister advise the House whether the viability of the entire schools project is dependent on the selling of these parking spaces underneath the schools or is it that the Government actually has an option not to sell these parking spaces and retain them within the public use of the school itself?

545

And just a rider to the question, is the Minister aware of any school in Gibraltar that has actually sold off a portion of its footprint to the private sector?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this question is quite bizarre. I will go back to the second part of my answer to that question. The number of spaces and the method of allocation is under consideration.

Mr Speaker, we are building these schools not because we are trading it off to anybody; we are building these schools because we are in dire need of them and therefore, my answer to the hon. Member is no, the number of spaces and the method of allocation is under consideration. I think that his reference to us selling off part to the private sector is ... 'bizarre' is the word that I come up with.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, the Minister may find it bizarre, but in fact that is the reality. From all the information that I have seen that the Government has released on this project, it is the Government's intention, and he can perhaps correct me, to actually sell – or to use his own words, rent out to the private sector – these parking spaces. So he is in fact giving away, or selling an interest in land on which our schools are built and he cannot deny that.

Now, what I would like to know from the Minister is, is this still being considered by the Government as an option, i.e. it does not have to sell or rent these parking spaces, it may retain them for school use, or is the Government absolutely committed and has no option but to rent or sell the spaces?

I am sure the Chief Minister will stand up now and help out the Minister, because the Minister still does not seem to understand what I am saying. (Interjections)

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, no. The Chief Minister is going to get up to tell the hon. Member that there is no school use for parking. Pupils do not neither learn to park or drive in schools. Therefore, his question is based on a suggestion which we do not recognise. (Interjection)

Hon. R M Clinton: Well, Mr Speaker, unfortunately the Chief Minister really again, has not added much to what I am getting at. And the point, Mr Speaker, is this: is the Government absolutely determined to rent or sell off to the private sector areas underneath our schools – yes or no?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Government is intent on making the best use of land in Gibraltar.

As Joe Bossano said in his first Budget Speech as Chief Minister of Gibraltar in 1988, the only thing that we have is our land and our people, and we must make more efficient use of both of those and that is where the success of Gibraltar lies in the future. And that is how the Government plans land use for the future, with regard to those two key views as to how we make Gibraltar more efficient.

Hon. R M Clinton: So, Mr Speaker, I take it from the Chief Minister's intervention that he is in fact confirming to this House that it is the Government's intention to sell areas underneath our schools to the private sector?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Government is confirming to the House what it has said publicly about the school projects and re-confirming its commitment to the principles set out in 1988 by Joe Bossano in the first speech given 30 years ago now, by a Chief Minister of Gibraltar on a Budget, that we will make the most efficient use of our land, which is our principal resource and our people, our second principal resource.

And that means making efficient use of all the land that we have available and if that means sharing types of uses, it means sharing types of uses in a desire to be the most modern, most efficient, make the most modern and most efficient use of our land.

600 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, if I may, I think that when we talk about the best use of land 30 years ago, it might not mean the best use of land today, because today we are living in an era where there is huge insecurity in terms of security. And to think that in an area built up, where there are going to be about 2,000 children, that land might be sold off to private buyers who could put their cars there, one could imagine the worst. Whilst 2,000 children are 605 around in a highly densely populated area, for me, it might not be the best use of the land. For the Government, it might be the best use of land for other reasons, but I am thinking in terms of the best use of land for the children, and it is highly worrying.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, the Government takes the view that what it said 30 610 years ago about a principle, not about use of land, which is what the hon. Lady has failed to address in what I assume was a question, is still as true today as it was 30 years ago and it will be in 30 years from now, because we will still be probably the smallest jurisdiction in Europe having to make the best possible use of land.

And in that context, Mr Speaker, if the hon. Lady thinks that she can get away, in her 615 presumed question, with suggesting for one moment that the Government would do something which endangers our children, she is not addressing the Government that is sitting in front of her. She is addressing a Government that must exist in her mind.

The Government is not just going to provide the best schools possible for our children. It is going to provide the most secure schools possible for our children. And I do detect, Mr Speaker, 620 that we may fall into the trap of going down the road that we went in respect of LNG where it was suggested, for a serious part of the last election campaign, that the Government might do things which might put at risk any part of the geography of Gibraltar and the people of Gibraltar.

If we were not going to put at risk the people of Waterport Terraces or of the north of Gibraltar, there is absolutely no chance whatsoever that we would do anything that would put at 625 the slightest risk the children of Gibraltar in the new schools that we want to develop.

And selling parking is not going to put anyone at risk. Indeed, Mr Speaker, it may protect people more because there may not be on-street parking as close to the schools as there are today. Or is it that the hon. Lady has not worked out that you are more likely to be at risk of 630 somebody unknown to you parking alongside one of our schools today, than you are if you sell parking to people who have to give you their details, who are only able to enter the car park with the number plate which is registered to a particular parking space? Isn't that obviously safer, Mr Speaker? Of course it is and the Government would not do something that is unsafe.

And, Mr Speaker, I have a huge amount of time for her as she knows, but I deprecate any 635 suggestion that any Member of this Government would for one moment countenance doing something that puts a child or children at risk. Her children, my children, our children will go to that school and we would not for one moment do something that puts it at the very slightest of risk.

Mr Speaker: Hon. Members are now debating on the question of whether parking should be 640 allowed under the schools and therefore we are moving on because they will have another opportunity to do so when the motion is tabled.

Q220/2018
Community facilities –
Supplementary questions

Mr Speaker: Yes, the Hon. Edwin Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, would it be a convenient moment for you to allow me to refer to 645 this schedule that was given in answer to Question 220?

Mr Speaker: Yes.

Hon. E J Reyes: It is a relatively easy schedule to understand, Mr Speaker, except for one 650 point which needs clarification.

On the schedule it shows that on 29th and 30th January, due to inclement weather, it follows pretty obviously that the outdoor pitch, in other words an outdoor facility, had to be cancelled. Yet just below that, when it comes to St Anne's it starts on 29th January and goes on for almost a month. It says inclement weather and repairs to gym.

655 My understanding, and the Minister may need to correct me, is that the facility available to be used in St Anne's is actually a gymnasium and therefore, the inclement weather does not really affect a gymnasium. Is it all due to repairs to the gym?

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
660 Yes, Mr Speaker, I believe this refers to that event during one of the sessions or one of the times when we had inclement weather when scaffolding in the area collapsed. Therefore as a precaution the gym was closed because that was adjacent to it and therefore, it was not possible just in case there was a further problem which could have affected the roof of the gym.

I believe, subject to confirmation, that that is the reason for that.

Hon. E J Reyes: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

That does clarify and make a lot more sense. Thank you. But there is in there implied my assumption from previous answers that the only facility within St Anne's is actually the gymnasium. There is no outdoor facility at St Anne's. It has not in the past so therefore it is nothing new, is it?

670

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am providing information that has been provided to me. So, if there are other facilities, they have certainly not been removed from use or they would have been on this list.

675

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q234-235/2018
Hot school lunches –
Operation and costs

Clerk: Question 234, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide details as to how the hot school 680 lunches will operate for each school, together with the additional estimated cost in preparing schools for this initiative and the estimated cost to parents?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

685

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 235.

Clerk: Question 235, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, is the Government considering implementing a pilot scheme on hot school lunches prior to September 2019?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

695

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, this is currently under consideration.

700

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just in relation to the responses to those questions, will the Government consider in respect of those families who are unable to meet any of the costs relating to hot school lunches, whether a Government subsidy would be available for those families?

705

A Member: It will be means tested.

Hon. E J Phillips: Means-tested?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, I was – 710

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): We are being asked a question about something we have announced.

715

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: We have already announced that, Mr Speaker, that it would be free to those families who would not be able to contribute. I was clarifying with the Chief Minister, who announced that before I was Minister for Education, when my colleague was.

Q236-237/2018

Children with special needs – Number attending Government schools; learning support

Clerk: Question 236, the Hon. L F Llamas.

720

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state how many pupils suffering from visual impairment, dyslexia, attention deficit disorder, autism, Down's syndrome and other special needs attend Government schools., giving a breakdown by school?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

725

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 237.

Clerk: Question 237, the Hon. L F Llamas.

730 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state for each pupil suffering from visual impairment, dyslexia, attention deficit disorder, autism, Down's syndrome and other special needs attending Government schools, what additional learning support is offered in each classroom by way of learning support assistants including (a) the number of pupils with special 735 educational needs in each class; (b) the number of learning support assistants and (c) the school the pupil attends?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

740 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, the information in relation to Question 236 can be found on the Government website.

And in relation to Question 237, as I have explained in answer to previous questions, the allocation of such support will vary through the school year.

745 The total number of LSAs is 102, which is 13 more than the last time I answered on this subject. I should, however, point out that I consider the use of the word 'suffering' to be totally inappropriate in this context. Perhaps, Mr Speaker, the hon. Member would care to refer to the language etiquette leaflet issued by the Ministry for Equality.

750 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, just on that point, the reason why I phrased this question in this particular manner is because I took it from the former Shadow Minister for Education when they were in Opposition to ensure that there was not any leeway in making sure that my question gets answered.

755 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Times have moved on! (Interjections)

A Member: Thank God!

Q238/2018

First, Middle and Secondary schools – Pupils enrolled since 2011

Clerk: Question 238, the Hon. L F Llamas.

760 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can Government provide a breakdown by age and gender of the pupils enrolled in First, Middle and Secondary schools, as at 30th September 2011/2012/2013/ 2014/2015/2016/2017 providing details of each school and class?

765 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, I refer the hon. Member to the Gibraltar Government website where he will find the information requested from 2012 onwards.

Q239-240/2018

Education Department expenditure and requests –
Detailed breakdown since 2012

770 Clerk: Question 239, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can Government state the amounts spent by the Education Department from 1st January 2012 to date in: (a) Maintenance; (b) Minor works and (c) Major Works, giving a breakdown by school, amount, date, contractor and details of the works carried out?
775

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

780 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 240.

Clerk: Question 240, the Hon. L F Llamas.

785 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can Government state since 1st January 2012 to date what requests for (a) Maintenance; (b) Minor works and (c) Major Works remain unresolved, giving a breakdown by school; date report was made; nature of each report?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.
790

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the information requested is available in online statistics in relation to Question 239. The contractors, with very few exceptions, are GJBS.

795 In relation to Question 240, all requests have been addressed or are in process. There are a number of issues in many schools which are unresolved despite our best intentions, which is why we are embarked in a programme of providing new schools and major refurbishments.

Hon. L F Llamas: Is the Government able to disclose which ones are in the process or unresolved?
800

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I think that the fact that we are having to move to new schools and carry out major refurbishments will clearly show which schools we are referring to.

805 Clerk: Question 241, the Hon. –

Mr Speaker: Do you have a further supplementary?

Hon. L F Llamas: It is on 238.

Mr Speaker: On 238, yes.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I have been able to log into the Government website and statistics, and the Question 238 does actually ask for details relating to each school and class.
815 The information available online is specifically on each school and year, it does not have a breakdown for the classes. Is this something that the Hon. Minister can provide please?

820 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, as I have said before, there will be a variation during the course of the year as some students move from class to class. I have said before that this is a hugely onerous task going back all that number of years, class by class. I will need to consult and see whether that information is in fact available.

825 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I understand that school sizes can vary throughout the year, but the question actually does say as at 30th September 2017, for example. Is this something that the Government cannot look at?

830 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, I said that I will see what information I can extract. But as I say, it is an onerous task. If the hon. Member is saying look, what is the average school class size and so on, maybe that is what he is after. But I will certainly endeavour to obtain this information.

835 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I would simply like to seek your advice on this. Would it be possible to table the same question at the next sitting in order to give ample time to the Minister and his Department to provide an answer to this question?

Mr Speaker: Is it that you want it to be on the record of Hansard?

Hon. L F Llamas: Yes, please.

840 Mr Speaker: Then yes, otherwise the Minister could undertake to write to you. But if you want it to be on the record, I will allow it.

The only thing is that in the answer the Member will notice it is from 2012 onwards, not 2011.

Q241/2018
E-registration for secondary school pupils –
Introduction

845 Clerk: Question 241, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, does the Government intend to introduce e-registration for pupils attending secondary schools as from September, 2019?

850 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, both Bayside and Westside currently conduct their registration sessions in an electronic format and will continue to do so in September 2019.

Q242/2018

Gibdock lease –

Renewal date; environmental restrictions

855 Clerk: Question 242, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Government state when the Gibdock lease is up for renewal and whether Government is intending to impose any environmental restrictions such as a requirement for shore supplied power and restrictions in the hours of operation where noise is a problem under the terms of any new lease?
860

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

865 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Gibdock lease is up for renewal, details of discussions are confidential.

However, the Government has engaged with Gibdock in order to reduce their environmental impact quite independently of any renewal discussions.

870 Hon. T N Hammond: Would the Minister not agree that discussions reference ... and I understand the discussions themselves are confidential, but this would represent an opportunity to perhaps impose environmental restrictions such as those regarding noise and certainly those regarding omissions from Gibdock?

875 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, as I say, we are in discussions quite independently of any renewal. I think the need to improve the environmental impact of every single activity in Gibraltar is something that we aspire to and need not be linked to anything else. So that is my brief within my Department and I will continue to pursue that.

880 Hon. T N Hammond: So can the Minister confirm then, whether the discussions that are taking place outside of those discussions which are taking place for the lease renewal do reference the provision of shore-supplied power to reduce emissions and the management of noise, particularly at night that is coming from the dockyard?

885 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I believe that would require another question to be lodged. I am not leading on the discussions on lease renewal. I am leading on discussions of environmental improvement and some of the things that the hon. Member has mentioned, as we stated in a press release not too long ago, are part of these discussions. But I am not linking one to the other necessarily.

890 Hon. T N Hammond: I am pleased to hear that the Minister is leading on the other discussions, reference the environment, so hopefully he can therefore at least make clear whether yes in seeking environmental improvement, whether those two particular provisions – because there is a great deal of interest in the area from residents, as you can imagine – are part of the agenda and whether he can inform this House how those talks are proceeding, how those discussions are proceeding and whether he is hopeful of an outcome that will be satisfying to those who live in those areas.

900 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am hopeful. There are areas that we are actively discussing that we have made progress on, but it is not for me here to defend or otherwise the performance of Gibdock. Just to say that we are engaged with them and we are looking forward to further improvements.

905 Hon. T N Hammond: And one last question if I may, Mr Speaker. As these particular discussions are not related to the lease, does the Minister have any idea when those discussions may be complete and perhaps a public announcement made?

910 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, these discussions are ongoing and there could be new issues arising and there is a regular contact with Gibdock both from my Ministry and from the Environmental Agency, so this is an ongoing thing. It is not one in which there is a particular time frame.

Hon. T N Hammond: I did say it was the last question, Mr Speaker, but actually the Minister's response solicits a further question.

915 So if I am asked by residents of the area, as I frequently am, whether I have asked questions and what progress there is, my response at the moment seems to me can only be, well Government is talking to Gibdock but on these particular issues of which you are particularly interested, the Government cannot explain to me or describe to me any detail as to what progress or as to when something may be achieved in respect of those issues. (Interjections)

920 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, it would not surprise the hon. Member or anybody in this House that the Government, and certainly in representation the Government, my Ministry and I are pursuing these and many other issues (Interjection) very strongly in order to improve the situation, not just in Gibdock but everywhere else in Gibraltar.

925 And so, anybody who goes to the hon. Member can firstly be referred to me and to my Ministry, and I will be very glad to talk to them and engage with them and tell them what we are doing, and can be reassured that we are doing everything in our power to improve the environmental performance of every operation in Gibraltar.

Q243/2018

Updated schedule of payments made – Including Commonwealth Park and Alameda Gardens

Clerk: Question 243, the Hon. L F Llamas.

930 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, further to Question 607/2017, can the Government provide an updated schedule of payments made, to include Commonwealth Park and Alameda Gardens and the names of the entities the payments have been made to?

935 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the information requested by the hon. Member is in the schedule that I hand over.

940 Let me say, Mr Speaker, that as in the case of Question 607/2017, I have not identified the different entities. Some of them are in competition with each other and therefore, as I said at the time, without their specific agreement I think it would be unfair to mention them by name across the House.

Q244/2018
Maintenance of planted areas –
Tender process

Clerk: Question 244, the Hon. L F Llamas.

945

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, does the Government intend to open for tender the maintenance of planted areas around Gibraltar currently carried out through contracts?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

950

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the Government is considering this.

Q245/2018
North Front Cemetery –
Maintenance costs and contractor

Clerk: Question 245, the Hon. L F Llamas.

955

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, since April 2017, can the Government state what the cost of clearing, maintaining and enhancing the North Front Cemetery together with the name of the contractor or contractors?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

960

965

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q244/2018
Maintenance of planted areas –
Tender process
Supplementary question

Hon. L F Llamas: Sorry, can I just have a supplementary on Question 244?

970 By when does the Minister intend to open for tender these contracts? Is there a timeline that he is thinking of at this point in time?

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
975 No, Mr Speaker, we are considering the way in which this could be done in relation to how Gibraltar may be divided up in sectors or in types of work that needs to be done. So it is currently a matter that is being considered, but I cannot give any more information at this stage.

HEALTH, CARE AND JUSTICE

Q246-249/2018
GHA Board meetings –
Financial reports; National Dementia Committee;

Clerk: Question 246, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

980 Can the Government please advise the date of the GHA Board meeting at which the 'executive decision' to remove quarterly financial reports from the public part of GHA Board meetings was agreed to by the GHA Board?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

985

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 247 to 249.

Clerk: Question 247, the Hon. R M Clinton.

990

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain why a report from the Director of Finance and Procurement is no longer a standing agenda item for GHA Board meetings, even if held in private, and the absence of this report, how does the Board monitor the financial performance and resource allocation of the GHA?

995

Clerk: Question 248, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, has the Government established a National Dementia Committee in accordance with its 2015 National Dementia Vision and Strategy for Gibraltar?

1000

Clerk: Question 249, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, does the Minister for Health still stand by his personal commitment given to taxpayers in his Budget Speech on 27th June 2017 that, and I quote "In my first year as Minister for Health, the GHA will come within Budget."
1005

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1010 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the decision to remove the quarterly financial reports from the public part of the GHA Board Meetings was taken by the CEO and his executive team prior to the GHA Board meeting of 21st September 2016.

1015 The Board Report from the GHA Director of Finance and Procurement is now discussed in the in-camera session of the GHA Board. The report may contain commercially sensitive information and disclosing this to the public may hinder the GHA's ability to obtain the best value for money for taxpayers. The financial performance and resource allocation is reviewed and discussed amongst Board members at each GHA Board meeting. The Government of Gibraltar publishes the annual GHA accounts at the end of the financial year, together with the estimates for the next financial year.

1020 The Government is in the process of deciding on the individuals who will form part of the National Dementia Committee.

I can personally attest, Mr Speaker, that in the last year, my team at the GHA and I have made important strides in improving financial control and accountability, the full details of which I will be delighted to set out at this year's Budget debate.

1025 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for his answer.

I did not quite catch the answer to Question 247: there is no report on the agenda from the Director of Finance and Procurement so I fail to see how the GHA Board can discuss financial information if there is no such report to be had, even in camera. Could the Minister please clarify that for me?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I have just risen from my first reply so I will try not to get contentious in my first reply to a supplementary question.

1035 The answer is in the original answer that I gave to the hon. Gentleman which is that the report is discussed in the in-camera part of the GHA Board meeting. Therefore, he will not have sight of that agenda because it is in camera, but it is discussed during the in-camera aspect of the Board meeting.

1040 Hon. R M Clinton: Yes, Mr Speaker, I fully understood what he said, but he still does not understand my point. My point is this: if he were to look at, for example, the agenda from the 2015 GHA Board held on 1st July 2015, he will quite clearly see there is a report – 6.3 Report to the Finance and Procurement – in camera. But again, I do not see that in the agenda for current Board meetings.

1045 So again, I ask the Minister, does the Director of Procurement present a report to the GHA and if so, why isn't it a standing agenda item?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, for the very reason that I told him, that it is discussed in the in-camera section, the report is presented in the in-camera section and it is discussed by Board members in the in-camera section.

1050 As I told him as well, the decision not to include it as part of the public aspect of the Board discussion is for the reasons that I gave him here and there is no more to add, other than to say that the discussion is had by the Board members but in the in-camera part of the GHA Board meeting.

1055 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, may I suggest to the Minister, he may wish to consider to include as an agenda item perhaps for my peace of mind and the peace of mind of the public, that the Board are considering this by having actually listed on the agenda as 'Report from the Director of Finance and Procurement – in camera', so we do at least know the Board are discussing it, rather than the Minister having to come to the House and explain, yes of course 1060 the Board are discussing it. But it is not on the agenda, Mr Speaker, so could he perhaps be kind enough to ensure that it is on the agenda in future, so that for the benefit of those who are not privy to the in-camera session, that we do know that at least some numbers are being presented?

1065 And furthermore, as we do know now, the Director or Medical Director does not give an overview in the same way the Chief Executive used to in his report, it would at least give some comfort that the GHA Board is considering these matters formally, as the agenda would indicate.

1070 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I do not think that the hon. Gentleman has understood my reply. I have told him that the report is discussed, but it is discussed in the in-camera section of the GHA Board. So I hope that he has now –

Mr Speaker: That is not what he has asked you. He has asked you to consider whether you will go back and put it on the (Interjection by Hon. N F Costa) actual agenda of the Board, with a note that it is in-camera.

1075 Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, that is what he is asking me but –

Mr Speaker: That is what he has now asked you for.

1080 Hon. N F Costa: Yes, but he finishes off by saying that the Medical Director now does not discuss it in the way that he used to and I am telling him that it is being discussed in the way that it used to, except that we do not have the agenda item on the open part of the GHA Board.

So, to be clear, the report is discussed in the in-camera section of the GHA Board meeting, Mr Speaker.

1085 Hon. R M Clinton: Finally, Mr Speaker, not to labour the point any further, will the Minister undertake in future to at least include the agenda item, as I suggest, with the words ‘in camera’ next to it so that we know that it is there on the agenda as a standing item, as all the others are?

Now I know that he is saying the report is presented, fine I take his word for it, but can we have it on the agenda?

1090 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, it really is quite something when you have the Party opposite who, when my hon. predecessor started the process of having open GHA Board meetings, we were heavily criticised for having GHA Board meetings in the open, and at the time, the hon. Lady who represented the party of the GSD was adamant that to have an open process and have GHA Board meetings in the open was perhaps not the best way to conduct GHA business.

1095 And now, we have a situation not six or five years later, asking us to have an item on the agenda in respect of the in-camera part. The in-camera part of the GHA Board meeting is not placed on the open agenda of the GHA Board meeting because it is discussed in the private part of the GHA Board meeting. For that reason, Mr Speaker, it would be a nonsense to add an agenda item in the open part of the GHA Board meeting on a matter that is discussed in the in-camera GHA Board meeting. Because if I were to apply and follow his logic, then I would have to list in the GHA open Board meeting, every single item discussed in the in-camera part of the GHA Board meeting.

1100 So no, Mr Speaker, I will not accede to his suggestion.

1105 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, it was such a stupid idea that his predecessor actually did it! And again, I refer him back to the agenda of 1st July 2015, Matters for Report – (1) Chief Executive; (2) Director of Public Health; (3) Report, Director of Finance and Procurement – in camera. That is all I am asking for, nothing complicated – his predecessor did it.

1110 If he is saying, 'Well look, there are things in camera – why put it on the agenda?', how do we know what else is being discussed in camera? This is particularly critical; we are not talking about has the entrance area been swept this month or not in camera. This is critical. He has a budget of over £100 million: we want to know it is discussed regularly, albeit in camera, fine. His predecessor did it; why can't he?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, he does realise that we live in linear time and there is such a thing called the effluxion of time and the agenda item of which he speaks was in 2015. Subsequent to that point in time, there is a decision by the CEO in 2016 not to have those reports discussed on the agenda of the open GHA Board.

1120

And therefore, it makes no sense to me as the current GHA Chairman to place an item that is discussed in the in-camera section of the GHA Board in the open section of the GHA Board. Because trying to be consistent and applying the logic that he wishes me to accede to, if I were to decide for this particular item to add it to the open Board meeting agenda, I would feel that I also have to add all the items that we list on the agenda for the private part of the GHA Board meeting.

1125

So no, Mr Speaker, for the third or the fourth time, I will not accede to adding an item on the agenda of the GHA Open Board meeting for discussion in the in-camera section of the Board meeting, Mr Speaker.

1130

Mr Speaker: And because the Hon. Minister has insisted for the fourth or the third time that that remains the position, I am afraid that we are going to move on to something else.

1135

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may, he has raised a very interesting point which I would like to develop. Mr Speaker, we will leave that. Is the Minister actually suggesting to this House, that there are two agendas for the GHA Board, one which is actually published on the website and another one which is private? Is that true?

1140

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman should pick up a dictionary. There is an in-camera GHA Board meeting. Therefore there is the public part which the GSD was against in 2012 and the in-camera part which has always been part of the process.

The hon. Gentleman graces us with his presence every time there is an open GHA Board meeting and we are delighted to have him and at the conclusion of that meeting we say thank you to the hon. Gentleman and any other members of the press and we excuse them because we tell them we will now discuss the in-camera part of the GHA Board meeting.

1145

Therefore, it is a surprise to me that he should be surprised that there is a part of a GHA Board meeting that is not publicly exposed, given that it is held in camera, which is behind closed doors.

1150

And let me also tell the hon. Gentleman that I am also delighted that he should take his cue from The Gibraltar Chronicle, because it was The Gibraltar Chronicle that was asking these questions to me. So maybe perhaps they should be referring to The Gibraltar Chronicle what questions it is that they are going to be asking me.

1155

Hon. R M Clinton: Well, Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for referring to The Gibraltar Chronicle because I have it precisely here. (Interjection) And of course, Mr Speaker, if the Minister had graced us with his presence at that meeting and the meeting before, from which he was both absent, we might have been endowed with the benefit of his wisdom in those Board meetings, in camera or not in camera.

Well, Mr Speaker, we will move on as you suggest. The National Dementia Vision and Strategy for Gibraltar 2015: we are now in 2018. Can I ask the Minister what is taking so long in considering the constituent members of this committee and when does he hope to make a decision?

1165 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, at least I am glad that the hon. Gentleman agrees that the Government is very well endowed with the benefit of wisdom and, Mr Speaker, the reason why I did not attend the first GHA Board meeting to which he refers is because I am afraid I was in Parliament and as much as I try to expand my skill set, bi-location is not yet a gift that I have discharged. However, I do ask for that gift increasingly, given the duties that I discharge.

1170 Secondly, Mr Speaker, in respect of the question he asks about the National Dementia Strategy, he is right that we have not yet set the committee members for that particular body and the reason is because, as the hon. Gentleman knows, the Government has opened the Bella Vista Day Centre, Hillside and we have also added a floor to John Mackintosh Home and it was the considered advice of clinicians, of service groups and of users that it was very important to have those sites and those facilities rolled out and then to continue with the work of the National Dementia Strategy.

1175 I am pleased to inform him that the National Dementia Strategy has almost finished its revision. It had to be updated, given the addition of the excellent facilities that have been rolled out and there has been a meeting now, I think three weeks ago, or two weeks ago, between the clinician who is updating the National Dementia Strategy, with the Gibraltar Alzheimer's & Dementia Society (GADS) and with the Elderly Residential Service, to discuss the different parts of the National Dementia Strategy including who are the persons who should be nominated to sit on the National Dementia Strategy Committee.

1180 So we are hopeful to be able to announce the names of the persons who will sit in that committee very, very soon.

1185 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for his answer on the National Dementia Committee and I look forward to his announcement in due course.

Mr Speaker, coming to Question 249, and I would just like a very simple yes or no answer from the Minister, although it may be just wishful thinking on my part: does the Minister stand by his statement that the GHA will come within Budget, yes or no?

1190 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, it is wonderful how I give answers to the hon. Gentleman and he asks me questions again to answers which I have already given.

1195 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, obviously my brain does not function as well as his does, but I definitely did not hear a simple answer to the question. He said he would give some kind of update, etc. That was not my question, Mr Speaker. My question was, does he stand by the statement, yes or no? Will he come within Budget, yes or no?

1200 Hon. N F Costa: And I have already told him, Mr Speaker, that I will be delighted to discuss all of that at the Budget session.

1205 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, again I am grateful for your guidance or not on this, but I do not think we are under any rules regarding the future Budget in terms of discussing an outcome, since we have not had the Estimates Book yet. So again, a very simple question – I do not want to discuss it at Budget time, I would like to know now, today – is he still confident of that statement, yes or no?

1210 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, thankfully for him and I think for this House, I do not regulate my life depending on his wishes or his whims. I have already given him the answer to the question, which is that I will be delighted to discuss it during the course of the Budget debate. If he does not like it, Mr Speaker, so be it.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker – (Interjection)

1215 Mr Speaker: The fact of the matter is that it is abundantly clear to me that you are not going to get an answer to that specific question. And because you are not going to get an answer to that specific question, we are moving on to the next.

Right, you are unable to get an answer to that question – 1220 Hon. R M Clinton: Can I ask you on a Point of Order, Mr Speaker?

Am I allowed to ask questions of the Government and expect an answer, yes or no? (Interjections)

1225 Mr Speaker: The Government is not obliged to answer any specific question. If they do not want to answer it, they do not have to, it is a matter for them ultimately. It is not a matter for the rules. I am not the arbiter as to the adequacy of a Government answer to an Opposition question.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I? (Mr Speaker: Yes.) Thank you very much.

1230 Mr Speaker, may I ask the hon. Minister a supplementary. He may have answered this but in my old age, I cannot recall exactly whether he has answered this particular point. (Interjection)

1235 But does he not agree with me that in circumstances where the cost of running the GHA has more than doubled since 2011, that in circumstances where the GHA or health expenditure is costing roughly about ... it was last year about £10 million per month – that is £120 million nearly a year – and in circumstances where the Government is now introducing efficiency measures, presumably to deal with the situation where we have in some areas runaway expenditure on the GHA, and indeed in circumstances where we now have or Gibraltar is facing Brexit where the Government is going to have to reposition areas of our economy in relation to that, and presumably that could have a knock on effect as well on revenue streams, that it is in those circumstances, imperative that we have greater transparency, not less transparency? And 1240 can the Minister explain to me why the Government is moving to less transparency at this particular point in time?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman's prefaces to his questions are longer than Wagner's The Ring of the Nibelung, which I recommend that he listens to.

1245 It is not that the Government is moving to less transparency, not at all. We have told the Hon. Mr Clinton that the finances of the GHA will be discussed at Budget time. All of the finances and all of the subheads will be discussed then. They can ask as many questions as they like during the course of the Budget debate and of course during the course of the Committee session.

1250 I do not know whether I heard the hon. Gentleman correctly, but the GHA's Budget has not doubled since the time that the – (Hon. D A Feetham: Cost.) No, no, the cost of the GHA – certainly I am looking at the last year of the GSD, which was 2011-12 and if I recall correctly, it may have been £89 million or something along those lines, and the cost last year was £119 million so we are nowhere near doubling the cost of the GHA.

1255 Hon. D A Feetham: I will have a look at the point. In fact I may have in mind the budget in – (Interjection) No, 2011 I think. But anyway, I will stand to be corrected if I am wrong, but I will go back to that.

1260 But the point is, Mr Speaker, that the Government takes a decision and the decision in this case is to hold in camera as from 2016 what had previously been discussed openly and, therefore, was subject to public scrutiny, was subject to comment by members of the public, by members of the press and indeed by the House, on a monthly basis after those meetings took place in public. It is for the Government to justify why it is going from a position of transparency – in other words, open meetings – to a position where that aspect is now being discussed in camera. I just do not have it clear in my mind why it is that at this particular 1265 juncture, taking all those factors that I outlined in my previous question, why it is that the Government is moving towards less transparency in this particular instance?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, as I said, I was not privy to the discussions that took place between the CEO of the GHA at the time and his executive team. But I have to tell him that even without being privy to those discussions, if I had been the Chairman of the GHA in 2012, I would never have placed the finances of the GHA for discussion in a public meeting during the course of the year, not just because of the reason that I gave this House, which is that if you have this open discussion about tenders and so on it could very much impact on the ability of the GHA to be able to enter into any subsequent negotiations following a tender, but also because as he well knows, finances are not reconciled until after the financial year. So to provide any figure at any point during the course of the financial year, which is subject to reconciliation and correction and audit, for me would have been a no-go area in the first place, mostly for that particular reason.

1280 But in any case, Mr Speaker, whereas the hon. Gentleman now espouses a philosophy of having the GHA Board meetings in the open, he has to remember that when he sat with the hon. Lady that no longer sits next to him –

Mr Speaker: No, you have talked about the hon. Lady this afternoon on three separate occasions.

Hon. N F Costa: Only?

Mr Speaker: Yes, you have, on three separate occasions. The present Members of the Opposition are not bound by what the hon. Lady that you are referring to said here in the House. Whatever question, whatever policy position she was taking, they are no longer committed to that, she has left politics.

1295 That does not mean that the new Shadow Minister for Health has got to follow the line of someone who is now actually working for the GHA. That is not a valid point to make and please do not make it any more, because I am getting a bit fed up of hearing the same thing over and over again. You are just repeating yourself and it is not a valid point, in my view, to make.

I do not think we are making much progress on this particular issue, I must say. So, unless we get something new that will persuade me to carry on, we are going to move on to the next question.

1300 Now, the Hon. the Chief Minister I think wants to say something.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Yes, Mr Speaker, because the Government takes a completely different view to you of whether the point is valid or not. The Government will insist on reminding Members of the GSD what their position was. They represent the Gibraltar Social Democrats and the Gibraltar Social Democrats, when they had the opportunity and were in Government, actually carried out a particular function in a particular way. We think it is appropriate and proper to remind the community, when they now suggest that we should be judged in a different way, that that was the way that they discharged the functions of Government when they were elected into Government.

1310 And if I may say so in particular, Mr Speaker, in respect of the questioner on this occasion, although he sometimes says that he is at the twilight of his political career, but I know him well enough to believe that he has got life left in him yet, (Laughter) he was in that Government, Mr Speaker. He was a member of the Government that acted in that way.

1315 And therefore, the Government considers that it is absolutely proper that in this House and outside it, to remind the public that when they had the chance to make public those debates of the GHA, and in particular debates in respect of the finances of the GHA, they chose not to. And when we have adopted one particular part of that, they are now in effect – Mr Feetham in particular – arguing against the position they took when they were in Government. And that for us is politically – to take one position when you sit in Opposition which is contrary to the position you have taken in Government – something that we think is valid and necessary to point out.

1320

Mr Speaker, I think we have demonstrated in the time that you have been determining the proceedings of this House, that we follow your rulings to the letter and are respectful of them. But as to the political value of a point, I think we are entitled to very respectfully say that we will take a different view, but also accept that if you feel it is time for us to move on to another point, to do so with great respect.

1325

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Minister has been referring to a lady who was never in Government. She was only a Member of the Opposition. (Interjections)

No?

1330

Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, this is the problem. Mrs Del Agua was Minister for Health – (Interjection by Mr Speaker) Mrs Del Agua was Minister for Health for four years.

Mr Speaker: My apologies. I apologise unreservedly. I thought that the Hon. Minister was referring to the Hon. Isobel Hammond. I apologise unreservedly.

1335

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I was going to go back as well to Hansard to have a look at the positions taken by Isobel Ellul-Hammond, because the hon. Gentleman actually put ... The reason why there is this confusion is because he said 2012 and of course in 2012 we were in Opposition; we were not in Government. That is why everybody has assumed that the hon. Member was referring to Isobel Ellul-Hammond. (Interjection)

1340

But look, Mr Speaker, may I say this, that the hon. Member is perfectly entitled as a matter of raw politics to say, 'Well, hang on a minute, it was done when you were in Government, it was done in a particular way.' But the reality is, may I just coin the phrase that has been used by Minister Costa when asked a question earlier on in the afternoon about a change in position in Government, he said the effluxion of time, things move on. Well, I suppose what is good for the goose is also good for the gander, and things do move on.

1345

Mr Speaker, the reality is what we are asking is, for the Government to explain its own position, because the Government started off with a position of having open meetings for everything and in 2016 changed that position in order to carve out into private the financial aspects of the GHA.

1350

I just have one more supplementary question because I do not think, I do not want listeners to this debate to think that this is just simply about numbers. (Interjection) Actually it is not. Yes of course, I will give way, yes.

Hon. Chief Minister: I am grateful to him because I will leave the supplementary to be dealt with by the Minister. I just want to deal with one particular point and that is the point which Mr Speaker made which he has now addressed.

Mr Speaker, you have apologised unreservedly. You do not need to apologise to us on this side of the House, we entirely accept that you believed we were dealing with somebody else and the only point I wanted to make on behalf of the whole Government, was that we thought it was valid to make the political point, and I am grateful for your indication.

And finally, Mr Speaker, in relation to an effluxion of time, Mr Speaker, it is one thing for time to pass; it is quite another for people to change their position. The hon. Lady to the right has passed in time and in philosophy and politics from the labels of the GSD. The hon. Gentleman to the left also, but hon. Members in the middle are stuck with being members of the Gibraltar Social Democrats. And if they want to make points which are contrary to the politics of that party, all they need to do is to just leave the Gibraltar Social Democrats and then they will be

1365

1370 free to make their modern new points. But otherwise they are lumbered with their record and I am grateful to the hon. Gentleman for giving way, so he can now continue with his supplementary.

Hon. D A Feetham: Well, thank you very much. Well, I suppose, Mr Speaker –

1375 Mr Speaker: You said you had one last supplementary.

Hon. D A Feetham: I suppose, Mr Speaker, we all change position. I mean he spent ten years calling me the Darth Vader of Gibraltar politics and I did not receive an invitation to meet Luke Skywalker earlier on! (Laughter and banging on desks) I have to say that aggrieved me totally!
1380 Does he want me to give way? I will give way in the spirit!

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the last thing I wanted was family conflict on the Skywalk.
The last thing Gibraltar needed was Darth Vader and Luke Skywalker in the same space with loaded light sabres. That is the only thing that concerned me, Mr Speaker.

1385 Mr Speaker: Now, your supplementary.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes. Thank you very much.

1390 Mr Speaker, does the Minister not accept that this is not an issue just simply about raw numbers?

Of course, look, I will give the Minister an example. One of the most interesting pieces of information that during my time in Opposition I derived from reports based on the minutes of these meetings, on the financials, was the fact that in 2012 the GHA Board discussed that there was a problem with the procurement side and that was causing significant concern to the GHA 1395 Board, alright? Now, that was a matter that I then brought to this House and I asked supplementary questions. It is a matter of public interest if the Board of the GHA thinks that there is an issue with public procurement within the GHA.

Efficiencies, for example, that the Government is also now undertaking in relation to the GHA. Of course, it involves numbers, but it involves also labour issues. These are all matters of 1400 public interest and therefore, if the Government closes the shutters by hiding off all that aspect in camera and does not allow the public, the Opposition and the press to properly scrutinise that aspect, then of course that I think is not in the best interest of democracy and I am just asking the Government to explain that.

1405 And does he not accept – this is my supplementary – that it is not just simply about pure numbers?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I have already explained that even if I had been privy to the conversations between the former CEO of the GHA in discussing the reasons why to remove the reports from the public part, I would have definitely agreed with that decision for the reasons 1410 that I have already enumerated.

Firstly, I do not think it helps the GHA's position to discuss financials when those financials could impact on the ability of the GHA to be able to negotiate best value for money on any particular contract. I do not think that it is wise to provide numbers during the course of a public debate before those numbers are reconciled and before they are checked. I think it actually 1415 causes more harm than good.

And therefore, as I said, even though I was not the Chairman of the GHA at the time, I stand by the decision to remove that discussion of the GHA agenda to the in-camera session.

Q250-258/2018

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Yes, Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 251 to 258.

1430

Clerk: Question 251, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Can the Government please update the answer provided to Question W127/2017 and provide details of the monthly number of in-patients being treated at Xanit Hospital in Spain for each month since August 2017?

1435

Clerk: Question 252, the Hon. D A Feetham.

1440

Clerk: Question 253, the Hon. D A Feetham.

1450

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Minister please provide a schedule setting out the number of nurses working in the Care Agency and Elderly Residential Services, stating whether those nurses are employed directly by the Care Agency and Elderly Residential Services on permanent and pensionable terms, a fixed-term contract or through recruitment consultants, together with their nationality?

Clerk: Question 255, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Minister please provide a schedule setting out the number of nurses working in each department of St Bernard's Hospital, also stating whether those nurses are employed directly by the GHA on permanent and pensionable terms, a fixed term contract or through recruitment consultants, together with their nationality?

1465 Clerk: Question 256, the Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Minister provide a schedule showing the length of contracts of all doctors employed at St Bernard's Hospital, showing the areas in which they practise, their nationality and the date they started?

1470 Clerk: Question 257, the Hon. D A Feetham.

1475 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, how much has the GHA, or the Government on its behalf, paid out in respect of claims made against the GHA in respect of the last two years, providing a breakdown on a case-by-case basis?

Clerk: Question 258, the Hon. D A Feetham.

1480 Hon. D A Feetham: Can the Government please provide details of the average waiting times for non-urgent referrals from the Primary Care Centre to consultants or doctors at the hospital since March 2017?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1485 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, we have been unable to extract data providing details of the number of inpatients being treated at foreign hospitals or medical establishments as at January 2017 or 2018, identifying each hospital and medical establishment.

1490 Further, may I inform the House, with respect to W126/2017, that the header of the table reading 'number of inpatients' being treated at foreign hospitals should have read 'number of patients referred'. The table contained the number of patients referred to foreign hospitals who were treated as out-patients and in-patients, thus showing the total number of referrals.

The information for January 2017 and January 2018 is as follows: January 2017, number of patients referred, 355; January 2018, number of patients referred, 236.

1495 I now hand over to the hon. Gentleman a schedule identifying each hospital and medical establishment as at January 2017 and January 2018:

1525 Mr Speaker, the GHA, or the Government on its behalf, has paid out in respect of claims made against it in respect of the last two financial years £400,000, broken down into eight payments of £50,000 each.

1530 Mr Speaker, for the sake of completion, I provide to the hon. Gentleman the average waiting times for urgent and non-urgent referrals. Waiting time for referrals from Primary Care to St Bernard’s Hospital, per speciality, is as follows:

Speciality	Average waiting times routine referrals March 2017	Average waiting times routine referrals February 2018	Average waiting times urgent referrals February 2017/2018
General Physician	Six to eight weeks	Four to eight weeks	One week
General Surgery	12 weeks	Four weeks	One to two weeks
Gynaecology	16 to 20 weeks	Three weeks	Two weeks
Orthopaedic Consultant	*52 to 60 weeks	42 weeks	One week
Ear, Nose and Throat Consultant	Five to ten weeks	Four to eight weeks	One week
Paediatrician	Eight to 12 weeks	Six weeks	No waiting time

*Orthopaedic Consultant – Mr Speaker, I need to inform the House that with respect to this part, I stated the average for Orthopaedics was eight to 20 weeks, when in fact the average waiting time was 52 to 60 weeks. My apologies.

1535 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, in order for the hon. Gentleman not to surrender the advantage that he has of having the written answer there and giving it to me before I start with my supplementaries, will he be so kind as to give me the answers after the session finishes, so that I can take that? Thank you, I am very grateful to him.

1540 Well, just dealing with the recruitment consultants, as I understand it, there are 149 employees employed within the Care Agency through recruitment consultants out of a total workforce in the Care Agency of 382. That means that 39% of people within the Care Agency are effectively working via recruitment consultants.

1545 Then in relation to elderly residential services, I think the figure that the hon. Gentleman gave me, and I would appreciate it if he could confirm it, is 127 employed via recruitment consultants out of a total workforce of 422 – the percentage there is 30%.

Now, does the hon. Gentleman agree with me in the first instance that we are dealing with significantly high percentages of workers working within these two sectors employed through recruitment consultants?

1550 Hon. N F Costa: No, Mr Speaker, I do not agree with him, for the simple reason that I have explained in the past every time he has asked me in the House – I know that he said in a recent video which was shared with me, which they would have called perhaps a grubby little podcast when they were in Government, but I welcome the video and he said in the video that we never answer the questions in respect of how many people are employed via labour supply agencies. Let me tell him, that is not correct.

We have gone back through Hansard and I have answered that question every single time he has asked me that particular question. He has asked me that particular question ... 15 times he has asked me and 15 times he has got the answer.

1560 So I hope that on the next occasion that he makes a video, which they will have called a grubby little podcast, he at least has the decency to rectify the incorrect statement that he attributed and the mala fides that he attributed to me in that respect.

1565 The reason why I do not agree with him, Mr Speaker, is for the reason that I have explained to him in the past on those 15 occasions. The Care Agency provides domiciliary care. As he knows, the domiciliary care budget has gone from £600,000 when they were in Government, to £2.6 million now. The number of persons receiving domiciliary care has increased up to, if I recall correctly, over ... In fact I have the exact figure. In the last calendar year, there were 478 persons receiving domiciliary care. So these are 478 persons in the community who receive domiciliary care by carers.

1570 Therefore, it has represented a huge increase in the number of people who are able to receive care and continue to live in their houses, which I am sure we can both agree is in fact a very good thing because we are providing carers at home and within the community we avoid the possibility that as a result of the lack of care they may end up in hospital where we should only have people who require medical and clinical care, rather than other types of care.

1575 And as a result, care workers in the Care Agency amount to 135. Those carers are the ones that are employed through the labour supply agencies. If we did not have that facility of having labour supply agencies providing that care, then what he is asking us is to directly employ 135 persons. If we were to do that, the bill to the taxpayer, in order to provide what I think is an excellently beneficial service to the community, would not be £2.5 million; it would be a lot, lot more. And I think that for the reasons that he alluded himself earlier, that we have to provide services in a sustainable way, we are persuaded that providing services through labour supply agencies is the correct one to take.

1580 We provide the care that persons need in the community and we also take care of taxpayer's money.

1585 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, thank you very much to the Minister for that answer. Indeed, I have asked questions in relation to how many people have been employed through recruitment consultants, and recruitment consultants generally on a number of occasions, because it is a matter that is of concern to Her Majesty's Opposition and it is a matter that is of concern to the people that are employed through recruitment consultants.

1590 Indeed, it is a concern to those service users who want to see continuity of service and, therefore I would suggest to the hon. Member that it is a concern all round. It does appear that that concern is justified because these are very, very high numbers – 39% in the Care Agency, 30% in the Elderly Residential Services.

1595 Mr Speaker, he may have provided me with these figures in the past, but in fact I am still waiting for an answer to a question that I lodged last time round, which was a question about how many people are employed through recruitment consultants in the Government generally and in public authorities generally, and I am still waiting for the answer. That answer has not been provided and I do not know whether that answer will be provided at close of business this session.

1600 But I do not agree with the characterisation that the Government provides the answers to the questions. The Hon. Minister, in fairness to him, may provide answers to questions that I have asked in relation to this, but other members of his Government do not and it is not my fault if the Government is politically schizophrenic in that regard.

1605 Mr Speaker, what has the Government put in place in order to ensure that there is continuity of service to service users and that service users do not suffer as a consequence of having people employed through recruitment consultants, that by that very nature, is going to be short-term employment? Because if the Minister says it is not short-term employment, then that raises other issues in relation to the exploitation of workers who are being placed in these positions.

1610 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, it lies ill in the mouth of the hon. Gentleman to call this Government schizophrenic – (Hon. D A Feetham: Politically.) politically schizophrenic, when we have a PDP Leader of the Opposition, a Labour Party that merged with the GSD and therefore, let us not talk about political schizophrenia, Mr Speaker, because the party opposite has given us much in the subject. Indeed, it would take an entire conference of psychologists to examine the schizophrenia that is prevalent in that particular party. (Laughter)

Mr Speaker, I note the hon. Gentleman's concern in respect of continuity of care and it is not a point that I wish to be confrontational with him on, because I think we are all agreed that if we can provide continuity of care to persons who are in our charge, we should.

1620 But of course, the hon. Gentleman in my view, misses the obvious point. Even if the Government were to triple the budget for domiciliary care from £2.5 million to £6 million, because we directly employ persons by any of the agencies on which he has asked me questions, people still get sick, they go on leave, they have other commitments. So you would never have a situation, never, where there will only be one person providing a continuity of care. And indeed, 1625 Mr Speaker, it happens all over my responsibilities, including of course in the GHA.

I have to make the point at times that nurses for instance, do not work directly or just for a ward; they work for the GHA. The GHA also now encompasses ERS and therefore persons employed by the GHA or the ERS may have to provide the services in other parts of my responsibilities.

1630 But do we try to ensure continuity of care? It is the policy of the Government that we try to ensure it. That is the directive that is issued to the care provider and they try to do so insofar as is possible, but the point I am trying to make to him is this: if you were to migrate all of the persons provided through labour recruitment supply firms and they were to be craned over to the GHA, the same issues would arise, whether they were directly employed or not.

1635 In other words, the form of employment in no way changes the issues that arise in terms of continuity of care. Therefore, given that that is the case, there is no reason why we would change a demonstrably excellent arrangement with labour supply firms, who are able to provide care to the persons in our community who deserve it and who of course provide it at what we think are eminently reasonable prices that always ensures the best interests of our community.

1640 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am afraid that the preamble to his answer provokes a preamble from me, and that is, we might as well all go to joint counselling, because the point that the hon. Gentleman makes comes from the Liberal contingent of the Government, and that Liberal contingent has not always been ad idem with the GSLP side of the contingent, indeed 1645 fighting elections against it in 1992 and in 1996.

But Mr Speaker, there is an important distinction. I understand that you are always going to need, within any organisation, supply workers. That is undoubtedly the case, it happens in the private sector, it happens in the public sector. But what we are dealing with is, significant amounts of labour through recruitment consultants, I mean it is 39% and what I want to know, is 1650 what the Government is doing to ensure that that does not lead to any prejudice in the service that is provided to service users. Because by the very nature of recruitment consultants, you are much more likely to have a higher turnover of staff than of course if they were employed in a different way.

I have more supplementaries in relation to this: when the hon. Gentleman gives me the 1655 answer, I will move on.

1660 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman is full of questions to which I have already given answers to. When I rose, it was not a preamble to an answer; it was my answer. I have told him on every single occasion he has asked me and I have told him that he has asked me on 15 separate occasions, that the Government is entirely satisfied with the services that have been provided through the labour supply company. I wish the hon. Gentleman would stop calling it a recruitment agency; they are not recruitment agencies. They are labour supply companies.

And of course, the Care Agency, the GHA and the ERS provide a supervisory function and role and provides the relevant directors to those labour supply agencies as to how their job is to be 1665 discharged. I would be the first one to know if there were any problems with any of the companies that provide labour to the Government that it then provides to members of our community. I am glad to tell him, Mr Speaker, that I have not received complaints about those companies that provide labour to the Government. Therefore, as I have said, we are perfectly

1670 satisfied with the arrangements that we have in place, and moreover, I am perfectly satisfied that the supervision that is carried out respectively by the GHA, ERS and the Care Agency is adequate and sufficient to ensure that the persons that receive those services are perfectly safe and that they are receiving the care that they need.

1675 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, moving on now to the labour side and looking at it from the point of view, not from the service user but from the point of view of the employee. In this type of area, you have a situation where the Government pays the recruitment consultant x amount for the labour provided by a specific worker. Then that worker is paid by the recruitment consultants a lesser amount, because for each worker that is placed through the Care Agency and the Elderly Residential Service, the recruitment consultant will make a percentage.

1680 What safeguards does the Government have in place, or does the Government take an interest in ensuring that those workers that are working within the Care Agency, Elderly Residential Services, in these numbers are not exploited by recruitment consultants and that they get a fair amount of pay for their labour for the work that they do in these particular jobs; and that of course the recruitment consultant does not cream off the Government and also the 1685 worker?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, in the first place, exploitation is quite a strong word for the hon.
Gentleman to use. And once again, they are not recruitment agencies; they are labour supply companies to the Government.

1690 I really have resisted telling him this since he asked me supplementaries, but he does recall, does he not, that we inherited the system of domiciliary care from them? (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) Of course not, because we provide more care (Interjection) but because we provide more care because we care more. Therefore, we saw a need to have to increase the domiciliary care package for other members of our community and that meant having to spend more 1695 money and we did so. Therefore, the fact that there are more carers providing care is, in fact I would have thought a very good thing indeed.

But, Mr Speaker, as I said, he has to remember that we inherited that system from him. And I am telling him that we are satisfied with the system in respect of obtaining labour from labour supply companies.

1700 And once again, I think it lies ill in his mouth to ask me the last bit of his question, because in fact we have been criticised in that same video that he made where he accused me of not providing him the answers over which I have answered 15 times, of questioning going for – wait for it – value for money. And now he is asking me whether we are on top of obtaining value for money.

1705 Mr Speaker, I know that you do not want me to go back to when they were in Government, but even during the course of one supplementary question, they are inherently contradictory.
So, Mr Speaker, he cannot now – or maybe he will because he certainly has no inherent consistency in what he says inside or outside of this House, but given that he does put a price and a premium now on value for money, yes that was the reason why we seek bids on the basis 1710 of providing the best value for money for the taxpayer of Gibraltar. Therefore, he can rest assured that I certainly, in respect of the bids in which I have been involved and which I have had advice from my officials in respect of those particular bids, that I am satisfied that the taxpayer of Gibraltar has obtained value for money, and the Government is not getting creamed off.

1715 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, he is unfortunately sidestepping the issue and the core of my supplementary question. Undoubtedly what we have is a situation where the Government, let us say in theory, pays £10 to the recruitment consultant – that is what they are, recruitment consultants – and the recruitment consultant may pay the minimum wage an hour to the worker. That means that the recruitment consultant keeps in its pocket, the balance between 1720 the minimum wage and the £10.

1725 What I am asking him is, what is the Government doing to ensure that workers are not exploited in this kind of situation? Because on the one hand, workers are exploited and on the other, it is undoubtedly the case that these recruitment consultants are making an awful lot of money at taxpayers' expense. And indeed, more so than I thought because I look at these figures and we are talking about very high levels of workers in these areas through recruitment consultants.

Mr Speaker, what is he doing to prevent exploitation of workers in this situation?
(Interjection)

1730 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, asking for bids in respect of processes of which he has asked us not to do so: in the first place, Mr Speaker, no, I am afraid that I will have to insist, and it really does pain me to have to explain the rudimentaries of employment law to a QC, but they are not recruitment consultants; they are labour supply companies. If they were recruitment consultants, they would be recruiting labour directly for the Government, which is exactly what 1735 he is criticising us for!

So no, they are not recruitment consultants; they are labour supply companies.

And the only reason why I am insisting on the point is only because he has insisted on making the point that they are called recruitment consultants. Well. I do not know from where he got that term, but certainly not with any company that I deal with which are recruitment 1740 consultants.

Mr Speaker, the law of Gibraltar I can assure him is being applied by the labour supply companies which provide labour to the Government, and as I have told him in my answer before, and I think he is intent today on not listening to me, that in respect of the bids in which I have received advice and in respect of which I have been involved, I am satisfied that the 1745 employee is not being exploited. I have answered that question already, Mr Speaker.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo) : Mr Speaker, is that a convenient moment for the House to recess for 15 minutes?

1750 Mr Speaker: I would rather finish the supplementaries.

Hon. Chief Minister: I thought we had, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition has one. As soon as we have finished 1755 with these, we will recess.

Hon. D A Feetham: One more, Mr Speaker – just one more.

Mr Speaker: One more and then we can move on.
1760

Hon. D A Feetham: I do not want to hog this area of today's session.

But yes, Mr Speaker, can he therefore assure this House that he is satisfied that there are no situations out there, under his responsibility, where employees are being paid the minimum wage and you have a situation where the recruitment consultant or the labour suppliers, or 1765 whatever you want to call it, (Interjection) is not taking a substantial amount over and above that which could go into the pockets of those workers?

And is he satisfied that there are no exploited workers through recruitment consultants or whatever he wants to call them, in Gibraltar within the areas of his responsibility?

1770 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I am going to have to reply to the hon. Gentleman in the manner that I have already done so.

1775 The community has a choice and it is a very simple one. We either continue to provide domiciliary care to – I gave him the exact number before – the 470 persons who receive domiciliary care, which I think we must all agree is a very good thing. Providing care in the community prevents other harms, which are that people are not cared for at home and therefore end up in hospital, where we should have people who are medically unwell and should only be there for the length of the time that they are medically unwell and then discharged home.

1780 The reason why we have been able to maintain a high bed resiliency in the hospital is directly linked to the provision and the increase of domiciliary care. Because once the person is medically discharged and is well enough to go home, that person for the most part tends to be elderly persons who would require care. Without that domiciliary care, they would simply be unable to go home, which is why the numbers keep increasing.

1785 Therefore, as I told him during the course of one of my supplementary answers, if the hon. Gentleman is suggesting that those 135 care workers should be employed directly – and there is no other way to consider his question, it is binary, Mr Speaker, you either have them through labour supply companies or you have them directly employed – if you have them directly employed, as he must surely understand, the bill would likely go from £2 million to £6 million, without addressing the only genuine concern which I think he has raised, which is about continuity of care.

1790 Because the method of employment does not affect the quality of the care or the issues that arise as to continuity of care, because a person directly employed or through an agency is going to be as ill or not as ill as many times, irrespective – (Interjection) yes, yes, irrespective of his employer.

1795 Hon. D A Feetham: I will tell him one of the ways that he can do it – and of course other ways, will be in our excellent manifesto at the next election. (Interjections and laughter) But hang on a minute, he has spent, I dint know how many years trying to get rid of me and now he wants me to stand! I just cannot believe it – talk about schizophrenia!

1800 Mr Speaker, yes, you can deal with the inequities of the current situation by actually making it mandatory and forcing the recruitment agency or whatever he wants to call it, to pay the worker say a percentage, but a high percentage of the amount that the recruitment agency is paid for that worker.

1805 So say for example, if in the contract it said, ‘You have got to pay your worker 80% or 85% of what we pay you as an hourly rate for that worker’, that worker then gets 80% or 85% in his pocket. But at the moment, I suspect – I do not have the figures – that there are individuals out there that are being paid the minimum wage –

1810 Mr Speaker: Which is?

Hon. D A Feetham: – which is just over £5, I think it is, the minimum wage. (Interjections) £6, absolutely. And then you have a situation where the recruitment agency is for example charging £10 or £12 an hour for that individual. I find that as not being fair. I find that iniquitous. It is iniquitous for the worker and it is actually, in my view, iniquitous for the taxpayer.

1815 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, can I give the House a piece of information, which predates the hon. Gentleman’s position as Minister for Health.

1820 One of the key things we did when we were elected was that we spoke to those labour supply companies, which the hon. Gentleman likes to call recruitment agencies, and we told them that the fees they were charging them, when they were in Government – which were in the region of £15 to £16 per worker – were too high and that they had to reduce them. The amount that he is talking about now, whether it is £12 or £10 is the greatly reduced price that we imposed so that they would not pocket (Interjection) a larger chunk of the amount paid by the taxpayer.

1825 And so, Mr Speaker, I will take from what he has taken a backhanded compliment and I hope the information I have provided to the House is helpful in his formulation of questions.

Mr Speaker: The Leader of the Opposition has a supplementary.

1830 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, in relation to the Minister for Health's suggestion relating to the continuity of care point, particularly given his suggestion that we are receiving excellent service in relation to the labour supply company that is providing these individuals to work in our institutions, is the Government satisfied and is he satisfied as to the standards that are being met by those particular employees that are working from the labour supply company?

1835 I am interested to hear how the Government monitors the standards of the service that are delivered to the service users, Mr Speaker. That is the nature of the question.

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I am happy to provide him with an overview and if he wants to ask me in the next session of Parliament, I will give him the exact way that it is done because I would like to get the feedback from the professionals that do it.

1840 But in terms of overview, I think that the standards that are being demanded by the Care Agency or the ERS, etc. are the standards that ought to apply, save that I do think that we could do better work in that respect. To that extent, without wishing to reveal a statement that I hope to make in due course, there is considerable work being undertaken in terms of formalising those standards and to have certain benchmarks that are made public by which we can measure that performance.

1845 So whereas at this point in time I am happy de facto with how the supervision and the checking is currently being conducted by the professionals in the Care Agency, because I do trust them to be doing an excellent job in that respect and I think that they do exactly what is asked of them, I think we can ask more of ourselves in terms of our community, by setting standards higher in terms of the benchmarks by which we will measure carers.

1850 That is very much a work in progress and I am working with that with certain professionals to agree a framework in that respect – very much as I am sure he will know about the Quality Care Commission and we will not be reinventing the wheel. We are in fact looking at those standards in the UK to be able to translate them mutatis mutandis to make sure that they apply in a smaller community like Gibraltar.

1855 So am I satisfied de facto? Yes. Am I satisfied de jure? No. I think that there is work to be done there to be able to have quality benchmarks by which we can measure the work being conducted by carers. So I think he does alight on an important point.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Lawrence Llamas –

1865 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one if I may. Is it right in suggesting that the information in relation to the adherence to the minimum standards of care, and I appreciate the comments that the Minister has made to give us some reassurance as to how that is operating at the moment, but the Minister will agree with me that these people are dealing with probably some of the most vulnerable people in our community, particularly patients and therefore, would he agree with me that adherence to minimum standards is fairly limited at the moment and the supervision of it is fairly limited?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I think that the hon. Gentleman, if I may turn it around, should agree with us: that the care that is being provided is proving to be a high-quality level of care, as I told him. Our community is vibrant in many respects, one of which is to write to me in the event of any dissatisfaction with any part of the service and I have to tell him, Mr Speaker, and in 1875 fact I have shared this with the Hon. the Chief Minister on many occasions, that I do receive high praise for the services that are provided by some of the companies that provide labour to the Government.

1880 But as I have already conceded to him, I am not trying to be difficult, we are working on benchmarks that I would like to enshrine in an overarching framework by which we can measure the work being carried out by the carers.

1885 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I am really grateful that the Hon. Minister has actually said that he is looking into the care quality of the provision, I think that is a really good initiative. I brought that into the House in my maiden Budget speech in 2016 and I am really grateful that he is seriously looking into this.

I just want to ask the Government in relation to a statement they made last week, which reads as follows: they will 'no longer tolerate zero-hour contracts and expect all employees to be contracted part time or full time.'

1890 I think, Mr Speaker, this will go a long way in providing certainty and stability to the workers but will also transcend into the continuity of care. This statement was made in a particular case which is the new contract being given for John Mackintosh Wing. Is this a new policy that the Government will be employing all across the board as it goes, renewing contracts moving forward?

1895 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I do not want to speak for my hon. colleague, but I can tell him that it is not just in relation to the John Mackintosh Home bid. Also, in respect of Hillsides and in respect of Bella Vista, we have always been very clear to the company that we expect nothing less than employees to have contracts that set out either whether they are going to be full time or part time and of course whether the contract is one or the other will depend on the needs of 1900 the service, but also taking into account the wishes expressed by the particular employees.

Mr Speaker: We will now have a recess of 20 minutes. When we come back, we will be dealing with Question 259.

The House recessed for 20 minutes.

Q259-260/2018

Hearing aids –

Details of devices, needs assessments and costs

1905 Clerk: Question 259, the Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, further to the answer provided to Question No. 150/2018, can the Minister for Health give details of any other assistive devices provided by the Health Authority for those suffering from hearing impairments and associated hearing conditions; together with details of how the person is assessed for their needs and what the costs to the 1910 individual could be?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1915 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 260.

Clerk: Question 260, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1920 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the Government has confirmed that those with hearing impediments are provided with a £420 contribution towards hearing aids. Can the Government state whether or not, in the event that higher grade and more costly hearing aids are medically recommended, that the GHA will meet the costs?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1925 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, at present, the Audiology Department only issues hearing aids and tinnitus maskers or a combination of hearing aid with incorporated masker. These are issued free and do not require income assessments.

1930 In the case of children needing assistive devices in school, such as radio hearing aids, these are usually obtained by the Audiology Department, but paid for by the Department of Education. The type of assistive device required is recommended by the paediatric assessment team at the Nuffield Centre in London.

The Audiology Department has been called upon for advice by other Government Departments in respect of assistive devices. In such cases, the GHA is not involved in the assessments for entitlement or installation of the devices.

1935 Mr Speaker, in respect of Question 260, yes.

Hon. E J Reyes: In respect of my question 259, Mr Speaker, I am glad to hear that the radio hearing aids and so on are in conjunction with the Department of Education, but what happens to those individuals who are beyond education age?

1940 I know a hearing assistance device can be extremely useful, but there are many cases where for example the ability to be able to connect to the loop induction system is highly recommended. Would perhaps a similar process with feedback coming in, recommendations coming in from medical practitioners to the Audiology Department, would that in itself be helpful to allow these individuals to at least get part subsidy or whatever to additional devices as in extreme cases, they are a necessity in order to have a decent quality of life?

1950 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I will certainly pass his comments to the relevant Department and clinician. Given that we do provide advice in respect to radio hearing aids obtained by the Audiology Department, I do not see why if that is not a service that will not be provided by the GHA. Certainly if there is a clinical need for it then the GHA in fact ought to pay for it.

So I will take his comments back to the Audiology Department and ask the question and I will write to him.

1955 Hon. E J Reyes: I am extremely grateful, Mr Speaker, that the Minister is going to look into that. Can we as well with your leave, Mr Speaker, come to like a gentleman's agreement that we will leave it in abeyance until perhaps the Budget session, by which time he will have had an opportunity to look at it and we can raise this matter then as a way forward to those of us with hearing impairments.

1960 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, depending on our day tomorrow – and by that, I mean depending on whether we come to this House or whether we go back to the office – I am sure that I will be able to have an answer for him either tomorrow or in the early part of next week.

Primary Care Centre proposed move – Public consultation

Clerk: Question 261, the Hon. E J Phillips.

1965 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state whether it has consulted the public at large in respect of the proposed move of the Primary Care Centre?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

1970 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, there have been extensive and intricate consultations with all multi-disciplinary teams with respect to design and layout over the last 14 months, for both the Primary Community Centre and the Paediatric Centre. Feedback received from our service users as to the present Primary Care Centre was also factored during the design stages.

1975 Mr Speaker, as I never tire of saying, I feel incredibly privileged to serve our community and to work with so many excellent professionals to improve our healthcare services. The new Primary Care and Community Centre is the culmination of our endeavours towards enabling clinicians to guide and lead our patients' needs, while always placing them at the heart of everything we do.

1980 I am enormously pleased to see that the diligent work and devotion of our healthcare professionals and our dedicated staff at the Gibraltar Health Authority have enabled this incredibly exciting project to come to fruition.

I am confident that we will deliver a Primary Care Centre and Paediatrics Centre, which will enhance our services to our community and serve us well for now and also in the future.

1985 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I carefully listened to his answer insofar as the extensive intricate views taken from the teams within the GHA and that service users views were factored in. My question related to public consultation so therefore the answer to the question is, we assume, no – is that right?

1990 Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, he is correct. There was no formal public consultation in respect of the move to the new PCC. That is correct.

1995 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for his answer. Can I just ask purely from a financial point of view, as to what the anticipated costs of this move will be and whether it will be borne by the Improvement & Development Fund, the Health Authority itself or some other source?

2000 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, he asks me, as is his wont and expertise in respect of financial matters, of which I do not have the information before me so I cannot tell him from which fund the monies will come from.

2005 What I can tell him, however, Mr Speaker, is that the reason why the announcement was not made until 14 months after I was appointed Minister for Health is because during the course of those 14 months, apart from working very hard on the designs of the new PCC, which will be a bespoke facility for primary care health and also for paediatric health, integrating primary and secondary in-patient care for children in this hub, the developer will be the entity that pays for the new build and therefore, the Government will not be paying for the capital of that build but will instead, be paying a rent. During the course of those negotiations we have spent a lot of time trying to knuckle down on the best possible rent to be paid to the developer, once the new PCC is built.

2010 I have to tell him also that there is a capital investment that the Government will be making, I do not know from which subhead or from which fund that capital money will come from, but that capital investment relates to the entrance to the new primary care centre which is going to be on the front of the existing hospital so that patients can access the new PCC from there.

2015 So there will be some investment in that respect and there are also other items of capital expenditure which I do not have in front of me, so I will not hazard guesses now because I do not want to unintentionally mislead the House, but if he asks me in the next session of the House I will be able to tell him exactly where the capital investment is and how much rent we will be paying.

2020 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am extremely grateful to the Minister for his answer, as it does give me something to work on and I guess I understand the logic in replicating the model that was used to finance the hospital itself, a form of sale and lease back I imagine, but I will ask more direct questions on that in the future.

Can I ask the Minister, does he have a timeframe for the building of the infrastructure that will be required to facilitate the move from the Primary Care Centre?

2025 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, before I answer the question that he has asked, to be clear this is not a sale and lease back arrangement. This is a developer building a new build which will be used by the Government, but it is not like the present arrangement for St Bernard's Hospital where the Government currently pays, if I recall correctly, over £4 million a year. So we are not using that template; in fact we will be paying a rent.

2030 Now, whether or not the Government has the option to buy that at a particular point in time, I cannot remember the term. Again, if he were to ask me those specific questions I will come back to this House and provide him with the answers.

2035 And in respect of timeframes, if I recall again the heads of terms correctly, I do recall that the paediatric hub will be ready by the end of March, I think, of next year and the new PCC will be ready by the end of June of next year.

I am talking from memory and therefore I would not like to be quoted in that respect. But again, if he asks me specifically I will check the heads of terms and of course I will be able to provide an answer to the hon. Gentleman at the next sitting of the House.

2040 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one further question. Obviously, the announcement that the Government made in relation to the PCC and Paediatric Centre has confirmed that the new Primary Care Centre is due to open in the first half of 2019. The Minister does not expect any slippage into the second half of 2019 – I know that he was not too sure in the answer to Mr Clinton's question, but he does not expect that to move into the second half of the year?

2045 Hon. N F Costa: No, Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman is right in noticing a hesitancy, but not the reason why. The reason why I was hesitant was because I do not want to tell the hon. Gentleman a particular month, to then check the heads of terms and find that it was actually the end of May and not the end of March.

2050 But as I say, from memory, the heads of terms stipulate that both centres will be delivered to the Government in the first part of the next year, but I cannot recall the exact months. If he asks me in the next session I will have the answers for him.

GHA services –

Repatriation; children's alcohol/drug misuse and mental health

Clerk: Question 262, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2055 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state which services the GHA are currently recommending or contemplating repatriating?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

2060 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 263 and 264.

Clerk: Question 263, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2065 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state the number of people under 18 years of age that have been seen by Accident and Emergency as a result of alcohol and drug misuse for every month in the last 12 months?

Clerk: Question 264, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2070 Hon. E J Phillips: Of those children currently in care, can the Government state the number that present with mental health issues?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

2075 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the GHA is contemplating the feasibility of repatriating as many services to Gibraltar as possible including interventional cardiology, MRI, spinal surgery, paediatric surgery and extending our urology services.

2080 To date, the GHA has repatriated the following services: Urology Service – February 2016; Chemotherapy – September 2016; Bariatric Surgery – January 2017; Colorectal Surgery – June 2017; Breast Surgery Services – January 2018; Paediatric Cardiology clinics – January 2018; Vascular Surgery Services – January 2018; and Thyroid Surgery – February 2018.

2085 Mr Speaker, there have been a total of 50 attendances to the Accident & Emergency Department of people under the age of 18 as a result of alcohol and drug misuse in the last 12 months.

There are no children in care with mental health issues.

2090 Hon. E J Phillips: Insofar as the Minister's answer to Question 262/2018 is concerned, am I right in thinking, Mr Speaker, that of those that the Government intend to repatriate in relation to paediatrics or cardiology and neurology, that that would fit within the existing repatriated services and therefore, would that mean that there would not be an additional cost to those repatriations. Of course, there will always be an element of cost to those services because the policy of the Government is to ensure that our service can be offered as wide as possible to the community.

2095 But does the Government factor in the fact that the existing infrastructure in the teams will be able to perform those newly repatriated services?

2100 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I think that I have understood the hon. Gentleman's question, but in respect of the services that I have mentioned to him that we have repatriated, certainly in my time since January 2017 to February 2018, unless my staff correct me and they will send me an email if I am incorrect, every single repatriation has required additional human resources.

2105 Therefore, I think we can safely assume, although I will double check this for him because I do not want to unintentionally mislead the House, all of the other services that we wish to repatriate – interventional cardiology, MRI, spinal surgery and paediatric surgery – will require additional human and of course capital resources, because we will require the equipment to be able to provide those services and also the concomitant costs in respect of maintenance and servicing.

2110 Hon. E J Phillips: And I assume, Mr Speaker, that it would seem to me, from someone who does not have the figures to hand in relation to for example spinal surgery or complicated paediatric surgery, that there would be a significant cost to not only the infrastructure and the hiring of human resources to deal with these types of operations, but does the Government consider, when it is weighing up repatriation, the ability to outsource these issues and the cost of that outsourcing vis-à-vis the hiring of further human resources in terms of cardiologists, 2115 consultant surgeons in relation to those services that he wishes to repatriate?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the decision to repatriate is not a complicated matrix as such but there are various variables that are taken into account.

2120 One of them is whether or not it is the policy of the GHA to provide services in-house. The answer of course is that yes, it is preferable always to be able to provide medical, clinical and surgical services at home so that patients do not have to undergo the stresses of travel. So that will always be the answer to that particular question.

2125 Then the question becomes: if that is the policy will the repatriation be more expensive or less expensive and if it is more expensive, is it prohibitively expensive or is it an expense that is although greater, manageable.

2130 We have found so far – and that is not to say that it will always be the case – that the services that we have repatriated, although it will increase the cost in terms of salaries and equipment because we are bringing over surgeons and nurses and any other clinician that is required to provide a service within the GHA, that the cost of sending a Gibraltar patient out with all the inconvenience and stress that that entails, is in fact beneficial to the taxpayer. In other words, to date, all the repatriated services are more cost effective than referring one of our patients to a tertiary centre.

2135 But the reason why I say that it is not a straightforward formula, is because of course there is also the other option of having visiting consultants which we have also increased. And I know he did not ask me about that, but it relates to the supplementary question that he asked me. I do not have the figures to hand, I do not have the costs to hand. If he wants to know exactly how much for example the urology repatriation has cost versus how much it used to cost us to send people outside, I will be delighted to provide him with that information.

2140 But there will always be, as I am continually advised by my clinicians, services that cannot be provided in-house. Open heart surgery is the example that they most often provide me. In those cases, it makes sense to have the surgeon come to Gibraltar as a visiting consultant to provide the service. The reason why we cannot have certain specialisms in Gibraltar is because the surgeon, in order not to de-skill, has to be able to operate all of the time. Therefore, we can have a visiting surgeon come and do our operations, but then we cannot keep him because to 2145 keep him here would mean that they would actually lose their GMC registration licensing for becoming de-skilled.

2150 So it is a combination of keeping sponsored patients going to the extent that those services are best provided away from Gibraltar to repatriate all those services that are best provided in Gibraltar and, for those where we think that it is best provided in Gibraltar but we cannot provide the service, to have visiting consultants.

Children in care or with behavioural issues –
Length of time in care; assistance for families

Clerk: Question 265, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, of those children currently in care, can the Government state how long those children have been in care?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, of those children currently in care, the length of time in care ranges from six months, being the shortest period – sorry, Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 266. My apologies.

2160

Clerk: Question 266, the Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm what programmes are available for families struggling to cope with children who have behavioural issues?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, my apologies for jumping the gun but sometimes it is hard not to press the buzzer when you know the answer.

Mr Speaker, of those children currently in care, the length of time in care ranges from six months, being the shortest period, to nine years and six months, being the longest period.

There are currently two specific parenting programmes, aimed at supporting parents and carers to manage their children's behavioural problems. These are The Incredible Years programme and the Time Out for Parents programme.

Further to this, each child known to the Children's Team will have either a Child Protection or Child in Need Plan. Within this plan, the social worker will have identified any specific programme to support families if they are struggling to cope with their children's behavioural issues. All plans will be tailor-made to meet the needs of each individual child.

2185

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the number of persons detained for tobacco and tobacco-related offences in the last 24 months is in the schedule I now hand over to the hon. Gentleman.

Q268/2018

Charles Bruzon House –
Policy on interior modifications by residents

Clerk: Question 268, the Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, would Government reconsider its zero-tolerance policy towards any interior modifications by residents to their homes at Charles Bruzon House, particularly whether on medical grounds as to why these should be made, such as replacing shower units with a bath where the latter is more suitable for the residents?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

2200 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, Charles Bruzon House is a brand-new purpose-built accommodation for the elderly which has been designed with input from occupational therapists and other professionals.

The block was completed last year so tenants moved in very recently. Flats were offered to prospective tenants on the basis that no alterations to the flats could be made and this was a condition of them accepting the flats.

2210 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, that is understood. However, can the Minister see that it is possible, particularly when we look at the demographic of the residents of Charles Bruzon House, that over a period of time, a relatively short space of time potentially, their medical conditions ... they may develop medical conditions or have existing medical conditions which may become aggravated and it may therefore necessitate or be important for quality of life, that certain changes, with appropriate clinical support, be made to those residences and that having an absolute zero-tolerance policy may not be appropriate?

2215 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, these flats are specifically designed for that. They have been designed with elderly people in the worst stages of their life in mind, on the advice of professionals and the design is purely on the advice of professionals, so that people may remain independent for longer.

In this case that the hon. Gentleman is referring to, someone now wants a bath instead of a shower but would completely compromise the whole ethos of this building, Mr Speaker. They are very welcome to ask for an exchange for a house that would be suitable for them with a bath. But certainly not in a brand-new building which has been designed in a particular way to accommodate elderly people in a particular way and at great expense to the taxpayer.

2225 Hon. T N Hammond: But, Mr Speaker, surely the Minister will accept at least that it is possible for people to develop medical conditions which may necessitate certain modifications in a property. They may become wheelchair bound and therefore need access, they may need light switches moved to lower positions. Who knows? There is a whole plethora of medical conditions that can affect ... So to have a zero-tolerance policy rather than a case by case, 'we will analyse and just see if there are medical grounds for making a change', it just seems a little bit harsh that you would ask somebody to move from their home, rather than allow them possibly out of their own expense and with appropriate approvals, to make modifications.

2235 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I still do not think the hon. Gentleman understands. These flats have been designed to accommodate people with advanced medical conditions.

Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has referred to people who are wheelchair bound. In terms of people who are wheelchair users, Mr Speaker, because I do not like to refer to people who are wheelchair bound – like my hon. colleague Dr Cortes referred the hon. Gentleman to my leaflet on language etiquette and disability, I would refer the hon. Gentleman to the same document, he may find it enlightening.

2240 But these flats are already built and designed for people who may be wheelchair users. The light switches have already been designed for people who may have mobility issues. In this case, Mr Speaker, someone who was allocated this flat recently now wants a bath instead of a shower. Mr Speaker, the answer is no because it has been designed at tremendous expense for the bathrooms to accommodate people with severe disabilities and the medical advice that we have is that this is appropriate.

2245 Mr Speaker, if they did not want a shower because they particularly wanted a bath at the time when they were offered this flat very recently and which they accepted on the basis that they could make no alterations, then they could have very perfectly rejected that flat and asked 2250 for a flat which had a bath, in which case they would have been allocated a flat elsewhere with a bath, but not here, Mr Speaker.

It is not a question of us having a zero-tolerance policy, Mr Speaker. It is about us having made a great investment in time and upon the advice of professionals in the design which we are very happy with and very satisfied with, and of course, Mr Speaker, this comes at taxpayers' expense. We certainly look at this on a case by case basis and in this case, Mr Speaker, the incurring taxpayers' expense is not justified.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I think that the Minister gave a clue as to what the policy is there and she keeps referring to some ... she is making a huge assumption in referring to a particular case. I am not referring to a particular case; I am referring to a policy in general as has been described to me.

Now if the Minister is telling me that actually they do look at cases on a case by case basis and there is scope for modifications to be made appropriately when medical conditions demand it, then I would accept that answer and I am sure that the residents of Charles Bruzon would accept that answer, because that would not then be a zero-tolerance policy.

So if that is what the Minister is saying, that there is not a zero-tolerance policy but there is scope for modification in the right conditions and on a case by case basis, I absolutely accept that answer.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, he still does not seem to listen to the answer. Mr Speaker, no-one has said that there is a zero-tolerance policy. Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has invented it. We always try to help, we always look at cases on a case by case basis and we weigh it up in what is in the best interests of everybody, Mr Speaker.

I know that this arises from a particular case because there is only one case in which this application has been made. Mr Speaker, the answer is no because we have just invested a lot of money on the advice of medical professionals and in this case, this was accepted by the individuals in question very, very recently and circumstances have not changed.

Therefore, the Government has made a decision which I think and I agree is perfectly justifiable. No-one is talking about zero-tolerance policies, Mr Speaker, there is no such thing, particularly when talking about vulnerable people and elderly people. We will try to help, but we will help in the best way.

Hon. T N Hammond: So for absolute clarity the Minister did not refute the fact that in my question I raised the issue as a zero-tolerance policy. She basically responded – the hon. Lady, I apologise, basically responded in a manner that indicated that the premise of my question was correct.

The hon. Lady has now moved on from that position and I am very gratified that she has. She has, I believe, if she would just confirm it one more time, confirm it to me that there is scope for modification on a case by case basis; that no modifications have been applied for that have been accepted at this stage is understood and appreciated.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, we are verging on the hypothetical here, because the reality is that it is unlikely that we will be asked for modifications because of the way that these flats have been designed.

We have had the input, and I say it once again, of medical professionals to make the design the best way possible to ensure independent living for our elderly community for as long as possible. We simply do not envisage after the hours and hours that were spent by the professionals on the design of these flats that they require anything else.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q267/2018

Tobacco-related offences –
Supplementary question

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I just need to go back to 267, the schedule that was handed over to me.

2305 Can the Minister just clarify the difference in the year 2016 to 2017 in relation to persons arrested and in relation to the second schedule that refers to British Local and British Gibraltarian and then British in the second column. I am not too sure what he means by that.
The schedule, apologies.

2310 So insofar as the schedule that he handed over to us for those persons arrested, in the second column to the right it refers to 'British Local – 9' and the column below 'British Gibraltarian' and 'British' at the bottom of that. 'British Local' – what does that mean insofar as the reference? I assume it means British Gibraltarian but not –

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Gibraltarian.

2315 Hon. E J Phillips: Okay, I am grateful, thank you.

Rental homes –
Plans to build more

Clerk: Question 269, the Hon. E J Phillips.

2320 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide details, outline or otherwise, of its plan to build further homes for rental?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

2325 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I refer the hon. Gentleman to my answer to Question 168/2018. Announcements will be made in due course.

Hon. E J Phillips: Yes, Mr Speaker, I am aware of the hon. Lady's answer to the question, but since then, of course, Action for Housing have been pressing her and there is of course understandably genuine interest as to the revelation that the hon. Lady made at the last sitting.

2330 Therefore, if the hon. Lady is willing to make another further revelation so that we can have another titbit of the plans that she intends to deal with in relation to rental building? (Laughter and interjections)

2335 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I think we would rather leave bits and all the other references the hon. Gentleman has made out of the debate, and we will make an announcement as a Government when we are ready to do so.

Q270/2018
Varyl Begg Estate flats –
Damp issues

Clerk: Question 270, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can Government indicate to the House whether it is aware of damp issues within flats in Varyl Begg Estate, and how it puts them right if/when alerted to them, such as the average turnaround time to cure such issues?
2340

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the Housing Department is aware that there are reports of damp in Varyl Begg Estate in the same way that there will be in all the other housing estates.
2345

Reports of damp are processed by the Housing Department when such complaints are reported, with a target date of three months for completion.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I was asked to visit one particular flat which has been suffering from damp issues which just keep getting worse and worse, for years. Basically, they seem to be tired of calling the Housing Department. That is why I wanted to find out the typical turnaround times in case it was a standard that it would take this long.

So in light of what the Minister has just said, would she be happy to prioritise this house because these people are elderly and they have respiratory issues as a result? Would they be happy to prioritise this matter and treat this particular flat as soon as possible?
2355

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, if the hon. Lady genuinely wanted us to expedite this matter, which obviously sounds serious, then all the hon. Lady had to do as she does on other matters on other occasions, is to pick up the phone, call me, give me the name and the address and I would have looked into it immediately.
2360

The Housing Department of course receives hundreds, sometimes thousands of complaints in relation to works. Some are major works, some are minor works but the volume is tremendous. It may well be that as a result of human error, this may well have slipped the net. So I will ask the hon. Lady to confidentially give me the name and the address and I will of course look into it.
2365

But, Mr Speaker, genuinely if we hear, if something comes to someone's attention which is serious, then is it really, Mr Speaker, a matter for a Parliament question and not really a matter for someone to be practical, pick up the phone and we will help, without the need of parliamentary business time?
2370

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I appreciate the Minister's answer and also her willingness to get this matter on track. And I do agree that there are some matters that I have called her on and she has assisted, but then there are several other emails that I have sent over the last year that I am still waiting for a reply, and I thought that this was worthy of flagging up in order to capture her attention and ensure that this issue got sorted out as soon as possible.

Government flats –
Details of sales since 2011

Clerk: Question 271, the Hon. L F Llamas.

2380 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, since 2011 with reference to Bayview Terraces, Cumberland Terraces, Nelson's View, Beach View Terraces and Mons Calpe Mews, can the Government give a breakdown of sales details for each, as follows: (a) how many flats have been sold with 100% financing from the purchaser; (b) how many have been sold with 50/50 ratio; and (c) how many have been sold at any other ratio and specify what that ratio is?

2385 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I refer the hon. Gentleman to my answer in Parliament to Question 188/2017.

2390 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, the Hon. Minister provided an answer that this is a public document and suggested that the Opposition spend £12,000 in reaching an answer.

Mr Speaker, I would like to refer back to Question 943/2011 where the Opposition then, the Government today, asked the same question and got a very detailed answer by the Government back then.

2395 Is this the time for change that was promised?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, this is the same question that he has asked me orally as well in the past and at no point, Mr Speaker, was this raised on the last occasion when I answered in the same way.

2400 Mr Speaker, I am taking the same position that we have taken in relation to when the hon. Members on the opposite side asked for information that may well be available at Companies House, by undertaking a company search. This is the exact same thing, Mr Speaker. It is information that is available publicly.

2405 In any event, Mr Speaker, in relation to the Bayview, Cumberland and Nelson's, in any event, Mr Speaker, if the hon. Gentleman may recall, I know he is not part of the GSD now, but he was part of the GSD when he stood for election and these are all estates that were sold by the GSD and not by this Government, Mr Speaker.

2410 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, that is beside the point. The point is that back in 2011 the level of transparency given back then was a lot higher and what we are receiving now is a direction from the Hon. Minister to go to Land Property Services and conduct a search at £12,000 in order to obtain an answer which should be given in this House.

2415 And, Mr Speaker, the fact that Bayview, Cumberland and Nelson's were sold by the previous administration, there are properties within those estates which were even sold by this administration. Therefore, will the Government provide the answer that I have asked for on two occasions in this House?

And the fact is that this question I happened to come across whilst researching what they were given by the previous administration whilst they were in Opposition.

2420 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, it is not information ... I do not think, Mr Speaker, that it is something that would cost that amount. Had I been aware, Mr Speaker – (Interjection) Mr Speaker, I was not aware that something like this would cost in that region. But, Mr Speaker, bearing in mind that more than 50% of the question that I am being asked relates to housing estates that were built and sold by the GSD, so that is before my time. But nevertheless, it is still information that is publicly available.

2425 The other point that I make, Mr Speaker, is that this point could clearly have been made orally on the last occasion. What we are having is the extension of what could have been on the last occasion more properly a supplementary and we could have had this debate on the last occasion. But perhaps the hon. Gentleman opposite needed more time to formulate this, Mr Speaker.

2430 I think that perhaps given time I am happy to prepare a schedule of this information, Mr Speaker. I do not think it is necessarily appropriate that I am accountable to this House to give information that relates to estates that were built and sold by the GSD. Mr Speaker, I have to ask staff to undertake this exercise thoroughly. Clearly it will relate to sales of properties that were sold post-2011, not pre-2011 and, Mr Speaker, I am happy to provide that information and 2435 I will see if I can get somebody to provide that.

Certainly, that information would not have been available on this occasion, but given more time, Mr Speaker, perhaps by the next parliamentary session I will ensure that I have that information up to date – but certainly, Mr Speaker, in relation to sales which we have undertaken since we have been in Government. (Interjections)

2440 Yes, but the majority, Mr Speaker, of the sales of certainly the first three estates would have taken place before 2011 because they were developments that were developed by the GSD, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Edwin Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: May I, Mr Speaker, since the Minister has committed herself now to providing some information to avoid my supplementary coming later on: yes, I agree with the Minister that the majority of the houses referring to Bayview, Cumberland, Nelson's and so on would have taken place prior to 2011; but there have been transactions in respect of those 2450 houses post-December 2011 and I certainly would be interested in that information. Because a tenant who bought a home, a purchaser who bought originally prior to December 2011 has the option and may have bought further shares later on.

So that information would probably come up in my supplementaries, if I give the Minister advance warning, when she gets her clerks to undertake this onerous task, then they know 2455 which direction I am going to be heading in my supplementaries as well.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, that is information that can be derived but I suspect that that is a huge exercise and is very, very unlikely to be ready by the next sitting of this Parliament. We are looking at all transactions of these affordable housing since 2011. Some 2460 premises may have changed ownership more than once, we are talking about a substantial volume of ownership.

I will look into it, Mr Speaker, but I think it is an exercise that would be quite onerous and quite unlikely to be ready in a month.

2465 Hon. E J Reyes: I will add further, Mr Speaker, it may or may not help the Minister when she embarks on this exercise, I remember Dr Garcia used to ask questions when he was on the Opposition benches and he received an answer which satisfied him at the time and I think that would probably satisfy at least me.

Through the Land Sales Registry he can then from there devise, say, in respect of flats at 2470 Cumberland Terraces and it is easier to get it that way, rather than searching each individual property, so the ledger of the transactions on sales.

TOURISM, EMPLOYMENT, COMMERCIAL AVIATION AND THE PORT

Q286/2018

Ocean Spa Plaza scaffolding collapse –
Health and safety investigation

Clerk: We now move to Question 286, and the questioner is the Hon. T N Hammond.

2475 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, has a health and safety investigation been carried out of the recent scaffolding collapse at Ocean Spa Plaza and what were the results of that investigation? Were any recommendations made to avoid future occurrences and what were those recommendations?

2480 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the Health and Safety Inspectorate has investigated the recent scaffolding collapse at Ocean Spa Plaza.

2485 As part of the investigation, the materials used were tested and found to conform to the relevant specifications. Only the east elevation of the façade was affected. The west elevation remained in-tact.

2490 The determining factor on the collapse was the swirling channelled effect of the winds which at times reached speeds of 117 kilometres per hour. The Health and Safety Inspectorate recommended the doubling of securing eyebolts holding the scaffolding in place, as well as the connecting of the scaffold modules all the way to the top and back to back with steel ties and the avoidance of continuous non-perforated material along the perimeter of the site.

2495 I am informed, Mr Speaker, that the recommendations have been accepted and the works carried out to the satisfaction of the Health and Safety Inspectorate.

Hon. T N Hammond: I very much thank the Minister and the Health and Safety Inspectorate for having conducted that investigation speedily and actually come up with some very solid recommendations.

2500 Will those recommendations now be taken forward to other potential sites which may be in a similar area or suffer similar wind conditions to ensure that perhaps we would not be affected in the same way or that future sites may not be affected in the same way, or will those recommendations only be applied to this particular development?

2505 Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the issue was specific to this particular site. There are of course regular inspections by the Health and Safety Inspectors in all the sites around Gibraltar. That is part of their job, it is part of what they do.

2510 In this particular case, what happened was that a non-perforated sheeting, white sheeting had been used by the company that put up the scaffolding and that is what trapped the wind and because of the swirling effect of the wind at very high speed, that is what caused the collapse of the scaffolding, even though the scaffolding itself had complied with all necessary health and safety measures.

2515 So it was not that there was any fault or problem in the erection of the scaffolding or the fixing of the scaffolding, but the combined effect of the winds with the non-perforated sheeting. The recommendation obviously was to remove the non-perforated sheeting and to replace it with a perforated sheeting.

I would say that the purpose of the sheeting is really for dust control in respect of the area. A non-perforated sheeting has greater effect in terms of dust control, but has the problem of trapping the wind and causing this. So whilst the perforated sheeting will allow the wind through, it is less effective in controlling the dust from the works going into other areas.

2520 So clearly the compromise that has to be reached is that a sheeting has to be used which has some perforation, which does allow the wind to go through but which does also conform with the requirements in terms of dust control. That is the balance that has to be struck.

In this particular case, the company opted for more dust control without anticipating that this would be the effect, but that has now been corrected.

Hon. T N Hammond: And, Mr Speaker, I think that the Minister has pointed out what most of us had guessed, that the sheeting was certainly a significant factor in that particular collapse. But he has also referred to other recommendations like the doubling of the number of eyebolts in the scaffolding and as I say, I just wonder if in other developments in that area – because we are likely to see future developments in that area, I am assuming – it wouldn't be worth applying those same standards of doubling the eye bolts, taking the lessons learned from this particular collapse and, through the planning process perhaps, just ensure that we do not experience anything similar or at least reduce the chance of anything similar occurring in the future.

2530

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member mentions that I indicated that the principle factor was the sheeting; in fact it was the determining factor. As I indicated earlier, the way that the scaffolding had been put up and the eyebolts which had been put in place to secure the scaffolding conformed to all health and safety standards. So that in itself was not the problem.

2535

Certainly the Health and Safety Inspectors will be very astute as to problems with wind and they will want to ensure that this is not repeated in other sites. They will be, or they have been, carrying out inspections to make sure that the eyebolts properly secure the scaffolding. But in this particular case, the problem was not the eyebolts; the problem was the sheeting that was used and that has now been replaced.

2540

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I did some research in relation to this for other reasons, not specifically because of this site, and I know the problem was the actual sheeting that effectively acted as a type of sail, so with the wind, acting as a sail, it just dragged the scaffolding over.

2545

But this type of sheeting is designed, the way that it is connected to the scaffolding is through rope connections that are designed to effectively disengage when there are strong winds and it appears that in this case, my information is that in this case, what happened was that it was tied very strongly on a permanent basis and when the sheet actually caught the wind it just could not release.

2550

Now, is that something that the hon. Gentleman has in the information that has been provided to him, because that is what I have been told was the problem in this particular case?

2555

Hon. G H Licudi: Mr Speaker, I cannot see anything just looking at and trying to address the issue that the hon. Member has mentioned. In the information I have been provided, I cannot see anything which mentions specifically these particular methods of tying which are supposed to release, but I am happy to look at it and get back to the hon. Member.

2560

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q287/2018

Waterport Place falling metal sheet –
Health and safety investigation

Clerk: Question 287, the Hon. T N Hammond.

2565 Hon. T N Hammond: Does Government intend to carry out a health and safety investigation of the recent incident where a sheet of metal fell from Waterport Place?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

2570 Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, a health and safety investigation of the recent incident has in fact been opened by the Health and Safety Inspectorate, so they are investigating the issue.

2575

Q288/2018

Visitor expenditure–
Monthly figures for 2017

Clerk: Question 288, the Hon. T N Hammond.

2580 Hon. T N Hammond: Can Government provide the total visitor expenditure figures, by month, for July to December 2017.

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

2585 Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the tourist expenditure figures for the whole of 2017 are currently being compiled by the Government Statistics Office and are therefore not available. They are being compiled for the whole of the year of 2017.

2590 The latest tourist expenditure figures are included in the Tourist Survey Report 2016 which is available on the Government website. Tourist expenditure estimates are not compiled by month. They are calculated as the total sum of the expenditure from six categories of visitors: visitor arrivals at hotels; excursionists from cruises; visitors on yachts; visitors in supplementary accommodation; in-transit visitors; and excursionists from Spain. Monthly expenditure figures are therefore not available.

Q289-290/2018

University of Gibraltar Act 2015 –

2595 Clerk: Question 289, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please advise if it has given any approval for general borrowing under section 37 of the University of Gibraltar Act 2015 and if so, for what amount and purpose?

2600 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, I shall answer this question with 290/2018.

2605

Clerk: Question 290, the Hon. R M Clinton.

2610 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please advise if it has given any approval for the University to mortgage any of its land under section 40(2) of the University of Gibraltar Act 2015 and if so, for what amount and purpose?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port.

2615 Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, the Government has not given approval for any general borrowing under section 37 or for the university to mortgage any of its land under section 40(2) of the University of Gibraltar Act 2015, as no request has been made by the University for either purpose.

2625 Mr Speaker: Before we do, I recall that the Chief Minister and I were discussing the question of the requirement about the Estimates of Expenditure as I had indicated. Has he been able to review the matter now or he can do it between now and Monday?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have had a preliminary look but I want to check two other sources for my recollection so that I can put something to you and to the Clerk which is properly researched and also the understanding of others in my office. So I will do that in time for Monday.

Questions for Oral Answer

COMMERCE

Q285/2018

Postal service review – Findings

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament – Monday, 26th March 2018.

We continue with Answers to Oral Questions.

We commence with Question 285, the Hon. L F Llamas.

5

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government disclose its findings upon conducting the postal service review?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

10

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, the review is still ongoing.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, without going into too much detail on the actual review, does the Hon. Minister have any indication of any findings that they may have encountered so far. On this side of the House I am pretty sure we are all getting the same feedback from members of the community that they are still awaiting parcels and postage from as far as December and they still have not received it; and they are only just receiving even local postage, is also taking quite a considerable amount of time.

Somebody this week actually mentioned a health appointment for which they had been waiting for eight years and they have actually missed the appointment because the actual appointment date arrived two weeks after the appointment had actually been allocated to them. Is the Minister aware of these sorts of problems that people are encountering before actually disclosing the final review of what the review may reveal in the future?

25
Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, from what the hon. Member has said, it is obvious that he understands why we are doing a review. And at this stage, all I can really do is say that the review is still ongoing.

30
Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, could I ask the Hon. Minister when he will have the findings of the review and we can be sure that we will get this information, please?

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, when the review is completed. I am not able to put any finer time on that. These things take time, processes, people, manning levels, a whole raft of different issues are being considered and reviewed. When that is completed, it will be completed.

I would rather give it the time that it needs rather than try and put a date on it by which time we will be forced to finish. So I am confident it will be reviewed shortly and at that time I will be happy to discuss it further.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, if I may. Just two questions so the Hon. Minister can answer them both at the same time.

The first is that he may recall that I asked him about this some time ago and I asked about the individuals that were on supply contracts within the Post Office. So the first question is, have any of those individuals that were long-term supply been engaged permanently by the Government?

Secondly, he refers to the review. That is a review conducted by the Government. I sense from the questions that my colleagues on this side have asked that there is an implication that that is going to be made available to the Opposition. But can the Government confirm that the review is going to be made public, or the results of that review are going to be made public? Or is it the intention of the Government to just simply make a public statement on the way forward for the Post Office, but not necessarily publicise the results of the review?

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, as the hon. Member has just alluded to in the last part of his question, we will make a statement at the time saying what the way forward will be. There are obviously discussions to be had long before that with the members of staff and the union on the different aspects of it, so I would not expect the review to be made public, no, or shared indeed with the Opposition.

With regard to the first question on the supply workers, depending on what date that question is asked, the answer could be different. I know we have made some supply workers permanent who had done the time period they were required to do, but since the commencement of the review, those have been frozen so we have not moved further on those.

But I can certainly say that in my time in looking after the Post Office in the last 12 to 18 months, there has been certainly one supply worker that I recall, but I would need notice to be specific in respect of the date that you ask for, so that I can give you some clarity. Because I know some had been, but certainly not in the last six to eight months and I think that was when the question was asked by the hon. Member.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, from my understanding, there are about 10 members of staff who are on supply and a few of them, I do not actually have the information with me now, but I have done my homework and there are several of them who have been on supply for over a couple of years or more. So a lot of these members of staff who are on supply are waiting patiently for the end of this review and obviously from their point of view, they have been on supply for longer than the review has been going on, as the Hon. Minister has said, and they are waiting patiently to know what their future will be.

So if I can ask the Minister to engage them as much as possible after this review is concluded and try to enfranchise them and obviously offer them contracts, it is exactly what they are waiting for.

Thank you.

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, obviously the workers are well aware of the review. All the staff, I met with, a couple of months back at the Post Office and explained to them where we were, what we were doing and why we were doing it, so they fully understand that. I am grateful for their indulgence and their patience and I hope not to keep them waiting too much longer.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, could I ask what is the Government exactly doing in this interim whilst it is reviewing the processes and the lengths of time that it takes to receive letters and parcels.

85 My own personal experience, Mr Speaker, a couple of months ago when I did go, I had to be attended by an actual Customs officer which was going beyond his call of duty, to be able to retrieve the parcel because the people who were there employed by the postal service simply could not cope with the demand and the amount of people – and this was after Christmas, nothing to do with the Christmas period.

90

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, these are the reasons why we are conducting the review and consequently our intention is to end up with a better service, providing better value for money to the taxpayer and with the service levels that you would expect and require from the Post Office.

95

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, I am afraid that I do not get my post delivered because the postman is too scared of my four dogs, so I have to go down to the Post Office to collect my letters!

100 But, Mr Speaker, does the Hon. Minister know whether this review is going to be concluded before the next General Election and that it is the intention that a statement is going to be made well before that date, so that everybody knows where they stand before that seminal moment in the history of Gibraltar?

Hon. A J Isola: Yes, Mr Speaker, long before. (Interjections)

The Report on the Savings Bank results which I send to its customers is not a requirement and there is no reason why it should not be sent before, after or at the same time as the accounts are Gazetted.

Whilst responsibility to return debenture certificates and provide instructions for reinvestment lies with debenture holders, the Savings Bank does send a letter to all debenture holders a few weeks before the maturity date, reminding them of the upcoming debenture maturity and reinvestment options. Following the maturity date, further efforts are made to contact clients who have not responded to the initial letter, either by letter or telephone.

The debenture prospectus states that, and I quote:

From and after the date of redemption of any debenture, all interest on the principal monies represented by a debenture shall cease and determine whether payment of the principal monies shall have been demanded or not.

215

There have been five complaints received from pensioners on loss of interest in the year to 31st January 2018.

When the Government registers a new company, it does so because it has decided so to do and this is also the case when a company name is chosen and directors are appointed.

The names chosen for the companies identified in the hon. Member's question are made up from the letters of the Roman alphabet which runs from A to Z. There is no other name for such companies other than that which has been registered.

220

No cost-benefit analysis of a possible move to accrual accounting has been undertaken.

The Gibraltar Development Corporation has no branches anywhere.

225 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, you will of course, I hope, indulge me as I go through the questions, of which there are obviously quite a few.

If I could thank the Minister for his answers and if I could perhaps start with Question 295. I agree that there is nothing said in the Savings Bank Act that it cannot be published outside the Gazette but surely the Minister would agree with me that it is kind of somewhat logical that the law should require one thing and he actually does something that the law does not require and yet still does not do what the law does require.

230 I recall the debate that we had on my amendment to the Savings Bank Act, which would require publication within a certain timeframe, he said he saw no reason to publish it until the Government's accounts were published in full and yet he has seen fit to publish them and issue them to the depositors. I do not see that logic follows, in that he has obviously now released this to the depositors but still has not yet Gazetted it.

235 So obviously his original argument is saying, 'Well, I am not going to release this until the Government's full accounts are prepared' has seen to have fallen away or perhaps there is some other reason on which the Minister can enlighten me, but perhaps the Minister could indicate when he intends to Gazette these?

240 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, first of all, I certainly do not agree with his opening statement that it is illogical because that would mean that I am accepting that I am illogical and I do not accept that, Mr Speaker.

245 The fact that I chose to send the reduced level of information that is in the booklet that I sent to depositors before the accounts have been Gazetted is consistent with the answer that I gave him which he has just quoted. It will be Gazetted when the accounts are published and that is what I intend to do. But since that has not yet happened, I did not want to delay further the abridged version that I sent to each depositor.

250 Hon. R M Clinton: Well, Mr Speaker, I move then to Question 296 and I note what the Minister has quoted in the prospectus and certainly I would accept that as normal banking practice.

255 But can I ask the Minister what happens in reality to the money that comes off debentures? Does it get paid to a debenture holder's account or does it go into a suspense of some sort, pending instruction and absence that instruction there is no interest earned?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, the hon. Member knows that it is a special fund and it is not separated into different accounts. So the money is kept on a cash account in one of the banks that we use, which is one of the local banks and there is no return on that money while it is there, because it has not been reinvested.

260 So part of the reason why we do not pay interest to the depositor is because we cannot invest the money without knowing if it is going to be reinvested for how long. Because as the hon. Member knows, there is a requirement to match on average the period of reinvestment and the period of repayment so that we do not get caught in a situation where we are borrowing short and lending long.

270 Hon. R M Clinton: I thank the Minister for his answer. In relation to Question 297 where there have been five complaints from pensioners on reinvestment of proceeds, and in a way this ties in to the previous discussion about our postal services in which certainly I know of several pensioners who claimed that either they did not receive the letter or they received the letter late. Is the Savings Bank taking that into account, in the sense of pensioners may not necessarily be on top of the maturity dates of their debentures and the required letters advising them of the maturity may not receive them in time to act upon it? Is the Savings Bank exercising a degree of discretion in respect of these complaints and in fact have these complaints now been resolved?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: I think, Mr Speaker, to put it in context in the same period as the five, which is a year ending on 31st March, a total of 4,482 holders of debentures had their debentures maturing. But there seems to have been in this period, over a number of days, either delays or letters that have not gone there and that has been investigated and therefore, exceptionally there has been an adjustment made which has not come from the Savings Bank but from the Post Office side. That is to say, it has not been at the cost to the Savings Bank because the Savings Bank posted the letters early enough.

Hon. R M Clinton: Well, I am grateful to the Minister and I am sure that the debenture holders or pensioners will be delighted to know that they will be compensated.

Mr Speaker, if I can refer now to Questions 298, 299, 300, 301 and 302, the Minister's answer is somewhat light on information, to put it mildly, and I think everybody in this House can probably guess what the Roman letter G stands for and so I presume the other letters must stand for something else. Because otherwise, why not start with ABC and carry on ACD etc. until you exhaust the alphabet? There is obviously a particular rationale for the choice, for example, of GBIC.

Mr Speaker, I will illustrate this by reference to Europa Stadium Limited, which has since been morphed into a power-station-owning entity, which was originally called Europa Stadium Limited and has now become ES Limited.

So, Mr Speaker, there is a sort of rationale and there is a set pattern to the way the Government has done this in the past. I just find it perhaps regrettable that the Government cannot see itself or bring itself to tell the House what these particular initials stand for. In fact you know, Mr Speaker, from my reading of the question, the initials obviously stand for something.

Now, the Government obviously does not want to volunteer what those initials stand for, but could the Government perhaps confirm that the G stands for Gibraltar?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: No, Mr Speaker, the G stands for G in the Roman alphabet, because I have already told him that the fact that we choose one letter as opposed to another, does not mean that the name of a company is anything other than the name that has been registered and that is the name that will go on the letterhead, the name that people will refer to it and the name that will feature on all the documentation of the company. The G might be Guernsey instead of Gibraltar.

Hon. R M Clinton: By that very answer, Mr Speaker, he belies the fact that there is obviously a meaning behind it when he says the G might be Guernsey, obviously means something, if not nothing.

But can I come back to GOC (Secretaries)? I mean is the Minister seriously saying that GOC does not stand for anything or it may as well be called Death Star (Secretaries) Limited or Skywalker Limited (Secretaries) or Jabba Hutt Limited or any other Star Wars character?

I mean is the Government seriously telling this House that there is no rationale for the naming of its companies? (Interjection)

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: What I am telling the hon. Member is what I have told him before. We take decisions, he is entitled to information as to what we have done but he is not entitled to expect us to have to justify why we choose one letter as opposed to another in a name, or why we put one person as opposed to another in a position.

We do it because governments take thousands of decisions every day of the week and they have been elected to take those decisions. The consequences of those decisions may be something that the hon. Member agrees or does not agree, but it is not a question of having to have a bilateral approach to choosing company names.

The issue is, those are the names that have been suggested for those companies and that is the names in which they have been registered and it is part of the decision process of the Government. I know he has not been in Government and I am sure if he looks back it is not the kind of thing that anybody in Opposition has ever challenged before, 'why do you choose this name and not another one?' Well, because I am the Government and you are the Opposition, basically.

Hon. R M Clinton: Well, Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the Minister's answer.

Can I ask then, in terms of the answer to Question 303. There are individuals appointed but obviously the Minister chooses not to explain why those individuals have been selected, but he has not explained whether the Government's policy has changed in respect of having corporate directors and secretaries as opposed to individuals.

I would like to understand why, for GBIC Limited and GOC (Secretaries) Limited, this is different to other Government entities.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, when the hon. Member's first questioned why we put Company Directors Limited, he was told that it was so that the individuals could change and we would not need to go back and change the name of the directors. Clearly that does not mean that we have to do that in every single case. We choose to do it when we feel we should do it and when we feel we should not do it, we do not do it.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can I then ask in respect of GBIC Limited, why it is necessary to have a director that is resident in Hong Kong? Is that something to do with the activities of the company and if so, what are they?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, when somebody is appointed, it is not because it is necessary, nor is it that it requires a consultation with the Members opposite. We appoint somebody because we think he has something to contribute in the role to which he is being appointed.

Hon. R M Clinton: So, Mr Speaker, following on from what the Minister has said, and I follow his logic, then GBIC Limited obviously has some activity or some relationship with Hong Kong or why else would you appoint a director who is resident in Hong Kong? Would I be correct in assuming then that GBIC Limited has some business interest in South East Asia?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, he can assume whatever he wants but I am not here to correct or otherwise his assumptions. He is asking hypothetical questions about his speculation. I am telling him that we took a decision to appoint a certain person to a certain company and give it a certain name. He has the information of the person and the company and the name and that is all the information he is entitled to have.

Why did we put it there, is it that there is something going to be happening in Hong Kong? Well, if there is, when it happens he will no doubt find out.

Hon. R M Clinton: Sorry, Mr Speaker, I was just reviewing my answers. I have nothing further to add, thank you.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, could I ask, is the directorship linked to any additional remuneration for that role.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: No, Mr Speaker.

380 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, in order that I do not assume anything, may I ask the Minister, where we come to GOC (Secretaries), that the Secretaries element in the name is not a random and coincidental agglomeration of Roman letters but actually does mean Secretaries?

385 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the selection of a secretary or the selection of directors is something that is done because we think it is appropriate to do it in the way that it has been done. There is no... (Interjection) I do not follow what the supplementary is trying to get at. (Interjection)

Hon. T N Hammond: Sorry, the question is simply, does the Secretaries in brackets following GOC actually mean the word 'secretaries' or is it just a random accumulation of letters?

390 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well I think it means what it reads, I mean whoever prepared the answer for me puts that down that this is what it means, what it says on the paper.

395 Hon. R M Clinton: Sorry, Mr Speaker, I just had one thought. Could the Minister enlighten the House as to who chooses the names of these companies. Is there a Cabinet company-naming committee that decides on names based on the Roman alphabet on a random basis? Is there a code book the Cabinet uses? Could the Minister enlighten us as to how these wonderful names are arrived at?

Thank you.

400 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: No, I think that is decided at the level of AA, Mr Speaker. (Laughter and interjections)

Q306/2018

Public service vacancies – Number as at 31st January 2018

Clerk: Question 306, the Hon. D A Feetham.

405 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, how many vacancies were there in the public service as at 31st January 2018?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

410 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): None, Mr Speaker.

Q307/2018

New Calpe House – Use for medical patients

Clerk: Question 307, the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

415 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can the Government confirm that the new Calpe House building in 19-23 Norfolk Square will only be used by patients and their escorts for medical related reasons, or are there already plans to house others?

420 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, there is no change in the intended use of Calpe House.

425 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I ask this question following representations as a result of a request to change the application of the lease to remove the condition restricting use of the hostel to use by the Calpe House Charitable Trust. So even though the hon. Gentleman has confirmed that there are no plans at the moment, can he confirm that this will remain in the future as well?

430 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, I cannot tell the hon. Lady in the future indefinitely, that is to say certainly in the future for as long as I am patron of the charitable trust and the trustees are the trustees that are there. But I have to say that I want to take the opportunity for congratulating the trustees and indeed express my gratitude to Her Majesty's Government for having removed the restrictions that existed, because we paid a reduced price for the property because it had the restriction. There was a value put on that restriction which was waived when it was negotiated directly with the Minister responsible, in the knowledge that this is an institution that is a charity and will continue to be a charity.

435 But it means that if at some future date, for example, certainly not in the very near future but at some time in the future, there was a need to look for a bigger place, then the realisable value of the property would be much better than it would have been with the restriction that it had. And I think that is the value of having removed it.

In the meantime, of course, we have got an asset now that has a greater value even though the use will be the same because the restriction is no longer there.

445 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, may I, with the permission of the Leader of the Opposition to my right, join in congratulating the Trustees for what the hon. Gentleman has just outlined in his reply.

450 Can I also say that I have last week been to London at the invitation of the Trustees and they took me round the new Calpe House and it is going to be an absolutely fantastic facility for the people of Gibraltar and indeed all the Trustees can be truly proud of the work that they have done in respect of Calpe House.

455 My question, Mr Speaker, because of course it is Question Time, is: in terms of completion, does he know more or less when Calpe House will be completed and when the new Calpe House will be available to the GHA?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo) Mr Speaker, I will allow the hon. Member to answer that question, but if I might just for a moment deal with the issue of the question that the hon. Lady has asked, which I think is something that is important for the whole House to be aware of.

460 As Mr Bossano has said, the indication to the Government is that this of course adds value to the lease, etc. But also, and I think this is important for the hon. Lady to factor into her reckoning of this matter, all that has happened is that the new Calpe House is now in exactly the same position as the old Calpe House was.

465 Of course, the old Calpe House is the current Calpe House in use and that lease, I believe in Prince's Square if my memory serves me right, does not have any restrictions. And so, what has happened, is that the trustees have rightly, in the view of the Government, moved to remove the restrictions that there are in respect of the new lease, to put themselves in exactly the same position they were in, in respect of the old and current lease.

470 So as the Minister has suggested for example, when the time comes, they will be able to realise the value of the new lease as they go to increase the space available to Gibraltarians if that were to be an issue again in the future.

475 So there is not a move here that suggests a desire to change use; there is a move here to put the new Calpe House premises, and the law of the lease of the new Calpe House premises, into exactly the same standing as that of the current Calpe House premises which are also unrestricted. I hope this assists the hon. Lady in understanding why there has been that change made.

480 I do not have an exact date to share with the hon. Gentleman so I will give way to Mr Bossano if he has, but I think we all agree that as soon as possible is the right answer. But if the hon. Gentleman wants me to give way so he does not have to ask a question, he can make a comment, I am happy to do so.

485 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, just in relation to the point that the Hon. the Chief Minister has made, the change of use is not an indication that there will be a change of use. What the change of use does is it gets rid of a restriction within the lease which then means that on the books of the trust, you have an asset that is of a greater value because it is unencumbered by that restriction. That is the reality, and that, in my respectful view, is good business by the trustees and therefore they ought to be congratulated for it, which is the point that the hon. Gentleman made.

490 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: I have not got a specific date that I recall, Mr Speaker, but he actually has been to see it more recently than I have. So my information is that there are no delays of any significance and that it is on time.

495 I think we would all like to see it happening and the sooner the better, because the present Calpe House is not in a very good state and the trust has to spend money on doing things to the one that is going to be put on the market, which is an unnecessary cost. So now that the investment has been made in the new one, the sooner we can start using it, we will be able to accommodate more people and see what return we can get from the other one.

DEPUTY CHIEF MINISTER

Q308/2018

Activity-led tourism –

Land use

Clerk: Question 308, the Hon. E J Phillips.

500 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm what plans, if any, it has to use land for the purposes of activity-led tourism?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

505 Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Yes, Mr Speaker. The Government is studying proposals for the use of the Northern Defences for the purposes of heritage and activity-led tourism.

Hon. E J Phillips: Would the Government agree that the key to increasing activity-led tourism – indeed, event-led tourism – is its marketing?

510

Hon. Deputy Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member will understand that I am not the Minister for Tourism nor the Minister for Marketing. But the question was posed from a land point of view, so I answered the question as landlord in terms of whether the Government intends to locate a site to be used for tourism-related activity.

515

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I think I have asked a question in relation to land use, yes for the purposes of activity-led tourism. I am just asking whether the Deputy Chief Minister would agree that the key to having a successful policy in respect of that activity-led tourism or event-led tourism is marketing.

520

Hon. Dr J J Garcia: Yes, Mr Speaker.

Hon. E J Phillips: And therefore, he would also agree, Mr Speaker, that expenditure on tourism and marketing should be driven by value-for-money criteria, linked directly to results, would he not?

525

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Absolutely, Mr Speaker. Hence why the hon. Gentleman will have seen a press release issued by the Government a few hours ago, thanking him, the hon. Lady and Mr Llamas for their support at the recent event at the top of the Rock, where the Government launched the Skywalk, using a gentleman by the name of Mark Hamill, who used to star as Luke Skywalker in the movies which also feature ‘Dad Vader’ and others, (Laughter) well known to Members opposite, Mr Speaker!

530

And the hon. Gentleman might like to know, and this is why I wanted to thank them for their support, that the marketing of that particular opening which marketed the whole of Gibraltar, not just the Skywalk, garnered on the Time Magazine site, which has 15 million followers as I understand it, either on Facebook or on Twitter, over half a million views of a video on Gibraltar and the Skywalk. It was reflected in Mark Hamill’s own Twitter feed which has 2.6 million followers. On another website it had a quarter of a million views of that video and indeed, Mr Speaker, I forget the countless numbers of television stations, I believe 117 television stations around the world carried the video of the opening of the Gibraltar Skywalk.

So, Mr Speaker, marketing is absolutely what we have to be ensuring we get right and marketing, Mr Speaker, unfortunately sometimes costs money but we have to ensure that we use the money wisely to get the widest possible reach for Gibraltar, just as we, I think, demonstrated last week in an event which we also used to ensure that people who were followers of the particular saga that this particular actor is well known for also had the opportunity to interact with him.

545

So I would like to thank Ms Marlene Hassan Nahon, the Independent, Mr Lawrence Llamas the Independent and the Leader of the Opposition for the GSD, Mr Speaker, for supporting that event.

550

Thank you very much indeed.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the invitation. I always try to attend as many public events that I have been asked to attend and I will continue to do so because that is what I have been asked to do sat in this House and when Government invites me to its functions I will of course attend. It would be odd if I just refused it.

Mr Speaker, in relation to the position of the Government, can the Government confirm that the significant costs associated with having Mark Hamill is driven by value-for-money criteria linked directly to its results?

560 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I would not even call it a significant cost. Given the reach that we had, I think that hon. Gentlemen might look at the cost of the Skywalk versus the cost of this event, which unfortunately we are prevented by this non-disclosure agreement of giving the details of, and would decide that actually this is not just good value for money, this is excellent value for money, brilliant value for money.

565 In particular, just to juxtapose it, and as I said in my statement at the end of that press release, in the same week as we are also demonstrating our investment in health, because we had just launched that week the new Primary Care Centre and the new Paediatric Centre so that our children do not have to go to the same primary care centre as adults, and in the same months as we are being told by hon. Members that we are investing too much in education.

570 So I think in terms of value for money compared to the reach and the cost of the Skywalk, I really wish I could give Members chapter and verse of what the cost has been because it is absolutely excellent value for money and gets the name Gibraltar a reach we do not usually have, to the many millions of people that we want to attract.

575 I will just say this to the hon. Gentleman at the end of this contribution, Mr Speaker. Gibraltar has had a pull to attract people for many years. Part of it is the view of the apes in Gibraltar and I think that will always continue and I think as my friends in the taxi trade say often, the apes are our Mickey Mouse and they continue to be the biggest draw for Gibraltar.

580 We have also been able to draw on the affections of those who have served militarily in Gibraltar, who wanted to return and bring their families. We also draw on our historical significance and our strategic significance and people are interested in coming to see Gibraltar for those reasons.

585 We draw on the fact that Gibraltar is iconic and people who visit Gibraltar and are lucky enough to arrive by ship want to see it, get off the cruise ships – perhaps not as many as we would like but many do. But we have to reach a new generation of tourists to Gibraltar and as the world changes, Mr Speaker, and we cannot rely on WW2 veterans who have served here or have served here subsequently to bring their families, etc. we have to reach a new demographic. Mr Speaker, the hon. Members opposite will agree with me that that means reaching a new generation of individuals who might want to come to Gibraltar.

590 There have been two significant things which we can point to in the past year in that respect. One of them, and in my view at the moment the most significant, because it has been one of the largest events in Gibraltar's history, certainly the largest event for the launch of any tourist site, is the visit by Mark Hamill, the actor who played Luke Skywalker.

595 The second is the fact that Gibraltar is featured in a video game called Call of Duty, Mr Speaker, which is what is known in the trade as a 'shoot 'em up' based on the Second World War. Mr Speaker, it is really quite incredible to see that the reach of this video game technology is now in the hundreds of millions of people. Hundreds of millions of people around the world play these games. Indeed now, Mr Speaker, they play together and one of the stages of that game – this is a special edition of the game which is a World War II version, includes Gibraltar as a fortress coming under attack from Axis forces etc.

600 We have to reach that new demographic, we have to reach the new generations. This was, Mr Speaker, in respect of the launch of the Skywalk, exactly the right way to reach them and to make something of our Skywalk to make it different to all the other skywalks around the world. This is the Gibraltar Skywalk. Gibraltar, if the hon. Member cares to look carefully, looks a little in profile like the island where the Last Jedi is to be found in the last edition of the saga. This is all creating part of the myth. We are trying to create an attraction for people.

605 I have seen, Mr Speaker, that there are some who think this is not going to produce a return. Well, Mr Speaker, we think it has, certainly in marketing terms already. The advertising value of what I am telling the hon. Gentleman has been the reach of this video is absolutely huge. If we had had to pay for it, Mr Speaker, it would have been millions of pounds.

610 I have read some people trying to be funny to bring in references to Tatooine, etc. and actually not achieving even funniness, let alone serious political reach, but you know, that is what happens if you become a nomad in politics I suppose, Mr Speaker. You do not actually ever hit the target.

615 But if you look at this seriously and if you work it out carefully, Mr Speaker, even the real Slim Shady, Mr Speaker, would have understood (Laughter) the value of bringing the Force to Gibraltar.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker –

620 Mr Speaker: Before the Leader of the Opposition asks a supplementary, given that the Chief Minister has widened the scope of the original question by his intervention, I will allow supplementaries on those aspects by which he has widened the scope, but I am not allowing any debate on these issues.

625 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, given the fact that this House and the people in our community will not be permitted to know how much this event on the Rock has cost us, can the Government confirm at least that they have been able to manage the message being delivered via Twitter and other social media outlets in respect of Mr Hamill's communication?

630 Because as far as we can tell from this side of the House, Mr Hamill remarked on 'Why would they ever invite me to the opening of something called a Skywalk? Remains a mystery.' I think that is a fairly negative way of putting a Skywalk who has cost us money, Mr Speaker. Can the Chief Minister confirm that he is managing the marketing message being delivered to our community, outside our community?

635 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I paused to think because I really do not believe it is possible for the hon. Gentleman to mean what he has just said. I assume he is trying to deal with some social media mutterings of others who he has responsibility and owes allegiance to, Mr Speaker.

640 Now irony, Mr Speaker, is not something that tastes 'metally'. Irony is a methodology of getting across a message. And so, when Luke Skywalker, because that is how he is best known, says, 'I can't imagine why they ask me to open a Skywalk!', he is being ironic and, in that way, communicating a message. Very well, if I may say so, because the hon. Gentleman will indulge me for a moment as I reflect to the House, Mr Speaker, how far the irony of that particular message has gone.

645 In just seeking to give the House an updated number, that ironic message from Mark Hamill, also known as HamillHimself, garnered 7,938 likes – this is a way of measuring on social media, Mr Speaker – 969 retweets and 314 comments, Mr Speaker. So, 8,000, in effect, likes, 1,000 retweets, 315 comments. That is probably a million times more than anything he has ever said on Twitter has attracted the attention of, or indeed, Mr Speaker, that those beyond this House 650 who he owes allegiance to might ever have suffered the liking of.

Just after that, Mr Speaker, Mark Hamill the actor who played Luke Skywalker, amusingly also took a picture of himself of his face in a Barbary Macaque cut-out, Mr Speaker. That obtained 7,000 likes and, Mr Speaker, just demonstrating that one can be a celebrity but also be a thoroughly decent, nice and kind individual as well, another tweet that the hon. – sorry no, not the honourable, he is not really a Jedi! (Laughter) That Mark Hamill himself put up which talked about World Down's Syndrome Day, and featured what we were doing in Gibraltar for World Down's Syndrome Day, garnered 4,500 likes and 630 retweets, Mr Speaker. That is just on Twitter.

660 The numbers on Facebook are I think even higher, Mr Speaker. That is one part of the marketing and if I may say so, Mr Speaker, and I will be very honest with the hon. Gentleman, we do not control what Mark Hamill says on Twitter. You never contract to control what is said; you contract so that something is said and that it is in the positive, and that is extraordinarily positive messaging which goes beyond simply saying – which is very bad marketing, by the way –

665 'I have been to open the Skywalk, the Skywalk is open, come and turn up, it is £1.50.' That is not good marketing.

Good marketing is marketing that gives a twist, that is ironic, that suggests something exciting. Mr Speaker, if the hon. Gentleman would care to know, the one thing I did not think worked very well was that one of the Stormtroopers was very casually photographed in the background. That turned out to be one of the key features of what drove the message, because 670 people wanted to know what the Stormtrooper was doing casually hanging on the side of the balcony.

In fact, there was a caption competition running at one stage and some very funny contributions about what it was that the Stormtroopers were saying: 'They really need to polish the Death Star better', etc.

675 So, Mr Speaker, you do not need to control a message if you are on message with the people that you contract. These were excellent messages from Mark Hamill himself. I think they demonstrate the value of what we have done. They got out the message. We can all be grouches and scrooges about things. This was the right thing to do.

And the hon. Gentleman says we are not going to be permitted to know the cost. No, 680 Mr Speaker, I am not permitted to tell you the cost, but I wish I could because it would demonstrate that all of the attempts to denigrate this are absolutely wrong and all the attempts to compare it to investment in health services are absolutely wrong, because it is done in the same week as we invest in the Primary Care Centre and the new Paediatric Facility. Frankly, Mr Speaker, to suggest that we would do anything that is not value for money, I think does not 685 demonstrate the understanding the hon. Gentleman should have of how we ensure that we get the message out.

But the results speak for themselves. When have we had something out in 117 television stations? When have we had something to do with Gibraltar with half a million views already, four days after it has happened, on the Time Magazine page? Mr Speaker, these are excellent 690 numbers, they show that the message has gone further.

I thought the attack would be, Mr Speaker, that we have spun this too well. But no, the suggestion seems to be the opposite. But I think the hon. Gentleman needs to get the irony of the message.. He needs to understand what irony is and see the value of marketing done in that way as well as we have.

695

Hon. E J Phillips: I have just one further question, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: The Force is telling me that we should move on. (Laughter) I will allow one more supplementary and then we are moving on. We are not having more of Mark Hamill or Luke Skywalker in the House today.
700

Hon. D A Feetham: I had one more.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I thank the Chief Minister for his response in relation to his expertise on ironic and the irony of this particular type of marketing on social media. But speaking seriously for one moment, how does the Government rationalise with people that have complained to me and complained to my colleagues about the excessive spending of public money – ?
705

Mr Speaker: No, no. We are now debating Government expenditure on a general basis. It does not arise from the original question. It does not even arise from the supplementaries that I have allowed.
710

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, but he has given the widest possible remit.
715

Mr Speaker: No, I am not allowing that question. I am very sorry. You are outside the rules.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I don't know how. It is the Chief Minister that is outside the rules.

720

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Mr Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, just on the marketing aspect, would the Government accept that perhaps they have lost an opportunity of having marketed this event in advance to the actual day and being able to attract fans over and fill up rooms in hotels and the restaurants in Gibraltar?

725

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, the one thing I did not say before was that Mark Hamill apparently on television in GBC said, 'I am very lucky that they called it a Skywalk, otherwise they might never have contracted me to come and open it.'

730

The definition of irony which I have got here, is 'the expression of one's meaning by using language that normally signifies the opposite, typically for humorous or emphatic effect', by the way.

735

Mr Speaker, I do not know whether the hon. Gentleman attended the events at the Piazza. The events at the Piazza demonstrated just how blessed Gibraltar is, because Mark Hamill landed in brilliant sunshine and had his picture taken, as anyone arriving at Gibraltar would, with Kaiane, with the Rock behind, an important marketing picture for Gibraltar in the future – Luke Skywalker, Gibraltar and our Mayor, Miss World 2009.

740

It then rained cats and dogs. I bit my nails to the quick and by seven o'clock in the area in front of this Parliament, the sun was shining brightly and everyone that had an interest was here for an interview that Mark Hamill did with Nick Guerrero. Now the important thing, Mr Speaker, to tell the hon. Gentleman is the public order issues that we had getting Mark Hamill out of the lobby of the House of Parliament.

745

Now, the hon. Gentleman knows that unfortunately, although I do not think it is necessary in Gibraltar but you know sometimes, as the hon. former, former Leader of the Oppositions says, we have to do these things. I have a bodyguard in Gibraltar. I have two in Spain for reasons which might be more obvious. He had five, Mr Speaker, and we had to call reinforcements to get him out. Now, if we had said earlier than we had that he was coming, we might have had even more difficult public order issues.

750

The airport at one stage was full of people wanting to see him on his arrival. There were people who would not let him out of here. The Rock Hotel was besieged by people at different times. That is why we did not announce it earlier than we did, because we were concerned about those issues.

755

But I think that the spread of the message has worked. That is what the marketing was about. This was not an event-led tourist event. In other words, we did not use the visit as a tourist event to fill hotels. We used the visit to promote a thing that we hope will help us fill hotels and attract people to Gibraltar.

760

Look, it is possible to bring a celebrity every weekend, tell people they are coming and potentially, as long as the celebrity has a strong enough draw, fill Gibraltar with people who are interested in seeing that celebrity. That is not an area that we have explored but, Mr Speaker, what we have done in this instance, I think, is used the marketing by the celebrity being here in order to create an interest in those who follow the saga, in coming to see that Skywalk etc.

765

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Mr Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Thank you very much, Mr Speaker. Just a couple or three quick-fire supplementaries, Mr Speaker and then I will sit down.

The first is: did Mr Hamill insist on the non-disclosure of the consideration payable under this contract or was it the Government that insisted on it?

770 Secondly does the Chief Minister think that it is in the public interest for a Government to be signing a non-disclosure that it will not effectively disclose the consideration for a contract of this nature to a Parliament?

And thirdly, is there any truth in the rumour that the Government is bringing Eminem next to Gibraltar? (Laughter)

775

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I have to start by apologising to the hon. Gentleman, because I was not able to invite him also to the Skywalk launch. Not all Ministers were able to be invited because we had a controlled set of numbers and we needed certain shots etc. taken. So it was not possible to invite all Members of the House so we went for representatives of all the political groups opposite and we found the support of the GSD for this event and the support of Mr Llamas and Ms Hassan Nahon. Otherwise, Mr Speaker, we might have had the very difficult situation of having a Sith Lord and a Jedi on the same viewing platform, and then all sorts of trouble could have ensued. (Laughter)

780

But, Mr Speaker, it is not us that insisted on the confidentiality clause; it is a standard clause in the artist's agreement. Frankly, I am going to seek to be discharged from that but I do not know whether we will be because it is a standard clause of his. And there is control, Mr Speaker, because this money is in the Estimates Book under marketing costs, etc. It is like the Music Festival, we are not able to disclose the individual fees of the bands, but you know what it cost. In other words, you know what is spent on that and you know how much is spent on marketing.

790 But you just put yourself in a position, Mr Speaker, if you disclose that you are not going to get best possible value for money, because if you get a discount, Mr Speaker, and that is published, others will want to pay no more than you have paid.

So it is entirely in the public interest of Gibraltar that we respect confidentiality agreements because we think we get better deals for the Gibraltar taxpayer as a result, not worse deals as a result. So I think hon. Members would appreciate that that is the logic of why we accept these things.

795

Finally, Mr Speaker, I know that these questions were put in some time ago, which means, Mr Speaker, these questions were put in long before there was any chance of anybody knowing about Mark Hamill coming to Gibraltar. They cannot have been intended for that, although all the supplementaries have been on that. I welcome that, Mr Speaker, because we have been able to deal with an issue that has been made public in another not so positive way by the Members of the party represented opposite but who are not in this House to put the very contrary view that was expressed by hon. Members present at the event last week.

800

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Roy Clinton and that is the last supplementary that I am allowing. I have had enough this afternoon. Half an hour on Luke Skywalker, I think is – (Laughter)

805

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker, I will be brief.

Given that the Chief Minister has emphasised that this was indeed value for money, can he advise the House whose idea this was and was there a cost-benefit analysis presented beforehand as to this event?

810

And finally, Mr Speaker, would he be willing to disclose to this House, the total cost of the Skywalk, including the cost of the opening?

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

815

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, it was my idea. Yes, we did a cost-benefit analysis. We will disclose the full cost of the Skywalk but not the cost of the opening because that would allow people to work out the cost of the event and therefore put us in breach of our obligations. I am 820 sure that the hon. Gentleman does not want to put the Government of Gibraltar in breach of its contractual obligations, Mr Speaker.

And I bow to you now as Supreme Leader and end this part of the questioning.

Q309/2018

St Christopher's School – Plans once handed over to Government

825 Clerk: Question 309, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain what plans it has for St Christopher's School, and explain in what physical conditions the school has been handed over to the Government?

830

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister.

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Yes, Mr Speaker. St Christopher's School has not yet been handed over to the Government.

CHIEF MINISTER

Q310/2018

Economic Advisory Council 2025 –
Members and meetings

835 Clerk: Question 310, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, has the Government appointed members to the Board of the Economic Advisory Council 2025 and if so, how many times, and on what dates, has it met since formation?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

845 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, less than 90 days after the result of the 2015 General Election, the former Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, David Cameron, called a referendum on the UK and Gibraltar's membership of the European Union. For that reason, the Government decided to forgo appointments to the said Economic Advisory Council.

The Government will therefore now expect to convene the council in July, a date by which we may have greater clarity as to the access the UK and Gibraltar may have to the EU Single Market.

850 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Chief Minister for his answer, although I fail to see why the Brexit vote had to delay the creation of the council. In fact, I would have thought there would have been more reason for its creation.

Can I ask the Chief Minister, has he identified the individuals that he would wish to appoint to such a council and if so, have they been approached?

855

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not agree, because it is not possible to make serious suggestions in vacuo. So in other words, Mr Speaker, what is the point of sitting round thinking about what we would do if we had access to the Single Market if we do not have access 860 to the Single Market, or thinking about what we would do if we do not have access to the Single Market if we do have access to the Single Market.

So what makes more sense, Mr Speaker, is to know what the settled position is going to be, what market we are going to have access to and to plan in that way.

I have approached a number of people to form part of this council and I expect to approach others in coming months.

865 You should not expect a call. (Laughter)

Hon. R M Clinton: No indeed, Mr Speaker, I certainly would not expect a call.

Can the Chief Minister enlighten us as to the significance of July? Forgive me if I am not up to speed on that particular date.

870

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I take it then that he is not following the debate about when the European Union expects to enter into arrangements with the United Kingdom.

Q311/2018

Pensions for private sector workers – Government manifesto commitments

Clerk: Question 311, the Hon. R M Clinton.

875 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, how does the Government believe it has fulfilled its manifesto commitment of 2011 and 2015 in respect of pensions for private sector workers?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

880 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, in full, sir.

Q312/2018

Tax rebates – Value outstanding as at 31st December 2017

Clerk: Question 312, the Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please advise the value of tax rebates outstanding as at 31st December 2017, analysed between personal and corporate?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the Income Tax Office does not hold historical information on the level of tax rebates due.

890

The fact is that the total value of refunds due to individuals and entities is obviously in a state of constant flux. The Tax Office continues with its refund repayment programme and is continuing to bring assessments up to date. The result of this strategy is that additional refunds continue to be made in a timely manner as practically possible.

895

Therefore, during the current financial year, and as at 9th March 2018, the Income Tax Office has paid an unprecedented £14,247,460 in tax rebates. That is the largest amount ever paid in tax rebates in the history of our community and is in keeping with our policy of seeking to be as up to date as possible in respect of the amounts repaid to taxpayers.

Mr Speaker, this is a record to be proud of and I am pleased to tell the House that I will be able to provide more detail on the success of our policy during the course of the debate on the Appropriation Bill later this year.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I thank the Chief Minister for his answer. I will perhaps file another question, Mr Speaker, with your permission, because without checking Hansard I cannot remember off the top of my head, I am fairly certain that we have had information in the past on the level of tax refunds outstanding and therefore it is entirely within the ability and remit of the Tax Office to provide that information.

While I am on my feet, Mr Speaker, the Chief Minister has just given a number of rebates paid of £14 million and change: would he confirm to the House that is in fact more than the estimated revenue repayments of £10 million in the Estimates Book?

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, Mr Speaker, it is a 50% surplus over that amount. In fact, instead of £10 million we have paid £14,400,000 to date. That means, Mr Speaker, that the £10 million which would have been the largest amount ever paid in tax rebates in any financial year has been exceeded half again, Mr Speaker. An excellent record to be proud of in paying back to people and exceeding, Mr Speaker, the amount ever paid by any Government in the past in any financial year.

Hon. R M Clinton: Well, Mr Speaker, I would be the first to congratulate him on behalf of the taxpayer, if only we knew how much more remains to be paid. As soon as we have that information, I will be the first one to congratulate the Government for repaying what taxpayers are due.

But I have no further question for him.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, in that case, I will look forward to receiving his congratulations, but hopefully not caveated in any way, because this is the largest amount ever paid. If he wants to compare that to the amounts that may be outstanding, he might want to compare that to the amounts outstanding as a ratio of the amounts outstanding at the time that the party that he represents was in office because, Mr Speaker, I think even that is important.

I think the demonstration and commitment of the Government in repaying to taxpayers is now more evident than ever, and as I said during the course of the last Appropriation debate and will demonstrate during the course of the coming Appropriation debate, to which I am very much looking forward.

Q321/2018
Former Rooke site –
Costs of demolition and works; reasons

995 Clerk: Question 321, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government disclose the cost of demolition and any works it may envisage carrying out at the former Rooke site together with its reasons for carrying out these works.

1000

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the reply to Question 399/2017 set out the cost of the demolition and the reasons for it. The information requested has therefore been in the public domain for nine months.

1005

Q322/2018
Disability Allowance –
Concerns

Clerk: Question 322, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide an updated position with regards to Question 94/2018?

1010

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the position in respect of Disability Allowance remains as set out in answer to Question 94/2018. I am looking forward to meeting with the Disability Society tomorrow, in order to better understand their concerns in this respect.

1015

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, the question is that people from the Disability Society and Members in general have been under the impression, since the Chief Minister made an address during his initial Budget upon winning his first election, that the Disability Allowance benefit – not the taxable allowance received, the actual benefit – would increase in line with the cost of living. And given that the Chief Minister announced a 2.7% increase in cost of living, that is the percentage that they are seeking to receive.

1020

In the past, the Government has issued press releases when they have increased the benefit. In one particular year I believe the cost of living only went up 0.4% and the Government actually topped it up and went up to 1.7% and they made a press statement. But given that they have actually been writing to No. 6 asking questions, not just for clarification in the public domain, but they have actually taken the initiative to try and push this agenda forward but have been unable to get any answers; and the fact that the commitment has been there and has been practised throughout the years, it suddenly seems to have stopped. Does the Government have a reasoning for why the Disability benefit has actually not increased in this financial year?

1025

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, Question 94/2018, which is the one which is referenced in the question I am dealing with today, deals exclusively with Disability Allowance, Mr Speaker. It does not deal with anything else. But as I have said to the hon. Gentleman, I am going to see the 1035 Disability Society tomorrow, so I will be providing answers to any questions that they put to me tomorrow, directly.

Q313-320/2018

PAYE, Social Insurance, Rates, Corporate and Personal Tax arrears – Supplementary questions

Mr Speaker: Are there any supplementaries arising from those schedules?

1040 Hon. R M Clinton: Yes, Mr Speaker. Just on a cursory review of the schedules and we may come back with more specific questions, if I can direct the Chief Minister to his answer to Question 314, top 30 amounts outstanding for Social Insurance, and the amount there is £316,998.09. Looking at the corresponding schedule that was handed to us in October 2016, it is in fact the same identical number.

1045 Can the Chief Minister advise or at least confirm that we are talking about the same debtor and if so, why is it in the space of time that has elapsed, that number has not changed?

1050 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Yes, Mr Speaker, it is the same debtor. The amounts accrued in 2001, 2003 and 2009 and the company is in liquidation – that is why the figures have not changed.

Hon. R M Clinton: I am grateful to the Chief Minister for that answer. Can he advise, if he has the information with him, which of the other entities relate to companies that are in liquidation?

1055 Hon. Chief Minister: In that schedule, Mr Speaker, in Social Insurance there are none other in liquidation, but there are a number in the legal process and I do not know whether that legal process is winding-up proceedings or not, because I do not have that information.

1060 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Chief Minister for that. Would I be correct in presuming – and I presume that would be the correct assumption – that in his answer to Question 318 where the Social Insurance amounts of £316,998.09 appears, that the PAYE debtor is in relation obviously to the same debtor and is also therefore, the same entity in liquidation? And if I could ask whether the line down, the next one down, also relates to the company in liquidation.

1065 Hon. Chief Minister: So, Mr Speaker, he said in 318, so the first line of 318 is the one that he referred me to which has in respect of the column for Social Insurance the same figure, £316,998.09, then the figure for PAYE £364,113.32 is of course, because that is how it is set out, owed by the same debtor, Mr Speaker.

I did not catch the second limb of what he asked me.

1070 Hon. R M Clinton: Yes, I am grateful to the Chief Minister. I was just asking if the next line down of that same schedule in answer to 318 would relate to an entity in liquidation?

1075 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the note I have says ‘pending liquidation’. So I assume that is at some part of the process of the winding-up procedure of the court.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, what about the second number on the schedule for PAYE £364,113.32 and also the numbers as well on personal tax, which is – (Interjection) sorry? Yes, 1080 well, which is exactly the same as the number that was given to us in October 2016. That is the second one on the schedule on PAYE.

Hon. Chief Minister: That is exactly the question that I answered to the hon. Gentleman, Mr Speaker. That entity is the one that is – (Interjection) No, no but he also asked me to relate it to the number in respect of PAYE that appeared in the answer at 318, I believe, Mr Speaker. So if 1085 the hon. Gentleman looks at 318, that is the number that I gave the hon. Gentleman, you see, so it is the same entity, Mr Speaker, and it is in liquidation.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for that.
What about personal tax? What we have on personal tax in October 2016, the top number 1090 was £320,978.48 and the second highest debtor on personal tax in October 2016 was £231,432.52 which are identical to the figures in the schedule that he has provided in answer to my hon. Friend today.

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, Mr Speaker, so they are in liquidation, but obviously in human 1095 terms that means bankruptcy. (Interjection) So these are two individuals in bankruptcy.

Mr Speaker: Any other supplementaries?
That is the end of question time then.

PROCEDURAL

Estimates of Expenditure – Agreed to be circulated on Wednesday, 2nd May

Mr Speaker: Before we move on, there is a matter that I want to clarify. Members will recall 1100 that we agreed that the Estimates of Expenditure, that the Constitution would be met, the requirements of the Constitution, if the Estimates of Expenditure were circulated not later than 30th April.

Now, 30th April is a public holiday in Gibraltar, Monday is the public holiday and Tuesday, 1105 1st May is also a public holiday. Therefore, basing ourselves on the Interpretation and General Clauses act, the requirement would be met if the Estimates are circulated on Wednesday, 2nd May. Is that agreed?

Thank you very much.

Q186-188/2018 Government workers – Question held over to this session

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I have one matter, before the Hon. Chief Minister moves to 1110 something else.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): All I am going to do is table the Written Questions. Does he want to say it before or after I table the Written Questions?

Hon. D A Feetham: Before, I would appreciate it. Maybe it is a point that is badly made, 1115 because it may well be that the answer is in the Written Questions.

1120 But, Mr Speaker, you may recall that at the last session of Parliament I had one question, which was a question about the supply workers from recruitment consultants across the public service and the hon. Gentleman, Minister Bossano, I think he indicated that in the time available it had not been possible to compile the information in order to provide an answer.

At that stage I referred Mr Speaker to Standing Orders and I asked for my question to be left over to this session of Parliament, whether it is orally or in writing. And in fact, my recollection was that that is where we left it – we left it at that stage.

1125 Now, I would like to know where we are with that question because of course, Mr Speaker, what I could have done and I am not going to get technical about this, what we could have done would have been if the Hon. Minister had said, 'No, no my answer is I do not have the information therefore that is my answer and that is it, because the time to compile it has been too short,' I would have asked for the indulgence of Mr Speaker and I would have said to Mr Speaker, 'Can I repeat the question next time round?'

1130 So in fairness to me and in fairness to ... not that the hon. Gentlemen are going to be too fair to me, but in fairness I would say, I would just like to know where we stand with that question. Because now we have got Easter so there is another month that is going to be lost and if the hon. Gentleman intends to answer my question, well look, I will sit down and shut up.

1135 But the indication that has been given to me is that the hon. Gentleman now believes that he answered my question and that is the end of the matter, which I think is terribly unfair and I appeal to the hon. Gentleman's sense of fairness.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not know what makes the hon. Gentleman think – (Laughter) if I manage to get the words out through my mirth! I do not know what makes the hon. Gentleman think that we would be anything other than entirely generous to him, Mr Speaker.

If only he had allowed me, Mr Speaker, to lay on the table the Written Answers to the Written Questions, I have the answer to his question here, Mr Speaker.

1145 Hon. D A Feetham: A full answer or ... ?

Hon. Chief Minister: They always are, Mr Speaker! (Laughter) – to table for the hon. Gentleman also ... Well, not to table but at least to pass to the Clerk to pass to him that answer, because our understanding is that they are questions that are then dealt with as written at the next occasion and here we are, Mr Speaker.

QUESTIONS FOR WRITTEN ANSWER

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): So I therefore have the honour, Mr Speaker, to table the answers to Written Questions numbers W12 to W22/2018 inclusive and to pass over also, Mr Speaker, the answer to the hon. Gentleman's question which was left unanswered at the last session. And I hope, Mr Speaker, of course, that he enjoys the answer, as we always wish that he does.

And, Mr Speaker, I think that might be a convenient moment –

1160 Mr Speaker: Before we go –

Hon. Chief Minister: Oh, perhaps not, Mr Speaker!

Clarification by Mr Speaker of Rule 16(2) re unanswered questions

Mr Speaker: Not by way of making any ruling on this matter, but I had an opportunity this afternoon earlier when I spoke to the hon. Member, to have a look at Rule 16(2) which says:

If any question remains unanswered when the Parliament adjourns on the last day of a meeting a written answer shall be sent to the Member who put the question:

Provided that where the question has been set down for oral answer the Member who put the question may within three days, exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays and public holidays, next after the adjournment of the Parliament require in writing that the question be postponed to a day at the next meeting of the Parliament.

1165 So, the position therefore, is this. If a question is on the agenda and for some reason or another the question is not asked, it is not answered because it is not asked, and it might not be asked because the hon. questioner is not present and has agreed with his colleagues that it should not be dealt with. If that happens, then unless he gives an indication within three days 1170 that he wishes to take the matter forward, a written answer is given – and only in those circumstances.

When the other day he rose and he had the exchange with the Hon. Mr Bossano, in good faith, I took the answer that Mr Bossano had given in good faith, I thought the question had not been answered.

1175 But no, if a question is put and the answer is 'I am not able to answer it, I do not have the information here because I require more time', as far as the proceedings of Parliament that day are concerned, the question has been answered, and the answer is that I cannot give you the information that you require.

1180 That would not set off, in my view, Rule 16(2). Rule 16(2) I think only comes into operation if the question has not been asked and if it has not been asked, it has not been answered. That is the way that I understand over the years that that particular rule has been applied – certainly, when I was a Member and I would imagine in between.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I do not want to sound controversial. I thoroughly disagree with the interpretation that Mr Speaker has placed on this particular clause and indeed, I would 1185 wager my professional reputation – (Interjections) I go as far as to say that I would wager my professional reputation that Mr Speaker is wrong in relation to that.

1190 Because you see, if I ask a question ... What Mr Speaker is saying is that this particular clause in Standing Orders is there only in a situation where the question does not get asked. That cannot be right. This is there to cover that situation, I agree, but it is also there to cover a situation where the Government says, 'Well look, I do not have the information here now, but I am going to have it next time round.' Well, instead of asking the question again next time round, what then happens is that the same question can be left over for next time round and then the answer is provided. That must be the purposive, common-sense interpretation to this particular clause.

1195 But as always, Mr Speaker, you are the final voice and the final arbiter and my professional reputation is irrelevant – it is neither here nor there. But I have to say that I could not stay sitting down without expressing my view in relation to this, because in fairness I just do not agree with it.

1200 Mr Speaker: I respect what the hon. Member is saying entirely. Fortunately, I do not have any professional reputation at stake (Laughter) on this matter, but as I say it is my recollection that that is the manner in which, in practical terms, that particular rule has been applied over the years and I do not think that there has been any exception to that until just now.

1205 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I may, on behalf of the Government, the Government will not just abide by your ruling but agree with it respectfully, Mr Speaker, because there are, and this is what the hon. Gentleman understood when he was in Government but does not like to understand when he is in Opposition.

1210 There are rules as to questions and then rules as to answers. The rules as to answers are procedural, they deal with when answers are provided and how answers are provided. They cannot deal with the substance of answers and once a question is asked, such answer as may be provided as long as it is in keeping with the rules, Mr Speaker, is an answer.

1215 And therefore, Mr Speaker, I think it is very clear that it would be ungenerous of the Government to seek to invoke the rule that you cannot ask the same question within six months, where a Minister has given such an answer. And there Mr Speaker has discretion and would say, 'Well look, if what the Minister said at the last session was that he did not have the information, then I am going to allow the question to be put again, even though six months have not passed.'

1220 But that does not get the hon. Gentleman off the hook he has created for himself again on his professional reputation (Laughter) and Rule 16(2), which I am afraid, Mr Speaker, leaves the House with the abiding view that once again his professional reputation lies in tatters around him. (Laughter)

1225 And, Mr Speaker, as much for him as for all the rest of us, I think that may be a convenient moment for us to recess for him to collect his reputation and for the rest of us to have a comfort break for 15 minutes.

Mr Speaker: Very well, we shall now have a short recess.

The House recessed for 15 minutes.

Order of the Day

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

Environment – Gibraltar's air quality and renewable energy – Amended motion carried

Clerk: Government business has now terminated.

We now move to Private Members' Motions – the Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1230 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move the motion standing in my name, which reads as follows:

'THIS HOUSE:

NOTES that the content of this motion represents the views and desires of a considerable number of constituents who have taken part in the debate and elaboration of the motion via the civil platform "Together Gibraltar".

BELIEVES that it is the responsibility of our current administration, and our elected representatives in Parliament to deliver on commitments to shape our future.

UNDERSTANDS that poor air quality in Gibraltar is not a new phenomenon.

ACCEPTS that we must demonstrate adherence to EU targets on air quality.

AKNOWLEDGES that we must relocate / add new air quality monitors to locations so as to better reflect the air quality in dense urban environments.

RECOGNISES that vehicular emissions are the second largest contributor to air pollution in Gibraltar.

COMMITTS to meeting EU targets on recyclable waste.

RECOMMENDS an independent analysis of renewable energy sources and potential for Gibraltar.

WELCOMES the Bill to amend the Gibraltar Electricity Authority Act 2003 in order to support feed-in arrangements, however, expresses concern that this Bill does not propose a framework that provides some form of investment protection through guaranteed feed-in tariffs or others, and relies exclusively on discretion by the Gibraltar Electricity Authority.

DECLARES the need for the creation of a cross party platform. There is a need for an independent, executive body to oversee the actions above, such that the election cycle and varying manifesto commitments will not de-prioritise the environmental agenda, and only a broad parliamentary consensus can guarantee the level of commitment this issue requires.'

Mr Speaker: I now propose the question in the terms of the motion moved by the hon. Lady.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, as many of you probably know, I, together with a group of socially aware and active constituents, have organised a civic platform designed to promote participation and help bring positive change in Gibraltar. This platform is called 'Together Gibraltar' and I would like this platform to be a useful tool in bringing the voice of the people we represent closer to us; the legislators and decision-makers of this community also.

It is intended to be a pragmatic, non-partisan vehicle of expression and I hereby encourage the Members of this House to put aside their differences and their cynicism and take full advantage now and in the future of this direct line of communication with the electorate.

After several meetings with these constituents, it was determined that we should commence by approaching a subject capable of generating great consensus. The subject of the environment, its current state and how we are dealing with the great challenges that await us in the future, was the key to our first step.

At this stage, it is important to state that it is a responsibility of our current administration and our elected representatives in Parliament to deliver on commitments to shape our future. These measures must be practicable and measurable and not fall into empty declarations of principle like has so often been the case in the past.

They require urgent and effective legislative changes, substantial investment and a pedagogical effort aimed at educating and empowering the public at large. All this in a way that is financially as well as environmentally sustainable.

We seek a holistic approach with a wide consensus on measures and targets to be established with veritable evidence of adherence towards these targets and a long-term plan binding both present and future Governments.

In that vein, let me start addressing the real substance of this proposal. It transpired from the meeting that one of the most important issues for our constituents is pollution and air quality. Air quality is not only an environmental concern but also one that impacts on the health and quality of life of our constituents. So much so, that Gibraltar has a higher rate of respiratory disease than anywhere else in Europe, 2.5 the amount of times than that of the EU mean in 2013. And there is anecdotal concern about other diseases often linked with pollutants: cancer and dementia for example.

This concern is not a new phenomenon, not in Gibraltar and definitely not in this House. In fact, in July 2010 following the failure to meet European limits on PM10 and Nitrogen Dioxide particles, the Air Quality Action Plan was prepared.

Subsequently, a TEN – Time Extension Notification – was submitted for ongoing, non-conformity breaches to levels of pollutants. The TEN included a number of actions deemed outstanding in 2011, many of which remain outstanding six years later.

1270 These include park and ride scheme for border walks and tourists, a city centre low emission zone, emphasis on low emission vehicles/public transport, to remove 2-stroke engine mopeds off the road and launch of the new power plant.

1275 In order to achieve these aims, we must demonstrate adherence to EU targets, also in a post Brexit scenario on air quality for arsenic, benzene, cadmium, carbon monoxide, lead, nickel, nitrogen dioxide, NO<sub>2</sub>, ozone, particulate matter PM10 and PM2.5, Polycyclic Aromatic Hydrocarbons (PAH) and sulphur dioxide.

1280 These efforts require a planned scientific approach and an adequate monitoring infrastructure. It is impossible to verify the implementation of this plan without relocating and adding new air quality monitors to certain locations so as to better reflect the air quality in dense urban environments, particularly in the north and west part of town, for example, Waterport Terraces. Until we can offer an accurate diagnosis of the problem we will not be able to provide an effective solution.

1285 As part of this holistic approach, we must take into account the environmental impact of our traffic plan and ensure that it does not disrupt our environmental objectives. Vehicular emissions are the second largest contributor to air pollution in Gibraltar. Furthermore, congestion, noise and energy dependency issues worsen while the number of cars on the roads increase.

1290 Between 30,000 and 40,000 vehicles on the road and the figure increasing, the matter must be addressed. It is therefore proposed that a target of 10% electric vehicles by 2020 be adhered to; a year on year decrease of the number of non-electric vehicles on the road; a service level agreement of 99% operational availability of air quality monitors be implemented; and implement a road tax to deter car ownership as well as implement a congestion charge zone to reduce congestion and pollution on our clogged streets. A feasibility study of a Zipcar-style car-sharing scheme also; transparency on the progress towards a fleet of electric taxis; and hybrid low emission fleet of buses.

1295 Another fundamental aspect of a sustainable environmental agenda is the issue of waste disposal. We must therefore firmly commit to meeting EU targets on recyclable waste, 60% paper, 60% glass, 50% metals, 23% plastic, 15% wood.

1300 An adequate plan to address this issue should include investment in grass roots education and distribution of household bins; recycling bins in every private and public estate, Government office and Corporate office; implementation of a new tax to non-recyclable waste beyond a certain amount. Legislation ensuring businesses on Main Street separate their recycling for collection; legislation to phase out by 2020 all single use plastic bags, with no import duty and tax benefit on paper bags and alternatives.

1305 Partly due to successive Governments' failure to create awareness of the environmental agenda, our energy consumption per capita is in the global top ten worst offenders list. This means we have come to expect a lifestyle that is high in energy consumption. This can only continue if we implement a comprehensive renewable energy plan, capable of maximising the many sources of renewable energy at our disposal.

1310 In order to efficiently approach this, I propose an independent expert analysis of renewable energy sources and potential for Gibraltar. This must include a plan for renewables to generate no less than 15% of Gibraltar electricity demands by 2020, as well as the incorporation of zero emission standards to all future building projects.

1315 With permission, Mr Speaker, I shall leave out the section on the Gibraltar Electricity Authority Act 2003 where I have outlined some concerns to the Minister for the Environment and Climate Change, because he has kindly agreed to postpone that Bill in order to discuss my concerns, so I shall leave that out of the motion at the moment.

1320 In general, Mr Speaker, I therefore look to the Government to consider the potential of the renewable energy economy and establish a multi-sector, independent body, capable of identifying where businesses could contribute in allowing us to address our environmental challenges for a win/win outcome, with the regulator talking to the regulated. If approached in a fragmented manner, we risk having incomplete or even incorrect solutions.

1325 Finally, Mr Speaker, I end by stressing yet again, that environmental sustainability and fighting climate change is not a partisan issue, Mr Speaker. In this battle we win together or we lose together. I therefore propose the creation of a cross-party platform capable of ensuring these measures are implemented irrespective of party political or other agendas.

1330 Mr Speaker, there is a need for an independent executive body to oversee the aforementioned actions, such that the election cycle and varying manifesto commitments will not deprioritise the environmental agenda and only a broad parliamentary consensus can guarantee the level of commitment this issue requires.

1335 We need the 20 to 30-year vision with ambitious targets and governance structures in place such that it remains a priority irrespective of who is in Government. The people of Gibraltar wish it so, Mr Speaker, and it is our obligation to make their wishes a reality.

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

1335 Mr Speaker: I now propose the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

The Hon. Dr John Cortes.

1340 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I want to sincerely thank the hon. Lady for her motion and for bringing it to this House. I have long said that the environment is such a vital matter that it in fact transcends party politics and there is no better sign of progress in politics than when opposite sides of the House agree on matters for the wider benefit of the community that this Parliament serves.

1345 Having said this and precisely working in the interest of community improvement and benefit for present and future generations, I will address the hon. Lady's points in turn.

1350 Mr Speaker, I am very much aware of the views of our community when it comes to the environment. I have taken great pride my whole life in the fact that I have worked with and through our community to improve the environment. Indeed, it is only by working together with all sectors and ages of our community that we can deliver real environmental sustainability.

1355 Mr Speaker, I agree with the philosophy expressed in the motion that it is the responsibility of the administration and all elected representatives to deliver on commitments that shape our future.

1360 The Government's track record during the past six years is clear evidence of this. Gibraltar saw its first pioneering pieces of environmental legislation under the stewardship of my hon. Colleague, the then Chief Minister, Sir Joe Bossano with whom I worked closely in the late 1980s to set the foundations of what we have today.

1365 More recently, my hon. Friend and colleague Paul Balban is spearheading the most environmental and forward-thinking Transport Plan Gibraltar has ever seen. Similarly, my colleague, Steven Linares, to just mention a few, is leading with initiatives in his own areas which will have great environmental benefits.

The Government recognises the importance of the environment and despite the view of some that Gibraltar is too small to make a difference, we believe that Gibraltar can punch above its weight – to use that phrase used so often – in environment, as it does in so many other areas.

1365 We are now, Mr Speaker, working on putting the finishing touches to our long-term environmental strategy, which I am sure the hon. Lady will love listening to the things that she has been saying, which will do us proud and will safeguard our environment for current and future generations.

1370 Mr Speaker, there is one point on which I want to just correct the hon. Lady and that is on the question of air quality, only in respect that we have made very big progress in the last few years. If we focus on the science, we will see that the facts of our performance on air quality, despite the need, which I acknowledge, to do more, is improving all the time. The environmental statistics from 2015 and 2016, both of which are online – we are awaiting the final 2017 data – show clearly that there is a continuing trend over those periods of improvement in air quality, including our first ever attaining European Union standards in 2016.

1375 Of course, air quality could be better and we have to remember that we do live in an urban area. Despite this, Mr Speaker, Government has worked successfully since our very first few days in office to improve and tackle air quality issues. We have closed the two highly Polluting South District power stations and when we commission the new gas generators later this year, we will slash pollution levels, leaving of course traffic as the major source of problems for air quality 1380 which will also be tackled with the Sustainable Traffic, Transport and Parking Plan (STTPP) and the promotion of hybrid and electric vehicles.

The issue of nitrogen oxide exceedances is largely due to our old and ageing power stations and the lack of foresight of the last administration to deal with this issue when they could. Once again, Mr Speaker, one of the first issues tackled by this administration in 2011 was indeed 1385 power generation in Gibraltar, on which the Chief Minister himself led.

We have already adopted a cleaner form of diesel. Indeed, Mr Speaker, I can announce now that of this year and for the time that we will still be using diesel, we are in fact already using fuel which includes biodiesel for the first time, which counts towards our renewable targets. We are moving to gas whilst delivery renewables in public buildings, with much more to come.

1390 Mr Speaker, we agree with the sentiment on EU targets, I have already in the last two Budget speeches committed to meeting existing EU targets on the environment and more importantly, committed to the future adoption of EU targets or better, so as to ensure that our environmental standards are not diminished.

1395 Mr Speaker, as Brexit approaches, the EU can be reassured that we will be a beacon of good environmental practice, at which no-one will be able to point an accusing finger.

On air quality monitors, Mr Speaker, I have already committed to a monitor in the North District in the past.

1400 Mr Speaker, in the field of waste management, I would like to remind Members that one of the first policies adopted by this administration within our first fortnight in office was to increase recycling to include paper and cardboard, in addition to increasing new cycling streams and recycling points throughout Gibraltar.

1405 We thrust recycling into the 21st century when Gibraltar was seriously trailing behind all other European countries. Our recycling figures continue to increase and will continue to do so. We are now once again reviewing our waste management strategy to ensure that we are as self-sufficient and clean as possible in this strategy.

1410 Mr Speaker, renewable energy was non-existent in Gibraltar until 2012. This is a fact. It was not even in the vocabulary of the then Government and I know this from my own personal experience. Increasingly panels are going up on our roofs and the solar projects at the hospital and GSLA pool are examples. We have not advanced at the pace that I would have liked but then again, we must remember that we started from below zero because the mindset within the public and private sectors was not there when it should have been, back in 2011.

Analyses of the opportunity for renewable energy have been carried out and continue to be done so by independent bodies, and a number of initiatives will be coming to fruition in the coming months.

1415 I acknowledge that the hon. Lady has been in touch with me with some suggestions on amending the Bill for the Gibraltar Electricity Authority amendment and therefore, I too will refer to that when we come to debate that at the next sitting of Parliament.

Mr Speaker, I agree in principle with a concept that guarantees that environmental governance transcends the nuances of the adversarial political system. The environment is such

1425 So I agree with the sentiment and I welcome the hon. Member's contribution and ask her to feel free to approach me and to meet with me to discuss the ideas that she has, and her group has, and wants to bring forward. I think that she will be, Mr Speaker, very pleased with the plans that we are preparing as indeed will be anyone who cares about the environment, about the planet and the community in which we live.

1430 We are working very hard to ensure that the environment is safeguarded now and in the future, not least, Mr Speaker, against possible future administrations which may not be as bold and pioneering in their environmental strategies as we are and have been.

1435 However, Mr Speaker, I cannot have confidence in a cross-party platform that reflects the current composition of the House. While I associate most comfortably with the hon. Lady's sentiments and I appreciate the Hon. Mr Llamas' love of animals – and indeed the Hon. Mr Hammond's latter-day interest in bird photography, including those of a very high standard – (Interjection and laughter) I cannot forget the horrendous environmental legacy of the GSD.

1440 The Official Opposition is the party that stood for election just over two years ago, falsely feeding fear on our plans for power production – (Several Members: Hear, Hear!) (Banging on desks) attempting to manipulate information, data and reports for political gain all of which, flew in the face of environmental science. (Interjection) It is the party that wanted to place a dirty diesel plant in the heart of natural Gibraltar. It is the party that would not contemplate energy efficiency or renewables as an option for the future. It is the party that would not listen to voices – including my own, as I know first-hand – voices calling for better environmental governance – something which frustrated and angered me so much that I was drawn into standing for election. It is that party that I helped defeat that must never again be allowed to have a direct say in how we manage the environment in Gibraltar.

1445 Mr Speaker, however, having said all that, I would extend my invitation to all Members opposite to contact me and meet with me to put forward any matters that they think would benefit the environment and these will be given full attention.

1450 And so, Mr Speaker, I hereby propose the following amendment. In doing so, Mr Speaker, I also commit to continuing to be fully open to approaches by all and to continue to meet and consult regularly with environmental NGOs, as I have been doing for the six years that I have had the privilege and honour to be Minister for the Environment.

Mr Speaker, I propose the following amendment:

Delete all after THIS HOUSE and add:

'NOTES the severe environmental problems being faced by the Earth including the effects of man-induced climate change and of plastic waste within the oceans.

RECOGNISES the increased awareness in the community of environmental issues and the desire to improve the environment.

BELIEVES that good environmental governance is of the utmost importance in the 21st Century and that Gibraltar must play its part as a responsible nation.

BELIEVES that it is the responsibility of Government and Parliament to deliver on its commitments and to lead in shaping our future.

UNDERSTANDS that efforts must continue to further improve Gibraltar's air quality.

COMMITTS to maintaining the highest environmental standards in all areas, including air quality and that these should be at least to the level of European Union targets.

WELCOMES citizen involvement in promoting good environmental governance.

WELCOMES the practice of the Government in working closely with environmental NGOs, businesses and others in taking forward environmental improvements for the benefit of our community and beyond.

SUPPORTS the Government in continuing its work over the past six years to improve the environment and environmental governance in Gibraltar and commits to providing cross party support in further improving the environmental status of Gibraltar across the board, including air and water quality, energy efficiency, power generation, recycling plastic and other waste management and the protection of nature and biodiversity.'

1455 Mr Speaker, I have already said enough in my reply to the hon. Lady's most welcome motion and therefore, I simply commend this amendment to the House. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: So, what is now before the House is the amendment moved by the Hon. Dr John Cortes.

1460 Does anyone wish to speak on the amendment? The Hon. Trevor Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I will speak. I have only just received the amendment and I am just analysing a little bit.

1465 I do thank the Minister for his comments on my efforts at bird photography and indeed other wildlife photography and would certainly welcome the occasional like from him perhaps on Facebook also in that respect.

1470 Mr Speaker, I also welcome the fact that the hon. Lady – and I join the Minister in this respect – has brought this motion to the House and now the amended motion of course, as it does afford another opportunity to place the environment and the environmental agenda at centre stage.

1475 Now the good lady has invited on environmental issues, I look forward to her continued interest because there remains much to be done in Gibraltar, despite the Minister's comments. And I think the Minister is fully aware that there is a great deal of work to be done in this respect. The Chief Minister driving around in a Tesla and a wave generator that boils the occasional kettle is hardly a fantastic record on the environment and we are sadly very much lagging behind the rest of the world in most respects. (Interjection) Perhaps, I don't know, we will see what happens when you get rid of the batteries.

In speaking, I shall endeavour to address the issues that are now present on the motion and which adds something to the environmental debate.

1480 Air quality is a matter of great concern, as both the Hon. Minister and the hon. Lady have stated, to our community and I have also addressed the air quality issue in my previous two Budget speeches. I am delighted that the hon. Lady joins me in recognising the importance of this issue. I do not believe that the statements made about air quality in the original motion that has been tabled add anything new to the discussion, but the opportunity to discuss the issue once more is to be welcomed.

1490 The way we measure and monitor air quality and the confidence that exists in the data produced certainly need to be reviewed. That is not to say that we are in a position to necessarily acknowledge that we must relocate or add air monitors. We have quite a high number at present and the new power station will also be monitoring its emissions. Therefore, I cannot say without a greater analysis whether it is necessary to add further monitors, although the more monitoring there is, the better, one would presume.

1495 The confidence in the data is of greater concern, however. We routinely report that air quality is within acceptable parameters but this certainly goes against the anecdotal information I consistently receive from constituents. Many people find that they can breathe more easily when they are away from Gibraltar, that their eyes itch less, that their allergies affect them less. There is a real belief among many in our community that our air quality is poor and that we are not getting the whole truth about it and that it is affecting our health.

1500 What do we do about this lack of confidence. Well, certainly gathering more data alone would not solve the problem. Perhaps it is time that we did not rely entirely on Government for this information, that we at least ensured that the process involved in gathering the information and the output from those processes was independently assessed, whether by audit or by outsourcing the data gathering itself. I strongly believe that we do need to rebuild the confidence in the community that what we are being told about the air quality fits their experiences.

1505 Vehicular emissions are the second largest contributor to air pollution, as has already been stated. I am not sure why the hon. Lady has picked this particular contributor without mentioning all of the others. Power production remains the greatest contributor to air pollution. While this should improve considerably with the advent of the new power station, the Government in choosing the location it has, and without going into the various safety arguments 1510 about LNG, is very much banking on being able to run that power station exclusively on LNG.

If this, or any future Government is unable to achieve this for any reason, and has to fall back on diesel for fuel, considering the location chosen for the power station, the low level of the stacks and the Government's unwillingness to fit electro static precipitators to remove emissions from diesel combustion, contrary to the Minister's assurances at the outset of the project that 1515 the best possible technology will be used in controlling emissions, a diesel power station upwind of the most densely populated areas of our community and our people daily breathing its emissions will do nothing to enhance air quality. So we do hope that the LNG supply is certainly assured and regular.

Vehicle emissions do indeed come second in contributing to poor air quality and we do need 1520 to tackle this. I think we very quickly jump to the fact that there are multiple vehicles per household and too many vehicles on the roads. The problem is rather more complex than this and needs to be carefully examined before implementing measures. The STTPP unfortunately does not provide a great deal of input in this respect.

More vehicles on the roads is obviously bad, but limiting the vehicles coming into the town 1525 area from across the frontier by providing proper facilities for tourists, such as a decent park and ride service, must be considered. This is something that happens all over the world. But it is not even so simple as saying fewer vehicles on our roads will improve air quality. The type of vehicle is also very important. More electric vehicles will lead to an improvement and greater incentives need to be provided to encourage consumers to go electric. Present measures are clearly not 1530 enough and there is no noticeable increase in ownership. Even promised incentives such as free charging points and parking in Mid-Town car park have not been delivered by Government. They find themselves in the chicken-and-egg situation of not being willing to give over those promised spaces due to lack of demand, while perhaps if those spaces were available, it might create the demand.

Diesel vehicles are the major contributor when it comes to reducing air quality, particularly 1535 large commercial and public transport vehicles. They all contribute. Yet diesel prices remain lower than petrol prices, hardly a disincentive for buying diesel. Worse than this, we seem to import or recycle old diesel vehicles rather than getting them off our roads. Many are the times I find myself on our roads behind a vehicle with a brand new number plate, yet can see from its 1540 condition that it is not a new vehicle, far from it and it is belching out clouds of black soot. How do vehicles like this get onto our roads?

Well, one reason as has already been discovered through questions I have tabled previously, is that we do not consistently check vehicle emissions when conducting MOTs so many are 1545 passing this test, which is designed and should be removing such polluters from our streets but is failing to do so.

Even when it comes to Government activity, there are issues. We replace the bus fleet with vehicles that meet the latest emission standards but then sell off the old buses with much cheapness to a local company so that they remain on our streets. In other words, rather than demanding that operators of public transport vehicles meet the same standards as those 1550 operated by Government, we allow for a different standard and then encourage this by selling them the buses.

1555 The motion, having ignored for some reason the pollution caused by power production has also ignored number three on the list of contributors to poor air quality, bunkering. Strange smells routinely pervade certain of our districts. No-one really knows where these come from or even what they are. But you can be pretty sure they arise in a light westerly wind and a ship nearby is receiving bunkers. The issues around bunkering and air quality are not that well understood and I would certainly welcome an opportunity to develop a much clearer appreciation of what goes on in our bay and how it impacts on air quality in our community.

1560 There are local hot spots around the dockyard caused by the marine industry which are of course of great concern to residents in those areas and I have highlighted this very recently. It is time to look at the practices of Gibdock and understand that our community has grown and developed. Some of those practices are no longer appropriate. Practices such as the running of ships' diesel engines for power whilst they are in dock, rather than hooking them up to a shore supply which will ensure fewer emissions, particularly as that shore supply will be derived soon 1565 from a modern power station.

Dust from construction affects the air we breathe, irritates our eyes and exacerbates respiratory disorders. Now, in most communities this seldom causes a serious problem unless you are a construction worker, but here, the density of construction projects and their duration mean that we must be very much alive to the medium and long-term impacts of construction on 1570 our health.

There is a real frustration in the community that we live in an eternal building site. While I recognise the importance to the economy of construction, some consideration must be given to the impact of ceaseless building works, and Planning should be taking into account these factors. It is depressing to have Ministers stand up in this House stating that every available space will be developed. Sometimes a pause for thought and consideration of where we are heading is necessary and I would suggest that the time is ripe to do this now. There appears to be no long-term strategy, just a grab for cash and little consideration of the future.
1575

There are a whole range of other factors that affect air quality. Aviation, Saharan dust, volatile organic compounds. The debate on air quality is a complex one. The motion, other than allowing another opportunity to raise important concerns in this area, contributes little else to the debate.
1580

On recyclable waste, the original motion says that this House commits to meeting EU targets. I do not see how this House can do that as it has no executive authority so it is not possible to support that particular measure as originally phrased, although I believe in the way it is phrased in the amended version of the motion, it is looking likely that it is something that we can support. What we can do in this House is indeed to commit to support measures proposed to it by Government which take us towards achieving those targets.
1585

I will say that this is an area, one of the few as far as the environment goes, where real progress does seem to have been made. We have a long way to go and that has more to do with the need to make the cultural shift towards recycling, rather than the facilities available, which have improved significantly I will say under the Hon. Minister, and I am sure will continue to improve.
1590

On renewable energy, I do not believe the Government has moved fast enough in progressing this and perhaps outsourcing expertise might be useful. It is difficult to see how even the limited targets that have been set for renewables will be achieved at the current rate of progress and there is nothing sufficiently substantial set out in Government publications such as the Environmental Action and Management Plan or the National Energy Efficiency Action Plan, to suggest otherwise.
1595

There are many action plans but not much action. Indeed, we do only produce in the region of ... Less than 0.1% of our energy is currently produced from renewables. It is very difficult to see how a 20% target will be achieved by 2020 and I will be the first to congratulate the Minister, should that be achieved.
1600

1605 So why is renewable energy important? Well, one factor is that reducing our reliance on burning fossil fuels reduces the impact of cost fluctuations in that particular market, making the overall cost of energy production more stable, so there are economic reasons, even in the short-term capital investment is required.

Of course, significantly a reduction in the need to burn fossil fuels for power production, will further reduce the pollutants produced from power generation regardless of that fossil fuel source and therefore have a direct impact on our air quality, something we all strive for.

1610 Likewise, Mr Speaker, as has been the trend so far, I will not address the matters in the motion particularly pertaining to the upcoming Bill but I would welcome the opportunity to participate in any discussions that happen ahead of the publication of that Bill, because it is certainly an important piece of legislation from an environmental perspective but I do believe it can be phrased or amended in particular ways which hopefully will enhance the uptake of the opportunities that that Bill will represent to the community. So I will be more than happy to participate in any conversations that take place in that respect.

1615 Thank you very much.

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to contribute? The Hon. Lawrence Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I shall be supporting this amendment gladly.

I would like to thank the Hon. Minister for the Environment and Climate Change for the opportunity that he is offering today in meeting and exchanging ideas in putting forward initiatives which may be of use for the community in the future, measures such as those mentioned by the hon. Lady, which I think were quite interesting in terms of congestion charges, road tax for more than one vehicle and zip car. I think all these are good ideas which could work in Gibraltar and they must be explored, and, if found to be suitable, then brought into measure.

1625 The only thing I would like to add is that I think we need to emphasise a bit more civic responsibility and promote that sense of pride within us, that we are all in this together and that we must all do our bit in every aspect of society but in so much that we can do for the environment – not think that just one action will not have effect and the fact that, even though Gibraltar is very small, Gibraltar as a whole can make a difference, not so much perhaps in global terms and figures but at least proving to the world that we are serious in what we do.

1630 Thank you, Mr Speaker.

1635

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak on Dr Cortes' amendment? The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Do you want...?

1640

Mr Speaker: Yes, okay, the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, thank you to the Minister for the Environment in dealing with those issues. This side of the House, certainly the official Opposition, will be supporting the motion as amended.

1645 I would like to identify with the comments that the Hon. Mr Llamas dealt with in terms of civic pride. I think that is right in terms of civic responsibility. It is a platform that he shared with us at the last election insofar as our commitment to restoring civic pride, responsibility and respect insofar as our natural and urban environment is concerned.

1650 It is right, of course, that the Minister states quite clearly that the environment is an issue that transcends politics. Of course it was the Chief Minister himself who suggested at the last election that we should depoliticise the question of the environment, one with which we entirely agree; but of course there are times in this House that we need to hold the Government to account insofar as its commitment and its policies in respect of the environment is concerned.

1655 Of course this debate goes beyond renewables, it goes beyond air quality and it certainly goes beyond plastics in our water. It is about a cultural shift in the way in which each of us interacts with our natural and urban environment. It is about the way in which we live our lives and work in our community and other interactions with our environment. If we are going to take 1660 seriously, in a mature way, the way in which we deal with the environment, we need to start at base level, at education. I do not think that is something that anyone in this House has mentioned yet, but quite clearly we have to start at base level with our children and in respect of communicating to our people and our children about our use of land in our community.

The Hon. Mr Hammond dealt with this question of a plan looking towards the future and I believe it was Ms Nahon also who suggested that we should have a 20-to-30-year plan moving 1665 into the future as to how we use our land in the future.

That is the only contribution that I would like to make in more of a general approach, but we will be supporting the Government's amended motion.

Oh, there is just one point, Mr Speaker, that I would like to make. The Hon. the Minister may want to change the words 'man-induced climate change', given the fact that the Minister for 1670 Equality has only recently returned from New York, and perhaps maybe change it to 'human-induced climate change'.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

1675 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, it is in the interest of constructive politics and as a gesture of good faith that I approve the Government's amendment to this motion. I am grateful for the goodwill that the Minister for the Environment and Climate Change has shown this House by tailoring his amendment to as much of a cross-collaborative paper as he has been able to provide us with at this stage. However, this approval is not without a degree of healthy 1680 scepticism and the hope is that future parliamentary collaboration with Government will be even more fruitful than this one.

I am well aware that I am effectively and realistically forced to approve this amendment due to parliamentary dynamics which we all understand. As an independent Member of this House, and indeed simply as a Member of the Opposition, I must make concessions to the Government 1685 who, with the majority that they hold, can flatten all proposals made by an Opposition Member time and time again.

The original motion that I presented made a number of concrete proposals in relation to environmental policies in Gibraltar, many of which have been suppressed and replaced by the Government with general statements of goodwill. I do, however, welcome with great hope and 1690 expectation the point on cross-party support for matters relating to the environment and hope to see the Government back this statement with some tangible demonstration of their commitment to this issue, such as the establishment of a cross-party commission with the sole purpose of exploring an environmental agenda. The environment, one of the most crucial areas of policy now and for decades to come, should without a doubt be a concern that transcends 1695 party lines.

As for the other more concrete proposals in the amendment that have been removed from this motion, I will continue to put these forward to Government and to the Gibraltar public as per my commitment to the members of the civil society movement Together Gibraltar, who brought me their concerns and fine-tuned these proposals in a series of focus groups. Their hard 1700 work will not fall by the wayside simply because Government in its amendment to this motion has sought to remove any suggestion that there are practical steps by way of more cross-House collaboration that could be taken right now which would make Gibraltar healthier, cleaner and greener.

In relation to the jibes thrown at me by the hon. Member on my right, I will lead by example 1705 by refraining from answering the hon. Member's vacuous pot shots and keep things constructive on such an important issue rather than sink to what has now become the GSD hallmark of pettiness and detracting from real subjects. (A Member: Hear, hear.)

1710 The Government would do well to understand that organised civil society can have a very positive effect on the running of our democracy and they will be receiving many more proposals from Together Gibraltar in the future.

I am once again grateful to the Minister for his invitation to the general population to participate and engage with him further on this matter. Meanwhile, I am hopeful that one day these proposals might be accepted for what they are – constructive suggestions for the betterment of Gibraltar's future – without the need to whitewash them into oblivion.

1715 Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: Does anybody else wish to speak on the amendment before I call the hon. mover to reply? The Hon. Roy Clinton.

1720 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, just a Point of Order. I would just like to understand what your view is on the distribution of amendments to motions. Certainly this side, the official Opposition, only just received the amendment, when it is patently obvious –

Mr Speaker: There is no need to circulate the amendment until it has been moved.

Hon. R M Clinton: But, Mr Speaker, it is patently obvious that the Lady had access or had notice of the amendment before the official Opposition did.

1730 Mr Speaker: I imagine that is the case because the Government, Dr Cortes, the moment that ... once the hon. Lady had given an indication of her motion, he has discussed the matter with her and they have come to an agreed amendment. (Interjection) I do not think there is anything in the Rules that precludes that. But the position as far as Parliament is concerned is that an amendment is circulated once it is moved. Until it is moved it does not have to be circulated if the person putting the amendment does not wish to do so.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, if I may, just on this principle because it is an important one, it is established in the Rules of Procedure of this House, and indeed it is in the Rules of Practice of this House, that notice is required to be given in writing of any amendment moved, but that notice is given on the moving of the amendment unless a Member decides that he wants to give notice earlier. In some instances I recall in this House receiving from Opposition benches or from Government benches notice of amendments that some people have decided they are going to give ahead of the debate, and in some instances we have made amendments together during the course of the debate, or indeed some parties have agreed amendments and when they do they consider what the best moment to circulate is. The hon. Gentleman may recall we recently – I forget on what subject – were discussing the possibility of amendments being taken as a whole House and hon. Members did not like them and therefore they did not support them, and that we were doing literally together as we were trying to reach a consolidated position which might have been a position of the whole House.

I think on this occasion it is absolutely right and proper that two Members, whatever side they be on – it could be two Members on the Opposition benches or indeed a Member on this side – work together to agree a position which they then put to the House in the form and manner that they see fit, so long as it is in keeping with the rules. The Government is going to insist on that continuing to be the practice and not requiring parties to put notice of a motion earlier. Indeed, Members opposite might tell us that we are trying to stymie their ability to change motions because the Government puts motions and they are able to propose amendments to a motion themselves literally as they get up to propose them, and if we say that we require notice of that they will say that we are trying to in some way hamper their ability to amend our motions. So the rules are the rules, Mr Speaker, and I think they are rules for good reason.

1755

1760

Mr Speaker: Yes. If any of the two Members who have not spoken on the amendment – the Hon. Edwin Reyes or the Hon. Mr Daniel Feetham – wanted to have made an amendment to the amendment, there is no need for them to give prior notice. They stand and they propose the amendment. Having proposed it, it is then circulated. It does not have to be circulated beforehand.

1765

Hon. R M Clinton: Sorry, Mr Speaker, my point was that the House as a whole gets notice of the amendment at the same time.

1770

Mr Speaker: It does not have to. There is no requirement for the House as a whole ... and the House gets to know once the amendment is proposed. If it is not proposed, it is not before Parliament.

1775

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, perhaps this example might help the hon. Gentleman. We all know where the dividing lines are on different issues. If we were to put a motion on Calpe House then it is possible that, if it dealt with particular aspects of Calpe House, hon. Members of the official Opposition might agree a position with the Government amending a motion that might have come from the hon. Lady and we may give her notice when we move the motion, and then the hon. Lady would get up and make the point that he is making.

1780

This is politics and this is the way that politics is done on the model of the Westminster Parliament which we have adopted here in our Rules, and this is the way that motions are dealt with.

1785

Mr Speaker: I now call upon the Hon. Minister, Mr Paul Balban.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Thank you, Mr Speaker.

I stand and I hope that I do not start to gain a reputation for being verbose. (Laughter) There is too much to say on this matter for me to be able to just sit down and let this one go by.

1790

Where do I start? There is too much to talk about, but just to make as many succinct points as possible, the reference to the cross-party nature of this motion is extremely important because obviously otherwise what we get is a situation whereby the STTPP is proposing certain things and these things are being criticised by the other side, and in fact the emissions coming from the other side can be destructive in that respect.

1795

The STTPP, which is purely an environmental document more than a traffic plan itself, is actually dealing exactly in that, in the issues raised in this motion. The issue that we have is that simply Gibraltar cannot sustain the number of vehicles on our roads, and that we are clear about – I think we agree across the floor that that is something which we need to tackle. The STTPP is doing exactly that and what we cannot have is one side or one Member opposite saying that the STTPP does not go far enough and then another part of the same official Opposition, namely the former former Leader of the Opposition, saying that we are being politically brave admitting to us being politically brave in that respect simply because we are following on with the residential parking scheme, which at the end of the day, what it is trying to do, is to encourage people to adopt other forms of transport which are sustainable forms of transport. That is what we are doing at the moment. As I mentioned at great length last time, things need to settle and I think they are starting to settle already. It is just a question of a matter of time, and these things remain fluid.

1805

One thing which is very important: we talk about car sharing, electric taxis and park and ride and we refer to them as if they are all new ideas. It worries me because I think perhaps we have not read the document. I know the document took time in the making. It is a very thorough

1810 document, a very extensive document, but if you read the document, even if you just read the summary of the document, all these ideas are set out within the document. These are things that we are doing as a Government over time because what we cannot do is do everything at once. Okay, we can rock a few boats and then slowly move on to other parts of the plan. The 1815 plan is massive and, as we have said before, change is something that people are not comfortable with at the beginning. So things have to be done slowly and the key word, as the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition said, is education. I agree totally with the word education and this is what we are trying to do. It is a slow process. We need to tackle schools and we need to 1820 get people used to things from not throwing wipes down the loo to things like trying to walk to school or trying to cycle to school. I really believe in these things and, just like I tell my children and tell them off if I see a wipe going where it should not go, I will also encourage my children to cycle just I like to cycle in that respect – the essence being that everything it does is exactly that.
We are trying to encourage people to use Redibikes as much as possible and we are encouraging people to cycle as much as possible. We are looking at park and ride because we agree that we 1825 need to allow tourists to remain further out of the city. This is also the ethos of the residential parking scheme. When all the pieces of that puzzle are finished, then people coming to visit Gibraltar will not be able to access those areas and then obviously emissions will come down.

Talking of emissions, this Government, one of the first things they did at the beginning of 2012 was to lead by example. G1 is a fully electric vehicle and the other fleet vehicles are hybrids. In fact, all our car parks are set up with electrical charging points. At Midtown, which 1830 was referred to recently, all the points are ready to go. There has been no interest and we are actually going to press the button because they are all set out, they are all ready to go and it is only a question of pressing the button, but there has been no interest. Nobody has stopped and said, 'Look, I have got an electric car – where can I charge it?' But the infrastructure is set up, so we will get those parking places available quite quickly now; we just need to press the button.
1835 But, it is also a shame to have 15 to 20 parking spaces in a car park empty because nobody wants to use them, so we will press the button and have them working and then we will see, and if people say, 'I need a parking space,' we will always leave one or two available at the start and move from there on. There are also plans of setting up an electrical charging point on Linewall Road as well as part of the pay and display schemes there.

1840 So it is all part of the process. The cultural shift, as the Leader of the Opposition also mentioned, is the important thing. People slowly have to adopt the measures. All these things will be unpopular, and if we see eye to eye across the House ... and I think we should be supportive of these. I am not saying that the residential parking scheme will work as set out; I have never said that or alluded to that at all. We have taken the decisions which we think will 1845 best fit the problem. The thing is malleable, it is totally fluid and we will adapt, but time needs to be given for that.

So, coming back to the point, as I said, the environmental plan, the STTPP, is something which we are rolling out. Again, if across the floor of the House there is consensus, that is the only way that we are going to move ahead. If we start saying no, the residential parking scheme in zone 1850 two is not working, we need to be patient, give it time and support it in that respect.

As I said, Mr Speaker, that is as far as I will say for the moment, other than obviously I am fully supportive, clearly, of the amendment to the motion.

1855 Mr Speaker: Any other contributor? The Hon. Dr John Cortes.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I am very gratified and I thank all the contributors to this debate. I think there is wide consensus here. I am going to just pick up on one or two points of fact in a moment.

1860 I want to reassure the hon. Lady that my amendment was in no way meant to force her into doing anything, although I understand what she was referring to. I would also reassure her and those who have advised her in bringing this motion that I am not brushing aside any one of the points that she has made either in her original motion or in her contribution.

1865 I think that when you consider that in 2011 you could only recycle glass and some types of plastic – you could not recycle paper or cardboard or electronic equipment or oil just over six years ago – it shows you how far behind we were and the progress that we have made.

1870 A number of facts, to answer the Hon. Mr Hammond's comments. The lack of confidence in the analysis of air quality data: I think he may be giving a little bit too much attention to some detractors. He recommended that we should outsource this. This in fact is outsourced to a specialist UK company that independently assesses our data and gives us the reports. Then we publish this data annually and we invite the NGOs to a presentation. So I would reassure him that he should have confidence in those results.

1875 The power station has got the best available technology for the particular machines. It is the intention to run them on gas, I assure him. It is quite humorous to see him urging us now to use gas instead of diesel, considering where he has been in that particular debate in the past, but I think his contribution was generally positive and conciliatory.

I have already referred to the hon. Lady.

1880 On renewables all I am going to say is watch this space. I do recall one of his predecessors, an Opposition spokesman for the environment, who condemned me as being responsible for the loss of the Barbary Partridge, that secretive species in Gibraltar; and now, if you will excuse the term, we have Barbary Partridges even in the soup. (Laughter and interjections) Absolutely not. A form of words and nothing else. But seriously, we have seen the success of the reintroduction at very little expense by proper management and with patience, which is what you have to do when you are looking at natural processes. And with renewables I think hon. Members opposite will be very pleased to see the developments that are imminent.

1885 Both Mr Llamas and Mr Phillips refer to civic responsibilities. I totally agree with this. I think the world is changing. I think it is now no longer lone voices that are shouting this. I think it is coming across loud and clear. The international media and social media are really fighting the environmental cause, so I think it is a matter of time. Some of the NGOs here are working so hard and the schools are doing tremendous work – the teachers and pupils and so on.

1890 So I think that all these things will be reflected in a plan that we shall be presenting quite soon and all I can now say is once again to commend the amendment to the House.

Mr Speaker: Mr Speaker, I will now put Dr Cortes' amended motion to the vote. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

1895 What is now before the House, therefore, is a motion as amended by Dr Cortes. Dr Cortes cannot speak to this motion, the hon. Lady cannot speak other than when exercising her right to reply at the end, but all other hon. Members may speak to this motion now as amended.

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1900 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I rise first of all to congratulate the Hon. Dr Cortes and the hon. Lady for being able to come to terms in respect of an area where there is a strongly held view that the environment should not be a party political issue, but where we each have strongly held views and those in the nature of the type of debate that we have on our views become partisan views. I think to be able to surmount the partisan element and reach a conclusion which is in the interests of the community as a whole they both deserve to be congratulated, in particular given the things that the Hon. Mr Clinton has said, because 1905 Mr Clinton has said that the official Opposition have just seen the amendment but I think it is to the credit in particular of the Minister and the hon. Lady that the amendment that they have just seen is an amendment that they have just accepted. I think that demonstrates the good 1910 faith in which John Cortes has approached this issue and that that has been reciprocated in the work that he has done with the hon. Lady.

1915 The hon. Gentleman will excuse me for saying that when he says that sometimes people feel that they have less itchy eyes when they are out of Gibraltar, I do not join in the view. I may have less itchy eyes when I am out of here and I am not spending hours looking at them, and I am sure the feeling is absolutely mutual – politically, not personally – but certainly not when I am out of Gibraltar. Otherwise, people would rightly be choosing another environment in which to live and I think Gibraltarians are very proud of the environment in which we live, although we all think that there are things that we need to improve in terms of our air quality and the industries that there are in Gibraltar, and the Government will not be found wanting in that respect.

1920 I do not want to delve into the partisan but it is important to set things in their historical context. For example, the hon. Gentleman sometimes asks questions about a particular area which is dedicated to a particular industry, which he mentions by name. Well, the practices in respect of that industry which relate to ship building have changed considerably in the time that we have been in office. Have they changed enough? Well, if you ask us, the answer is probably no, not enough. If you ask people who live around that facility, probably not enough. If you ask him, the answer is probably the same, not enough, so a broad measure of agreement. But it must be true that we have to set that in its historical context. We are talking about the change which we have delivered in respect of that facility and our commitment to continue to deliver change in respect of that facility from a starting point of when we took over and were responsible for making those changes, from 9th December 2011, which is when they were in office. So this is an important issue, because even without wanting to fall out on the subject there is a reality, which is that they had the opportunity to determine what changes to impose until a particular period, they imposed some but not others; we have imposed some already and are looking to impose others and I think that is an important thing to keep in mind, in particular when we say what is it that we are doing.

1930 The hon. Gentleman I assume was politically teasing us when he said that, because I think it is understood that this Government has not done everything that it is possible to do to protect the environment. If that were the only thing one were to do one would go down to GibElec and switch off. We would have cold showers, or as much hot water as could be heated by solar panels; we would stop everyone from using their vehicles, we would stop the importation of petroleum products and we would stop the importation of bottled water in plastic bottles. That is what we would do. We would then have to drink salt water because we would not have the energy required in order to have a reverse osmosis mechanism.

1940 So have we done everything that can be done? Of course we have not. We have balanced what can be done versus what we can do in the context of continuing to have a society that provides those whom we are responsible for with ... I hesitate to say the comforts, because I think they are the necessities of modern life, and try to balance that by trying to ensure that the things that we continue to do are done in a way which creates less damage to the environment. That is a balance which is difficult to strike and you strike it by looking at what is the best available technology.

1945 If I may say so, one of the things that Joe Bossano was responsible for – and I have told the House before – was the insistence that the Government consider the possibility of moving to LNG, away from fossil fuels like diesel etc., as the type of propulsion for the engines of our power station. Well, we took that step, and if I may say so, we took it with considerable political risk, which hon. Members opposite created for us because we were making that choice. So I answer the hon. Gentleman's question about what it is that we are doing: well, we are running the gamut even of the political risk and criticism that they create for us when we are making decisions which we believe are in the best interest of Gibraltar and the environment. To such an extent, although I have not heard the exact terms of what it is that he said today but I will rely on the interpretation given by the Hon. Dr Cortes – which I will of course prefer, whatever it is that he said – that he is now encouraging us to pursue the generation of electricity through the burning of liquefied natural gas rather than other fossil fuels.

1965 So you see we are prepared to take a political risk if it is right to do so, and in that way, I say with respect, we demonstrate that our interest is not a partisan one, because if it were we would have done the easy thing, which is to continue to burn diesel and not suffer the possibility of a general election that might have been determined because hon. Members were creating that political issue around the better environmental option, which was to burn LNG. The hon.
1970 Gentleman might like to have a coffee with me and ask me how many times I wondered whether this was the right thing to do in political electoral terms, but it was certainly the right thing to do in environmental terms, and that is a demonstration, I think, that we were making the right choice for Gibraltar, not just the right choice for us.

1975 And so when hon. Members refer to the fact that I am in a Tesla and that is not enough, well that is a first step, because hon. Members cannot seriously be telling us from the benches opposite that we will see whether Teslas are the right solution for the future when it comes to disposing of our batteries and at the same time tell us that we need more electrical charging points for electrical vehicles, all of which will be propelled by those self-same batteries. So he will understand, Mr Speaker, if I were to suggest that there might be a hint of hypocrisy at a political level if that were the position he has taken. And so I will take him at his best in respect 1980 of this issue and I will welcome the fact that he is supportive of electric vehicles, which must mean that he is supportive therefore of something as emblematic as the vehicle which propels the chief elected politician of this community, making a statement politically that we are a community that cares for the environment.

1985 We very often are asked what we are going to do about traffic as a source of pollution.
Absent that issue of batteries, because human ingenuity has not yet found a different mechanism other than hydrogen – which is not popular and there are not many vehicles available – to propel mechanical vehicles, I think we are demonstrating in the commitment we have to try and include hybrid vehicles in our fleet, or fully electrical vehicles in our fleet, that we are seeking to do what is possible. That is the realm in which we must be judged. We could have 1990 easily continued – and again not run the risk of political criticism – to run a very smart, very comfortable Jaguar vehicle, but that very smart, very comfortable Jaguar vehicle was the most polluting vehicle in its class. That is a debate we had during the lifetime of the Parliament previous to this one. So I think it is certainly the right choice to move to a fully electric vehicle.
We have vehicles like Priuses in our fleet. They are more polluting than the fully electrical Tesla, 1995 and so there is a statement. Now, why is a statement important here? Hon. Members can simply say, ‘Well, it is important because the hon. Gentleman wants to, for party political reasons, pretend something to the electorate.’ Well, that would be contrary to the balance that hon.
Members have told us that they think we should strike, which is that we should act to demonstrate by way of example what our commitment is. So we act to demonstrate by way of 2000 example by going for a fully electric vehicle.

But then again, to go even further, the important thing is not to use that vehicle when it is not necessary, and that is why hon. Members will know that, absent rain, I will walk to my office every single day from the south district. That is as much driven by the needs of my waistline as it is by my commitment to the environment, but it is important that hon. Members factor in that 2005 those two are entirely linked. They are linked literally at the hip, because those who walk benefit from less tight waistbands and lighter waists. It is very comfortable to be conveyed in a vehicle from one place to another. The people of Gibraltar do not provide to those of us who have been honoured to hold the office of Chief Minister a vehicle to convey us from one place to another in order to aggrandise our egos; they do it so that we can continue working whilst we are moving 2010 from A to B. That is the reality of it; it is not as if it comes for nothing. But sometimes the right choice is to say, ‘Well, I am going to propel myself using the legs that I was given when I was born, to get myself from A to B.’

It is also true – the Hon. Mr Feetham was mentioning this the other day – that if you live in a remote area it is just not feasible to be able to get yourself from A to B, and I fully accept that if 2015 you have not got a bus service, if you are quite a distance etc., but otherwise the right choice is to walk. Why do I say that? Because it is the third element of demonstration of the choices that we make. We made the choice on LNG and we ran the gamut of party political opposition, we made the choice on the Tesla and we ran the gamut of party political opposition, and now we just ran the gamut because that is what walking is in the mornings if you are trying to get to school at a particular time etc., but is also the right choice – another demonstration that we do little things which show that we are committed to doing what we can.

It is part of that phrase which perhaps Miss Hassan Nahon or the Hon. Dr Cortes have used already today – I do not know whether they already have because I was trying to deal with another matter as they spoke, but it is part of that mantra which I had drilled into me by the ESG and by GONHS in the days when I was in opposition and has stuck with me: think global, act local. Local means not just in Gibraltar; it means in respect of your autonomous self and the choices that you make.

One of the things that the Hon. Mr Balban said, which I think is important, is that our children need to be taught what it is that those right choices are in the future. He has referred to his cycling and I think one of the only videos I have not seen circulated on WhatsApp is one of Paul Balban on a bicycle. (Laughter) They have gone just about for everything else and given him just about every other accent. (Laughter) He always takes it in excellent humour and is the first to circulate it on the Ministers' WhatsApp group, Mr Speaker. But it is true that he leads by example in that respect. I hope I have not given ideas to whoever it is that is doing this. It is not me – I wish I had the time!

I think it is also important to reflect the opposite, if I may say so with respect, that our children sometimes teach us. We now perhaps take things for granted and do not see the environmental cost of some of the things that we do. We now have these glass bottles that Minister Cortes brought to the House, a first move in the direction of avoiding glass bottles, but my own children, sometimes even the youngest of them, have ingrained in them by those who teach them – and do such a great job, of course, if I may say so – that there are things that we have to be doing at home as part of our everyday life. I see somebody in the Gallery drinking from a reusable container. It is absolutely right that that should be the case. Our children are the ones who will inherit the Earth from us. They are starting to take an interest, even before they are adults, in the things that we do and in changing our behaviour. That is to be welcomed and is a demonstration that action commences not just with the age of responsibility but even before, and it is right, proper and quite something that we should be embarrassed by our children in this respect.

So, Mr Speaker, I think that is a demonstration of how we act to ensure at a political level that we are doing as much as we can in the context of the balance that the Hon. John Cortes and Paul Balban referred to. If I may say so, Mr Speaker, with respect, I think it is a good day for this House that we are able to have this debate, that we can reach a conclusion which is a common conclusion and that we have got there through the work of two Members seeking to find common ground, because at the end of the day that is all we have got: the Earth, our common ground. Thank you very much. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Any other person wishing to speak? The Hon. Trevor Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I do thank the Chief Minister for his intervention. I would just like to make a very few points also.

I think when my hon. Friend rose to request clarification on the parliamentary procedures – and we do understand the parliamentary procedures – it was more from a sense of ... When we are looking at a motion such as this, when we are trying to find consensus and hoping for consensus on an issue on which the motion itself looks for cross-parliamentary support, it would not have been unreasonable to share the amendment to the motion more widely and attain agreement to that amendment prior to bringing it to the House, simply in order to mitigate any risk of it causing controversy in any way. We could have eliminated that very early on. As it is, the Opposition saw absolutely nothing in the motion that was particularly controversial and we could accept it, but it would have just been a simple courtesy, bearing in mind what we were striving to achieve in respect of this motion – that cross-party consensus – to perhaps have shared it. Indeed, when the original motion was tabled by the hon. Lady some months ago now, I did very quickly write to the Minister and say, ‘Look, it is a great opportunity – I suspect you will be filing an amendment to the motion and perhaps we could have a conversation about that amendment in order to agree it beforehand.’ The Minister did reply positively, but then unfortunately there were no further communications on the subject. So that is, I think, the only reason why my hon. Friend rose on this particular occasion.

In terms of what has been said on LNG, for the record what I said was particularly the need for it to now run on LNG because of the location that Government has chosen, the low stacks, and frankly, from that location it would be a very bad thing indeed if we had to run it now on diesel because of its position in an urban environment – it would cause problems, the low stacks, a whole range of issues associated with the location of the power station.

But I will move swiftly – (Interjection) No, I will not. I will move on swiftly from that point. (Hon. Chief Minister: I’ll remember.) I’m sure you will! (Interjection) Yes, indeed.

I am indeed very pleased that the Chief Minister has specifically recognised the issues around, as he referred to it, a certain industry around which our community has grown up, and if the Government is serious about addressing some of those issues associated with that industry, I know the residents of that area will be very pleased indeed and I will certainly take that message back to those who have approached me, that the Government is serious about dealing with the environmental problems that emanate from that industry now that our community has grown more closely around it.

As for itchy eyes, well I did say it is an anecdotal issue. I do think, however, people do, my son being an example: the minute he arrives in Gibraltar his allergies begin to play up. That may be down to olive pollen – as I say, it is anecdotal – but it may also be at least partially down to the quality of our air in general, whether that is from pollution from vehicles, from bunkering or indeed the Saharan dust, but it is a reality. However, home is where the heart is and nobody is going to move away from Gibraltar purely because they have itchy eyes, of course. I suspect doing so would cause itchy eyes for entirely different reasons.

I also agree with the Chief Minister that walking, cycling, all these activities are very important and that we need to make them as pleasurable as it is possible to be, because that is one way of encouraging that cultural shift towards those activities. At present ... I know the Minister cycles – he must recognise that the roads in many areas are quite difficult, both because of the traffic and because of the condition of the roads. That could be improved. Walking could be more pleasurable also if there was not so much traffic. Indeed, the last occasion I chose to walk on a rainy day I ended up with a close encounter between a vehicle, a puddle and myself, which was most unpleasant indeed. But such is life, these things happen – perhaps they spotted it was me and decided I needed a soaking! (Laughter). But the fact of the matter is that walking around in Gibraltar is often not a particularly pleasurable experience at present and it needs to be made so, it really does need to be made so, and in doing so hopefully we can then encourage that cultural shift that we have all referred to towards a more environmentally friendly Gibraltar. Whether that be because we are healthier because of the physical activity we are undertaking, whether that is because we are recycling more or whether that is because we are conserving more energy, all those things and many more are essential to the progress on environmental issues in our community.

Indeed, now and in the future this will always be a work in progress. I am sure the Hon. Minister would agree with me that when he finishes in office, whenever that day arrives, there will still be work to do on the environment. I am sure he will still be inputting towards that work and agitating for improvements in all sorts of areas and I hope we all continue to do the same. Whether in office or in opposition or indeed playing an active role in our community in any other way, there will always be work to do to improve the environment. It will never be perfect, it will 2120 always take time, and perhaps one day we will reach that utopia but I suspect it will not be in my lifetime.

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: If there is no other Member wishing to contribute, I will –

2125

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I know I do not have a right to reply and I am not going to, but can I just ... I meant, when I made my earlier contribution – and I do not know how procedurally we can do it – to accept the change from ‘man-’ to ‘human-’ induced. It is a very minor change. I am not sure whether there is ... In the second line, ‘the effects of human-induced ...’.

2130

Mr Speaker: I will make a very simple suggestion for the Hon. Neil Costa and anybody else to stand up now and move an amendment substituting for the word ‘manmade’, ‘human-induced’.

2135

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, I therefore propose that we substitute the word ‘man-’ in the first paragraph of the motion to ‘human-’ induced climate change.

Mr Speaker: Do all hon. Members agree with that amendment?

2140

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I would like to speak on that.

Mr Speaker: You want to speak? Very well. (Laughter and interjections)

2145

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, dealing with the amendment moved by the Hon. Mr Costa, I would like to raise an issue that arises for all humans.

Mr Speaker: You can only speak about whether it should be ‘human’ other than ‘man’. You cannot speak on anything else.

2150

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, it is an issue that relates to all humans, Mr Speaker, (Laughter) whether they are man or woman or, as the hon. Lady, if she were here, would tell me, the other 26 variants of humanity that we now must respect – absolutely rightly – and that is whether humans think, especially those who are sitting on the other side or whether it might just be men, that the change of location of the power station was not also a very positive thing, because otherwise we would have had the larger stacks that the hon. Gentleman is referring to burning diesel, and all in an area which is where the green corridor to the Upper Rock is for the Barbary Partridge, within sight of the Upper Rock, making it impossible to see any views from the area known as Jews’ Gate, because all the people would have seen from there would have been the stacks of the GSD power station spewing out smoke. And therefore, Mr Speaker, I commend the amendment to the House.

Mr Speaker: I now put the amendment that the word ‘human’ should be substituted for ‘man’. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Agreed.

I now call upon the hon. Lady to close the debate.

2165

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I recognise the great strides, I have to say firstly, that this Government has made since they took over as Government (Banging on desks) where environment is concerned, and I think it would be ungenerous for any Member of this House not to.

2170

My original motion was about uniting us on such an important issue, not dividing us or even using the platform for one MP to get mileage over anyone else, because this subject is so much bigger than any of us. Therefore, I want to thank the House and the Hon. Minister for meeting me some way in the middle on this imperative topic and I am therefore pleased that my original motion has served at least in some way to continue to keep this matter in the limelight, where it should be.

For my part and that of the civil society group that I represent, we shall continue to bring important topics like this one to the House in order to reflect and promote participation across the community, because in my humble view that is the best way to get positive results looking forward, together. Thank you. (Banging on desks)

2180

Mr Speaker: I will now put the motion to the House. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Finance Bill –
Reintroduction of presenting with Appropriation Bill – Motion not carried

Clerk: We now move to the second Private Member's Motion. The Hon. R M Clinton.

2185

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move the motion standing in my name which reads as follows:

THIS HOUSE

NOTES that the last Finance Bill presented to this House was in March 1987 by an AACR Government more than 30 years ago and that the practice of presenting a Bill specifically for tax altering measures was discontinued by the 1988 GSLP Government.

FURTHER NOTES the reason given by the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano in April 1988 for the change in practice was to introduce a 'more flexible fiscal system where tariffs, duties or whatever charges are made are capable of quick adjustments rather than a requirement to come to the House and change the law' end quote, and that not presenting a Finance Bill has been the continued practice of successive Governments since.

NOTES that there are recent examples of Bills to amend tax legislation that require backdating in order to give effect to Budget measures announced in previous years and that this is unsatisfactory.

RESOLVES that for the sake of improving financial administration, parliamentary debate and legal certainty to taxpayers that either:

the practice of presenting a Finance Bill at Budget time together with the Appropriation Bill be reintroduced with immediate effect; or to preserve any desired fiscal flexibility that the House consider and pass individual resolutions on any measure requiring legislative change at the time it considers the Appropriation Bill and that all such measures requiring legislative change that are so approved by resolution be encompassed in a Finance Bill to be presented to the House within three months of the passage of the Appropriation Bill.

Mr Speaker, taxation goes to the heart of Government and indeed it is the very reason why we are in this Chamber. Resistance to unjust taxation led to the signing of Magna Carta in 1215 and the resulting embryonic Parliament. Charles I eventually lost his head to Parliament over his need to raise taxation in 1649. The Stamp Act of 1765 led to the revolutionary slogan 'No taxation without representation' in the American War of Independence in 1776 and it is even argued that the heavy taxation of peasants led to the French Revolution in 1789. And yet we do not debate or even vote on taxation in this Chamber, and we have not done so for 30 years.

(Interjection and laughter)

2195 Hon. D A Feetham: That was rude! (Interjections and laughter)

Hon. R M Clinton:... And yet Mr Speaker, it is quite incredible that we, as parliamentarians, have abdicated our rights to vote on a Government's taxation policy, and frankly we should be ashamed of ourselves.

2200 My motion is not, contrary to what Members opposite may think, partisan in nature, but merely seeks to re-establish the right of this Parliament to vote on tax measures. I hope, I suspect in vain, to convince Members that it is in the interests of good governance that we vote on tax measures. I will set out the merits for my motion beginning with the origin for the suspension of the Finance Bill and ending with the practical and political problems that arise with its absence.

2205 Every year in this place we have the greatest show on Earth in the form of the Budget debate. The Chief Minister and Finance Minister rises and gives his grand State of the Nation address together with what his intended Budget measures will be for the forthcoming tax year, as well as estimated expenditure. It is understandable that it is the tax measures that receive the greatest attention from the public and business alike. For more than 30 years, at the conclusion of that great show we in this House have then voted not on the tax measures proposed but on the Appropriation Bill for public expenditure as set out in the Estimates Book. The tax measures that the Chief Minister announces technically have no legal effect, since they have neither been voted on by this House nor passed by a resolution, or even regulation at that point.

2210 It was normal practice until 1988 for two Bills to be presented to this House by the then Financial Development Secretary, namely a Finance Bill dealing with changes to taxation and then an Appropriation Bill to provide the estimated future departmental expenditure. The Hansard record of the 1987 Budget debate on the Finance Bill records extremely healthy disagreements on the tax measures then proposed by the AACR with the GSLP, then led by the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano, on more than occasion voting against individual tax measures, as indeed was their right as an Opposition. But a debate was had on each measure and a vote recorded.

2215 In the 1988 Budget, held on 29th April 1988, the Development Secretary announced that he would only be presenting an Appropriation Bill and there would be no Finance Bill. The Hon. Sir Joe Bossano as Chief Minister explained the reasoning behind this move as follows:

We believe that we need a more flexible fiscal system, Mr Speaker, where tariffs, duties or whatever charges are made are capable of quick adjustments, rather than a requirement to come to the House and change the law. What we would want would be that the law should lay down the framework, for whether you pay 5p stamp duty or 10p stamp duty should not require full blown debate in the House.

2225 The underlying motivation was, to use Sir Joe Bossano's own words:

That kind of quick response I think would give us a competitive advantage and is one of the beauties of the smallness of Gibraltar, that we can respond to market demands if we are able to get the machinery of Government organised in a way that responds quickly and efficiently and if we create the legal structure to allow for a flexible fiscal system so that we can be ahead of our competitors by providing a quicker service to the customers we want to attract to Gibraltar.

Those were noble sentiments indeed but included two big ifs, namely: (1) if we are able to get the machinery of Government to respond quickly and efficiently; and (2) if we create a legal structure for a flexible fiscal system.

2230 There is no doubt that successive Governments have responded quickly to maintain and protect Gibraltar's competitive position in accordance with market demand, and indeed all Government Departments have risen to that challenge.

2235 It is perhaps in the second 'if' that our taxation process has fallen short. Some areas of taxation and indirect taxation are perhaps too flexible, such as increases in Social Insurance announced outside Budget time, while others still require primary legislation that sometimes gets forgotten. Flexibility in taxation has also been given more importance in parliamentary debate than scrutiny of the taxation measures themselves. I do not see that we have created a flexible fiscal system, let alone one that retains the need for Parliament's approval and scrutiny.

2240 Instead of the legal certainty given when we had a Finance Bill, we have ended up with a less than desirable system for the introduction of taxation measures. In answer to Question 827/2016 on 24th November 2016, I asked the Government the following question: can the Government please advise the process and timing for the enactment of Budget measures into Gibraltar's tax legislation? I will read the answer and the supplementaries from Hansard in order to refresh Members' memories as follows. This is the Chief Minister, the Hon. F R Picardo, from Hansard:

Mr Speaker, the process for the enactment of budget measures into Gibraltar tax legislation is a two-stage process. First, the measures are administratively implemented with immediate effect as per the date announced in the Budget. Secondly, the legislative amendments involve close liaison with law drafters from the Gibraltar Law Offices, experts from other Government Departments and relevant interested stakeholders. The timing of the legislating of such measures is dependent on the complexities of the subject matter.

2245 My supplementary question to the Chief Minister was as follows:

I wonder if the Chief Minister could advise at what stage and which year we are up to in terms of actual enactment into tax legislation?

and the Chief Minister's answer was:

I think we are complete up to 2014; and in respect of 2015 and 2016, budget measures are in their final stages of drafting and will be published shortly.

2250 Mr Speaker, I am frankly at a loss to understand as to how measures can be implemented administratively, unless of course by regulation. They will have no legal effect until such time as the relevant amendment was brought to this House. And therein lies the rub and the root of the problem.

2260 this House and makes such a pronouncement with immediate effect. What happens next? Is it to be automatically administratively implemented? If so, how, without the sanction of Parliament, who I imagine would find it somewhat ludicrous, let alone an unworkable measure? When will the debate be had and the vote taken? Are the experts of other Government Departments and relevant interested stakeholders then consulted before Parliament?

2265 Mr Speaker, we need to be able to vote and debate the measures as soon as they are announced, and legislation introduced in months and not years after the Budget. Only then will Parliament fulfil its proper role of scrutiny and give legal certainty to measures.

2270 Let me give a real example from Hansard in the debate on the Income Tax (Amendment and Miscellaneous Provisions) Act 2008. I will again quote from Hansard. The Chief Minister, the Hon. Sir Peter Caruana, introduced the Bill and stated:

Clause 4, is the second purpose of the Bill and that is to give by primary legislation retrospective effect to the amendments introduced last year, following my Budget address last year, to the Category 2, Category 3 and Category 4 Individual rules that were introduced, to give effect to the announcements that I made in the Budget. Some of those rules had the effect, because they were not published until after 1st July but were retrospective to 1st July, some of those rules, therefore, theoretically had a notional, no, not a notional, had a retrospective, albeit by not very long, taxing for some people, tax increasing I should say effect. Under the applicable legislation, taxation cannot be introduced retrospectively, except by primary legislation. It cannot be introduced retrospectively by subsidiary regulations and, therefore, this Bill gives retrospective effect just to the start of the financial year of 1st July in which we announced during the Budget, to the Categories 2, 3 and 4 which the hon Members will remember we abolished, had to do before we increased the tax of Category 3 and things of that sort. I commend the Bill to the House.

The current Chief Minister, the Hon. Fabian Picardo, replied as follows:

On the point simply, at this stage, of the retrospectivity that we are seeing in clause 4, I understand why the Chief Minister has explained that we are making these rules. He will recall that last year, meaning the financial year 2007/2008, the Government introduced a measure to lower stamp duty. That measure was first announced in the Chief Minister's speech in, I think, late June or early July last year, the Budget was late, but the legislative changes were only brought in, in the calendar year 2008. There, the retrospectivity given to those rules was much shorter. I seem to recall that it was actually from the moment that the Bill was published that the new stamp duty rules took effect.

– and this is an important point, Mr Speaker –

That illustrates the problems that can occur. The Hon. Fabian Picardo then continued:

A lot of people who had bought property after the Chief Minister's speech but before the legislation, believed that they would be covered by the new rules rather than the rules as they were existing at the time. Now, remember, I brought this matter up in the House and the Chief Minister, and I think rightly as a matter of law said, the law is the law as it is until it is changed.

2275 Mr Speaker, I am told it is unusual to find two QCs agreeing with each other, but on this it seems they agree, namely that taxation law is taxation law until it is changed by this House.

In the examples I have just given, taxpayers were disadvantaged because of the lack of a proper process in the form of a Finance Bill. It was debated and promptly passed as tax measures announced at Budget time.

2280 If Members think that this is a thing of the past, let me point out that there is a Bill on our current agenda, B019/2017, entitled 'A Bill to amend the Public Health Act', published on 12th October 2017. The explanatory memorandum reads as follows:

This Bill amends the Public Health Act so as to introduce a discount scheme of 25% for early payment of General Rates for the second year of trading (the discount in the first year of trading being 50% pursuant to budget measures in 2013, but subsequently amended to 65% pursuant to 2014 budget measures) of all new companies starting up business in Gibraltar.

This Bill amends the Public Health Act to reflect the appropriate level of discounts to rates.

2285 We are now amending amendments to tax measures retrospectively in respect of budgets announced while I was not even a Member of this House. I have it on good authority that tracking unlegislated tax measures has got so complicated that a working group, with the assistance of the Gibraltar Society of Accountants, was in fact set up to try and rectify and update our tax legislation.

2290 Whereas I can understand the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano's logic in wanting to have a more flexible tax system 30 years ago, we can no longer afford to do without a Finance Bill or motion in 21st-century budget time. Not only do we create legal uncertainty, but we look, frankly, sadly, amateur. A Finance Bill would also allow all amendments to legislation to be tracked to the relevant originating Budget in one source.

In the 17th June 2010 Budget debate I note that the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano remarked, perhaps with a sense of nostalgia of his fierce debates with the AACR on their Finance Bills, as follows:

The Bill that we are being commended to vote on is of course the one that votes the expenditure not the revenue and consequently all the measures that have just been announced, which many years ago used to be put in a Finance Bill and be voted separately, will not require a vote from us.

2295 Mr Speaker, apart from the practical problems that the lack of a Finance Bill creates, it also denies Parliament the tool for Opposition to debate the political merits of tax measures, and that frankly is to be regretted.

We have a problem and the solution is simple and well within our power. In my motion I propose two solutions, which are as follows: either (a) the practice of presenting a Finance Bill at Budget time together with the Appropriation Bill be reintroduced with immediate effect; or (b) to preserve any desired fiscal flexibility, that the House consider and pass individual resolutions on any measure requiring legislative change at the time it considers the Appropriation Bill and that such measures requiring legislative change are so approved by resolution be encompassed in a Finance Bill to be presented to the House within three months of the passage of the Appropriation Bill.

2305 The House has two choices, or at least I am presenting two solutions to what I perceive to be a problem. Either method would serve to achieve the desired outcome, although perhaps the colonial book-keeper within me would of course prefer option (a) and the reintroduction of the Finance Bill.

2310 Perhaps I have gone on long enough. I hope I have convinced Members of the merits of my motion, which can only serve taxpayers better and ensure good governance and oversight by this Parliament.

Mr Speaker, I commend my motion to the House. (Banging on desks) 2315 Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on this motion?

The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, let me start by thanking all hon. Members opposite for banging their tables, which served to relieve some of the soporific effect that the hon. Gentleman's speech has had on all of us on this side of the House, and no doubt a number of them on that side of the House. If I may say so, the hon. Gentleman's soporific qualities are without rival in this place.

2320 It is 30 years since a Gibraltar Chief Minister got up for the first time to deliver a Budget address on behalf of the people of Gibraltar, holding the reins of the public finances of Gibraltar, and I will have a lot to say about that during the course of the Budget debate, during the course of the Appropriation Bill, but it is in my view one of the most important moments in the political history of this community's ... one of the moments of political emancipation of our nation. That was Sir Joe Bossano who in that way was given way to by the Financial Secretary, who I think under the Rules of the House will be able to tell us more about that when he replies also. In fact, you will recall better than I do, Mr Speaker ... I think had to move at that time the Finance Bill, (Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Yes.) and so the First Reading and the Second Reading had to be introduced by the Financial Secretary, (Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Yes.) then an appointed individual (Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Correct.) who sat in this House, unelected ex-officio. (Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Yes.) And there were responses in the past from Members and I recall reading to the House during the course of this year's Appropriation your own view of the response that Joe Bossano gave to the speech of a Financial Secretary in 1973 when he first responded to the Finance Bill, to the Budget, from the Opposition benches. You said, Mr Speaker, and it will be in the record of Hansard, for then and for now – because I read your remarks – that it was quite something to 2340 see a Gibraltar elected Member be able to deal with the issues involving the finances from the Opposition benches.

He became Chief Minister, Mr Speaker, and in 1988 he delivered the first Budget speech of a Chief Minister of Gibraltar. He said then not just a Budget speech, a State of the Nation address. In fact, if anybody bothers to go back to read that debate – and there are probably few in this House who have done so, but I commend it to all of them – in that presentation the then 2345 Financial Secretary said, ‘I now give way to Bwana,’ which was a way of reflecting how colonialism was changing in that specific moment in that Budget debate.

In that Budget debate, where Joe Bossano set out the two essential facilities that we have in Gibraltar and what we have to make better use of and more efficient use of, our land and our people, he set out also the golden rules of GSLP economics which we follow to this day, and one 2350 of the things that he did was introduce this policy. I am grateful for the hon. Gentleman having at least framed this debate in the correct context politically of the introduction by Joe Bossano – Sir Joe Bossano now, then Joe Bossano – of this change.

So that was our policy in 1988, it is our policy now also, so it is a brave man indeed that gets up in this House to persuade those of us who repeatedly say that we are leopards whose spots do not wash off with bleach that we should change a policy which we introduced in 1988 and 2355 which we have stuck to in the time that we have been elected again after 1988. So, from 1988 to 1996 where we have our responsibility for the presentation of the Estimates in the Budget debate, that is the policy we pursued. From 2012 to date it is the policy we pursue. So it is brave indeed to get up to try and persuade us that that which we introduced as a matter of policy we 2360 should change, and he does it, as he usually does, without calling us first and saying, ‘Look, I think there is a value in doing this.’ He pretends to be able to persuade us from opposite us that that which we have done, rationalised, explained and stuck our political colours to is wrong – in the context of a speech at ten to seven in the evening.

It is very difficult to understand how far he thought he was going to get. You see, if one is 2365 genuine about the view that these changes are in the interests of Gibraltar, then instead of trying to persuade us to change that which is our stated policy and which we have been pursuing, you would have thought there would have been an offline communication to say, ‘Look, I’m going to do this and these are the reasons, let us try and do it together.’ But no, he simply gets up to tell us, ‘That which has been your policy you must change because it is wrong.’
2370 Well, it was our policy in 1988. Indeed, the former-former Leader of the Opposition – if he has a moment – has said repeatedly, and I can fully understand why, it is no mystery, that the Bossano Government of 1988 to 1992, I think he said – I do not know whether he said to 1996, but 1988 to 1992 – is one of the best Governments Gibraltar has had in its history. I think he is on the record of Hansard as having said that on one of the occasions when he calls himself a follower of 2375 Bossano doctrines and not on others.

Hon. D A Feetham: I thought there was going to be a sting to it.

Hon. Chief Minister: No, there is no sting – not to you, anyway! There is obviously a very 2380 good reason why he would want to say that, Mr Speaker, and there is a very good reason why I would want to agree.

Of course it remains the view of us on this side of the House that the policies introduced at the time by a person who is a member of the Executive Committee of the party and a member of the line-up of the party and a member of the Cabinet represented here is still good law. In 2385 other words, it is good policy. How does he think he is going to persuade us to change from that position? Of course it is still our position.

But what I just find impossible to fathom is that he should find it possible to persuade Members opposite, because every single one of them is elected to this House under the banner of the Gibraltar Social Democrats and what was good for 1988-96 and 2012-18 was also good 2390 from 1997 to 2011. And so what he is saying ... and I am not suggesting that he has hidden from 2395 this. He has understood that in the way that he has presented it, but what he is saying is in effect that the policies of the party, the initials of which they all defended at the General Election in respect of this crucial aspect of policymaking – indeed, he has gone back, rightly, to Magna Carta and the principle of political representation in his analysis for a non-lawyer was correct. It is difficult to understand how he thinks that he can persuade the GSD that this fundamental GSD policy was wrong.

2400 I assume that the hon. Lady has a way out, because not just the one that the hon. the former-former Leader of the Opposition gave her that she has seceded and she has said she will stand, an advantage she does not allow the hon. Gentleman Mr Llamas, but given the things I hear, they may not be long for independence. But she of course has the ability to say, ‘Well, actually, Roy Clinton is defending the record of a Chief Minister with whom I have a close relationship,’ and indeed, if I may say so, a record that is in respect of the period when you were a member of the Government. She has that relationship with the practice that you are defending. But you do not, is the answer to the hon. Gentleman opposite. In fact, as far as I understand it, the hon. Gentleman was a member of the Executive Committee of the Gibraltar Social Democrats at some stage until he walked out because, shamefully, people in the GSD did not want to read The New People. But, Mr Speaker – (Interjection) No, the practice today is not to yield to Members opposite. That is the practice today. You ought to... He is his right to determine whether it was the right practice or not. I do not know whether he was on the Executive Committee of the party or not; he may say that he was not. Well, certainly one of the things that he used to say during the course of his leadership campaign, such as it was, was that he had been a member since it was formed. Well, this is what the party that he has defended did for the 16 years that it held the reins of authority, and it was not an issue that we took with them because it was an issue on which we were agreed because there they had adopted GSP policy and made it GSD policy. The incredible thing is that the GSD should now seek to change the GSD’s policy in respect of this matter without at least trying to agree it with us for the reasons that he has said are so important, if he were right.

2415 It is entirely wrong that we do not debate matters of taxation, whether those are duties or direct or indirect taxation of another form. Of course we do. In some instances the changes necessary are done by way of regulation, so they do not come to this House but they are advertised in the context of a Budget debate. In other words, we have a Budget debate where the Chief Minister gets up and says, ‘As from midnight tonight ...’ without holding a whisky in his hand as they do in another place, and makes the announcements. The debate then continues and hon. Members have absolutely the right to get up and say, ‘You haven’t put up the duty on this enough, you are not going to put up the duty on this enough, you have put it up too much on this, you are wrong with your policy on taxation on that.’ But in respect of taxation where direct prime legislation is required, of course they also have the right when the prime legislation comes.

2425 His point, which is a good one, is that the prime legislation does not come quick enough. That is a good point, it is a point that has to be pursued, it is a point on which we are agreed, but the solution to that point is not to bring a Finance Bill.

2430 The hon. Gentleman has to understand that when I was first elected I was still having to catch up with their taxation matters which had to come to this House, but only matters which required primary change, because one thing he may not be aware of – and I think will never be aware of, but it is not a matter for me, it is a matter for the people – is that when a Chief Minister ends the debate on the Budget, when the Budget is voted on and passed – in other words, when the Committee Stage and Third Reading are complete – we get into the battery-powered vehicle and we are driven back to No. 6 Convent Place to be presented with a stack of measures to sign, which are the regulations which are required to give effect to the measures in taxation which do not require primary legislation and which are then changed. That is how duty changes. So taxation on tobacco etc. is then suspended from let’s say the Monday morning when the Chief Minister presents the Budget Bill until the Thursday when we sit down, the House has approved and the regulations are signed making the changes to the duties. That is how it works.

2445 Now, you can spend your Budget debate simply saying, 'I don't agree with the Government on this, I don't agree with the Government on that, the debt is too high, the debt is too low, I am going to vote against the Budget or I am going to vote in favour of the Budget, Civil Service pay is too high ...' – the sort of things the hon. Gentleman says all the time – or you can say also, in addition to all that other stuff that hon. Members say during the course of the Budget debate on the Appropriation, 'By the way, the detail of what you are saying should change in this way or 2450 should change in another.' That is the debate: 'The duty on this particular commodity is going up too much or it is not going up enough, the rates are going up too much or they are not going up enough, the announcement in respect of stamp duty is not good enough or it goes too far.' That is what you can do in that debate.

2455 Will you persuade us? Well, it is very unlikely you will persuade us because it is not true that Budgets are prepared like the hon. Member says. It is particularly open to them this year to vote against any Budget measure that might come as a need for a change to the primary legislation, whenever it comes in respect of the financial year 2017-18. Why? Well, for a simple reason, Mr Speaker: they voted against the Act; they voted against the Appropriation Bill.

2460 In most instances – in every other instance, in fact, in the history of this Parliament on the basis of the analysis I did in my response to their presentations, their speeches on the Appropriation Bill this year – the Budget has passed with the support of every Member of the House. (A Member: Appropriation Bill.) The Appropriation Bill has passed with the support of every Member of the House, and therefore it would have been very difficult indeed to see how 2465 somebody could vote in favour of a Budget, which is an appropriation financed in a particular way, and then vote against the measures. That is not an encumbrance that hon. Members have, because they voted against the whole thing. Hon. Members voted against the Appropriation Bill, which is of course generated estimating a revenue which is based on measures included in the context of that debate.

2470 He is shaking his head because obviously he knows better. Having been Chief Minister and Minister for Finance for a hundred years before me, Mr Speaker, he knows a lot better, of course, like he knows better about everything; in fact, like he knows better about how a Budget is created, because of course he believes everything he is told in Main Street and he has told us that the oft-told story in Main Street is that the Chief Minister hides himself in his office and that the Commissioner of Income Tax hears of the changes he is making to Income Tax when he gets 2475 up here.

2480 Well, it is certainly not the case that that is the position under this Chief Minister. Neither was it the case, I am sure, under the former Chief Minister who is sitting next to me, who introduced the measure that he is talking about. From the tales I hear from the inside, not from Main Street, it was not always the case in relation to my predecessor as Chief Minister, the Hon. Sir Peter Caruana. Right! Why? Why is that not the case? Well, because it would be foolish indeed – and I note that we are in the presence of another former Chief Minister, Mr Speaker, but it would be foolish indeed for a Chief Minister to announce a Budget measure without knowing the potential effect or consequence of that measure in cash terms.

2485 Confecting a Budget for this community involves a Commissioner of Income Tax who is involved for weeks telling you, 'If you change this it will likely cost so much because we have so many taxpayers in that category, if you move it in this way it costs so much and if you move it in that way it costs so much. This is my estimate. It could be this. There could be others that are not in this band but when you move the band it could mean that.' You have broad estimates of what a measure costs to the Exchequer or will produce for the Exchequer. The cleverest Chief 2490 Minister in our history – and who he is will be judged by history; it will not be me, that is for sure, but when it comes to economics it might be the person sitting to my left – would not be able to do that analysis because you do not know the number of taxpayers who are in a particular bracket and therefore you cannot do the calculation unless you have that number.

2495 So, Mr Speaker, the next time he is on Main Street – and as a retiree he is oft in Main Street – he should put right those who tell him the story about the Commissioner of Income Tax hearing about the measures on the radio at lunchtime. That might start to change the way that he perceives the things he has said.

2500 It is also true that alongside the Commissioner of Income Tax the Collector of Customs ... Of course, Mr Speaker, if we take a step back the words 'Commissioner of Income Taxes' and 'Collector of Customs' actually mean the same thing; they are just responsible for different types of taxation occurring in different ways. The Collector of Customs is also a hugely important part 2505 of the planning of a Budget. A Collector of Customs would not hear the measures on radio for the first time. He will have been involved for a considerable number of weeks, if not months. In fact, both the Commissioner and the Collector will be preparing everything that is not primary legislation with the law draftsmen in order to be ready to have those relevant regulations signed once the Budget Bill passes. When the Appropriation Bill becomes an Appropriation Act the regulations are ready when you arrive at No. 6 Convent Place to sign them, not because they heard them on the radio but because they have been preparing them. And of course in the 2510 whole structure of what is going on the person with responsibility for rates at Land Property Services will also be involved, because a rate is in effect also a duty; it is a tax, in effect. So the Commissioner of Income Tax, the Collector of Customs, the person with responsibility for rates, all of them are involved and preparing relevant regulations.

And how does that happen, Mr Speaker? Does it happen locked in a room for five minutes?
2515 No, this is a considerable period of preparation. And alongside the Minister for Finance of course will be throughout that period a Financial Secretary, who will be running ... And I know that that is the job he has always really wanted, Mr Speaker. It was colonial book-keeper or Financial Secretary, obviously. A Financial Secretary will be involved in the detail of the planning of a Budget, working in conjunction with all of those that I have indicated and with the Chief 2520 Minister. It could not be otherwise; it would not work otherwise. So the myth on which he has based all of his speech, which he heard down Main Street, is no better than some of the rumours that are brought here during Question Time. It is just completely untrue. It is untrue.

The Cabinet will be feeding in measures to the Chief Minister's Office throughout the year, 2525 actually. Different measures may come to the attention of Members at different times that will be fed in throughout the year. What the Office of the Chief Minister will always do in this respect is say, 'Thank you very much for the input, but nothing can be confirmed to those who have suggested that this is an important measure to you until the Chief Minister gets up in the Parliament.' That is the position. They are the ones who do not find out until the Chief Minister 2530 announces it in Parliament – not the Ministers, they will know in co-operation with the Chief Minister; not the Commissioner or the Collector responsible for rates etc., but those who have made representations, 'I think it is a good idea to a, b, c ...' You cannot tell them what is going to happen, otherwise they might stock up on the thing that the duty is going to go up or down on.
Well, it would be foolish to stock up on things that are going to do down in duty – on the things that are going to go up. Those are the people who rightly find out when the Chief Minister is on 2535 his feet making the announcement and Members opposite find out when the Chief Minister makes the announcement.

But Main Street is right about one thing. If there is a Delphic oracle available then you make 2540 sure the Delphic oracle is involved, and luckily in our Government we have got one, especially on these matters.

Therefore a lot of what he has told us is just based on a rumour that has absolutely no basis 2545 in fact. Although I accept that it is necessary to try and be more up to date in respect of these measures, he has to understand that none of the reasons why he has pointed to so far are going to persuade us.

It is also true that all the accountancy practices in Gibraltar and some of the law firms 2550 immediately publish, with a speed that sometimes surprises me, on the day of the Budget a summary of the measures so that everyone is aware of them and everyone knows – this is important – that they have the benefit of the measure from the date of announcement as well as suffer the obligations that may be imposed, because it is quite something to get up and say, ‘Oh, poor taxpayers who are subjected to the measures’ ... Well there have been precious little increases in cost to taxpayers in Gibraltar in any of the years that I have been responsible for delivering the measures. In fact, it is quite something different isn’t it: it is taxpayers saying, ‘Ah-ha, as from x date of the Budget I am entitled to the lower rate.’ That is not what the fight that led to Magna Carta was about and of course the Government absolutely rightly honours from the date of announcement the reductions. That is the reality, Mr Speaker, and for that, as much as for revenue-raising measures, legal cover is required, and if it comes later it is retrospective legal cover. There is provision for retrospective legal cover for a revenue-raising measure, as was demonstrated by them when they were in office, and there was debate about that and it is in Hansard, although it is anathema to think that that exists, and that is where we must do better and we must bring those measures sooner, absolutely, but that is not a good argument for what he is presenting to the House today as the alleged only solution, because the words ‘retrospective legal cover’ were uttered in this House for the first time by the man referred to on a number of occasions as the greatest Gibraltarian of all time (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) by the former-former ... Mr Speaker, he can now admit it. He has got nothing to lose. She is not going to join him again. She can now admit it.

2565 Hon. D A Feetham: Oh, you are saying it for her!

Hon. Chief Minister: No, you are saying it for her. Mr Speaker, let’s be very clear. I have never said that Sir Peter Caruana was the greatest Gibraltarian of all time. Neither would it pass my lips. The hon. Gentleman, even Sir Peter, would not be surprised that I should say that. But he said it and now he is trying to distance himself from it at the time that the hon. Lady was in the party. I wonder whether he still harbours views that she might one day be lobotomised enough in order to go back, but I do not see her as somebody who is capable of reprogramming. She seems to me to be pretty fixed in her direction of travel, as he said when he was giving us his best interpretation of Eminem in the hilarious last session of the House.

2575 Retrospective legal cover is what the Silk, the Queen’s Counsel, the QC told us was possible, and he was right, Mr Speaker. Unfortunately it is not something that we should have to rely on but we have to rely on it and we should do better and we should catch up, but the answer is not to bring a separate Finance Bill.

I do not think that there were fierce debates in this House at the time that the GSLP and its predecessors entitled the GDM and at the time that Joe Bossano was here as a member of the Integrationist Party countered the politics of the AACR. I must say I think the fierce debates arose after 1991 when Sir Peter was elected to this House. The ferocity of debate changes and if hon. Members look at the Hansards there are debates of principle before then and then there are deeply personalised debates after that. It is a position I have expressed on a number of occasions to Sir Peter when he was here. So I do not think that the hon. Gentleman is able to reinvent the history of this place, because Hansard speaks for itself as to the ferocity of the debates and how they were handled in that time.

2590 So, having dealt with all of the issues, the mechanisms there are for debating the tax measures that require primary legislation, the mechanisms that there are for debating the measures that require regulations, which they do not take up, although this year they could have because they were not going to vote for the Budget, and having dealt with the fact that there is a need to catch up with measures which require primary legislation but that the answer is not the position that the hon. Gentleman has set out, I have little more to say in respect of this motion other than it will not enjoy the support of Members on this side of the House.

2595 I will repeat, Mr Speaker, that if hon. Members wish to bring motions which should enjoy the benefit of support from this side of the House – and politics is about simple mathematics, democracy is about simple mathematics; you get one more than the other guy and you win, whether it is the election or a motion, but if they genuinely believe that there are measures where they can bring something to the House which will improve Gibraltar and they are genuine about that, then they need to have an offline conversation with us to persuade us of that. That is the way that it works in every Parliament. If you see a motion go down on the Order Paper at Westminster and it carries the signatures of Members from opposite sides of the House, then you know that there is an issue which is going to garner more support than simply a motion on the Order Paper which garners support only from Members on one side of the House. And a motion need not stand in one name only; a number of Members can bring a motion and lay it before the Parliament. So, instead of the method of amendment that we have dealt with today, if a motion were presented by John Cortes and Marlene Hassan Nahon, then hon. Members are given an indication that it enjoys cross-party support. If it is also endorsed by Trevor Hammond, if there is a motion that has three names on it when it is submitted, then hon. Members know that that motion is definitely going to pass with the support of the Government and the official Opposition and the vote of an independent Member. If a motion comes on an issue which is as obviously controversial as this one, because the hon. Gentleman is taking head-on a policy introduced by the GSLP, then it is obviously a motion designed to garner political headlines, soporific though they might be, but not an attempt to make a genuine change to the position as set out in the motion, because it is obviously not going to have a fair wind.

If the hon. Gentleman had brought something which is completely new, which is not recognised in the way that we do things, which does not go to the core of something that we have been doing, perhaps he could say, 'Well, look, this was just something new.' I would still commend to him the fact that he should try with a parliamentary colleague to deal with it by way of consensus, and if there is no consensus then bring it on his own, but consensus should be the first position that we take to try and agree things. But if you are going to take on the stated policy of the party in the founding Budget, in effect in the 10 commandments, and you do not talk to us about it first, then look, it is one of our 10 commandments, we are not going to shift from that and nothing that the hon. Gentleman has said on his feet today has persuaded me, or indeed, I am sure, any other Member on the Government benches. For that reason, I am afraid that the hon. Gentleman is going to see us not support his motion. He is therefore not going to persuade us to change the practice.

I very much look forward to what will happen during the course of this year's Appropriation Bill. Many people claim credit for having ended the political career of the Hon. former-former Leader of the Opposition. I have always thought that nothing will end the political career of the Hon. the former-former Leader of the Opposition because nothing will persuade him to leave politics, even himself, but in the context of that process it has been put to me that his political career was ended by the references to the fact that he might or might not have done something in the names of others on a particular social media site – the bane of my existence during the course of that Budget debate. Then it was put to me that it was just too much for him and that he had said in the course of his departure from politics why he was leaving, although then he did not depart politics; and others have said it was the departure of the Hon. Mr Llamas that led him to decide that enough was enough, two defections again in this debate. That defection, Mr Llamas explained, was about the vote against the Appropriation Bill, a seminal moment in our Parliament's history, because Mr Llamas said, 'I cannot vote against this Appropriation Bill.'

I wonder what will happen this year, Mr Speaker: whether under new leadership outside this House the GSD Opposition will still vote against an Appropriation Bill in this House, (Hon. Sir J J Bossano: As he said.) as they said they would continue to do, or whether in fact more sensible heads will prevail and they will vote in favour of the Appropriation Bill, although they might express their disagreement with parts of it, and their views ... as has traditionally been the case in respect of the public finances of Gibraltar. A lot will turn, in my view, on what they do; a lot will turn on what they do. If they vote against again then I believe they will be sealing their fate for good, if they have not done so already. If they vote in favour, then it will mean one magnificent volte face for a number of them, and that I think is the live issue going to 2650 the next Appropriation Bill. I very much look forward to seeing what the result of that vote will be. Hon. Members can expect that I will call a division.

I say all that in the context of the hon. Member because I really believe that in the final analysis, as he likes to say, and in the context of the factual matrix, another thing that he likes to say, when history makes the judgement it will be seen that it was neither the hon. Lady nor the 2655 hon. Gentleman, nor indeed me, and I have been trying to do so for so long because that is the nature of adversarial politics; it was the vote against the Budget that the Hon. Mr Clinton persuaded all hon. Members opposite in the Official Opposition to do that was the end of one leader. He did not prevail in his leadership, and if they carry on down that course it may even be the end of another one or two leaders, because I think now of course there is the one outside 2660 and the one inside – they might both fall at the same hurdle. But neither voting against an Appropriation Bill nor changing the practices in respect of how we deal with matters in taxation is going to be something that is going to persuade those of us on this side of the House: we are not going to agree to the principles set out in the motion.

2665 Mr Speaker: Is there any other contribution from the Opposition benches? The Hon. Daniel Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, thank you very much.

I have to say – perhaps it is the fact that I have been absent from sitting to my right for less 2670 than a year and he no longer has the fire in his belly that he used to have – that I found his speech today one of the least unpersuasive that I have ever heard him deliver before this House.

He seems absolutely obsessed, Mr Speaker. Rather than looking at the substance of the motion and considering the merits of the motion, he seems ... It is just a recurring theme and I do not know whether it is because that lack of fire in his belly is also matched by an appreciation 2675 in the paranoia that the hon. Gentleman feels nowadays that he just seems obsessed by the Hon. Mr Llamas to my right and the hon. Lady and what they might do in the future.

Let me restate the position. I know that he does not really like to hear this because I know that it does not serve his own political fortunes the way that he would ... If the Hon. Mr Llamas wants to come back to the GSD he is going to find me not opposing it. If the hon. Lady wants to 2680 come back to the GSD (Laughter) I am not going to be somebody who is going to oppose it. It is not going to be me that is going to be opposing it. It is not going to be me and it is certainly not going to be people on this side, from Mr Hammond (Interjections) all the way to Mr Reyes, that are going to perpetuate any divisions within the Opposition; (Interjection) not us, Mr Speaker. But I know, of course, why the hon. Gentleman is obsessed with this particular topic: because he wants to perpetuate divisions which have not been caused by the GSD ourselves.

The hon. Gentleman says politics is about simple mathematics. Well, look, there I was, simple me, thinking that politics was about principle, that politics was about attempting to improve the lives of people, that politics was attempting to improve the way that things are done. That is what lies at the heart of this particular motion in what the hon. Gentleman is doing, because 2690 really when you strip away all his barbed comments about me and the former-former Leader of the Opposition or about the independents and all the other barbed comments that he is apt to make in debates of this nature, this is about how we can attempt to improve the procedures of this House, and indeed in this particular case how measures are given effect to as quickly as possible.

2695 He spent about half his speech – it was quite incredible – saying, ‘Well, because these are the 10 commandments and the GSLP has always done things like this ... we introduced it and he is now going against the GSD because the GSD also did it.’ Well, look, what does that have to do with it? If you can improve a procedure, the fact that you did things differently in the past should not be an impediment to change. The issue is can we or can we not do it better. That is 2700 the issue, not whether Mr Bossano was the first to introduce it and therefore, because

Mr Bossano is an economic guru and the father of the GSLP, it has got to be done like this for evermore. That does not make sense; that is not constructive politics.

2705 The issue here is Mr Clinton has raised important issues in relation to the practice and criticisms of the practice at the present moment in time, and I have not heard anything from the Chief Minister as to how he intends to improve those criticisms, those defects that have been correctly identified by Mr Clinton. Because the Chief Minister has accepted that we have a situation here that we have Budget measures, taxation ... yes, you can give effect to taxation measures announced in the Budget through subsidiary legislation that then does not require coming to this House and it can be done by the Minister by way of regulation, but there are
2715 approach, but there is nothing that he has come up with, nothing that he has said to this House today, other than it was the economic guru of the GSLP, Joe Bossano, who was the architect of this policy and we have done it for eight years and you have done it for 16 ... Other than that, he has not really come to this House with a reason as to why this House should not vote in favour of this motion that is presented by Mr Clinton. Therefore, I think the Government is not taking the 2720 motion with the seriousness that it deserves.

Let me say this: I think that Mr Clinton would be the first person to stand up and if he heard an argument from the Chief Minister, or if he heard an argument from the Father of the House, Minister Bossano, 'Yes, we accept that we should be bringing these measures earlier and we are going to do it in this particular way, but we do not want to do it through a Finance Bill, we are 2725 going to do it through this particular way,' well I think that Mr Clinton would say, 'Well, look, I have come up with a proposal as to the way that we can do it but we will support the Government in the proposal that the Government makes.' But the speech by the Hon. the Chief Minister is a scorched-earth speech. It is destructive, it is not constructive; it is negative, it is not positive. It is about the politics of the past, not about the politics of the future, Mr Speaker, and that is what this motion by Mr Clinton represents, and therefore I certainly will be voting in 2730 favour of the motion. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Any other contributor to the debate? (Interjections) The Hon. Sir Joe Bossano.

2735 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I accept that the Hon. Mr Clinton does not have a clue what he is talking about because he is only limiting himself to what he has read in Hansard, which happened a very long time ago, and his interpretation of what happened. But I would expect the hon. Member opposite to know more – and it is not about understanding numbers.

2740 Let me say that, as the Chief Minister has said, the first time a native questioned a Financial Secretary was in 1973 because under the 1968 Constitution it was the Financial Secretary who determined how money was going to be raised and in effect he made the Budget speech setting out how the money was going to be raised, and it was only the first time that there was somebody in the Opposition that was the Shadow of the Financial Secretary, because I was not 2745 the Finance Minister.

Indeed, if he looks at some of the debates where there was great controversy over tax measures, I can remember one particular Financial Secretary who arrived here at the time that we had achieved parity, who in fact only found out about parity when he stepped off the plane, had left a huge deficit where he had come from in the Caribbean, and when he started attacking 2750 us in the GSLP who had been involved in the fight for parity I reminded him that the Caribbean's gain was our loss, given his performance in the previous jurisdiction. And there was another Financial Secretary, who increased the tax for everybody in Gibraltar and at the same time

2755 lowered the tax for the expatriates, which included himself. So there were very controversial issues but there was not a controversial issue between the AACR and us, because ultimately the nature of the constitutional relationship that we seemed to have with the UK was that they controlled the purse strings, less so here than in other colonies but still more than they do today and more than they have done since the Constitution removed the appointed Members from this Chamber and made it a less colonial Chamber because we are all now elected.

2760 Mr Speaker: The hon. Member if I may remind him of the occasion when all the elected Members voted against the Budget measure and resigned, but of course (Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Yes, of course.) sitting here was not a Gibraltarian Speaker but the Governor.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Absolutely. That was even earlier!

2765 In that progress of emancipation of our people, initially it was started by the GSLP on the basis that it was lucky that I had sufficient knowledge to question the legitimacy of the arguments used by the Financial Secretary, which other people felt they could not, independent of the fact that we could only question the accuracy and the legitimacy of his deductions rather than his right to do it because his right was the way the Constitution was interpreted. In 1988, with the same Constitution, our view was, 'Well, look, at the end of the day, if you are going to raise the taxes, we are the guys that are going to lose the votes, so we want to take that responsibility.'

2770 The Finance Bill was a Bill to increase taxation. We were not in the business of wanting to increase taxation; we were in the business of adjusting measures in order to create, in what was a very critical time in our history when we had to diversify the economy away from its MOD dependence into adjusting measures so that if people said, 'Well, I don't come to Gibraltar because of this and this,' we would be able to react in a way which invariably meant lowering things, not raising them ... So to say that the Magna Carta, the Boston Tea Party or the French Revolution were not about people's taxes being lowered ... It was about taxes being raised, right? Well, we were not in the business of raising taxation. The kind of economy we were developing was not about raising taxation; it was about diversifying from an MOD-based economy to a private sector economy and ensuring that we were able to be competitive in the incentives that we provided.

2780 That cornerstone meant that we came to the House with an Appropriation Bill, which is what still happens, which is the instrument that gives permission to the Government to withdraw money from the Consolidated Fund – the Constitution says we cannot take money out of the Consolidated Fund without the consent of Parliament – and the taxation measures that in the Finance Bill were the measures where we raised the money that went into the Consolidated Fund. But the invention of doing this and then introducing retrospective legal cover was not a GSLP ... one of the 10 commandments; it was one of the GSD 10 commandments – not one of ours, one of theirs, opposed by me.

2795 Therefore, if he is talking about good governance, well, look, if there is good governance, then what they introduced, which was not the absence of a Finance Bill, it was the absence of any kind of legislation to justify taxation, and not just taxation because the hon. Member opposite has included Social Insurance as if Social Insurance was a tax. Social Insurance is not a tax. Social Insurance was never included in the Finance Bill. Social Insurance always was and still today is increased by a motion in this House. What the GSD did, which I claimed was illegal, was to raise insurance and deduct it from workers' pay packets, in my view in breach of the Truck Act, which says you cannot remove from a person's pay packet anything other than that which is provided in the law, and there was no law saying that Social Insurance shall be 10% higher than it was at the end of June on 1st July. What the GSD did was they raised insurance rates without bringing a motion to the House and then gave it what the then Chief Minister, the greatest living Gibraltarian, called retrospective legal cover, for which he got a QC – for inventing this concept (Laughter) – and of course the hon. Member opposite was part of a Government that was doing 2805 this retrospective legal cover. When I actually stood up in the House and told ... Without pretending to be a lawyer, which is not one of the things I ever want to be ... without pretending to be one I said to him, 'Well, look, my interpretation of the law is that what you are doing is illegal because every week people get money taken away for the Social Insurance and the amount that you are taking away is 10% higher than the amount specified in the legislation, so I 2810 think this could be challenged,' and the greatest living Gibraltarian said, 'Well, if it is, I will come to the House and retrospectively change the Truck Act.' So much for good governance. I do not know what the hon. Member would have done if he had been in the GSLP in those days with the GSD on this side.

So the truth of the matter is that his criticism of a practice which in fact was defended by the 2815 GSD Government as being in keeping with the way they do it in the UK ... He did not agree with my criticism. He said even if I was right he would simply change the law and make it right, but in any event he said, 'When the Chancellor in the UK stands up in Parliament and says what the changes are going to be, they are not legislated there and then.' I have not checked whether he was telling the truth, but that is a statement made in Parliament and he said that therefore the 2820 concept of retrospectively giving legal cover to what had already been implemented immediately ... and of course one of the things why the measures in the Finance Bill, when there was a Finance Bill, or the measures in the Budget speech afterwards – not in our time because we introduced very few measures, but certainly in the time of the GSD – had to be brought in immediately for the reason that the Chief Minister has said, because if the Minister for Finance 2825 or the Financial Secretary were to stand up in the middle of the Budget debate and say, 'And we are going to introduce legislation in six weeks' time after we have given six weeks' notice to raise the duty on a particular product' everybody would spend six weeks buying that product before the law was changed. So, in effect, once it is announced in Parliament it is introduced and then retrospectively put right, and it can be six weeks or it can be, in some cases, two years – and I do 2830 not see why it should take two years to do it but you do not need to a Finance Bill to do that.
The fact you have a Finance Bill is not what is wrong. What is wrong is that things should be increased before the law is changed that provides for that increase, and that is what I objected to on that side. But that is not what we did in 1988. That is what was done after 1996. So that can be changed; that is not sacred. (Laughter) (Hon. Chief Minister: What a conundrum!)

2835 Therefore, given the fact that there were two Members on the opposite benches who thought it was quite all right and it was not a lack of good governance – they were there all the time when it was happening – it seems to me that one of the things that one finds in the present political system is that Members behave as if they were independent; that is as if they had stood as independents, not as if they had stood in a party. Because we go to an election with a party 2840 policy and certainly if we thought there was a huge democratic deficit and a lack of good governance and the equivalent of the absence of the Magna Carta and the possibility of a French Revolution repeating itself in Gibraltar, we would have put it in our manifesto if it was that important. (Laughter) It would not have been an afterthought when one year you decide you do not approve of spending and the next year you decide you do not approve of the raising of the 2845 revenue. Well, the raising of the revenue and the spending of the revenue are the fundamental reason why parliaments exist.

The way that it was done on the initiative of the party to which the hon. Member belongs was to do it first and legalise it afterwards, a practice that has continued since 2011 but was introduced by them. It is all very well for the Hon. Mr Feetham to say, 'Well, look, if you find a 2850 better way to do things, what does it matter if we did it wrong for 15 years?'
(Hon. D A Feetham: What?) Well, except that this is not how party politics works. This is how collections of individuals in the Isle of Man or Jersey or Guernsey govern themselves. So tomorrow Mr Clinton, walking up and down Main Street with nothing better to do, thinks of something new, comes here and it now becomes party policy. I do not know if the leader of the 2855 party who also was part of the Government that introduced this aberration –

Hon. Chief Minister: And fought elections against it afterwards.

2860 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Yes, of course, and defended it when I criticised it. I do not know whether the leader of the party is as generous as the former-former leader of the party in being willing to accept changes just like that.

Presumably the Leader of the Opposition agrees that the GSD was wrong. Two Members who were in the GSD in Government agree that what they were doing was wrong. A former Minister who is the leader of the party now – (Interjections and laughter) I am afraid there is a party whip on this. (Laughter and banging on desks)

2865 So the answer is that if there is something that is necessary or something that is better, then of course there is no reason why we should not look at it and then make up our minds whether we want to do it or not.

Certainly it seems to me that from the moment that he started explaining the reasons for doing it he does not seem to understand that the thing that is really wrong is not what happened in 1988 but the thing introduced by the GSD. He seems to have convinced the two Members of the GSD. I do not know whether he needs to convince the greatest living Gibraltar

2870 Gibraltarian whose idea it was that his party is now accusing him of lack of good governance and lack of transparency. (Interjection) Yes, Mr Speaker, and you, because you are saying that it is a good idea to change something although it must have been a bad idea to introduce it.

2875

Hon. D A Feetham: No, no, no. That is why I wanted you to give way.

Hon. Chief Minister: No, he is not going to give way.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Okay. So the answer is, Mr Speaker, that if they do it it is a good idea, (Hon. D A Feetham: No.) if we carry on doing what they started then it is a bad idea and it is lack of transparency, and if tomorrow Mr Clinton is no longer a member of the party and somebody else has a different idea then that becomes party policy at least for the bit of the party that is in the House – the bit of the party that is outside the House we do not know whether they would agree. (Interjection)

2885

So we have to make clear that, as the Chief Minister said, we are persuaded – and we did not need to be persuaded but we are persuaded – that there is every good reason and no good reason for delaying the time between the introduction of a measure and its legislative introduction. Indeed, in my view it should not be after the event, it should be before, but I was persuaded by the then Chief Minister that my view was wrong and that this is standard practice and that what we were doing was the way they did it in the UK Parliament and nobody suggested that the UK Parliament needed reform. Maybe he should have tried to reform them when he went there with me recently on that mission to the Public Accounts Committee, if it is indeed the case that they do it differently.

2890

I am not giving way, no. He has got the right of reply, Mr Speaker; he can answer me then.

So the position is that ... Let me make clear that on the question of the Social Insurance increases it has always been done by bringing a motion to the House and it was never done in the Finance Bill. Social Insurance is, in effect, money that is not available to the Government and is not money that is in the Consolidated Fund. So it is not money that is appropriated by Parliament; it is in fact a premium for an insurance policy for either employment or accident or old age. That is what it is.

I do not see why it should be introduced first and the regulation changed afterwards and I felt very strongly that it was wrong that people should have the rate of insurance deducted from their pay packet without the legislation being changed. I think we should look at whether in fact we can make sure that the gap between the introduction of the new rate and the resolution that approves it and changes the rates in the House should be brought to the bare minimum, because in principle it seems to be wrong to me that people should be paying more insurance

2910 and the law says that the insurance rate is not what is actually being deducted. I am not sure that the argument that the GSD put at the time was the correct one.

I think in terms of the Finance Bill the truth of the matter is that there would be an argument if we were in the business of fundamentally having to introduce big changes in tax increases, which fortunately we still do not have to do and hopefully we will still not have to do after Brexit, but certainly if that were the situation then I think we would have to review the way things get done if we were doing that. But when you are talking about the bulk of the changes being that you are reducing things, what is the great issue about not doing it? We are not actually providing the money that is going to be spent. In the majority of cases the things that are announced in the Budget are things that are benefits being given in the Budget and not things that are being increased in the Budget. If the hon. Member looks at all the recent Budgets, the things that have gone up have been very few compared to the ones that have come down and the Finance Bill was primarily a situation of covering deficits.

2920 In 1988 we were still in a situation where we were either having to raise taxation to cover recurrent deficits or borrow money to cover recurrent deficits. There is where the importance of the Finance Bill and the importance of the Financial Secretary came in, given that the United Kingdom felt that they needed their own guy to stop the locals from paying themselves too much or spending too much money, which might be a contingent liability on them. So the real role there was to keep the books balanced by introducing things that might have been unpopular. The tax on the razor blade was the historic one that brought the rebellion from all the elected Members when the Governor insisted on doing it.

2930 So I think for the reasons that I have put and the arguments that are put by my colleague the Chief Minister, the position is that we cannot support the Bill, but I certainly think that we should take a look at the Social Insurance side, which is the one I felt very strongly about. (Banging on desks)

2935 Mr Speaker: The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I rise to say that I am going to vote for the motion, not necessarily because I agree with all of Mr Clinton's points but because I agree with the practice that prevailed before 1988 by whom I consider the greatest Gibraltarian of all time – our time and any time, Mr Speaker – as opposed to the practice that commenced in 1996 for reasons that by now I think are probably quite obvious to us all.

2940 So, unlike the GSD's response to my motion today which in part has tried to denigrate the value of my intervention, I am happy to set aside useless party agendas and vote for what I genuinely believe to be the best move on the whole.

2945 Thank you, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Lawrence Llamas.

2950 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I do believe that we have ample time and opportunity to scrutinise the Government during the Budget debate on the measures that they introduce during that debate. However, it would make sense, let alone provide good practice, for changes requiring amendments to legislation to be made in tandem with the Appropriation Bill, or at least in a timely manner, as has been suggested by my hon. Member on the left. Whether this is through a Finance Bill or it is done as part of a schedule within the Appropriation Bill, I think whatever way could be decided, which obviously is not going to happen given the policy of the Members opposite ... I do believe that either way would satisfy efficiency and good governance.

I shall therefore be supporting this motion.

2960 Mr Speaker: Is there any other contributor to the debate? No, then I will call upon the mover to reply – that is the Hon. Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, it is in fact gratifying to see the Chief Minister taking such an interest in a subject which he finds so boring, because taxation is hardly boring to the taxpayer for the very definition that they are the ones who have to bear the taxes that are introduced and signed off by him. (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister) Oh, I see, yes.

2965 Well, Mr Speaker, turning to boring, there was actually nothing in his response to – (Interjection) Yes, well ... Mr Speaker, there was nothing in his response to my speech that actually convinces me that my arguments are wrong. In fact, he has said nothing at all, other than harping on for a good half an hour about how he goes up dreaming his Budget measures as to how this Parliament actually votes on these measures. He admits that the Budget debate is on 2970 the Appropriation and certainly not on the Budget measures. So, whereas we can have a debate – if we wanted to, as he says – about the Appropriation and then the Budget measures themselves since, as he says, they go hand in hand, the fact of the matter is that we have no vote on them in this House other than the case when there is primary legislation. And he himself admits that it is really quite something to be behind on implementation of Budget measures into 2975 primary legislation. He admits that on coming into office he found what I guess was a stack of measures that had not yet been introduced – and there is still a stack of measures that need to be introduced. As I said, there is one that has yet to come before the House.

I think that if anything comes out of this debate – and it is lamentable that I do not have the support of Members opposite – it is that we really need to do better. We need to do better 2980 because we really cannot afford to have legislation playing catch-up with taxation. It is unfair to the taxpayer and it is frankly shoddy practice. As to whose shoddy practice it is I really do not care, Mr Speaker. I note the Hon. Father of the House being aghast at somebody having the temerity to basically suggest that perhaps the way things have been done in the past, regardless of party, is not necessarily the right way of doing things, and I certainly, for one, although of 2985 course being a Member of the GSD for 30 years ... and, for the record, I only joined the executive in 2015 and the Hon. Mr Feetham will attest to that, so perhaps the Chief Minister will make a note of that to avoid any more confusion in the future.

The idea of offline communication – in fact the majority of his speech almost had a hurt feeling to it that I had not sent him an email, which he probably would not see anyway, or 2990 written him a letter that he refuses to respond to in any case, or that I had not given him a call to say, ‘Look Fabian, Hon. Chief Minister, I have this fantastic idea – what do you think about it?’
Mr Speaker, the reality of it is that as much as the Chief Minister opposite may encourage us to engage with him, the fact of the matter is that he does not want to engage with us. And even if I had engaged with him, I do not work for him, regardless of siren calls to become Financial 2995 Secretary, which increase by the day –

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, I thought that was a bit of a sneaky sort of offer there... calling for resignation.

3000 Hon. R M Clinton: Siren calls, Mr Speaker –

Hon. Chief Minister: It was no more than an invitation to choose.

Hon. R M Clinton: – [Laughter] Siren calls, Mr Speaker, to perhaps tender for the job, or even 3005 perhaps more attractively cross the floor.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, exactly!

Hon. R M Clinton: I shudder, Mr Speaker! Now you know why they are called siren calls!
3010 There is absolutely nothing in what he said in response that actually went to the heart of what I was saying in that we can and we should be doing things better, and a Finance Bill was a proposed solution to do that.

3015 But I will grant that he does accept that things should be better. We should not be playing catch-up. And, whether he agrees with me or not whether to do that via a separate Finance Bill, it is for him in Government to explain to the taxpayer why measures are being delayed. He himself brought the example to this House where taxpayers suffered loss because they assumed that tax measures had been passed into law and, as he and Sir Peter Caruana agreed, the law is the law until it is changed, regardless of how retrospective it is. And of course if you do not make it retrospective enough there will be a gap, as there was in the case the Chief Minister referred 3020 to.

And so, Mr Speaker, I still have not heard a good reason from the Chief Minister as to why this is such a bad idea. In fact, we are only doing what was done in the past, and in fact this is still the practice today in Westminster. In answer to the Hon. the Father of the House as to how Westminster does this, it is not that the Chancellor gets up, makes a speech and that is it. The 3025 House actually then passes a temporary resolution on the Budget measures as of ... They will take effect from midnight that night. So the Parliament actually votes on it and then the detailed legislation comes later. So there is actually a process whereby Parliament approves the measures and then they are debated later. In fact, the Parliament then has the right even to defeat specific measures if they do not like them.

3030 So, Mr Speaker, I am not trying to invent something that is unworkable, nor am I trying to invent something by way of criticism of the GSLP, the GSLP Alliance, the GSD or anybody else. All
I am saying is that if we want, in a modern political system, to manage our tax affairs in a way that is recognisable outside this House, we really should have a measure such as the Finance Bill.

I would perhaps even accept, if the Hon. Father of the House was amenable to it, to put an 3035 amendment in, if he so wished, to say that in cases where taxation is raised a Finance Bill is brought to this House. I accept lowering tax is not as offensive as raising tax and certainly would not raise blood pressure as much, but again the principle is the same: any alteration of tax should come before this House for debate. If you look in the Constitution, no one can bring a motion or a Bill to this House that has the effect of raising taxes other than with the agreement 3040 of the Minister for Finance. And why, Mr Speaker? Because it is a very important matter; it is not something to be taken lightly.

Turning to the Father of the House, our Delphic oracle in person – long may he continue – he goes back to the origins of his encounters with the Financial Development Secretary and the neo-colonial setup that we had then and the question of emancipation of a people. And yes, 3045 these are very emotive words, Mr Speaker, but the fact remains that the Finance Bill had nothing to do with our emancipation. Yes, they may have used it to raise taxes to cover deficits, but that is merely the methodology and does not necessarily make it a bad thing in itself. No, the problem is that by removing the Finance Bill ... and again I accept that he wanted to do it to retain flexibility and be swift on his feet, but it has removed the ability of this Parliament to directly vote on the tax measures. Again, I will repeat, we only vote on appropriation measures.
3050 The Hon. Father of the House has said – and I quoted from Hansard – that we do not vote on the revenue-raising measures, we only vote on the expenditure. So even in the context of the Budget speech this House does not actually get to vote on the Budget in terms of the revenue-raising measures or any tax changing measures, we only vote on the appropriation of expenditure from the Consolidated Fund and even when the Chief Minister goes back to No. 6 in his nice shiny Tesla G1 and signs off all those regulations, fine, he has stood up in this House and made a pronouncement but we certainly have not passed those tax measures into law until sometime in the future. It almost seems like some time in the past, but then I would be talking about Star Wars and we do not want to go there. Sometime in the future someone may decide, 3055 'Oh, look, we forgot to pass this primary legislation on the rates.'

I agree with the Hon. Father of the House in terms of retrospective measures. You cannot tax people without a law. Again, it goes back to the whole reason why we are here. There has to be legal certainty.

3065 As regards the 10 commandments, Mr Speaker, I do not think it is in the GSLP manifesto – but I am sure it will be next time – as to whether it is deemed a holy grail of the GSLP mantra not to have a Finance Bill. I frankly would be surprised to see that there, but no doubt it will be there next time round.

3070 I do not see how it detracts from the business of this House to have a Finance Bill, Mr Speaker. It can only make things better, and in fact the Father of the House himself just said it is the fundamental reason why parliaments exist – it is about taxation, the raising of revenues and the spending of money; that is what we are here to do. At the moment, we only seem to be doing half of that – we are looking at the spending of the money but we are not looking at the tax measures and I think that should be redressed. It is in fact sad that the Father of the House feels that he has to obey the party whip and not be free.

3075 And so I detect there are grudging areas of agreement on both sides of the House in that I think that – (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister) Well, look, if the Chief Minister wants to go to sleep he can feel free to do so. I certainly will not miss his contribution to this debate because he might as well not have been here.

3080 Mr Speaker, what I think I am detecting across the House is there is a grudging acknowledgement (Hon. Chief Minister: No.) that things could be better – it could be better – and the fact is that they, for whatever party mantra reason – this is the way it has always been done, how dare you suggest we do anything different – will refuse to accept this motion on its merits. It is sad that in this Parliament we feel we have to obey 30-year-old dogmas just because that is what is written in the GSLP 10 commandments – or not, as the case may be.

3085 We in this Parliament are here to legislate for the people of Gibraltar in taxation matters and other matters and I think we are not doing our duty if, certainly on the measures on taxation and their variations, we do not bring a Bill to this House and debate the measures in this place.

And so, Mr Speaker, I commend my motion to the House.

3090 Mr Speaker: I now put the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. Roy Clinton. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) I take it the seven Members on the Opposition benches are voting in favour. Those against? (Members: Aye.) There are nine Members of the Opposition, one Member is absent, the motion is defeated.

Congratulations to the Gibraltar Football Association

3095 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I want to be generous in my repost before I adjourn, and I congratulate the Hon. Member in wiping the House clear of anyone who might have been in the Gallery to listen, and congratulate him for having been able to join a party 30 years ago that was formed 28 years ago.

3100 But anyway, before we end, on a more convivial note I am sure the whole House will want to join me in congratulating the GFA for its great victory yesterday at Victoria Stadium, when they won their first match as members of FIFA, 1-0. (Banging on desks)

Good wishes to Team Gibraltar at Commonwealth Games

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Second, Mr Speaker, before I round up, I saw that today Team Gibraltar is on its way to the Commonwealth Games in the Gold Coast. They go, of course, with the wish of the best of Gibraltarian luck from no doubt all Members of this House. I was invited to attend, but given the recent birth of my young daughter I will be ably represented by 3105 the Deputy Chief Minister in the Gold Coast and I am sure that all of us will want to see Team Gibraltar come back with as many medals as possible.

I end adjourning the House sine die, wishing all Members on both sides of the House a very happy Easter and one in particular a very happy Passover and also all other members of her community.

3110 Mr Speaker, I now move that the House should adjourn sine die and that the force should be with all of us. (Laughter)

Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn sine die.

The House adjourned at 8.27 p.m.

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.30 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

PRAYER

Mr Speaker

CONFIRMATION OF MINUTES

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Friday, 18th May 2018.

Order of Proceedings: (i) Oath of Allegiance; (ii) Confirmation of Minutes – the Minutes of the 5 last meeting of Parliament, which was held on 16th, 22nd and 26th March 2018.

Mr Speaker: May I sign the Minutes as correct? (Members: Aye.)

Mr Speaker signed the Minutes.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE CHAIR

Clerk: (iii) Communications from the Chair.

10

Mr Speaker: Owing to the unavoidable absence of a number of Ministers – including the Chief Minister, who is at this moment on his way back to Gibraltar – the House will now recess 15 until five o'clock this afternoon, which should give the Chief Minister in particular an opportunity to get back. The House will recess until five this afternoon.

The House recessed at 3.33 p.m. and resumed at 5 p.m.

Re-admission of Hon. Lawrence Llamas to GSD – Statement by Hon. E J Phillips

Mr Speaker: Earlier this week I received formal notification from the Leader of the Opposition that the Hon. Lawrence Llamas was re-joining the official Opposition, and the Hon. Elliott Phillips has indicated that he would like to make a short statement on the matter.

20 Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful, Mr Speaker.

I rise in order that this House do hereby recognise and acknowledge that the Hon. Member Lawrence Llamas has formally, by vote of our executive, been re-admitted to our political family. It is therefore with pleasure that I confirm that he falls within the party's whip.

25 In the last few months, Mr Speaker, since the election of our new leader, the party has gone from strength to strength in recruiting and reaching out to former members and new – (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister) Have you quite finished?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): No, I think I could be laughing for [inaudible].

30 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker ... reaching out to former members and new contributors and it has been exciting to be part of that renewal. We are excited about the upsurge in political activity amongst our younger members, who are committed, bright and enthusiastic about our renewal and are passionate about Gibraltar and how we can do things better.

35 The hon. Member's return – (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister) Do I need to raise my voice, Mr Speaker, in order to drown out the noises across the other side, or is Mr Speaker going to intervene? (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister) Mr Speaker, the hon. Member's return is a positive step in the right direction and his work on the street cleaning campaign and his education initiatives are demonstrative of the good work that has been done during his time out from the GSD.

40 None of us, Mr Speaker, emerge from the wombs of our mothers as perfectly moulded politicians – save, I suspect, for one person, the Father of the House, recently knighted, Sir Joe Bossano – and therefore I am sure we all appreciate that sometimes things happen in political life that are regrettable, or people would have done things differently on reflection. It is a sign of deep political maturity and understanding of our core values that has ultimately made political 45 engagement on this subject easier. The decision was a hard one but it is one which, in our view, was necessary.

50 It is right to reflect on the positive nature of the party's leadership in achieving this outcome, as well as recognising that there is one individual amongst us who deserves the respect of all, in my view. My hon. Friend Mr Feetham is a robust and consummate politician and a person with whom I have great professional, personal and political respect. The hon. Member continues to discharge his responsibilities to our community seriously and with the determination of a pit bull, and I for one look forward to his continued erudite and lively contributions in this place. Mr Feetham is unequivocal in his support for the party leader's agenda and, given the history, his support is the mark of the man and I applaud him.

55 Mr Speaker, we as a party have always put Gibraltar first and we are entirely focused on providing our community with constructive and critical opposition. Therefore, on behalf of Her Majesty's Opposition, I welcome Mr Llamas back to the fold and look forward to his contributions from these benches. Welcome back home.

60 Mr Speaker: Chief Minister.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, it would appear that the game of musical chairs continues and that it is now becoming normal on the other side for people to play a game of political hokey cokey: in out, in out.

65 I rise to say that we shall, of course, be amending the motion which is before the House to include Mr Llamas in other select committees which he should have been on if he had continued as an independent Member, and we shall use that motion as amended, when the time comes, to remove him from the Brexit Select Committee. He contacted me to tell me that he expected that to be the case and of course it will be.

70 But, Mr Speaker, given the things that the hon. Member has said, we must reflect on the things that they said a few months past in relation to the motion that we put, some of the things that were said about the hon. Member and some of the things which the hon. Member said, because those things are indelibly imprinted in the collective political memory of this community.

75 The Hon. Mr Llamas accused the GSD of hypocrisy, of deplorable actions, of being confused and, under its current leadership, of being misled. Those are the things not that we say of them; those are the things he said of them. But he has gone back home now, like the prodigal son.

The things that were said of him, Mr Speaker, was that he was as if among a pack of wolves. Well, the wolves have now become pit bulls – a dangerous dog, as I understand it, under our laws. But never mind – I suppose that whoever drafted that sentence wanted to reflect praise but at the same time the fact that this particular breed is illegal and put to one side.

80 Mr Speaker, this is now the politics of anything goes, the politics of post-democratic principle or PDP for short.

85 Anyway, the hon. Gentleman said that Mr Llamas returns to his political home. I suppose that they are a broad church – so broad a church that they include more than one denomination, it would appear, and that the whole of the past few months is as if we were replaying that magnificent episode of Friends when Ross and Rachel got back together and just said, 'But we were on a break!'

Procedure re making Statements to the House

90 Mr Speaker: Let me make one matter clear, insofar as the Standing Orders of the House are concerned. This exchange of statements has been under Communications from the Chair. I am not going to allow that to become a precedent. When I have something to tell Parliament under Communications from the Chair, that is it: Members do not have a right to say anything then – certainly not to challenge me – unless they are prepared to move a substantive motion. That is the only way that it can be done. I am not going to allow, in the future, exchanges of this nature.

95 Statements can be made by Ministers and are made by Ministers by moving a suspension of Standing Orders. Insofar as other Members are concerned – in fact, insofar as Members generally are concerned – the only way that they can make a statement is if it is one of a personal nature. The statement made by the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition, I told him earlier today, is not a personal statement, it is a political statement, and therefore I have, as a matter of courtesy only, allowed him to make it. But it is not a precedent and I will not entertain any such proceedings in the future. It is inappropriate, certainly under Standing Orders, for the kind of statements that we have just had and I will not allow it in the future.

100 Let's carry on.

Papers to be laid

105 Clerk: (iv) Petitions; (v) Announcements. (vi) Papers to be laid – the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to lay on the table the Report and Audited Accounts of the Gibraltar Electricity Authority for the financial year ending 31st March 2016.

Mr Speaker, I have the honour to lay on the table the Annual Report of the Parole Board for the years 2016 and 2017.

Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

170 Hon. T N Hammond: On Question 328, the parking pay and display, I presume the dates from which the machines are dated as out of service are from the times at which the machines were reported, because clearly the Minister or his Department cannot know until they are reported. So could the Minister just confirm that that is correct?

175 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, that is right. It is either at the time when a user may complain that the machine is not working properly or when the person responsible for checking and auditing the machines himself goes out and realises the machine is not working properly – so either of those two scenarios.

180 Hon. T N Hammond: And, in general, is there a type of fault that tends to occur with these machines, or are they completely disparate, completely different things on every occasion? Does a coin get stuck and is that often a fault? I only ask if the Minister is aware; he may not be, I understand that.

185 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, there is a vast array of reasons why the machines may malfunction. I would not be able to give him the exact reasons on this occasion, but they could range from paper jams to coin hopper full, to other more technical issues with communication and with the 4G system etc.

190 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I know the machine in Grand Parade – or certainly a machine in Grand Parade – was unserviceable for in excess of four months. Is the Minister aware of why that machine took so long to repair?

195 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the report I got back from that one – I did ask – was that there was a major malfunction. The machine was returned to the manufacturer's head office. It was then returned to the location, where it still failed to work, and therefore an engineer was actually sent out and the problem was finally established as a communication issue with the 4G antenna; and since then it was replaced.

200 That was an example of a major fault whereby a machine could not be set to work locally. It was sent abroad to be fixed, it came back and the technicians had to come to the fact they had missed the error was something to do with the local communications system and not the machine itself.

205 Hon. T N Hammond: Possibly a cheeky question from my perspective, and I know this will be available in the public domain but I am going to ask the question just the same: if a machine is unserviceable, would I be correct in presuming that the parking spaces remain available but effectively cannot be paid for, so they become free parking spaces?

210 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, there are two machines in every single location, so if one machine fails to work there is another machine that would work. There have been very few occasions indeed when both machines have been out, and if they have been out they have been for a very short time indeed within that specific day, but it is, in theory, possible that those machines could be out, and obviously we are alerted to that. Some of the latest machines actually will transmit the error straight to base. The brand new machines have that facility, so we get to hear very quickly that they are out of order or that something has happened with them. But in theory, if both machines broke, for the whole given day clearly cars would park and they would not be expected to pay if there is no way of doing so.

215 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, unfortunately, I do think that these figures underestimate the nature of the problem, certainly at the Romney Huts car park, where I attempt to park virtually every single morning, so therefore I speak from personal experience.

220 Yes, there are two machines at Romney Huts car park: there is one as you come in that accepts the new pound coins, and there is one at the very end that accepts the old pound coins. In other words, the machine as you go in accepts new pound coins but not the old pound coins, and the one at the end accepts old pound coins but not the new pound coins. Also, the one at the end accepts credit cards, whereas the one at the beginning does not accept credit cards.

225 These machines have been problematical because every single time that it rains there is a problem with the machines, and where there have been significant problems as well, I can tell the ... Well, I am asking is he aware that there are significant problems with the credit card payment facility in relation to this one machine at the very end, because of course professionals who bring their cars in – indeed, other members of the public as well ... It is very rare that you go

230 around with a huge number of coins in your pocket from the day before, particularly if you are parking there habitually every single day. You do not hog coins every single day. Certainly I do not; I have got other things on my mind. (Interjections) I have things constantly on my mind – I’m a very conscientious fellow, I have to say. Therefore, you rely on credit cards. This machine has been consistently unreliable in relation to credit cards. (A Member: Both of them.) Both of them. It has been consistently unreliable in terms of you put in two pound coins, for example, 235 but you cannot put a third in or a fourth. This is the type of nightmare that is facing certainly the members of the public who wish to park at this particular car park. Is he aware of that? And if he is not aware of it, what is he going to do in terms of finding out whether the veracity of what I am saying to the hon. Member across the floor of this House is correct or not – which I am absolutely certain is?

240

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, we could do with someone like him to check the machines regularly, because that would give me ... Clearly he uses the machines on a daily basis, so he is probably more of an expert than I am.

245 One thing I will say, though, is the credit card machines are quite novel for Gibraltar, this way of paying for parking at pay and displays, because that was only a recent development that we have added. The new machines are fully capable of credit card facilities for that very reason – because you do not want to carry around lots of coins in your pocket.

250 Gibraltar is a very unique place; not only do we accept the Gibraltar pound, we accept the euro coins as well, and then we have our local pounds and UK pounds as well. So the machines unfortunately do sometimes struggle with coins; it is a complaint I have heard of. The new machines now filter out ... They will accept the Gibraltar coin as a third currency, so to speak – they recognise the weights of the different coins – but they have caused difficulty in certain respects.

255 The problem of the credit card issue, I do not know. I am always on top of looking at figures and looking at how machines are performing, and complaints do come to the Ministry, as they do to the Department itself and the company but I would most definitely have a look at that with interest. Obviously, I accept that as a report and I will find out and see whether I can get to the bottom of what happened. (Interjection)

260 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, can I publicly as well acknowledge the sterling work of Minister Licudi’s former PA, Pepi Lopez. I gather that she is a GSLP member who organises the parking there – Romney Huts car park – excellently every morning and directs everybody to the appropriate number to phone to make complaints every time there is something wrong with these machines, and I can tell the hon. Gentleman that it is something that happens on a daily 265 basis.

Mr Speaker, comparing machines – in fact, the machine at the small boats marina works perfectly. There is one there that works on credit cards. You have got to tab in the registration number of the car and it is fantastic. That is never broken – I do not know whether it is because it is a newer machine, but if I can urge the Government to effectively install that type of machine 270 at Romney Huts car park, which is a much more used car park than the small boats marina, then
I think that would be a constructive move in the right direction.

275 Hon. P J Balban: Done, Mr Speaker. Ten machines arrived literally this week. You are absolutely right, they are new machines. These machines work extremely well, but unfortunately they are subjected to a lot of beating, not only with weather and use, but we have seen people who have put coins in ... or they rap the coins on the side, they bang the machine and all sorts of things.

280 The one thing you mentioned – and I am fully aware that you park your car there, because when we do our business I have noticed your car parked there, and they do work in the small boats marina. (Interjections) Yes, those are the latest machines, the latest technology, and those are the new machines that we are installing throughout Gibraltar. They will be, hopefully, in situ in a relatively short period of time.

285 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, in the course of the exchanges the Minister has had with my colleagues as reference these new machines and the collection of the registration number of the car itself, I was wondering if the Minister could explain to the House what is the need to collect this data.

290 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I asked the same question and the reason I was given is because it links the payment to a specific vehicle, so you cannot pass over credit to another vehicle – for example, if you have paid £10 and you have decided you have to rush off and you have ended up using just one hour, you then pass it on or sell it on to the person who comes your way. This is the way these machines are designed in the UK and we have the same system in Gibraltar. It ties the payment to the car.

295 Mr Speaker: Any other supplementary?

Hon. T N Hammond: Just one more from me, Mr Speaker.
Reference the latest machines that have arrived, is the Minister aware whether they function with SMS, so if you are running late you can actually text an advance to the machine, as we see in many other cities around the world?

300 Hon. P J Balban: Not yet, Mr Speaker. We are looking at different technology completely, as they do not run off that sort of machine. That is very interesting technology. It comes with smart IT technology and that runs through telephone systems and apps linked to telephones. It is something that we are actively pursuing as the way forward and obviously we have exciting innovations up our sleeves for the future.

Q329/2018
Commercial vehicles –
Parking in public car parks and parking spaces; MoT and emissions testing

310 Clerk: Question 329. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, what is the Government's view on the parking of vehicles for the purpose of conducting business in public car parks or in public parking spaces?

315 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I will answer this Question together with Question 330.

320 Clerk: Question 330. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister confirm that commercial vehicles are subject to exactly the same MOT requirements as private vehicles and that all are subjected to emissions testing?

325 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, with reference to Question 329, I would be grateful if the hon. Member could elaborate as to the manner of business that he is referring to. I would be very happy to furnish him with all the information at my disposal at a later date, although the conduct of business on the public highway may not necessarily fall under my remit as Minister for Transport and Traffic. As he may be aware, there are a number of forms for conducting business in public parking spaces.

With reference to Question 330, the answer is no, all commercial vehicles are tested one year after the date when the vehicle was first registered and thereafter annually, while private motor vehicles are tested four years after the date of first registration and thereafter biannually. Date of first registration is defined as date first put into service, whether in Gibraltar or elsewhere.

Exhaust emissions for all vehicles have always been part of the roadworthiness test. Furthermore, the Motor Vehicle Test Centre has purchased one new emission testing machine, commonly known as a smoke meter, and they are in the process of ordering two more smoke meters. These machines meet the requirement of Directive 2009/40/EC on periodic roadworthiness tests, which comes into force on 20th May this year.

Mr Speaker: May I elucidate one matter: in answer to Question 330, the Minister said ‘private motor vehicles ... four years after the date of first registration and thereafter biannually.’ Every two years is not biannually. Biannually is twice a year, every six months. I am a maths teacher by profession, but I think I should also correct the English when it is wrong. It should be biennially – every two years, biennially – not biannually.

Hon. P J Balban: Thank you, Mr Speaker, absolutely right. I will ask my staff. I was just reading off the paper, but you are absolutely right, it is every two years as opposed to every six months. (Interjection by Mr Speaker) Thank you.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, thank you.

Returning, if I may, to Question 329, I do understand that there are many purposes to which businesses may wish to conduct business on the public highway, in public car parks and in public parking spaces, which is why I referred the question to Government in general rather than a specific Minister.

On this occasion I think the Minister may be able to elaborate on elements of the type of business. For instance, in Grand Parade I know a lot of vehicles appear to be parked for sale. It is possible or likely that those vehicles are being sold by a particular business. What is Government’s view? Are those spaces paid for by a business, or does the business have a permit to use those spaces? How does that system work?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, it is perfectly legal to place a private car on the public highway and advertise it for sale. How it is done specifically ... I do not know whether these vehicles are ... I cannot prove whether they all come from the same company, from one company, or they are individual sellers; or, if it is regarding the business which he is alluding to, how they are conducting their business in that respect – we would have to look at that. But it has been reported to me that the numbers that you call to ask about a vehicle are not necessarily the same number. So, if for example you had an advert with a company logo on it and phone the same number, then clearly you can assume that it is a business selling second hand vehicles on a public highway or in a car park, but I do not think that is the case. I do not really know exactly – and each specific case, I suppose, would be different; I have never sold a vehicle in that respect – whether that car still belongs to the individual and is being sold for that person and remains in that person’s name, or whether the car has been transferred to the person who the vehicle has been passed on to and now it is the property of the company. So again I think it is a very difficult question to reply to accurately in that respect.

Hon. T N Hammond: I appreciate that any private individual can place a notice on their car that it is for sale. However, it would appear to me to be more than a coincidence that in Grand Parade at the moment, previously on Ragged Staff, we have 18 or 20 vehicles all parked alongside each other, all for sale, but we do not see similar activity in other places of Gibraltar, so the random odd vehicle ... which is why it strikes me that it may be for business purposes.

I understand the Minister telling me that because there are different numbers it is difficult to investigate, but is it something that is worthy of investigation just to assess whether this is a business that is driving this practice? Surely it cannot be reasonable for a business to use public land to sell its business without an appropriate permit to do so. To make money out of public land in that way would seem to me inappropriate. Is it something that the Minister considers should be investigated by his Department?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, clearly if it is one business conducting their business in a car park, then obviously it is something that needs to be looked at, as to who the vehicle is registered to, which I think is key to what the question is. If the vehicle is still registered under the person who has insurance and the logbook is in that person's name, is it a private vehicle or has he sold that vehicle to the company; and if the company is advertising, then the responsibility, should there be an accident, now falls with the company.

So it is a difficult one to get to the bottom of, but I will say, if it is of any of any use, as we progress with the residential parking scheme, naturally this practice could well cease because you would only be able to park that vehicle in the place where it resides. The plan at the moment for Grand Parade, the area in question that you are asking about, is white area, which is free parking, and as it is free parking anyone has a right to park there. As the schemes start developing, the use of that white parking may change in that respect.

But definitely I think if it is one company operating and conducting their business from a public area, then I think it is something which affects other users and other people wishing to park. I just do not know how easy it is to clamp down on that because we would need to check who the vehicle is registered to and whether it is actually a company selling it on behalf of someone else, or whether it is a company selling their own property.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I think this is an important topic. In fact, the hon. Member, when he was explaining and justifying the multitude of parking spaces at Ragged Staff when we were complaining, 'Well, look, there are empty spaces there and they don't seem to be taken by zone 2 residents: what are you doing about it?' one of the things that the hon. Gentleman said, apart from, 'Well, it's at an early stage – let's see how it works out,' is that before, there used to be a number of cars there that were for sale – whether it was private business or whatever, they were there and they were parked almost on a permanent basis in a public parking space, taking the space from others who would use them.

Does he not agree with me that that is a practice that is potentially abusive, and that therefore if it is potentially abusive any Government that really wants to tackle the parking problem in Gibraltar has to tackle that kind of abusive practice, and that it would be entirely right for a Government to consider whether it should legislate in order to prevent it across the board? I know that it would be difficult, because you would have to do it across the board, because it is very difficult, for the reason the hon. Gentleman outlined in his answer to my friend, Mr Hammond, to determine whether it is a business or whether it is a privately owned vehicle, because in fact it could be a business but the logbook is still in the name of the private individual. But I think it is entirely proper, and does he not agree that it is entirely proper for the Government to consider whether it should legislate across the board in this area?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I will most definitely take that into account. It is something which I am aware of. The company that you are alluding to is clearly the one that works in the area. This does happen in other areas of Gibraltar with other businesses, because they are 430 servicing vehicles, or whatever. If it is abusive in nature, then it is something which we would look at.

I think there are many things to tackle in terms of parking. It is not just one thing. There are a myriad of things that need to be looked at and I think it is only reasonable to accept that this is also something that we need to look at as well, apart from all the other aspects, but obviously I think it is something that needs ... I do accept that people could consider that ... and obviously it is clear what that side of the House would do if they were on this side, and obviously I will –

A Member: We don't have to do that just because they say so.

440 Hon. P J Balban: No. Yes, so it is something I am ... But it is clear from our side that obviously I am looking at every single thing regarding traffic and it is something which I am well aware of too.

Hon T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, in order that this discussion does not appear to revolve around a single business, I would just like to add, and the Minister has mentioned the fact, that business activities do take place in other areas. I would like to refer specifically to the Catalan Bay car park, which frequently appears to have vehicles parked there, being serviced, being repaired, and as we approach the summer, clearly those parking spaces that are taken up by a business – if the business has no right to use those parking spaces, either through permit or other means – would be invaluable as public parking spaces, because access to the beach does become very difficult.

450 Would the Minister similarly consider looking at the issue of the Catalan Bay car park and ensuring that the public parking spaces there are available to the public as opposed to business?

455 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, it is a widespread thing. It happens in Catalan Bay car park, it happens in others – I have just referred to the places that you have mentioned. There are mechanics at work on the street, there are others who store things in vehicles, there are others who wash cars in public parking spaces, others who put cars on sale; it is something which happens.

460 One of the tools which is at our disposition, that we use effectively, I think, is that of street cleaning. By street cleaning as often as possible it causes major disruption to businesses if they are operating from the car parks. In that respect it disincentivises that sort of behaviour. Clearly, if we could street clean every single week, for example, I do not think businesses would be interested in operating in that way. But it is something which street cleaning does tackle.

465 Obviously, we are very well aware of these practices and obviously we will consider ways in which we can assist in this respect.

Hon. T N Hammond: I do understand that street cleaning is clearly disruptive of a business that may be conducting activity on the public highway or in public parking, but the fact is it is public parking and surely it should be available to the public – and therefore a more direct means of confronting a business that is conducting activity in this place might be more appropriate. Would the Minister agree with me?

475 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, as I said, I think it is a problem that we are very well aware of and there are so many things that are being tackled as part of the traffic plan, as part of traffic, it is just another thing that needs to be looked at and tackled. It is another one of the myriad of items that we need to find time to tackle.

480 At the moment, we are progressing with other residential parking schemes, which is taking a vast amount of time from the Department, apart from many other projects as part of the STTP, so it is not something which is critical at the moment but it is definitely something that we are aware of and that we will need to give time to in due course.

Q331/2018

Devil's Tower Road car parks –
Income from White Fleet vehicles

Clerk: Question 331. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, what income is derived by Government for the parking of 485 White Fleet vehicles at the Devil's Tower Road car parks?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, annual income 490 derived for Devil's Tower Road car park for parking of White Fleet vehicles is: from Gedime, £30,276; and from Bassadone, £108,000.

Clerk: Question 332. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, may I just go back to Question 331 briefly, the previous 495 question? Very briefly, Mr Speaker, would the Minister be aware of how many parking spaces those companies occupy within those car parks?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, I do not know whether they actually work a car per space or 500 whether they take up an area and they may perhaps be fitting three cars in the space of two.
Because they are using that area exclusively, they have ways and means of perhaps jumping through windows into other vehicles to get them out. I do not think it is space per parking, so it would be difficult to ascertain.

Roughly, there may be ... Do you need to know numbers of cars or numbers of parking 505 spaces?

Hon. T N Hammond: Number of cars would be –

Hon. P J Balban: Approximately, I think there are at least a couple of hundred for Bassadone 510 and just a fraction of that for Gedime, but I will need to find out. It is areas, I think, that is more ... They fit as many cars into that area as possible.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): But that is going to finish; that is going to end.

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, this was a temporary arrangement which was made to 515 maximise usage of the car park at Devil's Tower Road, because when we took office in 2011 we found those floors which were underutilised and it was felt it made good sense for the taxpayer to put those to good use, and I think that has in fact been the case. Now, as we look towards the near future, this will end because the companies will be relocating to other areas that they are 520 purchasing. That will now release the parking spaces down in that car park for us to use in a different fashion.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I ask for the air conditioning to be switched on. It is quite hot – either that, or the male menopause is catching up.
525

Hon. Chief Minister: That supplementary doesn't arise!

Q332/2018
Devil's Tower Road car parks –
Lifts

Clerk: Question 332. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, can the Minister provide a schedule for the times that the lifts at the Devil's Tower Road car parks have been unserviceable?

530

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the information requested by the hon. Member is set out in the schedule that I now hand over.

Answer to Question 332/2018

	Lift 1	Lift 2	Lift 3	Lift 4
January	18	0	18	4
February	20	12	27	18
March	31	1	21	31
April	30	1	8	30

535

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, does the Minister have an explanation as to why the lifts appear to be unserviceable so often in these car parks? Looking at lifts 1 and 4, for instance, they have been unserviceable for the entirety of both March and April of this year; lifts 2 and 3 have fared slightly better, but still a very poor record on serviceability. Is there a reason for this?

540

Hon. P J Balban: Yes, Mr Speaker, there is a reason for this to do with water ingress, to do with the design of the building. Water has been coming through the lift shafts and causing major disruptions to the electrical system within the lifts.

545

We have now managed to find ways of tackling this issue and major parts have been replaced. As far as I am aware, the lifts are working much better, but it was due to water ingress – that was the reason why the lifts were out.

Q333/2018
Speeding fines –
Agreement with Spain re local drivers

Clerk: Question 333. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, are any arrangements in place with the Spanish authorities for the transmission of speeding fines acquired in Spain to local drivers?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, Gibraltar has signed a memorandum of understanding with the Driver, Vehicle and Licensing Agency in the UK, which sets out the arrangements established between the DVLA and Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar, including details of the services and standards being provided to comply with Directive 560 (EU) 2015/413 facilitating cross-border exchange of information on road-safety related traffic offences. The aim of this Directive is to facilitate the cross-border exchange of information on road-safety related traffic offences within all EU member states, not only Spain, and thereby facilitate the enforcement of penalties.

555

565 Hon. T N Hammond: Would the Minister be aware of how many fines have been allocated to Gibraltar-registered vehicles due to offences in Spain since this agreement came into place?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, no, not unless the question is asked specifically ... I think that question will have been asked by the press recently; I do not know whether that figure is available ... come back with that , okay?

570 Hon. T N Hammond: Possibly on the same theme: is the Minister aware of any foreign-registered vehicles who have been pursued in their own countries for offences that have taken place in Gibraltar?

575 Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, he would have to ask that question specifically, and I can then find out.

Q334/2018
Grand Parade car park –
Underground scheme

Clerk: Question 334.The Hon. R M Clinton.

580 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, further to Question 444/2017, in respect of the Grand Parade car park, has the Government reconsidered the possibility of an underground scheme; and what was the economic obstacle to the previous underground scheme if the then developer was committed to pay for the whole project?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

585 Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, the previous underground scheme was formally presented to the GSD administration and was not proceeded with at the time.

590 After a meeting between the Chief Minister and the ESG, GOHNS and the Heritage Trust, this Government is analysing once again the updated costings and technical information with regard to an underground scheme and will then take a decision one way or another.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for his answer.

595 So, just to confirm to the House, what he is saying now is that given the representations of the DPC, the Government is in fact reconsidering going underground.

Perhaps if I could take him back to the other side of my question – as to the economic viability, he has not answered my question.

600 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, that is not what the hon. Gentleman said. What he said was that after a meeting with the Chief Minister, the Government is reconsidering the position, having spoken to the ESG, GOHNS and the Heritage Trust, which is the position.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Chief Minister for his intervention. Perhaps he could share with this House what it was that these representative bodies have said to him that is causing him to have a change of heart on this project.

605 Again, I come back to the question of economics: what was it that was uneconomic about the proposal in the first place?

Hon. Chief Minister: He has made the assumption about the change of heart. I have not said that there is such a thing. I have said that there has been a meeting with the ESG, GOHNS and the Heritage Trust and that the Government are considering the position as a result.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I will not labour the point any more, other than to ask one further supplementary. Can we take it, then, that the Government project that was presented to the DPC is effectively being put on ice for the moment until the Chief Minister considers whether he has or has not had a change of heart?

Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, he can go from here knowing that the Chief Minister has met the ESG, GOHNS and the Heritage Trust and is considering the position as a result of that meeting, which he has now been told on four occasions.

620 Hon. D A Feetham: Can the Chief Minister at least give this House a flavour of the arguments that were put to him by GOHNS and others as to why he is now reconsidering the position? Of course you can be asked to reconsider the position and do so simply because these are important organisations and the Government does not want to antagonise any of them, but I think that there must be some cogent arguments that were put to him in relation to this that at least has allowed him to say, 'Well, look, let me look at it again in the light of those arguments.' Or weren't cogent arguments put to him? I just ask.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, obviously the arguments they put were much better than the arguments that they put. The arguments that those I met from the ESG, GOHNS and the Heritage Trust were much better than the arguments that Hon. Members put, because the Members opposite did not persuade us of the arguments that they put publicly in respect of this matter.

635 Gibraltar has very many good reporters, and my job is not to report to him the things that people say to me in meetings which are not public.

The Government is exploring some of the things that we were told. The things that we were told may or may not lead us to a conclusion once we have explored them. Once we have made a determination, we will make an announcement about our decision on how to proceed in that respect.

640 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, but, Mr Speaker, I can understand GOHNS and the ESG having concerns about the Government project on environmental grounds – the impact that it might have on Alameda Gardens, for example. That is one thing, and the Government may decide, 'Well, we are going to reconsider our position in the light of those concerns,' but there may be other arguments that were put, arguments of an economic nature, of financial viability, of the viability of an underground project in that site in general.

650 I would just like the Hon. the Chief Minister to perhaps, rather than – I know it is difficult for him – adopting a fencing approach across the floor of the House in terms of how the Government answers questions from the Opposition, to just give us a flavour of what are the type of issues that have made the Government at least reconsider its original position – because what it is saying is, 'Look, we're not necessarily abandoning our intended project, but we are prepared to look at it again.'

655 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am not trying to fence with him. It is not the favoured sport of pit bulls, as far as I understand. What I am trying to do is ensure that the process that the Government has embarked upon is not in any way tarnished by an attempt to take us in one direction or another before we have been able to make a final determination.

660 I think it is appropriate to say that we are reviewing aspects of what we have been told, and if those things that we have been told can be put to those who originally made the designs that were looked at in a way that might make the determinations that were made different, then it may be that the final design is different and the final decision is different.

665 I do know that the hon. Gentleman is pining for more parking in the Town area. (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) I really am not going to keep him waiting for much longer, but I should say he really should have bought at Midtown, like so many others did.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, regardless of the representations made by these interest groups, is the Chief Minister still of the opinion that it is uneconomic to go underground at Grand Parade?

670 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have not been shown anything to suggest the contrary.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, would the Chief Minister not agree with me that if somebody, a third party, agrees to pay for the entire scheme and not a penny leaves the pocket of the Government, then it is entirely economic? Would he not agree?

675 Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, because the hon. Gentleman is failing to factor in so many aspects of what public planning is all about that he fails to even point in the direction of appropriate decision making in respect of an asset like Grand Parade.

680 For example, somebody can tell you that they are going to do something at an unrealistic price and you know that the special purpose vehicle (SPV) they are going to set up for that purpose is going to be bankrupt halfway through the project, and then you are either going to leave a big hole in the ground or you are going to have to use taxpayers' money to continue. Vide, Mr Speaker, the problems of the contract at the tunnel under the runway, which was underbid at the time that they were in Government, which led to extensive litigation; or indeed vide the projects that they oversaw by OEM at Cumberland etc., which resulted in that company going into liquidation, although they had loaned it £7 million and the taxpayer lost £7 million as a result.

685 So the fact that the third party says it will pay for something does not mean it is economic, and of course a third party that is solvent could pay for something and set up a parking which is economically viable at a rate of £15 per hour for parking – something that even the most determined parking pit bull might decide is not a good outcome for the taxpayer or for this community.

690 The hon. Gentleman postulates a hypothesis which is entirely wrong and I am surprised that the man, who has been an accountant, should not have seen the obvious pitfalls that such a proposal would have given rise to, even for the parking pit bull.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I really must refute some of the comments the Chief Minister has made.

700 First of all, he, as a lawyer, will know above all that if you contract with somebody on a major construction project, the first thing you will ask for is, of course, a performance bond. But of course if the Chief Minister does not know anything about that, perhaps he should go back to Oxford and do a course on construction.

Mr Speaker, in terms of the viability of a project and certainly the record of the GSD Government, we can go back in time as far as he wants: we can go back to GibRepair, if we want.

705 I would love to read him the audit report on GibRepair when the GSLP were in Government, but we are not going to go back into ancient history, I guess.

Mr Speaker, if there is a project in which a developer puts up a performance bond to complete the project, then surely he must agree it is economic.

710 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman, as ever, enlightens me when he speaks in this House. Given that he suggests that the absence of knowledge of the need for a performance bond if somebody embarks on a construction project vitiates my knowledge of the law, I now know where the previously referred to 'greatest Gibraltarian of all time' must be: he must be back at Queen Mary College, because it was under his administration and carrying the political colours that he has always defended – not some of the others, the Labour Party, the PDP and the independents, but he has always been GSD – that the Government embarked on the OEM projects at Cumberland without the sort of performance bond that saw them being able to complete and saw the collapse of a company called Haymills and saw, as I told him a moment ago, the Government loan that company £7 million and a £7 million loss to the taxpayer.

720 Much as I would like to go back to the gleaming towers of Oxford, where I spent many happy days and perhaps one day will spend some more in the future, I daresay that those who taught me contract taught me a darn sight better than those who taught him accounts.

725 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Hon. D A Feetham: Sorry, Mr Speaker, may I have just one more?

Mr Speaker: Relevant?

730

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, absolutely. (Laughter)

Hon. Chief Minister: That'll be the day!

735 Hon. D A Feetham: Absolutely relevant, Mr Speaker!

A Member: He knows you well! (Interjection and laughter)

740 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I hope that after today's session you can give me one of those golden stars that my teachers used to give me. I did not receive one very often, I have to say – occasionally – but I have been well behaved, as we have all on this side of the House.

Mr Speaker, just picking up on the hon. Gentleman's last question, if you did have a performance bond in this particular case, would it not meet the concerns of the Chief Minister in his reply as provided to this House?

745

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, a performance bond is a very particular thing. As far as I am concerned, a performance bond is something which demonstrates ability to complete a project. It is not the sort of thing that we have been shown in respect of this project ever in the past. We have not seen performance bonds. We have seen letters that say, 'We have the money and we can do it.'

750

The hon. Member who has just asked the question, Mr Feetham, knows what a performance bond is: it is a contractual obligation backed by a bank. The Hon. Mr Clinton, given that he has asked questions about performance bonds in respect of this project, may think that something on someone's letterhead saying, 'I have the money to complete the project, I have the backers and I'm ready to do it,' is a performance bond. Well, it is no more a bond than anything that

755

Mr Llamas told this House two months ago and he no longer stands by in respect of matters that we have already been debating.

760 And what gives rise to the performance bond? This is the point I was making before. A business plan which is based on charging very high rates for the purchase and rental of parkings might give rise to a performance bond but it might not be something that the Government is willing to approve. I think if he were making the determination he might reach the same conclusion that I might reach looking at that sort of business plan.

765 That is why all I am doing is discussing in hypothesis. I am not going into the things that the Government is looking at in relation to this particular project, but if we were to go down a different road, it would have to be based on a robust business plan and performance bonds of the sort that are going to stand up to scrutiny and are not going to expose the taxpayer to the sort of difficulty that we have seen the taxpayer exposed to in the past in the context of the projects I have already referred to.

770 Just to go back to the way that he started attempting to make his supplementary, I think there are two people in this House who can take the role of Elaine Paige for the American agent and I forget which actress for the Russian wife of the other player in Chess, and sing to each other I Know Him So Well, the great hit from the late 1980s: it is him and me, and so, Mr Speaker, I can see where he is coming from.

775 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q335/2018
Rock Hotel –
Collapsed wall

Clerk: Question 335. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

780 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can Government explain what it intends to do regarding the collapsed wall by the Rock Hotel?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Infrastructure and Planning.

785 Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, whilst the Government's Technical Services team assisted with making the wall safe immediately after its collapse in October 2015, the wall is privately owned by the Rock Hotel and any other further works fall directly under the remit of the Rock Hotel.

790 There are no immediate safety concerns in the area at this moment in time and it is understood that the Rock Hotel is considering the redevelopment of the area affected by the wall collapse.

795 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I hesitate to ask a supplementary but feel I must in the sense that I appreciate that the comeback would have been that it is private and it therefore does not fall within the remit of Government, but is there anything that Government has a duty of dealing with or being on top of when something actually ends up looking rather unsightly, even when it is a private piece of land?

Hon. P J Balban: Mr Speaker, the Government's remit at the time of the collapse was that the most important thing was the safety of the area. That was addressed effectively and the area is absolutely safe at the moment.

800 Because the Rock Hotel is, we understand, considering the redevelopment of the area because of the rock collapse, I do not think there is much more to do at the moment. It may not be as slightly as perhaps a wall was before, because it was also part of a wall and a very big tree that was there, but it is private property and they have plans for it.

805 Hon. D A Feetham: Just one question in relation to this: does the Government have any rights as a landlord in respect of this particular property? I have not looked at it, I have to say, but of course if the Government is the freeholder – the Crown in right of the Government of Gibraltar – there may well be clauses in the lease that could allow the Government to insist that this particular wall is repaired. I do not know, because I have not looked at the lease; I am just asking.
810

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, none of us have looked at the lease because the tenant is looking at the redevelopment already and is looking to make proposals to, if necessary, the Government if it involves any element of change of use, or indeed to the DPC if it involves a new project.
815

We have already had an indication from the owners of what they might initially be thinking of, but they have not yet firmed up, so it would be very peculiar indeed to require somebody who is in the process of doing something to do it at a particular speed which might not be commercially viable.

820 I think the important thing is to know that you do not need to have a wall there, given that there is now a stepping back – the wall is a retaining wall for the material that has now come down from there – and there is therefore an opportunity to do something which is different to a retaining wall.

825 It would not be fair for me to say anything else at this stage because I have been told by the owners what they are thinking of doing, but they may make a different decision. But I am quite happy to tell him behind the Speaker's Chair what it is that they may be considering.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am not sure if I recall correctly, but I believe Technical Services were involved at the time of the wall collapse in terms of cleaning up and making the area safe. Has the hotel, seeing as it is a private wall, made any compensation payment to the Government for this work?
830

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think the hon. Gentleman is wrong. Technical Services attended the scene and ensured that matters were dealt with in keeping with the safety requirements of the Technical Services Department, but the works were undertaken at the cost of the leaseholder.
835

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Chief Minister.

840 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I move that the House should now adjourn.

Before I do, Mr Speaker, I would like to recognise that the Muslim community in Gibraltar, with the Muslims across the world, have now started their period of Ramadan, and that the Jewish community in Gibraltar will be celebrating their feast of Shavuot on Monday.

845 Indeed, to reflect for a moment in a manner that I am sure will unite the whole House, today the Father of the House is not with us because he has been to Buckingham Palace to be knighted by Prince Charles, the heir to the throne, and has emerged a knight. I give notice that I shall be moving a motion during the course of this meeting, which I do hope will enjoy the support of all Members, that he also be made a Freeman of the City of Gibraltar.

850 Mr Speaker, I do not know whether we have seen the last of the musical chairs, but I propose that we return on Wednesday next week at 3 p.m. to see what the lay of the land might be.

Condolences to Hon. G H Licudi

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I also extend our condolences – and I am sure that I speak for everybody on this side of the House – to Mr Licudi on the sad passing of his father.

855 Mr Speaker: I associate myself with that. Gilbert Licudi's father was a friend of mine. We used to sometimes go to the opera together in Algeciras, so I used to know him well.
The House will now –

860 Hon. Chief Minister: Thank you Mr Speaker, can I just take the cue from the Hon. Mr Feetham. I have expressed my condolences to Mr Licudi personally today, but given that he has wanted to express them publicly I think it is right that on behalf of all his colleagues on this side of the House we also express our condolences to him.

865 Mr Speaker: On that note, the House will now adjourn until next Wednesday at three in the afternoon.

The House adjourned at 6.08 p.m.

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.03 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon. A J Canepa GMH OBE in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

Silence in memory of Manchester Arena victims

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Wednesday, 23rd May 2018. Order of Proceedings.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

5

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, yesterday, Parliament in the United Kingdom started its proceedings by calling a minute's silence to remember the attack at the Manchester Arena exactly a year ago and I call upon Parliament today, our first day back in Gibraltar, to do the same thing and to observe a minute's silence to remember those who died at the Manchester Arena a year ago.

10

A minute's silence was observed.

Hon. Chief Minister: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

I am grateful to the hon. Lady, who pointed out to me yesterday that the UK Parliament had started in that fashion, so we could emulate them today.

Suspension of Standing Order 7(1) to permit laying of papers

Clerk: The suspension of Standing Orders. The Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

15

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I beg to move, under Standing Order 7(3), to suspend Standing Order 7(1) in order to proceed with the laying of reports on the table.

Mr Speaker: I beg to move, in the terms of the motion proposed by the hon. Member ... Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

PAPERS TO BE LAID

20 Clerk: Papers to be laid. The Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to lay the following on the table.

25 (1) The Financial Services Commission Annual Report and Audited Accounts for the years ending March 2000 to March 2017. If I may just briefly explain, for some reason these have not been laid before Parliament. I have done it as soon as I have become aware. The reports are all public and are all online and have been each of the years in the intervening period.

(2) The Financial Services Resolution and Compensation Committee Financial Statements for the year ending March 2017.

30 (3) The Report on the Operations of the Gibraltar Financial Services Commission 2017.

Mr Speaker: Ordered to lie.

Questions for Oral Answer

DEPUTY CHIEF MINISTER

Q420/2018

Parliament building and lobby –
Plans to beautify

Clerk: We now return to answers to Oral Questions.

We commence with Question 420. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

35

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Does Government have plans to beautify the dilapidated state of the outer facade of our Parliament building and lobby?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. The Deputy Chief Minister.

40

Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Mr Speaker, the Government will look at the beautification of the outer facade of Parliament once the external lift has been installed.

45 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can we have any idea of when this will be accomplished?

Hon. Deputy Chief Minister: Yes, Mr Speaker – as soon as the estimates of revenue and expenditure for this financial year are passed at Budget time. We will then have the funding to be able to proceed.

ENVIRONMENT, ENERGY, CLIMATE CHANGE AND EDUCATION

Q336/2018

Gibdock –

Discussions re onshore power technology

50 Clerk: We now go to Question 336. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, further to Question 242/2018, can the Minister confirm that the discussions being held with Gibdock outside of those pertaining to the lease include the requirement for the provision of shore-supplied power to vessels under repair; and can the 55 Minister advise how many meetings have taken place and what progress has been made in these discussions?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

60 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, yes, sir. Approximately five meetings have been held with Gibdock, both with myself and with the CEO of the Gibraltar Electricity – that is five taken together. Additionally, there is contact with potential providers of onshore power technology. Some progress has been 65 made.

Hon. T N Hammond: When the Minister says ‘some progress’, can he perhaps elaborate on that a little bit? Is it likely that the outcome will be that Gibdock will have the facility to provide shore power once these talks are complete?

70 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, we are heading in that direction. I do not think it would be prudent for me to give more details because these are clearly discussions that are developing, but I am hopeful. I am positive about the intended outcome.

75 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, could the Minister describe what obstacles might be in the way of providing shore supply for vessels being worked on at Gibdock?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker, we are identifying that technology. We must make sure that the technology is possible to deploy in Gibraltar. Then we need to look at the details and so 80 on. We are actually currently in discussions, as I have said, with potential providers of this technology but I do not really think there is anything more I can add at this stage.

Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister confirm that the obstacles are not of a financial or economic nature?

85 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I could not confirm that they were, as I still do not have a firm idea of what the costs could be. So, at the moment those are not obstacles. At the moment, we are looking at the technology.

90 Hon. T N Hammond: Can the Minister confirm that shore-supply power of this nature is provided in other jurisdictions and other dockyards?

95 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, in some other jurisdictions it is and it is with providers in those jurisdictions that we are talking to see how technically feasible this would be. I am pretty convinced it will be, but as I say, it is too early for me to be able to answer that in any detail.

100 Hon. T N Hammond: One last question, Mr Speaker. Would the Minister agree that shore supply to vessels in Gibdock would provide immense benefits in terms of air quality in that area and therefore to the health of people living in and around the environment of the dockyard?

105 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I wonder why else the hon. Member would think that I wanted to achieve that. Shore power is supplied currently to ships in dry dock through a different system, and clearly taking away the need for ships to be powering with their own engines would result in improved air quality, and this is the reason why we are looking at this.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister advise if he is aware whether Her Majesty's naval base currently provides shore supply to naval vessels; and if so, why can we not do the same?

110 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, Her Majesty's naval base does. They bring in generators and they supply from generators. I am not convinced that that is what I would like to see for Gibdock.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q337/2018
Waste Water Treatment Plan –
Commencement of work

115 Clerk: Question 337. The Hon. T N Hammond.

Hon. T N Hammond: When does Government expect works to commence on the Waste Water Treatment Plant?

120 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

125 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, meetings of the Waste Water Treatment Plant Advanced Works Group are being held on a regular basis, dealing with the preparatory work. Works on the ground are expected to commence during the next few months.

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, we are obviously glad to hear that on this side of the House.

130 Can the Minister confirm that, as far as he is aware, there is no variation to the costs he announced in respect of the contract?

135 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I am not aware of any variation. The advanced works group at the moment is looking at things like the environmental impact assessment, heritage assessments, planning the works – in fact, as I say, they are here on a very regular basis. At the moment, there is no indication of any variation of cost.

Q338/2018

Pets harmed by rat poison –
Changes to system of rodent control

Clerk: Question 338. The Hon. D A Feetham.

140 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, how does the Government intend to change its present system of rodent control, or that of its sub-contractors, so that pets are not harmed by rat poison?

145 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, occasions when pets have been harmed by poison set out by Government contractors are extremely rare. The recently reported case, where the pet was unharmed following veterinary intervention by the Gibraltar Veterinary Clinic, was a result of someone 150 unknown tampering with bait and exposing it from its greatly concealed and inaccessible location. Different methods and types of bait are now being considered and will be trialed very shortly.

155 Hon. D A Feetham: But Mr Speaker, surely if it is possible for somebody – a member of the public, obviously – to interfere with baits, it was foreseeable when it first occurred.

What I want to know, bearing in mind that of course yes, I am commenting on what happened in the past but I am interested as well on what is going to happen in the future ... I am a dog lover, he knows that – I have got four dogs myself – and it is a very, very bad way for a dog to go, to die from rat poisoning. Whilst the hon. Gentleman says they were unharmed, this 160 particular dog – in fact, there was more than one dog; there were two dogs that I am aware of – although he says unharmed. It wasn't unharmed. The dog did not die as a consequence, but obviously it was harmed by consuming this.

What is he going to do as an immediate measure in order to ensure that no other dogs are harmed as a consequence of rat poison that is laid, at the end of the day by a subcontractor 165 pertaining to the Government?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, it is down to the definition of harm and I will agree; what I meant is no lasting harm came to it, because of rapid intervention. I am not aware of any other 170 case.

As I think the hon. Member will be aware – because this was stated publicly in answer to a press question, or in connection with a press release; I cannot remember the detail – my reaction was immediate and these were all removed immediately.

175 The system that we are about to trial, about which I have only been briefed over the last couple of days, will conceal a different type of bait – a type of bait that is known not to have residual effects, so that if a rat were to eat this bait and then got eaten by another animal it would not suffer – and these would be concealed within sealed containers, which would be bolted to the ground and only rats could come in and out. That is what was presented to me and I have approved as a trial run.

180 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): We do not know what effect it has on wolves.

Hon. D A Feetham: Well, that is certainly a welcome announcement from the Minister for dog lovers in Gibraltar, I am sure, including myself. (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister) And for the dogs – yes, indeed!

185 Am I right, therefore, in saying that the laying down of rat poison has been suspended until this new system is introduced? Or is it still the case that rat poison is being laid in places in Gibraltar at the present moment in time?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No rat poison of the type that we were talking about has been laid since, and older ones have been removed. Because it is only a couple of weeks, we are not overly 190 concerned about a sudden explosion of the rat population, because the new system is probably being laid this week if it has not been tried out already today. So, at the moment, there should be none of that type of rat poison. As I say, it was very well concealed down in between the rocks of the revetments, where there have been rat problems in the past. Somebody pulled it up 195 and clearly that is not acceptable and as soon as I realised that we stopped it.

I think that people with pets need not be concerned, but neither should people who fear there is going to be a rat population explosion.

Hon. D A Feetham: Just one final question – and it may well be that, in fact, in the light of the 200 fact that the Government is changing the system to this system where only rats can access the bait it may be that it is superfluous – but has the Government considered any type of signage, or anything like that, that may also help?

The hon. Gentleman says, ‘Well, it was picked up by somebody – somebody must have taken the bait out.’ It could actually have been a small animal, a small dog, that could have accessed it 205 and then taken it out. It is very difficult to say how that particular bait was inaccessible for a larger dog, but if you have proper signage even when it is very secure ... because accidents do happen and unforeseeable accidents do happen as well. Signage is important. I note that the Hon. Minister is nodding.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, I should have said that. There will be signage 210 accompanying each of these bait boxes.

Q339-340/2018
Public cleaning contract
Update re awarding of contract

Clerk: Question 339. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise if it has reached a decision in 215 respect of the award of the public cleaning contract?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
220 Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 340.

Clerk: Question 340. The Hon. L F Llamas.

225 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government update this House as to the tendering process and plans for the new public cleaning contract?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

230

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the tender board is currently deliberating.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may ask the Minister: when did the contract actually end? When was the deadline for submission of tenders?

235

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there have been a number of extensions in order to allow the proper processing of the tender. I believe the current extension ends either end of May or end of June, but clearly if the award cannot be made before – if it is the end of June, I am sure it will be made – then there would have to be an additional extension.

240

Hon. R M Clinton: I thank the Minister for his answer.

How many extensions have been given so far, and again what was the deadline for the submission of tenders?

245

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I do not have that detail. I think the contract expired just under a year ago, so regardless of the number of extensions, the extension has been to the date that I have just mentioned. I can obviously obtain that information, but I cannot recall the date of the tender.

250

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I just rise to ask one supplementary question in relation to this point. I have been approached by a number of employees in respect of the company performing those functions. What assurances can the Government give in respect of this particular contract? I know that the Minister says it is in progress, but a level of reassurance from the Minister would go down quite well.

255

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, we had a motion here in this House in which we guaranteed the interests of the employees. I am in regular contact with their union representatives and I have met with them probably on two or three occasions over the last few months, on which those reassurances that were publicly stated here in this House and have been stated elsewhere were repeated to them, so there is no reason for them to be concerned.

260

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the Minister will appreciate that they are actively concerned in the tendering process and, with respect, of course they deserve that level of reassurance as to timing. That is the point that is being made to me by those employees. I do very much appreciate what the Hon. the Minister says about that, but I was seeking some form of reassurance as to the timing of that contract being awarded.

265

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Well, Mr Speaker, in relation to timing of something that is in the hands of an independent procuring board, I think what we all need to be saying is that we are not going to put pressure on an independent board to make a decision which might be the wrong decision; we are going to allow them to make the right decision. I think it is important that we are not seen to interfere with a board that is determining European tender in particular.

270

It is obvious that we have taken longer than the hon. Members opposite expected to be in different parties, because we have had the same question twice from the former independent 275 Member and Members of the party opposite. So it has clearly taken longer than they anticipated they were going to be apart when they put their questions together.

It has taken longer than we thought it was going to take, but it has to be done in a way that is not in any way interfered with. We cannot put pressure on the board to decide by next week, and I would have thought that the employees of the company – who have seen me quite regularly, have seen the Hon. Minister quite regularly and have my door open to them at any time – want us to make the right decision for this community and the right decision for them, and that means allowing the independent adjudicators of the tender to be able to reach the right decision.

Q341/2018
Lifeguarding service –
Privatisation

Clerk: Question 341. The Hon. T N Hammond.

285

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, further to Question 20/2018, does Government intend to privatise the lifeguarding services at our beaches?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

290

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, no, sir.

Q342-343/2018
Upper Rock –
Cleaning of Skywalk; safety of attractions

Clerk: Question 342. The Hon. T N Hammond.

295

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, what is the frequency of cleaning of the Skywalk, what methods are used to clean inaccessible areas, and who conducts the cleaning?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

300

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 343.

Clerk: Question 343. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

305

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: With the new and relatively new tourist attractions in the Upper Rock, like the Skywalk and the suspension bridge, is Government satisfied that the Upper Rock is generally safe for tourists; and if not, is it doing anything about this?

310

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

315 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the Skywalk is currently cleaned twice a day, mornings and evenings. The company carrying out twice-daily cleaning operations is Blastaway Ltd. The inaccessible areas are cleaned by Koala Ltd on an ad hoc basis using a rope access method, and this is carried out by trained personnel.

The Upper Rock is as safe as any other nature reserve or national park anywhere in the world with similar characteristics.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, can I ask the hon. Gentleman whether they have guards constantly at their suspension bridge in particular, or if there is a security measure there?

325 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker, the presence of the security at the suspension bridge is more related to vandalism than to safety. I think we have answered questions in relation to the safety of the suspension bridge and I think we have answered those points, but the security guard is present there more in relation to the potential of vandalising it rather than for safety reasons.

330 On some occasions – and people have been warned – when there are monkeys on the bridge it is best not to be there and sometimes the security guard will say, ‘Don’t cross it, there’s a monkey in the middle of the bridge,’ but other than that it is purely for reasons of preventing vandalism.

335 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, what I was trying to get to, if the hon. Gentleman might answer, is what are the times when the security guard is there.

And regarding the warnings about monkeys, is there signage? I do not personally go anywhere near it because I am scared of heights, so I would not know.

340 Also, is there a maximum weight or maximum number of people that the bridge can take, and is there something to stop more people than the maximum from getting in? I was given an example of one day when there were many tourists there, that it seemed a little overweight and that was my concern.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Who seemed overweight, the tourists?

345 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: The bridge was overladen with people.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, for some of the questions asked I would need to confirm the information. It is specific data which I would have recalled just after the bridge was built, but now I do not want to mislead the House in giving information.

350 Certainly it is a very robust structure. As far as the information that has come to me, we have never got anywhere near that being threatened in any way by excessive weight of users.

Again, the security officers are there ... I would again need to look exactly at the timings. There are occasions – for example, in high winds – where the bridge is actually closed off physically.

355 The kind of detail I am being asked is something that I would need notice of. I would be very happy either to answer a question again here or to respond to the hon. Member if she wishes to contact me directly. I would not like to rely on memory and possibly mislead this House.

360 Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, just with reference to the cleaning of the Skywalk and Koala’s ad hoc cleaning of the less accessible areas, the Skywalk is, of course, a new attraction heavily promoted and marketed of late and so it is, I hope, bringing people to see it – and of course there will be nothing more disappointing than arriving at the Skywalk and finding areas of it are dirty and therefore not transparent but opaque. Could the Minister indicate how often this ad hoc activity is occurring? I have been to the Skywalk and certainly in certain wind conditions, particularly Levante, it is almost on a daily basis that the under-surfaces are obscured and I assume it is the under-surfaces which are the most difficult to get to and therefore those that are the responsibility of Koala.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: I would not be able to answer in detail. We have a mechanism by which, when the staff feel that it needs this specialist cleaning, that is triggered off. I can again obtain the information. We obviously respond to complaints or if anybody seems to think that there is a need we will respond. But again I could not tell you now. Because it is ad hoc, I could not tell you like I could on the actual cleaning of the accessible surfaces that it is twice a day. I would again need to check that, but also reassure the hon. Member that if it is identified that there is a need, then that is done right away.

Hon. T N Hammond: And are inspections therefore carried out by the staff on a regular basis – and would that be daily, twice daily, more often – in order to indicate when such cleaning might be required?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: There are inspections carried out. Remember that we have security staff there on a permanent basis and they will report back, as well as the supervisors on the staff who do their daily rounds. So we do get regular feedback.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I have a couple of photos relating to the path to the new Skywalk, which shows some gaping holes in between some rocks leading to a cliff. So my question is: imagine the summer months when children and families ... How much of a responsibility does the Government have towards a nature reserve which can bring problems and fatalities, but how much is it the responsibility of a Government to deal with natural structures that could be dangerous?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, this is a question really of legal liability and where the Government might be considered to have liability in respect of areas of highway or not highway etc. We could say things to each other in the context of the debate that might result in a Government being found or not found liable in a subsequent case without having taken specific legal advice on the subject. In any event, in my view this is not the forum for that sort of debate as to potential liability.

I think that we all know the Upper Rock. It is our playground, our backyard. People who come from outside may not know it as well. They come to visit it, but it is clear that they are visiting an area of nature reserve maintained, insofar as it is possible to maintain it, as nature intended. Indeed, there are many who have pledged their lives to ensuring that that should be as much as nature intended it as possible.

So, if she will allow me to say that I think we should resist having a debate as to potential liability in hypothetical situations where things might happen, I think it is probably in the interests of our community that we should not progress to have a detailed discussion about potential areas of danger.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just coming back to the Skywalk, the Hon. Minister said that Koala had the contract to maintain and to clean the areas of the Skywalk that were inaccessible to ordinary, basically, cleaning methods. Is that contract a contract for a price annually, or does it depend, for example, on the number of times that Koala are called out in order to do the cleaning?

415 So, for example, and I am getting at this, if you have a contract whereby Koala are paid every time that they are called out – so it is incident specific, if I can call it that – then at certain times in the year there may be more reluctance by people there to call out Koala because it is an additional expense; whereas if it is just a contract – every year somebody is paid x amount and it does not matter how many times they are called out – then it is a different situation. I would like to see what type of contract in that regard we are dealing with.

420 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, again I would need notice. I will look into it. I believe it is actually – but again I believe, I cannot confirm – that it is related to the number of times they are called out, but I could be wrong and I would need to check that particular detail.

Hon. D A Feetham: I am grateful to the Minister.
425 Just a supplementary that piggybacks on to the question of the hon. Lady on the exchange that she had with the Chief Minister, I do visit the area occasionally – you cannot take dogs up there because of the monkeys, but I do visit the area occasionally. Obviously there are sheer drops. That is nature. We are talking about a road that effectively runs the course of the spine of the Rock at its very top, and it is very difficult to actually make it safe proof – it is impossible to 430 do so. But is the Government considering signages, for example, in relation to that? Signage is something that can, if we are considering questions of liability of the future – God forbid that there is an accident, at the very least everything is being done to warn people of the dangers that they will face in a nature reserve, obvious as he and I might say that they are?

435 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member is a neighbour to the Skywalk almost. I am trying to figure out which is the best way up there from his residence, but – (Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister) (Hon. D A Feetham: Charles V Wall) Mr Speaker, I will follow up on the Hon. Chief Minister's comment – if he is offering to use his specialised skills in cleaning it, we need to see whether it would be ad hoc or not.

440 The hon. Member will be aware – because he is on the Upper Rock certainly a lot more than the rest of us, for obvious reasons – that there has been a considerable improvement in the nature and extent of signage on the Upper Rock over the last few years. We are constantly reviewing signage and this is something that is very much on the cards.

Q344/2018
Nun's Well –
Plans to tidy site and display information

445 Clerk: Question 344. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Does Government have plans to restore Nun's Well, clear the debris and display appropriate signage and information about this historical site and potential location of interest for tourists?

450 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I wonder whether the hon. Lady was hiding behind a car when I was there a few 455 weeks ago actually dealing with this very matter, because the answer is yes.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, if I can ask a supplementary – I haven't been following you, by the way – would it be possible to repair the site to allow access to the spring below? There is a spring.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I said that because it was very current in my work agenda when this question came through – and I think I did look almost behind every car!

Yes, there are a number of phases planned, improving the area, removing the building which is a very new building and which is not in a very good state, introducing interpretation and seats, benches and so on. The next phase would be addressing access or at least visibility of the well underneath. There are a couple of ways in which this can be achieved and this is part of the work that we are looking at now.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am aware that a number of years ago the Heritage Trust held the lease for Nun's Well. Can the Minister confirm that the lease has now reverted to the Government?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, as far as I am aware, certainly since I have been Minister for Heritage, which is just over a year and a half, I do not believe it is with the Heritage Trust any longer. I have some recollection – but I am not even sure whether I was in Government at the time – that it used to be, but I think they did not want to renew it because they were not able to do whatever it is they planned to do. I am not sure when it happened but it is no longer with the Heritage Trust, of that I am pretty certain.

Q345/2018

Upper Rock Nature Reserve entrance fees – Arrears update Moneys due from debtor and action taken to recover

Clerk: Question 345. The Hon. L F Llamas.

480

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, further to Written Question 12/2018, can the Government provide details of moneys due by the debtor in respect of moneys due outside of the three-month credit period, together with the action being taken to recover these moneys?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, £73,195.40 is presently owed – or at the time of preparing the answer, which was probably last week. An agreement is presently in place whereby the moneys owed are recovered by means of regular instalments.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, by when is this agreement scheduled to end the payments and have the full moneys due fully paid?

495

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there will be a continuation of regular instalments because we must remember that as the moneys are paid more money is owed when more visitors are brought over, so this will not have a finishing date. I think we have mentioned this before. There will always be a time lag and when you have a peak of visitors then the debt will be higher than 500 when you have a trough of visitors. So this is not a finite thing and this will need to continue on an indefinite basis.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, surely it cannot be the case that a particular tour provider is being allowed to accrue such a level of debt which does fluctuate outside of the three month credit period – that is why there is a three month credit period where the money is due for the passengers and their tourists that have gone up to the Upper Rock are settled. If they are taking up the passengers, there is no reason why they should not be able to repay the moneys they have charged those passengers for taking them up.

510 For the Minister to suggest that this is an indefinite arrangement, then surely interest should be accrued in the same way as people have to get mortgages for £140,000 or £70,000 and have to pay interest. Is this something that the Government will actually look at in a bit more of a serious fashion?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the intention is to achieve – and we are much closer than we were, if you look at the figures – that the only money pending will be that which is due from recent visitors. That is what I am saying. So there will have to continue to be regular instalments to the payment – that is what I am saying. (Interjection) We are, I think, honing in on achieving that level within the next few months.

Q346/2018
Vacant teaching posts –
Update re any changes

Clerk: Question 346. The Hon. E J Reyes.

520

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, can the Minister for Education provide details in respect of any changes of vacant teaching posts since the answer provided to Question 219/2018, indicating the school/establishment where these changes may have occurred and from which dates?

525 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, there are no changes in respect of vacant teaching posts. However, I can update the House in that interviews for new entrants were conducted from 5th to 12th April and vacant TLR interviews ... in fact, this says 'will be held' but are actually currently being held. They started yesterday and they finish... if today is the 23rd, which I think it is, they finish tomorrow.

535 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, the Minister has indicated that interviews are taking place. Some took place in April and others are taking place now. Does he have any figures for the numbers of applicants, the numbers of interviews being involved?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: No, Mr Speaker. I would need notice of that question.

540 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, when the interview process is complete and so on, does he envisage the successful applicants taking post immediately or, given that at this stage we are in the current academic year, they will not be effective until the start of the 2018-19 year? It is a question of which academic year. The board surely must have some sort of indication of when the posts is tenable.

545

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, this will depend on a number of factors: it will depend on the actual posts; it will depend whether the vacancy is from somebody who is not there or somebody who is terminating at the end of the term; it will depend exactly when the Public Service Commission clears ... As the hon. Member will know, this can sometimes take a few weeks. So it is looking likely, the date that we are, that it could be that at least some of the posts will start in September, but I cannot answer that question without the facts and figures in front of me.

550

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, I know the interviews are taking place now. Is it in respect of one vacancy or a number of vacancies? Does he have an indication of that?

555

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there were a number of vacancies for new entrants and for TLRs which were advertised. There was a batch of quite a few some couple of months ago and the interviews are ... If they are going on for three days – and believe you me, they are long sessions – that means there are quite a number of applicants and there are a number of vacancies. I think we probably have advertised for all the ones that I mentioned last time with the exception of one or two that I pointed out were subject to review.

560

Q347/2018
School facilities used by the community –
Cancellations

Clerk: Question 347. The Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Education inform this House how many cancellations have been necessary at any of the facilities made available for community use since the answer provided to Question 220/2018, indicating the location, date and reason for the cancellation?

565

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

570

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Yes, Mr Speaker, these are the numbers of cancellations made since the answer provided to Question 220: Westside School on 18th and 19th April to accommodate their parents' evenings; Governor's Meadow School on 26th March so that they could set up for their school assembly.

575

Mr Speaker: Since this information is not of an urgent nature, does the hon. Member not think that he could perhaps defer that for six months in order to abide with the six-month rule? It is not urgent: whether he gets this information now or in three months' time does not make any difference. He is asking questions to which the answers, I know, are different, but it is the same question. In Question 220 he wanted to know cancellations, now he wants to know cancellations and these are the only ones that have occurred in the interim period. There is no reason why he cannot wait six months to get the information more globally.

580

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, Question 220 was posed because in a previous session of Parliament I had asked that specific question to the Minister for Sport, who in his reply told me that he did not maintain the records of the schools and therefore I should refer them to the Minister for Education.

590 There is a certain validity behind the suggestion Mr Speaker is offering me, but however because of my regular contact with the sporting fraternity, sometimes ... The reasons given today by the Hon. Minister are to do with parents' evening and preparing for the school assembly and are a one-off, one-day cancellation. There have been others that, due to certain remedial works needing to be undertaken, it has extended a long period of time, and if I wait six months it has gone beyond a period of time when I could ask the Minister what is the estimated date when this facility could be back in use.

595 I will bear Mr Speaker's suggestion in mind for next time. I hope as little disruption as possible will occur in the future, but given the Government's intentions to carry out certain refurbishment work within the schools and so on, it could well be that when the academic year starts again in September and we move on to the next season of allocation for community use, there may be extended or longer periods of time. It could be a particular area of community use.
600 Hypothetically, the pitch area towards the western part of Westside School, which hits the back of Governor's Meadow School, could have to be taken over by a contractor to store materials, as has happened, and other reasons. So I do not want to shoot myself in the foot and not be able to ask those questions.

605 As and when the sporting fraternity bring these matters to my attention, I will use a bit of common sense and judgement and, if need be, consult with Mr Speaker before posing the questions.

Mr Speaker: The only thing is that I wonder is the cancellation of facilities for community use for a parents' evening ... That is what the school is there for, to hold parents' evenings on a particular ... Is that a cancellation or is that a school using the facilities of the school for the purpose for which the school exists?
610

It seems superfluous to me, but anyhow, the hon. Member need not be afraid – he knows that I tend to be generally quite liberal with his questions.

Q348/2018
Scholarships –
Details of non-mandatory awards

615 Clerk: Question 348. The Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Education provide details of scholarships financed during the financial year 2017-18, other than mandatory awards, indicating the course being followed, the qualification to be attained upon successful completion, the institution delivering the course and the start and end dates of these courses?
620

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
625 Mr Speaker, I will hand over a schedule to the hon. Member which contains the information requested.

Q349-357/2018

New schools –

Location; contract; classrooms; total area; cost; teacher support; traffic; evacuation and collection points

Clerk: Question 349. The Hon. E J Reyes.

630 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, given the strong opposition expressed by the majority of the teaching profession in respect of the closeness of location of the two new co-educational secondary schools, is Government now reconsidering the sites where the new schools will be built?

635 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 350 to 357.

640 Clerk: Question 350. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, further to Q39/2018, can the Government advise the monetary value of the contract awarded to GJBS for the construction of Notre Dame School?

645 Clerk: Question 351. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: How many classrooms will the two new proposed comprehensive schools contain?

650 Clerk: Question 352. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: What will be the total constructed area in square metres of each of the two proposed new comprehensive schools?

655 Clerk: Question 353. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Does the price of £52 million, announced by the Government for the construction of the two new schools in the area of Waterport terraces, include all necessary internal fittings such as would render those schools fully functioning?

660 Clerk: Question 354. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, is the Government satisfied it has the support of the secondary education teaching fraternity in developing the two secondary schools as outlined in their plans?

665 Clerk: Question 355. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide an update to Question 711/2017?

670 Clerk: Question 356. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Further to Question 222/2018, can the Government update this House with the latest information relating to traffic assessments in connection to the new schools?

675 Clerk: Question 357. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, further to Question 229/2018, can the Government update this House with the latest information relating to the evacuation and collection points for the new schools?

680

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes):
685 Mr Speaker, the location is not being reconsidered and a contract has been awarded for the schools' design and build.

685

Some secondary school teachers from Westside have raised questions on the location of their new school and other aspects of the educational reform proposed, which the Chief Minister addressed yesterday at a meeting with them. The issues raised can be mitigated in full consultation with the professionals. We have no doubt that the staff in secondary education will be extremely happy with the finished product. Children will be delighted to see the facilities we will provide.

690

In relation to Notre Dame, in view of the fact that we will shortly be inviting proposals for similar schools, this information cannot yet be made public.

695

In answer to Question 351, 60 classrooms for Bayside and 60 classrooms for Westside.

In relation to the surface area, Bayside will have 23,623 m<sup>2</sup> and Westside 24,883.5 m<sup>2</sup>.

The provision of fixtures, fittings and equipment (FFE) as well as the provision ICT equipment are excluded from the contract awarded for the construction of the new schools at Waterport.

In relation to Question 355, there is no change to the stated position.

700

Discussions continue with the Ministry for Traffic.

In relation to Question 357, this matter is under consideration, as stated in my reply to a similar question at the last sitting.

705

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, specifically on Question 351, the Minister indicated that each of the two schools would have 60 classrooms. Is that figure of 60 inclusive or not inclusive of specialist rooms – for example, a science laboratory, or a kitchen in respect of home economics and so on?

710

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, that is exclusive of specialist rooms; that is basic classrooms.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, on my specific Question 349 the Minister said that the location is not being reconsidered and I believe he has now indicated that the Chief Minister met with the teaching fraternity yesterday, so more so in light of whatever may have happened or the exchanges with the Chief Minister yesterday.

715

I do not think there was any specific reply to Question 354, which I know pertains to Mr Llamas but he is asking is the Government satisfied it has the support of the secondary education teaching fraternity.

720

Hon Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, I think I did answer. I said that there were secondary school teachers, particularly in Westside, who have raised questions. I have said that the Chief Minister at the meeting yesterday, which I was very pleased to accompany him to, addressed these issues, that they will be mitigated in full consultation and that we have no doubt that at the end of the process the staff in secondary education – not just teachers but other staff in the education system – will be extremely happy.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, is the Government satisfied, given that they are still undergoing traffic assessments and evacuation and collection points for the schools, that the locations of these schools will not actually provide any issues moving forward, given that they are located in a difficult area of Gibraltar with cruise passenger traffic and things like that?

730

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Yes, Mr Speaker.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I can take the Minister to his answer to Question 350, which is following up on previous Question 39, for the Minister to say this cannot yet be public, and yet obviously the building is going up, GJBS has been awarded the contract ... He comes to this House and says this cannot yet be made public, and yet on 23rd April of this year the Government is happy to announce the cost of the construction of two comprehensive schools at £52,208,375. Could the Minister please explain to me what is the difference and why is it that he can announce the contract cost awarded to Casais but not to GJBS?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Absolutely, Mr Speaker. They are very different. Comprehensive schools and first schools are very different in their requirements, in their extent, in the number of specialist rooms. They are completely different animals and therefore you cannot compare and you cannot even calculate by approximation even ... Based on what we have stated quite openly and transparently on the cost of the construction of the comprehensive school, you cannot get the slightest inkling of how much a primary school would cost.

We are about to go out and look at awarding a contract on the next primary – middle school as opposed to first school, but it is more similar to a first school than it is to a comprehensive school – and shortly we will be having to deal with another first school which will be very similar in content, maybe not in layout, to the one that we have just awarded. If we go out to a competitive process, we have already said how much we are paying for this one. That might prejudice the issue and I would rather not give any hints to the people who are going to compete in order to be able to make the best use of taxpayers' money.

So they are very different and that is the explanation.

755

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I would accept the Minister's explanation if he were building standardised schools across a huge country, but I am sure each school will have its own design requirements and each school will have a different size, so we are not talking about standardised units of school. So I really do not follow his logic that he cannot explain or give information to this House about a contract that has obviously patently already been awarded and is under construction. These are not going to be modularised school units that are going to be rolled out across Gibraltar; each one is going to be different. So why can't he just give us the cost information for this one?

760

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, they are going to be different but the basic content will be very similar. The contractors would speak to each other and it is not in the interest of the taxpayer to reveal how much we are going to be spending on one school when we are about to put out a process of asking for bids for other schools which are not identical at all but similar. We think that this would not be in the best interests of obtaining a reasonable cost which is in the interest of the taxpayer.

770

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can I then ask the Minister: the contracts that he has ... well, certainly the one he has already awarded to GJBS and the ones he intends to seek tenders for, 775 do those include ICT fitting out and other fixtures and fittings which he obviously has not included for the comprehensives?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there is an allowance within that for fixtures and fittings, which has been allowed. So there is an allowance for it.

780 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Minister explain why the difference in procedure behind these schools and the comprehensives – as to why, obviously the comprehensives being a much more complex project, it did not include ICT and FFE?

785 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Precisely because of the complexity and precisely because it was felt that it was in the Government's interest to have a more direct ability to decide and determine, in consultation and within the Department of Education, what is required. It is a much more complex building that we felt was better treated in that way.

790 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, in which case, can I ask the Minister: how does he intend to deal with those aspects, given that he will then inherit a shell of a building? Does he intend to go out to separate tender on this, or is he going to be speaking effectively to the same contractor once he has made up his mind what he wants in the school?

795 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there will not be a shell of a building. This is a process that is concurrent. There is a process. There is a board, which I chair, which is leading on these projects. We have expertise which we can call on and there will be aspects that will have to be contracted out, absolutely, but this is all the work that is going to be undertaken. It is not that we are going to get an empty shell.

800 Hon. D A Feetham: Just related to these questions and related to the original question that I asked about what was actually included in the price of £52 million, can the Government confirm that when this went out to tender the original tender included things such as ICT and what the Government has done is ... subsequent to the tender actually going out, there has been a cutback in the amount that people have been asked to provide; hence why the price has actually 805 come down?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, when it went out to the competitive process the competitive bids came in for different elements. It was decided to not incorporate this in this tender, but that does not mean that the building will not be fully fitted as will be required. So that will be 810 done.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, but I am getting to a different point. If you go out to tender on one basis, in other words almost a turnkey operation – you are building the school, you are including all the equipment within it – a contractor comes back and he bids for that, but then after 815 tenders have closed there is a scaling back. When you compare, say for example, £52 million in relation to Casais, it may not be comparable to what other companies have actually bid because of course they are tendering for more to be included within the works that they are doing. That is what I am asking the Hon. Minister.

820 Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, there would have been an identical process regardless who the successful bidder would have been.

825 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I do not know whether it is helpful to the hon. Gentleman, but the prices are broken down between construction and the other elements, so you could easily compare the bit that you were deciding to proceed with, were precise on, to the bits that others had submitted for exactly the same works. So you were comparing like with like across the board.

830 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can I then ask the Chief Minister, in terms of the analysis he has obviously had on the tender, what was the amount that has now been excluded in respect of ICT and fixtures and fittings? How much is that going to cost?

835 Hon. Chief Minister: That is a question of which he should give specific notice.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one question on this, and hopefully a simple question that results in a simple answer from the Minister for Education. In the press release of 23rd April, the Chief Minister described this as an unprecedented investment in the education of our children. What I am asking is that when headmasters open these two schools on whatever day – the Day – will it cost us £52 million or will it cost us more? That is the simple answer. A fully functional school: does it cost us £52 million on the day of opening, or will it cost us any more?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Clearly, Mr Speaker, if the cost does not include fixtures and fittings there will be an additional element of fixtures and fittings. That is clear from your questioning. Even the questions you have asked made it clear that there will be provision for fixtures and fittings.

845

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, and it may well be £5 million, £10 million or £20 million, or whatever, but let me just draw the Minister's attention and, if I may, be granted a little bit of indulgence because I am going to quote square metre prices in terms of other projects and then I am going to ask the Hon. Minister a supplementary.

850

Here, based on the square metreage that the Hon. Minister has given me in answer to my question and based on the price of £52 million, this is going to cost just over £1,000 per m<sup>2</sup>. This is the price of this particular project, all right?

If you look at the Law Courts project – a complicated project; it is a complicated site – that was £3,000 per m<sup>2</sup>. If you look at the catering facility in St Bernard's Hospital, that was £5,000 per m<sup>2</sup>. If you look at St Bernard's School – again, more complicated, I agree, but still £7,000 per m<sup>2</sup>. If you look at the work on Loreto which was undertaken when we were in Government, £1,800 per m<sup>2</sup>. If you look at the Jewish School, which was work that was done in eight weeks, that was £2,000 per m<sup>2</sup>. Actually, low-cost housing is round about £1,200 to £1,300 per m<sup>2</sup>.

This looks pretty low per square metre in comparison – and I have come prepared because I have done my homework in terms of other Government projects that have taken place here in Gibraltar. Can the Minister say to this House that he really feels very confident that this is going to come in at just over £1,000 per m<sup>2</sup>?

865

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, yes, sir, and I expect that when it does come in at that price, or if it deviates because there is good reason during the course of the works to make a decision that changes the cost in some way which we do not anticipate, I expect the hon. Members will want to congratulate us for having been able to deliver a project which will be a magnificent – at last – new set of secondary schools for Gibraltar's children on price, on budget and on time.

870

And then it will be very helpful indeed that the hon. Gentleman has done the homework that he tells us he has done, although of course I never accept his figures and will go and check them myself because I will then be able to come back and say that our Government, eight years later, 875 has delivered those two new schools for much less than they were able to deliver some of the projects that he referred to.

Indeed, given that he has thrown down the gauntlet, I dare say that at £84 million the Airport cost £2,400 per m<sup>2</sup>. I think there is a demonstration there of the Government's ability to deliver for the right price, of the fact that we have delivered a contract price which is good for the taxpayer and which will be producing the product that we all expect for our children. I am not going to bother calculating what the Theatre Royal cost per square meter because that was £10 million and we do not have a theatre: I think that means it was £10 million for no square metres.

885 But in the context of what we are doing now, Mr Speaker, I think this is exactly the right way to be negotiating for the Gibraltar taxpayer to be getting the best possible deal and to deliver the best possible product for our children.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can I ask the Chief Minister if the Government is paying a premium – because of the haste at which this project is progressing – to have it completed by September 2019; and if perhaps he did not have such an ambitious timeframe, we could have got a better price for this project?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I really do not know whether the fracturing on the Opposition benches is worse than even I imagined, because we seem to have been told a moment ago that it was too cheap to be realistic, whilst the hon. Gentleman seems to be implying in the thrust of his question that it is too expensive because of the timescale.

895 There is, as far as we are concerned, no premium relating to the speed with which the project will be completed. If there were, it would be included in the per metre that the hon. Gentleman has indicated is already much lower than in some of the other projects that he referred to.

900 It would appear, for example, that there might have been a premium paid for the completion of the Law Courts, because I still remember people complaining about works going on late into the evening before the 2011 General Election.

It would appear there was a premium payable in respect of the completion of the Airport, because I remember being thrown off the side of the site – and I had to insist on my right to be there – whilst I was photographing works going on at midnight at Gibraltar Airport. Indeed, there were certificates granted after resolutions of this House to allow 24-hour working at the Airport, so I suppose that the huge cost of the existing terminal, which went up from £20 million to £84 million by the time of completion, includes an element of that premium.

910 But no, Mr Speaker, in the context of this contract price there is no premium being paid separately in order to ensure delivery of the schools in keeping with our manifesto commitments or indeed in order to achieve the timetable that hon. Members were chiding us and challenging us to achieve before they realised we could achieve it, at which moment they turned from chiding and challenging us to achieve it to telling us that we were going too fast and that we should slow down. You could not make it up.

915 I would say that they are trying to hunt with the hares and run with the hounds –

Hon. D A Feetham: I think it's the other way round!

920 Hon. Chief Minister: Or the other way round, run with the hares and hunt with the hounds. I am grateful to the hon. Gentleman for pointing that out, but I think it is more likely a case of trying to hunt with the wolves and run with the hounds, given the analogies that we have been given of how the alien resurrection we have before us has come about.

925 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I will probably be whistling in the wind before I get a straight answer from the Chief Minister, but does he not accept that having workers working on May Day, when they should be on holiday –?

Mr Speaker: No, that is totally irrelevant.

930 Hon. R M Clinton: Well, if you will let me finish what I am saying, Mr Speaker, you might see the relevance.

Mr Speaker: I will rule it out of order immediately.

935 Hon. R M Clinton: Well, fine, but let me finish.

Mr Speaker: If you insist, go on.

940 Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you. And having workers starting at eight o'clock in the morning in that area must indicate there is obviously a haste about the project – and that comes at a price.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Chief Minister does not have to answer that question if he does not want to.

945 Hon. Chief Minister: I am grateful, Mr Speaker.

Many people work on Mayday. Mayday is not a day when shops are required to close. Even though we declared it a bank holiday, when they were in Government they changed it from 1st May to any other bank holiday weekend. Indeed, there was work on bank holidays on many of the projects which they ran and there is work on bank holiday on many of the projects that we run.

950 I think it is important to point out to the hon. Gentleman – who has obviously never been on a construction site and never dirtied his Financial Times toting hands with bricks or cement or anything like that – that work on construction sites starts everywhere between seven and eight in the morning. It is a working day for a person who works on a construction site. That is not unusual. If that is what he thought we would pay extra for, he has got it completely wrong. He needs to go back and consult his textbook about what construction is all about.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can I alternate from my fellow wolf to my right and attempt to take a nibble out of the Chief Minister myself a little bit?

960 What the hon. Gentleman has said in answer to my previous supplementary and also the answer that he has given to the Hon. Mr Clinton as well just does not assuage my own concerns that £52 million is an under price for this particular project.

965 The Hon. the Chief Minister in answer to me said, 'But the Airport cost £2,400.' Actually, yes, absolutely. If you look at the comparators of Government projects, all the ones that I have cited, the ones that the Chief Minister has cited, they have never come in at £1,069 per m<sup>2</sup>. If you then add on top of that the point that has been made by the Hon. Mr Clinton, which is that there is undoubtedly a haste in relation to this particular project because the Government is going to want to deliver it within the 18 months that it said that it was going to deliver it – and we all know, and certainly I was very hands on in relation to the projects that I was involved in, we all know that if there is haste it comes at a premium, it comes at an increased price, and therefore this price of £52 million appears to us, or it certainly appears to me, to be a very unrealistic price. When you then add on to that the fact that today we have found out that this is not a turnkey operation, that this is effectively ... I am not going to describe it as the shell because I think that that would be a disservice to the Hon. Minister, but certainly it has got to be equipped 975 on the inside and that is going to cost also a significant amount of money, which I believe is probably going to be around the figure of £7 million or £8 million. But in any event, when you add all those factors, does he not agree with me that it is going to come back for the taxpayer at considerably more than just simply £1,069 per m<sup>2</sup>?

980 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, no, Mr Speaker, but –

Mr Speaker: Let me intervene here. We are now getting a debate. Questions have been asked: what is the area of the comprehensive school? We know from the press release issued by Government that £52 million is the cost and comparisons are being made about the cost, when 985 the GSD were in Government, of various projects and so on, and we are now getting a debate about whether the cost of £52 million is realistic or not.

This is not a matter for this House at this juncture. Question Time is about seeking information, it is about asking the Government to adopt certain policies, urging the Government to adopt certain courses of action. It is not about debating whether a tender price is realistic or 990 is not realistic. That is the expression of opinions and it becomes a debate.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I –?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, may I just deal with the points that the hon. Gentleman has 995 raised? I think it is important that I do because he has raised them and therefore I think this community deserves that I should address them.

It deserves that I should address them because this is the first time, I think, in the history of this Parliament that an Opposition has urged the Government to pay more for something, which is in effect what the hon. Gentleman is doing. (Hon. D A Feetham: No.) He is urging price 1000 inflation for all those who in future submit a tender or a competitive bid to the Government. That, Mr Speaker, is remarkably dangerous, in my view, and it is not in the interest of the taxpayer. It is an attempt to cover their own obvious shame at the huge cost that they paid for some of their projects.

If there was a particular contract in the history of Gibraltar that was granted at an under 1005 value, it is obviously the tunnel contract, which was granted at £30 million. You could not find a tunnel in the world, of the sorts of characteristics that we were dealing with here, that could be completed at that price. Result? What the Hon. the now back-in-the-fold Mr Bossino referred to when he was here as a then member of the then GSD – I really do not know what I am looking at now – was the golden legacy of the GSD. The golden legacy of the GSD was the litigation in 1010 respect of the tunnel under the runway, which cost millions. That was a contract awarded at an under value, not to say anything about the loan lost to OEM in respect of the projects that they were undertaking at Cumberland – all moneys lost and litigation incurred under the GSD.

But, Mr Speaker, we are talking about a company, in Casais, that has submitted a price to the Government in Gibraltar which the Government has accepted, based in particular of course on 1015 the track record of that company of delivering for Government and to private sector companies on price, on budget and on time. The hon. Gentleman seems to be ready to carve out the excuse for them not to complete on budget and on time and to return to the negotiating table and ask the Government for more, ask the taxpayer for more money. How are they representing the interests of the taxpayer in doing that? It makes absolutely no sense.

But I will tell him why it is that GJBS costs more in many projects. The men and women of Gibraltar Joinery and Building Services, who are of a company the shares of which are owned by the Government, whom we have the highest regard for, who do some of the best work that the Government undertakes, were subjected to the gift of a 16% pay rise after the election had been 1020 called in 2011, and in that way –

Mr Speaker: No, no. I must interrupt. This is getting completely out of hand and I am not going to have it, Chief Minister. I have given you an opportunity to reply. Reply, but within the parameters of the subject of the question, please.

1030 Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, I will tell you – with the greatest of respect, as usual – why this is in the context of the parameters of the question: because the hon. Member has used price per square metre of GJBS. That is why it is within the parameters of the question.

The price per square metre of GJBS is subjected to a 16% increase in the cost of direct labour to GJBS by the former Chief Minister turning up at the lot where GJBS do their business after the 1035 election had been called and announcing a 16% increase in salary. All of those things go to the bottom line of what it costs to use a particular company and all of those things have led to price inflation in this market. That is why this Government will fight for the best price for the taxpayer.

Hon. Members opposite should realise what they are doing. They should give some thought to what they have done today and the public should know that the Government will, despite 1040 that, resist any attempt by any contractor in Gibraltar to take the taxpayer for more than he should be paying for any project and we shall ensure that we always get the best value for money. And if there was ever any evidence of the fact that we do that, I want to thank the hon. Gentleman for the homework that he says he has done, which absolutely demonstrates it beyond peradventure.

1045 And, by the way, it is pronounced ‘assuage’.

Mr Speaker One last supplementary.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, just addressing the point and then we will move on.

1050 With respect to Mr Speaker and the point that Mr Speaker made earlier – and I just make this point because it may arise in the future – it is perfectly within the remit of an Opposition and the function of an Opposition within the context of Question and Answer sessions to hold the Government to account as to whether they are going to be able to keep to a particular price that they have announced for a particular project. Hence why I have come to this House today very 1055 well prepared in terms of comparables with other projects, and that is why I have asked –

Mr Speaker: The hon. Member knows perfectly well that with all of that information that he has he would not be allowed in any other parliament in Western Europe to do what he is doing today and for the Chief Minister then to engage in a debate. It would not happen during 1060 Question Time. That is clear. That is as clear as can be. I have seen footage of Winston Churchill being called to order during Question Time because he was introducing matters more appropriate to a debate. Hon. Members do it here very often, in spite of what I say. They get away with it – most of the time they get away with it; I allow them to get away with it most of the time.

1065 It has been a very simple question. The area of the two schools has been asked for and been confirmed, we know the cost, and what happens is that information is then used for a debate lasting nearly half an hour. I am not stopping hon. Members from debating: bring a motion and debate it. You are going to have an opportunity during the debate on the Estimates. Surely education is going to figure very prominently in that, so I am not depriving you. By all means 1070 raise the matter, but under Question Time you have to be specific.

You have been getting away with it for many years and, much as I have tried over the last five years, I do not think I am successful, particularly where the Chief Minister is concerned and where the Hon. Mr Daniel Feetham is concerned. You are the two who do it all the time. Now it is happening less because you are no longer Leader of the Opposition, but when you are here
1075 and when you intervene in the exchanges it happens once again – and I am getting a little bit tired, honestly, so –

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, can I –

1080 Mr Speaker: I will allow you a supplementary, I will allow the Chief Minister to answer – then we are moving on to the next question on the Agenda.

1085 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am not going to say he started it; (Laughter) what I wanted to say was that I think you are absolutely right and I did not want my intervention to seem that we were somehow challenging your ruling. We are not. My only concern is that once the hon. Member has been allowed to raise those issues it must be right that the Government must then be able to respond. Otherwise, we are left with the pregnant pause of issues put in question and the answer not being put.

1090 Mr Speaker: And I do allow you to –

Hon. Chief Minister: And I wanted to signify –

Mr Speaker: Generally you continue to act on each other symbiotically.

1095 Hon. Chief Minister: I wanted to just thank you for giving us the leeway to do that and to just say to hon. Members that we would welcome if they wanted to have a debate on the subject, if they want to put a motion on the subject – of course we would.

1100 We certainly agree with Mr Speaker that we sometimes are allowed on both sides much more leeway in respect of questions than would be the case in any other parliament, which is probably why, in the context of this Parliament, Question Time takes longer than motions and Bills for debate etc.

Mr Speaker: Do you have another supplementary – a relevant supplementary?

1105 Hon. D A Feetham: No, Mr Speaker. We can move on.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q358/2018
New secondary schools –
Compliance with EU law

Clerk: Question 358. The Hon. L F Llamas.

1110 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain why it has not complied with EU law when contracting for the new secondary schools?

1115 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, all principles and obligations of EU law and Gibraltar laws have been fully complied with when contracting for the new secondary schools.

1120 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, my understanding from a document circulated in this House – and from EU law, which I have also researched – is that any works contracted by Government exceeding £4 million should, and have to be subjected to an EU tender process in the same way as the Hon. Minister did for the public cleaning contract when that exceeded €134,000.

1125 Therefore, I am at a loss as to how the Hon. Minister can say that we are complying with EU directives but on the other hand it seems that we are not. Can the Hon. Minister please clarify that position?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, this contract has been procured through a Government company.

1130 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, could the Hon. Chief Minister please expand on how that works? Obviously Casais is not a Government-owned company, so if the Hon. Chief Minister could explain the process that has led to this contract being allocated.

1135 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have not told him that Casais is a Government company; I have told him that the contract has been procured through a Government company.

Hon. L F Llamas: So could the Hon. Chief Minister explain the process: which Government-owned company procured the contract and how that process was derived?

1140 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I do not think that arises. The simple principle is that the EU procurement rules do not apply to procurement by Government companies. It is something that was established at the time that hon. Members were in office. In fact, I have the opinion that was left behind by them telling us exactly that.

1145 Hon. L F Llamas: So, on that basis, Mr Speaker, how does the Government justify not using the same loophole with the public service contract that they say that the contract did have to go out to the EU tender process?

1150 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, it is not a loophole, Mr Speaker; it is a straightforward different type of contract. One is the Government contract for cleaning and this is a contract through a Government company that is going to own the property when it is built.

So it is not a question of loopholes; it is a question of correctly applying EU law in the proper way in the context of each of the particular instances that we are dealing with.

1155 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, the Chief Minister has just said something which has sparked my interest, and that is that the Government-owned company will own the building on the land. Would the Chief Minister be willing to ...? I guess he is going to say the question does not arise. He is not willing to disclose the name of the company that has been doing the procurement, but 1160 if I came to this House with a question, would he be willing to give an answer as to which company is doing the procurement and what land it owns, in terms of our schools?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I do not have that information here with me and it does not arise from the question.

1165 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q359/2018
Portakabin classrooms –
Number and location

Clerk: Question 359. The Hon. L F Llamas.

1170 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, since December 2011, can the Government provide for each academic year how many classrooms are being conducted in portakabins and the schools they relate to?

1175 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the number of classes conducted in portakabins since December 2011 is as follows. Gibraltar College: two classroom portakabins that have been used continuously since December 2011.

1180 St Martin's Special School: two classroom portakabins, ground floor installed in August 2016 and first floor in August 2017 and in use since installation.

1185 Bishop Fitzgerald School: four classroom portakabins and one small soft room portakabin. Three portakabins predate December 2011 and have been in use continuously since they were installed. The soft room portakabin was installed in August 2016 and is used as and when needed by the Learning Support Facilities Unit. The fourth portakabin classroom was installed in August 2017 and has been in use since installation.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q360/2018
Special Educational Needs –
Support for students into adulthood

1190 Clerk: Question 360. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide an updated schedule to table ED8, together with details on the policy and work being deployed to support these pupils into adulthood?

1195 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, the next update for this table is expected in July.

1200 Pupils with SEN are supported in our schools in a variety of ways. The curriculum in our schools allows these students to develop life skills that are important for them as they move into adulthood. Pupils receive career advice and additional work placement opportunities to allow them to develop skills that make them employable young adults. Pupils are carefully transitioned from the secondary school environment to the Gibraltar College, making use of familiarisation visits. Additionally, students at St Martin's are transitioned to St Bernadette's or 1205 into employment.

Q361/2018
Pupils attending schools –
Updated schedule

Clerk: Question 361. The Hon. L F Llamas.

1210 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide updated schedules, for the academic years 2012-13, 2013-14, 2014-15, 2015-16, 2016-17 and 2017-18, of pupils attending schools in the same format and detail as it provided in tables labelled ED9, ED10, ED11, ED14 during the 2011 publication of statistics on the Government website?

1215 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education.

1220 Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, I have handed over a schedule containing the information requested for ED9/10/11 for the academic years 2012-13 to 2017-18. The schedule additionally contains the information on ED14 for 2017-18.

There has been a change in the way that the data from ED9/10/11 has been processed within that timeframe. However, the hon. Member will see that the schedule provided gives him the snapshot of information that he would have obtained from ED9/10/11.

Mr Speaker, I have no doubt that this will take a little bit of time to digest.

1230 Mr Speaker: I believe the Hon. Mr Reyes has some supplementaries arising from the schedule to Question 328.

Hon. E J Reyes: Yes, Mr Speaker. Thank you for that.

1235 Can I bring the Minister back to his answer on Question 348. I think it is a typographical error which the Minister might be able to update us with. Because the courses are listed in alphabetical order, it is easier for him to refer to the one I am referring to. There are three references being made to courses under the heading 'Graduate Diploma in Law'. The first one is BPP Law School, the second one is BPP University, London, and the third one has no institution identified. That could perhaps could just be a typographical error which the Minister can correct at some stage, so that it goes down correctly in Hansard.

1240 Likewise, on the following page, under a course entitled 'Postgraduate Certificate Mental Health & Substance Abuse', it says 'Post Grad Cert.' and no idea of the institution offering the course. Again, it just could be a simple error.

Other than those typographical figures, may I please ask the Minister, Mr Speaker ...? He may recall – I think it was probably sometime around Christmas – when I first started on a question similar to this, and I have even spoken behind the Speaker's Chair with the Minister on this issue. In respect of non-mandatory courses, there seems to have been a course that has been financed, hence the wording on my question was 'details of scholarships financed during the financial year'.

1250 There is a student who I believe is still of compulsory school age, who is being financed undertaking some sort of dance-related course – I believe it is in Canada – and it does not appear in the schedule. I know it cannot be a mandatory, so it must be non-mandatory. My question referred to other mandatory there. The Minister at some stage was trying to get the information. It does not appear here. Perhaps he has information – I even accept if he has to give it to me behind the Speaker's Chair, but I cannot let the occasion pass because then I will be stuck for six months before being able to pose anything similar.

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Mr Speaker, the Hon. Member knows and will accept that he does not have to wait six months to get an answer from me directly.

1260 On the two gaps in the table, it can only be that it is a typographical error, or maybe there is some information still missing, but I will endeavour to answer him very quickly.

The last time I asked on that particular student he was referring to, the reply I got was that that was actually not being financed at the time, so I can only assume that it still is not being financed. But I know the case he is referring to and I will ask again.

1265 Hon. E J Reyes: Because of my cordial relationship with the Minister, I accept for the record that at this particular stage he has got no teachers who are being financed. Does the Minister agree that as and when he gets an update and full confirmation, if it is being financed? It could be and he may have to point me in the direction if it is not being financed from an educational grant and from somewhere else. But if we can get to it, then it settles the matter in an amicable manner.

1270 Mr Speaker, can the Minister commit himself to continue co-operating with me on that issue?

Hon. Dr J E Cortes: Most certainly, Mr Speaker.

1275

Mr Speaker: Any supplementaries arising from the schedule to Question 361?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, can I just make a point, because I think it is an important one?

1280 In the same way as in other parliaments we do not see supplementaries of the sort that we see here descending into debate, in other parliaments people who receive an answer which is statistical, if they wish to ask for that statistical information orally they are then required to ask a supplementary or they ask another question later.

1285 It is another indulgence of the Chair – for which we are all grateful, depending on what side we are sitting on – that people in this Parliament are able to look over the statistical information provided to them and come back later to ask a supplementary out of order. I think it should be recorded for the purposes of Hansard that this is an additional indulgence that we enjoy when we are Members of the Opposition in this Parliament. It would be unfair not to also have that clearly provided for. (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham)

Mr Speaker: Hon. Member, we did some research at the time of the Commission on Parliamentary Democracy. In most parliaments within the Commonwealth there are time limits to Question Time – an hour and a half, two hours, perhaps two or three times a week. There is a guillotine as well.

1295 And as for the number of supplementaries, well ...! If you look at the Hansard here you will find that Ministers are also to blame because they may answer a supplementary with four or five pages. That does not happen anywhere. It is something that has developed here in this Parliament and to the extent that sometimes that is necessary and may be relevant I do not have any problem. Where I do have a problem is when Members extend those exchanges and 1300 effectively we get a debate which last 20 or 25 minutes. That, I think, is an abuse of Question Time.

Having said that, I think this is, because it is the end of questions on education, a very convenient moment to have a short break of 15 or 20 minutes. We shall have now a short recess.

The House recessed at 4.45 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 5.11 p.m.

CULTURE, THE MEDIA, YOUTH AND SPORT

Q362/2018

Victoria Stadium –
Lease payments

1305

Clerk: We resume with Question 362. The Hon. E J Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, further to the answer provided to Question 103/2018, can the Minister for Sports update this House with details of payments made by the Gibraltar Football Association in respect of the facilities which they lease at Victoria Stadium and which the 1310 Minister stated would be paid within the 2017-18 financial year?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, a payment of £10 million was made by the Gibraltar Football Association during the last financial year 1315 2017-18, as stated in my answer to Question 103/2018.

Hon. E J Reyes: If I recall, the Minister has previously stated the balance of the price was to be paid. Can he update this House on the timespan in which they have to pay now I think it is 1320 another £6 million, or something like that?

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, as I have stated publicly before, the payments were to be to two instalments of £5 million in the financial year 2017-18 – i.e. they did pay the £10 million in one go – and the balance, which is £6.5 million, will be paid in the current year, the 2018-19 1325 financial year.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

1330 I am grateful to the Minister for his answer. Can the Minister advise the House if a sale agreement has been signed?

Hon. S E Linares: As I understand it, not yet.

1335 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can I ask the Minister, then, on what basis was the £10 million paid to the Government?

1340 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, this was done on the basis of a development licence. Because the GFA are now developing the area, they will be given a development licence and it will follow all the leases, and all the other documentation will also follow. So they have got a development licence.

1345 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, the £16½ million – the Minister may correct me – is the total purchase price for the stadium, of which the Minister has just advised the House £10 million is by way of development licence. In terms of stamp duty, has any stamp duty been paid in that £10 million, or will it be paid on final signing of the contract on the full £16½ million?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I understand the position is that the full amount of the stamp duty is paid on completion of the conveyance, which is at the end of the process, when the lease is entered into.

Q363/2018

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority – Update re vacant post

1350 Clerk: Question 363. The Hon. E J Reyes.

1355 Hon. E J Reyes: Further to the answer provided to Question 202/2018, can the Minister for Sport update this House in respect of the Grade 9 (Administrative Assistant) post which was vacant within the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority and being covered temporarily by a supply worker via S & K Recruitment?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

1360 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the post continues to be covered by a supply worker via S & K Recruitment. Government is working with the relevant unions to address how to agree to fill any vacant post permanently.

1365 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, the Minister has mentioned the unions in plural. That post probably pertained to one particular union as far as their union rights, but perhaps he can expand a bit more just to avoid my further doubts for future questions.

1370 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, some of the SLOs and some of the workers down below – I mean down below physically, not as in post – have changed unions. They are split into which union they belong to, so it will depend on which union. For example, this is an administrative post. I would suggest that it is the GGCA in bulk, but some of them have changed unions and therefore there is a bit of discrepancy and that is why I said ‘unions’ in plural.

1375 Hon. E J Reyes: But in previous questions, Mr Speaker, the Minister had told us that for some time he had been in discussions with the union – I interpreted it at the time to be one – in respect of what the staffing levels should be at GSLA and so on, and my interpretation was that that had been concluded, hence why certain posts came out. Am I right in saying that this is just the only issue left pending? But the other bulk review of the established posts, is that certainly settled, or are we back at the negotiating table with that?

1380 Hon. S E Linares: No, Mr Speaker. What I would like to remind the hon. Member is that any authority or agency that was set up by the previous administration does not have fixed manning levels, and therefore because there are not fixed manning levels we can then say whether we need it; that is the discussion that we have. And I insist on unions because it is to do with how many people we need on the administrative side or how many people we need on the industrial side.

Q364/2018

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority –
Pool operative/lifeguard posts

1385 Clerk: Question 364. The Hon. E J Reyes.

1390 Hon. E J Reyes: Further to the answer provided to Question 203/2018, can the Minister for Sports update this House in respect of the five staff vacancies for pool operative/lifeguard which are currently waiting to be filled on a substantive basis within the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority, indicating the start dates of employment in respect of the successful applicants?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

1395 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, all vacancies were filled, with the successful applicants starting employment on 1st April 2018.

As a result of the completion of this recruitment process, we have now addressed the historical staff shortages at the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority Swimming Pool Complex. In addition, it has also facilitated the opening of the facility seven days a week, offering an enhanced service to the general public.

1400 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q365/2018

Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority –
Cancellations

Clerk: Question 365. The Hon. E J Reyes.

1405 Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Sports inform this House how many cancellations have been necessary at any of the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority's facilities since the answer provided to Question 204/2018, indicating the location, date and reason for the cancellation?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

1410 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the following cancellations were necessary at the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority facilities since the answer provided to Question 204/2018.

Victoria Sports Hall – Tuesday, 10th April 2018 – water ingress.

1415 Accessible Swimming Pool – Thursday, 12th April to Friday, 13th April for a period of 24 hours; and from Thursday, 26th April to Friday, 27th April for a period of 24 hours. Both these occasions were due to human faecal incidents.

1420 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, in previous questions the Minister has provided a schedule of the cost of repair works to some facilities, including the sports hall, due to water ingress and so on. Is the Minister now in a position to say he is satisfied, save for minor discrepancies, that we seem to have tackled the bulk of the problem of the water ingress at the sports hall? It unfortunately keeps reoccurring. Neither he nor anyone at the stadium is to blame for the weather, but it certainly hinders the training purposes of the sportsmen, and more so when young children are involved and it does cause great disruption to parents.

1425 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, I am glad to say that the sports hall will soon not be the property of the Authority anyway, but we are satisfied at this time that we are trying to address the water ingress.

1430 The hon. Member alludes to the weather, but even leaving a window just slightly open will have water ingress. The roofs have been constantly maintained and looked after as best can be with a building that is now getting pretty old, but we will try and mitigate it as best we can. It is just one of those things that every time we fix it – and we are fixing it and we maintain it – there seems to be water coming in from parts that probably were not coming in before.

Q366/2018

Victoria stadium floodlights – Cost of power supply upgrade

Clerk: Question 366. The Hon. E J Reyes.

1435 Hon. E J Reyes: Further to the answer provided to Question 206 /2018, can the Minister for Sports provide details in respect of the cost for the supply and installation of a new switch fuse for the East Side pylons deemed necessary in order to up the power supply and cater for the floodlights to work at full capacity?

1440 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

1445 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the cost of this upgrade was met by the Gibraltar Football Association directly. Therefore, I cannot provide specific details of the cost of these works.

Hon. E J Reyes: I am glad to hear that, Mr Speaker, because last time obviously the Minister was not aware of what the costs were and so on. That seems to be good news and it may even pre-empt a bit the next question, but I will wait patiently before we table Question 367.

Q367/2018
Victoria Stadium floodlights –
Responsibility for maintenance

Clerk: Question 367. The Hon. E J Reyes.

1450

Hon. E J Reyes: The question proper, Mr Speaker: further to the answer provided to Question 206/2018, can the Minister for Sports now say where does the responsibility for maintenance of the floodlights at Victoria Stadium lie in the future?

1455

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I find I could have answered these questions both together, but never mind.

1460

For the time being, the day to day maintenance contract remains with the Gibraltar Sports and Leisure Authority, with all major capital expenses met by the Gibraltar Football Association.

In future, all maintenance of what has become the Gibraltar Football Association's footprint will be dealt with directly by the Gibraltar Football Association.

1465

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, I think I understand that, but, let me clarify, in the last part he said that eventually, we are going to lead that all maintenance will be done by the GFA – so that means that the day to day running will not therefore fall under the GSLA; or is he just referring to the capital expenditure side? I am not entirely clear, so I would rather clarify it now.

1470

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, once the stadium – or the footprint of the Victoria Stadium part of the GFA – becomes completely part of the GFA, it will be up to the GFA how they will manage that.

The Sports and Leisure Authority now are managing it on a day to day basis while the transition period is ongoing, and then after that it will be up to the GFA how they wish to manage that.

1475

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q368/2018
Cultural grants –
Details of awards

Clerk: Question 368. The Hon. E J Reyes.

1480

Hon. E J Reyes: Can the Minister for Culture provide updated consolidated details of all cultural grants awarded during the 2017-18 financial year?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

1485

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I now hand over to the hon. Member opposite updated consolidated details of all cultural grants awarded during the 2017-18 financial year.

Hon. S E Linares: I take this opportunity to remind the hon. Member that updated information is posted on the HMGoG website and I believe it will also be on the culture.gi website.

1490 Mr Speaker, if I also could say to the Hon. Member that if he does have questions related to the whole schedule, I am willing to discuss it with him.

Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, the one that sticks out, and it may be worth ... so that the taxpayer knows, is the fifth one down, the Gibraltar National Dance Organisation. I am not 1495 disputing the sum of £11,700, but that is in respect of International Dance Organisation affiliation fees/dance workshops. Is the affiliation fee per se a huge amount, or was it considered a worthwhile investment to forward the bulk of the money? By putting those two things together which are not workshop related and nothing to do with affiliation – it would be nice for the performing fraternity to know what are the affiliation fees and hence deduce what the 1500 workshops investment was.

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, unfortunately, I have not got those details, but I am willing to pass it over or at least give the hon. Member all the details that are appertaining to that.

1505 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q370/2018

Queen's Hotel and Cinema site – Confirmation of sale

Clerk: Question 370. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise if it has sold the Queen's Hotel and Queen's Cinema site?

1530 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, no, sir.

Q371/2018

Europa Point university accommodation –
Cost of construction

Clerk: Question 371. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1535 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, further to Question 107/2018, can the Government advise what is the total monetary value of the contract awarded to Casais for the construction of the University accommodation block at Europa Point?

1540 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, the answer to this question is presently commercially sensitive. The information requested will be disclosed to the hon. Member opposite outside this session of the Parliament on a confidential basis.

1545 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I appreciate the Minister's offer to share this information with me privately. Unfortunately, I will not be able to take him up on that offer, in that I am here to ask questions publicly.

1550 I would ask him to explain to this House why this particular contract with Casais is commercially sensitive and yet the contract for the comprehensives is not, which is in a quantum of fifty-odd million, and yet this contract is commercially sensitive. Could he explain to this House the difference in position that he is adopting?

1555 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Well, Mr Speaker, because the hon. Gentleman might have realised that we are all about to go into the market to tender or go into competitive process for other residential accommodation, whilst we do not expect to be tendering or going into a competitive process of procurement for other comprehensives for many generations from now.

1560 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I must confess I am not aware what other residential projects the Chief Minister is referring to, other than of course affordable housing, but he will of course appreciate the distinction between an accommodation block for what I believe the Minister referred to ... about 147 rooms for an accommodation block cannot be compared to affordable housing schemes that the Government will do for the people of Gibraltar.

1565 I just really would like an answer from the Minister, since this contract is self-evidently underway and is obviously costing us, the taxpayer money, as to what exactly it is that is so commercially sensitive about this particular project.

1570 Hon. Chief Minister: It is exactly what I have told the hon. Gentleman, Mr Speaker, because there is no difference between residential accommodation and the cost of it based on the size of the internal layout of the rooms or apartments provided. We have had an analysis of cost per square metre and just how much things used to cost before and how much less they cost now as a result of us pursuing a commercially sensitive and sensible approach. We are not wanting to give away what one costs in order to be able to ensure that we achieve that or better pricing in respect of others in the future.

1575 We think this is in the best interest of the taxpayer and we are here to look after the interests of the taxpayer, to deliver the best value for money and to ensure that the affordable housing that we provide for our people is delivered at the most affordable prices so that we do not have to do what hon. Members did when they were in Government, which was to sell as much as possible to those who were prepared to buy 100%. We want to be able to have a policy, as we did last time, of selling to those who are in most need, whether they can buy 50% or they can buy 100%, and that means being keen on the price at which these properties are offered for sale, which means being keen in the way that we procure the properties as they are built.

1580 For that reason, Mr Speaker, I think we have explained very fully what we consider to be the commercial sensitivity. The hon. Gentleman may or may not agree, but that is not going to change the Government's position on why at this stage – not for good, but at this stage – we do not think it is in the interest of the taxpayer to disclose the price.

1585 We have had instances in the past where we have said, 'Look, at this stage we cannot release the price in respect of this particular building that is going up, because we are still negotiating parts of it or we are trying to deal with similar contracts,' but we have subsequently provided the cost. One of those is the magnificent multi-story car park at Midtown, where some people wish that they had bought parking spaces and regret that they did not, and other similar facilities. The price has been made available as soon as that sensitivity disappears, but it is our obligation to make these judgements, it is our obligation to look after taxpayers' money and I think we do a magnificent job of doing so.

1595 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may, just one supplementary on this. If the Chief Minister recalls last time we debated – (Interjection) Oh, we shouldn't use the word 'debate'; I apologise, Mr Speaker. Last time we asked about the accommodation block he did mention – I did ask in the supplementary questions – about the financing for this particular project, and he said in 1600 answer that he had not yet made up his mind or they were exploring options. Can the Chief Minister share with this House now what the result of that process is and whether he can now share with his House how exactly this accommodation block is to be financed – whether it is by the Government through the Improvement & Development Fund or through a private vehicle?

1605 Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, I am not comfortable doing that because, first of all, I did not have notice of the question and I do not want to say something that might not be entirely accurate; and second, because we are in the process of finalising our negotiation in respect of one the option that we did choose. Therefore, when we finish the negotiation it will be possible to say more but not at this stage.

1610 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I?

Mr Speaker: Yes.

1615 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the Government's role is undoubtedly to make sure that it gets the best deal for the taxpayer. Our role, as an Opposition, is to make sure that we hold the Government to account to ensure that it gets the best deal for the taxpayer.

1620 Can I ask a question designed to drill down in terms of the comparison that he has chosen to deploy in answer to the question from Mr Clinton. It was the Minister who said, 'I cannot give you the answer – it's commercially sensitive because we are now undertaking other projects for the low-cost housing etc.' But are we really dealing with apartments when we are talking about this particular block? Are we not talking about something akin to halls of residence, and therefore really it is not comparable? I may be wrong, and I would like an answer.

Hon. Chief Minister: The hon. Gentleman is wrong.

1625 Hon. D A Feetham: So we are talking, then, of apartments? This is what is being built here? Or are we talking about rooms that may have a kitchenette, for example, or a bathroom, which is what you would expect to see in some halls of residence? Not sure about the kitchenette, but certainly a bathroom.

1630 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, most apartments have kitchens. The size of them is not relevant in terms of the cost because what you are talking about is putting in the facilities for drainage and running water and a cable to power a hob or an oven. Then what you choose to put in it is down to the individual who purchases the property. Most apartments have showers and toilets, and so those are the costs that are incurred. You might have some apartments that have two sets of bathrooms, but most of them have one kitchen and so the cost is not necessarily different when you are looking at per square meter – it is residential accommodation. And so, Mr Speaker, that is why we have made the determination that there is an element of sensitivity here and why we want to be able to keep our powder dry in the context of negotiation.

1640 As he has himself analysed, we seem to be driving so good a bargain for the taxpayer that even he cannot believe the numbers that we are achieving in terms of costs. We want to continue doing that, to be able to drive the cost of residential accommodation affordable housing for our people down whilst keeping the quality up. That is why we are not at this stage wanting to give the price out. We are ready to give the price out at the right moment when that sensitivity has gone away, and then they can tell us whether they think we have done a good job or not.

1645 Given the exercise that he has done, which is now mercifully set out in Hansard for posterity, we will be able to judge the numbers that we achieve against the benchmark that he has set 1650 through the homework that he has done today, and I estimate that we will do very well indeed, given our approach, and that young people in our community will be very happy to see that we are driving cost down while keeping quality up in the offer that we make to them of affordable housing in the future.

Q372/2018
Island Games 2019 –
Visitors

Clerk: Question 372. The Hon. D A Feetham.

1655 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain its plans to cater for visitors to Gibraltar for the forthcoming Island Games?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

1660 Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, neither HM Government nor the Island Games Association will be responsible for visitors coming to the Island Games in July 2019.

1665 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, with respect to the hon. Gentleman, that is a very churlish answer indeed. If you stage a games within a city, be it Island Games, the Commonwealth Games, the Olympic Games or whatever games, you would expect that there is an analysis of whether you are going to be able to cater for visitors coming to the jurisdiction. Is the Hon. Minister saying that the Government has not done that analysis?

1670 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, not for visitors, and I will explain to the hon. Member the difference.

1675 Visitors are people who come to visit and see Gibraltar. For the Island Games these are athletes, coaches and officials who are coming to participate in the Island Games. If the hon. Member wants all the details of what we are going to do for the participants and not visitors, I can give it to him, and this is the information I have. It is up to him whether he wants to listen to that, but there is a vast difference between somebody coming to visit Gibraltar as a tourist and somebody who comes to Gibraltar as a participant. (Interjections)

1680 Hon. E J Phillips: It's absurd!

1685 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I ask the Chief Minister to provide me with a coherent answer, because quite frankly that is not a coherent answer. (Interjections) Well, it isn't; plainly it isn't. If I ask can it explain how it is going to cater for visitors to Gibraltar for the forthcoming Island Games, does he really think that when I draft these questions I am thinking about visitors going to the Upper Rock to view the monkeys or to use the facilities that we were discussing a few moments ago? Of course not! I am talking about visitors who come to Gibraltar for the purpose of the Island Games and I am asking the Minister whether the Government has conducted an analysis of that so that, in terms of numbers, we know whether there is sufficient accommodation, for example, to cater for those people. It is a very simple question and the Hon. Minister I am surprised did not understand it first time round.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): I am delighted to rise to assist, Mr Speaker. I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer given a few moments ago.

1695 Hon. D A Feetham: Has the Government conducted any kind of analysis as to how many people are going to come to Gibraltar during the time that the Island Games are on show here in Gibraltar for the purposes of the Island Games?

1700 Hon. S E Linares: Yes, Mr Speaker, we have, actually, and we have worked very hard. The Accommodation Committee has worked extremely hard to make sure that 2,500 participants will have accommodation in Gibraltar. I will give him even the breakdowns of how we have worked all this out.

1705 We envisage 2,500 participants and an Accommodation Committee was set up over a year ago to look into how and where the visitors, i.e. the participants – we say the visitors and participants – would be accommodated. Of the athletes, coaches and officials who will be staying, 756 will be staying in hotels, 1,146 will be staying in the Europa housing estate, 300 will be staying in Trafalgar Heights flats and 450 in the wonderful student accommodation which we are building. Therefore, the total number is 2,652, so we have a leeway of 152.

1710 Hon. D A Feetham: Thank you very much for that answer to my question. Over and above the participants, does the Government expect anybody to come to Gibraltar in order to view the Island Games? And if so, how many does the Government expect to come to Gibraltar as non-participants to view the Island Games and to enjoy what are likely to be magnificent Games, I am sure – they are organising it and everything that they do is absolutely magnificent.

1715 Several Members: Hear, hear.

Hon. S E Linares: I am sure the hon. Member, when he says – 1720 Hon. D A Feetham: They keep changing their minds on that side! These days!

Hon. S E Linares: I am sure when the hon. Member says ‘they are’ it includes me, because I am also included. He says ‘they’ as if I did not exist. But never mind, Mr Speaker.

1725 There are more beds in hotels. We are not actually taking all the beds in every single hotel. I insist we will not be responsible for any family or friends who might want to come to the Games. There is still capacity in hotels, where the family and friends could stay, but we are not responsible for where they stay; they can stay anywhere they want, but all the athletes and participants ...

1730 It is important for the hon. Member to understand that the difference is that when you host an Island Games all the participants have to stay within the Island. Although Gibraltar is not an Island, we are considered to be an Island and therefore we have got to make sure that if 2,500 athletes, coaches and participants come we will have places for them. But we are not responsible for any family or friends that come. They will then have to look at their own accommodation.

1735 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, thank you very much for that.

1740 May I start by apologising to the Hon. Minister: when I referred to ‘they’, obviously I did include him; I did not mean to offend him. There is no need for him to resign from the Government benches as a consequence of my question. I have had enough resignations to last me a lifetime, I have to tell the Hon. Minister, (Laughter) so please do not resign because of anything that I have said or asked him during the course of today. That I, please, ask you.

(Interjection by Hon. Chief Minister)

1745 But, Mr Speaker, I must insist. Is the Hon. Minister saying – because that is what it appears as, and I am just getting one more opportunity ... Is he really saying that the Government is organising an Island Games and it has not even undertaken a study as to how many people – non-participants, okay, let's be clear about this – are going to be visiting Gibraltar at the time of the Games in order to view those magnificent Games and as to whether Gibraltar can actually cater for those people? That is what it appears that he is really saying.

1750 Hon. S E Linares: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not intend to resign. I am very happy with my friends, and therefore because I am happy in this Government as opposed to people that resign on the other side willy-nilly – as in any little issue they go and resign – I am not willing to resign. I am going to stay put. (Hon. Chief Minister: Hear, hear.) (Banging on desk)

1755 Mr Speaker, it is obvious that the hon. Member does not understand the difference. I insist that there is a difference. Of course we have made an analysis of how many people possibly will come with each team. In fact, I can go even further: that when a team like Jersey, Guernsey, Isle of Man – 28 of them; I am not going to mention them all. We asked them, 'How many athletes are coming? How many officials are coming? How many coaches are coming? Those we will accommodate. And can you please also tell us if you have any indication of how many people 1760 will come?' Mr Speaker, you cannot for the life of me know how many exactly are going to come, and that is why we have left extra capacity in hotels, where the people who come can take up those hotels. I will give you an example. In the Rock Hotel, for example, we have not taken the whole of the hotel; we are taking part of the hotel. There will be a team staying in that hotel and therefore the people who come with them might want to take those extra rooms that 1765 are available. So that is the explanation.

And one other thing that I do not like saying: they could well stay in La Línea and around here. Why not? But the athletes, coaches and the officials will be staying in Gibraltar. That is the explanation.

1770 We have done an analysis of how many people might be coming to Gibraltar. That is why we have not got all the hotel beds, because if not we would have got all the hotel beds full and not put them in the Village, for example. That is the answer to the hon. Member.

1775 Hon. D A Feetham: Okay, so he says that he has done an analysis of the number of people that are coming to Gibraltar. How many people does he expect to come to Gibraltar, visiting for the purpose of viewing these Games?

1780 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has been very clear in what he has told him. He has told him that we have got exact numbers from all of the participating nations as to athletes and as to officials and team members. That is what it is our responsibility to accommodate. The hon. Gentleman does understand that, doesn't he? The responsibility of the Government of Gibraltar will be to accommodate those officials, coaches etc. and players.

1785 It is not the responsibility of the Government of Gibraltar, as the organising nation, to house those who visit as tourists to view the Games, but we have asked for indications from those participating nations, if they know from past experience or have had other indications, how many others will come. For that reason we are leaving space available in our touristically available facilities for those tourists to take the space. But it would be impossible – and let's be very clear about this, it would be impossible – for Gibraltar to host 28 nations, all of their coaches, officials and players and anyone who might wish to come with them, without 1790 committing the foolishness of renting something that you could float in to house them and lose money on, because it is impossible to float something in to house those potential numbers of people and break even. And because hon. Members just seem to be accusing us of looking after

1795 taxpayers' money and ensuring that we do things at the best possible value-for-money rate, as they have in relation to our cost of building, what we are not going to do is to incur, in the foolishness of a flight of fancy, like I believe they once did, of bringing in a cruise ship and losing 1800 money on it in order to bring visitors ... In other words, you bring visitors not to increase the value to Gibraltar but to lose money on them. We are not going to do that, and so the right decision, which the hon. Member has taken with the committee organising the Island Games, is to take the responsibility, as every organising nation does, to house officials, athletes and coaches, to ensure that you do that inasmuch as possible outside of hotels, to leave hotels 1810 insofar as possible available for the numbers of visitors that may come. That is the right way to go about ensuring that the Gibraltar Games are not just a success but a magnificent success.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Edwin Reyes.

1805 Hon. E J Reyes: Mr Speaker, the Minister indicated this figure of 2,500 and so on, but may I ask, let me use a word that perhaps will cater for all of them, Team Gibraltar, the participants of Gibraltar, would they be accommodated? Because it does happen in many sports. Would they be accommodated under that figure of 2,500, or are they going to be expected to stay in their homes and just attend the venues and so on? There is value to having the whole team together, 1810 as I know – he has also participated in sports – and it is certainly a very worthwhile exercise.

Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, I said 2,500 athletes. Remember that this is a figure that is given by each Island of how many may come, but as the hon. Member knows, when we host a games they say that 200 are coming and maybe 150 come or 170 come. Usually they give you 1815 the top number, the maximum of who is coming. That is the maximum, 2,500. I have given the figures, which add up to 2,652, and we are working closely to make sure that the 152 – and I know that there are more participants from Gibraltar than 152, because when we flew over in the chartered plane we went with 180-odd ... We will look at having our own athletes probably within the Village, where they can be in the atmosphere and be ambassadors to all our – I 1820 should not say our visitors, the competitors, because if not I will get into trouble ... all the participants that are coming to Gibraltar.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Roy Clinton.

1825 Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker. I will be brief.
If I may ask the Minister: in the DPC presentation he gave on the accommodation block he mentioned that there would be ... I think in the answer to the question he disclosed that there would be 144 rooms in the university accommodation block and he has just indicated to the House that the idea is to accommodate 450 students in this accommodation. Am I correct in 1830 assuming, then, that we are talking about an average of three people per room? Is that what the Government's intention is?

Hon. S E Linares: They are not students; they are participants. Yes, he is right. The rooms are big enough because when you accommodate athletes ... I had the privilege of going to the Gold 1835 Coast in Australia and they were housing four to five people in a room in the Village. These rooms are big enough to have a bunk bed and a bed beside. Remember, these are conservative numbers because we could even house four in a room, but we are trying to be more accommodating to have three in a room. There are also apartments like, for example, in Trafalgar Heights, in which there are three-bedroom flats. We are not accommodating people, 1840 for example, in the living room – which we could. So there is still more leeway where we can put more people, but we are trying to make people comfortable and I can assure the hon. Member that three people in that room is pretty comfortable when you go to a games – if he has ever gone to one.

1845 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Clerk: Question 373. The Hon. E J Phillips.

1850 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state whether it has awarded a contract in respect of the provision of air conditioning to the new sports complexes to be built in anticipation of the 2019 Island Games?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport.

Government website

Clerk: Question 374. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1860 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise what cyber security measures it has in place and why did they fail to prevent the recent hacking attack on the Government's website?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

1865 Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 375 and 376.

Clerk: Question 375. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1870 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise if any Government Departments have been subject to a ransomware attack; and if so, how have they been resolved?

Clerk: Question 376. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1875 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm that during the recent attack on its website, that no personally identifiable information or confidential data was stolen?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

1880 Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, Government can confirm that it has been advised that we have in place all the necessary cyber security measures to mitigate existing and emerging cyber threats. These measures are fully compliant with all the necessary cyber security industry standards and best practices.

1885 The perpetrators carried out what is known as a zero day exploit attack on the Government website, which is hosted in the United Kingdom and is totally separate to the Government network and its systems. The attack occurred on the same day that the weakness was discovered on the website by the perpetrators, at which point the vulnerability was exploited successfully before a patch/fix was developed and made available to us.

1890 ITLD can confirm that as the website is totally separate from Government systems, no Government Department, Agency or Authority has been affected by any type of ransomware attack and no personal information or confidential data compromised.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Whatever you may have been told by your experts.

1895 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I thank the Minister for his response.

Can the Minister advise whether the e-Government website is completely different, on a different platform to that of the Government website? And if so, what were the reasons for the e-Government website going down? Or is that nothing to do with any kind of hacking attack, rather a system failure per se?

1900 Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, as I have explained, it is totally separate. The Government website is not connected to any other part of the Government network or systems and the e-Government issues are totally separate and unrelated to this issue.

1905 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, just on that point, he can confirm that e-Government's issues are not as a result of any kind of malicious attack?

Hon. A J Isola: Yes, Mr Speaker, I can confirm that.

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

1915 Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, yes, sir, Moneyval has confirmed formal commencement of its evaluation process. This will initially entail the submission of information and responses to the FATF methodology over the next few months. This will culminate in an onsite visit, which will take place between 1st and 12th April 2019.

Clerk: Question 378. The Hon. E J Phillips.

1920

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, there is an error, in fact, in this question. It relates to 'Further to Question 48/2018' – that should have read 83, but it does not in substance change the nature of the question that I am putting to the Minister, so I will read it.

1925 Further to Question 48 – it should read 83/2018 – can the Government state whether it intends to further regulate real estate agents beyond the scope of the Estate Agents Code of Conduct created under section 91(3) of the Fair Trading Act?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Commerce.

1930

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Mr Speaker, in addition to the code of conduct issued under the Fair Trading Act 2015, the OFT has been appointed as a supervisory authority for real estate agents under the Proceeds of Crime Act 2015 (POCA). The OFT is therefore required to regulate compliance by real estate agents with the Anti-Money Laundering and Combatting the Financing of Terrorism obligations as set out in POCA. To this end it issued guidance notes last month to assist real estate agents to meet their legal requirements and to set out the OFT's regulatory approach. The OFT is currently in the process of engaging with each licensed real estate agent individually to ensure and assist with compliance.

1935

The OFT also regulates real estate agents in the process of obtaining a licence to provide real estate services in Gibraltar in accordance with Part 9 of the Fair Trading Act 2015. Real estate agents are required to meet the requirements to obtain a licence under this legislation – for example, to have appropriate premises from which to carry on business and to have a separate client account.

1940

It is also worth noting that the OFT is also in the advanced stages of drafting a revised code of conduct to replace the existing code issued under section 91(3) of the Fair Trading Act. This code makes important updates to the current code and is based in part on the UK Property Ombudsman's code of conduct, which is applicable to real estate agents in the United Kingdom.

1945

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for that extensive answer relating to the regulation of estate agents.

1950

Will the revised code of conduct effectively professionalise the industry in relation to estate agents? I say this because of course the new measures that were adopted in the United Kingdom seek to do that by ensuring that estate agents have professional qualifications. Given the fact that every day property is sold and bought by individuals in our community, is the Government intending on pursuing those measures that were adopted in the United Kingdom, particularly in relation to professional qualifications of estate agents?

1955

Hon. A J Isola: Mr Speaker, the issue of professional qualifications is one that is not as simple as the question suggests, in the sense that in many different sectors industry experience is often enabling those that hold it to be grandfathered into a qualification which they may not actually have in terms of exam qualifications. And so, in considering the code of conduct that we seek to implement, which will deal with, as I mentioned earlier and as you have referred to in your question, the UK code of conduct issued, we hope to replicate as far as we possibly can similar standards to those that are in the UK.

1960

Of course the hon. Member will have sight of these as and when they are available and I will be very happy to discuss them at that time, but I would not like to prejudge or pre-empt any of the conclusions of the discussions and the consultations that we are entering into before these are put in place.

1970 Hon. E J Phillips: I mention this point, of course, because although a number of industry professionals have approached me in respect of this particular issue, saying that the regulations do not go far enough for them, and I suspect it is one or two of the professional organisations that deal with the buying and selling of property within the industry, I take it from the answer ... I understand the problems with professionalising an industry where you have to grandfather professional qualifications in, and I understand that he clearly does not want to pre-empt what 1975 the committee will say in relation to professional qualifications, but is it the Government's position that it will pursue this, or will just take the lead from the professionals in industry?

1980 Hon. A J Isola: I think I have said that we are pursuing a code of conduct based on the UK model, by which we hope to raise the standards of estate agents in Gibraltar. I have to say at the same time that in all our engagements with them – and as I said in my answer, the OFT is meeting with them individually in terms of their POCA compliance and how we can support them – their response to further increases in the standards that we expect of them have been welcomed and I think that is indicative of their support for trying to raise the quality of the services they provide their clients with.

1985 I really do not want to commit to doing anything more than I have said. I would be very happy to share our thinking with him before we make it public, but at this stage really I do not want to commit any further than saying that when we are ready I am happy to have that discussion with him and go through them then.

1990 Mr Speaker: Next question.

HEALTH, CARE AND JUSTICE

Q.379/2018

A&E –

Contacting Minister re waiting times

Clerk: Question 379. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1995 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, does the Minister for Health stand by the GHA press release of 27th February 2017 where he stated: 'I have encouraged anyone who was kept waiting for more than 90 minutes in A&E to contact me'; and if so, what actual measures has he put in place in the waiting room at A&E to make patients aware of this and the mechanism to contact the Minister if they so wish?

2000 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

2005 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, yes. I am continually contacted by members of our community who wish to discuss issues relating to health, social care, elderly care and justice. For anyone who is unaware of my email address – although I dare say there are few people who are unaware – it is neil.costa@gibraltar.gov.gi.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I do not think I heard an answer to my question, and I do not want to repeat what I said again, so I will ask him quite simply: does he still stand by his statement regarding 90 minutes in A&E; and again, what has he done in practical terms at the A&E waiting room for people to contact him, other than reading out his email address to us now in this Chamber?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, we have just started my answers to questions, so I will try not to dive in to the answer I would ordinarily have given him had it been later in the day.

I answered by saying yes, therefore I stand by the press release that noted that if anyone waits in A&E for more than 90 minutes they should contact me. I have said to the hon. Gentleman that people can contact me by emailing me and I also said that I dare say very few people do not know what my e-mail address is, and if they do not know my e-mail address they definitely contact me by Facebook or by telephone. We are very contactable and very approachable and I do not think that there is anybody left in the community who has not tried to contact me for one reason or another.

Are there any specific measures at A&E to repeat the statement that I made in public and in this Chamber? No, there are not, Mr Speaker.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I thank the Minister for his honest answer.

I would ask him: would he consider now to at least putting some kind of notice in reasonably large typescript for the people who are waiting there for a considerable period of time? Having done so myself personally, staring at the wall, it would be useful to have that information prominently displayed so that members of the public can take up his invitation, as he so kindly suggests.

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, if he wants, I will pass on a picture to A&E that they can put on the wall so he can stare at me instead.

I do not think there is any need to write that on an A&E wall, because for the reason I have told him already, people feel very free to contact me on any issue. It is not hard to be able to find me cybernetically or in person. Only recently, in fact, I have had two queries relating to A&E. So, as I say, notwithstanding the absence of any specific measures at A&E reminding people of the public statement that I made in respect of 90 minutes, people nonetheless were able to find me and contact me on any matter.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am afraid I really must labour the point. Is the Minister seriously telling us that yes, people can make a complaint but no, I do not need to tell them how to make a complaint because they can just google me? Is that really what the Minister is saying? If he was serious about his intent, he would put up a public notice saying 'If you have any complaints or any concerns, please contact me at this email address or on this telephone number'.

Mr Speaker, seriously, just on the back of vehicles on the streets you see notices: 'If you have a problem with my driving, call this number'. Is the Minister so afraid of having a sudden flood of complaints that he does not have the courage to put a notice up in A&E saying 'If you are waiting more than 90 minutes, this is the number to call and this is my email'? Can he not at least do that?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman needs to get a life. Seriously, as I have told him already, I am extremely contactable and approachable.

I tell you what, Mr Speaker, the people who certainly needed notices for people to be able to contact them were certainly the GSD when they were in Government. I do not think that there is anyone left in the community who does not know how to contact me.

And it is not that I am hiding behind anything. I have made a series of press releases and public announcements. What I tell members of the community often is that if they wish to 2060 contact me they can do so in various ways, and on my Facebook page I also have my e-mail address constantly in place so that people can contact me if they want to.

2065 It is not a question of hiding, it is not a question of being afraid. We must be the Government that has been the most accessible Government in Gibraltarian history and we keep repeating that if people have any issues they should feel free to do so – so much so that one of the very first things that I did when I was appointed Minister for Health was to create the Patient Advocacy and Liaison Service and there is, for the first time, a fully resourced office where people can make complaints should they wish to do so and we facilitate that endeavour by having fully resourced an office.

2070 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can I ask the Minister if I would have his permission to put up a notice in A&E saying ‘If you are waiting for more than 90 minutes, the Minister has asked you to contact him on this email’?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, he can try and do that and see what happens.

2075 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I have just asked him for his permission. Yes or no?

Hon. N F Costa: He can try and do that and we will see what happens.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q380/2018
Out-of-court settlements –
Amount paid

2080 Clerk: Question 380. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I have lost Health to my hon. Friend Mr Llamas, but I promise I will not contact the Minister cybernetically in future on the question of health – maybe on other subjects, but potentially not on health.

2085 Mr Speaker, further to Question 65/2018, and without naming any complainant, can the Minister for Health state the total amount paid in out-of-court settlements?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

2090 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, in relation to Question 65/2018, the total amount paid in out-of-court settlements was £947,276.

Hon. E J Phillips: Would the Hon. Minister confirm in how many cases?

2095 Hon. N F Costa: Eleven, Mr Speaker.

2100 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I may ask the Minister: when he comes to settling these disputes, is it on the basis of – and again, forgive my ignorance – a commercial view taken by the Minister and his lawyers, or would it necessarily have to be because of a court order having been obtained against the Government?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, in 10 out of the 11 cases they have been out-of-court settlements, so that would be on the basis of legal advice; and in respect of one case it was by way of court order.

2105 Mr Speaker: Do you have any more supplementaries?

Hon. R M Clinton: I have one but I do not think it will be in order.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q381/2018
Xanit –
Termination of contract

2110 Clerk: Question 381. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, further to Questions 656/2017 and 68/2018, is the Minister for Health now in a position to make a full statement to the House in respect to the termination of contractual arrangements with Xanit?

2115

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I am not in a position to make a statement in respect of our contractual relationship with Xanit. This is because my negotiations with Xanit's General Director continue.

2120

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I appreciate the sensitivity surrounding those discussions. I think on the last occasion we had a number of questions in relation to how many patients were currently still receiving care from Xanit and how the Minister anticipates the move to the second provider. Does the Minister expect that to be resolved soon? It is just that it has been some time since we had this question/answer about Xanit and its use by the GHA.

2125

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, nothing would give me greater pleasure, in fact, than to be able to finalise those negotiations, given that we have been in discussion now for quite some time. They are, I think, substantially progressed. I do hope to be able to finalise those discussions. Unfortunately, though, given the breadth of the relationship in the sense of the many services that Xanit provides to the GHA, which therefore requires us to negotiate a whole series of prices in respect of all of those services, it has not been the most straightforward of discussions. But, as I say, I dare say we are quite advanced but I cannot give an end date by which we will finish those discussions because I cannot reasonably foresee whether it is going to be in a couple of weeks' time or whether it is going to be in a couple of months' time.

2130

Hon. E J Phillips: Is the potential stumbling block a financial issue concerning Xanit? Will there be a payout by the Government in respect to the termination of that contract?

2140

Hon. N F Costa: There are various live issues, Mr Speaker. Financial is one of them.

Hon. D A Feetham: But in parallel with those negotiations that he is conducting with Xanit can he also confirm – because I seem to recall that that is what he has said to the House on a 2145 previous occasion – that he is conducting parallel negotiations with other service providers, other hospitals and institutions in Spain, so that he can then have comparators between Xanit and those alternative providers?

Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, we have been able to conclude pricing with one Spanish tertiary centre. We are in negotiations with Xanit and a third tertiary centre. So, in respect of one of them we are quite comfortable that the pricing that we have been given is satisfactory and we are happy with those prices. In respect of Xanit, as I say, we have progressed significantly but I am not quite happy yet. And in respect of a third tertiary centre we are still discussing prices.

2155 Hon. D A Feetham: And when the Minister talks about Xanit, a second tertiary centre and a third tertiary centre, just so that we understand it, it is not the intention of the Government to replace Xanit for one of the second or the third; it is negotiations with these three, which the Government will deploy as and when necessary for the benefit of patients within the GHA.

I should say, in fact, now that I am standing on my feet, that we have approached a fourth tertiary centre that we wish to enter into discussions with to formalise a relationship that we have on an ad hoc basis, for the simple reason that, as I have just said, it is always beneficial not to have all of your eggs in one basket and for the Tertiary Referrals Board to be able to have different tertiary centres, all of which have comparable prices, when they have to decide to which centre it is best clinically to refer a patient, to be able to have that flexibility. Because, of course, apart from having different centres that may specialise or which in the GHA's opinion may provide a better service in a particular area, it may be that on any particular occasion one of the tertiary centres is full and we may have to fall back on or use other tertiary centres.

2170 So, in the same way that the GHA has always had different partner institutions in the UK to which now the Tertiary Referrals Board may refer a patient, depending on the surgery or the procedure to which the patient is referred, we think it makes perfect sense to have that kind of variety available to the Tertiary Referrals Board. But of course these centres are private, so that complicates matters to the extent that we want to make sure that the Gibraltar taxpayer is paying the right price for any services that it receives.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

2180 Hon. D A Feetham: Just one more?

Mr Speaker: Yes.

2185 Hon. D A Feetham: Are any of these centres – if he can give me that information – a centre that specialises in cancer treatment at all?

Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker. That is the fourth one that I remembered when I was on my feet.

2190

Q382-384/2018

Diabetes –

Number of sufferers; cost of treatment

Clerk: Question 382. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the number of people currently living with diabetes in Gibraltar?

2195

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 383 and 384.

2200

Clerk: Question 383. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the number of children diagnosed with type 2 diabetes?

2205

Clerk: Question 384. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Government state the cost to the GHA of treatment and management of type 2 diabetes?

2210

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, as at 11th May of this year the total number of patients on the GHA diabetes register is 2,685.

There are no children diagnosed with type 2 diabetes under the care of the GHA.

There are many costs associated with the treatment and management of type 2 diabetes, such as those relating to clinical staff, which can vary from general practitioners, diabetes nurse specialists, dieticians, optometrists, ophthalmologists, ophthalmic nurses, podiatrists, consultant physicians and all clinical and support staff that are involved in the day-to-day management of these patients. To calculate the total cost to the GHA of treatment and management of type 2 diabetes is not a possible task, given the fact that each case is different in terms of acuity, clinical management and time allocated by each professional in respect of each patient. I can however, confirm that the cost for medication related to the treatment of type 2 diabetes is approximately £320,000 annually.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Hon. E J Reyes: May I, Mr Speaker? In answer to Question 382 the Minister gave a figure of 2,685 as patients with diabetes. I declare a vested interest because I am a diabetic myself. Would he happen to know the breakdown, approximately, of that figure, of type 1 and type 2?

Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, for type 1 diabetes it is 206 and for type 2 diabetes, 2,479.

Hon. E J Reyes: I am very grateful for that, Mr Speaker. I am surprised. I actually thought the type 1 would have been a bit higher. As a type 2 sufferer I think my life is very inconvenienced at times, but I am glad to see that that number is down. At some stage I was convinced it was over the 500 mark. I am very grateful for giving me a ray of hope there. Thank you.

2235

Q385/2018

Hillsides Residential Home and Bella Vista Day Centre – Allied healthcare professional services

Clerk: Question 385. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

2240 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: How many allied healthcare professionals are currently working within Bella Vista and Hillsides dementia centres?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

2245 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the current allied health professional services being provided at Hillsides Residential Home are physiotherapy, speech and language therapy, and occupational therapy, each for 20 hours a week.

2250 Bella Vista Day Centre also provides physiotherapy, speech and language therapy and occupational therapy, each for 20 hours per week, and the Centre also provides a psychology service for 40 hours per week.

In addition, all residents at Hillsides and service users at Bella Vista are seen by a chiroprapist every six weeks.

2255 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, various representations have been made to me that there are no allied health professionals in these centres and that it was something that was committed to when the centre opened its doors in January 2017. So, without wanting to contradict the hon. Gentleman, perhaps he can furnish me with more information in private because I have been approached by various people who are sure that there are no allied health professionals working in these centres.

2260 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, there are allied health professionals, the ones that I have mentioned, working in Hillsides and Bella Vista.

2265 It may be that the hon. Lady is referring to ... I cannot remember the exact number of weeks but there was a time where, because of recruitment, the services were not being provided. But I can assure the hon. Lady that these services are being provided presently in the hours and in respect of the services that I have just read to the House.

Q386-387/2018

Europort Primary Care Centre – Government project; change of location

Clerk: Question 386. The Hon. R M Clinton.

2270 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain why the proposed new Primary Care Centre in Europort has been presented as a Government project to the Development and Planning Commission?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

2275 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 387.

Clerk: Question 387. The Hon. L F Llamas.

2280 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, what factors were deliberated when deciding the change of location for the Primary Care Centre from the ICC to Europort?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

2285 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the proposed new Primary Care Centre was presented to the Development and Planning Commission as a Government project because the end user will be the Gibraltar Health Authority.

2290 The current PCC facility based at the International Commercial Centre has served our community for many years. The decision to move away from this location was not a decision that was taken lightly. The spatial limitations and environmental issues of the current PCC, however, have reached the point at which the move has become necessary.

2295 There are many reasons why Europort was chosen as the best site from which to offer primary care services. The unique location offers the possibility not only of providing a new, purpose-built facility but also to have the facility directly linked to St Bernard's Hospital and therefore connected to all secondary healthcare services, which would not otherwise be possible.

Practical advantages of the location include the possibility of consolidating services, maximising resources, the ability to pool nursing and administrative support and eliminating the need for separate storage facilities.

2300 Logistical advantages include linked infrastructure and maintenance, greater security and much more efficient supply chains.

Importantly, the main factor which has led to this decision is – as ever, of course – our patients. The synergy between primary and secondary healthcare will streamline clinical and administrative services, enhance patient pathways and ultimately serve to improve the entire patient experience.

2305 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for his answer. In the DPC description of this particular project it is actually described as:

Podium level Atlantic Suites, Europort, proposed construction of a three-storey building extension connected to the existing St Bernard's Hospital.

2310 I must confess, Mr Speaker, I have not seen the plans, but if the Minister could just advise the House – the land at the present, who owns that land and will there be a connection in the existing Atlantic Suites building?

2315 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, if I understood the hon. Gentleman correctly, the connection will be to the Hospital, not to the adjacent Atlantic Suites building. And the land, unless I am mistaken ... I did not come prepared to answer questions in respect of the DPC planning application, Mr Speaker, but I do not think I am misrecollecting when I say that the land is Europort land.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I just wanted to ask the Minister can he confirm that factors such as the availability of chemists surrounding the current Primary Care Centre and how people will then go to seek their prescriptions from the new Primary Care Centre were taken into 2320 consideration and how they will deal with that? Also, in terms of factors such as transport and traffic in getting to the new Primary Care Centre and whether ... I am sure these things have been well thought out, but I just want confirmation from the Minister, the most obvious one being housing the primary centre which deals with primary health issues and the secondary 2325 health institution within the same ground – whether that does not present difficulties should illnesses which are contagious break and therefore jeopardise their primary care in that situation?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, in the first place I would like to thank the hon. Gentleman for saying that he is sure that we have thought about these things carefully. I can assure him that 2330 we have.

If I can answer the last question first, the fact that we will have the Hospital next to the Primary Care Centre in fact provides greater synergy between primary and secondary care and is, I am told by the clinicians, a very good thing indeed. So he should rest assured that in respect of the clinical aspects of it, having primary links with secondary is, I am told by all the clinicians I 2335 have spoken to, beneficial to the patients.

In respect of parking, this is a matter, as the hon. Gentleman can be sure, that has also been thoroughly looked into. We will be making announcements before the paediatric hub and the new PCC are announced. The parking plans that we have in mind, which of course will be announced in due course jointly with my colleague the Hon. Mr Paul Balban, the Minister for 2340 Infrastructure and Planning, very much take into account the current throughput that we see at the Primary Care Centre on a daily basis and the paediatric hub, so we have no concerns in that respect either.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I would be grateful if the Minister could perhaps clarify one 2345 point he made, in that he referred to the land as being owned by Europort, i.e. Europort land.
Can he be more specific when he says Europort land?

Hon. N F Costa: No, Mr Speaker, I am afraid that I cannot because I did not come armed with either the legal documentation or the planning application, but if he were to give me notice of 2350 that question I will be happy to answer that question for him.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q388/2018
MedDoc –
Value of contract re John Mackintosh Wing

Clerk: Question 388. The Hon. L F Llamas.

2355 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government disclose the value of the care contract entered into with MedDoc on 6th April 2018 in relation to the John Mackintosh Wing, together with factors deliberated in making their decision?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

2360 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the value of the contract entered into with MedDoc on 6th April 2018 in relation to the John Mackintosh Wing is £1,100,000. MedDoc's was the most competitive offer received.

2365 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, just to follow on from my colleague's question, can I ask for what term? Is that just for one year? And how long is the contract for?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, yes, it relates to the financial year, of course. He has got me on the length or the term of the contract. I do not know the answer to that, I am sorry.

Q389/2018

Prison new service –
Provision of new vans

2370 Clerk: Question 389. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Would the Minister for Justice provide information as to when the Prison Service will be provided with new vans?

2375 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

2380 Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, the procurement process for the purchase of a new prison escort vehicle was commenced in May of last year. An order was placed with a supplier at the end of July of last year. I can confirm that the vehicle for the Prison Service has now arrived in Gibraltar, finally, and is currently being fitted out. The supplier estimates that this will be delivered to the Prison Service in approximately two weeks.

2385 In addition, a new vehicle for the Prison's workshop section is in the process of being procured and funds have been allocated within the 2018-19 Estimates to that effect. The procurement process for this second vehicle has just commenced and there is no delivery date at this moment.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you for that answer, Mr Speaker.

2390 Can I just ask the Minister for Justice: he was talking about two vans in total that are coming in, and does he believe that this is enough for the complement of vans that are needed at this present moment, to have three in total?

2395 Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, the basis on which we proceeded to procure the Prison escort vehicle was on the basis of the advice of the Prison Superintendent and his deputy. That has been their advice since I have met with them on the issue. So, what I am telling the hon. Lady is unless I am advised to the contrary, there is currently no need for an additional escort vehicle – but I am sure if there were I would be advised.

2400 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I think that might be a convenient moment to now move that we adjourn – to the next episode of what the hon. Gentleman Mr Feetham called 'Alien Resurrection' – to next Wednesday, 30th May at three in the afternoon.

Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn to Wednesday 30th May at 3.00 p.m.

Questions for Oral Answer

HOUSING AND EQUALITY

Q390/2018 Disability Act – Commencement date

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Wednesday, 30th May 2018.

We carry on with answers to Oral Questions and we commence with Question 390. The Hon. D A Feetham.

5

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, when does the Government intend to commence the Disability Act?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

10

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I refer the hon. Gentleman to my answer to Question 49/2018.

15

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, can the hon. Lady just simply provide a clear answer to a very clear question? I am aware that the service users and others have been told that it would take the Government roughly about eight or nine months from the date on which the Act was passed last year to properly train people up in order to make sure that this Act runs effectively, but the nine months are up and I am asking her for a clear answer. When does she intend to commence this very important piece of legislation?

20

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, yes, this is a very important piece of legislation indeed, and that is why we did it. The hon. Gentleman, who was the Minister for Justice for four years, never did it and the party opposite, who were in Government for 16 years, never did it. So let's start on that premise.

25

I refer to the answer to my question from January, a few months ago, where I explained to the Hon. Mr Llamas, who I think understood the exchange that we had on the last occasion, that this is a huge piece of legislation that has tremendous implications for our community, and that is why it is so important that we get it right. As I explained on the last occasion – maybe the hon. Gentleman was not in the Chamber or maybe he was not listening to the answer that was provided – the Government has provided a very robust schedule of training because this Act primarily places responsibilities on the Government and it is absolutely imperative, given the importance of this, that we get it right and we deliver on it properly because that is what is more important. The Act is already there; it is a question of commencing it but commencing it properly.

35 I can allay the hon. Gentleman's fears because he can be assured, as I have said before, as I explained to Mr Llamas on the last occasion, that the Act applies to Government as Government policy as we have done since we came into Government.

In relation to a timeframe – and that way I am sure that we can circumvent further supplementary questions, because I know that he loves making very lengthy supplementary 40 questions which include statements – there is a precursor to one of the parts of the Disability Act, and that is the implementation of building regulations that we refer to as 'Part R'. I think we are actually ready on those. I know that the relevant Departments have been working incredibly hard on finalising them and ensuring that everybody knows what needs to be delivered on that and everybody is trained. We have also offered the training to the private sector, because this 45 particular section applies to them as well. I am fairly confident that that part can be commenced, I think, next week – if not next week, the week after – and I know that we have, I think, a final briefing to senior officials within the Government. I have seen exchanges from my office and I have seen a schedule, which is very comprehensive and a lot is being delivered during the course of next month, so it will be very shortly after that.

50 Because this is something that historically has never been given importance, the actual knowledge of the subject matter is not there in the Civil Service, so we have had to spend a tremendous investment in getting people to understand exactly what is required from them. This has meant considerable training at different levels of different people on different things on different parts of the Act to ensure that everybody understands it, to ensure that as soon as it is 55 in force we hit the ground running in the best possible way. That, as I explained in answer to the last question and as I explained when we read the Bill, has always been the plan in relation to this Act.

Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman opposite can rest assured that we are almost there in the process. It will not be much longer. I think we are talking of maybe a month, maximum two, but 60 that is the timeframe that the hon. Gentleman wanted and that is my answer, Mr Speaker.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I just drill down a little into that, with respect, very lengthy, rambling answer that the Minister has given – which really takes the biscuit, given that she prefixed her answer by saying 'I know that he likes these very longwinded supplementary 65 questions.'

She has had six years, seven years, because this is a manifesto commitment from 2011. She introduced this Act with great fanfare last year. It is now nine months. Can she guarantee to this House that within two months – that, I think, is the most important part of her answer – of today's date this very important Act is going to be commenced and that there will be no further 70 excuses from the Hon. Minister and the Government in relation to this?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, it is not a question of excuses. This is the plan and this is the timeline that was always envisaged in the process because of the complex nature of the legislation, which is not unusual when we are talking about pieces of legislation that are big, 75 that are complex and especially that will affect people in the way that this will.

I have said two months and I said that that is what I envisage it will take. It may be sooner, but if we think that the two months takes us right into the middle of the summer vacation, it may be that it will be at the end of it. But that is the timeframe that I envisage as a maximum. It will not go beyond, I think, the summer or the end of the summer. I think realistically we need to 80 think that August may be a difficult time.

I know that we are ready in relation to certain parts of it. In fact, parts of it can be commenced and can be commenced very quickly, and in particular we are aiming for some of it to be commenced, I think, in the next couple of weeks. I have always said that it was probably very likely that we would stagger the implementation of the legislation.

85 So we are looking at a period of two months, but given where we are in the calendar I might say to this Parliament, Mr Speaker, so as not to be misleading, three as a maximum but we are obviously aiming for two.

90 Hon. E J Phillips: Just one supplementary question, Mr Speaker. In the Minister's answer to Question 49 the Minister referred to extensive training and awareness, which the Minister has again repeated today, and that I believe was undertaken just after we passed the legislation in this House. Insofar as her answer is concerned, can the Minister now confirm that all extensive training and awareness programmes have been completed? Because that is what seems to have held back having this legislation come into force.

95 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, as I said in the answer to the first supplementary, there have been different kinds of training at different kinds of levels. We have initially had to undertake very basic training because there was such a lack of understanding of the responsibilities, and then we have delivered other training to build on that initial training. There is a final in-depth training briefing session which is scheduled during the course of the next month after that training, which could not have taken place without the previous training that we have undertaken. That is the kind of basic training that we need. And of course after that there will be continuous training, because it is something where things in this kind of field continue to develop and we all need to continue to learn how to deliver these things in a better way, particularly because technology evolves and there are always things to learn. But I think the final briefing that we have in relation to the legislation is scheduled during the course of next month and it is early next month, I believe.

Q391/2018

Housing (Rent Relief) Rules 2009 – Revision re allowance for children

Clerk: Question 391. The Hon. R M Clinton.

110 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, further to the Public Service Ombudsman's 2017 Report and recommendations, specifically case 13, has the Government considered revising the Housing (Rent Relief) Rules 2009 in respect of the 60 pence allowance for children?

115 Clerk: Answer the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, yes.

120 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for her answer. Can she give an indication to the House of when this revision might come in? And at what level is she thinking?

125 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the question was whether we had considered the recommendations and the answer to that is yes. I did not say that I had agreed with the recommendations and that it would be changed. That is a decision that has not been taken, but the recommendations have certainly been considered. We have looked at all the different permutations of the rent relief, because it is quite a complicated calculation, and it is not something where a decision to change it has been made – or certainly not to be changed right away.

130 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, with your indulgence, the Ombudsman writes quite clearly that it is his view that the allowance for children seems somewhat unrealistic and unfair when compared with the allowances deductible for an adult. Would the Minister not agree that this really does need addressing?

135 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the Department did not agree with the observation made by the Ombudsman, and in fact I know that they met with the Ombudsman recently to discuss this. The reason for that is because the Department found that that decision and that conclusion had been made in isolation without taking other factors into account.

140 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if I understand the Minister correctly, she is entirely satisfied that the 60p allowance is in fact fair.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, because it is a 60p allowance in the context of other allowances that are allowed for rent relief and in the context of the level of rent that is paid on Government rentals.

145 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): They have obviously changed their minds about [inaudible]

150 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, and I must say, to add to that, that while the rent to public housing only increased last year by 3% for the first time and rent has always been static, the rent relief continues to be the same as it always has been and as it was when they were in office.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q392-393/2018

Laguna and Moorish Castle Estates – Lifts; refurbishments

Clerk: Question 392. The Hon. E J Phillips.

155 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, further to Question 163/2018, can the Government state whether the 37 lift shafts in Laguna Estate have been installed with lifts and are therefore ready for commissioning?

160 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 393.

165 Clerk: Question 393. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Further to Question 164/2018, can the Government state that all refurbishments to Moorish Castle Estate have been completed?

170 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, in answer to Question 392, there are currently 35 lifts that remain to be commissioned at Laguna Estate. Of 175 these 35, it is envisaged that four of them will be commissioned within the next two or three weeks. In relation to the overall works programme, the installation and subsequent commissioning of the lifts are on target to be completed by June 2019.

In answer to Question 393, I am happy to confirm that practically all works in relation to the items described in the original scope of works have been completed. The works that remain to be completed are either extra works or variations in the original scope.

180 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, in relation to the answer to Question 392, can the Minister confirm that therefore there are only two lifts since January of this year that have been commissioned?

185 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, Mr Speaker, that is not the case, because if the hon. Gentleman recalls, we are undertaking major refurbishment works of three of the largest estates in Gibraltar: Glacis, Laguna and Moorish Castle.

Hon. E J Phillips: I refer to Laguna.

190 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: The hon. Gentleman may be referring to Laguna, but in the schedule of works by the subcontractor, as we have discussed in relation to previous parliamentary questions, works are scheduled in a particular way and, as the hon. Gentleman will know from my answers in Parliament, all the lifts from Moorish Castle Estate have now been commissioned. That is completed and now the people who install the lifts and commission the lifts – and it is a tremendously complex process because it involves something like, I think, eight entities who need to do things in a staged way – have now moved to Laguna so that we can expedite the completion of Laguna.

195 Mr Speaker, we are on track as per the schedule and we are on track for the dates that we have provided in this Parliament in the past.

Hon. E J Phillips: I am grateful for the extensive answer to the question relating to lift shafts and installations throughout the housing of our community, but the truth of the matter is that since January, when 37 lift shafts remained empty, only two have been dealt with to this day, and now we are being told that June 2019 is the end date for the finalisation of the lifts, which is a bit of a sad state of affairs for the residents of Laguna, wouldn't she agree?

205 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes, Mr Speaker, all this in the context of estates which have never had lifts and had never been envisaged to have lifts. (Interjections) This is as a result of an investment by this Government in housing stock which had been neglected for so long. So not only have we refurbished the buildings; we have enhanced them by adding lifts.

210 I know that the hon. Gentleman has not been shadowing me in Housing for a long time, but I have explained this in the past. To install a lift is not a simple matter and it requires a lot of work. The final stage of this work is the commissioning of the lifts, something that is done by an independent contractor who has nothing to do with the subcontractor or the subcontractor's subcontractor who installed the lift; it is someone who carries out extensive checks on the lifts. The process to check just one lift takes approximately two weeks. That is just the commissioning of the lift, and that is before the lifts are installed and all the services are connected, because that in itself, as I just said, takes about eight different Departments to work together to deliver.

215 Mr Speaker, we are on track for the end date that we have said in this Parliament before.

220

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, with respect to the hon. Lady, she may have given a schedule of dates in answer to questions from Members of the House in the past, but of course this is a GSLP manifesto commitment of 2011 and I think it is legitimate for this side of the House to point out that seven years down the line there are an awful lot of lifts that still need to be 225 installed and still need to be commissioned. It is a matter of legitimate concern to the residents of Laguna and other places and therefore it is a matter of legitimate questions to ask in this House as to when the Government expects to finish it. We would not be doing our job if we did not press the Government in relation to this, because of course this is a significant inconvenience to people living in the estate.

230 Can I ask the hon. Lady this, so that I can undertake a comparison in my simple mind: how many blocks have actually been completed in terms of lifts out of the total number of blocks in Laguna?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman wants to talk about 235 commitments of the GSLP manifesto 2011. Our commitment was to refurbish the forgotten estates and to add lifts. They had no similar commitment, so they are chasing our commitment to add these lifts and they say that is their obligation because they are asked by people on the estate to pursue when we are going to have these lifts commissioned. At Moorish Castle 17 are already installed and commissioned, at Laguna 36 out of 71.

240 Mr Speaker, doesn't the hon. Gentleman remember that he was urging us to spend less on the refurbishment and slow it down in 2014, in 2015 and in 2016? One is almost tempted to say to the hon. Gentleman, 'But Hon. Eminem, we were just following –' (Interjection) Eminem. 'We were just following your advice. We shall have to tell residents of Laguna that we slowed down 245 the process of refurbishment because you advised us not to spend so much on those estates because you said that we were taking Gibraltar to ruin as a result.' But of course, Mr Speaker, that is not the case because if we had followed his advice then the installation and commissioning of lifts would be entirely impossible. Even in the timescale that the hon. Lady has set out it would take 12, 14, 15 years. Indeed, in Moorish Castle and Laguna – I do not have the number for Glacis, but I think in Glacis (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Not that many.) all have been 250 completed.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, they are completed.

Hon. Chief Minister: All in Glacis have been completed, so let's just, for the purposes of this 255 discussion, take it where hon. Members want to take it, which is not where things have been completed. They do not want to take the debate to where things have been completed; they want to take it to where things have not yet been completed, Moorish Castle Estate and Laguna Estate. Seventeen out of 17 in Moorish Castle, 36 out of 71 in Laguna – that is 17 more in six years in Moorish Castle than they installed in 16, and that is 36 more in six years at Laguna than 260 they installed in 16.

And so, Mr Speaker, I think the whole House will want to join me in congratulating the hon.
Lady and her predecessors as Ministers for Housing for the sterling work done to date and encourage them to continue apace.

265 A Member: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am sure that we can make some kind of a rap song or something similar out of my next supplementary question.

270 Hon. Chief Minister: I have no doubt.

Hon. D A Feetham: What does he have to say to those people living in Laguna, where he committed himself in his 2011 manifesto to finish that project within four years and yet he completed a project at No.6 Convent Place (A Member: Hear, hear.) (Banging on desks) which 275 was not in his 2011 manifesto? No doubt living in plush luxury as Chief Minister of Gibraltar, what does he have to say about him prioritising his own offices over and above where people live in Laguna?

A Member: Hear, hear.

280

Mr Speaker: Let me warn Hon. Members that they are beginning to deviate from the subject of the questions and that they are in fact beginning to debate – and I will not have it.

Hon. D A Feetham: Sorry, it is the symbiotic relationship.

285

Mr Speaker: I will not have it.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, hardly symbiotic, Mr Speaker, because once he has gone I do not expect to have been gone too.

290

Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman makes it too easy because only in his understanding can the refurbishment of a three-storey office block take as long as the refurbishment of a completely abandoned estate like Laguna at the same time as you undertake the refurbishment of Glacis and of Moorish Castle – because we took them all on at the same time.

295

The hon. Gentleman knows, but he wants to do politics – something surprising for somebody who has said that they are leaving politics at the next election. But nothing will surprise me from the author of the Hansard about ‘Alien Resurrection’ – that he would be the first one in his own mind to want to be resurrecting himself. But given that he wants to do politics, it ill behoves him to try and compare a small office facility with the largest residential estate in Gibraltar, which has only received tender loving care under the GSLP Liberal administration and which when it is finished – even though we would all have wished it to be finished earlier – will be an example to governments around Europe of what social or government tenancies should look like.

300

It will be an example of how to look after the environment of people who are tenants of the Government and it will show up the way in which they left us Laguna, Glacis, Moorish Castle and indeed the many other blocks and smaller estates which we have refurbished in the time since we have been in office – something to be proud of, to go back to the people and say, ‘This is our record,’ whilst at the same time recognising the very hard work that has had to be done by the troop of people at the Gibraltar Electricity Authority who have had to put in additional cabling, which has delayed the works, as we have said on a number of occasions, but they have done the work as quickly as possible with the resources available to ensure that every single block in Laguna Estate that can take one – and I think there is only one block that cannot take one – will have a lift.

305

Mr Speaker, that is a proud record of this Socialist Liberal Government whose symbiosis is inter se and not with them.

310

Mr Speaker: The hon. Member –

315

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, please, one more question.

Mr Speaker: – is now in danger, because if he is going to ask a question which in my estimation is leading to a debate, then that will be the last question that he is going to ask.

320

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, it is about the timeframes that the Hon. Chief Minister referred to; I think it is an appropriate question. How does the Chief Minister reconcile what he has just said in this House in relation to small projects when it is quite clear that when the Government wants to do something in terms of pushing through a revolution in education in 18 months whilst people in Laguna are waiting six or seven years for lifts ...?

325

Mr Speaker: The Chief Minister does not have to answer that question. Education has got nothing to do with the subject matter of the two questions, which are about Moorish Castle Estate and Laguna Estate. Education has got nothing to do with that.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I –

Hon. Chief Minister: Indeed, Mr Speaker, although –

Mr Speaker: If he asks a question that is relevant, not something that deviates from Moorish Castle Estate and Laguna Estate.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I? Surely –

Hon. Chief Minister: I am delighted to answer.

Hon. D A Feetham: No, because it may have an impact in relation to other questions.

Mr Speaker: Ask the question and I will decide whether it is relevant or not.

Hon. D A Feetham: May I just invite Mr Speaker to perhaps bear this in mind: that how a Government prioritises its spending, whether it chooses to spend on an office block or whether it chooses to spend and to complete residential units, that is surely and must be relevant because it is a question of priority.

Mr Speaker: That is relevant in the course of a debate but not at Question Time. That is introducing a new subject into the question and answer session. Look at the Rules. Check the Rules and you will see that I am right. In a debate by all means, of course that factor, No. 6 Convent Place, is relevant in a debate, but not at Question Time.

Hon. D A Feetham: Of course I accept Mr Speaker's ruling in relation to this, but may I also invite Mr Speaker to also bear this in mind: my hon. Friend Mr Clinton passed up to Mr Speaker some weeks ago, several months ago, some material from Erskine May which also says that the Government itself, in answers, should not introduce any irrelevant material and should keep their answers short.

Mr Speaker: Of course.

Hon. D A Feetham: So therefore, what is good for the goose must also be good for the gander.

Mr Speaker: Maybe the hon. Member has not been present in the House when I have repeatedly told Ministers in recent meetings that their answers are far too long and that they should stick to the point. I have been telling them and I have been saying what a pity that there is nothing in the Rules that enables me to control the situation. Maybe he has not been here on those occasions when I have made the point, but I agree with him. I agree that Ministers should not bring in irrelevant matters but I am not aware that this afternoon the Chief Minister brought into the answer his office at No. 6 – which is not just an office; when I go by I seem to see a building at the back which was not there when I was Chief Minister.

Hon. Chief Minister: Indeed, Mr Speaker, but I want to deal first with the point of order that the Hon. Mr Feetham raised, which was the Erskine May reference to rules on answers.

380 Those will have to be read, in the respectful submission of this side of the House, in the context of the House in which those rules are made – in other words, in a House where hon.
Members who are in opposition ask short questions and therefore the Government is required to give short answers. The Government cannot be required by the geese on the other side to give a shorter answer than some of the diatribes that we get as supplementary questions, because hon. Members would not be able to get away with questions of the sort that they put 385 here.

I make no challenge, Mr Speaker, to your rulings in respect of the supplementary questions that are put, because the practice of this House is not the practice of the House of Commons of Westminster; it is something, if I may say so without incurring the Speaker's wrath, between the development of a question in debate style with a question at the end, and then an answer. The 390 derivation of the rule that we now understand – because no copy has been given to Members on this side – that Mr Clinton decided to give a copy to Mr Speaker on, as if calling Mr Speaker's attention to something – hardly the way that parliamentarians tend to deal with these issues – would have to be read in the context of how the Erskine May rules are interpreted in the UK.

395 Dealing now with the substance of the supplementary, Mr Speaker, it is really quite incredible to have an Opposition that tells you that you have to build faster when they think that you cannot achieve it, but then turn into advising you that you are going too fast and that you need to slow down when they think that you are going to hit the targets that you originally committed yourself to. That is what they have done with education, as their record will show.

400 They spend the first two years of this parliament egging us on in respect of education and telling us we will not meet the deadline. The minute we demonstrate we are going to hit the deadline, they say, 'Slow down, you're going too fast.' (Interjection) Then you have to deal with an Opposition that says, 'Slow down, you haven't got the cash.' When you demonstrate seven years in that you are still not in the bankruptcy that they predicted the first time that they landed on the benches opposite, they say, 'Now hurry up,' in respect of Laguna. And when you 405 come with a price that is better than the price that they ever achieved for any Government project, they say, 'You're selling yourself too cheap, pay more for the same thing.'

Mr Speaker, how true it is that nations get the governments they deserve, how true it is that this is a nation with a Government that delivers, and how true it is that the hon. Gentleman is absolutely right and what they need on that side of the House is an 'Alien Resurrection'.
410

Mr Speaker: Question 394.

Q394-396/2018
Previously vacant flats –
Numbers now occupied; cost of refurbishment

Clerk: Question 394. The Hon. E J Phillips.

415 Hon. E J Phillips: Further to Question 167/2018, can the Government state that out of the 58 vacant flats that the 30 under offer are now occupied by tenants?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

420 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 395 and 396.

Clerk: Question 395. The Hon. E J Phillips.

425 Hon. E J Phillips: Further to Question 167/2018, of the remaining 28 vacant flats, can the Minister for Housing confirm that they are now occupied by tenants?

Clerk: Question 396. The Hon. E J Phillips.

430 Hon. E J Phillips: Further to Question 167/2018, can the Government state the total cost of refurbishing all 58 vacant flats?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

435 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, of the 30, 15 are occupied.

Of the 28, 11 are occupied.

The majority of the remainder have been offered and accepted and are being refurbished, except for two which are beyond economical repair, one which has been advertised for expressions of interest as part of the regeneration project and two which are subject to legal proceedings.

440 The cost of the flats that we have refurbished amounts to £61,242.68.

Q397/2018

Homes for rental – Commencement date for building

Clerk: Question 397. The Hon. E J Phillips.

445 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, further to Questions 168 and 269/2018, is the Government in a position to update this House on when an announcement will be made as to when the Government will build homes for rental?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

450 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, my answer remains as that to Questions 168 and 269/2018 and an announcement will be made in due course.

455 Hon. E J Phillips: I am sure, Mr Speaker, that the Minister receives gentle reminders, to say the least, from Action for Housing in relation to this particular issue. It is certainly a matter that they have raised with us on numerous occasions.

This is a question that was asked back in January and I wonder whether the Minister could be more helpful in the answer. I appreciate it is difficult, but something that would help Action for Housing as a timeline, at least a staggered approach perhaps, Mr Speaker.

460 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the answer remains as it did a few moments ago. We do meet with Action for Housing regularly. In fact, very recently the Chief Minister and I met with them.

465 When we consider building homes for rental, it is not just because it is raised by Action for Housing; it is on the basis of my analysis and that of my Department of the figures and the waiting lists that we have.

470 Hon. E J Phillips: Of course, Mr Speaker, need is the most important aspect of this. Can the Minister amplify her answer by suggesting, whether in terms of that assessment, how she sees the need in terms of volume?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I refer to my answer of a few moments ago and an announcement will be made in due course.

475 Mr Speaker: Can I inform the Hon. Minister that there was a query from either herself or on her behalf about whether I should allow this question because of the six months rule. Having regard to the answer – an announcement will be made in due course – I consider that the words ‘due course’ are elastic and I cannot accept that a Government Minister can stonewall, giving an answer to a question on the basis of saying ‘in due course’, and then not expect me to allow 480 another question pressing her for an answer within the six months period.

So, what I am saying is that if the Opposition want to ask a question on this subject at the next meeting, I will allow it –

485 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Yes, Mr Speaker –

Mr Speaker: – because ‘in due course’ amounts to (Hon. Chief Minister: Absolutely.) stonewalling and there is a limit –

490 Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, because –

Mr Speaker: – to which you can stonewall.

Hon. Chief Minister: With the very greatest of respect, stonewalling is when you do not want to give an answer.

495 There are times when an answer that the Hon. Minister has given is absolutely the correct and true answer, and if Mr Speaker thinks it is appropriate for hon. Members opposite to put the question again before six months are up – and I have absolutely no difficulty with that – the Government will have to decide whether we consider that the same answer is appropriate at any time, without stonewalling, simply because nothing could make the Government happier 500 than to say we are ready to make the announcement, and when we are we shall delight in doing so.

We shall have to face one Member opposite us telling us we have not done it quickly enough, another Member opposite us telling us that we should not be doing it because we have not got the money and that we should be doing it in a slower order, but so be it, Mr Speaker.

Q398/2018
Rent arrears –
Amount owing

505 Clerk: Question 398. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Further to Question 171/2018, can the Minister for Housing update this House as to the amount of arrears owing as of 11th May 2018?

510 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the figure of rent arrears owed continues to decrease and the balance as at the end of April 2018 is £4,829,692.28.

515 Hon. E J Phillips: Does the Minister have the percentage figure of that reduction from the last time that we asked this question?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: No, Mr Speaker, unfortunately I do not have it in percentage terms, but if the hon. Member recalls when we commenced the exercise, the figure in relation to arrears was just over £6 million.

520

Q399-400/2018
Fire Safety Review –
Publication of final report

Clerk: Question 399. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Further to Question 172/2018, can the Government state that the Housing Fire Safety Review Committee has finalised its report?

525

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 400.

530

Clerk: Question 400. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Further to Question 172/2018, can the Government state that it will publish the Fire Safety Review when it is finalised?

535

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, the report has been finalised. This is an internal working document which will continue under review. The recommendations of the report will be announced as and when they are implemented.

540

Q401/2018
Housing waiting list –
Number on list since 2011

Clerk: Question 401. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Can the Minister for Housing state how many people on the waiting list as of 8th December 2011 are still on the housing waiting list?

545

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, there are currently 178 applicants on the waiting list who were there on the list on 8th December 2011.

550

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, the Hon. Minister may not have this answer, but does the Minister have the breakdown in relation to the numbers of rooms, the breakdown of the requests on the housing list, so RKB1 to RKB4, I think, or RKB5?

555

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I have a breakdown, but glancing at it I do not actually think it is correct. So I am loath to give it to the hon. Gentlemen because I do not think it adds up. Thank you.

560

Hon. D A Feetham: Can the Minister explain why, after seven years, there are still 178 people who were on the housing list on 8th December 2011 and are still on the housing waiting list, bearing in mind that of course it was a GSLP manifesto commitment in 2011 that everybody who was on the housing waiting list as at that date would be housed within four years?

565

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, there are a combination of factors. There are some people who have received offers of housing and not accepted what they have been offered. There are people who do not return the annual forms that require to be returned and their applications become suspended but for statistical purposes I have them for management purposes.

570

While we want to ensure that we house everybody as soon as possible, particularly those who were on the housing waiting list in 2011, some more urgent cases have arisen and other people who may have been on the waiting list after 2011 have had to be offered housing before them.

575

If I can add to that, Mr Speaker, as the Chief Minister reminds me, that is the procedure that Action for Housing wants us to do. When housing is allocated, we look at the person who is at the top of the list who needs it the most. So just because someone may have been waiting for a tenancy the longest, that may not actually make them the most urgent case requiring housing. And then we have to take into account people who are on the fast-track list, such as the medical lists and the social lists, who usually join the list later on but receive an allocation sooner because of their circumstances, be they their medical needs or their social needs.

580

Hon. D A Feetham: Two questions, if I may, so that I do not have to rise again.

585

What she is really saying in that answer is that it is a promise that was made in 2011 that should never have been made, because what she is saying is, 'Well, although we promised that we would house everybody, for a series of factors really it wasn't something that we could deliver on.' That is really, essentially, what she is saying in her answer and I would ask her to comment in relation to that.

590

Does she have as well the statistical information so that we can properly analyse the answer that she has given where she has said some people have been offered flats and they have declined? And she has also said that there were statistical reasons as well why –

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Not returning the forms.

Hon. D A Feetham: Not returning the forms – exactly, I beg your pardon – was another reason. Does she have the number of people there? Because of course if you are talking about three or four people who have been offered flats and have declined and three or four people who, because they have not returned the forms, have not been offered anything, that is de minimis in terms of the figure of 178. So she really, in my respectful view, needs to be backing up what she says with some concrete statistics in relation to the answer that she has given.

600 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I understand we have not got those detailed statistics here at the moment. The hon. Gentleman might wish to write and perhaps he might be able to have them. But we do have another statistic to hand, which is that at the end of the lifetime of that Parliament, 68% of the voting public disagreed with that interpretation that he 605 has put, and unless they only disagreed because he was leading the party opposite it is very likely that they disagreed because they thought we had completed our manifesto commitment and gave us the highest ever return of votes in a General Election in a two-party race since the history of democracy in Gibraltar began.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, obviously I have been given a warning today in relation to 610 relevance and I will strictly keep to that.

Just in relation to the 178 people who remain on the list after 9th December 2011, who obviously my learned hon. Friend says should have been housed by now given the promises made by the Government, how does the Government reconcile what it is saying today in relation to 178 people when it said at page 99 of its manifesto:

Everyone on the housing waiting list and on the pre-list on the 9 December has been housed or has received an allocation for a home on all lists bar one. This means that the following housing lists have been eliminated in respect of ... 6RKB 5RKB 4RKB 3RKB 2RKB

615 How can the Government now come to this House and say 178 people are awaiting housing in our community when in their manifesto in 2015 they say something completely the opposite?

Hon. D A Feetham: I am tempted to call for a recount on the 2015 decision.

620 Hon. Chief Minister: And even with a recount you would find that the result might have not changed.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, in that statement that the hon. Gentleman has read, he clearly says that it excluded the people from the 1RKB list. I have a figure here – I am not sure 625 whether it is right, but I will give it to them anyway. The bulk of the 178 people are actually on the 1RKB list and it is 125. I need to confirm that just in case that is wrong, but that is the figure that I have here on the breakdown of the 1RKB. In the breakdown of the 178 I am told that 125 make up the 1RKB. The rest, as per the statement that he has left out, all had offers. So, Mr Speaker, what I am saying now is perfectly consistent with what the hon. Gentleman has 630 read out.

Hon. Chief Minister: [Inaudible] 33 of them.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, in other words, 33 people at the time were offered or allocated 635 homes which they refused shortly after they were allocated. Is that correct?

Hon. Chief Minister: That is correct, yes.

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Subject to the figure of 125 being correct, which I think it is but I 640 need to double check, and in fact I have here in my notes that a further seven currently have earmarks. So when we deduct from the 178 – which is the total figure that I have given – the 125 people on the 1RKB waiting list, which for these purposes, given what the hon. Gentleman has just read, does not count, then it is a minimal figure, which if you simply deduct one from the other leaves us with 33.

645 Mr Speaker: Thirty three?

650 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Yes. (Interjections) Sorry, 53. When we subtract the number of people who have earmarks ... The people within those 53 people have either had offers and have rejected them, have flats earmarked – that means that they have accepted them but we are waiting for them to come back from the refurbishment process and therefore they have not signed the tenancies yet – or people who are no longer in the system. Realistically, insofar as the commitment we are talking about 53 people.

655 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just taking that to its logical conclusion, the 53 families, as it were, because it is 2RKB, have been waiting since November 2015 to move into the homes that have been allocated to them. Is that correct, Mr Speaker?

660 Hon. Chief Minister: I do not think the hon. Gentleman knows what he is talking about in the context of this procedure. You get the allocation, you go and see the house, you think the Housing Department is an estate agency and you say, 'No, thanks, I'd like to see another one.' You get three chances to do that. That is what has happened, not that they have been waiting for two years but that they have had the allocations and then they have said they do not want them.

665 Hon. E J Phillips: One further question. If the Minister does not have this information I will be happy to write to the Minister to ask for this information, but in relation to the 53 individuals, would the Government be aware of when they rejected those allocations?

670 Mr Speaker: I do not think the Minister can possibly be expected to have that kind of detail with her. I think the hon. Member should follow it up. If he wants to, he can write to the Minister. I will even allow him to put a question at the next meeting of Parliament specifically on that. It is clear that the Minister does not have that information from what she has said so far.

675 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, may I?

Mr Speaker: Yes.

680 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, that is absolutely right and my learned Friend no doubt will drill down into these and ask statistical questions in relation to offers made, offers rejected and the other category that the Minister said, in answer earlier, that was part of the reason. But that still leaves 125 individuals that, from the answer the Minister gives, are looking for 1RKB – or the bulk of them are looking for 1RKB – who were on the waiting list in 2011 and are still waiting seven years after the event. That must indicate that there is a systemic reason why these individuals have not been housed.

685 I wonder whether the Hon. Minister can explain to this House why there was a promise in 2011 to house everybody if there were these systemic factors in 2011 – because they cannot have arisen just simply out of the blue in these last seven years. There were not those systemic factors in 2011 but there are suddenly systemic factors. You have a developing situation where these 125 individuals cannot be housed because there is not enough, as I understand it, housing of 1RKB in order to house them. And more importantly, because of course politics is about ... and if you are in Government you find solutions for people. More importantly, what assurances can the Minister give to these 125 individuals or couples that they are going to be housed sooner rather than later? And can she give some kind of a timeframe in relation to this, bearing in mind that they are waiting for seven years?

695

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: And thankfully, Mr Speaker, this is a Government that has built more houses in our first term in office than they ever did in 16 years. Logically, that in itself had 700 a knock-on effect on the waiting lists, particularly the flats that we built for our elderly citizens which gave us back 142 flats – approximately, maybe 140 – back into the stock.

Everybody knows our commitment to build, to continue to build affordable housing, and we have announced the allocations process for those, in that our first priority will be given to people who currently live in Government flats and who will deliver up vacant possession of those flats when they purchase. That, Mr Speaker, will have a tremendous effect on the waiting lists.

705

Hon. D A Feetham: With respect to the hon. Lady, she has not provided an answer and perhaps it is my fault – and I apologise; perhaps it was a long question. Let's simplify it and maybe the hon. Lady can provide me with a clear answer. (Interjections)

710

What has happened since 2011, when the hon. Gentlemen and Ladies opposite promised to house everyone on the housing waiting list then in 2011, to now make it impossible for the Government to have housed those 125? And how long will it take the Government to house those 125 people?

715

At the end of the day, Mr Speaker, we are talking about statistics yes, but we are talking about the lives of people behind those statistics, and those people deserve a clear answer to what is a clear question.

A Member: Hear, hear.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, absolutely right. The answer is as soon as possible.

720

And what he has said is absolutely true of the 1,600 people who were on the housing waiting list when we were elected, who were not just statistics although that is how they treated them, and that is why we made sure that all of them got housed and we will continue our commitment to ensure that we provide housing for our community so that those statistics, which is what they were in their time, flourish into Gibraltarian families.

725

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q402/2018

New affordable homes – Allocation and completion date

Clerk: Question 402. The Hon. L F Llamas.

730

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government state when it intends to commence the allocation process for the new affordable homes and estimated completion date for these homes?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

735

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, the allocation of the new affordable homes will happen as soon as we have final drawings, floor plans and prices. We are working to ensure we get the best prices for the purchasers.

As to the completion dates of these developments, these have already been announced and are available in the public domain. We do not expect these to slip.

740

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, thank you. On the latter part of the question I just want to confirm whether those completion dates remain the same. And I just wanted confirmation that on the first part of her answer, does the Hon. Minister have an expected approximation of when 745 the process will commence – whether it will be on this side of summer or whether it will be in September or October – just because I get a lot of queries asking when the Government intends to commence the process.

I think it might be useful for our community to get frequent updates from the Government, just simply letting them know what is going on and how they intend to proceed.

750 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I am pushing my officials as much as possible to be able to give me information that I can in turn put out in the public domain, because no one is more eager than those of us on this side of the House to be able to make further announcements on these fantastic developments that we are making available to residents of Gibraltar.

755 As I have said, we have our commitment to the final date. I am not in a position right now to be able to say when we are able to make the next announcement. I am waiting for the information. I am relying on the technical professionals to provide it to me.

760 We cannot lose sight of the fact that this is a tremendous investment in housing. We are talking about three new developments and of course there is a lot of preparatory work that needs to go into that. We already have the preliminary visuals and those are in the public domain. We are at the stage where we need the technical drawings so that then those can be priced. It is a process that has commenced but that has not yet been completed. I am very eager for that process to be completed but I do not have a date as yet.

765 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q403/2018

Bayview Terraces, Cumberland Terraces, Nelson's View, Beach View Terraces and Mons Calpe Mews – Numbers sold and finance ratios

Clerk: Question 403. The Hon. L F Llamas.

770 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, further to Question 271/2018, can the Government update this House with a schedule detailing since December 2011, with reference to Bayview Terraces, Cumberland Terraces, Nelson's View, Beach View Terraces and Mons Calpe Mews, with a breakdown of sales details for each, as follows: (a) how many flats have been sold with 100% financing from the purchaser; (b) how many have been sold with a 50/50 ratio; and (c) how many have been sold at any other ratio and specify what the ratio is?

775 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, in answer to (a) 106 flats; in answer to (b) 838 flats; and in answer to (c) there are 14 at 60%, one at 65%, four at 70%, two at 75% and one at 80%.

780 Mr Speaker, if I may, in relation to the last question that Mr Phillips asked me I have confirmation from my office that the supplementary information I had was incorrect, so I am glad I did not give out the figures. They looked incorrect to me at a glance but I now have confirmation that they were.

785 I am sorry about that, Mr Speaker. My office did not add them up properly, but Mr Phillips and I can discuss this at a later date.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I move that the House should now adjourn to – Have you got a question?

790 Mr Speaker: Do you have a supplementary? Yes, go on. The Hon. Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Sorry, Mr Speaker. If I may take the Minister to her last answer, in respect of (c) she gave various flats and different percentages. Can I ask the Minister: are these percentages between 60% and 80% discretionary? My understanding was the general offer was 795 50/50 or 100. These specific cases, are they tailored for individuals? How have these cases arisen?

Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, put into context that the question asks about Beach View, Cumberland, Nelson's and Mons Calpe, the majority of these estates were estates that 800 were sold by the previous administration.

The only reason I make this distinction is because there were slightly different rules. When co-ownership developments have been offered for sale, the co-ownership element of equity by the Government of up to 50% has always been offered and then it is up to the purchaser to decide how much of that offer they may want to take into account, and obviously that, in the 805 majority of cases, will be based on affordability. If the purchase price of a flat is £100,000 but it is offered to you on a 50% basis at £50,000 and that is all you can afford, then that is what you choose.

The reason I make the distinction between all these estates and the difference between them and Mons Calpe Mews is because the policy of the previous administration was to give priority in 810 allocation to those who bought a greater percentage of the home, so that the Government would have a lower equity. So someone who offered to buy a flat on a 100% basis would have a higher priority of allocation than somebody who could only afford to buy 50%. As a socialist Government, because we thought that was unfair, we did away with that rule and everybody has the same opportunity to buy in these estates. The difference is that you now no longer have 815 an advantage if you can afford to pay more towards the purchase price.

Hon. L F Llamas: Sorry, just one final supplementary. Does the Minister have a breakdown by development with these figures, or are they just global figures on the percentages?

820 Hon. Miss S M Sacramento: Mr Speaker, I do have a breakdown but it is quite lengthy. I am happy to show the hon. Gentleman later.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I now move that the House should adjourn until tomorrow at 4 p.m. 825

Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn until tomorrow afternoon at 4 p.m.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, the value of deposits by Community Care with the Savings Bank cannot be provided.

50

The monetary value of the Government deposits with the Savings Bank on the dates requested are as follows: April, £296,828,170; May, £292,117,177; June, £287,255,467; July, £280,674,500; August, £276,139,998; September, £292,230,272; October, £330,181,963; November, £318,107,745; December, £273,615,257; January this year, £267,127,589; February, £260,446,189.

55

The figures requested for 1st January 2018 are: gross debt, £447.7 million; Sinking Fund, £5.2 million; aggregate debt, £442.5 million; cash, £94 million; net debt, £348.5 million.

60

The equivalent for February is: gross debt, £447.7 million, same figure; Sinking Fund, £5.2 million; aggregate debt, £442.5 million; cash, £118.2 million; net debt, £342.3 million.

The position as regards the total liquid assets composition, when, where and how these are invested on a particular date chosen by the Member opposite, continues to be as previously stated.

65

Any plans that Gibtelecom may or may not have to expand into other countries will be made public if and when Gibtelecom considers it commercially desirable to do so.

Mr Speaker: Could I ask the Minister to check the last figure that he gave – net debt? He said £322.3 million. Is it £322 million or –?

70

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: No, £324 million.

Mr Speaker: £324.3 million, right.

75 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, if you will just bear with me while I digest the answers from the Hon. Minister – (Interjection) Sorry? No, I will carry on.

If I can take the Minister's last answer in respect of Gibtelecom, he did make an announcement at the Commonwealth Telecommunications Conference held in Gibraltar that we are looking to 'expand elsewhere into other countries'. Can he give any kind of indication as to what the thought process is or what kind of level of investment he may be thinking of?

A mobile phone rang.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: This is probably Gibtelecom? (Laughter)

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): [Inaudible] roaming (Laughter)

85 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, I do not think it is right for me to go beyond what the company wants to make public. These things are commercially sensitive. If they chose to make that comment in the CTO conference and not say any more than that, then it is not for me to advance any additional information, as far as I am concerned, just because we happen to be the shareholders.

90

Hon. R M Clinton: But, Mr Speaker, the Minister must acknowledge that the quote was attributed to him and not to the company, unless of course Panorama got the quote wrong.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, I am sure if it was attributed to me it will not have been about Gibtelecom; it would have been about the Government doing something elsewhere – which we are, as you know.

95

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, without labouring the point too much, if I can read what was said here:

'People from anywhere

– and this is attributed to yourself, Minister – can sell anything to anybody,' he said. 'Gibtel is under great pressure from the competitive environment that they have to operate in and we are looking to expand elsewhere into other countries.'

100 Does he recall any of that?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: I do not recall those exact words, but the hon. Member is aware that we are talking to other people about the ownership of Gibtel – we have been for a very long time – and therefore, to the extent that we are successful in getting someone to invest in Gibtel at a price that is suitable for us, that would involve Gibtel being involved in activities outside Gibraltar as well, as a consequence of a shareholder coming in that is new. That would be the context in which I would have said that.

105

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Minister for his answer.

110 If I can just move back to the answer given to Question 404, the Minister said that the information requested cannot be provided. I would be grateful if he could explain why, seeing as he himself said in answer to the previous question, in respect of Community Care's investments:

The historical position has always been that Community Care deposits its surplus funds in the Savings Bank; that is what has always been done.

115 I would just be grateful, Mr Speaker, if the Minister could explain why he cannot give us the balances of Community Care at those points in time, or even perhaps a percentage of the assets that they have with the Savings Bank.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, I assume he is asking me as the Minister responsible for the Savings Bank and not because I am the one who set Community Care up in 1989.

120 I was telling him what Community Care has done traditionally, but I have to tell him that the Savings Bank's Ordinance specifically prohibits making public information about the deposits of any one of its depositors. I would have thought that if he comes from a bank ... I do not think the bank would keep many customers when he was in his bank if he went around publishing the accounts of people without their prior consent.

125 The amount that any customer has in the Savings Bank is not something that any official can provide for me so that I make it public. If that happened, in fact, it would be an offence which is punishable by a fine at scale 5. Since I don't ... much as I like the hon Member, I am not prepared to risk being fined at scale 5 in order to give him the information. (Laughter).

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I appreciate what the Minister is saying, but can I ask him this: 130 given that historically the money was with the Savings Bank – and perhaps even having mentioned that he may still be liable to a fine at scale 5 since he has disclosed that they have an account with the Savings Bank, but then so has the Principal Auditor in his report of March 2014, who also disclosed that Community Care has money with the Savings Bank – can the Minister advise the House as to the future? He says that in the past it has been in the Savings Bank, but 135 can he confirm to this House that it is his expectation that in the future the money will be in the Savings Bank?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the hon. Member wrote an article recently in which he was saying that he was going to spend a lot of time looking into Community Care. I have already 140 pointed out to him in the answer that I gave him to the question that he is referring to that the question of Community Care has always been accepted in this Parliament as being an independent thing which we do not debate in Parliament. If he has been doing all this research which he mentioned in his article, I am surprised that he missed the research as to why it is that the accounts are not brought to the House: they are not brought to the House because they 145 were stopped by the greatest living Gibraltarian.

When he stopped it and he told me in the House that they were stopping it because it was not in the public interest that it should happen, I accepted it without question. So I suggest that he goes back and looks at that argument because his party in power told me that it was better not to discuss the matter in this House and I accepted it. And I told him the last time the level of 150 information that I used to get and the level of information that I had in Government and in Opposition, and that is the level of information that he is going to get from me or from anybody else.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I will ask just a final supplementary on this. Can the Minister 155 advise the House how it is that he can assert that Community Care has reserves of £100 million in what he describes as a rainy-day fund as at March 2015 and yet the audited accounts, the last ones that are available are June 2014? How can he be so sure that Community Care has £100 million?

160 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, whereas I am prohibited by law from giving him the information that any customer of the Savings Banks has, I am not prohibited by any law to be 100% accurate in what we put in the manifesto or in the public statements we make. If that was so, the hon. Member would be in court every day of the week.

165 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, given that the Government makes a song and dance about the fact that it has these rainy day funds, this being one of them, can the Hon. Minister at the very least tell me this: that that rainy fund remains intact within the Gibraltar Savings Bank and has not been used for the purposes of any type of Government projects and Government 170 expenditure directly or, if I may say so, indirectly for Government projects and Government expenditure?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the only issue with a rainy day fund is that it is intact when you need to access it. We do not monitor what the charity does with the money that it has and I am not here to give explanations or answers about what the charity does with its money – and 175 he should know that because he was in the Government before when that was the position of the Government in which he served as a Minister.

The position is that we gave Community Care, as the GSLP, up to 1995, enough money for them to have a surplus, which the GSD inherited and used as a rainy day fund by stopping giving them any money, and the money that would have gone to the Community Care charity was 180 diverted to other uses. For 15 years they did that and it was the reserves provided by the GSLP administration that kept the charity going for those 15 years. At the end of it, they revealed there had been a deliberate policy to get rid of the charity.

Since, when he became Leader of the Opposition, he said that was no longer the policy. I am not sure whether it is a policy under the new Leader of the Opposition and whether it will be the 185 same policy under the new leader of the party. We will eventually presume that it has to be one or the other: either they are going to get rid of it, as they intended to when they were in Government, or they are not going to get rid of it, as when he was leading the party.

I am not here to answer questions on Community Care. All I can tell the hon. Member is that we provided enough money to him by the last election to enable them to build up their reserves 190 and I can tell him that traditionally that is where they kept their money. That is the amount of information I have provided and I am not willing to provide any more.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker, but does – and I am sure that he does, but he must accept that the Government is answerable to this House for any use of money in terms of 195 Government expenditure and for Government projects.

He has criticised the GSD, as he has done now, the GSD Government, for ... On the one hand, what he says is, 'You did not invest in Community Care and you diverted the money that you should have invested in Community Care into Government projects and Government 200 expenditure.' That may be right, I do not know; I am asking the question. I am asking for him to dispel that. But if what is happening here is that he is putting the money in Community Care but then from Community Care it is still being used to fund Government projects and Government expenditure, well then he is criticising himself; it is just that he is doing it in a different way, but the outcome is exactly the same. I just want to drill down and I want him to assure this House that that is not the position; and if he does, then of course I will accept it.

205 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Yes, Mr Speaker, but if I did, not only would he accept it but he would have had me accepting that he is entitled to ask me questions about Community Care and what it does with its money and establish a precedent that I am here to give answers to those questions – and I am not.

210 I can tell him that my criticism is not just because they used the money for something else, which they were perfectly entitled to do; it is because they promised to do the opposite. It is because they said in this House that they stopped giving it money because the revenue from the money that we had left was sufficient to meet the recurrent expenditure of the charity but that the moment that there was insufficient investment revenue they would not allow the charity to 215 have to dip into its reserves, wherever they were invested, in order to meet recurrent spending.
That is what they said, and having said that here in Parliament as categorically and as clearly as I am saying it, and having then repeated it in an election campaign – it was all before he joined them – they then revealed in 2010, when he was there, that the running down had been a deliberate policy going on since 1996 so that when the reserves were completely exhausted 220 Community Care would be closed down and the payment to pensioners would be paid through the Social Security system. In fact, it was said that this would be done because it had been delayed after the 2011 election, so he stood as a candidate on a platform of replacing Community Care, having committed publicly in previous elections and committed in Parliament to the opposite policy.

225 That is why I am entitled to precedence, not because in Government you can decide to do something with your revenue ... than what you thought you were doing because you think there has been a change of policy. Of course they could do it, but what they could not do is deny that they were doing it, and that is what they were doing.

230 Hon. D A Feetham: Okay, Mr Speaker, so when we strip that very long answer, essentially what he is telling me is, 'I am not prepared to tell you and therefore I am not prepared to tell this Parliament and I am not prepared to tell the people of Gibraltar whether the £100 million rainy day fund in Community Care is being spent on Government projects and on Government expenditure.' The people of Gibraltar will obviously judge him at election time, together with all 235 the other answers and all the other information that his Government has failed to provide to this Parliament and the people of Gibraltar.

But can I ask this at least: is this £100 million, or the money in Community Care, is it kept as part of that central pooling of money together with Treasury? You may recall our discussions in terms of Credit Finance and Gibraltar Investment Holdings. Is it all part of one central pool of 240 money and do Community Care moneys form part of that central pool?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, I think that the people of Gibraltar will come to the conclusion that the Members opposite are still intent on getting rid of Community Care because the very reason that was given when they were defending it, which was in 1996 when they 245 stopped publishing accounts and stopped giving information, was to protect it and it is quite obvious they are not remotely interested in protecting it anymore.

I can tell him that he should know the answer to the question that he is asking me and that by putting the question that he is putting he shows he has not got a clue about the Government finances or anything else in all the questions and all the analysis he makes, because if there was 250 a possibility that there was some logic to his answer, it would imply that the entire £1 billion of the Savings Bank is part of the pool.

So that is the answer to his question, and if he does not even understand that then I give up.
(Laughter)

255 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, Hon. Members opposite laugh. I do not even think that they have understood the answer, and they are laughing! I do not think they have understood the answer.

Let me ask a simple question. Perhaps we can get further with this question: can he at least say that the moneys belonging to Community Care are kept segregated by the Gibraltar Savings 260 Bank?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, I have not said Community Care has the money in the Gibraltar Savings Bank. I have told him that it is in breach of the law to do what he is asking me to do, which is either to reveal the identity of a depositor or to reveal the quantity of money he 265 has got. The law says I cannot give that information. That is the first thing I told him. Do I need to quote the Savings Bank Act, Mr Speaker?

A person who contravenes the provisions of this section – that says that the name of a depositor or the amount deposited may not be revealed – is guilty of an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine at level 5 on the standard scale.

And he is asking me to reveal that, as I stand here today, Community Care is a depositor in the Savings Bank and that the money of a depositor in the Savings Bank is a quantity of given money or how it is being used or not used.

270

The previous question was: is the money of a depositor in the Savings Bank a part of the pool of Government money? Well, look, depositors in the Savings Bank have deposited £1 billion. If the £1 billion was part of the pool, the pool would have to be more than £1 billion because, by the laws of physics and simple arithmetic, you cannot put a bigger thing into a smaller one. The pool is less than £1 billion.

275

Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, thank you very much to the Minister for that answer.

If after I read this out he needs a QC to represent him in court lest he be prosecuted for what I am going to be reading out, I will represent him on a pro bono basis (Interjection by Hon. Sir JJ Bossano and laughter) because on 20th September 2017, in answer to questions from my hon. Friend Mr Clinton, he says:

280

The historical position has always been that Community Care deposits its surplus funds in the Gibraltar Savings Bank; that is what it has always done.

And now he is giving me this speech in answer to my question about how he would be in breach of the law in revealing this and revealing that.

All I want to know, Mr Speaker, is – and I am not going to ask anymore because I know that I am tasking Mr Speaker's patience – is that money that he has said is deposited – him to this House, publicly – in the Gibraltar Savings Bank being kept segregated. That is all I am asking.

285

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, his deficiency is not just in numbers; it is also in language.

I certainly want to make clear that not only would I not pay him and not only would I not have his services free, I would not even have him as my lawyer to defend me if he paid me.

290

I have not said they have got money now in the Savings Bank. My answer is: the historical position has always been that Community Care deposits its surplus funds in the Savings Bank; that is what it has always done. That is not telling you or anybody else they have an account today and this is the money in the account. This is called past tense and the other is called present tense. That is part of the English language that he did not understand.

295

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am sorry but the answer that he has given is important because what he appears to be implying now is, 'Although when I answered questions in the past about where the money from Community Care was deposited and I said, "It's in the Gibraltar Savings Bank," it is no longer in the Gibraltar Savings Bank.' Therefore, that begs the question: if it is not in the Gibraltar Savings Bank, where is Community Care's money?

300

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Yes, and the questions that it begs are: am I here to tell him where Gibraltar Community Care keeps its money? No. Is he entitled to ask me? No. Should he be asking me? No. Why? Because when he was in Government, the policy of the party that was then in Government was that in the public interest I should not be asking questions about Community Care. So now the public interest does not matter and the survival of Community Care does not matter, and he is going to ask questions?

305

Well, I will not give him the answers for the same reasons that the greatest living Gibraltarian – in his eyes – told me he would not give me an answer in 1996 or 1997, except that I accepted it when I was told that and he does not. That is the difference between us – well, one of them.

310

Mr Speaker: I think that, given that the Minister is saying that in the public interest he is not prepared to answer questions, we should move on.

315 Hon. R M Clinton: Yes, Mr Speaker, I just have one supplementary.

I am grateful to the Minister for his answers, but can he answer me this. He may or may not be aware of the Kids Company case in the United Kingdom, which is the charity which received money from government and then that charity came under heavy criticism for the way that money was used. Parliament still had an obligation to at least follow up on how public money is being expended, and certainly there was a whole select committee hearing on that.

320 Would the Minister not agree that this place, this Parliament, has an interest in how a charity is expending £190 million, certainly since 2011, that has been granted to that charity by this House and that we have a legitimate interest to ask questions about how that money is invested?

325 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, this is not about any old charity; this is about a charity that was set up to protect Gibraltar pensioners whose livelihood was under threat. Or is it that he does not know anything about his history? That was the reason why the then Chief Minister said we must not do or say anything in this House that would enable people who would be listening in to make use of it in order to undermine the valuable work the charity is doing. That was the reason why he said, 'Although I said I was going to publish the accounts when I was in Opposition, now that I have come in I have decided that I am not going to publish the accounts.'

330 I am astonished that he can write an article about all the research he has done and omit that bit of the research he has not done. It is in Hansard.

335 So that is the answer to his question. I do not know of the case he was talking about, but I am sure that there were not thousands of people clamouring to be potential beneficiaries.

Hon. R M Clinton: Sorry, Mr Speaker, I had intended to continue with this but given the Minister's response ... The information is public, as he well knows. It is publicly available for anybody who cares to know where to look for it, which I will not disclose now because it is publicly available and he knows exactly where it can be obtained. He also knows, Mr Speaker – or he must know by now – that I have written a letter of complaint to the Charities Commissioner in that Community Care has not filed its accounts with the Charities Commission for the last three years.

345 If he is so concerned about these pensioners, he surely must have a concern as to where the money is.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, what I am concerned about is the innuendo of the hon. Member opposite: I should be concerned about the moneys. What is he suggesting – that the trustees have run off with the money? That they have got it in a secret account in Switzerland, or in his former bank?

Hon. R M Clinton: How do you know?

355 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: How do you know? Well, because in Gibraltar we all know each other and I know who is capable of doing certain things and who is capable of not doing certain things. We happen to be a very close-knit community? He may not be a part of it – I do not know – but I am and have been for 45 years and I would not dream of saying that of anybody unless I really thought that they were capable of doing something that they should not be doing.

360 The reason why we have not discussed it here when the GSD was in Government is not because the accounts should or should not be made public but because the GSD had a responsible Opposition when I was on that side that never tried to take political advantage of anything that was happening when they had to choose between partisan political benefit and what was good or bad for Gibraltar. That is the difference between him and me.

365

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, my final point on this is that he is the one who politicised this first by calling the money in Community Care a rainy day fund and including it in his manifesto. He is the one who has made this a political point. It is not about the pensioners; it is about his manifesto.

370

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, if it is about my manifesto, then the hon. Member should know that we have won an election on that manifesto and therefore clearly the people support the concept like they supported it when it was done in the past.

I have already demonstrated to him how it can function in a situation when the money that this charity has has to be made use of and relieves a Government of the necessity of giving money to the charity.

So it is a fund that is not available for the Government to use for other things but it is a fund that will enable the charity to continue if we found ourselves in a year's time, as a result of Brexit, in a situation where we were not able to give support to Community Care. The concept of a rainy day fund would be there to continue to support the pensioners, although it would not be there for use for anything else. That is not too difficult to understand, surely.

He may say, 'Well, you shouldn't call it a rainy day fund.' He may say, 'Well, you should use the rainy day fund another day! ...' Well, look, the hon. Member has no right to tell us what to do in something that is our programme and not his. He does not believe in rainy day funds. The first thing that (Hon. R M Clinton: I do.) his party did when they got here was to say, 'Today is the rainy day,' and started spending all the money. So, if they do not believe in a rainy day fund when they are in Government, they have said they believe in it now that they are in Opposition, it remains to be seen what happens when and if they ever get back into Government – but they say one thing in Opposition and they do something different in Government; they defend one policy in Government and then they attack it in Opposition and there is no consistency.

Mr Speaker: One last supplementary.

Hon. D A Feetham: I am very grateful, Mr Speaker.

395

Mr Speaker: If it is a supplementary question, I will allow the Minister to reply, and then we will move on to the next question on the agenda.

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, I am very grateful.

400

No, Mr Speaker, I am afraid the Minister has mischaracterised what we are trying to do. What we are trying to do is, in pursuance of our public duty, (1) make sure that they are doing what they say they are doing in relation to Community Care, and that is creating a rainy day fund, and that that fund continues to exist, and (2) trying to elicit from him information as to whether the trustees of Community Care are using this money in order to fund Government projects and Government expenditure.

405

I have given him several opportunities to basically say to me very simply, 'No, I can tell the Member this money continues to be ... I am not telling him where, but it continues to be there, intact, and it is not being used for Government projects or Government expenditure,' and he has refused to take up that opportunity. The problem with failing to take that opportunity and then hiding behind all the technical legal arguments that he has raised – he sounds like the lawyer, not me, because he is the one who has raised all those technical arguments – is that, of course, then it leads us to a situation where we then start raising inferences which may be improper inferences, but they are improper inferences because he refused to give us the information.

410

415 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, information that he is not entitled to ask me about because when he was in Government they refused to answer questions on Community Care because they said that answering questions about Community Care was not in the public interest and would put the charity at risk, and that the level of information that was available to the 420 Government was limited and that it was equally limited to the Opposition. That has been what has been done by the GSD in power for 15 years and by the GSLP in power for eight years, and it is only being changed now that there is this mix-up of philosophies on the other side with the hon. Member saying one thing when he was the leader, and somebody has been the leader who may or may not agree with the hon. Member, and the leader that may in future replace him having a different view.

425 Hopefully we will get back to one of the few things that the greatest Gibraltarian – in the hon.
Member's mind – and I ever agreed on, which was that it was better not to discuss Community Care in this House or their money or where they had it or what it was used for. That is the position that I agreed with the former Chief Minister under the GSD Government and that is the position that I am adopting – regrettably not by mutual agreement because they do not agree 430 and they do not care if they put this charity at risk.

Mr Speaker: Question 411.

Q411-416/2018

Government workers employed through recruitment agents –
Minimum wage; areas of employment; term of employment; inconsistency with figures previously given

Clerk: Question 411. The Hon. D A Feetham.

435 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, how many individuals employed by recruitment or labour supply agencies and placed within Government Departments, agencies, authorities and companies are on the minimum wage?

440 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): I will answer this question with Questions 412 to 416.

445 Hon. D A Feetham: In relation to the previous question on the number of individuals within the public service employed by recruitment or labour supply agencies, please identify the Department, agency, authority and/or Government company where those individuals are working.

450 Clerk: Question 413. The Hon. D A Feetham.

the public service employed by recruitment or labour supply agencies, how long have those 455 individuals been working within those Departments, agencies, authorities and/or Government companies?

Clerk: Question 414. The Hon. D A Feetham.

460 Hon. D A Feetham: Further to answers to Questions 252 and 186/2018 in relation to the number of individuals working within Government Departments, companies, agencies or authorities through services provided by recruitment consultants and agencies, how does the Government explain the marked inconsistency in the answers provided?

465 Clerk: Question 415. The Hon. D A Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: How many individuals are currently being trained under Government-sponsored training schemes, identifying the scheme and the number of individuals per scheme?

475 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, the number of individuals provided by labour supply agencies known to be on the National Minimum Wage is 188, deployed as follows.

The answer to Question 186 was drafted on the basis of persons actually working in December 2017.

525 The answer to Question 252 was drafted on the basis of persons who had been supplied to work in those Departments up to December 2017.

There is no inconsistency, marked or otherwise, with the answers provided to Questions 306 and W21/2018.

530 The number of individuals training in Government-sponsored schemes is as follows: carpentry, 11; painting, 9; plumbing, 13; wet trades, 31; bus driver, 8; lorry driver, 7; forklift operator, 4; nursing assistants, 12; administration, 6; security, 7; domestic, 2; scaffolders, 4; healthcare, 1; site controller, 1; electrical, 1; cook, 1; messenger, 1; hairdressing, 1; IT, 2; procurement, 1, crew member, 1; sales manager, 1; kitchen porter, 1.

535 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, in relation to the inconsistency, when I asked Minister Costa about people who are working within recruitment consultants within the GHA and the Care Agency and elsewhere, he said that there were 62 within the GHA; he then said there were 382 within the Care Agency and he also said that there were 127 within the Elderly Residential Services.

540 If you look at the answer that the Hon. the Minister has provided me, it was markedly less. He accepts therefore that the answer that the Hon. Minister Costa has provided me was an up-to-date accurate answer in relation to those areas, and therefore if I need to comment publicly or otherwise about the amount of people who are working through recruitment consultants in those areas – Care Agency, GHA, Elderly Residential Services – I should be relying on Minister Costa's figures, not the figures that he provided in answer to me?

545 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, that depends on what he intended to ask with the question, because he did say on 31st December. If I had prepared the answer, I would have given him the number of people working on that day, but in fact the figures that I got were for the people working in that month and the figure that Mr Costa was provided with was the people who had worked in the financial year – that is from 1st April to December. It does not mean they worked throughout the period, because particularly in an area like care and the Health Service people work different rosters and different times, so it does not mean that there can be 100 people working but they are not 100 all there on one day if you ask for the figure for one day.

555 The reason, quite apart from the fact that some parts of the questions that were put to my colleague were not in the question that he put to me, they are not identical – in fact, if they had been identical they would not have been accepted ... So there was a slightly different focus because mine was about all areas of the Government and his was about the areas for which he was responsible.

560 But in any event the figures are, as far as we are concerned, accurate in the context that I have told him – that it is not just for the month of December. The figure he got was not just for the month of December, so there will have been some people who had worked earlier in the year but were not working in that month.

Hon. D A Feetham: I just want to get an accurate picture. I asked two separate questions from two separate angles. The first question was: as at 31st December 2017, how many individuals were working within the GHA, Care Agency and the Elderly Residential Services through recruitment consultants and how many were employed directly by those organisations? So I wanted it as at that date – not a year earlier, as at that date. I wanted to get a picture of how many people were in these Government agencies or Departments as at that date through recruitment consultants. That is what I wanted to get at. I asked the same question in terms of the public service generally, which I knew was going to be answered by the Hon. Minister, to see what answer he gave me, and then I had two separate answers.

Look, I am not going to, across the floor of this House, engage in criticisms of the answers, even though they are susceptible to criticism. What I want to know is the accuracy. Are we then saying that even the answer that was provided to me by Minister Costa is not accurate because I asked as at 31st December and the figures that he has provided are not as at 31st December, they are for the entire year? So somebody who might have been working in February, for example, who no longer works as at 31st December within those Government agencies, is still included within those figures? And of course if that is the position, can I have a proper statistical information as to what is the position on 31st December?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Mr Speaker, the answer to that is that the people who prepared the answer did not interpret it the way he has done it and the way I would have done it, which is to say you want it for that particular date – that is why you said 31st December. I think they took the question on the basis of who had been on the books of the agency or the Hospital in a period which included 31st December. So he did not get the figure for that particular date, that is clear.

Hon. D A Feetham: I understand what the hon. Gentleman is getting at. Of course, because we are dealing with labour from recruitment consultants and the nature of that labour, in certain circumstances – not in all circumstances, but in some circumstances – there are people who have been working for three years. For example, I know somebody who came to see me recently, through a recruitment consultant in a Government Department – various Government Departments, I should say, for three years solid, continuously ... But of course the nature of this type of labour is that somebody may, for example, be working on the 28th for five hours and may not be doing any hours on the 31st, but may do five hours on 1st January, so the figures that the hon. Gentleman has provided at least are accurate in the sense that those are the people on the books, so those are the people who are basically covering for the hours as and when they are needed.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Yes, Mr Speaker, the information that he got is accurate because it has been prepared by the staff in those Departments; it is just that they did not interpret literally the question as I would have done. If I had drafted that question I would have simply said who was on duty that night and given him that number, but obviously the people thought he wanted more than that and gave him more than he asked for. I always try and make sure that we do not upset him by giving him more than he asks for!

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, so the answer to my original question – why the inconsistency – is because the civil servants were being helpful and the Hon. Minister, in answer to the other question, was being unhelpful! Now I understand why there is a difference between the two answers. I have to say I could not work it out myself.

He knows that I have a lot of affection for him, even though he gets jealous with me every time because of that statement that escaped my lips about the greatest Gibraltarian of all time – I know that did not go down very well – but I have to say I prefer the Hon. Minister Costa's answers every single day of the year to the Hon. Member's answers.

615 In relation to the answer to Question 415 – I asked how many vacancies are there in the public service – he said none. Then Mr Llamas asked how many vacancies are there in the Civil Service and somebody else gave him a long list of vacancies within the Civil Service. Can he just explain the thought process in relation to the answer that I got, that in the public service there 620 are none but there is a huge schedule that goes to Mr Llamas, other than the fact that obviously at the time Mr Llamas was more likeable than I was when I was asking those questions?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, I like him quite a lot, actually, Mr Speaker – he does not have to get worried about that; he knows that. I do not like some of the things he has done, but I like him.

625 The position is that notwithstanding his great admiration for the greatest ever living Gibraltarian, he did not pay a lot of attention to him because the greatest ever living Gibraltarian came up with this concept, which we have continued to adopt, and he created the concept to make the restructuring that he was doing in the public service ... that is to say the public service and the Civil Service were the same thing when everybody was a civil servant. When he created 630 agencies, authorities, the GEA and the Borders and Coastguard and all of these things, he said,
'Well, there is a thing called the public sector which is composed of two things, the public service and the Civil Service.'

He has had all this explanation before from the Hon. Chief Minister in a previous debate about a previous question about vacancies. In the public service there are no vacancies because 635 there is no fixed complement. That is the answer he has been given before. That was one of the advantages of persuading people to move out of the Civil Service, where there is a fixed complement, which in the view of the GSD administration justified giving people a 12% premium over what civil servants get. So the people in the agencies get 12% more than the people in the Civil Service, and the agencies form the public service. The total public sector, which is around 640 5,000, is split into two halves: 2,500 civil servants, more or less; and 2,500 public servants, more or less. The public servants get more money but do not have fixed quotas of jobs.

He asked me about the place where there are no fixed quotas for jobs and the answer is that there are no vacancies there by definition – by the definition of the previous administration.
Mr Llamas asked me about the Civil Service and accurately I gave him the figures for the Civil 645 Service. That is why there is no inconsistency.

Hon. D A Feetham: Just for my benefit in future ... I have to say I disagree with him in terms of this distinction between the public service and the Civil Service, to the extent that it seeks to attribute that distinction to something that the GSD Government did. I have always interpreted 650 the public service as including the Civil Service, but the Civil Service is not the same. The Civil Service is not the extent of the public service, but the public service includes the Civil Service plus also the GDC and other areas.

So, in his view – I can see that Mr Speaker wants to intervene, but may I ...? I can see that Mr Speaker wants to impart his own knowledge of the issue.

Mr Speaker: No, I am not going to involve myself in the politics.

Hon. D A Feetham: Right. But as far as he is concerned, the public service therefore is what?
The GDC? Public authorities and agencies? What exactly does the public service include – for my 660 benefit in the future when I ask these questions? I have always assumed public service includes the Civil Service, although the Civil Service does not equate entirely with the public service, obviously.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: No, Mr Speaker, the terminology is the public sector are paid by the 665 public and they are composed of two elements: the Civil Service, who are servants of the Crown; and people who are servants of publicly owned entities, and that is the public service.

670 The public service is GJBS and the public service is the Health Authority and the public service is the Electricity Authority, and they are not employees of the Crown; they are employees of an entity which can be a statutory body which is created by a law or it can be a limited liability company like GJBS is.

675 So, when we answer questions about the public service, the public service is the non-Civil Service part of the public sector. The difference between the two in terms of their status is that in fact the civil servants are the servants of the Crown and the person who works in the GHA is not a servant of the Crown; he is a servant of the GHA.

Mr Speaker: Right. With that having been made abundantly clear, we move on to Question 417.

Q417-418/2018

Public service pensions; Government offices at Europort –
Introduction of administrative charge; monthly rental costs

Clerk: Question 417. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

680 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Can Government explain why it has implemented an administrative charge to public servants for their contributory pensions?

685 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question with Question 418.

690 Clerk: Question 418. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: How much rent per month does the Government pay for its offices in Europort in respect of: (1) the Finance Centre; (2) the offices of the Financial Services Ministry; and (3) the Ministry for Traffic and Transport?

695 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

700 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, there has always been an administrative charge in respect of public sector contributory occupational pensions. It was recently noticed that the charge in respect of one of the funds which was announced in January 2012 had not been implemented and this omission is now being corrected.

705 The Finance Centre offices which have been rented since 1998 currently pay £7,600, and the offices of the Financial Services Ministry, which are shared with the office of the Ministry for Tourism and the Port, also pay £7,600. The third office mentioned is the Ministry for Transport and the monthly rent there is £3,455.

710 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I take the answer from the hon. Gentleman about the charge that may or may not have been paid, but what would he say to the public servants who have made it quite clear that this is a new charge that they did not know about?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not think they should be, frankly, quibbling about the charge, given the fact that when we introduced the new scheme in 2012, the Guaranteed Superannuation Fund, which we had committed ourselves to ... We actually have a fund where 715 people pay 8% and the employer pays 17%. With the fund that was there before, which had an administrative charge which was very small, they were paying a charge and the employer was only paying 10%. That is to say in the pension fund that existed where the charge was being paid for the administration, the contribution of the employer was 10% of the pay. In the new one,
720 where it was announced in January 2012 that there was going to be a charge but it has been overlooked and it has not been implemented, they are actually getting a much better deal than the people who were paying the charge in the previous one because they put in 8%, so if they put in £8 the Government puts in £17 and that means their fund has now got £25. Administering that £25 carries a charge, which is a few pennies. I do not think they should quibble about a few pennies, given the deal that they are getting. Other people in the same job prior to January 2012
725 put in a fiver, got £10 and had a charge for a pot of money that was fifteen quid.

Therefore, what she can tell the people is that they are not being asked to pay something that other people have not been paying before, really they are being asked to pay something that they should have been paying since January 2012 and it has been an omission by the civil servants administering the scheme that they were not being charged, and that all the people 730 before January 2012 have been paying in, even though their pension pot was less valuable than the one that we brought in when we came in in 2011. So, even after paying a few pennies charge for their contribution, they are still getting a very good deal. And in any event, they are lucky that it has been overlooked for six years – they should have been paying it since January 2012.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Thank you, Mr Speaker, for that answer.

The question is that now, unlike before, when the fund was private, the civil servants or the public service is paying a fee for a service run by civil servants. So who is actually profiting by something that looks like a stealth tax?

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, the service charge, I am told, is a very small amount compared to what it is. It is not like what private companies charge when they administer investments. But the Provident Funds that were introduced 10 or 15 years ago have all carried a charge from the beginning and the charge is because the duties of the civil servants that administer these things ... There is a charge made, if you like, by the Government to the Provident Fund for the 740 time that the Civil Service are spending not on Civil Service work but on the work of the fund, even though the civil servant himself may be a beneficiary of that particular fund.

All I am saying is that since this is an issue that has been there now for 20 years, nobody has ever questioned it and nobody has complained about it and it was there from day one. The people who are questioning it now are the people who, by mistake, were not being charged for 745 six years until somebody has woken up to the fact. We did not introduce the concept of the charge because there was no contributory scheme in the public sector in the past, and therefore when the public service – which is the non-Civil Service element – was created, people who were working in entities which were not civil servants by definition were not servants of the Crown and they were not entitled to the statutory Civil Service Pension Fund. So you had, in the system
750 that developed post 1996, people who were civil servants who were in the Civil Service Pension Fund, and you had people who were not civil servants, who were public servants in the public service, who then had a Provident Fund created for them. That Provident Fund had a charge. The people could pay 5% of their pay – it is still in existence, there are still people in that system – and the employer pays 10% of the pay. There is a small administrative charge for the time that 755 is taken, which is not time for work on Civil Service duties but time for work on the administering of that, but it is frankly insignificant in the context of the value of those funds.

When we came in in 2011, the decision of the previous administration was triggered at the time that we came in, which was that all new entrants into the Civil Service would no longer

765 enter into the Civil Service final salary scheme; they would enter into the Provident Fund. We actually thought at the time when this was done that the gap between the Provident Fund and the Civil Service final salary scheme was too big, that the alternative that had been put, 770 compared very badly with what was being ended. We could understand the argument – the previous Government thought that this was a ticking time bomb, and in fact it does grow. The cost of administering the payments and making the payments to the Civil Service grows by about £2 million or £3 million every year, even though there are no new members coming in. This is just from the people who were there before. So the last Government took the decision, it was accepted by the Civil Service and it was agreed with the unions and it was implemented.

775 We actually felt that the new scheme, the Provident Fund, was significantly less valuable than what had been ended and we decided to create something that would be better to bridge that gap, and that is the Superannuation Fund, and the gap obviously is closer to the original because we actually came up with the figure of 25%. The figure of 25% is not an accident. The figure of 25% was a figure that we thought of – I thought of – because the people in the Civil Service who were not on the Civil Service Pension Scheme used to get 25% in lieu, so the Civil Service Pension Scheme was valued for contract officers at 25%. So we thought, ‘Well, we will try and put 780 something that is closer to the Civil Service Pension Scheme and we will make the total value 25%. One third of the 25% is paid by the employee and two thirds by the employer. That is how it has all come about, so that explains how the system is what it is.

785 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I understand what the hon. Gentleman is trying to explain and I appreciate it, but when talking about the admin fee we are talking about public servants paying a fee to public servants to administer what is a new pension scheme, and it just seems a bit circular and unnecessary, given that it is no longer going to a private fund. It is now being administered by the same people, so I do not understand why the admin fee itself has to be implemented.

790

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: I will try to make it easier to understand.

The first thing is that it is not something that is being done that is new; it has been there since the first Provident Fund was created. Okay?

795 The second thing is that the people who think that they are being asked to pay something new now actually should count themselves lucky because if they had been told in 2012, ‘You are going to pay a fee,’ they would not have queried it because everybody who was on a less valuable scheme was already paying the fee, so they were not being treated any worse. It is just that these things happen. It happens in the public sector and it happens, I suppose, in the private sector that things get overlooked and they do not get implemented.

800 Why do they need the fee? Well, there are costs involved in managing these things and therefore the cost can only be paid either by the beneficiary or from the fund. If the thing was not charged, presumably we would have to have some mechanism to deduct the money, otherwise what we are saying is the costs that are involved in the administration of this fund should be paid by the employer, who frankly is already paying £17 for every £8 that the 805 employee puts in. I do not think anybody in the private sector has got as good a deal as this, so I really do not see what more I can do to explain it.

810 There are things that are done which are not part of the duties of the civil servant, fees that have to be paid or whatever, and those things cannot be charged to any head of expenditure in the Estimates. Either the Government would have to pay the fee for the employee or the employee has to pay the fee to cover those costs. If the employee was not doing it, it would simply mean that we would have to put in more than £17 and the contribution would be more than £25.

815 Look, I think we have actually given people a good deal and most of the people who had the opportunity of switching from the scheme that existed in 2011 switched in 2012 because they appreciated that if you put into a fund £5 and I put £10, you have got £15; if I am telling you,

'You put in £8 and I will put in £17 and you have got £25,' it is quite obviously much better. It is not that you are paying a fee in the second one that you would not pay in the first one. You were paying it in the first one anyway.

820 I cannot tell her anymore because all I know is the explanation that was given to me, and to me it makes sense. I have tried to convey that to her, but I think the important thing is that, in terms of the approach to her that people might have felt that it was unfair, I hope they now understand that in fact they are not being treated unfairly in comparison with others because there are people who had been paying in for many years before the new scheme came in.

825 Mr Speaker: Question 419.

Hon. E J Reyes: May I, Mr Speaker? Just one small thing for clarification?

830 Mr Speaker: Yes.

Hon. E J Reyes: I am very grateful.

835 I understand the explanations. In a nutshell, because there was an oversight, they were not charged that and they are now being charged ... I think it is £20 or something. Are they going to ask them to make up for the contributions that were not made during the period 2012-18, or is that being written off? It is just to have an answer on the record.

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: As far as I am aware, nobody is going to be asked to make backdated payments. As far as I am aware.

Q419/2018

Unemployment due to disability or mental health problems – Government assistance

840 Clerk: Question 419. The Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, can the Government explain how it is supporting adult members of this community who are unable to work due to disabilities or mental health in order to obtain employment?

845 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB.

850 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, it is difficult to provide assistance to obtain employment to persons who are unable to work.

855 If they are able to work, the assistance is provided by giving more financial support to employers than is the case with persons who are unemployed but are not at a disadvantage for medical or other reasons. So we negotiate with employers to encourage them to take on somebody and we recognise that the employer may require to spend more time or be more understanding because of the problems the person may have. We try to make it more attractive, to compensate for that.

860 Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I have brought this question to the House because there is a huge lack of support in the community for members, especially those who suffer with mental health issues, in being able to seek employment. They might not be in a position at this point in time to get employment; however, they are in a bit of a Catch-22 because until they do get employment and they do actually go into the community and integrate and form part of an inclusive society they do not actually start reaping the benefits of the social aspects of what it is to be in employment.

865 I believe that there is a huge lack, especially in light of ... There is a company called Gibraltar General Construction Company, I believe – what is known as Community Projects – which used to employ many people who suffered with mental health issues, with offenders and people who would find it tremendously hard to find employment in the private sector. This company is now shrinking to the extent where people have been offered early-exit packages and those 870 employees who took the early-exit package, for example, are now in a position where they are unable to seek any unemployment benefits or even be re-employed by any Government Department or agency, as well as losing out on being able to contribute to a pension, which is also creating a further problem by the person not being able to get a pension when that person becomes pensionable.

875 I think obviously there is a huge lack of support not only for those employees but potential employees who suffer with mental health issues, and they are at a loss as to where they need to go in order to seek that help and to seek that support in getting employment.

Does the Hon. Minister acknowledge that there is a lack of support; and will he commit to doing something about it?

880

Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Well, I do not think he is accurate in saying that the company existed for people with mental health problems. That is not the case, because in fact I remember distinctly one particular case that I defended of unfair dismissal where the person was dismissed, because he had a mental health problem, by that particular company that he has mentioned and I 885 eventually won the unfair dismissal case.

Most of the people who went into that company, frankly, were people who had not mental problems or health problems but really social problems, or else there had been offences that made it difficult for them to find employment.

890 The reality is that the company that was set up for that purpose, in our view, was not achieving the kind of reintegration into society because you have a company where everybody with the same background was put together, which was not a very clever thing to do, in my view.

895 What we do now is we invest the money in persuading people – and in fact we have been successful. I mentioned that to the hon. Member when he asked me in the past specifically about the offenders who were being helped and I told him what we were doing and how it was working.

900 I think in the introduction to his question, if somebody is unable to work, then by definition we cannot help him into a job because unable to work means that somebody is certified as medically not able to work. If somebody, because of a mental illness ... For example, in this particular case that I have mentioned, the company argued when they terminated the employment that because of their mental illness the individual was a risk to the other employees. So it depends on the nature of the mental illness to what extent he can be accommodated.

905 Certainly from the perspective of the funding that I control, which is to help the unemployed into employment, what we do, is that we are more generous with our funding in order to make it more attractive to compensate for that, and anything more than can be done in that direction
I am willing to look at, and if the hon. Member has got any particular ideas – other than the one that he suggested, which I do not think is a good idea – I am happy to have a look at it if he gets in touch with me and he wants to make suggestions to me and look at it.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I am very grateful to the Hon. Minister for his answer.

915 Will the Hon. Minister then commit that employees – especially those who are from the company we have been discussing, who are at a loss in terms of being able to seek re-employment out there due to the nature of their history and past in the community – that they will be able to hopefully seek employment in the private sector, whether with assistance from the Government or not, but that the Government will be there to support them in seeking employment?

920 Hon. Sir J J Bossano: What happens is that when people are referred to the training programme – because they are registered as seeking employment – the Department helps them with their CV and helps them to get in touch with employers and submits their names to employers, and then the council that we employ, that deals with people who have certain custodial sentences is also involved in talking to these people to assess how we can provide help.

925 The reality of it is that in these particular cases it is difficult in terms of continuity. Even when you get an employer and we help and they are taken on, because of the nature of their illness, sometimes many patients in this category tend to be persons who, when they feel better, tend to stop taking medication which they should be taking all the time, and then some days either they just do not turn up for work, or ... So they finish up again needing help. So it is a continuing thing. It is quite often the case that the same customer has to be helped several times because it is inevitable that that will be the case, and what we do is ... We have got people who are more understanding and more willing to help and we tend to look to those employers to accommodate it.

930 Any other thing that can be done, if it is reasonable and within our means, we are willing to try.

935 The Speaker: Next question.

CHIEF MINISTER

Q421-422/2018

Bruce's Farm –

Number of patients; number of staff

Clerk: We now move to Question 421. The Hon. E J Phillips.

940 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state the numbers of individuals currently being treated at Bruce's Farm?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

945 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 422.

Clerk: Question 422. The Hon. E J Phillips.

950 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government state, as of the date of this question, the staffing complement, broken down into roles, at Bruce's Farm?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

955 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, there are currently eight persons undergoing the residential rehabilitation programme at Bruce's Farm.

The current staffing at Bruce's Farm consists of the following roles: three counsellors, 10 care workers, one administrator, one administrative officer, one cook and one part-time nurse.

960 Yesterday, Mr Speaker, the GHA made an announcement which will also positively impact on care at Bruce's Farm by the provision of an additional service by the GHA of a GP specialising in alcohol and substance abuse who will attend Bruce's Farm once a week.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the answer from the Chief Minister and we, certainly from this side of the House, welcome the announcement yesterday. It is a matter 965 which we have been raising for a number of years, particularly since I have been in this House, in relation to the problem with addiction in our community, and we certainly welcome that development announced by the Hon. the Minister for Health yesterday.

Insofar as the counsellors who currently work at Bruce's Farm, can the Chief Minister confirm that they are addiction qualified in respect of the counselling service they provide? It may sound 970 obvious, but I did not glean from his answer to that question that they were.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, it sounds obvious, but I do not have that exact information here.

975 Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q423/2018

Public contracts –

Ministers' and family members' direct and indirect financial interests

Clerk: Question 423. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please provide a list and value of all public contracts in which the spouses or partners and close family members of Ministers may 980 have a direct or indirect financial interest as at 31st December 2017?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, of all the contracts in question only one 985 involves family members of Ministers, as follows: namely, a contract with Sapphire to provide bandwidth to 12 schools and some internet connections to other Government Departments, totalling £7,800 per month. Minister Isola has an interest in Sapphire through his family. The contract was awarded after competitive bids between Gibtel and Sapphire. This award was not decided by Minister Isola. It was decided by the Chief Minister, who happens to be the Chairman 990 of Gibtelecom, based on value for money, speed of connection and bandwidth.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Chief Minister for his answer. Is he satisfied his answer is complete?

995 Hon. Chief Minister: I am, sir.

Hon. R M Clinton: Has he taken soundings from his Ministers that his answer is complete, in the sense that my question was quite wide? I should put him on notice that there is at least one contract that he has not mentioned.

1000 Hon. Chief Minister: I have checked with each Minister, Mr Speaker, and I am satisfied the answer I have given him is correct. The contract that he is going to refer me to I will give him the explanation for. When he hears that explanation he might reconsider whether he thinks that the answer I have given him is incorrect.

1005 Hon R M Clinton: I am grateful to the Chief Minister.

No disrespect intended to the Minister for Environment – he obviously knows that he has an interest through a family member in Wildlife Ltd, which has, as listed in the Estimates books, certainly at least two contracts of a value of £1.3 million. My question was worded quite widely in the sense of having a direct or indirect financial interest. I would be interested in why the 1010 Chief Minister has not included this contract, although I have read the Minister's Register of Interests and he indicates that there is a 40% interest although he receives no director's fees or remuneration, but nevertheless a 40% interest in an entity that has a contract is still a financial interest.

1015 Hon. Chief Minister: I do not agree, Mr Speaker, if the entity has a contract with the Government and uses all of the money that is received from the Government for the purposes of investing it in the maintenance and upkeep of the Alameda Gardens, which is what that company was created to do. In other words, there is no remuneration taken and therefore there is no interest in the finances of that company because all of the finances of the company are 1020 invested in the Alameda Gardens.

So moneys are paid as salaries to people who are employees of the company and the hon. gentleman has been told and knows that in the case of the Minister and now his wife, they do not receive any salary or remuneration but they provide a service to the company and the company, if it has any accumulated profit etc., puts that money back into the Gardens. It does 1025 not allow – indeed, it is not that it does not allow, it is that the hon. the Member and his wife do not take money out of the company; they put it into the Gardens.

So I do not see how the hon. Member can say that that is a financial interest when all of the money is used for further investment and therefore for further ensuring of maintenance etc. in the Alameda Gardens, something which I think he will want to commend the Minister for. In 1030 many instances people might say, 'Well, I am a director; I am entitled to a dividend.'
John Cortes –

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Is no longer a director.
1035

Hon. Chief Minister: No. John Cortes was a director of this company. When he became a Minister his wife became a director of this company and what they do is they leave any surplus after payment of the salaries of others – they do not take a salary – into the Gardens. Very well done too. Not a direct or indirect financial interest for themselves in any material regard, 1040 Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q424-425/2018
Gibraltar Capital Assets Ltd –
Audited financial statements; balance sheet figures

Clerk: Question 424. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1045 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government provide a full copy of the 19-page audited financial statements for Gibraltar Capital Assets Ltd for 31st March 2017?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1050 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 425.

Clerk: Question 425. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1055 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise why in its balance sheet, as at 31st March 2017, Gibraltar Capital Assets Ltd reports, 'Creditors: amounts falling due after more than one year' as £295,258,857 instead of £300 million?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1060 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has been able to obtain the publicly available balance sheet which is filed at Companies House. This complies with the filing requirement and therefore this is the information that will be available to him, which is the information available to all members of the public.

1065 I am advised that the reason why 'Creditors: amounts falling due after more than one year' is £295,259,857 instead of £300 million is to do with accounting standards. The advice provided to the Government is that accounting standards require that transaction costs be deducted and be amortised over the useful life of those loans using the effective interest rate.

1070 Hon R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I beg your indulgence on my supplementaries to these questions – they are quite important questions.

If I may start, Mr Speaker, with just a question on a ruling of a point of order as to whether Members of this Parliament are entitled to ask for information that is in the Government's possession in the formal full sets of accounts for a company in which there is a real public interest, in which is only filed the balance sheet – whether we are entitled in Parliament to ask for this information of Government, or is it that the Members on this side of the House are only entitled to see what the public are entitled to see?

1080 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Government's view in that respect is that hon. Members are entitled to ask for whatever they like and the Government is entitled to rationalise what information it provides and why it does so.

1085 Hon. Members would know, or should know – in particular, those who have been supporters of the party that they now, all except the hon. Lady, sit with – that the position established by them when they were in office was that hon. Members of this House were entitled to the public filings in respect of Government companies, except that at the time that they were in office they made no public filings in respect of Government companies. And so, Mr Speaker, the position of the Government –

Mr Speaker: [Inaudible]

1090 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, he might have asked for a ruling from yourself, not from me, but when somebody asks for a ruling they have to allow both views to be expressed in relation to that ruling.

1095 The position of the Government, Mr Speaker, is therefore that there is an established procedure in this House that Hon. Members can ask for things but that the Government will follow the procedure that they established in respect of the answer that we give in relation to this particular thing, which is the accounts of companies.

1100 Mr Speaker: I am not in a position, obviously, to give a ruling just now, so I ask the hon. Member to write to me explaining exactly what it is that he wants a ruling on. I will then consider the exchanges – Hansard – and if necessary, before I give that ruling, I shall take advice.

1105 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I thank you for that.
If I may again beg your indulgence, I have quite a few supplementaries on this particular issue.

1110 Can I ask the Chief Minister to confirm to this House whether he signed a document purported to be a special resolution of Gibraltar Capital Assets Ltd on the 16th day of March 2016, basically substituting the Articles of Association of Gibraltar Capital Assets Ltd with new Articles of Association? Does the Chief Minister recall signing such a document?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I would need specific notice of that question in order to enable me to consider whether it is an appropriate question for me to reply.

1115 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am happy to give the Chief Minister a copy of such document and he could say to the House whether this is indeed his signature on this document and whether it is a valid document.

1120 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have absolutely no intention of being asked to identify documents that rely on the veracity of a document put to me by a Member of the Opposition. If he wants me to consider a document, he can write to me and I can reply to him on it, but I am not going to entertain him by considering whether a document he puts to me is a genuine document or not.

1125 I put it to you, Mr Speaker, that if all of the questions that the hon. Member is going to ask now relate to the question on which he has asked for a ruling, he should write to you and seek a ruling, as you have indicated, before he continues.

1130 I would refer you, Mr Speaker, in fact, and him, to the Gibraltar House of Assembly Speakers' Rulings and Statements, which John E Alcantara very helpfully collated when he was Speaker in August 1996, and to the ruling by Mr Speaker on 24th January 1989 and the other ruling of Mr Speaker of 25th March 1980 in respect of the obligations of Members of this House to answer questions in respect of companies in which Governments have a share.

1135 Mr Speaker: In any case, I do not think it is the practice in any Parliament that I am aware of – certainly not in the Westminster Parliament – whereby a Member of the Opposition passes over to a Member of the Government a document and asks them to give such an opinion. I do not think that that is the practice. Governments and Oppositions do not hand over documents across the floor of the House.

Hon. R M Clinton: That is fine, Mr Speaker. I was just trying to be helpful. (Laughter)

1140 A Member: That's your opinion!

Hon. R M Clinton: I beg your pardon?

Mr Speaker, the reason why I asked the Chief Minister to identify this particular document is it is one where he authorises the change in articles to Gibraltar Capital Assets Ltd.

1145 Mr Speaker, I have to refer the Chief Minister to article 22(6) of those articles, which he did sign off on on behalf of Gibraltar Development Corporation, and it says:

The directors shall, in respect of each financial year, deliver to the Registrar of Companies a copy of the accounts.

And then, Mr Speaker, the definition of accounts in the mem and arts which he signed off on, states:

‘Accounts’ means the audited financial accounts of the company for each financial year and comprising a profit and loss account, balance sheet, cash flow, all the accompanying notes and including those reports mentioned in article 38(1) save for the most recent property valuation referred to in article 31D, and the executive director’s report included in the management accounts.

1150 And so, Mr Speaker, would the Chief Minister not agree with me that Gibraltar Capital Assets Ltd is in breach of its own articles?

1155 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have told the hon. Gentleman that if he wants to ask me a question in relation to something like this, which does not arise from the supplementary or something which is that specific, he should write to me. And if he wants a ruling on whether or not we are obliged to reply in this House, he should write to you.

1160 If all he needs is more reading material for his night-time entertainment, I am quite happy to send him a copy – or buy him a copy, because I have not got one to share – of Fifty Shades of Beige, if he likes, but this line of questioning is simply going to elicit the same answer. If the hon. Gentleman simply wants to waste time or create drama by asking questions to which I will refer him to the same answer I have given, he is wasting Parliament’s time, in my submission.

1165 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, the only person here who is wasting Parliament’s time is the Chief Minister. This is a matter of public interest. This is a company that mortgaged eight housing estates for £300 million, which for him is obviously chicken feed.

Mr Speaker, I think we are entitled on this side of the House to straight answers to straight questions.

1170 Is the Chief Minister not aware that under the same articles the bond note holders actually receive a copy of the accounts? And yet he is denying this Parliament that same privilege. The people who lend money to this company have more rights than Members of this House: does not the Chief Minister agree that that is frankly unacceptable?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I do fear he is becoming a little bit vituperative. He should be careful, it might affect his blood pressure.

1175 Mr Speaker, there are, of course, rights as a result of the bondholders’ relationship with the company, which will be different to the rights of the general public. That, of course, is absolutely entirely normal. It is nothing to splutter about, as the hon. Gentleman has been left to do.

1180 The hon. Gentleman seems to have the view that from the moment he was elected to this Parliament he has more rights than any member of the general public. Well, Mr Speaker, since he was elected into this Parliament he will have seen that we are in the process of filing accounts for all Government companies, something which requires a catch-up exercise since – wait for it, Mr Speaker – 1996. The hon. Gentleman knows that we are in the process of achieving that and he will have plenty to fill his long evenings when he has those accounts filed. He will be able to look at what they did with Government companies in the time that they were in office, which incidentally elicited the same answers that he is getting from me when we asked questions about those companies – although I think we were a little more circumspect because we understood the rulings of Mr Speaker from 1980 and from 1989.

1185 He will know that a Member of a Parliament is not entitled to more information than a member of the public. If he thinks that that is the case, Mr Speaker, then he is really in a situation of utter delusion. He believes he has been elected to privilege. He has not been elected to privilege; he has been elected to serve and to serve within the confines of the laws of the nation, which we must all abide by. We are not going to treat him more favourably than others 1195 and we are not going to give him copies of things which are publicly available – he should go and obtain his own copies – and if things are not publicly available, well then we are not going to make them available to him, in keeping with the established rulings of a number of Speakers of this House and in keeping with the practice established by a Government that had the political ideology that they represent and was led by a man who – as has escaped once again from the lips of the Hon. former former Leader of the Opposition – they describe as the greatest Gibraltarian of all time.

1200 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the Hon. the Chief Minister is pegging his answer on one simple misconceived premise, and that is that this information is not public information and therefore the hon. Gentleman is not entitled to the information because it is not public. But actually the reality is that this is a public company. It is a Government-owned company that is being used in order to facilitate the mortgaging of public estates, and the constitution of that 1205 company states that the company has to file publicly all the accounts, profit and loss account, and the balance sheet. So the only reason why the information is not public is because the Government has chosen to act in breach of the constitution of this very important company.

1210 Now, does the Hon. Chief Minister, as head of a Government that is supposed to be a responsible Government, think that it is right for a company of this nature to act in breach of its own constitution?

Hon. Chief Minister: The hon. Gentleman has not understood the questions from the person who sits to his right – the former Leader of the Opposition, the one who was ready to take over but was not quite able to find the support, to find that the current Leader of the Opposition 1215 enjoyed the support of no one and did not even stand in that election.

But anyway, first of all, ‘a public company’, the hon. Gentleman has said. A public company is a company that has, from my recollection, more than 50 shareholders. I do not know whether the rule has changed since I last looked at it. That is what a public company is. (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) A public company is a company which has more than 50 shareholders. If 1220 what the hon. Gentleman meant was a company the shares of which are owned by the Government, I refer him to the rulings of various Speakers, which I have done already.

The hon. Gentleman introduced the possibility that the Memorandum and Articles of the company had been amended in order to require it to file more than any other company has to file. I have not said that that is not the case; I have said I am not going to accept it across the 1225 floor of the House and that he should write to me in that respect. If he is right – and I am not going to look at it now across the floor of the House – then the hon. Gentleman would be completely wrong because then what the Hon. Mr Clinton is saying is that the Government required the company to file more than the law requires it to file and he would be left with a question that is based on an error because he has not understood the question asked earlier by 1230 his hon. Friend. And if Mr Clinton is right – and when he sends me the documents I will consider that – then the directors of the company may have failed to file the required balance sheet, not the Government which I am the head of the executive of.

I do not know whether he has understood it or whether he is going to get up in a vituperative fit like a jack-in-the-box and with his blood pressure all over the place, but I commend to him 1235 that he should have a quiet word with Mr Clinton before he springs up again and makes a fool of himself once more.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I have to say he is on borrowed time, he really is. And the way that he answers questions, diverting, calling people fools and nobody is as intelligent as he 1240 is because he went to Oxford University, (A Member: Exactly.) that may have been acceptable to the people of Gibraltar four years ago but it is increasingly obvious that is not acceptable any longer and it is going to catch up with him.

1245 Can he at the very least guarantee this to this House: that if the hon. Member Mr Clinton writes to him and proves to him – and I have seen those documents and I have discussed it with him, and he should know because it was he who effectively substituted one set of articles for another; it is he who approved these articles, the Chief Minister ... if he establishes to the hon. Gentleman, as undoubtedly he will, that this company is in breach of its constitution in not filing a profit and loss account and a balance sheet, that the hon. Gentleman, as effectively the head of the Government and therefore the main shareholder in this company, that he will do what 1250 needs to be done to make sure that those documents are filed? Because it would be no answer, Mr Speaker, if what he then does – the hon. Member having proved to him that he is right – is substitute those articles for another set of articles to provide less transparency. Even he can see, surely, that that would really take the biscuit as far as lack of transparency is concerned.

1255 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, he wags his finger at me in a way that I suppose is reminiscent of the way that he would wag his finger –

Mr Speaker: May I intervene? I am wagging my finger at Hon. Members because they are now beginning to get out of hand. Let us stick to the merits of the matter. Let us not bring in 1260 anything that is extraneous, and do not debate. Let's get on with it.

Hon. Chief Minister: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

The hon. Gentleman wags his finger at me as he must have wagged it, when he was the leader of the party opposite, at those who abandoned the party. Some of them have come back; others, as he indicated, have had the courage of their convictions and are standing alone (A 1265 Member: Yes.) and thereby led him not to be on borrowed time but to run out of time.

That is the reality, Mr Speaker. If the hon. Gentleman wants to get up and talk about borrowed time, he has got to expect a response that deals with that. It appears to me, Mr Speaker, that he might imagine himself in a different parliament today, as if he is addressing 1270 the head of an executive on the Iberian Peninsula who is on borrowed time, but it is not the head of this executive.

Mr Speaker, if what Hon. Members are saying in respect of the Memorandum and Articles of Association of this company is correct, then what they have caught me doing is seeking that further transparency and what they may have found is that the directors have failed to act in 1275 keeping with what I required them to do.

What I am not going to do is accept today from them that the documents they put to me are authentic or current, but if the hon. Gentleman writes to me he will get a response from me that will deal with the issues that he raises. Mr Speaker, it is very clear to me that if I have signed a document after a company has been incorporated to require it to do more than the law 1280 requires, I am not going to go back on that as long as the document the hon. Member shows me is a genuine one that I filed and that I genuinely signed.

And I will ensure that I have access to originals and not copies sent across the floor of the House as if this were a courtroom, which it is not. I have to remind Hon. Members that there are three branches of Government and this is the legislature, not the judicature.
1285

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q426-428/2018

Gibraltar Development Corporation – Borrowings; guarantees; purchase of shares in Gibraltar International Bank

Clerk: Question 426. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1290 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please advise if it has given any consent for the Gibraltar Development Corporation to borrow money under section 20(2)(b) of the Gibraltar Development Corporation Act, being from a person other than the Consolidated Fund; and if so, from whom and for what period and terms?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1295 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Questions 427 and 428.

Clerk: Question 427. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1300 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please advise if it has given any guarantees under section 21 of the Gibraltar Development Corporation Act?

Clerk: Question 428. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1305 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government please advise why the Gibraltar Development Corporation purchased a further £20 million of ordinary B shares in the Gibraltar International Bank in December 2017?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1310 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, as I responded to Question 462/2017, the Government has decided that the best way to invest in GIB is via the GDC.

1315 As hon. Members know, the GIB has been incredibly successful and part of that success requires the bank to have sufficient capital. It has now grown to a stage where, in order to take the next step in its growth, it would require an extra £20 million of capital and this was met by issuing further class B shares purchased by the GDC.

1320 The Government did grant consent to the GDC to borrow under section 20(2)(b) of the Gibraltar Development Corporation Act and to our knowledge there have been no guarantees granted under section 21 of the same Act.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I thank the Chief Minister for his answer.

Can he advise why it was that there were in fact two investments in the same year: one of £10 million in April 2017 and then a further £20 million in December 2017?

1325 Hon. Chief Minister: Because capital increases were required at different times, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q429/2018
Barclays and NatWest Banks –
Assignment or novation of loans or facility agreements

Clerk: Question 429. The Hon. R M Clinton.

1330 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, has the Government agreed to the assignment or novation of any loans or facility agreements due to Barclays Bank or NatWest; and if so, in what amount and to whom?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1335 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, there has been no assignment or novation of any loans or facility agreements due to Barclays Bank or NatWest.

The only change of any loan has been the loan with GCP Investments Ltd. In this case, GCP Investments Ltd repaid in full an existing loan it had obtained when the GSD were in power – and as a Government company it was doing borrowing when the GSD were in power. Barclays provided this opportunity in loan documentation to repay the amount outstanding. This was incurring an extremely high interest rate negotiated by the Hon. Mr Clinton's party when they were in Government. GCP therefore sought a new finance option at a much cheaper cost. GCP Investments was also therefore able to release security in the process.

1345 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Chief Minister for his comprehensive answer.

If I am to understand the Chief Minister correctly, the loan is repaid but the money for the repayments of that loan presumably came from another provider. How was it that he was able to release security on the loan? Is it that the property value went up, or the new lender required a lower loan-to-value ratio (LTV) on the loan?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I believe that property values have gone up quite considerably in the period since 2010 and that is what enabled us to ... I am sure that the LTVs required were maintained despite the portfolio being not as generous as the one that was initially required.

I can tell him that there were 13 properties mortgaged and now there are only six properties mortgaged. So they were required to mortgage 13 properties. We were only required to provide security over ... Sorry, there were 13 under them; now there are only six.

1360 Hon. R M Clinton: Well, I must confess, Mr Speaker, I must congratulate the Chief Minister.

Hon. Chief Minister: On the interest rate?

Hon. R M Clinton: Well, that belongs to a different question!

1365 Can I ask the Chief Minister if he is willing to disclose to this House the name of the new lender?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, of course I am. The new lender is the Gibraltar International Bank and I am also very pleased to tell the House – 1370 I do not know whether the hon. Members are guffawing because they think that the Gibraltar International Bank deals with the Government other than on entirely commercial terms. If I may say so, Mr Speaker, the Gibraltar International Bank has been a huge success because of the professionalism of the people who are running it, and of its board and of the way that they deal at arm's length with every transaction that they deal with, whether it involves the Government or not – and their guffaws are hugely disrespectful to those people, Mr Speaker.

The interest rate that they obtained at the time that they negotiated this loan for GCP was 6.82%, whilst the rate now enjoyed by the taxpayer is 2.5% for the first three years and an option to commit to another fixed rate or a variable rate of 2.25% over base.

1375 I should also say, Mr Speaker – and it was churlish of me not to start this way – I must thank the hon. Gentleman for his kind congratulations.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, credit is always given where it is due.

Can I ask the Chief Minister what is the amount of the loan? I am trying to recall whether it was £20 million or some other amount. If he could advise the House, I would be grateful.

1385 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, this is one of the loans that I referred him to in the response to the Budget speech, I think last year or the year before, when he said that we were borrowing through Government companies. I showed him the example of the fact that 1390 borrowing through Government companies was something that they had introduced and at eye-watering rates. That is no criticism, because if those were the rates applicable at the time that you took a loan then it is difficult to do otherwise. But the loan amount was £16 million and it is still £16 million.

Mr Speaker: Please, are there any other supplementaries on this?
Next question.

Q430-432/2018

Legal threats for defamation against Chief Minister – Administrative process; number of letters issued; cost

1395 Clerk: Question 430. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise the administrative process for the issuing of legal letters claiming defamation against the Chief Minister on Facebook by residents of Gibraltar?

1400 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer with Questions 431 and 432.

1405 Clerk: Question 431. The Hon. R M Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government advise the number of legal letters issued claiming defamation against the Chief Minister to residents of Gibraltar for comments on Facebook in the period December 2011 to April 2018, together with total cost and details of law 1410 firms instructed to issue such letters?

Clerk: Question 432. The Hon. D A Feetham.

1415 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, since the Chief Minister was elected in December 2011, how many legal threats for defamation has he issued against citizens in Gibraltar?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1420 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, it is in the public interest of Gibraltar that its Ministers should defend their professional reputations when confronted with defamatory and untrue allegations.

Too often on social media individuals express themselves without a filter of truth, probity or any understanding of the need to ensure that the things they say are not in any way libellous of others.

1425 Indeed, the Hon. Mr Feetham has himself on a number of occasions issued letters before action and even started proceedings and obtained orders of the Supreme Court in respect of libel proceedings. Indeed, I recall that in one case Mr Feetham actually obtained a restraining order preventing a newspaper from mentioning him as a result of a libel action that he took at a time when he was Minister for Justice. That may be the reason behind his questioning in 2013

1430 about how funding could be made available for him, other Opposition Members or indeed retired Government Ministers.

In the almost seven years that I have been in office I have had cause to have six matters taken up by solicitors against residents of Gibraltar. Additionally, on four occasions I have had cause to take action against individuals who are not resident in Gibraltar. In some of the instances the matter included threats of violence also against my person and members of my immediate family.

The costs involved were as follows: in financial year 2013-14, £5,602; in financial year 2014-15, £7,196; in financial year 2015-16, £3,036; in financial year 2016-17, £6,056; in financial year 2017-18, £2,031; and in financial year 2018-19, which is the year we are in at the moment, £6,057.

The law firm involved on each occasion was Hassans, the same law firm Mr Feetham used for the libel action I referred to above.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I am grateful to the Chief Minister for his answer but I did not hear anything about the administrative process for the issuing of legal letters. If he could enlighten the House on that, please?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think something has fallen out of the answer I have read. The first sentence was, when I last checked it before printing, that the position remains as set out in Question 430/2013.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Chief Minister confirm then that the Attorney General's advice was sought in each case? And if I can ask who is it that instructs Hassans: is it the Attorney General or himself directly?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think those answers are contained in the answer to Question 430/2013.

Mr Speaker: Any other supplementaries?

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, Mr Speaker. Yes, I have taken proceedings in the past. I cannot recall taking the proceedings that the hon. Gentleman mentions, but I will take his word for it. The difference between him and me is that when I have defended my reputation I have put my hand in my pocket and I have paid for it myself. What I want to know is on what basis does he justify that the taxpayer should pay for his defamation cases, which at the end of the day is a personal claim – that is what it is, a personal claim – that his reputation has been damaged as a consequence of a falsehood, because of course you cannot defame a government and he knows that, and you cannot defame an office holder. The claim is a personal claim, and therefore why should the taxpayer fund his personal claims against Gibraltar residents?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not accept that he paid his legal fees when he decided to take legal action. He took legal action when he was Minister for Justice. He was represented inter alia by his brother at Hassans. He got an injunction against the Vox newspaper that they would never mention him again – not that they would not libel him again. He pushed and turned the screw to stop himself being mentioned again in the newspaper.

This is really quite remarkable, Mr Speaker. If he says he put his hand in his pocket, I will tell him I do not believe that he did. He would be completely wrong if he had and the Government will reimburse him if he is able to show that he paid a penny, because if he was defamed – and I cannot remember what the defamation was – in the context of the discharge of his office, he is entirely entitled to be represented on the taxpayer's billet for a simple reason: because the defamation is not of the individual.

1485 If the defamation were that the Hon. the Chief Minister was a terrible lawyer, that is not something that the taxpayer should be responsible for defending me on. But if the defamation is in respect of the discharge of the office, then there is a very good reason why historically all of those fees have been paid by the taxpayer, not just in Gibraltar but elsewhere, Mr Speaker.

1490 But what he wants to do is to set up this idea that somehow people have been subjected to legal letters from the Chief Minister's solicitors. Well, Mr Speaker, I suppose there are people who are close to them who have suffered this because their defamation of the Chief Minister has resulted in them having to apologise because they have received legal letters and they have realised that they have defamed people, and some of them are even now on their executive. So I fully understand why it is that they are pursuing this now. This is now a personal matter relating to members of their executive.

1495 When he was in government, Mr Speaker, he took legal action and he understood the importance of that. We are defending the reputation of the office of Chief Minister or the ministerial office of any other, and when people make allegations which are defamatory and untrue it is absolutely right that they be challenged about that. They would not be making allegations about me in respect of the discharge of my office if I did not hold my office, and that is why successive Governments of Gibraltar have seen successive Ministers – and I will not mention any others, Mr Speaker, because I do not want to mention anybody's father. I am not talking about the hon. Lady, but successive Ministers – I am not talking about the hon. Lady – have had their claims for libel funded by the Gibraltar taxpayer.

1500 And so, Mr Speaker, he can get up and try and become a champion as much as he likes, which is what he is trying to do. This is not about the issue, because the last time he asked me the question he was not saying, 'It's terrible that your fees were paid'; the last time he asked me the question he was saying, 'Can my fees be paid as a Member of the Opposition, or can a retired Minister's fees be paid?' He was trying to expand the franchise of payment, not reduce it. But, look, I have got used to the fact that he says one thing one day and another thing another.

1510 The one thing left to determine in respect of his career in this place is simply whether he is going to try and come back after the next election. Is he going to stay or is he going to go? Is he on borrowed time? Is he trying to buy more time? Those are the issues for him, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: Out of order. That last comment was out of order.

1515 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, thank you very much, Mr Speaker. I have to say he seems obsessed by what decisions I might take in the future.

Mr Speaker, just from the answer, really ... I always know when the hon. Member is rattled –

Mr Speaker: Could we have a question? Instead of debating, ask a question.

1520 Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, I am going to ask a question, Mr Speaker. I always know when the hon. Member is rattled, when he gives these rambling answers, trying to find ways in which he can avoid answering the questions.

I must make two points, Mr Speaker. First of all –

1525 Mr Speaker: You are going to ask a supplementary question –

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, I am. I will phrase it –

1530 Mr Speaker: – without a lengthy preamble. Without a lengthy preamble you are going to ask two supplementary questions. Go on.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, the people of Gibraltar will be able to see, just from this exchange, the difficulties that the Opposition faces when the hon. Gentleman is allowed long 1535 rambling answers, making points that are inaccurate. And when I, or somebody on this side, rises – (Interjection by Mr Speaker) Okay, Mr Speaker.

Mr Speaker: Finish your point. Finish your point.

1540 Hon. D A Feetham: When somebody on this side rises in order to correct the record by way of a question, we are cut short.

Mr Speaker, does he not accept –?

1545 Mr Speaker: No, I must answer that. You are inferring by what you are saying that I am biased against Opposition Members.

Hon. D A Feetham: No, I am not saying that, Mr Speaker.

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, you were.

1550 Mr Speaker: Are you or are you not saying that? That I do not treat Opposition Members in the same way as I treat Government Ministers? Are you saying that?

1555 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I am saying that on this occasion and on others we have not been treated in the same way. That does not imply – (Interjection by Mr Speaker) May I finish? No, Mr Speaker has imputed on me an allegation that I am saying that he is biased, and I am entitled to defend myself. I am trying to keep the tone as cordial as possible.

1560 I am not saying that, because there may be a number of reasons, one of which is the way that Mr Speaker interprets the Rules – bona fide, even though I may not agree with it; the bona fide interpretation of the Rules that says ‘he is allowed to give a long rambling answer referring to irrelevancies left, right and centre, but you, Mr Feetham, or somebody on this side of the House, you have got to keep your answers short and sharp’.

1565 That is what I am referring to, and I believe that anybody listening to this exchange and considering that in its proper context, without imputing bias on Mr Speaker, is likely to say, ‘Well, actually, he’s right.’

1570 Mr Speaker: But would the hon. Member accept that invariably at Question Time I have to allow a Government Minister to answer a supplementary that has been put by the Opposition, and therefore by the nature of things it is likely that the Government Minister is going to have the last say? Otherwise, the process continues indefinitely. And when a Member of the Opposition asks a supplementary I should stop and move on to the next question and not allow a Minister to answer that point?

1575 Now, the other thing that I am going to say is about the length of ... When did we meet, yesterday? I mentioned it yesterday that on a number of occasions I have asked Ministers to make their answers shorter. Sometimes it is not very easy for me to control them – there is a very lengthy answer coming up, maybe it has to be very lengthy – but I wish I had the power to control the length of answers. Invariably, the moment a Minister introduces extraneous matters, I hold the Minister to account. I ask him to get on with the business at hand and I am anxious to do that. I do not want to be here listening to exchanges longer than I have to.

1580 It is just as well that we have the system here in the Gibraltar Parliament that hon. Members address me, the Speaker. If they addressed each other, some of them I think would finish up crossing the floor with perhaps an exchange of fisticuffs. It is just as well that we do not have the system which I was observing earlier this afternoon in the Cortes in Madrid, where they address each other and they insult each other. That does not happen here. Thank God it does not, because I do not know who could keep control otherwise.

1585 So let's see if we can tone the whole thing down. Let's see if we can make progress, because we cannot be here this evening beyond 7.15.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I will ask three supplementaries in a go and then I will sit down, and that is it.

1590 First of all, does he not accept that in fact he has been inaccurate in the information he has given the House, because the libel case that he refers to is not a libel case that I took; in fact, it is a libel case that my brother, a social worker, took against the Vox newspaper? That is the first.

1595 Secondly, that I have never asked for funding for me in relation to a defamation case; that my questions have always been about, 'Well, hang on a minute, if you say that the taxpayer should fund the Chief Minister of Gibraltar because somebody has libelled him in his capacity as Chief Minister of Gibraltar, if somebody as Leader of the Opposition is libelled in his capacity as the Leader of the Opposition, what is the difference?' That was the point that was made in 2013.

1600 And the real supplementary question that I wished to ask in relation to this – because, as always, he always manages to side-track me, and that is something that to his tactical credit he always does very well – is doesn't he agree with me that he has obtained, acquired I should say, a reputation over the last seven years of being Chief Minister of being the most trigger-happy Chief Minister who has ever served in Gibraltar, in terms of issuing these legal letters, and that it is not right to have the Chief Minister of Gibraltar, backed by the taxpayer, issuing so many legal letters for defamation? Does he not agree with me in relation to that?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, let me start with the first of those questions. I do not agree that the case was about his brother. The case I am referring him to is the case in which he obtained an injunction to prevent himself from being mentioned ever again in the Vox newspaper. So that was not his brother, Mr Speaker. Why would, in a libel case about his brother, Vox be ordered not to mention him ever again?

1610

Second, Mr Speaker –

Hon. D A Feetham: Will you give way?

1615 Hon. Chief Minister: No, I don't want to give way.

Second, Mr Speaker, the question of funding is very clearly one that he took in 2013 from a different perspective. In 2013 he wanted the blanket of financial cover for himself also. He wanted the Leader of the Opposition, as he has now said – because he was then the Leader of the Opposition – to also be covered and he wanted to extend it backwards even further to instances when he might have been allegedly libelled in respect of his position as a Minister. Then he thought it was in his interests to try and obtain financial support for that position; now, because he thinks it is popular – although he has told us he is a man with no axe to grind and is not going to stand for election again – he is going to try and criticise me for having taken action to protect my reputation when I am challenged with defamatory allegations as Chief Minister.

1625 Look, you can be challenged, you can be made fun of, people can take a contrary view to you, but if they say some other things which are defamatory it is absolutely right and proper that people should be subject to legal action. That is what the law is there for.

Mr Speaker, the final question. I am the first Chief Minister of Gibraltar in something called 'the social media age'. So, before, people would libel one in a letter to a newspaper or in a newspaper. There are responsible newspapers and irresponsible newspapers. He was very closely associated with a newspaper called the Seven Days, which was an irresponsible newspaper, Mr Speaker, funded entirely by the Gibraltar taxpayer for the purposes of doing GSD propaganda. They would publish anything.

1635 Normal media outlets have a filter of truth and probity and of checking. When people on social media say something, they do not realise sometimes what they are doing, and that is why there have been no damages actions. There have been no attempts to get people to pay in any 1640 way. It is to remove comments which are seriously untrue, libellous and defamatory, and it is absolutely right that a person, whoever they may be, should take action in those circumstances, and if that person happens to be an office holder of the Government of Gibraltar it is absolutely right that they should be defended in the discharge of their functions by the taxpayer. I said it in 2013 and I am not going to change my mind. Mr Speaker, I think it is absolutely right that that should be the case.

1645 They can rabble rouse and get people to think that somehow this is an abuse, but when they rabble rouse I will be there with the answer to Question 514/2013 to remind the general public that they were seeking the financial cover for themselves to do exactly the same thing. That is the typical hypocrisy of double standards, the hypocrisy that Mr Llamas told us was endemic in the GSD – until he went back to them.

1650 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I do not accept again how he has characterised it at all. In fact, the questions were all directed as on what basis ... how is the decision being taken that a Chief Minister or a Government Minister is being funded by the taxpayer, and if it's qua, in his capacity as an office holder? What is the difference between an office holder there and an office holder somewhere else on this side? That was the issue; it was an issue about process.

1655 Mr Speaker: What about this side?

Hon. D A Feetham: Or Mr Speaker, absolutely.

1660 Does he not accept that it is demeaning to his office to be trawling the internet and social media finding who next he is going to be sending a legal letter backed by an international firm of solicitors – my firm, I accept – funded by the taxpayer, in order to send these threatening legal letters?

1665 Quite frankly, if that were happening in the United Kingdom there would be an absolute outcry and I just cannot imagine a leader of another democratic country using public funds in this way in order to sue or threaten to sue members of the public. I just cannot see it. And I have to say that it demeans his office, it demeans him, and I ask him: does he agree with that?

1670 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I obviously do not agree with that, for all the reasons I have given him, but I see the evidence of what he is trying to do. He is trying to rabble rouse on the issue and I am sure that those in his executive who have been subject to these legal letters from his firm for having said things which are libellous and defamatory, will be delighted to see him now as their champion.

1675 But you see, Mr Speaker, there is a big difference between Members sitting on that side of the House and us on this side of the House. It is an obvious difference, it is a legal difference – he understands it but he does not care to reflect on it today in order to be able to pose the questions that he has posed to try and achieve what he is trying to achieve. We are members of the executive, Mr Speaker; they are not members of the executive. They are Members of the Parliament and we are all Members of the Parliament, but we are members of the executive. We are charged with the obligation of discharging the functions of Government, something that from the minute he started leading the party opposite people were never going to entrust them to do ever again.

1680 But, Mr Speaker, he has an idea of what it is that we do which is entirely wrong. I do not trawl social media; in fact, I have very little time for social media. I saw that somebody asked me to do something last week on social media, which I would have done to support a charity, but I did not see that because I do not have time to see social media.

1685 What happens is that things are brought to the attention of Government when they are as outrageous, and indeed potentially violent and dangerous, as the instances that I have referred hon. Members to. In some instances they are referred to us by other authorities. In those instances, when it is brought to our attention and if it is definitely defamatory and libellous, then 1690 people are asked simply to take down what they have said. That is absolutely right and proper and it demeans an office not to defend it.

1695 I will tell him something that he will perhaps never understand. Having held the office of Chief Minister now for almost seven years because the people of Gibraltar have allowed me the privilege to do so, I will defend this office even when I do not hold it and even if a member of another party does not hold it, because it is the executive office of political leadership of this nation. And whether it is in respect of Joe Bossano, Peter Caruana, Adolfo Canepa, Bob Peliza or Sir Joshua Hassan, it is absolutely right that we should all understand how important it is that the office of Chief Minister and what it does be defended, in particular given the external threats that Gibraltar faces. The same is true for the office of each one of the members of the Cabinet and each one of the Ministries that they lead, because we do so responsibly and to accept a 1700 defamation, a libel of the way that those offices are being discharged is in fact to accept a defamation of the way that we do government in this community.

1705 We are seeing on the Iberian Peninsula today how actions that are absolutely inappropriate and improper, and improperly dealt with in courts, affect people's ability to respect their government, and we will defend the right to have the Government of Gibraltar respected, the office holders of Gibraltar and its Government respected, whether we are the ones in office or not. Allowing defamatory remarks to go unchallenged when they are untrue is to allow the office to be demeaned by those who seek to do partisan damage without regard to the political damage that they do to the Gibraltarian nation.

1710 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, I have now had the opportunity to go back and look at a question from 2013 the Chief Minister referred to, Question 430/2013, which is by pure and utter coincidence obviously an identical reference to my Question 430/2018. The question asked at the time was: 'Can the Chief Minister state whether it is Government's policy' – 1715 Mr Speaker: Just a moment. This is a supplementary you are asking from ...?

Hon. R M Clinton: Yes, from the answer, from Question 430.

Mr Speaker: To which question?

1720 Hon. R M Clinton: Question 430/2013. The Chief Minister referred to a question which happened to be Question 430/2013.

Mr Speaker: Very well.

1725 Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you very much, Mr Speaker.

1730 I was just reading the question that was asked at the time and it read: 'Can the Chief Minister state whether it is Government's policy to fund all libel claims brought by a serving Government Minister against a media publication?' Mr Speaker, this is a question asked specifically about Government policy; my Question 430/2018 is about the administrative process. I was wondering if the Chief Minister could answer the question that I set. I have read the supplementaries in Hansard and I do not see the answer.

1735 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, I think that the answer is there, Mr Speaker. The policy and the administrative process are all described there and in Question 514/2013. It is a serendipitous coincidence that both are Question 430 in 2018 and 2013.

Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, would the Chief Minister agree with me that in answer to Question 430/2013 there is not a single reference to the involvement of the Attorney General?

1740 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I agree with that, and the policy and the administrative procedure is what is described in Question 430. He asked me does it involve the Attorney General. I referred him to that.

1745 Hon. R M Clinton: Would you not think it would make sense for the Attorney General to be involved in the process and giving advice?

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, if I thought that was the case I would have answered differently.

1750 Hon. R M Clinton: Mr Speaker, can the Government then explain what legal advice they take prior to issuing instructions if the Attorney General, i.e. the lawyer for the Government, is not present?

1755 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Attorney General does not have to be present when the Government takes legal advice in all respects. The Government takes legal advice from the Attorney General, from the Gibraltar Law Officers and from private chambers.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q433/2018
Varyl Begg Social Club –
Plans for relocation

Clerk: Question 433. The Hon. D A Feetham.

1760

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, what are the Government's plans for the relocation of the Varyl Begg Social Club?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1765

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have met with the Varyl Begg Social Club committee and assured them of Her Majesty's Government's commitment to relocate the Varyl Begg Social Club to a suitable permanent premises as soon as these become available. A temporary facility is being provided in the interim in the south west area of Varyl Begg on a site identified in conjunction with the committee.

1770

Despite the best attempts of the former, former Leader of the Opposition to agitate the members of the committee of the social club, they very sensibly continue to work with the Government to resolve the issue of their relocation.

1775

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I will ignore the barbed comment. Can he at least give a commitment to this House and also to the people who live in Varyl Begg that the Varyl Begg Social Club will be relocated within the Varyl Begg estate?

1780 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have given a commitment in terms of the first answer, which the hon. Gentleman does not seem to have accepted.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I will be corrected if I am wrong. Perhaps I did not hear the answer properly – and I apologise if I did not – but he did not give a commitment that he was going to relocate ... He gave a commitment that he was going to relocate but not that he was 1785 going to relocate within the Varyl Begg Estate, and I will tell you why: because the information that has come to the Opposition is that the plan of the Government is to relocate the Varyl Begg Social Club to Chilton Court. Of course, the Chilton Court Varyl Begg Social Club does not have the same ring to it as the Varyl Begg Social Club. It is the Varyl Begg Social Club; it should be located within Varyl Begg. That is important to the residents of Varyl Begg and I am asking the 1790 Chief Minister to provide that commitment.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not know which of the residents of Varyl Begg he spoke to, because I met with the ones that signed this petition asking for it not to be in a particular area of Varyl Begg and those who represented these ... By the way, I'll fan it for him 1795 again, Mr Speaker. These representatives also were very keen not to have it on other sites in which it would fit in Varyl Begg, Mr Speaker.

So I do not know who he is holding a brief for, because the members of the committee are discussing with us various different locations, some in and some out of Varyl Begg. The people who signed the petition did not want it in one particular place, and the people who came 1800 representing the people who signed the petition did not want it in any other place.

Unless he is going to pretend that he has the ability to expand Varyl Begg now, it may be very difficult to give the commitment in the terms that he seeks. Nonetheless, we are working towards actually achieving the commitment in that way, but I cannot say that it will definitely be achieved in that way.

1805 Mr Speaker, finally, I am surprised that he has taken the position he has taken on the basis of the information reaching him as a member of the Opposition. When he turned up at Varyl Begg he said he was there as a friend, not as a Member of Opposition, not to do politics but to offer free legal advice if they wanted it. Unfortunately for him, they told him they did not want it.

1810 Hon. D A Feetham: Well, Mr Speaker, I have to say he continues to, with impunity almost, in the answers – very little that I can do, I have to say, but with impunity – distort and misrepresent.

Yes, of course I was there. I was there because I was asked, by people who actually work there and also residents of Varyl Begg, for me to be there in order to advise them about the 1815 process and to try and help them out. That is what I did, that is my role, and indeed if I am asked to help anywhere else that is what I will do because I am paid by the people of Gibraltar to do that. And even if I was not paid, the reality of the situation is that Varyl Begg is very close to my heart because I grew up there and my mother lives there, and I have probably been to the Varyl Begg Social Club far more times than the Hon. the Chief Minister has or ever will be going to the 1820 Varyl Begg Social Club.

Can I ask him this: outside the Varyl Begg Social Club, what are the locations that the Government is looking at? And am I right that the Government is looking at Chilton Court?

1825 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Government is considering a number of locations. None of them are receiving any consideration which is yet fixed and therefore I am not going to get drawn on the subject, but I have already said that some may be in Varyl Begg and some may be outside.

Mr Speaker, I would be surprised if he has been to Varyl Begg Social Club very often since they started flying the GSLP flag; I thought he found that now entirely anathema.

1830 But it is true he grew up there, Mr Speaker. I did not, but I have attended very many fantastic GSLP bingos and other events there, and indeed a number of birthday parties, and therefore I sincerely hope we will be able to provide a fantastic facility for the residents of Varyl Begg of the order of that provided for them before by the GSLP when Pepito Baldachino was then Minister and they provided the excellent facility that they had, which fell to a great extent into less use 1835 than it had before.

1840 We remain entirely committed to providing the Varyl Begg Social Club with brilliant facilities, and maybe here or from elsewhere – given that he has no axe to grind and he will not be offering himself for election next time round – he might actually be able to bring himself one day to utter the words that Roy Clinton uttered at the beginning of his questioning of me in respect of an earlier question when he said, ‘I congratulate the Chief Minister’, once we have provided a fantastic new site for the Varyl Begg Social Club.

1845 Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, actually it was GSLP members who invited me, so I have to say they must have been pretty discontented to ask me. Indeed, what they said to me is, ‘Fabian doesn’t really understand us, but Joe Bossano does because he’s the president of the social club.’

Can I ask the Father of the House whether at least he could, as President of the Varyl Begg Social Club, take a personal interest in relation to this?’

1850 Mr Speaker: You cannot ask him.

1855 Hon. Chief Minister: No, Mr Speaker, he cannot ask that question because the Hon. Minister is not here in his capacity as President of the Varyl Begg Social Club, and he knows that but he is just making mischief.

Mr Speaker: And the Speaker is getting a little bit tired, he tells me, because some of the ... This afternoon I think hon. Members are letting themselves down. Some hon. Members are behaving as if they have not left primary school.

Next question.

Q434-441/2018
Rifaat al-Assad –
Europort Trust transaction

1860 Clerk: Question 434. The Hon. D A Feetham.

1865 Hon. D A Feetham: I am not sure this is the appropriate question to try and calm things down, but prior to the sale of blocks 6-9 Europort to Glenthorne Holdings Ltd did the appropriate authorities in Gibraltar consider freezing the assets of Mr al-Assad and his family?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer with Questions 435 to 441.

1870 Clerk: Question 435. The Hon. E J Phillips.

1875 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, can the Government confirm that the Chief Minister was informed by the Minister for Financial Services that his family trust, from which he is excluded as a beneficiary, was intending to be involved as one of the ultimate beneficiaries of the company that is purchasing the Europort blocks 6-9?

Clerk: Question 436. The Hon. E J Phillips.

1880 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, in light of the approval of the sale of Europort by the Supreme Court and the recent international allegations and proceedings that have surfaced in relation to Rifaat al-Assad, can the Government state whether the Attorney General is intending to take steps to freeze distributions of the sale proceeds to the al-Assad family?

1885 Clerk: Question 437. The Hon. E J Phillips.

Hon. E J Phillips: Does the Government or the Attorney General have information in relation to the Assad family's wealth that goes beyond that put to the Supreme Court in the recent Europort Trust case?

1890 Clerk: Question 438. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Was the Government aware of the Rifaat al-Assad Europort transaction prior to it going before the courts?

1895 Clerk: Question 439. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1900 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Is the Government satisfied that the Rifaat al-Assad transaction has not damaged or does not have the potential to damage Gibraltar's reputation as a finance centre, whether as a result of Assad or the fact that the family of a Minister is involved in this deal?

Clerk: Question 440. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1905 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Does the Government not agree that any business done in Gibraltar with Rifaat al-Assad could have reputational consequences for the jurisdiction, especially in light of the existing investigations and freezing orders which affect Rifaat al-Assad?

Clerk: Question 441. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

1910 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Is the Government satisfied that there is no conflict of interest insofar as a company owned by a trust held for the benefit of the family of a Government Minister acquiring property with substantial Government tenants and who will have the ability to negotiate these renewals and rents in the future?

1915 Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

1920 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, as Government stated in its Press Release 280/2018, the Government can clarify that the acquisition of the Europort property by Mr Rifaat al-Assad was notified to the GSD Government in 1999-2000. I can confirm that the GSD made no attempt to stop the purchase. They let him in. It is as a result of that acquisition at the time that the GSD were in Government that the Assad family has been able to hold the Europort property asset.

1925 The acquisition of 6-9 Europort by Mr Assad took place on 14th June 2000, therefore 16 years following his exile from Syria. The allegations against him in France were made in 2013 and relate to alleged acquisitions of property by Mr Assad between 1984 and 1992. The case is still ongoing. There is also a similar investigation ongoing in Spain.

1930 The Gibraltar authorities have, for a number of years now, been co-operating with the French authorities who are investigating Mr Assad. That close co-operation has included providing information and data as required by international transparency and disclosure rules and, as Gibraltarians would expect, given the gravity of the unsavoury allegations against Mr al-Assad.

Indeed, since August 2015 Gibraltar has been aware of the investigation by the French authorities into Mr Assad and has been co-operating to the fullest degree with the French 1935 authorities not only by the provision of information and data, but also by a face-to-face meeting with the Senior Vice-President of the High Instance Court of Paris who is charged with the investigation in France, and also with the chief investigator in France. I personally met this gentleman to pledge Gibraltar's support for the investigation.

1940 Active consideration was given as soon as Gibraltar became aware of the investigation in France as to the possibility of seeking freezing orders, and such consideration was constantly under review. No application was made, as the Government is advised that legal requirements could not be and still cannot be met. The French and Spanish authorities have frozen properties and bank accounts in Spain, France and England.

The French and Spanish authorities have been aware for a considerable period of time of the existence of Mr Assad's financial interest in 6-9 Europort.

1945 An Overseas Territory would be entitled to register an overseas freezing order if it was suspected that the property had been purchased using property obtained through unlawful conduct, that is to say the proceeds of crime. The registration of the order would be pursuant to the European Freezing and Confiscation Orders Regulations 2014. At no stage has there been a request by France, Spain or any other jurisdiction to register in Gibraltar an overseas freezing order in respect of Mr Assad's assets.

1950 The French authorities have registered in England a freezing order in respect of one property in Mayfair, London – although I understand Mr Assad has more than one property in the United Kingdom. The English authorities, like the Gibraltar authorities, are not undertaking any form of investigation for their own benefit, but are providing information.

1955 The Office of Criminal Prosecutions did not have advance notice of the proceedings in the Supreme Court, and nor were they served with any papers in connection with the proceedings. The proceedings were in private. The handing down of the judgment was in public and Office of Criminal Prosecutions were made aware of the proposed handing down. Neither the Attorney General nor the Office of Criminal Prosecutions took part in any of the proceedings to which reference has been made, nor were they served with any papers.

1960 The proceedings in the Supreme Court have been brought by the trustees to seek the court's approval in respect of the sale of 6-9 Europort and also the sale of a property in Sotogrande and the companies through which they are owned.

1965 Mr Speaker, the Government understands that an investigation by the RGP commenced in 2017 in order to see whether there was any evidence of any criminality that had occurred locally. No arrests or charges have resulted from this investigation and none are at present anticipated. Information and intelligence has been gathered from various sources both within Gibraltar and from overseas in respect of all aspects of the matter. All of this information and intelligence is of a confidential nature and it would be possible to identify sources or the nature or extent of such material if we disclosed more.

1970 Mr Speaker, I am confident that the Attorney General and the Office of Criminal Prosecutions are fully cognisant of their responsibilities with regard to the protection of assets in cases of money laundering or any other criminality. In order for restraint proceedings to succeed, the issue, as confirmed by the Chief Justice, is whether when the assets were settled they were or represented the proceeds of crime. This is specifically set out in paragraph 20 of the Chief Justice's ruling. The learned Chief Justice also ruled that he was satisfied that the trustees' belief as to the provenance of the funds was a considered and reasonable belief and one which could properly be held notwithstanding the ongoing proceedings in France and Spain.

1980 The Government has no doubt that if the RGP or the Office of Criminal Prosecutions had been aware of cogent provable evidence that could potentially demonstrate that any property within Gibraltar had been obtained with the proceeds of crime or in any way represented the proceeds of crime, then steps would have been taken pursuant to the Proceeds of Crime Act 2014.

1985 In the circumstances, there can be no basis upon which it could be suggested that the reputation of Gibraltar as a finance centre has been or could be damaged as a result of the ruling of the Supreme Court.

1990 The Government is at present not aware of the terms upon which the properties in question at Europort will be managed in future if the transaction proposed to the court by the trustees goes ahead, but we are confident that, given the professional reputation of the trustees and the high esteem in which they are held, that all matters concerning the management of the properties will continue to be undertaken transparently and at arm's length.

In fact, given all the above, hon. Members and right-thinking people in the wider community will see that the relationship with the French authorities leading on this matter has been excellent, as Gibraltar has provided fulsome assistance to their investigation.

1995 In yet a further example of Gibraltar's internationally compliant and co-operative approach to this matter, the Supreme Court of Gibraltar has rightly ensured that no money that can reasonably be suspected of representing the proceeds of criminal conduct by any person can be paid out of Gibraltar. Gibraltar's prosecuting authorities could and would apply to the court to prevent this from happening. The Chief Justice, who heard all the relevant evidence and saw all the relevant documents, has nonetheless found that it is reasonable for the Gibraltar trustees to believe that Europort was not purchased by Mr Assad using the proceeds of any criminal conduct. Hon. Members and members of the public should be loath to replace his informed views with their own impressions, given that they have not seen the documents nor heard the evidence, and that is true as much for this case as for any other.

2000 The Supreme Court was involved by the trustees, only one of which is linked to the Isola family, as a matter of good trust administration practice and to ensure that any sale was therefore dealt with in a manner that was transparent to the courts and Gibraltar and international law enforcement agencies. Mr Speaker, it is a matter of public record that the trustees were represented by Sir Peter Caruana QC.

2010 Further, Mr Speaker, if anything, Gibraltar's reputation has therefore been safeguarded as our law enforcement agencies, professionals and indeed the Supreme Court and the counsel before it have all worked to ensure that the rule of law has prevailed, and further that should any international law enforcement agency have a claim on the proceeds of sale, time for such a claim to be made has been afforded.

2015 Finally, Mr Speaker, Albert Isola is a full-time servant of the people of Gibraltar doing an excellent job in enhancing our international reputation at all times and he has not been involved in any matter relating to this issue. He has acted entirely properly throughout, as is entirely characteristic of him. He is a man who is investing more energy than most people have in ensuring he carves out for Gibraltar not just more business and more clients – he is carving out new industries and new markets, and he is achieving that and more. He enjoys my full and unadulterated confidence and that of all his Cabinet colleagues. (Banging on desks)

2020 Government also has and expresses full confidence in the actions of the Office of Criminal Prosecutions in Gibraltar and the Attorney General in respect of this matter, as they have been dealing with it for some years and are fully appraised of all the facts and issues relating to the Assad investigation and their interests, and all options have been considered during that time.

2025 This is a matter entirely in the hands of our law enforcement agencies. The Government must also express its confidence in the decisions of the Gibraltar courts and the application of the rule of law in Gibraltar.

2030 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just one question, if the Chief Minister can help me with this. I am grateful for the very full answer the Chief Minister has given this matter, given the public interest in relation to the issues that arise here.

Mr Speaker, my question relates to the French and Spanish authorities. It is well known that both the French and Spanish authorities have rejected the argument put forward by Mr al-Assad 2035 in relation to the provenance of the funds. He says that the funds come from the Saudi royal family and in fact they were a gift from the king himself.

It naturally follows, therefore, that the Gibraltar authorities, that were co-operating quite clearly for some time now with the French and Spanish authorities, have concluded clearly that – and I would like the Chief Minister to help me with this particular question ... that the Gibraltar authorities have accepted the argument by Mr Rifaat al-Assad that the funds were a gift from the king rather than anywhere else.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am not able to tell the hon. Gentleman what the Gibraltar authorities have accepted or not accepted, because it is a law enforcement matter, it is not a Government matter. But I can tell him what the court decided. The court decided, in respect of the asset in question, that the trustees had provided evidence, as the court set out in paragraph 23 of its ruling, that this asset had not been acquired other than with funds which the court believed had come in respect of Saudi Arabia.

I have no knowledge of this case and the information that the law enforcement agencies have in Gibraltar about assets in Gibraltar, or that the French law enforcement agencies have or the Spanish law enforcement agencies have. But there are different moneys, obviously; some may come from one source which is untainted, and some may come from a source that is tainted. The finding in respect of the matter in respect of which hon. Members have asked is the Chief Justice's finding, which I think should give us all huge confidence because he has looked at the documents, he has heard the evidence and his finding – not the law enforcement agencies' – is that in Gibraltar the assets in question were not acquired with funds other than funds the provenance of which could be ascribed to Saudi Arabia.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am grateful for the answer to the question that the Chief Minister has given. And just as a matter of record, the reason why I referenced the Gibraltar authorities was not in relation to the court case. Clearly all of us in this House should respect the decision of the Chief Justice, who made a decision based on the evidence before him on the day. So my question was entirely directed at the law enforcement agency as opposed to the judicial process that was underway.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, in that case it would not have been a question which I think is in order now that the hon. Gentleman has clarified, because we cannot here answer questions about the investigations that law enforcement agents are carrying out or what evidence they have or do not have.

Mr Speaker: The hon. Lady.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I have two supplementaries to this very exhaustive, sensitive and intricate answer provided, which I am grateful for.

Regarding Moneyval, Gibraltar has been waiting for 13 years for the Moneyval evaluation. The evaluation, as I understand it, is due in the first quarter of 2019, so is the Government, in light of this, not worried, given how Assad's assets have been frozen in Spain, France and the UK, the latter under a European order, that this sort of thing is exactly what the Moneyval assessment will be looking for in terms of perhaps considering that Gibraltar's standards are seemingly lower on the compliance side of things?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, with warmth and affection, 'utter nonsense' I must say to the hon. Lady, because the Moneyval assessment has nothing to do with that.

This is the acquisition of an asset in Gibraltar which even the French authorities have not sought to freeze. They are the lead authority in respect of the investigation and they are not seeking to freeze. They would have been able to seek through us to freeze, and in the answer that I gave I said to her they would have been able even to seek to register their freezing order here.

2090 They have come here and they have looked at everything our law enforcement agents have. They have looked at all the evidence. They have looked at it exhaustively and for a number of years and they have made the decision not to ask us to freeze, and the decision which I am relating to her – which is not our decision; I am just relating what we have been informed of in order to deal with this issue in this House – has been that there is not evidence to take proceedings to freeze. If the French had thought that there was a reason why the money here was tainted, they would have frozen here by registration. It is an automatic thing.

2095 I think we would be dealt with very harshly by Moneyval if we went around freezing assets which there is no evidence to freeze, even when a legal authority that has all of the information necessary to freeze other assets has come here, has co-operated with us, we continue in co-operation with them and they are not asking us to freeze and they are not even registering their freezing order here, which would be automatic.

2100 Moneyval issues are completely separate. We are working very hard to ensure that when we finally have a Moneyval assessment we pass it with flying colours, and that is about the probity of the people in the Gibraltar financial services industry, the probity of the people in industry generally in Gibraltar who make reports about alleged money laundering.

2105 In this case, Mr Speaker, there is a disclosure to the Government in 1999 and the Government makes the decision to allow the purchase, and when the issue of whether the money is tainted arises and the asset is disclosed to the authorities that are pursuing those tainted assets, those authorities do not pursue the freezing. So I do not think the hon. Lady is barking up the right tree.

2110 Hon. D A Feetham: Just a number of questions and I will just mix them up because I do not intend to ask any further, other than this.

2115 He has mentioned 1999 and 2000. My understanding is the Government in 1999-2000 could not have blocked the sale of this particular property to Mr al-Assad because in fact that was a transaction as between two private entities. What the Government then could do, which it did do, was refuse Mr al-Assad an application for Cat 2 status. In other words, Mr al-Assad wants to come to Gibraltar to be resident in Gibraltar and that was refused in 1999-2000.

2120 Does he accept that there is a fundamental distinction indeed between the situation in 1999-2000 and the situation now, the situation since 2013, and it is this: that in 1999-2000 Mr al-Assad was being accepted, his investments were being accepted all over Europe? He had investments in France, he had investments in Spain, he had investments I think in Switzerland, in England. Indeed, the Daily Telegraph records that right up to 2011 he was resident in a – £13 million, I think – mansion in Mayfair. It is in 2012-13 that you have proceedings in Switzerland that do relate historically to some of Mr al-Assad's conduct when he was in Syria and the source of his wealth as to whether it is to do with the plundering of the Syrian people. 2125 You then have proceedings in France, you then have parasitic proceedings in Spain in aid of the French proceedings, and you then have proceedings in the United Kingdom in aid of the French proceedings.

2130 And one additional reason why it is different: looking at this transaction, when we stand back and we look at the price that has been paid for this particular asset, there appears to be a haste on the part of Mr al-Assad in the sale at a cut price to sell and obviously exit the jurisdiction. I wonder whether there has been any indication by any of those jurisdictions that I have mentioned about the possibility ... well, enquiries in relation to that transaction, sale, from Mr al-Assad and any indication that any type of action might possibly be envisaged in the future.

2135 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I must say he would not expect me to answer that question, would he? And he would not expect me to answer a question about what law enforcement agents may be thinking of doing. And if I did not know better, I would think he was 2140 trying to raise a spectre of a sort that is not logical, because for leading counsel to interpret the Rules of Parliament to pretend to allow him to ask a supplementary question about what law enforcement agencies may be about to do in respect of alleged potential proceeds of crime is frankly not something that would merit serious consideration.

2145 Second, Mr Speaker, dealing with what he started with, he said that consent could not be denied to the transaction, it could not be prevented from coming in. Well, the information I have is that Mr Assad sought consent even if consent was not required, and consent was not not granted – he was told that he needed no consent. If somebody comes and tells you, ‘Can I do this?’ he is opening himself up for you to say, ‘Well, I at least would not like you to, even if you can.’ Mr al-Assad might have taken a different decision in that case. But he was not told that and he invested. It is true that at that time there were no issues of the sort that there are now, but the issues were there. The reputation was not gained in 2012. The issue as to proceeds of crime 2150 legislation and the ability to freeze arose in 2012. The history was well known by then. The UN report was well known by then. So, Mr Speaker, I do not think that he could wriggle off the 1999 hook so easily.

I am very pleased Mr Assad did not obtain Cat 2 status in Gibraltar and I commend the Chief Minister who made that decision.

2155 Mr Speaker, the hon. Gentleman has mischaracterised the reality of the price being paid as set out in the judgment. I think the judgment actually sets out quite explicitly what the valuation is and how the sale is entirely in keeping with the valuation. If he is just referring to the cash, he has missed the bit in the valuation that says that there is an assumption of an outstanding debt of £10½ million to Casanove, which means that the total price is well within – indeed, I think 2160 above – what the valuation suggests it should be. So there does not appear to be a fire sale aspect to this.

Mr Speaker, all I am going to defend in this House is the judgment of the Chief Justice, who saw all the documents and who made all the decisions which you could ask a court to make in the context of the application made, and the relationship between the Gibraltar authorities and the French authorities and the deep co-operation there has been between them, and reiterate 2165 my views as to the probity of the Hon. Mr Isola. I set out our position in respect of the work that he does and the support that he enjoys from hon. Members on this side of the House. I dare say if hon. Members stopped and thought, they would wish to clarify they are not in any way seeking to impute his reputation or his actions in respect of the discharge of his functions as a 2170 Minister of the Crown.

Mr Speaker: Any other supplementary?

2175 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I have one more supplementary, but may I just say that I do not think any of us on this side are seeking to impute any ... I have never spoken for anybody, but I think we are talking about processes being followed accordingly and correctly, so I do not think anybody is out to impute anybody’s reputation, personally.

If I can just ask: despite the Chief Minister correctly noting that this client came in through the GSD in the GSD years, shall we say, the issue of ongoing monitoring ... Section 12 of the Proceeds of Crime Act shows that there is a process for ongoing monitoring. So this is something 2180 that has to be legally abided by. Does the Chief Minister then accept that ongoing monitoring is as significant and pertinent as letting the individual in, despite who let him in?

Hon. Chief Minister: Of course I do, Mr Speaker. That is why, if she considers what I have said, I have referred her to the fact that the Gibraltar Police and the Gibraltar Office of Criminal 2185 Prosecutions have been in contact with the French authorities for some time – I think now for a number of years. That is what the ongoing monitoring produces, Mr Speaker, and that is why it is not that this issue springs up when the hon. Lady, who was the one leading on the subject, first issues a press release and then puts some questions, or it appears in a newspaper; that is 2190 the result of many years of work already done in respect of the Office of Criminal Prosecutions. My meeting with the French authorities was either a year or two years before then.

2195 We amended the Proceeds of Crime Act with a certificate of urgency some time last year with the support of Members opposite in great measure to assist further in respect of this matter. So the ongoing monitoring is what is going on. That is the result of the ongoing monitoring: the work which is unseen but which is excellent work of the Office of Criminal Prosecutions, of the office of the Attorney General, in establishing those strong links with other prosecuting authorities, which went on for years before they thought that it was worth asking 12 questions about this week.

2200 Mr Speaker: Any other supplementary?

Hon. D A Feetham: Yes, just one and I ask this question in good faith because the Hon. the Chief Minister may have said something that I am not sure he intended.

2205 He said that the statute was amended last year in large measure because of this case. Does he mean because of inquiries that were made in relation to this case, or does he mean in order to assist generally in cases of this nature and other cases, but that it was not brought to Parliament specifically because of this case? Because that would then open up another avenue in terms of questions.

2210 Hon. Chief Minister: And does he think that that would assist the jurisdiction somehow?

What I said I said very advisedly. I said that we brought an amendment to the Proceeds of Crime Act, which they supported, in great measure in relation to this case, and I think that is explicit.

2215 Mr Speaker: Any other supplementary?

ADJOURNMENT

Mr Speaker: Right, we then go on to Question 442, but I do not know about Hon. Members – I have a commitment to attend the Corpus Christi mass which starts at 7.30 p.m.

2220 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): I will deal with that in a moment, Mr Speaker, if you will let me. Mr Speaker, I move that the House should adjourn to tomorrow at 4 p.m.

Mr Speaker: The House will now adjourn to tomorrow at four in the afternoon.

Order of the Day

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS

Standing Order 7(1) suspended to proceed with a Government Statement

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Friday, 1st June 2018.
Suspension of Standing Orders. The Hon. the Chief Minister.

- 5 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I beg to move under Standing Order 7(3) to suspend Standing Order 7(1) in order to proceed with a Government Statement.

Mr Speaker: Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

GOVERNMENT STATEMENT

Change of Prime Minister in Spain – Statement by the Chief Minister

- 10 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, this afternoon, the Speaker or President of the Spanish lower house of Parliament, the Congreso de los Diputados, has announced that at 3.30 p.m. she was communicating to the King of Spain, that the until now Prime Minister of Spain, Mr Mariano Rajoy, has lost a Motion of Confidence and Censure in the Spanish Parliament.

- 15 As a result of that same Motion, a majority of the Members of the Congreso have voted that the Leader of the PSOE Socialist Party, Pedro Sanchez Perez-Castejon, should be appointed Prime Minister, leading a minority Socialist government.

Mr Speaker, the importance of that political change in Spain at this time in our history, cannot be underestimated.

- 20 As the leader of the Gibraltar Socialist Labour Party and as Chief Minister of Gibraltar and Leader of this House, I have written a few moments ago, before coming back to this House, to Snr Sanchez, to congratulate him on the result of that motion seeking his appointment as Prime Minister.

25 In these circumstances, aside from offering my congratulations, I have also tendered to Mr Sanchez our desire to bring dialogue, understanding and co-operation to the issues that arise between our people.

Mr Speaker, the next 10 months will be decisive in many ways for Gibraltar, as we move towards 29th March 2019 and our departure from the European Union with the United Kingdom.

30 The result of the events in the Spanish Parliament today will mean that the ideology of those with whom we engage in Spain, and the manner in which we engage with them, may change.

As I have already said in writing to the new President of the Spanish Government, we will not be found wanting when it comes to demonstrating the willingness of the People of Gibraltar to engage constructively in dialogue in pursuit of policies designed to deliver co-operation and good neighbourly relations between our people.

I sincerely wish that we will see that sentiment reciprocated so that we can advance matters in the common interest of the citizens we each represent.

40 Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, we welcome the Statement by the Chief Minister, particularly what he says in relation to the manner in which we may engage in the change.

45 But coming back to that point later, Mr Speaker, this is clearly an interesting democratic development which we must continue to monitor. In our view, Mr Speaker, it is too soon to reach firm conclusions on particularly the impact in Spain, but also the impact in Gibraltar. It is true, Mr Speaker, that traditionally it has been easier to deal with a socialist government in Spain. However, Mr Speaker, the Spanish government, as the Chief Minister rightly pointed out, is a minority socialist government and therefore is in a fragile position.

50 We identify clearly that there is possibly an opportunity here to re-engage in talks that otherwise face obstacles. Mr Speaker, we also identify possibly an opportunity to restore the trilateral process.

It is true of course that regionally the socialist government has had a greater deal of support in Andalucia, insofar as the support it has had for the rights and demands of Spanish workers, but on a more micro-point, on this side of the House, we are quite prepared to be privately briefed by the Chief Minister and his Government on the wider impact once it becomes clearer to the Government.

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

60 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I would like to align myself with the comments made by the Chief Minister today. The developments in Spain were driven specifically by the corruption cases against key members of the ruling party. I congratulate those in the Spanish Parliament who stood up for accountability and transparency. In the Motion of No Confidence, they have sent a clear message to anyone who wants to use political systems to their personal advantage.

65 Nothing is certain in today's politics. Decisions can be reversed, governments overturned, but despite this uncertainty, Mr Speaker, democracies must continue to regenerate. Leaders who use their power arbitrarily to exploit a lack of accountability must be challenged, not celebrated. While we can cautiously celebrate the current disrepair of the right-wing government in Spain and what it might mean for politics here locally, including Brexit negotiations, we must work in the spirit that is opposite to the instability that has haunted Rajoy's government recently.

75 Earlier today, Mr Speaker, I met with the Cross-Frontier Working Group and it is quite clear that there is scope for an attitude that contrasts with the Margallo or PP style of doing this. If communities on both sides of the border can co-operate with goodwill and co-operation, while respecting the red lines of sovereignty, we can fight the narrative of the Spanish right wing. In seeking dialogue we fight reactionary statements; in seeking collaboration, we escape the siege mentality; and in seeking respect, we can be an example of stability in an unstable world.

80 What has happened in Spain proves that el que la hace la paga, Mr Speaker, and we in this House are accountable to the people of this community. At the end of the day, anybody who thinks they can get away with abusing the system for their own interests or others around them will be proved wrong.

85 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not know what part of ‘seeking clarification’ any of that was, but I am very pleased to have the opportunity to re-state to the Leader of the Opposition that I used the term may advisedly in the Statement that I made to the House. I note his proposal that we should privately brief them when we see how this change may manifest itself in the context of Brexit negotiations, etc. and what we will do is continue to brief them – because I do not want anyone to think that he has invited us to brief them as if we were not doing that. I think it would be acknowledged by them that they have been briefed on a number of occasions in respect of confidential aspects of what we have been trying to achieve in the context of discussions that are being held. So nobody should go away thinking that there is an absence of briefings of Members of the other side.

95 I am interested of course to hear hon. Members’ analysis of the political situation in Spain. I do not think that is what this moment is for. I am very happy to chew the fat with them over coffee and what has happened in the past 48 hours in Spain, but I do not think that a Government Statement in respect of the position of the people of Gibraltar tendered to a new Spanish President is the moment to start having discussions about el que la hace la paga and referring to the immediate past president of our neighbouring nation just by his last name, if I may say so to the Hon. Lady.

100 Mr Speaker, it is clear to us on this side of the House that there is a desire for dialogue and co-operation, which the people of Gibraltar have been making manifest for many, many years under successive Governments of Gibraltar. There are some instances when Spanish governments have been able to have the maturity to approach the people of Gibraltar and pick up the opportunities for dialogue and co-operation. I sincerely hope that we will see such an opportunity again in the future. When that opportunity manifests itself, I am sure that the people of Gibraltar will not be found wanting, as I said in my Statement a few moments ago.

110 Mr Speaker: Before we proceed with the remaining Questions, I understand the Hon. Samantha Sacramento –

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I think we are going to proceed with the Questions and she will be saying something at the end.

Questions for Oral Answer

CHIEF MINISTER

Q442/2018

Opening Gibraltar to a Syrian refugee family – Action taken

Clerk: We now return to answers to Questions for Oral Answer.
We commence with Question 442. The Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon.

115 Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Has any action been taken by Government regarding the Chief Minister's willingness in September 2015 to open Gibraltar to a family of Syrian refugees fleeing the horrific attacks and state of desperation? Has any action been taken on this intention?

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

120

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the Government has been pursuing the initiative to accommodate a family of Syrian refugees, despite this turning out to be much more complicated than at first thought. We have been advised by the United Kingdom that the process should be followed via the UN High Commissioner for Refugees.

125

The Gibraltar Government committed itself to housing one Syrian refugee family when the crisis broke out, but we have no alternative but to do so through the UK and the UN because we are not able to engage directly in identifying a family.

130

In fact, we understand that all other UK Overseas Territories have abandoned their attempts to pursue similar situations. However Gibraltar remains patiently engaged. Once a family is identified, we will then make a decision on how to accommodate them.

Mr Speaker: Next question.

Q443-444/2018

Ending use of agency staff in the Civil Service – Government intentions for employment

Clerk: Question 443, the Hon. D A Feetham.

135

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, in relation to the recent commitment by the Chief Minister during the May Day Rally to 'bring an end to the use of agency staff in the Civil Service', is it the intention of the Government to employ agency staff currently working within the Civil Service directly?

140

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I will answer this question together with Question 444.

145

Clerk: Question 444, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, will the Government commit to employing supply labour workers in the Civil Service, authorities and agencies through short-term contracts?

150

Clerk: Answer, the Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the Government is in the process of considering with the relevant unions how best to implement our decision to end the use of agency staff in the Civil Service.

155

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, does the Chief Minister have a timeline of when he expects to have a policy decision made, based on the discussions being had?

Hon. Chief Minister: Not at the moment, sir.

160 Mr Speaker: The Hon. Mr Danny Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Has the Chief Minister conducted an analysis in terms of how many people are currently affected by this promise?

165 Indeed, of course, if you talk about ending the practice, one way which you can end the practice is to stop using contracted labour in the Civil Service. Another way is by employing people that are, through recruitment agencies, placed within the Civil Service.

How many people does he think this is likely to affect and how many people does he, does the Government envisage are going to be employed at the end of the process?

170 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, we have conducted such an analysis, which was the first supplementary that he asked me; and I do not have the data with me to give him the answers that he has subsequently sought.

Mr Speaker: Any other supplementary?

175

Hon. D A Feetham: Just so I get it right, the Government does envisage increasing the quota within the Civil Service by actually employing some of these people that are currently placed within the Civil Service for recruitment agencies?

180 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Government is in the process of considering with the relevant unions how best to implement our decision to end the use of agency staff in the Civil Service.

Mr Speaker: Any other supplementary? The Hon. Roy Clinton?

185

Next question.

Q445/2018
Midtown car park–
Required modifications

Clerk: Question 445, the Hon. L F Llamas.

Hon. L F Llamas: Further to Question 90/2018, is the Government now able to provide details in relation to the modifications required at Midtown parking?

190

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, the doors for use by members of the public have been fitted with electro-magnetic catches which hold the doors open at all times.

In the event of a fire the fire detection system is triggered and it automatically releases the doors and allows the in-built door closers to close the doors.

195

Hon. L F Llamas: Mr Speaker, I do not believe ... That is hardly a long-term measure which is going to provide the accessibility that is required to the building. In fact, I went yesterday and the doors were shut and I do not believe there had been any fire.

200 Does the Government intend to actually look at this in a more mature and long-term manner in order to ensure that there is accessibility to that building for disabled users?

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I shall speak to the magnets and understand what it was that they were doing when the hon. gentleman was there and that they were not gainfully employed in keeping the door open.

205 I shall seek information on what the hon. gentleman has told me.

Hon. L F Llamas: But, Mr Speaker, surely this is something which is which should have been planned from the onset when the building was designed. Yesterday we heard the Minister for Equality saying how the Government had actually implemented all its policies, as if the Disability Act were already in force and therefore that does not reconcile with how we are seeing that this building is presenting itself to users who have disabilities, such as mobility.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I do not agree. The information I have is different from the information that he has brought to this House. I do not accept the information that he has brought to this House at face value and if the doors do what I am told they do, then they would provide the accessibility which the hon. Lady would expect to see provided.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, as the resident parking boffin within Parliament who spends about half an hour every single day driving around Gibraltar looking for parking – of course it does not afflict the Hon. the Chief Minister because he has got his parking at No. 6 Convent Place (Interjection) but disabled ... There is a serious point here.

I can tell the Hon. Chief Minister from my own experiences, those doors – you need to be training three times a week in a gym in order to open those doors. Those doors are really heavy doors and somebody with mobility difficulties ... Indeed, I have seen pensioners with difficulties trying to open those doors. So it is a point that to somebody that needs to access Mid-Town, it is an important point, and I think it is rather churlish of the Chief Minister to dismiss it in the way that he has.

I hope and I ask the Chief Minister – rhetorically, but by way of supplementary question – whether he is going to be dealing with it.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, in that case, if he asked that question, he has not heard the answer I gave the hon. gentleman a few moments ago, which was that I would look into the information that he has provided.

But I am surprised that he has got to his feet to tell us that he spends time at the Midtown car park, because he has frequently told us that he does not enter the Midtown car park because it is full. One of the reasons that he has now turned the full attention of his incisive parliamentary style to parking is because he cannot find parking and he did not buy at the Midtown.

So I do not know which of the two to take for granted, but given that he is the advocate of anything that he thinks might somehow give rise to the public being less than entirely satisfied with the magnificent projects that the Government of Gibraltar has undertaken in the time that we have been in office, no doubt he will want to continue to pursue this matter in the short time that he told us he had left in this Parliament, given his commitment not to stand for election again, when the Parliament is dissolved – unless of course, Mr Speaker, he is no longer standing by that commitment, although I understand it was the requirement of some for their return to the executive.

Hon. D A Feetham: I do not know ... I have to say that I get rather worried by the hon. Gentleman! This hidden sort of love affair that he has with me of wanting me to stand and then not wanting me to stand – it is almost like one of these sorts of marriages ... Anyway, perish the thought, Mr Speaker.

At least, can the Hon. Chief Minister give a commitment to this House that he is going to get out of his G1 and out of his plush offices, Venetian palace, at No. 6 Convent Place and that he will personally go to the Midtown car park and that he will personally open those doors and ascertain for himself how difficult or otherwise it is to open those doors? Because if he does that, I am absolutely certain – absolutely certain – that he will give immediate instructions for those doors to be dealt with.

260 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I do not think he has kept in his mind the thread of the discussions that we have had about this car park.

First of all, I am afraid I have not got a palace to leave to the next Chief Minister of Gibraltar I have got offices which are now fit for purpose and I think that that is something which most people understand. In fact, No. 6 Convent Place, like LNG, was one of the things he kept going on about at the last election – and look where it got him, Mr Speaker. So I advise him, and I am 265 pleased to say he never takes my advice, to leave that to one side. Leave that to one side.

But he might also remember, Mr Speaker, that I have told him I have used the Midtown car park frequently – not during the week, when unless there are good reasons otherwise I walk from my home to the office. I commend to him that he should consider that, using the shortcut to town which takes him through sites as important as the part of Gibraltar where the Hon. the 270 Father of the House was brought up and leads him straight into town. Given he spends half an hour looking for parking, he might find it quicker to get to his office if he were to do that and it might do something for his fitness.

But because I have used the Midtown I know that the Midtown is fitted with the doors necessary for a car park like that to be able to have all of the necessary fire, etc. permissions that 275 it requires and that those are heavy doors, and that is why they have been dealt with.

And that is why, Mr Speaker, as the first sentence of my prepared answer, when he might have been too busy posting on some social media which happens to be his wont these days, now that he has got less responsibility as a parliamentary leader, given that he is on borrowed time – the first sentence of my prepared answer was: the doors for use by members of the public have 280 been fitted with electromagnetic catches which hold the doors open at all times.

That, Mr Speaker, would suggest that nobody needs to go to the gym three times a week or five times a week or as many times as he might appear to want to go to the gym each week to open the doors, because given what I said, Mr Speaker, they should be open all the time. What the hon. Gentleman has said this afternoon – I do not know whether he just does not like to 285 hear him because he does not want him back in the executive or whether every time that the hon. Gentleman speaks, he hears rap in the background – is that the magnets do not appear to be working because when he was there, the doors were closed. What I said to the Gentleman was: I cannot take at face value what you say, but I shall look into it.

Therefore, Mr Speaker, I will slowly explain to him that what was happening before he got up 290 was that we were trying to agree between ourselves whether or not the doors were permanently open, therefore obviating any attendance at the gym as a requirement to be able to open them.

295 Hon. D A Feetham: Just one more, Mr Speaker.

I have no doubt that he would like me to take a short cut into town through Green Lane so that one of those rocks falls on my head! That would solve the problem of whether I am going to be standing at the next election or not, because I know that he would rather see the back of me.

But, Mr Speaker, I have actually this week been able to find parking at Midtown carpark twice and I can tell the hon. Gentleman that those doors have been closed. Indeed, I have never seen 300 those doors open with magnets or otherwise; they have always been closed and every time I exit those doors, there is somebody with me they always say, 'God Almighty, these doors ... !' or words to that effect – 'These doors are so heavy you have got to be ...' People comment on the heaviness of those doors. It is genuinely an important point for people with disability and mobility problems.
305

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, we recognise that if the doors are not open, there is an issue to be dealt with. That is why we have dealt with it.

310 Now, whether or not the doors are actually open is the issue that the Hon. Mr Llamas has brought in his first supplementary. I will certainly be looking into how his statements today dovetail with his previous statements as to his ability to find parking.

315 But I must disabuse him of his geographical misunderstanding of the route into town from his eyrie up the Rock. He should be making his way down through Devil's Gap steps – also known as la Escalera del Monte – not Green Lane, Mr Speaker. It would be the most direct route to his plush offices in the area of Line Wall Road.

Hon. D A Feetham: Our plush offices.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, no, Mr Speaker, not 'our', because – 320 Mr Speaker: Soon to be more plush offices!

Hon. Chief Minister: Indeed. Mr Speaker, not 'our', because I am presently charged with the functions of the office of Chief Minister of Gibraltar on behalf of the people of Gibraltar, but I make no bones about the fact that one day when they no longer want me to do this job, I will go 325 back to do that job. I have no doubt, Mr Speaker, he will be there when I go back.

Commencement date for Disability Act 2017 – Statement by the Minister for Housing and Equality

Mr Speaker: Okay, on that note, the Hon. Samantha Sacramento has asked to have the opportunity to clarify the matter of the commencement of the Disability Act, which was the subject of exchanges a couple of days ago.
330

Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Yes, Mr Speaker, thank you.

I would like to update the House that a notice has been issued in the Gazette with a commencement date, given the progress that has recently been made, and a date for the commencement of the Act has been set in a couple of weeks' time.

Questions for Written Answer

335

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to table the answers to Written Questions W23/2018 to W26/2018 inclusive.

ADJOURNMENT

340

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): I have the honour to move that the House should now adjourn to Friday, 15th June at three in the afternoon.

I have indicated some of the Hon. Members opposite that given the dates for the European Council meeting which will be held at the end of June, between 28th and 29th June this year, I 345 anticipate that we shall be taking the debate on the Appropriation Bill in July – probably in late July. It will not be possible for the Government to attend to further parliamentary business with any regularity between now and then. But I expect to be able to return to the House to deal with motions first on that date and then to come back to deal with legislation on later dates culminating or starting with the date on which we deal with the appropriation debate.

350

Mr Speaker: So the House will now adjourn to Friday, 15th June at 3 p.m.

The House adjourned at 4.33 p.m.

The Gibraltar Parliament

The Parliament met at 3.12 p.m.

[MR SPEAKER: Hon A J Canepa CMG OBE GMH MP in the Chair]

[CLERK TO THE PARLIAMENT: P E Martinez Esq in attendance]

Clerk: Meeting of Parliament, Friday, 15th June 2018.
Government motions. The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Silence in memory of Grenfell Tower victims

5 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, before we start on the business of today, I am conscious of the fact that yesterday was one year since Grenfell Tower burned in London and that we should observe, as a Parliament, a minute's silence in recognition of the loss of life that that occasioned.

A minute's silence was observed.

Congratulations to Mr Speaker on appointment as Companion of the Order of St Michael and St George

10 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, from a tragic event to a happy event, this is the first time that the Parliament meets since you have been bestowed by Her Majesty with the Order of Companion of Honour of St Michael and St George.

I think I speak for the whole House in saying that you enjoy our sincere congratulations. I think everyone in this community believes that the bestowing of that Order upon you is very, very richly deserved indeed. You have held just about every office going in this land and you now, with a high degree of patience, sit and preside over our proceedings.

15 I think the whole House will want to join me in adding our congratulations for the many you will no doubt already have received. (A Member: Hear, hear.) (Banging on desks)

20 Mr Speaker: Thank you very much. I am very grateful for those kind sentiments from the Government benches.

Given that it is the Order of St Michael and St George, I can guarantee Members that I am not going to make a bid to be Bishop of Gibraltar! (Laughter)

25 Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, we would echo the comments by the Chief Minister and offer our congratulations to you, your wife Julie and your wider family.

Also, just touching upon what the Chief Minister has said in respect of high office, Mr Speaker, you also, I recall, in December 2014 held the position of Acting Governor, so you must be one of the only people to have done all of the high offices in Gibraltar, and we offer our most sincere congratulations to you. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: I am very grateful. Thanks for those kind sentiments.
The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I rise to echo the words of the Chief Minister and the Leader of the Opposition and to congratulate you and your wife Julie and family on a very well-deserved honour for a lifetime of service to Gibraltar. You have been Minister, Chief Minister, Mayor, Acting Governor and Speaker and we hope that this service continues for a long time to come.

I also take this opportunity to thank you for all the years that you have dedicated yourself to serving our community and wish you much health and happiness to enjoy this accolade in the years coming. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Again, thank you very much. I am very much touched by your kind words. Thank you.

Order of the Day

GOVERNMENT MOTIONS

Hon. Sir Joe Bossano KCMG MP –
Conferral of Freedom of the City of Gibraltar – Motion carried

Clerk: We now proceed to Government motions. The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, this afternoon is going to be, at least for some time, an afternoon of kind words.

If I may have the honour to move the motion standing in my name, which reads as follows.

This House:

NOTES that Sir Joe Bossano was first elected to Gibraltar House of Assembly in 1972 and that this year, in 2018, he has served as an elected representative of the people of Gibraltar for 46 years;

– a lifetime, Mr Speaker, in my sense –

RECALLS that Sir Joe Bossano is now the longest-serving elected representative of the people of Gibraltar in the history of Gibraltar, as well as one of the longest-serving Parliamentarians in the Commonwealth;

RECALLS THAT Sir Joe served as Chief Minister following elections in Gibraltar in 1988 and in 1992;

FURTHER RECALLS that Sir Joe served as Leader of the Opposition following elections in Gibraltar in 1976, 1984, 1996, 2000, 2003 and in 2007;

FURTHER RECALLS that Sir Joe has continued to serve as a Minister following elections in Gibraltar in 2011 and in 2015;

COMMENDS his lifetime involvement with the trade-union movement during the struggle for parity and subsequently;

FURTHER COMMENDS the transformation of the economy of Gibraltar during his time in Government;

WELCOMES his visionary domestic policies of encouraging home ownership through a 50/50 scheme and the abolition of the points system to attend UK universities which opened the floodgates for many students to further their education abroad;

WELCOMES his trademark defence of the right of the people of Gibraltar to self-determination and to a democratic decolonisation and his rejection of the claim from Spain to the sovereignty of our country;

CONSIDERS that his appointment as a Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of St Michael and St George ('KCMG') by Her Majesty the Queen in the New Year's Honours List for 2018 is richly deserved and was as such joyously welcomed in Gibraltar;

DECLARES that the award of a KCMG should be matched by the award of the highest honour that the Parliament of this country can bestow in the name of the people of Gibraltar;

HEREBY RESOLVES that the Freedom of the City of Gibraltar be conferred on the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano KCMG MP.

55 Mr Speaker, Sir Joe's political trajectory is well known to everyone in this community – and I think there is absolutely no risk whatsoever that he will ever be asked to be Acting Governor by the Foreign Office! Yet for the sake of the record of Hansard, Mr Speaker, it is right that I should record some of what we all know, so that it is known in perpetuity in the record of the proceedings of this House and in the record therefore of the democratic proceedings of this nation of ours.

60 Joseph, Joe John Bossano stands out as the longest-serving parliamentarian in Gibraltar's political history. I said 'a lifetime', Mr Speaker, at 46 years, because of course, as I always remember, this nation entered the European Community in 1972 and Joe Bossano was elected to this Parliament with you in that year – and I was born, so I can never forget the tally of years that we were in the European Union for and that Joe Bossano has been in this Parliament.

65 He continues to serve in what is said to be one of the longest-serving parliamentary records across the Commonwealth for that unbroken period of 46 years. That longevity marks a continuous period of eight years, from 1988 to 1996 as Chief Minister; almost 20 years, between 1984 and 1988 and from 1996 to 2011, as Leader of the Opposition – which many think is the worst job in a parliamentary democracy; and since 2011 as Minister responsible primarily for economic development in the Government that I have the honour to lead.

70 His contribution to the political emancipation and economic and social development of Gibraltar is as extensive as it is impressive and this record of public service extends far beyond the political, of course.

75 Mr Speaker, he coupled entry into Parliament in 1972 with his role as leader in the Transport and General Workers' Union. He was instrumental in organising and leading the campaign for parity of wages and conditions between the local workforce and UK-based workers in a Gibraltar economy that was then dominated by the UK Ministry of Defence presence, which then employed over 50% of the labour force, notably in the former Royal Naval Dockyard, times that many of the young people in Gibraltar cannot even imagine, let alone remember. That campaign started in 1972 and was finally settled in 1978, despite constant and sometimes hostile opposition from the then UK government, resulting in an end to the long-established wage discrimination at last.

80 I always find of great interest declassified material that sometimes emerges of the 1970s and early 1980s which reflects how the United Kingdom saw this firebrand of a politician who 85 refused to be covered and refused to take no for an answer. As chairman of the Cabinet in which he sits I can tell you that 46 years later nothing has changed!

This contribution to trade unionism in particular in Gibraltar between 1972 and 1988 is itself unequalled in terms of improving the well-being of the working and middle classes of Gibraltar and extends beyond the parity issue, as Sir Joe's work also secured better conditions of 90 employment in both the public and private sectors for employees both in negotiated settlements and in the resolution of countless claims from aggrieved individuals in surgeries which required constant daily attention. He never turned people down, attending to their problems at all times – and that continues to be the case today, with Sir Joe holding clinics every weekend, even now, in his usual selfless style.

95 Joe Bossano managed the trade union role parallel to his early introduction to political life as a Member of Parliament and he quickly established for himself a reputation in his interventions in the Parliament Chamber on economic and public finance issues. Indeed, in 1973, as a Minister in the AACR Government you welcomed that, although from the opposite benches, and in respect of someone opposite you, a Gibraltarian was actually able to deliver an in-depth 100 economic analysis for the first time in the Appropriation Bill debate in that year.

That reputation was enhanced and proven later when, after forming and leading his own political party, the Gibraltar Socialist Labour Party, in 1976, he won the General Election in 1988, becoming Chief Minister. Straightaway he introduced the formation of a Government comprising full-time Ministers dedicated exclusively to the running of Gibraltar's affairs. Before 105 that, Mr Speaker, only you had been a full-time Minister. Until then, Gibraltar's administration had largely been governed on the basis of part-timers. This change in the composition and style of Government was significant and it endures to this day.

Aside from elevating the role and commitment of Gibraltarian politicians in the running of their country's affairs, it was ushered in at a time of massive change and challenge for Gibraltar.
110 The Frontier with Spain had been fully opened a few years earlier in 1985, coinciding with the closure of the Royal Naval Dockyard, then followed by its failing commercialisation. This resulted in high unemployment with all the social consequences that that brings and a pressing need for economic diversification.

Gibraltar's resources were extremely limited, given its small land size, negligible lack of 115 primary industry and limited scope for inward investment, yet as Chief Minister from 1988 to 1996 Joe Bossano transformed the economy. That alone is a manifestly remarkable achievement. Indeed, there are those who used to jest that Joe Bossano had a secret economic plan. Well, Mr Speaker, not only did he have an economic plan; it was an economic plan that worked.

120 With carefully managed land reclamation, a large infrastructure base was created, resulting in new economic activity attracting new commercial businesses. The public utilities were commercialised, bringing in United States and UK partnerships, introducing higher technology and efficiency, and this in turn brought in new banking and insurance entities, attracted by effective marketing of Gibraltar's EU position. This was followed by the entry of major 125 international gaming companies under strict licensing conditions, the first while Joe Bossano was Chief Minister and as a result of his agreement with the chairman of the first of the companies that moved to Gibraltar.

At the same time, part of the land reclaimed, funded by the profit of the other part sold for commercial use, was allocated for public housing development sold on a co-ownership basis.
130 That scheme virtually resolved the chronic housing problem which Gibraltar had suffered for decades. This was boosted by the negotiation of a lands agreement with the Ministry of Defence in 1995, which resulted in the transfer of MoD land and properties, all of which were exploited for further commercial and housing development. The home ownership ratio of Gibraltar surged from 8% to over 50% during Joe Bossano's tenure in office as Chief Minister, with all the social 135 and economic benefits which flowed from it. It is often said that, as a result, Joe Bossano created Gibraltar's middle class.

Having successfully diversified and strengthened the economy of Gibraltar, Joe Bossano turned his attention to the political and constitutional development of Gibraltar. He revived Gibraltar's cause internationally. He took Gibraltar's case for decolonisation and self-determination to the UN in 1993, a process which continues to date but which had been dormant for times before then. This was supplemented with a prolonged lobbying campaign in the EU and the Commonwealth, notably through the CPA.

Progressively, he achieved constitutional change with a de facto transfer of powers and responsibilities from Her Majesty's Government of the United Kingdom to the Gibraltar Government, and this was later enshrined in the new 2006 Gibraltar Constitution. In doing so and in opposing any form of discussion or negotiation with Spain, he became single-handedly the driver for Gibraltar remaining staunchly British to this day.

In terms of social and welfare development, Joe Bossano introduced a system of universal pension provision through the creation of Gibraltar Community Care, employing the long-term unemployed, who were sometimes considered unemployable by others, in a Government-subsidised community project scheme and introduced free scholarships for all students securing places in the UK and other universities. Of course, the creation of the independent charity, Community Care, was subject to challenge but it was shown to be an entirely independent charity. In his current role as Minister for Economic Development – including Employment until recently – he has introduced employment schemes which have virtually eliminated unemployment in Gibraltar and separately attracted significant inward investment into Gibraltar.

Joe Bossano is a selfless man, totally dedicated to Gibraltar. This involvement in the political life of Gibraltar is not a career; it is a full-time vocation in life, working seven days a week all year. And not seven days a week from nine to five, Mr Speaker. Those of us who know him and work with him know that that work can span the 24 hours of the day and that if you unsuspectingly leave your ringer on on your mobile phone, you might find it is not your alarm that wakes you in the early hours of the morning. And he has never sought any financial gain beyond his salary. Indeed, in his tenure as Chief Minister he also insisted on freezing the salaries of Ministers throughout the eight years that he was in office.

He has an unrivalled record in this Parliament, but more importantly his record in promoting and securing the economic and social development and well-being of the people of Gibraltar stands on its own. In particular, he has stood against difficult change and when the change required was challenging. No other Chief Minister or politician who has previously served Gibraltar in the modern era can be credited with such achievements.

This, Mr Speaker, is not a citation for the Freedom of the City written in preparation or in anticipation of Joe Bossano's retirement from public life, believe me. Joe Bossano repeatedly claims that he will be standing for election until the age of 90 – and he is presently seventy eight. (Hon. Sir J J Bossano: Seventy nine.) Seventy nine. I do not think that he will expect us to think that 90 was anything other than a moving feast, Mr Speaker, (Laughter), a moving target. All of those who know him well have no doubt that, nature willing, he will continue to stand for election not just until he is 90 but until he can continue to do so physically. It may seem an obsession in life, but it underscores the unconditional dedication of this man to his people.

The best recommendation for this honour may come actually not from me but from Joe Bossano's principal political opponent of the last 30 years, Sir Peter Caruana QC, from his last Budget speech in this House, where he said, and I quote from Hansard for 24th June 2015:

Mr Speaker, during these 25 years – most of them spent as Chief Minister, but eight or nine of them in the no less worthy role of Opposition Member of this great institution – I have of course seen much change and my principal political rival, except in the latter years, the current Chief Minister was of course Joe Bossano. Joe was, I have to say, a formidable political opponent. Formidable but always engaging and I am glad that he is not in this House yet today to hear that, because I suspect he is not one taken for being eulogised and probably would enjoy eulogies even less coming from me.

But nonetheless I think it is appropriate to mark at the end of my parliamentary career

– a day you were, no doubt, keen to see – that for many of those years I have had opposite me not just a formidable partisan political rival, but also a rival who himself contributed much to the Gibraltar that we all enjoy today and whose own political career will, when it concludes, I think, stand amongst the great ones in Gibraltar's politics.

A Member: Hear, hear.

185 Hon. Chief Minister: I have no doubt, Mr Speaker, that I will have said some things in presenting this motion which will not be agreeable to Members opposite, but the statement I have quoted from Sir Peter I also have no doubt will be one with which Members opposite in the GSD and even the most diehard anti-Bossano voters will agree with.

190 So Joe Bossano is a giant of our political life and therefore of the life of this Parliament and its predecessor House of Assembly. He is in no mood to retire and the party that he led from 1977 to 2011 is in no mood to see him retire. The fact that he is still as able and as agile in mind as he was in 1973 when he first made that speech on the Appropriation Bill that was a substantive contribution on economics from a Gibraltarian in this House demonstrates that.

195 Indeed, if ever there was, in my view, a man who will die with his boots on and has no desire to retire or give way, it is Sir Joe Bossano. This is a man to whom any award to be bestowed on his retirement is surely an award to be bestowed posthumously. Those of us who know him know that what matters most to him in life is his family and Gibraltar and we will no doubt all agree that he should have the recognition of his people, the recognition of Gibraltar, in life and not just in death.

200 In that way he will have an acknowledgment from friend and foe of the work that he has done, acknowledgment of the effect on the lives of all of us of that dedication he has demonstrated: from the students who have degrees and careers due to his change of the scholarship rules – many of us sitting in this House today as a result; from the elderly who receive the Community Care cheque; from the families that have been built by Gibraltarians in the affordable 50-50 homes he built from 1988; from those members of the trade union movement whom he has tirelessly represented; from all of those who have ever relied on Calpe House as a home away from home in London when they have been ill and needed a place to stay; and from every worker in our economy since the late 1970s when the battle for parity was won. Every single person, Gibraltarian or otherwise, who has worked in our economy has owed the size of their wage packet to the architect of the victory of the battle for parity. And finally, also acknowledgement and recognition from those of us who are proud to call Gibraltar British and who history will show owe a great and huge debt of gratitude to the man who saw the Foreign Office coming. Whether in Strasbourg in 1977, in Lisbon in 1980, in Brussels in 1984 or on the airport in 1987, they were never able to get one past Sir Joe.

215 Finally, Mr Speaker, I think all of us probably also have a story of friendship or other relationship with Sir Joe. I have not wanted to dwell on my personal relationship with him in presenting this motion, which will for posterity reflect the reasons why this House should bestow on him our highest civic honour, but it would be remiss of me not to say this for the record. From the Leader of the House to the Father of the House, from one Chief Minister to a predecessor, from one leader of the GSLP to its founder and the custodian of its ideological core: without his help, his guidance and his support, I would not have had the honour of holding the office I hold today.

225 For all of those reasons, Mr Speaker – the last of which might not find much favour with Members opposite, but something I am sure they will forgive him – I commend the motion in the terms I have earlier set out to the House. (A Member: Hear, hear.) (Banging on desks)

The Speaker: I now propose the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. the Chief Minister.

The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

230 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, there is an amendment on the motion that was filed on 3rd May.

Mr Speaker, I propose the following amendment to the terms of the motion standing in the name of the Hon. the Chief Minister, dated 23rd May 2018.

At paragraph 12, page 2 of the motion insert 'at an appropriate juncture after he ceases to be a Minister and a Member of Parliament' after the words 'the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano KCMG MP'.

Mr Speaker, I am speaking to the amendment on this point.

235 The conferring of the Freedom of the City on one of our citizens is the highest honour that this House can bestow. It is therefore rightly reserved for persons of distinction who have rendered eminent service to our city as provided for in section 2 of the Act.

240 The Government's motion seeks to bestow the Freedom of the City on the Father of the House, Sir Joe Bossano KCMG MP. As much as Sir Joe dislikes eulogies, as put by the Chief Minister, platitudes, badges and anyone singing Sir Joe's praises, he has reluctantly been persuaded, as he said in his contribution to his knighthood, to accept in the New Year's Honours List to become a Knight of the Realm. Mr Speaker, I suspect that he will feel equally reluctant today and probably uncomfortable in his chair when he hears today's contributions.

245 The knighthood bestowed on Sir Joe by Her Majesty is different in substance and form to what this motion is seeking to achieve. By operation of this motion we are, as parliamentarians, creating Sir Joe as a Freeman of our City on behalf of the people of Gibraltar and therefore it is important that when we reflect on the very full political life of Sir Joe we are cognisant of parliamentary custom, tradition, practice and procedure.

250 Mr Speaker, Her Majesty's Opposition accepts and agrees that 46 years of service to our community in his contribution to trade unionism, as a Member of Parliament, as Leader of the Opposition, as Chief Minister and latterly as a Government Minister is deserving of our community's highest accolade in principle. We on this side of the House have considered the Government's motion in Shadow Cabinet and none of us disagreed with the language that was proposed by the Hon. Chief Minister in his motion. However, it is our view – and a view we hope 255 the Government, after careful and fulsome reflection, would share – that the Freedom of the City should be bestowed on Sir Joe once he ceases to be an MP or a Minister. We believe as a matter of principle that this House should not confer the Freedom of the City on its own serving Members. We know of no parliamentary precedent in Gibraltar for conferring the Freedom of the City on one of its own serving Members and we do not understand at this stage the 260 Government's rationale for doing so in this instance.

We have heard it has been said that whilst we confer the Freedom of the City on serving Members of Parliament of the British Parliament or other parliaments, why cannot we bestow the Freedom on our own serving Members? In our view, that argument does not stack up to scrutiny. What we are doing here is bestowing our community's highest honour on one of our own whilst they are still serving our community. We believe that for our small Parliament to bestow awards for one of its own who is a serving Member at the time is inelegant and wrong as a matter of principle. It can also be seen to undermine the very award we are bestowing.

270 Mr Speaker, the issue of timing in respect of accolades of this nature was debated by this House on 5th July 1996 within which the House debated the question of the Freedom of the City for Sir Joshua Hassan and Sir Bob Peliza, where both Sir Peter and Sir Joe – as far as I can understand and navigate through Hansard – enjoyed a rather tense debate, which appeared to be more about form than substance. Importantly in that debate, at page 147 of Hansard, Joe Bossano, as he was then, said this:

This has nothing to do with timing, the timing is there because it is a timing that as far as we are concerned we consider to be appropriate, for both of them, – and a reference is given to Sir Joshua and Sir Bob – and because we were ready to support the previous motion when it had originally been proposed and therefore at the time when Bob Peliza was still Speaker of the House we would not have ourselves suggested that it should happen, because of course, we thought then that it would not be appropriate to move a motion granting the Freedom of the City to somebody that was still sitting in that Chair, Mr Speaker.

275 – and these are the critical words, Mr Speaker –

Mr Speaker, it is in our view clear on this side of the House that the beneficiary of the Freedom which the Chief Minister is advocating be granted himself accepts that it would be inappropriate for a serving Member of this House to be granted our city's highest honour.

I repeat: we do not on this side of this House seek to question the motion presented by the Government; we form the view that it is right that once Sir Joe leaves this House the Freedom should absolutely be bestowed, but not now.

I do appreciate that as a consequence of our amendment and conscious of the many public statements about Sir Joe's political longevity – and in fact the Chief Minister referred to that – in Opposition and Government, and also Sir Joe's infamous words, which are still ringing in my head, when I saw Sir Joe on the top of the ICC, 'Feet front into North Front' – a catchy phrase, Mr Speaker – Sir Joe will receive his high honour when he leaves this House, which we firmly believe is a matter of principle and the appropriate approach.

On that basis, Mr Speaker, we would respectfully suggest to the Government that they revisit the position on our amendment and accept the small amendment that we have made in respect of the motion presented by the Chief Minister.

The Speaker: I now propose the amendment moved by the Hon. Elliott Phillips, which reads as follows: that at the end of paragraph 12 – which effectively is the end of the Chief Minister's motion – the following words should be added, 'at an appropriate juncture after he ceases to be a Minister and a Member of Parliament'. This is the question which is now before the House.
The Chief Minister.

Hon. Chief Minister: Thank you.

Dealing with the amendment on its own, Mr Speaker, although I do not know whether the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition is indicating Opposition support for the motion with the amendment only, or whether he is indicating Opposition support for the motion whether or not it is amended as he has suggested, because he has not told us that. He has got up to tell us what he wants to amend the motion to say without giving us any indication of what his position on the motion would be.

I am going to give way, Mr Speaker, because he tells me now that he is happy to clarify.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker if the position is that the Government accept the amendment, then of course we will support the substantive motion as amended. If the Government reject the amendment that we are seeking to place before this House, then we will be abstaining.

Hon. Chief Minister: Well, that is where he should have started, Mr Speaker, but of course I will forgive him another rooky error in his no doubt to be short-lived role as Leader of the Opposition while he does not hold the leadership of his party.

Mr Speaker, most of the motions on Freedoms of the City bestowed by this House are obviously not controversial, but I am sure that Sir Joe will be delighted by the controversy that his Freedom of the City is apparently going to create, in particular given that it is a controversy brought by the GSD that GSLP Members of this House and no doubt Liberal Party Members of this House will be very pleased to defeat and therefore might add an additional gusto to the honour that might be bestowed by the end of this debate.

320 The Hon. Member first of all did not tell us what his position was going to be in relation to the motion; and second, has at the end asked me to revisit my view as to the amendment – except of course I have not given any view as to the amendment that I should therefore revisit. He has presented the amendment and I am now going to speak to it, but I have no mind to change because he has not sought our view in respect of the amendment. The Hon. Mr Phillips did not 325 write to me to say, ‘I am going to be proposing this,’ so that I replied to him saying, ‘We’re not going to accept it,’ so that he might now say, ‘Will you revisit your position?’ The Hon. Mr Phillips wrote to you to put the amendment, we have not had a conversation as a result of it and therefore he cannot ask me to revisit. He can ask me to set out my position, which I think he already has an indication of.

330 But look, Mr Speaker, I am very pleased indeed that the Hon. Member has set out in such inelegant, ungracious and badly researched form his party’s position in respect of this motion, because I think nothing could give us all greater pleasure than to be able to deal with a motion bestowing the Freedom of the City on Joe Bossano than in dealing also with an amendment that will be defeated. It will be defeated not just because they have not sought to concert with us on 335 the amendment, it will be defeated not just because we have put a motion which therefore clearly signifies our intent and the amendment goes contrary to the intent of the majority in this Parliament; it will be defeated because things have changed a lot in 20 years, first, and second because the things that he has said do not relate to a serving Member of this House other than as a Speaker.

340 First of all, what was the position in the 1990s and the 2000s in the UK in relation to honours? Honours were not bestowed on Ministers in that period. There was a convention that honours would not be bestowed; a convention that arose, in shorthand, as a result of some who had received honours then acting in a manner that was contrary to how those who had such honours should behave. One of those was the former President of Zimbabwe, Mr Mugabe, who 345 had received a knighthood and he was one of the catalysts for the decision that people should not receive honours and awards whilst they were still serving as Ministers. Hon. Members opposite may not have researched the fact that that changed. It changed indeed in 2016 when Mr Cameron, as he left, in his resignation honours bestowed honours on many front-bench Members of the British Parliament, and there are now many who enjoy honours as a result of 350 that bestowment and still hold front-bench ministerial office. So that is the first change.

If hon. Members had not been able to research that and understand it, then all they needed to do was look up from their pettiness and see that one of them is sitting in this House opposite them, the very same person who is going to be the subject of the bestowing of the Freedom of the City by the end of this debate, because Sir Joe was bestowed KCMG despite being a Minister.

355 The hon. Member set up the concept that that is different, but he does not explain why it is different. It was not different between 2016 and 1996 or earlier when the convention had arisen that honours were not bestowed whilst somebody was in front-bench ministerial office, but now all they say is it is different. Well, Mr Speaker, there is no reason why we should accept that it is different and that that should be determinative of a position, and clearly hon. Members know, 360 because of the motion we have put, that we do not think that it is different. We think it is analogous, Mr Speaker.

In particular, the hon. Gentleman took the best argument that I am going to put to the House and failed to distinguish it, but just said it is different, and that is that this Parliament bestows the Freedom of the City on sitting Members of the British Parliament. And so the hon. Member 365 thinks it is absolutely perfectly okay to bestow the Freedom of the City on somebody who has done great things for Gibraltar but is not a Member of this Parliament but it is not okay to bestow on a sitting Member of this Parliament the Freedom of the City, even though they may have done leagues more work for Gibraltar. It is just ‘different’, Mr Speaker. Well, look, we are different. We believe it is absolutely right to recognise in life 46 years of service to Gibraltar – probably one of the longest-serving parliamentarians in the Commonwealth.

Mr Speaker, I do not want to be morose – Joe Bossano is not given to squeamishness – but the man says that he will die with his boots on. The hon. Gentleman opposite remembers from his PDP days being at Casemates and hearing him saying that memorable phrase about boots first. Is the hon. Gentleman genuinely saying that we must wait for utter physical fragility to visit Joe Bossano so that he is unable to sign his name on the nomination paper for a General Election before we are able to see the Freedom of the City bestowed, or worse still that he passes away before he can be bestowed the honour of being a Freeman of the City of Gibraltar? Is that really what the GSD has come to do today, Mr Speaker? Is that really what the GSD thinks is right to a man who their former leader – their successful former leader; they have had many leaders since, none of them successful, but their successful former leader – said is a legend in his own lifetime?

Mr Speaker, it is very difficult for me to see any logic other than spite behind what is happening here today. It is not as if because Joe Bossano is a Freeman of the City of Gibraltar that he is entitled not to comply with the Standing Orders and Rules. I think one of the things is he can march with his goats down Main Street, but that does not affect the debates in this House. He is not entitled to put motions later than the rest of us, he is not entitled to have his vote counted twice; there would be no advantage to Joe Bossano as a Freeman of the City of Gibraltar in this Parliament. There would be no advantage outside it either, Mr Speaker, because it is not as if I need to say the things I have said about Joe Bossano, to put them on the record in Hansard in Parliament for everybody outside of this place to know all of those things, because they have lived them. The people he sees on Saturday and Sunday do not need me to read out a speech saying that he sees people on Saturday and Sunday, so they are not going to decide to vote for him or not vote for him because he is a Freeman of the City of Gibraltar. It is absolutely without consequence in political terms but it is of huge consequence in civic terms to recognise in life the value of the contribution that the man has made.

Mr Speaker, the issue of the timing that the hon. Gentleman refers to in the context of the quote from Hansard is all to do with the timing of who put first the motion to bestow on Sir Joshua Hassan the Freedom of the City. That was the issue in controversy in 1996 and 1997. There were two motions to bestow the Freedom of the City on Joshua Hassan: one was put by the Government and one had been put earlier by Joe Bossano, and that was the motion that was heard first and therefore the motion that prospered. That is what the timing debate was about.

Of course, if one side of the House was trying to curry favour with the arbiter of proceedings in the House, that would be quite different, but Joe Bossano is not the arbiter of proceedings in the House – good luck to them if he were, whether or not we bestow on him the Freedom of the City and they object. The Speaker is the arbiter of proceedings in this House and it would have been, I agree with Joe Bossano, entirely inappropriate for one side to seek to bestow on the arbiter, on the referee, a civic honour and in that way seek to sway and curry favour.

If they do not see the difference between themselves as Members of this House and Mr Speaker as the arbiter of the House's rules and regulations, and why it would be inappropriate to move, whilst an individual is Speaker of the House, the Freedom of the City, then they do not understand their own role in this place. Maybe that is why they think sometimes that they are a law unto themselves and they can make rulings and do what they like, Mr Speaker. That is what would be inappropriate.

In effect, Mr Speaker, all the hon. Gentleman has done by quoting the Hansard of 1996 or 1997 is do you out of the opportunity for me to move the Freedom for you, because I think it is absolutely right that one side or the other should not be moving the Freedom for the guy who is the referee of the proceedings. So they have reminded us of that, but of little else. And the lack of understanding of the issue that was put at the time, absolutely rightly, I think is demonstrated in what we have heard.

But anyway, 20 years have passed, conventions have changed, and in any event, as they sometimes like to remind us when we tell them that we are doing the same thing that they were doing, we are the New Dawn Government: we do things in a different way. And in a 24/7 social media world one no longer waits until somebody dies to be able to bestow on them an honour or wait for them to retire, which this particular person has equated with no longer being able to lift a finger and sign a nomination paper.

425 Mr Speaker, of all the things that he will do in his short tenure as Leader of the Opposition – as I have no doubt it will be, not because of elevation to come but for other reasons which are obvious to all of those watching – this must be his lowest and his most inelegant moment in the short time that he will hold this office, but it gives me great pleasure to confirm to the House that Members on the Government bench will be voting against the amendment. I have had 430 indicated to me by Sir Joe that he thinks it is appropriate that he should abstain during the course of this debate, but I am afraid to tell the hon. Gentleman that, much as the future holds politically today, he is going to be defeated.

Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak on the amendment moved by the 435 Leader of the Opposition? The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, when we rise here to discuss a motion to bestow the Freedom of the City to the Hon. Father of the House, Sir Joe Bossano, from my corner over here I am looking at a man who was my father's political enemy. He will know that we have not 440 often seen eye to eye and he will expect me to not share his ideologies and his affiliations. However, regardless of political allegiances, when someone has given his life to serve Gibraltar in all the capacities that have been reflected today, that person does indeed deserve to be recognised. Nevertheless, Mr Speaker, I believe that the GSD amendment calling for this accolade to be postponed until the hon. Gentleman is no longer in office and no longer a 445 Member of Parliament is entirely correct and appropriate.

Let me remind this House that the Freedom of the City which was bestowed upon Sir Joshua Hassan, a man who had served Gibraltar for 44 years, came eight years after he had left public office and Parliament, something which the Father of the House himself must be thanked for as the Leader of the Opposition at the time because he was the Member of Parliament who first 450 moved this motion, but eight years after Sir Joshua had left this House. The Freedom of the City given to Sir Joshua was therefore clean of political interest. Party affiliations and allegiances were not in question at the time of that appointment and I therefore believe that that was a decent example that was set as a precedent by politicians and this House, no matter what has happened in the UK, no matter what has happened before, no matter what has happened later.
455 It was a moral and conscious decision which everybody agreed with at the time.

Mr Speaker, the Chief Minister asks us to express the difference between knighthood and Freedom of the City. The Freedom of the City is symbolic of somebody having all and every trust and privilege over a city. It is a completely different type of accolade to knighthood and it is one which should be saved because that freedom, symbolic or otherwise, should not be given to 460 somebody in office. The proof is that just now the Chief Minister has mentioned that the Minister himself is going to abstain from voting, which is very decent and moral of him to do but it just shows the power that somebody sitting can have over his own accolade, and that in itself is dangerous. Saying that it is okay as well that this Minister deserves it right now because he is going to possibly die in office – may he enjoy 120 years of health and happiness – I believe is a shallow reason for bestowing it while in office as well.
465

I therefore fully support the GSD amendment, given that I firmly believe that this most highest honour should be bestowed on retirement. Otherwise, Mr Speaker, what we are doing is setting the dangerous precedent of the politicisation of Freedom of the City to Members of Parliament while in office and, while dangerous, in my view it actually even effectively devalues 470 the accolade for the hon. Gentleman himself. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Does anybody else wish to speak on the amendment? The Hon. Daniel Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, I rise as one of those fallen angels that fell from GSLP heaven 18 years ago. Indeed, Mr Speaker, some would call me, on that side of the House, the Angel of Darkness himself, according to GSLP dogma.

Mr Speaker, I rise to say this: I think it is a real shame, it really is. In all my years that I have been in Parliament, and observing politics but certainly since I have been in this House, it is probably one of those moments that I think really shame us all because everybody in this House agrees that if we were to pick somebody from this House as deserving of the Freedom of the City it is undoubtedly the Hon. the Father of the House. There is no doubt about that for the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition, the hon. Lady and everybody else in this House, and it is a matter of great regret and, I have to say, an indictment of our political system and the way as well that sometimes we conduct politics – and I include myself in that, because I would like to think that the way that I conduct politics is to pull my sleeves up and to pull no punches – but it is an indictment that we have not been able to get together and to agree by consensus a way forward that would cut across some of the recriminations and the counter-recriminations that we have seen today.

The reality of the situation is that the only difference here between both sides is everyone agrees that he deserves it, everyone agrees that he should have it; it is a question of postponement – in other words, when does that take effect – and quite frankly, if you were to ask the Hon. the Father of the House privately what is important, what is important here is not the receipt of that honour at this present moment in time; what is important is that the House in general believes unequivocally, (A Member: Hear, hear.) without any doubt and without any hesitation, that the hon. Gentleman deserves that accolade.

My party has taken a position and I will vote in accordance with that position, even though I have to say that within my own family certainly I am going to be reprimanded violently over this weekend for taking the position. But I do think that, on the principle of it, it is the right position to take and I hope that the Hon. the Father of the House can look at this and he understands that he can just simply ignore the vote and understand that everybody in this House believes him to be deserving of this honour – and indeed I cannot think of anybody else in this House who would be more deserving.

I wish to just simply say this and then I will not make any further contribution later on, Mr Speaker. The Hon. the Chief Minister, moving the motion, spoke of the Hon. the Father of the House's considerable achievements – I associate myself entirely with what he has said and I also associate myself with the kind words that the Hon. the Leader of the Opposition has also expressed in relation to the Father of the House. But the reality is that you have many politicians, some of them also serving communities for decades. What distinguishes the hon. Gentleman and people like the hon. Gentleman from others is that there are very few people who in their political journeys through the political life of their community leave genuine footprints. That is what the hon. Gentleman has done in the 46 years that he has been in politics. He stands for something and everybody knows what he stands for. He has been an indefatigable defender of the rights of the people of Gibraltar and of this community, and I cannot think of anybody else who is more deserving of this accolade than the hon. Gentleman. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Is there any other contributor on the amendment?

I call upon the Leader of the Opposition to exercise his right to reply.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, I am not going to be dealing with the insults that have been thrown about by the Chief Minister insofar as the methodology, the research or otherwise given by the Chief Minister in respect of the contribution. The Hon. Mr Feetham has elegantly set out the position of the GSD and its utmost respect for Sir Joe.

I remind the Chief Minister, and as echoed by the hon. Lady, that a knighthood is materially different to what we are doing in this House. Only we in this House can bestow the Freedom of 525 the City on Sir Joe, and that is why we referred to Hansard from 1996, as it demonstrates the parliamentary tradition of this Parliament, not somewhere else – not somewhere in Westminster or somewhere foreign to us, but this House – and we have the right to vote in respect of bestowing this honour on Sir Joe.

530 Therefore, it is of great regret that the Chief Minister could not simply have got his PA to pick up a phone, from the amendment that was circulated very shortly after 3rd May, to say to me, ‘Mr Phillips, I agree with this amendment,’ and that is the end of it, and we could have enjoyed a positive debate about the political life of Sir Joe Bossano.

535 Mr Speaker, we are disappointed by the Chief Minister’s rather childish reaction to this particular Freedom of the City motion that has been advanced and the amendment. In a long political life it is true that any politician will have in equal measure detractors and supporters, and therefore on reflection I am sure that there are many decisions that Sir Joe may have taken differently with the benefit of hindsight, and although we do not take objection to the substance of the Government’s motion and what it attempts to achieve, it would be remiss of me not to make the point that the Hon. Father of the House has divided public opinion in respect of certain 540 decisions that Sir Joe has made whilst conducting Gibraltar’s affairs. As we have said on the occasion that Sir Joe was knighted, there is no doubt that Sir Joe has made a substantial contribution to our way of life, from repositioning Gibraltar away from an MoD-reliant economy through to parity as described by the Chief Minister, through to education reforms and home ownership, and indeed, as the Hon. Mr Feetham put it quite rightly, the defence of our 545 homeland. These contributions are absolutely deserving of the Freedom of the City of Gibraltar, but we must not forget that we on this side of the House have in the past fundamentally disagreed with some of Sir Joe’s policy and other decisions, especially during the time that he was Chief Minister.

550 It is on that basis, Mr Speaker, that our formal position is that unless the Government accepts the amendment we will be abstaining from the substantive motion put by the Government.

Mr Speaker: I now put the amendment, as moved by the Hon. Leader of the Opposition, to the vote. Those in favour – 555 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I will call a division on the amendment.

Mr Speaker: We have a division.

A division was called for and voting resulted as follows:

FOR	AGAINST	ABSTAIN
Hon. R M Clinton	Hon. P J Balban	Hon. J J Bossano
Hon. D A Feetham	Hon. Dr J E Cortes
Hon. T N Hammond	Hon. N F Costa
Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon	Hon. Dr J J Garcia
Hon. L F Llamas	Hon. A J Isola
Hon. E J Phillips	Hon. G H Licudi
Hon. E J Reyes	Hon. S E Linares
	Hon. F R Picardo
	Hon. Miss S J Sacramento

560 Mr Speaker: There are 7 votes in favour of the amendment, there is 1 abstention and 9 votes against. The amendment is defeated (Banging on desks) and therefore what once again is on the table is the motion moved by the Chief Minister.

The Chief Minister has already spoken and the Hon. Elliott Phillips. I understand the Hon. Danny Feetham wished to cover both cases. Does anybody else wish to contribute?

The Hon. Dr Joseph Garcia.

565 Deputy Chief Minister (Hon. Dr J J Garcia): Yes, Mr Speaker. I will be speaking on the motion now, not on the amendment, but I do feel that it needs to be said that they continue to dig their own holes even deeper.

Mr Speaker, I welcome the opportunity to say a few words on the motion before the House today which seeks to confer the Freedom of the City of Gibraltar on Sir Joe Bossano. Let me say 570 first that I fully endorse the text of the motion and the words of my hon. Friend the Chief Minister.

Sir Joe is already one of Gibraltar's historic personalities. He started in politics before I was born. He has laid the foundations for the future of our country both politically and economically. His record of service to this community is second to none. The motion correctly points out that 575 from 1972 until 2018 he has been an elected Member for 46 years, first in the House of Assembly and then in the Gibraltar Parliament, but his involvement in politics predates even that. In May 1965, 53 years ago, Sir Joe became the founding secretary of the Pro-Integration Movement. The movement, which was led by Sir Robert Peliza, came about as a reaction to the ongoing crisis with Spain, both locally at the border and also at the United Nations.

In July 1965, in response to the circumstances of the time, Sir Joe wrote to the then Chief Minister Sir Joshua Hassan. His letter called on the then Government of Gibraltar first of all to investigate the possibility of integrating the Rock with Britain; secondly, for executive power to be transferred from the Governor in Council to the legislature; thirdly, to reduce the status of the Governor's Council to that of a consultative forum between the Gibraltar Government and 585 the three service Departments – the Army, the Navy and the Royal Air Force; that the payment of Income Tax should be made to Westminster and that Gibraltarians should enjoy the benefits that would follow from that; self-government for Gibraltar in all internal matters, with the UK responsible only for foreign affairs and for defence; and equality of status for Gibraltarians and British citizens. A day after that letter, on 8th July 1965, the eleven elected Members of the 590 Legislative Council decided to bury their differences and unite in a coalition Government. There was to be no opposition. The Pro-Integration Movement could move and did move into that space. That letter, in my view, marked the entry into the political fray of Gibraltar of the person upon whom we seek to bestow this honour today.

Sir Joe did not contest the 1969 General Election. However, on Saturday, 23rd June 1972 he 595 stood for election for the very first time. He did so under the banner of the Integration with Britain Party, which had evolved from the Pro-Integration Movement, and at that first opportunity was successfully elected with 4,383 votes.

As the House knows, the Integration with Britain Party collapsed in the summer of 1976 following a visit from the then Minister of State, Roy Hattersley. Sir Joe formed then the 600 Gibraltar Democratic Movement in order to contest the elections that took place on 28th September of that year. He came fifth in that election and polled 5,021 votes, but more importantly became the Leader of the Opposition for the first time as four GDM Members were elected in total.

In October 1977 the GSLP was formed with the collapse of the GDM, and in the 1980 General 605 Election Sir Joe came second, only 64 votes behind the then Chief Minister, Sir Joshua Hassan. This was a remarkable achievement.

Mr Speaker, as the motion says, Sir Joe was Leader of the Opposition after elections in 1976, 1984, 1996, 2000, 2003 and 2007. He also served as Chief Minister after the 1988 and 1992
610 elections. Indeed, in 1992 he came first with a record of 9,228 votes and also with 73.1% of the total vote. The latter is still a record.

I think despite all that and despite all of those achievements it is important to note that Joe has not lost his sense of humanity, and if anybody is in a hurry I recommend to them that they do not walk with him from one end of Main Street to the other, because it will take them all day as Joe is stopped by different constituents and makes notes in one of his notebooks.

615 I would also want to draw attention to two themes that have run through Joe's political trajectory. The first is his promotion of the rights of workers, which my hon. Friend the Chief Minister has already touched upon, both in politics and through the trade union movement. This includes a struggle for parity in wages and conditions with the UK, a struggle that he led and he won.

620 The second is his promotion of our right to self-determination. This is the very principle that the future of Gibraltar can and must only be determined by the people of Gibraltar. One of his enduring legacies will be National Day and everything that it represents in the context of our decolonisation.

625 Coupled with all of this is the unwavering and determined resistance that he has always shown towards the anachronistic Spanish claim to our country, and in this resistance he has also always led from the front. He was one of the few who saw the dangers in the process initiated at Brussels that led to the Lisbon Agreement in 1980 and the Brussels Agreement in 1984, a process under which the former placed our sovereignty on the table implicitly and the latter did so explicitly for the first time in history. And, Mr Speaker, he was proved right.

630 Sir Joe has shown, particularly during his time in Government, that sticking to your principles and sticking to your guns actually works. I still have the pleasure of meeting different Foreign Office officials in different parts of the world who bear the scars of close encounters at that time. Curiously, they also remember him with affection, almost with admiration – I should say that in the first meeting that my hon. Friend the Chief Minister and I had with David Davies, now 635 the Brexit Minister, who was Minister for Europe at the time when Joe was Chief Minister, the first thing he did was to ask after Joe and to send him his warmest wishes – an important recognition that he was defending his own people and their interests, even when those have clashed with the wider interests of London.

640 He has always defended the concept of creating the building blocks of nationhood through economic self-sufficiency. In his time as Chief Minister he dragged Gibraltar into the modern age.

I started to work closely with Sir Joe more than 20 years ago. Through thick and thin this has been and continues to be a privilege. We have contested five General Elections and two by-elections together. Time flies. It is therefore a genuine pleasure to support this motion.

645 Granting the Freedom of the City at this time is all the more relevant, given the knighthood bestowed upon him by Her Majesty the Queen recently. (Hon. Chief Minister: Hear, hear.) This House must follow that by granting the highest honour that it can bestow.

Mr Speaker, Sir Joe will go down in history as one of Gibraltar's political greats, especially if I write it. Thank you. (Laughter and banging on desks)

650

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Brilliant!

Mr Speaker: Is anybody else speaking on the motion?

The Hon. Albert Isola.

Minister for Commerce (Hon. A J Isola): Yes, Mr Speaker, nothing gives me more pleasure than to be able to rise and speak in support of the motion before the House this afternoon, especially in the presence of the great man himself, who is sitting with us in this House, and on this side of the House.

660

I think it is an absolute terrible shame that on a day when we celebrate the life's work of a man whose commitment to Gibraltar every single Member of this House is in agreement on – or so it appears – that we should fall into the silly temptation, in my view, of playing party politics, or should I call it patio politics?

665 Mr Speaker, what better way to bestow the Freedom of the City on a life-serving Member of our Parliament than for him to be here with us? Times move on, times change: are we going to remain in the way that they keep criticising us for doing, in not moving with the times and changing?

The award of the KCMG to a man who is sitting with us today was absolutely right and appropriate and so is this Freedom of the City, and I see absolutely no reason to talk about 'shame on us', to talk about 'clean of politics' as if the bestowing of this honour on Sir Joe is going to give him some kind of ulterior power which he will be able to use for political ends. Absolutely not. Every single member of our community knows that and understands that, and they are all, without exception – even the hardest fans of the Members opposite will be – saying that he deserves it. We all know that, so why engage in the disruption of what is, after all, a celebration for the entire community irrespective of political background or allegiance – in having this disruption to what is, in my view, an absolute celebration?

Mr Speaker, like yourself, lifetime service to our community is hard to find, and to the extent of what Sir Joe has done I think will never, ever be found again. There is not a single sector of our community that has not changed, benefited or enjoyed the fruits of the labours of that 1988-96 Government.

In my responsibility today as Minister for Commerce there is not a single area with which I work – whether it is financial services, whether it is gaming or whether it is the business community – that even today does not recognise the incredible work that was carried out in that eight-year period. Who would have thought that a socialist Chief Minister in 1997 would invite a leading accounting firm to review our financial services products to see how we can make them better, to work better to create new opportunities, new products and new business lines for our community? Sir Joe did that many years ago, and today those very same products continue to attract new business as to Gibraltar. It is not just that – and I simply do not have the time to take you through; the Chief Minister and the Deputy Chief Minister have already taken us through many of the different things that were done – but there is not a single millimetre of this community that has not been touched by the work of Sir Joe in those years.

But of course the measure of a good man is not just when he is in power, and that is where Sir Joe, for me, the work that he has done, has been most noticeable, because in those dark years of Opposition, in that thankless work in Opposition, Sir Joe carried on seven days a week always being available to anyone and everyone who needed his help or support. And that continues today. So if there is one thing that differentiates him from most other people involved in politics it is his absolute utter devotion to the people of the community that he serves. I do not think we will ever see anyone again who will work in that way and deliver what he has been able to deliver for the benefit of this community.

Of course, it all stems from one very simple word: principle. In politics, principles are often sacrificed for convenience. Not with Sir Joe. The principles he stood by in 1996, 2000 and every single election, including the last one – and I am sure it will be the same in the next one – are based on a core principle that he will not compromise, no matter what the political cost of doing that may be. That is what differentiates him again from many of those of us who have political work and political blood running through our veins.

The economy: the Chief Minister referred to the secret economic plan. I call it the secret economic miracle, because what Sir Joe did in that eight-year term to our economy was an absolute miracle. When you look at the numbers and you analyse the numbers of what it was before – MoD contribution/private sector contribution – and then you flip it over eight years later and you look at what it had done then, it is a miracle; it is absolutely staggering. And the one thing about Sir Joe when it comes to the economy, as the Members opposite will now be very familiar with, is he knows what he is talking about. His thinking, his vision and his ability to read numbers and predict their movements are something that we will continue, I hope, for many years to enjoy the fruits of his labour.

Mr Speaker, bestowing the Freedom of the City is in effect giving the hon. Member freedom from serfdom. It is not an irony that precisely what Sir Joe has done for 46 years is serve the people in whatever possible way he can.

I know that the controversy of the Opposition's position today will bring a smile to Sir Joe's face. Indeed, I have no doubt that he will actually thoroughly enjoy the proposition that he is 720 going to have the Freedom of the City bestowed on him by this side of the House and that that side of the House is not going to be supporting him. There is a little quirk of irony in that.

For me, Mr Speaker, honestly and truly it has been an absolute pleasure to have worked with Sir Joe for these 25 years or more in my life with the GSLP and to have the ability to continue to serve with him and learn from him, as I do every single day of the week. It is a pleasure and there is nothing really I can do more. Words are insufficient to describe what I feel about Sir Joe's contribution to our community, our economy and our people, and I will be absolutely delighted to support this motion today.

Thank you, Mr Speaker. (Banging on desks)

730 Mr Speaker: If there is no other Member who wishes to speak on the motion, I will call on the – Yes, the Hon. Dr John Cortes.

Minister for the Environment, Energy, Climate Change and Education (Hon. Dr J E Cortes): Mr Speaker, much has been said already during the course of this debate with which I obviously associate myself and I am not going to repeat, but I think that as the third-oldest Member of this House after yourself and Sir Joe himself, having been aware of Sir Joe's existence probably for as long and longer than some of the Members of this House have been alive, I think I have to say something about the old days.

I first remember Sir Joe when he came back as an active member of the trade union movement. I was a youngster in my teens and the first time I ever met him – he has probably forgotten this – was at a meeting in the John Mackintosh Hall called by my late father, Pepe Cortes, who was then a commissioner of scouts, as the scouts were preparing a nature conservation campaign, and he actually came to that meeting. I was overawed at the fact that he had walked in there and the contribution that he made, and as a young 16- or 17-year-old I sensed that he would rise to great heights. I am sure that neither he nor I imagined that one day we would be sitting in this House together, but I do go back a long way.

Mr Speaker, things that are done that fundamentally change society have one disadvantage in that they often come to get taken for granted and the person behind it is forgotten and things that are day to day one does not realise that were not day to day in the past. In my own time, and I was, I think, again the only Member of this House who actually served with Sir Joe when he was Chief Minister, both as a civil servant as the General Manager of the Health Authority, and later as a contractor I worked closely with him and his Government on a number of issues which I am going to raise because they are relevant to me. One is Calpe House, which I was very happy and proud to have worked with within the Health Service to support this and make this happen. The other was in education, which I was not involved in at the time but I am now, and the difference that the scholarship system has made not just to the students who have taken advantage of it but to the whole community of Gibraltar in having so many people who have benefited from it. It cannot be overstated. And of course in the environment, in which it was the Government that introduced the Nature Protection Act, the Nature Reserve, the first Ministry for the Environment. So the Hon. Sir Joe has touched many people's lives, has changed many things which we have become accustomed to but would not have happened had he not been the person that he is.

Mr Speaker, Gibraltar owes a great deal to Sir Joe Bossano and the Freedom of the City is one way in which the community can say thank you.

A Member: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Samantha Sacramento.

770 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, what an unexpected turn of events this afternoon. I must say that I am surprised that those opposite have chosen to take this course and I am indeed saddened. Sir Joe's knighthood is of course totally deserved, as is conferring upon him the Freedom of the City of Gibraltar, because this is a man who has selflessly dedicated his life to the city of Gibraltar and its people.

775 There is no need to refer to Sir Joe's achievements; the most significant ones have been listed by the Chief Minister and the Deputy Chief Minister. But we must all be thankful for Sir Joe's visionary policies in the economy, for the elderly through Community Care, for families in affordable housing and for the youth. And I personally have to be grateful to Sir Joe for his change of policy on scholarships, as I have achieved my professional qualifications as a result.

780 Mr Speaker, I come from a family with a very strong trade union background and we, in my family, are lifelong members of the GSLP. I was born in the same year that Joe set up the GSLP and I am a third-generation member of the party. It is therefore no surprise that Joe's socialist values have been instilled in me always, and I have to say that Joe has been an influence to me my whole life because I have known Joe all my life, as have my family.

785 Sir Joe continues to be as dynamic and as visionary as he has always been and it is a real honour and a real pleasure to work alongside him in Government. Personally, for me, Sir Joe is a legend and I fully support the motion.

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

790 Hon N F Costa: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Paul Balban.

795 Minister for Infrastructure and Planning (Hon. P J Balban): Mr Speaker, I can think of no one better and no one else who deserves this recognition more – that is to have the Freedom of the City of Gibraltar conferred upon – than Sir Joe, a truly dedicated man who does not know the difference between a Monday and a Sunday when it comes to his work.

800 Joe Bossano has only had one thing at heart since he returned to Gibraltar many years ago, and that was Gibraltar and its people. Nothing could be more important to him than to ensure that our future is safe and that its people are able to rightly decide their own future: our future. No adversary is ever too large, no threats ever too great for this unassuming man who has defended and has done so much for Gibraltar and its people.

805 Joe Bossano was in fact a large part of the reason why I became interested in politics long before I had even met him for the first time. His passion for Gibraltar and all things Gibraltarian shines through in every way, in each word, each breath and each of the steps he takes.

810 There are far too many things that are directly attributed to this man to be able to give him credit for here, but I cannot go without at least mentioning the giant strides taken to provide access to further education for all through the abolition of the points system, the creation of affordable homes and the realisation of the largest land bank created through reclamation in Gibraltar; a man respected by his peers, by our elders and in the world of politics; a man with a magnetic charisma when it comes to young people.

815 Regardless of political persuasion, surely no one can deny the fact that Sir Joe has dedicated his life to Gibraltar and its people. Today I warmly congratulate him for his 46 years of parliamentary service. I wish him many more fruitful years at the service of our community, ensuring that our wishes and rights as a people are respected.

I cannot end without also congratulating his family who have stood beside him, and especially his wife Rose, who without doubt has been a crucial part of his success and his great achievements.

820 It is right that this House confers the Freedom of the City of Gibraltar. Congratulations, Sir Joe, on behalf of myself and my family and, no doubt, all the people of Gibraltar. I am proud to support this motion.

Thank you. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Neil Costa.

825

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, whereas I was not going to rise this afternoon, given the speeches given by the Hon. the Chief Minister and the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister having set out all of the extraordinary achievements of Sir Joe, given the contributions of Members opposite I feel strongly that I must stand to support this award on Sir Joe lest there should be any doubt whatsoever in my mind that Sir Joe must rank as one of the most deserving Gibraltarians to be bestowed this award – if for no other reason than Sir Joe will not retire from politics and he will work until his last breath, if I know him well. He would rather be working for the benefit of his community than be engaged in any other matter. I do not think that Sir Joe has ever taken a holiday willingly. I do not think that Sir Joe is willing to entertain the sort of rest that other people would consider natural and only deserving.

830

835

I think we can all agree he is a man of utter and absolute conviction. He will not remember, I do not think, that I was 10 when I asked for the Chief Minister at the time to give me an interview as a student of St Anne's who had started a magazine. He did not only accept my invitation but spent an entire afternoon explaining to me the politics that he had chosen in his life and the reasons why. Forward that to where we are today, so many years later – in fact, almost 30 years later – and his political discourse today is exactly the same as it was 30 years before, which is to say that the hon. Gentleman's philosophy, politics and convictions have not changed one whit in those 30 years, which shows, as the Hon. Mr Isola said before, that he is a man of single-pointed devotion to the members of our community.

840

The Hon. the Chief Minister and the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister have listed in detail the Hon. Sir Joe's achievements in education, in the economy, in foreign affairs, in achieving the change to mandatory degrees for all those who want to attend university, and of course when one looks at those policies that were started by Sir Joe and you look at Gibraltar today, it is indisputable – there can be no doubt, it is incontrovertible – that the prosperity, the modernity and the sophistication of this community and the number of degrees per capita in a small area such as Gibraltar must rank as a testament, one of the better testaments, to the policies which the Hon. the Minister for Equality has called visionary, and they have been visionary.

850

Mr Speaker, I think, as the Hon. Mr Balban said, we have to thank, of course, Sir Joe's family, who no doubt have been with him through thick and through thin, and notwithstanding the many years that Sir Joe stood as Leader of the Opposition in this House they were there for him to support him.

It is the measure of a great person that he is not only in Parliament when he is in Government but also when he is in Opposition and he meets and takes the meetings of all those who want to meet with him and will always give the people who meet him his honest advice.

860

His question of integrity is beyond dispute. He has served this community, I think, with unswerving selfless devotion. I think that it will be very hard to find in this community a man or woman in the future who will serve his or her community with such passion and unswerving dedication.

865

Therefore, there is no doubt in my mind that Sir Joe should – whilst he is a Member of the Government, whilst he is serving the people of Gibraltar, whilst he is still representing our interests abroad and nationally, while he still has the capacity to rationalise, outdebate us, outmanoeuvre us and is in every single way able to win every argument – be awarded the Freedom of the City, and I have no hesitation to recommend the motion to the House. (Banging on desks)

870

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Steven Linares.

Minister for Culture, the Media, Youth and Sport (Hon. S E Linares): Mr Speaker, I was not going to speak on this motion because, as has been said, the Chief Minister and the Deputy Chief Minister have given a perfect synopsis of the life and work of Sir Joe Bossano.

875

I rise, first of all, in disgust. I am not a very diplomatic person but I am of heart and I have principles, and I accept people with principles but I cannot accept the disgusting way in which this Opposition has behaved today. (A Member: Hear, hear.)

880 I have been in this Parliament probably, from the whole of you lot here (Laughter) and myself, the third person to be in Parliament – I have been 11 years. I think it is Joe Bossano who has been here the longest; second must be the Deputy Chief Minister, who has been here for 12 years; and I have been here 11 years. All the rest have been less.

885 Hon. D A Feetham: More than 11 years, actually. In fairness to you.

A Member: I have been here 11.

Hon. S E Linares: Thank you, even more – putting my argument into position.

890 I say that I do this in disgust because there has been – (Interjection by Hon. D A Feetham) No, from the year 2000, actually. (A Member: Eighteen?) So 18 years, yes; 11 in the Opposition – that is why the 11.

895 Anyway, what I was saying is I am disgusted, Mr Speaker, for the simple reason ... And this is the second time that I have seen this attitude and this politics of the GSD, because being on that side, like the Chief Minister said, is a very difficult position to be in and I have had the brunt of the previous administration for 11 years, being called everything except guapo for 11 years, and I have accepted it. I have sat down there and I have accepted every single word and every single thing that has been thrown at me, but every time, for example ... And this is why I think this is the second time that I am disgusted, because the first time that I was disgusted by the politics of the GSD was when they voted against the Budget. (Several Members: Hear, hear.) Yes, it is 900 incredible that anybody –

Mr Speaker: The Honourable... May I... Keep to the motion.

905 Hon. S E Linares: Yes, sir. I will tell you why –

Mr Speaker: It is not relevant.

Hon. S E Linares: No, I will tell you why it is relevant, Mr Speaker –

910 Mr Speaker: I do not think it is.

Hon. S E Linares: I have not –

915 Mr Speaker: I am warning you that I do not think it is, and if I am right ... I do not want to follow Mr Speaker Bercow in asking the hon. Member to sit down. Please, not today. Be very careful, because I do not think that you are being relevant, but I will give you a chance.

920 Hon. S E Linares: Mr Speaker, the relevance is that I learnt from Joe Bossano the fact that you never, even in Opposition, vote against a Budget.

Mr Speaker: That has nothing to do with this motion. Whether you vote for a Budget –

Hon. S E Linares: Yes, it goes to saying things about Mr Bossano.

925 Mr Speaker: Listen to me. Whether you vote for a Budget or whether you do not vote for a Budget has got nothing to do with any of the paragraphs of this motion, so move on to something else which is relevant and leave the Budget aside.

Hon. S E Linares: Okay, Mr Speaker, I will move on then.

930 The second part that I have hated today is that they seemed to be accolading and praising Sir Joe but at the same time they had the audacity to say that they would abstain from giving him the Freedom of the City.

935 It is nonsense that he is in Government now. It is nonsense that he is a Member of Parliament. Or is it that the Opposition is actually insinuating that he is going to use his position as a Freeman of Gibraltar and abuse it? Is that what you are saying? Because that is the way that it seems in all of the argument that you are putting: he is going to abuse his position because he is a Freeman of the City. So therefore, that argument for me... and that is why I say I am quite disgusted at that.

940 But despite that, I have learnt a lot about Mr Bossano that I am not going to go on about because everybody has spoken – even you yourselves have spoken highly of Mr Bossano and why he is deserving of the Freedom of the City.

So despite that, I am honoured to be a Member of this Government and I am honoured to be voting in favour of the motion, and I hope all the rest of you will as well.

Thank you very much.

945 Several Members: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. Gilbert Licudi.

950 Minister for Tourism, Employment, Commercial Aviation and the Port (Hon. G H Licudi): Mr Speaker, we have this afternoon heard a long list of reasons why this motion is so deserving of support and why this motion deserves to succeed. It can all be summed up in one word, and that is 'legacy'.

955 Unfortunately, legacy is something we often speak about in terms of a person who may have passed away and we talk of the legacy that that person has left behind. In this particular case, we are very lucky to be in the rare position of being able to enjoy with a person here with us in this Parliament the legacy that he has left behind for all Gibraltarians – not just to enjoy, but as we see and walk around Gibraltar it is there and it is palpable. Few people in the world, in fact, whether sitting parliamentarians or people who have moved on, can have as an accolade the sort of legacy for the whole of their country ... Whether it is economic legacy, whether it is social 960 legacy, whether it is political legacy, few people can enjoy the sort of recognition that we can see in Gibraltar in terms of the benefit to the community and the benefit to the whole of the nation that Joe leaves us. And he does not leave us and that is the beauty of what it is that we are doing today, because it is not that we are talking of legacy in the past tense. I am sure that the legacy of Joe Bossano tomorrow and in five years' time will be very different to what it is 965 today, although everything that we enjoy today will still be there, and it will be different because we still have that benefit of being able to enjoy Joe's contribution to Government policy, to the resolute defence of Gibraltar, whether it is in the United Nations or elsewhere, and that will continue, hopefully, for many years to come. That legacy will simply be enlarged.

970 That legacy is evident everywhere we go around Gibraltar, whether we walk or we drive, and it is so palpable and so much has changed in the many years that Joe has been in office which actually improved the lives of so many Gibraltarians. All we have to do is walk or drive around the Westside area – a piece of water before Joe came to office in 1988 and in four years that area was transformed, and not just transformed into a piece of land which brought with it the sort of benefits that we have heard from the Chief Minister and others in terms of being able to 975 build offices, being able to create the gaming industry and the financial services industry. All of that was brought about as a result of decisions that Joe made at the time. When we look at Montague Gardens, we look at Harbour Views and we look at Gib5, we see how the social matrix of Gibraltar improved, how so many hundreds of families actually benefited from that vision of 980 the creation of land for social benefit and the co-ownership scheme that was devised by Joe, as we have heard.

I joined the GSLP in 1984, 34 years ago. It was the year, as the Hon. Dr Joseph Garcia has said, that the Brussels Agreement was signed, and I remember one day – and I was not involved in politics at all – after the signature of the agreement, listening to Joe in one of his speeches condemning in particular the danger of bilateralism that was included in Brussels: the thin edge of the wedge, where would it all lead, us not being responsible for our own destiny, and the need to object and to fight in whichever means we could against what the Brussels Agreement stood for. That touched me and that made me feel that there was something in this man that was worth listening to. It moved me to follow him into politics by joining the GSLP and very shortly thereafter I was asked to join the executive committee of the GSLP. That was in 1984. Still very proud to be associated with Joe and with the GSLP.

990 From a personal perspective also, following on from what the Hon. Samantha Sacramento has said, 1988 saw the GSLP come into Government, and as the GSLP had promised, that same year the scholarship system was changed. And again, so many hundreds of Gibraltarians have benefited from that fundamental change in how we saw higher education in Gibraltar and the opportunities that needed to be given to our children, to our brothers, to our sons, so that they could have the opportunity of going off to study, staying away if they wanted to but being able to come back and be able to benefit Gibraltar with the wealth of that information and those qualifications and being able to put those to good use.

1000 And it was in 1988, as a mature student at 28, and only with the benefit of that change of policy by Joe Bossano, that I was able to go off to study law, become a lawyer and enjoy a very ... I would not say successful; a very enjoyable ... As an aside I would remark that, the very first year, somebody else who was also benefiting from a scholarship from the GSLP Government was the Hon. Daniel Feetham –

1005 Hon. D A Feetham: I still remember the arguments!

Hon. G H Licudi: – and although it is digressing, we shared accommodation for a year. We lived together for a year. (Several Members: Ooh!) We had endless – (Interjections and laughter) Yes, we shared accommodation – in separate rooms – and I remember my room at the time being plastered, literally wall to wall, with the posters of the election in 1988, which included Joe and included Danny's father, and our endless discussions, sometimes even arguments, although at that time we often agreed on politics, well into the hours of the night, and that was a direct result of the change that Joe brought.

1015 I do not want to say any more, Mr Speaker, other than apart from what we have seen Joe contribute to Gibraltar in the past – whether it is in bricks and mortar, whether it is in social policy, whether it is in education or all the other areas that we have spoken about – there is one particular thing that I admire and value about Joe, and that is his judgement. Even today I have occasion, whilst we are in Government, to occasionally call Joe whenever I have to take particular decisions as a Government Minister, in order to have the benefit of his experience and importantly his judgement, his views and opinions. He is a fountain of knowledge and he is also, in my view, one of the people that I value most in terms of his opinions and his judgement, and I hope to be able to count on that support from Joe, as of course he does from me.

1025 Hon. Chief Minister: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: I understand the man himself wishes to say a few words. The Hon. Sir Joe Bossano.

1030 Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, this is not an easy motion for me to be speaking to: this is about me.

It is probably a unique result in the context of the occasions where we have previously approved motions conferring the Freedom of the City of Gibraltar on somebody. In all cases that I can remember where I have participated, it has been by unanimity. The Opposition are perfectly entitled to take whatever view they think is correct.

1035 The honest thing about motions like this is that there are people who vote in favour because they really believe that the person concerned deserves it and because they have love, affection and admiration for the person and they want to express it in their vote; and there are people who vote in favour because they feel it is politically suicidal not to – it always happens.

1040 Obviously there are a couple of things that result from the way this has developed that create a problem for me. I had no doubt that I had to abstain because I was not going to vote to confer anything on myself.

1045 In any case, everybody in this Chamber and indeed outside in the rest of our tribe knows how I feel about honours. But over 46 years, the one thing that I have learned is that there is no greater reward and no greater honour than the warmth, affection and love that people show you, and, as Samantha says, when it transcends generations. I am privileged that having been as long as I have, doing what gives me most satisfaction in life and being paid for it at the same time, we've just had all that happen, that, I can be with the grandchildren of the people who started with me.

1050 I am going to abstain on this motion because it is wrong for me to vote in favour, which puts me in an extremely difficult position of having to vote with the Opposition against my own Government. (Laughter) That may well explain why they are doing it: they cannot think of anything worse to do to me than that!

1055 Why should they be so scared of me getting it now in the knowledge that the one thing that this motion has already secured for me is not the Freedom of the City to be able to do what the Freedom of the City allows you to do – which I will explain shortly, which may explain their fear – but it has secured for me, I think, the votes of all the Members on this side for the selection process for next year's General Election when I intend to stand as a candidate.

1060 I have already publicly proclaimed support for my candidature for the 2019 election if I manage to keep on going in my present state of health and my present state of mind. I think 80 is a good age to start on a thing, and of course as the Chief Minister mentioned, 90 really well... Look, every day we read in the newspapers how the lifespan is growing and getting longer, and so what looked like a very far day ... Ninety does not look so far away after all now, (Laughter) so I am sure I can persuade my colleagues that the 90 was a symbolic date, really.

1065 Nothing is going to be added to what I can or cannot do in Parliament, but what is being added is what I can do outside Parliament, and that is that I can go down Main Street with bayonets fixed. They may not like the idea of meeting me in Main Street with bayonets fixed and they want it to happen when I am not here. And given the intentions that I have of being here for a very long time, that means that they want it to happen when they are not here, because they are likely to stop being here well before I do. (Laughter)

1070 So, on that basis, Mr Speaker, I cannot commend people to vote for the motion because I am actually going to abstain, and it will be the first time – and the only time, I hope – in my life that I vote with the GSD. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1075

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I have to start, in dealing with the contributions we have heard, with the contribution from the hon. Lady who said that it was dangerous to bestow on Sir Joe the Freedom of the City whilst he was a Member of this House – well, I think he has done a better job than me of speculating on why there might be any potential danger of somebody having this honour despite the fact it has absolutely no parliamentary effect – and that it devalues the honour in some way. I really cannot understand that, other than that she wanted to make a speech on the subject which somehow enabled her to not support the motion. I must say to her, with the greatest of respect, I think it is sophistry to try and go down that road because it is very clear that there will be absolutely no material change to the rights and privileges as a Member of this Parliament that Joe Bossano will enjoy as a Knight of the Realm and Member of Parliament or as a Knight of the Realm, Member of Parliament and Freeman of the City of Gibraltar.

In fact, she said of course he has the power to vote on his own honour. Well, he has already indicated that he is going to disappoint us all by voting with the Opposition on this one, aka not voting by abstaining. The hon. Lady there has, I think, reflected a deep misunderstanding of what it is that happens when we vote on legislation in this House. There is legislation before the House today, as there will have been on many occasions in the times that all of us have been here, where Ministers will present Bills that will give them power to do things. They will present the Bill, they will vote in favour of the Bill and ask everybody else to support them, and they will take from this Parliament real power to do things as Ministers empowered under legislation to do things. In this vote all we are doing is showing our affection and our thanks for the work done by the hon. Member.

Indeed, very often in the history of this House when there was a different practice, mayors would be appointed from within the rank of the House and therefore a Member of the House was bestowed the rank, privilege and honour of the mayoralty and sat in this House and voted on the honour, because in the days when that was the case under the old Constitution, the majority was one and therefore if it was not going to go by unanimity the mayor nominee had to vote himself as mayor – if he was not the Speaker, for example – in order to ensure that the vote was won. We had a number of instances where mayors were members of the political party that was in Government.

So the hon. Lady's argument I think has absolutely no truck with reality, but if she will allow me this reflection, if there is anything that could make Joe Bossano's receipt of this honour even sweeter it is perhaps that with one vote of the GSLP Liberal Government we are going to defeat the GSD and Hassan to get him the Freedom of the City which he rightly deserves. I think if she will allow me that affectionate reflection it will be even sweeter.

Mr Speaker, how can the people of Gibraltar not follow Her Majesty the Queen in recognising the efforts and the work of Joe Bossano? We, in a representative democracy in this Parliament, are the representatives of the people of Gibraltar and with our votes today those of us who raise our hands will recognise that work, that devotion of Joe Bossano in the same way that Her Majesty, in the bestowment of the KCMG, recognised it also.

I think it is very clear to hon. Members opposite that by taking the attitude they have taken they have not ruined Joe Bossano's day – they have probably made it, to an extent. If I know somebody of whom saying that he is mired in controversy is more of an accolade than it is a concern, it is Joe Bossano.

The Hon. Mr Feetham rose to say that a day like today shames us all and that it was with great regret that he saw the way that the debate was going. Well, Mr Speaker, it shames us all only because there is a motion before the House which could have passed by unanimity and they have chosen, without consultation with the Government, to present an amendment which has caused the controversy in the terms that we have debated.

So, if there is regret, why do it, Mr Speaker? They are still in time – their amendment has been defeated. All they need to do is raise their hands or intone a 'yea' rather than silence when the vote is called.

I will tell him something, Mr Speaker – honestly and genuinely I will tell him this: I do not think this would have happened if he was Leader of the Opposition. I genuinely do not believe that. I think that what we are seeing here today is something designed outside of this House, not within it, and I genuinely believe that this motion should have gone by unanimity and that if he were Leader of the Opposition ... Indeed, I will go further, Mr Speaker: if chance had dealt us different cards and if he were Leader of this House, this motion would have gone by unanimity. I am utterly sure of that. We know each other very well and he knows that in all the time that he 1135 has been a Member of this House he has at different times intoned it in a different way, but he has never hidden his affection for Joe Bossano and his contribution to this community.

Mr Speaker, it is clear, I think, almost beyond peradventure, given that he said, 'My party has taken a position and I will support it,' so I think it is very clear to me that what he was saying to 1140 us was intoned as support for the amendment but actually by way of apology to Joe Bossano, and on this side of the House I for one will interpret it in that way because I think that is genuinely what he intended to do, for all the right reasons. He could not have been clearer in the way that he described the 'legacy', as Gilbert Licudi put it, of Joe Bossano: what distinguishes Sir Joe is that he leaves genuine footprints in our community, in our nation. Well, as those of us 1145 who have had occasion to step into them know, Joe Bossano has giant shoes. He leaves giant footprints in this community and the hon. Gentleman knows that and rightly expressed his views as to the legacy of Joe Bossano in that way for that reason, because despite the cut and thrust of politics, and on one occasion the invitation to go downstairs and take politics one step further, despite that, the genuine affection –

1150 Hon. D A Feetham: That is why I am abstaining.

Hon. Chief Minister: Because of the bayonet? (Hon. D A Feetham: Yes!) The genuine affection has always been there at a human level and I am sorry that he has been put in this position, which is absolutely clear given his own words in Hansard that his party has taken a 1155 position and he is therefore going to support it.

Mr Speaker, the Hon. Mr Phillips then said that Mr Feetham had set out elegantly the position of the GSD. Well, perhaps more elegantly than he did, that is for sure, because he expressed that reluctance at the step that they were taking ... a reluctance that was not evidenced in the gusto with which he presented the notion that the application of the motion 1160 should be suspended until Joe Bossano retired.

And then Mr Phillips said it was a shame that the Chief Minister had not got his PA to pick up the phone and that then I had told him that I had accepted his amendment and there would be therefore no need for this debate. Well, given that I moved the motion, which did not countenance the suspension, I think it is pretty nonsensical to think that I would have actually 1165 acquiesced to an amendment which blunts the effect of what I proposed to the House we should do. I will say to him that I think it is a shame he did not get his PA to pick up the phone and tell me that he agreed with the motion that we had put and that he was not going to move his amendment. Then, as he said, we could have had a much more convivial debate, because the conviviality is taken out of the debate only by the actions that they have sought to implement 1170 today.

You see, Mr Speaker, the fact is that all we are asking them to do in exchange for the lifetime's commitment that this man has given to Gibraltar – for National Day; for the homes; for the scholarships, and he may have been one of the beneficiaries of those scholarships; for the hours spent seeing people, sorting out their problems – all we are asking them to do is to raise 1175 their hands or say yes when that question is called. That is all, and they cannot even bring themselves to do that.

The Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister, in characteristic style, reminded us of things that many of us might have forgotten – that is the role of the historian – and I want to deal with something that he said. He told the House that Joe Bossano started in politics before he was born, and lest 1180 anybody think that he is younger than me I was very happy to see that he clarified that Joe Bossano's contribution to politics and public life in Gibraltar started even when Joe Bossano was not in Gibraltar. I think that is an important reminder to us that the trajectory of the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano does not start in 1972; it starts way before, in the mid-1960s. And the letter that he remitted to Sir Joshua at that time, the second limb of which was amongst those that the Deputy 1185 Chief Minister set out, was absolutely prescient, and achieved now, as a result of the steps taken from the moment that Joe Bossano was elected in 1988 as Chief Minister, which was that letter that he commended Sir Joshua should have sent to the Governor demanding self-government for Gibraltar in every respect and the withdrawal of the Governor from the Council of Ministers and internal self-government, therefore, in every respect.

1190 I am reminded, Mr Speaker, by note that in fact at the time that Joe Bossano was elected in 1988 and made all his Ministers full-time Ministers and froze their salaries, the salaries frozen were those of part-time Ministers, namely the part-time salaries of Ministers. Those who have been on the political journey with Joe Bossano certainly have the wounds to show for it, Mr Speaker! Certainly!

1195 Dr Garcia reminded us that Joe Bossano's influence in this community is constant as he walks down Main Street and people stop him and seek his intervention and he takes out one of those notebooks and writes down the problem in order to ensure that he gets back to the individual.

1200 Mr Speaker, Dr Garcia should try walking with Sir Joe down Main Street on National Day. It is absolutely impossible to get yourself to the stage in time – if you do – and you have soon got to leave him behind and hope that he will catch up, and en route he will no doubt lose one or more of the notebooks and his passport. The minute he then meets up with you again he will tell you that he is sure you have got it and that it is absolute sabotage that you are trying to perpetuate on him.

1205 It is particularly amusing when he loses the passport on arrival at US immigration – and I can confirm to hon. Gentlemen that it is possible to get back on an aeroplane once you get off, when it is empty, if you have the right argument – namely, 'We're getting back on this plane to go back to London or we're finding the passport that the hon. Gentleman has lost.'

1210 But National Day, Mr Speaker, is Gibraltar's day and it is Gibraltar's day because Joe Bossano made it Gibraltar's day. It should also be his day and one of the things that we are certainly going to do if this motion enjoys the support of the House – as I am sure it will do, given the things that hon. Members have said – is that we will seek to liaise with the Self-Determination for Gibraltar group so that the Freedom of the City which this House votes today should be bestowed on Sir Joe Bossano on 10th September this year. That is the most fitting date for Joe Bossano to be made a Freeman of the City.

1215 Mr Speaker, it is also absolutely true that all of the officials that I have met in the time that I have been Chief Minister who had occasion to do 10 rounds with Joe Bossano when he was Chief Minister remember him as entirely uncompromising and, as they have subsequently said to us on condition of anonymity, absolutely right when he was making the arguments and fantastically affectionate and a good friend once the argument was over. That, I think, is a characteristic that Joe Bossano has brought to politics in every respect, and every one of his political opponents, however bitter they may have been at any time, whenever they have needed his support have found it. That, I think, sets him apart from so many.

1220 Mr Speaker, what Joe Bossano deserves is the unanimity of this House on the bestowment of the Freedom of the City. Hon. Members have said that they believe that he deserves it. In a representative democracy we represent the people, and they represent just barely ... in fact, just under a third of the people of Gibraltar. But even that one third of the people or less that they represent, they have said they believe Joe Bossano should have the Freedom of the City; it is just a question of when.

1230 But when the time comes to vote, the history of this place will show that only one side of the House actually voted in support of his deserving entitlement to the Freedom of the City. It matters little. In fact the Freedom will pass, and I think to an extent the fact it will be the first Freedom not to pass with unanimity ... but I seem to detect with no votes against might actually be another badge of honour that Joe Bossano can wear with pride.

1235 When you look at how combative he has been in his career and you ask yourself is this man just controversial for the sake of it ... I asked him a question once when I was flying with him to New York – occasions on which he educated me on the human genome, on the basics of economics and the detail of politics. I said to him once, 'Joe, you lost the election in 1996 because you did certain things which people didn't like. Why did you do them? Would you do

1240 them again if you had the chance?’ and he said to me, ‘Every single one of the things I did was the right thing to do for Gibraltar and I would do them again, even if I knew it would lead me to losing the election.’ That demonstrates not a desire to seek controversy but a desire to do the best for Gibraltar even if it is controversial, and that is hugely valuable, and that no doubt will have come out in the magazine that Neil Costa was responsible for editing when he was a boy. I commend him to go from this place to his home and find a copy and bring it on Monday to the 1245 Cabinet session so that we can all understand what it was that Joe told him then.

Mr Speaker, this is a man who has never sought comfort or elevation, and the best way to recognise his ‘legacy’, as Gilbert Licudi put it, is to enshrine that legacy in the award of the Freedom of the City which this House can bestow, because if there is one thing that Minister Licudi said with which I disagree it is that he said that hundreds had benefited from scholarships.

1250 Hon. G H Licudi: Hundreds of families.

Hon. Chief Minister: Hundreds of families. Now it is probably thousands, if not indeed tens of thousands. Given the numbers that he used to remind me, when he was Minister for Education, 1255 we had already outside of Gibraltar, just now I think it is probably thousands, if not tens of thousands of Gibraltarian families who have had the benefit of scholarships.

So, Mr Speaker, as I come to the end of my contribution and I commend this motion to the House and I reflect on the position that hon. Members opposite have taken, I am reminded of the words of Michelle Obama in the context of an election in the United States when her 1260 husband was being insulted and the insults were spilling on to her and she said, ‘When they go low, we go high.’ Mr Speaker, hon. Members are going low today: we will go high.

This motion is about Joe Bossano and his love for Gibraltar, and what we are saying back to him is that Gibraltar loves him back. That is why I commend this motion to the House. (Banging on desks)

1265 Mr Speaker: I now put the question in the terms of the motion proposed by the Hon. the Chief Minister. Is there a division required?

Hon. Chief Minister: Absolutely, Mr Speaker.

1270 A division was called for and voting resulted as follows:

Mr Speaker: There are 9 votes in favour of the motion, with 8 abstentions. The motion is carried. (Banging on desks)

We will now have a recess of 20 minutes.

The House recessed at 5.25 p.m. and resumed it sitting at 5.50 p.m.

Pensions Act –
Pensions (Amendment) Regulations 2018 –
Motion carried

Clerk: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1275

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move the motion standing in my name, which reads as follows:

That the Gibraltar Parliament approve by resolution, the making of the Pensions (Amendment) Regulations 2018 as set out in the enclosed draft for circulation, pursuant to section 3(3) of the Pensions Act.

Mr Speaker, this resolution is required as a result of section 3(3) of the Pensions Act, which allows Government to give retrospective effect to a regulation made under the Act in order to confer benefit upon a person, provided the approval of the Parliament is received by resolution.

1280

These Regulations amend Regulation 5(2) to allow non-pensionable officers – industrials, that is to say – to retire, in special cases approved by Government, at the age of 50 rather than 55.

This particular amendment does not require retrospective effect. The two provisions which do require retrospective effect are Regulation 3(2)(b) and Regulation 4, and I will deal with each of these in turn.

The amendment in Regulation 3(2)(b) allows for HMGOG, in special certain cases approved by the Government in writing, to waive the requirements set out in Regulation 5(5) of the Pensions Regulations that non-pensionable officers – that is to say, again, industrials – may not receive a pension, gratuity or other allowance until attaining the age of 60, even if they retired earlier. Therefore, under this provision, non-pensionable officers may decide to take a commutation before reaching the age of 60 as long as there is an agreement in writing with the Government, which can be by way of an early exit scheme agreement.

1290

The retrospective date applying to this provision is 4th February 2011, which was the date when the Government then, the former administration, and the Building and Works Department Early Exit Scheme Agreement was entered into. Therefore, non-pensionable officers – industrials – who have left under any early exit scheme since this date but who are currently waiting until the age of 50 to receive their pensions award may reach an agreement with the Government to receive their pension and gratuity or allowance before attaining the age of 60.

1295

Regulation 4 is also given retrospective effect to 4th February 2011. This provision amends Regulation 2 of the Pensions (Amendment) Regulations 2011 so that an industrial can, in special cases approved by the Government, at the time of retirement, as from the age of 50, be treated as if he were an officer in a pensionable office and receive the same pension and gratuity as an officer in a pensionable office with the same amount of pensionable service.

1300

Mr Speaker, for all those reasons I commend the motion to the House.

1305

Mr Speaker: I now put the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. the Chief Minister.

The Hon. Roy Clinton.

Hon. R M Clinton: Thank you, Mr Speaker.

I am grateful to the Chief Minister for having set out the various amendments and the effects of those amendments, and indeed the legislation under which the amendments are coming to this House – and indeed the Pensions Act itself under section 3 requires this House to give approval by resolution for anything that is to have retrospective effect, as the Chief Minister has correctly said.

The section that is being sought to be amended under 3(2)(b), where it says:

(b) for subregulation (5A) substitute –

‘(5A) Subregulation (5) shall not apply in special cases approved by the Government in writing, such approval being set out in the terms of an early exit scheme agreement or otherwise, specifying that such officer may be granted a pension, gratuity or other allowance before attaining the age of sixty.’.

And then (c) says:

delete subregulation (5B).

The original sections 5A and 5B – Mr Speaker, with your indulgence I shall read them to the House – say:

1320

5A Subregulation (5) shall not apply to those officers who are subject to the Housing Works Agency Early Exit Scheme and commute their pension in accordance with paragraph (3) or take a pension in accordance with paragraph (6) of the side letter of agreement which came into effect on 14th November 2017.

And then (5B) reads:

Regulation 2 of the Pensions (Amendment) Regulations 2001 shall apply to those officers referred to in subregulation 5C as if the age stipulated in that regulation were fifty instead of sixty.

Mr Speaker, I am not aware, and maybe the Chief Minister can enlighten me, that the side letter of agreement has been presented to this House. Maybe it has in the past – I cannot say. I have not seen such a letter.

1325

My concern is whether the wording that now is being sought to be put in substitution seems now to be rather generic in that it could apply to any early exit scheme agreement, and not this one in particular. Is it that the Chief Minister is asking this House to approve as it were – I use the words carefully – a ‘blank cheque’ in respect of exit schemes, in terms that it could apply to any exit scheme the Government so chooses to design? I would be grateful for the Chief Minister’s explanation for that.

1330

Also, I must admit I am curious as to why 50 is now being substituted in place of 55. It does seem somewhat generous to people to retire at the age of 50 and commute their pensions. Again, Mr Speaker, I am not aware of the contents of the side letter agreement with the Housing Works Agency.

1335

My concern – and it very much depends on what the Chief Minister or others may be able to contribute to this motion – is what is likely to be the future effect of this motion in terms of the future early exit schemes, and certainly in respect of the application retrospectively. Can the Chief Minister give us some indication of what the cost of this scheme will be, although I recognise that in terms of any future liability a liability, if already exists, but how much would he expect would be able to be commuted immediately by this motion coming into effect today?

1340

Mr Speaker, in terms of the Chief Minister’s response, then we will be able to take a view as to our position on the motion.

Thank you, Mr Speaker.

1345

Mr Speaker: Does anybody else wish to speak on this motion? The Hon. Sir Joseph Bossano.

Minister for Economic Development, Telecommunications and the GSB (Hon. Sir J J Bossano): Mr Speaker, the reason for the amendment initially came about because of an agreement that was done with the relevant union then reaching the Principal Auditor, who thought that in fact what had been agreed and accepted required an amendment to the existing regulations. Therefore, the regulation has been changed in order to be able to honour an agreement that was entered into on the basis that both sides entering into that agreement thought that the provisions that already existed covered that situation.

The position of going to 50 years, which is a new element that is being introduced at the same time, is on the basis that it will be cost neutral. There will be no cost involved because

1360 people who choose to take their pension at so have to commute 100%. Therefore, if they did not commute 100% it would mean that the cost would be five more years of pension, but if they commute 100% the amount that they get at the age of 50 as a lump sum will be the same amount as they would get at the age of 55 as a lump sum. There is a small element of the fact that the money would be worth more five years earlier in terms of inflation, but in terms of the cost, the cost would have been prohibitive, and when people make representations about being able to go at 50 – and there are already categories in the public service that can go at 50; for example, firemen can go at 50 – it was considered on the basis that it would not cost a significant amount of money.

1365 I think, in terms of numbers, we are probably talking about less than a dozen people being involved, and in terms of the cost, if they choose to go at 50 it will mean that it would be the cost of getting a lump sum payment five years earlier than they would have got it, and therefore the benefit to them will be that the money, in theory, would be worth more because five years later it would be the same amount of money reduced by inflation. There is no other cost over and above what existed before.

Mr Speaker: Any other Member wish to speak on this motion?

I call on the mover to reply.

1375 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, I think the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano has set out the intention of the Government and the reasoning behind why the amendment is required.

The Pensions Act is a sacrosanct Act, in the sense that we have to be very careful with what we allow under it or we do not allow under it, and therefore it is when we are convinced that an amendment is required that we would bring it to ensure that we are able to cover all of the eventualities that the Government envisages, as Sir Joe has set out, and for that reason, Mr Speaker, I commend the motion to the House.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Chief Minister. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Select Committees on Parliamentary Reform and on Constitutional Reform –
Membership –
Debate commenced

1385 Clerk: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move the motion standing in my name which reads as follows:

THIS HOUSE:

Recalls the establishment of Select Committees on Parliamentary Reform and on Constitutional Reform:

AND NOW HEREBY RESOLVES:

to add the Hon. L Llamas to both these Select Committees;

to add the Hon. Dr J Cortes to the Select Committee on Constitutional Reform;

to add the Hon. S Linares to the Select Committee on Parliamentary Reform.

1390 Mr Speaker, the history of this motion is well known to all Members of the House. We have seen Mr Llamas depart the GSD after the Budget session last year and, as a result of that, given that he became a new independent Member of the House, the Hon. the Deputy Chief Minister moved a motion that he should be added to the Brexit Select Committee.

1395 Subsequently, well indeed, that debate engendered a rather lively contribution by hon. Members opposite. As I have said before, it will go down as the Hon. Mr Feetham's best speech in this House, as far as we are concerned on this side of the House, and indeed Mr Llamas had something to say about the attitude that hon. Members had taken. I will put it no further than that.

1400 Subsequently, and despite all of that and all the things that were said, the Hon. Mr Llamas has now told us that he has returned to the GSD. He gave an indication to the House, therefore, of what his position would be in respect of select committees and it is therefore necessary for us to make an amendment to the motion, of which I have given written notice. I think some changes are required.

1405 The notice in writing I think is with hon. Members and in effect what we will do now is we will remove Mr Llamas from the Select Committees, including the Brexit Select Committee, and not add any other Member of the Government, so that the motion therefore serves to remove Mr Llamas from the Committee on which we have put him, rather than add him to any others.

I apologise to the House, Mr Speaker, for the confusion, but I assure you it is not of our making.

1410 Mr Speaker: What I propose to do first of all is to put the amendment to the motion to Members beforehand, which has been circulated. Do the Opposition have the amendment?

A Member: Where is the motion?

1415 Hon. Chief Minister: The motion is on the Order Paper.

Mr Speaker: Do they need the motion as well? (A Member: Yes.) Yes?

For the record, let me read out the motion – it is not very long. The Chief Minister's motion reads as follows – the original motion:

THIS HOUSE:

Recalls the establishment of Select Committees on Parliamentary Reform and on Constitutional Reform:

AND NOW HEREBY RESOLVES:

to add the Hon. L Llamas to both these Select Committees;

to add the Hon. Dr J Cortes to the Select Committee on Constitutional Reform;

to add the Hon. S Linares to the Select Committee on Parliamentary Reform.

1420 That is the motion and now you have the amendment before you, and it is the amendment –

Hon. Chief Minister: If I could be of assistance, I think it may be that there is another –

Mr Speaker: The amendment has to be moved.

1425

Hon. Chief Minister: Yes, indeed, but I think it needs to be tweaked to add the deletion of the words 'Select Committees on Parliamentary Reform and on Constitutional Reform', so that it should read instead:

Recalls the establishment of the Select Committee on Brexit:

1430 I think that has to be the first amendment, and then the amendments I have put. So I will have to give written notice of that as well, in writing – as written notice inevitably is. And so I will just write it on here, Mr Speaker.

Hon. Members really do make our lives interesting with their toing and froing.

1435 So if that could be moved as one amendment, Mr Speaker, the one of which notice has been given in the letter, and the one which I move now is one amendment. Then I think we deal with it.

Mr Speaker: I wonder whether hon. Members would like to move on to the next motion and then come back to this one. No?

1440 Hon. E J Phillips: We need a discussion.

Mr Speaker: I cannot hear you.

1445 Hon. E J Phillips: Consult.

A Member: Okay, he wants to discuss (inaudible)

1450 Hon. Chief Minister: Well, Mr Speaker, if they want to consult, that is fine. It is a motion to do what Mr Llamas asked us to do, which is to take him out of the Brexit Select Committee and not put him on any other, but no difficulty with moving on to the other motion if hon. Members want to do it that way. I have no difficulty with that and we can come back to –

Mr Speaker: Would you like to move on to the next motion?

1455 Hon. Chief Minister: Or recess? Do they prefer that?

1460 Hon. E J Phillips: I am happy to move to the next motion but what I am suggesting is that the Chief Minister and I have a short discussion outside, behind the Speaker's Chair, on this particular point.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, the Clerk is inviting me to recess for five minutes – probably the most sensible thing to do.

1465 Mr Speaker: Yes, let's have a short recess.

The House recessed at 6.13 p.m. and resumed its sitting at 6.25 p.m.

Select Committees on Parliamentary Reform and on Constitutional Reform –
Membership –
Debate concluded; amended motion carried

Mr Speaker: Hon. Members all have now the amendment as proposed by the Chief Minister, and therefore I am going to put that to the vote.

1470 Do you want to speak on it? If you do, by all means go ahead. The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, we appreciate the short break which has enabled the opportunity for the Chief Minister and I to speak about this particular issue.

1475 Our view is that we have no objections to the amendments being sought in relation to this motion. We do, however, lay down a marker generally in respect of the composition argument that we deployed the last time this matter came before the House insofar as the Select Committee in respect of Constitutional Reform and Parliamentary Reform.

Mr Speaker: Does the Chief Minister wish to reply to the Leader of the Opposition in respect of the amendment?

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, only to note the marker that they purport to lay down and to indicate that our marker is the one that is set out by the effect of this motion.

1485

Mr Speaker: I now put the amendment to the vote. All in favour? (Members: Aye.) And against? Carried.

So we now have the motion as amended before Parliament. Does anybody wish to speak on the motion as amended?

I will put that to the vote as well. All in favour? (Members: Aye.) All against? Carried.

RAF Gibraltar –
Conferral of Freedom of the City of Gibraltar – Motion carried unanimously

Clerk: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

1490

Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, I now have the honour to move the motion standing in my name which reads as follows:

‘THIS HOUSE:

*WELCOMES the long and historic relationship between RAF Gibraltar and Gibraltar;
RECALLS that two RAF camps were constructed in Gibraltar at the beginning of the Second World War. The first was RAF North Front on the site of the old racecourse which was to become the main camp. The second was RAF New Camp which was built on reclaimed land next to Montague Bastion. Although these were the first permanent RAF camps in Gibraltar, the history of aviation and the RAF’s involvement starts somewhat earlier. The first record of aviation in Gibraltar was in 1903 when two officers and 16 Non-Commissioned Officers installed a captive balloon and equipment to Gibraltar for reconnaissance at the southern end of the Rock;*

NOTES that works on an airfield in Gibraltar began on a grass strip on 3rd September 1934 and was completed 18 months later on 10th March 1936. It was during this construction period that the RAF first dispatched military aircraft to Gibraltar. Construction of a solid surface runway began in late 1939 and land reclamation commenced towards the end of 1941 along with the construction of the RAF camp at North Front. Following the declaration of war with Germany in September 1939, the War Office realised that there was a strong possibility of German submarines concentrating in the Straits of Gibraltar and using Spanish port facilities;

RECALLS that on the 9th September 1939, No 202 Squadron was ordered to Gibraltar, heavily loaded with equipment. Shortly after the Squadron’s arrival, No 200 Coastal Group was formed with its headquarters in the Bristol Hotel. It operated as part of RAF Mediterranean Area and later a combined HQ was formed with the Royal Navy at the Tower in the dockyard. This began antisubmarine patrols in early 1942. It took the fall of France in 1940 to concentrate minds on the building of a proper runway;

TAKES NOTE that at the end of November 1941 it was decided that the runway should be extended seaward to give a total length of 1550 yards. Construction teams were brought from the UK and they used stone blasted from the north face of the Rock and dumped into the sea along with stone taken from tunnel construction. The extended runway was ready for use in July 1943 but towards the end of that year operations in Gibraltar began to dwindle in number. However, there was no reduction in transit aircraft;

RECALLS that the RAF North Front's biggest moment came on the night of 7/8 November 1942 when no fewer than 650 aircraft of many types were parked along both sides of the runway in readiness for operation TORCH, the Anglo-American invasion of North Africa. In October 1944 RAF New Camp became a satellite of North Front;

CONSIDERS that Gibraltar should rightly be proud of these remarkable achievements;

HEREBY DECLARES that the Freedom of the City of Gibraltar be conferred on RAF Gibraltar in view of its historic and close connection with Gibraltar and its people.'

Mr Speaker, the motion to a very great extent speaks for itself, but it is of course true that RAF Gibraltar and the RAF generally are as much a part of the defence of the sovereignty of the Rock as they are of the sovereignty of the United Kingdom and of Western parliamentary democracy, as part of the NATO alliance.

1495 Mr Speaker, it is also apposite to note that the runway that today we take for granted and that was so important in the 1960s and 1970s, when Gibraltar was once again laid siege by Spain, was constructed by the RAF for the RAF during the Second World War in the circumstances set out here. And so we see in the Royal Airforce as important a part of our life in Gibraltar as any other one of the armed forces and one, Mr Speaker, that has been a feature of 1500 life for all of us in the time that we remember Gibraltar.

I remember happy days, Mr Speaker, as a boy seeing the Red Arrows fly around the Rock during RAF open days. Today the RAF is perhaps less visible. They have a lot of personnel in Gibraltar but they are not as visible on our streets as they might have been years before. But the relationship between Gibraltar and the Royal Air Force is as strong if not stronger than it ever has been and this motion should reflect that. I sincerely hope it will be a motion that all hon. Members will find possible to support so that the whole of Gibraltar is seen, through this representative democracy of ours, to be bestowing on the Royal Air Force the Freedom of the City on this their first centenary.

1510 Mr Speaker: I now propose the question in the terms of the motion moved by the Hon. the Chief Minister.

The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

1515 Hon. E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, a very special and enduring relationship exists between Gibraltar and the Royal Air Force. Many of us, as the Chief Minister himself has said, have fond memories of the Red Arrows. In fact, I think Minister Isola will remember our interactions with the Royal Air Force in a different life now, but also with the Red Arrows as well, Mr Speaker.

1520 We would also remember the screaming tornadoes across our waters when many of us of course were studying in Bayside and those lessons were often disrupted, but for good reason, I am sure.

I am also sure that we will also recall the impressive vertical short take-off landings of the Harriers and of course, one of our many famous air days which are sadly something of the past and something which I am sure all of us miss.

1525 There have been many tributes over the last few months celebrating the centenary of the Royal Air Force and it is of course right that we join those celebrations and mark it by conferring the Freedom of the City on the Royal Air Force. The Hon. Chief Minister has properly placed the Royal Air Force in its historic context and set out the important links given our airfield's position at the western end of the Mediterranean and as a staging point for aircraft and operations and as a supporting base for major NATO exercises.

1530 There is, of course, the RAF's involvement and reach into the wider community. On receiving this notice, Mr Speaker, I have to say that it has stirred the emotions somewhat, in that I was correctly reminded, when we received the motion, by my Hon. Friend, Mr Reyes, that both he and I had served and wore RAF uniforms whilst we were members of Royal Air Force Air Training Corps No. 2 Overseas Squadron, which, as Members will know, is an organisation under the command of the Royal Air Force.

1535

The hon. Member was a commissioned officer in the Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserves and a founding member of the squadron. Although I have resisted the temptation to keep saluting the Hon. Mr Reyes, the Hon. Member is right to reflect on the very positive influence the Royal Air Force has had on the lives of many young Gibraltarians teaching discipline, hard work, teamwork and above all, respect.

1540

Mr Speaker, the RAF through the Air Training Corps gave young Gibraltarians a unique insight into the Royal Air Force and service, with numerous visits to RAF camps and bases in the United Kingdom, to briefings with pilots and ground crew through to opportunities to fly fixed and rotary wing aircraft.

1545

Mr Speaker, last month – just over a month ago now – Her Majesty issued a statement on the centenary of the Royal Air Force and Her Majesty said:

Through its enduring focus on professionalism, excellence and innovation, the Royal Airforce stands as a shining example of inspiration around the world today and for the next generation.

Critically, Her Majesty said ‘next generation’.

Mr Speaker, the RAF was born in the greatest battle ever fought. Its inspiring motto, Per Ardua ad Astra – ‘Through Adversity to the Stars’ – is a clear message to those that serve and for future generations. Mr Speaker, since the Hon. the Chief Minister published the motion proposing that this House do confer the Freedom of the City on the RAF, I have attempted to reach out to many of my contacts to assess the career destinations of young Gibraltarians who have served. Notably, three of our number are currently pilots; one is serving in a senior position in Afghanistan; one is currently the Commanding Officer of the Royal Gibraltar Regiment; another is a Lieutenant Commander in the Royal Navy Reserves; and many others are working in important areas of public administration. It is clear, Mr Speaker, to me that the Royal Air Force has had a constructive and positive influence over the lives of our young people, and long may that continue.

Mr Speaker, as Her Majesty correctly articulated in Her Majesty’s speech, the Royal Air Force has an important and valuable role for inspiring the next generation. The RAF, through its association with No. 2 Overseas Squadron, provides training, useful in service and civilian life. It fosters the spirit of adventure and develops qualities of citizenship and leadership.

1560

Mr Speaker, as Parliamentary Leader of the Opposition and on behalf of my colleagues, it is a privilege and honour to support this motion, not only because of the role that the RAF does in maintaining British sovereignty over our Rock, but also the important role it plays within our community and in inspiring the next generation. (Banging on desks)

1565

Mr Speaker: Does any Hon. Member wish to speak on this?

The Hon. Trevor Hammond.

1570

Hon. T N Hammond: Mr Speaker, I must admit, I was not intending to speak on this motion, so I do not have a prepared speech, but I feel that, as somebody who has worked with the Royal Air Force for 20 years now, very closely, and therefore somebody who has worked with the Royal Air Force for a full one fifth of their entire existence, I felt I could not miss the opportunity to say something, having the privileged position of being in this House at a time when this motion is being presented to the House.

1575

As I say, I do have a great deal of experience and a great deal of respect for the Royal Air Force in the time I have worked with them and it is particularly appropriate, as has already been pointed out, that in this year that that arm or branch of the armed forces is celebrating its centenary, its one hundredth year of existence, this motion should be brought to this House.

The motion itself does set out some of the history obviously and necessarily in brief, but it is it is a very important history and the connection of the Royal Air Force to Gibraltar, in time of war and in time of peace, has been very important. Of course, in time of war, most prominently in the Second World War, as the motion states, we had a squadron based here – 202 Squadron –
1585 whose primary function was maritime patrol, anti-submarine patrols of these straits and of course RAF Gibraltar’s motto now is ‘Guard the gateway’. That was obviously associated with the fact that RAF Gibraltar played a very important role in guarding that gateway, that entrance of the Mediterranean, and in doing so played a very important role in restricting the access to the Mediterranean of Axis forces which may be coming from outside. So a critical role in that respect.

1590 Of course also interestingly, it is the colours of 202 Squadron that we see every year at the Queen’s birthday parade. They are specifically flown out to Gibraltar for that parade and that is done because we do not have a squadron based in Gibraltar. But it is also, I think, a very important link to the past and the past role that RAF Gibraltar and indeed Gibraltar itself have played.

1595 Of course after the Second World War, RAF Gibraltar in Gibraltar continued to guard that gateway, during the Cold War where maritime patrol was a key element to the whole of the United Kingdom’s strategy towards the Soviet bloc and the Warsaw Pact.

I can say, although I never worked here during the Cold War time – I am not quite that old – I certainly did see aircraft operating from RAF Gibraltar, which were to some extent a throwback to that period. The Nimrod in particular which served many, many years out of Gibraltar. There were many nights where we had to stay at RAF Gibraltar, keep the place open 24 hours, in order to allow these aircraft to operate for their full range and have somewhere to return to if necessary in an emergency. So Gibraltar played a crucial role there in supporting the activity of the RAF. It was very much a symbiotic relationship in that respect.

1600 And of course Gibraltar continues and RAF Gibraltar continues to provide a very important function as a forward-mounting base, which we saw only last year in support of the activity to help out those in the Caribbean who suffered the effects of a very severe hurricane. Indeed, Gibraltar played a very important role as a base that was recognised indeed by the Chief Minister subsequently when he held a reception at No. 6 to thank all those agencies who played a part in that, and we must not lose sight of that ability.

1610 Although, as has been said, we probably do not see as much of the RAF as we used to, we still maintain a very important capability and the RAF maintain and provide a very important capability – a long arm, if you like, in support of the other forces, which can then provide support in other parts of the world, so very important in that respect.

1615 I think it is also important that we do not lose sight of the role the RAF and RAF Gibraltar play in our community. My Hon. Friend, Elliot Phillips has already spoken about the RAF cadets and how successful many who go through the cadets system have been subsequently. I think there are lots of other activities that go on at RAF Gibraltar in support of the community. Not least and happening later this month is the lunar walk, which I think is now celebrating 10 or 11 years. I was there for the very first lunar walk. I have supported it throughout and I think is a great charity event which the RAF wholly back year after year after year, and I think it is a very unique event that many in our community do enjoy, and of course which raises money.

1620 Of course there are other events , the way the RAF has offered the use of the hangers, the use of aprons and occasionally, the use of the runway.

1625 Now, of course that always needs to be tied with the safety of aviation and I think it is important to point out that the RAF play a very important role in ensuring that aviation operates in and out of Gibraltar safely. It does so in conjunction with all the other organisations at the airfield but that safety activity is always and inevitably underpinned by the RAF. So for those of us who fly in and out of Gibraltar, which I think is probably everybody here and our families, we must recognise that the RAF play a very important part in ensuring the safety of those flights.

So I will end my contribution there, but I will say this: I feel very privileged that this motion should have arrived in this Parliament at a time when I am serving in this Parliament.

Thank you. (Banging on desks)

1635

Mr Speaker: Any other contribution to this motion? The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon:

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, I wish to align myself with the words of the Chief Minister and the Opposition Members on this very deserved appointment of the Freedom of the City to the RAF.

1640

I take this opportunity to wish the RAF a very hearty congratulations for this accolade, as well as to thank and to pay tribute to the Air Force, its survivors and its fallen servicemen and women for their fierce defence of Gibraltar in the last 100 years, Mr Speaker, because without them we may not be here today.

1645

Thank you. (Banging on desks)

Mr Speaker: Any other contribution? The Hon. Edwin Reyes.

Hon. E J Reyes: May I, Mr Speaker, make a short minor contribution for the record? I am sure that Dr Garcia as a historian will be interested.

1650

There are in fact records of Gibraltarians who were evacuated during the evacuation period of the Second World War, who having reached the teenage years volunteered to join the Air Cadets or the Air Training Corps and indeed served mainly as assistants to the ARP wardens and so on.

1655

A prominent Gibraltarian, the late Commissioner of Police, Joe Canepa, became one of those young teenagers and he in fact was instrumental in setting up in Gibraltar the Gibraltar No. 2 Overseas Squadron or the Air Training Corps. So to those like Joe Canepa and others whom I know served in the Cadets and Gibraltarians who actually served in active service, in all ranks as senior and commissioned officers and as officers and so on, our spirit of gratitude is to be recorded as being embedded in this thing.

1660

Lastly, I must say on behalf of my wife we both personally thank the RAF because there used to be a chapel down at the Royal Air Force, called St Michael and All Angels, and that was the happy place where my wife and I got married, close to 30 years ago. (Banging on desks)

1665

Mr Speaker: Any other contribution? Chief Minister.

Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I am very grateful indeed to all Members who have spoken, especially Members opposite for their indication that they will be supporting this motion. I had thought that they were going to try and pass an amendment to this to not bestow the Freedom on the RAF until they stopped flying! (Laughter) So I am very pleased indeed, Mr Speaker, that we shall be able to enjoy the benefit of conviviality and unanimity, at least for something as inanimate as the institution of the Air Force, although we are not able to enjoy it for something as animated as the Hon. Sir Joe Bossano.

1670

Mr Speaker: I will now put the motion to the House in the terms moved by the Chief Minister. Those in favour; those against? (Members: Aye.) Carried unanimously.

1675

BILLS

FIRST AND SECOND READING

Police (Amendment) Bill 2018 –
First Reading approved

Clerk: Bills – First and Second Reading.

1680 A Bill for an Act to amend the Police Act 2006. The Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Police Act 2006 be read a first time.

1685 Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Police Act 2006 be read a first time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Police (Amendment) Act 2018.

Police (Amendment) Bill 2018 –
Second Reading approved

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill be now read a second time. (Banging on desks)

1690 The Gibraltar Police Association was established in 1961 under section 52 of the Police Act. Policing Gibraltar and its demands have considerably changed since the 1960s. The Association's Council has nevertheless continued to work during this time on a voluntary basis whilst fully operational and with limited facility time afforded to conduct their role effectively.

1695 In 2009 the Royal Gibraltar Police Council started to lobby Government so that the Association should become a Federation enacted in law and for the Federation to have full-time representatives for its officers in order to address officer needs promptly and effectively.

1700 In June 2015 representatives of the Association approached the Chief Minister with the Association's proposals. The Government were supportive of the Association's request and in 2016 increased the RGP's complement by two extra police officers, thereby releasing two officers so that the Federation could have two full-time conveners, Federation representatives, to work completely independently in this role from the Police. Government has also provided the Association with a fully furnished and equipped office where officers' confidential meetings take place, together with a budget to maintain and provide accredited training by the Police Federation of England and Wales for its conveners and board members.

1705 The Bill before the House has been drafted in full consultation with the Association and in line with our manifesto commitment on this issue to establish the Gibraltar Police Federation.

The Bill amends the Police Act 2006 for the purposes of establishing the Police Federation, which comprises members of the RGP, and is set to formally replace the Police Association.

1710 The Bill provides a legal framework to establish and regulate the Police Federation. The Federation will become a completely independent body providing its members with a forum to raise matters, with the Commissioner, the Police Authority and Government, which are deemed to potentially affect the welfare and efficiency of the RGP.

Clause 3(3) replaces all of Part 4 of the Act. Within the new Part 4, which is entitled 'Membership of Federation etc.', there are provisions relating to the formation of the Police Federation, the membership of the Police Federation, the objects of the Federation and 1715 provision as to the independence of the Federation. The new sections that follow deal with prohibited associations and offences in connection with prohibited associations as well as the prohibition against membership of trade unions.

1720 Clause 3(4) amends section 79 of the Act, setting out the power Government has in consultation with His Excellency the Governor to make regulations for the constitution, procedure and functions of the Federation and generally for the better functioning of the Federation. Indeed, such regulations have now been agreed and shall be published as soon as the Bill is commenced as an Act.

I commend, Mr Speaker, the Bill to the House.

1725 Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of this Bill? The Hon. Daniel Feetham.

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just a very short contribution.

1730 I start by congratulating the Hon. Minister for bringing this Bill to the House. It was something that I had in my sights when I was Minister for Justice from 2007 to 2011 and I regret that I was not able to steer this even past the drafting stage.

1735 It was not something, in fact, that was completely uncontroversial during those days. There was not support for the very top of the RGP for the concept, or at least there was some scepticism, and I was not able to do this during the time that I served in his role when we were in Government. It is something that, in my respectful view, I always thought was ... The case for it that was put to me by the Association was, as far as I was concerned, unanswerable and therefore we certainly, this side of the House, are going to be supporting it.

1740 May I also congratulate as well the Chairman of the Association, Henry Bautista, because it is really his work, his energy and his constant advocating for the introduction of the legislation that really we are here today considering this piece of legislation, and certainly on behalf of the Opposition – I know the hon. Gentleman as well will associate himself with my comments – we certainly congratulate the work that Henry Bautista has done.

Mr Speaker, we will be supporting this Bill.

1745 Mr Speaker: Does the hon. mover wish to reply?

Hon. N F Costa: Mr Speaker, obviously in the first place to thank the Hon. Mr Feetham for relaying the fact that the Opposition will be supporting the Government Bill.

1750 I agree entirely with the comments that he has made in respect of Mr Bautista in his indefatigable advocacy for the need of a Federation, and he is right in saying that he has been dogged in his approach in that respect and therefore it is right that his work should be recognised. I also wish as well to pay tribute to Anna Jones, who has also been as dogged as Mr Bautista in bringing about this particular change.

1755 And therefore, I wish to conclude simply by saying that, as he alluded to at the beginning of his contribution, this is a step that we all clearly agree is overdue and therefore it is right that the Bill should have been brought and thankfully passed unanimously by this House. (Banging on desks)

The Hon. the Minister for Health, Care and Justice.

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Mutual Legal Assistance (International) Act 2005, the Mutual Legal Assistance (European Union) Act 2005 and the Drug Trafficking Offences Act 1995 be read a first time.

1775

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Mutual Legal Assistance (International) Act 2005, the Mutual Legal Assistance (European Union) Act 2005 and Drug Trafficking Offences Act 1995 be read a first time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

1780

Clerk: The Mutual Legal Assistance (Miscellaneous Amendments) Act 2018.

Mutual Legal Assistance (Miscellaneous Amendments) Act 2018 –
Second Reading approved

Minister for Health, Care and Justice (Hon. N F Costa): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that the Bill be now read a second time.

1785

The Bill amends the Mutual Legal Assistance (International) Act, the Mutual Legal Assistance (European Union) Act and the Drug Trafficking Offences Act 1995 in order to enhance mutual legal assistance that may be provided in criminal matters.

Mr Speaker, the amendments contained in the Bill can be split into two sets. The first set is that contained in clause 3(3) and (4), clause 4 and clause 5. These are similar amendments to the three main Acts under which mutual legal assistance is obtained in Gibraltar.

1790

These amendments ensure that in each case the central authority under the Act may direct that an order under the relevant provisions of the Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act be applied for when an appropriate request for assistance is received. These are orders for the production of special procedure material. This material includes documents which a person has acquired or created in the course of any trade or business and which is held in confidence – such as, for example, bank records.

1795

There are safeguards, of course, set out in Schedule 1 of the Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act that need to be followed and met before any such order will be granted by a judge or magistrate.

1800 The reason for the need for these amendments arises from advice from the Gibraltar Law Officers that it is arguable that the current provisions, in the light of UK case law dealing with our equivalent provisions, may limit the type of evidence that can be sought in Gibraltar under mutual legal assistance requests. The amendments are proposed so as to remedy this potential issue and continue to provide all the necessary safeguards on a par with the use of such orders 1805 domestically.

The amendment to section 15 and the equivalent in the Mutual Legal Assistance (European Union) Act update the references contained therein to the now repealed sections 25, 26 and 27 of the Criminal Procedure Act and replaces them with the equivalent sections in the Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act 2011.

1810 The other amendment contained in the Bill is set out in clause 2(2). This is an amendment to the Mutual Legal Assistance (International) Act 2005 and in particular to its definition of 'state'.

Currently under the Act assistance can only be given to a state or territory outside Gibraltar if it was a party to an agreement with the Government of Gibraltar on mutual legal assistance in criminal matters and the state or territory was included in Schedule 2 to the Act. To date only 1815 the United States of America is included in the said schedule. This means that other countries which fall outside the European Investigation Order and the Republic of Ireland and Denmark, which remain under the Mutual Legal Assistance (European Union) Act, continue to have limited recourse to legal assistance in Gibraltar if the offence being investigated is not one which falls under the Transnational Organised Crimes Act in the case of a state that has ratified the UN 1820 Convention on Transnational Organised Crime or is not a drugs trafficking offence and from state party to the Vienna Convention.

In practice, most cases where assistance is required do fall within the definition of a transnational organised crime. However, it is not too difficult to come up with examples of cases where the need for an offence to be transnational may and has resulted in Gibraltar being 1825 unable to provide mutual legal assistance at the investigation stage unless witnesses have been willing to provide evidence on a voluntary basis.

As an example, without going into too much detail for operational reasons, Gibraltar was asked to assist in a suspected case of child abduction where details of a Gibraltar mobile telephone subscriber were requested to eliminate the person and the number from the list of 1830 possible suspects. There was no supported evidence included in the request that pointed to a transnational crime and the state requesting it did not fall within Gibraltar's EU arrangements.
Fortunately, on that occasion the evidence was provided on a voluntary basis.

To overcome this issue, the definition of 'state' is to be amended to allow Gibraltar to provide assistance to overseas authorities without the need of an agreement if none exists. This 1835 may be provided on a case by case basis provided the state undertakes that under their procedures it would be able to reciprocate in respect of similar requests issued by Gibraltar and received by them.

In summary, Mr Speaker, all of these amendments improve Gibraltar's ability to provide mutual legal assistance.

1840 Mr Speaker, I commend the Bill to the House.

Mr Speaker: Before I invite hon. Members to speak on the general principles and merits of this Bill, I want to place on record that, pursuant to section 35(3) of the Constitution of Gibraltar,
I have received certification from the Chief Minister that consideration of this, the Mutual Legal 1845 Assistance (Miscellaneous Amendments) Bill 2018, is too urgent to permit the expiry of six weeks from the date on which the Bill was published, and that is why we are proceeding with it today.

Does hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles of the Bill?

Hon. D A Feetham: Mr Speaker, just on that and then the general principles.

1850 The Opposition has been consulted on the issue of urgency and it would be a matter of great regret if there was a request for assistance that arrived urgently to Gibraltar within the six-week period for publication of the Bill before it could be taken and Gibraltar could not assist simply because the Bill had not been enacted. Therefore, because we are dealing with potentially the type of example that the hon. Gentleman has provided to this House in terms of assistance in 1855 child abduction cases or involving children, it is only right that the certification be provided.

Mr Speaker, this Bill has been the subject matter of exchanges of e-mails between myself and the Hon. Minister Costa, and indeed between myself and Parliamentary Counsel as well, Mr Warwick, where I asked several questions in relation to this, and it has also been the subject of a telephone conference between myself, Minister Costa and Parliamentary Counsel Kevin 1860 Warwick, and I have absolutely no hesitation, on behalf of the Opposition, to indicate that we will be supporting this Bill.

Mr Speaker, may I say this as well: that as I understand it, the assistance in relation to this – and indeed I think that the hon. Gentleman said that during his own contribution – is also predicated on the basis that a state will do likewise for Gibraltar, and that is very important 1865 because what we cannot have is a situation where we effectively ... And I know that we are dealing sometimes with crimes where one would say, ‘Well, you would expect that Gibraltar would assist,’ but you would also expect the other state to assist Gibraltar as well and part of the problem here has been that there has been a question mark in relation to not only the possibility of Gibraltar assisting a jurisdiction but that jurisdiction assisting Gibraltar as well.
1870 Therefore, in my respectful view, this is a Bill that is of benefit to Gibraltar and of benefit to the worldwide and international fight against crime and the solving of crime. So we have absolutely no hesitation in supporting this Bill.

Mr Speaker: Does the Hon. the Minister for Health wish to reply?

Hon. N F Costa: Yes, Mr Speaker, only very briefly to thank the Hon. Mr Feetham across the floor of the House for making himself available at such short notice to be able to discuss the intricacies of the Bill – I can confirm that we did enjoy some fruitful discussions on the clauses that are present in the Bill – and to agree with him that of course it is important that Gibraltar 1880 should be seen internationally to assist other jurisdictions in the fight against crime; that therefore we all agree that for the reputation of Gibraltar it is important that this Parliament is able to act swiftly when required so that no jurisdiction finds us wanting in the fight of any kind of crime; and also, of course, to echo his remarks that it is also equally important that where Gibraltar does provide that that assistance to any state, that state should also reciprocate in the 1885 assistance that we may require in future – God forbid – if there is any crime that is being investigated.

So I wish to thank the Opposition once again, Mr Speaker, consecutively, for their support on this Bill.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Mutual Legal Assistance (International) Act 2005, the Mutual Legal Assistance (European Union) Act 2005 and Drug Trafficking Offences Act 1995 be read a second time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Equal Opportunities (Amendment) Bill 2017 –
First Reading approved

Clerk: A Bill for an Act to amend the Equal Opportunities Act 2006. The Hon. the Minister for Housing and Equality.

1900 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Equal Opportunities Act 2006 be read a first time.

1905 Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Equal Opportunities Act 2006 be read a first time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

Clerk: The Equal Opportunities (Amendment) Act 2017.

Equal Opportunities (Amendment) Bill 2017 –
Second Reading approved

1910 Minister for Housing and Equality (Hon. Miss S J Sacramento): Mr Speaker, I have the honour to move that a Bill for an Act to amend the Equal Opportunities Act 2006 be read a second time.

Before I proceed, Mr Speaker, I will be making an amendment at Committee stage to the date of the Bill.

This Bill intends to support and protect mothers who choose to breastfeed their children in public establishments without discrimination.

1915 Breastfeeding in public places is a very emotive subject with strong views for and against. While it is perfectly natural to breastfeed, I know that there will be people who will raise their eyebrows and question the necessity for this change. So, in the midst of that debate, it is vitally important to acknowledge that we as a society are continuously evolving, especially when it comes to equality issues. In that process we are continuously being forced to evaluate and 1920 recycle outdated views that can no longer be tolerated.

1925 Mr Speaker, breastfeeding is globally accepted as the most natural, healthy, best start that a mother can provide a child, and in short there is no better answer than the health benefits to both mother and child as to why we can support mothers to breastfeed their child whenever they need to. This law is for those women who choose to breastfeed, so that they are not discouraged from doing so.

We wish to remove the stigma and negative attitudes towards breastfeeding in public places. Women need to be made to feel comfortable to breastfeed and it is absolutely vital that there is legislation to protect against discrimination on this ground, and it is important to protect them in order to promote this.

1930 I am grateful to the Gibraltar Breastfeeding Association, who are actively promoting the rights of women to breastfeed anywhere and anytime without embarrassment or anxiety. Indeed, they are running a very successful campaign, meeting with establishments and giving the establishments accreditation where were these establishments go the extra mile to make mothers breastfeeding feel that more comfortable. But now they will be able to do so because 1935 this amendment will enshrine such protection in law and it will make it clear that it will be discriminatory to treat women less favourably because they are breastfeeding.

I also wish to thank all GHA professionals who provide the clinical support and advice.

Now turning to the formalities of the Bill, Mr Speaker section 6 is amended by the introduction of a new subsection (4)(a). The effect of this amendment is to widen the ambit of 1940 discrimination on the grounds of sex so as to include breastfeeding. It is therefore not new ground but an extension of the interpretation of that term.

This Bill will benefit women and children in Gibraltar. I commend this Bill to the House.

A Member: Hear, hear. (Banging on desks)

1945 Mr Speaker: Before I put the question, does any hon. Member wish to speak on the general principles and merits of the Bill?

The Hon. the Leader of the Opposition.

1950 Hon E J Phillips: Mr Speaker, just to pick up on one of the remarks by the Hon. Minister in relation to the differing views that she may have received. I must say I have not received a different view on this particular question and therefore I was quite surprised to learn that there was an issue in our wider community about this. I certainly have not received any different opinions about it.

1955 Needless to say, Mr Speaker, Her Majesty's Opposition will support the Bill that seeks to amend the Equal Opportunities Act to ensure the widening of the scope of the prohibition against less favourable treatment afforded to women who are breastfeeding.

The proposed Bill closes a lacuna, in our view, in the law, which provides protection for women not to be treated less favourably in the context of work and non-working cases. Our laws 1960 already contain certain provisions to protect mothers in the workplace under the commonly referred to 'six pack health and safety provisions' contained in the Protection of Pregnant Workers Regulations 1999. However, the amendment being promoted closes the gap to less favourable treatment in the context of equal opportunities. The amendment importantly sends, as I think was alluded to by the Minister, a strong message to business and the public at large 1965 that it is a woman's right to breastfeed her baby in public without interference.

Whether a mother is sitting in Commonwealth Park, the beach, the library, having a coffee or having lunch at our many restaurants, every mother should feel safe, confident and comfortable when doing the most natural thing in the world: feeding her child in the best way that she can. It is therefore right that the Government lead by example on this important issue and ensure that 1970 all public buildings in our community provide an environment for women to feel safe, secure and comfortable.

We must, of course, extend our thanks to the wonderful work being done by the Breastfeeding Association, who kept this issue high on the domestic agenda through its support of World Breastfeeding Week and campaigning at the Big Latch-on, on 5th August last year. The 1975 Association must, in our view, continue to be supported in promoting breastfeeding, which will maximise very early child development.

1980 We also commend the Bill to the house, but one item I just wanted to raise – and this is something that has just come up in research – is that currently the Seaside Rules, as far as I understand, may cause a difficulty with a woman choosing to exercise her right to breastfeed, so I was wondering if the Government could in fact review the current Seaside Rules that may provide for a restriction on that type of activity. I just mention it now. It has come out as research. They may be comforted by their review of the Seaside Rules, but I would invite the Minister to take a look at that. (Banging on desks)

1985 Mr Speaker: Does any other hon. Member wish to speak? The Hon. Marlene Hassan Nahon.

Hon. Ms M D Hassan Nahon: Mr Speaker, it is with great pleasure and satisfaction that I welcome this measure by Government aimed at making the lives of mothers in particular and women in general fairer and more comfortable.

1990 As a mother of four children myself, I distinctly recall the days when I used to breastfeed and would have to hide away in some corner to nurture my child while the group of people I was with would continue their social gathering without me. It always felt like some sort of punishment. Each and every time I was called by my screaming baby to feed, I was expected to extricate myself from the world and it felt completely wrong.

1995 Because this is an issue that connects with broader societal and moral issues, I suggest this legal measure be accompanied by a media campaign aimed at changing public perception with regard to breastfeeding in public, so that we may start to understand child rearing as a social phenomenon and one that requires an honest commitment and contribution from all members of society.

2000 So, back to the issue of the Bill, I receive this measure with some satisfaction but I cannot say that I am fully satisfied at how women are treated in our community. We still have a long way to go in the pursuit of gender equality and there is a remarkable lack of awareness in this House of how much Gibraltar is still lagging behind the developed world on this front.

2005 I therefore I urge this House to take on the challenge of making Gibraltar a jurisdiction free from gender equality, while thanking the Minister for Equality for passing this Bill today.

Thank you.

Mr Speaker: Does the hon. mover wish to reply?

2010 Chief Minister (Hon. F R Picardo): Mr Speaker, can I?

Mr Speaker: The Hon. the Chief Minister.

2015 Hon. Chief Minister: Mr Speaker, I heard what the hon. Lady has said and I assume in that context she will be very supportive of the Government that appointed the first Minister for Equality in the history of this Parliament and is taking measures of the sort of that we have seen the hon. Lady move today, which are the tip of the iceberg – I will not use any other phrase that might come to mind – of the great work that she has done, in the context of the almost seven years already that we are in Government, to bring real equality to the way that this society is governed; not just – if I may say so, because I think this is a lesson I have learnt from her – in respect of the way that we treat men and women, but in the way that we treat all the sexual orientations, not just the genders.

Mr Speaker: Does the hon. mover wish to reply?

2025 Hon. Miss S J Sacramento: Mr Speaker, yes.

In reply to the hon. Gentleman, in his mention of his surprise that this was an issue, it is not, as I understand it, a great issue – and a lot of it is thanks to a lot of the work that has been done in the last few years – but if it is an issue for one person, then it is an issue. So, what this legislation does is cure the loophole that existed with the intention to give full protection so that people feel encouraged and comfortable should they choose to breastfeed. So that protection is there, and because of the work undertaken by the GHA, by the Association, and a lot of it in partnership and in consultation with the Ministry of Equality, then I am proud that this initiative has been a success.

2035 The hon. Gentleman mentions the particular regulations. I was not advised at the time that we drafted this that it was incompatible with any other legislation, so it may not be legally incompatible, but I will certainly check it out to ensure that nothing is undermining the intention of this legislation.

2040 And in reply to the hon. Lady, as the Chief Minister said, Gibraltar has for the first time a Ministry for Equality, which has an incredibly busy agenda, getting busier by the day on all the protected strands, not just gender.

2045 I can assure the hon. Lady that a lot of work and a lot of progress on gender equality has already been achieved during our terms in office and we have very exciting times ahead and a lot will be done. So, if the hon. Lady set to me a challenge to have a Gibraltar that is free from gender equality, that is already a challenge that we set for ourselves in December 2011 and have been working very hard on it since.

Mr Speaker: I now put the question, which is that a Bill for an Act to amend the Equal Opportunities Act 2006 be read a second time. Those in favour? (Members: Aye.) Those against? Carried.

2050 Clerk: The Equal Opportunities (Amendment) Act 2017.
